GENERAL STRIKE OF G.N.W. UNLESS GOVT. ACTS

TORONTO, July 10.—Unless the Dominion Government acts today and secures immediate reinstatement of the discharged employees of the Great North Western Telegraph Co., a general strike of these employees, from one end of Canada to the other, will be called at once by C. Hall who is acting here for J. Konekamp, president of the International Commercial Telegraphers' Union.

FRENCH MAKE INROADS ON GERMAN LINES

PARIS, July 10.—(official)—Artillery duels on the front north of Montdidier and south of the Aisne near Chavigny farm where French troops have recently made inroads upon the German lines, were announced today. The text of the statement reads: "Activity was displayed by our own and the enemy artillery, north of Montdidier and south of the Aisne, in the region of Chavigny farm. In the Champagne, French troops carried out several operations, which resulted in taking of prisoners. There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front. On July 8th seven German airplanes were brought down and two captive balloons set on fire and destroyed by our air forces."

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY ON BRITISH FRONT

LONDON, July 10.—(official)—Considerable activity was developed early this morning by the German artillery and machine guns in the region east of Amiens from the vicinity of Villers-Bretonneux to the Ancre.

The Germans delivered local attacks in the Villiers-Bretonneux area but those were repulsed. On the Flanders front the British carried out an operation in the vicinity of Merris, northeast of Nieppe Woods, by means of which the line was advanced a short distance and prisoners were taken.

GERMAN HANGARS SET ON FIRE BY BRITISH

LONDON, July 10.—An official statement, relative to aerial operations, issued by the air ministry, says: "On July 8 our machines successfully bombed an enemy airfield, bombs being observed to burst on the sheds and hangars. During the night of July 8 enemy airfields were again attacked with good results, two hangars being reported as having been set on fire. Trains and searchlights were attacked from a low altitude. All our machines returned safely."

ITALIANS ADVANCE IN ALBANIA 18 MILES

Albania Captured, Fleet, Together With Important Strong Points—Cavalry Works Bound to Attack Austrians in Rear—British Monitors Assist in Attack on the Adriatic Coast

ROME, July 9.—The allied offensive in Albania is continuing, the war office announced today. The official report is as follows:—

"The action in Albania is continuing. On the left wing after artillery preparation, in which monitors of the British navy took an effective part, the infantry, starting from the lower Vovusa, carried after a bitter struggle the heights between Levani and the monastery of Pohani.

"Italian cavalry, passing between the western slopes of the Malacrastra and the sea, daringly attacked the enemy's rear and destroyed bridges over the Semini at Metali.

"Fieri (about 18 miles north of Avlona, the Italian base on the Adriatic) has fallen into our hands. Very strong positions at Cafa Grava and Corocop, strenuously defended by the enemy, are in our possession.

"At the head of the Tomorica we have carried the contested heights of Cafa Dervis. Our own and British airplanes lent aid during the fighting. The number of prisoners has risen to more than 300. The capture of guns not specified, and a large quantity of booty is reported."

MILITARY SERVICE CONSCRIPTION FOR RUSSIA

PARIS, July 10.—Speaking at the opening today of General Congress of Russian Soviets Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik Minister of War, said Russia is on the eve of general military service conscription. Trotsky also emphasized the necessity of Russia having a powerful army.

ARMED HUN PRISONERS CAPTURED NIKOLSK

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The first definite news of an armed body of German and Hungarian prisoners in Siberia was contained in a report received today at the State Department from the United States consulate at Vladivostok, telling of the capture by Czecho-Slovak forces of six hundred prisoners and the town of Nikolsk about 80 miles northwest of Vladivostok.

NOT OPTIMISTIC OVER RAILWAY SITUATION

MONTREAL, July 10.—There was no improvement today in the railway situation of railway employees' disputes with companies regarding wage schedules and there were no meetings between the parties today. The men's leaders state that no compromise will be given and the railway companies have made no offer of settlement. It is generally thought here that the prospect is not at all optimistic.

TORONTO, July 10.—The proposed G. N. W. strike has been postponed for one day.

GERMAN SUGGESTS PEACE NEGOTIATIONS

COPENHAGEN, July 10.—Writing in the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin, Georg Bernhard, political editor, says:

"The time is now ripe openly to discuss peace conditions. Having regard to the ideal peace conditions laid down by President Wilson, unanimity on the matter undoubtedly could easily be reached if a method of discussing the peace terms could only be agreed upon."

Bernhard says Germany and her allies would undoubtedly accept reasonable disarmament proposals.

President Wilson demands for self-government by small nations, the writer says, would be favorably received, but the central powers would insist upon knowing the attitude of England regarding Ireland. Negotiations, the writer adds, should take place directly between the belligerents respecting frontier regulations.

AUSTRIANS IGNORANT OF U. S. BELLIGERENCY

Italian Army Headquarters in Northern Italy, July 9.—Austrian prisoners who have been taken lately by the Italians appear not to be informed of the part the United States is playing in the war. When an automobile carrying members of the American military mission halted this afternoon in front of a line of prisoners, one called out in English to the chauffeur: "Say, what are you doing out here?"

When informed that the United States was in the war, he expressed surprise and said: "Well, I hope the Americans keep on coming strong enough to win the war. Then we can get out of this mess and I can go back to America."

Canadian Officer Rumanian Hero

Col. Joseph Boyle of Yukon Saves Rumanian Prisoner

PARIS, July 9.—Col. Jos. Boyle, a Canadian officer from the Yukon, has become the popular hero of Rumania, and wears the highest Rumanian decoration within the gift of the king for saving a number of Rumanian deputies from certain exile and probably death at the hands of the Russian Bolsheviks, according to travelers reaching France from Jassy, the temporary Rumanian capital.

Soon after the Russian Bolsheviks broke off relations with Rumania last January, as the result of alleged anti-Bolshevik activities on the part of the Rumanian deputies, several of these officials were arrested at Odessa, following the invasion of Bessarabia by Rumanian troops. They were sentenced to exile to Sebastopol, and were placed on board a ship to be deported. None of them knew what their fate might be, and everyone was convinced they would never see their native country again.

Colonel Boyle pleaded in their behalf with the Bolshevik leaders and insisted upon their innocence. The Bolshevik authorities were deaf to his appeals and would not revoke the sentence of exile. Col. Boyle then declared that if the Rumanian deputies were deported he would share their fate. A special steamer conveyed the deputies and Colonel Boyle to Sebastopol, where after a stay of several days, during which the party suffered many hardships, Colonel Boyle finally convinced the Russians that the Rumanians were innocent and all were released.

Colonel Boyle took them back to Odessa by the steamer on which they were deported to Sebastopol and accompanied them to Jassy, where he was given a great reception by the people and the government. King Ferdinand awarded him the crown of Rumania, the highest Rumanian decoration.

Col. Boyle is six foot tall, rugged and broad as the country he comes from. It was he who, when all other means of communication were impossible, carried from Jassy to Odessa the Rumanian peace terms with the Bolsheviks, thus preventing hostilities, which at the time seemed imminent.

Bolshevik Power Soon to Crumble

Czecho-Slovaks Inspire German Observer With Respect

London, July 10.—Statements attributed by The Cologne Gazette to a German described as holding for many years a distinguished position in the far east, and who lately travelled from China to Germany across Siberia, are printed in The Times. The German is very contemptuous of Gen. Semenov's Cossacks, but writes with respect of the Czecho-Slovaks, who, he says, are not destined for the French front, but are to be used exclusively against the Russian Bolsheviks.

The German says he saw 10,000 Czecho-Slovaks on the Amur railway and was told there were nearly 50,000 Czecho-Slovaks altogether in Siberia. Regarding the Bolsheviks the German says:

"This power which does not seem now quite firm even in Moscow and Petrograd, does not exist at all in Siberia. The smallest sivet does what it likes there. Everybody's first concern is himself. Soviet officers search the houses of the bourgeoisie population and seize their property. Hotels also are searched and plundered. Nobody has a minute's security. These rascals are criminals who escaped from prison or were released by the Bolsheviks. They are armed to the teeth.

"A counter revolution is being systematically prepared. Lenin and Trotsky will disappear."

Obituary

A PROMISING LIFE CUT OFF

On Saturday, July 6th, there passed away at his home at Halloway, Everett, fifth son of Mr. S. Elliott. He was taken with muscular trouble about six years ago. The best of medical aid and nursing was given him, but despite the skill employed to combat the disease the patient gradually grew weaker and more helpless until his friends had to give him up to leave this life of sorrows and afflictions when he breathed his last at 5 o'clock on Saturday evening.

Everett was a great favorite with young and old and had many friends everywhere. He was a boy who spoke no ill of anyone, and those who knew him loved him. Because of his continual bright and cheerful disposition, and through all his trying circumstances he still kept that bright smile along with his strong faith in his Saviour, striving as much as possible to keep his hours of suffering to himself so as not to worry his friends who were by his side.

Deceased was only twenty-six years of age. He was married only seven years ago to Annie Vandewater, daughter of the late Daniel Vandewater, of Mays, and one of the girls, who with her mother took the loss heavily, survive. He is also survived by five and one sister. The brothers are Tom, Simon, and Fred, near home, Sam, of Montreal, Clifford, of Halloway, and Mrs. Richard Townsend, of Halloway.

The funeral took place at the Thomasburg Methodist Church, conducted by the Rev. J. J. McCall, at 2 o'clock, after which the remains of dear Everett were laid to rest in the Thomasburg cemetery. His casket was loaded with flowers; a vacant chair from his brothers and sisters, broken wheel from his parents, and a pillow from his companion and little Mary.

To his sorrowing widow, child, parents, brothers and sister we tender our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

BANDITS ROB BANK AT SCOTT JUNCTION; $3,800 WAS STOLEN

Quebec, July 9.—The Scott Junction branch of La Banque Nationale was visited last Thursday morning at three o'clock by bandits. The safe was blown open with dynamite and the sum of $3,800 was stolen. The affair created quite a sensation in the village and in the whole county of Dorchester, where the population has been terrorized lately by all sorts of events. It was thought at first that the robbery might have been the work of the young men who have made demonstration against national registration, as they have used dynamite in the neighboring parishes.

HORSE FELL DEAD FROM THE HEAT

William Williamson, a travelling linen vendor, drove into Dr. Rundle's yard, at Oshawa, with his horse last Friday afternoon from Pickering and went in to get a prescription for himself. While he was in the doctor's office, they thought they heard the horse fall against the building, and, upon making investigation, they found the animal struggling on the ground. It died in a few minutes, causing considerable commotion and attracting much attention in the neighborhood. The malady to which the horse succumbed was claimed to be what is commonly known as "Blind Staggers," which result from the heat. Mr. Williamson stated this was not the first horse he had lost in this way. He immediately purchased another one and proceeded about his business.

LATEST INVENTION

An Italian invention which permits of excellent photographs being taken at night has been submitted to the Signal Corps of the United States army. According to the men who control the new device, it will soon be possible to take excellent pictures of enemy positions moonlight nights. It is also claimed that the invention can be fitted to moving picture cameras, which would permit the photographing for the screen of actual fighting.

LAUGHTER IN REICHSSTAG

Amsterdam, July 8.—The German government has no intention of undertaking a campaign into India. Foreign Secretary von Kuehmann told a questioner in the Reichstag. "As regards a campaign in the direction of India," he said, "I regret to have to tell the inquirer that brilliant as are the prospects, which he thinks might be opened up for our food supply, an Indian campaign forms no part of our official policy." The Foreign Secretary's remarks were greeted with laughter.

GRAIN GROWERS ON TARIFF

Winnipeg, July 6.—Shall the Grain Growers of Western Canada accept the invitation of President Parsons, of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, for a conference on the tariff? The question is before a conference of leading Grain Growers' officials from the three Prairie Provinces which opened in Winnipeg. An effort has been made in the west to sound the Grain Growers' officials. Hon. T. A. Cresser, Minister of Agriculture, and a dominating factor in the grain growers' organized movement, came west last week and was in conference with Saskatchewan grain men returning to Winnipeg yesterday.

DEATH OF NERBE CAVELL'S MOTHER

Mrs. Cavell, mother of Nurse Cavell, died recently at Henley-on-Thames, at the home of her daughter. She was 81 years old. At the time of her daughter's death, Mrs. Cavell lived in Norwich, where her late husband had been vicar of Swaresden for many years.

16-YEAR-OLD BOY MURDERER

Winnipeg, July 5.—John Edward Stojke, not yet 16 years of age, was found guilty of murder for the death of Constable Bernard W. Snowdon, while in execution of his duties on the night of April 5th. Sentence will be passed Monday afternoon. He is the second to be found guilty in connection with the same murder. Frank Sullivan, another accomplice, will come up for trial on Monday on the same charge.

RESIGNED HIS POSITION

Lt.-Col. F. D. Boggs has resigned his position as Police Magistrate of the town of Cobourg. He will, however, carry on his law practice as usual, and will return to his law business as soon as he is released from military service—Port Hope Guide.

MAY GO TO ENGLAND FOR SPECIAL TRAINING

Ottawa, July 8.—W. E. Segsworth, head of the vocational training branch of the department of soldiers, civil re-establishment, stated today that arrangements had been made whereby returned blinded soldiers in need of training which cannot be given in Canada, may be sent back to England to receive that training at St. Dunstan's. It has always been the policy of the department to have blinded Canadian soldiers trained at St. Dunstan's. But a very few of the fifty odd who comprise the total have returned to Canada for various reasons without having received that training.

Germany From Within

AS SEEN BY PRISONER

Capt. Frank Walker Tells of Conditions There—He is a Heidelberg Graduate.

"The treatment accorded prisoners of war in Germany is largely a matter of locality," said Capt. Frank M. Walker, when seen by The Telegram at military headquarters, where he has just been attached for duty at the A. D. M. S. office under Lt.-Col. Ryerson.

Capt. Walker, who was a prisoner at Karlsruhe and Heidelberg for some months before his return to Canada, mentioned eastern Germany, North Hanover and just behind the lines, as "bad places" for prisoners of war. "At Heidelberg the treatment was fair," he continued, adding with a wry smile, "I have yet to hear of anyone receiving what might be termed kindness from the Germans. The privilege of looking out for yourself is the greatest consideration ever shown."

Asked as to the probable attitude toward Germany after the war of those who have suffered imprisonment there, he replied significantly: "If the prisoners of war ever had a chance to fight the Germans again, they would do it with a fierceness that could not be equalled."

What Money Won't Buy.

"Tea, coffee, cocoa and chocolate are unobtainable in Germany, and have been for some time. As for the bread, it is below the standard of anything that English people know. Naturally, the prisoner's rations are very poor. These, too, differ a little according to locality, but in any case the Red Cross parcels are a necessity. They begin coming usually about a month after the prisoner arrives in camp, and make life livable. Emergency parcels are also provided to be used by the officers until their own packages can be sent."

No Place for a Laundry.

Capt. Walker confirmed the report that soap is now at a premium in Germany. "It is what they look for to 'send home' instead of souvenirs when an allied dug-out is taken," he said. "I know of an instance where a half bar of Sunlight soap sold for 15 marks ($2.50)."

Show Change of Heart.

"The attitude of the civilian population toward the prisoners has undergone a change since the early days of the war. At first they were very bitter, but now captives passing through Germany are regarded with curiosity rather than animosity. This difference was especially noted by some of Capt. Walker's companions, who had been prisoners for some time, on their journey into Holland. One of these was Major Robert Cory, of Toronto, described by Capt. Walker as "the life of the camp at Heidelberg and very popular with his fellow-prisoners."

A Modest Hero.

Wearing on his tunic the ribbon of a Military Cross, received for attending to wounded soldiers in the open field under heavy fire, Capt. Walker evinced an extreme reluctance to talk about himself.

"You remember that after the Cambrai affair the Germans counter-attacked and took some of our guns. Well, they took me too," was the way he described his capture. As a matter of fact, he remained tending the wounded men of the British artillery unit, to which he was attached, until the Germans were right on top of them. After becoming a prisoner he carried on an advanced dressing station for a time, and was then, with one a little farther back. In both instances he found German medical officers willing to give him stretchers and necessary supplies which enabled him to have the satisfaction of looking after a number of British wounded.

Capt. Walker came to the Medical School from Stoney Creek, with class '13 and was an honor graduate of Hamilton Collegiate. Enlisting early in the war, he served with both the C. A. M. C. and R. A. M. C. both from the Dardanelles to France, where he won his decoration. At first reported wounded and missing, he was later located in a prison camp, and released as a non-combatant the latter part of March. His wife, formerly Dr. Agnes Young, also served overseas.

Lt. Frederick

Fell to Death

Second Son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Frederick of Belleville, Killed Flying at Montrose, Scotland.

Lieut. Leonard M. Frederick, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron O. Frederick, 76 Victoria Avenue, was killed at Montrose, Scotland, in an aeroplane accident which occurred today. The tragic news was received by Mr. Frederick this morning about eleven o'clock. The message read:

Montrose, 9. Mr. B. O. Frederick, 76 Victoria Ave. B. 1478/7/18. Regret inform you your son, 2nd Lieut. L. M. Frederick was killed at Montrose in aeroplane accident today. Aeronautics & Montrose, 8.40 a.m.

Lieut. Frederick had just celebrated his 23rd birthday in June of this year. He was born in Amelshausen, not far from Massachussetts. He spent his early life in Canada, and received his education there. At the age of 16 years he went west, teaching school at Vanguard, Sask., for one year. He then entered into partnership with a Mr. Dawson in the Dawson Sales Bureau and became manager of the Swift Current branch of this firm. Three years ago he gave up his civil interests and enlisted in the 9th Canadian Mounted Rifles. He went overseas in December 1915. Until last fall he was engaged in clerical work at Shorncliffe.

He rose to the rank of sergeant and was mentioned for his valuable services in connection with the war. Last autumn he was transferred to the Royal Air Force and went to the School of Aeronautics at Hastings and Oxford. At the end of March he was moved to Montrose, Scotland. He received his commission some months ago. In his last letter home he said he had his rank as active service pilot and expected to go to France at any time.

He was a remarkably skillful aviator. Never before had he had an accident. He had broken records at Montrose in time flying and high flying and had never broken a wire or a wheel of the undercarriage. Lieut. Frederick was a fine type of young man, who had his heart would have made a fine record. The deepest sympathy is extended to the parents and to his only brother, Mr. C. L. Frederick, assistant principal of Queen Mary School.

THE WEST HASTINGS INQUIRY

(Toronto Globe)

Light seems at last to be breaking in the office of the Belleville Intelligencer regarding the new and improved conditions governing appointments to the public service brought about by Parliament at its recent session. The prompt and business-like action taken by the Civil Service Commission to investigate allegations that the local member for West Hastings was maintaining his control of patronage in these matters has caused this contemporary to execute a somewhat precipitate right-about-face.

A few days ago The Intelligencer editorially told its readers:

"The Globe and its various echoes should come down out of the clouds and cast aside theory for facts. Government appointments are still being made upon the recommendation of the representative of the Government, the member of Parliament for the constituency, notwithstanding any fine-spun theory to the contrary."

And it proceeded to assure The Globe that Mr. E. Guss Porter, the local member, still exercised and would continue to exercise patronage in Government appointments.

These allegations, made deliberately and definitely, were so amazingly out of accord with the pledges of the Premier, the order in Council of the Government, and the legislation of Parliament that The Globe deemed it a duty to the public to call the attention of the Administration to them. A statement was forthcoming from Hon. C. J. Doherty, as acting Premier, repudiating the allegations, and an announcement was made by Mr. Clarence Jamieson of the Civil Service Commission that this body would immediately institute an investigation. With commendable promptness the inquiry has been started. The Commission informed The Intelligencer that its attention had been drawn "to a statement in your paper to the effect that the local members of Parliament still exercise patronage in Government appointments," and asked for such information as The Intelligencer possessed which might prove useful in connection with the investigation. The reply from The Intelligencer office is illuminating. It reads:

"In reply I beg to say that The Intelligencer, which is my paper, made no such statement, and there is nothing to investigate as far as I know."

The memory of The Intelligencer man is probably at fault—or perhaps there has been a sudden change in the handling of West Hastings patronage since Mr. Jamieson announced the Commission's intention to investigate. In any event, The Intelligencer now seems satisfied that Mr. Porter has nothing whatever to do with making appointments or dismissals to the public service in his riding, and that when it said that he had, it was talking rubbish.

The Globe trusts that the Commission will deem it a duty to prosecute the inquiry in West Hastings and to make an official public pronouncement of its findings and policy. It would be well to let others beside Mr. Porter and The Intelligencer know that the regime of political pull and patronage is at an end.

A large number of young friends were invited in to spend the evening. The affair was a very enjoyable one.

Ruby Morgan, one year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben R. Morgan, 387 Bloeker Avenue, died on Sunday.

A "McLaughlin special" model D 45 car belonging to Mr. Frank Evans of the Belleville Vulcanizing Company was stolen from Victoria Avenue last night about ten o'clock. The machine has a light canvas top and bears mark-er 88717. The serial number is 14035.

The condition of Mr. Ross Reid, the young Thurlow farmer who was the victim of a shooting near Shanonville on Friday night last is very gratifying. He is improving nicely.

The Belleville Board of Trade will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening at which important matters will come up for discussion.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Helen Stinson took place on Saturday afternoon from the residence of her niece, Mrs. C. Deleale, Foster Avenue, Rev. A. S. Kerr officiating. The remains were forwarded to Denver, Colorado. Mrs. Stinson's old home for burial. The body was accompanied by her son. Friends of the deceased acted as bearers here.

Mr. Bolton Magrath, son of Mr. C. A. Magrath, fuel controller for Canada, is in the city investigating the local fuel situation. Last night he met the members of the fuel committee of the city council and discussed the matter of prices and supplies. He recommended that the card system for householders be introduced immediately and that the amount allotted to each should be confined strictly to the 10 per cent prescribed by the fuel regulations. He also urged that no coal be furnished farmers with wood lots on their farms and that supplies to other farmers, able to secure wood in the same locality, be curtailed.

CROP CONDITIONS IN THE DOMINION

Prospects Not Bright in Western Provinces and Variable in the East

OTTAWA, July 9, 1918.—A summary of telegraphic crop reports received on the condition of field crops throughout Canada was issued to-day by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics as follows:

Atlantic Provinces—In Prince Edward Island, splendid growing weather has assured an excellent hay crop. Grain and potatoes are well up to average. Frost on the 20th and 21st damaged beans, tomatoes and early potatoes in some sections. Roots and corn are making good growth. In Nova Scotia (Kentville) June has been cool and very dry. Frost on the 21st reduced bean crop 15 p.c. Corn has made inferior growth. Grain and roots looking well. Hay very poor, about 40 per cent of normal. Apples a fair crop—about half a million barrels. In New Brunswick (St. John) excepting local frost in some sections which damaged beans and potatoes, June has given favorable weather for seeding and growth of crops. More grain has been seeded than usual. The hay yield will be large. Pastures are excellent and dairy production good.

Quebec—Bonaventure: General growth medium. Hay fine. Eighty p.c. of grain has germinated well. Frost caused damage to beans and other vegetables. Much rain and temperature cool. Ste. Anne De La Pocatiere: Hay will give an average crop. Wheat is good on drained land but rather backward on the whole. Other grain only fair and rather late. Potatoes are promising on dry land. Cap Rouge: Meadows and pastures look very well. Grain and silage corn are suffering from excess of precipitation and lack of heat. Potatoes are good on high land and poor on low spots. Swedes are coming up nicely. Actonville: Gardens injured by recent frosts. Cereals have good appearance. New prairie hay good; prairie hay over two years medium. Pasture very good. Cold weather to date greatly hindered development of vegetables and hay. Maktamik: Hay suffered from winter killing. The condition of cereals is very good but growth late. Potatoes are late coming out. Shawville: Crop conditions fair; wheat and peas good; oats and corn backward. Some spots touched with frost. Hay crop very thin, but improving rapidly with recent rains. Root crops and potatoes fair; beans doing well, but late.

Ontario—Ottawa and district: Hay is poor to fair. Of wheat, which is little grown, the crop is only fair. Oats promise well. Corn for silage is very backward. This crop is also poor in southwestern Ontario, owing to bad seed which failed to come up. All kinds of roots and also potatoes promise well. Pasture has been good on the whole.

Manitoba—Brandon: June very dry with hot winds. Crop prospects poor.

Saskatchewan—The Provincial Department of Agriculture reports (June 25) that while the whole province has more or less been affected by the recent drought, the crop in no district is entirely ruined. Rains throughout the province have proved beneficial, arriving just in time in many districts to save the situation. Indian Head: The early part of June was dry accompanied by hot winds which retarded growth to a considerable extent. However during the past week rain fell on the 24th, 25th and 27th. This with cool, cloudy weather has greatly improved crop conditions, and prospects at present are for a fair average crop. Scott: Owing to drought, late sown grain has failed to germinate. Early sown oats have been frozen off badly. Rain must come immediately if any crop is to be harvested in the prairie section. Conditions more favorable in northern part of district.

Alberta—The Provincial Department of Agriculture reports that during the past month growing conditions have been somewhat irregular. In the early portion growth was hindered by cool weather and lack of moisture with strong winds in a few districts. Warmer weather prevailed after the tenth with light showers. Crops injured from early frosts, but recovered rapidly as weather became warmer. Good growing weather after middle of month, and all crops, excepting in a small area where more rain is needed, progressed very favorably. While conditions have not been ideal, an average crop over a very large portion of the province is assured. Hay however will be shorter than usual, but there is good promise of an extra yield of vegetables. Warm weather and frequent showers during past week have greatly brightened outlook for the harvest. Lacombe: First three weeks of June were windy, warm and dry. Early sown crops made slow growth, being delayed by insufficient moisture, and in certain areas by drifting sand. During last week rain fell over greater portion of central Alberta, supplying immediate needs of grain crops. Hay will be light.

British Columbia—Agassiz: Weather conditions during June decidedly unfavorable for growing crops. Cereals, roots, hay and pasture badly in need of moisture. Live stock in fair condition. Summerland: June crop in all fruits very heavy. Present indications show only medium crop in apples, pears, plums and apricots. Peaches on trees well attended to have good crops. Hay crop will be short. Grain will be light under dry farming. Season very dry and getting hotter. Sidney, V.I.—Drought conditions continued during the month. Hay, averaging one ton per acre, has been harvested in good condition. Autumn wheat fair. Spring grains short. Small fruits, vegetables, roots and potatoes will yield low. Orchard fruits fair. Rain needed.

Flight Lieut. Donville Fell at Mohawk Camp While Instructing Cadets

Flight Lieut. William Donville, son of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Percy Donville, of Hamilton, died in the Kingston General Hospital Sunday as the result of injuries and shock received in a collision. Full particulars are not known; but the accident occurred while the deceased was instructing a cadet at Deseronto, where he was stationed. He was immediately rushed to the hospital. The remains were sent to Hamilton and were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Donville, who had been with their son since shortly after the accident happened. The deceased was twenty years of age.

Lieut. Ed. Burt of Trenton is Home Again

The many friends of Ed. Burt—Lieut. Burt—will be delighted to see him home again. They regret exceedingly that he bears such serious marks of the terrible war he has been through, but they rejoice to know that while he has left a foot behind him in France, he has brought back with him a reputation for devotion to duty and for steadiness and fearlessness in action, that the rest of us might well envy.

The Burt family deserve the highest possible credit for the service they have rendered Canada and the Empire in this greatest of all crises through which humanity is at present passing. All their sons, three in number—responded loyally and heartily to the call that came from the Motherland, and of the three one has made the supreme sacrifice and is now sleeping in France where sleep so many other Canadian heroes, while the other two have been invalided home, Ed. the modest but proud possessor of the coveted Military Cross, and Ross the equally unassuming possessor of the Military Medal for distinguished services.

All honor to the Burt family—parents as well as sons.

The Fighting Race

(By Joseph J. C. Clarke)

"Read out the names," and Burke sat back. And Kelly dropped his head. While Shea—they called him Scholar Jack—

Went down the list of the dead; Officers, seamen, gunners, marines, The crews of the gig and yawl. The bearded man and the lad in his teens,

Carpenters, coal-passers, all. Then knocking the ashes from out of his pipe Said Burke in an off-hand way: "We're all in dead man's list, by crissake!"

Well here's to the Maine, and I'm sorry for Spain." Said Kelly, and Burke, and Shea. "Wherever there's Kellys, there's trouble," said Burke.

"Wherever fighting's the game, Or a spice of danger in grown man's work." Said Kelly, "you will find my name."

"And do we fall short?" said Burke getting mad. "When it's touch and go for life?" Said Shea. "It's thirty odd years, bedad."

Since I charged to the drum and fife Up Marry's Heights, and my old canteen Stopped a rebel ball on its way. There were blossoms of blood on our sprigs of green— Kelly, Burke and Shea.

And the dead didn't brag. "Well, here's to The Flag." Said Kelly, and Burke, and Shea. I wish it was in Ireland, for there's the place."

Said Burke, "That we'd die, by right, In the cradle of our soldier race. After one good stand up fight. My grandfather fought at Vinegar Hill.

And fightin' wasn't his trade, But his rusty old pike is in the cabin still. With Hessian blood on its blade." "Aye, aye," said Kelly, "the pikes were great."

When the word was 'clear the way.' We were thick on the roll in ninety-eight. Kelly, Burke and Shea. "Well, here's to the pike, the sword and the like."

Said Kelly, and Burke, and Shea. And Shea, the scholar, with rising joy. Said: "We were at Romilies. We left our bones at Fontenoy. And up in the Pyrenees. Before Dunkirk, on Linden's Plain. Cremona, Lille and Ghent. We're all over Austria, France and Spain.

Wherever they pitched their tent, We've died for England from Waterloo To Egypt and Dargai. And still there's enough for a corps or crew. Of Kelly, Burke and Shea.

"Well, here's to good honest fighting blood." Said Kelly, and Burke, and Shea. "Oh, the fighting races don't die out. If they seldom die in their bed. For love is first in their heart, no doubt."

Said Burke. Then Kelly said, "When Michael, the great Archangel stands (The Angel with the sword,) And the battle dead from a hundred lands. Are ranged in one big horde."

Our line, that for Gabriel's trumpet waits, Will stand three deep that day From Jehosphat to the Golden Gates— Kelly, Burke and Shea. "Well, here's thank God for the race and the god." Said Kelly, and Burke, and Shea.

Note: This was given to me by Dr. W. H. Drummond, the distinguished author of "Habibah," and by request of several friends—to whom I recited the words—is presented, hoping they and other readers will always preserve it. J. S. S.

Was Planning A Revolt in Canada

Windsor, July 8.—A revolutionary society of Russian Workmen of America, was revealed today when John Perehuda was committed for trial on a charge of sedition and conspiracy against the Government of Canada.

Rev. Arasda Plotowsky of the intelligence office at London, was the witness called by the crown, and he testified that the contents of letters found in Perehuda's room in Ford City contained seditious messages. The evidence showed that in 1911 the society was formed, and letters from Hamilton and Montreal to Perehuda expressed the desire that a revolution should break out in Canada this year. Copies of the Constitution of the organization stated that its object was the overthrow of the capitalists and those in authority.

A list found on Perehuda showed that he had distributed anarchist literature in all parts of Canada. Letters asking for pamphlets, which were printed by the Novy Mir, a Bolshevik paper in New York City, were written to the accused from London, Brantford, Hamilton and many other cities of Ontario as well as Montreal and Quebec. Twenty-five copies were sent each week to London, according to the list, and other cities received the number they requested. All the letters showed that the society is working in conjunction with the I.W.W., and a certificate was found to show that Perehuda was a member of that body in good standing.

Postmaster-General Back

LT.-COL. HON. P. E. BLONDIN RETURNING SEAT MAY BE OFFERED BELAND

Ottawa, July 8.—Hon. P. E. Blondin will be in Ottawa on Monday to take over his duties as Postmaster-General. He has arrived in Halifax and will spend the week-end with his family in Montreal. Lt.-Col. Blondin is still a Cabinet Minister, though he lacks the essential qualification of a seat in Parliament. Between now and the next session it is hoped to overcome this deficiency either by means of some political arrangement or a seat in the Senate. Nothing definite is yet proposed. It is expected that a Cabinet seat will be tendered Hon. H. S. Beland, who is now returning after a harrowing experience as a German prisoner of war. Whether he would accept such an offer if made affords room for considerable speculation.

Bishop and Orangemen

MEET IN WINDSOR FOREST

Roman Catholic Cleric Finds Canadian Drummer Overseas Whom He Often Watched on Twelfth Parades

London, July 8.—Famous as a Rugby football player in years gone by, and strenuous as a churchman today, Bishop Fallon is scarcely less reputed for his ready wit, the heritage of Irish forebears. In this connection the following incident is said to have occurred when the prelate from London, Ontario, was visiting the headquarters of the Canadian Forestry Corps a few days ago, down at Windsor Park, on the King's estate.

After lunch in the headquarters but the bishop was sitting outside with Brigadier-General Alec Macdougall of Ottawa. Standing hard by in stalwart array, the pride of the "Woodpeckers," the pipe bandmen were rendering various Highland airs. Drone and chanter thrilled lustily and the drums rolled out their music, as in succession "The Cock o' the North," "Highland Laddie," and other stirring strains resounded through Windsor's woody glades, and oddly enough within very sight of the monument to Cumberland which stands on the banks of the Thames. Both the general and Col. Barney Hepburn called the Bishop's attention to the white column commemorating the Butcher of Culloden, and remarked that today the descendants of the Highlanders he had massacred were having their revenge by crowding over the Hanoverian's tomb.

Spotted the Bandsman

The Bishop nodded to their recital of Scotia's glory, but he was eyeing the Highland bandmen keenly the while.

"They work about the camp and just play the pipes on occasions," declared general Macdougall, pointing with pride to the pipers. "They are a splendid lot of fellows, aren't they, Bishop?"

"They are every bit of it, and especially that great big drummer," replied Bishop Fallon. "From the way he is pounding that pigskin I would be he has walked in more than one Orange procession. I wonder where he comes from. It seems to me I have seen him before."

"We will soon find out," quoth Alec Macdougall, summoning the drummer, who presently stood before them, a fine figure of a man in his kilt and smart Glangary bonnet with the black cock's feathers sticking jauntily from its side.

Sure! On Many a "Twelfth"

"Did you ever walk with the Orangemen and play the big drum on the 12th? And did you ever happen to live in Kingston?" inquired the bishop, with a merry twinkle in his eye.

"I lived at Kingston for years, and many's the time I have played the big drum on the twelfth of July," replied the Highlander. "I thought so," laughed the bishop. "And now surely the general will understand how I stood in the crowd with a stone in my pocket, and was afraid to throw it."

DRANK PARIS GREEN Galt, July 10.—The death occurred at Doon on Sunday of John Bitzner, aged thirty-five, it is alleged that on Saturday Bitzner had a difference with his wife about going to work on the farm, as a result of which she left him. HIGH AND FANCY SHOE IS DOOM-ED The high and fancy shoe is doomed. The fair sex, for the remainder of the war, will have to get along with plain, unadorned footwear.

THE CANADIAN WAR TRADE BOARD has had the matter under consideration and proposes to make a number of regulations. These have been submitted to the boot and shoe manufacturers who are meeting in Montreal. It is understood that they have no objections and the new order regulating Canadian footwear will be issued at once. They will be very similar to regulations which have been made in the United States. The proposals of the War Trade Board are that women's shoes shall not be higher than eight inches. Now, ultra-fashionable shoes are twelve inches or more high. It is also proposed to make only four colors. There will be white and black shoes and two shades of tan, light and dark. It is also proposed to limit the styles to a few varieties as possible.

FINE CROP OUTLOOK IN UNITED STATES New York, July 10.—Henry Clews says: The most encouraging business factor is the crop outlook, nature in this respect having particularly favored the United States. Aside from slight damage to wheat, that crop still promises a very heavy yield, probably the second largest on record, with the remote possibility of being a bumper crop. The harvest of winter wheat, which is usually about two-thirds of the crop, is now well advanced, yielding excellent results, and should be completed during July. The expected yield is nearly a billion bushels, or about 350,000,000 more than last year, an ample supply for our allies as well as for ourselves. Our cotton crop also promises extraordinary results.

BROCKVILLE MERCHANT DEAD Brockville, July 10.—Benjamin Denison Stearns, aged sixty-nine, a native of Brockville, and a well-known hardware merchant for the past thirty-seven years, died on Thursday night following an illness of three weeks. He never married. Two brothers and three sisters survive.

BOARD CONSIDERING BUILDING MAUSOLEUM St. Thomas July 10.—For years St. Thomas citizens have discussed the advisability of having a mausoleum erected at the local cemetery for use during the cold winter days, but even though at various times it has been considered no further action has ever been taken. It now transpires, however, that at a meeting of the cemetery board held recently, the directors heard from a representative of the Toronto Mausoleum Company, the cost and various other matters in connection with such a building and have decided to take the matter up in earnest during this summer.

CONVENT SISTERS STUDY AGRICULTURE Guelph, July 10.—Among those who are taking the special course in agriculture at the Ontario Agricultural College, with the teachers, are more than twenty-five teaching sisters from the various Roman Catholic convents in Western Ontario. They come from Hamilton, London, Chatham and other places, and are preparing themselves to teach agriculture in the convents. This is the first time that the sisters have attended this school.

HAD NO MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE Niagara Falls, July 10.—Jas. Borrea, who came here from Toronto, and who was arrested for being a defaulter, was released later. Borrea had no marriage certificate on him but said he could produce a wife. He was told to get her and he did so by long distance telephone. She came to this city and identified the prisoner as her husband.

THE MEETINGS at the Summer School are now in full swing.

THE STUDY was preliminary to that of the rest of the week. To understand the Book of Revelation we need to consider the place of visions. The imagery of the visions is often strange to us, yet their meaning is generally simple. The imagery of the Bible is in the language of the times in which the Bible was written and of the people of those times. We have, in the Bible a great variety of forms of literature. God uses the imagination as a medium to reveal himself, as He uses the reason. Visions are often misinterpreted. We must consider the historic circumstances in interpreting them and remember that some of them were doubtless day dreams. In the vision recorded in Isaiah IV the prophet sees Jerusalem and Judah after punishment, and the prophet believes God is merciful and will restore the penitent. He sees righteousness ultimately established. In the 11th chapter he sees the Kingdom established in the whole world. The 7th chapter of Daniel was also used as an illustration.

THE APOCALYPTIC vision was a product of later times. It is a new type. It is the work of students rather than of prophets. The earlier visions were those of the preachers; the later, those of men, who were studying history and meditating. They were troubled because some of the predictions had not been fulfilled. They had a keener insight than the earlier prophets and saw that the conflict was not simply fought in this world—that there were invisible forces. And the apocalyptic visions presented a program for the ages. In the great conflict, the power of God could alone win a victory. The Book of Revelation is almost entirely of apocalyptic visions. One difficulty in studying it is that Daniel and Revelation are the only books of the nature in the Bible, although in earlier days other apocalyptic literature was studied. The next session will be devoted to a study in the Book of Revelation.

The Evening Session was held in Bridge St. Church. The students and staff marched down in a body, singing as they went. The Rev. Wm. Higgs, President, occupied the chair.

Rev. S. T. Bartlett, General Secretary of the Young Peoples' Societies, brought the greetings from the Summer School of Toronto Conference, held at Elgin House, Muskoka, last week. His address was on "Realizing our Best." How great is the gift of life. "In Him was life." We should become growingly dissatisfied with all forms of life except the best. In Jesus Christ we can find complete satisfaction. We are pledged to follow Jesus Christ; and Christ looked upon life as a great gift. There are some great thoughts in St. John's Gospel. "I and the Father are One." "I seek not my own will but the will of my Heavenly Father." Only by doing always the will of our Heavenly Father can we realize our best. Christ had an underlying principle of life in the doing of His Father's will. He had a purpose, which became a program of life. It became his pleasure and deepened with a passion. Our relationship to Christ determines our Christianity. Life is correspondence to environment and the soul's only true environment is God.

Rev. Dr. C. T. Scott spoke on "The War and Social Reconstruction." The theme lends itself to prophecy, and that is dangerous ground. Newman Angell failed in prophecy because he forgot one thing, i.e. the greatly increased production that was possible under the stress of war. Foresight however is a divine gift and we should prepare ourselves for the future. Some say immigration will be accelerated after the war as the war-weary people will flee from the old lands, others believe these nations will compel people to remain in their own lands to develop them. Some think there will be great industrial development, others, that financial stringency will result from the national depletion of resources. Again, it is thought by some that moral conditions will be deplorable; others believe the men at the front are getting a vision that will strengthen our moral resolves and efforts. We may be sure that, as great changes have come, there will be further changes. We shall have a new class consciousness, and that might result in class strife. The men from the front who have sacrificed, will have contempt for anything selfish and mean in those at home. Young women should get a high social ideal. Class distinctions are a curse, and for them, women are largely responsible, as men are naturally democratic. The sense of justice is growing among our soldiers, and a proffer will have no easy time dealing with them. There must be a closer relationship between producer and consumer.

The United States is more advanced than we in the socialization of national resources and agencies. We must guard against destroying individual initiative. The wealthy must be prepared to pay a higher proportion of income to meet the taxes of a tremendous national debt. Direct taxation is the only way to educate public opinion. In olden times a traitor was buried at the Cross Roads, that all might walk over his dust. Who is a traitor? Can't gauge by military standard or civil law. A traitor is one who, for personal gain, betrays public good. It is for us to strive for conditions of the Golden Age, when righteousness shall cover the earth as waters the great deep.

Twilight Talks are a feature of the Quinte School. They are all on personal problems, and this year center in the subject: "If I become a follower of Christ."

Rev. W. E. Honey, B.A., Secretary of the School, gave the first talk on "What must I forsake?" The great issue of our school will be our relationship to Christ. If you were asked "If you were a Christian and answered "No," and if asked "Why are you not a Christian?" What would you say then? Probably the real reason is the feeling that there is too much to give up. But what have we really to give up? Turn to the Bible for answer, for it is the sufficient rule of our faith and practice. See Isaiah 55:7. That is the whole answer. We must forsake our sins. It is our sins that keeps us out of Christ's service; our sins and our sinfulness. Some choose their sins in preference to Christ and His service.

Decisions Needed Many recognize the voice of duty and entertain good resolutions, yet are not prepared to leave their sins. They cannot become Christians until they so decide. The verse referred to represents our manner of life as a walk and we cannot walk in two different ways at the same time. If walking in the way of wickedness, we must turn about. Many know what they ought to do but linger in the pleasures of sin. The one thing that must be done is to turn from sin. Some may say "I have never sinned grossly." "I am not a criminal." The verse says "Let the unrighteous forsake his thoughts." Who can say his thoughts are blameless? Are your thoughts, plans, motives all sanctified by the Christ spirit? If not, you are still on the wrong track. To be casually minded is death. Our thoughts are not as God's thoughts.

Questionable Things If I follow Christ, must I give up certain things? If we are troubled by this, it indicates that something is wrong. Seek a truly Christian conscience in this matter, and having obtained a clear sense of what is right, absolutely follow it. Then you will give up some things, not by outward rule, but for Christ's sake. Put Christ first. It is self we must give up, and all we give up is more than compensated for by the precious fellowship of Christ.

A Farewell to Departing Pastor

REV. AND MRS. L. M. SHARPE GIVEN PLEASING TESTIMONIAL BEFORE LEAVING SIDNEY CIRCUIT FOR REDNERSVILLE.

On Thursday evening, 4th inst., about four hundred of the members and adherents of Sidney Circuit assembled at the Parsonage and Stone Church to spend a social evening, and say farewell to Rev. L. M. Sharpe and family after their four years of labor and welcome Rev. Mr. Wallace as the minister for the year ensuing.

After the baptism of several of the little folks at the church, Mr. C. J. Massey, the recording steward, presided and called upon Mr. J. A. Lott of Scott's Church to read the appended address, while he presented the purse, containing $95, given by the circuit. Then Miss Myrtle Bell read the address tendered to Mrs. Sharpe and presented her with a purse of $11 from the ladies of Scott's Appointment. Both Rev. and Mrs. Sharpe expressed their gratitude and emphasized some of the events which had contributed to prove the loyalty of the people of Sidney throughout the pastorate and expressing the hope that the communion so well established might increase as time continued and merged into eternity. Speeches of a complimentary nature were made by Mr. A. McClatchie, M.A., of Belleville, who has assisted in local work upon the circuit for several years, also by each of the stewards, F. Grills, W. Moon, H. Spafford, C. Pearson, Wm. Holmes, E. I. Ketcheson and C. J. Massey.

Mr. R. N. Bird of Foxboro Circuit, was then called upon and paid a high tribute to the retiring pastor, to Sidney Circuit and indeed to the itinerant ministry generally in the matter of the hardship of seeking out new abiding places from term to term while never having a real home.

Rev. Mr. Wallace who comes from Eldorado, was then tendered a royal welcome and replied very fittingly, asking the co-operation and prayers of the people who had turned out in such numbers.

The singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" concluded the formal part of the gathering. The following are the respective addresses:

Rev. L. M. Sharpe: Dear Brother, We, the members and adherents of the Sidney Circuit Methodist Churches meet here this evening at the close of your four years as our pastor and spiritual guide. Your devotion to your pulpit work and activity to utilize every moment of time and opportunity for some good and needed result have riveted in our hearts a lasting friendship for you, now and in future, and we do not forget the devotion and self-denial of Mrs. Sharpe in her church duties, and especially with your bright and intelligent children, who are willing to do all they can to make life and home a pleasant success.

We ask you to accept this purse as an index of our kind regards to you and your family, combined with our prayers for us all to comply with the Divine Will to help fill this needy, suffering world with Christ's Life and all meet in the Eternal Life. Signed on behalf of Sidney Circuit, C. J. Massey, Rec. Steward.

Dear Mrs. Sharpe: We, the ladies of Scott's appointment have assembled here on the eve of your departure from among us to spend one more pleasant evening with you.

We regret that you are so soon to leave us. We have learned to love and honor you. Your smiling face and pleasant manner has been an inspiration to us, but as God has appointed your work in another part of His vineyard, we must be content knowing that our loss will be someone else's gain.

We feel we cannot let you go without showing our love and esteem for you in some way, so we ask you to please accept this purse.

We cherish the hope that we shall meet again, while here on earth, but if not, we know we shall meet beyond this vale of tears where partings shall be no more. Signed on behalf of the ladies of Scott's Appointment, Mrs. Charles Scott, Mrs. Harvey Dafeo.

Bodies of four foreigners, evidently murdered, were found on a homestead near Grand Prairie, Alta.

Food Board Flashes For Feminine Folk

The need for extensive canning this year can scarcely be over-emphasized. All our fruit and vegetables must be used to the best advantage. The war gardeners have done their part. Now the housekeepers must do theirs.

Every assistance is being given them through the press, and no intelligent woman has the excuse that she does not know how to can or dry or make jam. She is given the clearest and simplest directions.

A five-cent booklet issued by the Food Board deals with the sugar situation and gives the most up-to-date "conservation" methods of taking care of the fruit and vegetable crops.

It is authoritative and the woman who follows it will know that she is doing her patriotic duty and that the methods advocated are those best suited to meet the need of the hour.

Double Crops Proposed

ENGLISH FARMER'S SUGGESTION Would Plant Winter Cereal on Grass Land, Graze it Off and Then Let it Grow Again

In these days of cereal and fodder shortage the farmer who succeeds in growing two blades where one grew before would be looked upon as a public benefactor, but an English farmer has succeeded in going one better, and writes to The Times to give details of the new method.

He suggests that if his plan is adopted there will be more grazing this year, more beef next winter, more oats, wheat and hay in 1919, and more grazing in 1919. If the new method is as successful over a large acreage as it has proved to be in the experimental stage it may rightly be termed a discovery in agriculture.

The new method is as follows: In July, by the use of a specially devised drill, a winter cereal and an artificial fertilizer are simultaneously drilled through any grass land intended for haying the following year. By September or October the cereal will have made the growth of from eight to ten inches. This is then grazed off with the grass by whatever livestock is turned out upon it, and the grain, nominally an annual, is thus turned into a biennial by virtue of its yield of valuable grazing in the autumn preceding the year of the normal grain harvest.

Would Strengthen Cereal The autumn grazing encourages and strengthens the roots of the cereal. Owing to the protection from frost given by the covering of turf, normal spring growth begins earlier, more heads are thrown up development is more rapid, and the grain ripens at the same time as the hay, both being harvested together. The harvesting is done by means of an ordinary mowing machine fitted with an extra knife at the proper height above the grass to cut the heads of the grain. The lower knife cuts the hay as usual, and the upper knife acts as a header.

A carrier behind the header knife deposits the grain in a separate swath. The advantages claimed for this method are many, among them being the following: The productive capacity of the land is doubled. Old and valuable grass lands are not only not destroyed, but are improved. Economy of labor throughout; plowing and harrowing are not needed; both crops are gathered together; planting and rolling are done at the same time, and the grain crop is gathered with ease and certainty, as there is no green growth with the grain to be stood in the sun to dry. Economy of fertilizers. A saving of one-half of the seed usually needed. The autumn grazing is of a fresh nitrogenous character. The passage of the drills through the turf improves the surface drainage. The equal mixture of straw with the hay for fodder. The great convenience of July planting for the farmer.

Many Advantages of Plan It is asserted that under this method no permanent pasture need be broken up, rather the larger part of the arable land might be put down to permanent pasture. The permanent pastures are in hay and corn one year and grazed the next. In the spring of the grazing year seeds of annual legumes can be planted through the pastures with the same machine as is used to drill in the grain, not only on account of their feeding value, but also to improve the nitrogen in the soil for the following cereal crop.

Bodies Recovered

TWO LADS DROWNED AT NEW-CASTLE FOUND FLOATING ON CHOPPY SEA

The lake gave up its dead last Friday afternoon and scarcely had it done so when Mr. McEachern, father of one of the victims of the recent drowning on the lake with the aid of a field glass discerned near the beach some distance to the west what he correctly surmised to be the body of his lost son, Neill, aged 16 years, 8 months. He hastened along the shore, his certainty increasing as he advanced and soon he was rewarded with the realization of all his waiting and watching since his boy was engulfed by the winds and the waves exactly two weeks before. Similar may be said of Mr. Selby, father of the other victim, Russell Selby in his 16th year, who had been unremitting in his watchings on the beach.

The two bodies were floating upon the choppy sea close to the shore and but a few yards away. As soon as undertaker Ellbeck was summoned he called up the Coroner, Dr. Tucker of Orono, who hastened to the scene and upon hearing the circumstance he considered an inquest unnecessary and Mr. Ellbeck took charge of the bodies and got things in readiness for the interment the next afternoon. Consequently the funeral—a double one—took place Saturday afternoon from the home of Mr. Selby. The two bereaved families living but a few rods apart, made the united character of the whole proceedings both possible and practicable. Both the caskets, covered with flowers, were placed upon the lawn, and here the mourners and a large assemblage of acquaintances met to show their sympathy for the bereaved households. Rev. Mr. Connell and Rev. Mr. Rae conducted the union service, both addressing the assembly, the former particularly for the Selby family and the latter for the McEachern family. The service over, each casket was borne to a separate hearse and the long procession drew out and proceeded to Bowmanville Cemetery for interment.—Newcastle Independent.

All the News From Madoc Monday, July 1st.—A large number of Madoc citizens visited Marmora when the Women's Institute of that Village held a celebration on the Fair Grounds. The Madoc band was present and after playing several selections on Marmora Front a baseball match took place between Campbellford and Delora teams resulting in a victory for Campbellford team. There were also Boys' and Girls' races, Bicycle and Auto races, making a fine program for the afternoon. The weather man must have been away from home, July 1st to let us have such a cold day, still the people knew how hard the women had worked for the success of the day and did well for such a day. In the evening a concert was held and we are glad to say, was one of the best ever held in Marmora. We are also pleased to know that after such a dull cold day the ladies will have to their credit about $350. Well done, Marmora Women's Institute!

CHICAGO HERALD CITES SOME OF THE NEEDS NEWSPAPERS FILL

Under the caption, "Newspapers and the Nation", the Chicago Herald prints an editorial article in which it says: "What are the newspapers doing to help win the war? What are they sacrificing? What are they giving?" "The questions are a challenge which in fairness should be answered. What are the newspapers doing to help win the war? Well, the best of them are giving eagerly what no money could buy. They are putting what they conceive to be national need in the first place and making all else subordinate to it.

"Without the willing co-operation of the newspapers this war could not be waged and won. Without the ever-present service of the daily papers America would be like Russia, a congeries of discontented peoples. "What have the newspapers done to help win the war? They have assisted the nation to quickly decide vital issues. Had delays ensued, the world might never have been safe for democracy. Had not America been able to think swiftly, the right decision might never have been reached. The newspapers contributed powerfully to this.

"Newspapers are admittedly private business ventures. The public-owned newspaper has not yet persuaded the country of its desirability. But every privately-owned newspaper worthy of the name has constantly served the country and aided in winning the war at a cost to itself. The New York Times announced a week or two ago that every day it was refusing advertising worth several thousand dollars in order to print war cables which cost upward of a dollar a line. That attitude is typical of the best of the industry. Where could it be paralytic?"

"Finally, the newspapers, every day give to the Government space which could not be bought. Every branch of the Administration feels free at any time to ask the papers to donate special position and space to its publicity.

"That is a part of what the newspapers are giving for national victory. They ask no credit for it. They court no approval, much less praise. But at this time when some of the captious, who do very little, feel qualified to play the confessor to those who have done much more, frank speaking is not amiss."

Six People Thrown From Automobile

DRIVER SWERVES TO SIDE-WALK TO ESCAPE HITTING STREET CAR

Toronto, July 9.—Six people had a miraculous escape from death yesterday evening at 7.55, when a motor car, driven by Frank Adams, 40 Ontario street, a returned soldier, turned over on the sidewalk at the corner of Louisa and Terauly streets when the driver swerved suddenly for fear of hitting the street car.

The occupants of the motor car, Mrs. Annie Weir, 241 East Gerrard street, Clarence Weir and Edward Weir, also a returned soldier, Mrs. Annie McGowan, 251 East Gerrard street, and her daughter, aged 12, were all thrown to St. Michael's Hospital in the police ambulance attached to West Dundas street station.

According to the police of the division, the car had stopped with the street car at the previous intersection and was attempting to pass the street car in the next block when Adams who was driving, ran a little too close to the street car, and in trying to edge away threw his wheel over a little too far, with the result that the motor car struck the curb and overturned on the sidewalk.

When spoken to last night the hospital authorities stated that all the party with the exception of Mrs. Weir and Mrs. McGowan had been able to leave for their homes. When first admitted to the hospital it was thought that Mrs. Weir's hip was broken, but an X-ray examination showed that this was not the case. All were suffering from shock. It is expected that both the women will be able to leave the institution this

TWO LADS DROWNED AT NEW-CASTLE FOUND FLOATING ON CHOPPY SEA

The lake gave up its dead last Friday afternoon and scarcely had it done so when Mr. McEachern, father of one of the victims of the recent drowning on the lake with the aid of a field glass discerned near the beach some distance to the west what he correctly surmised to be the body of his lost son, Neill, aged 16 years, 8 months. He hastened along the shore, his certainty increasing as he advanced and soon he was rewarded with the realization of all his waiting and watching since his boy was engulfed by the winds and the waves exactly two weeks before. Similar may be said of Mr. Selby, father of the other victim, Russell Selby in his 16th year, who had been unremitting in his watchings on the beach.

The two bodies were floating upon the choppy sea close to the shore and but a few yards away. As soon as undertaker Ellbeck was summoned he called up the Coroner, Dr. Tucker of Orono, who hastened to the scene and upon hearing the circumstance he considered an inquest unnecessary and Mr. Ellbeck took charge of the bodies and got things in readiness for the interment the next afternoon. Consequently the funeral—a double one—took place Saturday afternoon from the home of Mr. Selby. The two bereaved families living but a few rods apart, made the united character of the whole proceedings both possible and practicable. Both the caskets, covered with flowers, were placed upon the lawn, and here the mourners and a large assemblage of acquaintances met to show their sympathy for the bereaved households. Rev. Mr. Connell and Rev. Mr. Rae conducted the union service, both addressing the assembly, the former particularly for the Selby family and the latter for the McEachern family. The service over, each casket was borne to a separate hearse and the long procession drew out and proceeded to Bowmanville Cemetery for interment.—Newcastle Independent.

All the News From Madoc Monday, July 1st.—A large number of Madoc citizens visited Marmora when the Women's Institute of that Village held a celebration on the Fair Grounds. The Madoc band was present and after playing several selections on Marmora Front a baseball match took place between Campbellford and Delora teams resulting in a victory for Campbellford team. There were also Boys' and Girls' races, Bicycle and Auto races, making a fine program for the afternoon. The weather man must have been away from home, July 1st to let us have such a cold day, still the people knew how hard the women had worked for the success of the day and did well for such a day. In the evening a concert was held and we are glad to say, was one of the best ever held in Marmora. We are also pleased to know that after such a dull cold day the ladies will have to their credit about $350. Well done, Marmora Women's Institute!

Picked Up Around Town

On Sunday last the Oddfellows of Thomaburg and visitors attended divine service in the Anglican church at Thomaburg in very large numbers, the body of the church and the gallery being crowded, although weather conditions were adverse. The service was hearty and devout. The Rev. A. L. Geen, of Belleville, Past Grand Chaplain who had been invited to address the brethren, spoke on 1 Samuel XX 42, "And Jonathan said to David, go in peace, forasmuch as we have sworn both of us in the name of the Lord saying, the Lord be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed for ever." A few statistics were presented to show how the true ideals of Odd-fellowship were exhibited by David and Jonathan, whose ideals were the teachings of Christ.

The Rev. A. L. Geen has been invited to address the Orange brethren on Sunday, July 21st at Thomaburg.

Last night after having been missed for nearly 24 hours, the McLaughlin "Special" automobile, owned by Mr. Frank Evans, was found at the east end of Moira street north of the G.T.R. tracks. The machine was in the ditch and had been considerably damaged.

Mr. A. H. Kerr, who about a month ago had a large motorboat stolen by a couple of men who rented it to go to Trenton and then disappeared has found the craft at Gananoque where it had been sold for $75. The boat was worth about $300. Mr. Kerr went to Gananoque at Chief Newton's suggestion.

MILES URGES AN AMERICAN ARMED FORCE FOR RUSSIA

Military Instructors Could Raise Vast Force for Allies, He Declares in Letter—American Military Expert Addresses Communication to Members of United States Senate.—Would Hasten the War's End.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—With events in Russia racing toward a climax the attitude of the United States toward that unfortunate nation is an all absorbing topic wherever army and navy men meet. The consensus of these fighting men is that help should be extended from this side of the water.

Among the prominent exponents of the movement to send armed forces to Russia's aid is Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, retired. This became known when it was learned he had written the following letter to United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois: We owe that nation and people a great debt of gratitude that should no longer remain unpaid. They are entitled to our deepest sympathy. They have placed more men in the field during this greatest of all wars and suffered a larger number of casualties than any other country. That country, with a population of one hundred and eighty millions of people, has a physical strength of thirty-six millions of strong, brave men capable of bearing arms. To permit them to go out of the theatre of war will be a most serious misfortune; if not a disastrous and fatal error.

"As we are now sending an army of approximately two millions of men to the support of France, England and Italy and billions of money, we should give strong material support to Russia. It is the greatest man power nation, and we need not send a large army there; but for every one hundred thousand or one million Russians we put into the field there we save the enormous expense of transporting that number of our men to the field, returning them after the war and supporting them for thirty or forty years on the pension roll after the war is over; at the same time we keep a corresponding number of our men in our own industries at home."

Send Russian-Americans. "It is, therefore, most earnestly recommended that we send a sufficient force to that country, that shall be the nucleus or skeleton of a powerful army. The force should be selected with great care, composed of efficient American officers and sergeants, recruited as fast as possible from districts of our country occupied by the Russian race; men who have served in the Russian army, or descendants of Russian ancestry and who speak the Russian language. Our nation is the only one of the Allies in condition to accomplish this most important object. A body of twenty-five thousand men would be capable of being expanded into an army of a half million of men, or a force of fifty thousand men could be expanded into an army of one million and every officer and non-commissioned officer from the highest general down to the junior sergeant would be of those going from this country.

"What we pay one soldier would equal the pay of twenty-eight Russian soldiers. Hence the economy of this proposition. "The importance of time, undoubtedly before this force could reach Vladivostok the status of the Russian government will be decided, the character of that government must, and undoubtedly will, be determined by the Russian people. A proclamation should be issued that the American government, with its allies, is moving to the protection and support of the people of Russia, and that they are not actuated by the lust of conquest or acquisition of territory, but that they come bearing the banners of liberty and liberal civil government to the liberty loving people of Russia, and call upon all classes to unite with the forces of the United States and our allies against the common enemy of civilization.

Would Hasten War's End. "As the question of transporting a strong body of troops and war material is an important problem, it is well to consider the fact that our government is now building large ships on the Pacific Coast at San Francisco, Cal.; Portland, Ore.; Seattle, Wash. and other points. A sufficient number of these could be utilized to transport all the troops and the large amount of war material required for this military enterprise. Additional ships can be purchased. Such a measure should have the approval and support of the allied powers and ample funds to insure complete success.

"In urging prompt action in behalf of Russia we but add our voice to the appeal of all others who have been in Russia and the manifest sentiment of the American people and press, and with action taken in her behalf not only for the altruistic motives, but to prevent indefinite prolongation of this most destructive and deplorable of all wars. The inexhaustible natural resources of field and mine in Russia, which Germany is fast organizing for her own use, and the men there whom she will soon force to fight for her, will far exceed in potential strength for the Central Powers the potential strength of the United States to the allies."

Three Weeks' Old Baby Found on Celina Street Doorstep. Oshawa is getting to be a big place when a baby can be in their midst three or four weeks, and when a mother wishes to relieve herself of the responsibility of it, can leave it on the doorstep of a home in the heart of the town without anyone being found who can identify it or give any information as to whom it belongs. Yet this is what happened last Thursday night. As Mrs. Tolling was going home about 11 o'clock, passing the home on Celina street of Mr. Jackson, who keeps a blacksmith shop on Mary street, he had his attention attracted by the pitiful cries of a babe wrapped in a bundle on the verandah. He picked it up and wrapped on the door of the house. No one there knew how it came to be on the verandah, or anything about it. The police were notified and it was taken to the Children's Shelter, where there is another child about the same age, found on the steps of a house in Pickering last week.

You're Going to Get Hell
CANADIANS ARE OPPOSITE YOU
German Prisoner Tells of Warnings Given Him When He Entered the Trenches—Why Canadians Win.

Canadian Front, France, July 6.—What is the chief reason for the wonderful spirit of the Canadian troops, and for their remarkable record of success? Work. That is the answer; continuous employment, either in learning the art of war or in carrying out the instruction so received. When one of our battalions goes into the trenches, its commander immediately has a minute survey made of all the defences. It is seen that the wire is strong thick and impene- trable, that all machine gun emplacements and strong points are put into apple- pie order. Meanwhile the Hun position opposite is subjected to the keenest of scrutines. During the day our observers watch every movement, and our snipers are ever ready to pierce the unwary head. In the dark watches of the night while our working parties are out on the job, scouts creep close to Fritz's parapet to investigate at first hand suspicious objects seen in the day, or to grab the unwary.

We do the "Strafing" Day in, day out, our artillery strates the enemy. No small group of men, day, not an individual is too insignificant for their attention. The while, for the purpose of identifying the enemy and generally worrying him, trench raids of frequent occurrence nightly keep the Hun in a constant state of apprehension. The German gets no rest when our boys are opposite him. He soon discovers their presence, and the fact, as captured Hun communications show, has no small influence in weakening his morale.

Only the other day I saw some German prisoners brought in. Said one of them: "We relieved the Division. As we met them coming out of the trenches they said to us: 'You have the Canadians opposite you. Just wait till you get into the line. You are going to get hell. They kept at us morning, noon and night. It was terrible, we got no rest.' The prisoner soon proved the truth of these predictions. He was captured within 24 hours, and he wasn't at all sorry. Work! Secret of Success. Yes, work is the secret of the

An Old Prince Edward Boy Passed Away

The death of Alfred Stanton, eldest son of the late Dyer Stanton, took place at his son's residence, near Woodstock, on Tuesday, June 11, at the advanced age of eighty years, eleven months and twenty-three days. The deceased was born in Prince Edward county, township of Athol, in the year 1837, and spent his boyhood days here. In 1869 the late Mr. Stanton was married and purchased a farm in Oxford county, near Woodstock, and commenced farming for himself. He later moved to the Niagara district and went from there to Austin, Texas, for his health. About two years later he returned to the Niagara district again and engaged in fruit raising as before. Some years later he moved to Kent county, where he lived for nearly twenty years, but in 1913 returned to Oxford county where he remained until his death. Deceased was a tiller of the soil all his life, and a staunch Liberal, and always enjoyed reading the Picton Times. The late Alfred Stanton leaves to mourn his loss a widow and two sons, Herbert Dyer and Alfred E., with whom he resided until his death. The funeral took place from his late residence to Inerkerp cemetery, near Woodstock, on Friday, June 14.

2,500 Still at Ruhleben

There are still about 2,500 men in Ruhleben prison camp, most of whom have been interned there since November, 1914, although according to The Hague agreement, made in July last, they are fully entitled to internment in a neutral country. It is urged by the Ruhleben Prisoners' Release Committee that the Government should take immediate steps to secure the early release of these captives in exchange for German civilians interned in this country.

Annual Orange Church Service

Adjutant Trickey Addressed Societies at S. A. Citadel. The annual church parade of the Orangemen of Belleville was held on Sunday at the Salvation Army Citadel. The turnout this year was very large in its proportions and the members of the two local lodges, L. O. L. No. 874 and L.O.L. 2519 were accompanied by the 'Prentice Boys, True Blues and Sons of England. Adjutant N. R. Trickey, of the Belleville S. A. Corps was in charge of the service, preaching a very fine sermon on "The Word." The S. A. band led in the hymns. These were particularly appropriate "Onward Christian Soldiers," "Stand up, Stand up, for Jesus," and "O God, our Help in Ages Past." Envoy T. D. Ruston assisted in the service with prayer.

Adjutant Trickey welcomed the Orange brethren because of what their constitution stood for and because at least 60,000 members of the order in Canada had taken their place in the ranks in the fight for freedom. He based his sermon on St. Paul's words to Timothy: "Preach the Word." The Bible is the foun-

Canadian success. When out of the trenches, in billets, the men are taught all the latest wrinkles in warfare. Here, back of the lines, they truly get a rest, for they work in the mornings and have the afternoons to themselves. The drills and courses they go through smarten them up wonderfully, mentally and physically, and amazingly restore that sense of discipline which the cramped existence of trench life is apt to dull. And discipline, as every Canadian would be prompt to tell you, is the heart and soul of good soldiering.

Not long ago it was reported that a Canadian unit had something like ten times the amount of wiring along its frontage as the best adjoining unit of similar size, and that our skillfully masked machine gun emplacements fairly dotted the ground. 'Twas behind these fortifications that the Canadians waited expectantly. How they longed for the Hun to come that they might test the results of their industry. But he made his thrust at another spot.

After July the happy couple will be at home on the First of Sidney. Their many friends will join in the best wishes for their future.

Important Point

The doctor's wife had advertised for a girl to do housework and was showing an applicant over the house. She had been very liberal in her promises of privileges, and it looked as though the two were going to come to an agreement, when the girl suddenly asked: "Do you do your own stretching?" "Do we do our own what?" asked the puzzled mistress. "Stretchin'," repeated the girl. Do you put all the food on the table and stretch for it, or do I have to shuffle it around?—N. Y. Times.

One often meets a corpse on the road packed in a long crate or bundle of palm leaves and slung across the back of an ass. The pilgrim behind is taking his relative to swell the population of the cities of the dead, by which these sanctuaries are surrounded.

Important Point

The doctor's wife had advertised for a girl to do housework and was showing an applicant over the house. She had been very liberal in her promises of privileges, and it looked as though the two were going to come to an agreement, when the girl suddenly asked: "Do you do your own stretching?" "Do we do our own what?" asked the puzzled mistress. "Stretchin'," repeated the girl. Do you put all the food on the table and stretch for it, or do I have to shuffle it around?—N. Y. Times.

Music and Drama "THE WHIRL OF LIFE" A GREAT PICTURE So much has been heard of the picture, "The Whirl of Life", which the late Flight Lieut. Vernon Castle and Mrs. Castle will appear in at Griffin's the latter part of next week, that many have been inquiring just what kind of a picture it is. The management of Griffin's have been requested for the information and here it is: As most everyone knows, Vernon Castle was without doubt the greatest dancer the world has produced, particularly refined dancing, and was the originator of the now famous Tango dance, which has been for two past years so popular wherever dancing holds sway. Mr. Castle has been a member of most of the Lew Fields big musical revues that have gone out of New York in the past ten years, and it was during the run of one of these musical revues, in a town near New York, that he met a slim young girl, the daughter of a prominent physician, who seemed to be very proficient at dancing, and Mr. Castle at once saw in this slim young woman the makings of a good dancer. Seeking an introduction to the young lady he at once broached the subject of dancing to her which at first she demurred, especially at the thought of leaving her home town, but being an ambitious young Miss and not wishing to waste all her time doing nothing around her home town, she gained the consent which was very reluctantly given by her father, to make a short tour with Mr. Castle. Her first trip with Mr. Castle was of a short duration, but in that brief space of time she learned much, and from that time she became the graceful dancer she is, under the able tutoring of her late talented husband, and is now spoken of as the best dressed woman in America. In this picture we see the complete history of the Castle's which will be shown up to the death of the unfortunate airman. The picture is in six parts and as both are well known to the people of Belleville and the inhabitants of the surrounding districts, many inquirers are being made as to when the Happy Function at Baptist Ch.

Reception and Presentation to Rev. W. H. Wallace and Mrs. Wallace

Victoria Ave. Baptist Church was last evening the scene of a unique function, a reception to the new pastor, Rev. W. H. Wallace and Mrs. Wallace and a presentation to them of a beautiful dinner set on the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of their marriage.

Our Saviour hallowed by His presence the wedding at Cana in Galilee, and Paul declared that "Christ also loved the Church and gave Himself for it." Thus in a very real and spiritual sense a pastorate takes on the close and vital relationships of the marriage tie.

Rev. Mr. Wallace has already a firm hold on the affections of his congregation and the opinion was freely expressed that his pastorate will be one of the most successful in the history of the Baptist congregation in Belleville.

Mr. W. B. Riggs occupied the chair and was in his usual happy mood. After the singing of the doxology, Mr. Riggs outlined the purpose of the gathering, which was to welcome the new pastor and his wife. Mayor (Dr.) Platt made a short speech, full of wholesome advice, as to the treatment of the minister.

The Rev. A. M. Hubly on behalf of the Ministerial Association welcomed the new pastor. He had, he said, welcomed five Baptist pastors to the city and he hoped for Mr. and Mrs. Wallace a successful sojourn in Belleville.

Adjutant Trickey of the Salvation Army rendered two cornet solos in fine style. Inspector Captain T. D. Ruston of the Children's Aid Society welcomed Rev. Mr. Wallace on behalf of the neglected and dependent children of the city and district.

As a moment of your wedding anniversary, we ask your acceptance of this dinner set donated by the members and friends of our church.

JOHN FITZGERALD CHARGED IN THE POLICE COURT

With Assault of Ross Reid and Causing Actual Injury—Unfortunate Shooting Occurrence Near Shannonville at Charivari.

In the police court in Belleville on Saturday afternoon, John Fitzgerald, a well-known Thurlow farmer, appeared on a charge of assaulting Ross Reid, a Thurlow farmer, about 24 years of age, on Friday night, causing him actual bodily harm.

These criminal proceedings came as an aftermath of an unfortunate occurrence on Friday night about 11 o'clock, when Ross Reid was shot in the back with a charge of shot. The story runs as follows: A charivari had been arranged in honor of the pupils of Mr. Henry Fitzgerald, son of Mr. John Fitzgerald, Mr. Pat Fitzgerald, a brother it seems, persuaded young Reid to come over to

Only 24 Survivors. Up to the latest reports only 24 of those on board, including the captain, have survived the treacherous attack, which came without warning.

At a meeting of the Trustees Board of the Pictou Methodist Church on Wednesday of last week, it was decided to offer the Main Street Church property, including church, parsonage, organ, etc., for sale.

The annual fish dinner at Long Point was well patronized Monday, threatening weather apparently having small effect on attendance. Dr. and Mrs. Marshall, of Belleville, were among those motoring from that city to keep the holiday on these far-famed picnic grounds and enjoy meeting with a host of old-time friends. Many cars filled with passengers went from Pictou, while the surrounding county was well represented.

The Hydro substation equipment, transformers, meters, etc., have been purchased for the Pictou and Wellington substations. Arrangements have been made to rebuild the distribution system in Bloomfield, as soon as construction gangs can be released from other work to take charge of this construction. The details of the route of the high-tension line are still in abeyance. As soon as this matter is satisfactorily settled, arrangements will be made to begin line construction from Trenton to Pictou. With regard to the purchase of electric pumps, the municipality will be advised in plenty of time to have this equipment ready when service is given from the Hydro lines.

On the eve of his departure from Pictou, Rev. M. E. Sexsmith, B.A., L.L.B., who has for the past three years been pastor of the Main St. Methodist Church of that town, was presented with an address and a purse containing $350. The presentation was made at the parsonage on Mary St., with quite a number of the friends of the retiring pastor present, including several representative citizens of town and county.

The citizens of Pictou, in order to provide against the shortage of the food problem, have taken a deep interest in gardening this season. Every available spot apparently has been utilized and notwithstanding the climatic conditions which have been unfavorable to rapid growth, yet there are many that promise well. Of the many gardens which the writer has been privileged to see, none are more advanced or give promise of better results than Mr. J. J. Redmond's, Bowery and Barker Sts.

Must Have Certificates

Attached to Prescriptions.—Ontario License Board is to insist on this being Done by Doctors Who Give Orders for Liquor.

The Ontario License Board are sending a circular to the licensed vendors in the province warning them that all prescriptions which they receive from doctors to fill in the future must contain the following certificate attached.

"That the quantity of liquor there-mentioned is the minimum quantity necessary for the patient for whom it is needed."

The amendment to the Ontario Temperance Act last session contained this clause. For some time the Ontario License Board have not insisted on this, but owing to the number of prescriptions which have been given by many doctors, most of which were a quart, the Board has now decided to insist on this rule being enforced. The license inspectors in the districts have notified the doctors to this effect.

The idea is that a patient may only need six ounces, a pint or anything less than a quart, and that a quart is the maximum. It is thought that before the doctors will issue a certificate for a quart, when only a smaller dose is needed, they will hesitate, and that there will be less prescriptions promiscuously given out.

Mechanics Leave R.A.F.

Join the C.E.F.—Want to Get Overseas as soon as Possible—Several Women Report for Duty as Drivers in the R.A.F.

Toronto, July 11.—Today was the limit for the mechanics who had enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps to transfer to the Royal Air Force. About ten per cent. of the corps have done this, and will, in consequence, be enlisted in the C.E.F. The reason of a large number of these men for wishing to change is that they entered the R.F.C. under the impression that they were going to France, and now that there seems to be no prospect of getting there they are entering the C.E.F. in the hope of going overseas. Others, who find they do not come under the M.S.A., are taking this opportunity of severing their connection with the army. Wednesday twenty were discharged from the R.A.F. to enter the C.E.F., and others will be discharged as soon as they can be conveniently spared. It was pointed out that it was awkward to allow expert mechanics to go until someone had been obtained to fill their places.

Several women drivers reported for duty this morning, and the R.A.F. state that they will in all probability take on about thirty-five women drivers. The women will be provided with dusters and raincoats, but will have no regular uniform.

At Leaside Camp it is expected that some seventy women will be engaged as store women, cooks and waitresses.

Peculiarities of Lost Limbs

A British soldier writes: Most people, I think, know that when a person has lost a limb, that person still retains the "sense" or feeling of the missing limb. As a case in point, I might mention that a friend of mine, who had lost a leg in the war, in an unthinking moment took a step on the missing leg and came to grief. I myself had the misfortune to lose my left hand on the Mesines ridge last June, and all the pain I have suffered from the wound has been in the hand which I no longer possess. Now, the peculiar part of it is that on alternate days the fingers of the missing hand open and close; that is to say, yesterday they were closed; today they are open. Tomorrow they will be closed again. Can this be explained? This change takes place during sleep, and once or twice on restless nights. I have actually felt the change taking place. I was left-handed, and during the attack I carried my revolver in the missing hand. When the fingers are closed, they are exactly in the same position as if they were still grasping the revolver. That I can understand, but why should they open on alternate days? The only explanation I can offer is that what was left of the hand was amputated exactly twenty-four hours later. Also, I was wounded somewhere about four o'clock in the morning, and was operated on about the same time the following morning, and the opening and closing of the fingers takes place about then.

Drunkenness on the Decline

CONVICTIONS ALMOST HALVED
Records Show Marked Falling Off in Old Country—Death rate is Lower and Disease Decreases

The work of the British Central Control Board (liquor traffic) continues to result in a steady decline of drunkenness.

Restrictions upon the output of liquor are not imposed by this authority, but by the Ministry of Food. During the year ended March 31 the spirits and beer available were just half the amount in strength provided in the previous twelve months. The beer supply for instance, though 50 per cent. lower in aggregate strength, was only 30 per cent. lower in quality.

The Control Board's regulations, which deal with the hours between which liquor may be served and the closing of unwanted or badly conducted saloons, now extend to areas containing about 19-20 of the population of Great Britain, Ireland being so far wholly exempt.

Convictions Falling Off

In the areas affected the convictions of drunkenness have fallen to little more than a fourth of the figures for 1913. The reduction in the case of males is from 89,915 in 1913 to 20,801 in 1917, and among females from 28,352 to 9,415. There is an equally marked reduction in the deaths due to alcoholism, in suicides and in the deaths of infants from suffocation.

As to the permanent maintenance of this level of sobriety, the board expresses the view that there is no such "inherent difficulty in the problem" as to render it impossible. Regarding the "constructive" branches of the board's work, the number of industrial canyons open or being built at munition works has risen during the year from 570 to 780, making the number of persons catered for 990,000.

Shower-Baths for Farmers

Here is an instance of simple ingenuity which deserves special mention: A very resourceful young man who was finishing off his university agricultural course with a summer of practical experience on a Wisconsin farm decided that a shower-bath was necessary to his health and comfort, and by very simple means soon furnished a solution to the much-discussed problem of bath accommodations for the dusty, sweaty summer helpers on the farm.

All necessary materials were readily provided by his employer, and Mr. Wants abath set to work to construct the "bath." A portion of one of the out-buildings was roughly partitioned off for a room, the slope of the floor being such as to conduct the water to a drain pipe fitted into one corner; a large wash tub was placed upon a platform six-foot high fastened to the outside of the building (so that the water could subside) and a short length of water-pipe extended from the tub, with a downward slant, through the wall. On the inside, a faucet (taken from an old oil stove), was attached to the pipe near the end, which was finished off with the nozzle from a large sprinkling can.

Of course everybody helped fill the "tank" by handing pails of water up to the inventor as he stood upon the steps leading up to it. After that, that source of supply failing, the tend-a-hand friends went at it again. Not all the fun was in the making either. The shower bath was used by all the household, even to a certain guest who survives to "enjoy telling the story—"The Guest" in "The Farmer."

Dr. J. A. Faulkner of Foxboro, left yesterday for Rochester, Minn., where he will spend a few weeks taking up special surgical work at the famous institution of the Mayo Brothers in that city. He will also spend some time in Chicago making investigations at the School of Surgical Technique.

Most of the members of the Mu Gamma Kappa Club, are at present engaged in farm labor. Mary E. Bowles won a claim of $12,000 damages against the city of Winnipeg in connection with the death of her husband in a police wagon collision in 1916.

Tried to Send Secret Messages

AMERICAN PROFESSOR AND A SWEDISH OFFICER ARE INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

New York, July 5.—Professor Charles Emil Strangand, former second-secretary of the American Embassy in London, and Captain Gustav Ragnar Lindgren, of the Swedish army, were indicted here yesterday for conspiracy to violate the Trading with the Enemy Act. The men were arrested some weeks ago, and are at liberty under bail.

The indictment charges that Strangand arranged with Lindgren to carry a letter to Mrs. Strangand (Karen Michels), the novelist, who is now in Denmark, and other letters to Senator Leo Ehrenrooth and Miss Ellen Key, an authoress, in Sweden. The message to Miss Key is alleged to contain the information that Tarak Nath Das, a Hindu, had been sentenced to prison in California for "aiding Hindu revolution."

The letters were seized at Lindgren's apartments by agents of the customs intelligence service.

Warm Supporter of the Y.M.C.A.

One of Factors That Makes Life Bearable at the Front.

The following is an extract from a letter received from a Captain in the Canadian Engineers on active service in France:

"There really is plenty of opportunity to have a good time when you are out of the front line. Some of the larger towns aren't bad. There are movie shows, concerts and great rides to go on. I notice quite a controversy in the papers from home about the Y. M. C. A. The G.W.V.A. seem to have run it down unreasonably. To my mind, the Y and the Chaplain Service are the two factors in making life anything of a pleasure at the front. They run all the cafeterias and all ways have good hot tea and coffee and soup free of charge, day and night, in the forward area and all day in the rear. You can get no end of good Canadian products from the Y at any time just for the asking they supply you free, basketball, football, cricket or in fact material for any game that's played."

"To my mind, it is a shame that people who work so hard, and do so much for the fellows out here, should be so run down at home, giving the Canadian public an utterly false idea what the Y is doing and how their subscription money is being spent. They are the backbone of all athletics out here and run all, or nearly all, the movie shows, and are as untiring and as good-natured as a bunch of chaps as anyone would want to meet."

That is my honest opinion after coming out here prejudiced against the Y.M.C.A. for what I knew of them at home, but believe me, I will be a fervent supporter in the future."

Patronage in West Hastings

The Toronto Globe welcomes the definite statement of Hon. C. J. Doherty, speaking for the Dominion Government as acting Prime Minister, denying the charge that appointments to the public service are still being made in the constituency of West Hastings on the recommendation of the local member. "So far as I am concerned," says Hon. Mr. Doherty, "and I believe that I can speak for other members of the Government, I refer all applicants for appointments to the Commission which now has full charge."

The acting Premier adds that he has "every reason to believe that the Commission is making its appointments in accordance with the act as amended last session."

Hon. Mr. Doherty takes the right and the only proper ground. His clear and unequivocal statement will be accepted as a Government pledge of sincerity of purpose and of determination to carry out to the letter the progressive legislation passed by Parliament. The prompt decision to conduct an investigation of the alleged exercise of political patronage by the local member for West Hastings is evidence that the Civil Service Commission means business. Mr. Clarence Jamieson, a member of the board, to whose attention The Globe brought the statements of both Belleville papers regarding the matter, was emphatic in his assurance that the Commission had no knowledge of any exercise of patronage by the local member, but announced that a full inquiry would immediately be instituted.

The Aeroplane

Written for the Ontario by Chas. M. Bice, Lawyer, Denver Colorado.

A commission of British experts is now in Washington, arranging for an aerial flight across the Atlantic this summer. We recall the Wellman expedition of a decade ago and the wonderful things it was going to do to a similar end, but it became a "cropper" before it had fairly started; in experience and progress it would seem that almost a century had elapsed since Wellman was to astride the North Pole by means of his much vaunted aircraft. But now the dream of the post-novelist is coming to pass; Kipling's "Night Mail," written ten years back, will soon become a daily occurrence. If the same advances take place in Commercial Aeronautics as have characterized the four years of air warfare, Atlantic trips and a "Continental Express" by air are sure to follow peace.

Prices Soared at the Market

Strawberries Reached 30c, Eggs 45c and New Potatoes at $3. per bushel.

This morning's market was featured by high prices in many lines of offerings. The market was fairly large. Eggs led the advance. Few sold at the market below 45 cents per dozen. The opening price was 50c with many, but none sold at that figure. The production has declined very greatly in the past few weeks. Chickens were very high, selling at $1.15 to $1.75 each. The birds were of all sizes, ranging from the diminutive ones upward to adults.

Butter was regular at 50 cents per pound. New potatoes invaded the market in great numbers today, the offerings being far more plentiful than anticipated. The ruling price was $3.00 per bushel and in some cases the "spuds" sold down to $2.75. The potatoes were of good size and most of them were dry. Old potatoes at $1.50 did not sell very well in competition with the new ones, which were eagerly bought up.

Strawberries started in at 25c per box but soon struck the 30c gait. From 10 o'clock onwards not a sign of the quarter of a dollar berries could be found. The offerings were plentiful.

Back currants have arrived, they bring 20 cents per box. The supply today was fairly large. Red currants sold at 15 cents per box but only a few were offered. Green peas fetched 35c per quart. Peas have been high this year and there is little prospect of a decline in price.

Young carrots in all their paleness of the early season. Young beets, radishes, onions and so forth were for sale in large quantities at 5c per bunch.

There was a rushing of young pigs to market today. They brought $18.00 per pair. Beef is a little easier in price. Hindquarters wholesale at 18c to 20c per pound. Spring lamb is very scarce. It is worth about 45c per pound. Yearling mutton is selling at 25c.

Buckwheat is worth $1.75 per bushel and barley $1.50 to $1.60. Hides are quoting at 12c per pound. Baled hay is quoted around $13. The loose hay is offered at $15 to $17 per ton.

"Our War Declaration"

Editor Ontario, I was pleased to see in your issue of Thursday a reproduction of "Our War Declaration," from the pages of The Episcopal Recorder. Being present in the council when it was presented, I am reminded of the unity of the patriotic spirit manifested by the general enthusiastic discussion of its merits, and by its unanimous reception and adoption.

But there was an important feature of the whole affair that I escaped my notice at the time, and which presented itself to me as I read it in your copy the names of the committee to which its preparation was committed. It may be interesting to your readers to know that Rev. Dr. Russell Collins, D.D. is an American, Rev. William A. Freemantle, D.D. is an Englishman and Rev. Thomas Mason, D. D. a Canadian, born and educated in Montreal.

Gratefully yours, A. M. Hubly. Lieut. J. E. Robertson, Calgary, was recently reported wounded. John Lavin, Norwood Hotel, Winnipeg, was fined $200 on a liquor charge.

New York Hid in Fear of Air Raid by Huns

SIREN WAS TRIED OUT—THOUGHT IT WAS WARNING—SOUGHT CELLARS

New York, July 3.—Most all of the Bronx—that part of it that wasn't too scared to run—took to the cellar Monday afternoon when the huge steam siren recently installed on the roof of the American Bank Note Company's plant, in the Hunt Point section, for use in warning in case of a German air attack, sounded without warning. For fifteen minutes the huge brass-throated siren kept up a screech of calamity without pausing, until every last resident of the Bronx was trembling in fear in the darkest corner of the darkest cellars that could be found. Chaffeurs leaped from their seats on taxicabs and fled to safety, while their fares followed as rapidly as they could. Stores, hallways and private dwellings were besieged with pedestrians seeking a place to hide until the attack was over.

Police reserves piled into patrol wagons and hurried in the direction of the siren, while the uniformed police craned their necks toward the clouds in hope of obtaining sight of the enemy.

To Prevent Imposters Speaking in Public

RETURNED SOLDIERS SPEAKING IN UNITED STATES WILL HAVE TO SECURE A PERMIT FROM HEADQUARTERS

In order to guard the public in the United States against imposters in uniform participating in any public work, the Department of Militia has issued instructions that no Canadian soldier of any rank will be permitted to address a public gathering in the United States without first securing a permit from the military headquarters.

A previous regulation insisted upon soldiers in uniform in Canada securing permission from the G.O.C. their military district before they wore the uniform on a public platform, and it is now hoped that a complete check will be kept on all uniformed speakers.

Officers Need Permit

Officers on the reserve of the C.E.F. will have to secure permission before they can wear their uniform in public. When this permit has been secured they will be able to wear the uniform of the unit to which they were previously attached, with the letter "R" on the collar of their tunic below the regimental badge.

Must Not Exceed $65

Funerals of officers and men who die on active service or within the period after their retirement on discharge pay, will not be allowed to exceed $65, except in exceptional cases. The costs of the funeral may possibly be made a charge against the public, but the amount shall not exceed the local contract price.

Roll of Chevrons

The Toronto military district has been notified by Ottawa to obtain a roll of all the officers and men entitled to wear active service chevrons. Any person wearing chevrons who is not entitled to the honor is liable to $100 fine or three months in jail. Men who have received their discharge and who still desire to wear the chevrons will have to apply to the director of Records, Militia headquarters, Ottawa.

Ships From Australia

STARTING A NEW INDUSTRY—COMMONWEALTH WORKING ON SIX STANDARD SHIPS—PRODUCES ALL ESSENTIALS

Until after the outbreak of war Australia was content to depend upon Great Britain for the supply of merchant ships. Vessels of a few hundred tons burden have been built in Australian yards, but so long as steamers could be bought from Clyde and Belfast builders no one troubled to develop the industry of the Commonwealth. Submarine warfare and the requisitioning of merchant vessels by the British Government for service in other parts gradually depleted the ships available for Australian commerce, with the result that the Commonwealth now has a huge surplus of foodstuffs stored which it is unable to ship. There still remain in Australia 165,000,000 bushels of the 1915-17 wheat harvest, which, on a basis of 5,000 tons per ship, would entail the exportation of 900 shiploads before next harvest in order to clear the stocks.

This state of affairs led the prime minister, Mr. Hughes, to investigate the possibility of constructing large ocean-going vessels in Australia, and once he was satisfied that the ships could be built, not a minute was lost in starting work. It was only in September last that the Federal Ministry decided to construct merchant ships in Australia. The initial program for the building of six standard steamers has already been started.

Much Raw Material

Australia is a reservoir of all the raw material necessary for shipbuilding. Its huge deposits of iron ore are among the richest in the world. In Great Britain and Germany it takes 2.4 tons of iron ore to yield 1 ton of pig iron; in France and Belgium 2.7 tons are needed to give the same result; but in Australia only 1.5 tons of the famous Iron Knob ore are necessary to produce a ton of pig iron. An expert report supplied to the Australian Interstate Commission stated that there can be assembled at Newcastle the iron ore, coke and limestone necessary for pig iron production at a lower cost per unit than is possible for the United States Steel Corporation, the largest and cheapest producer in that country. The coalfields already being worked are of large size and yield the best quality of fuel. There is in Australia, therefore, everything necessary for the production of high-class steel on an extensive scale.

Co-Operation of Labor

In spite of all the material advantages in the shape of raw material, it should be remembered that shipbuilding is an entirely new departure for Australia, and it demanded extensive industrial mobilization. Mr. Hughes' first step was to hold a conference with the labor unions, as a result of which, agreement was reached upon the three points deemed essential to the success of the scheme. These points were: (1) continuity of operations; (2) dilution of labor; (3) piece-work. The next step was to get the working staffs together. A satisfactory number of highly skilled artisans was secured, and in passing it may be mentioned that the output of the Australian workman, when he settles down to his work, is abnormally large.

Having secured the staffs and the co-operation of the unions, the Government sought, among the shipyards of Great Britain, half a dozen leading ship constructors to direct the work. These men included a ship constructor, a yards manager, chief draughtman, and chief marine engineer. They were the best men obtainable in the United Kingdom—young men, energetic and highly trained—and the question of salary was not allowed to interfere with the selection. Once engaged, they left for Australia at a few hours' notice.

Unconventional Methods

It was found that there were in Australia a number of shipways for small vessels which, without much trouble, were capable of expansion, and the alterations necessary were pushed forward at the maximum speed. The program for the construction of six vessels makes provision for the work to be carried on in Melbourne, Sydney, Newcastle, and Queensland. It is interesting to note that within five months of the decision to build ships in Australia the work was begun. Unconventional methods have been adopted in order that the work may be pushed forward with the utmost celerity, and the first vessel will be launched during the present year.—The Times.

12 New "Policemen"

TURNING POSTS OR SILENT ONES WERE INSTALLED AT KINGSTON

Kingston.—So well have the new "silent policemen" assisted in regulating traffic and preventing accidents that Chairman O'Connor of the Board of Works ordered twelve more and they were placed in position. They have worked wonders and more are now on the way to be placed at the corners.

The additional ones were placed along Wellington Street, and one was put up at the corner of Brock and Division Streets. The ones which are expected will probably be placed around the gore at Clarence and Bagot Streets. City Engineer McClelland spoke appreciatively of the aid the "silent policemen" were to traffic. Two of the "policemen" were knocked down yesterday, one at the corner of Brock and King Streets and the other at the postoffice corner, but they were quickly replaced.

Luxurious Senators

Senate reform, in the way of wartime economy, is suggested by Auditor-General Fraser in his annual report to Parliament, as tabled in the Commons recently.

Among the several score thousand items of Government expenditure printed in the report, there is one relating to stationery supplies for the Senate. These supplies included 100 ladies' bags at $8 each, and 40 ladies' purses at $5.50 each. Mr. Fraser wrote to the clerk of the Senate, asking for what purposes these were ordered, and to whom they were supplied—"these articles appear to be out of the ordinary run of stationery supplied for Government purposes."

To this pertinent request from the "watchdog of the Treasury" the Deputy clerk of the Senate replied that "the articles referred to were purchased and distributed on the authority of the Senate," and that "the matter of the distribution of supplies is purely within the economy of the Senate, and subject to its control only."

In other words, the Auditor-General was told politely but firmly not to "butt in," and that the upper wing of Parliament ran its own show. Just to what state use the Senators—especially the bachelor ones—put the $800 worth of ladies' bags and the $200 worth of ladies' purses must be left to the imagination of the war-time taxpayers.

MELVILLE

O Canada! our native land, Today we sing of thee, Of thy long miles of mellow grain That stretch from sea to sea, Thy hazy lakes and silver streams, Thy mountain peaks that soar, Thy fruitful vales and gladdening gales.

We love them more and more, But not for all thy wondrous wealth Of grain and gold in store, Not for thy land with beauty crowned, Do we thy name adore.

But for the spirit of thy sons Who "Tyranny" defy, Those who possess the greater love And for a friend will die, —Helen B. Anderson July 1st, 1918.

Notwithstanding the din and discord of a world-war, Canadians have been permitted this week to again celebrate their country's natal day. The young people and the older ones as well as on the quiet view of the scenery and the novel event, Col. Ferguson, who has had experience in this business as proprietor of Hotel Alexandria, Wellington, hopes only to get his work fairly underway this summer, but the appreciation of his efforts in establishing a Rest Resort amid the natural beauties of Concession Lake, is evidenced by the numerous letters he has already received asking for cottage accommodation during the summer months.

The Bay Bridge

Editor Ontario.—It has often been said by business men visiting Belleville who know the conditions here existing in relation to the bridge over the river, that no community of intelligent men would hesitate for a moment to bridge the bay here with a permanent structure and that though the cost might exceed several times that of the present one which is proving altogether inadequate for present needs and besides is more costly to maintain than a thoroughly solid structure.

It may safely be asserted that there is no town in Canada if situated as Belleville is but would act at once in this matter as it would undoubtedly prove a most profitable investment for all classes both in Prince Edward and Belleville. To corroborate this opinion the writer has asked what other cities would do were they similarly situated as Belleville.

The following letter is a practical answer to this, which comes from St. Catharines, a city of the same size, which speaks for itself:

"Thos. Ritchie, Esq., Belleville, Ont. "Dear Sir— "Yours of the 15th inst. re bridge is referred to me for answer and I beg to advise you that we have built two bridges here within the last five years and on different plans of financing.

"The first was a bridge some 750 feet long and consisting of 13 concrete arches with height above water of 65 feet. This bridge was built from a street opening into the heart of the business district across the old Welland Canal to a subdivision of some 700 building lots being opened by a Realty Co. This company agreed to pay two-fifths of the cost, an area of benefit in the heart of the business district petitioned to have the bridge built and agreed to pay two-fifths of the cost and the city at large paid the remaining fifth. The bridge was built under the Local Improvement Act and the assessed cost was $140,000.00.

"The second bridge is a steel structure some 1240 feet in length built to improve the main western entrance to the city. It is 35 feet above the water 30 feet roadway and two 4 1/2' sidewalks. The bridge cost $150,000.00 and was financed by a debenture issue payable by the whole city.

WAGER—BENSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at "The Mansie", Madoc, by Rev. McTavish on Wednesday, June 13th, when Miss Nettie Benson, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Benson, of Ivanhoe, became the bride of Mr. Wesley Wager, a prosperous farmer of Fenelon Falls.

After a week's visit among friends in Ivanhoe, Frankford and vicinity, Mr. and Mrs. Wager left on Thursday, June 27th, for Fenelon Falls. "Nettie" was one of Ivanhoe's most popular young ladies and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her. She took a great interest in the Women's Institute work, and also in the League, and the place left vacant by her absence will be most difficult to fill.

On Monday evening previous to her departure, a number of her friends gathered at her home and after a short time spent in social intercourse Mrs. Wager was presented with an address and a silver butter dish and casserole, as a tangible evidence of the esteem in which she is held by her Ivanhoe friends. Mr. and Mrs. Wager made most suitable replies and a most pleasant evening was spent, at the close of which all went home wishing Mr. and Mrs. Wager the best of success and prosperity in their wedded life.

T. A. Baker, M.P. Dead

Word of His Demise is Received in Toronto—was a Prominent Pacifist.

W. D. Gregory, of Toronto, has received a cable announcing the death in England of T. Allen Baker, M.P. Mr. Baker is a Canadian by birth, being a native of Trenton, Ontario. At the age of 24, in 1876, he took up his residence in England and entered English political life, being elected to the Commons in 1900 for the constituency of East Finsbury.

Mr. Baker has always been a prominent pacifist and was an untiring worker in the pacifist cause. It was largely through his influence that the "Associated Councils of Churches" in the British and German Empires was formed which was constantly discrediting the "German war scare" before the war.

Mr. Baker never forgot his Canadian origin even though he lived in Britain 53 years, and constantly brought prominent Cabinet Ministers and members of Parliament with him on his yearly visits to his native land, to show them what a great nation Canada is.

Shell Shock Not Serious

SAYS ARMY SURGEONS.

Report Given at a Research Meeting of Army Doctors Held in Paris on Disease.

Paris, July 4.—Shell shock is not now regarded as serious by the experienced British and French army surgeons. Their experience shows that shell shock is not suffered by the best, physically sound soldiers, and that those who are afflicted either have neurotic tendencies or are otherwise suffering. Soldiers affected by shell shock are sent back to service in a short time. A report on these conclusions was given at a research meeting of army doctors held here.

Major-General Sir John Rose Bradford, consulting physician with the British expeditionary forces in France, speaking on chest wounds, said that deaths from that cause had been considerably reduced by use of new surgical methods in opening the chest for the removal of foreign matter carried into the body by the bullet. He described several experiences in the British Army selecting cases for treatment, operations or medicine.

No man or woman should hobble painfully about because of corns when so certain a relief is at hand as Holloway's Corn Cure.

This company agreed to pay two-fifths of the cost, an area of benefit in the heart of the business district petitioned to have the bridge built and agreed to pay two-fifths of the cost and the city at large paid the remaining fifth. The bridge was built under the Local Improvement Act and the assessed cost was $140,000.00.

"The second bridge is a steel structure some 1240 feet in length built to improve the main western entrance to the city. It is 35 feet above the water 30 feet roadway and two 4 1/2' sidewalks. The bridge cost $150,000.00 and was financed by a debenture issue payable by the whole city.

"I hope this is the desired information. "Yours very truly, "W. P. Near. "City Engineer."

It will be seen by the above letter that it was a company owning a number of building lots who urged the erection of the first bridge, (the concrete one across the ravine), offering to pay two-fifths of the cost as it would so increase the value of their property on the far side. Here now are built two bridges, costing two hundred and ninety thousand

IF ALLIES ARE DEFEATED IN FIELD THEN WAR WOULD JUST BEGIN

BRITISH SHIPS WILL SAVE THE WORLD IN THE FUTURE AS IN THE PAST — OLD SPIRIT OF ENGLAND STILL LIVES

L. Cope Cornford, writing in the National Review on "The Return to the Sea", says:
 "The German threat to the Channel ports has produced an alarm among the less instructed of the people of this country, only comparable with the apprehension aroused when Napoleon assembled his flat-bottomed barges in the French harbors, to bring his soldiers to England. It is even said that with the enemy in the occupation of the Channel ports, farewell to the sea power of Great Britain.

Forget British Fleet

"Such are the distempers which rightly afflict those who choose to forget the British fleet. They have their excuse, in that the late and the present governments have never expounded the principles of British maritime power. This country has no minister of the stature of Pitt, to own the knowledge and the ability to conceive of sea war and land war as parts of a whole, or to assign to each its relative importance. Before the war the official theory was that, given a powerful fleet, no land war more considerable than a frontier expedition was possible. Although that doctrine had no foundation in history or fact, it might still have been carried to its logical conclusion, which was that if the policy of England was to fight upon the sea she must make herself as strong upon the sea as the potential enemy on land. That if war broke out, it would be a national war, a war in which every resource of the nations engaged would be employed, was known. It followed that the navy must be reinforced by the whole of the national resources.

Might Have Been Averted

"But the country and the Government were so far from perceiving the necessity of waging a national sea war, if a national land war were to be dismissed from calculation, that they not only retained the small professional navy, like the small professional army, but reduced its strength, and curtailed its powers. They put all their eggs into one small basket, and even that wasn't filled.

"It is conceivable that if the country had understood that England is a maritime nation, and that its first duty was to maintain the mastery of the sea, and had accordingly provided a sufficient naval force to deal with the fleet or fleets of the enemy, to protect the trade routes, and to enforce a strict blockade, and had plainly declared its intentions in case of aggression on the part of Germany, the war might have been averted; or if not averted, won ere now by the Allies. That is a matter of opinion. England would have at least been acting on the right principle.

Neither Prepared

"But what actually happened was that neither the navy nor the army was prepared for a national war. And when the emergency came, the Government, which had consistently exhibited entire ignorance of the first principles of maritime supremacy, swung right over and turned England into a great land power. For years the country had been taught (and had believed) that England could not, need not, ought not to be both a great naval and a great military power. England became a great military power while ignoring her maritime power. True, the navy was speedily doubled and trebled, but let those gallant men who struggled and fought through the early part of the war in makeshift vessels and harborous waters, say if the navy was strong enough. It is not strong enough now. And during the first part of the war the submarine campaign had not begun. The suppression of submarine piracy is a matter of force. If enough forces be applied, the submarine can be abolished. The German submarine is the German naval expression of a national war at sea, representing at sea the methods of the German army on land.

Effect of Reduced Navy

"We may all agree at this period of the war that England was compelled in honor and by force of circumstances to raise and equip a large army to go to the help of France. But we may also recognize what is the fact, that the necessity of raising large land forces was one of the results of having previously reduced the naval forces, and of having virtually abandoned the Mediterranean, the key strategic position of the world.
 "We may even go further, and affirm that it was not unreasonable to expect that the body of educated gentlemen composing the Cabinet would then have perceived the error of neglecting maritime power, and would then, in so far as it was possible, have done their utmost to restore it, as the only condition upon which land operations could be carried into execution.

Lessons From the Sub.

"Unfortunately, that perception was denied to them. It was denied to their successors; and it was reserved for the German submarine to teach them something of the truth. The country and the Government now understand at least that they must build ships, ships of war, and ships of commerce. And the orders-in-Council of March 11, 1915, of January 10 and February 16, 1917, ordaining the prevention of enemy seaborne trade, go far towards the restoration of the maritime rights of Great Britain, deliberately surrendered by the late Government.
 "But the country, and of course its Government, which is still composed of the politicians who governed before the war, are still far from understanding the true policy of a maritime nation. They still believe that if Germany defeated the Allies in the field the war would be lost. The fact is, so far as America and this country are concerned, the war would be just beginning. Germany might dominate Europe, but the United States and Great Britain would hold the seas, as they hold them now. The mastery of the sea is partly nullified by the submarine, but the submarine, if enough men, resources and material be employed against it, can be abolished. It is a duel between land powers and sea powers, which will win? History supplies the answer. More; the events of the past six weeks supply the answer. Why is Germany compelled to force the issue? She is compelled to fight because the invisible net of sea-mastery is being drawn closer and closer about her.

Fleet Still Master

"It is perfectly true that since the Napoleonic wars, when the British fleet held the seas and carried Wellington to Waterloo, the conditions of sea warfare have altered. But they have not deprived the British fleet of the power to defeat the fleet of the enemy, to forbid his ships to sail, to capture his goods carried in neutral vessels, and to bring supplies to British ports. Germany has not taken a foot of British soil, and she has lost the whole of her colonies. She can attack England from the air, or even by long range gun; but after due retaliation what does she gain? The war of the future may be in the air; but we are dealing with the present. To defeat the Allies on land would be to strengthen them on the sea. Germany should have begun by defeating the British fleet. She will never defeat it now.

England's Strategic Position

"What is a maritime nation? It is a nation which, having no land frontiers, is neither compelled to keep a constant guard against the cupidity of its neighbors nor is tempted to encroach upon their territory. It is therefore free to devote its powers and resources to industry and to the sea. Such a country owns many and deep harbors, and is so situated that the main roads of the sea converge upon it. In respect of the sea, it will thus occupy what is strategically the interior position; inasmuch as its harbors give a ready access to the sea on all sides, as compared with the restricted seaboard of continental countries. The interior position is of a like advantage both for commerce and for war. England, facing eastward towards the Scandinavian countries, southward to Holland and France, and west and south to the Atlantic, whence the sea roads run to the far east, occupies what is potentially the most advantageous strategic position in the world.

U-Boat Given Halifax Tip?

SINISTER ASPECT OF SINKING SUGGESTED BY DESTROYER OFFICER

An Irish Port, July 2.—Every member of the little band of survivors from the Llandovery Castle is convinced the commander of the U-boat made a deliberate attempt to destroy every soul who escaped from the vessel. They believe the absence of the other boats, which were seen to leave, loaded with people, is due to this murderous action, and that they themselves owe their escape from remaining only to the darkness.

Although it was not possible to see any of the survivors, the story of the sinking of the hospital ship was told by an officer of the destroyer Lysander, which picked them up. This officer expresses the conviction that the torpedoing was deliberately done consequent upon spying information received from America, and the tale he tells bears sinister evidence in support of it.

"A very sinister phase of the whole business," said the officer of the Lysander, "is the accusation that the vessel carried eight flight officers, for it was precisely that number of officers she was intended to carry, only they were medical, and not flying officers. At the last moment the passage of one was cancelled and she took only seven, but the enemy had the number right, and the inference is that he torpedoed the vessel deliberately on information which had been received from Halifax. Read in connection with his obvious hesitation whether to sink all survivors or not, and then his apparent determination to do so, the whole thing seems very queer."

Young Officer Gets Distinction

CAPT. ALAN DUNCAN OF PORT CREDIT AWARDED MILITARY CROSS

Consistent devotion to duty during a long period with the 75th Battalion by Capt. Alan B. Duncan of Port Credit, has brought the second Military Cross to a family of fighters. Capt. Duncan, who is only twenty years of age, won his captaincy before he had reached his last birthday. His father and two brothers have also served in France. He is a son of Capt. (Rev.) George P. Duncan, who went overseas as a chaplain. The eldest son, Capt. Gordon Duncan, who went overseas with the First Contingent, fell at Festubert in May, 1915.

Capt. Alan Duncan went overseas with the 75th Battalion after training for his commission at Niagara Camp. The second oldest son, Capt. Wallace Stevenson Duncan, won the Military Cross for a daring deed at Vimy Ridge. Like his older brother, he was a medical student, and went overseas with the 126th Field County Battalion. He was invalided home last summer. The younger son, Alan, after coming unscathed through the battles of the Somme and Vimy Ridge, developed appendicitis. After his operation he became convalescent at his home here, and since his return has won the Military Cross.

Ministerial Resolution

Peterboro, July 4.—A resolution bearing on the regulation of cafes, which was passed at the meeting of the Ministerial Association, held on Monday morning, will be presented to the city council.

The Ministerial Association, while taking a firm stand for the preservation of the Sabbath, are not opposed to restaurants remaining open Sunday to provide means for the local and travelling public, but are opposed to music and other elements being permitted to enter the business on Sundays.

Died in Germany

Brockville, July 4.—W. A. Lewis has received word of the death from wounds in Germany, four days after his machine was brought down by hostile aircraft, of his nephew, Lieut. Henry Hunter Lewis, of the Royal Air Force, son of the late Dr. Fred Lewis, M.P.E., of Orangeville. Lieut. Lewis was previously reported missing and died in Germany on April 10th. He had won the Croix de Guerre for gallant service in the air force and had been overseas since 1914. Two brothers have served at the front: Lieut. W. A. Lewis, M.C. of the Royal Field Artillery, and Lieut. Ira Lewis, who was wounded at Vimy.

HUN MURDER RULE IN RUSSIA

Slav Minister Appeals to Berlin to Stop Ghastly Toll Taken by Blood-Soaked Uhlans

M. Chicherin, the Russian Commissary for Foreign Affairs, in Moscow, has addressed the following note to the German Ministry for Foreign Affairs, Berlin:

Many trustworthy eyewitnesses inform us of the terrible position of the peaceful population of the occupied regions of White Russia along the line of demarcation—of violence, pogroms, tortures, executions, and savage methods of dealing with the working classes, as well as the plundering and burning of Russian villages by German detachments. Special mention in this respect is necessary with respect to the Polish Legation.

In the village of Buda-koshelevskaja a Uhlans patrol extorted a contribution of several thousand roubles, which sum had to be paid partly in gold. It requisitioned all corn. When the peasants had paid part of the contribution and stated that they were unable to pay anything more, the Uhlans surrounded the village, fired into it with machine guns, and then set fire to it. Several hundreds of peasants have been killed, and the village is now in ruins.

Children Out into Pieces

In Zhalki, Omel, and other villages similar occurrences have taken place. Peasant women and children who have endeavored to escape from the fires, were pursued by Uhlans, cut into pieces with swords, or flogged with whips. In one village an old Jew was first flogged and then hanged in the presence of all the villagers.

In Bobruisk the fortress, the prisons, police stations, and all disciplinary establishments are full of arrested persons.

Use Illness as a Cure

PARADOXICAL IDEA REVIEWED IN MODERN MEDICAL PRACTICE, SAYS RECORD.

It seems paradoxical enough to speak of using one disease to cure another, but the science of medicine, like up-to-date literature, delights in a paradox. Says the Medical Record:

The history of mental disease from Hippocrates to Freud is full of empiricism, groping in the dark, of seeking mental effects in physical causes and in general of casting about for anything which offers the least ray of hope in an admittedly gloomy subject. Many of the old time therapeutic methods are ludicrous enough, some of them seem impossible, and not a few absolutely cruel. All were ineffectual. But it would seem that the height of empiricism was reached when the artificial production of fever was used to cure mental disease.

The Record goes on to say that the method grew out of the observation of the physicians that marked improvement in the mental condition of insane patients frequently followed severe physical illness. Thus a depressed maniac might have an attack of pneumonia and, following the crisis, come back to a cheerful and agreeable mental state.

Dr. Auld tells in the British Medical Journal of a chill and fever resembling malaria which he brought on by administering a platinum compound, and which upon subsiding left the patient in a markedly improved condition. He tried the treatment in cases of pleurisy with good result. It is especially adapted to sluggish cases of localized infection with low fever.

Un Chasseur Alpin Encounters Romance

A touch of romance and mystery attaches to the Toronto experiences of one of Les Chasseurs Alpins. While the guests of Mrs. Plunkett Magann a small group of Frenchmen were taken on a motor drive through the city, and while passing through Earlscourt a girl took a gold chain and cross from her neck and hung it, like a tribute to heroism into the hands of one of the "Diablos Bleus." And now the soldier treasures the chain and cross, but, alas, has lost the lady. "Who can she be? Where can she be found? What is her name and address? Will she not write and tell him?" he asks. This hero of both battle and romance is: M. Albert LeFranc, Depot 50, Chasseurs Alpins, Lons le Saulnier, Jura. He left Toronto yesterday afternoon, but still has hopes of hearing from his elusive admirer.

Black Bag Held $71,000 and Gems

New York, July 4.—Mrs. J. Harrison Thompson of Chicago and Mrs. Jane Riley of New York sat side by side in the waiting room of the Penna. Terminal here today.

Each had a small black bag. In Mrs. Thompson's bag were $25,000 in government bonds, $5,500 in cash and all kinds of diamond jewelry. It inventoried $71,000 altogether.

In Mrs. Riley's bag were a photograph of her son Denny in a soldier's uniform, a purse containing eight cents and the remains of a lunch.

When the Penna. Limited was called Mrs. Thompson, picked up a black bag and started for the gate. At the same time Mrs. Riley, having rested after her trip to Camp Upton, picked up a black bag and started for Seventh avenue. When Mrs. Thompson reached the gate she opened the bag to take out her tickets. "My diamonds!" she shrieked.

Station employees quickly mobilized a little amateur sleuthing led them to Mrs. Riley, walking wearily towards Seventh avenue. She was indignant when asked to open the bag she carried, but complied with the request.

"Oh, where is my Denny's picture?" she cried.

Explanations followed, each woman was given a receipt by the station master and Mrs. Thompson caught her train.

"What are diamonds compared with Denny's picture?" demanded Mrs. Riley as she handed a street car conductor five of her eight pennies in her shabby purse.

He Saved Four; Lost Own Life

Ignace, July 4.—Late Tuesday afternoon word was brought into Ignace by a young Indian of the drowning of W. A. James, Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., two of his children, Bessie and Bobby, aged respectively twelve and four, and Sammie Tait, two years of age, on Lake Accane, two miles south of here.

A party of eight, including Mr. James, his wife, father and mother, his three children, and Sammie Tait, son of James Tait of Ignace, while out in a motor launch ran on a reef and the launch almost immediately sank. Mr. James was able to save his parents, his wife and one of the children, but was drowned while trying to save the remaining three children.

Arrangements are being made to take the bodies of Mr. James and his two children east for burial.

Papers Merge at St. Thomas

TIMES AND JOURNAL TO BE ISSUED AS ONE PUBLICATION

St. Thomas, July 4.—Amalgamation of the St. Thomas Daily Times and the St. Thomas Evening Journal is officially announced, and the name of The St. Thomas Times-Journal, L. H. Dingman and F. W. Sutherland, the heads of the old companies, will be President and Vice-President, respectively, of the new company.

The announcement of the merger states that the new paper will be independent in politics, and while holding that the present or any Government is not immune from criticism, it will give at the present time sympathetic support to the Union Government on the simple ground that at this critical period in the history of the world, of the British Empire and the Dominion, it behooves every loyal and patriotic citizen to sustain the hands of the administration charged with the conduct of the war.

The paper will be published from the building occupied by The Times while the job printing departments will be merged under the name of the Sutherland Printing Company, with F. W. Sutherland as President and L. H. Dingman as Vice-President, and will have quarters in the Journal building.

Lieut. Cayley Thought to be in Germany

Lieut. A. B. Cayley, the son of the Rev. E. C. Cayley, who has been missing since April 9th, is now thought to be a prisoner in hospital at Cologne. His father received a letter from Messrs. Cox & Co., the military bankers, stating that they had received a cheque from him dated from Cologne, apparently signed with his left hand.

Our War Declaration

(Episcopal Recorder)

On behalf of the committee appointed to draft it, the Rev. Dr. Collins presented the following declaration to the General Council, which, upon motion of Bishop Rudolph, seconded by Rev. Dr. Wilson, was unanimously adopted; and upon a second motion of Bishop Rudolph, copies were ordered to be sent to the President of the United States and to the Governor-General of Canada:

Mr. President:

The Committee appointed to draft a Declaration of the Position of the Reformed Episcopal Church in relation to the present world war, in which our respective Governments are engaged, respectfully presents the following:

The General Council of the Reformed Episcopal Church in the United States and British America, in convention assembled, in the City of Philadelphia, on the eighteenth day of May, 1918, records upon its minutes, by unanimous vote, the following declaration:

Our blessed Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, gave no promise that His Church should enjoy peace during her career on earth, save "the peace of God which passeth all understanding," in the redeemed soul, until his second appearing to establish the lasting peace of His kingdom.

On the contrary, He distinctly forewarned His Church that there should be "wars and rumors of wars," and that "nation should rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom."

And although He declared that "they that take the sword shall perish with the sword," He also admonished His disciples, "But now, he that hath a purse, let him take it and likewise his scrip, and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment and buy one."

He also declared, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

We find in these, and many other scriptures, clearly defined the duty of the Church when wicked and cruel war is waged in the earth.

Whereas, therefore, Germany, her rulers and her people, and the nations allied with her in wickedness, have abandoned and blasphemed God, denying the truth, preaching and teaching the philosophy of evil, have uplifted the banner of Satan in the world, and marshalling their hosts under his captaincy, have unsheathed the sword of wickedness, whereby they must perish; and

Whereas, these wicked nations have waged a war of the most barbarous and unspeakable cruelty upon unoffending and defenseless nations, upon innocent, peaceful, non-combatant civilians, upon churches, schools, hospitals and institutions of benevolence, upon the helpless aged, and upon women, children and babes; and

Whereas these ruthless hordes, disregarding all the recognized laws of warfare, agreed to by civilized nations, all the laws of humanity, as well as every law of God, have drenched the soil of peaceful lands in the blood of the innocent and helpless, inflicting upon them such monstrous and diabolical tortures as the world has rarely, heretofore, beheld, overwhelming the souls of the just with horror indescribable; and

Whereas the blood of millions slain cries to God for vengeance, and the cry of the afflicted, the starving and perishing, the maimed and suffering, the bereaved, the widow, the orphan, the homeless and friendless, comes piteously to the ears of the strong, and, above all, to the Church of God;

Therefore, it becomes the manifest duty of the Church of our Lord Jesus Christ to heed their cry, not only to bear the burdens of the weak through her usual methods of benevolence, but to sell even what she hath, and to buy and wield the sword of the defender against the sword of the tyrant, to rescue the perishing, and to protect those who are in danger.

And whereas the civilized and professedly Christian nations of the earth, unwillingly forced into the field of battle, have justly allied themselves together to oppose and disarm these evil hordes and rescue suffering and perishing humanity, it becomes the duty of the Church of Jesus Christ, more than of any others, to give her most loyal support and her every possible help to these several Governments, under whose protection she dwells and enjoys freedom.

Therefore, the Reformed Episcopal Church, having already done so in fact and in action, now, formally, in her highest legislative Council, pledges her loyalty to the respective Governments of which she comprises a part, in their prosecution of this war of righteousness on their behalf. She pledges to these, and their allied nations, her every possible service, her young men, her young women, her old men and her old women, her boys and her girls, their service in the field of battle and at home, their worldly goods and their lives, if the need be, in the bringing of victory to the arms of the just, and in the crushing to the dust, the arms of the wicked.

If, in the providence of God, it be required, we shall lay down our lives for our friends and for humanity.

And, above all, the Reformed Episcopal Church pledges her unceasing prayers to the God of all mercy, who hears the prayers of His servants, and He shall speedily bring to Himself the victory, and glorify Himself and His servants whose lives are consecrated upon His altar, and bring again peace to the world, that men may serve Him in the happy pursuit of their peaceful callings.

Press for Probe of Guelph Affair

Ottawa, July 9.—The co-operation of Ottawa is being asked in connection with the demand for an investigation as to the alleged evasion of the Military Service Act in the Jesuit Novitiate at Guelph.

The Rev. K. H. Palmer, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church there, who first gave publicity to the matter, is in Ottawa. When seen today, he stated that he had come to Ottawa to see one or two ministers and also to secure legal opinions on certain phases of the question.

"The best people in the Dominion are behind the demand for an investigation, and one will have to be held," was the statement made by Mr. Palmer. He also stated that the very best legal advice is that the Military Service Act is being evaded, and that there is every reason for an investigation.

The Roman Catholics are as much interested in the case, as are the Protestants, said Mr. Palmer. "This is not a religious row; it is not a matter of Protestant versus Roman Catholic. The first complaint that the Military Service Act was being evaded by the Jesuit Novitiate came from a Roman Catholic who had a son at the front. Another Roman Catholic had boasted to him that he knew how to evade the Act, and that he had a son in the college. The Roman Catholic with the son overseas reported to the military representative, and the information in turn came to me."

Bishop Fallon Not Araid at Front

WAS VERY ANXIOUS TO SEE THE TRENCHES.

Was Proud of the Canadian Troops

Douglas S. Robertson sends the Toronto Telegram the following letter telling of Bishop Fallon's visit to France.

Canadian Front, France.—It was under the spreading trees of a French park that I met Bishop Fallon, of London, Ont., on his visit to the front. His tall figure, in dark canonicals, stood out in strong contrast to the array of uniforms and the khaki-clad forms of the Roman Catholic chaplains accompanying him. As the bishop remarked, one might almost have been on some fine English estate rather than out in the war zone.

"I am just filled with enthusiasm with what I have so far seen of our troops," declared the prelate. "It makes one proud to claim them as fellow-countrymen. A talk with their commander is as good as a tonic for anyone. No wonder the men think the world of him. Yes, I am very anxious to see the trenches."

No Qualms.

"There are some pretty warm corners along the front," suggested your correspondent.

"Oh, don't imagine that I have any qualms about venturing in," protested the bishop with a smile. "I am not afraid. I intend to see anything and everything that I possibly can before I go back, and I want to stay over here in France just as long as I can be permitted. You cannot imagine how much I am enjoying my visit."

Thus spoke the man who in his day was one of the finest Rugby football players in Canada. His spirit is just as keen as ever. It was in years gone by at Ottawa College, and his body almost as muscular. A day or two later the bishop was seen riding down the roads in an armored car.

Felt Like a General

"You know, I just felt like a general commanding an army," remarked the distinguished cleric to a friend with boyish enthusiasm. "I wouldn't have changed places with anyone in the finest automobile. On the way I passed an old soldier friend I hadn't seen for twenty years. I am going to look him up, but I really couldn't stop then, I felt as though we were off to charge the enemy."

If Father Fallon had not gone into the Church and become a bishop, he would assuredly have been at least a brigadier in the Canadian army by this time. As it was the militant side of the big clergyman has had to find expression in games and in his sturdy inflexible attitude on certain great questions. A notable instance was his earnest appeal to his people to support the Union Government and conscription.

A schoolboy at the time of the Russo-Turkish war, the bishop recounted to an old friend at the front a half-forgotten instance of his intense interest in that struggle, in which Britain's sympathy was with the under dog, Turkey, which repaid her by turning upon her in the present war. In front of the Fallon residence in an Ontario town was a long narrow plank sidewalk, whose sides were bordered thickly with thistles.

On one side the thistles greatly outnumbered those on the opposite side. Down this walk it was young Fallon's delight to stride with a stick, switching savagely at the thistles on the side where they swarmed.

the Russian side. Every blow meant a dumpton in the strength of the Russian hordes, every despatch of a burly Scotch thistle the behead of a Russian general.

"I saw the bishop starting out on his way to the trenches. He had doffed his soft broad-brimmed black hat for a tweed cap, and sat back in the car with a friend. He wore a pair of motor goggles on his face, which was well tanned with sun and wind. The bishop has literally scores of friends to look up, and had then asked for an extension of his pass. Afterwards he hoped to visit the French front, and then, when he got back to England, to visit Ireland.

HOW EVERY AMERICAN POURS OUT HIS OR HER MONEY FOR NATIONAL FUND

Valliant, Okla., June 30, 1918.

Editor Ontario.—Again it is Sunday, and a cool breeze blowing out of the north makes of today a glad and happy rest from the burning heat that has scorched the Southwest for the last fifteen days.

Again we are in the throes of a mighty campaign, this time for the W. S. S., or War Saving Stamps. Simultaneously the people met on Friday, the 28th inst., in all of the hundreds of thousands of school districts through this great land, to help the Government in its great effort to raise a few billions of dollars for war purposes; and it would have made the old brute of Berlin grant with disgust to see the manner in which the American people responded to the call of their President.

Merchants closed their stores, bankers closed their doors, farmers left their fields—in fact every other line of business was shut down temporarily that the men, women and children might have a chance to get together and show in a material way how much they loved humanity and how strongly they were willing to back up the heroes who stand on the battlefields of Europe in defense of all that we hold sacred and dear.

You will probably have heard the response before this article reaches you, and though I do not know the result now, I again am going to prophesy by saying that we will double what the President asks.

And yet all of the citizens are not yet nerved up to the high point of patriotism which we desire. You should have seen men, women and children giving their best pledges and putting up their cash. With many of them, the giving was a very keen sacrifice, yet the brave resolve they were indicated the high resolve of their hearts that the free peoples of the earth should never yield to the Hun, while the heartbeats of freedom gave evidence of love and life. Some tightwads did not fork over their share and we will see them later with yellow cards to correspond to their yellow souls, and before we quit them Uncle Sam will get what he demands or we will stamp Germany on their traitor faces with hot irons.

The American people are in a dead earnest, and that spirit of high resolve is getting more earnest and deadly every hour that passes. All of our strength in men, money and material, all of our genius, energy and courage will be given, if necessary, to win the war for mankind everywhere, and America can fight, if necessary, for a hundred years, in a cause like this. Last year, American farmers produced a fourteen-billion dollar crop. This year we have a seventeen-billion dollar crop in sight.

Corn and cotton throughout this region look wonderfully fine. Oats and wheat surpassed all expectations, and all other crops glow with promise of immense yields. We are determined to feed ourselves and our allies, and everything now indicates that there will be plenty for all.

Hasn't Italy done splendidly! Caesar and Pompey are once more in the ranks of Rome and the spirit of Garibaldi shines in all the great deeds on the shores of the Piave.

I suppose, of course, that the Kaiser will make another smash or two in the west, but the whole world outside of Germany knows that the doom of the Central Powers is already written on the wall of defeat and shame.

I have been trying to guess as to what kind of a stunt the Yanks will pull off in France on the Fourth of July. One thing sure is that they will not explode blank cartridges as they do at home.

I hope that Russia will get back in this splendid game, for the Allies can never sleep well if they let the infernal Hun subdue those immense fields to their sordid purposes. I believe that we will smother the Kaiser and his accursed war beard before the snow flies again; but if it takes forever, we will never quit till the world is safe for democracy.

Submarine Captured

Portsmouth, Va., July 5.—Capture of the German submarine which sank the American transport President Lincoln, was announced in a telegram received yesterday from Lieut. Edouard Victor Isaac, U.S.N., who was taken prisoner by the Germans, when the transport was sent down. Isaac telegraphed that he was safe in England.

Risked His Life for $8 a Day

FRENCH EXECUTE SWISS WHO WROTE LETTERS IN INVISIBLE INK

Paris, July 5.—Henri Nivergelt, twenty-seven years old, a spy caught attempting to communicate with German agents in Mollis, Switzerland, by means of a letter written in invisible ink, has been executed recently at Vincennes. It has been announced that he was discovered that besides the intercepted letter he had passed information to Germany at other times, sometimes through Mollis.

Nivergelt was a Swiss, born in Zurich, hence was not actuated by any love of Germany or hatred of France. His only motive, so far as inquisitors were able to learn, was to earn what seemed to him the remarkable wage of $8 per day.

He went to his death calmly, refusing to let them blind his eyes.

New Draft Treaty Effective Shortly

SIXTY DAYS ALLOWED CANADIANS AND AMERICANS TO ENLIST IN THEIR RESPECTIVE FORCES

Ottawa, July 5.—With the formal change of notes expected within a few days, the Slakers' Treaty with the United States will come into effect. Then, following sixty days of grace, Canadians resident in the United States, and Americans resident in Canada, are respectively liable to draft for military service. Preparations for proceeding under the terms of the treaty have already been made at Ottawa.

As originally drafted, the treaty was applicable to Canadians of between 20 and 40 years of age, and to Americans of between 21 and 30. This has, however, been modified. As it stands, it applies to Canadians between 20 and 44, and to Americans of between 21 and 30, with the further provision that should the United States extend its age limits for compulsory military service, the extension will also apply to men liable to draft under the treaty.

The sixty days' grace are allowed to permit Americans and Canadians, desirous of so doing, to enlist in the military forces of their own country.

None But Winner is Authorized to Wear Decoration

Ottawa, July 5.—The only person authorized to wear a decoration or medal, or the ribbon thereof, is the soldier to whom the distinction is awarded.

This information has been issued by the Militia Department in answer to a large number of persons who have been inquiring as to whether relatives of deceased soldiers have the right to wear decorations awarded to these soldiers.

Nephews and Nieces Inherit Residue of Montreal Manufacturer's Estate

An equity of $2,564 in a lot on Roncesvalles avenue, 65 shares Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada, valued at $1,755, and 47 Canadian Northwest Land Co. $1,850, make up the Ontario estate of Thomas Peck, a manufacturer, who died in Montreal, September 5, 1917. The estate, valued at $344,044, consists of $166,153 in real estate, $3,707 in cash, $283,651 stocks, of which the deceased's interest in the Peck Rolling Mills are valued at $187,500, and $11,534 in miscellaneous assets. After providing cash legacies of $4,000 and $8,000 respectively, for his grand-nephews, Edmond and Henry Peck, $500 for Mrs. Edward O'Reilly, a priest in Montreal, $1,000 each for his sisters, Mrs. A. A. Farley, Belleville, and Mrs. J. J. Farley, Belleville, the testator left two-thirds of his stock in the Peck Rolling Mills to his nephew, Thomas E. Peck, and the remaining one-third to his nephew, James Bannan Peck, now on active service. The income from the residue was left to Mrs. James H. Peck, sister-in-law, but she has renounced her life interest, and the residue will go to a niece, five nephews and two grand-nieces living in Montreal.

Sergt. W. A. Still, of Winnipeg, after three years' overseas, had a leave of only sixty hours in Winnipeg before returning to France.

Winnipeg had seventy-six registration booths.

Girl Student Teaching Berne From Berlin Toll of Conditions as They Appeared to Her in Prussian Capital

The London Daily News special correspondent at Berne, Mr. J. C. Segure, sends the following:

A girl student who recently reached here from Berlin has given me some haphazard impressions on German conditions. "A large proportion of the 4,000 students at present registered at Berlin University," she said, "are women and maimed men. The lecture halls sometimes present an extraordinary spectacle. I have seen a one-armed professor lecturing before blind students, students with artificial noses and wooden legs, students who were deaf in one ear. Some of the professors indulge in patriotic fireworks, others preserve a praiseworthy objectivity. On the day on which the great offensive began a professor of philosophy whose lectures I attended bashed his hand down upon the desk and shouted: "Now they will see what furor Teutonicus is."

On the other hand, the eminent historian, Professor Meineker, delivered a course of lectures upon the period 1815-1848, and not only said many hard things about German policy but spoke in terms of praise of some of the British statesmen of that epoch.

Hungry Berlin

The students, like the general body of the population, suffer acutely from hunger. I frequently saw girls faint from sheer weakness during the lectures. Food conditions in Berlin and other cities have certainly reached an intolerable point, whereas in Bavarian country districts food is comparatively abundant. The working-class women in Berlin feel great bitterness about the prolongation of the war. I once heard a woman say: "Every time I put my children to bed I pray God they may never awake." My landlady spent a great portion of the day drinking coffee substitute. She told me that it kept the pangs of hunger away.

The extraordinarily perfect spy system which is now in force throughout Germany prevents free expression of sentiments among the people. They know that the Berlin prisons are crowded with men and women who have been overheard to speak against the Kaiser, the Government, Hindenburg, and the Pan-Germans.

I spent some considerable time at Munich, and was surprised to note the growing hostility towards the Prussians. All sorts of rumors circulate and, owing to the nervousness of the people, find ready credence. "Is it true they have deposed the Kaiser?" a peasant woman asked me. Circumstantial reports about attempts upon the life of the Emperor or Crown Prince crop up from time to time. Sometimes one hears that the bullet killed the Imperial chasseur, sometimes the Crown Prince's aide-de-camp.

Even among the Bavarian peasants religion is losing its hold and morality is slackening. "I have lost my husband, and am left with seven small children," one woman said to me, adding bitterly, "Is there such a thing as Divine justice?" After food, the lack of soap causes great discomfort. Soap in Germany at the moment would probably fetch its weight in gold.

In Memoriam

An impressive service in memory of the late Nurse Bessie Humphreys was held on Sunday evening at the Salvation Army Citadel. The hall was suitably decorated with purple and black hunting, ferns and Union Jacks. The music was in keeping with the occasion. Tributes to the whole-hearted zeal and devotion to others possessed by Miss Humphreys were paid by Mr. W. Harris and Mr. Willerton and by Mrs. B. W. Brown. Mrs. Brown, with whom nurse Humphreys had lived for the past twenty-four years referred to her salty home life.

Adjutant Trickey addressed the congregation, which completely filled the large hall, on the words of Zephaniah I 14 "The Great Day of the Lord is near, it is near and hasteth greatly." A number of children from the Sunday School, dressed in white sang "There is a Happy Land, Far, Far Away."

A letter was read from Mrs. Commissioner Richards of Toronto, who referred to the work of Nurse Humphreys in connection with the Women's Home League and their work for the men overseas.

At the after-meeting there were nine who came to the altar expressing a desire to fill the gap that had been made by the death of this earnest Christian worker.

No man or woman should hobble painfully about because of corns when so certain a relief is at hand as Hollar's Corn Cure.
