Both of these duties were put in a strong way, in an emphatic way, if you will not misunderstand me, in an exaggerated way. It is the habit of all public speakers to use this methor in enforcing arguments. Christ used it when He said, "if thine hand oftend thee, cut it off and cast it from thee,' and likewise you will recall He spoke of the foot and of the eye. LONDON POST SAYS ASQUITH -

Attacks Him Bitterly, Suggesting That Other Leaders May Make Success.

London, Oct. 26.-An editorial ernment with the formation of new opposition party. The editorial comments on the delay "in jettisoning" the declaration of London, which provides that the character of a vessel is determined by the flag she is entitled to fly, and on the govern ment's failure to adopt suggestion for a smaller and less unwieldy cab inet so as to get away from the pres ent alleged tendency toward conscription. It goes on to say:

"Yet we seem to remember a time when Asquith showed energy, fire determination, dash, when he drove peers out of their entrenchments. If ne would show again the German now something of that old energy, skill and resource, his government would be more respected and his cause more prosperous. What reputation he might reap if his country were more dear to him than his ease. But if the past is beyond him let him hand it over to others.

"Reduction of the cabinet for example-it is necessary reform without which there is no hope of a satisfactory handling of the war. If this is not done there are those who will place the truth before parliament and the country. They will have to create a national party which will oppose the government and fight it even in the midst of war to get reforms necessary if this country is to win.'

Circular brown patches on the green field were the only indications at noon yesterday that there had been a camp on that part of the common occupied by the 37th Overseas Battalion. These bare spots represented the floors of the little tents in which some eleven hundred men had lived during the summer months. In these tents many a youth had his first experiences of soldier's life, and was by a process of Spartan discipline transformed from a peaceful civilian into men as they struck their tents and packed their baggage for a march which was to be their last on Canadian in the mightiest struggle the world has ever known. "In Times Like These" By Nellie L. McClung

Mrs. McClung is one of Canada's most distinguished leaders in the cause of women. In response to repeated requests she has set down her opinions on many of the vital topics of the day-sane pinions, temperately expressed, illustrated by humorous and pathetic incidents and anecdotes, based upon her broad experience in fighting for decency and the safety of the home. She declares war on snobbishness, meanness, petty jealousies, all forms of special privilege and greed. She offers strong protests against the liquor traffic, white slave trade, ignorance, luxury, laziness and indiffer-

It must not be thought that any overwhelming desire for title or exalted position for themselves or for their expected child actuated Colonel Stanley and his fair young wife. In fact, the colonel was not only contented but proud in his position as head of the Stanley family in America and master of Stanley hall. It was only the grasping snobbery of his cousin that had led the colonel to encourage the hope that his wife might bear a son to cheat his kinsman foe of his hopes.

For the proud elder branch of the Stanleys-the Lords Stanley of Warwickshire, England-only survived in the person of a testy old bachelor invalid. Paris, Oct. 26.-2.30 p.m.-Fighting has continued in the Champagne dis-trict at La Courtine with limited fluctuations, according to the anannouncement made by the French war office this afternoon. The stubborn resistance and the offensive activity of the French troops checked the counter-attacks of the Germans,

The text of the statement follows: "The close fight ng in the Champagn district has continued in the vicinity of the position known as La Courtine, and the fluctuations of the tide o tice will be postponed until Tuesday area. The stubborn resistance of our troops and their immediate return to the offensive were successful in breaking the counter-attacks of the enemy.
