According to Mr. Sidney Lee, the Kes According to Mr. Sidney Lee, the Kesselstadt death mask of Shakespeare was discovred by Dr. Ludwig Becker, the librarian at the ducal palace at Darmstadt, in a rag shop at Mayence in 1849. The features resemble those of an alleged portrait of Shakespeare (dated 1637), which Dr. Becker purchased in 1847. This picture has long been in the possession of the family of Count Francis von Kesselstadt, of Mayence, who died in 1843. Dr. Becker brought the mask and the picture to England in 1849, and Richard picture to England in 1849, and Richard Owen supported the theory that the mask was taken from Shakespeare's face after death, and was the foundation of the bust in Stratford church. The mask was for a long time in Dr. Becker's private apartments at the ducal pala Darmstadt; it is now the property of Frau Oberst Becker, the discoverer's daughter-in-law, and is in her residence at Darmstadt. The features are singularly attractive, but Mr. Lee does not regard the chain of evidence which would identify them with Shakespeare as com-

The Cession of Territory and Possession of Interned Shins

Still Unsettled—Envoys Will Consult Their Governments.

A Portsmouth, N. H., report: To-morrow the peace conference will be adjourned until Monday to give the Russian and the Japanese envoys the op portunity of communicating with their Governments. Judged by to-day's developments and an expected repetition to-morrow, Monday's meeting will bring matters to a head, and the world will probably soon know whether there is to be peace or a continuation of the war in the Far East. Both sides have refused to compromise on, the matter of indemnity, the one great stumbling block to a successful termination of the current negotiations. Other points of With Generals He Protests Peace Terms difference exist also, but on the subject of Japan's demand that she be remunerated by Russia for the costs of the war there is a hard and fast deadlock.

In that lies the danger of absolute failure, and from all outward appearances the prospects of a happy ending are not the best. To-night the gossip in the lobby, the baliroom, and the corridors of the Wentworth, where the peace plenipotentiaries and their suites are stopping is that the whole thing is over. It is maintained that the Russian complexity are stopping to the control of the cont sian commissioners came here fully de-termined not to make an agreement. They are accused of having played the game merely to ascertain the Japanese conditions. It is maintained that if the President of the United States had not insisted upon it they would not have come at all.

Abandoning the field of speculation, for speculation is a dangerous thing in these critical hours, when the peace of a considerable portion of the world are now having their turn in the festiviseems to hang in the balance, there is ties prepared for them by the citizens tions. The main point discussed was the remuneration proposal of Japan. Each side clung tenaciously to its posi-tion, and it became apparent that there question of Japan's demand for the possession of the Russian ships in-tered at American and Chinese ports, but there was such a divergence of views that the envoys decided to lay it aside temporarily, without recording that they were unable to agree. There was some discussion of Japan's insistence upon the limitation of Russia's naval armament in the Far Eastern waters, but this had not been concluded when the conference was adjourned for the day.

some who may find cause for hope in the fact that the Japanese demand for the formal cession of Sag-halien Island, which they claimed by of conquest, has been practically According to the under-obtained to-day, the Russtandin sians have virtually consented to Ja-panese limited possession of Sagha-lin, but under the condition that it shall not be fortified or used as a base of naval operations. However, there apparently no absolute compromise yet arranged, and the Saghalin demands, which is article 5 of the Japanese conditions, will be taken up again when the envoys come to consider, in consolidated and correlated form, the points upon which discuss the control of the second cruiser squadron, with the exception of the commanding officers and the petty officers, are all young men under 25 years of age, and a splendid aggregation of British manhood. points upon which divergence of view

The importance of the virtual under standing as to the disposition of the territorial conquest of the Japanese cannot be overestimated under presconditions. From the first the Russians have maintained that they would never surrender an inch of ter their enemy, and when the subject of Saghalin was reached i the exchanges there were many who believed, and honestly believed, that the good ship of peace had gone on the rocks. It was here that a crisis sense of the plezipotentiaries in agreeing to leave the question for fu ture discussion. Later on it appears both sides found means of coming to gether, and while they have not for nally entered into an agreement as to his particular matter, it seems now as if the very important question of territorial cession would be compro-

Conciliation Methods.

Another thing, too, shows that th of conciliation in the discussion of points upon which it was believed neither would give way. The Japanese demand for the possession of the Eastern Chinese Railway, that Manchurian enterprise of Russia's, which had more to do, perhaps, than anything else in bringing about the present disastrous war, was also regarded as one of the worst stumbling blocks in the pathwa successful negotiation. Yesterda evoys, to the surprise of all thos of successful on the outside, managed to reach an agreement that the portion of this railway running from Vladivostock to a point ten miles from Harbin should be under Russian control and the portion from that point mentioned to Port Arthur should be under Japanese conrelated to the rights of persons who he could now be living in a mansion on had subscribed for bond issues to build Fifth avenue."

the railway line, which means a substantial concession from the Japanese stantial concession from the Japanese side.

The worst feature of the situation is the deadlock upon the question of indemnity. M. de Witte apparently believes that there is no hope of a compromise. His instructions from St. Petersburg are all in line with the original Russian programme, that not a penny must be paid to Japan to secure immunity from further hostities on the part of the victorious army of Oyama. The Russian envoys think they have already gone far enough to satisfy the most exacting enemy who had won many battles but had not conquered. They believe that Japan will not be satisfied with less than the payment of several hundred million dollars by Russia, and they vow and declare that not a cent of this shall be paid.

As for the Japanese, it is contended

As for the Japanese, it is contended they are equally determined to go on with the war if Russia does not consent to remunerate them for what they have spent in prosecuting the conflict. Japan must have money, it is held, and her only way to secure it is at the expense of her opponent. If the Russians are as firm as they say they are in their decision not to pay indemnity, and the Japanese as firm as they are represented to be in their decision to adhere to their demand for payment, then the jig is up, and there will be

GRAND NAVAL PARADE.

Two Thousand Men Landed Ffom the Fleet.

Quebec, Aug. 21.-The petty officers and men of the second cruiser squadron seems to hang in the balance, there is enough of fact at brand to give some intelligent idea of the situation.

To-day's developments marked the beginning of the crisis in the negotiations. The main point discussed was the remuneration proposal of Japan. carriages were landed from the warships and hauled up Mountain Hill to the Dufferin Terrace to await the disem-barkment of the sailors and marines, at this time. Then came two thousand in number, out of the four thousand men on the ships. The disembarkment and re-embarkment of the im mense complement of men was a sigh well worth seeing. At 9.30 o'clock a steam launch towing three boats took without recording position at the ship's gangways, when the men, carrying small arms, jumped on board with the alacrity of monkeys, and in less than half an hour they were landed and in line on the King's wharf, when, headed by the band of the flagod when the conference was adjourned for the day.

THE PRICE OF PEACHES.

Growers Say It Will Not Be so Low After All.

A St. Catharines report: Some of the leading growers around here state that the report with regard to the heavy peach crop in the Niagara District was somewhat misleading. One grower put it this way to-day:
"Whereas there is a splendid crop of peaches in proportion to the number of peach trees, the hard winters of late and San Jose scale have thinned out the trees in a most alarming degree. Today there is hardly one healthy peach day there is hardly one neathly peach tree standing, where several years ago there were ten. People who expect to get peaches cheaper than last year will be disappointed. While the yield, acg to the acreage, is large, in my to go around. There are about twice as many canning factories doing business this year as there were two years ago. That makes a big difference."

Rye—The yield per acre is above the average, and the gain is of good quality.
Peas—During the last four or five years the acreage of peas in this Province has shrunk by about one-half, owning to the returns of the pea, wearil or ing to the ravages of the pea-weevil, or, as it is commonly called, "the bug." This season, happily, the pest is mentioned only to tell of its absence. The crop has been injured more or less by rain, never theless the yield per acre will run over an average Tobacco—Although the plant suffered considerably from wet weather early in the season, it made a good recovery, and its general condition was classed as good by most of those who reported on it. Pasture and Live Stock—Live stock of all classes were doing well. Immense quantities of both butter and cheese have been made, but very little of either ar-ticle remains in the hands of manufacturers. The creamery industry appears to be still growing in favor.

Corn-The very favorable weather of July brought growth along with a bound and it is now likely that corn fields will have a full yield. Correspondents are generally of the opinion that corn for the silo will be relatively ahead of cob corn in yield.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President of the A. F. L., was received with enthusiasm. He counted himself fortunate in being present at a meeting which promised the crystallization of the eight-hour day. Passin isted in the day. Passing over the evils that existed in the earlier days of the printing business, the President pointed out that the A. F. L. convention at San Francisco had given enthusiastic sup-port to this movement. While professing the utmost respect for President Ellis of the Typothetae of America, he took issue with him that the reduction of hours meant ruin to the employers The adoption of the nine-hour day had not injuriously affected them. "Once your declaration is made to the world it would be absolutely ruinous to change that resolution in one particu-lar," he said. "Men are taken at their lar," he said. "Men are taken at their word so long as their word is known to be dependable. Once made your resolution must be kept." A historical reference was made to the success of the eight-hour movement in other trades affiliated with the A. F. L., and he de-clared that employers generally learn best after a contest how much best after a contest now much classical afford to pay labor. Let a contest be waged and in ninety-nine cases out of one hundred they would gladly have wished themselves back to the time of negotiations. Preparation for a contest was the safest way to save labor from it. In conclusion, he promised the convention that if they had to make a fight for it the American Federation would give its support.

LIGHTNING AND BARNS.

Seeking Moisture, It Hits Where Green Hay Lies.

A Toronto report: Why are so many barns struck by lightning these days?" was the query put to Mr. F. L. Blake, as tronomical officer at the Observatory. last night.

"I am not sure there are more than there used to be," Mr. Blake replied. "The impression that there are may be due to greater publicity given to the occurrences. You may have noticed occurrences. You may have noticed that more barns than houses are burned by lightning. I think that is because the barns generaly contain hay and grain, which are moist to a certain de-tent, and the moisture attracts lightning because it is a good conductor. On the other hand, houses are dry, Lightning rods are a good protection if they numerous enough, and have good ground connections."

"Is it of any value to have trees near a barn? "Well, lightning usually strikes a tree ecause it contains sap, which is moisure. The denuding of the forests, I think, may increase the danger from lightning, as it makes the air drier. Lightning is simply an accumulation of electricity in the air seeking the other pole, and in doing so it comes down convenient medium. in Smith's Falls. Rev. Mr. Conley of Vanleek Hill, former pastor of this place, was here on Friday and attended the funeral of Mrs. Haskins.

The tuneral of the late Mrs. Dr. Haskins of Plessis, N. Y. was held in the Methodist church on Friday. She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. R. Richards and was born and brought up here. About fourteen months ago she was married to Dr. Haskins and went to Plessis to live and during her short stay made many friends. Her pastor, the Rev. Mr. Snowdon, came with the friends and preached the funeral service. He spoke very highly of her interest in church work there. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband and an infant son; Mrs. Robinson of Brockville and Mrs. Edmunds of Toronto spent a few pathy of the whole community in their sad bereavement. They do not mourn as those without hope—she left her testi-mony behind her that she was ready.

Diminished Vitality

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality.

They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends. Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, strength and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer. FUNERAL OF THE LATE MRS. HASKINS

MANY EVIDENCES OF RESPECT .- MANY FLORAL OFFERINGS -LARGELY ATTENDED

Of the many sad events that have occurred in this section, that of the death of Mrs. (Dr.) Byron Haskins, is perhaps one of the saddest that has betallen the peaceful hamlet of Frank ville in years. Mrs. Haskins was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Richards, and was the most popular voung lady here. As an educator, both in public and Sabbath schools, she had few equals, and as a member of the choir and Church none were more sincere and God-fearing than she Her endeavor was always to lighten the burden of someone less fortunate than she, not only by sympathy but by word and deed.

About fourteen months ago she was married to Dr. Byron Haskins, and life's pathway seemed paved with nothing but happiness, but a divine providence had need of her and called her to her heavenly home, in the midst of a bright and useful career.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Snowden of Plessis, N. Y., in the presence of a large concourse of sympathizing friends, and assisted by Revs. Burnett of Addison and Conley of Vanleek Hill. At the conclus ion of the service the remains were interred in the family plot at Lehigh cemetery. Six little maidens dressed in white and bearing wreaths-Misses the local nine in a very one-sided game Johnston, and Geraldine and — Rich Jones, Leverette, Vera Johnston, Lole ards-preceded the bier. in how high respect the deceased was held:—Wreath, I.O.O.F., of Plessis, N. Y.; wreath, Dr. Dixon; a magnificent pillow by Frankville friends; spray of white asters, etc, M. LOOKS LIKE A FRAUD -A few weeks ago there appeared in several papers a request for information conerning the Merrick family of Leeds County. There was supposed to be a fortune awaiting the lucky heir. It now transpires that Dr. S. S. South-worth of Bolinas, Cal, saw the item, and communicated with the police of San Francisco for information, and has received a reply expressing surprise that such an enquiry should be made. It certainly has every appearance of being a swindler's trick to practice a fraud upon those who answered the advertisement. Bullis, one of our enterprising townsmen, shipped a number a month ago—seven of which he knew had heaves or rupture of the cells of the lungs. A few days ago he received word from his son that three of them appeared perfectly sound and the other four were better. Mr. Bullis intends soon to make his sixth trip out there, his former visits have made him enthusiastic over that country.

What Flour Granulation Means in Bread-Making

Flour is composed of myriads of tiny granules.

To make good bread these granules must be uniform in size.

In poorly milled flour some granules are large, some small.

The small ones absorb yeast, "rise" and "ripen" before the large onesthe result is bread of coarse, poor

The large granules are not developed into "sponge," they bake into heavy hard particles, spoil the texture of the bread and make it harder to digest.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is perfectly milled-all the flour granules are uniform in size—the sponge rises uniformly—the bread is even in texture - perfect in flavor - goodlooking, appetising bread - easily digested.

Ogilvies back it with their reputation by branding it

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. X.

The Captivity of Judah-2 Chron- 36: 11-21. Commentary.—I. Zedekiah's character and folly (vs. 11-13). 11. Zedekiah—He was one of the younger sons of the good Josiah and uncle of Jehoiachin. He was a weak king with no strength He was a weak king with no strength of character to do what he knew to be of character to do what he knew to be right. "Anxious to follow the counsels of Jeremiah, but without courage to do so, he became the mere sport of factions, and at last was brought into ruinous conflict with Babylon against his own better judgment. He was a Charles I. or Louis XVI. when the country needed a Longshanks or a Cromwell."—Guthrie. 12. humbled not himself—Although Jeremiah repeatedly entreated Zedekiah to obey the word of the Lord, yet the king through the pride of his heart and for fear of offending his princes would not listen to the prophet's advice.

13. rebelled, etc.—This was the height of follly. Had he possessed wisdom and

13. rebelled, etc.—This was the neight of follly. Had he possessed wisdom and courage enough to obey the words of Jeremiah and remain true to his allie-giance to Babylon, Jerusalem might not have been destroyed. made him swear-Nebuchadnezzar had bound Zedekiah by a most solemn oath to keep the peace by fidelity to the conqueror who had set him on the throne. "In Jer. 27:3 we find messengers from the kings of Edom, Machamera, Tyre and Zidon consult-Moab, Ammon, Tyre and Zidon consult-ing with Hezekiah, perhaps concerting a plan to throw off the Babylonian yoke; and in Ezek. 17:15, Zedekiah is represented as 'sending his ambassadors into Egypt, that they might give him horses to the seems to and much people. Thus he seems to have laid broad plans for his rebellion, and in all this he was encouraged by the false prophets of his time (Jer. 28)."

Terry. The violation of this oath, +Terry. The violation of this coupling made to a heathen, "filled up he measure of iniquity" of this weak nd wicked king. II. God's Efforts to Save His People

14. transgressed very much—Here we see the vile depths into which Judan had fallen. All classes were corrupted. Restraint was thrown off and the peo-ple openly practised all the heathen abominations, even polluting the house the vile depths into which Judah

15. the Lord ... sent to them-"God did everything he wisely could to prevent his people from rushing down to their own destruction. 1. He laid upon them several lesser evils as warnings.

These were devastations of the country from which a few years would suffice to recover. Then Jerusalem was captured and part of its treasure removed, but the city was not destroyed, and the temple stood. Kings were made captemple stood. Kings were made cap-tive as a warning to coming kings. 2. These sieges were at intervals of six and twelve years. The doom came slow-ly, and in mercy, to give time for thought and repentance. 3. Prophets were sent to warn and entreat. Jerc-miah had been speaking God's word to them for forty veers in Jerusalem. For them for forty years in Jerusalem. Fo them for forcy years in Serusatem. For nearly ten years Ezekiel, also, from the land of captivity in Babylonia, had been uttering carnest words to the Jews in Palestine. We cannot understand the istory of these times without reading these prophets; nor do we see the meaning of the prophets without a clear and prehensive view of the history and nes."-Peloubet.

III. Judah utterly rejects the Lord (v. 16. Mocked, etc.-Jeremiah was imprined, beaten and threatened with death; woned beaten and threatened with death; Ufflah was put to death (Jer. xxvi. 20-25). No remedy—The nation had gone beyond all hope. The body was hopelessly corrupt. It is possible to sin too long, to sin away the day of grace. Not because God is unwilling to forgive and save, but because all spiritual influences fail to touch the hardned soul. O sinfail to touch the hardened soul. O sinner, awake, repent, your doom is fast approaching. Those who reject God will suffer the pangs of eternal torments.

IV. Jerusalem destroyed (vs. 17-21).

17. Therefore—Because of their great wickedness. He brought...the Chaldees -The siege lasted about one year and six months. The fortifications were strong, and the defense was brave and skilful. "The thud of the batteringrams, shook the walls day and night; archers made the defence increasingly hard, by constant showers of arrows hard, by constant showers of allowers from the high wooden forts; catapults of all sizes hurled stones into the town with a force as deadly as that of modern bullets, and darts tipped with fire kindled the roofs of the houses; mines kindled the roofs of the houses; mines were dug under the walls, and attempts at escalade by ladders were renewed at every favorable opportunity."—Geikie. Who slew, etc.—The siege was full of horrors. The city was reduced to the last extremity. Fearful pictures are presented by Jeremiah in his prophecy and in the Lamentations. The destructive fire of the besiegers was aided by a severe famine (Jer. xxxviii. 9), and all the terrible expedients had been tried to which the wretched inhabitants of a besieged town are forced to resort in besieged town are forced to resort in such cases. Mothers boiled and ate the flesh of their own infants (Lam. iv. 10; Ezek. v. 10); ladies in magnificent robes wandered about searching the refuse heaps for a morsel of food (Lam. iv. heaps for a morsel of food (Lam. W. 5-10); the nobles whose fair complexions had been their pride walked through the streets like blackened but inving skeletons; bloody fights between the advocates of surrender and of continued resistence crowded the streets with fresh horrors; the roar of the siege night and air night and day, and a terrible pesti-lence swept through the city. All the calamities came upon Jerusalem at this time that came upon the city six centu ries atter during the siege of the Romans by Titus. No compassion—"So hideous were the cruelties practised by Oriental victors upon their captives that, were

it not for the most convincing evidence it not for the most convincing evidence in sculpture and inscription, where the perpetrators glory in their deeds, we should hardly believe it possible for men to treat their fellow-creatures with such harbarity."—Ewing. "When the assailants were once masters of the place, an indiscriminate slaughter appears to have a property of the city was generally indiscriminate slaughter appears to have succeeded, and the city was generally given over to the flames. The prisoners were either impaled and subjected to horrible torments, or carried away as slaves. The women, children and cattle were led away by the conquerors."—Layard. manded them to let their land rest every seventh year, and because they had violated this command he now proposed to give their land a long Sabbath, or rest, for seventy years. "It is probable that during the thousand years between Moses and Babylonish exile as many as seventy sabbatic years had been neglected, and at last, judgment that had seemed, and at last, judgment that had seemed, and at last, judgment that had seemed and seemed a don's Com.

"He did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord" (v. 12). In our lesson we see:

all that Jehoiakim had done" (Jer. cii. 2). Like Jehoiakim (Jer. xxxvi. 29-32), he disbelieved the word of the Lord and disobeleved the word of the Lord and disobeleved His commandments as revealed to him by Jeremiah (v. 12). 2. Disloyalty. He failed utterly as king. He did not forbid, oppose and overthrow idolatry. 3. Perfidy. He violated his oath Nebuchadnezzar, "who made him swear by God" (v. 13) that he would be loyal to him. He broke the promise of featly he to him. He broke the promise of fealty he had sworn by an embassy sent to Babylon, early in his reign (Jer. xxxv. 3) and by a personal visit to Babylon with Jeremiah in the fourth year of his reign (Jer. ci. 59). 4 Treachery. He broke a covenant with the people that all those held in bondage should be liberated (Jer. xxxiv. 8-22; xxxvii. 5-11. 5 Cowardice. He was cowardly and cruel in his treatment of God's messenger (Jer. xxxvii. 21; xxxviii. 6). "I am afraid of the Jews," Zedekiah said when Jeremiah gave him God's way of escape and implored him to accept it (Jer. xxxviii, 17-23). 6. Pride. Jedekiah...humbled not himself" (vs. 11-13. The captivity of Zedekiah is a marked illustration of the wise marks "Pride greath before wise man's words, "Pride goeth before destruction and an haughty spirit before a fall" (Prov. xvi. 18. III. Salvation. If obliged to stop here, how uterly hopeless and heart-breaking it would be; but the words "carried him to Babylon" (Jer. lii. 11) hold a ray of to Babylon" (Jer. lii. 11) hold a ray of hope, for thre times in connection with the record of the incarnation of Jesus we find the words "the carrying away into Babylon" (Matt. i. 11-17). There is a redemption from captivity. "God bringeth back to the captivity of his people" (Psa. liii. 6) "The ... Lord....shall turn away their captivity..." (Zeph ii. 7). The slave of Satan can never liberate himself. "As well ight a stream turn backward, or the dead come to life." But it is possible for those to "recover turn backward, or the dead come to life."

But it is possible for those to "recover themselves out of the snare of the devil who are taken captive by him at his will" (II. Tit. ii. 26), if they will take God's way. Christ came to proclaim liberty to the captive and to open prison doors (Luke iv. 18). A. D. Craig says: "For eight months after I united with the church I used tobacco. Hearing a sermon from Rom. xiv. 23 led me to doubt whether a Christian should use tobacco. Sunday night I took the matter to God in secret prayer. The following Saturday to his statement, found room enough whether a Christian should use tobacco. Sunday night I took the matter to God in secret prayer. The following Saturday night I was at home, studying my Sunday school lesson, when the clock struck "Young," in one corner. ten. It flashed into my mind that a whole week had passed and I had not indulged in a single soke. The work was done, and the words of the Psalmist came to me. Bless the Lord, Omy soul, and forget not all his benefits; who forgiveth all thin iniquities, who healeth all thy desires and satisfieth thy mouth with good things' (Psa. ciii. 2-5). I have never had the desire for tobacca since, and the odor is offensive." The Lord able to save us from sins of every description .- Abbie C. Morrow.

Mr. Coley-Bromfield's Emigration Schem Scored by London Paper.

London, Aug. 21.—The Financial News is very severe on the emigration scheme propounded by Mr. J. Coley-Bromfield, on his return from Canada, by which he intends to establish an emigration society, the chief feature of which is that members are to pay two which is that members are to pay two shillings and sixpence weekly until their turn comes to be sent to Canada with £100 capital. After describing the scheme as a lottery, The Financial Newsays: "The central scheme of this business is not new. It has been worked for cheap jewelry many times, and even now is spasmodically run on the centinent for cash prizes." The New Ontario Land Colonization Association is also second. scored.

Big Yield of Peaches in Niagara District This Year.

Dealers say that peaches will be cheaper than apples this year. because there are a great many more of them. From all indications the peach crop in the Niagara Peninsula will be a monster one this year, and peaches will make up for scarcity in apples and other fruits. Owing to ap-ple tres being so susceptible to the San Jose scale, grower in the Niagara dis-trict are cutting out their apple orchards and planting peach trees in their

Pin Head.

Washington, Aug. 21.—It has remained for one of Uncle Sam's experts in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to perform what is probably one of the most remarkable and difficult feats of engraving every accomplished.

Not so very long ago it was believed that the man who first engraved the Lord's Prayer on the back of a one-dollar gold piece had about reached the limit in the matter of wonderful feats with the engraver's tools. Then about a year ago, a Philadelphia banknote expert engraved the, entire alphabet of twenty-six letters on the head of a large pin. This delicate bit of work won considerable fame for the man who did it, and it was generally considered to be the record in freak engraving until the bureau expert entered the field. Now, however, the record of the Philadelphia engraver has been greatly surpassed.

Mr. Clarence K. Young, for years an employee of the Government money factory, is the man who accomplished the conviction in the property impossible feat of engraving seemingly impossible feat of engraving two full alphabets, a date, and a name on the head of a tiny pin only sixty-five one thousandths of an inch in diameter.

Last fall Mr. Young and another expert in the bureau had a friendly dis-pute as to just the amount of delicate work that an engraver could do. Fin-

BROKE QUARANTINE.

Chatham Lady Arrested on Port Stanley Complaint.

A Chatham report: Four or five weeks ago Mrs. T. Laktoque left this city for Port Stanley with a little daughter. There she visited friends, and then after some days the child was taken ill. Several others of the family became similarly affected, and on closer medical inspection it was found to be diphtheria, and the house and inmates were quarantined. The Chatham lady did not like confinement to the house and wrote home and told her husband, so at least goes the story, and the latso at least goes the story, and the lat-ter on Monday went to Port Stanley and by some means the wife and child and by some means the wife and child broke quarantine and returned to the Maple City with them. Indignation reigned when the Port Stanley officials discovered that the birds had flown, and the local police and birds had flown, and the local police and health departments got to work at once and seoured the city, but found no trace. This morning, however, P. C. Carr and Health Inspector Mounteer traced them to the house where they were staying.

The policeman handed her a summons to appear in the Police Court at Port Stanley on Aug. 31 on the charge of breaking quarantine, sworn out by the Port Stanley Health Inspector.

LOVE AND A TITLE

"God knows," he says, with suppressed bitterness, "if this day's work could be erased, my hand should be the first to erased, my hand should be the first to wipe it out. I say it calmly; act you as calmly. You cannot repair by flight the injury you have done; you will but add a sharper sting to it by publicity. You are no child, Jeanne; you have proved yourself too much a woman; think before you set every tongue wagging, every finger pointing at the man whose love you won by deceit and concealment! Besides," and his lips twist into a painful smile, "why should you cast aside all you have played for? You are the Marchioness of Ferndale, this is your house, your settlement deeds are in my lawyer's hands already signed. are in my lawyer's hands already signed. Yesterday I reverenced your simple, generous, childlike nature too deeply to speak of such matters; to-night, knowing what I know, I can speak out. I have made as ample, and more ample, provision for you, than if you had a score of lawyers at your back. All this is yours, you cannot leave it—you have robbed me of my heart, do not take away my good name by leaving

She is at the door, but she hesitates -something in the word, or the tone of the last word, touches her to the heart and wrings it. With a low cry, she sinks into a couch and hides her face.

At his touch, at the almost savage energy of his words, she shudders and springs to her feet. It is her turn now. 'Do not touch me," she breathes, all the passionate indignation of a wohan scorned blazing in her eyes. "Do not come near me. You have driven me half road, but I have sense to remember what you have accused me of. You—you think I married you for all this," and she waves her hand with a scornful gesture. "You think me false, and treacherous, and deceifful. You hate and despise me! but you will not let me go back, though I want to go—yes, want to go! But it is not true that I deceived you you do not understand why; you can-not, you are too unjust! I did deceive you, and I will bear the punishment. Because I did it I will stay; I will not do you any further harm, as I have done you so much. This great place is large enough for both of us. You have said enough for both of us. 100 maye same that we are apart—we will keep so. I will stay until you tell me I may go —until you tell me that I may go!" and with a sob she presses her hands to her

Is this Jeanne—the yielding, loving girl, who used to cling to him blushingly, so childlike in her to him blushingly, so childlike in her ways and words that it seemed desecraate, indignant woman cannot be Jeanne. But surprise is mingled with and over-borne by admiration. Never has she seemed so lovely in his eyes as she appears now-her lithe, graceful figur drawn to its full height, her eyes tlash

Jeanne crossed the hall, and goes up the great staircase.

One or two of the servants are mov-

if it were a goddess passing, little thinking it is only an unhappy woman.

There are softly shaded lights upheld by gleaming statuettes along all the corridors, and Jeanne remembers her way, or finds it by instinct, and at last reaches her own room.

As she enters the boudoir Mrs. Fleming rises from a chair. 'I was right to wait, my lady, was I not?" she says; then stops suddenly, struck dumb by Jeanne's white face and blows of adversity, with a wrung heart, a shifting sense of misery, and finds no outlet for the bubbling, seething pain which threatens to stifle him; but womand—its relief.

When Jeanne stood confronting the passionate storm of Vane's bitter disappointment and unreasoning jealousy, she would as soon have dreamed of laughing as of crying. But once alone, in the soli-tude of her room, away from the reproachful anger of that voice, and the bitter scathing of those eyes, sne can weep, and the overstrained misery relaxes, the feverish excitement is allayed. Tears! who calls them idle? Not a wo for every woman knows the worth of them.

Jeanne does not cry for long, the very violence of her grief forbids that, and almost as suddenly as she threw herself on her knees, calling on "Hal," she is upon her knees, calling on that, she is upright again and facing her position. With a little tremor of shyness and alarm, she looks at the strange richness of her surroundings, upon the decorations of the dainty little roms, the rare thangings and exquisite furniture, the costly appointments—where is she?

As she goes to the table, her hands

fall on a magnificent dressing case, and her gaze rests on the coronet and initials emblazoned upon each of the brushes, upon the golden tops of the scent bottles. And here Jeanne remembers that she s the Marchioness of Ferndale, it is not is the Marchioness of Ferndale, it is not all a strange and fevered dream. The man from whom she has fled, whose hard, cruel words ring in her burning ears, is her lover, is the great marquis—and she, is his wife.

Germany's war in Southwest Africa against the Hereros began in January 1904, about a year and a half ago. By May of that year the Kaiser had 6,000 troops engaged in trying to suppress the revolt. Up to the present time he has sent out all told nearly 14,000 men. The Berlin correspondent of the London Times reports that fifty-nine officers Times reports that fifty-nine officers recent extension of the condensed milk have been killed in action or have died industry in this State as well as the proof disease, while the casualties in the duction of cheese, we find that the Holof disease, while the casualties in the ranks are given as 1,104, including noncommissioned officers. In addition to these, 238 men have been sent home permanently invalided. The pecuniary loss to Germany up to the present time has the judge who recordly passed on him to Germany up to the present time has the judge who recently passed on him been about $60,000,000. And the end is remarked that the individual was a not yet. Besides he has the yearly incomes of $500,000 from the interest on the $10,000,000 which was given to him from the war indemnity received from China ten years ago, of $250,000 from his private estates, which amounts to $5,000,000 or more; of $500,000 from the forests, covering an area of 5,124,673 acres and valued at $512,487,300, at $100 an acre; in all, $1,250,000. Thus, his yearly net income amounts to $2,750,000. The Mikado is 54 years old, six feet tall, stout, and weighs about 200 pounds. Empress Haruko is two years his senior. The couple is said to be a very loving one, although Crown Prince Har va is not the Empress' son.

An analysis of the reports of corres pondents to date shows a continued falling off from the good indications of previous reports. Fungous diseases are beginning to show seriously though insects are not as prevalent as usual.

Apples will be a light crop, probably about 50 per cent. of last year's crop. It must not be forgotten, however, that the general scarcity will prevent any waste such as has been common for the last two years. Sales are being made at $1.00 to $1.25 for No. 1's and 2's on the trees. Barrels are lower in price than last year, running from 25c in Nova Scotia to 30 and 35c in Ontario, but where proper arrangements have not

Almost every town in Ontario of any size is holding an Old Boys' celebration these days, which not only serves a good purpose in bringing friends together, and renewing acquaintances, but is a source of profit to merchants and others, as the visitors usually have money to spend and spend it. A celebration of this kind has been talked of in Athens at one time and another, but so far it has ended in talk. Why don't our leading citizens brace up and tackle the proposition in earnest? There is no section in Canada so largely repre septed in all quarters of the earth, as that around in and around Athens, Brockville. She was accompanied and if they were only invited the Old Boys would come trooping home in thousands. Snakes seem to be unusually plentia record number of hogs last week at ful at Charleston Lake this year. The the station-40-for which he received hot weather in July helped to develop Mr. Bishop shot one which was in the habit of visiting his ice house it was over 4 feet in length. Gordon Hughes found the perfect skin of one just left by the owner. It shows the eyes, mouth and all complete. It is over 7 feet in length and must have been a dangerous looking customer. Some years ago, the Dean of the Medi cal Faculty of McGill University, was speaking to the graduating class about Service in India-medical men were needed at the time. At the close of the lecture two of the students went up to consult the Dean. One of them said to the Professer, "is it not a hot climate? do they not have large and dangerous snakes there !" "Stuff," the old Dean replied, "Doctors see just as many snakes in this climate as they do ton are not the "blackbottle" kind they are real snakes, but not half as Souvenir postcards and souvenirs of dangerous or terrible as the other kind.

The Kemptville Advance has evidently got slightly mixed up in the following item:—"A company of Ger mans (New Yorkers) accompanied by Scotchman out of health, arrived at Athens en route for Charleston Lake, recently. The Scotchman, to ease his pain, swallowed a dose of laudanum. The undertaker took him back to New York." As a matter of fact the above party came from Pittsburg. The inference to be drawn from the second sentence is that the late Mr. Mimmo diliberately took laudanum to end his life. From reliable information re ceived by us the deceased had perchased a 4 oz. bottle of laudanum bearing a U.S druggists label. The druggist instructed the infortunate man what quantity to take to relieve his pain, but instead of seeing a doctor on arrival at the lake. While the decertainly took laudanum as has in stock metal wheels to fit standard axles $3\frac{1}{2} \times 12$ and $8\frac{3}{4} \times 12$, also has rims ready and can make hubs to fit any axle, to order, on short notice.
