The Finest Novel

RALPH CONNOR HAS EVER WRITTEN.

"The finest thing Ralph Connor has done, and when we remember his past achievements that is no mean praise.
His style throughout is strong, and forceful, he has an intimate knowledge of what he is writing about, and his inspired descriptions of the heroisms of the North-West Mounted Police make one glow with the same feeling of pride as do the accounts of our heroes in the battles that are raging now. Ralph Connor shows us what magnificent men and what brave, noble women, the sons and daughters of the Empire, are. It is a joy to meet some of our old friends again, and in the dangers and anxieties they undergo they more than ever show of what pure gold they are made." RALPH

Public Notice!

CENSORSHIP OF TELEGRAPHS, CABLES AND WIRELESS STATIONS.

By direction of the Chief Censor,
London, the following Regulations will be in force on and after Friday next, January the 15th, namely:—

1. Cablegrams in authorized editions of A.B.C., Lieber's, Scott's and Western Union Codes only may be exchanged between British, Allied or Neutral Territory on extra European Telegraph System, on one side, and British or Allied Territory, wherever situated, on the other side.

2. The term "Extra European Telegraph System" means the places outside the Telegraph System of Europe.
Beside the places in Europe proper, the following are also counted as being on the European Telegraph System, namely:—Russia in Asia; the following French possessions in North and West Africa, namely:—Algeria, Mauritania, Senegal, Upper Senegal and Niger; and French Morocco. The Island of Cyprus is regarded as outside the European Telegraph System.

3. Until further notice cablegrams in the following three Codes, namely:
—Meyer's Atlantic Cotton Code,
Thirty-ninth Edition; Bentley's Complete Phrase Code, not including Separate Mining and Oil Supplements;
Broomhall's Imperial Combination
Code, not including Special Rubber Edition, are allowed only between United Kingdom and places in Extra European Telegraph System.

N.B.—As all messages sent under the above Regulations have to be decoded and censored, the carrying out of this work will be greatly facilitated if persons sending such messages would hand in at the Telegraph Office, at the time of presenting the message,
the translation of the same.

CHAPTER XV.

"One cannot suppose for one minute," continued the captain, "that a man of the world like Leicester Dodson can entertain any serious intention of making a proposal to Violet. No, my dear lady; men of his class strike at higher game." He paused, and did not fail to notice the sudden drooping of the wily countess' eyelids. "They, or their fathers, have made money by trade, and with that money they desire—say, they look to purchase rank. It is their ambition. They have it instilled into them with the food of their infancy; they look forward to it as the final goal of their endeavors. Yes, Leicester Dodson intends to marry rank, and," he continued, in a lower voice and with a subtle significance, "and will do so if some foolish flirtation does not act as a stumbling-block."

The countess raised her face languidly.

She understood the captain, and she began to see that he was on her side.

He meant by his delicate confidence to warn her that if the flirtation between Leicester Dodson, the millionaire's son, and Violet Mildmay, the merchant's daughter, were not stopped, the countess would lose the aforesaid Leicester and his money bags for her daughter, Lady Ethel.

"I may describe the position of Violet as very similar, yet with a difference. She, my dear lady, though I, so biased and partial, should not give it utterance perhaps, is a most charming and lovable girl; but she is simple—simple in the extreme, unsophisticated. She would be the first to be led away and deceived into thinking a foolish flirtation, a midsummer day's flirtation, a serious love affair and a binding engagement. Now I am sure that must not be. No, she is reserved and intended for a different and may I say a happier and more suitable fate?" By the way, did you say that Mr. Leicester Dodson came over himself this morning?"

"Yes," said the countess.

The captain smoothed his hat.

"I hope you will not think the less of him for what I have said, my dear lady."

"Oh, no," said Lady Lackland, "not in any way. Besides, you have not said much," she added, "only that he is somewhat of a flirt."

"And that you have noticed yourself," said the captain, with ill-concealed eagerness—"you who have so many better opportunities of observing him in the society which you so much adorn."

"Yes," said Lady Lackland, "I think perhaps that he is a flirt. He would be a very eligible young man if he were a little more steadfast; but one cannot put old heads on young shoulders, Captain Murpoint."

"No, no," said the captain. And with a delicate emphasis he shook hands and took his leave, repeating to himself Lady Lackland's reply as he went. It was not a very important one; but we shall see how by deftly twisting and turning it Captain Murpoint effected a great deal with it.

CHASE & SANBORN
MONTREAL 154

As the captain rode home the storm gathered and broke upon him.

The wind nearly blew him from his horse and the rain saturated him.

At the Park he found the servants in a state of confusion and alarm, and learned that the ladies had not yet come home.

Without dismounting he galloped down the steep hill to the beach, which presented a picturesque scene enough, but a sufficiently significant one.

Just within reach of the spray stood a small crowd composed of the fishermen and their wives and children and the principal part of the village.

Lower down, and seemingly in the foremost waves themselves, were Willie Sanderson and two or three of his mates, vainly endeavoring to launch one of the boats.

By their side, in close and agitated conversation with Mr. Starling, was Jemmie, Sanderson's lame brother.

The captain spurred his horse across the stones and shouted, loud enough to be heard above the roar of the waves:

"Has the yacht come in?"

Willie Sanderson shook his head, and significantly pointed seaward.

Jem Starling came up and touched his hat and, bellowing hoarsely in the captain's ear, said:

"No, she ain't come in, sir," and these chaps be all in a regular state about her. "They say—"

But the captain was too anxious as to the situation to receive anything second-hand, and beckoned imperiously to Willie Sanderson, who came up to him.

"Do you think there is any danger?" asked the captain, in a voice slightly tremulous.

Willie Sanderson shook his head gravely.

"Can't say exactly, sir. All depends upon where she be. I knows as the skipper said they were to sail south and tack round. If so be they have, why then they're close agin' the North Reef by now, and—"

"Well, well," asked the captain, with feverish eagerness.

"Well, then, may Heaven help 'em!" said Willie, solemnly.

The captain's white, strong hand clutched the reins tightly, and his thin lips compressed with restrained emotion.

If the yacht were on the North Reef she would be wrecked, and in all probability Violet, her aunt, and Leicester Dodson, Fitz and Lady Ethel would be drowned.

All the eventualities, the results, and the personal consequences of such a fatality rushed through the captain's brain, and Jim, who was standing by the horse's head, watching his master, saw a gleam of fateful joy flash across the pale, masterful face. Perhaps the captain knew that he had seen it, for the next instant his face had assumed a look of alarm and anxiety, and with a burst of excitement not altogether feigned, he flung himself from the saddle, shouting:

"Launch the boat! We must go to her. Who volunteers?"

The men looked out to sea, then shook their heads.

"No boat could live in this, sir," shouted Willie Sanderson, "and if she could, by the time we'd get to the North Reef, the storm would be over. Look now, it's clearing off a bit to northward."

The storm abated and passed off as rapidly as it had gathered and broken, and the wet crowd, about an hour afterward, had the extreme pleasure of describing a white speck on the horizon, which soon grew to be the familiar form of the Petrel.

She sailed in, with all her canvas crowded, looking as unconcerned as a swan on a lake after an April shower, and the crowd burst into a cheer of mingled excitement and admiration.

But the captain had determined that there should be a little display of emotion, and therefore when the Petrel ran into the little rude harbor he hurried forward and sprang on to her deck, his two hands outstretched to grasp Violet and Mrs. Mildmay with his face pale and grateful.

With soft but emphatic gratitude and anxiety he went from one to the other of the ladies, while Leicester, in command of the vessel, was seeing that all was made secure.

When he was free he turned to where Fitz and Bertie were assisting the ladies to alight and eyed the captain with a calm, keen scrutiny.

"Alarmed, were you, Captain Murpoint?" he said, in his grand, clear voice. "What would you have been if you had been fated to be with us?" and a slight sneer curled his lip.

"Not so much alarmed or so anxious," said the captain, with a smile that was a finished piece of calm reproach. "For I should at least have had the satisfaction of sharing in the danger of my friends."

Leicester smiled grimly and stooped to lend Violet his hand over the gangway.

"A poor satisfaction, captain. There was not much danger, or if there was it did not last long. The Petrel will see out many a worse summer gale than this. But I am sorry," he added, addressing Mrs. Mildmay, with a much more eager tone in his voice, "I am so sorry you should have been so alarmed and made so uncomfortable! And—oh, here is the carriage," he said. And he ran up to the beach as the carriage Jem had ordered drove up to the parade.

He held the door as Mrs. Mildmay and Violet entered, but though his dark eyes sought hers Violet's made him no return, and her "good-by" was as dreamy and indistinct as her gaze.

Leicester returned to the Petrel to assist Lady Ethel, in a state of mind not enviable.

"I drive you home, Lady Ethel, if you are too tired," he said, "but if you are not my mother will be delighted beyond measure to make you comfortable. What do you say, Fitz? Will you take refuge with us for to-night? I'll ride over to Coombe Lodge and set Lady Lackland's fears at rest."

Now Fitz was very willing to stay so near Violet Mildmay, and Ethel was not unwilling, though she demurred.

But Leicester's strong will decided for them, and it followed that they were on their way to the Cedars while he was galloping toward Coombe Lodge to apprise Lady Lackland of her children's safety and their whereabouts, also to order a box of clothes, which Ethel declared was positively necessary.

The captain's attention continued during the journey home and even to the door of the ladies' rooms, for he insisted that they should take precautions against colds, and in his quiet, unassuming way saw that their comforts were attended to.

So it followed that Violet's maid was waiting with hot water, a fire fit to roast an ox, and an amount of commiseration altogether too much for Violet's patience.

The first thing she did was to throw up the window and lean out upon her white, well-rounded arms, the next, after inhaling a long breath of the storm-freshened air, was to request Marie to suppress the fire as quickly as possible and throw out the hot water.

Marie picked off the coals daintily and walked away. Directly she had gone Violet slipped the bolt on the door and dropped down upon the bed with a long-drawn sigh.

"My darling! my darling! Did he say that to me or was I dreaming? Oh, no, he never could have said it; I must have been dreaming, I did nearly faint, and so I must have fancied that he said so. He could not; it is not possible. He has never been anything else but grave and courteous, he would not forget himself in a moment; his is not the kind of nature—no, no, it is absurd!" And she sighed and smiled.

"I cannot think what is coming to me lately. I am all fancies and dreams and nonsensical imaginings. First I fancy I see a villain in my father's oldest friend, then I fancy I see a ghost in the old tower, and now, the maddest thing of all, I fancy I hear a grave, well-bred gentleman like Leicester Dodson address me as 'his darling.' Oh, it is absurd!"

A dinner—partly froth and partly a rechauffe of the ruined one—was served up, and the captain did his best to raise the spirits of the ladies.

Mrs. Mildmay, whose very ignorance of nautical matters had preserved her from alarm, was very cheerful and praised the yacht and all pertaining to it with liberal amiability, and, as for the storm, why, if Violet did not take cold, which after her warm bath she would not be likely to, it only added a zest to the trip.

Violet smiled with grave amusement, and did not think fit to enlighten her aunt as to the fate of the hot water, and the captain chimed in as usual from his leaning post outside the veranda, where he smoked a cigar of an evening within speaking distance of the ladies inside.

"I called at Coombe Lodge this morning," he said, with a pause which he filled up with his cigar.

Violet, who lay on a couch, had closed her eyes, but the captain saw that she was not asleep.

Mother! Don't hesitate! If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without rapping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Beginning with January 1st, the German administration in Belgium closed the Belgian borders against all-comers. No more passports will be issued or recognized except the military pass. The cause for this unusual precaution is not known, but it is believed to have been ordered to prevent espionage.

M. C. L. I. Debate.

The weekly session of the Methodist College Literary Institute was held last night and was largely attended. The subject for debate was: "Is it in the opinion of this Institute that the people of this country are now prepared for Confederation with Canada?" The leaders for the affirmative were Messrs. G. Peters, E. V. Wylie and Curtis, while the negative was supported by Messrs. W. White, R. P. Holloway and P. H. Cowan. The affirmatives contended that, while a direct answer to the question would be negative, still the advantages of Confederation once appreciated, would find immediate support. Such advantages as reduction of the cost of living, a bounty on fish, better rail and steamship communication, opportunities for the development of our industries, preferential tariff, etc., would, they held, accrue from union with Canada. The negative in support of their position, proceeded to show why Confederation would be disadvantageous to Newfoundland, illustrating their remarks by references to the lower provinces, which had been slow in development. The matter of taxation, reduction of the cost of living, industries, were interestingly dealt with by all the speakers, after which a general discussion followed which brought forth intelligent opinions from all who took part. Upon the vote being taken, the decision was in favor of the negatives. Amongst the visitors were Capt. Ell Dawe and A. B. Morine, both of whom spoke, and expressed their pleasure on being present at such an interesting debate.

Volunteers Re-Union and Presentation.

Last night at Wood's West End Restaurant an enjoyable re-union was held by the members of the Second Contingent who were examined for non-commissioned officers. An appetizing menu was disposed of after which the appended toast list was taken up:—

The King—Prop. the Chairman, "God Save the King."

Our Guests—Prop. K. Keegan; Resp. W. J. Higgins, M. H. A.

The Ladies—Prop. W. D. Edwards; Resp. W. L. Woods.

Our Regiment—Prop. J. J. O'Grady; Resp. S. R. Smith.

The Chairman—Prop. K. Hickey; Resp. V. Warren.

The speeches, though brief, were humorous and interesting, interspersed with excellent and instrumental selections rendered by Messrs. Woods, Edwards, Fox, Walsh, E. Higgins, Hickey, De Lige, Selars, Burnham, Martin and Rowe.

The principal part of the program and that which prompted the re-union was the presentation of a splendid case of pipes and tobacco pouch to Battalion Sergeant-Major Moore, accompanied by the following address: Dear Sir,—

We, the undersigned members of the Reserve Force for the First Newfoundland Regiment who have been candidates at the examinations for non-commissioned officers recently held, desire to express our sincere thanks to you for the very great interest taken in us during our course of instruction from you.

We recognize that we have been particularly privileged in being trained by you, as we are aware that your wide range of military knowledge is the result of very many years of active service in that army which has been such a factor in upsetting the plans of the mad War Lord whose anticipated triumphal march has been so effectually arrested.

We have not yet been informed if we have all succeeded in qualifying for the "stripe" which marks our first step on the road which you have so well travelled, but we all feel that any individual disappointments that may come in this direction are not due to any lack of care and painstaking on your part.

We would ask your acceptance of the accompanying little souvenir of our appreciation of your work, and would express the hope that before it has outlived its usefulness we shall again meet after our having done credit to the instruction you have imparted to us, honour to the country we shall represent, and brought perpetual peace and glory to the Empire at whose call we go to do our small share in the fight for freedom and right.

Chairman V. Warren made the presentation in a neat and happy speech. The recipient responded fittingly, thanking the donors for their generous gift. The affair terminated with the singing of Tipperary and the National Anthem.

Official.—From the sea to Lys there were yesterday artillery exchanges from Lys to Somme, on the plateau of Notre Dame d' Lorette there occurred on the night of Jan. 19th an engagement reported as follows: To the south of the Somme on the Aisne, there were some artillery engagements, in the course of which we silenced the batteries of the enemy. In the Champagne at Rheims, in the region of Proxnes Le Marquis Morenvillers, we demolished certain German field works and forced the enemy to evacuate his trenches and brought about an explosion of a depot of ammunition. There has been no change in the Argentine. To the southeast of St. Mihiel in the forest of Apremont, we occupied 150 yards of German trenches and repulsed counter attacks. To the northwest of Pont a Mousson, forest of Laprette, the enemy succeeded in violent counter attacks in reoccupying about twenty of five hundred yards of trenches taken by us in recent days. Generally speaking we are holding ourselves securely in this position. In the region of Silberberg and Hartman there has been intense fighting. Since the night of Jan. 19th and 20th, we are progressing slowly over territory presenting great difficulties.

Berlin, To-day.—(Official.) In the western theatre of war only artillery duels took place yesterday between east and Place Lys. The trenches of Notre Dame de Lorette which we occupied on the day before yesterday were lost again today. Northeast of Arras the French repeatedly attacked both sides of the high road from Arras to Lille, but were repulsed. Southwest of Arras on Bac we took two trenches from the French and kept them, notwithstanding their heroic counter attacks. The French attacks on our positions southwest of St. Mihiel were repulsed. Northwest of Pont a Mousson we succeeded in reoccupying positions evacuated three days ago. In that vicinity our troops captured four cannon and several prisoners. Fighting still continues in the region of the Somme, east of Lippow, ended favorable for us; a hundred prisoners remained in our hands.

GERMAN CLAIM ON RIGHT IN AIR RAID.

LONDON, To-day.—Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent sends the following despatch from Berlin, giving the German official version of the airship raid on the English coast. Our airships in order to attack the fortified town of Great Yarmouth, were obliged to fly over other towns from which it is stated they were fired at. These attacks were answered by throwing bombs. England has not right to be indignant as her flying machines and ships, and in broad daylight have attacked open towns such as Freiburg, Dares, Salern and Swakopmund. The air craft is acknowledged to be a legitimate weapon for carrying on modern warfare as long as their operations are conducted in accordance with the rules of International Law. This has been done by our dirigibles. The German nation is forced by England to fight for its existence and cannot be compelled to forego the employment of legitimate means of self-defence and will not do it relying upon her good rights.

With the whole available German force committed to a certain line, it is reasonable to believe a change of front will be extremely difficult. WANT YOU

The above is one of the most popular of the many fine patriotic songs now being sung wherever the British flag flies. It has a sweet, pathetic melody and a tender appeal in the simple words. This song has been sung specially by Miss Maggie Teyte (the greatest British Prima Donna) for the Columbia Graphophone Company, who are paying a royalty on each record sold to the Prince of Wales' Patriotic Fund.

Outlook Improving.
 The messages to-day are more numerous and longer than they have been for a considerable time, but the news is not sensational or startling, although it is decidedly encouraging. The owner of the Dacia intends to send his steamer to sea, the Admiralty intend to seize her and the right of transfer of ownership and flag will be regularly tried by the Prize Court. There is no danger of any tension arising between Britain and the States over the case. German hopes in this direction are faded. British armies have retreated honourably for the Norfolk raid by attacking Essen, the headquarters of the Krupp Armament Works. The German authorities have found it necessary to make an "apologia" for the murder of civilians in the Norfolk raid. They dropped bombs because their airplanes were found to be necessary for the murder of children in Yorkshire will be next in order. They might just as well say they sent warships against the coast of Scarborough and killed children because some English children use "pop-guns." British troops have had a brush with Mad Mullah in Somaliland and have scattered his forces. An official report from the French headquarters sets forth that the advantages of the fight for trenches during the past two months in the west rests with the allies. This is to be seen by the progress of the lines around Neuport, Ypres, and on the line towards Metz, between St. Mihiel and Pont a Mousson, and the bulge they have made from Belfort towards the Rhine. This successful counter-action by the Germans in the neighborhood of Soisson is to lessen the pressure, if possible, of the French towards Metz and bend of the Rhine north of Basle. The allies however have enough men now to hold the Germans at Soisson and to pursue their offensive. The conference of the new Austrian Foreign Secretary, who is a Hungarian, and the Austrian Emperor with the German Emperor and his staff shows that they have to deal with the big new move of the Russians, who have seized the passes of the Carpathians between Galicia and Bukovina on the one side and Hungary on the other. The new big movement mentioned by the Daily Telegraph correspondent is probably the invasion of Hungary and the probability of Roumania joining the Russians in this big movement. This movement may create a difficult position for Austria as Hungary feels that her strength has been sapped in Serbia and in Poland and the Magyars, the governing race in Hungary, is hated by the Slav and other races there. If this correspondent's anticipations are correct and the Russians have a big army available for a new forward movement, it may have a far reaching effect on both theatres of war.

Died on Train.
 Norman Avery, of Southport, T. B., who boarded the express at Bishop's Falls at 10 p.m. yesterday, feeling ill, died on the train at 6 o'clock this morning. The remains were brought in by the express this afternoon, and taken to the morgue in charge of Detective Byrne. No particulars as to the nature of the man's illness are at hand at the time of writing, but it is presumed that he had been working for the Central Forests Company in the lumber woods where he contracted a chill and was returning to his home at Southport. The remains will be confined at the morgue and sent to the deceased man's home for interment by Undertaker Connolly.
 Lieut. Bruno Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian hero, has been killed while leading a brilliant charge of the Italian volunteers in the Argonne region in France which resulted in the capture of two German trenches.

 R. N. Barracks, Devonport, October 30, 1914.
 Dear Mother.—Just a line to let you know that we arrived across all right, had a fine time coming. We were nine days on the boat. We are divided up in three sections. Harry and I, Ned Keefe, Truscott, McCormack are together. Mansfield and the rest of the boys are gone to Portsmouth and Chatham. We are in barracks at present; I expect to be here a while yet. We will have to do some drill before we can go anywhere. We are going to try and get up to see Calford and the boys, I know they will be surprised to see us. I expect there will be another bunch come over soon. They are doing what they like with the Germans. There is not half as much talk about the war over here as there is in Nfld. Well, mother, we are having a good time so far, I don't know what way it will end. You must have been put out the night we left. We thought we would be put aboard while the ship was at the wharf. There must have been a lot of people put out. There was a big crowd at the Calypso to see us. Never mind, we will be coming home again this time next year, if God spares us. Don't forget my Xmas box, I will be expecting one from you. How is little Dotty; I hope she is in good health and will be able to walk by the time I come home. It is miserable weather over here, raining, but it is not cold; no snow. There is quite a crowd of sailors and soldiers over here. You should just have a glance at them, it would open your eyes. The best sights I ever saw was coming up the Clyde. Every where you would look you could see a battleship getting built. I don't know where they are going to send them all. They have enough of ships to reach to Newfoundland, and men too, with that. It is over here you will see men coming in to enlist. Not one at a time but one hundred at a time. I don't know what to make of it. Well, mother, I am getting my photo taken next week, and I will send you one. How is Tibbs getting on; does she come over to the house as usual. Tell her Jim Yetman wishes to be remembered to her. He is not with me, he is in Chatham. It is not bad in barracks so far; we are only three days here yet. We are not properly straightened up yet.

George St. Sociable.
 Those who could not find it convenient to attend the social in George St. basement last night, without a doubt, missed one of the best events of the season. The social was under the direction of the Epworth League, and great credit is due Miss Laura Butler who worked hard to make it the success that it was both financially and otherwise. The programme was provided over by the Pastor, Rev. N. M. Guy, who already has a grip on the young people, and who is always ready and willing to promote their welfare. Solos were pleasingly rendered by Miss Russell, Steele, G. Couton, G. Christian, F. Whiteaway, Mrs. J. Tucker and Mr. H. Baird. A duet was also given by Misses Kendall and Woods, a pianoforte solo by Mr. Gordon Christian and a violin solo by Mr. C. Maund; recitations were well and ably rendered by Mrs. Guy, Misses F. Curtis, F. Pynn, D. Skinner and Mr. Watson. The large audience present showed their appreciation by long and continued applause, which brought the performers to the front a second and third time. At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served by the young ladies eager to do their part, and the singing of the National Anthem brought to a close the best social ever held in George St. basement.—Com.

STEEL "HUTS" IN THE TRENCHES.
 The device is simple, consisting of a series of interlocking strips of the corrugated steel, each twenty inches wide and about seven feet long. Each strip weighs about 20 lbs., the idea that where a trench is dug, a wall, with the necessary apertures can be at once constructed inside it—or two walls, front and rear, if desired—and roofed over with the same steel material. The tests are said to have shown that the shelter is waterproof, splinter-proof, and easily taken down and put up again. When lumber is not available in large quantities, the plates, which are "nested" when not in use, can be carried with the troops without much of an extra strain on the transport service.

OLD PERLICAN, To-day.
 Great crowd at patriotic meeting held here yesterday afternoon, people from all near settlements anxious to hear about the war. Mr. Blackall spoke first then Dr. Burke to an eager listening audience. The fathers and mothers are doing their utmost to keep their sons from joining. There are many young men anxious to go and will come later. Twelve have volunteered; those who have been passed by Doctor Paterson proceed at once. The visitors have just left for Lower Island Cove. Alan G. Hudson has made arrangements for meeting there.
Making British Shells.
 The FRASER Motor Engine Company of New Glasgow, whose plant at their liquidation sale was bought by Walter P. MacNeil, have secured an order from the British War Department for one million dollars worth of shells to fit the bore of high grade artillery. These shells must be ground to the thousandth part of an inch, it takes the best lathe in the world to do this work. A great deal of new machinery has been placed in the FRASER factory for making these shells, the FRASER engines will also be made by this new machinery, and will therefore be better than ever and the factory will run on a larger scale than ever.
 Mr. MacNeil the new owner is a very enterprising young man, taking over his father's steel bridge building business a few years ago which was then small, it expanded until last year becoming such large competitors of the Dominion Bridge Company they were bought out for $300,000.00. The money Mr. MacNeil is using in building the famous FRASER engine and making British shells. Fraser engines and parts of every description will be supplied as usual by FRANKLIN'S AGENCIES, LTD. St. John's. Jan 22, 15.

 LONDON, Jan. 21.
 The Governor, Newfoundland:
 The French Government reports artillery duels from the sea to the Argonne a violent enemy attack temporarily succeeded, but the ground was regained after counter-attacks. The enemy's attacks at other points were repulsed, and over 100 prisoners were taken.
 The Russian Government reports no important changes along the whole front. A German attempt to resume the offensive at Rawa and on the Heura was defeated. In Western Galicia, the Germans were repulsed, and suffered heavy losses. The Russian aviators located the ammunition depot and furnished the range to the Allies gunners. The guns had scarcely been trained in its direction when a shell burst through the roof. A tremendous explosion shook the earth for miles around. Before the depot was blown up, the French artillery destroyed the German field works in the same vicinity. Immediately following the explosion, an infantry charge was ordered, the French taking several of the enemy's trenches.
 Furious fighting along the German battle line, extending from St. Mihiel to Metz with first one side and then the other having the advantage, was also reported to-day in the official communique. Following a prolonged artillery duel, French troops in the forest of Apremont suddenly rushed from their trenches, and dashing across a stretch of clear ground they drove the Germans back 150 yards, capturing several lines of trenches. The Germans hastily reformed, and counter-attacked, but, according to the War Office, were driven back with severe losses.
 In the same region, northwest of Pont a Mousson, the Germans, who have halted the French advance towards Metz, continued their offensive movements, and to-day it is officially admitted that the enemy recaptured several yards of French trenches.
 In the north, artillery duelling at long range continued throughout yesterday, the French taking three German positions northwest of Beausieu. Jour after steady shelling had rendered the German positions untenable.
 French armies operating toward Mulhausen in Lower Alsace, are reported to be advancing. The official communique withholds comment upon the renewal of the German attack at Soissons.
DENIAL OF GERMAN SUCCESSES.
 PARIS, Jan. 21.
 An official denial of reported German successes near Notre Dame de Corrette, was issued here to-day. The office states that the German attack at this point, which is northwest of Arras, was repulsed completely, and that a company of Germans was captured. The German official statement yesterday said that a trench, 200 yards long, at Notre Dame de Corrette, was taken. To-day's German statement, however, says these trenches were re-captured by the Allies.

AMMUNITION DEPOT DESTROYED.
 PARIS, Jan. 21.
 The destruction of a big ammunition depot, from which the German forces were operating near Rheims, and drew their supplies, was this afternoon reported in official despatches. According to unofficial reports, this explosion of huge supplies of powder resulted in many deaths. French aviators located the ammunition depot and furnished the range to the Allies gunners. The guns had scarcely been trained in its direction when a shell burst through the roof. A tremendous explosion shook the earth for miles around. Before the depot was blown up, the French artillery destroyed the German field works in the same vicinity. THE CROWN PRINCE.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."
No resident of Europe excites more interest in the feverish reader of the daily war news than the Crown Prince of Germany, who will some day be called upon to rule either Europe and large sections of China or the fifth ward of Potsdam—depending upon circumstances which have been happening in great profusion since last August.

Unfortunately, the hurried correspondents who have been taking notes upon the present hostilities have not had time to compile a biography and description of the Crown Prince for the benefit of his many friends and supporters in this country. Through a careful reading of newspaper articles and news enabled to supply this deficiency and to turn a search light of information upon this eminent character.

The Crown Prince's undressed name is Frederick William. He is the son of Wm. Hohenzollern, a well known character on this planet, and was born in 1852. He was married in 1885 to Duchess Cecile, and has three sons, none of whom have as yet taken an active part in the war.

The Crown Prince is a tall, slender man with a good-natured face and a monstache apparently suffering from mal-nutrition. He wears a long military coat with the two-acre skirt so popular in the German army circles and the typical German helmet provided at the top with a spike as a protection against falling aviators.

The Crown Prince is a great horseman, a scholar, a good sport and a tremendous soldier. During the present war he has led armies simultaneously in France and Poland and has been one of the few men in history who have suffered a disastrous defeat, won a brilliant victory, addressed the people from a palace window and passed away quietly in a field hospital, all on the same day.

The Crown Prince has led many brilliant field campaigns, but has also spent his entire time planning the war with a pair of callipers and a map in Berlin. He has been wounded seven times, five times in a vital place, has been captured four times and killed twice. He has also fallen from several aeroplanes and is at present chasing Russians and driving his father's automobile through the Rhine country.

Having read the war news faithfully for information regarding this remarkable character, we are not certain whether he is a man or a fraternal order, but present the above conditions piously and hope for the best.

Yours,
W. A. HUTCHINSON.

ITALY'S REPLY TO AUSTRIA.

Rome, Jan. 17.—The Messaggero, commenting on articles appearing in the Austrian newspapers to the effect that Italy cannot rely on international aid, as at the time of the Messian earthquake, says, "The King is prepared to put into practice the motto of the great King Victor-Emmanuel, 'Italy is sufficient unto herself,' which, the paper adds, she may soon demonstrate on the field of honor and glory, when the moment comes to protect her rights."

The Features We Notice,

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

What features of the human face do you notice most? I think the average person notices the eyes, which is not strange, for eyes are surely the most human, the most personal, the most alive part of the face. They are well called the windows of the soul, though the windows are sometimes soiled by the dust of selfishness and deceit or the curtains of conventionality.

Color is the thing many people notice about the eyes. I know a woman who can tell you what colored eyes her most casual acquaintance has. Speak of the appearance of someone with whom she exchanged a dozen formal words of introduction and never met again and she will say, "What nice gray eyes he has!"

What color are your eyes?

It would seem as though even an unobserving person would know the color of his intimate friends' eyes, yet people are often surprisingly misled by lashes and general coloring. For instance, I know a girl who has black hair, an olive skin and very black lashes. People who know her instinctively often speak of her "black hair and black eyes." Yet, as a matter of fact, she has light golden brown eyes and it is only the dark curtain before them and the inference of her general coloring which makes them seem black.

Eyelashes, by the way, often make eyes that are not at all pretty or distinctive in themselves appear out of the ordinary and one frequently hears people remark on a girl's pretty eyes when her eyes are really commonplace. What they actually mean, though they may not know it, is that she has thick curly eyelashes.

A Squint as a Beauty Mark.

The shape of the eyes and the way they are set are as distinctive and varying as their coloring. Eyes set close together are supposed to be a sign of a mean character, while eyes set apart denote selfishness. Slightly slanting eyes give a piquancy to the face that is often worth more than beauty to its possessor. Eyes with a slight squint in them are charming if one is to believe Hall

Caine, who endows Glory Quayle with them, or Tolstol, who does the same for the heroine of "The Awakening."

The mouth is not so often noticed as the eyes but to me it is the most interesting, expressive feature of the face. Weakness or strength shows in every mouth. Sensuality or selfishness always betrays itself there, while sweetness of character, tenderness and sympathy mould the mouth into lines which, to me, are as beautiful as the finest pair of eyes.

The shape and setting of the ears, the line of the profile, the curve of the chin and throat, the sweep of the forehead and the general shape of the face are features which artists are more apt to notice than we common folks, but they are all interesting points and worth observing and studying. Incidentally, I think if we should learn to observe such things we should be surprised to find how many faces which we have thought utterly commonplace have some unobtrusively beautiful feature.

Byelashes, by the way, often make eyes that are not at all pretty or distinctive in themselves appear out of BATTLE OF ISANDULA: Rorke's Drift, 1878, when by the gallant defence by a small body of English soldiers, the Zulus were prevented from entering Natal, South Africa.

QUEEN VICTORIA died 1901, aged 82. Victoria the Good came to the throne of Great Britain in 1837, on the death of her uncle, William IV. She married Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha in 1840, and nine children were born of one of the happiest unions in history. Peace and prosperity evolved during her long and illustrious reign, and her statesmanship left an example that few men in a similar position can show.

BYRON born 1788. The poet, who exercised the greatest influence upon European thought during the early part of the 19th century. His "Child Harold's Pilgrimage," at once placed him in the front rank of poets and his many poems are full of passion, charm and beauty.

The heart will break, yet brokenly live on.—Byron.

TWO KINDS.

There are two kinds of people on earth today. Just two kinds of people, no more, I say. Not the stunner and saint, for his will understand.

The good are half bad and the bad are half good.

Not the rich and the poor, for, to count a man's wealth, You must first know the state of his conscience and health.

Not the humble and proud, for, in life's little span, Who puts on vain airs is not counted a man.

Not the happy and sad, for the swift flying years Bring each man his laughter and each man his tears.

No, the two kinds of people on earth is that "mean" man. Are the people who lift and the people who lean.

Wherever you go you will find the world's masses Are always divided in just these two. And, oddly enough, you will find too, I ween There is only one lifted to twenty who lean.

In which class are you? Are you easing the load of overworked lifters who rest down the road? Or are you a leaner, who lets others bear Your portion of labor, and worry and care? —Henry P. Lyman-Wheaton.

MERCHANT SHIPS BUILT DURING THE PAST YEAR.

London, Jan. 13.—Although it is not possible to give the figures of the total tonnage of ships launched, at the various yards of Great Britain, during the year 1914, owing to the abolition of the Admiralty that no details of warships shall appear in the returns, figures available for mercantile ship building indicate that the amount of such tonnage launched is about 1,174,000 tons, or some 200,000 tons less than in 1913. Several yards on the East coast, where the Government building is carried on, show a decrease collectively of about 100,000 tons in the output of mercantile vessels. On the other hand several yards usually associated only with mercantile building have been engaged solely in Government work creating the belief that if Government tonnage could be included, the figures for the year would create a record.

BRITAIN ASKS HER WOMEN TO SEND THE MEN.

London, Jan. 13.—An appeal to the women of Great Britain to send their husbands and sons to join the Army is printed in all newspapers this morning. It is one of the recruiting advertisements by the War Office, which has been using the newspapers freely in its efforts to procure men that Kitchener wants. The appeal reads:

"Do you realize that the safety of your home and your children depends on our getting more men now? Do you realize that one word, 'go,' from you may send another man to fight for our King and country?"

"When the war is over and your husband or your son is asked: 'What did you do in the war?' is he to hang his head because you would not let him go?"

Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion or Gas

Take "Pape's Diapiesin" and in five minutes you'll wonder what became of misery in stomach.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn "lumpy" head dizziness and aches, belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapiesin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapiesin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapiesin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

OBJECT TO THE SPELLING OF THE WORD SERBIA.

London, Jan. 13.—The Serb Legation in London has addressed a letter to the press and public, urging the adoption of the spelling "Serbian" "Serbia" instead of "Servian" and "Servia."

"The latter spelling," says the Legation spokesman, "is slightly offensive to our people, mainly because it suggests the false derivation from the Latin root meaning 'to serve.' It is a source of hidden pain to Serbians to see that some journals persist in using the corrupt forms."

The same letter requests wider publication and performance of the Serbian national hymn, "In restaurants and public places we hear the British patriotic songs and hymns, together with those of your allies, France, Russia, Belgium and Japan; yet alas, not that of Serbia which is really a beautiful piece of music."

A Mad World.

While seated in my warm abode I see John Doe pass up the road, that man of many woes; he wears one rubber and one shoe, the windy blast is blowing through his whiskers and his clothes. He has no place to sleep or eat, his only refuge is the street, his shelter heaven's vault; I see him in the storm abroad, and say, "But for the grace of God, there goes your Uncle Walt."

John Doe with gifts was richly blest; he might have distanced all the rest, had Fortune kindly been; but Fortune put the kibosh on the efforts of the luckless John, and never wore a grin. I wonder why an Edgar Poe found life a wilderness of woe, and starved in garrets bare, while birds who cannot sing for prunes eat costly grub from golden spoons, and purple raiment wear. I wonder why a Robert Burns must try all kinds of shifts and turns to gain his daily bread, the while a Southey basked at ease and stuffed himself with jam and cheese, a wreath upon his head. Such things have never been explained; I know not why it is ordained that I find life a snap; and gazing from my door I see John Doe, in speechless misery, a homeless, hungry chap.

AFTER LIFE.

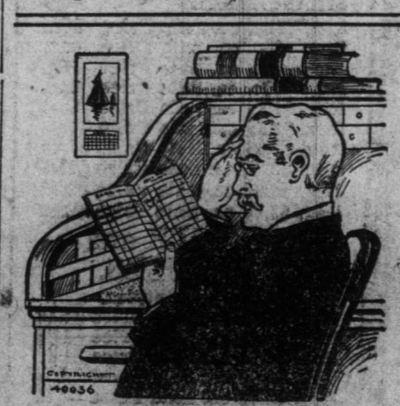

Sir Oliver Lodge, in an address at Browning Hall, London, said that his belief in the survival of the soul after death was based on scientific grounds.

"I say it, because I know that certain friends of mine still exist, because I have talked to them. Communication is possible. One must obey the laws, find out the conditions. I do not say it is easy, but I say it is possible, and I have conversed with them as I could converse with anyone in this audience now. Being scientific men they have given proof that it is real, not impersonation, not something emanating from myself. They have given definite proofs. Some of them are being published, many are being withheld for a time but will be published later.

"I tell you with all the strength of conviction which I can muster that the fact is so, that we do persist, that these people still take an interest in what is going on, that they still help us and know far more about things than we do, and that they are able from time to time to communicate. I know this is a tremendous statement—a tremendous conclusion. I don't think any of us, I don't think I myself realize how great a conclusion it is.

"It is not for everybody to investigate everything, but if persons give 30 or 40 years of their life in this investigation they are entitled to state results which they have arrived at. You must have evidence, of course. The evidence—such as we have got—is recorded in the volumes of a scientific society, and there will be much more evidence. The evidence is not a matter for casual conversation; it is a matter for serious study, and the conclusions that may be arrived at may be delayed.

"The conclusion is that the survival of existence is scientifically proved by careful scientific investigation, and that of itself leads us to a perception of the unity running through all states of existence. That is why I say that man is not alone and that I know he is surrounded by other intelligences. And if you once step over the boundary there is no limit to the higher intelligences, until you come to the Infinite Intelligence Itself. There is no stopping. You must go until you come to God."

THE CROWN PRINCE.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."
No resident of Europe excites more interest in the feverish reader of the daily war news than the Crown Prince of Germany, who will some day be called upon to rule either the fifth ward of Potsdam—depending upon circumstances which have been happening in great profusion since last August.

Unfortunately, the haggard correspondents who have been taking notes upon the present hostilities have not had time to compile a biography and description of the Crown Prince for the benefit of his many friends and supporters in this country. Through a careful reading of newspaper articles and perusal of magazine pictures we are now enabled to supply this deficiency and to turn a search light of information upon this eminent character.

The Crown Prince's undressed name is Frederick William. He is the son of Wm. Hohenzollern, a well known character on this planet, and was born in 1882. He was married in 1905 to Duchess Cecilie, and has three sons, none of whom have as yet taken an active part in the war.

The Crown Prince is a tall, slender man with a good-natured face and a somewhat apparently suffering from mal-nutrition. He wears a long military coat with the two-acre skirt so popular in the German army circles and the typical German helmet provided at the top with a spike as a protection against falling aviators.

The Crown Prince is a great horseman, a scholar, a good sport and a tremendous soldier. During the present war he has led armies simultaneously in France and Poland and has been one of the few men in history who have suffered a disastrous defeat, won a brilliant victory, addressed the people from a palace window and passed away quietly in a field hospital, all on the same day.

The Crown Prince has led many brilliant field charges, but has also spent his entire time planning the war with a set of callipers and a map in Berlin. He has been wounded several times, five times in a vital place, has been captured four times and killed twice. He has also fallen from several aeroplanes and is at present chasing Russians and driving his father's automobile through the Rhine country.

Having read the war news faithfully for information regarding this remarkable character, we are not certain whether he is a man or a fraternal order, but present the above conclusions plainly and hope for the best.

ITALY'S REPLY TO AUSTRIA.
Rome, Jan. 17.—The Messaggero, commenting on articles appearing in the Austrian newspapers to the effect that Italy cannot rely on international aid, as at the time of the Messina earthquake, says, the Kingdom is prepared to put into practice the motto of the great King Victor-Emmanuel, "Italy is sufficient unto herself," which, the paper adds, she may soon demonstrate on the field of honor and glory, when the moment comes to protect her rights.

Rose, Shamrock and Thistle.

Everyone knows of the rose, shamrock, and thistle as the floral emblems of England, Ireland and Scotland, and of course, the leek, though not a flower, for gallant little Wales; and, nowadays, that the sugar maple-leaf is the emblem of "Our Lady of the Snows" is vividly brought home to us when we see it worn by the Canadian troops who are in this country on their way to the front.

Other nations and cities have all their floral emblems, and the lily seems to be the favorite. Italy has chosen the lily, and also the City of Florence, whose Italian name is "Giglio," which means lily, and the city itself is spoken of as "The Flower of Cities and the City of Flowers." France, of course, has the lily in the fleur-de-lys.

Germany's is the cornflower, while Prussia's choice is the linden-tree, and the most famous thoroughfare in Berlin is known as the Unter den Linden. Spain's emblem is the pomegranate, and its wonderful City of Grenada is named after that fruit. Egypt, with the glories of the Nile, appropriately chooses the lotus. Athens has the violet, while Saxony has the sweet-scented magnonette.

Be Cured To-Day of Backache.

Your persistent backache can have but one cause—Diseased Kidneys—and they must be strengthened before the back-ache can be cured. Your best remedy, and the quickest to act, is Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they cure kidney back-ache in a hurry. Simply wonderful is the action of this grand old medicine which for liver, kidney and stomach disorders has no equal. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will surely cure your back weariness, they will bring your appetite, color, strength and good spirits. Being purely vegetable they are mild, not drastic. Get a 25c. bottle of Dr. Hamilton's Pills to-day.

GERMANS WARNED NOT TO WASTE A CRUMB OF BREAD.

London, Jan. 13.—A fervid exhortation to the people of Germany to husband their food supply has just been issued by Dr. Harms, professor of state science at the University of Kiel. Here is a specimen of its language:

"Do not let a crumb of bread, this gift of God, be wasted. Eat only war bread! Regard the potato as a vegetable which will assist you in holding out. Blush with shame if your desire for delicacies tempts you to eat cakes and tarts! Look upon those with contempt! Who are so immoral as to eat cakes and by their greed diminish our supplies of flour?"

ITALIANS VOLUNTEER ALL OVER THE WORLD.

Chiasso, Jan. 18.—Preparations for war are increasing. Ricciotti Gariboldi is receiving thousands of letters from Italians wishing to enlist. Some of them come from abroad, mostly from America. Buenos Ayres offers about 2,000, New York City, 1,500, Monte Video 1,000, Chicago, 800, and Rio de Janeiro 500.

The French government has announced that it will allow all Italian volunteers now in France to return to Italy if the latter enters the war.

At the Crescent.

"From the Lion's Jaws" is the headliner presented at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day. This exciting two-reel feature is produced by the Bison Photo Play Co., who really have excelled themselves in depicting the big game of South Africa; the rescue of the Boer's daughter from the lion's jaws is most realistic. "For Love and Liberty" is a drama produced by George Hall and acted by the Universal all-star Kid Cast. The acting of these juveniles is certainly marvelous. "A Visit to Brittany, France," is a beautiful travalgogue film. "A Mexico Mix" is a joker comedy featuring Max Asher and all the joker lively tumblers. J. O'Neil Farrell, baritone, sings a classy ballad. On Monday a "Gold Seal" 3 reel feature "Captain Jenny, S.A."

Here and There.

HEAVY ICE NORTH.—Capt. Kean of the Prospero reports very heavy ice north, particularly at Cape John and Conche, the steamer being jammed at both places. No freight could be landed at Conche.

JUDGMENT FOR DEFENDANT.—In the case of Bradbury vs. Collishaw for alleged wrongful dismissal, tried before Judge Knight in the Central District Court on Tuesday last, judgment was delivered to-day for the defendant.

B. I. S. CARD TOURNAMENT.—An interesting card tournament took place at the B. I. S. Rooms last evening. About 75 members participated. The prizes, three silk umbrellas, presented by Hon. M. P. Cashin and Messrs. Power (Baldris), and Wm. J. Harris, were keenly contested for. The lucky winners were Messrs. M. Kelly, Thomas Power and P. J. Grace.

SAVING THE GUNS.

Letter home from Driver George Toke, of the R.F.A.

We are having a lot of snow. We have to eat our food in the open. We cannot sit down as everything is wet. It's not half lively, I can tell you.

When we have a few minutes to spare, we tie a lump of rag up for a football and kick that about, but it does not last long.

In the battle — we lost a lot of men, but the Germans got a smack in the eye. They lost thousands. . . . I have been very lucky, as my centre driver and wheel driver have been killed. I may tell you my heart nearly stopped, as I was expecting my turn next. When you see your mates lying dead it makes your blood run cold, but all the same I am not downhearted yet. While there is life there is hope.

You will have seen a fine piece of work done by our battery. The work of the battery was saving the guns at —. A German airship flew over the top of our battery where we were in action, and he dropped a signal and the Germans got the range of us. Then the shells started coming down, dropping all around us and among us. Our chaps were dropping down dead and wounded. Two guns got put out of action. We got orders to limber up the guns. We came up at full speed, and I think we were mad. Anyway, we got there and brought the artillery to safety. I said "Good-bye" to all and myself, as I thought it was my last, but I escaped unhurt. Two gunners on the guns got killed, and the driver behind us as we were coming out of action. But I may tell you we had been giving them some stick.

Clothing the Army.

Some idea of the needs of an army such as Britain now has at the front and at home may be gathered from the following statements and figures published in the "Times." In peace times the issue of boots for one year amounts to 245,000 pairs, but at present there are, delivered or on order, 6,500,000 pairs for first outfit and upkeep for six months only, and it may be imagined that the bootmakers in those islands are busily employed. Similarly, we usually issue 114,000 pairs of woollen drawers a year, and have now 7,000,000 pairs on order for half a year.

Instead of 43,000 greatcoats, we now need 1,500,000 in hand; 250,000 service dress jackets has increased to 5,250,000, not to speak of 5,000,000 pairs of trousers, 4,500,000 pairs of puttees, 11,000,000 shirts, 11,000,000 pairs of socks, besides caps, pants, Highland shoes, cardigans, towels, field dressings, and so on in the same relative proportions.

Since the beginning of the war, apart from the issues made locally by Territorial Associations, 1,000,000 pairs of boots, over 2,000,000 pairs of socks, 1,000,000 shirts, and 500,000 caps have been delivered to the Army.

NOTHING BUT THE BEST IN MOTION PICTURES AT THE

"From the Lions Jaws."

An exciting 2 reel feature produced by the Bison Photo Play Company. The scenes are all laid in South Africa and the lions and leopards haunt.

"FOR LOVE AND LIBERTY"—A drama presented by the Universal all-Star Kid cast. ed by George Hall and acted by the Universal all-star Kid Cast.

"A VISIT TO BRITAIN, FRANCE"—A beautiful scenic film.

"A MEXICO MIX"—A joker comedy with Max Asher and all the joker tumblers.

J. O'NEILL FARRELL, Baritone, singing popular songs and ballads.

On Monday we present "CAPTAIN JENNY, S.A."—A Gold Seal Feature in 3 Reels.

Our Volunteers

Five more volunteers were added to the Second Contingent yesterday, making a total of 895 enrolled to date. The following are the names of those who enlisted yesterday:—
Geo. Bowring, St. John's.
Jno. Morrissey, St. John's.
Jas. Walsh, St. John's.
Wm. Thistle, St. John's.
Garrett Burke, St. John's.
As the weather was unfavourable for outdoor drill yesterday, squad drill was held at the C. L. B. Armoury. The men of No. 8 platoon were sworn and the distribution of kit was continued. To-night the doctors will resume the work of medical examination, and those who have not yet been examined are requested to be present at the C. L. B. Armoury.

Nairn's Reception to Newfoundlanders

SPEECH BY SIR R. FINLAY.
Three hundred of the Newfoundland Contingent, which arrived recently at Fort George from Salisbury Plains, held a route march yesterday in fine weather to Nairn—a distance of eight miles—where they were entertained to tea in the Millbank Public School by the Nairnshire branch of the Victoria League, and an address was delivered by Sir R. B. Finlay.

Sir R. B. Finlay, who met with a hearty reception, said it was a great thing that Nairn should have the honor of welcoming so large a force from their premier British Colony. Newfoundland was first in point of time in the history of their dominions beyond the sea, and he was certain that Newfoundland would not be last in the race of glory, in which all their dominions were now embarked. (Applause.) It was that distinguished man Sir Humphrey Gilbert who 320 years ago took possession of Newfoundland on behalf of Queen Elizabeth. Sir Humphrey Gilbert presented another point of interest for them in the expedition on which they were now engaged. The Belgians had shown to the world that the old spirit of national pride and national independence was still alive. Whatever the result of the war might be, the cruelties perpetrated by the Germans would steep their nation with infamy as long as there was any justice in Europe. (Applause.) He thought the Newfoundlanders were to be congratulated that it was at this time they were going to take part in the fight. He thought the tide was turning. (Applause.)—Nairn Paper.

Prospero Back From North.

The s.s. Prospero, Capt. A. Kean, arrived to-day from the northward after a trying trip, which occupied eighteen days. Stormy weather and heavy ice was experienced for practically the entire round trip. The ship got as far north as Griquet, the terminus, though having to omit several ports of call owing to the ice blockade. The Prospero got jammed several times in White Bay. She brought a full freight and as passengers in saloon: Messrs. C. A. C. Bruce, S. K. Bell, R. White, R. Moulton, C. Parsons, S. Gill, T. Abbott, Whiteaway, House, Abbott, G. Bury; Misses Ridout, Tilley and 8 in steerage.

Every Ring perfect in workmanship and design; 18k Rings from $6.00 up. May we send you a Ring Size Card?

MR. CUSTOMER,—

Probably you've economised by doing without your usual suit and overcoat during Fall of 1914. Are you going to have that down-and-out look in Spring 1915? The Allies have millions of men on the firing line, each requiring thirteen pounds of wool every six or eight weeks. The British Government are keeping British Mills turning-out army contracts.

Spring quotations for woollens are sky high. We have on hand a particularly fine range of Serges, Tweed Suitings and Overcoatings. Order now as you will have to pay considerably higher in the Spring.

New French Uniform!

The new French Field Service Uniform now making its appearance at the front is of a light blue-grey color, though less light and less grey than that of the Germans, from which it is easily distinguishable, except at greater distances.

It will blend well with the winter landscape. Some red-and-white threads are woven into the blue to salve patriotic regrets over the historic blue tunic and red trousers.

This new Uniform like any other Uniform, being made of serviceable material, DRY CLEANS splendidly.
