Germany Faces Another Peril -- Communist Uprising Reported -- President Ebert Returns to Berlin -- German Capital in Ugly Humour -- Radicals in Charge of Many Towns.

A PERIL OF BOLSHEVISM.

LONDON, March 18. Germany has cast off the Governmental regime, suddenly set up by the reactionary elements on last Saturday morning, but advice indicate she is now facing another extreme peril in the form of a wave of radicalism. Reports from Berlin says Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, the reactionary Chancellor, and his adherents have either fled from the city or contemplate going at once. Rumors that Kapp had committed suicide were received at Amsterdam by telephone from Berlin this morning. Armed forces of the reactionary element are leaving Berlin to-day, and the presence of Gustave Noske, Minister of Defence in the Ebert Government, who arrived in Berlin last night by airplane from Stuttgart, would seem to indicate that the constitutional Government intends to resume control immediately. General Von Seeckt, president Ebert's chief of Staff, has been named commander of the Government forces in Berlin. Announcements by Dr. Kapp, as well as official statements from the Ebert Government, reflect the fear of a radical uprising in Germany. In fact, Dr. Kapp's announcement stated he had resigned from the direction of affairs so that the country might be able to fight Bolshevism. From various cities come reports of uprising of workers, and advices from Berlin state that Red forces under the command of Spartist leaders are marching on that city. As Ebert troops have not as yet resumed full control, attack by the Reds is feared. Throughout Germany, Radical elements have in many places taken over the direction of affairs at least temporarily. Proletariat dictatorships have been set up at several places, while Leipzig workers were driving Government troops from the suburbs of the city and were engaged late yesterday in street fighting. In the Rhenish and Westphalian industrial districts it is said workers are the radical leaders.

ASSEMBLY AT STUTTGART.

STUTTGART, March 17. Two hundred and fifty members of the German National Assembly held a meeting in the Art Hall here this afternoon. Military forces are occupying the great open space before the Hall. No disorders occurred while the members were assembling. Airplanes are flying over the city warning people against demonstrations.

COMMUNISTS MARCHING AGAINST BERLIN.

BERLIN, March 18. Ellis Loring Dresel, Acting Commissioner and United States Charge d'Affaires in this city, has informed the Department in Washington that now that Dr. Kapp's regime has fallen, the whole danger lies in a Communist uprising. Communist forces are reported to be marching on Berlin from various other cities, but Mr. Dresel says if a few hours more pass quietly the crisis may be averted.

EBERT IN BERLIN.

LONDON, March 18. The German President Ebert arrived in Berlin last night, according to a telephone message received from Berlin.

LUETWITZ QUITS.

AMSTERDAM, March 18. The German General John Luetwitz, who commanded the troops which supported the Kapp Government, has left Berlin with his forces, according to telephone message from Berlin this morning.

A SOCIALIST ARMY.

PARIS, March 18. Official advices from Berlin describing conditions there last night said that the public places of the city were filled with crowds in ugly humour. The military appeared to be panicky. Many of the Baltic troops have joined the Socialists, who are reported to have 12,000 armed men at their command.

NOSKE ON THE GENERALS.

STUTTGART, March 18. Gustav Noske, Minister of Defence in the Ebert Government, before departing for Berlin to-day, said the Ebert Administration would be back in Berlin within a week. He explained his failure to use force before departing from Berlin for Dresden, declaring his Generals had abandoned him: "I always knew the Generals were not altogether friendly to the Government, but I never thought they would be such fools," Herr Noske said.

SPARTACAN BUTCHERY.

LONDON, March 18. An artillery battery at Weller Westphalia has been wiped out by Spartacans, who killed all the officers and nearly all the men.

REASONS FOR KAPP'S COUP.

LONDON, March 18. The War Office declares that there have been no disturbances in occupied territory, where people were opposed to the Kapp dictatorship. Workmen's Councils of Soviet type, which have been established in some of the factories in Cologne, are being suppressed. Information received by the war office justifies the statement that the Kapp coup has resulted in a revival of the Spartacan movement. Official advices report that the Kappist coup was precipitated by several reasons. These were first, the impression prevailing that the Government intended to defend Mathias Erzberger, former Finance Minister, which was intensified; second, the Government was beginning to suspect the existence of a militarist plot and had decided to prosecute its chief; third, the naval brigade resented its reduction in accordance with the terms of the peace treaty; and fourth, the refusal of Gustave Noske, Minister of Defence, to appoint General Hoffman to a command, occasioned a conflict with General Von Luetwitz and the latter's dismissal. Confirmation is given in official despatches of the reported creation of Workmen's Councils at Munich and Dresden, and that the military at Frankfurt had declared for revolution and fled after some fighting.

SERIOUS AT LEIPSIG.

COBLENZ, Mar. 18. Two hundred Americans, who have been attending the fair at Leipzig, have telegraphed and telephoned Major General Allen, commanding the American Army of Occupation, urgently asking for help to leave Leipzig, where they describe conditions as dangerous to their lives. General Allen is sending a special train to bring the Americans away. Fighting is almost continuous in various parts of Leipzig, and all light and water services have been cut off, according to the Americans, who are principally buyers from various parts of the United States.

INCOME TAX.

LONDON, Mar. 18. The Royal Commission on the Income Tax, recommends in respect of incomes taxed in both Great Britain and in the Dominion of Canada, that there should be deducted from the United Kingdom the whole of the Canadian tax charged in respect to the same income. This recommendation is subject to certain reservations concerning the maximum amount of relief granted.

STATEMENT BY LLOYD GEORGE.

LONDON, Mar. 18. Questioned in the House of Commons concerning when a statement of policy in regard to the situation in Germany would be made, Lloyd George said to-day that in a rapidly changing situation, such as that at present in Germany, the Government does not consider any fresh statement on policy is possible. The matter was under consideration, and the public might rest assured that Great Britain, in common with her Allies, intended to see that the peace treaty terms were observed.

The Advent of the Man.

The Goods and the Guarantee.

I AM KEARNEY--THE MAN, the projector of My Store's New Policy. The creator of the iron-bound GUARANTEE that protects every purchaser of my Quality Goods.

FIVE YEARS OF INCREASING SUCCESS IN SELLING QUALITY GOODS!

This is my record. Under my management the old firm of Smyth's earned the reputation of the "QUALITY STORE", a favorite resort for young men. It pleased me to know that I was giving Better Service, Better Value--it pleased me to hear the young men say among themselves, "If it doesn't wear well; if it doesn't bring you back in Quality as much as you paid, bring it back--KEARNEY WILL MAKE IT RIGHT." Yes, I would rather lose than have my customers dissatisfied. And the Young Men who frequent my Store are quick to recognize square dealing. My trade is not the trade of the passing customer. My customers "stick."

BEGINNING MY GREATEST YEAR

I want to make this my First Year of ownership a year filled with great endeavor. I want my young men customers to say of me: "He will make Right; HIS WORD IS HIS BOND." I want the support of every young man who looks for Quality and Style in his Furnishings; and for this I will give Greater Value than any other man in my line--for this I have THE GOODS.

Customers of mine who come often to my Store know how complete my stock is; how critically it is kept.

PONDER OVER THIS! I bought One Year ahead! I bought so heavily, so keenly alive to the probabilities of the future that I have no need to fear that the Spring and Summer Seasons will catch me unprepared; that my customers will have to bear the brunt of any shortsightedness. It is the KEARNEY FIRST spirit again!

AND I HAVE THE WORLD'S BEST GOODS!

Famous Lines of Proven Quality; Latest Styles exploited by manufacturers that Paris Modistes are glad to copy. I have agencies for three Famous Continental Hats. Skeptics who doubt my word--what do you say to this:

BORSALINO'S from Italy, the land of Art and Song.

STETSON'S from America. Stetson Style is Broadway Style.

CHRISTY'S from England. Bond Street welcomes every New Style created by Christy artists.

Each season the same styles that are new in Sicily, on Broadway, on Bond Street, will be shown in my Store; an item of service that enables my customers to wear the world's newest creations.

THE GUARANTEE.

Let me ask you this: Did you ever bring back to any store an article that was defective, when you believed you had reason for being dissatisfied, and had the article taken back without argument and the matter made "right"? This is the KEARNEY FIRST way. When I guarantee anything I sell; when I give you my word, it is a guarantee that will protect you till the article has given full value for the price paid. Know then that MY WORD IS MY BOND.

KEARNEY.

Mothers' Advice

The responsibility for a daughter's future largely rests with the mother. The right influence and the information which is of vital interest to the daughter imparted at the proper time has not only saved the life but insured the success of many a beautiful girl. When a girl's thoughts become sluggish with headaches, dizziness, or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs and a desire for solitude, her mother should come to her aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities. Thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of this medicine, and what it has done for their daughters.

Brooklyn, N. Y.--"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For 3 months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I did not know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."--Mrs. M. FROGAN, 518 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Resolution of Condolence.

At the monthly meeting of the St. John's T.A. & B. Society held on Sunday, the resolution of condolence was moved by Mr. James Jackman, and seconded by Mr. James J. Spratt, who paid a high tribute to the memory of the late Bishop Power, viz.:
BE IT RESOLVED, That this Society record its profound regret at the great loss sustained by the Roman Catholic Church through the demise of the Right Rev. M. F. Power, Bishop of St. George's, and that an expression of the Society's deepest sympathy be tendered to the family of the deceased Prelate, in their sad bereavement;
BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the family of the deceased Prelate, and that a copy be inserted in the records of the Society.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

DO YOU THINK THIS A HERESY?

I have a heresy to propound today. At least I know many people will consider it a heresy. See what you think. At a hotel where I once stayed, was a very crusty, crotchety old man. He was most impatient, spoke out his mind about everything, and in general showed that he had never learned to put any check upon his natural irritability and self-will. This man's wife, on the other hand, was an exceptionally sweet, gentle woman. A companion who had lived with her for years, said "I never heard Mrs. S. speak a cross word."

Was it Lucky or Unlucky?

People often said "Lucky for Mr. S. he has such a sweet, patient wife. Most women wouldn't put up with him."

Now my heresy is this: I don't believe that it was lucky for Mr. S. that he had such a sweet patient wife.

On the contrary, I think he might have been a less disagreeable man if he had had a wife who did speak a cross word now and then to him. Of course I may be wrong, but I can't help feeling that one of the main reasons why he has never learned to put a check on his irritability is because she has put up with him so sweetly; and that if there had been a penalty of resentment or rebuke from her, he might have been more careful.

Why does a child learn respect for the rights of others in school? Because if he doesn't learn it to a certain extent, he is pretty sure to be made uncomfortable by the other children.

What Made the Kaiser What He Was?

Did you by any chance see in one of our recent magazines a most interesting set of pictures of the Kaiser from his youth until the fatal day when he decided to conquer the world. The first pictures are not so unamiable, but the haughtiness, the look of self-conceit and self-will grows in each picture, until in the last he looks like the spirit of pride and selfishness come to life. What caused the change? Simply the atmosphere in which he lived. He never met opposition, never heard the truth about himself and the result was that all his worst qualities strengthened and developed.

Suppose he had had a totally different atmosphere, would he not have been a totally different man?

Suppose the old man at the hotel had been vigorously opposed in his youth when he vented his irritability on his wife, might he not have learned that this kind of self-indulgence did not bring him happiness and have learned to curb it?

"Firmly" is Better than Crossly.

Perhaps in suggesting that it would have been a good thing if his wife spoke "crossly" to him now and then, I used the wrong word.

"Firmly," I think, would be better.

Most of us do get cross when we are fighting against crossness, but of course that isn't necessary or helpful.

Nor does fretful nagging do any good.

But I do think it does sometimes help to offer a firm and vigorous reprimand for your sake, for the offenders' sake, and for the sake of abstract justice, to the habit of unjustifiable (please do not confuse with that caused by ill health or worry) indulgence in irritability.

SPRING-HUNGER.

Gettin' hungry for the trees
An' the whisp'rin' of the bees.
Gettin' hungry for the patter
Of the rain upon the pane;
Gettin' hungry for the birds
An' their glad songs without words.
Gettin' hungry for the blossoms
An' the sunshine once again.

Been shut in all winter long,
An' I'm weary of the song
Of the north wind an' it's moanin'
An' I'm gettin' restless now;
An' once more I'd like to see
Signs o' life on every tree,
An' hear the farmer callin'
To the horses at the plow.

I'll be glad when I can get Out o' doors once more, an' let
The breezes o' the spring time
Play their game o' tag with me;
I'll be glad when I can quit
The old fireplace here, and sit
In the theatre of nature,
Where there is so much to see.

I want to get outside,
Free from selfishness an' pride,
An' watch the panorams
Of a waking world again;
I want to loaf an' dream
By a certain little stream,
An' learn from trees an' song birds
How we ought to live as men.

Evening gowns have twisted sashes of brilliant colors.

The Observant Tommy.

The British Tommy found much to make him wonder in the character of his Poltu comrade on the French front. According to an Englishwoman who has received many confidences on the subject, the courage, the endurance, the pluck and daredevil heroism of the French all received their due admiration from the Britisher. "They know how to die, these fellows," it would be, and perhaps, "No one ever taught us how to die like that!" But the thing that really shocked Tommy, and that he could not in the least understand, was the Frenchman's saving propensities, his love of money, avidity (yet no one can be more generous in a case of real need or on a great occasion.) Those who know them say that the French are fond of money because they are fond of the future; as a race they are contemptuous of the present, and have always an object ahead for the sake of which it is a delight to deprive themselves. The little boy will do without some toy because of the bicycle he is to have five years hence; the young couple are saving for the dowry of a child still in her cradle, and the elderly pair are putting something by for that cottage in the country where they hope to live out their old age in happiness. They will find another object then to save for, if it be only the founding of an annual prize for the French Academy.

Father Vaughan on Modern Dress.

Father Bernard Vaughan, the famous Jesuit, whose views on modern conduct of living have attracted wide attention than perhaps any living authority, is quoted as having recently made the following statement with regard to the manner in which fashionable woman clothes herself:

"When I ask myself what is inspiring the present tendency to gayety in women's modern costumes, my answer is that it cannot be a rightful desire to promote the health of our debutantes, because to-day's want of clothing is savagely exposing them to consumption and its kindred ailments, not by hundreds, but by thousands; so I am assured by a competent authority. Our girls, who ought to live to a ripe old age, droop and die like flowers unfed by warmth and sunshine. Improperly fed and immodestly dressed, they defy all the law of hygiene and down they go.

"To-day's fashions are bizarre, distorted and ridiculous. They are designed not to drape the human form, and keep it warm, beautiful and comfortable, but to awaken in man unholy desires. How such conduct can be defended, it is impossible for me, as a Christian man, to conjecture. Personally, I feel quite sure that studied immodesty on the part of girls defeats its own ends.

"A decent man who intends to marry a girl and make her queen of his heart and mistress of his home, is not going to choose for his partner a girl who has so little self-respect that she does not even know how to clothe herself in decency. He may toy with her, but his wife she never will be. My advice to girls in this: Dress to keep dry, warm and comfortable, and prove to the other sex that you have the self-reverence and self-control which forbids you to offend God by defying laws which He has set up for your protection, your welfare and your happiness here and hereafter."

THE AUTO SHOWS.

Each year I go to see the show where autos are displayed, those works of art from every mart, the finest wagons made. The limousine in brewster green, with cushions large and fat! "Some day," I sigh, "I hope to buy a gorgeous van like that." The new sedan of noble plan suggests a lifelong bias. "Some day," I moan, "I hope to own just such a bus as this." And, bright and gay, the new coupe appeals to me, you bet; had I the wad, I'd scorch abroad in such a wagonette. I view them all, the big and small, the open and the closed; they are so fine I shed some brine, as haply you've supposed; the luscious peach beyond your reach is wormwood to the soul, and gorgeous boats coast many groats, and I've mislaid my roll. I walk the floor and look them o'er, and sigh to gaffers near, "The old tin boat that gets my goat must do another year."

The Scot Scored.

A London angler, thinking his Highland boatman was not treating him with the respect due to his station, said:

"Look here, my good man, you don't seem to grasp who I am. Do you know that my family has been entitled to bear arms for the last two hundred years?"

"Hoots, that's nothing," was the reply. "My ancestors have been entitled to bare legs for the last two thousand years."

Where Do Our Fashions Come From?

By V. I. DICKENS.
(Toronto Saturday Night.)

Fashions from the Museum sound like a paradox. There we expect to find, and do find, the ancient, the historical, and nothing which may be described by the phrase "up-to-date." Yet, a visitor to the Royal Ontario Museum a few months ago recognized her dress in the suit of armour described, as belonging to Cromwell. In fact, museums are a source of design, and often an inspiration to the dress designer. It is not possible to say that there is always a reason for certain styles or fashion, but, it is a well known fact that at the beginning of the war, dressmakers sought the museum's collections of armour for ideas and secured them. It was not then so difficult to answer the question, "Where do the fashions come from?" The origin of many of the styles at that time was easily recognized by the most casual observer. The echoes of the war on women's dress was at that time obvious, too, in the styles which were adapted from the modern uniform.

But it is one of the accomplishments of the advanced and highly efficient artist-designer not to make too obvious the source of the design or the influence which inspired the style. There is no art in copying. An illustration of this artistic suggestiveness is given by Miss Burbank in her recently published book, "Woman as Decorator." She tells of an exhibition of gowns from Paris, the output of a modern genius. Tube-like jet beads, which are in vogue as decoration, were used upon a dark-blue serge in parallel lines sewn closely together, giving the effect of a shirt of mail. "Not at once, but only gradually" did it dawn upon us that most of the gowns bore, in some shade or form, the tricolor of France!

Although the line in costume designing and the silhouette are of first importance, pattern, trimming, suggestions are required by the designer. The illustration showing the coat of mail, the armour of the English officer of the XVII Century, is a splendid example of design and it suggests many possibilities for decoration and line. There is material here for study in the beautiful arrangement of studs, raised lines, buckles, and clasps. The hat carries out the line and studding arrangement to perfection. It is rather a good hat! Its simplicity and line are appealing. And one might find it very becoming and comfortable in anything but the present material.—old iron. "His military hats glare full in the face," is a medieval complaint against someone's aggressive nature typified by the shine and polish of the metal hat. Reproduced in modern material there would be no "glare" to this modest little hat. It could not suggest "glare" as much as some creations which can boast of no metallic ancestry. It has line and its decoration harmonizes with that line—a very quiet little hat suitable for—well that depends again on the person.

The Cromwell hat has not the same attraction. There is not the same feeling for design and the revelation of the real artist in the attempt to procure a fitness and harmony in pattern and form. The craftsman who made the suit of XVII century armour was without doubt an artist.

To know something of the art of the past; to be able to recognize and appreciate the beautiful are really necessary to the designer of modern clothes. Designing of costumes, making clothes in a craft with which all of us are more or less concerned. We occasionally hear of women who design their own clothes and whose orders are carried out by their dressmakers. There is certainly a new interest in connection with dress, following even a limited study of its history.

And as to hats, milliners are resurrecting models found in museums. The ancient head-dress on the whole were very good—those found in the armor section of the Royal Ontario Museum at least. Armor is only one of a very small part of the stores of the treasure house of art. Dress designing is a living art. The master designers of dress in Europe and America are taking all that is best and most beautiful from the past and with skill and taste are producing for the future. This is one beneficial and good use of our heritage of the ages. The past few seasons have been revealing studies in Chinese, Japanese and the art of the East. Our modern dress should be more beautiful in line and color than ever before. And so what is worn today may be the best of the old—the very old, possibly five thousand years old—the results of the careful study of the historic costumes.

Odd and Interesting.

Invented German Cannon to Slaughter Civilians.

It is said that Prof. Rausenberger would like to disown the sudden fame that came to him on Good Friday in the spring of 1918 when the Germans began to bombard Paris with a gun that would send a projectile seventy-five miles. On that holy day, the Germans began a campaign that was intended to terrorize the French capital. It followed close upon the first great drive of that year which had smashed the Fifth British Army. The high command considered that this was the psychological moment to disclose to the world the fact that they possessed a gun with which it was possible to bombard cities over seventy miles distant. Paris was greatly alarmed by the spring offensive, so Parisians would be given something more to worry about. The first thing that this gun accomplished was the wrecking of a church, in which a number of Good Friday worshippers were killed. The bombardment of Paris by this great gun continued at intervals as long as the Germans were in a position to do so. It was announced that the man who invented the gun was Prof. Rausenberger, who was in charge of the heavy gun section of the Krupp Works. The Germans boasted about Rausenberger's accomplishment, but the allied experts declared that it was nothing to be very proud of. The fact that it was more or less indefinite in its aim made the gun useless so far as battles were concerned. It could only be used for the purpose of killing and terrorizing the civilian population. In fact the 75-mile gun has never been used in any military operation. On that account Prof. Rausenberger has been named as one of the men who ought to figure in the list of German War Criminals. It is claimed by those who mention his name that he should be made to prove that the gun was intended to figure in plans of battle and that it actually did so. Otherwise it may be concluded that Prof. Rausenberger deliberately devised a new scheme for the wholesale murder of civilians. And now word comes from Germany that Prof. Rausenberger and his friends would like to have it understood that he was by no means entirely responsible for the invention of the gun. Such modesty is becoming and also suggests that Rausenberger is not altogether unacquainted with the phrase "Safety First."

The Dog Waiter.

A man and wife moved to New York from the west—a sane, conservative man and wife, used to money and knowing the worth of it—and brought a family dog along, paying $5 extra fare for the dog, by the way, on the train. They went to a large and ornate hotel and in the due course of time the dog needed sustenance. "Ring for a waiter," said the husband, "and we'll get the dog some scraps." The floor waiter came and when asked to bring some food for the dog explained with some hauteur that he was the floor waiter and not the dog waiter, but would inform the dog waiter of the desires of the dog. The dog waiter arrived in course of time and the predicament of the dog was explained to him. The dog waiter wrote down the order carefully and departed. Presently he returned bearing a silver tray on which were displayed daintily various articles of food—some vegetables, some meat and a cracker or two. "What's that?" asked the husband, examining the contents of the tray with interest. "The service for the dog, sir," the waiter replied. "How much is it?" "One dollar, sir." The husband took the tray. "Get the dog a bone," he said. "I'll eat this. It's the best looking meal I have seen in the place, and the cheapest."

Has to Wait 28 Years to Duplicate First Birthday.

Little Miss Madigan, youngest daughter of William Madigan, of the Western Union Cable Office at North Sydney, had her first birthday Feb. 29. As a matter of fact, it was her original birthday. She was born in it.

What Miss Madigan thinks about arriving in this world on Sunday, the 29th of February, she refused to disclose to the press. Her remarks during the day were confined to non-committal utterances which cannot be used to convict her when she grows up.

So far as is known up to the present, Miss Madigan is the one and only Leap Year baby in this end of the district, at least she is the first to be reported. Her sex was correctly chosen to suit the occasion.

During the whole of her life she will have to face the aggravating fact of only having one birthday every four years. She will not only have to wait four years between birthday parties, in her younger days, but as she grows older, she will realize with despair that every birthday she passes, makes her not one year, but four years older.

Also, whereas the ordinary person has at least one birthday on a Sunday in every eight years, so that at least once in that period they can snooze in and lay off and celebrate a bit, little Miss Madigan will have to wait 28 years before the church bells ring on her natal day again.

Nevertheless, she was born under the lucky star of womanhood and if there be anything in omens she will probably be the first lady member of parliament from this district.—Sydney Record.

Welch's Grapelage
1 cup Milk
¼ teaspoonful Vanilla
Juice of ½ Lemon
3 tablespoonfuls Butter
2 tablespoonfuls Sugar
2 tablespoonfuls Flour
2 Eggs.
Peel and dice apple, sprinkle with lemon juice and let stand. Melt butter in a saucepan, remove from fire and cool. Then add very slowly balance of milk. When smooth add sugar, vanilla and beaten yolks. Mix thoroughly and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Place apple in baking dish; put spoonfuls of grapelage roughly over apple and pour over this the souffle mixture. Bake in a hot oven from 35 to 40 minutes. Serve hot with cream or plain. May also be served cold with whipped cream.

Their Own Museums.

The curiosities preserved by various business houses in Berlin and elsewhere would make a museum of unparalleled interest.

The Worcester China Works, for instance, possess samples of all the various kinds of china which they have manufactured for nearly one hundred and fifty years past, including examples of dinner services made for many celebrities, such as Lord Nelson and George IV.

Another Worcester firm preserves with tender care a little faded slip of yellowish paper. On it is written the recipe, now some two centuries old, which was purchased by a former head of the firm from a butler, and has been the means of creating a large business and several large fortunes.

More than one firm cherishes some similar recipe. The Sprules, who supply lavender-water to half the Royal families in the world; the Nans, who hold the original recipe for maraschino. Both these carefully preserve the writings which founded their fortunes.

The famous firm of Sheffield cutlery, Messrs. Joseph Rodgers & Sons, show visitors a knife with 1,900 blades. Ten fresh blades are added to it every tenth year. A second curiosity of which the firm is proud consists of three pairs of scissors so minute that all three can be covered by an ordinary lady's thimble. Another Sheffield firm possesses a knife which, though only an inch in length when closed, yet has seventy blades of all different shapes.

A London firm of potted meat manufacturers possesses an interesting collection of the covers of the large china pots in which potted meat used to be sold some forty years ago. These are daintily printed in colour from designs by some of the best-known Dutch and English artists of the time. Each is framed, and probably no other house can show a prettier or quarterer collection.

Shipping firms of old standing often accumulate wonderful stores of interesting relics. One Liverpool firm possesses a huge bone taken from a whale which a good many years ago deliberately charged a ship of theirs in the North Atlantic. The steamer was badly damaged, but the whale was killed.

A good many firms preserve historic machinery of one kind or another. Richard Arkwright's own spinning frame is still to be seen at the Cromford Mills. It looks clumsy enough compared with the complicated and highly-finished machinery of 1906, but it was practically the source of Lancashire's great cotton trade and unexampled prosperity.

Prohibition in Canada.

SCOTLAND CANNOT SUPPLY DOMINION'S DEMAND FOR WHISKY.

London.—A special correspondent of the Daily Graphic says that the only way Scotland is likely to go dry is by Canada draining her of whisky. A greatly increased area is being sown with barley, and the correspondent declares he has seen evidence in the hands of a whisky exporting firm that Canada is prepared to take more whisky than Scotland can supply.

"Vancouver, for instance, has been getting hundreds of cases per month from one firm alone, and the cry is 'Send us more,'" says the correspondent.

According to the correspondent, a Scottish distiller scoffed at the idea of prohibition in Scotland, adding "Prohibition in Canada is a farce and we have a splendid market for more whisky than we can spare."

A Grace Darling Reminiscence.

The death has taken place in Aberdeen of Captain James Milne, a veteran shipmaster. Captain Milne, who was a native of Fraserburgh, was 92 years of age. It was Captain Milne's boast that although he had been exposed to most of the great storms for the past 50 years, he had never lost a man. On one occasion a vessel commanded by Captain Milne stranded near one of the Farnø Islands, off the Northumbrian coast, where Grace Darling's father was lighthouse-keeper. The captain was Mr. Darling's guest for a fortnight, and heard from his own lips the thrilling story of the daring efforts of his daughter in rescuing the passengers and crew of the ill-fated Forfarshire.—Glasgow

What a Traveller Saw.

Travelling as I have been this year, to and fro over Bible lands—from Egypt to Damascus and Tarsus and Iconium and Thessalonica and Athens and Corinth and Rome and Patmos—

I have had a new sense of the geographical character of the Bible. It was written by real men to real people who lived upon real earth, in spots which anyone may visit. Some body has called the Holy Land "the fifth Gospel," so perfectly does it corroborate the written text.

Advance Spring Styles in ENGLISH MILLINERY

Every Hat we are showing carries a message of the nearness of Spring. The new styles are not so much the change-of-the-season which always comes with the passing of the Winter as they are a complete change in every feature of model and material. With the war only a far-off echo, and the surety of peace and prosperity growing greater every day, the fashions of the coming season show a re-awakening of the desire for the beautiful, the youthful, and the gaily expressed creations of joyful design to which the makers of this Spring's millinery have responded with lavish use of dainty decorative handwork, and the delightful beauty in colourings and rich materials.

MUTT AND JEFF—

KEEPING UP WITH THE STYLE IS TOO TOUGH A JOB FOR JEFF.

By Bud Fisher.

Will Fight "Jazz."

Old-fashioned keep-your-distance dances are to replace the modern steps, if the nation-wide reform movement undertaken by the American National Association of Masters Dancing proves successful. The dancing masters, it is announced, depend upon the support of mothers, fathers, daughters, sons, dance hall proprietors, dancing teachers and actresses — and, if necessary, the police department — to exterminate the "half Nelson," "body hold," "shimmy lock" and other imported ballroom grips which are practised by some dancers. Cheap and vulgar music is also to come under the ban, according to a circular just issued by the association, those in charge of community or public dances are urged to show their opposition to desirable dances by distributing notices to those who persist in offending the women. It is charged, are of as much to blame as their partners and, in some cases, dance hall proprietors are advised to pick out one or a dozen objectionable couples and, if a warning is disregarded, to eject them at once.

"You will soon see," the circular adds, "that you have raised the standard of your establishment, and that the loss will be more than made up by persons who have respect for you and your dances."

Some of the rules and regulations which all are urged to obey follow: "Dance music should be bright and cases well divided. Cheap, vulgar music of the extreme 'Jazz' type is cheap, vulgar meaningless dancing. It is useless to expect refined dancing when the music lacks all refinement, for after all, what is dancing but an interpretation of music? The association has adopted the following tempos, it being impossible, the masters say, to regulate fast dancing: .58 measures to minute, .54 measures to minute, .56 measures to minute, .40 measures to minute. Dancers should assume a light, graceful position," says the masters. There should be no jerky half-steps, these cause undesirable variations. Partners should not dance cheek close or touching nor hold the clasp too tight. "Neck holds" are positively unpardonable. The woman's arm should encircle his waist, his hand resting lightly just above the waist line. The man's arm should not encircle her shoulders or neck. Steps or movements that cannot be controlled should not be taught dancing teachers. Short slides, first right, then left, when continuously, are not conducive to refined dancing and should not be permitted. "Shimmy dancing," a jerking or jerking of the upper part of the body while taking short steps standing still, should not be tolerated.

The proper dancing step should be the same as a natural walking one kept in exhibition dancing, which properly belongs to the stage, not to the ballroom. Exceptionally long or short steps are not in good form. Dancing should be from the feet, down, not from the waist up. Wearing of the extremes used on the stage is in bad taste. Remember that the majority of dancers desire to be according to the best accepted standards, that is, without the slightest trace of offence to dignity or decorum. — Exchange.

World's Biggest Organ.

BEING COMPLETED FOR THE NEW LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL. An organ that will surpass all other organs in size will shortly be installed in the new Liverpool Cathedral. Its builders are Messrs. Henry and Sons, the well-known firm who constructed the big organs at the Albert Hall, Alexandria, Palace, St. George's Hall, Liverpool, and many of the other famous instruments, including the beautiful St. Paul's Cathedral organ.

Organ so long ago as January, 1916, only now approaching completion, and it has taken seven whole years to build. The cost, when it is fully completed, will probably fall not short of £25,000. But this is because the greater portion of it was built before the recent alarming rise in the cost of materials and labour. It is a similar organ now, and probably cost £40,000 at least. Its mammoth assortment of musical instruments has 10,567 pipes and 215 stops, each actuated by its separate stop knob.

The next biggest organ in the world is that in the town hall of Sydney, New South Wales, which has 3,800 pipes and 144 stops.

THEATRICAL TROUPE COMING. The Young-Adams Co., which is playing in Prince Edward Island, open an engagement here in the town on Easter Monday night. Arrangements secured to appear here by J.P. Kelly.

Champion 6 H. P. Engines,

No IMPORTED engine is superior to the ONLY Newfoundland built engine—the CHAMPION.
Any outport purchaser who does not feel absolutely certain of getting delivery of an engine if he should order one, may send the purchase price to us by mail or wire, and we positively guarantee that the engine and fittings will be shipped the same day. Owing to non-deliveries last summer, certain purchasers may not care to risk early delivery this season, but J. J. Lacey & Co. absolutely pledge shipment of your 6 Horse Power engine the same day money is received.
Only ten engines offered by us—cash purchases only. 1920 price, complete, $850.00.
