How did the bones of these multitudes of elephants and hippopotamus become collected in such numbers in Ghar Dalam? Ghar Dalam offered ancient hunters ideal conditions for trapping and coralling driven droves and herds of wild beasts. The neighboring bay, now a part of the salt sea—was, in the days of the intercontinental land bridge, a shallow fresh water lake—just the place to attract droves of elephants and hippopotamus. Up from this lake went the natural road to the plateau beyond the ravine on the eastern side of which the entrance to the cave opened. Wild beasts, driven up the defile until they reached the mouth of the cave, could have been headed by palaeolithic hunters toward the mouth of the cave. Once within the cave one can still imagine the stampede and the bloody slaughter. Of the suppositions put forward to explain the vast accumulation of remains of elephant and hippopotamus in the floor of Ghar Dalam, the invocation of palaeolithic hunters gives the best solution.

FREE—10 Much Finer Shaves!

Cleaner Shaves—Quicker

If you were paid for putting into words the perfect shave, you would probably define it as . . . "the cleanest, quickest, easiest on skin."

Now we ask you to judge how well we've put those three requisites into a shaving cream. At our expense.

We've put it up to millions of men. And, having tried it, they refuse to use any other cream or soap.

There are 5 distinct superiorities, shaving advantages, in Palmolive Shaving Cream. It cost us 18 months' work, 130 laboratory experiments, to perfect them. Now judge our work.

You'll find that lather softens the most unruly beard in one minute—without any irritating "rubbing in."

You'll find the lather remains rich and creamy for 10 minutes on your face, if necessary.

You'll find cutting easier, cleaner, because bubbles of extra strength hold each hair erect. This is important. Finally, you'll marvel at the cool, soothed "after feel"—a result of the carefully blended palm and olive oils.

We ask your judgment on these points as a favor. Failing, the loss would be all ours. Send along the coupon for your ten free shaves.

Panama Bathing Beauties

Twenty of these twenty-two children are girls whose ages range from seven to fourteen years, and they are not mere bathing beauties. From their infancy they have played in and around the water at Panama, and they now give regular exhibitions of their aquatic skill. The girl on the left of the rear row is a back-stroke and crawl champion of the Panama Canal Zone and she is to take part in the Olympic Competitions. The photograph was taken after an exhibition before the passengers of the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Canada, now on World Cruise.

Laxatives do not overcome constipation

More Important is Internal Cleanliness

LAXATIVES and cathartics provide temporary relief only, at the expense of permanent injury. In time, says an eminent physician, an almost incalculable amount of harm is done by the use of pills, salts, mineral waters, castor oil and the like.

Some laxatives, according to an intestinal specialist, contain poisons which affect the stomach and intestines, resulting in grave disorders. Certain laxatives are a direct cause of piles.

Physicians Advise Lubrication for Internal Cleanliness

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

"Keep Clean Inside" say Physicians

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

The Sunday School children of the United Church will present the operetta "Snow White," by Root, in the United Church next Tuesday evening commencing at 8 p.m. This is one of the finest operettas ever written for juvenile work and the Fernie people should not miss this opportunity of seeing the talent displayed by their own children.

A party of Fernieites returning from Michel by car on Sunday evening barely escaped serious injury, when a large tree was blown down by the high wind prevailing at the time. The tree crashed upon the radiator and engine.

Several of our customers responded to our invitation, "Visit Your Dairy," and were greatly pleased with the way in which the milk is handled. They all thought the new DeLaval Cooler a wonder; in two minutes the milk is brought down to 40 degrees. We hope more will come.

The political pot is boiling all over the province with the exception of Cranbrook and Fernie districts and all parties in this neck of the woods seem to be asleep. Tom Uphill is always doing a little quiet rustling for Tom. but the others seem to be afraid to start anything.

Jimmy Davidson, who is now in Lethbridge, is playing centre forward for the Lethbridge Callies this season. This team has won both games they have played. Jimmy scored the first goal of the season in the first game and seems to be making a good impression on the football fans in the prairie city.

Bill Cameron, of Cranbrook, had a narrow escape from death on Thursday of last week, when his car struck a small slide on the road near Sinclair Hot Springs and was carried over the bank. It fell about 75 feet before it stopped and was badly damaged. Bill, who was alone in the car, was bruised and scratched considerably and sustained a couple of broken ribs.

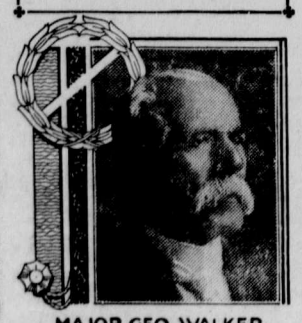
An order made by Mr. Justice Middleton, of Toronto, permits the sale of Home Bank property in Fernie, to the Royal Trust Co. for $19,000, of which $1400 goes to the assets of the Home Bank and the balance goes to satisfy in part the blanket mortgage of $1,300,000 upon the Home Bank property. This mortgage was held by W. S. K. Lee, of New York. The Royal Trust Co. is receiver of his interest and the payment will be made to this company.

LATEST REPORT ON ROGERS-IMPERIAL WELL

Getting completely out of control after the drill had penetrated another 12 inches on Thursday morning, the Rogers-Imperial well in 29-1-11 has developed into what drillers at the well consider may be the greatest gasser ever brought in in the province of Alberta.

The well is now blowing off at least 20,000,000 feet of gas daily. Some reports from the well are that it is gassing 30,000,000 feet daily. If the latter figure is correct it tops the "Old Glory" well of Bow Island field, which when first brought in made 29,000,00 feet a day.

At 7.30 on Thursday morning in the presence of Mr. Applegate and other Imperial Oil Co. officials, the bit was lowered into the well. It penetrated the sands another 12 inches at the 2600 foot level.



A burst of gas resulted from the operation blowing the one and a half ton string of tools about half way up the hole. This was followed by another burst of gas, much stronger. This blew the bit completely out of the hole, and within 10 feet of the top of the 82-foot derrick. In falling the bit was broken and the derrick considerably smashed. The well then went completely out of control.

RESPONSIBLE FOR HOME BANK LOSSES

Toronto, April 23.—Depositors of the defunct Home Bank will take the position that the responsibility for their losses rested with the Dominion government for allowing the directors of the bank to function after 1916 without an independent inquiry, declared A. J. Browning, K.C., counsel for the depositors, before the royal commission here today.

The point was raised in connection with the question of Commissioner McKeown yesterday as to whether the counsel for the depositors were making charges against the directors of the defunct bank. The commissioner pointed out that if they were, the directors must be asked to come before the commission because of the terms of the Inquiry Act.

Crimean Veteran Praises "Fruit-a-tives"

MAJOR GEO. WALKER

Major George Walker, now a familiar figure in Chatham, Ontario, is one of the men who went through the terrible Indian Mutiny. As he says: "I am a veteran of the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, serving under Lord Roberts. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting and continual exposure left me a great sufferer from Rheumatism, so much so that my legs swelled up, making it impossible for me to walk. My bowels were so constipated that I was in terrible shape until I began to use 'Fruit-a-tives.' They relieved me both of the Rheumatism and the Constipation. Today, I enjoy perfect health—no more Rheumatism or Constipation."

And in another letter, written December 1st, 1923 (eleven years after), Major Walker says: "'Fruit-a-tives' are keeping me in the best of health and I shall never be without them."

Dickinson of this city, were united in marriage at the Baptist church parsonage on Thursday evening by Rev. Mr. Humphreys. The young couple attempted to steal quietly away on the evening train for Armstrong, B.C., where they will spend their honeymoon, but a few of their friends located them on the train and gave them a rousing send off.

An accident occurred near Creston on the night of April 18, in which Rory Bolton, aged 15 years, lost his life. Rory was in the act of jumping from one car of earth to another on a moving ballast train and fell between, being crushed to death. Mrs. Bolton, who resides near Creston, has the sincerest sympathy of all friends. About a year ago, her daughter Alice was murdered in the States, and three years ago her husband was found dead in a shack in the Cariboo country, where he had been prospecting. The family formerly resided at Burmis and later at Blairmore, where one daughter, Mrs. Carnochan, resides at present.

There will be no practice of the G.W.V.A. band this week.

Born—At Fernie, on April 20, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Robinson, of Pincher Creek, a daughter.

Born—At the Fernie Hospital, on April 23, to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Arcuri, a son.

H. Tognotti, for several years cutter for P. Burns, left on Monday for Trail, where he has received a position.

On Monday evening, April 21, in West Fernie, Mr. John Laithwaite and Miss Marguerite Annetta Altmeyer were united in marriage, Rev. W. F. Burns officiating.

A marriage license was issued on the 23rd to W. J. F. Lindenberger and Miss Sarah Rahal, and on the 19th to John Joseph Lavature and Mrs. Nellie Crane.

The Fernie Literary and Athletic Association will entertain the tournament team of the G.W.V.A. in the last of a series of interclub games on Sunday evening.

"The World and His Wife" is from the pen of the Spanish writer, Jose Echegaray, and is considered one of the greatest of modern dramas. It has been played in England by Sir John Martin Harvey and in the United States by Wm. Favorsham. Do not fail to see the play given by the University Players in the Grand Theatre on Saturday, May 24.

The residents of West Fernie were provided with some excitement on Tuesday morning between 2 and 3 o'clock. People returning from a dance found the residence of Chas. Appleby in flames. The water supply of West Fernie only being available from wells sufficient water could not be obtained to combat the flames, with the result that the premises were gutted. Mr. Appleby and family were away in Toronto at the time.

Col. (Dr.) Hodgett, Director General of St. John Ambulance, arrived in Fernie on Saturday. In the afternoon he examined the Firt Aid team of the local Boy Scouts in the Wallace Nesbitt cup competition. In the evening at Coal Creek he examined the ladies team under the captaincy of Mrs. J. Millar in the Lady Drummond competition. He left on Monday by the westbound train to visit Trail, Vancouver, Nanaimo and Edmonton before his return to Ottawa.

The At Home given by the members of the G.W.V.A. to their wives, sweethearts and members of the Women's Auxiliary will long be remembered by those participating. J. Rigg and H. Wheeler, as heads of the commitees responsible for the arrangements, are to be congratulated. The first part of the evening was taken up with a whist drive the prizes being won by the following: Ladies, 1st, Mrs. T. Harden; booby, Mrs. J. Mitchell. Gentlemen: 1st, T. Cole; booby, W. Lawrence. The Whitehouse orchestra supplied the music.

NATIONALITY OF WOMEN

A curious anachronism in the Canadian laws governing the nationality of married women was recently discussed at a convention of the Social Service Council of Canada. According to the present system, a Canadian woman who marries an alien herself becomes an alien and remains one even after her husband's death. A young woman may be an active member of the League of Women Voters, a United Farm Women's organization, a Local Council of Women or the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, may devote a large proportion of her time to the study of Canadian public affairs, may contribute to the solution of national problems in a number of ways, may use the franchise with intelligence and discretion, and may be conscious of a deep attachment for Canadian traditions, Canadian customs and Canadian environment. But if she should marry a man who is an American citizen, a French citizen or a Norwegian citizen, she is forthwith deprived of her British nationality. Moreover, it is impossible for her to resume British nationality during the lifetime of her husband, except in the extreme case of the outbreak of war between his majesty and the state of which her husband is a subject. In such event, it is provided that if the wife declares her desire to resume British nationality she may be granted a certificate of naturalization, provided the secretary of state of Canada approves. But ordinarily, it is impossible for her to regain her British nationality during her husband's lifetime, no matter how earnestly she may desire it. The unsatisfactory character of this law is all the more apparent when the family continues to reside in Canada, the husband refusing to become naturalized, and the wife prevented by an outdated law from exercising the rights of citizenship which were formerly hers.

The present law is patently unjust. As international communication grows easier and as travel increases, there will naturally occur an increasing number of international marriages. It is, therefore, important that the matter of revising the law touching nationality of married women be given careful attention in Canada in the very near future. Marriage with an alien is not an offense against the state and should not continue to be penalized as at present. To deprive a woman of her British nationality under these circumstances is to class her deliberately with "infants, idiots and imbeciles," to whom are applied the same disabilities.

It has been argued that it would be absurd to allow a husband and wife to retain distinct nationality—that the difficulties arising from such an analamous condition would be so great that it would be impossible to adopt any other policy than the one which is now in vogue. But it must be realized that British women have not always been deprived of their citizenship upon marriage with an alien. Until the year 1870, a British national remained a British national unless he or she voluntarily abandoned that nationality. The system had prevailed for centuries in Great Britain, and prevailed also for many years in some of the British colonies, as well as in the United States.

What was possible before 1870 in this regard is possible now also.

Canada made an attempt in 1919 to remedy the situation, but failed to achieve success. In that year a bill was passed which, among other things provided that ordinarily upon marriage with an alien a woman was to assume his nationality, but that she was not bound inevitably to retain it. She was to be permitted to take out naturalization papers on her own account as if she were unmarried. This Act was later repealed because it conflicted with the Imperial Act.

The British parliament has recently considered a revision of its law in this regard, however, and the time is now apparently ripe for concerted action on the part of Great Britain and the overseas dominions.

A suggestion has been made that this question be placed upon the agenda at the next Imperial Conference. It is a matter upon which the various parts of the Empire should take action simultaneously, and this can be done if there is sufficient expression of public opinion in Canada and other Dominions to warrant the alteration of the present inadequate laws.—The Social Service Council of Canada.

TWO NOTABLE WOMEN

Two very famous women have been called from the world's stage by death—Eleanor Duse, the actress, and Marie Corelli, the novelist. Tradition played a strikingly powerful part in the lives of both of them. Madame Duse was a daughter of the stage. Her father and grandfather were both actors, and she herself was born in a strolling players' wagon and began her career as a child. She lived to be the greatest tragedienne of the Italian stage, and in the world her one rival was Bernhardt. For many years she was closely associated with Gabriele d'Annunzio, and some of his best plays provided her with important parts. Her chief characteristics were an intense naturalness, self-restraint learned through years of toil and hardship, and a dislike of make-up.

Marie Corelli was the adopted daughter of Charles McKay, the poet and song writer. She had no playmates as a child but met many literary men who were intimates of her guardian, and was brought up on the stories of Dickens, Thackery, Douglas Jerrold and others. She wrote verses and ballads and found it easy to get them published. Then, when scarcely out of her teens, she attempted an occult love story, "The Romance of Two Worlds." The book had a large sale, and, Miss Corelli's inventive faculties were thenceforth devoted to romance. Some of her books have been severely criticized for their bad style and sensationalism. But the plots are so cleverly constructed and the treatment throughout so dramatic and vigorous that the appreciation of the public has scarcely wavered through more has scarcely wavered through more than thirty years. As for those who found fault with her work, Miss Corelli was fond of quoting a saying of Samuel Rogers, the friend of her guardian: "It requires no particular sagacity, and only a more than common fund of ill nature to be a critic."

THE CURSE OF SUPERSTITION

Superstition still lays strong hold on the minds of men, and many people wear a rabbit's foot or some other amulet to protect them from witchcraft or to avert some impending stroke of destiny. In no instance is this form of superstition more strongly marked than in the dread of the number "13," which is feared as the ignorant heathen fears the evil eye. The phenomenon is familiar to everybody, though, says the Brawley News, a newspaper published in the Imperial Valley, California, it seems impossible that in this age of enlightenment, books, scientific progress and general intellectuality American people should be bound in chains of mediaeval ignorance. Yet, we are told, the official records of the Motor Vehicle Department of California are loaded with requests for auto license plates in which the number "13," or any combination of that number, will not appear. Apparently, says the News, our boasted civilization is not very deep; the veneer is easily removed, and we find many persons whose intellectual make-up is on a par with that of the Hottentots or bushmen. Evidently, then,

"There must be something wrong with our churches, schools, scientific institutions and educational authorities. After 2000 years of Christianity, and after 500 years of modern civilization, and after 100 years of scientific achievement, it still appears that in America we have a large class who, at heart, are pagans, believing in spooks, incantations, magic numbers, signs, mews and witchcraft.

"Some organization or foundation or university or scientific society should undertake a nation-wide survey to find out just how much paganism there is in modern life; enough will be found to dumfound the investigator. Then a plan should be devised whereby schools, churches and scientific organizations might combine to teach children the foolishness of belief in the fallacies of superstition. There is no hope to drive pagan ideas out of an adult.

"Fear is the basis of this pagan worship; fear is the curse of mankind and a drag on civilization.

"What chance is there for the future greatness of a nation where the people are afraid of number '13'?"

Stolen Eggs and the Silk Trade

Above—Reeling silk in the Flowery Kingdom. Below—An Empress liner loading silk at Yokohama and a Canadian Pacific silk special passing through the Rockies.

Production of silk dates far into antiquity, and for ages the manner of its production was kept secret. Up to the sixth century A.D. all raw silk was imported into Europe from China, but the Byzantine Emperor Justinian induced two monks to travel into China to procure silk worm eggs and though the export of them was punishable by death, these monks succeeded in bringing back a quantity concealed in the hollows of their pilgrims staves.

From Byzantium, silk cultivation spread into Greece and Syria, thence into Spain, and thence successively into Sicily, Naples, Northern Italy and France, being established in Italy in the sixteenth century.

Various determined attempts have been made, principally between the years 1622 and 1839 to establish the silk industry in America, resulting at one time in a not inconsiderable production, but the excessive cost of the labor involved in the rearing of the worms and in the reeling of the raw silk from the cocoons as compared with the trifling cost of such labor in Europe and Asia, has rendered it impossible to produce raw silk at commercial prices on this continent.

Most of the silk imported to America comes from Japan, Italy and China where, also, the humidity of the atmosphere contributes no little to the success of the industry in those countries. The greatest importation is from the Flowery Kingdom, and this mostly in the raw-silk form as it is reeled from the cocoons.

Silk is valuable. In one consignment of a few hundred bales, hundreds of thousands of dollars are tied up, and for this reason, that no time may be lost in making up the raw material and placing the finished goods upon the market, the product of the little silk worm is given transportation facilities which few other commodities enjoy. The bales of skeins are stowed carefully in the vessels which transport them across the Pacific, and in such a manner that they can be speedily and safely discharged upon arrival at the Canadian or American port. No time is lost. Special trains made up of passenger baggage equipment await the arrival of the vessel if it docks at Vancouver as do the Empress liners of the Canadian Pacific, and once the valuable cargo has been sealed into the cars the train proceeds towards its destination, often making better time than the regular passenger trains.

For the reason that the route is more direct, many silk dealers in New York, where much of the silk is destined, consign their shipments via Canada and during the past few months many interesting time records have been made over Canadian Pacific lines.

On March 22nd, the "Empress of Asia" sailed from Yokohama carrying the largest consignment of silk to be forwarded from the Orient for some time. The silk was specially stowed for prompt discharge on arrival at Vancouver, and from the time the steamer docked, until the special train to New York left, there was a lapsed time of only thirteen and one-half minutes per car.

The silk was delivered in New York about midnight April 4th, the through time from Yokohama to New York being 13 days, 8 hours, and 13 minutes, calendar time. This constituted a record run as far as freight traffic is concerned, but passenger traffic is handled as readily by this company, a 21 day Europe to Orient service via St. John, N.B., or the St. Lawrence route being regularly maintained.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

SOLVE RADIO MYSTERIES

Interference with radio, telephone, and cable transmission and reception, by certain undefined natural phenomena, has been reported from time to time during the past ten years by scientific experts and the telephone and telegraph companies. These matters are now being investigated by a 12-months' "World Radio Check-up" conducted by the Aerial League of Amreica with the co-operation of other interested parties and government and scientific agencies. The public press expresses its satisfaction that something is being done to ascertain just what are the workings of the natural phenomena that at times hinder, at times appear to help, radio transmission and reception, and occasionally disrupt the telephone, telegraph and cable service. The New York Times reports the League's call to radio amateurs as follows:

"In an attempt to find the invisible barriers that have screened from the Alaskan, United States and Canadian radio stations the signals of the Amundsen Arctic expedition's powerful radio since July 28, 1922, when the Maud made her dash northward and was frozen in the Arctic ice-pack, the Aerial League of America, at the suggestion of Thomas A. Edison, has called on the world's radio amateurs to participate in a world-wide radio 'check-up.'

"One hundred prizes for the best showings are offered. The comprehensive plans for the test have been evolved during the last 18 months after an exhaustive study of the problems that restrict the volume of radio traffic and classification of the problems in relation to the four main factors in radio transmission and reception."

"The world's leading experts in different branches of science have contributed the information and data now to be made available to radio experimenters and students who participate in the test," says the Boston American, and it adds:

"In addition to Mr. Edison, other noted scientists have been consulted in preparing the plans, among them Hudson Maxim, who gave the benefit of his studies and discoveries respecting the physics of the earth and atmosphere since 1889.

"Other aids include Prof. David Todd, professor emeritus of astronomy, Amherst college, and Capt. Robt. A. Bartlett, who commanded Peary's ships in polar expeditions and the Neptune and Karluk in their historic Arctic ventures.

"The Department of Research in Terrestrial Magnetism of the Carnegie Institution and the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey have supplied summaries of data regarding the North Magnetic Pole. Various bureaus of the Navy Department and of the Canadian government have supplied information, charts and opinions on the subject.

"Half a million radio amateurs scattered over the earth, reporting to New York whether and when they heard the daily radio signals of the Maud and the Bowdoin, and what else they heard while listening for these remote Arctic stations, may reveal whether the North Magnetic Pole presents a radio dead-wall or screen to the North American continent, as is strongly suspected. Their tests, too, may show other unknown factors which have screened the Bowdoin's signals from everywhere except Prince Ruppert Island and other points on the North Pacific coast.

"Governments and communication companies are holding up hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of equipment construction pending the outcome of the tests suggested by Edison. Going ahead now on the old lines might mean the subsequent costly scrapping of expensive equipment."

The fact that the radio of Macmillan's ship, the Bowdoin, during the five weeks of daylight preceding the Arctic winter, could not be heard, added to the "static" trouble experienced by most radio fans in summer and during daylight, made it comparatively easy to ascertain that daylight was responsible for fadings; but the Aerial League of America did not stop there. It asked scientists as well as radio fans to find out why and how.

"Here's a puzzle for radio fans, daylight, earth's crust and something else makes waves fade," says the Syracuse Herald, while the St. Albans Messenger observes that "waves seem to be dissipated during the day," a phenomenon observed by many, but never before studied or analyzed deeply. "Why do we have the one-way wave in the Far North?" asks an editorial writer of the Birmingham News. "There is bound to be some law governing this," he continues:

"But why should there be a law which carries these waves in that direction solely? It is a most interesting discovery. Probably if a ship were sent into an equal latitude and longitude on the other side this matter could be tested out to see what the influences are over there, and if the impulses from the other side of the world will come over to this."

Admitting that daylight and summer conditions were responsible for fadings, the next question was, why did the Bowdoin's radio signals in the winter reach far-off stations in the North Pacific and apparently every other distant place, but not those located in Newfoundland, New England and New York? Professor Todd, Henry Whitehouse, president of the Aerial League, and Dr. Free and Major Banning, editors of Popular Radio, found an answer in the geologic surveys of Canada and upper New York. After explaining the various ways in which the surface of the earth may absorb the electric-magnetic waves of the radio signals, Mr. Woodhouse says:

"The most tangible solution of the mystery of the screening seems to be in the magnetic basalt that covers a large area of the southerly part of Greenland and magnetic iron in the State of New York and Canada. These deposits are recorded in the data of Peary, Nansen, Rasmussen and the United States and Canadian governments."

If it can be proven that mineral deposits in the earth affect radio signals, radio may become a divining rod and may facilitate locating ores. Such a use was anticipated by the experts planning the Radio Check-up, as thus stated in the New York Times:

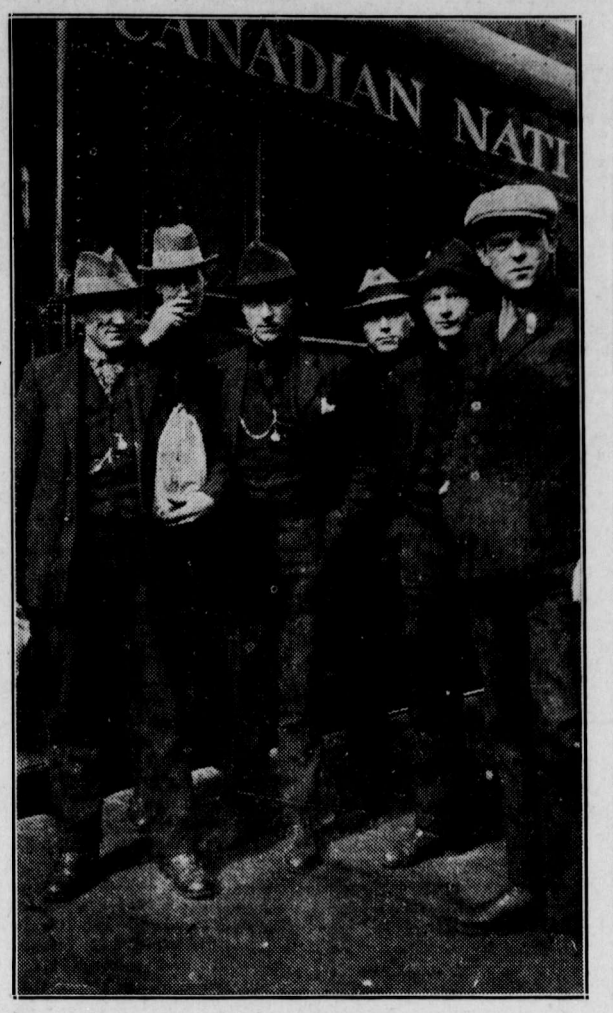
"Those in charge of the check-up seek to learn of the effect on radio of daylight, twilight and darkness, ice, water, verdure, different atmospheric conditions and different geologic formations. It is desired to ascertain and define the location and strength of natural disturbances and interferences acting upon receiving stations in various parts of the world, at different seasons of the year, under different atmospheric conditions, in daylight and darknes, so that thereafter there may be basic data available upon which to decide the strength of signals required for communication between given points at different seasons of the year.

"It is hoped to locate 'dead areas' of the earth and ascertain the causes of these invisible barriers which obstruct radio transmission.

"It is also desired to ascertain whether radio signals travel equally readily through the atmosphere, the hydrosphere and the lithosphere of the earth, as appears to be the case from the fact that radio signals from ship and land stations are received equally well on land, on islands, on ships, on submerged submarines and on aircraft in flight."

Writing in the Scientific Age, the official organ of the Aerial League of America, Prof. Todd reveals that the committee of which he is chairman has discovered a "close relation between sun-spots and radio fadings and static," which discovery, he states "has opened a new field of research of far-reaching importance." The four main factors in radio transmission and reception, as taken into account in planning the Check-up, are thus defined in the Age:

1. The sending station and the method of sending of messages;
2. The conductive media, that is, the phenomena by which radio waves or oscillations are carried through the atmosphere, the hydrosphere and the lithosphere of the earth;
3. The factors that affect radio waves and oscillations in transit;
4. The receiving station and method of receiving."



These, we are told, are the factors that must be improved if radio traffic is to be increased, but they can not be improved until the mysteries of radio fadings and static have been solved. In an article in Popular Radio, Henry Woodhouse tells of the fortunes that await those who solve these problems, and states that if we can do so, "radio will become a five-billion-dollar industry; the electrical industries will advance until they become twice as much more. For it is the same group of fundamental mysteries that underlie both radio and all the other uses of electricity and magnetism." The military importance of locating "dead spots," and solving the problem of guiding a radio-directed aerial torpedo or airplane loaded with explosives through them, is explained by Mr. Woodhouse as follows:

"The Hammond system has demonstrated that even a battleship can be operated by radio, but we dare not venture a full size airplane, because of the many unsolved problems of radio transmission.

"Directing military airplanes by radio can not be undertaken so long as there is a possibility of interference. While the airplane would carry the load of explosive past a dead spot, which the airplane could easily negotiate, the radio could not cross that spot and the airplane would from that point on be adrift, guideless, a menace to communities below!"

A number of similar problems make the world radio check-up important from a military as well as scientific and commercial standpoints.

STURDY NORSEMEN FOR CANADA

THESE are some of a party of 15 Norwegian fishermen who passed through Winnipeg on their way to Vancouver, where they expect to take up their hazardous vocation in Pacific waters. They were photographed as they stood outside their special coach attached to the Continental Limited of the Canadian National Railways, on which they travelled from Montreal to Vancouver.

MORE ETHICS NEEDED

Performers on the vaudeville stage have in times past been in the habit of slighting the British mental attitude by a drawling: "It isn't done." There is a great measure of praise due to the Britisher for the very fact that his code is largely based on that same expression.

It is particularly true of the British man in public life. In other words, there is no mental reservation when he makes a statement; when a budget is prepared there are no hidden meanings and cross entries that are intended to permit of conclusions other than those that actually are justified.

No accusations are intended for any particular man in public life or any person connected with any financial situation—but the fact remains that there is an entry in the cash book of a now defunct institution: "Refund re $4,000,000 issue, P. Smith $15,000." Quite frankly this is not ethics, is not playing the game and those involved would have been well advised to have been guided by the trite: "It isn't done."

Crashes, where honor disappears along with financial resources, do not hound the steps of the man who bases his conduct on: "It isn't done."

British chancellors of the exchequer have been financiers guided by that code. And it is suggested that this is the basic reason that the cabled dispatches from England announced only a few days ago that a saving had been effected of 50,000,000 pounds sterling.

Britain, due to following a course of ethical procedure together with rigid adherence to strict, economical business methods enforcing economies where requisite with a fine disregard of any effect upon their popularity as a government and avoiding expensive economy, has balanced her budget and reduced the net debt. Since the armistice was signed in 1918, Canada's debt burden has increased.

Some of this increase has been unavoidable, but there has been in too many quarters a tendency to "remember our friends" and to permit a sense of responsibility to lapse or slumber. It is suggested, moreover, that this lessening of the will to accept and live up to responsibility does not arise and end in the public figure or the man in a position of trust. Rather, is it not true that it is partly due to a certain ignoring of responsibility in the public mind as a whole?—Canadian Finance.

CRANBROOK CONSERVATIVES TO NOMINATE MAY 2ND

Cranbrook, April 24.—On Friday, May 2, the Conservative party will hold a district convention here to name a candidate to carry their banner to the provincial elections shortly. This was decided at a meeting held here last evening. It is likely that N. A. Wallinger, the present member, and an old time resident, formerly government agent here, will again be nominated. The dates of the convention when a Liberal candidate will be named, and possibly a Provincial candidate, have not yet been fixed.

TRAIL PASTORS CHANGED PULPITS HOLY WEEK

Trail, April 23.—Holy week was celebrated in Trail by an interchange of preachers between the various churches.

On Tuesday Rev. C. E. Turner of the Anglican church gave an illustrated address in the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Lashley Hall of the Methodist church spoke in the Baptist church on Wednesday.

On Good Friday the clergy of the various churches combined in one service at the Anglican church, the church being crowded by members of the various denominations.

Rev. Field Yolland read the litany, Captain Harman the lesson, Rev. A. Wilson of the Presbyterian church delivered the address and Rev. Lashley Hall offered prayer.

All the clergy of the various denominations wore the vestments of the Anglican church for the occasion.

SHERMAN MAINTAINS AGREEMENT REPUDIATED

Calgary, April 24.—Wm. Sherman, president of District 18, disputes the statement that a contract had been concluded in the Kentucy-Tennessee field at a lower scale than that demanded in Alberta. He states a tentative agreement was made between the coal operators' association there and local officers of the U.M.W.A., but as this was lower than the basis of the Jacksonville contract it was repudiated by international headquarters.

R. M. Young, commissioner of the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association, on the other hand, states that there is nothing in the agreement which suggests it is in any way tentative. On the contrary, it was definite in its provisions as to its terms, wage rates and working conditions, and was signed by the president and secretary of the Kentucky-Tennessee Coal Operators' Association, by the president and secretary of the U.M.W.A. of District 19, and by five members of the miners' scale committee for that district.

The term of contract was clearly set out as being for four years from March 1, 1924, and the usual-provision also appeared for a conference one month prior to the end of the contract, to negotiate a new agreement.

Regarding the resolution of the International executive instructing officers of District 19 to maintain their demands for a wage scale based on the Jacksonville agreement, the resolution appeared to have been dated April 4. It was therefore difficult to understand how the officers of District 19 could consistently maintain demands on April 4 in face of a definite agreement executed by the same officers almost a month before.

Light clothes for light scenes and dark clothes for the heavier episodes of a screen story have been accepted aids to achieving atmosphere in the past, but it remained for the Paramount director to reverse this order and achieve superior results.

At another important point in the story, the director dressed Miss Compson, the principal feminine character, in black, but emphasized the atmosphere of the scene by bright, cheerful lighting. Again the contrast of her attire was the mood of the scene serves to heighten the entire effect.

Richard Dix, Lewis Stone and Tully Marshall are featured with Miss Compson in "The Stranger," which is an adaptation of Edfrid Bingham of John Galsworthy's "The First and the Last."

GOPHER CONTROL

A small appropriation has again been made available to the Department of Agriculture for assisting in the extermination of gaphers and ground squirrels during the coming season.

It is urged that in those interior districts where both the Brown Pocket Gopher and Columbian Ground Squirrel are proving such pests and involving considerable loss to the orchard and mixed farming communities, strong efforts be made to supplement individual action along the lines of trapping, poisoning, shooting, etc., by interesting the school children and young people of the district in entering gopher killing competitions, which should be organized as soon as possible.

In 1922 assistance by this Department was along the line of the payment of bounties for tails sent in and certified to by local organizations. This year, however, the Department will help local bodies holding competitions to kill gophers by means of grants of dollar for dollar, not to exceed a maximum of $20 for any one Institute or farmers' organization. The local Institute or farmers' organization should therefore arrange for such competitions where conidered desirable, making proper provision for prize money.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

The city council held their first regular May meeting in the council chamber last evening, Mayor Henderson occupying the chair. Alderman Robichaud was the only absentee.

The Board of School Trustees attended the meeting in a body and the financing of the Fernie schools in general was discussed by the two bodies.

A communication from Dr. Asselstine, through his attorneys, Herchmer & Mitchell, advised the council that the Doctor will not be responsible for payment of ambulance fees unless he personally gave the order for the ambulance.

A. Klauer, on behalf of the Fernie baseball team, applied for permission to use the city park for a ball diamond during the 1924 season. A motion was passed granting this with the usual public holiday reservations.

The city clerk read a letter from the Amputation Association requesting the assistance of the council in having the government maintain the present scale of pensions and bonus being paid to amputation cases, it being understood that it was the intention of the government to withdraw the bonus.

A motion was passed instructing the city clerk to write the Hon. J. H. King a recommendation from the Fernie council that the government comply with the request of the Amputation Association.

"SNOW WHITE" WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Without a doubt, the presentation of the operetta "Snow White," by the United Church Sunday School in the church last Tuesday evening was one of the prettiest plays ever presented in the city.

The story of the play is well known to all of us, and knowing the story made the acting of it by our local talent a very attractive event, as was evidenced by the capacity audience witnessing the performance.

Mrs. Bertha Kirkpatrick, as Princess Snow White, played her part to perfection. The whole plot is based upon this character and consequently requires an artist who is able to combine the talents of a soprano singer and an actress.

The wicked Queen, step-mother of the Princess, was ably portrayed by Miss Elsie Frey, who surprised many of her friends on her first public appearance. She adopted the haughty carriage and overbearing mannerisms of the queen and carried out her part without a flaw.

Joseph Terry excelled himself in the character of the Prince, his voice being exceptionally well adapted to his role, and made a splendid impression upon the audience.

Wesley Owen, as Carl the Huntsman, was in his element in the part he had and carried it through in a very capable manner.

The children's parts, Arbutus, Daffodil and Violet, played by Misses Irene Todhunter, Betty Broley and Louvain Todhunter; "The Voice of the Mirror," by Masters Frank Ingram and Bobby Mills, were very well taken. The chorus of children's voices in the one, two, three and four part pieces showed the result of great attention to their training and were really remarkable for their sweet and clear tone.

The costumes were very pretty and were well adapted to the operetta, the costume of Princess Snow White at her wedding being really marvellous.

It is to be regretted that Fernie is about to lose such a citizen as Mr. Biggs, who has, during the past week produced wth entirely local talent the cantata, "The Wreck of the Argosy" and this operetta "Snow White." Mr. Biggs is leaving Fernie Saturday morning for Seattle, where he expects to make his home. He has been actively connected with children's and adult choirs both in the Old Country and in Fernie for many years, his first big venture being in 1897, when he took a children's choir from Cross Keys in Wales to a choral competition at Crystal Palace in London, where his choir took third position against entries from all over the old country. During his stay in Fernie he has produced many of these cantatas and operettas and we will find his position hard to fill.

New York, May 1.—Jack Dempsey will defend his title against Harry Wills, the giant negro contender, in a 12-round match at Jersey City on the afternoon of Sept. 6.

Scranton, Pa., April 30.—Disregarding pleas of district officers of the union that they remain at work, approximately 15,000 anthracite miners employed at 11 mines of the Glenn Alden Coal Co., went on strike today because of the dismissal from the company's employ of an official of a union at Edwardsville, Pa. Two mines, the Diamond and Storrs, did not obey the strike order.

The grievance committee of the union miners of the Glenn Alden Co. met last night at Wilkesbarre and ordered the strike. At the same time R. Cappellini, district president, urged the men to remain at work and permit their grievance to come through the proper channel.

I.W.W. DEMAND REMOVAL OF STRIKE INJUNCTION

Cranbrook, April 29.—W. R. Ross, of Vancouver, the lawyer for the I. W.W., in their action to have the injunction against their organization and leaders removed, is in the city this week. Jas. Peterson, the I.W.W. leader during the recent strike, has returned from Calgary and the opposing lawyers are conducting an examination for discovery preparatory to the hearing of the main action. H. W. Herchmer is acting for the lumbermen. The other leader named in the injunction is J. Sampson.

DISTRICT 26 MAY FALL

Sydney Mines, N.S., April 28.—District No. 26, U. M. W. of A., is in danger of immediate collapse, according to predictions made in labor circles here. Much, it is stated, depends on the outcome of the joint meeting of the locals to be held probably next week, to consider a circular letter issued by the provisional board defining the policy of the international union, particularly in respect to the indebtedness of the district.

During the "strike" last January a relief fund amounting to about $105,000 was distributed among the miners in grocery orders to the merchants. President Lewis, of the international, it is stated, disclaims any responsibility for this expenditure inasmuch as the "strike" was not declared. It has been proposed to the men of the district that the $105,000 be made up by a levy of 50 cents a week for the next four months on every man in the district. Many miners are reported to be indignant over the proposal.

During the evening Bro. J. Wood was presented with a Past Dictator's jewel, and Bro. D. Small was presented with a small token of esteem in recognition of his services at the piano. Mrs. Jas. Wilson, Senior Regent of the Mooseheart Legion, was presented with a beautiful Moose ring, this being her second term as Senior Regent. Mrs. Robt. Cranbrook will have a city baseball league of three teams this year, if arrangements planned at the annual meeting of the Amateur association Thursday evening last are put into effect. The Victorias, a team headed and managed by Geo. Anton, of the Victoria cafe, will make its debut in baseball circles. The railroad boys will place a team in the field, made up of a combination of the Y.M.C.A. and C.P.R. men. The third team will be the pick of the city, headed by Doc. Hufman. The high school was anxious to place a team in the league but they lacked the necessary battery and unless some material turns up within the next week it is probable they will drop out. The Indians from St. Eugene mission may be induced to come into the city with a team. They have a number of snappy ball players and some of the Indians have expressed a willingness to meet their pale face brethren on the diamond.—Cranbrook Courier.

ODD FELLOWS CELEBRATE 105TH ANNIVERSARY

Mount Fernie Lodge, I.O.O.F., together with Kootenay Encampment and the sister lodge, Esther Rebekah No. 20, celebrated the 105th anniversary of the founding of the order on this continent, by holding a whist drive and dance in their hall last Friday evening.

Cards were played from 8.30 to 10.30 p.m. Miss L. Puckey and J. Puckey taking the first prizes, while Mrs. Owen and F. Harrison captured the consolation awards.

Following cards a light supper was served by the combined Good of the Order committees, then Chairman Adlard called upon D.D.G.M. T. Biggs for an adddress. Mr. Biggs outlined the history of Odd Fellowship and of the great work it had accomplished in the past and expressed confidence of its continued success.

On Sunday evening the members of all three lodges again gathered together at the hall and marched in a body, wearing regalia, to Olivet Baptist church, where Bro. the Rev. Mr. Humphreys conducted a service very appropriate on the occasion.

DIST. 19 NEW AGREEMENT

In view of the statement made the other day by Wm. Sherman, president of District 18 of the United Mine Workers of America, that the contract of the Kentucky-Tennessee Coal Operators' Association had been repudiated by the international officers of the union, R. M. Young, commissioner of the coal operators here, wired the officers of the association and has received the following reply:

"Your wire. Notwithstanding claims made by your union officials, the undisputed fact remains that the copy of contract and wage scale mailed you is the duly accepted contract under which union mines in District 19 are now operating and shipping coal.

In face of this definite statement the suggestion, Mr. Young states, that the contract in the Kentucky-Tennessee field was tentative and never put into operation, does not seem to be borne out by the fact.

HOLDS RECORD FOR GASSER

Tests made of the Rogers-Imperial gasser over the week end prove the gas flow to be 62,480,000 cubic feet per 24 hours. This makes the well twice the size of the largest gas well ever brought in in Canada, and makes it a close rival of the great gasser that led to the opening up of the rich Smackover, Ark., oil field. It is one of the largest in the world.

The information regarding the second pressure test of the flow, made with a gauge secured from R. Winters, of the Western Canada Natural Gas company, was given the Lethbridge Herald over long distance phone by Mark C. Rogers, of the Canadian Oil and Refining Co., about noon Monday. The tests were made Sunday after the well had been brought under control.

The rock pressure gauge and the open flow test were both made, the former showing 840 pounds pressure. The increase in flow was recorded as follows: 300 pounds, first half minute; 600 pounds, first minute; 700 pounds, two minutes; 810 pounds in three minutes.

A two hour open flow test was made with the astonishing registering of 62,480,000 cubic feet per day. The "Red Devil" — so named because it came in in the red beds—has smashed to atoms all predictions, nearly trebling the initial measurement made by the chemist of the Imperial Oil company, and strongly bearing out the estimate of C. W. Dingman, Dominion government geological survey engineer, who last Thursday pronounced it the largest gas well in Canada.

Nothing can yet be announced regarding the character of the gas as to its gasoline content. A small absorption plant is now here and will be taken to the well, where a thorough test of the gas will be made. This test can be made in two or three days.

The feeling strongly prevails that the gas in the Rogers well is indicative of oil underneath, and the hope is general that a deep test of the monster gasser will be made. "Somewhere on the border, on the Canadian side, there is a tremendous pool of oil, and one of these days it is going to be discovered," said a long-experienced oil man today. "The presence of so much gas is proof of that. I look upon the Rogers discovery as one of the most far-reaching in the history of the oil game in Canada. No one can tell what it may lead to."

Down in Wyoming they have a couple of wet gassers that are making 75,000,000 and 60,000,000 cubic feet daily. They are located on Billy Creek, north of Salt Creek, and are owned by the Carter Oil company, one of the Standard group. According to published figures this gas is making three-quarters of a gallon of gasoline per 1000 feet of gas.

"Old Glory," the well that made the Bow Island field famous some 15 years ago gave 29.000,000 feet open flow at flush production.

THE LUMBER CUT IN EAST KOOTENAY

Although the movement of lumber from East Kootenay mills is very sluggish this spring, Norman Moore, of Cranbrook, provincial district forester in East Kootenay, looks for a cut of lumber this year that will not be more than thirty million feet short of the record cut of 179 million feet in 1923, and had the sleighing at the extreme west side of his district been even normal, Mr. Moore is confident the 1924 cut would have fully equalled that of the previous year.

Just now the only worth while inquiries for lumber come from western Canada in which market the Kootenay mills cannot successfully compete. The United States demand has practically ceased, but there is some improvement in sales at Saskatchewan and Manitoba centres. Until another crop is at least in sight no great improvement is looked for on the prairie market.

Poles in the 40-foot length are in good demand at satisfactory prices. With the miners on strike the demand has stopped for mine props and mine ties, and the assurance of another crop is the only thing that will expedite the sale of posts, of which many thousands are piled up awaiting buyers.

Mr. Moore conservatively estimates the value of the prospective 1924 cut of railway ties at $750,000,000. Over a million sawn ties are now sure of delivery on contracts already entered into and in addition to these there is always a large cut of hewn ties.

Sixteen sawmills are now in operation and by the early part of May the total should reach at least thirty. Some portion of these are of the so-called portable type that are busy on tie cuts.

After being shut down for about six years the plant of the Superior Spruce Co., Ltd., between McGillivray and Corbin is now in operation. This is a rotary mill and is reputed to be the best of its kind anywhere in the Crow's Nest country. There is reason to believe that at least one other mill in the Fernie area that has been idle the past few seasons will be resuming operations within the next few weeks.

BANKING COMMITTEE MAY SIT NEXT WEEK

Ottawa, April 28.—Consideration of the Home Bank failure and the banking problem by the house of commons is not now likely to be taken up until next week. Some time before the Easter recess the house referred the whole question to the banking and commerce committee but no meeting of this body has been held and none is expected to be called for the present week, which is to be given up chiefly, as far as committees go, to the church union question.

In the meantime the evidence taken before the royal commission on the Home Bank is being printed day by day for use of the members of parliament. This evidence may be considered in committee under the reference made by the house, but it is designed to be used for finding a remedy for weaknesses in the Bank Act and not for the purpose of coming to a conclusion upon the question of government responsibility for the bank failure, which has been submitted to the royal commission.

The practical suggestion for amendment of the Bank Act which stands first before the committee, is the creation of an insurance fund for savings deposits. This proposal was brought before the house by L. J. Ladner, Conservative, South Vancouver, and was referred by that body to the banking committee. Another suggestion which is likely to be pressed during the inquiry is the establishment of a system of government inspection of the banks.

Besides the church union question, which comes prominently to the front in the private bills committee on Wednesday, another issue of much importance to engage a committee is the Canadian National branch lines bill. This will come up toworrow in the railway committee, to which the various bills on this subject have been referred.

FOREST FIRE LOSSES IN EAST KOOTENAY SMALL

Losses through forest fires in 1923 in East Kootenay were the lowest in the history of that big district, according to Norman Moore, of Cranbrook, district forester. "Through the co-operation of the people," said Mr. Moore, "and a newly awakened interest in forest protection we have been able to reduce fire losses from year to year, though human agencies are still responsible for 86 per cent of our forest losses; an appalling state of affairs, surely, that we still destroy our forest heritage through criminal neglect."

This year, as last, the district forester is conducting an educational campaign amongst the children, and between now and the end of the first week in May he will have addressed practically every school in East Kootenay on forest protection. Last year a 14-year old girl pupil at the Golden school won third place in a province-wide essay writing contest on this subject. This year these prizes will be more generously distributed, four of them being offered in each forestry district.

Facilities for locating forest fires in East Kootenay have been improved since last fall by the installation of another lookout station, the latest being at a point above Moyie, west of Cranbrook, where the man in charge has a commanding view of that whole valley and as far east as Thompson Creek, almost 40 miles east.

For this year an even more complete lookout will be built in the Columbia valley, near Invermere, to be known as Swansea. It will command a view of the whole country north to Spillamacheen and south almost to Fort Steele. It will have all the latest equipment including an Osborne fire finder.

The great value of these stations as fire locators has fully demonstrated the economy of installing and maintaining them, and after Swansea will come a station between Yahk and Creston that will take care of the whole country to Kootenay Landing.

According to Mr. Moore, present plans are for the installation of a dozen more tourist camp sites in East Kootenay this year. Three of them will be located between Crow's Nest and Fernie; three on the south end of the Banff-Windermere road, between Windermere and Fort Steele; two between Fernie and Elko; two between Cranbrook and Yahk, and two in the Creston area—at Arrow Creek and Kuskanook.

THE BEER PROPOSALS

The date mentioned in government circles for the beer plebiscite is drawing near, and still the great body of the electorate remain in ignorance as to what is proposed, comments the Cranbrook Herald. There is, as a matter of fact, no reason why it should be made an excuse for a separate plebiscite, entailing that much extra expene on the province, when the question could be put to the people at the same time as an election, which cannot now be delayed very many months. Moreover, it must obviously be spring or fall for an election, the summer months being too much occupied with the serious business of farming and other strictly seasonable activities. If the government feels that what they have to offer in regard to the beer proposals will bring any relief from the conditions that have grown up around the present liquor act, they should have no hesitation in advancing the proposals. The public at large believes in upholding the law at all costs, but when these costs are heaped up out of all proportion to what might be spent on other cases in the criminal calendar, the law ceases to command respect.

After the cry that went up that the liquor control bill got through without the people really knowing what they voted for, the government should be at especial pains to let the daylight in on their beer selling proposals.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN

The Crippled Children's Fund has been in existence and actively functioning for ten months. It has been supported by voluntary contributions of small amounts from the Women's Institutes of British Columbia.

Following the inauguration of this work active measures were taken to afford relief to some of the cases of which, unfortunately, there are so many in British Columbia.

The success of the work has been very gratifying indeed and up to the present time some 16 cases have been treated, cures effected, and others are still under treatment and are making splendid progress towards recovery.

In February, 1924, the Hon. Dr. J. D. McLean, Provincial Secretary, received a communication from His Hon. the Lieut.-Governor, advising that a certain sum of money was available for distribution to Children's hospitals in Canada.

This money was the profits placed at the disposal of Their Majesties, the King and Queen, by the Gramaphone Company, who had charge of the work in connection with Their Majesties' address to the children of the elementary schools of the Empire on the 24th of May last.

Their Majesties decided that these profits should be distributed to Children's Hospitals and children's wards of general hospitals, and that a large sum should be given to a few institutions rather than a small amount to a greater number.

The amount allocated for distribution in Canada was £800 and it was decided that the best way to carry this out was for the government of each province to recommend one such children's hospital or ward to share in the benefits of this fund.

In reply to this request of His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, the Hon. J. D. MacLean suggested for consideration that such an amount as might be allocated to British Columbia should be given for distribution, under the Provincial Secretary's Department, to the fund for crippled children.

Dr. MacLean recognized the self-denying efforts that were being made by the Women's Institutes in undertaking to carry out so successfully such a beneficient work and felt he was justified in making the recommendation he did as a recognition of these splendid efforts.

The Women's Institutes have identified themselves with the health programme of the government and have been of very material assistance in the support they have given to the Public Health Nursing program.

That they should have voluntarily added to this work the care of crippled children in Dr. MacLean's opinion merited recognition, and later on when the cheque was received for the amount of $432.59, as British Columbia's share, it was with a great deal of pleasure indeed that Dr. MacLean forwarded it to Mrs. Bayley, Secretary of the Crippled Children's Fund.

In addition to the above amount of $432.59, there has been received by way of contributions from the Institutes for this year the sum of $563.75 in monthly payments; January $60.00, February $228.75, March $275.00.

Some of the Institutes are making monthly payments and it is very encouraging to note that the interest in the movement is extending to other organizations.

The Parent-Teachers' Association have expressed approval of the work and are showing their approval in the very practical way of contributing.

While the expenditures so far have been made towards the treatment of cases yet the primary object of building an orthopaedic hospital is not lost sight of. The sum of $1000 has been set aside as a nucleus for the building fund.

Negotiations are under way for a site. An offer of five acres at a rental of $1 per year, payment to be made for the property during or at the end of 20 years at the price which may be agreed on now.

The work undertaken by the Institutes contains in itself an unspoken appeal to the underlying sympathy towards a cripple and is trying to voice in a practical manner the effort to relieve the deformity and pain that condemns the patient to a life of misery.

The Women's Institutes are doing splendid work for the "home and country" but there has not yet been any work that has brought out so markedly the maternal instinct, that great instinct that prompted the Institutes to assume as their duty the development of all that means the improvement of the home and country in the expectation of making ourselves and our country a great nation.

B.C. EDUCATIONAL SURVEY

An educational survey will be held in British Columbia this year, states Hon. Dr. MacLean, minister of education. When Premier Oliver returns from Ottawa the matter will be taken up by the executive council, and an announcement made of the date and personnel of the commission. The educational system of this province has no superior in Canada, and in many respects is ahead of that of other provinces. The department has gathered a great deal of data on educational matters, which will be at the disposal of those who conduct the inquiry.

WAKE UP!

Tell us not in mournful numbers that this town's on the bum; rouse up from your peaceful slumbers; get out and make things hum. If we go to work in earnest we can make things hit on high; "dust thou art, to dust returnest," is a song of by and by. All the past is done forever—you can't call one moment back—and the future may come never, this is true, so help me Mack. Now's the time to do your boosting, do not wait tomorrow's dawn, in the grave you may be roosting, all your boosting chances gone. Lay aside your little hammer, grab a horn and toot a few; squelch the kicker's dadblamed hammer with a joyful blast or two. This old town is sure a pippin', and we ought to boost it big, when we hear some growler yippin', we should smite him on the wig. Mighty oaks that grow and flourish came from acorns plain and small; with your boosting you may nourish something that may help us all; something that may prove a blessing to the toiling sons of men—that's the point that I am stressing—boost and boost, then boost again. People love the smiling booster, and for him they loudly cheer, but they hate the knocking rooster, long to pelt him in the ear. Boost your country and your business, boost the people in your town, they will dub you wise and witty and you'll grain a wide renown.

THE WHOLE-SOULED FRIEND

'Tis good to meet on the busy street
Whenever the day grows blue,
With the dizzy push of commercial rush,
A whole-souled person like you.

Amid the hustle of jazzy crowds,
We weary of shuffle and din:
In the life we lead we feel the need

We bless the day that your came our way,
Filling your own sweet place:
And we maintain that the friends we gain,
The years will never displace.

We've marked you down with the best we've found;
Our hearts with our hands extend;
For 'mid the strife of a busy life
'Tis pleasant to gain a friend.

And you, dear friend, with good cheer to lend,
Are a jewel both rich and rare;
We wish you peace, and may joys increase,
As onward through life you fare.

'Tis good to know that where'er we go
There are some warm hearts and true:
For a minute to stand while we clasp the hand
Of a whole-souled person like you.

A secret so simple many overlook it

Yet millions of women keep youthful loveliness this way

To realize the dream that is in every woman's heart, to keep the youth that every woman wants... Turn for a while from the elaborate treatments and methods. Try this simple but correct way by which millions of women are keeping youthful radiance and charm.

Authorities advise this

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap — each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

Just be sure to get Palmolive—which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. Then for one week try this simple treatment. To your delight, results will be noticeable even in that short time!

The cost is so little that you can well use Palmolive for the bath, too.

One Flies to the North

"Contact!" "Contact!" The last audible words between pilot and mechanic are spoken, and with stentorian roar of engine and propellor the giant, human and baggage freighted plane, glides swiftly over the surface of the Quinze. One feels the churning waters tumping at the bottom of the boat until momentum has increased to such extent that a touch of the "stick" causes the Vickers Viking to slowly rise.

Two turns in as many minutes and the passenger, having adjusted his goggles and seated himself more comfortably, peers, at first cautiously, over the side of the pit, and far below him lies the little town of Angliers, the head of the Canadian Pacific steel which twists and turns in and out of the forest to the south like a living thing. The earth is as a map below, lakes and rivers shining in the distance and beneath, and ragged patches of bush and arable land smudged here and there like a child's attempt to depict relief.

Turning east the plane heads down Lake Quinze, following the water course to Lake Expanse, — one sees from the air how appropriate is its name, — thence north for some fifteen miles up the Ottawa River and further north over one of its tributaries to Lake Fortune and Rouyn, upon nearing which the plane leaves the glorious rolling clouds and gradually sinks until once more the water tumps the bottom of the hull, checking it with sudden jerks which tend to slow the boat until it stops within a few feet of tie-up. One wonders how the pilot could, at such a speed, have judged his distance so well. But then he does the same thing more than once each day bringing to the new Gold Fields of Quebec, in fifty minutes, passengers and supplies which, before the air service was started took two days at the least to arrive.

Commencing May 18th the Air Service to the Gold Fields will be regular on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, large flying boats capable of carrying five people being scheduled to meet all Canadian Pacific trains at Angliers. This service, which will eliminate the hardships of the past and enable prospectors and tourists to travel to the Rouyn Mining District in less than an hour will include regular stops where they are required and accommodation is available.

Twice as Rich as Ordinary Milk

You can dilute the double-rich contents of this tin until the quart bottle overflows with pure milk.

For economy in tinning, more than half of the natural water is removed from the rich, fresh milk that becomes Carnation. This leaves it twice as rich as ordinary milk. Nothing else is removed; nothing at all is added.

Thus, Carnation is rich enough for every milk need, for coffee or cocoa, on cereals, fruits, etc., and in all cooking. Carnation is always rich, clean, pure, safe, convenient and economical. Your grocer has it.

Produced in Canada

FOR HOME COOKS

REMEMBER: Cook with Carnation and your food will be famous for flavor and richness. In any recipe calling for milk use only ⅓ cup of Carnation to ⅔ cup water. It's economical!

EDITORIAL ECHOES

THERE are ten thousand questions of business that on outsider can settle, upon which any suggestion of his would deserve nothing but contempt, but the great principles with which I started, the eternal obligations of honesty and integriy and decency; the responsibility of the individual; the supremacy of moral character, the universal application of the ten commandments, in industry as well as in private life—these are principles that apply everywhere, to the business and professional man alike; to the man who plans the work and pays for it, and to the man whose hands execute the plans and receive the pay. We are human beings before we are founders or workmen. We are all responsible to a higher than human tribunal. No one of us can at last deceive or defeat eternal justice. And we do well to remember that, after all is said and done, in the final roundup, character is the only thing that counts. That we must strengthen and not weaken! The debt of strength is to help turn weakness into strength! Our salvation as a people lies not in increased dividends or larger wages, but in a new sense of personal honor and in a quickened conscience. Not in new fashioned machinery, but in old-fashioned virtues, lies our salvation as a people!—virtues as old as humanity, as lasting as God!

IF there is anything in your town worth talking about ten chances to one, your newspaper had a hand in putting it there. If anybody beyond the walls of your burg ever learns that there is such a place as Fernie, it will be through the home paper.

Every town gets its money's worth through the home newspaper. It's the wagon that carries all your goods to market. It ought to be kept in good repair. It will pay to grease it, paint it and keep its running gears in good shape and kelter.

It is the guardian and defender of every interest, the forerunner and pioneer of every movement and the sturdy advocate of law and order.

WHY try to beat the train? You may do it but you take a long chance. The sign, "Stop — Look—Listen"—has become so familiar that many drivers pay very little attention to it and the casualties pile up as a result. The Interstate Commerce Commission of the U. S. recently compiled reports of crossing casualties from 1915 to 1921 inclusive, showing that in 1915, 1086 persons were killed in the United States from this cause, and 2981 injured; in 1916, 1652 were killed and 3859 injured; in 1917, 1777 were killed and 4356 injured; in 1918, 1653 were killed and 4182 injured; in 1919, 1677 were killed and 4400 injured; 1920, 1790 were killed and 5077 injured; in 1921, 1702 were killed and 4818 injured, a total of 11,338 killed and 29,673 injured, some of whom were maimed for life. These figures ought to be a lesson and a very effective warning.

I AM thoroughly convinced that the Golden Rule is practictl religion and that it works both ways — for others and for me.

I respect all religious creeds and shall not interfere with any man's honest political convictions.

I shall always be square with those who trust me and always fair with those who do not.

I want to live as long as I can be useful to my country, my community and to those who love me.

I firmly believe that selfish interest defeats self-interest — that my permanent profits and lasting satisfaction in success will only come through capable and dependable service.

I would not exchange my friendships for all the currency in this country.

I am unspeakably grateful to my Maker for each and every day that I am permitted to live, and I want so to live that several will really miss me when I take the long, long trail.

Finally: I want so to live that my mother will smile down and still call me her boy.

FARMERS must feel resentment over the palaver of professional politicians who try to make agricultural conditions seem worse than the facts will warrant in order to curry favor, but who can offer no logical solution for farm problems. If we were farming we would welcome sincere co-operation, but we would shun condescension from people who amount to less, who accomplish less, whose reward is less, and whose hope is less. The farmer has a big business. He has a large sphere of varied possibilities. Sometimes he wins, somtimes he loses, but in the long run his comfortable gain would make his anxious political adviser turn green with envy. As he looks down from his estate he must regard with amusement the studied compassion of self-seeking small potatoes.

THE reader's confidence is the most important item to the newspaper publisher. Newspapers are growing better and fewer. Consolidation has been effective. Time has come to stop, look and listen. Publishers are responsible to their readers for every picture and sentence that appears in their paper. A reader's confidence is worth more than numbers. The dissemination of news is today of vital importance. The newspaper was never more independent than at the present time.

The world needs leadership today. It is listening for a voice to lead. Let the newspaper be the voice which will give a better leadership to the world.

THE time has passed when radio is looked upon as a plaything. It has come to the point where the public expects service and amusement of high class. If nearby stations do not furnish the kind of program desired it is only a matter of a few monments to turn them out and tune in the distant ones. Some stations broadcast every half hour during the day and night, giving the important news and market reports in a few minutes. Radio is fast assuming a houehold necessity, and is found in millions of homes today for service as well as amusement.

DIRECTORS of the Wollworth 5-and-10-cent stores now value the company's "good will" at 20 million dollars. "Good will" is an invisible asset. It is, to a business, what reputation is to the individual. A business may lose its last dollar—everything tangible that it owns. But, as long as it retains its reputation for fair dealing and merit, there is still a lot to salvage. So with people. Reputation is the best form of wealth.

ASTHMA NEVER CAME BACK

Read this letter from Mrs. J. M. Pennington of New Rockland, P.Q. "In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered during the winter. I began having choking spells and would just gasp for breath and could not speak. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

In the spring of 1920, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and soon the choking spells became easier and I have not had one since May 7th, 1920. It is such a relief to be able to go to bed and have no thought of having to get up in the night for an hour or more as I did all that winter, but never have to now, all because I take a "Fruit-a-tives" tablet every night. 25c. and 50c. a box—at all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

Featuring Irene Rich and Monte Blue

Two shall be born the whole wide world apart,
And speak in different tongues, and have no thought,
Each of the other's being, and no heed;
And those, o'er unknown seas to unknown lands
Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death,
And all unconsciously shape every act
And bond each wandering step to this one end,—
That one day out of darkness they shall meet,
And read life's meaning in each other's life.

With these words Kathleen Norris prefaces the remarkable story of lovers in the power of fate in her novel, "Lucretia Lombard." This "best seller" has been adapted to the silver screen, where, in vivid dramatic scenes, the words of the above poem are driven home with stark power and unforgettable beauty.

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY, MAY 7 & 8

Glen Hunter with Ernest Torrance and May McAvoy IN

"WEST OF THE WATER TOWER"

Think of Glenn Hunter, Broadway's favorite young star, as Guy, the town's smartest boy, and May McAvoy as Bee, the town's prettiest girl—who believe their great love is only a matter between them and God—who lock their secret securely in their own hearts—'till Fate whispers the stark truth to the boy's father—a bigoted, rugged minister—who precipitates a tremendous scene that alone could make any picture a smashing success. But this is just one of the many big moments, which make this, without doubt, the outstanding picture drama of recent years.

TAKE JAZZ SERIOUSLY

"I shall kill you," says Mr. Paul Rosenfeld to his fellow critic, Mr. Gilbert Seldes. "On the night when the last symphony orchestra proudly gives up the ghost at the last Beethoven concert in the New World, I shall certainly kill you." For Mr. Seldes has written favorably of jazz, and jazz, thinks Mr. Rosenfeld, will yet supplant dignified music completely. However, Mr. Seldes is not affrighted. In Arts and Decoration he tells of Mr. Rosenfeld's awful threat, and at once goes on to write of jazz more favorably than ever. Says he:

"Among the lively arts, jazz is at present the most promising. It is hard, precise and unsentimental. (Even the most sentimental tune hardens under the orchestral treatment of jazz.) It is not sloppy, it is self-assured, it is never dull. And it is a growing thing, not a manufactured, and not an imitative one. The jazz of ten years ago was impudent and mocking. The horseplay in it is still practiced to some extent by such a jazz-band leader as Ted Lewis; Whiteman and Vincent Lopez preserve the lightness of spirit, transferring the jokes to the musical instruments and to the transformations in tempo which they make. The orchestra as now constituted exploits the banjo and the saxophone, which, it is surprising to learn, were absent from the original jazz bands. In reality the characteristics of the modern jazz band is its deficiency in strings, made up by diversity in woodwind, exuberance of brass, and the utilization of the saxophone family, which has the ambiguous quality of wind and brass, of reed and bell. That constitution is suitable enough for dancing; if the jazz orchestra ever becomes a concert body, the strings will have to be enlarged.

"The music played is still largely popular music, but this, too, has undergone many changes in the last ten years. Essentially you may say that ten years ago songs were written to be sung, now they are written to be played and danced. The freedom of rhythm, the variety of cadence, the capricious shifting of accents, all result from this change and all tend to make the music more interesting. The feebleness harmonically is also due to the use to which popular music is put, for harmonic interest is not necessary when you hear with your body. As soon as jazz begins to be listened to, that is, begins to be considered musically, we may look for a greater melodie and harmonic interest. It is to be hoped that the exhilaration of fresh rhythms will not depart."

SAVING THE FORESTS

The Dominion and provincial governments are making an effort this week to emphasize the need of forest protection in Canada. In urging the people to be careful of their forest wealth, they are simply pressing upon them the desirability of consulting their own interests. This, one would think, should not be necessary, but unfortunately it is. A very large number of Canadians do not seem to realize that 85 per cent of the forest wealth of the country belongs to the citizens of Canada, and that whenever they destroy any of this wealth, either deliberately or through carelessness, they are burning up their own money. A few facts regarding our forests may serve to drive this truth home.

Forest fires in Canada have destroyed ten times as much timber as has been cut and utilized. They make the country poorer by about $15,000,000 every year, and British Columbia poorer by a million or more. Eighty-six per cent of the forest fires are caused by human beings and are therefore preventable. It is well to regard forests not as great collections of trees but in terms of human employment and human happiness. Sir Clifford Sifton has estimated that without her forests Canada could not support a population of more than three million people.

"SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL"

The Provincial party leaders have organized a new institution—a sort of "school for scandal," remarked a wit recently, when it was announced that the McRae forces were holding classes to train speakers for the coming election campaign. The speakers are being thoroughly drilled in the "principles" of the new party and especially in the details of the P. G. E. inquiry. Apparently the McRae followers are hard up for something to talk about and the rehashing of the ancient railway question is about all that is left.

Glenn Hunter and Ernest Torrence in a scene from the Paramount Picture "West of the Water Tower"

ORPHEUM THEATRE—Wednesday and Thursday, May 7 and 8

"WEST OF THE WATER TOWER"

Homer Croy, author of "West of the Water Tower," the novel of small town life which rivals "Main Street" as one of the most popular books of its kind, visited the Paramount Long Island studio recently and watched the process of putting his story into screen form. After witnessing Rollin Sturgeon film several scenes for the picture and after talking with Glenn Hunter, who is starred in the picture, May McAvoy, Ernest Torrence, George Fawcett and Zasu Pitts, the featured players, he expressed himself as being highly pleased with the production so far as it had gone.

"One gets a curious thrill in watching characters he has created in his mind come to life," said Mr. Croy. "Hunter and Torrence come as near being ideal for the parts of Guy and Plummer as I could possibly wish for. If I had picked the cast for this picture myself I could have done no better. I could stand around and watch them work all day long. Their actions draw me like a magnet. I have never experienced anything like it in all my life.

"When I wrote the story I had no idea that it would ever be made into a motion picture. I told Mr. Lasky that when he sent for me in regard to selling the motion picture rights, but he said that was what he liked about the story."

Mr. Croy inspected the main street of Junction City which was built on the back lot of the studio and was amazed at the detail of the work. When he saw the sign "Herman Wolf" over the drug store, he said: "You know, I never did know what Wolf's first name was before, but Herman is as good as any. This is a marvelous street. I didn't know you went to such care to build sets like this. It could not look more like a small town street."

Brimming over with enthusiasm for the treatment Director Sturgeon gave his story, Croy left the studio, and was a frequent visitor until the picture was finished. "West of the Water Tower" will be on view at the Orpheum Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. It is said to be packed with thrills and humor.

TIMBER REVENUE INCREASING

British Columbia timber revenue is rapidly increasing. For the month of March the revenue collected through the forest branch was $280,000. The amount received from scale and royalty was $135,940 as compared with $112,174 in March, 1923. The revenue from the sale of government timber in March was $49,487, showing a big increase over the figure of $26,505 for the same month last year.

Here and There

Commencing April 15th, the Canadian Pacific Railway, having in mind the expressed wishes of the majority of its patrons, has decided to revert to the custom of permitting no smoking in observation cars of its transcontinental trains.

The production of steel ingots and castings in Canada during the month of February amounted to 70,953 tons, an advance of 72 per cent over the 41,309 tons produced in January. The increase was almost wholly accounted for by the rise in the quantity of open-hearth basic steel ingots made for the use of producers.

Canadian farm products exported to the United States during February totalled $2,440,203, an increase of $961,579 over February last year, according to a report published by the Bureau of Statistics. Wheat exports to the United States were valued at $101,714 in February, as against $25,157 in February of the previous year.

Under the agreement with the Imperial Government under the Empire Settlement Act, Canada, spent $39,657 in assisted passages for some 2,653 British immigrants in the fiscal year just closed. In the past four years the Dominion Government has spent nearly $1,500,000 in promoting immigration from Great Britain to Canada.

By arrangements made by Hon. George Headley, Minister of Agriculture, a trial shipment of cows and steers will be made in the near future to Japan for the purpose of testing out the possibilities of a market for Alberta's livestock in that country. It is also the purpose of the department to send with the shipment a qualified investigator who will look into the potentialities of a market for all Albertan farm products.

For the first time in the past two or three years the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries Limited is shipping butter in carload lots direct to the cities of the United States. A carload shipment was recently made from Saskatoon to Philadelphia. Two carloads were also shipped to Chicago, where they realized good prices. Each car contained between 25,000 and 39,000 pounds of Saskatchewan butter.

Speaking at Quebec recently, E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, summarized the magnitude of the operations of the Company. It has 15,000 miles of railway in Canada and controls 5,102 miles in the United States. It owns and operates telegraph and express systems, 13 hotels, 16 bungalow camps and rest houses, and has in commission on the Atlantic and Pacific, Canadian lakes and the British Columbia coast, 81 ships aggregating approximately 450,000 gross tons. Its personnel varies in numbers with business conditions from 65,000 to 100,000 employees in all branches of the service.

What must constitute a record in the rapid handling of an important consignment from the Orient was established recently by the Canadian Pacific Railway when shipping a quantity of silk from Yokohama to New York. The consignment, which was the largest forwarded from Asia since the recent slump in the silk market, left Yokohama on March 22nd on the Canadian Pacific steamer "Empress of Asia." Specially stowed for prompt discharge on arrival at Vancouver, the shipment was so rapidly transferred to the waiting train that only 13½ minutes per car lapsed between the docking of the ship and the departure of the fast freight and delivery was made at New York at midnight April 4th, the through time from Yokohama to New York being but 13 days, 8 hours and 13 minutes, calendar time.

EYELESS SIGHT?

That the function of vision may be exercised, under certain conditions, by the ordinary skin, is asserted, in a recently published book by Jules Romains, a Frenchman, known also under the pen name of "Louis Farigoule." Romains, we are told by a reviewer in The Lancet (London), is less known as a physiologist than as a dramatist and literary artist, who is not altogether enthusiastic about the medical profession. He believes that the general skin surface of the body and some of the adjacent mucous membranes are capable of vision in the sense that completely blind or blindfolded people may recognize colors, persons, geometrical forms, and even read the newspaper by means of their skin. Furthermore:

"He identifies as accessory eyes some of the many varieties of end-organs in the skin whose precise function has never been determined. The phenomena which he describes are certainly striking. There is no inherent impossibility in the idea that the skin is responsive to the wave-lengths in the ether which we recognize as light, and if there are receptors scattered over the surface, it is conceivable that these impressions might be translated into conceptions of external appearances. But a world steeped in the dogmas of physiological optics will require more rigorous proof than the author advances. One pitfall, at any rate, is quite insufficiently fenced off. With the exception, the experiments which he cites take no account of telepathy, the object or word or numbers presented to and recognized by, e.g., the chest of the subject being known to some one else who was actually present. If he would take Professor Richet into collaboration, we could be sure this source of error would be adequately excluded. That telepathy is the explanation of his results is certainly supported by his observation that some degree of attention and the correct frame of mind are necessary.

HIGH PRICES

By Walt Mason

The booze they sell is priced so high a poor man can't get drunk; a beaker of their deadly rye will cost you half a plunk. A man must be absurdly rich if he'd acquire a bun, and roll around in yonder ditch and have all kinds of fun. They used to make their booze of grain, or barley, corn and rye, and one could take his bitters plain, and not go blind or die. The barley and the rye and corn were inexpensive stuff, and fifteen cents would buy a horn, and that seemed dear enough. But now they're using costly dyes, and drugs of noxious smell, to make the bourbons and the ryes the bootleg dealers sell. It costs to manufacture booze, the way they make it now, to gather up old overshoes, and horns of goats and cows, to boil tin cans and cast off hats, the rinds of rancid cheese, to get the blood of vampire bats, the sap of upas trees. One cannot get without expense an alligator's nest, the rusty barb wire from a fence, that gives the bitters zest. One cannot without money buy a vat of purple ink, a crosscut saw, a keg of lye, to make the modern drink. And so the price of flowing bowls is up, and up to stay, and only men with ample rolls can kill themselves that way. But one may to the hydrant trek, in peace and great content, and pour three gallons down his neck, and not cough up a cent.

CANADA'S NATIONAL PLAYGROUND

CANADIANS are fortunate in their National Parks, in that they have within their borders Alpine scenery which is not equalled anywhere on the continent, and more and more they are realizing that holidays in Canada hold for the lover of out-of-doors all the thrills that could be found anywhere in the world. Jasper National Park in the Canadian Rockies, contains many high peaks, eternally snowcapped, and on the sides of the mountains are glaciers which have stood the test of ages. Millions of tons of ice, stretching in some instances, almost as far as the eye can see, lure the adventurous climber to new attempts, while in the calm, peaceful valleys wild game of all kinds live at peace with mankind and the world.

Additional bungalows for the accommodation of guests are to be erected at Jasper Park Lodge, the log-cabin hostelry of the Canadian National Railways at Jasper National Park, in time for the opening of the 1924 season, it is announced by officials of the Hotel Department, Canadian National Railways. During last season the popularity of Jasper National Park was so great that the capacity of Jasper Park Lodge was taxed, and the additional bungalows being provided this year will take care of almost fifty per cent. more guests.

Four 4-room bungalows, each room with bath, and two 12-room bungalows, each room also having private bath, are being erected. In addition, a double-deck boathouse, with the upper floor for conventions, and dancing, is being constructed, and an octagonal curio building is being built near the main Lodge. Four new buildings are being erected to serve as employees' quarters, the kitchens are being extended and the main lounge is being extended to provide for a ladies' reception room and for a men's billiard and card room.

LOS ANGELES SKELETONS

Scientists are not yet ready to say whether or not the human skeletons unearthed in the southwest district of Los Angeles by a construction gang represent an early man heretofore undiscovered on this continent, we are told in Science Service's Daily Science News Bulletin (Washington). Assembling of the fragments of bone is in progress, and chemical analyses of the remains are being made in order to determine how completely organic matter has been eliminated. This will give evidence as to whether the bones date from the Ice Age or are more recent. We read further:

"Fear of the coroner threatened at the time of discovery to put an end to the scientific evidence. A gang of laborers excavating for a sewer uncovered the first signs of human remains, and they immediately began to destroy the bones for fear that legal interference would be invoked by the municipal authorities. Fortunately the contractor intervened before much of the priceless evidence was destroyed. Souvenir hunters have also hindered the scientific study by carrying off pieces of the skeletons, but arrangements are being made to recover some of this material.

"The several hundred bones are so much broken it is impossible to determine their stage of development. Some pieces ring like vitrified pottery, however, indicating a long period of chemical transformation. A fairly complete jawbone shows its owner was a highly developed man in advanced stage of evolution. His chin is well developed.

"The bones are stained grayish brown from fine alluvial soil in which they were buried. This is a highly micaceous deposit whose geologic age is not known. It lies from 19 to 23 feet below the surface. The undisturbed strata indicate very great age, since alluvial deposition in arid southern California is very slow.

"No bones showing primitive or ape-like characteristics have been found, though restoration of the skulls may reveal type as yet unsuspected. The remains are apparently those of one woman and four men. The fourth man excavated was found to be similar to the others. One of the men is of large frame, but they can not be considered giants or dwarfs.

"Material so far collected is in the hands of Director Wm. A. Bryan of the Los Angeles Museum, and will be assembled by expert anatomists. This is a very difficult task because of the excessive breakage.

"Despite the fact that the graves are in the midst of the city outfall sewer construction operations, the contractor is cooperating in praiseworthy fashion. Steam shovels and hydraulic apparatus are in service, but much interference has been caused by the heavy rains and the resulting cave-ins. No tools, weapons or other man-made devices have come to light, nor have any bones or fossils of lower animals which might indicate geologic age been found.

EGGS AND TARIFF

From an Ottawa dispatch we note that during the year ending last February, over two and one half times as many eggs were imported as were exported from Canada. Compared with the preceding twelve months our imports were 200,000 dozen more and our exports 738,000 dozen less.

In dozens our imports were nearly eight million and our exports not quite three million. Most of Canada's imports come from the United States, though 50,000 dozen came last year from China. Our egg production was 202 million dozen last year, an increase of eight million over the preceding year. It was valued at $48,000,000.

Figures like these give an idea of the importance of the egg industry. It is $8,000,000 more valuable to Canada than the whole of her fisheries.

With these facts in mind it is amazing that the Dominion government refuses point blank to adjust the duty on eggs imported into Canada to the level of that placed by the United States on Canadian eggs.

In February last 1,872,426 dozen American eggs paid a 3 cent duty to enter Canada. In the same month only 287 dozen Canadian eggs crossed the line. They had to pay 8 cents duty per dozen.

Canadian eggs are practically barred from entering the United States. At the same time American eggs are allowed to enter Canada and compete with Canadian eggs under a small duty.

The tariff changes outlined in the budget include a sop to those poultrymen who require American incubators and brooders. The removal of the sales tax from poultry food will be a general help to them all. The desired reciprocity in tariff, as between exports and imports of eggs would have widened the markets and provided the best encouragement to the Canadian poultry industry.

CHINESE ARE OUSTING ALL WHITE WORKMEN

Vancouver, April 29.—A movement by Chinese to oust all white workmen from the shingle industry in B.C. is discused in The Hook, which tells of a Vancouver mill which had to discharge its white sawyers at the dictation of the Chinese sawyers and packers.

It is said that there is not a single white packer left in all the mills of the lower mainland and that very few white sawyers are left. One sawyer, whose case is quoted, was told by four mills that they could do with his help last week but were afraid to engage him as the Chinese would not allow any white men to work in the mills. In a Fraser valley mill the firm had to dismiss a white sawyer after he had got a new machine installed and in running order. The Hook advises the shingle millers to open a school of instruction for white men to learn the shingle packing business so as to save the trade from the dictation of the Chinese. Chinese sawyers are said to be making from $8 to $10 a day and packers from $5 to $7 a day.

SUPERANNUATION BILL AT OTTAWA

Government employes throughout the Dominion are deeply interested in the new civil service superannuation bill, a synopsis of which has been issued by the government at Ottawa.

One specially commendable feature of the bill is the inclusion of widows and children of civil servants as beneficiaries of the act. The Ottawa Citizen expresses regret that no revision is made to meet the case of the considerable number of "temporary" civil servants who have given long and faithful service and who, to all intents and purposes, are permanent employees. The need in that direction will be more felt in Ottawa itself than elsewhere throughout the Dominion.

There can be no doubt that when the bill in its final form becomes the law, the benefits gained will not merely be those specified in the bill. There should be produced a feeling of security and freedom from anxiety among all classes, which, in turn, will mean a more efficient and contented personnel. Hitherto the Ontario superannuation law has been looked upon as a model measure of its kind. The report of the civil service commission for Ontario for 1923 makes this reference to the provincial act: "The operation of the Ontario Public Service Superannuation Act is having a stabilizing effect upon the service and is consequently resulting in economy in the matter of labor turnover. It is resulting in fewer resignations and in producing a feeling of contentment upon the part of employes generally." A short experience of the federal law will no doubt produce similar results.

Provision for adequate superannuation is recognized in the business world as well as in state departments. There should be loyalty of employer towards faithful employes as well as loyalty by the latter to their employer. The benefits that follow are mutual, the security the employe feels as to the future being reflected in the quality of his work in the present.

REMOVING THE STING

The suggestion of W. A. MacDonald that the Native Sons of Canada will do well to shorten their title by omitting the first word is one of the best propositions yet made in connection with that organization. By so doing the members will lift themselves from the realm of parochial bodies and enter the area of national societies. It is surprising that the leaders of this organization have not earlier seen the fundamental objections to the title as it now stands, and the fallicies which are inseparable from it. Every naturalized citizen in the Dominion is a Son of Canada, and the narrow view which seems to arrogate a certain preeminence to Native born Canadians is both illogical and offensive. The present title actually forbids membership to the great majority of Canadians who fought in the great war, and that fact alone condemns it. "One of our objects," says Mr. MacDonald, "is to remove racial and provincial differences. Why then erect new barriers by fencing off those who can boast of native birth? Such a policy creates needless resentment."

It may be hoped that the organization will take to heart this opinion of one of its founders, and that we shall be able to note a broader tone in its future pronouncements.

Here and There

It is estimated that over 50,000 acres were sown with corn in Alberta in 1923, as compared with only 1,000 acres in 1919. This is a good indication of how rapidly corn culture is increasing in Western Canada in connection with mixed farming operations.

All previous records of Canadian freight transportation were broken when a solid train-load of automobiles reached the Pacific Coast from Windsor, Ont., over Canadian Pacific lines recently. The distance of 2,932 miles was covered in seven days, or exactly 169 hours and 20 minutes. The train, which consisted of 40 cars, each containing 6 Ford automobiles, was more than a third of a mile long and was handled on practically passenger schedule.

The splendidly sound position of the Canadian Pacific Railway is well shown in the annual report for the fiscal year ended December 31st, 1923, which has just been issued. The gross earnings of the Company for the year were $195,837,089.61, the working expenses $158,358,079.54, and the net earnings, $37,479,010.07.

A large party of Scottish farmers, ploughmen, farm workers and their families, is expected to arrive at Montreal in June. The party, which will sail on the Canadian Pacific steamer "Marburn," will be conducted by the Scottish representative of the Canadian Pacific Department of Colonization and Development.

Alberta has maintained an average yield of spring wheat of 19¼ bushels per acre over a period of twenty-six years, according to a chart prepared by the Department of Agriculture. In addition, winter wheat has averaged over the same period 20.19 bushels; oats, 35.79 bushels; barley, 26.10 bushels; rye, 18.84 bushels and flax, 8.71 bushels.

A feature of the annual banquet and convention of the officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which were held at Quebec on March 22nd, was the representation, in the banquetting hall, of a full-sized locomotive of the latest type emerging from a tunnel. Built of wood at Angus Shops, Montreal, it was in all respects perfect. At a prearranged moment, it emitted steam and smoke, the bell rang and the whistle blew, while the headlight became a moving picture projector.

Indications of a great season in immigration are seen by Canadian Pacific officials in the arrival at St. John, N.B., during the week-end of March 29-30, of 2,441 third-class passengers, aboard the Company's steamers Montcalm and Metagama. The Montcalm had on board 1,584 of these passengers, which constitutes a record for the season.

Pioneer Spirit Is Still At Work.

With the exception of the Canadian Parliament at Ottawa, there seldom comes together in this country a group of men so thoroughly representative of all Canada as met in the city of Quebec recently when 650 of the higher officers of the Canadian Pacific Railway gathered for one of their periodical conferences.

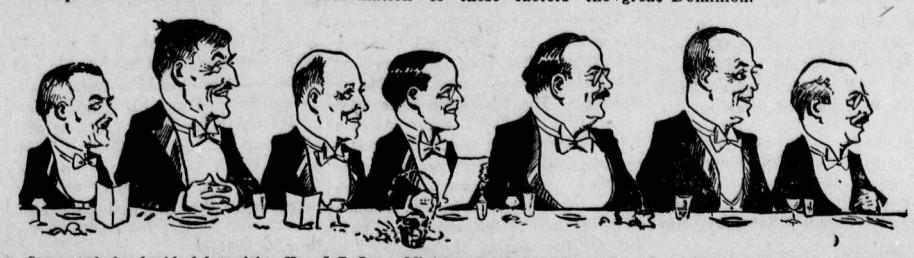
They came from every part of Canada and, dealing as they do, with every phase of Canadian industry and trade, they represented to a remarkable extent the progress and development which Canada is now enjoying.

The close of the gathering was marked by a speech from President E. W. Beatty, which set forth in illuminating terms the present position of the great company and something of the lines along which it is pursuing the task for which it was first constructed, namely the building of a great Canadian nation.

Mr. Beatty began with a tribute to the bold enterprising men who, under such leaders as Champlain, and within sight and sound of the Chateau Frontenac where he was then speaking, had laid the first foundations of nationhood. The spirit of Champlain did not die in 1635, he said, it carried on through the centuries, cleared the forests, tilled the land, founded cities, established routes of trade and commerce, constructed railways and steamships and was today seen wherever Canadian men and women were at the work of nation-building. It was this spirit that had built the Canadian Pacific.

Mr. Beatty's utterance on the matter of politics was as frank as it was important. He said:

"Every Canadian is naturally concerned with national politics, whether they emanate from one political party or another, and the Company because of its tremendous stake in the Country and the fact that it is a trustee of hundreds of millions of British, Canadian and American capital, jealously guards those interests against unfairness or the adoption of any politics calculated to destroy the integrity of those investments. When I say that, however I have said all. The company is not in politics and I would suggest that it has little, if any, political influence. No officer or employee of the Company has, in my recollection, and centainly not in recent years, been ever asked or requested to discharge his franchise save according to his own belief and we propose that they shall be left with that freedom unembarrassed by our own views or predilections."



Mr. Beatty's reference to the national system of railways was equally frank and timely. He pointed out the peculiar anomaly that: "The less profitable are the operations of the National Railway System the greater the taxes of the Canadian Pacific, and if the National Railways prosper through diversion of traffic from the Canadian Pacific, we lose in revenue more than we gain in taxes.

He further said: "We may conclude that the test of government ownership is being made under as favorable conditions as can be secured. The railway mileage of the Country is proportionately greater than the traffic available to support it. This Company has a very real reason to hope for the success of the National Railways, provided it is accomplished without withdrawing from us the traffic which we have taken so many years to build up and secure. The greatest factor which will contribute to the National Railways' progress is the development of Canada, the increase in population and the expansion of industries. If, by a happy combination of these factors the progress of the National Railways continues, I, for one, will be very glad because it will carry with it the assurance that Canadian Pacific progress will be still greater in the future than in the past.

The greatness of a railway is accurately gauged by the character of the men it produces. No other institution in the country has produced so many outstanding men in their various communities. I speak not merely of such as Sir William Van Horne and Lord Shaughnessy, I speak of hundreds of C.P.R. officers who have so finely served the Company and the Country. Owing to these men, the Canadian Pacific has not been merely a collection of subsidies or a machine for earning revenues. It has been the dynamic force in the life and progress of Canada, settling vacant lands, fostering new industries, developing latent resources, opening up markets, introducing outside capital, bringing in as tourists or immigrants vast armies of purchasers to consume her produce.

The C.P.R. man is inspired by the thought that without the Canadian Pacific Railway, Confederation would never have been agreed to in principle, and would never have been maintained in actual fact. The present King of England while Prince of Wales said: "We all know how the Canadian Pacific Railway has helped to make a Nation." That knowledge accounts more than anything else for the magnificent record and the splendid spirit of the officers of this Company.

Providing our politics are conceived in wisdom and executed with vigor, we have the assurance of great national development and commercial prosperity. All we can expect is the privilege of contributing to and sharing in the development, because we are Canadians, and because the future of this Company is inextricably connected with the future of our great Dominion."

When taken to the hospital it was found that her skull was fractured. No hope was held out for her recovery and the brave little life lingered until death relieved her sufferings.

Chief Anderson boils over with this little classic about the scandalmonger: "After God had finished making the rattlesnake, the toad and the vampire, He had some awful substance left with which he made the scandalmonger. A scandalmonger is a two-legged animal with a corkscrew soul, a water-sogged brain and a combination backbone made of jelly and glue. Where other men have their hearts he carries a tumor of decayed principles. When the scandalmonger comes down the street honest men turn their backs, the angels weep tears in heaven and the devil shuts the gates of hell to keep him out."

PACIFIC MILK IS GRATEFUL

A letter comes from Mrs. A. H. Harper, whose home is in Vancouver, in which she says she has used Pacific Milk for ten years. That there was anything unusual about using one article of food so long a stretch never occurred to her until a friend recently expressed surprise over it. The friend suggested she write to the Company and this accounts for the appreciated letter just received. Thank you.

B.C. MINISTERS VISIT FERNIE

The opening gun of the provincial government's election campaign, without any definite information as to the probability of an election in the near future, was fired here last Friday evening, when Hon. A. M. Manson, Attorney General, and Hon. Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, addressed a public meeting in the Grand theatre.

In his remarks as chairman of the meeting, A. I. Fisher, who has been the Liberal standardbearer in the Fernie riding for the past 15 years, definitely announced that he would not be a candidate in the next election, and that if it was at all possible he would take no active part in the campaign.

Hon. Dr. Sutherland stated that although he had visited Fernie on several occasions in connection with the work of his department, this was his first occasion to address a public meeting in the city. Replying to some criticism levelled at his department in the matter of employing numerous engineers to supervise the road work, he stated that these men had saved the government a great amount of money by doing the road work in a most competent manner and in properly locating roads. Relocating roads built prior to 1916 had cost the government over a million dollars just through the roads being built without any consideration as to grades or location.

Speaking about the Trans-Continental Highway, Dr. Sutherland stated that it was the present intention of the government to complete the All British Columbia Highway, linking up the coast with the interior, through the Crow's Nest Pass to Alberta, and thus complete the All-Canadian route from Atlantic to Pacific.

Answering the chairman on a question about bridges, the Minister stated that at present the provincial government owned over 60 miles of bridges and that bridgework had to be distributed evenly throughout every constituency in the province, but that he would be pleased to hear any suggestions after the meeting. He stated that quite recently Mr. Campbell, of the Dominion Highway Branch at Ottawa, had thoroughly inspected the roads in the province and had gone carefully into the methods used by the government in their public works department and had stated that British Columbia had the finest system in the Dominion.

G. J. Spreull, of Cranbrook, who visited the city with the ministers, spoke briefly upon the record of the present government and outlined the activities of the party at Cranbrook.

Attorney General Manson, also appearing for the first time before a Fernie audience, stated that the cabinet ministers were going through the province for the purpose of meeting the citizens so that they would have the opportunity of personally answering the charges made by the Provincial party in their pamphlets now being circulated lavishly throughout the province. This new party, he stated, headed by General McRae, on the first page of their first "Searchlight" stated that they had no time for mud-slinging and were going to put politics on a higher basis and yet in the next six pages they used some of the foulest epithets ever heard in describing their political opponents. They called a convention at the coast to which many of the delegates, if not all, had their expenses paid. At this convention, he stated, General McRae, in declining the leadership of the party, had said that he would be "too great a load for the Provincial party to carry as a leader." Two other statements ascribed by the Attorney General to General McRae at this convention were: "I have been in business ventures for over 30 years, some successful, some unsuccessful,, and some I should possibly apologize for." "The next campaign will be a battle of citizenship against boodle and the boodle will have its origin at Shaughnessy Heights at the address of General McRae." Commenting on these statements, Mr. Manson said that the boodle was apparent in the pamphlets and Searchlights being broadcasted by the party. The latest pamphlet had seized upon the loss of a ledger and a cash book from the files of the Northern Construction Company, who had a contract with the government in constructing part of the P.G.E. railway. They had, however, omitted to mention the fact that Price, Waterhouse & Co., chartered accountants, had previously audited these two books and that this company had made a sworn statement that every voucher from which these books had been made up, were still on file and that the books could easily be replaced.

The Royal Commission, which had been requested by the Provincial party to investigate 31 charges made against both the government and the Opposition, had proved a boomerang to the Provincial party, and Mr. Manson earnestly requested every citizen of the province to read word for word the findings of Mr. Justice Galliher, who presided over the commission, which would be published within the next ten days.

Answering charges of extravagance made by the Conservative party, Mr. Manson quoted extracts from letters of a New York firm of underwriters regarding the floatation of British Columbia bond issues to Mr. Bowser during his term as premier, stating that British Columbia bonds had to be sold at a very high rate of interest before purchasers could be found, as at that time the provincial finances were in very poor condition. He then quoted from a letter from the same firm, unsolicited, to the present government, complimenting them upon the state of the provincial finances and requesting information as to bond issues, which at the present time stand higher than any other province in the Dominion.

Touching upon the Government Liquor Control, the Attorney General stated that this was one department which Mr. Bowser never criticized. The reason was apparent in the fact that with only eight stores less than the province of Quebec, British Columbia was handling their stores at a cost of approximately 50 per cent less than the eastern province, and he added: "It's a mean busness to handle, and no government would ever wish upon itself such a business."

In concluding, Mr. Manson outlined the labor legislation which had been passed and put in operation by the Oliver government and quoted from the Trades and Labor Journal, which stated that British Columbia now leads the Dominion in the matter of labor legislation.

After the meeting, at the invitation of the chairman, a large number of the audience proceeded to the Odd Fellow hall, where light refreshments were served and the public given the opportunity of meeting the ministers and airing any grievances or making any suggestions they had to offer.

REPORTS INDICATE INCREASED TOURIST TRAVEL

The Camp Site is looking very nice this spring and when the work at present under way up there is completed it will look still better.

Another toilet has been installed and all is now ready for the accommodation of what is expected to be the largest number of visitors Fernie ever had.

Reports from all sources indicate a considerable increase in tourist travel this summer is a certainty. Let us all boost Fernie by visiting the camp site and fraternizing with our visitors this year. Let them leave here with a good impression of Fernie and they will boost for the town wherever they go.

WILL HOLD BABY CLINIC

The Fernie Local Council of Women have decided to make Child Hygiene their main work this coming year. They have formed a committee as follows: Mrs. Cummings, convenor; Mesdames Bonnell, Podbielancik and O'Neil, working in conjunction with Miss E. Wade, the school nurse.

Part of their health program is to be a monthly Well Baby Clinic to be held in the council chamber of the city hall. The first clinic will be held on Monday, May 12, from 2 to 4 p.m. All Fernie mothers are invited to bring their babies and children under six years to be weighed and measured by the school nurse. After the weighing there will be a short discussion on "The Reason for Having Child Hygiene Programs." All mothers will be invited to discuss the subject.

Volunteer health workers will assist the school nurse to measure and weigh the babies. Fresh paper towels will be placed under each child that is weighed and all equipment will be as up to date as possible. It is requested that children suffering from any disease be not brought until they are better.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

The strike situation drags along with very little change. President Sherman is down at Indianapolis trying to drag sufficient money out of the maw of the octupus to feed his band of five or six thousand men with their wives and families, and he seems to be having his hands full. They were strong on promises early in the fight, but since then some hundred thousand of their own people across the line have come out on strike and to take care of them all would soon put a terrible hole in the couple of millions the organization have on hand. It has therefore become necessary to stall along and let the men take care of themselves as long as possible. If there is any money to be given out the Canadian end of the organization will not likely be the first to be considered. In the District itself, President Sherman is sure having his hands full. The men are crying for help, and in this particular locality they really need it. The failure of the Home Bank deprived a large number of them of the little stake they had and they are right up against it. To them it means help or starve. Then there is another element in the union with which President Bill has to contend, an element which would sell out to the operators if they got their price, even if the men had to go back to work at a dollar a day. Altogether he is having his hands full these days and how the situation will end is impossible to say. Meanwhile the operators are not worrying, as there is very little demand for coal at the present moment and most of them would just as soon be closed as running.

MUCH INTEREST IN GLOVE CARD HERE

Alex. Mich and Leo Stokes Go Promises to be Corking Bout.

This attraction should prove to be one filled with action as both boys are clever ring generals, and the fans are undoubtedly in store for the biggest treat of the fistic season.

Leo Stokes, a simon clean cut boxer, will get a boy to his liking when he mixes wallops with Alex. Mich of Coal Creek, in the All Sports Gym. When a boxer clashes with a fighter there is always plenty of action. Clean sport, which the world is calling for, will be staged here on May 16. Many people say they do not like prize fighting. Prize fighting is over in this country; it is called boxing. To be a borer you have to be scientific, have a cool head, be strong, healthful, well matured and most of all live clean. Some people think that boxers now are like fighters in the old days, when they were tough and had little self-respect. A boxer in these days is not that way. They are men of respect, well thought of where they go and by those they meet. Boxers have come to be among the true gentlemen; and ladies also, since in these days ladies as well as men go in for this sport.

There will be three or four good preliminaries.

Advance sales indicate that the prices placed on the All Sports Gym pews for the evening are popular. They range from 50c to $1.10 and $1.65.

MICHEL AND FERNIE PLAYED FOOTBALL GAME

Fernie and Michel played a soccer game at Michel on Wednesday evening last and the game resulted in a tie 3-3. Michel was weakened by the absence of several players owing to the strike. The game was pretty interesting, however. Frank Yates scored twice in the first half, making it two to nothing in favor of Michel. In the scond half Fernie evened the score. Causey scored again for Michel, then Fernie came back with another, making the final 3-3.

Ottawa, May 8.—Premier Mackenzie King will appear before the Home Bank commission tomorrow morning to tell of efforts made by the government to save the bank just before the collapse of the institution.

The prime minister communicated with government counsel during this morning's brief sitting and said he would attend and make a statement tomorrow.

After tomorrow's sitting there will be an adjournment, probably until next Wednesday, when argument on the first phase of the inquiry will be heard.

Sir Thomas White will be given an opportunity to argue his case and also to explain the payment to him of $1500 by the bank just prior to its failure.

ELECTIONS IN JUNE

Victoria, May 8.—It is unofficially stated here that the provincial general elections will be held on Saturday, June 21. A plebiscite on the question of whether beer shall be sold by the glass in licensed premises will be taken, it is believed, on the same day.

FAREWELL SOCIAL FOR MR. AND MRS. BIGGS

The choir of the United Church gave a social evening in the basement of the church on Friday evening, May 2, as a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Biggs on the eve of their departure for Seattle. During the evening various games were indulged in, after which the company sat down to heavily laden tables of refreshments, so bountifully provided by the committee of ladies. W. C. Adlard acted as chairman and on behalf of the choir and friends who assisted in producing the cantata "The Wreck of the Argosy," and also on behalf of the offiers and teachers of the Sunday school, presented Mr. Biggs with a beautiful electric table lamp as a small token of appreciation for the efficient services rendered in training the choir for the "Wreck of the Argosy," and the children and principles in the production of "Snow White."

Mr. Biggs has been a great worker in the choir as it head for the past 14 or 15 months.. He very suitably made reply to the presentation.

Miss Dorothy Corrie was presented with a beautiful ivory hair brush by the superintendent and officers of the Sunday school, as a token of appreciation of her services as pianist during the preparation and production of the operetta. She made a very suitable reply.

Mr. McVannell, superintendent of the Sunday School, expressed his and the officers and teachers' appreciation of the work Mr. Biggs and Miss Corrie had rendered to the S. S. in the recent entertainment.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Asselstine, Mrs. Corrie and Mrs. Adlard for their services in providing a pleasant evening.

MINE RESCUE COMPETITION WILL BE HELD ON JULY 1

It is between Lethbridge and Drumheller for the Mine Rescue competitions this year. Blairmore has held them the past two years, but the two prairie coal centres are after the big event, which will be held on July 1. Drumheller is planning a big athletic meet for that day and is very anxious to secure the competitions to round out the program.

CROW'S NEST PASS HIGHWAY IS READY

Motor tourists traveling by way of the Crow's Nest Pass need not have any concern about the route as the road around the lake is now open for traffic. This is the information that has been received by the Calgary Auto Club from an official at Blairmore.

Up to the present cars have had to go over the old road over the summit, but the route is fixed up now and in fine condtion for travel. Many motorists have been inquiring about the state of the highway and this information will be welcomed.

CALGARY TRIES TO HOG IT

In a statement issued by the Tourist Association of Southern Alberta and Southeastern British Columbia, the following is set forth:

An automobile road map has reached us recently which gives every town between Medicine Hat and Cranbrook ample ground for very serious thought.

This map is entitled "Motor Roads leading to Calgary, Alberta, Canada," and is being distributed throughout the United States and Canada by the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede. It was prepared for them by J. W. Davidson, the president of the Calgary Good Roads Association. It shows the principal roads in the States from Minneapolis direct west to Portland and those of Canada from Winnipeg to Vancouver. As a road map it is very good and would meet with general approval but for one very glaring feature. It shows the main highway from Winnipeg through to Vancouver in a very heavy black line, but instead of it following the route of the Trans-Canada Highway from Medicine Hat through Lethbridge, Macleod, Blairmore, Coleman, Fernie, Elko and Cranbrook, it shows it as running from Medicine Hat through Brooks, Bassano and Gleichen to Calgary, Banff and over the Banff-Windermere road down to Cranbrook and from there on to the coast by the proper route. The entire Crow's Nest Pass between Medicine Hat and Cranbrook is designated as an alternative route.

Some six or seven years ago the question of the Trans-Canada Highway route was threshed out and the final decision made that it should follow the most direct line and on the authority of the governments of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia it was designated as the Trans-Continental Highway and the markings were to be in red. Therefore, the correct authorized route from Winnipeg west is through Brandon, Regina, Moose Jaw, Swift Current, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Macleod, Blairmore, Fernie, Cranbrook, Nelson, Grand Forks, Keremeos and Princeton. It has not yet been definitely decided by the British Columbia government whether it will be continued on from Princeton to Hope or whether it will run from Princeton up to Spence's Bridge and from there down the Fraser canyon to Vancouver.

The distance from Medicine Hat to Cranbrook shown on the main road on the Calagry Exhibition and Stampede map is over 462 miles whereas the distance by the Trans-Canada Highway is only 318 miles.

During the past four years the Tourist Association of South Eastern British Columbia and Southern Alberta have distributed nearly two hundred thousand maps and illustrated booklets and the maps have shown the correct route of the Trans-Canada Highway. The maps now being issued by the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede will undoubtedly fall into the hands of many of those who have received and anticipate using, those of the Tourist Association and will no doubt cause considerable confusion and also make it known that opposing influences are at work in Western Canada, and as one of the principal efforts of our advertising is to bring American tourists here, we should all pull together.

It appears to us that Calgary thinks only of Calgary, which is a very shortsighted policy. Every year since its formation, they have been invited to join with the Tourist Association of South Eastern B. C. and Southern Alberta, but have refused to do so. The Association was the first body to advertise the attractions of Western Canada to the outside world and it is to them that the credit for the great increase of tourist travel in the last four years is due. The funds of the Association have been subscribed by the small towns along the Crow's Nest Pass but nothing has been subscribed by Calgary, yet Calgary has benefitted by the advertising the Association has done to a greater extent than all of these small towns put together.

We say that Calgary's policy towards the Crow's Nest Pass is a shortsighted one because the wholesale houses and merchants of Calgary look to the people of the south for a very considerable amount of their business, probably the greater part, and if they continue to show such petty selfishness there is little doubt that the merchants and residents of the Crow's Nest Pass towns will resent it and take their custom elsewhere. As a matter of fact several merchants of the Pass have already signified their intentions of doing so, as we happen to know.

Calgary may be the largest town in Alberta and its residents are justified in feeling proud of it and in doing all they can in the way of boosting it, but after all that can be said in its favor is said, what does it amount to compared with the towns in the States from which we draw the greatest number of our tourists? To them it is hardly more than a village and they do not come up into Western Canada to see it. They come here for our scenery and much of the best of that is to be seen between Pincher Creek and Cranbrook along the Crow's Nest Pass. Even along the Banff-Windermere Highway there is no scenery to surpass that between Frank and Crow's Nest Lakes and between Fernie and Elko.

We believe that the best and only way to draw tourists to Western Canada and send them back home with a good impression of our country and its people, so that they will speak well of their trip and send others here, is for all of our towns to pull together in perfect harmony and show a real community spirit. The only discordant element now appears to be Calgary. We hope they will realize before too late, that the towns of the Crow's Nest Pass expect and intend to obtain a fair share of the tourist business on which they have spent their good money in the advertising which has resulted in this travel.

The wholesale houses and the merchants of Calgary will be well advised to give this matter careful consideration.

KIMBERLEY OVERPLAYED

The impression that "dollars are growing on the trees" in Kimberley is far from the truth. Right at the present time Kimberley has an abundance of business firms in every line of endeavor. The general store business in Kimberley is overplayed, the jitney business from Cranbrook to Kimberley is done to a nice crispy brown and still they come. At the present time the motor vehicle traffic is capable of carrying ninety persons per hour to and from the mining town. The oldest established business houses in Kimberley today are not doing as well as they did five years ago and the reason is not hard to find. Kimberley is essentially a man's town—that is, ninety per cent of the employees of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting company are single men, and not the best material for building a city of homes. The storekeeper very largely depends upon the married man for his support. The head of the family spends his money with the baker, hte groceryman, the dry goods dealer, the shoe dealer, the druggist, the butcher and those engaged in legitimate lines of enterprise. Not so with the single man, who is care-free and "rearing to go" every payday. Until such time as Kimberley develops the home-building spirit, and men are invited to spend their hard-earned cash in everything that makes for better citizens and better community spirit—which is no different to any other town in that respect — business will suffer as a result. By this it must not be construed that Kimberley is not a good business town; on the contrary, it is one of the best in the province, but until such time as the Consolidated branches out on another development scheme, there are plenty of business men in Kimberley to handle the situation. In justice to the pioneer business men of the town, who have carried the load for years, they are entitled to first consideration.—Cranbrook Courier.

DOUBLE PROHIBITION FORCE ALONG BORDER

Washington, May 4.—Orders were issued yesterday which will place nearly double the personnel of prohibition, customs and coastguard agents at work on the Canadian border between the eastern coast and the reaches of the prairies of North Dakota.

Coastguard will attempt to check rum-running by boats in the deep water of the Great Lakes, and customs service agents will be responsible for all ports of entry, and with prohibition agents will direct their attention to rum running by land and on small streams.

Prohibition agents at all crossings, and those scattered between customs houses, have been equipped with motor cycles, with which they can guard the border more closely.

It is in the cities, however, where the greatest problem lies. Detroit was said to present the worst of these situations, as was indicated by an unofficial report that one brewery across the river from that city last year paid the Canadian government an export tax of approximately $300,000, on the basis of 50 cents a case of beer. Most of it is said to have come to the United States.

COAL INDUSTRY STAGNANT

Washington, May 5.—Industry is slowing down as usual during election year. What next?

Organized labor has been asking itself that question somewhat searchingly of late as advices pour in recording the diminution of industrial activity. And as labor foresees the future an attempt to cut wages may reasonably be expected with n the next few months unless business picks up. These cuts, if they develop, will be resisted.

Already there is talk in the bituminous coal fields of the possibility of an attempt to revise the three-year wage agreement made last winter at Jacksonville. The coal industry, at least the union end of it, is stagnant; 150,000 men, it is estimated, are virtually without work and 250,000 more are working from one to three days a week. In the nonunion fields conditions are somewhat better, it is reported, and customers are turning to nonunion coal in many cases because they can buy it more cheaply.

Wage rates in the nonunion fields have been revised since the peak of the coal demand, but not so in the union fields. The business is going, to a large extent, to the mines with the lower wage scales. It would not be surprising to see within the next few weeks an earnest effort to induce the union miners to accept temporarily lower wages in order to revive the industry to some extent.

The union miners show no indication of a willingness to accept a lower scale and it is almost certain that such a request, if made, would be rejected. In the meantime, however, union miners, out of work, are appealing by the hundreds to the government to find them employment. Officials here state there is a real unemployment problem in the soft coal fields, but added that it is the only unemployment problem in the country today.

Iron and steel production have dropped, it is estimated, about 20 per cent in the last 60 days. Some mills have closed down, but in most cases the effect has been to curtail effort, rather than cease operation. A few thousand workers have been thrown out of employment, but their number is relatively small when compared with the number on shorter working time.

EARNINGS INCREASE

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways from Jan. 1 to April 21, 1924, were $69,876,403, being an increase of $1,333,827.91 as compared with the same period of 1923.

SIR THOMAS WHITE HOME BANK ADVISOR

Toronto, May 5.—A disclosure of unusual interest in connection with the transactions occurring during the last days of the Home Bank was made yesterday, says the Toronto Globe, when it was ascertained that Sir Thomas White, former minister of finance, received a fee of $1500 for services rendered as special adviser. An interesting memorandum relating to Sir Thomas' connection with the Home Bank affairs appears in the directors' minute book under date of August 15, 1923.

It reads as follows:

"Resolved, the bank do pay Sir Thomas White $1500 on account of his fees for services as special adviser in connection with the present situation of the bank's affairs."

CONSERVATIVES NAME CHISHOLM FOR COLUMBIA

Golden, B.C., May 5.—A very successful nominating convention of the Liberal-Conservative party was held here this afternoon, when A. M. Chisholm, of Windermere, was the unanimous choice of the party to run in the forthcoming election.

Among the speakers were J. E. Merryfield, Victoria, the official organizer of the party, Mr. Lockwood, of Golden, and Mrs. B. G. Hamilton, of Invermere, the latter speaking for the women voters, who all spoke highly in favor of the candidacy of Mr. Chisholm.

A large number of delegates came from the southern end of the riding to indorse Mr. Chisholm as their choice.

Invermere, May 5.—Nomination by acclamation of Arthur Murray Chisholm, the author, by the Liberal-Conservatives today at Golden was received with great joy by his home town and home district. He is the first ever to carry a banner from this part in the provincial election.

Canada's three or four political parties would look lonesome in Germany where representatives of 44 different factions are arrayed in the coming election.

His Hearing Restored

The invisible ear drum invented by A. O. Leonard, which is a miniature megaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York city. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does it so successfully that no one can tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 436, 70 Fifth Ave., New York City, will be given a prompt reply. [Adv.

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

ALBERTA COAL LOSING OUT

Calgary, May 6.—In the opinion of J. R. Brodie, president of the Great West Coal Co., one of the largest wholesaling companies in Western Canada, with headquarters at Winnipeg, the situation of the coal producer in Alberta is not promising.

This information is contained in a letter from Mr. Brodie to a representative of the company in Calgary.

There was a very heavy shrinkage, states Mr. Brodie, in the amount of western steam coal used last year, particularly for railroad purposes, this being replaced by American product, and he was advised from a reliable source that it was altogether likely that this year, unless there was a substantial reduction in the cost of western steam coal, the whole district as far west as the Manitoba-Saskatchewan boundary would be consuming American coal.

Last year the railways, he says, purchased between 400,000 and 500,000 tons for Manitoba territory, the loss of which would be a serious matter to the western producer.

Regarding domestic coal, notwithstanding the fact that these operators have enjoyed a considerable market in Manitoba, the time had now arrived, states Mr. Brodie, when they will clearly see in the near future that they also are going to be placed in just as serious a position as the steam coal operators.

"It is freely predicted in Winnipeg by the retail trades," he continues, "that Drumheller coal, which is the largest domestic sold here, is going to lose out next season."

As an illustration, the retail coal dealers here are now able to supply Pochontas egg or stove at $13.50. This coal runs around 14,000 B.T.U.'s, as against Drumheller selling at $13 with 10,000 B.T.U.'s. The Drumheller people will wake up one of these days to find out that their market is shrinking, and shrinking rapidly, and it seems rather absurd to me to have them figuring on other outside markets when their market in Winnipeg is anything but assured," says Mr. Brodie, who adds that buking, both in the steam coal and in the domestic lines in Manitoba, the basis was strictly competitive and would have to be met on that basis.

Victoria, May 7.—The contract for paving Main street, Armstrong, B.C., near the C.P.R. depot, with 18 foot concrete pavement, has been awarded by the Public Works Department to A. B. Palmer & Co., of Vancouver, who were successful over five other tenderers, with a price of $21,151. The new pavement will extend 1850 feet. Half the cost will be defrayed by the Armstrong city council.

Victoria, May 7.—The contract of Rawlings & Labrash, of Nakusp, for the Edgewood-Vernon road has been extended to include the section from Inonaoklin to Kettle Crossing, a distance of ten and a quarter miles, at the old unit prices. The new work will cost approximately $60,000.

DOMINION ON A GOLD BASIS

The May Monthly Letter of the Royal Bank of Canada furnishes the interesting information that gold payments could be resumed in Canada at any time without any action being necessary other than an official announcement to the effect that Dominion notes were once more convertible into gold at the office of the Receiver-General, and that gold could be exported and imported at will, the announcement to be backed by such legislative action as would be required to bring pre-war laws governing the Dominion note issue into conformity with the actual state of affairs. Not every country, it points out, could get back to a gold basis in this very simple way. Many are prevented from doing so because their note issues are inflated and their price levels relatively too high.

It is never possible, says the Letter, for the Canadian dollar to command more than a very small premium over the U.S. dollar, and unless gold payments are resumed the tendency will always be towards a discount on Canadian funds. Until we resume gold payments our currency will continue to fluctuate in New York, even though the Canadian financial situation is an absolutely sound one.

NEWS FROM COAST CITIES

New Westminster, May 7. — Fox farming is now becoming a great industry in the Fraser Valley, and the Japanses colony is taking to it as a lucrative business. They are buying up foxes for breeding, and some of the Japs in town are keeping a reynard or two in their back yards as pets. Most of the foxes are of the blue variety and their pelts are said to be wrth $100 each.

Vancouver, May 7.—The high price of cement is keeping out vast sums of American capital from this city and other parts of the province, according to representatives of the capitalists, who refuse to be gouged by what they call the "Canadian Cement Trust." One visiting American selected the site for a proposed apartment house but changed his plans, he says, because he would not pay the price demanded for cement. Another syndicate with building plans contemplated for Main street, have postponed their plans until they see the price of cement dropping to a reasonable figure.

Vancouver, May 7.—A Mah Jongg school, with an exclusive student body culled from the elite, has been started here. The school is owned and operated by half a dozen society women.

Vancouver, May 7.—Although the coming of the Fleet to the coast will not take place for a month or more, the advance guard is arriving in various promoters, fakers, concessionaires and others, who are preparing to rake in money from the thousands that are expected. The coming of the Fleet is attracting as much interest as the races usually stir up each year.

Vancouver, May 7. — Allegations that frauds on the Dominion customs and the Liquor Control Board, aggregating two million dollars a year, are made by certain wealthy exporters engaged in supplying the bootleggers of British Columbia and Puget Sound with liquor that is presumably shipped for foreign ports, is made by The Hook. It is said that the schooner Coal Harbor, owned by the Consolidated Exporters Corporation, which cleared for Colombia on April 9 with over ten thousand cases of whiskey, unloaded part of her cargo outside Nanaimo on the same day to the ex-submarine chaser Trucilla, also owned by the same corporation, the Trucilla returning light to Vancouver within 36 hours. The Hook is demanding an investigation by the federal and provincial authorities.

A DREAM OF YOU

I think I'll tell the story to you,
Of a dream I dreamed last night.
I thought I lived in a world made new
And strangely clean and bright.

Sweet music hushed the very land
Where the whitest lilies grew:
My heart was thrilled with a rapture grand,
For I walked all the way with you.

Oh, the troubles of earth are naught to me,
Nor its grief, nor its weary hours,
If the end of all is eternity
In that land of tender flowers.

I awoke as we stood by a purling stream,
And I vowed I'd be pure and true,
If Heaven could offer such joy supreme
As to walk all the way with you.

The French flying man has done much better than any of his contemporaries. He has either had better luck or he is equipped with a more reliable machine. He has established the fact that, with an engine that can be depended upon. the airplane may become a swift and reliable means of reducing time and overcoming distance. That fact has been established already on short business routes.

Flivver Sam says that he had been married about a year and had taken to spending his evenings down town with the boys. One night his conscience worried him. So he called his young wife up.

"Hello, kid," he began, "say, slip on some old clothes and run down to meet me on the quiet. We'll have a good dinner, an dthen we'll get a machine and smear a little red paint around. How about it?"

"I'll be delighted to join you, Jack, but why not come up here and get me? There's nobody home!"

As his name was Sam, he now spends his evenings at home.

In Any Recipe Calling for Milk

In any recipe calling for milk use Carnation but, because it is twice as rich as ordinary milk, be sure to use ½ cup Carnation to ½ cup of water.

Use Carnation for every milk need of your family. It is always rich, safe and pure. Its convenience and economy make it the most desirable milk for every purpose.

Ask your grocer to deliver Carnation with your other pure foods. He knows its goodness and is glad to sell it.

Produced in Canada
CARNATION MILK PRODUCTS CO. LTD.
134 Abbott St., Vancouver, B.C.

You can dilute the double-rich contents of this tin until the quart bottle overflows with pure milk.

What Children Like

Most children are fond of tender, juicy fresh vegetables creamed. Use Carnation for richness. Add the food value of this pure cows' milk to the vegetables. Remember, it is twice as rich as ordinary milk.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

THE merchants of Fernie should read the article in this issue respecting the attitude of certain interests in Calgary towards all the towns of the Crow's Nest Pass. It has appeared to us in the past that Calgary wanted everything for Calgary; now there is little doubt about it. We do not think that the wholesaler houses and merchants of Calgary are beind the movement to sidetrack the towns of the Crow's Nest Pass, as their business interests are too great, but by bringing pressure to bear upon those who are responsible for this propaganda, they can stop it. If they do not there is no doubt at all that their business will suffer through it. We know of one firm there which recently lost one order representing around $1750 solely on account of the lack of co-operation with the towns of the Crow's Nest Pass. It will not need very many instances such as this to show Calgary just where they stand. If it is impossible to appeal to their community spirit and get results, we must hit them in their pocketbooks. Calgary need not think that we intend to take this lying down.

THE month of May is a most fitting one in which to set aside a day devoted to mothers the world over. May is the month of flowers and hope, and it seems this is analagous to the never failing faith, love and hope of all mothers.

Mere words are too feeble to adequately express the depth of the all-encompassing love of a mother. A man may break every law of man and God, he may become as a pariah among his fellows; but, if he has a mother living, he has one refuge to which he can always go, sure of a loving welcome. It may be that, through years of disappointment, his conduct has graven lines of sorrow on that beloved face, lacerated a thousand times that trusting, hopeful heart, but unworthy as he may have become, even such a man as this can return to Mother with the certainty that she will have for him the same tender solicitation and love that marked her care in his infancy.

In the following lines Kipling has penned a tribute to mothers which aptly expressed the boundlessness of mother love:

"If I were damned of body and soul
A mother's love would make me whole.
If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
A mother's tears would reach down to me."

Possibly it is one of the tragedies of the world that the praises of mother are too often unheralded and unsung. The outstanding qualities of motherhood are self-denial and self-effacement. You will not find the great mothers of the world among the harridans who disgrace womanhood and motherhood by shrill platform demands for women's rights. You will not find them among the garrulous class of women who harangue for birth control, and, childless themselves, elect to dictate to more fortunate women the proper way to rear children. The great mothers of the world, thank God, are the mothers that we all remember, gentle, and loving and kind. The mothers who kissed our childish hurts, who smoothed out for us the fancied troubles of impatient youth, and sent us out into the world equipped to succeed, if we would only apply the patient and loving training that had been ours every step of the way.

The thought of mother can not long leave any man or woman, and no particular Mother's Day is necessary to keep green in our memories all that Mother has meant to us. It's just the thought of a graceful tribute, that on this one certain day in May the whole country is unison should pay particular homage to Mother.

It's mighty fine on this day to wear a red flower expressive of the warm love of living mothers, and a white one in loving memory of the purity and goodness of the mothers who have passed on; but it seems to me that the real tribute should go further than this, and that the greatest possible tribute anyone can pay to Mother is to try each day with all his or her might to somewhat approximate the kind of man or woman Mother hoped and prayed and labored so hard for us to become.

F. B. LAWSON AND THE KU KLUX KLAN

The following article, anent F. B. Lawson, at one time editor of the Fernie District Ledger, is taken from the Calgary Albertan:

Following a horse whipping at the hands of the Arkansas post of the Ku Klux Klan, F. B. Lawson, editor of the now defunct Searchlight, a weekly labor paper published in this city, has brought action against the K.K.K. for the sum of $50,000 special damages, according to information received in the city.

Lawson, after a hectic career as an independent newspaperman in Alberta in the troublesome days that followed in the wake of the war, decided to try his fortune in the promised land—the United States. He disposed of his little printing plant and hit out for pastures new. California beckened to him, but Dame Fortune was unkind, so he went west and finally landed in the state of Arkansas. It was about this time that the cotton pickers of Arkansas were making a big outcry against working conditions, and no sooner had Lawson arrived than he dived into the middle of the fight and decided to lead the cotton pickers on to emancipation. He published a paper and gave other assistance. Then one dark night, as he lay peacefully sleeping in his little shack, a soft knock was heard at the door, and on opening it he was confronted by a score of masked figures, one of them carrying a gleaming fiery cross.

Lawson was led away without a word, and when some distance from his home he was tied to a fence post and horse whipped. He was then led back to his home, allowed to dress and escorted across the boundary line. As soon as he had recovered from his terrible experience, Lawson secured legal advice and was advised to start suit against the Arkansas post of the Ku Klux Klan.

He filed a statement of claim and the case now occupies the attention of the Arkansas courts.

Lawson was in Alberta as late as last summer. When the "Searchlight" suspended publication, Lawson went to Drumheller, where he was given a subordinate position with the miners' union. He subsequently went to Edmonton and from there to the United States.

COAL OUTPUT IN CANADA SHOWING LARGE DECREASE

The output of coal from Canadian mines during February amounted to 1,212,000 short tons, a decrease of 21 per cent from the tonnage for the previous month, and 8 per cent from the average for the month for the five preceding years, according to the monthly report on coal statistics just issued by the mining branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The output showed an increase of 7000 tons in Nova Scotia and 2000 tons in New Brunswick but decreases of 285,000 tons in Alberta, 29,000 tons in British Columbia and 24,000 tons in Saskatchewan.

Comparison of February and January figures covering the total importation of coal from the United States and Great Britain showed an increase of 3 per cent. February imports amounted to 1,281,000 tons, while in January 1,233,000 tons were brought in. The February importations this year were 17 per cent greater than the five-year average for the month. During the month 14,300 tons were imported from Great Britain.

The imports of anthracite for February totalled 287,200 tons. This was 17 per cent less than in January and 11 per cent lower than the five-year average for the month. Anthracite imported from the United States amounted to 281,000 tons, while 6000 tons came from Great Britain during the month.

The exports of Canadian coal for the month of February were 13 per cent less than in January. The quantities were: February 71,800 tons: January 82,600 tons. Comparison of the February exports with the preceding five-year average showed a decrease of 42 per cent. Exports from the eastern provinces amounted to 6200 tons, a decrease of 33,700 tons from January exports; those from the western provinces amounted to 65,600 tons, an increase of 22,900 tons over January. The total coal made available in the first two months of 1924 amounted to 5,094,000 tons, and for the 12 months ending February 29, the total coal made available for consumption was 37,075,600 tons. These figures are, respectively, 6 per cent and 13 per cent greater than the five-year average for the corresponding periods.

Health Restored by The Fruit Treatment

Fourteen years ago, Mr. James S. Delgaty, of Gilbert Plains, Man., was a nervous wreck. His system was shattered by Nervous Prostration, and he was reduced in weight from 170 to 115 pounds.

He wrote on May 15th, 1917, "Every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take 'Fruit-a-tives.' I began to mend at once. After using this fruit medicine for three months, I was back to normal. I have never had such good health as I have enjoyed the past six years. We are never without a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' in the house."

Writing again on September 27th, 1923, Mr. Delgaty says, "I stand by my letter to you in 1917—I still recommend 'Fruit-a-tives'."

"Fruit-a-tives" is a complete fruit treatment—being made of the juices of fresh ripe fruits and tonics.

Sherwood Herchmer has been retained by the Canadian National Railways to defend them in an action started by one Loeb against them for $25,000 damages for false arrest. The Assize Court will open its spring session in Fernie on the 13th inst.., before His Honor Judge D. A. McDonald. This is the first visit of Judge McDonald to Fernie since his appointment. Carbon mine, near Drumheller, according to word reaching Calgary on Thursday, is now working with a crew of 35 men. Some little time ago very active steps were taken by the miners' organization to picket the mine. From the report now received, it would appear that these efforts have not proved successful. The mine is owned by William Livingstone and associates. It is stated that a larger number of miners will be employed shortly.

The political situation throughout the district is very quiet, although when the date of the election is announced things may warm up in a hurry. The Liberal convention will be held in about a week's time. A number of names, including that of Mayor Henderson and James McLean, liquor vendor, are mentioned as likely candidates, and it is said that the latter has consented to allow his name to go before the convention. The provincial party are suggesting the name of Capt. Barnard, of Waldo, as their candidate, but whether he will allow himself to be the goat in such a forlorn hope is doubtful. There is absolutely no interest taken in McRae's ravings down in this neck of the woods and it would merely be a donation to the government. At the present moment it looks as if the big fight would be between the Conservative nominee and the sitting member, Thos. Uphill.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Billsborough are spending the week in Spokane.

Wm. Johnston expects to open his theatre in Kimberley next week.

The Salvation Army will hold a special meeting on Sunday next (Mother's Day) at 3 p.m. in the Army citadel. The program will include musical selections and the children of the Sunday school will take part. All mothers are invited to be present.

The Loyal Order of Moose will hold whist drives and dances in Victoria Hall on Thursday, May 8, and on Friday, May 23. Cards at 8 p.m. each evening and dancing from 11 to 2 a.m. Remember the dates and keep them open. Admission 50c. Good music. Refreshments. M2-4t

Grand Chief Irene Stein, of New Westminster, will visit Trinity Temple, No. 7, Pythian Sisters, on Friday, May 16. A special meeting will be held in the I.O.O.F. hall, commencing at 7.30 p.m. A cordial invitation is extended to all Knights of Pythias to attend the social, which will be held after business. W. R. Wilson, President and General Manager of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., has purchased a fine big residence in Shaughnessy Heights, Vancouver, from Lieut.-Gov. Hon. W. C. Nicol. The price is in the neighborhood of $40,000 cash, and the deal was negotiated by Pemberton & Sons. There is about an acre and two-thirds of ground, and in real estate circles the buy is considered a good one. The continued ill health of Mrs. Wilson has made it necessary for her to seek a lower altitude and Mr. Wilson decided to establish a home in Vancouver. We understand that it is not his intention to withdraw from his activities in Fernie.

The high water early in the week compelled the city waterworks crew to abandon their work of crossing the Elk before next fall. The big outfit was withdrawn to safety and the men laid off on Monday. It has been a tremendous task and was well on the way to completion when the river compelled them to suspend operations. However, the work finished, which constitutes about three-quarters of the distance necessary to go, has been well protected and no fears are entertained that it may be destroyed by the rising flood. Owing to the light snowfall during the past winter it is not anticipated that the river will rise very high this spring.

MORE COAL THAN OIL

The search for oil in Alberta and the farther north will some day be rewarded with success, but in the meantime the supply of fuel oil is known to be limited. For that reason authorities on the power question are disposed to look upon coal deposits as a good "standby" that will yet prove to be indispensable in the industrial world. An article in the Montreal Journal of Commerce sets forth some of the facts in the case as below:

There are very real advantages in favor of oil. But the criterion is the actual cost of evaporating a definite amount of water per B.T.U. or 1000 B.T.U. after taking into consideration the cost of fuel and all fixed and operating charges. Coal is expensive; and so is oil. Both have gone up in price and both promise to become even more expensive. Economic conditions all suggest, however, that oil will increase in price in greater proportion than will coal, on a thermal unit basis, because the demand for oil already exceeds the supply.

Supposing, however, that oil were more economical than coal, what of the future oil supply? Can the quantity of oil needed now and that which will be needed in six months, one year and more hence, be obtained? Can its delivery be guaranteed?

Deciding for or against oil is not a matter of saving money now. It is a matter of having a safe and certain supply of fuel in the future. To think of immediate economy (not existent with fuel oil at present prices except in special instancces perhaps) and overlook future security is not sound business. It is suicidal.

The oil situation is precarious. Oil consumption is increasing at an alarming rate, whilst visible resources are being rapidly depleted. It is estimated that in the United States 42 barrels of oil per capita have already been consumed and that only 72 barrels per capita remain for future consumption, based upon present known oil resources. This fact offers food for serious thought and urgent action, because new oil fields must be found or increasing dependence placed upon foreign supplies.

There are instances where fuel oil is indispensable; others where merely preferable. The most valuable use for oil is for ocean-going vessels, naval and mercantile. . . The choice of oil as fuel is now voluntary. If the rate of consumption continues as at present, will it always be a matter of choice? If a shortage of fuel comes within one year or more, what chance will the isolated and private industrial plant have, in essential or non-essential industry, in competing with the navy, the mercantile marine and the railroads, when it is not a matter of price but of oil at any price?

The paramount question before the present and prospective user of oil is not whether oil has characteristics superior to solid fuel or whether more water can be evaporated with less trouble and lower cost by oil than coal, for these maters are readily determined. The basic and pressing question is whether a sufficient future supply of oil can be guaranteed to meet current and future needs. This is the opinion every prospective oil user must know; it is the question haunting every industrial user of oil.

An unprecedented coal situation has forced attention upon oil as fuel. The production of everything—copper and steel food and coal and labor — has been in a state of flux. But reaction always comes; the pandulum invariably swings back again. Conditions will calm down, and the world will presently get back into its normal stride again.

There is not enough oil to go around; there is not enough water power to go around, even if irrigation and agriculture were robbed of their needs and every drop were used for power. But there is ample coal; it is only the better grades that are growing scarcer, while the poorer grades are memely awaiting the development of better ways of burning them.

Coal has sufficed before. It will suffice again. Coal is the life of industrialism, and industry is the bulwark of a nation. Meanwhile, the crying need is to stop the use of oil in every instance where coal or gas or water power would do as well. Leave the oil for those applications where it is indispensable.

Major MacLaren, the British aviator, is finding out that it is not such a simple matter after all to "flee as a bird to the uttermost parts of the earth." His brother airmen from the United States are also encountering difficulties in their round the world flight. Therefore it appears that man's mastery of the air is not quite complete. If anyone is compelled to go upon a journey to far distant points it may be just as well for him to seek the services of established lines of communication and transportation—for a little longer anyway.

U.S. CITIZENS PAY INCOME TAX ON FOREIGN INCOME

Washington, May. 6.—United States citizens residing abroad were held by the United States supreme court today to be subject to federal income taxes upon incomes entirely derived from sources within another country.

The question reached the court in a case brought from Maryland by Geo. W. Cook, who for many years has resided in Mexico. He contended that this government could not compel him to pay taxes on income from property located outside the United States, but the federal district court for Maryland took a contrary view.

RECORD HANDLING OF FISH

A record for loading and handling of fish was established by the Canadian National Railways last week, when 13 cars of fish were unloaded off trawlers at Prince Rupert at 7.25 p.m., April 23, and arrived in Winnipeg at 9 a.m., April 26. The fish were consigned to Winnipeg, Duluth and Chicago, the time occupied in the run from Prince Rupert to Duluth being 86 hours and from the seaboard to Chicago 101 hours and 5 minutes. This time is 21 hours ahead of the fastest time ever made previously, according to Canadian National Express officials.

Here and There

Earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the last ten days of March amounted to $4,496,000, as compared with $4,313,000 for the corresponding period a year ago. This is an increase of $183,000 or 4.2 per cent.

Immigration to Canada during the eleven months ending February, 1924, totalled 135,128, divided as follows: British, 67,023; from the United States, 19,120; from all other countries, 48,992. This compares very favorably with 66,139 for the same period a year ago.

Forty pilgrimages to the famous shrine at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec, have already been arranged for June, July and August this year. Over 200,000 visitors are expected, most of them from Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Chicago, New York and Boston.

Although it has already spent $4,000,000 in drilling for oil in Alberta without very definite results, the Imperial Oil, Limited, proposes to keep at its development campaign, so F. J. Wolfe, director of marketing for the concern, states. Already the company's $2,500,000 refinery at Calgary has had the effect of keeping prices down, he says.

An important industrial enterprise is being added to the list in Montreal in the plant of the National Cement Company, which is being constructed in the town of Montreal East on the site of one of the largest deposits of raw material for cement in Canada. The first unit of the plant will have a capacity of 900,000 barrels per annum.

A total of 969 communities in Alberta are now served by the Provincial Government telephone system. The total number of phones served in the system is 67,279, of which 32,260 are exchange phones, 20,252 are rural phones and 1,085 are private party lines and 13,385 are connecting subscribers. There are 264 exchanges in the province, with 301 toll offices and 62 private party lines.

The growing importance of Canada's trade in the Pacific is reflected in the official statistics of the Vancouver Harbor Board for the month of December, 1923, which shows a substantial increase in shipping in that port over the same month in 1922. Total shipping through the port amounted to 434,432 tons, valued at $31,421,129, an increase over December, 1922, of 122,602 in tonnage and $2,703,078, in value.

Ten 10,000 Imperial gallon tenders, for use behind the P.1 type engines used in the Western mountains, have been ordered from the Canadian Locomotive Company, Ltd., Kingston, by the Canadian Pacific Railway at a price of $12,445 each, delivery to start in May and be completed in June this year. These tenders will give more efficient coal and water service than any others in this country.

During the year 1924, 96 arrivals and departures on the St. Lawrence route, with its different services, to be maintained throughout the summer months by its popular mono-class cabin and Empress class steamers, will constitute the Canadian programme of the Canadian Pacific Railway's steamships. A combined tonnage of 197,000 gross tons will be in operation on the Atlantic under the Company's flag, the largest amount yet assigned by a single line to steamship passenger traffic on the St. Lawrence route.

Canada's unfavorable trade balance with the United States is more than equaled by her favorable trade balance with the United Kingdom, according to trade figures of the Bureau of Statistics. For the year ending February, Canada's imports from the United States were $603,000,000 and her exports to that country $426,000,000, an excess of imports of $177,000,000. As against this, Canadian exports to the United Kingdom were $355,000,000, and the imports from Britain $155,000,000, a surplus of $200,000,000 on the side of exports.

RETRACTS HIS LETTER

Ottawa.—One of the features, if not, indeed, one of the sensations disclosed in connection with the testimony of W. A. Machaffie, former assistant to the vice-president of the Home Bank, was his so-called "letter of repudiation" of the bank. In this letter Mr. Machaffie states that "information and assumptions' recorded in a previous letter addressed to Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance, but which was sent by the writer to Mr. Haney, and not to Sir Thomas, were incorrect.

The two letters are as follows, the letter to the Minister which was given to Mr. Haney instead of being forwarded to Ottawa, coming first:

Feb. 25th, 1918.

Hon. Sir Thomas White,
Minister of Finance,
Ottawa:

Dear Sir Thomas — When I last had the pleasure of an interview with you, information was asked regarding three accounts on our books, viz.:

Sir Henry M. Pellatt.

New Orleans Street Railway matter.

A. C. Frost (N.C. timber matter).

I told you what I could. As 14 months have elapsed since then, a further report may now be considered in order.

I have nothing new to report, except that Pellatt busied himself in a canvas among our directors to prevent a change in general management.

I advised you that a sum, approximately $220,000, was advanced to acquire an equity in a link or railway in which the bank had no direct interest; it was expected that a bond issue would be floated and the bank reimbursed. This expectation has not been realized. The large amount mentioned in the report to you of two years ago remains in a position of grave jeopardy.

Since reported to you this account has again been written up some $200,000 for interest. I cannot let this opportunity pass without pointing out that the aggregate amount written up in this account if added to the amount of Home Bank stock carried by the bank would account for the greater bulk, if not the whole of the bank's capital, while, as you have been advised, there are numerous other accounts in a precarious position.

Mr. Haney, the president, has also been appointed chief executive officer, and as such is practically a dictator. I have endeavored to have an inspection system installed, and wrote Mr. Haney on the subject on the 13th inst.. and now enclose a copy of that letter for your further information.

Mr. Haney's policy is to endeavor to rehabilitate the bank by a series of speculative ventures, chiefly in steamship activities. While withholding comment on this policy, I cannot refrain from offering criticism of the methods in use. Briefly stated, the bank furnishes large sums of money without security, and is to receive but a moiety of the expected profits, the bulk of such profits going to Haney, C. A. Barnard, another director, and F. J. Stewart, a personal friend.

Mr. Barnard has a liability to the bank of some $260,000 in connection with Home Bank stock, but neither he nor Haney are personally responsible for the bank for these fresh advances.

In conclusion I beg to state that the contents of this letter have been placed before Mr. Haney.

I am, yours faithfully,
(Signed) W. A. Machaffie,
Assistant to President.

....Letter of Repudiation:

The Home Bank of Canada, Toronto,
May 1, 1918.

Dear Sirs—In February last I contemplated writing the Hon. Sir Thos. White, Minister of Finance, in regard to the position of the Home Bank and in particular with reference to certain accounts, and prepared a draft of a letter (dated Feb. 25, 1918) of which draft I sent a copy to the president of the bank. No letter, however, was then or subsequently sent by me to the Minister of Finance. I have since satisfied myself that for various reasons, including my absence from meetings of the Board of the Bank since January, 1917, the information and assumptions on which the draft letter of Feb. 25, 1918, was based, were in some respects inaccurate and in others incomplete, and that the draft letter, if sent, would have conveyed a wrong impression as to the position of the bank, and the conduct of its affairs. Under the circumstances I am glad that no letter was forwarded by me to the Minister, and I am pleased to know that the position of the bank in respect of the various matters with which the draft letter dealt is substantially different from and better than the draft would indicate.

Faithfully yours,

SAVE THE FOREST CAMPAIGN

The broadcasting facilities of the six radio stations of the Canadian National Railways throughout Western Canada were placed at the disposal of the Canadian Forestry Association to assist in the "Save the Forest Week" campaign from April 27 to May 3. Prominent speakers gave addresses on forest conservation during the regular weekly program of the Canadian National Railways from Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Calgary.

There will be representatives of a considerable number of political parties seeking control of the affairs of British Columbia in a month or two. If we dared we might point out that in the days when serving the state in parliament or senate carried no emoluments worth speaking about the state received much better service.

Teachers to Tour Dominion

TO teach the youth of Canada about Canada and do the country justice it is first necessary that one should see Canada. That is the view of the Canadian Teachers' Federation and no one will question it. With the idea of correcting any deficiencies in this respect under which its members may be labouring the Federation, accordingly, has decided to make its trip to Victoria, B. C., for this year's annual convention as a personally conducted tour, lasting from August 4th to 12th and promising a very interesting and instructive programme for the pedagogues and their friends.

Arranged by Dr. A. E. Hardy, Vice-President of the Federation, and R. E. Howe, President, Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, Quebec, in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific Railway, the tour covers as wide a field as is humanly possible in the time allotted. It will be made on a special train starting from Toronto and following the main line of the Canadian Pacific throughout. Stop-overs varying from a few hours to a day will be made at many points of interest along the route to give the teachers a full opportunity of seeing the sights at these places. Fort William and Port Arthur, the great inland grain ports of this country and the funnel through which Canada's huge crops pour out to feed the world, Winnipeg, the world's greatest grain market, and boasting the world's greatest railway yards in those of the Canadian Pacific, the bustling prairie cities of Regina and Moose Jaw, Calgary, the metropolis of the prairie provinces and a cow-town only a few years ago, Vancouver, the beautiful seaport on the mild Pacific coast which is forging ahead at almost terrifying speed—these are all entered on the schedule for prolonged inspection. A long stop will also be made at Banff Springs Hotel, the palatial hostelry in the heart of the Rockies where all the recreations provided, such as hiking, riding, swimming and mountain climbing, will be open to the teachers. Lake Louise, called 'probably the most perfect bit of scenery in the known world', will also be visited, lunch being taken at the Chateau there. The magnificent run through the Rockies to the coast will be made in daylight.

The entertainments arranged for the teachers include many automobile drives, a reception at the Twin Cities, luncheon at Winnipeg and Calgary and a reception at Vancouver, under the auspices of the local Teachers' Association in each of the cities mentioned, luncheon at Regina as the guests of the Premier and Government of Saskatchewan, followed by a drive around the city in automobiles provided by the Rotary Club. While in Moose Jaw, the visitors will also be taken for a drive by the local Board of Trade.

A special return trip under similar arrangements for those who care to take it has also been planned. Starting from Victoria, it includes the wonderful run through the mountains over the Kettle Valley Railway, the steamer trips over beautiful Okanagan and Kootenay Lakes, through the heart of the fruit-growing country, thence to Lake Windermere, and by motor over the splendid new Banff-Lake Windermere Highway to Vermilion River Camp and Banff. Then come Edmonton, the prosperous gateway to Canada's rich Northland, Saskatoon, an important prairie city, Winnipeg, Kenora, Fort William and across the Great Lakes via the Soo to Port McNicoll and Toronto. This trip lasts from August 17th to 29th and includes a stop-over for dinner at Penticton, dinner, a night's stay and breakfast at lovely Lake Windermere Camp, lunch at Vermilion River Camp, and a day at Banff, Edmonton, Winnipeg and Devil's Gap Camp, the delightful resort on the Lake of the Woods, near Kenora. The visits to the camps, the motor run through the mountains and the refreshing sail across the Great Lakes alone make this return trip infinitely desirable.

DISAPPEARANCE OF THE SERVANT

If you had said to Pericles or to Caesar that slavery one day should be abolished he would not have believed you; he would not have been able to understand how the world could get along without slaves.

If you should say to the most intelligent modern man that one day there should be no more servants, he would hardly believe you; or if you should tell a wealthy woman, mistress of a large establishment, that some day there will be no more servant problem for the reason that there will be no more servants, she would doubtless think you crazy.

For all of that domestic service is going to disappear in time, just as slavery has disappeared.

Slavery had to go because it was inconsistent with the new moral tone that Christianity brought; domestic service is doomed because it is inconsistent with modern ideas of citizenship and rational human relations.

Domestic service, like the veriform appendix, is a relic of an outgrown condition of things, of a time when the aim of life was to be waited upon, and a man's importance was gauged by the number of those who waited upon him.

The democratic ideal is quietly curing this morbid idea. Our notion of the greatest man is coming to be the man who serves the most and not the one with the most servants.

At the close of the twentieth century the cardinal element in every child's education will be to teach him how to wait on himself.

Already we find it difficult to "get good help." The maid of all work becomes more and more exacting, demands more and more pay and often it is impossible to procure one at any price.

Attempts at communal life have been made in the effort to solve the servant puzzle. Apartment buildings and groups of cottages have tried common kitchens.

The only place where there is no servant problem is the home of the poor, where the wife does her own work. And women are showing a growing distaste for entering into a marriage that implies that. They seem to suspect that the man is marrying to obtain a housekeeper to whom he need not pay honest wages.

The solution of the difficulty is in two directions, which are coordinate. One hope is in the inventive genius of man; the other in his growth in democracy, spiritual simplicity and greatness.

In the electric house a hundred years from now there will be little hand work to do. The house then will be as far ahead of ours now as the present day steam heated. electric lighted and vacuum cleaned apartment is in advance of the house where Whittier was a boy. The home of the future will be servantless.

But at the same time people will learn gradually the dignity of helping themselves and the pettiness of being helped.

Society has invented football, tennis, golf, boxing, fox-trotting and automobiling to keep people from fat and atrophy.

The simplest and most scientific form of exercise is taking care of yourself.

Tolstoy says that to teach our children to pick up their own scattered toys and generally to look after themselves is absolutely necessary if we would have them understand the meaning of "brotherhood."

It's all in the way you look at it. A man who thinks it is no disgrace to lie on his back in the mud under an automobile and get grease on his hands and up to his armpits need not think it beneath him to fry some eggs and bacon.

And a woman who can stand four hours at a reception or travel twenty miles an afternoon in an art gallery need not think she is lowering herself by combing her own hair, putting together her own spring hat and buttoning her own gloves—also having her gowns made so that she can button them herself.

Fashion determines all. Fashion is being forced toward simplicity. And if we only thought so it might be quite as much the thing for a gentleman to polish his own shoes as to steer his own car, and for a lady to make her own shirtwaists as to embroider castles and duckponds on canvas.

"When Adam dolve and Eve span,
Who then was the gentleman?"

WORK ON DRY DOCK

The Prince Rupert drydock has secured the contract for overhauling and repairing the patrol steamers Malaspina and Marfish. Similar work is also to be done on several launches and repairing to the C.G.M.M. vessel Canadian Scottish. The rush of work has provided employment already for some two hundred men.

HEAVY LOADS WHEAT ARE GOING SOUTH

More Canadian wheat is going to United States millers from the head of the lakes this year than ever before, in spite of the 42c duty imposed last winter, Winnipeg exporters state. Minneapolis, Duluth, Chicago and Buffalo millers have contracts aggregating 14,000,000 bushels now registered at the lake head, and the first four cargoes to leave this spring, aggregating a million bushels, were for a milling company across the line.

REPAIRING BAY LINE

A party of repair men left recently for mile 127, Hudson Bay railway, to start the work of renovating the line. More men and supplies are being sent out and it was expected that May 1 would see some headway made in the task of putting the Hudson Bay railway through that district in condition again.

The city water will be shut off all day Sunday, May 11.

FOUNDATION FOR GOOD BUSINESS YEAR

The railways are steadily laying the foundation for a good business year, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which reports that thus far carloadings justify considerable optimism. For the month of March there was an increase of 56,029 carloads over the corresponding month of 1923, or a gain of 24.4 per cent. Since the opening of 1924 the betterment has amounted to 430 carloads.

WHITE FISH FRY FOR ONTARIO LAKES

Nearly six million Jumbo whitefish fry, from the fish hatcheries at Fort Frances, are being distributed throughout lakes in Ontario, according to advices received in Winnipeg by the baggage department of the Canadian National Railways, and many more millions of fry are expected to be distributed from the hatchery at Port Arthur during the next few weeks.

COAST ITEMS

Victoria, May 7.—"I did not expect to get any bunch of promises as a result of my visit to Ottawa," states Premier Oliver, in answer to rumors that the election will be delayed because the government leader did not return from the Dominion capital with a lot of election promises.

"I went purely on public business," he explains. "I have secured a conference on railway matters and I think this as far as anyone could expect to get. The railway problem is a tremendous one and action cannot be secured in a day. Furthermore, I investigated the freight rates problem and am convinced that we are nearer a solution of that problem than even before. I can certainly say that my visit to Ottawa will not affect the date of the election one way or the other."

Hon. E. D. Barrow, minister of agriculture, has won his fight to prevent the entry of racehorses into British Columbia from southern points where the foot and mouth disease has been prevalent. Racing interests in Victoria and Vancouver have lost out and will have to turn to eastern horses if their race meets are to be a success. Government officials refuse to budge an inch from their position, declaring that nothing can be left undone to prevent an outbreak of the dread animal plague in this province.

As was expected by those who closely followed the P.G.E. railway inquiry, held by Mr. Justice Galliher, as commissioner, Hon. W. J. Bowser and the government have been completely exonerated on the charges brought by the Provincial party, under General A. D. McRae. The report of the commissioner was given out this week and leaves no question as to his findings. It is a lengthy affair, going fully into the charges contained in the third party petition. Perhaps the chief source of wonderment on the part of the electors is that in face of such a report the Provincials are broadcasting the province with accusations and charges which were completely disproven before the highest court in the land.

Louis W. Hill, multimillionaire director of two railroads and successor of his father, James J. Hill, as head of the Great Northern railway, will soon retire from active participation in railroad affairs. He has been chairman of the board of the Great Northern and a director of the Burlington route for many years. He expects to leave for Europe some time in June to join his family, already there.

Mackenzie King is quoted as saying in the course of a recent debate at Ottawa that he hoped the day never would come when Canada would hesitate to recognize her responsibility towards other parts of the British Empire as well as towards herself. The Prime Minister must be aware that Canada has hesitated in that recognition in not assuming her proportionate share in the scheme of naval defence.

Modern day saviors of the world and the statesmen who have a panacea for every ill might learn a lesson in humility from what Sir Isaac Newton said about himself: "I do not know what I may appear to the world; but to myself I seem to have been only like a boy playing on the seashore, and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordintry, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me."

One probable result of recen thappenings in Washington will be to let the oil men off this year with lighter campaign contributions than ever before.

UNRUINING A RUIN

By "solemnly rebuilding the edges of mutilated masonry" and thus restoring the ruins of Whitby Abbey to their pre-war degree of ruination —that is to say, making them look as they did before the Germans wantonly bombarded them ten years ago —the British government has invited no little ridicule, we read. Its critics poke fun at the "stage ruins" obtained by "spending such pains on these ghosts of the past." It was "vain labor," they say—also "pathetic and superstitious" — though the temptation to undo the work of German guns must have been a strong one, for, as William Harvey explains in The Builder, a Landon publication, "the damage was fortunately confined to one part of the group of ruins." There—

"The central doorway of the west front was almost entirely demolished, with a great part of the wrought masonry facings, the mouldings and tracery of the west front. Much of the tshlar, molding and tracery that had fallen were found to be still in a recognizable condition, and could be identified piece by piece, by means of detailed photographs."

These photographs, taken some time before 1914, enabled the restorers to dispense with guesswork, and, as Mr. Harvey assures us, the restoration "has been carried out with the utmost fidelity." It would soon have been necessitated, even had the Germans wrought no havoc, we are told. "The crumbling heaps of fallen debris showed clearly enough that decay was at work before the time of the German raid." Indeed, decay has long been in progress. In 1763 the west side of the nave fell. Then, in 1830, the tower fell. But "even today one can get some idea of the Abbey's ancient splendor" along with reminders of its history. As we read,

"In the Six Hundreds, Whitby was a ship-building centre. It retained that industry for many hundreds of years, and, incidentally, the illustrious Captain Cook's ships were built there. For more than twelve centuries the Abbey Church, a battered and time-worn object now, has looked down upon the picturesque old Yorkshire seaport. It was founded by Osway, King of Northumbria, in 658 'in fulfilment of a vow for a victory over Penda, king of Mercia.' Later, yet still in the so-called dark ages, the Abbey 'acquired high celebrity' under Hilda, grandniece of Edwin, one time king of Northumbria. The vicissitudes of the Conquest and the Dissolution left the once great church a ruin."

Fry's

DR. Andrew Wilson, the eminent British authority, once said of the cocoa bean—"It is a kind of vegetable egg which contains all that is needed to build up a living body." Tea and coffee are mere infusions—but cocoa is an actual food in itself. Business men should remember that.

Cocoa, made the FRY way, from the world's choicest beans, is pure, extremely soluble and of most delicious flavour. Nearly two hundred years' knowledge of the cocoa business stands back of FRY'S. Of course, remember

"Nothing will do but FRY'S"

By this means, it is desired to establish a friendly rivalry between the various cities with a view to a general improvement of the writing throughout the province. The two girls named have prepared very fine books of specimens of their penmanship to be sent to Vancouver.

CROW'S NEST PEOPLE BUY HARD COAL MINE

The sale is reported to Southern Alberta coal interests of the McLeod River Hard Coal Company's property on the coal branch of the Canadian National. The mine of the company is located about five miles from the junction point of Coalspur and the principal owners are J. G. Scott and N. Gurvich, of Prince Rupert. The mine for some time was formerly operated by a party of Serbians but the controlling interest was later acquired by Mr. Scott. The mine has a capacity output of about 150 tons per day and caters largely to the domestic market. It was opened in 1920.

The interests who have acquired the property are said to be the same as are in control of the McGillivray Coal and Coke Co., at Coleman. The president of that company is James A. Nowell of St. Paul, Minn., and the vice-president is Lorne A. Campbell, of Rossland, B.C. The same company has recently acquired some coal lands in the Saunders Creek district where they are to do some development. The McGillivray mine is one of the largest in the province.

MINERS NOT LIKELY TO ANSWER CALGARY BOARD'S QUESTIONS

Calgary, May 3.—Whether or not officials of District 18, U.M.W. of A., will reply to the questionaire sent them by the Calgary Board of Trade would appear to be somewhat doubtful. When he was asked on Saturday if a reply had yet been sent to the board, Wm. Sherman, the president of District 18, remarked that the board's letter would be submitted to the miners' conference committee "indue course." He could not say when the committee would meet, however, as he was leaving on Sunday for Indianapolis to meet John L. Lewis, the international president, in connection with the affairs in District 18.

"We don't attach any importance, at any rate, to such bodies as the Board of Trade," said Mr. Sherman, the inference being that it was extremely doubtful if a reply would be sent to the board.

Thomas Meighen in his new Paramount production, "The Confidence Man," which will be the feature at the Orpheum Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, is supported by an all-star cast that is all-star in every sense of the word.

Virginia Valli, star of "A Lady of Quality," is the leading woman. Laurence Wheat in the principal masculine supporting role was last seen with Meighan in "Back Home and Broke." He has appeared with the popular star in six of his pictures during the past three years. Charlie Dow Clark is well cast as a miserly old gent upon whom Meighan tries to shift some worthless oil stock. Others in the cast include Helen Lindroth, Jimmie Lapsley, Margaret Seddon, George Nash, Dorothy Walters and David Higgins, all well known names on both stage and screen.

NO PUBLICITY RE RELIEF TO STRIKING MINERS

Whatever relief will be afforded the miners on strike in District 18 by Indianapolis will not be given out to the press, according to a statement made to the Calgary Herald on Monday by Wm. Peacock, the local secretary-treasurer of the U.M.W. of A. "That is our business," he said, in the course of an interview. "The information will be given to the members of the organization through their locals."

Wm. Sherman, president of District 18, left for Indianapolis on Monday morning. Local officials would not divulge the reason of his being called to headquarters, neither is any information forthcoming regarding the miners' reply to the questions put by the Calgary Board of Trade regarding the coal mining industry generally. This will, in any case, now be left in abeyance until the return of Sherman.

The output of coal in the Edmonton non-union field still continues heavy, accordng to word received in the city on Monday.

PACIFIC MILK IS GRATEFUL

A letter comes from Mrs. A. H. Harper, whose home is in Vancouver, in which she says she has used Pacific Milk for ten years. That there was anything unusual about using one article of food so long a stretch never occurred to her until a friend recently expressed surprise over it. The friend suggested she write to the Company and this accounts for the appreciated letter just received. Thank you.

CITY COUNCIL HOLD SESSION

The Fernie city council held their second regular May meeting in the council chamber on Thursday evening. Mayor Henderson occupied the chair. Ald. Irvine was the only absentee.

Thos. Prentice waited upon the council and made a request that the city keep the street sprinkler on the streets eight hours daily. He stated that enormous damage is done annually by dust and that the upkeep of the sprinkler would easily be covered by the reduction in damage.

Mayor Henderson assured Mr. Prentice that the council would go thoroughly into the matter and would give it every consideration.

The B.P.O. Elks in a communication stated that owing to the present conditions in the city, they had decided not to hold sports on May 24 but requested the use of the city Park to stage a baseball game.

An application from residents in Blocks 125 and 130 Annex Extension for city water was placed before the council. After discussion, it was moved by Aldermen Markland and Lees that the applicants be allowed to connect their residences to the waterworks system at their own expense, the cost to be credited to their water rates.

A protest against the charge of double sewer rental from Mount Fernie Lodge, I.O.O.F., was read by the city clerk, who explained that there were at present two connections from the I.O.O.F. Hall to the city sewerage system. Mayor Henderson stated that in his opinion, as there was only one building, the Odd Fellows should only be charged for one connection. A motion was passed reducing this rental from $20 to $10 per annum.

A communication from the Crow's Nest Bakery, requesting permission to open their store on Sundays, was referred to the police commission as the council had no jurisdiction.

The usual sheaf of accounts was passed for payment.

BABY CLINIC A SUCCESS

The committee for Child Hygiene of the Local Council of Women are to be congratulated on the success of their first Well Baby Clinic, held last Monday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. The council chamber was a hive of health workers. Sixteen mothers came with 22 infants. The committee consists of Mrs. Stewart (ex-officio president of the Women's Council), Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Ingram, Mrs. Bonnell, Mrs. O'Neil and Mrs. Podbielancik. Most of the committee acted as helpers and were assisted by young ladies from the Junior I.O.D.E. and other organizations affiliated with the Women's Council. At the clinic each baby was weighed and measured and the mother told the proper weight and height for that child. The nurse looked at the teeth and gave the mothers general health advice about the diet, etc., and advised her to go to a doctor if necessary. The famous Little Blue Books from the Dominion government and other health literature from the Provincial Board of Health was given to the mothers.

There was a short discussion on the reasons for health and preventive work amongst children. The nurse told the mothers that there were four chief reasons for this work, as follows:

Human Reasons—By preventing disease we prevented suffering in others, which was the same as saving a person from a fire or drowning.

Selfish Reasons — By preventing contagious diseases such as tuberculosis, from attacking other people, we lessened the chance of such diseases attacking our own families.

Economic or Financial Reasons — Prevention is always cheaper than cure. The tuberculosis, smallpox and isolation hospitals and the lunatic asylums cost the taxpayers a lot of money. These, if diseases were prevented, would only cost little and would save much money. If a father has tuberculosis the family are nearly always, sooner or later, very poor. The father cannot work steadily and sickness costs much money.

Efficiency Reasons — A healthy child is usually more advanced in school or college. A healthy man is more efficient in business and a healthy nation is more efficient in war. During conscription in the late war 47 per cent were unfit for active service in B.C. A healthy nation, well educated, is an efficient nation. May all Canadians be healthy and efficient.

Paper patterns for baby clothes were at the disposal of the mothers. These patterns were designed, not according to the last cry from Paris, but by a lady doctor, who cut them according to the anatomy of the baby so that the garments made from them will fit a baby till it is six months old, without impeding its growth. On the table were to be found books on the preparation of baby foods and on the cooking of food for older children and the family, so as to promote the health of the whole family.

The mothers present expressed a desire that at the next monthly Well Baby Clinic there should be a general discussion on the Cause and Prevention of Summer Complaint Amongst Babies. The next clinic will be held early in June.

ELECTION ON JUNE 20

Victoria, May 11.—The provincial elections will be held on Friday, June 20, the day before the arrival here of the British special squadron. Nominations will take place Friday, May 30.

The house was dissolved yesterday morning by Chief Justice MacDonald, official administrator.

Therefore, less than six weeks remains before the date of dissolution and the elections, and a whirlwind campaign has been planned by the government party.

The Conservatives have objected strongly to such an early election date, while the Provincials express indifference on the matter.

Probably 165 candidates of all shades of political opinion will have their names on the ballot papers.

The Liberal party has been in power in British Columbia since September, 1916, when, under the late H. C. Brewster, the Conservatives were swept out of office and practically blanked.

The legislature just dissolved consisted of 47 members. One seat of Vancouver's six was vacated by the entry of the sitting member, M. A. MacDonald, K.C., into federal politics.

Of the remaining 46 members 25 were Liberals, 14 Conservatives and 7 Independents, Laborites and Socialists.

Through an amendment to the Constitution Act passed last session the new legislature will consist of 48 members. Six constituencies have been cut to a representation of three through the combining of Cowichan-Newcastle, Grand Forks-Greenwood and Trail-Rossland. Five new ridings have come into being, Creston, MacKenzie, Burnaby, Skeena and Salmon Arm. One riding, Kaslo, has been eliminated.

For the first time in more than 20 years in British Columbia the election will be a three party fight. The advent of the Provincial party, led by Gen. A. D. McRae, is responsible for a situation which will see more candidates in the field this year than at any previous election.

PREDICTING BIG STEEL INDUSTRY FOR FERNIE

The Lethbridge Herald of Monday says:

Plans comprehending the investment in development and construction work at Fernie, B.C., of five million dollars are said to be a long way toward competion, the enterprise involving the opening up of the adjacent iron ore deposits, the construction of a steel mill, and the manufacture of a half score of by-products from the coal resources at Coal Creek and other properties near the East Kootenay city.

It was learned in the city today that the success of the prospective industrial boom at Fernie hinges on the agreement to a five years' peace with organized labor. If labor is willing to enter such a pact, the backers of the steel industry are said to be willing to start development at once. The name of W. R. Wilson, president of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., and part owner of the Premier mine, one of the richest gold mines in the world, is connected with the report.

According to the information gathered by the Herald, the scheme involves the extraction of a number of byproducts from the coal. By-products worth $10, it is said, can be secured from a ton of coal, leaving still the coke. This will be used as fuel for the projected steel mill, it is stated. The report is creating no little stir in Fernie and the Pass.

DR. BONNELL NOMINATED

Representatives from all parts of this district were present on Friday evening last in Victoria Hall for the purpose of nominating a candidate to carry the Conservative standard in the forthcoming provincial election.

Dr. Weldon, of Michel, was elected chairman of the meeting, and after a credentials committee had done its work called for nominations.

The name of Dr. Bonnell was proposed by Sherwood Herchmer, of Fernie, and seconded by M. McLean, of Michel, and as no other candidate was named he was unanimously tendered the nomination.

The mover and seconder each made strong speeches showing why Dr. Bonnell should be the logical choice of the convention, and they were thoroughly convinced that he would be the choice of the electorate at the coming election.

Dr. Bonnell, who needs no introduction to the people of this district, in a fine speech accepting the nomination, thanked those present for the honor they had conferred upon him. He was a thorough believer in the principles of the Conservative party and was convinced that the time had arrived when the provincial government would again be placed in the hands of that party. For a long time the Liberal party had been stalling off an election; they could read the handwriting on the wall. For three years they had denied Vancouver its proper representation because they were afraid to hold a bye election in that city. All these signs should be convincing that the Liberals had reached the end of their rope in this province.

Among the delegates present were: Fort Steele, E. H. L. Attree, Al. Doyle; Bull River, Wm. Schad; Elko, Stanley Norton; Crow's Nest, Harry Schuyler; Elk Prairie, Frank Harmer; Michel and Natal, Mickey McLean, A. C. Murray, Joe Tortorelli, Mrs. Tortorelli, Dr. Weldon; Corbin, W. H. Reid; Fernie, Neil McCallum, T. Prentice, J. H. Marshall, H. Bryant, G. G. Moffatt, Jos. Aiello, A. T. Hamilton, J. Skilling, W. Wilmot, S. Herchmer, S. Wilson, D. Markland, A. C. Liphardt.

JAS. MCLEAN NOMINATED

The Fernie Riding Liberal Association, with representatives from all sections of the riding, in open convention held in Victoria Hall on Thursday evening, unanimously selected James McLean as their candidate to contest the forthcoming provincial election in the Fernie Riding.

To accept the nomination, Mr. McLean will immediately resign his position as government liquor vendor here, as a government employee cannot be a candidate for legislative honors. This will be his first venture as a contestant in any election in the province, although he has been a staunch supporter of the Liberal standardbearers during the entire 26 years since his first arrival in Fernie.

Following the nomination the following officers were elected to the Fernie Riding Liberal Association:

Hon. Pres.—Hon. John Oliver.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—A. I. Fisher.
President—C. D. McNab.
1st Vice-Pres.—J. S. Irvine.
2nd Vice-Pres.—W. W. Douglas.
3rd Vice-Pres.—Dr. Workman.
Sec.-Treas.—H. E. Douglas.

Executive—Dr. Elliott, Corbin; J. Lees, J. Caufield, J. Weir, Coal Creek; J. Hughes, C. Hesketh, H. Whalley, West Fernie; T. Wilson, T. Deluca, A. Kubnec, Michel; J. Beech, J. Dixon, W. L. Foley, Natal; W. Weaver, W. J. Cook. Elk Prairie; A. Lees, J. Bella, M. Migalli, Fernie Annex; J. Worth, Fort Steele; H. Barr, Wasa; Mrs. Barnstead, Galloway; A. Rosen, Jaffray; G. Ross, Elko; H. W. McGuire, McGuire; J. R. Nolan, Flagstone; W. G. Pelland, J. Porrier, Hosmer; A. Jostad, Bull River; E. K. Stewart, F. C. Lawe, G. G. Henderson, W. A. Ingram, T. Caravetta, J. L. Gates, R. A. Kerr, J. L. McIntyre, P. J. Hughes, A. Dragon, R. Duthie, P. Marchenek, T. Tod, F. Fennison and M. Belecky, Fernie.

"THE MAN LIFE PASSED BY"

Coming to the Orpheum next week is the new Metro picture, "The Man Life Passed By," which Victor Schertzinger directed from the story he wrote in collaboration with Winnifred Dunn, who did the scenario.

Percy Marmont has the title role of a man whose bitterness against the world nearly proves his own undoing, until love takes a hand in the person of the daughter of his worst enemy. Hobart Bosworth is "Iron Man" Moore, who ruined the unrecognized inventor and it is a novel coincidence that Jane and Eva Novak have sister roles in the photoplay as his daughters. Cullen Landis is the father's secretary, in love with the younger daughter. This combination of characters is set in a series of incidents that develop into a great emotional struggle.

Many thrills and dramatic situations make "The Man Life Passed By" one of the notably entertaining motion pictures of the year. J. J. Hughes was art director and Chester A. Lyons photographed the production.

EARLY PIONEER PASSES AWAY

At the age of 83 years the death took place last Monday night at his home in Fort Steele of Robert Leslie Thomas Galbraith, the "father of the Kootenays," and known widely throughout the district as the oldest resident pioneer in the district in point of age, as well as in the years spent here. He was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, in 1841, and came to Canada in 1867.

After engaging in business in Ontario for three years, he came west into the "unknown," at that time to join a brother who was engaged in trading at what was then Galbraith's ferry, across the Kootenay river, at what is now Fort Steele.

Later he engaged in ranching on a large scale, and all the undertakings that entailed in those days, his lands embracing what is now the site of the city of Cranbrook.

In the next few years he was engaged for the Dominion government in packing supplies for the parties that were exploring the Rockies and Selkirks for a projected transcontinental railway.

He naturally had extensive dealings with the Indians, and was an outstanding figure in the country from the time of the establishment of Fort Steele, including the stirring times when there was a little trouble with them about the middle eighties.

He had frequently to act as a guide for the Mounted Police in those times, in reaching the district, which was quite inaccessible from all directions except the south.

In the days of the legislative assembly, before the days of party politics in this province, when the entire southeast portion of the province was in one district, Mr. Galbraith was elected the representative for the district at Victoria.

In 1894 he was appointed Indian agent, a position for which he was eminently suited, and held till age compelled him to relinquish it three years ago.

He was a Mason and had held high honors in the order. He was a devoted Anglican and took great interest in the church at Fort Steele.

He leaves a widow, but no children.

The passing of Mr. Galbraith is an irreparable loss to the district and the province in general. A link has been severed with the early history of the province, and all too few pioneers remain, especially in this district, who have seen the change wrought by more than half a century's development.

He saw the beginnings of Fort Steele from a trading post on the river, through the hectic days of its palmiest years, during the gold rush, and as it declined, saw the rise of Cranbrook close by, and the coming of the railroad through the Crow's Nest. He was very closely associated with the building of the Kootenay Central railway, and at the time the transfer of that line was made to the C.P.R. was at the head of it.

He had a host of friends and to know him was to respect him as a throroughly upright man. With him has gone a wealth of reminiscence and history of the Kootenays that no one else now living has.

BEER BY GLASS BUT NOT IN BARS

When the citizens of British Columbia go to the polls on election day they will be asked to say whether or not they approve of the sale of beer by the glass in licensed premises without a bar.

Among the regulations the outstanding ones are two. There is to be no return to the saloon bar; and in the licensed premises where sale of beer is to be permitted, no other drink, either alcoholic of non-alcoholic, is to be sold.

The vote on the sale of beer by the glass is to be held under the authority of the Liquor Control Plebiscites act. If the electors vote for sale of beer, by the glass, the conditions under which it will be sold are laid down in part two of the Government Liquor Act Amending act, 1923—"Amendment providing for the sale of beer by the glass." Both of these statutes were enacted at last year's session of the provincial house.

"Do you approve of the sale of beer by the glass in licensed premises without a bar, under government control and regulation?"

The vote is to be a straight "Yes" or "No," the question being answered with a cross placed in one or other of the squares opposite these words.

By a further and little known provision of the Liquor Control Plebiscites act the government is empowered to submit plebiscites in any particular polling division, subsequent to the taking of the general vote. While the intention of this provision is not exactly avowed, the plain inference to be drawn from it is that local option on the sale of beer by the glass will be permitted, subject to the general expression of public opinion on the subject. The provision, contained in clause 2, section 3 of the act, is as follows:

"The lieutenant governor in council may at any time subsequent to the taking of the general vote of the electors on the question set out in the form of ballot contained in this section, and from time to time, submit to a vote of the electors of any polling division any other question relating to the control or suppression of traffic in alcoholic liquors, and the provisions of this act shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to the taking of the vote."

If the beer plebiscite is carried in the affirmative, the following are among the principal regulations which will apply to the licensed sale of beer by the glass:

The government liquor board may grant licenses in respect of premises kept or operated by the licensees, and specified in the licenses.

Every applicant for a beer license shall advertise in four issues of a local newspaper his intention to apply.

The license, if issued, will permit the licensee to purchase beer from a government vendor and to sell it by the glass or open bottle for consumption on the premises.

All beer licenses will expire on December 31 of the year in which they are issued and application must be made for reissue in the same manner as for the original license.

No licensee will be permitted to maintain on his premises "any bar or counter over or at which any alcoholic or non-alcoholic beverage is sold."

"No person shall have, keep or consume any liquor other than beer in any part of the premises in respect of which a beer license is issued under this act."

Clause 11 provides that beer licenses shall apply only in such parts of the province as have voted in the affairmative on the plebiscite. This is a further indication of the intention to apply the principle of local option.

TWO KINDS OF CORROSION

One woman scientist of England says she has perfected a chemical compound which will absolutely prevent corrosion and deposits in water pipes.

The formula has been tried out in Brighton and is said to be a success. If so, it will probably mean an annual saving to concerns that use such pipes, of millions of dollars a year.

Now that the water pipe problem has been solved, this woman might turn her attention to human pipes.

Corrosion and deposits in the human insides, caused by improper eating, are the prime causes of disease.

Anybody who can find a way of cleaning out the human system as thoroughly as water pipes can be cleaned out, will save the world, not millions but billions of dollars and a good deal of suffering and early death besides.

FOUR DIRECTORS OF HOME BANK PAY UP

Toronto, May 12.—Four directors of the Home Bank are included among some 300 shareholders of the institution, who have met the liquidator's demand for double liability payments. The directors are Clarence Wood, K.C., Toronto, $5,000; F. J. B. Russell, Toronto, $5,000; Casey Wood, K.C., Toronto, $4,000; and J. F. M. Stewart, Toronto, $4,000. The other directors who have not made the payments have filed a defense against payment of the double payment.

Liquidators announce that approximately $300,000 double liability money has been paid up to the present time.

CAVEN SUES C.P.R. IN $25,000 CLAIM

Thos. Caven, Cranbrook, and former M.L.A. for that seat, employed as a passenger conductor by the C. P.R. on the Crow's Nest division, is suing the company for $25,000 for alleged wrongful dismissal, or in the alternative for $4000 damages for dismissal without reasonable notice.

He was charged with having collected cash fares on the train running from Macleod to Kootenay Landing on Sept. 8, 1923, and failing to account for the same to the auditor of passenger receipts.

The charge was investigated in Vancouver by Frank W. Peters, superintendent of the Pacific coast division, and on October 27, 1923, plaintiff was notified of his dismissal.

Plaintiff claims that his case was not properly investigated, that the material witnesses, the passengers from whom he was alleged to have collected cash fares, were not present, and their evidence taken in plaintiff's presence, and that as the charge was not proved he should be reinstated and paid for his lost time and expenses.

He further alleges that by reason of his dismissal he has lost the pension to which he and all other employees contributed from their monthly pay, this pension amounting to 40 per cent of the pay they would be receiving when retired at the age of 65 years. He therefore asks the court for a declaration that the company had not complied with the conditions precedent to its right to dismiss him; a declaration that plaintiff had not been proved guilty of the offence charged; that he was entitled to have the charges heard before a board of arbitration; that he was entitled to be reinstated and payment for lost time. He also asks damages as above stated.

AIR NOT YET CONQUERED

From the difficulties involved in the flight of the airmen around the world it would appear that the air has not yet been conquered.

Long flights have become fairly familiar in recent years and it has come to be accepted almost as a matter of course that an aviator should launch out into the air with a destination whole oceans and continents away.

To us who keep our feet on the solid earth the air is the same air everywhere. We do not realize that it is full of irregularities, of depressions and acclivities as the ground beneath. We fail to apprehend the need of mapping it.

So it surprises us that aviators travelling over new and hitherto untried routes should meet with difficulties which are no longer heard of where flight is frequent.

Granting that the American flight across the Pacific was begun in one of the worst seasons of the year, the difficulties met with may safely be regarded as due in large part to factors always present but which the pioneers had to discover for themselves and at their peril.

It follows that these adventures in unknown regions, unknown that is to say, in an atmospheric sense, are the necessary preliminaries to commercial aviation.

So far as being mere useless risking of good men in barren endeavor they are voyages of discovery. British and American fliers around the world are the Columbuses of the twentieth century.

The American idea in politics is to do nothing yourself, and investigate everything the other fellow does.—Columbia Record.

The Canadian Pacific steamer Empress of Britain will arrive at Quebec shortly on her first voyage from Liverpool as a cabin-class steamer under her new name Montroyal. She is the fastest vessel sailing out of Liverpool and is scheduled to run from there to Quebec in six and a half days.

British Columbia's payroll for 1923 was $150,000,000, according to the annual report of the Workman's Compensation Board. The payroll for 1922 was $128,592,502, and for 1921, $130,099,373. Employing firms operating at the end of last year numbered 6,524, an increase of 145 over the previous year.

The 1924 season for the port of Montreal was officially opened on the morning of the 18th of April, when the Government ice-breaker Lady Grey arrived in the harbor. A big season is anticipated, especially by the Canadian Pacific steamships, whose vessels on the St. Lawrence route this year will exceed 197,000 gross tons.

Vancouver this season has beaten Portland, the great wheat port of the Northwest and formerly the great wheat port of the Pacific. Portland includes flour in its wheat totals, Vancouver does not. According to the Portland press the American city has moved over 29,000,000 bushels of wheat to date. Vancouver, in the same period, shipped 36,000,000 bushels, exclusive of a very considerable quantity of flour.

The much prized Wilder silver medal, the highest award of the American Pomological Society, the oldest horticultural body in North America, has been awarded to the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa for the sixth time. The medal on this occasion was given for the Lobo apple, one of the many fine varieties of McIntosh Red parentage originated at the Central Farm.

An estimate of $1,500,000 for fire protection and management of forest reserves has been placed before the Government for approval by the Minister of the Interior. The Minister stated that more drastic measures of fire prevention would be taken this year and in this connection the Department of the Interior proposes to utilize the Royal Canadian Air Force for the detection of fires.

An appeal for increased pensions for the originals of the old Royal North-West Mounted Police is now before the Federal Parliament. The present pensions are based on the pay standards of 20 to 30 years ago and are therefore quite inadequate, the appeal claims, and it is asked that they be raised to the same level as those granted members of the present Royal Canadian Mounted Police, on retirement.

"There is not a single geological reason why each and all of the world-famous mining camps, such as those of Kirkland Lake, Porcupine and Sudbury, should not be duplicated almost anywhere in the 650,000 square miles of the Quebec Laurentian Plateau, which stretches from the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers to Hudson Strait," according to a statement made by T. C. Denis, Superintendent of Mines of the Province of Quebec, at a recent meeting of the Quebec branch of the Mining Institute of Canada.

Canada is financially sound. On April 14th the investors and savings account holders of the country were offered twelve million dollars worth of Canadian Pacific Railway five per cent bonds and by four o'clock that afternoon the issue had been over-subscribed and the books were closed. Telegraph orders came from all parts of the Dominion, a splendid evidence of the amount of money available for sound investment and the country's confidence in the future of the big railway. Another evidence is seen in the fact that small investors are putting savings into C.P.R. common stock which pays ten per cent on par value of $100.000. Since 1907, Canadian holdings of this stock have increased from 9.75 per cent to 21 per cent at the present time and holdings in the British Empire total about 75 per cent.

Ramsay MacDonald, the British Prime Minister, appears to have what has become known at the political mind. In any case he believes the thing to do is to keep the people in a constant state of expectancy of some benefits to be derived from government. Here is what he says: "Never give a pledge. Never say you will do anything, but, within reason, always keep people expecting you are going to do it."

KOOTENAY FLATS DRAINAGE AGAIN TO THE FORE

Creston, May 12.—There was considerable excitement in town over the week end due to the appearance here on Friday and Saturday of Lorne A. Campbell, manager of the West Kootenay Power & Light Co., who, in company with W. J. E. Biker, of Nelson, the provincial Kootenay water rights branch engineer, made a detailed inspection of the Kootenay flats area.

Mr. Campbell's company has for two years been pressing the authorities at Victoria for a license to take and store waters from the Kootenay river, adjacent to their big plant at Bonnington Falls which supplies the power for all the mines in the B.C. interior as well as light for many of the towns, which, if granted, would raise the level of Kootenay Lake a matter of six feet it is estimated and might prevent hay cutting on the flats, as well as forever preclude the possibility of draining the 40,000 acres embraced in the flats area.

According to the figures worked out by Mr. Biker the raising of the lake level six feet would not seriously conflict with the best interests of drainage in that the widening of the river channel below Nelson and the putting in of a storage dam that is estimated to cost almost two million dollars, would expedite the outgo of the early season flood waters of other streams flowing into Kootenay lake and by the time the Kootenay river flood arrived the lake would be much lower than it is under existing conditions. This means that the annual overflow on the flats, which is caused by the back up of the waters of Kootenay Lake, would disappear probably three weeks quicker than at present, thereby enabling the flats to be sown to red top hay, which thrives notwithstanding a certain amount of inundation, and is said to be superior even to timothy for feed.

The matter will come up on Tuesday night at the May meeting of Creston board of trade, which is pressing the government to combine complete reclamation of the flats with the improvements to their water supply desired to be undertaken by the power company. In fact the board is quite prepared to recommend that the power company be handed over the 40,000 acres, under proper safeguards as to subsequent disposal, provided the company will guarantee complete drainage.

EDUCATIONAL SURVEY

Public opinion is to be satisfied and an educational survey is to be held in this province. Its value will be determined by the personnel of those in charge and the manner in which it is conducted. Any survey of the character must real with both cause and effect. It must probe present methods and find out what happens those who are the product of our educational system. In education, as in so many other matters, the old time saying holds good, to the effect that "the proof of the pudding is the eating." It is not altogether, therefore, with the dry details of the curriculum that an educational survey must be concerned. These are merely incidental to the purpose in view. The graver considerations are those affecting character development, ethical advancement and the informing of the understanding to the extent that the imparting of knowledge will correct and enlarge the heart. Education's main mission is to make for a better citizenship. The purpose of a survey will be to find out how far it is doing this in British Columbia, and whether or not the cost is wisely proportioned.

There may be a tendency in carrying out an educational survey to call in those who have earned the reputation of experts on the American side. These experts may be fully competent, but we know of no experience in the educational life of our neighbors that may be borrowed with advantage in this province. It is, as a matter of fact, the intervention of so-called experts in the art of education that has given rise to the feeling of uneasiness about the methods being applied to state education. Men like Sir Henry Newbolt and Sir Michael Sadler have never been designated experts. They would deride being called such, for they have the wider vision on educational problems. It is the engagement of experts which has caused the cost of education to increase out of proportion to the benefits it yields. An educational survey, therefore, can be carried out and can be productive of advantages without the introduction of experts for advisory purposes; and it must always be remembered that these erperts would add to the cost of an educational survey, where such cost, in such a cause, should be by no means considerable.

It is not clear that the best educational survey can be carried out by those who are now wedded to the system in force in this province. Some new light on the subject is needed. Some light is especially desirable from those who have been most active in criticizing the present methods and their results. There are within the bounds of this province those who are sufficiently well informed and quite capable of offering substantial advice, and many of these are not, of necessity, bound up with the present educational system. If the educational survey is to be conducted from within it may not effect reforms, for it may be governed by a feeling of self satisfaction and acquiescence in things as they are. Care should be exercised not to defeat the purpose for which such a survey will be held. Because of this it would seem the part of wisdom for Dr. J. D. MacLean, the Minister of Education, who will appoint the personnel of the survey, to go slowly in the premises and canvass every avenue from which legitimate assistance may be forthcoming for the purpose he has in view.—Colonist.

CURE FOR PNEUMONIA

Mr. L. B. Felton of Harvard announces a new treatment for pneumonia that he says will cut the death rate from that disease by 25 to 50 per cent.

The new "cure" is a white powder, consisting of certain elements secured from the ordinary pneumonia "horse serum."

But a little common sense in eating on the part of people on this continent would wipe out pneumonia in five years without serums, powders or any kind of drugs.

Pneumonia is a filth disease. The system becomes clogged up with all kinds of waste matter and Nature then makes an ineffectual effort to burn it out.

If a man would keep his insides as clean as he keeps his outside he would never have pneumonia, and Nature would never need to attempt the burning out process that we call disease.

GOVERNMENT MUST BE RESPONSIBLE

Abundant evidence is now before the Canadian public to form the basis for a demand that the government must assume the responsibility of protecting the shareholders of the Home Bank.

It has been shown conclusively that since 1918 the bank was kept going on deposits. This is nothing but an outrage against these depositors who put their money in on the strength of the fact that the government permitted the bank to carry on its business.

A government that would permit these poor depositors to be defrauded out of their savings stands convicted of criminal carelessness.

It is clear enough that Sir Thomas White, as Minister of Finance, had sufficient evidence of the state the bank was in. But Sir Thomas White and his associates clearly evaded their responsibilities at that time.

If the government of Canada is not to lose the respect of the world and of the Canadian electorate, this sloughing off of moral responsibility at will, must stop.

Certainly at this stage, and in face of evidence adduced, the government cannot shirk its responsibility to the shareholders, at least. — Vancouver Sun.

COAL FROM THE P.G.E. RAILWAY COUNTRY

Victoria, May 13.—The announcement is made by Hon. J. D. MacLean, provincial secretary and minister of railways, that shipments of coal from the P.G.E. railway country have commenced. During this summer special inducements are being offered settlers to take up land along the government line and business interests will be shown the country and its business propects. A determined drive for settlers has started.

ONE EVERY MINUTE

The extraordinary gullibility of the public provides the raw material on which quacks grow rich. Those who laugh at the superstitions of the past should take stock of the superstitions of the present, in which thousands of foolish people believe. There are in cities where free education has been in vogue for several generations fortune tellers, palmists, crystal-gazers, and mediums who by rank imposture extract handsome incomes from the contributions of the childishly credulous. There are herbalists who decoct decayed vegetables into potions which are swallowed in perfect faith by people who would derive just as much benefit by drinking the liquid boiled from any handful of thistles, docks and nettles gathered from the nearest paddock.—The Australasian.

WHEN ?

While many friends about you cling
You have no need for me:
While roses blow and birdlinge sing
And hearts are gay and free.

While peace and pleasure are your part,
Forget me if you will—
Though all the passion of my heart
Is twined about you still.

But if the time should ever be
That you are pressed with care,
And billows rise upon life's set,
And none your sorrows share

Then cast a thought to one whose love
Is yours forevermore.
Remember then that I have said,
It always will endure.

And come to me that I may know
That you believe me true.
In all the world, where e'er I go,
I yearn for none but you.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

THE "panicky" business man is ever with us—a slight depression and he immediately climbs to the house top and shouts that the country is going to the eternal bow-wows. He is not content to meet the situation courageously by adopting such policies that conform with trade conditions, but instead moans to his fellow tradesmen the "seriousness" of what he interprets as an approaching calamity. He surrounds himself with an atmosphere of doubt and anxiety; he becomes a destroyer of course lie all the verities and realities end of his unfounded conclusions.

Business today not only calls for men with faith in the future of our nation, but a faith in the industry they collectively represent—men who not only have a true vision of the future but the will and courage to grapple intelligently with the problems that arise from the "ups and downs" of trade and commerce which, as cycles, come and go like summer and winter, and to meet these problems with no loss of warranted optimism.

Let's not talk about "poor business," let's plead for "better business." When the monthly sales report shows a lower level, turn on more steam, mix more aggressiveness with your initiative. Spend more time "trying" than "alibi-ing" and you will be a bigger asset to your business, to your community and to yourself.

LOOK to This Day for it is Life—the very life of life. In its brief course lie all the verities and realities of your existence.

The Bliss of Growth
The Glory of Action
The Splendor of Beauty

For yesterday is already a dream and tomorrow is only a vision; but today, well lived, makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope. Look well, therefore, to this day. Such is the salutation of the dawn.

BOOSTING is the cheapest commodity on the market. And yet it does more actual good for the individual and the community than the expenditure of thousands of dollars.

Some people are natural born boosters. Others have to cultivate the art. But whatever it takes, it is certainly worth the effort.

But boosting doesn't consist simply of talk. The real booster has also to be a "doer." Your booster is the fellow who is back of the civic program. He is the man who attends mass meetings, reads this paper and otherwise keeps himself informed on what is going on. The booster is slow to criticize. There are plenty of things which he is not in hearty accord. But he takes the time and pains to equip himself with the facts before he starts talking.

The booster knows there are two sides to every question. And he knows the other fellow may be right at least part of the time. For that reason he tries to get the mass perspective on any question which concerns others besides himself. He is forever asking himself the question: Will this thing react for the general good of the most?

The smallest individual in the community is the man who, for various reasons is forced to live on in a place about which he hasn't one good thing to say. The fellow who is forever making disparaging remarks about his city and neighbors is not a very valuable citizen, any way one looks at it.

But the booster never overlooks a chance to cast a vote in city, Provincial or Dominion elections.

CHEAPER COAL HELD PROBABLE

Chicago—Cheaper bituminous coal seems to be on the way as the result of efforts to revise the wage scale in the union fields. Although the wage agreement signed last winter at Jacksonville remains in effect for three years, unless revised, there is a growing sentiment among union operators that the time is at hand when wages must be lowered if the industry is to survive the competition of the non-union producers.

Within the next few weeks a meeting probably will be held with miners' officials to discuss the situation. Although union officials pooh-pooh the talk of wage reduction, the rank and file of mine workers are dissatisfied with the scant working time which now prevails in the union fields. In the non-union field, where wages are much lower, it is asserted more steady employment is assured, and average pay, month in and month out, is greater than in the central competitive field.

As a result of the lower wage scales coal can be produced more cheaply in the non-union fields of West Virginia and Pennsylvania than in the great fields of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. These non-union fields are thereby enabled to underbid their union competitors and are getting much of the business. This, in turn, enables the non-union operators to give more steady employment and pay higher wages during the course of a month than the union mine operators although the latter's scale is higher.

In Illinois the soft coal industry is deep in the mire of despondency. Hundreds of mines are closed all over the state and the few which remain in operation are mostly running half time or less. Thousands of men are out of employment, out of funds and without prospects for better conditions before fall, if then. These men are turning to other work only to find that there is little work which they are fitted to do and that there is little demand for their services.

The employment situation in the Illinois-Indiana-Ohio fields is more acute than it has been in a decade. As a result, the union is reported to have lost many members. In the unionized fields of West Virginia the situation is reported even worse. Twenty-five thousand union miners are reported to have left the organization in West Virginia to go into the non-union fields nearby and dig coal.

More than that, the southern Illinois fields are having hard sledding for another reason. The manufacturers of Illinois have not forgotten the Herrin affair, where strike breakers met a bloody and violent death during the 1921 strike.

Eleven million tons of bituminous coal lie at the lake docks, or are in transit awaiting shipment to the northwest. Although the season has been open less than a month, more than half of the supply has been dumped. Mining this coal has furnished employment to some union mines but these mines are eating their cake fast.

British timber interests have obtained a big concession in Poland and will be able to fill a large portion of Britain's timber needs for some time to come. The concession includes the Bialowicza forest of 250 000 acres; the Pukszta forest; and forests in the counties of Grodno and of Slonim, the last three having a total area of 250,000 acres. The agreement contemplates a period of ten years for felling and three years for clearing up and disposing of the felled timber. The yearly cut is to be 26,500,000 cubic feet to timber. The Polish government, during the ten years of felling operations, will receive from the concessionaires a sum of between $12,500,000 and $15,000,000. The Polish government also has the privilege of buying a certain percentage of the timber at market prices.

LOVE'S WAY

Said a youth to his dove,
A great line of love
Must follow wherever you go,
For my heart and thine
Are bound to entwine,
And with a glad love overflow.

Then you must love me
As I'm loving thee,
And let us drink deep from Love's cup;
I love you so well
I'd trail you to hell,
And there I would goble you up.

Mrs. A. I. Fisher, who has been visiting in Vancouver, arrived home on Monday.

James Lancaster, of Rooseville, was in Fernie yesterday. Jim says the south country is suffering severely from lack of rain.

Golf Note: The ladies bi-monthly medal competition for the Mrs. Wilson Cup will be played on Tuesday, May 20. Draws will be posted in the Trites-Wood window.

Don't forget the boxing contest tonight between Leo Stokes and Alex. Mich at Ingram's Gym. A big program of preliminaries has also been arranged.

S. M. Whittaker of Crow's Nest has been appointed operator at the C.P.R. station, succeeding R. W. Fisher, who has been transferred to Sturdee.

Robt. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson and a foremost mining engineer in Victoria, who has been in the district on mining business for the past ten days, left this morning for the coast.

Jack Diamond returned this week from Calgary, where he has been receiving golfing instructions from a professional. Jack is now prepared to take on all comers for fun, money or marbles.

Dr. Pickering, J. L. Gates and Nels Krohn drove over to Shelby this week where they will attend the annual meeting of the Beck Petroleum Co. Prospects look bright at present for investors in that oil field.

A meeting of the Labor party will be held in the Grand theatre on Monday, May 19, at 7.30 p.m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the forthcoming election. Everyone interested in the cause of labor will be cordially welcome.

R. G. McEwan returned on Sunday from Spokane, where he consulted a specialist regarding his eyes. A few weeks ago he had the misfortune to burn one of his eyes with an electric spark from his car and he has had trouble with it ever since.

At the regular meeting of Trinity Temple Pythian Sisters held on May 8, the program under "Good of the Order" took the form of a surprise to our recently married members, Bro. and Sis. Geo. Loyns. They were presented with a lovely case of silverware. M.E.C. Sis. Markland made the presentation and the recipients suitably responded.

For three days this week the time of the supreme court was taken up in Fernie with the insurance case of Joseph Perry. Some months ago a large quantity of wood near the White Spruce mill was destroyed by fire. A policy of $8000 covered the risk and when the wood was destroyed the insurance company protested against the value placed upon it by the owner. The company offered to settle for $2000 but Perry refused it, hence the lawsuit. His Honor Judge D. A. McDonald reserved his decision. Lawe & Fisher appeared for the plaintiff and Herchmer & Mitchell for the defendant.

The poilitical situation is warming up. Dr. Bonnell, the old Conservative warhorse, was nominated last Friday night and James McLean was last night nominated as the Liberal standard bearer. Both these men are probably the strongest representatives that could be secured. Both are very popular and all signs point to a real fight, with Tom Uphill making things interesting for everybody. The Provincial party has not yet made a move, although Dan Alton, the only member of that organization in the city, says they will be in the game to the finish. Dr. Bonnell and James McLean are personal friends, both belong to the same clubs and both are members of the Old Timers Association, so it does not look as if there would be very much mud slinging in this campaign as far as they are concerned.

Tony Carosella was fined $50 in the police court this week for driving a car while under the influence of liquor. Some of these local sports who are of the opinion that they can get soaked to the eyebrows and drive furiously around town are going to have to pay dearly for the sport.

Harry Cox, James McLean, G. G. Moffatt, A. Mutz and C. Walde attended the funeral of the late R. L. T. Galbraith at Fort Steele on Wednesday. If the new inventions are as represented the Company may put one or two on the Coal Creek hill, as they are supposed to be wonderful labor savers.

Word was received from Vancouver this morning of the death of Mrs. E. L. Wriglesworth, formerly of this city and sister of Archie Farquharson, of Fernie, which sad event took place yesterday. Deceased, who was loved and respected by all who knew her, leaves a husband and daughter to mourn her death. Fernie friends unite in extending their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

The strike situation has remained the same all week. President Sherman is back in Calgary and a meeting of the executive of District 18 is called for Monday in Calgary. In the meantime Gladstone Local has decided to hand out an order to each married man of $5.00 and $3.00 to each single man to provide immediate relief to those who are suffering. This was done today, and while the amount is small it shows that the local officers are willing to do everything in their power to carry on until relief arrives from the International. Whether President Sherman has secured any definite statement from headquarters about relief is not publicly known.

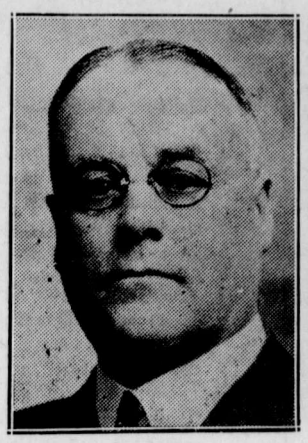
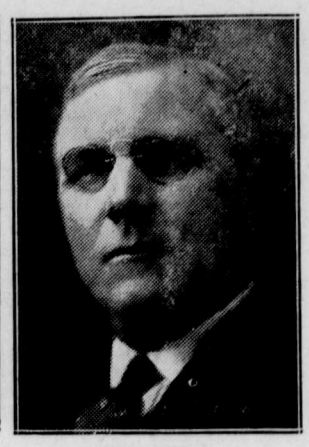
Superstitious persons see something ominous in the fact that election day falls on Friday. It will be an "unlucky" day for candidates who fail to secure the required number of votes.



A vote in a western state on the most popular article of diet resulted in a majority in favor of chicken with ham and eggs a close second. Ice cream cones would make a strong appeal to the juvenile palate.

Declaring that the custom of calling sleeping car porters "George" conveys a cheap and mental suggestiveness to that honored name, a number of distinguished men who answer to that name are organizing to discourage the practice. George Washington has been named patron of the society and George Clemenceau and George Cohan honorary members. The promoters hope to add King George and Lloyd George.



Jewelers predict that the supply of diamonds will be exhausted within a hundred years. Present owners of the gems who happen to be alive at that time may realize a handsome profit on their sparklers.

To introduce the "straw hat" season Portland dealers presented the traffic officers with sailor lids Friday. It is doubtful if the summer headgear will pay attention to the "stop" signal on a windy day.

GUGGENHEIMS GET ADDITIONAL CLAIMS

Vancouver, May 9.—Reports from Stewart, at the head of Portland Canal, are to the effect that the Guggeinheim interests which control the rich Premier mine, have absorbed two other large properties in the Salmon valley.

One of these is the Big Missouri, which was developed into a first-class property in the hands of A. B. Trites, of the original Premier syndicate.

The other is the B.C. Silver property, adjoining the Premier to the northeast. This belongs to the Selukwe interests of England, but according to report, the Premier people have taken control of it for operation purposes at least.

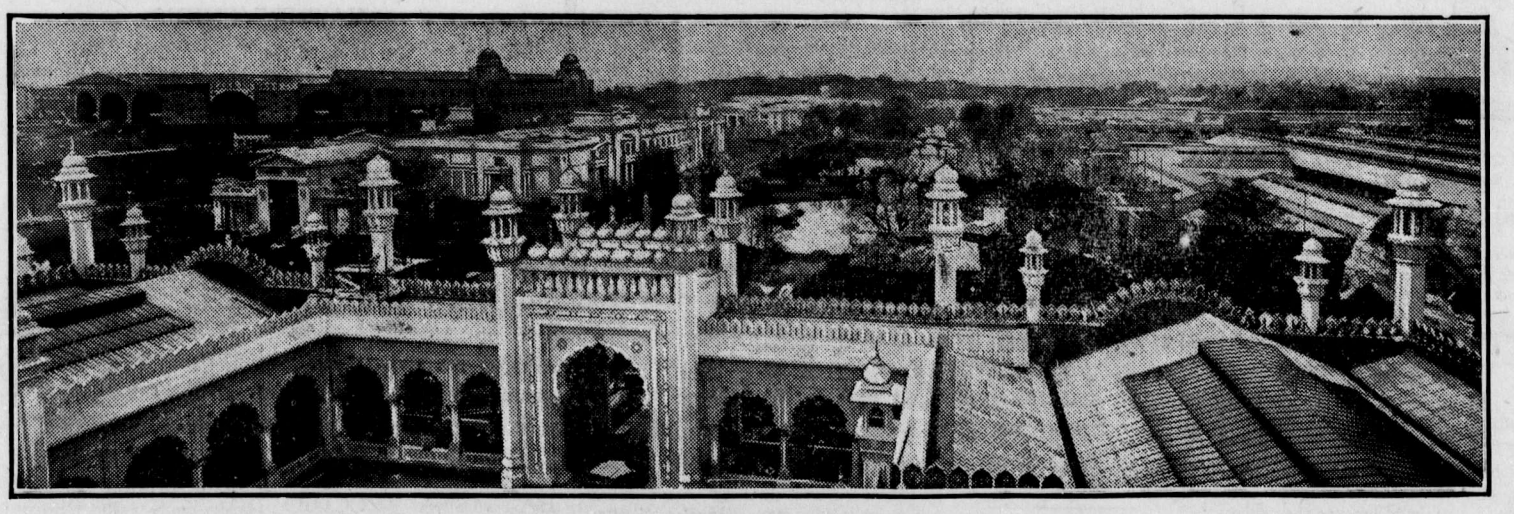
WISHED UPON HIM

King Alphonse of Spain told the Paris Figaro that only a sense of duty kept him sitting on the throne. The kingship is indeed a dreary puzzle nowadays, marvelled at both by those who wear the uneasy crown and by those who foot the bills of those who wear the uneasy crown. Political developments among the masses of our western civilization and a growth of consciousness about their own rights and needs have been sloughing off the divinity which hedged round the kings of yesteryear. The dignity of being a king is gone. His position has become archaic as the patience of the people (which is the cornerstone of government) has diminished in loyalty toward regal pomps and outward ceremonies.—Boston Globe.

BELATED ADVICE

One man, dying on the scaffold two days ago, warned young people to be religious. Another, hanged in Welland, told his fellows to leave liquor alone, because liquor leads to crime and crime does not pay.

The inevitability of right seems to be firmly impressed on the minds of all who are put to death, even those who have most flagrantly flaunted society during their lives.



If the souls of those who die go to some other world, as is believed, then the souls of murderers at least enter that world with the moral quirks of their minds straightened out.

If there is such a thing as immortality (and if there is, it makes this one life seem a very trifling affair), a vicious criminal who dies at the end of a rope convinced that his course was wrong, is in a far better position than the petty and perhaps undetected criminal who dies peacefully in his bed, convinced that he has successfully fooled the world.

This earth is a school for souls. The man who learns his lesson does well even if he attends his last class in a hempen collar.

GOOD OUT OF EVIL

It is not probable that Fascism can last. It does not represent freedom or democracy, though it promises both to the people. It holds to the capitalistic idea of government while embodying the methods of Bolshevism. Like Bolshevism, it has its own propaganda department, its own press, and opposition to its ideas are often summarily dealt with by suppression of governmental sabotage. It has elevated the middle class, which is good, but it has made it arrogant. It follows the Constitution only by changing the spirit of it. Its virtue is that it has saved Italy. —Louisville Journal.

RHEUMATISM GONE, SAYS MONTREAL HOTEL MAN

F. A. Mongeau Tells How He Recovered Strength After 8 Years of Rheumatism.

F. A. Mongeau, popular night clerk at the Prince of Wales Hotel, 17 and 19 McGill College Ave., Montreal, Canada, lends his name to further the cause of Tanlac, the treatment that has proved of such great benefit to him.

"After all Tanlac has done for me," said Mr. Mongeau, "I just feel like praising it to everybody. Eight years of muscular rheumatism had just about made a cripple of me. I got to where I simply had to limp around on a cane. My nerves became affected, my sleep unsound and I felt completely knocked out.

"Six bottles of Tanlac, taken eight months ago, made a new man of me and I have had no further trouble with rheumatism, or my health, since. My nerves are steady as a die, I sleep fine and feel the same way. Anyone wanting to know of me what Tanlac will do, just phone me here at the hotel."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

DANCE CRAZE IS DYING

New York, May 13.—The dance craze is dying in its birthplace: Broadway. Like any other fever it waxed to heights of delirium and then began to wane. It is waning so rapidly that it has practically vanished. The dance craze has petered out for sheer lack of material on which to feed. It's dead.

Believe it? Of course you don't. Neither did the group of investigators from Boston who came over here this week with the determination of studying the dance craze and isolating its germ.

The investigators went in and out among the fox trot asylums of Broadway. They found people revolving sedately in the discreet throes of the old-time waltz.

None too pleased at this exhibition or lack of it, the Bostonians betook themselves to Greenwich village. They visited the better known places and the worst known. Now and then they came upon a couple jiggling and jungle stepping, but such couples were receiving dirty looks from the others into whom they crashed and were made to feel that their steps were old stuff and not in the best of taste.

Can you imagine that for Greenwich village?

The merry villages were doing pretty little steps graceful and modest and not even uttering shrieks as they danced. In one place which the police raided periodically and which consequently is reputed to be the very heighth and depth of Greenwich, certain couples were doing a modified version of the "dreadful Chicago," but thoroughly modified.

Disappointed, the investigators fled up town to th efastest dance place they could find. This was a public dance hall, one of those spots which have been preached at by the pulpit, panned by the preess and more than once pulled by the police. It is a place so notorious the rubberneck wagons include it with the Chinatown "opium dens" in their sightseeing tours.

Not only is it a public dance hall of worse than cheap type, but it is a resort of drug addicts, holdup men and ladies more pretty than particular.

What did they see? They saw a big crowd of low-lifes dancing the tango and dancing it with unsurpassed rhythm grace—and decorum; they included the step where the man tosses his partner into the air and the step where the girl leans backward till her had nearly hits the floor, but they made the thing lovely instead of lewd.

Why? Because loveliness on the dance floor is now the fashion. It's no longer stylish to be tough. And the reason is that dancing flamed to the utmost delirium of toughness was unable to hold that fever point forever and couldn't go anywhere but down again toward dignity.

As the investigators watched, fascinated, the tango dancers, they got the biggest thrill of the evening from a bevy of tourists who debarked from a rubberneck wagon. The thrill came when the investigators saw themselves being pointed out as horrid habitues of this place of sin.

Full of mingled emotiones the investigators went down to police headquarters to talk with the police women who keep watch on the public dance halls. Here they learned that their suspicions were correct: The dance delirium in New York is worn out.

"It's over, or nearly so, this craze for barbaric steps," said Mrs. Mary Hamilton, head of New York's policewomen. "Two dance halls along Broadway have closed for sheer lack of patronage.

"About the only place now where really wild dancing still lingers for a little is the place where it arrived somewhat late — the fashionable hotel."

COLLECTIVE BLACKMAIL

All the political parties have now experienced, in bearing the responsibilities of government, the tyrrany of the sympathetic strike, which is only another name for collective blackmail. Sooner or later the question of the sympathetic strike will have to be faced. There is, we think, no justification for forcible interference in a simple dispute between one set of workmen and one set of employers. The right of a man to withhold his work if the conditions do not satisfy him cannot be denied without coming very near to the Slave State. But the sympathetic strike, which is really a conspiracy against society, is a very different matter. The state, thus threatened, will have to provide itself, in the last resort, with appropriate defences.—London Evening Standard.

THE STARVING GERMANS

German tourists are betraying the extraordinary wealth and prosperity of the Fatherland by occupying the best rooms in the most expensive hotels at the winter resorts outside Germany, smoking the finest Havanas, drinking champagne and generally showing a complete regardlessness of expense. These happy Germans occupy the good rooms, while the British, who were once thought to have won the war, can only take the cheaper quarters. But then the Germans have abundance of money—to spend on themselves. They pay the most trifling taxes. Their national debt and their local debts have vanished. In 1918 they owed 160,000 million marks in the shape of national debt. As the German mark stands at about 20,000,000 millions to a £ it follows that a shilling or much less would pay off the whole amount. In the same way mortgages on property and on businesses have been cleared off.—London Daily Mail.

REVOLUTION IN INDIA

A bomb factory has been discovered in Calcutta, following the murder of an Englishman "with weapons of a type unprocurable in India." The police are to be congratulated on being able to raid the bomb factory before any outrage had been attempted. None the less it would be foolish to assume that danger is now over. There are indications that the conspiracy is not only well organized but widely spread. Under these circumstances, the government has no alternative but to maintain its precautions and in so doing it is entitled to the unreserved support of the public. The government's action up to the present has been more than justified by what has now come to light. While those who persist in embarrassing the government and questioning its actions need not complain if they are suspected of being in sympathy with conspiracy and murder.—The Englishman, Calcutta.

Shipments of grain from Vancouver for the 1923-24 season have now passed the 41,000,000 bushel mark. Officials estimate that the 50,000,000 bushel mark set for the season will be surpassed in the near future.

Reports from England state that it has been universally conceded that Canada's pavilion was in the best condition when the King opened the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley on April 23rd. "It was the Canadian building," the reports said, "spick and span and complete to the last nail that led all others in the race to the finish in time for to-day's official opening."

Over 3,000 settlers left Liverpool for Canada on April 24th. Thirteen hundred of these sailed on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montcalm," including a party of 200 skilled workers from Manchester, 38 belonging to engineering trades, 40 to building trades and 42 farm hands. Eighty skilled workers from Leeds and a party of engineers from Barrow-in-Furness were also on board.

A total of 40,000,000 salmon trout eggs has been collected during the last season by the Department of Marine and Fisheries in Lake Huron, Georgian Bay and Lake Superior. The total number obtained compares favorably with the average collections of recent years and is sufficient to fill all the hatcheries on the Great Lakes engaged in the propagation of salmon trout.

Graphic and interesting educational motion pictures will bring Alberta's various resources to the eyes of those who attend the British Empire Exhibition this year. In addition to pictures illustrating the life of Alberta's citizens on the farms, on the ranches and in the mining districts, charts will be used to bring out interesting compilations of statistics illustrative of the province's agricultural and industrial output.

Carrying an invitation to the President of the United States to attend the celebrations of the 140th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists, which will be held in June, Miss G. Lazier, herself a descendant of the Loyalists, left Belleville recently on horseback to ride to Washington alone, a distance of 600 miles. Elaborate arrangements for the celebrations are being made and it is expected that thousands of visitors will attend.

An attractive booklet entitled, "A Week in Quebec in the Spring," by Betty Thornley, internationally known writer associated with "Vogue" and other magazines, has just been added to the series of artistic pamphlets published by the Canadian Pacific Railway. It describes the Ancient Capital and its environs, is illustrated by many striking photographs and bound in a cover which reproduces in natural colors the pattern of cloth called catalogne, woven by Quebec habitant women.

That the Indian village of Hochelaga, which stood on the site of the present city of Montreal, was a place of about fifty wooden houses having a population of some 4,000 souls when Jacques Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence, was the assertion made by Dr. W. D. Lighthall before the Antiquarian and Numismatic Society of Montreal recently. Dr. Lighthall was able to give the boundaries of the village and described it as resembling the home of Cedric the Saxon, in "Ivanhoe."

Apropos of the recent "Save the Forest Week," E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, stated: "A week's concentration on saving the forests of Canada is well worth while—much better to make it a 'Forest Saving Year' and, if the forest resources of this country are to be conserved to adequately avail the greater Canada of a few years hence it must be a 'Forest Saving Generation.' Forest wastage is to-day tragically too great and we Canadians must pay and are paying for the loss."

THE LITTLE VILLAGE ON THE THAMES

London Daily Express: Sir Ian Hamilton's eulogy of London and his assertion that the great city "catches hold of you as an octopus grabs a periwinkle" conveys nothing new to the true Londoner, be he Cockney born within the sound of Bow Bells or an immigrant from Scotland, from Ireland, from Africa or anywhere in the world. The lure gets in its fine work on all, native born or otherwise. It grips you, it draws you, it keeps you. Once a Londoner always a Londoner, be you in Kamschatka, in Woolloomooloo, in Paardeberg or in Simla. There may be more beautiful cities, with finer streets and more sunshine, but even a November fog on the embankment has its attractions. There is only one London, and that is the one that the Americans call London, Eng.

If Britain would think in terms of a million people of an immigration policy she would solve two of her main problems, namely, that of unemployment and the housing shortage. One-half of the unemployed in Britain are between the ages of 18 and 28. There is an army of casual labor there which is drifting and it is being encouraged to drift by the policy of state doles. There is room for that army in the Dominions, provided always that there is co-operation between the British and Overseas authorities in the disposal of its personnel.

OIL FUELED SALMON IN YUKON RIVER

A fish equipped with a special oil supply for a swift race up the cold Yukon river has been reported by Dr. C. H. Gilbert to the United States Bureau of Fisheries. The reason why this fish has this special oil supply is that it must maintain a speed from three to five times that of the salmon in other rivers, due to the fact that the season is very short, and that the spawning grounds are between 2000 and 3000 miles from the mouth of the river.

The Yukon "chum," a fish of lowlier degree, is similarly supplied with a special store of oil. Known generally as a species that spawns exclusively in the lower courses of streams, often scarcely above the reach of the tides and never far from salt water, in the Yukon it shows a remarkable reversal of habit, and under the spur of necessity rushes up the river, 2000 miles or more to the spawning grounds at a speed averaging fifty miles a day.

HEARD EMERSON SAY "IF" IN A LECTURE

The sentence, "If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door," was attributed to Ralph Waldo Emerson, the American essayist and poet, by Mrs. Sarah S. B. Yule in her "Borrowings," published in 1889, her statement being that she had taken it down in her handbook from a lecture given by Emerson.

In Emerson's "Journal," published in 1855, he has the following passage: "If a man has good oxen or wood, or boards, or pigs to sell, or can make better chairs or knives, crucibles, or church organs, than anybody else, you will find a broad, hard beaten road to his house, though it be in the woods. And if a man knows the law, people will find it out, though he live in a pine shanty, and resort to him. And if a man can sing or pipe, so as to warp the prisoned soul in an elysium; or can paint landscape, and convey into oils and ochres all the enchantments of Spring or Autumn; or can liberate or intoxicate all people who hear him with delicious songs and verse, 'tis certain that the secret cannot be kept. The first witness tells it to a second, and men go by 5's and 10's and 50's to his door."

In Unhurried Quebec

Old fashioned Quebec tugs at the heartstrings of the summer visitor, because her appeal is personal. Without intention, so to do, she has struck what the advertising men work so hard to acquire...the human interest angle.

Quebec is natural, simple, lovable. In our race for a living we of the cities have reduced life to a system with every action in subordination to hours and minutes. But in Quebec the habitant rises above the leash.

He has something in himself which holds him to old ways. To family life, to the farm, to the horse and hand-plough; to the scythe, to cows. Wives and daughters and boys of all ages lend a hand at everything. All the changes of the seasons fit in to the scheme of life. And yet there sems to be no particular scheme, no hurry, none of that driven feeling. No friction.

And so when we get into Quebec we are sensible of a freedom of spirit. The shackles of "the drive" fall away as we come once more under the benison of the simple and the fundamental.

And nothing is more humanly appealing than these dog carts of the Quebec highway. The "Dog of Flanders" has won his way to publicity on the screen, but these "chiens" of Quebec have had no Jackie Coogan to do them justice.

And yet what a part they play in the life of this great Province, far larger in extent than Flanders. How the dogs fill niches in the households, jobs long ago eliminated from our scheme of life, are performed by the dog carts as a matter of course, in Quebec. Boys of the family break their hand in from babyhood, harnessing, unharnessing, driving "le chien." The boy that as soon as he is big enough will have the horses in hand. "Deep meaning oft lies hid in childish play" down in Quebec.

And yet the dog cart is not merely a means toward an end. As farm life is arranged in Quebec, the dog cart is no mere child's toy, but part and parcel of French thrift.

Boys sent an errand cover the miles in the dog cart. Wood to be brought from the distant woodlot on the mountainside is loaded into the little cart. With the aid of these "tiny horses and carts" small boys do this work quite easily, releasing their fathers and big brothers to men's jobs at the plough or with the heavy scythe.

Textile workers in the big mill below Montmorency Falls, living in Saint Gregoire and other villages nearby, have their dinner-pails brought to them by their small boys in dog carts, and if you happen along this road at dinner-time it is to see perhaps as many as thirty or forty of these little chariots.

The speed attained of the dog is surprising, especially when homeward bound. Then, little M'sieu can hardly hold him in.

But you must not think 'tis only youth that these gay dogs of Quebec serve, their tails wagging, flying along with the baby in the cart and the family brood of boys and girls running helter skelter gathering framboise in their pails. What would the old... the oldcouples, the old women, do without their old dog and his little cart?

But, I think perhaps one never realizes more, how much a part of every day life the dog cart is, until you happen along by some wayside smithy and see the smith hard at work turning, twisting, heating, hammering the miniature axles and tires in the most matter of fact manner, part of the day's work, as much as shoeing a horse.—Victoria Hayward.

JR. FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

It may be of interest to the citizens of Fernie to know that a Junior branch of the Canadian Forestry Association has been formed in town.

Whilst in the past the Association has confined its work chiefly to educational lectures and demonstrations to the adult population, it has now struck a new note of success in enrolling the younger generation.

When we consider that the total area of British Columbia alone covers 353,000 square miles, of which 144,500 is absolute forest land, one can appreciate what an enormous wealth this means to the province and how worth while the cause of fire protection is.

This is one of the great objects of the Association and every Canadian is asked to ponder these things deeply, and in so doing use the utmost care whilst out in the woods or bush country, and also to endeavor to show to others the grave responsibility of everyone in this regard.

The prevention of fire in the timber lands will mean added wealth to the province and people of British Columbia and everyone is asked to get behind the movement of the Association in order that its great work may be all the more successful.

COLEMAN FIRST AID TEAM WINS ALBERTA HONORS

Coleman, May 12.—The first aid team of the International Coal and Coke company, Coleman, won the provincial shield; such was the glad news sent by Prof. Ottwell to Secretary D. Davies, on Monday.

Col. Hodgetts about three weeks ago was in Coleman for the purpose of examining the team. The examination was very stiff and while they were competing for the provincial shield—and if I am rightly informed this is th efirst time that all the first aid teams of the province have been in competition—they were also competing for the championship of the Dominion. Col. Hodgetts' decision has not been given for the latter competition yet. The general manager, O. E. S. Whiteside, is elated over the success of the team and so are all the citizens of Coleman.

It is an honor to be proud of and is the fruit of diligent and faithful study and work on the part of the men. The following are the men who brought this signal honor to our town and to their company:

D. Greenhaugh, captain; J. D. Andree, J. Glendenning, J. Kerr, J. Pearson, and W. Wells, spare.

CORBIN NOTES

There was a large attendance at the Corbin schoolhouse on Saturday, May 10, when a meeting was called for the purpose of organizing a tennis club. E. L. Warburton was in the chair and spoke a few minutes on the real need we have for a court here.

Tom Dalton, our popular young giant, was elected as secretary of the Club and started by signing up about 20 members. By the end of next week there is a good possibility of there being a membership of 30. The dues are $3.00 per person per season, out of which the equipment is supplied for the court. Altogether it was a very successful meeting and it is hoped that the enthusiasm does not slack any during the season.

Swanson Bay is supposed to be the wettest place in B.C. Ask the bootleggers, what about Corbin?

Owing to the provincial election being near at hand the politicians believe that the prominence of the Corbin road as a vote catcher every day in every way is becoming better and better. Will the Corbin voters swallow the old gag? Perhaps.

Geo. Cleough returned from the Flathead for a machine gun and tree climbers. He claims that the largest grizzly bear alive is running amuck around the townsite. Although a dead game shot, Mr. Grizzly has a nasty growl, and George says he feels more like climbing a tree than shooting. He is returning in a few days with 1000 rounds of ammunition and a bunch of bear dogs. Good bye, Mr. Grizzly.

THE EMBARGO ON B.C. APPLES

Victoria, May 13.—While in Ottawa recently, Premier Oliver took up with the Dominion government the question of the removal of the embargo on Canadian apples by the federal government of Australia. The embargo was placed because of the alleged anger of British Columbia apples carrying fire-blight to Australia. Hon. T. A. Low, minister of trade and commerce, assured him that he was doing what he could to have the embargo removed or limited.

THE OLDEST MINE

The Falum mine in the northwestern part of Europe is the oldest mine in existence. Copper was being taken from it 700 years ago. But in addition to copper a great deal of gold and silver has been brought to the surface from its depths. The mine is a huge hole in the ground one-quarter of a mile long, half the distance across and 200 feet deep. A visit to its interior is rather a terrifying experience, for there are many holes into which the unguarded visitor might walk and some of them are 800 feet deep. It is estimated that one ton of gold has been taken from this mine as well as fifteen tons of silver and a half million tons of copper.

MOTHER

I've been thinking of the old friends,
The best I've ever known,
And my heart overflows with feeling,
As I ponder all alone.

I see them all around me,
And I love them mighty well,
But the way I love you, mother,
Is far more than I can tell.

When I recall the friendships
Of my early boyhood days,
I name you as the rearest
In sixty million ways.

I may seem rough and careless,
And sassy, too, perhaps;
You know a fellow gets that way
Amongst a bunch of chaps.

But in my inmost being,
Locked up in my inside,
There's a love past understanding,
Mixed with an honest pride.

I'm so rude I can't be gracious,
I'm so coarse I can't be fine,
But I love you—how I love you,
None knows, oh, mother mine.

The churches are to civilization what a compass is to a ship or a steering wheel is to an automobile. As a business man I urge my associates to get behind the churches. They alone provide the solution to the great problems facing us. Legislation, labor unions, employers' associations, and all these other things are mere shells of the egg. So I say that the need of the hour is not more rouses or freight cars, not more factories or ships, not more legislation, education or banking facilities, but more religion. The need of the hour is religion. —Roger W. Babson.

Observations on the Coal Situation

In the "Coal Age Journal" of May 15th, 1924, Mr. Farrington in dealing with the seriously depressed condition of the coal industry, makes in part of his lengthy statement the following observations:

That the State of Illinois has 374 shipping coal mines which during the fiscal year of 1923 produced 73,410,837 tons of coal. That 99,081 men were engaged during 1923 to produce this coal tonnage. The mines of Illinois only worked 146 average days during the year of 1923. During approximately this same period of time, West Virginia, with about the same number of employees, produced 103,000,000 tons of coal or about 30,000,000 tons more than was mined in Illinois. Mr. Farrington further remarks that the great bulk of West Virginia coal tonnage was mined under non-union conditions at 1917 wage rate and much of it at rates lower than the 1917 rates; in fact, he goes on to state that in Mingo, Logan and McDowell Counties in South West Virginia, where the bulk of non-union tonnage was produced, the miners are paid 90 cents for loading a four ton car, or paid a rate of about 22½ cents per ton for loading coal, which may be inferred is loading after mining machines. That the highest rates paid for day work labor in these districts is $4.00 per day, of eight hours, it may be presumed.

It may here be stated that coals from West Virginia have practically displaced the Crow's Nest Pass district coals in the Winnipeg markets during the last six months. The reasons for this being the case are very clearly given in Mr. Farrington's figures. The mines of this district pay $7.50 per shift of seven hours' work, while their competition in the West Virginia fields are stated to be paying $4.00 per shift for eight hours' work at the face, or in other words, District No. 18, which includes the Crow's Nest field, is paying $1.07 per hour for day wages, while sections of competitive fields are only paying 50 cents per hour, or 100 per cent more wages is being paid for the same class of labor in the mines of this district.

Mr. Farrington further remarks that in Alabama, Kentucky, and Tennessee the situation is relatively the same as in West Virginia, excepting that in some parts of Kentucky the wages are higher than in West Virginia, but nowhere in Kentucky are the wages as high as in Illinois, while in Alabama the wage rates are lower even than in West Virginia.

Mr. Farrington further states that the present situation in the State of Illinois furnishes a problem for some very sober consideration on the part of Illinois Mine Workers. Last winter there was less work in Illinois than during any Winter period within Mr. Farrington's recollection, and this Summer promises less work than ever before, and hunger and want is now present in the homes of our members.

A careful tabulation of the situation in Illinois reveals that on the first day of May, 1924, one hundred and fifty Illinois mines were completely closed down and many of them had been closed for months, with no immediate prospect of resuming operations. That very few of the mines that are working are operating more than half time.

The picture in words drawn by Mr. Farrington, to show the very serious conditions that are overwhelming the coal industry in the State of Illinois, may be taken as an object lesson for the Crow's Nest District.

While Mr. Farrington's article does not deal in a definite way with the fundamental causes that have brought about the distressing conditions in Illinois, it may be inferred from the comparisons he draws between competitive fields, that the districts that are able to sell their coal at rates that allow other co-dependent industries to continue in economic effort, are the mines that are able to operate. While labor and producing coal companies at other mines who are not showing a real and physical regard for co-dependent industries, or consumers, are slowly but surely bringing the inevitable results of economic depression upon themselves.

The same corresponding conditions have for some time been prevailing in this district through the joint lack of proper regard of revelent economic fundamentals by the companies and the employees of the companies engaged in coal mining. For example: Considerable business has been lost to the Crow's Nest Pass coal mines through the West Virginia fields being able to sell their coal at very much lower prices. This loss in natural geographical markets applies to the Winnipeg and contingent districts. The railroads to the South of the Boundary have, after years of advancing prices of coal charges to them, and suffering serious operative losses, through irregular deliveries of their coal, through district labor troubles at the mines that had assumed obligations of keeping their transportation movements going with coal, finally, through economic pressure, been forced to adopt oil fuels with its more reliable sources of labor supply. The smelter industries of the district that had hoped for years to see labor in connection with coal mines and the production of coke so stabilized that their own co-dependent industries could be made economically successful, and thereby made to serve consistently and regularly the ore extraction that came, or might come from adjacent sources of development, have been compelled to resort to other methods of treating ores than those wherein coal and coke were a few years ago more freely used.

Then again: The high price of coal as a factor entering into transportation and manufacture has at least checked the growth of new small industries, and suspended the undertaking of large industries such as depend upon coal and coke as basic units, for such undertakings cannot prudently or wisely be gone into, or on with unless those capable of taking hold of such enterprises have the reasonable assurance that they are going to be sustained and assured of continuous basic supplies such as fuel at reasonable prices, or prices that will enable them to feel that the foundations of such industries are going to be assisted by reliable fuel supplies. If coal mining communities are to be made prosperous the basic fundamentals of industrial life must naturally be given intelligent and reasonable consideration. While coal may be regarded as a necessary agency in the furthering of human enterprise, and industrial progress, it may consistently only be regarded in this modern age of progress as one of the basic forces that enters into and sustains human accomplishment.

For the purpose of illustration, we may refer to some of the basic factors of industry: Iron Ores, in their crude natural state are found sometimes embedded in mixed structural massive mountains, and are generally blended with waste material that may constitute from 30 to 70 per cent of their component parts. Gold, Silver, Copper and other Metallic Ores are also found to be accompanied and embedded in rock substances that contain little or no commercial merit. To treat these metallic forms and extract the commercial value therefrom, several processes of labor, skilled supervision, and capital expenditures have to be provided. First, the Ore Beds have to be discovered through the investigations of the trained Geologist and prospecting agencies such as pioneer labor and friendly capital, which three factors constitute the primary effort in this form of basis enterprise. Then follows the first stages of permanent development work—the proving of the economic extent, and continuity of the mineral deposits. Then the building of roads and the providing of means of transportation; then the providing of the various forms of machinery and solution processes for the separation of the economic metals from the accompanying dross; then the transportation of such metals, both precious and common, to the various manufacturing centres in the different parts of the world; then the working of the different metals from their crude metalic form to commercial forms of all kinds. Then the selling agencies that distribute and dispose of the finished article that has gone through all these processes to make them ready for human approval and for human service.

Intermingled with it all, there is of necessity the many forms of transportation to be considered and the different classes of labor employed therein.

The preceding reference to industrial application is simply made for the purpose of illustrating the co-dependent state of all forms of industrial effort, and to explain how utterly inconsistent it is for any one branch of these co-mingled undertakings to undertake to dictate to all the other agencies in the general endeavor, what proportion of the intrinsic value of the whole shall be their share of the returns that may from the total efforts of all that have contributed, other than that which justly arises in equity to all concerned.

From example: The Railroad worker requires equity in wages; the Railroad Builders are entitled to equity in wages. The Mine which mines the crude ores is entitled to equity; the man who smelts the ore is entitled to equity; the men who refine the metals are entitled to equity; the men who convert the metals into commercial forms are to be considered; the public who provide the funds for the business conduct of the variation in effort are also entitled to consideration. The public that finally purchase the finished product become the dominating factor to it all. If selling prices in their opinion become too high, they curtail their buying, hence the whole process either slackens or stops altogether.

It, therefore, appears to be apparent that if those engaged in the production of coal and coke fuels in this district are going to contribute an equitable share in sustaining and aiding in the permanent and desirable processes of industrial enterprises, they must make up their minds to conform more consistently to the basic factors that surround the situation. These remarks apply to both the workmen of the District and to the Companies, the two interests of which cannot be served separately, but must of necessity be intelligently reasoned out while we give regard to other interests that we are co-dependent upon.

E. C. SMITH CROSSES DIVIDE

Another member of the Fernie Old-timers Association, in the person of E. C. Smith, a rancher of St. Mary's Prairie, passed over the Great Divide on Friday of last week. Deceased was well known in Fernie and at one time was sitting member for East Kootenay in the local house at Victoria, having defeated our old pioneer the late Wm. Fernie, in the election of 1900. At the last Old-timers banquet on January 25 Mr. Smith was one of the leading speakers, and seemed hale and hearty at that time, and his death came as a shock to his old friends here.

Deceased was prominently identified with mining in the Cranbrook district and, particularly Fort Steele in the earlier days. He was at one time a heavy owner in the Sullivan mine, at Kimberley, before it came under its present control.

At the time of his death Mr. Smith was at one of his ranches, while Mrs. Smith was at their home on Burwell avenue in Cranbrook. Apparently Mr. Smith had not been feeling well on the afternoon of his death, but he was beyond aid in a few hours before it was realized there was anything seriously wrong.

The funeral was held on Monday.

MRS. TERRY LOSES SUIT

Vancouver, May 19.—"I want my money," shouted Mrs. Mary Alice Terry, South Vancouver, to Mr. Justice Murphy today, following his lordship's judgment dismissing her $1000 claim against Mrs. Madalene Calza, of Fernie.

The trial recalled the Home Bank of Canada "smash" on August 17 last.

Mrs. Terry sold to Mrs. Calza a lot in Fernie for $1000. The transaction was conducted by a Fernie solicitor, who, for the protection of both parties, held the money, which Mrs. Calza had paid, and the deed, until satisfied the thing was in order.

On August 14, which was eight days later, the solicitor sent a draft for $1000 on his firm's account in the Fernie branch of the Home Bank, to Mrs. Terry. By the time the draft was presented for payment, the bank had failed.

Mr. Justice Murphy decided that on August 17 the money was owned by Mrs. Terry, and that she, therefore, had no claim against Mrs. Calza.

ABSENTEES MAY VOTE

Persons who find themselves away from home on election day may still vote if they are on the lists in their own ridings, by reason of the "absentee" clause in the Elections Act. They vote as do others here, but in a separate booth and the ballots are placed in a special ballot box. All "absentee" votes are then segregated and sent to the returning officer for the respective ridings, who keep them sealed for 21 days. On the 21st day after election day the returning officers open the sealed envelopes containing the absentee votes, after setting a certain time of day for doing this, and count them in the presence of representatives of the political parties. The result of this balloting is then communicated to the government in Victoria.

DEATH WAS BY MISADVENTURE

Alex Michaluk, a young Coal Creek lad of 22 years of age, one of the principals in last Friday evening's Stokes-Mich boxing match at the 150 All Sports Gymnasium, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Chas. Haig, Pellatt Ave., early Sunday morning after having been unconscious nearly 21 hours.

During the fight Mich seemed to give as much as he took during the first three or four rounds, but during the balance of the seven runds Stokes seemed to be able to land left hand jabs to the face at will. In the seventh round a slight cuff sent Mich down for a count of eight. Stokes addressed the crowd and stated he had the man beaten and that it was useless to compel him to administer further punishment. The towel was thrown into the ring and Stokes awarded a technical knockout. Michaluk apparently recovered from the effects of the fight and walked to his sister's home, accompanied by Mr. Lewis, who acted as Michaluk's manager. When they parted Michaluk was apparently in normal condition and even berated Lewis for throwing the towel into the ring and giving up the fight when he did.

He went to bed and apparently went to sleep. He was called in the morning but did not answer. His sister, thinking him to be in a sound sleep, did not feel any anxiety at the time but later in the forenoon, when she failed to rouse him, summoned medical assistance. Upon examination the doctors diagnosed that Michaluk was suffering from blood compression on the brain and gave no hope for his recovery, and without regaining consciousness the unfortunate young man passed away at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

Coroner Duthie ordered an inquest and his jury viewed the body at the undertaking parlors, Sunday morning, whilst Drs. Buckley and Kelman performed a post mortem examination. The inquest was held in the council chamber on Monday evening, at which evidence was submitted by Drs. Buckley and Corsan, the latter haying been called into consultation, that death was caused from the rupture of small blood vessels in the head which caused a slow oozing of blood from these, resulting in a blood compression upon the brain, a condition from which it was impossible to effect surgical remedy.

Evidence was also given by E. Tutin, referee; P. J. Hughes and H. B. Barger, judges; D. Oliver and W. Harradan, Michaluk's seconds; and W. H. Lewis, timekeeper, regarding the actual bout. In every case the witnesses were positive that no unfair or foul blow had been struck by Leo Stokes, Michaluk's opponent.

After being absent only a few minutes the jury returned the following verdict:

"We, the jury empanelled, having duly heard the evidence. do hereby render our verdict as follows: 'The said Alexander Michaluk met his death by misadventure, May 18th, 1924.'"

Stokes came up before Magistrate Henderson in the city police court on Tuesday to answer the charge of manslaughter laid against him in connection with Michaluk's death and was subsequently released when, in view of the verdict rendered by the coroner's jury, the charge was formally withdrawn.

Michaluk was interred here on Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. Burns conducting the service. The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in the city, showing the great respect in which the unfortunate young man was held by the citizens of Fernie.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS FIELD DAY

On Wednesday, May 28, the first Annual Field Day of the city public schools will be held in the City Park. The program, which appears below, is a lengthy one and has been arranged to give all the children an opportunity to compete.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the various events, while the local Rotary Club has generously donated a cup as a permanent trophy to be won annually by the athlete of the public school obtaining the highest number of points at the meet. The cup will remain the property of the school, where it will be kept, and a miniature replica of the larger trophy will be presented to the champion each year.

Inter-class and inter-school relay races will be among the most interesting of the events, it being desired to create and foster a healthy rivalry among the classes and schools.

As the Park is situated at quite a distance from the school an urgent appeal is directed to the owners of cars who will drive the smaller children from the schools to the Park. Such owners are requested to advise Mr. Martin, Principal of the public schools, of their willingness to assist in this very valuable part of the day's activities, as soon as possible. The first race will be run at 1.30 p.m. and cars should be at the schools not later than 1.15 p.m.

The members of the Rotary Club have kindly offered their assistance in the organization and management of the sports and it is expected that the day will be very successful.

This is to be a children's day, and a hearty invitation is extended by the children to their parents, relatives and adult friends to visit the Park and see them engage in their gladiatorial efforts.

FAMOUS SQUAW OF EAST KOOTENAY DIES

Cranbrook, May 18.—Last week the death was reported to the Indian agency authorities here from Wardner the previous night of Mrs. Alec Miyuk, one of the well known characters of the Indian reserve of the district. She was the relict of Alex. Miyuk, an Indian rancher, after who was named the Mayook district near this city with the spelling changed to a more euphonious style. Mrs. Miyuk was living at Wardner with others of her compatriots, and was found dead in bed Tuesday morning. Constable Donahue of Wardner was notified, and it was decided that no inquest need be held as death was, without question, from natural causes.

Tammany has elected a new chief named Foley. The name does not suggest any connection with the original "braves" who once roamed in Manhattan.

COSTLY PICTURE SETS

It cost as much to build the interior picture sets for the production of Pola Negri's new star vehicle, "The Spanish Dancer," which comes to the Orpheum theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, as it did to furnish the original castles in Spain, from which these sets were modelled.

Herbert Brenon, producer of this lavish Paramount picture, is the author of this statement. He bases his calculations upon the cheapness of labor during the sixteenth century as compared with labor costs of today. The gorgeousness of the interior scenes of this photoplay is said to surpass any picture ever made. Heavy silken draperies, cloth of gold and mosaic of rare design fashioned after original decorations in old Spanish palaces were used. Antonio Moreno is featured as leading man in this splendid picture production.

PUBLIC OPINION AGAINST MINERS

(Financial Post)

Calgary—The opinion is growing that the coal miners had their innings during the war and that it is now the operators' turn. One fact to arouse considerable interest is that the political situation in the United States has practically forced the present strike on Alberta. The agreement between the U.S. workers and operators which had expired and been renewed, again ran out just as the presidential election loomed on the horizon. The need of peace in one of the major industries of the country was quite apparent, and under pressure the operators accepted the agreement for three more years. Thus it is nothing more or less than a politically engineered agreement made in a foreign country that they are asked to accept, the Alberta operators say.

"We have secured a three-year contract in the United States, we demand it here," is the position taken by the United Mine Workers. Yet the agreement asked by the Alberta miners is not quite the same. It is a little more severe. Miners in the U.S. work a full eight-hour day. In Alberta the 8-hour day includes time getting down and out of the mine and also lunch time.

Alberta operators with union mines realize that they must get their wages down if they are going to meet their competitors. Non-union mines in Alberta are paying from $2 to $3 per day less. The growing use of American steam coal and the development of fuel oil for locomotive use are making inroads on the Alberta coal market. Nova Scotia operators, also under United Mine Workers' jurisdiction, pay wages about the same as the non-union mines in the Alberta field. Mines in Central British Columbia and on Vancouver Island pay $2 to $2.50 less. In the state of Washington reductions have been accepted and contracts signed under the tegis of the United Mine Workers of America.

Here is how the miner has fared in the matter of wage increases since 1916, during which time there were 11 major wage adjustments upward:

Miners	4.50	9.50
Drivers	3.03	7.21
Tracklayers and timbermen	3.30	7.50
Cutter	3.75	8.02
Laborers	2.75	6.89
Surface hands	10-hr. day	8-hr. day
Blacksmiths and carpenters	3.75	8.14
Engineers	3.40	7.61
Labor	2.47	6.58

MANITOBA'S MINERAL AREAS

On a recently published map of Manitoba's mineral areas there are shown as known mineral districts 15 and mention is made of the fact that in The Pas district alone it is said there are two districts in which geology would indicate minerals which have not yet been prospected at all.

THE HOME BANK AND SIR THOMAS

Ottawa, May 19.—Continuing his argument at this morning's sitting of the Home Bank Commission, Sir Thos. White, former finance minister, placed on record the clauses of the Bank Act which were "unmandatory" and those which were "permissive." He contended that section 56—A. of the act came into the latter category.

This is the section under which an inspection of a bank may be ordered by the minister. He also quoted further extracts from authorities to illustrate his point made at the last sitting, that the decisions of a minister or ex-minister, are subject only to criticism by parliament. Sir Thomas emphasized the fact that he referred only to "unconditioned, honest, discretionary action" by a minister.

The former minister referred to the very serious conditions confronting a minister during the war period. "Every morning and evening papers brought tidings of appalling disaster," he said. "The British Empire was locked in a struggle with a powerful and dangerous combination of foes, and Canada was fighting them with two forces—men and money.

In the year 1916, when the western directors had written their letter in regard to the Home Bank he had been pressed to go to England to consult with the chancellor of the exchequer in regard to the increasing gravity of the financial situation.

"This is the period in which, according to Mr. Lee's language, I was asleep in a barn," added Sir Thomas.

"If he had crossed with me on the Mauretania with three thousand Canadian troops, I can assure him that the last thing in his mind would have been sleep."

Sir Thomas said that during 1917 there was an agitation for conscription of wealth. By certain people this was taken to mean confiscation of bank deposits, and so much disturbance was caused that it was necessary for him to make a statement in the house on the matter, assuring the public that the government was anxious to encourage deposits.

The former minister made it clear that he was not trying to take shelter behind the war. He contended that he had discharged his full duty in every respect. "In January, 1918, I had to go away because I could not sleep, and yet Mr. Lee says I was asleep at the switch," he remarked. "Our friends, the wiseacres, say you can investigate a bank with impunity," he said. "I know that placing a government auditor in an industrial bank, when there is no law, is likely to cause a run."

When he had first corresponded with the western directors he had come to the conclusion that an inspection of the bank by the Canadian Bankers' Association would be a good thing. He had changed his mind because he knew that this association included practically all the general managers of Canadian banks. Would it have been wise to place the general managers of all Canadian banks in possession of such grave facts in regard to a rival organization? "Facts like that placed before the association would. I believe, have been on the street in a few minutes," he said.

Sir Thomas declared that to force the failure of a bank in times of peace was very serious, but in war times it might be disastrous to the country. He had not suspected fraud. "I suspect underlying fraud? No honest man could suspect such a condition of fraud as has been disclosed." He could have had the bank taken over if he had known its real condition but he didn't know.

Sir Thomas said that a minister had every right to assume that a board of directors which is under heavy penalties for making false returns, would furnish an honest report. He dealt with the statement furnished him by the board of the bank in answer to charges made by W. A. MacHaffie in 1918.

"The board of directors assure the minister that the position of the bank has been steadily growing stronger," the report said. "The management is efficient and satisfactory and the business of the bank is progressing in a very satisfactory manner."

Sir Thomas asked what reason there was for doubting such a unanimous report. There was scores and hundreds of the leading businessmen of Canada who then had absolute confidence in the integrity and ability of H. J. Daly, who had joined the board. Other supposedly reputable men were on the board. Why should he have taken the word of Mr. MacHaffie as against the combined testimony of these men. Sir Thomas said that after he left office he understood Mr. Daly had ousted M. J. Haney from the presidency of the bank. The bank was apparently entering upon an era of prosperity. There was no obligation upon him to do anything, but he had drawn the attention of Sir Henry Dayton to the three large loans of the bank.

The New York Congressman who advoated the appointment of a commission to devise new methods of raising revenue, has abandoned the proposal. He was informed that every possible scheme was now in operation.

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

AN ATTACK ON CRERAR

Ottawa, May 20.—An attack on Hon. T. A. Crerar, former leader of the Progressive party and a director of the Home Bank from 1910 to 1918, featured this morning's sitting of the Home Bank commission.

R. A. Reid, counsel for the shareholders, named Mr. Crerar as one of the "conspirators" in the history of the Home bank, charged him with being a party to issuance of false and fraudulent returns and claimed that when Mr. Crerar found from inside information that the bank was in serious danger, he had sold his stock and got out "when the getting was good."

"I think this was a cold, callous, heartless thing to do," Mr. Reid insisted. "And I think Western Canada will deal with Mr. Crerar when the time comes. An agriculturalist is a man who works the farm. Mr. Crerar is one in the true sense of the word because he certainly set out to work the farmer."

Mr. Reid, referring to a letter written by Mr. Crerar to M. J. Haney, on April 8, 1916, in which reduction of capital and reserve of the bank was suggested, charged that "a frame up" was under way between the two men.

At the outset of his argument on behalf of the government, Eugene Lafleur, K.C., stated that he "wished to disassociate himself from the very savage attack on Mr. Crerar."

"If it is true that Messrs. Crerar and Haney conspired to wreck the bank, what becomes of the depositors' claims?" he asked. "Where does the responsibility of the minister come in?" Mr. Lafleur also objected to the "ferocious attack" made by counsel for depositors on finance ministers holding office since 1914 to the time the bank failed.

Mr. Lafleur dealt with the constitutional point raised by Sir Thomas White as to the competence of a commission to pass upon decisions of the minister of finance. He thought that Sir Thomas was in error as to the scope of the commission. All that the commissioner was required to do was to determine whether or not a state of facts existed which should have caused a minister to exercise the discretionary powers vested in him by the Bank Act.

Toronto, May 20.—Suit for $5,000,000 has been launched by the liquidators of the Home Bank of Canada, against nine former directors of the Home Bank, the seven who are facing the criminal charges, together with M. J. Haney, of Toronto, a former president, and J. Ambrose O'Brien of Renfrew and Ottawa, who was a director from 1917 to 1920. He is a general contractor and is on the directorate of a long list of industrial and financial enterprises.

Damages are sought for losses sustained by the bank, its creditors and shareholders, by reason of misconduct, misfeasance, malfeasance and negligence of the defendants. The writ was issued by Adam Ballantyne, K.C.

$300 TO ASSIST SETTLERS

A new departure is about to be made in the immigration policy of Canada, following an agreement between the Canadian National Railways and the Overseas Settlement Board, under which groups of settlers are brought to Canada and settled in communities. Each head of a family will be assisted to the extent of $300, in addition to help given in the way of reduced transportation costs to all immigrants under the agreement between the Canadian and British governments.

CANADIAN COWBOYS FOR OVERSEAS

That negotiations are in progress with a view to having a contingent of Canadian cowboys go over to the British Empire Exhibition in August, was the statement made a few days ago by E. L. Richardson, manager of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede. If the arrangements are completed the riders will be selected from the champions determined at the Calgary Stampede, July 7 to 14.

"That's right," agreed the foreman.

GIRL GUIDES

The growth of the Girl Guides movement begun in 1915 by Lady Baden-Powell, who is chief guide, is of great interest to all who are watching the development of women's work throughout the world. When the movement was incorporated in England it had a membership of 50,000. By 1920 this had become 322,000, while at the present time the membership is 60,000.

There are now 38 countries represented on the international council and it was a red-letter event when recognition was given by the League of Nations to the Girl Guides as well as to the Boy Scouts.

A branch of the Girl Guide work is "Lone Guiding," which is peculiarly adapted to this and other comparatively sparsely settled countries. Girls unable to attend patrol meetings, are encouraged to qualify through correspondence as guides. There are now twenty lone guide companies in the isolated parts of Scotland alone. British Columbia has recently organized a company.

The Sea Guide branch is also growing steadily. Sea Guides consist entirely of older girls, no girl under 16 being eligible. They work up to first-class guide standard so that they can keep in line with the whole movement and can join other Guides at camps and rallies.

Foxlease, in the New Forest district of England, has been established as a guider training school and has already turned out about 2000 guiders highly trained in all Guide lore. Some guiders from British Columbia hope to enjoy the advantages of the school this summer.

The movement has also spread in a form known as "Extension Guides" to asylums, reformatories, industrial school and orphanages and reports received testify to its great value. There is now a Girl Guide Imperial Council, and an international Council. The names indicate the function of these bodies.

The whole movement is noble in conception and practical in its almost limitless application. It is certain to get all the public recognition and support which it deserves.

CHARACTER

Boston Globe: It would be well if every person as well as every firm were able to point to opportunities for gain turned down because—they "sounded shady." High tone is not obtainable through the lavish use of varnish, Turkish rugs and gilt letters on ground glass. The reputation to be envied is not created by expenditure, but by refusal to be interested in what does not quite measure up to standard. The man who is asked to do important things is, in the long run, the man who is known to draw the line with extreme strictness—as to what he will not do. There is a lot of temporary prosperity in get-rich-quick schemes and methods, but the more permanent success must be founded on something more than smartness. Its basis is best described as character.

Many campaign workers who, heretofore, have not been specially interested in greater production, are now engaged in the intensive cultivation of votes.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

ALL outdoors has adorned itself with floral raiment of gorgeous hue. The woods, hills and valleys are ablaze with color and beauty. Everywhere the little wild flowers rear their innocent heads, the green shrubs line the roadsides and bursting buds reveal beautiful secrets.

To many persons the temptation to destroy these pictures is irresistible. They find no ecstacy in merely looking at nature's spring-time verdure. They must loot the meadows and the hillsides. Their cars must go home laden with blossoms that are not meant for vases in the home. Nature provides its own vases for these blooms and the flowers that are plucked from their settings become like orphans, miserable, drooping and homesick.

Newspapers and nature lovers throughout the land find it necessary to remind a thoughtless public of the consequences of this vandalism. Vandalism it is, for many persons are not content with the flower, they must take the stem and the root as well. Eventually, of course, this means extermination of the wild flower. That point has been reached in some instances.

As nature invites its people to the great open spaces at this time of year, with a cordiality that is unmistakable, her visitors ought to be considerate enough not to wreck her home and make it a desert. A moment's thought will make a normal person aware of the seriousness of the situation.

HUMAN wants are constant, hourly, daily and continuous. Food, clothing, shelter and their infinite subdivisions are every day needs. There is not a clock that ticks that does not register a million human wants. The newspaper is the closest thing in the world to the people's daily wants. It is an expression of the ever-pressing desire for news. the advertiser who uses the newspaper reaches people with his message exactly at the right moment. There is no advertising medium on the job so completely and so close to the people as the newspaper.

LABOR PARTY NOMINATE

A meeting of the Fernie riding Labor party was held in the Grand theatre on Monday, May 19. The chairman, Wm. Dickenson, after a few brief remarks on the political situation, called upon the audience to nominate their candidate for the forthcoming election. It was then moved by T. Whitehouse, of Fernie, and seconded by Sim Weaver, of Micel, that T. Uphill again carry the banner of the Labor party. On being put to a vote the choice was declared unanimous. The delegates from Michel manifested enthusiasm in the prospect of returning once more their candidate, T. Uphill.

T. Uphill, M.P.P., then took the platform and thanked the audience for their renewed confidence in him. He then gave a brief account of his stewardship, reviewing the work accomplished during his term of office.

The following officers were then elected:

Pres.—Wm. Dickenson.
Vice-Pres.—George Bowen.
Sec.—Richard Derbyshire.
Asst. Sec.—James Small.
Rec. Sec.—Thos. Paton.

ENTERTAINED ENTRANCE CLASS

The Fernie Rotary Club last Friday evening entertained the boys of the Entrance classes of the Public school at a banquet in the Napanee Hotel. This week is officially known in Rotary circles as "Boys Week," and the local Rotarians were out in force to see that the boys had a real good time.

A splendid dinner was served with all the frills and fancies that boys enjoy, cake, fruit, candy, lemonade, and ice cream came on as dessert, and the guests of the evening certainly did justice to the spread. It was really interesting to see them adopt the Rotary custom and "down tools" and join in the dinner songs, with Mr. Martin showing the Rotarians what the boys could do in the singing line.

Following dinner a special programme of entertainment was given in which the boys themselves took the major part. The programme was as follows:

Chairman's Remarks — Rotarian Wm. Burns.
Chorus—"It Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo'."
Song—Master Nelson Wallace.
Chorus—"When You Were a Boy"
Zither Solo—Rotarian A. Klauer.
Song—Chief Anderson.
Chorus—"Old MacDonald."
Address—Scoutmaster Donaldson.
Violin Solo—Master Harry Murray.
Chorus—Rotarian Boys Week No. 8.
After-Dinner Jokes—Master Alex. Greenwood.
Chorus—"Barney Google."
Address—Chief Anderson.
Chorus—"John Brown's Baby."
Bagpipe Selection—Master Stewart Brown.
Chorus—"I Ain't Nobody's Darling."

At the close of the programme Master John Carlson made a short speech, in which he expressed the heartfelt thanks of the boys to the Rotarians in providing them with such a splendid repast and entertainment, calling upon the boys to give three hearty cheers for the Rotary, which were lustily given.

Rotarians and guests then stood around the tables and sung a Rotary innovation of "Auld Lang Syne" extending the hand of friendship to the boys, followed by the National Anthem.

FLATHEAD OIL OPERATIONS

The Crow's Nest Oil Company has resumed drilling with a full crew in charge of George Snyder, drilling contractor, according to R. H. Greene, secretary-treasurer. The property is on Sage creek in southeastern British Columbia, eight miles north of Glacier National park and the international boundary.

"In August last, the company struck wet gas and some oil," said Mr. Greene yesterday. "The gas flowed over the top of the casing continuously and oil had been coming up in every bailer when the work was suspended in September.

"The well is 2615 feet deep, in good condition and has a six-inch hole. The water is shut off at the 2000-foot mark with a 6 1-4 inch casing. The last 100 feet of the well is in a hard, blue limestone.

"We expect oil in the next formation, which is porous enough to hold it. This formation may be encountered on any day, but there is a possibility of drilling being continued to the 3000 foot depth before the well is brought in. Drilling will continue day and night."

WELSH MAGNATES WOULD DEVELOP ALBERTA COAL

Ottawa, May 20.—To develop scientifically the immense coal resources of the province of Alberta with the ultimate aim of supplying the fuel needs of Eastern Canada and other parts of the country, is a project now occupying the attention of a group of great Welsh coal mine owners. Representatives of this syndicate. Major S. J. Robins and Captain Henry Davies, both of Cardiff, Wales, are now in Ottawa en route to England after some months of extensive travel and inspection of the mining properties of the west.

Thoroughly convinced of the feasibility of supplying both Quebec and Ontario with western coal, saving these provinces the $100,000,000 which is now sent yearly to the United States in coal trade, Major Robins and Captain Davies have obtained for the British syndicate large areas in Alberta held by individuals and small companes, who have not sufficient capital to carry on development.

Of one thing I am convinced, do what we will, oppose it as we may, it is the Christian Bible that will sooner or later work out the regeneration of our land.—The Maha-Rajah of Travancore.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Wm. Johnston received a carload of Oldsmobiles today.

J. L. Donaldson goes to the Hat tonight to spend the week end.

Jas. Falconer left for Vancouver on Thursday morning, where he will holiday for some time.

A local car owner was fined on Wednesday for speeding on Baker avenue.

The heavy rain of yesterday was a godsend to the farmers throughout the district.

Navigation in the Yukon will open about the first week in June. Parcel post service will then be resumed.

Robt. Strachan driving his car on Saturday night crashed into a Ford on the Morrissey road and put it out of business. No one was hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Trites expect to arrive in Vancouver from their trip around the world about the 24th of May.

On Wednesday afternoon next the Public Schools will hold a field day in the park. A fine program has been arranged.

Bill Tompson's Blue Birds defeated Coal Creek in a friendly game of football played on the North End grounds last Sunday, by a score of four goals to nil.

The waterworks pipe crossing the bridge over the Elk burst on Sunday last and the supply was shut off all day Monday while the pipe was being repaired.

The forest fire which was raging along Galbraith Creek last week is now completely under control. This district had been previously logged over and although the fire swept over a considerable area it was confined mostly to slashings and small brush.

A local in last week's paper stated that Tony Carosella was fined $50 for driving a car while under the influence of liquor. This was an error; the name should have read Tony Gozzola. We humbly apologize to the former. Tony Carosella is not that kind of a boy.

McEwan's produce wagon, proceeding to Coal Creek this morning, was forced over a high bank by a passing car on the road. The load was completely destroyed, but a number of men who were at hand rescued the team and driver from a very perilous position on the side of the bank.

The funeral of the late Alex Michaluk, whose death took place on Sunday last, was largely attended, fully eighty members of Gladstone Local Union, of which deceased was a member, attending, showing the respect in which the young man was held. The services were conducted by Rev. Wm. Burns, of the United Church.

PROVINCIAL FIGHT IS ON

It is probably just as well that the Oliver government has decided to make the provincial election contest short and sharp. Between the date of the announcement of polling day until June 20 provision was made for a campaign of over five weeks. We have already had two or three weeks devoted to nomination meetings and campaign oratory so that fully two months will be given up by a lot of people to the task of deciding which of the three political parties will rule the provincial roost for the next four or five years. So many factors enter into the contest that an unusual degree of uncertainty as to the probable outcome of the fight is likely to prevail throughout the contest. The late Sir John Macdonald once remarked that nothing was more uncertain than an election, unless it were a horse race, and Sir John had very little experience of three-cornered political contests. Obviously, the government is encouraged to hope for a new lease of life by the knowledge that the anti-government vote will be split between two parties. In this connection General McRae makes the statement that the Provincial party is made up of voters, half of whom were formerly Liberals and half Conservatives. General McRae has also been drawing attention to the fact that the Provincial party at its convention declared that in the event of its being in the minority in the house after the election, it would not unite with either of the old parties. This would suggest that in the event of three groups being elected, none of them commanding a majority, some difficulty might be experienced in forming a government. There needbe no fear on this account. The experience of the King government at Ottawa and the Labor government of Great Britain makes it abundantly clear that a majority group, whether it be made up of Liberals, Conservatives or Provincials, will be able to carry on for a time at least. The last thing the members of the legislature will want after the election is another election, and the support necessary to carry on the majority group will be certain of the support necessary to carry on for a session or two. — Penticton Herald.

Forty-five members of the local Elk lodge motored to Cranbrook on Wednesday, where a new lodge of the order was created on that evening. Thirty new candidates were initiated and the new lodge promises to get away to a good start.

James McLean, Liberal candidate, and A. I. Fisher have been out on a still hunt for votes in the Fort Steele and Bull River district. Jimmy is making a strong personal canvas throughout the district. Dr. Bonnell, the Conservative war horse, is still confining his canvas to the city of Fernie, but expects to get out in the district next week. The doctor is well known by everyone and this gives him a big advantage over the others when it comes to personal canvas.

Frank Carosella, brother of Philip and Louis Carosella, and a resident of British Columbia since 1886, died at his home in Fernie on Wednesday night after an illness of about three weeks. Deceased was a well known Fernie citizen, having resided here since 1900, and his death came as a severe shock to all his old friends. He had suffered for considerable time from heart failure, but it was not until very recently that the symptoms became dangerous. Deceased leaves a wife and three children, two boys and a girl, to mourn his death. The funeral will be held on Monday, when the eldest boy, Tony, who is serving in the U.S. navy, is expected home.

Friday evening last was a red letter day in the annals of Trinity Temple Pythian Sisters, when Sister Irene Stein, Grand Chief of the Domain, paid an official visit. M. E. C. Sister Markland introduced the distinguished visitor. Initiatory work was emplified which drew commendatory remarks, as did other work performed during the evening. The Grand Chief paid a glowing tribute to the progress made since the inception of Trinity Temple. Past Excellent Chief Sister Galloway presented the Grand Chief, on behalf of the Temple, with a silver casserole, after the session.. Sister Stein suitably responded. A social evening was spent after the session. Vocal selections were given by Brothers B. Smith and D. Markland and Sister Florence Billsborough. Musical selections were given by Messrs. Galloway and Colgur and Mrs. Colgur, the string trio. The elocution portion of the program was supplied by Sister Stien and Tom Beck. Refreshments were served and dancing indulged in until 2.30 a.m. Sister Stien left on Saturday morning for Corbin, accompanied by Sister Markland, returning to Michel on Monday, at which place a session was held that evening.

Thos. Uphill is devoting most of his efforts up to date among members of the G.W.V.A. and other fraternal orders of which he is a member.

Chief Anderson has received strict instructions to prosecute anyone who is guilty of dumping refuse on the streets of the city. The authorities have spent a lot of money in cleaning up the city and they propose to see that their work has not been in vain.

All the candidates for parliamentary honors have opened committee rooms. The Conservatives have secured the store next to Stanley Lowden's butcher shop; the Liberals have the Haddad building, and Thos. Uphill the vacant store in the miners' building.

Never in the history of the Fernie provincial building has there been such a busy day as on Monday last, when the Court of Revision on the Provincial Voters List was held. This was the last occasion for those who were not on the list to register before the election on June 20, and all parties were out in force to get their supporters registered. In all 630 odd names were added to the list, bringing the total number registered to about 3400, which makes a very creditable showing for the Fernie district and gives the candidates contesting the election some real work to cover in the short time at their disposal.

The members of the G.W.V.A., with their wives and sweethearts, were the guests of the Women's Auxiliary on Wednesday evening at an "at home." The opportunity was taken of presenting the Past President of the W. A. of the G.W.V.A. with her gold badge of office; also to present the retiring secretary with a token of appreciation for past services. The evening opened with a whist drive, at which Mrs. H. Parsons was the successful lady competitor and R. Burke received the gentleman's prize. The concolation prizes were taken away by Miss Ella Phillips and Wm. Morris. President Geo. Bowen then called upon Tom Uphill, M.P.P., to make the presentations. In presenting Mrs. G. Townsend with her badge, Tommy spoke in eulogistic terms of the work done during her term of office. He then called upon Mrs. Cairns and for her faithful services as secretary presented her with a beautiful purse. The recipients responded suitably. Refreshments were then served and the floor cleared for dancing. Messrs. Evans and Corlett supplied the music.

MOTORIST LIKES OUR SCENERY

The May number of "Hunter, Trader, Trapper" contains an interesting description of a motoring jaunt through the Rockies during the last summer, which was written by John A. Knoll, an Iowa motorist. The following is what he says in his description of the part of his trip from Frank west:

About ten o'clock we reached the site of the town of Frank, which was completely wiped out by a huge landslide 20 years ago. Scientists have been unable to account for the cause of this great cataclysm. The whole peak of an immense mountain slid into the valley covering with rock the town of Frank, together with several square miles of the surrounding country to a depth of from one to three hundred feet. The loss of life was terrific. I talked with a homesteader near the present town of Frank and when I asked him the cause of the awful slide he said: "Well, you know Frank was a new mining town and was running pretty wild and I think the Lord just thought he'd put a stop to it." I have thought considerably about what this old veteran said. Who knows?

After taking a few photographs of what remained of the mountain and of the highway built over the old town, we pushed westward.

After crossing the snow in several places (and it was now nearly June) we passed the Continental Divide and were in British Columbia—the game paradise of North America. No words can describe to any appreciable extent the glory and magnitude of the Canadian Rockies. The summit of the range is the dividing line between the southern half of the two provinces. To one inexperienced in mountaineering the Rockies of our own west make a wonderful sight never to be forgotten, until ones first glimpse of the Canadian Rockies—the land of glaciers and perpetual snow.

The Crow's Nest Lakes, those mountain gems with rugged peaks rising almost perpendicular on nearly every side, make one doubt whether Switzerland has anything more impressive.

The highway winds around the south shore of these beautiful lakes, sometimes on their own plane and again many feet above them. At times thousands of tons of rock hang over one as they follow the fine highway which winds with serpentine grace through seemingly impassable places. The Crow's Nest Mountain, over 10,000 feet in height, and the highest in these parts, is in sight most of the time.

Now I hear some one say: "My, that isn't very high, just think, we drove right to the top of Pikes Peak in our own car and it is over four thousand feet higher than the mountain this fellow speaks of. I'll bet he never saw a real mountain."

Yes, my dear reader, in the last two years I have had intimate acquaintance with many of the highest mountains and much of th e most wonderful scenery in the United States and Canada.

Truly to read altitude tables, Mt. Robson, the highest known mountain between latitude 60 degrees north and the United States, is 41 feet lower than Pikes Peak and there are 26 named mountains in Colarado alone that are higher than Pikes Peak. Then you ask why one will forget, so to speak, the Colorado, Wyoming and Southern Montana Rockies as soon as they enter the peaks of Alberta and British Columbia. I will illustrate.

A few years ago I knew a child who, while his mother was preparing a meal, climbed upon the table and gleefully said, "Hey, mom; I'm taller than you." His mother smiled and said, "Yes, my dear, but mother's feet go down farther than yours do." The little fellow looked quite perplexed.

It's the same comparing the Colorado mountains with those of Canada and the extreme northern part of Montana. Pikes Peak, Longs Peak and other Colorado mountains may be likened to the child standing on the table, while Mt. Robson, Mt. Assiniboia, Mt. Brown and others may be likened to the mother whose "feet went down farther."

There is practically no plateau land in western Canada. Mt. Robson rises higher above the surrounding country than does any mountain in Canada, with the possible exception of Mt. Logan, Yukon Territory, of which so little is known. It rises its ice-crowned summit over two miles above the river valley at its base. Many glaciers flow from its dizzy heights. It is approximately three hundred miles as the crow flies from Crow's Nest Lakes (where I left off relating my auto trip to give proof of the superiority of the Canadian Rockies over those of Colorado) to Mt. Robson. Therefore I will leave it and describe a few other scenes before getting back to the lakes and my story.—Here follows a description of Mt. Assiniboia, Lake Louise and Mt. Lefroy.

I must proceed with my trip. The fine highway—British Columbia indeed has them—leaves the Crow's Nest Lakes and descends by easy stages to Michel, a coal mining town. The Canadian Pacific railway hangs along the mountain side to the right most of the way. It is hundreds of feet above the highway on the floor of Michel Creek valley and ever seems trying to reach the side of the stream without too steep a descent. From Michel to Fernie is through a lumbering section. It rained all the while, clouds hung low between the mountain ranges, but with a fine gravelled highway we didn't care a whoop. An abandoned town, Hosmer, by name, was passed enroute.

As we entered Fernie the clouds began to clear away and soon we could see the peaks in every direction. This was May 22. All the peaks and ranges were covered with glistening whiteness nearly to their bases.

When the sun finally shone from a wonderful, clear blue sky, there appeared one of the grandest sights I ever witnessed, this ideal setting for an ideal town. Railroad facilities are excellent here. Scenery is unsurpassed. Highways are all that could be desired in any district, much less in a rugged country.

Fernie supports a fine free camp ground, as if there were not a thousand beautiful camp sites along the ever twisting highway.

A woodsman south of Fernie told me that game was plentiful (I soon found this out for myself). Grizzly have been killed close to the city limits. Deer are plentiful. Goats and sheep clatter over the rocks on nearly every mountain side. Black and brown bear are numerous. Elk have not entirely passed out of existence. Rigid law enforcement tends to prevent useless slaughter of noble game which reduce many fields in the United States.

Then follows a description of his climbing of Baldy Mountain at Elko and getting lost. In conclusion he says:

Let me say that I hope I have helped some prospective auto camper in deciding to visit, over the excellent highways afforded, one of the greatest and most wonderful mountain systems in the world — the Canadian Rockies.

COMPLIMENTS THE CANADIAN NATIONAL

The Canadian National railways came in for unlimited praise last week from 17 railway officials, representing 12 of the leading railroads of the United States, on their return to Winnipeg from Saskatoon. In speaking of the trip, equipment and service, one of the visitors stated there was nothing known to surpass it, while another remarked that the Canadian National railroad service of today was "the last breath" in railroading.

"ACRES OF FISH"

Ottawa's failure to open up Fishing District Number Three to the reduction of pilchards into meal, oil and fertilizer means simply the suppression of a valuable industry in British Columbia that could not possibly interfere with the supply of these fish as food.

1. Alaska, Puget Sound, Columbia River and California have 44 such reduction plants, as compared to British Columbia's 4.

2. These foreign Pacific plants annually turn out 13,878 tons of fish meal, 1,815,382 gallons of pilchard oil and 315,915 gallons of other fish oils.

3. British Columbia is only taking advantage of this highly profitable reduction industry to turn out 615 tons of meal and 103,900 gallons of oil.

4. The industry is similar to the menhaden reduction industry on the American Atlantic coast which, turning out 150,000 barrels of oil a year is worth $4,500,000 to its district.

5. Pilchards are inexhaustible. Their schools cover acres. They spawn at sea, which brings their reproductive ratio up to a tremendous level.

British Columbia, in the person of Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Fisheries, has declared itself in favor of opening District Three to the reduction of pilchards.

Since the population immediately concerned seems to be absolutely satisfied, there is no reason why Ottawa should not remove the restriction at once.—Vancouver Sun.

IN THE SPRING

In the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love—unless he happens to be a young business man of the modern "pepful" type, when his thoughts are likely to turn to the organization of a Clean Up campaign. He just can't help himself, any more than his wife can help saying "What a state this place is in!" as she adjusts her cap for the annual spring housecleaning.

After his parade, opening the campaign he is likely to go back to his place of business feeling satisfied that he has contributed something to the happiness of mankind and "the building of a bigger and better town." After witnessing the parade she hurries home to the actual work of housecleaning, which is hers by right of conquest. The young man, in his early experience, may have offered to help—but now when his better half appears with a mop in her hand and a determined gleam in her eye he modestly retires, leaving the field to her. Time may vary the length of hair and skirts, but change the ancient method of housecleaning — perish the thought!

Housecleaning is pronounced with a capital "H" except by those families who hail from the shadow of London Bridge. It is accompanied by fervent beatings of rugs and carpets and all the self abandonment of a religious rite. Years of habit have built up custom. She knows that broom and mop, ply them as she will, cannot keep a home sweet and clean as she wants it.

When a doctor washes his hands they are absolutely clean—when a boy washes his hands they are only theoretically clean, and must be thoroughly gone over before "company" comes. The "broom clean" house must be periodically "gone through," furniture moved, rugs beaten, stovepipes cleaned out, walls redecorated to remove the grimy traces of coal or gas combustion.

The electric home is absolutely clean—all the time. No smudgy walls and impre air with an electric range; plenty of steaming hot water always on tap with an electric water heater; the heaviest washing a pleasure with an electric washer, wringer and iron; rugs, carpets, curtains, upholstery and walls always clean and dustless with an electric vacuum cleaner. Electricity does the work—the housewife enjoys health and contentment.

We do not believe the cynical statement that "the strongest appeal to a man is through his pocket"; but it is a fact that it costs less in dollars and cents to keep a home "electrically clean" than to keep at "broom clean" —because of your hydro.

AMATEUR STATUS

W. T. Tilden, U.S. amateur tennis champion of the world, has resigned from the Davis Cup team. There is more real sportsmanship, love of the game and love of fair play, in many a professional ball player than in many a member of the most exclusive country clubs who drives up in an expensive car before he begins to tear up the course, swear at his caddie and invent alibis for poor golf and rotten temper. The purely social distinctions that once divided professional from amateur have been largely discarded as undemocratic "bunk," in this country at least. When "Babe" Ruth at baseball or Walter Hagen at golf can clean up as much as the president of an oil company, their claims to social acceptance seem about equal to his. But it has to be recognized that there is an element of injustice in pitting the skill of a man who plays only for the fun of it against a man who plays to make play his work and his means of getting a living. It is to prevent that injustice that amateur rules, which often operate badly in individual cases as all general rules must, are drawn.

CAN NOT KEEP HOLIDAY FOLKS FROM THE HILLS

London, May 17.—All parties in the House of Commons are supporting the "Access to Mountains" Bill now before parliament. The bill provides that no owner of uncultivated mountain lands or moorland shall be entitled to exclude any person from walking thereon "for purposes of recreation or scientific study."

The bill is not merely intended to give access to scenic places, but its backers are more particularly concerned about uncultivated lands near populous centres and holiday resorts, which, it is asserted, have been closed in recent years in an arbitrary fashion.

A FINISHED MYSTERY

Action of United States Attorney General Stone in discontinuing the wartime staff of "dollar-a-year" men, adds another chapter to that engrossing volume, "How America Won the War."

The "dollar-a-year" man has always been more or less of a mystery. He was pictured in fiction as a self-sacrificing millionaire who devoted his valuable time to war work without renumeration.

Now, it seems from Mr. Stone's disclosures, that many of the famed "dollar-a-year" men were nothing more nor less than cheap political spies.

Former governors, former senators, railroad heads, bankers and millionaires were all on the list.

They "helped to win the war" by "investigating" everything that poked up its head to be investigated. The consequence was that Washington, since the formation of this notable staff, has been a hotbed of intrigue, a Calvary upon which every pure-minded statesman has been nailed at some time or another, to the double-cross.

And so the mystery of the "dollar-a-year" man is solved at last. Luckily for the United States the courage of Harlan F. Stone makes it a finished mystery.—Vancouver Sun.

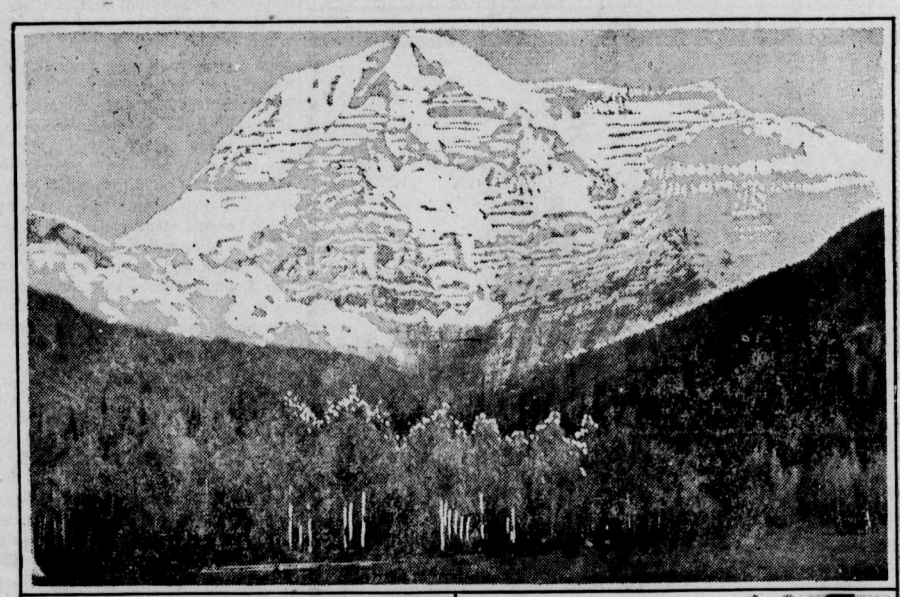
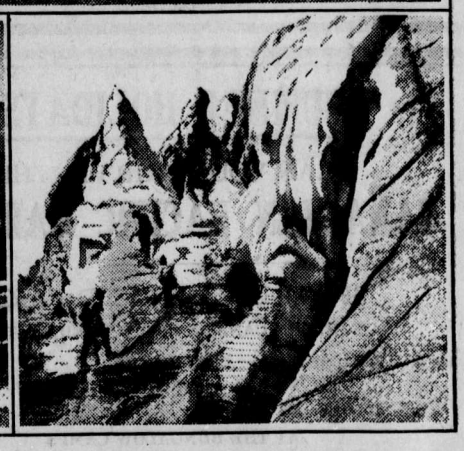
PAGEANT OF EMPIRE



The Wembly Fair is described, without contradiction from the outside, as the greatest show of its kind in history. Its cost is estimated at $30,000,000. It covers an area of 220 acres. Thirty million visitors are expected. But the exposition is not out of scale with the interests it represents. Behind it is an empire of thirteen and a quarter million square miles with a population of nearly four hundred and fifty millions. And it is obviously a growing concern. The area of the Empire is larger by nearly two million square miles than it was at the outbreak of the war. The increase in population has been less than twenty millions, but a very large part of the new territories, now virtually vacant of white inhabitants, is adapted to European colonization. —New York Times.

"FOR WOMEN MUST WEEP"



Baltimore Sun: In the German election the enfranchised women, from 20 years up, played an important part. In this country we have to believe that the feminine vote, while adding to the electorate, has not disturbed its balance. Early indications from the German election point to a rather different result, with the women's vote on the whole rather strongly against reaction. In this there is nothing surprising, for it follows the trend in every European country with equal suffrage. Excepting the small minority of girls and spinsters who fall an easy prey to patriotic hysteria, women as a class are the chief sufferers in any war. And in Germany their suffering has been carried over into post-war years, through the tribulations of childhood even more than through direct privation.

HIGHEST PEAK IN CANADIAN ROCKIES

THE Alpine Club of Canada will this year hold its annual camp at the foot of Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, which towers 13,068 feet above sea level.

Mount Robson Park, named from the mountain which it surrounds, is a favorite stopping place for tourists from United States points who make the Triangle Tour of the Canadian National Railways, which embraces Vancouver, Jasper and Mount Robson Parks and Prince Rupert with a journey over the inland seas of the Pacific coast on one of the Canadian National Pacific Coast Steamships.

Among other things, Mount Robson can be regarded as the most frequently photographed mountain in the whole of Canada, the Continental Limited of the Canadian National Railways stopping for five minutes at the foot of this monarch of the Rockies in order that tourists who are passing through may secure photographs showing its lofty, snow-capped peak.

Just outside of the boundaries of the National Park is one of the finest big-game hunting grounds of the continent, where black, cinnamon and grizzly bear abound and where other big game, such as bighorn mountain sheep and mountain goats are to be found in great numbers. Hundreds of hunters annually make Mount Robson their headquarters for their excursions into the passes of this region after big game, for here excellent accommodation may be secured either during the summer tourist season or later in the fall when the hunters are out after their quarry.

GOVERNOR BEHIND BARS

What effect the case of Governor McCray, of Indiana, will have on the fortunes of the Republican party in the important—and "doubtful" — Hoosier State is a question that is now being discussed by those following the Presidential campaign, remarks the independent Boston Globe. "It is even possible that his conviction will decide the election next November," believes the Republican Minneapolis Tribune, and several editors of varying political affiliations agree that the Governor's sentence of ten years for "using the United States mails to defraud" comes at an unfortunate time, when popular confidence in public men has but recently been given a shock by the exposures in Washington.

"Never before has an Indiana governor been convicted of crime," observes the Indianapolis News. We learn further from this authoritative source that—

"McCray was found guilty of using the mails to defraud. Evidence was introduced to show that he had corresponded with many Indiana bankers, and as a result of the correspondence has sold them numerous cattle notes, which on investigation proved worthless. On the witness stand, McCray freely admitted having signed other men's names to notes he had made up himself. He said he felt justified in doing so because the responsibility on him was so great that he did not expect anyone to lose a cent. A communication of the alleged spurious notes showed that the former Governor had obtained nearly $1,000,000 from bankers and others.

"The sentence as pronounced by Federal Judge Anderson was that McCray should be fined $1000 and sentenced to five years on each of the thirteen counts contained in the indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud. Judge Anderson specified, however, that the sentences should run cumulatively only until they reached ten years and $10,000 fine."

In ordering the Governor to jail, Judge Anderson said, according to Indianapolis dispatches:

"I have never seen so many felonies committed by one individual. Here is a man who devised a scheme to defraud and carried on almost entirely by the use of the mails. He is guilty of obtaining money under false pretences. He has violated not only the written laws, but the laws of his own conscience as well."

"The political consequence of this conviction promise to be serious for the Republicans of Indiana," remarks the independent Democratic Philadelphia Record, and the New York Times, which is of the same political belief, agrees that the Republican party of Indiana has "an intolerable burden to carry." Nearer home, we find Edward H. Ziegner writing from the capital of Indiana to the Chicago Daily News:

"November had an attractive look to the Democrats in this State, even before the McCray debacle. His administration had been marked by unusually large expenditures, and there was widespread complaint.

"In addition to offsetting that, the Republicans now have to offset the additional fact that for the first time an Indiana governor has been sent to a cell as a felon, and that he is of their party."

DRUGS TO ECONOMIZE THE STRENGTH

That certain chemical substances, applied to the skin in ointments, will retard the loss of heat and electricity from the body and delay the onset of fatigue, is asserted by two French physiologists, whose researches are noticed in Le Matin, (Paris). Says this paper:

"On the eve of the Olympic games a most appropriate communication is made by Messrs. Livet and Roger to the Paris Society of Medicine. Studying the fatigue due to muscular exercise, they have shown that it is produced in the course of labor according to a progressive and regular law in ratio to the radiation phenomena of the body. It is known that normally we radiate heat or electricity like an electric radiator. Muscular work increases these losses at the expense of the forces which maintain our temperature constant and our electric potential invariable. Although the production of electricity by the human body is a little-known property, no one is ignorant of the fact that exercise heats us. Now Massrs. Livet and Rogers have shown that fatigue occurs more rapidly when this organic heating comes sooner. They have found that certain drugs are able to slow up fatigue and even give new energy to the organism. These are substances of the family of the 'poly-methylic cyclanols' which, in subcolloidal solution, used as unguents with rubbing of the skin, economize strength by opposing losses of heat and electricity by radiation. Experiments on both men and animals have been in agreement on all points and tend to prove that it is possible to retard, in manual laborers, athletes or race-horses, the moment when fatigue is able to interrupt muscular exercise."

MANY INVENTIONS

Manchester Guardian: (The production by an Englishman of a new form of vibration which "is a means of actual transmission of power from one point to another, either or both of which may be rapidly moving," has been widely but erroneously regarded as a new martial device). There is nothing new in the fact that scientific discovery renders the human insect at any rate potentially more noxious. Printing might have been used, in the main, to disseminate moral filth, and the telegraph to circulate lies, and the motor-car to assist in coureses of rural burglary, and urban homicide. But somehow they were not, and it seems hard to believe that the inveterate human preference for going straight has so died out in the world that mankind will not revolt to some purpose against the monetary fashion of sizing up new inventions according to their possible contributions to the great work of killing those with whom we do not agree.

MACDONALD NATIONALIST

A recent item of news of more than ordinary interest was the statement of the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the present chief and custodian of the interests of the Dominions beyond the seas that he is not an Internationalist; that, not to put too fine a point upon it, he is a Nationalist of high degree. This statement is all the more interesting because of a former admission of Mr. Macdonald that he was at one time a member of the Third Internationale, and that at least several of the members of his government also were members of that somewhat mystical organization.

We confess that we do not know much about the Third Internationale, its aims and its objects. Its name would seem to imply that it is just the antithesis of what we shall call the First Nationale, whose object should be our country first, last and all the time. In other words, Patriotism. We like the way in which the British Prime Minister expresses his views on this subject, because it proves that responsibility brings out all that is best in the character of a man and we hope in the character of a woman also, as woman is just as great a power in affairs of state nowadays as man.

Mr. MacDonald's views are so important that they are worthy of being repeated for the sake of emphasis: "Nationalism is not aggression. Nationalism is self-respect; and those who respect themselves best of all are the very best people to others. Therefore the foreign policy of the Labor government appeals not only to the large powers but to the small powers, such as Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia. We want them all Without them a great peace union of Europe will be incomplete, and until it is complete the Labor government can never be satisfied that its foreign policy has been a success. Nobody knows better than the small nations that a military policy does not pay."

The state of Europe today testifies eloquently to the fact that aggressive military policies do not pay. But other British Prime Ministers were aware of that fact before the present Prime Minister was convinced of it by the logic of present-day circumstances. The Ministers who were in power on the day Germany declared war against Great Britain knew they were confronted with what our neighbors on the other side of the line would call "a losing proposition." They did not carry their country into the war with light hearts. They deplored the circumstances and they did their duty.

That war has upset many things. It has destroyed many institutions which many of us revered. We hope it ie not going to result in the annihilation of Nationalism or what we prefer to call patriotism. That is why we welcome the announcement of the Prime Minister that he is a Nationalist. We mean, of course, the type of Nationalism which is comprehensive enough to encompass the whole of the British Dominions. Because if national pride is going to be destroyed, the future of the British Empire is very uncertain. We hope we are justified in rejoicing in the fact that the vision of the Prime Minister is wider than the vision of some of his ministers, who apparently cannot see beyond the bounds of their own particular parish.

HALF MILLION MOTOR VEHICLES IN CANADA

Ottawa, May 18.—The total registration of all classes of motor vehicles in Canada last year was 585,079, according to the highways branch of the department of railways and canals.

The registration included 515,077 automobiles. 54,235 commercial trucks, 1937 busses and 8311 motor cycles. There was an increase of 13 per cent in the registration of passenger vehicles.

The gross total of all revenues collected in the nine provinces and the Yukon territory from registration of motor vehicles, licenses, fees, etc., amounted to $11,402,421, an increase of 22 per cent over 1922.

A large increase is shown in the number of automobiles that entered Canada from the United States last year for touring purposes. There were registered for a period of from one to six months, 1956 motor vehicles; from a period of from two to 30 days, 272,444 motor vehicles,, and for a period of 24 hours, 1,662,200 motor vehicles.

A departmental circular states: "Assuming that each vehicle registered at the different border ports carried four passengers each, who spent $5 daily per person during their sojourn in Canada, and that, for the shorter periods, one-half of the time, the amount of money expended by these tourists in the different provinces of Canada last year would amount to nearly $118,500,000."

THE STRATEGIC BASE

Sdyney Bulletin: If Germany had seized the Channel ports Australia would have been doomed. The food and ammunition supply between Britain and the troops in the line would have been cut and the war lost by the Allies. For a similar reason if Singapore is not fortified, if it is not supplied with means of docking and repairing battleships, and if it is not garrisoned adequately to protect it against any conceivable attack, this country will be in deadly peril. Should war come in the Pacific our destiny will not be decided in a strategic back-water like the Tasmaan Sea; the issue will be fought out in the regions where the things are that matter most to warring nations. Into Singapore will stream the stores needed by the warships, just as the stores needed by the armies of the Allies streamed into that other depot and half-way house, Le Havre. Australia will be there presumably, as she was at Le Havre. While Le Havre stood she was safe, and so long as Singapore stands she will have nothing to fear. Should it go, a chain of bases stretching from Port Stephens to Darwin will not save us from oil and munition-starvation and defeat.

$4,500,000 FOR DRINKS DAILY

Leicester, Eng., May 17.—Members of the British House of Commons were denounced for their alleged habitual over-indulgence in alcohol at the annual conference here last night of the National Commercial Temperance Union.

Speaking to a resolution calling upon the government to restrict the hours of sale of intoxicants in parliament as they restricted elsewhere in the country, Magistrate Clarke of York declared he knew of one member who, since his election to parliament, had become a drunkard and was on the downgrade politically and socially. Rev. Mr. Rowley said the situation clearly called for the existence of some such political wobbling.

Sir George Parish, statistical expert, contended that Great Britain would go under in the world's trade competition if the people did not economize in their expenditures. They were spending nearly $4,500,000 daily on alcoholic drinks. If they devoted £200,000,000 of this yearly to providing credit for other countries, he declared they would restore the world and themselves, too, to prosperity.

FERNIE LOSES TO KIMBERLEY

The Coal Co. baseball club opened its 1924 season at Kimberley last Sunday with a friendly game in which they were defeated by a score of five runs to four, the game requiring an extra innings to bring out a decision.

Both teams secured one run in the first frame, then Kimberley forged ahead a pace in the fourth when they tallied their second run. The Coal Co. again tied the score in the sixth and took the lead by scoring one run in each of the seventh and eighth innings. Not to be outdone, Kimberley came back strong in their half of the eighth and two runs crossed the plate. There was no scoring in the ninth frame and the Coal Co. were retired without adding to their score in the 10th. Klepanzer, first man up for Kimberley in the 10th, got a single and was batted home by his team mates for the wining run.

FAREWELL PARTY

Miss Walker, for several years past matron of the Fernie hospital, was visited at the Nurses' Home on Tuesday evening by a number of friends desirous of expressing their appreciation of her sterling worth both as a citizen and an official of the institution.

After a few pleasant hours of bridge, Dr. Bonnell apprised Miss Walker of the real object of the gathering, and on behalf of her many friends in Fernie, presented her with a suit case, umbrella and hand bag, all of beautiful design and material.

The Doctor spoke eloquently of the efficiency and courtesy of the retiring matron, and eulogized the nursing profession, which he characterized as the noblest, and at the same time, the most onerous vocation a woman may choose.

Miss Walker was deeply affected by these unexpected tributes but gracefully expressed her thanks to all who thought so kindly of her.

A seasonable lunch was served by the members of the nursing staff, after which the assemblage joined hands and sang Auld Lang Syne.

Miss Walker leaves on Sunday for a visit to her home in North Sydney, N.S., and will carry with her the highest esteem and best wishes of all those fortunate enough to have enjoyed her acquaintance while a resident of the city.

C. B. C'S. ORGANIZE

At a meeting held on April 8 in the Catholic Hall, the boys of Holy Family Church, numbering approximately 65, between and including the ages of 14 and 18, organized under the name of the Catholic Boys' Club to carry on various kinds of sports, both indoor and outdoor, for their physical and mental betterment.

Four teams have already been chosen in baseball and the schedule as shown below up to the end of June, has already commenced.

Two basket ball teams have also been selected, and practice games are held regularly in the Catholic Hall every Tuesday night, with very good success.

John Sweeney, of the local K.C.'s, has undertaken to act as coach for two football teams which also have been chosen.

The committee also intends to arrange for picnics, hikes and camping for the boys during the summer holidays, which will meet with their approval.

There is no discrimination made among the boys as far as age is concerned, the younger chaps having as many opportunities of enjoyment and self-development as the older fellows. An organization of this nature, by its superiority ad excellence, should and will be one of the best of its kind in Canada.

The Knights of Columbus have undertaken to promote this project, both morally and financially, so that boys between the ages of 14 and 18 who would have no other accommodations for recreation could have suitable opportunity for indulgence in their favorite sports.

Officers and committees have been appointed to look after the various departments as follows:

Vice-Pres.—J. Pierpont.
Secretary—V. Simons.
Treas.—Rev. Father J. Barney.
Baseball Committee—Geo. Sikora, Frank Hovan, P. Rushcall.
Basketball Committee — L. Rushcall, L. Rudnicki, P. Kasmer.

COAL CREEK NOTES

Two fine young bear cubs are to be seen at Coal Creek, the result of the prowess of Tom Branch and Glover Brothers. The mother was shot.

Many of the jobseekers have returned to camp after having swelled the coffers of the C.P.R. without result.

Alex. Michaluk and family desire to thank the residents for their tokens of sympathy during their recent sad bereavement; also the Company for transportation facilities.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Shimmons are visiting Spokane and other American points by auto.

A. Thornton, W. H. Billsborough and Wm. Atherton have purchased cars.

The labors of the local sport enthusiasts have culminated in what can be called the finest outdoor rink in the province. The next project is a swiming pool, which is to be erected near the football field. The men who have devoted their time and labor deserve all credit; also the management of the company for facilities provided.

Football is the main topic of conversation. The committee claim they will enter a stronger team in the Fernie city league than Coal Creek could ever boast of.

Robt. Alstead is among the candidates sitting for 2nd class mining papers in the examination held in Fernie.

THE DOUBLE-CROSS

Westminster Gazette (scolding the Labor government for accepting Liberal votes in parliament, while working for the overthrow of Liberalism in the constituencies): In politics facts cannot be ignored without the consequences being unpleasant. If Mr. Ramsay MacDonald will think about the subject he will see that some liason arrangement is necessary. It is as true as it has been at any time that in dealing with unemployment, with housing, with insurance, electoral reform and all the greater problems that beset Europe, there is a line of common advance and of common action for the two progressive parties. These are great matters, worthy of the energies of the best men. All that is necessary for their advancement is a new temper in Labor circles, and the practical spirit of business men on the government benches.

HEALTH IN FERNIE SCHOOLS

The most important part of any system of education is the teaching of health, for only a healthy person can be truly happy and successful. The Fernie school board have engaged the services of a Public Health Nurse, who is a graduate nurse and who has, over and above her hospital tarining, taken a special training in order that she may adequately meet the responsibilities laid upon her by modern physicians and scientists and be a messenger to every home in Fernie, carrying or sending knowledge of the rules of health and of prevention of sickness.

This school nurse has weighed and measured all the pupils in the public schools and calculated for each child what he or she should weigh, according to the accepted standards of health. These findings are hung in an accessible place in every class room for each child to see. Some of the children have been examined for minor defects and the parents notified.

On Monday afternoons at 1 o'clock the school nurse is to be found in her office at the Central School to meet, in a friendly way, the parents of the pupils. The nurse at these conferences talks over the special difficulties of the child in relation to health habits, and food taken. With underweight children the mothers find this advice of the school nurse of great benefit. If necessary the school nurse visits the homes of the children to give special help in the promotion of the health of the children.

Once each month the school nurse gives a health talk in every class room. These talks are not on the cure for sickness, but on the promotion of health. The children learn about the proper food and how it should be prepared and in what proportions; about rest, exercise, fresh air, clothing, building, drainage and water. The talks are made suitable to the ages of the children. In the infant classes fairy stories are told; in the higher classes the technical aspect is taken up. The elder children are all encouraged to help teach health to their younger brothers and sisters, so that all are working to make every Canadian a happy and healthy citizen.

Next fall the school nurse may institute short classes in home nursing and infant care for the bigger girls, but this will only be if there is any demand for such classes.

Health work is truly a community problem and the health of a city is always in proportion to the amount of support, in word or deed, it gets.

THE WORLD AND HIS WIFE

The play "The World and His Wife," presented at the Grand theatre last Saturday night by the University Players Club, under the auspices of the I.O.D.E., was quite a success.

On that occasion we of the workaday wirld were transported into a world of art and philosophy. We felt that the real things of this world are not the bodily comforts but the comforts of the soul. The author of the play "The World and His Wife" had a message to tell the world and his wife, so made his message the central idea of a play. The play itself is a drama of many conflicts, calling to mind in some measure the play of Galsworthy called "Loyalities." The lesson which the author wishes to tell us is that of the tremendous power of thought, especially when one idea, good or bad, is in the minds of many people. In the play the thought is an evil one. The whole world had the salacious idea that a young wife would not be true to her husband but would become the lover of a young protege of her husband, who, because the husband, Don Julian, owed an unpayable debt to his father, allowed him to have the run of his home. Really, there was no evil, only a natural attraction caused by a common interest. Don Julian's relations, proud of the family name, warn and counsel him and his young wife, thereby putting evil thoughts in their minds. Don Julian is torn by a conflict of doubts and fears and by his wish to be loyal to his wife and his dead friend's son. Through many spisodes the audience know that the young wife, Theodora, and the young man, Ernesto, are blameless, but see how by degrees much talking and gossiping and lifting of eyebrows at last convince Don Julian of the guilt of the pair. The climax comes in the death of the elderly husband, Don Julian, and with it the acknowledgement of Ernesto that because of the talk, now he will indeed marry the young widow, although he had no such intention when he frequented his benefactor's house. The lesson is very forcibly brought to the audience that the very thing the gossips—the world and his wife—pretended they wanted to prevent, came to pass because of the power of their united thoughts, expressed by the tongue.

The University Players excelled themselves in their acting both by the interpretation of the character of the author and by their united effort bringing out the central idea and lesson of the author.

Mr. Cross was remarkable in his death scene. Miss Berkeley as Donna Mercedes had a perfect scandalmonger's face and reminded some of the audience of a character in the "School For Scandal." Miss Somerset, as Theodora, acted the emotions of a high-minded young wife to perfection. Mr. Palmer as Ernesto, was a typical hero on the stage. Mr. Sing as the innkeeper completely sunk his identity in his part. Mr. Zoond as Don Servero, very cleverly brougt to our minds the man who puts family pride before anything else. Mr. Lister as Pepito easily portrayed the young man who thinks he knows the world. Mr. Taylor, as the Englishman, was really wonderful, for he showed us what fools Englishmen generally appear, and that really this aspect is but a cloak for their true cleverness and high sense of humor. Miss Tepele, the maid, in her little part, showed us the quick temper of the Latin race.

CALLED TO GREAT BEYOND

Fernie is srrowing this week over the death of one of her most beloved children in the person of Miss Dorothy Henderson, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. G. G. Henderson. Deceased, who was known to every man, woman and child in the city, where she has practically resided since a baby, was loved and respected by all and her death comes as a real shock to the entire community. "Dot," as she was called by all who knew her, was a fine athletic young woman, a member of the ladies hockey club and a magnificent horsewoman, and her death, coming when she seemed to be in the very perfection of health, seemed particularly sad. Death was due to a nervous breakdown, followed by pneumonia. All that medical science could do to save her life was done. A high priced specialist was even brought in from Spokane, but without avail, and on Monday evening she gradually drifted out in the great beyond. This is the first death in a family of five children and the parents are prostrated with grief. The heartfelt sympathy of the entire city goes out to the bereaved family. The funeral service will be held from the family residence on Saturday afternoon at 2.30.

OPERATORS MAKE REPLY

At the regular council meeting of the Calgary Board of Trade on Wednesday, the questionnaire sent out on April 17 to the miners' union and the coal operators regarding the strike situation in District 18 was further discussed.

The council felt that sufficient time had elapsed to permit of replies from both parties and as several letters had been written Wm. Sherman, president of the miners' organization, without eliciting a reply, it was decided to publish the reply received on April 28 from the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association, setting out the operators' side of the case.

The reply of the operators dealt with the situation in a most exhaustive manner and covered the position of the association in the negotiations with the miners which terminated unsuccessfully.

It was pointed out that wages comprised 65 per cent of the cost of production; that such wages had since 1915 increased with regard to underground workmen in percentages varying from 109 to 166 per cent.; that surface employes' wages had increased in percentages varying from 164 to 234 per cent.; that the operators proposal of a reduction by the amount of the cost of living or war bonus of $1.17 per day represented but one-quarter of the average increase per man since 1915; that this was a more moderate reduction than the 27½ per cent reduction recommended by the Knowles' Conciliation Board in 1922 under living conditions similar to those now existing; and that competition with American coal and fuel oil with mines outside of the association in Alberta paying from $2.00 to $2.50 less per employe per day, necessitated a readjustment of the wage scale if the mines were to remain in business and retain their markets.

The full text of the reply of the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association to the questionnaire sent out by the Board of Trade is as follows:

"April 29, 1924.

"J. H. Hanna, Esq.,
Secretary Board of Trade,
Calgary, Alberta.

"Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of April 17 and note your comments on the question of securing a market in Ontario for Alberta domestic coal, also your request for information in connection with the present coal strike.

"Your first question is:

"What is the reason for the present high price of coal produced in this province?"

"In reply I beg to say that the cost of producing coal is divided into three main categories, viz.:

"1. Wages.

"2. The cost of material and supplies, including the upkeep, repair and renewal of plant and equipment; and

"3. Fixed charges, which include taxes, depreciation on mines and plant, royalties and tax on production to the Dominion and provincial governments, power, workmen's compensation assessments, fire insurance and general overhead.

"The first mentioned, wages, represents 65 per cent of the total cost of production and no reduction has taken place in this item since wages reached the peak during and after the war. So far as this item is concerned, therefore, no reduction has been possible in price in the absence of any reduction in wages, except such reduction as depended on the character of individual management, methods of operation and of any improvement in the efficiency of the employe.

"The second mentioned, cost of material, etc., has naturally varied with the market. Since 1920 there has been a considerable decrease, which has been reflected in the cost of production and has been passed on to the consumer.

"The third mentioned, fixed charges, has in many instances remained stationary and in some cases has increased. The resulting addition to cost has to some extent offset the possible reduction through decreased cost of material.

"The chief item of cost (65 per cent), therefore, upon which the price of coal at the mine is determined, is wages. Wage agreements in the past have usually been made for definite periods at rates determined and set out in the contract. During the war this custom was more or less discontinued owing to the ab-

FERNIE TENNIS PLAYERS AT CRANBROOK

Last Sunday morning six racket fiends from Fernie killed the road between here and Cranbrook, where they were scheduled to play Kimberlay and Cranbrook in singles and doubles.

Starting about 12 o'clock in a high, dusty wind the doubles began and all three of the Fernie teams met defeat. In the singles, however, Chas. Hunsley and Alvin Vansacker showed our colors by defeating their opponents in well played games. A splendid game of ladies' doubles was played between representatives from Kimberley and Cranbrook, Kimberley emerging victorious.

After the game tea and sandwiches were served to those present by the ladies of the Cranbrook Tennis Club.

The Fernie players are confident that a better showing will be made when Cranbrook comes here sometime before the end of June.

The Fernie team was: C. Hunsley and G. Appleyard; G. Auld and J. Chell; A. Vansacker and L. Rudnicki.

normal conditions, and many changes were made in the wage schedules at irregular but frequent intervals. All of these changes were increases; and the present rates show tremendous advances over the wage scale of 1915.

"These increases were granted in August and November, 1916; in April August and December, 1917; in April August and December, 1918; in December, 1919; and in April and October, 1920, when they reached the peak point, at which they have remained since.

"For the purpose of illustration some of the rates for underground employes may be quoted:

"A contract miner in 1915 made between $4 and $4.50 per day of eight hours, with a guaranteed minimum of $3 per day, if abnormal conditions in his working place prevented him from making that much. In 1923 contract miners' earnings varied from $9.40 to $10.04 per day, with a guaranteed minimum under abnormal conditions of $7.50. These earnings are average. Individual mines and employes are lower and higher. Contract men making $20 to $25 per day are not unusual. On the comparison of the average, however, contract men are paid at rates 129 per cent over 1915.

"A day wage miner, that is a miner taken off contract and paid temporarily by the day, was paid $3.30 in 1915, now $7.50, an increase of 127 per cent.

"Tracklayers, timbermen, brattice-men, hoistmen and shotlighters were also paid $3.30 in 1915, and now receive $7.50, a similar increase of 127 per cent.

"Drivers and roperiders (underground) received $3.03, now $7.21, an increase of 138 per cent.

"A machineman received $3.75, now $8.02, an increase of 114 per cent.

"Boys 16 to 21 years of age, now receive $4.40 to $5.74, an increase of from 109 to 166 per cent.

Unskilled labor, which included many classifications of employment, received $2.75 in 1915, now paid $6.89, an increase of 150 per cent.

"All the foregoing examples are underground men, working on an eight hour day, computed from the time they enter the mine until they return to the surface. This does not mean eight hours actual work, exclusive of lunch time, at their places in the mine, which is the universal custom in the United States, but means eight hours including traveling time to and from their places of employment, and lunch time, a differential to the competitive disadvantage of the Alberta operator of from 12½ to 15 per cent.

"The following examples are of outside employes, i.e., employes who do not go in the mines, 90 per cent of whom worked on the 10-hour day to April, 1917, on the nine-hour day to April, 1919, and on the eight-hour day since. In the case of outside men the 8-hour day means eight hours actual work.

"Blacksmiths and carpenters in 1915 received $3.85 for ten hours, or 38½ cents per hour. They now get $8.14 for eight hours, or $1.01¾ cents per hour, an increase in the hourly rate of 164 per cent.

"Stationary engineers worked in 1915 on eight, ten and twelve hour shifts for which they were paid rates varying from 33 cents to 45¾ cents per hour. They are now all on the 8-hour day basis at rates varying from $7.50 to $8.32 or from 93¾ cents to $1.04 per hour, increases of from 129 per cent to 180 per cent.

"A machinist in 1915 received from $3.40 to $3.85 for ten hours, 34 cents to 38½ cents per hour. He now receives $7.61 to $8.14 for eight hours, 95 1-8 cents to $1.01¾ cents per hour, an increase of from 164 per cent to 180 per cent.

"Teamsters receiving $2.89 for ten hours as 28.9 cents per hour in 1915, now receive $7.08 for eight hours, or 88½ cents per hour, an increase of 206 per cent.

"Unskilled labor, which also includes a number of classifications such as slate pickers, car oilers, couplers ,etc., in surface employment received $2.47 for ten hours, or 24.7 cents per hour in 1915. now receive $6.58 for eight hours or 82½ cents per hour, an increase of 234 per cent.

"It is obvious that as long as the continued payment of wages such as those quoted above is demanded, the high wage scale must be regarded as responsible for the continued high price of coal.

"There is a general impression that all men employed in and about mines are "miners," and that the rate paid to a "miner," which varies by mines or districts acording to the character of the work to be performed, and may at one mine for a certain operation be 85 cents per ton, and at another under different conditions be $1.57 per ton, represents the labor cost of a ton of coal.

The following statement of men employed in the various mines in the province at December 31, 1923, taken from the Alberta government mines branch report for that year, shows the relative number of "miners" and other employees:

"UNDERGROUND:
Officials (superintendents, pit bosses, fire bosses, etc.)	403
Men cutting by hand	2833
Machinemen cutting by machines	474
Men loading after machines	2290
Men employed on horse haulage	889
Men employed on mechanical haulage	345
Men employed on ventilation	124
Roadmakers	234
Timbermen	410
Pumpmen	65
All other employees, mostly unskilled labor	597
Total underground	8664
"ABOVE GROUND:
Administration	144
Foremen and clerks	228
Screenmen and loaders	730
Enginemen	169
Firemen	166
Machinists	103
Carpenters and masons	96
Other mechanics	152
Men on surface haulage	64
All other employes, mostly unskilled labor	764
Total above ground	2,813

"It will be noted that hand miners, who cut and shoot down and load their own coal represents 25 per cent of the total employes, that machine runners add another 4 per cent, and that a further 20 per cent are men who load behind machines, an operation certainly not requiring any high degree of technical skill, alhought like the hand miner and machine runner, they are contract men, and averaged from $9.34 to $10.04 per day in 1923, as previously stated.

"The balance of 61 per cent of the employes are engaged in the numerous occupations necessary to maintain the mine, transport the coal to the surface, load it into railway cars and carry on the general business of its disposal. They are not miners, but they are necessary to mining; and their cost must go against each ton produced. 2,813, or 25 per cent, are surface employes. Their occupation is no more hazardous than similar occupations in any other form of surface employment, nor does it require any greater degree of skill.

"Consequently, why union unskilled labor around mines demands $6.58 while union unskilled labor outside of mines runs from $2.80 to $3.60 per day, why teamsters demand $7.08 as against $4.50; why blacksmiths demand $8.14 as against $6, carpenters $8.14 as against $6.40, stationery engineers $7.50 to $7.88 as against $4.24, machinists $7.61 to $8.14 as against $5.60 to $6.72 and helpers $7.00 as against $4.24 is difficult to understand.

"Your second question is:

"'According to the figures given in the Labor Gazette, there has been a decrease in the price of staple foods in Alberta since January, 1920, of approximately 35 per cent. In view of this why has the high price of coal continued?"

"Although numerous increases were granted during the war owing to the increased cost of living, no decreases have been secured corresponding either to the reduced cost of living or any other consideration.

"Until reductions are secured, the price of coal as stated in reply to question one, must necessarily remain high.

"Your third question is:

"'Why has the high price of coal continued in Calgary in the face of decreases in the cost of delivery; i.e. cost of horses, feed, teamsters wages, etc.'

"Reductions have been made in the price of coal in Calgary, notwithstanding the fact that no reductions have been secured in miners' wages. This has been possible through reduction in the cost of material, of freight and of handling charges. The following comparison shows the price of domestic coal delivered in Calgary in 1921 and 1924:

"Domestic lump coal	$11.00	$9.50
Stove coal	8.50	8.25
Nut	6.75	7.50
	(stove nut)
Screened pea	No price in 1921	5.75

"Domestic lump coal constitutes approximately 60 per cent of the average domestic mine output; stove, nut and screened pea 25 per cent. Slack, which averages in price from 25c to 75c per ton f.o.b. mine, 15 per cent.

"Your fourth question is:

"'Why is the price of domestic coal in Calgary $2 to $3.50 per ton more than in Edmonton? Calgary price runs from $7.50 to $10 per ton, while in Edmonton the price runs from $5.50 to $6.50 per ton.'

"Calgary is supplied by coal all of which carries freight, that from Drumheller, for example, being $1.70 per ton, and from Lethbridge $1.90. Edmonton is supplied for domestic purposes by mines some of which are in the city of Edmonton, which have no freight to pay, but deliver their coal by team. The larger part of the Edmonton supply comes from the Clover Bar field, from which the freight rate is only 65 cents per ton.

In addition to this disadvantage so far as Calgary is concerned, both Drumheller and the Lethbridge fields are mining under the contract with the United Mine Workers of America at the scale of wages set out in reply to question one. The Edmonton district does not deal with the same organization and does not pay the same wages, as the following comparison indicates:

	United Mine Workers of America per day	Edmonton Scale per day
Day wage miners	$7.50	$5.00—$5.60
Timbermen and tracklayers	7.50	5.00—5.60
Laborers, underground	6.89	4.80
Blacksmiths	8.14	5.60
Laborers above—ground	6.58	4.00—4.32

"Your fifth question is:

"'The following figures taken from the Labor Gazette show the wages paid to employes in coal mines in Alberta, Nova Scotia and Vancouver Island. For every class of labor, wages in Alberta are materially higher than in other coal fields. What is the reason for this?'

"The reason why wages in Alberta are materially higher than in Nova Scotia or Vancouver Island is because they were increased to a greater extent during the war and because both in the Vancouver Island and the Nova Scotia fields the employes have accepted reductions from the peak wages while in the mines in Alberta under United Mine Workers of America jurisdiction they have not.

"Vancouver Island is not under the United Mine Workers of America. The Nova Scotia field is.

"The greater part of the Nova Scotia production is used outside of that province in territory in which there is keen competition with American coal. This factor has been recognized by the officers of the United Mine Workers of America in Nova Scotia and the wage scale has been confined to reasonable limits which would enable the mines in that province to operate.

"No such consideration has been given by the United Mine Workers of America to conditions in Alberta, although the steam coal business is competitive with American production of coal and fuel oil; and the domestic business competitive not only with Ameican production but with mines within the province of Alberta not under the United Mine Workers of America jurisdiction, paying wages from $2 to $3 per man per day less, and producing as much coal in total output in 1923 as the union domestic mines produced.

"Your sixth question is:

"'The impression prevails in the public mind from newspaper reports of the negotiations between the miners and operators that not very much effort was made to reach a settlement and this is probably due to the apparent short time any negotiations were carried on. Why were negotiations not continued and efforts made to reach a settlement?'

"The negotiations were not continued because the parties had apparently reached a deadlock beyond which it was impossible to go. The representatives of the United Mine Workers of America based their demand for a three year agreement on the existing wage scale with certain adjustments which would add to the cost of production on the fact that a three year contract had been negotiated by the international officers of the United Mine Workers of America at Jacksonville, Florida, covering certain district in the United States.

"The operators' association proposed a reduction of the cost of living or war bonus of $1.17 per employe per day on a contract for one year, and cited in support of that proposal:

"1. The reduction in the cost of living as shown by the figures of the federal department of labor.

"2. The competition of mines in the province of Alberta operating in direct opposition to the association mines and paying a wage scale of $2 to $3 per employe per day less.

"3. The competition of American mines supplying over 50 per cent of a market in Western Canada which could be supplied by mines in this province.

"4. The extension of the use of fuel oil by railways which formerly used coal mined in this district.

"5. The duty of 53 cents per ton on coal exported which restricts the market for our coal in the United States.

"6. The lower wage scale paid in the state of Washington, on Vancouver Island and in central British Columbia.

"7. The excessive wage scale paid to surface employes such as carpenters, mechanics, engineers, firemen, laborers, etc., as compared to the scale paid to similar workmen in other industries.

"8. The decision of the Knowles' Conciliation Board in 1922. which recommended a reduction of 27½ per cent in wages, but was rejected by the miners, although the award had been concurred in by their representative on the conciliation board.

"The above proposal by the operators' association and the arguments in support of it were met invariably by the representatives of the United Mine Workers of America with the statement that a three-year agreement had been negotiated in the central competitive field (Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Western Pennsylvania) in the United States at the existing wage scale and that no other basis would be considered by them in this district.

"The association felt that its proposal for a reduction by the amount of the cost of living bonus of $1.17 per day deserved consideration. It represented little more than a quarter of the increases received by the men between 1916 and 1920. It was justified not only by the reduced cost of living, but by the economic and competitive conditions under which the association mines are operating.

"The demand of the United Mine Workers of America for a continuance of a war time wage for three years longer the association felt was indefensible. It ignored the conditions in this district and admitted of no argument on these conditions. Its defence, its only defence in fact, was that a similar settlement had been made in certain states by the same union.

"Under these circumstances the continuance of negotiations seemed to be useless.

"Yours truly,
"R. M. YOUNG,
"Secretary."

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

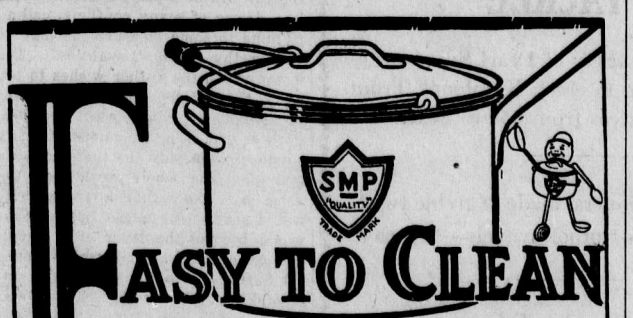
Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES



For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

CONDEMNED IN BRITAIN

A proposal emanating from the Liberal party in Britain that proportional representation should be put into force has been defeated decisively in the house of commons. The Liberals anticipated that the gratitude of the Labor party for their support would have meant its votes for proportional representation, but in this they were disappointed. The Laborites voted in sufficient numbers against the plan. It now develops that the Liberals only decided two days before bringing the matter up in parliament to make proportional representation a plank in their platform. It was a sudden thought, and possibly put forward as a test of Labor friendship to the Liberals. Common sense prevailed in the House of Commons in the defeat of the proposal. Proportional representation has been tried in Britain already, and with unsatisfactory results. Both the Dutchess of Atholl and Mr. Hardie, a Labor member for one of the Glasgow divisions, told of the experiment in school board elections. Mr. Morrison, the Labor member for Banbury, condemned its working as applied to trade union committees. Sir Charles Oman condemned the scheme from his experience of its workings in university elections, and Sir Malcolm Macnaughten said the electors in the North of Ireland were unanimously opposed to it. The last two of these had originally been supporters of proportional representation but after experience of its practical working they had been converted into opponents.

The tone of the house of commons on the subject would indicate that it is a dead issue and already the Liberals are being urged to drop it from their platform. They are already seeing that they blundered in suddenly taking up a "bankrupt" scheme. Proportional representation is not favored in a country that, for one thing, is not given to dallying with fads. Wherever on a small scale in British countries it has been tried it has been found wanting. It has never anywhere fulfilled the expectations of its proponents and there is hardly a doubt that it has the effect of keeping people away from the polls.

B. C. AGRICULTURE

Compilation of the agricultural statistics of British Columbia for the year 1923 has just been completed by the department of agriculture under Hon. E. D. Barrow. An increase in value is shown of nearly $4,000,000 over 1922. The value of all agricultural products for 1923 was $59,159,000. Live stock increased from $14,500,000 in 1922 to $15,920,000 last year. Dairy products increased by over $1,250,000, being $9,234,000 as against $8,000,000 in 1922.

The total fruit production shows an increase of 11,100,000, last year's value being $6,034,000, as compared with $4,915,000 in 1922. Vegetables showed a slight increase, as did grain.

OTTAWA MUST BE RESPONSIBLE

Public opinion is crystallizing all over the country to the point that the government of Canada must be held responsible for the losses suffered by Canadian citizens in the collapse of the Home Bank.

The evidence is abundantly clear that members of the government at that time were fully aware of the condition of the bank.

Yet, knowing a collapse to be imminent, these members not only permitted operations to continue, but permitted the good name of the Dominion to continue to stand behind those operations.

The government of Canada certainly cannot be held responsible for the failure of every little penny-ante financial concern in the Dominion. But it must be held responsible for allowing an institution to bring loss to individuals who recognize in the government's inspection system a tacit government guarantee of soundness.

If the government does not realize its responsibilities to losers in the Home Bank fiasco, it will lose something that has hitherto been invaluable in Canadian business — public confidence that a government guarantee is worth something.—Vancouver Sun.

What do other eyes see?

Ask and answer this question honestly

Your mirror can tell you what other eyes see—if you will consult it honestly, and honestly accept its judgment.

But you need not fear its verdict. Because unlovely skin need not remain unlovely. The allurring youthful complexion Nature gave you may be yours today.

Millions of women now follow this simple rule to keep the radiance and beauty of schoolgirl complexion. You can, too.

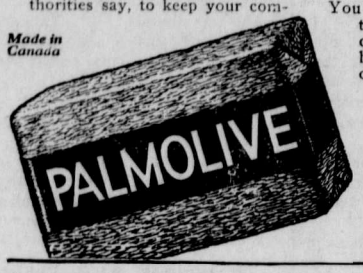
Just this

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, and correct way



You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

Be sure you get Palmolive — which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. After even a short period of this treatment you will see a marked improvement in your skin.

Many now use Palmolive for the bath — letting it do for the whole body what it does for the face.

DIET NOT CAUSE OF CANCER, SAYS DOCTOR

New York, May 27.—Do certain articles of food predispose towards cancer?

"Rubbish!" said Dr. Wood.

There is not the slightest evidence that diet has anything to do with cancer, is the statement attributed to Dr. Francis Carter Wood, head of the Institute of Cancer Research, Columbia University.

The only exception is made in the case of highly seasoned food, which tends to irritate the stomach. Cancer is a universal plague, not only common to people of all races, but to the lower animals as well.

Cancer, according to Dr. Wood, is not a germ disease. By simple living and cleanliness it can be prevented. It is caused by constant irritation of some part of the body, most commonly of the mouth or stomach.

If people generally would follow simple rules of hygiene, Dr. Wood claims that there would be a very great diminution in the actual number of cancer cases, as well as a great falling off in the number of deaths from the disease.

Keep the body scrupulously clean, especially the mouth and teeth, never neglect a cut, burn, bruise or similar slight injury; avoid highly spiced foods and foods that are very hot or very cold. These are Dr. Wood's rules for the prevention of the scourge against which so many warnings have been spoken lately.

REAPING AS THEY SOW

London Morning Post: We are getting the kind of crop that sensible men have always expected from the Socialist thistle. Let us remember that the Socialists have always worked not for industrial peace, but for industrial trouble. They have declared not once, but many times, formally and deliberately, that they want to end, and not to mend, the industrial system. It is possible that they have not quite the courage of their opinion, or, perhaps, they feel that they have not the power to destroy what they call Capitalism at a blow; but they are nibbling at it very industriously. If they were out to help our industries and not to injure them, would they be sweeping away almost every vestige of such poor Protection as our manufacturers possess?

RICH, CLEAN, SWEET and PURE!

Carnation is twice as rich as ordinary milk. It is just 100 per cent cows' milk with about 60 per cent of the natural water evaporated away.

Scrupulously clean condenseries and the Carnation method of sealing in air-tight tins and sterilizing, render it always safe, sweet and pure.

You can dilute the double-rich contents of this tin until the quart bottle overflows with pure milk.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

OF grave concern to his thousands of admirers is the fight for health that Billy Sunday is making against an illness that threatens not only his evangelistic work but his life. When Mr. Sunday was forced to cease his preaching in Memphis, Tannessee, several days ago a wave of regret swept through the country, but when it was known that he was face to face with a serious illness that regret was transformed into deep sorrow.

Billy Sunday is an outstanding figure in the United States. His way of preaching the gospel is distinctly unique, but even those who do not "like his methods" cannot gainsay the fact that he has done a world of good.

HOW many of us stop when we say "Good Morning" to think what that phrase means? Nobody knows how it started, but he or she to whom the idea first came was a poet. For in those two words lives the essence of a prayer. Of course we who say it hope that our own morning may be "Good," that goes without saying. But do we go a step further, and breathe a prayer that the day of those we meet may also be filled with happiness? The full phrase of our ancestors was "God give thee good morrow."

This would be a great old world if we really meant what we said, if when we greeted our acquaintances, we really wanted their days to be filled with the joy of living. If we did, we'd go out and help to make them so.

THERE is no room in the breast of a newspaper editor for malice. He, of all men, learns the lesson of forbearance. He spends a lot of time each day, if his paper is a daily, in keeping out of the papers items that would hurt, or bring a blush of shame or sadden unnecessarily the heart of some wife or mother or friend.

FACES tell many a story. Right living and good hearts make kind faces. Innocence glows in the face of the pure. Wicked hearts, if there are any, blacken the features. Every day of our lives we are recording acts on our faces to be read by the world.

A former German executioner, who performed his offices upon 123 unfortunates, has just blown out his own brains. The "rash act" was not due to the fact that conscience had made a coward of a man. Looking at the matter from an abstract point of view, we should say that some courage and not a little nerve are necessary to enable a person to look a loaded gun in the mouth, especially when there is a hand upon the trigger that means business. The German executioner killed himself because he had lost his job and was hungry. Now that imperialism is under a cloud in Germany, chopping off heads has apparently gone out of fashion. Two former executioners recently killed thmselves. The conditions of Germany compared with the conditions in Russia indicate that the people of the two nations are somewhat different in temperament. Both countries have felt the throes of revolution; but in Russia it is necessary to enlist the services of the army there are so many offenders to be dealt with summarily.

COAL OPERATOR QUESTIONS SHERMAN'S FIGURES

In the course of an interview with the Calgary Herald on Wednesday, W. S. Henderson, one of the largest operators in the Drumheller-Wayne district, and a member of the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association, scouted the suggestion that the return to work of a few small domestic mines would have any effect in hastening the end of the strike at association mines.

"The five mines in our district," said Mr. Henderson, "that are mentioned by Wm. Sherman, are small producers, whose total output would not exceed three or four cars a day. They are not members of the association, and were, I believe, quite willing on March 31 to continue working on the old scale until such time as a new wage scale had been made with the association.

"Mr. Sherman, at that time, took the position that it would be unfair to the association to permit these mines to continue operating," he said, "but has now changed his mind, obviously with the idea that their resumption of operation will influence the mines who are members of the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association.

"I am quit sure it will not, any more than it would have if they had continued without interruption since March."

Mr. Henderson said that the Saunders mines had never been in the association and were in the same position as the small Drumheller mines to which he had referred, while the Footmill Colleries was a small company in the Yellowhead district, producing about 25,000 tons a year. It did not belong to the association.

"There are many non-union mines operating in Alberta," said Mr. Henderson, "which have been operating with little or no interruption since we closed down, and the mines Mr. Sherman refers to will add perhaps 100,000 tons in annual production of those already working. If Mr. Sherman's object is to give as much work as possible to the mines outside of the association at the expense of the mines with which his organization usually makes its contracts, he is going the right way about it."

As to the number of men involved in the mines which are now reported as starting up, Mr. Henderson stated that the number was nearer 250 than 1000, as stated by Mr. Sherman.

From another source it was learned that the arrangements under which these mines have resumed work provides that whatever settlement is ultimately made with the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association will be put into effect at those mines. It was learned also that although the arrangement had been made, work had not actually been resumed, and that the date of resumption was in some cases indefinite.

THE BEER PLEBISCITE

Vancouver, May 27.—There is a common and mistaken belief that a provincial majority in favor of beer by the glass, soon to be voted on, will make the Act operative throughout the province, according to Gordon Ross, secretary of the Moderation League, which is sponsoring the measure. He points out that there is a definite local option feature to the Act and that each municipality must make its own choice in this regard. Only those places giving a majority in favor of the measure will be given the facilities for procuring draught beer by the glass which the bill affords.

CRANBROOK B.P.O. ELKS

(Cranbrook Courier)

Tuesday was a red letter day in Elkdom in Cranbrook, the occasion being the institution here of an Elks lodge. The "Hello Bill" sign was everywhere in evidence, with banners and cards placarded all over the town. Fernie, which only recently organized, sent along 50 members for the Cranbrook ceremony, most of the Fernie contingent motoring up for the initiation ceremony, which took place in the Auditorium Tuesday evening.

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler R. J. Gordon, of Kelowna, Past Exalted Ruler A. S. Swift of Penticton and Lecturing Knight W. J. Duncan, of Penticton, were present to assist in the installation ceremony of the local lodge.

The local order will be known as Cranbrook Lodge, No. 86.

What are the objects of the order? Fashioned on common ground for common good, Elkdom seeks to bring to the surface the best in manhood. It seeks to build character in manhood and promotes good fellowship in communities such as Cranbrook. Its principles are similar to that of Rotary, Gyro and similar clubs.

Here's hoping that the Elks will fulfill their mission in Cranbrook, that they will grow and prosper, and extend the hand of fellowship in building up a better and greater Cranbrook and East Kootenay.

SUFFERS NO MORE WITH HEADACHES

"Fruit-a-tives" freed her from years of pain

The Fruit Treatment seems to be the only way of completely ridding the system of the cause of Headaches.

Miss Annie Ward, of 112 Hazen St., St. John, N.B., says: "I was a great sufferer for many years from Nervous Headaches and Constipation. I tried everything, but nothing seemed to help me until I tried "Fruit-a-tives".

After taking several boxes, I was completely relieved and have been well ever since".

Practically all Headaches come from poisoned blood—that is, the blood is laden with impurities which should be carried from the body by the kidneys and bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives"—made from the juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes—regulate the vital organs of the body—insure a pure blood supply—and completely relieve Headaches.

COMPLAINER JAILED

Vancouver, May 28.—A unique legal action has arisen over the school at Heriot Bay. Contrary to the law, R. J. Walker, a trustee, loaned the board money, badly needed to build a school house. On the complaint of W. Tester, he was fined $20.

The decision was upset on appeal, and Tester ordered to pay Walker $100 and costs. He did not do so, and was committed to jail under a distress warrant.

He now seeks liberty under a writ of habeas corpus.

A remarkable manifesto from five young Conservative members of the British House of Commons has just been published. It contains these words: "We believe that the world is governed by moral laws which are as certain in their operation as what are called the laws of nature. These moral laws are the reflection of the character of God as revealed in the Christian religion. If men neglect God and the moral law, the fact of God will remain though they and their civilization will perish."

Starting from this premise the manifestants go on to plead that the only basis for social progress is better individuals.

Amidst all the disallusionment that has taken place in Europe since the war, there is one transcendantly hopeful sign, and that is the widespread re-examination of Christianity as the possible solution of the public problems of our times. Before the war Christianity, as such, played but little part in the political life of the nations calling themselves Christian; its influence took effect in the form of political strifes between the followers of different organized denominations rather than in open debate as to the true meaning of Christianity as applied to social problems.

Political parties were largely based upon the religious affiliations of the people; denominationalism crowded, if it didn't efface, Christianity as the motive power. Today there is a great change. Denominationalism is much weaker. Perhaps this is because the human mind is demanding something more hopeful and more satisfying than the shallow panaceas of the politicians or the barren controversies of the theologians. What ever the cause, it is certain that a widely different note from any sounded before the war is beginning to be heard in public life as the before-mentioned manifesto plainly discloses.

In France there is a whole literature growing up to prove the futility of expecting satisfaction from the victories of armies or the triumph of nations,, and looking to religion as the great emancipator. In Germany men are searching philosophies and religions for relief from the intolerable presure of post-war conditions. In Italy the strength of the underlying current, despite the triumph of Fascismo, is, to the discerning eye, equally clear. The anti-religious despotism of the Bolshevists still broods over Russia; but every traveller tells of the religious revival which is going on beneath the surface.

In Great Britain the movement has made further progress into active public life than elsewhere in Europe. The recent conference on the application of Christianity to political, economic and social life attracted very wide attention and discussed most of the arresting problems of the day in a practical and undenominational way. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Mr. Lloyd George have both recently testified that only in the Christian spirit will the world find the solution of the difficulties which beset it, and Mr. Baldwin has said that Christianity is the only road.

These are signs of the times in which we live. The surface of the life of the world is gravely troubled. Never, perhaps, have turmoil and discord been so world-wide. But the message of a better and truer interpretation of Christianity is directing the thoughts of more and more people to the only road by which our personal and social problems can be solved.—Province.

C.N. HEAD OPENS CONGRESS

Canada was given pride of place at Detroit on May 21 on the occasion of the opening of the world motor transport congress, at which forty countries were represented. Sir Henry W. Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, brought to the gathering the greetings of the Dominion, and delivered the principal address of the day on the relation of the motor vehicle to the railways. In addition to the leaders of the automobile industry in the United States, there were present 50 delegates from Germany, 33 from South and Central America, Cuba and Mexico, three from the Union of South Africa and five from New Zealand and Australia.

"This is the happiest augury for the rehabilitation of international commerce that I have seen since the close of the war," said Sir Henry Thornton in describing the gathering. An honest attempt was now being made to develop the economic possibilities of the motor vehicle as a transportation facility, with a view to assigning it to its proper place in the general transportation structure. He was in hearty agreement with the view that the best interest of the public and the rail, water and motor carriers lay inco-operation between the various agencies of transportation, rather than in wasteful competition.

It has been demonstrated, said the speaker, that the motor vehicle can handle a certain limited class of passenger traffic, thereby supplementing the existing railway passenger accommodation and, in some cases, permitting the railways to eliminate altogether or at least reduce the volume of non-remunerative passenger service. From the standpoint of the transportation of freight however, the motor truck promised to develop into a factor of considerable importance in connection with short-haul freight traffic between centres of population, relieving congested terminal conditions, and carrying a large amount of farm, dairy and fruit products.

THE WHITE-BREAD PLAGUE

White bread and other highly refined foods are to blame for 90 per cent of all human ailments.

Unrefined wheat from the field contains all the elements for life, health and growth. Chickens, mice and guinea pigs, fed on natural wheat live and thrive indefinitely. Fed on white bread they die in from five to seven weeks.

The reason white bread lacks nourishing qualities is the fact that the milling process removes eight of the sixteen essential elements from wheat and destroys four others to the extent of 75 per cent.

From ground grains three-fourths of the mineral salts and colloids are taken, including iron, phosphorus, manganese, fluorine, sulphur, calcium, magnesium, chlorine and potassium. These are contained in the outer skin, the germs of the berry and in the cells underneath the skin. The milling process sifts these out and leaves only starchy cells as indigestible as so much wood pulp.

Sensible men will give their own stomachs at least an even break with the stomachs of their live stock by demanding breads that contain ALL the life-giving elements that old Mother Nature put into wheat.—Vancouver Sun.

BARREN PROMISES

Toronto Telegram: Professed object of every tariff reduction is to help the farmers and the primary producers. Effect of every tariff reduction has been to drive thousands of skilled workmen out of the country in search of employment, while the farming sections of the community which were supposed to directly benefit have experienced three or four of the worst years in their history. Policy of the free trade theorists carried out to its logical conclusion will reduce the industrial centres to a string of Hudson's Bay posts, their chief occupation being the distribution of supplies to the natives.

MINAKI, THE BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY

THE Indian, with a natural aptitude for conferring upon places names which were appropriate to their setting, called it "Mee-Naw-Kee, the Beautiful Country." The white man who follows in his footsteps, but who enjoys the comforts of Minaki Inn, the splendid hostelry operated by the Canadian National Railways, agrees with the Indian's name and his estimate of beauty. For Minaki, because of its beauty and charm of simplicity, is drawing more and more Canadian and American tourists to itself year by year.

Canada is famed for her beauty spots, but none has sweeter charm for the holiday-seeker than has Minaki, situated on a green-clad promontory jutting out into the Winnipeg River. Natural beauty of woodland, lake and river scenery greet the eye the moment one leaves the Continental Limited, the all-steel train of the Canadian National Railways. Starting from Minaki Inn, and at each turn of the woodland trails, there is a new vista of glorious greens, toned by the blue of the Winnipeg River, upon whose wavelets the sun plays Beyond, with distance gradually shading the colors to a bluish grey, the visitor sees a panorama of timber-clad hills, which extend to the very shores of Hudson Bay.

By day, Minaki presents to the visitor a glorious succession of blues, greys and greens; in the sunset hour it is a veritable dream; at night, particularly with a moon shining through the trees, there is a new charm—the charm of resting nature, when, the air laden with the tang of spruce, one rests lazily and hears the ripple of the Winnipeg River against the shores.

Minaki has charms for the holiday maker whether he or she seeks bathing, boating or fishing or just simply healthful rest. Fish are plentiful, and Minaki is a place where all the big ones do not get away; extended water trips by canoe or motor boat may be had at leisure and there are sandy beaches for the bathers. In addition there are tennis courts, golf course, dancing pavilion. and other attractions, so that no matter what the visitor's tastes may be, there is something to appeal at Minaki.

FAITH HEALING

The Archbishop of Canterbury has been isuing a warning in regard to faith healing, and coming from such a source what he says must be respected. There is, he says, a vastness and a mystery about the whole question which does not seem to be realized adequately by those who write so easily and dogmatically on the subject. Of one thing he seems to be sure and that is that there is the need for co-operating with and being thankful for the gifts given to and exercised by the men — doctors and surgeons—upon whom so much depends in regard to matters of sickness. He alludes to the curious fact that people speak and write as if the subject of prayer and its bearing upon physical and mental health is a new one. It has been a subject of controversial discussion for a great number of years. There are matters connected with the ministry of healing, and particularly, in respect to anointing the sick, which he believes call for very grave caution. He does not think that the public are quite taking in the way in which the development of thought and the interest in the knowledge of psychology bears upon the whole question of prayer for the restoration of health and comfort in a medical direction. The apprehension and fear is that people may be doing rash things and inculcating and encouraging action which may be undesirable if they are to go the length some of them are urged to go regarding their share in promoting such measures as physical anointing which belongs to the ministry of healing.

The Archbishop disourages promoting ideas for which no sanction is found in the Bible. He deprecates the whole attitude of half-informed people towards the doctrine of seeking the guidance of God in the curing of human ills. He admits that we are in the presence of new ranges of thought which are constantly changing knowledge of the spiritual, the psychical and the physical, but care must be exercised in cutting with any rough instrument into this network of complex organization. In a sense, he says, there is a complete ignorance of the range of thought into which people seem to be advancing or groping their way. There is, therefore, a danger in the adoption now of usages to which they are not accustomed. What is wanted is more thought on the whole subject, more prayer, exceeding watchfulness and exceeding caution. His Grace, in effect, urges a restraining influence, and that is what is grievously needed because there are too many who are growing too neurotic on the subject of faith healing. To the extent that doctors believe in this method there is truth, but the belief can be carried too far. In any case there is a good deal, if not everything, yet to be learned on the sobject, and the warning of the Archbishop of Canterbury should not fall on deaf ears, especially since it is a warning that has been issued in different forms as well by the highest dignitaries in churches other than the Church of England.

B.C. HISTORY IN PICTURES

Eight large canvasses, depicting scenes in the history of British Columbia, are to be painted by John Innes. They will be hung in the halls of the new University buildings at Point Grey as a permanent loan collection to be known as "The Native Sons of B.C. and Hudson's Bay company loan collection." The work will occupy two years.

The work was made possible through the kindness and co-operation of the Hudson's Bay Company, in financing the undertaking to the extent of $10,000.

In order that the inspirational character of the pictures may be utilized to the fullest extent in building up a spirit of appreciation of the difficulties of pioneering the province, the paintings were offered as a permanent loan collection to British Columbia's University.

It is anticipated that reproductions of the paintings will be made when the series is complete. These will be featured in the new home, in the shape of an old trading post, which the Native Sons propose to erect to house their lodge, and a public museum and art gallery. The idea of having the history of the province painted originated with the grand historian of the order.

The subjects to be painted are:

The meeting of Captain George Vancouver and Lieut. Peter Puget with the Spaniards, Galiano and Valdez, off Point Grey, on the morning of June 22, 1792.

Alexander Mackenzie recording on a rock the success of his journey overland to the waters of the Pacific, being the first white man to lead such an expedition across the continent north of Mexico. He inscribed on the rock (recently located): "Alexander Mackenzie, from Canada, by land, the 22nd of July, 1793."

Sir James Douglas being sworn in by Chief Justice Begbie as Governor of British Columbia, Nov. 19, 1859, at Fort Langley.

Tentative approval was given to three other subjects:

Discovery of Williams Creek.

Defence of China Bar of besieged miners.

DELAY WILD HORSE DRIVE

Quesnel, May 26.—The wild horses on the ranges of the Cariboo have been given three months' grace. The big land owners in the country in co-operation with the government representatives, have been "out for their scalps" for some time. Sentence was passed on them long ago, but it is found that it is difficult to carry the sentence out.

No one is asking for mercy for the animals in the district or petitioning for clemency, but the carrying out of the decree of extinction is frustrated by various snags. The range of territory over which they hold sway is extensive, and also difficult to travel. The scouting parties sent out last winter to locate the wild horses in their different haunts were able to get in touch with many bands and to get a good idea of the work involved in assembling and capturing the animals. Much valuable information was obtained from the reports of these advance guards but they go to show that a thorough cleanup of the wild horse menace is no easy job. The snow in many places was so deep that the enumerators could not get near the glens and plateaus where the horses roamed.

Enough light has been supplied on the subject to lead to the conclusion that there are several thousands of these animals at large, destroying the range for the rachers' cattle as well as bringing about the deterioration of the domestic horse. At a meeting of the cattlemen in the vicinity of Clinton held last week at the 50 Mile House, it was decided to postpone the big round-up until August and in the meantime a large corrall, four miles square, is to be constructed in the vivinity of Green Lake, into which thousands of horses will be driven by the most expert lairat handlers in the Cariboo.

Here they will be disposed of by auction and it is conceded that, except in the case of very fine animals, the average price will be $5. The rest will be shot.

It is claimed that if this work had been done in the early spring it would have been a great boon to the numerous packs of coyotes in the country and that it would have turned their attention aside from the lambs and calves on the ranches.

Like all nature in the Cariboo, the wild horse bands are looking their best at present with their new coats. At the beginning of the spring they are woolly and shaggy, but as the spring advances the old winter clothing is shed and the new glossy short hair garment is ready in its place.

As tourist traffic in the Cariboo will be at its maximum in August, it is expected that many outsiders will be present at the final disposition of the wild horse trouble. It is also stated that different moving picture companies are eager to film the performance.

METALLIC CLOUDS IN SPACE

Throuyhtout the vast supposed "emptiness" of space, there are clouds of extremely rare vapors of the metals calcium and sodium. This new theory has been presented to astronomers by Dr. J. S. Plaskett, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Victoria, B.C., who recently announced his conclusions and offered his data to the Royal Astronomical Society in London. Says Science Service's Daily News Bulletin, Washington:

"For a long time it has been known that some of the very hottest stars, when their light was analyzed in the spectroscope showed the presence of calcium, that did not belong to the stars themselves. For the spectroscope revealed the fact that while the stars often had considerable velocities, the calcium seemed to be almost at rest. Moreover, this calcium persisted in appearing in just those stars where theories of stellar composition indicate it should not. In explanation, some astronomers suggested that the stars are surrounded by an envelop of calcium gas belonging to the stars themselves. Others proposed that the calcium clouds were lying between us and the stars. The observations, however, were so meager and contradictory that no definite conclusions could be arrived at. Dr. Plaskett's observations indicate that although extremely rare clouds of calcium and sodium vapor are lying around in space everywhere, they are only noticed in the neighborhood of stars. This is because surrounding these stars completely they intercept some of their light. The clouds appear to be perfectly at rest in space, acting as a sort of misty envelop of the stars, a space-fog, which positively can condense in spots and give rise to those peculiar dark nebulae which have long puzzled astronomers."

NEW C. G. M. M. SERVICE

The management of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine announces that there will be inaugurated a service from Montreal to Japan and China for the carriage of general cargo, commencing with the sailing of the Canadian Importer, June 12. This service will be maintained on a monthly basis thereafter, sailings being transferred to Halifax or St. John after the close of the St. Lawrence season. The itinerary will be Montreal, Victoria, Vancouver, Yokohama and Shanghai.

Here and There

E. W. Beatty, K.C.

The annual statement of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the report which the company's president, E. W. Beatty, made to the shareholders at the annual meeting are matters of first rate interest, not only to the fast growing number of Canadian citizens who are part owners in the great railroad, but to all interested in Canadian progress and development. By reason of the way in which the company's operations touch all phases of Canadian life and enterprise there can be no pronounced depression or prosperity in any part of the country without its being reflected in the earnings of the Canadian Pacific. There is a barometer of the country's foreign trade also in the results of the operations of the company's steamships upon the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Thus there was considerable reason for gratification in the president's statement made at the annual meeting on May 7th, that the operations of the company had been conducted throughout 1923 in a satisfactory manner and with satisfactory results. Mr. Beatty pointed out that gross earnings for the year, which had totalled $195,837,089, were greater by $9,162,000 than those of 1923. Working expenses, however, increased by $7,984,000 to $158,358,079. This large increase in operating costs was due to large expenditures made upon the property in order that it might be kept to the highest possible physical standard and capable of rendering the best possible service to the community. As a result the property was never in so excellent a condition as it now is. Net earnings for the year were $37,479,010, an increase of $1,177,000.

The total tonnage moved by the company during the year amounted to 30,852,994, an increase over that of the previous year of 3,108,408, due to a heavier movement of grain, lumber, manufactured articles and general merchandise, the largest increase being in grain and grain products. Mr. Beatty pointed out that this satisfactory condition had extended well into the present year and that due to favorable operating conditions and heavy traffic net earnings for the first quarter of 1924 had increased over those of the same period last year by $1,253,814.

Referring to the Government system of railroads, Mr. Beatty said that the difference between it and the Canadian Pacific was largely in name only and in the accident of personnel of shareholders. The securities of both systems were owned by private investors throughout the world and there was a significant steady increase in both Canadian and British holdings of Canadian Pacific common stock. Two phases of the general railway situation called for criticism. Under a statute passed in 1919 the Government-owned lines may construct branches without approval as to location and other details by the Railway Commission. Thus they may parallel or duplicate existing lines of any other company once the Minister approves and parliament authorizes the expenditure. Mr. Beatty stated that in his opinion it was equally in the interests of the Canadian people and of all Canadian railroads that the companies should be in the same position in this respect. The other phase was the result of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement of 1897. It had established special statuary freight rates under conditions of operating costs which no longer exist and differences in rates which would not be permitted under the general Railway Act because of their unfairness in relation to commodity rates on other articles and to the rates effective in other parts of Canada. The greatest advantage to shippers as a whole would be secured if all rates were made subject to review and change as conditions warrant by the tribunal constituted for that purpose.

In referring to the outlook for the future, Mr. Beatty said that while there was a noticeable lull in domestic and export shipments due in part to unsettlement in industrial districts, general business during the first quarter of the year had been satisfactory. The crop acreage would probably be about the same as last year and, generally speaking, soil conditions were excellent. "If the total yield approaches that of 1923," said Mr. Beatty, "there will undoubtedly be a very extensive autumn business and a vastly improved psychological and financial situation throughout the whole country. There is no real ground for pessimism in respect of the future of either the company or the country, though an extraordinary and too rapid advance is neither to be expected nor desired."

SYSTEM IS TO BLAME

In countries under the British flag the old theory of the King's justice prevails. The judges are the deputies of the sovereign for the purpose of carrying out the law. In Great Britain the Royal Standard, not the national flag, the Union Jack, flies over the courts where His Majesty's judges sit at the assizes.

Of course, in practice the King's judges are the people's judges just as the King's ministers are the people's ministers, but the old system has so far been retained that judges are appointed, nominally by the sovereign, actually by a government responsible to the people, and not elected by the popular vote.

Across the border another rule prevails. The judges there, with the sole exception of those of the U.S. Supreme Court, are elected. That means that they must be politicians quick to feel the public pulse and at times, consciously or unconsciously, influence is their decision by the prevailing mood of public opinion.

Probably the rights of the citizens under Magna Charta are not often defeated in the United States by justice being sold, but that justice is delayed and, in effect, often denied is the open scandal of the courts there.

Only a day or two ago Secretary of State Hughes declared that in consequence of the lax administration of the law by the courts life and property in the republic were altogether too insecure.

It is a noteworthy fact that the U.S. Supreme Court has never suffered from aspersions directed against its honor and integrity. And the U.S. Supreme Court is the one American court the members of which are secure in their seats no matter what political storms rage.

That the British courts and the U.S. Supreme Court stand on the same high level of secure and splendid reputation is no mere coincidence nor is the cause far to seek. Only men who have no one to fear and no favor to seek can administer justice without fear and without favor.—Vancouver Sun.

A striking demonstration of the marvelous advance in modern railway transportation and equipment was staged last week when two trains on an American continental line left Chicago for the Pacific Coast. The first train was made up with the equipment of 60 years ago. Wood burning locomotives, rough wooden seats, box cars mixed with passenger coaches, coal oil lamps, stoves, hand brakes and all the old-time features. It was followed by a modern de luxe limited with all the elaborate furnishings known to present day travellers. To feature the contrast the trains were run on the same time schedule.

The tendency of modern taxation legislation seems to be to harry thrift. The ideally perfect taxation would be taxation of expenditure, and especially expenditure on luxuries. Taxation on capital and income is a method the reverse of encouragement to thrift, for a capitalist is one who has not squandered all he possesses, and everyone knows how easy it not to be a capitalist. The financial ability of a nation is weakened when thrift is discouraged.

The forces of nature are contributing toward making Vancouver a great seaport—the wheat-producing soil and climate and sunshine of the prairies and the warm ocean currents that keep the port open the year round. Nothing now can prevent its rapid growth as a grain exporting port. It remains to man to equip the port with the required faicilities to handle the business that will come to it, and to prevent abuses developing that might injure it.—Calgary Herald.

TEST SHIPMENTS OF COAL TO GO TO ONTARIO

Toronto, May 27.—Following a conference yesterday between Premier Ferguson and Earl Lawson, G. H. Kilmour, K.C., and Col. Gordon, the Ontario government's representatives in connection with the investigation going on into Alberta coal rates, it was announced that Ontario and Alberta, jointly, will submit a new proposal to Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, in an effort to get a lower freight rate on western coal into Ontario.

The proposal is that two trainloads of the Alberta coal be sent eastward as a practical and actual test of cost per ton of transportation.

The committee suggested, and the premier agreed, that Ontario should pay $7 a ton freight charges on the test shipment and in case the actual cost exceeds $7, the Dominion govtrnment should pay the extra amount.

Edmonton, May 27.—With reference to the proposal to send two trainloads of coal to Ontario at a $7 rate to be paid by the Ontario government, with the Dominion government paying the additional freight if any, Trade Commissioner Stutchbury, who has been working on a similar proposition on a larger scale, says that he has not received any information as yet on the latest suggestion. During the recent visit of Mr. Stutchbury to the east he submitted to Sir Henry Thornton and the Dominion government a proposal that a similar rate should be given on a hundred thousand tons and if there was a deficit in the actual cost of transportation that this should be made good by the Dominion. It was pointed out that the advent of the Alberta coal, if it served no other purpose in Ontario, would result in a lowering of the price being asked on the American importations.

The argument was apparently well received by the president of the railway and by the minister of mines, Hon. Charles Stewart, to whom the representations to the government were made.

Indian Treasure Hidden at Bon Echo

Long before Jacques Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence to discover Hochelaga, a now-forgotten race of people were making pilgrimages to the Big Rock towering above the waters of Lake Mazinawe in Eastern Ontario to observe religious ceremonies, to worship before this great natural altar and to propitiate the gods who dwelt within its granite mass. In the backwoods now, five hundred years ago the Big Rock of Bon Echo was in the center of the greatest white pine forest the world has ever known and on a main highway between the north and Lake Ontario. There were no backwoods in those days, and the streams were the travel routes for the pagan people who followed the seasonal migrations of the animals with which the forests teemed.

To them the Big Rock at Bon Echo must have been a thing of mystery, as it remains today both to archeologists and geologists. None can reconcile the sheer untouched face with the glacial markings along its top, and in the same way the paintings along the face are an unsolved riddle. "Who put them there"? and "what do they mean"? are unanswered questions. Along the face of the Big Rock a few feet above the waterline are the hieroglyphic records of an unknown people. Painted in a virtually imperishable paint, whose composition is unknown, and which has defied the weathering effected of wind and water, these records baffle the archeologists of the continent.

Whether they have a warlike or religious significance is not known, although some people hold that they record a great victory of the Iroquois over the Hurons and Algonquins and have been written in some involved and mystic code.

A more conservative interpretation claims that the paintings of the Big Rock are trail marks, records of the hunt, signboards for other travellers. The natives of the backcountry claim that they hold the secret to the treasure cave located in the Rock, and that the solution of their riddle would open the entranceway to the long lost silver of the Indians.

From Brockville to Trenton, on the shores of Lake Ontario, the legend of Meyer's Cave has long persisted. The hint of such a cave first came when the Indians from the country to the north brought in bars of native silver to exchange for food and firearms. For years they refused to discuss the source of their wealth with anyone, but in time, a trader by the name of John Meyers, who had been brought up in association with Indians, was able to ingratiate himself into the confidence of two members of the tribe and in exchange for liberal quantities of fire-water, they agreed to conduct him north.

Late in the fall they set out, made their way up the Moira and Skootamatta Rivers, portaged from Loumishtigouche Lake into Lake Mazinawe and came to the Big Rock. Conflicting stories tell of Meyers actual find. One tells of a fissure between two huge masses of rock, a long entranceway through which the trader crawled, and of a cavern at its end. When the fat pine torches carried by his drunken guides illumined the interior Meyers found himself inside an irregular cube fifty feet in size and along whose sides were piled rough cast bars of native silver, as one piled cordword.

The trader took what quantities of the metal he could place in his knapsack and in his pockets, and departed, making as accurate a mental record of the location of the entranceway as he could. His companions would not allow him to blaze a tree, or to place a cairn, for by this time they were becoming frightened over their betrayal of the secret. The small party set out for home but crossing the lake at the headwaters of the Skoot River, their canoe was swamped by a heavy storm, and the Indians abandoned Meyers who had made his way to shore with difficulty. In order to save himself from drowning he was forced to throw away all but a small quantity of silver carried in the pockets of his coat. Without food, his firearms gone, ill, wet and hungry he reached Belleville after ten days hardship. As a result of the exposure he took pneumonia and died in the course of few months.

It is an improbable story but one thing is certain. In the Meyers family there are spoons made from the silver he brought down with him. He left a map, drawn from memory, and in time this fell into the hands of a lawyer, George Merrill, who went north and relocated the cave, in company with another man. Loth to divulge the discovery, he did nothing for some years and when he did return the fires had swept through the backcountry and had altered its typography to such an extent that he was never able to locate it again.

Several comfortable fortunes has been spent trying to locate the cave. One man lived for fourteen years on top of the Big Rock going ever every square inch of it, time and time and again, certain to the day of his death, that his perseverance would be rewarded. Today in a sheltered hollow there are a few rotting logs at right angles to mark his home.

Another expedition spent thousands of dollars scraping the earth off the central portion of the rock, in a vain search for the cave. Once or twice every summer a group of old prospectors will appear at Bon Echo Inn, and armed with pickaxes and hammers, will mysteriously disappear up the iron staircase mounting the Big Rock, certain that at last they are going to find the lost millions. A day or two later they creep down the staircase, climb silently aboard the Canadian Pacific train, and go home as they have come, without the treasure.

And over all the Big Rock watches as it has watched a millions years, serene and indissoluble.

ELKO NOTES

James McLean, E. K. Stewart, Mr. McIntyre and A. I. Fisher motored through Elko in search of stray Liberal votes.

We used to read in school of the famous South Sea Bubble. The school child of the future will read of the famous Elko waterworks, that was not, is not and may never be. Up to the present there has been about $4500 spent, with th eresult that Elko has a few lengths of pipe and a lasting memory of a job well bungled, after all the good public money spent. The whole concern goes back to a company that will charge each householder $2.50 per month for water.

One of our residents stepped from his doorstep, slid two yards, landed on his back, and when we came past was inquiring who was the poundkeeper.

Elko has been connected up with the power line and most of our residences and stores are boasting electric light.

Silver Spring Lake has been the means of blasting many a fisherman's reputation. Tom Prentice and R. Crowe seem to be the only consistent catchers.

There is some talk of shutting down the power plant and cementing the tunnel.

A large number of cars went through Elko to Cranbrook on the 24th—and some got back.

Tom Duncan is wearing a big smile now he has got the lights. It will grow some when he sees the water running.

A visitor went into one of our stores and asked for water. The storekeeper said: We can give you lemonade, orange crush or ginger ale. But the motorist said, I want to put it in the radiator of my car. Well, all we have to say is, he is still running.

R. Hirtz has returned from the oil fields and gives a very optimistic report on the Beck Petroleum holdings.

General Ben Butler once said that he "would sooner be right than president." Former Vice-President Marshall declares that he "would not be president if they handed it to me." Many aspirants are willing to sacrifice conscientious scruples and personal comfort for the glory of the state.

MICHEL NOTES

The miners in this locality are very uneasy over the strike situation and unless matters are brought to a head at once threaten to take a hand themselves and bring about a settlement.

James McLean and E. K. Stewart, his campaign manager, visited Natal this week and took a trip up the valley looking for support for their candidate. Dr. Bonnell, the Conservative candidate, was also seen in this neighborhood on at least two occasions lately.

Mrs. Robt. Winstanley is spending a few days with her mother in Fernie.

Micky McLean had a narrow escape from being mobbed in Corbin the other day. Someone took him for the Liberal candidate and just now a Liberal is about as popular in Corbin as a rattlesnake. In Corbin they have a road grievance.

MICHEL PYTHIAN SISTERS

On Monday, May 19, Alexandra Temple held their regular meeting, when Grand Chief Mrs. Irene Stien was present. Much credit was given the Temple for the work done. After business a banquet was held, when some 75 sisters and brothers sat down to a good repast. Visiting sisters were present from Fernie and Blairmore. A short program followed and the Grand Chief gave a splendid address.

The power to work a miracle would not be nearly so useful a power to put into our hands as the power to go about doing good, which is put into them.—Dr. McDowell.

The true calling of the Christian is not to do extraordinary things, but to do ordinary things in an extraordinary way. The most trivial tasks can be accomplished in a noble, gentle, regal spirit, which overrides and puts aside all petty, paltry feelings, and elevates little things. — Dean Stanley.

ASK COUNCIL FOR GRANT

The first June meeting of the city council was held on Thursday evening, with Mayor Henderson in the chair. Ald. Stewart was the only absentee.

E. S. Martin, H. E. Douglas and Mrs. L. K. S. Herchmer, on behalf of the Fernie Library Board, waited upon the council, requesting financial assistance to carry on the library work. They stated that under the present method of soliciting subscriptions to meet expenses, the library had a present liability of $230.50, added that the matter would be there would be an additional liability of $197.00, while only $69.00 in library fees would be due in the same period, making a total deficit at the end of the year of $358.50. To put the library on a sound financial basis, they requested the city to make a grant of $350 for this year and at the next civic election to submit a by-law whereby an annual grant of $500 would be made to the library.

Mayor Henderson stated, that in his opinion, the city would not be justified in making any grant whatever to the library while in their present financial condition, pointing out that there were only 93 members of the library, and were the city to grant $350 it would be at the rate of approximately $3.50 per member, but added that the mater would be placed before the council for their consideration.

Mayor Henderson on account of leaving the city on the evening train for the east, retired from the chair and Acting Mayor Irvine took his place.

The question of a grant to the Library Board was tabled for one month.

City Clerk Moffatt stated that the applicants for water in the Annex Extension wished to be made clear as to the amount which would be credited to their water acounts if they laid the pipe line to their dwellings as authorized at last council meeting. He was informed that it was the intention of the council to credit the cost of the pipe and an amount equal to this for the labor in laying same.

Chief of Police Anderson submitted his report on the dairies supplying milk in the municipality. It stated that all premises were being kept in good condition and that the owners were apparently making every effort to comply with the regulations laid down. The following is the percentage of butter fat as shown by tests made upon samples of milk submitted:

John Anderson—3.2.
Nat Valley—3.4.
Fred Street—3.4.
Sam Lockwood—4.0.
E. Martenson—3.8.
Wm. Phillips—3.8.
Mrs. Payne—3.4.
J. W. Eckersley—3.8.
John Polak—3.4.
Oscar Okej—3.0.

A motion was passed requesting the Attorney General to give the city police jurisdiction over the Annex Extension, the North End and West Fernie.

A letter was read from H. Parsons, a resident of Fernie Annex, just outside of the city limit, requesting fire protection from the city. It was impossible to grant this request as a by-law at present on the city books states that the fire department will not go outside the city limits except when life is in danger.

The usual accounts were pased for payment.

WELL BABY CLINIC

Mrs. A. Cummings, the convenor of the committee for child hygiene in the Fernie Local Council of Women, announces that the second Well Baby clinic will be held on Monday next, June 9, from 2 to 4 p.m. in the council chamber. All mothers are invited to bring their babies and their little children under school age to be weighed and measured, to take part in the discussion and to receive free books and pamphlets about health and the prevention of sickness. Acting on the advice of Dr. Young, of the Provincial Board of Health at Victoria, the child hygiene committee have asked the Fernie doctors to take it in turn to come to the Well Baby clinic to examine the hearts and chests of the little ones and to give individual advice on the prevention of disease. All the doctors, without exception, have very kindly and very generously consented to give their services and take their turn to be the Well Baby clinic doctor each month.

Much disease and ill-health can be prevented if children are weighed and measured and examined by a doctor when they are apparently well, so the child hygiene committee hope to see as many mothers and children as possible next Monday at the clinic in the council chamber of the city hall.

The committee will be assisted by the school nurse and volunteer helpers from the Daughters of the Empire and other organizations of Fernie. Any woman interested in child hygiene and in the progress of Fernie, is cordially invited to come Monday afternoon, even if she does not bring a baby to be weighed.

Mothers who came last month should again bring their children to see if they have gained in weight.

DR. BONNELL APPEALS FOR SUPPORT

To the Electors of the Fernie Provincial Riding :

My Dear Elector—On the 20th inst. it will be your duty to elect a representative from this constituency to represent you in the Provincial Parliament. It is a matter of vital importance to the Province, to this particular constituency and to each individual, who that representative will be. I am asking for your suffrage on the grounds that the Oliver Government has been frightfully reckless in their expenditures of public money and careless in their administration.

The present government took office toward the latter days of the war and the obligation to economize has been upon it every day of its existence to an extent that no other Government in the history of the Province has ever been involved This is the way the Oliver regime has fulfilled that supreme obligation:

It has increased expenditures from less than $11,000,000 a year to more than $20,000,000 a year.

It has increased the net debt from $19,000,000 odd to $59,-000,000 odd.

It has exacted from the taxpayers in seven years the terrific sum of $105,616,683.

It has borrowed $52,294,500.

It has spent in seven years the colossal sum of $157,911,183.

We also find that the Government has been using its office and the public money in a way which does not meet with the approval of the great body of tax-payers. For example, in 1921-22 the Liberal Government called for tenders on 62 jobs and awarded to higher bidders than the lowest in fifteen cases—differences amounting to $29,-574.81. In 1922-23, 52 tenders were called for and three were awarded to bidders whose tenders were higher than the lowest, making a difference in cost of $33,714.61. Here we have the sum of $63,289.42 thrown away to party friends just in one branch of one department alone.

Let me also draw your attention to the way money is spent on roads:

Delta—Hon. John Oliver's home riding, with 39.20 miles of road, all in a municipality, gets in four years $1,387,471.35.

But Newcastle—represented by Socialist member, with 235 miles of provincial roads, in four years gets $5,746.07.

Yet Lillooet, represented by a Conservative, with 1851 miles of Provincial roads (also in the dry belt) gets $38,033.38.

An average of $1427.00 per mile spent on roads in the Minister's riding and $58.00 per mile spent in ridings represented by members of the opposition.

Do you call this Government of the people, by the people, for the people? Or for what?

No government is worthy of being called responsibie who would so deliberately exercise their prerogative with such bias and injustice as to starve that part of the Province represented by an opposition member, because all constituencies form an integral part of the Province as a whole and supply taxes and revenue to the Government far is excess of the money expended within their boundaries. The time has come when British Columbia needs men in power who will have a wider vision, men who will distribute appropriations for each constituency according to its individual need and not using the public money to further their personal ends by buying their way into power.

We also find that the Oliver Government is taking from the pockets of the tax-payers today three times the amount of money that was taken from them prior to 1916. They have been taxing the people so much that there is very little money left for industrial development and that is one reason there is so little work being carried on in the Province today. Unless the Oliver Government is checked in its mad career of reckless expenditure, the Province will soon be in bankruptcy.

Having lived in Fernie for more than 25 years and probably having come in closer personal contact with more residents of this district than any other single resident, I believe I am in as good a position as anyone to see the view-point of the great majority of the electors of this riding and in that way to place their views and their wishes before the Parliament of this Province. We are one of the biggest revenue-producing electoral districts in B.C. In addition to the taxes paid by each individual, the Government collects 10c a ton on every ton of coal which is mined at Coal Creek, Michel, and Corbin. You can see for yourselves how little of that revenue has been spent for public improvements in this riding. People living in West Fernie, for example, have received almost nothing for public improvements in their locality during the last seven years. The town of Corbin, isolated in the way that it is and yet only 14 miles from the main highway, has never been able to get connected with that highway by the building of a road into the town.

I would earnestly ask each and every voter in this constituency to give the most serious consideration to public questions which are involved in this election and if they can give me the same confidence and trust which the public of Fernie have always given me, I promise them to do everything in my power, if elected, to see that a clean, honest, economical condition of affairs is carried on at Victoria and that each elector in the District is given a fair, square deal.

Yours truly,
S. BONNELL.

FERNIE WON BREWERY CUP

Twenty-six runs and a total of 35 hits and nine errors, tells in succient form the class of ball that fans watched at Victoria park Friday afternoon, when Fernie won the first game of the Bremery cup competition from Rockyford 16-10. There was vicious slugging and mediocre fielding, but the B. C. challengers showed the smartest class of ball of the two if that is any particular credit to the gauged from the comparative showing made in the course of the afternoon show.

Ault's flinging and clouting were features of the Fernie performance, while the showing of Lefty Brown in fielding and hitting for Rockyford was the main boast of the prairie farmers. Fernie as a team displayed better style in snappy fielding and smartest baseball all around, while their ability to concentrate their hitting strength gave them the substantial margin.

Rockyford was unsteady in the first innings when Schaeffer bungled a couple at first and McTeer and Steinert contributed doubles, and coupled with Hovan's walk that totalled four counts for the mining gang. They turned in another three in the second frame. Ault singled; Haight walked; Barger singled and then Shand tripled, to bring the last of the trio over.

Rockyford replied with three in the second when Walker was passed and Schaeffer singled, after which Kimmert brought two home with a single to left. Bushman and Knight walked, and then Brown's hit scored one. In the third Fernie swung the pendulum across for three more clicks on singles by Steinert and Ault, followed by an infield schatch from Hovan and a clout by Barger to cart a pair over.

When Shand let Bushman's drive through in the third Schaffer scored one for Rockyford. Haight doubled in the fifth and scored on Rushcal's hit. Rockyford replied for four points in the sixth when Fullerton singled; Knight walked; Brown tripled, Stacey singled and Walker doubled. Rockyford then retired three in a row.

Within three runs of the westerners, Rockyford looked promising, but Fernie let out again in the ninth and pounded five across. Triples to centre by McTeer and Shand resulted from Walker's injury to his left ankle. He was unable to field the ball fast enough. Kennedy then replaced him and he dropped a fly ball from Rushcal's stick, after which Ault completed the show with a home run.

Rackyford scored two in their part of the frame when Kimmert opened with a single and Bushman was safe when the infield tried to cut Kimmert down at second. Fullerton got a scratch hit and Kimmert scored on Knight's retirement at first after which Brown's single brought Bushman over.

Fernie made it two out of three to win the coveted Brewery Challenge up by defeating Rockyford Saturday evening 12 to 2. Rockyford prolonged the series by taking the long end of a 918 count in the afternoon session.

"Lefty" Snyder, who was unfortunate in losing the afternoon session, came back stronger than ever in the twilight fixture, and aided by able support and plenty of hitting, turned in a decisive victory. "Lefty" Brown, who featured the afternoon argument through efficient pitching and brilliant fielding, figuring in two double plays, one of which cut off a threatened Fernie rally in the last innings, was sent in to accomplish the "iron man" stunt in the evening game, but was unequal to the task, and had to give way to young Walter Hymas in the fifth inning.

While Fernie is undoubtedly the superior team of the two, Rockyford went a long way towards beating themselves in the third and deciding game when they failed to wait out Snyder's delivery. They were swinging their bats high, low and wide, and usually allowed strikes to go without offering. If they had forced Snyder to bear down in earnest they would have had better results, as the Fernie pitcher was none too steady.

The afternoon game was very exciting as the score was tied no less than four times. Rockyford pushed over the winning run in the eighth. Stacey was hit by a pitched ball. Schaeffer was given a life when the second baseman mussed up a grounder on an easy double play. After Kennedy and Bushman fanned Miller singled to short right to send Stacey home. Shand drove the ball to deep centre for a home run, the longest hit of the game.

With Fernie playing airtight behind Snyder, registering but one mistake and batting like fiends, they had an easy time winning the deciding contest. Singles by Barger and Shand, McTeer's sacrifice fly and Steinert's home run drive over the left field fence netted three runs in the first inning. A single by Shand, a double by Steinert and an infield out on Rushcall's grounder boosted their lead to five runs in the third. They added four more unearned runs in the fourth due to Bushman's miss of Stacey's throw. That started the British Columbia team's rally, and coupled with Haight's fielder's choice, in which Stacey failed on a throw to second, Barger's double, an error by Knight, a single by McTeer and an error by Glickman did the damage.

Two more runs were counted in the fifth. Hymans hit Bishop and he stole second. Snyder singled to right, Haigh sacificed. Barger drove a hot one to right to send Bishop and Snyder home. A single by Steinert, a stolen base and Hovan's single to centre, the latter pinch hitting for Rushcall, accounted for the twelfth run in the eighth inning.

Schaeffer's single and stolen base, the failure of the second baseman to cover the bag on McTeer's throw and Bushman's single saved Rockyford from a shut out. They got another run in the seventh on Hymas' walk, Fullerton's single and Brown's double.

The three-game series was productive of very poor baseball. Fernie shapes up like a promising club and they undoubtedly are capable of playing to better form. Taking the Brewery cup south will likely stimulate keener interest in amateur baseball in the Crow country.

PLANNING FOR BANK INSPECTION

Ottawa, June 3.—The government is expected to give notice within a few days of its proposed measure of banking inspection. It is intended to select a qualified banker to supervise the inspection work and to provide him with a staff of auditors who will check up the internal and external audits now provided under the Bank Act and make whatever additional inquiry is considered necessary.

The inspection would be confined to the head offices of the banks, experance showing that any failure in the past has been essentially due to transactions originating in or approved by the directors. There is some unofficial gossip connecting the name of Sir William Stavert formerly of the Bank of Montreal, with the position of supervisor of banking.

JUSTICE IN RUSSIA.

The officials of the Soviet government of Russia are very thorough in their methods. There is no mincing of matters with them, no justice tempered with mercy in their administration of what they call the law. In fact, they recognize no law at all but the law of force. The Supreme Court, sitting at a place called Leninegrad, sentenced to death seventeen persons, former judges, lawyers and officials. The public prosecutor was quite frank in his exposition of what he called the duties of his office. He said: "We must uphold the rights of the people and the revolution. I am prosecutor, and as such I am called upon to help find the truth, and I am expected therefore to be impartial, but I cannot be impartial, and I do no want to be impartial. The security of the revolution demands that we shall pave our way to truth with an axe, but in this case we have to pave our way not through forests, but upon live heads. We must do it mercilessly." Grey heads must be smitten just as mercilessly as young and fair heads; justice and right must be buffeted; nothing matters, not even life and death, when weighed in the balance against the sacred revolution. How long can a system based upon such "principles" survive? We wonder what the members of the British Labor government so very alert in the enactment of measures for the rights, the safey and the comfort of the "common people," think of the system of government they have "recognized?"

His Hearing Restored

The invisible ear drum invented by A. O. Leonard, which is a miniature megaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York city. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does it so successfully that no one can tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 436, 70 Fifth Ave., New York City, will be given a prompt reply. [Adv.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Here and There

Shipments of grain from the Grande Prairie and Peace River districts over the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway during the past season have totalled 2,471,000 bushels of wheat and 1,700,500 bushels of other grains.

The longest solid train of red cedar edge grain shingles ever hauled across the continent left Vancouver, B.C., recently for Chicago and the Eastern States. Several other long trains of this product will be shipped in the near future by the Hunting Merritt Lumber Company, by whom the consignment was forwarded.

A despatch recently sent from London states that Professor Carlyle, of the E. P. ranch, is sailing for Canada shortly, taking back with him a number of brood mares and other stock for the ranch. The Prince of Wales continues to evince the deepest interest in all the doings of the ranch and keeps in close touch with things there.

Approximately the same acreage as produced the West's bumper crop last year will be under cultivation this season. The outlook now is that over 14,000,000 acres of land will be ready for seed under generally favorable conditions. The estimated acreage to be seeded this year, by provinces, is as follows: Manitoba, 4,450,400; Saskatchewan, 3,354,190; Alberta, 3,472,315.

The value of boots and shoes exported by Canada during the year ended March, 1924, more than doubled the value of Canadian boots and shoes bought by other countries during the preceding year. Last year the exportations were valued at $304,913, and for the preceding year at $130,034. The United States was the chief buyer, taking 2,227 pairs, with Japan second, taking 1,628 pairs.

Concluding her round-the-world cruise, the palatial Canadian Pacific steamship "Empress of Canada," docks at Vancouver on May 24th. Reports indicate that this four-months' pleasure voyage under the genial care of Captain Robinson, hero of the Japanese disaster, has been a splendid success, the passengers being loud in their declarations of satisfaction.

During the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1924, Canada imported goods to the value of $893,335,491, an increase of $91,000,000 compared with the previous similar twelve months, while she exported $1,045,141,056, an increase of about $110,000,000. The total trade increased in that twelve-month period by about $210,000,000, compared with the corresponding period a year ago.

It is expected that negotiations between the British Government and the Province of British Columbia will lead to the settlement of several shiploads of immigrants from the Hebrides in the province this summer. Each Government proposes to grant $300, or $600 in all, to each family and shelters will be provided them close to the sea, where they can engage profitably in their accustomed pursuit, fishing.

The itinerary of the personally conducted tour of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, en route to their annual convention to be held at Victoria, B.C., August 12th to 16th, has just been announced. Starting from Toronto, a special train for the teachers will proceed west by Canadian Pacific Railway, halts being made at Western Canada's chief points of beauty and interest. It is expected that about 150 will make the trip.

QUARANTINE

(By Walt Mason)

My tin sedan was all ashine, my heart was light and gay; I drove up to the country line upon an April day, and all the world seemed good and fine, and smooth and reshershay. "What ho!" a stern official said, "let lizzie cease to wheeze; we're posted here to stop the spread of foot and mouth disease; we must pour dope upon your head, and also on your knees." "Ods fish," I cried, in cheery tones, "get busy, then I pray; dedorize my ancient bones and fumigate my dray; then let me hit the paving stones and journey on my way." They boiled my bus in caustic suds that turned the red paint black, they fumigated all my duds, poured acid down my back; and still I joshed those busy bloods, with merry quip and crack. A bitter job was theirs, I saw, a task that made them sore, to bring men up against a law that seemed to them a bore; the victims' nerves were tense and raw, they raved and wept and swore. I drove my wagon through a trough, I waded in a vat, the acid burned my whiskers off, and spoiled my Sunday hat, but I'm the flippant sort of toff who laughs at things like that, And so the stern official cried, as I went on my way, "We'll always point to you with pride, you are the cheer-up jay; you take the soup the gods provide, and do not whine or bray."

RADIO ASSISTS IMMIGRANTS

Radio has already proved a valuable help to the immigration authorities in placing immigrants on the land. The Winnipeg office recently wired information to Saskatoon announcing the arrival of farm laborers seeking work. This was broadcast all over Saskatchewan and within 24 hours applications for workers were pouring in to the authorities. The experiment was such a decided success that it is probable the radio will be utilized extensively in the future in the placing of men on farms. About five farmers in ten, it is estimated, have radio receiving sets.

When the members of the National Editorial Association visited Fort Sill, Okla., last week, they were entertained with the largest peace-time artillery demonstration in the history of the American army. Every type of field gun used in the United States was brought into play. Vancouver cannot hope to rival this thunderous salute but the visiting members of the Canadian Daily Press Association have the cpportunity of seeing and hearing election campaign guns in action, ranging in calibre from 74's to pop guns. They are comparatively odorless and shock proof.

British Columbia's agricultural production last year increased in value $4,000,000 over the 1922 period, figures compiled by the provincial Department of Agriculture show.

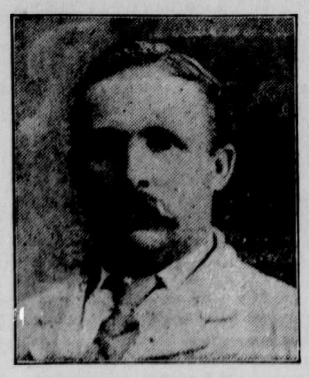
A steady increase in the volume of wheat exports from Canada is noted in the monthly statement just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In April, 1924, 6,085,465 bushels in all were exported, as against 5,143,304 in April, 1923.

It is anticipated that hundreds and thousands of visitors to the beautiful Annapolis Valley, Nova Scotia, will help to celebrate the famous fruit-district's "Apple Blossom Sunday," which falls on June 8th this year. The entire orchard belt, extending from Annapolis Royal to Windsor, a distance of about 80 miles, is always white and pink with blossom in the first part of June.

Hon. Honore Mercier, Minister of Lands and Forests, speaking of arrangements made in the province for forest protection this year, stated: "I really believe that the way the service is organized and with the good-will manifested by all classes of the community, who realize the importance of protecting your national domain, the year will be a good one and the losses reduced to a minimum."

The report of the statistician to the board of grain commissioners for April, recently issued, records the heaviest spring great lakes shipping season on record. The report says that there are indications that all the surplus of the western crops will be moved as fast as transportation facilities permit, as export purchases are to be heavier than usual and all ocean tonnage out of Montreal for May and June has already been engaged, as well as part for the July loading.

Something new in the way of railway equipment is the new storage battery car now operating over Canadian Pacific lines between Galt and Hamilton. The car attains a speed of 35 miles per hour and makes two trips a day in each direction. It has three compartments, general, passenger, smoking and baggage, is of all-steel construction and will accommodate 50 passengers. The service is reported to be giving every satisfaction to the people of the district.



Interviewed in Vancouver as to the success of the round-the-world cruise completed on May 24th by the "Empress of Canada," E. W. Beatty, said:

"To gauge the success of the 'Empress of Canada's' round-the-world cruise one has only to ask the passengers their opinion of the entire trip. I spoke to several while crossing from Victoria and without exception they all expressed their complete satisfaction with the ship, its officers and the arrangements made and carried out since the day she left Vancouver, almost five months ago.

"That is good enough for me. It is simple demonstration that the Canadian Pacific can successfully conduct cruises in competition with any organization in the world and maintain that company's standing as a credit to Canada. The "Empress of Canada" has carried the Canadian flag over the seven seas and into most of the world's great ports, and the missionary work she has done for Canada in the various countries touched should not be lost sight of. As one result of the undoubted success of this cruise, we look forward with renewed interest to the Canadian Pacific cruises of next season. They include the West Indies, the Mediterranean and another round-the-world cruise which will be made by the "Empress of France," already overhauled and fitted with a view to providing the greatest possible comfort for her passengers. The experience gained this year will greatly help in enabling us to make these cruises even more successful than those recently completed."

British bankers have warned Britain against entering into trade relations with Soviet Russia. Russian newspapers have answered this by saying that the bankers do not express the feeling of the British people. Possibly they do not, but what they do express is the sound economic sense that investors will not invest where there is no assurance of dividends and where even the capital may be lost.

FREED OF RHEUMATISM BY FRUIT TREATMENT.

"Be good enough to publish for the information of Rheumatism sufferers how "Fruit-a-tives" relieved my Rheumatism which had at least five years' standing.

"The trouble was in my right hip and shoulder; the pain almost unendurable. This kept up until I started to take "Fruit-a-tives". After a continuous treatment for about six months, I am now in first-class condition. This, I attribute to my persistent use of "Fruit-a-tives".

This is the letter which Mr. James Dobson of Bronte, Ont., wrote after trying the wonderful Fruit Treatment—"Fruit-a-tives"—which consists of intensified fruit juices combined with tonics.

If you suffer with Rheumatism, "Fruit-a-tives" will make you well and keep you well.

Only by all our citizens taking a keen interest in the event can it be made successful, so be sure and turn out to the meeting on Monday night.

IS JUSTICE FOR SALE?

Jacob Franks, father of the boy murdered in Chicago, says he has ten million dollars to spend to see that Leopold and Loeb, the slayers, go to the gallows. He has already engaged a battery of legal talent to assist the state in its case.

The Leopold and Loeb families, on the other hand, are massing a fortune of fifteen millions to save the self-confessed killers.

Meanwhile the American reading public is settling back in its chair to enjoy this battle of millions in the courts.

Is it possible that the people of the United States really believe that justice is for sale? Is it possible that the American conception of justice is so debased as to permit all this great mass of dollars to be thrown into courts that should adjudicate according to moral principles and not according to the success or failure of legal trickery?

For the past ten years the people of this continent have been vaguely wondering what was the trouble with American justice. But optimistically they have dismissed the question in the vicious enervating belief that "everything would come out all right in the end."

This Franks case has brought all this idle speculation up with a halt. It is compelling the people of North America to look very earnestly into their own minds and to examine very gravely their conceptions of justice.

And the result of the examination is not reassuring.

The fact that the people of North America accept with complacency the announcement that Leopold and Loeb will be tried in the courts on the basis of money and purchased legal tricksters proves beyond doubt that the American conception of justice has degenerated to an appalling degree.

Americans today regard justice as a game to be played according to a set of rules. They have forgotten that the whole structure of society rests primarily upon the sacredness of human rights protected by rigid notions of equity between man and man.

If this false conception of justice is not eradicated root and branch it will color every phase of America's national life.

In the days when Roman justice was a standard over the whole world, when the stern Roman general condemned his own son to death, Rome flourished and prospered. The downfall of Rome dates from the time when Romans began to feel contempt for the spirit of their law.

The Franks case is the climax to a wave of indifference to justice that has been sweeping the entire continent. It is the climax to the insidiously growing belief that justice is for sale.

It is important that this belief be straightened out, that the American conception of justice be purified, not for the salvation of America alone, but for the salvation of all humanity.

The future of the world rests upon this continent. But it cannot rest safely upon distarted notions of human relationship nor upon a belief that twenty-five million dollars can suspend the Ten Commandments. — Vancouver Sun.

Trotzky, the dictator of Soviet Russia, is continually telling his supporters and their victims to trust neither in God nor man and to keep their powder dry. The Red Army is told that it must be always ready, for nobody knows when the capitalistic and the proletariat powers will unite and sweep down upon Holy Russia, because they fear the power that has been set up there and are determined to pull it down sooner or later. This is merely an excuse for maintaining the Red Army, which is the source of the power of Trotzky. The gentleman in question knows that there is not a power in the world that would touch Russia even with a disinfected stick.

Want prosperity?

Get behind OLIVER'S FIGHT for Equalized Freight Rates and Bigger Pay Rolls

ON June twentieth---Election Day---the Dominion Government, the Railway Corporations, and the Big Interests of Eastern Canada must be shown by the support that we accord the Honorable John Oliver that we are determined to grow and expand. Every vote for a Liberal Candidate is a vote for John Oliver, which is in effect an official message to Ottawa and the East that we in British Columbia are solidly behind the Oliver fight for conditions which are fundamental to the prosperity of every man, woman and child in this province.

Let us show them by our votes that British Columbia is in earnest; that we are determined to win this fight for equalized freight rates—equal charge for equal service throughout Canada; that we must have free and unrestricted use of the Panama Canal; that by natural heritage and moral right we are entitled to representation on national directorates; in short, that we demand the right of this Province to develop and grow.

John Oliver, with his great, homely common-sense and dogged fighting qualities, supported by his Liberal Government, has carried this fight to the interests which are retarding our growth and prosperity.

John Oliver and his Government made the first real fight for equalized freight rates; equal consideration in the expenditure of public monies for harbor improvement, with the resulting grain elevators, docks, etc., for British Columbia.

John Oliver and his Government are fighting for these fundamentals of prosperity which will ensure for us factory pay-rolls; a market for our agricultural products; the development of our natural resources; all of which will benefit every person in this Province.

John Oliver, the head of the Liberal Government in British Columbia, has the ear of the Honorable Mackenzie King, the head of the Liberal Government at Ottawa; and if the people of British Columbia demonstrate by their votes that they are in accord with John Oliver's fight, we in British Columbia will benefit to a far greater extent than we would if Mr. Bowser or General McRae were placed in power.

Disregard petty issues, disregard personal sentiment, and for the welfare of this Province and its economic development, and for your own best interests, return John Oliver and his Government to Victoria on June twentieth.

VOTE LIBERAL

LABOR AGAINST THE REDS

As an indication of the way in which the sane leaders of organized labor look upon the efforts of some to link the movement up with the powers responsible for the state of affairs in Russia, the following extracts from the Canadian Congress Journal, official organ of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, may be of interest to our readers:

"It will be recalled that at the Quebec Convention of the Trades and Labor Congress in 1918, that certain of the western delegates declared that they were not getting a square deal from the eastern delegates, and a caucus was held resulting in a decision to hold a "Western Convention, and discuss ways and means to get the questions which interested them before the Congress.

"In due course, and for reasons only known to those on the inside at that time, a call was issued for the 'Western Congress' to be held in Calgary, Alberta, March 13, 1919. At this convention, without going any further into the subject matter for which the conference was called, certain resolutions were placed before the delegates and accepted and the O. B. U. was brought into being and being conceived in deceit and treachery, it was doomed to failure from its inception.

"Those taking part in the discussions were not the real leaders or representatives of labor, but for the most part were opportunists, knaves and fools as subsequent events proved. It will be noticed that the men who understood the sociology of the workers did not favor or take part in the discussions. We now know it would have been futile when we consider the personnel of that packed convention.

"In the now famous debate staged in Winnipeg, August 6, 1920, Joe Knight, that apostle of power and force, in attempting to make out a case for the O. B. U. said, 'The onus is on the O. B. U. to prove itself.' While Joe at that time was not able to do that, subsequent events did so, and those responsible for the formation of the O.B.U. have been utterly discredited and discarded from the counsels of all earnest and sincere men.

"Pritchard's name is never mentioned but with curses and execrations; Midgely recently was refused a seat in the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council, composed of organizations which he was actively trying to destroy a short time ago, and whose members have no confidence in him; Kavanaugh, of Vancouver, went back to the International for the express purpose of maintaining a meal ticket, but was defeated for president of the Congress by a vote of 136 to 40. Others there are, who when convinced that they had made a mistake and were in the wrong, had the courage of their convictions, admitted the facts, got back into the International, and urged others to do the same. Many of the rank and file followed this advice and now only a corporal's guard of the O B. U. remains.

"We all know that the International is far from perfect, but let us all do our part in trying to make it as perfect as it is possible to do under the present condition of things. Let us never forget the lesson learned through the O.B.U. experiment, and its four years of broken pledges, imbecility, debilitation, unfair criticism and villificaton, and without being able to point to one single thing whereby they could justify their existence."

ON THE BEACH AT MANITOU

LONG before the paleface came to the broad and rolling prairies, the Red man knew and appreciated the curative properties of Little Lake Manitou, which is located near Watrous, Saskatchewan, on the main line of the Canadian National Railways. And the first white settlers who came, in advance of the railways, to settle on their homesteads in and around Watrous, soon learned of this lake with its highly mineralized waters, so that Little Lake Manitou had its reputation made when the first settlers reached the country.

Today thousands of residents of prairie cities find Little Lake Manitou an ideal watering place, and excursions are run from time to time over the Canadian National Railways from Saskatoon and other cities to provide citizens with a means of reaching this delightful spot.

The waters of Little Lake Manitou are so highly mineralized that the swimmer finds no difficulty in floating on their surface and at the same time their mineral qualities are health-giving in their action. With a good sandy beach for the kiddies to play on, and water chutes and other enjoyment features erected for their entertainment, Little Lake Manitou has become the ideal picnic spot for the dwellers in the central region of Saskatchewan.

A MARVELLOUS COUNTRY

London is still the money centre of the world and Great Britain is the most extraordinary country in the world. That is the report brought home by George Kidd, President of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, who has just returned from a visit to Europe.

The political situation is very uncertain over there, but the people are giving more attention to business than to politics and are pursuing the accustomed tenor of their way notwithstanding the chaotic political conditions. They are paying their taxes, which in many cases absorb half their income, and their national debt, which is the heaviest in the world. They have dismissed "indemnities" from their minds, apparently content to meet their obligations out of their own pockets. Since the close of the war, as H. H. Asquith has pointed out, the national debt has been reduced by £650,000,000, a sum in excess of the entire indebtedness of the country prior to the war.

A country which can do that cannot be in such a bad way. At the same time there is little doubt that capital has misgivings as to the future. It is seeking investment in other countries, chiefly in American countries, as there is no security in other parts of the world. Europe is a sething caldron of political and social unrest and the conditions in India and other parts of Asia are causing disquietude in the minds of far-seeing statesmen. Canada never had a greater opportunity to secure capital for legitimate investment. But for some reason which her statesmen should be called upon to explain, British emigrants and British capital seem to prefer to seek fortune and investment in the United States and Australia.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin was the chief speaker at a recent festival dinner of the Royal Society of St. George and he took occasion in a speech he made to pay a tribute to the nation to which he belongs. The Englishman, he said, was made for times of crisis and emergency. He was serene in difficulty. He might seem to be indifferent when times were easy; he might not look ahead; he might not heed warnings and he might not prepare, but when he once started he was persistent to the death and he was ruthless in action. It was those gifts that had made the Englishman what he was, and the Empire. It was in staying power that he was supreme, and fortunately, being to some extent impervious to intellectual impressions as a nation, he was equally impervious to criticism, a most useful thing for an Englsh statesman, and that might be the reason why the English statesmen sometimes lasted longer than those who were not English.

As the first holiday of the summer season the "24th" has long been established in the affection of Young Canada. Exuberant spirits restrained by long winter months find vent and nature in its most genial mood lends itself to a day of pleasure unalloyed.

POISONS SELF; DIDN'T KNOW IT

Merchant Didn't Know What Was The Matter Until Nausea, Sick Headache and Bad Digestion Were Traced to Their Cause.

A local merchant was surprised to find that his tired, nervous, bilious condition was due to poison from the food he ate. Instead of being digested and eliminated properly, his food was poisoning his whole system, causing sick headache, nausea, gas on a sour, weak stomach, bad digestion, improper movement of his bowels. Having neglected his liver, that important organ became a menace to his health instead of an aid. Dr. H. S. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup, however, made a quick difference in the way he felt, slept, ate and looked. This remarkable remedy acts directly on the liver and keeps the whole system toned up. It is sold with the understanding you will be completely satisfied; otherwise, there will be no cost. Get Thacher's from Suddaby's Drug and Book Store, Fernie, B.C.

MEANS

BEER BY THE GLASS

A vote for the Beer-by-the-Glass measure is a vote for increased temperance and sobriety

DR. HENRY DAVY, President of the British Medical Association, said:
"Bread, cheese and beer for a meal is infinitely more scientific than the American meal of bread, tea and jam."

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY,
the famous pure food advocate, has declared:
"Beer is a veritable food product."

BETTER to drink the lighter brewed beverages made from British Columbia grains and hops than the more stimulating imported spirits.

Beer by the glass will be dispensed in government licensed and supervised premises under conditions which will discourage the treating habit.

WORKMEN who have to make a lunch of more or less unpalatable sandwiches, packed at home, under the provisions of the new measure, may have a cool and appetizing glass of beer with their lunch.

TOURISTS, instead of hauling a dozen bottles of lukewarm beer from the vendor's store may get a cold glass en route, as they require it.

Municipalities which do not want the beer-by-the-glass privilege may reject it as the bill contains a definite local option feature.

The great majority of the men and women of British Columbia are temperate because they prefer beer to any other beverage.

KEEP THEM TEMPERATE BY VOTING FOR THE BEER BY THE GLASS PLEBISCITE—

BEER DRINKING REDUCES WHISKY DRINKING

BECK WELL SHOWING OIL

Mark C. Rogers, president of the Canadian Oil and Refining Company, is in Calgary today, but it became known that the big Sweetgrass Hills gasser is increasing in pressure. According to a test made by the government the flow has a force of 945 pounds or an open flow of 65,000,000 cubic feet per day, an increase of 2,000,000 cubic feet over the original test. There is no means of estimating what the well would develop if the gas sands were further drilled.

The plans of the company are as yet indefinite. They are still awaiting the results of additional tests as to the quantity of gasoline in the flow and in the meantime intimations are understood to have been made for gas from the cities of Calgary and Lethbridge. The Rogers well represents a bonanza as a commercial gas proposition. Approximately 25 miles from the Foremost field, which will be linked up by pipeline with the Bow Island pipeline this summer, the field can be tapped with very little capital expense.

From Great Falls comes a report that oil has been encountered in the Beck well, 30 miles east of Shelby, and that the oil is coming up the casing. Much excitement prevails in Shelby over the discovery, it is said. This news, with the announcement of 12 new wells to be started in the border field shortly, marks the increasing activity in the field. The Montana Oil Journal estimates that there are now 155 producing wells in the field, 14 commercial gas wells, 25 drilling wells, and a score of wells rigging up, with a daily production in excess of 5000 barrels.

ELKO NOTES

Elko has a water system at last. Mr. Woodland, government foreman, put the pipes across the river in about three days at a reasonable cost and everything is working satisfactorily.

Constable Smith has issued orders to all rig and wagon owners that the streets are to be kept clear and that all cars are to be parked on the right side of the street. A check on some of the speedsters would not be amiss, especially when there are so many school children going and coming.

Most of the stores are now connected up with electric lights. A few more lights in front of buildings such as Tom Duncan has in front of the hotel and one walking in Elko would fancy himself transported to Broadway.

A very enjoyable party was held in the community hall on Saturday evening, the occasion being a farewell send off to Bob Clerihew and Jack Talbot, who are leaving for the coast. Mrs. A. J. Carter very ably acted as hostess, supported by Misses Swanson, Meeks and McKay. Cards and dancing were indulged in till past midnight.

Bill Swope thinks Jack Gibbons is the only fighter in the world. "I could lick Carpentier myself," says Bill. Don't get downhearted Bill, we may be able to get a match for you yet.

The Sunshine Club held a picnic at Mud Lake on June 3. About two dozen young folks journeyed out by car and had a good time.

PACIFIC GOES TO THE COUNTRY

We have a long letter from a Mrs. N., who says she is a friend of Pacific Milk from this time on. They moved into the "back country" where there is no fresh milk and she was prejudiced against canned milk. Every brand obtainable was tried in turn but Pacific Milk is now their accepted standard. Mrs. N. says they use one and a half cases per month. During the extreme cold of the winter in the hills and the hot weather so far this year she has never found a can of Pacific Milk to be other than perfectly fresh. We shall give more of her letter next time.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

AT last night's political meeting A. I. Fisher repeatedly endeavored to make the Free Press responsible for a signed statement published by one of the candidates. Up to the present time this paper has taken no part in the election whatever, but when A. I. Fisher, the mouthpiece of the Liberal candidate, deliberately drags us in to the fight, the responsibility is his. We are not responsible for any statement appearing in an advertisement whether they are Labor, Conservative or Liberal. One item in Dr. Bonnell's signed letter was wrong in connection with the small amount of money spent in Newcastle riding. It should have been a few thousands more, but he did not take issue with the million odd dollars spent in John Oliver's Delta constituency.

******

MR. Fisher always has to make a mountain out of a molehill, but as Dr. Bonnell states this is a failing of lawyers. He endeavored to alienate the support of the Fernie miners from the Doctor by telling the old story about Bowser bringing in the troops to suppress strike disturbances on the Island some years ago. True troops were, indeed, ordered to the Island after homes had been dynamited, lives lost and property endangered, but ask the canting hypocrite what government ordered the troops into Nova Scotia last year before the miners had been on strike two days and before one particle of damage had been done or before there had been any lawlessness. Mr. Fisher has repeatedly sprung the old gag, hoping to curry favor with the men, but he never got anywhere. The voting public are wise to his dope and that is why he footed the poll at the last election.

******

THE public of this district are now alive to the facts in connection with the lumber industry. A. I. Fisher enlightened them last night. He says that the Oliver government has taxed the lumber industry millions of dollars more than the Bowser administration did. We now know why six of our largest lumber concerns, employing over two thousand lumberjacks in this district, have gone out of business and the men compelled to leave the country. Taxed to death—that is the reason. Just think of it, the Elk Lumber Co., the Fernie Lumber Company, the Ross-Saskatoon Lumber Co., the Joyce Lumber Co., the Adolph Lumber Co., and the White Spruce Lumber Co., all of them with big payrolls and spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in our district every year, taxed out of business by the Oliver government. Is it any wonder that the country is up in arms against them? Is it any wonder that nine out of ten men you meet are out today working against such a government.

******

MR. Fisher says the Oliver government have put the big increase in taxation on the interests, but the little man has not been overlooked. The taxpayers in West Fernie are paying four or five times the taxes they did ten years ago. There are no big interests over in West Fernie.

******

ASK Mr. Fisher what he gets out of the Oliver government. Ask him how much money his firm has received for services rendered in the past twelve months and why it is necessary for the government to send him to Cranbrook every time there is a whiskey case in the courts. No wonder he is shouting for the Oliver government. It pays to shout some times.

Ask Mr. Fisher also why it is necessary to bring in a lot of hired thugs from across the line to act as stool pigeons to enforce the liquor control Act and if he thinks it is fair to charge up their expenses against those municipalities in which Mr. Manson uses them. Every city in the province is crying out against this injustice.

THE man who isn't willing to work to help himself isn't worth helping, and the man who prefers crime to honest labor deserves little mercy when he is caught. Too much sentimentality in dealing with hardened criminals is at least a partial cause of the increase in crime in this country.

DOMINION DAY CELEBRATION

At a well attended meeting held in the council chamber last Monday evening it was decided to again set aside Dominion Day as Children's Day and to hold sports for the benefit of the Swimming Pool Fund.

Sherwood Herchmer, who for several years has been one of the foremost workers for this fund, requested to be relieved of the responsibilities of the presidency this year, owing to the necessity of his being absent from town during the rest of this month on legal business.

After discussing the advisability of having the sports whilst there was a strike on, it was decided to have them anyway as it is the one day in the year which the children all look forward to and it would be a pity to debar them of their fun.

There was considerable amusement aroused in the appointment of a president to take Mr. Herchmer's place as no one seemed to relish taking the office over from one who had made such a success of it, but after considerable pressure had been brought to bear, Mr. Thomas, the genial secretary of the White Spruce Lumber Co., consented to act, and in a pithy little speech of acceptance made dire threats as to what would happen to the various committees if they did not get in and work.

The chairmen of the different committees were then appointed and another meeting arranged for to take place on Friday evening, June 13, at the same time over Ingram's pool room.

Treasurer A. Klauer made a financial report which showed that the fund for the swimming pool consists of $3126.06 cash in hand and another $4456.53 at present tied up in the Home Bank. If it had not been for the Home Bank failure the building of the swimming pool this year would have been a certainty if the sports on Dominion Day next produced an amount approximating that of last year.

Tentative plans have already been made to have a carnival queen contest along similar lines to last year, which was such a success. It is expected that football and baseball games will take as large a part in the program as formerly, in addition to which both the Elks and the Moose organizations have agreed to take charge of the sports and amusement programs, which is an assurance that there will be something doing every minute of the day.

If there is one thing needed badly in this town it is a safe place for the children to swim in; likewise one in which there is no fear of their being chilled, such as always is present when they are disporting themselves in the river or its backwaters as they do now.

Even though the strike has caused considerable hardship financially to miners and business men of Fernie alike, there are very few who will not be able to spare the small amount of cash on that day, which will make it a big success and bring the worthy end for which it is held so much nearer accomplishment.

The meeting to be held on Friday evening, the 13th, will be open and all those who are interested are invited to attend, and all those who have to be there, had better be there, or look out for Thomas.

MINERS HOLD MEETING

The anti-Union revolt which at the beginning of this week seemed certain was turned into a vote of confidence in the District officers by the visit of District President Sherman to this camp last Tuesday.

The calling of a mass meeting by the "Miners Committee" to discuss the possibility of breaking away from the International and signing up an agreement with the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company caused a hurried call to be sent to Calgary for Sherman to come here and address a mass meeting timed an hour ahead of the other.

Sherman arrived Tuesday morning and miners from Michel, Coal Creek and Fernie crowded the Grand theatre to hear what he had to say about the present situation. He made a promise that $3000 would be sent in to Fernie on Wednesday as another issue of temporary relief and stated that the International Executive Board were to meet in Indianapolis Thursday to discuss the situation in District 18. This seemed to have a soothing effect on the local men and when a resolution reading: "That we pass a vote of confidence in the District officers and remain united with the remainder of the District until the Jacksonville agreement, carrying with it no reduction in wages, is negotiated in this District," was put to the meeting, it was carried by a unanimous standing vote. This meeting then adjourned and the miners en masse proceeded to the meeting called by the "Miners Committee" at the Orpheum theatre, where Alderman Andrew Lees placed before them the agreement which the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. was willing to sign with the representatives of the Fernie and Michel employees should they wish to make a separate agreement. This contract was based on a 12 per cent higher rate of wages than that now in effect at the Vancouver Island mines. Considerable rowdyism broke out and speakers had great difficulty in making themselves heard. Finally a call was made for a standing vote to decide whether this agreement would be accepted or not, the result being practically a unanimous vote for its rejection, and the men left the theatre without any further discussion on the subject.

CONSERVATIVE MEETING

Within a week of election day, Fernie had its first public political meeting since the election announcement was made at Victoria, Thursday evening, when Dr. Bonnell took the platform in his own behalf. The Grand Theatre was crowded to capacity when the speakers walked upon the stage. Sherwood Herchmer, as chairman, invited the opposition candidates or their representatives to address the meeting if they desired. Mr. Uphill, through his agent, Bert Sawyer, expressed his inability to be present owing to previous engagements. A. I. Fisher, as representative of Mr. McLean, accepted the invitation and came on the platform

ELECTORS ATTENTION !

To the Editor Fernie Free Press:

Dear Sir—Would you be good enough to print the following taken from an article in McLean's Magazine. It will be very illuminating to the electors of B.C

The point I want to impress on the public is the fact that our people are taxed to the limit today, and we are slowly but surely drifting to the point where our credit will be in serious danger. Governments should wake up to the fact trat they must administer the business affairs of the country in the same businesslike manner that the C.P.R., Henry Ford or any other great corporation run their business.

S. BONNELL.

The grave condition of public finance in British Columbia calls for more serious attention, because here there has been no marked increase in population. At the opening of the century the population was between 400,000 and 500,000 souls. The census of 1921 made it about 550,000. The per capita burden is therefore increasing at a much greater rate than in provinces where the growth of population is more rapid. In spite of the almost static condition of its population, successive British Columbia governments have gone on increasing its public debt, ignoring the disparity between revenue and expenditure, and attempting only to balance the latter, not by economics, but by the further expansion of their large tax-imposing powers.

LIABILITIES

As at March 31, 1917 :
Bonded Debt	$23,153,146.00
Current Liabilities	2,412,723.27
Total	$25,565,869.27
As at March 31, 1923:
Bonded Debt	$65,851,436.00
Temporary Loans, Treasury Bills	3,103,000.00
Current Liabilities	4,361,253.76
Total	$73,315,689.76
Increase in six years	$47,749,820.49

This total of $73,315,689.76 is quite exclusive of a formidable group of guarantees granted by the province, as follows:

Canadian National Railway	$40,157,523.90
Pacific Great Eastern Railway	20,160,000.00
Vancouver District Sewerage Board	3,233,333.00
French's Ore Reduction Co.	40,000.00
Agricultural Credits Commission	1,000,000.00
West Nicomen Dyking District	87,000.00
	$64,677,856.90

There is a Sinking Fund investment on hand against the bonded indebtedness of $9,930,251.

But the short term bonds issued in 1920-21-22 fall due within the next three years. These amount to many millions and will have to be refunded, and there is no provision in the form of a sinking fund for their retirement.

The condition of the provincial debt is disconcerting enough even were finances now being handled with a due regard to that condition and with a constant eye to the reduction of the debt itself. Unfortunately the current account is as disturbing as is the capital one. A statement of revenues and expenditures for the same six years (1917 to 1923) reveals the following balance sheet:

EXPENDITURE

Year	Revenue	G. & S. Fund	Int. P.G.E.	Total	Deficit
1916	$6,291,693	$10,083,504	316,016	$10,399,520	$4,107,827
1917	6,906,783	9,531,740	737,800	10,269,549	3,362,766
1918	8,882,846	8,853,713	874,117	9,727,830	844,984

HOME BANK COM. REPORT

Ottawa, June 11.—No specific recomendation with regard to the reimbursement of Home Bank depositors is contained in the report of Judge McKeown, royal commissioner, submitted to the government today.

Ottawa, June 11.—Judge McKeown's report on the Home Bank was tabled in the house of commons this afternoon. He finds that if an effective audit had been made in 1916 or 1918, the result would have been either liquidation, following the audit, or amalgamation with another bank.

Replying to the question what the effect of the audit would have been upon the position of the present depositors, the report finds that:

1. If made in 1916, the present depositors would have suffered no loss.

2. If made in 1918, "I do not think any loss would ahve fallen upon them."

Referring to this period, Judge McKeown takes the ground that the condition of the bank, as revealed by the representations made, was such as to justify an investigation under the powers conferred upon the minister of finance under section 56A of the Bank Act.

"I think it right to say also," continued the report, "that the minister's intervention in 1916 resulted in a change of management of the bank, Mr. Haney becoming the vice-president, with the understanding that he should discharge the duties of president and have full powers with respect to the organization of the staff. This change appears to have met with the approval of all concerned, although no improvement seems to have actually resulted from it.

The report recounts the steps taken by the minister of finance at the time. It analyses the condition of the bank and in reply to the question what steps could have been taken by the government to save the institution, says:

"The only steps that the government could have taken to save the situation would have been to make a thorough invesigation into the bank's affairs which would have resulted:

"1. In forcing the liquidation of the bank; or,

"2. Bringing about the amalgamation with another bank."

The report says that there was no evidence of representations of any kind having been made to the government concerning the Home Bank subsequent to 1918. There was nothing to indicate that the attention of Hon. W. S. Fielding had ever been drawn to the existence of the various memoranda or to the correspondence.

The questions referred to Judge McKeown and his answers thereto, are:

Question No. 1.—Whether in the years 1915, 1916 and 1918 representations were made to the department of finance of the Dominion of Canada respecting the condition of the Home Bank of Canada, and if so, what representations were made.

Answer. — (a) In the year 1915 no representations were made to the department of finance of the Dominion of Canada respecting the conditions of the Home Bank of Canada. Such representations were made in the year 1916, as well as in the year 1918.

(b) The following important representations were made to the department of finance concerning the Home Bank of Canada during the years 1916 and 1918:

(1)—That an amount more than double the total paid-up capital and reserve of the bank was locked up in four accounts, the securities for which could not be realized upon.

(2) That loans wholly disproportionate to the assets of the bank had been made on inadequate security from which large loss was likely to occur.

(3) That amounts representing unpaid interest on at least three large accounts were carried into profit year by year and dividends declared on the basis of such fictitious earnings.

(4) That arrangements agreed upon as a meeting of the board of directors with a view of passing upon all credits and making an early statement, showing the bank's position with recommendations were not carried out.

(5) That false returns were made by the directors of the bank to the department of finance.

(6) That specific instructions given by the minister of finance in 1916 forbidding the capitalizing of unpaid interest were disobeyed.

(7) That the president and some of the directors were indebted to the bank in large sums upon personal accounts and through companies in which they had an interest.

(8) That the auditor employed by the bank from year to year was incompetent and important matters were concealed from the board of directors and from Mr. Lash, the board's counsel.

Question No. 2—Whether, if such representations were made a state of affairs was revealed concerning the condition of the said bank, such as would have justified an investigation under the powers conferred upon the minister of finance by section 56A of the Bank Act.

Answer. — The condition of the bank, as revealed by the representations made, was such as to justify an investigation under the powers conferred upon the minister of finance under section 56A under the Bank Act.

Question No. 3. — What action, if any, was taken by the then minister of finance upon such representations as may have been made?

Answer.—The action taken by the minister of finance upon the representations made to him consisted:

(a) Calling for special returns from the bank under section 113 of the Bank Act.

(c) Seeking and obtaining information from Mr. Lash, the bank's counsel, and from its president and other directors including those in detailed statements of accounts regarding the dealings of the bank with the following individuals and firms, viz.: A. Frost and Co., Pellatt and Pellatt, the Prudential Trust, New Orleans account.

(d) Forbidding further capitalization of interest on doubtful accounts.

(e) Securing a promise from Mr. Lash and the president that a thorough investigation would be made of the affairs of the bank under the direction of Mr. Haney and Mr. MacHaffy.

Question No. 4. — What effect would an audit under section 56A of the bank made in 1915, 1916 and 1918, have had upon the conduct of the affairs of the said bank and upon the position of the present depositors?

Answer. — For the resson above pointed out I think an effective audit under section 56A of the Bank Act made in 1916 or 1918, would have resulted, as far as concerns the conduct of the bank's affairs, in either:

(a) Liquidation immediately following such audit; or,

(b) Amalgamation with another bank.

And the effect of such audit upon the position of the present depositors:

If made in 1916, the depositors would have suffered no loss.

If made in 1918 I do not think any loss would have fallen upon them.

Question No. 5. — What was the financial condition of said Home Bank of Canada in the years 1915, 1916 and 1918 respectively, and what steps, if any, could have been taken by the government to save the situation?

Answer.—(1) The financial condition of the Home Bank was:

In 1916—(a) More than double its total paid-up capital and its reserve was locked up in four accounts, the securities for which were not realizable.

(b) No interest was being paid on three of these large accounts.

(c) No money was being paid on dividends except money belonging to the depositors and the dividends paid from year to year were paid out of the depositors' money.

(e) The total paid-up capital and reserve of the bank had been lost.

(f) A loss of assets calculated by Mr. George Edwards at over $3,000,000 had been sustained, leaving the assets and liabilities about even.

In 1918—(a) There had been no reduction in the amounts due to the bank from their heaviest debtors, but on the contrary further capitalization of interest had taken place.

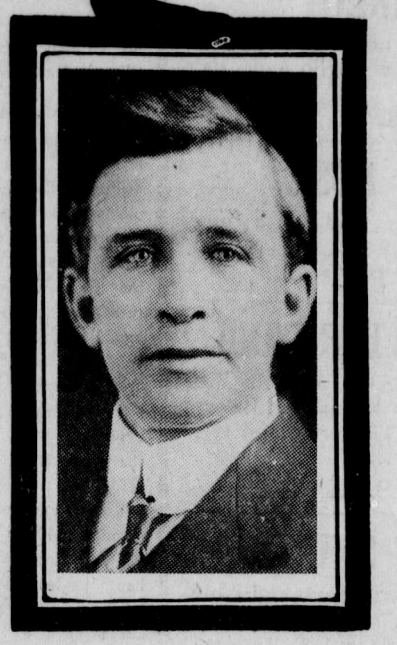
(b) All the weaknesses which existed in 1916 were accentuated.

(c) The dividends paid in the meantime amounting to over $190,000, had been paid out of money belonging to depositors.

(d) A further loss of assets had been sustained but the auditors were unable to state with any certainty as to the amount of such loss.

(2) The only steps that the government could have taken to save the situation would have been to make a thorough investigation into the bank's affairs, which would have resulted:

(a) In forcing the liquidation of the bank; or,



(b) Bringing about its amalgamation with another bank.

HOME BANK PRESIDENT DEAD

Toronto, June 9.—Herbert J. Daly, president of the defunct Home Bank of Canada, died at his home here this morning.

Mr. Daly was one of the ten directors and officials of the bank which failed on Aug. 17 last, who are amaiting trial on charges of making false returns under the Bank Act and with conspiracy in connection with the suspension of the institution.

For some time after the closing of the bank Mr. Daly was confined to his summer home at Lake Simcoe seriously ill and was unable to attend the hearings in the preliminary stages of the case in the police court. He recovered sufficiently to put in an appearance late in the year and was reported to be improving gradually.

He was born in Peterboro, Ont., in 1884, and after attending Orillia high school entered a Montreal grocery firm in 1899, coming to Toronto a year later to conduct a similar business.

He subsequently occupied positions with the Dominion Permanent Loan company and the National Cash Register company, being general manager for Canada for the latter concern from 1905 to 1918.

Mr. Daly then took over the firm of A. E. Rea and company, of Ottawa, trading as the Daly Company Limited. He became president of the J. A. Ogilvie Limited, Montreal; director of the Murray-Kay company, Toronto; president of the Arnprior Cabinet company; vice-president of the Western Canada Pulp and Paper company; president of Porcelain Products Limited; vice-president of the K. and S. Rubber company, and president of the Manufacturers Holding and Investment corporation.

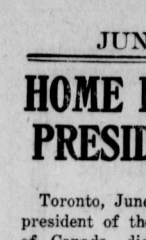
Mr. Daly became president of the Home Bank in 1920. He is survived by four sons and one daughter.

For the past two weeks President Daly has been confined to his home and as the days passed it was seen that his condition was steadily growing worse. Several of Toronto's leading physicians held consultations on Saturday but all efforts failed, and the end came early this morning.

Mrs. Daly and other members of the family were at his bedside.

The funeral will be held Wednesday morning from Holy Rosary church, with interment in Mount Hope cemetery.

COMMUNICATION



The Editor Fernie Free Press:

Sir—I cannot express the feelings of pride I recently experienced when, on reading Mr. Justice Galliher's report on the Royal Commission investigating the P.G.E. I found that this great undertaking had been carried on without incompetence, without extravagance, and without even waste; and when I read further and discovered that mere accident, not sinister motives, accounted for the destruction of seemingly important books and documents, I believe I shed a thankful tear at thinking that all the insinuations which had been made in that connection were not only base but baseless. Various governments throughout the world have, from time to time, undertaken works of lesser magnitude, but no one of them has, to my knowledge, ever succeeded in proving that not even waste could be laid to its charge, so that the present finding only goes to show what we can do in B.C. if we only try.

But we must not be selfish and expend our talents on ourselves alone. Many people seem to be getting impatient with the somewhat protracted proceedings in connection with the Home Bank affair, and there are murmurs that legal minds down East must be greatly inferior to our own standard. Then why not offer to lend Ottawa a Commissioner from this province to take charge of the proceedings? He would, of course, approach the matter with an open mind, and, if one may judge by one of the many admirable findings in the P.G.E. report, he would, after careful consideration, of course, almost certainly decide that the state of the bank had been known to more than five persons, and, therefore, there could be no fraud involved; indeed, if he found, as we are given to believe is the case that it had been known to double or treble that number, he might even conclude that the whole thing had been really a pious benefaction and a blessing in disguise. Of course, unfortunate depositors would lose their money, but they would surely more than recoup themselves in the general prosperity which would flood Canada, once foreign investors realized that our banks were really pious benefactors. I have not heard that any books or documents in connection with this case were found to be missing; but, if this should come to light later on, our Commissioner would be able to show at once that no sinister motives could be attached to this, and would thus nip in the bud any possible undermining of honorable reputations. The matter thus happily solved, the federal government could confidently face an election, with every expectation of being returned to power by a grateful and contented electorate.

But now, Mr. Editor, I am going to ask you to solve a problem for me. On the same page of the journal in which I read Mr. Justice Galliher's striking testimony to the unblemished integrity of Messrs. Bowser and Sloan, I was amazed to come across the following words by our esteemed Premier at Vancouver on May 6: "Mr. Bowser is going around the country telling about being acquitted by the P.G.E. Royal Commission of the charges laid by the Provincial party that he had received campaign funds from the contractors. I wish to recall to you the 1917 P.G.E. investigation, when the verdict against Mr. Bowser was 'Guilty.' That verdict stands today." How are we to reconcile these two views? Must we conclude that the Premier did not approach Mr. Bowser's character with the "open mind" shown by our worthy Commissioner to be so necessary in cases of this sort? If so, Mr. Justice Galliher surely deserves our deep sympathy. "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child."

—An Admirer of B.C. Justice.

Women have learned this simple way to keep youthful loveliness

The prettier complexions you see everywhere, today, are due to one thing:

Women have learned that it is unnecessary to sacrifice youthful loveliness to the passing years. This simple treatment has made it possible for millions of women to keep youth, charm. The secret is yours, too, if you will.

Just try this

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive. Use it for the bath, too.

Take no chances. Palmolive is never sold unwrapped. Get it from any dealer. Then for one week try this easy method. You will have cause for delight even in that short time.

What Tom Moore Says About the Oliver Government

"The British Columbia Legislature is now leading Canada in the matter of legislation beneficial to the workers.

"It has the honor of being the first Province to give legislative effect to the 8-hour day convention of the International Labor organization, passed at the Washington Conference in 1919."

Extract from "The Canadian Congress Journal," February, 1924.

"Between 30,000 and 40,000 workers will benefit from the Hours of Work Act which comes into force New Year's Day, 1925."

Chairman Herchmer opened the meeting with a few brief remarks and then called upon Mr. Fisher for the first address.

Mr. Fisher apologized to the audience for bringing such an array of literature before the meeting but he stated they were absolutely necessary to prove that figures, as published in Dr. Bonnell's open letter to the electors in last week's Free Press were untrue. These books were the Public Accounts as laid before the legislature dealing with the receipts and expenditures of the Oliver govment. He quoted expenditures from the Public Accounts showing that sums greatly in excess of the amounts stated by Dr. Bonnell had been expended in various ridings on road work and stated that these books substantiated his figures. The statement comparing the expenditures of the McBride-Bowser and the Oliver governments was very unfair, the Conservative campaign literature quoted the minimum expenditure for one year by their government and placed it against the maximum year of the Oliver administration. He strongly attacked the Bowser regime for their acts of protecting the big interests during their term of office, stating that they had failed to collect fifteen million dollars in revenue that was justly due the province. He quoted the social legislation which had been passed by the Oliver government and stated that the Trades and Labor Gazette at Ottawa in an article published in that paper had ranked British Columbia as first in legislation beneficial to the working man. The Oliver fovernment, he added, in conclusion stood for conservation of the public property, its natural resources and for the interests of the people.

In opening his address Dr. Bonnell rather humorously stated that Mr. Fisher, a member of the legal fraternity, was very well adapted to taking a guilty person before the judge and proving him innocent. He then produced a copy of McLean's Magazine of Jan. 15 issue, and quoted an article by an eminent writer who had investigated the "Money Craze" which was sweeping the country, airtight as to facts, which proved conclusively that the contention of the Oilver government that they were living within their income was false. British Columbia came first in the list of extravagance. They collected taxes of $31.61 per capita and their expenditure was $38.64 per capita in the year 1923. In the same year Alberta came second on the list, collecting $14.41 and expeding $17.93. The Province of Quebec was the only one in the Dominion who actually kept their expenditures within their income. The bonded debt of British Columbia in March, 1917, was over twenty-five million dollars, seven months after the Oliver government came into power. On March 31, 1923, this bonded debt had increased to over sixty-five million dollars. They also have guaranteed the bonds of other companies to the extent of sixty-four million dollars. From the year 1916 to 1923 the expenditure was fourteen million odd dollars over the provincial revenue.

Dr. Bonnell stated he had been questioned as to how he would reduce expenditures. He considered it an insult to his integrity when the Liberal candidate said he would cut down the Mothers' Pension or any other of the social legislation beneficial to the people. He stated that the present Mothers' Pension was a mere skeleton of what it should be and that he would use his best endeavors to have it increased. The way he considered expenses could be reduced was by eliminating "rash promises" at bye-election times. Take the case of the Ymir road. He said Premier Oliver's majority in the house was getting low and when Nelson riding became vacant, the government decided they must have the Nelson seat. The Ymir road had been under consideration by many governments but all had refused to undertake it on account of the high expenditure necessary, yet when the bye-election came along, Premier Oliver himself on a public platform at Nelson had stated that if the Liberaleral candidate was elected the Ymir road would be built, but if an opposition candidate was returned nothing would be done. Absolutely open bribery, The Doctor commented, "If I was to go to an elector and offer him $5 for his vote, I would be put in jail instead of going to the legislature, yet the government had openly offered a bribe of hundreds of thousands of dollars of public money for a seat." At the Revelstoke bye-election that riding was promised an expenditure of $700,000 for favorable consideration at the bye-election. "This province," he said, "needs some kind of a Moses to lead the province out of the wilderness.

Touching upon the freight rates question, Dr. Bonnell said that it was the duty of any government to fight the railway companies on the great discrimination in rates against British Columbia, but it was not until a large delegation from the Vancouver Board of Trade went over to Victoria seeking aid in their fight, that Premier Oliver awoke to the fact that something should be done.

Look at the Fernie riding now. There are more men working on the roads today than there has been the last four years put together. This was nothing less than an attempt to purchase these men's franchise with a mess of pottage. He appealed to these men to take all the work that was offered but on election day to go to the polls and vote exactly according to their own sentiment.

Before closing Dr. Bonnell stated that he would like Mr. Fisher to answer a question, stating that current rumor had it that should Mr. McLean be successful in being elected on June 20, that he would later resign in favor of Mr. Fisher. This was a current rumor, he added, and that he did not wish to be accused of starting anything of that nature in this riding, and requested Mr. Fisher to state if this was a fact. Mr. Fisher replied "No."

In closing Dr. Bonnell made a stirring appeal to the citizens of Fernie for their support at the polls next Friday.

Questions were invited:

Mr. Hesketh asked the Doctor if he would guarantee that water would be given to West Fernie if that suburb gave him their vote.

Dr. Bonnell replied, No, but added that it was the duty of any government to provide a supply of fresh pure water to any part of the province where people were living in any number. Elko had been supplied with water and he saw no reason why West Fernie should not have been extended the same privilege when they had a larger population than Elko.

Mr. Sawyer asked the Doctor if the Conservatives would guarantee to live within their revenue if returned to power. Dr. Bonnell answered that he thought it could be done.

WELL BABY CLINIC

The second Well Baby clinic, held under the auspices of the committee for child hygiene last Monday, was again a success. Twenty-six babies were brought to be weighed by 20 mothers. Besides the mothers and babies there was a good attendance of the committee and volunteer health workers; also the physician for the day, Dr. Corsan. In the middle of the work of weighing and measuring a short intermission was called to enable the mothers to take part in the general discussion. The school nurse read a five minute paper on summer complaint amongst babies. A description of the disease from its mildest form of slight diarrhoea to the acute form of dysentry was given. Summer complaint was caused by an infection of germs in the intestines caused by eating decaying food or stale milk These causes were aggravated by the hot weather, and by chills after being heated. Flies are known to be the chief cause of the trouble, for flies pitch on some decaying food or excreta and then carry the germs or poison on their feet and pitch on some clean food, milk or cup which the baby will put to its mouth. The nurse said that all houses should be screened from flies, and that all babies' bottles and nipples should be boiled and kept in a basin of baking soda and boiled water covered with paper. All mothers should see where their milk comes from and know if the cows are sick or not and if the dairies are clean.. As soon as the child is sick stop all food and give boiled water, and if the symptoms continue send for a doctor as quickly as possible. In hot weather the boiling of milk was recommended to kill all germs. The mothers were all interested and several helped by telling of their experiences. Dr. Corsan found most of the babies in remarkable good condition, and those few which had minor defects will, it is hoped, be soon able to get such rectified.

After the clinic a meeting of the committee was held and it was agreed that unless the two trained nurses, Mrs. O'Neil and Mrs. H. Brown, could be certain to be in Fernie all through the summer vacation, not to have another clinic till the second Monday in September..

FRUIT TREATMENT HEALS KIDNEYS

Concentrated Fruit Juices Give Astonishing Results

Anyone who has suffered with Weak or Irritated Kidneys—with the accompanying miseries of pain in the back, splitting headaches, swollen hands and feet, rheumatism and constipation—ought to try the Fruit Treatment for their trouble.

To those who use intensified fruit juices—"Fruit-a-tives"—for the first time, it seems almost impossible that the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes combined with tonics, could relieve Kidney Trouble.

But a short treatment of "Fruit-a-tives" gives quick relief and the regular use of these intensified fruit juices or "Fruit Liver Tablets" prove their marvellous virtues.

Get "Fruit-a-tives" today and begin the Fruit Treatment. At all dealers; 25c. and 50c. a box; or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

There will be a Conservative rally in the Conservative rooms on Saturday evening, June 14, at 8 o'clock, when Dr. Bonnell will fully review the political situation in the district. It is hoped that as many supporters as possible will attend.

Jimmy McLean held a meeting in Waldo last night and will hold his big rally in Fernie on Saturday night. A big gun from Alberta and another from the coast will back his play on this occasion, with A. I. Fisher gathering up the loose ends.

Betting on the political situation strongly favors the election of Dr. Bonnell. His supporters are offering all the way up to $1000 to $900 that he will defat Jimmy McLean and even money that he will head the poll. Bets on individual polls are also being taken.

The statement in the Calgary Herald is absolutely untrue and the following is a correct record of the motion passed at the special mass meeting of Gladstone Local Union: that we pass a vote of confidence in the District officers and remain united with the remainder of the District until the Jacksonville agreement, carrying with it no reduction in wages, is negotiated in this District.—Thos. Whitehouse, Sec. Gladstone Local.

Miss Maud Hogan, asistant principal of the public schools, has resigned to take a position in New Westminster. Miss Hogan is acknowledged to be one of the best teachers in British Columbia and her departure from Fernie is a distinct loss to this city. If it is a question of monetary consideration the school board should look into the matter before accepting her resignation as Fernie can ill afford to part with a teacher of Miss Hogan's ability.

Geo. Thompson alias George Wesley alias Geo. Thomas alias George Ward, arrested by Constable F. G. Brown at Waldo last week on a charge of horse stealing, came up before Magistrate Stenson on Saturday and was committed for trial. He elected for speedy trial and came before Judge Tompson on the 10th. The acused was found, upon investigation, to be an old offender. He had served 18 months at Stevenston, B.C., for stealing, two terms in Vancouver, one in Calgary and two years in the Montana state prison. He was found guilty on two counts and sentenced to three years in New Westminster. Constable Brown is to be commended for his efficiency in the case.

Relief was given out by the local Miners Union yesterday. Married men received $8 and single men $4. It is expected that further assistance will be forthcoming shortly as some of the families are desperate for money. The recent agitation for a settlement at least brought the men some immediate relief.

Another large shipment of fish consisting of 100,000 Cut Throat Trout, was received by the Fernie District Rod & Gun Club Thursday, and were planted in streams tributary to the Elk River in the vicinity of Fernie. Up to date close to 400,000 fsih have been placed in the streams in this vicinity this year by this Association.

The following wire has been received from G. G. Henderson relative to the Home Bank situation at Ottawa: "Judge McKeown's report on the Home Bank, just tabled, is considered favorable to depositors. It states that if an audit had been made in 1916 present depositors would have suffered no loss. If made in 1918, the report says, he does not think any loss would have fallen upon the depositors."

"Sandy" Watson, manager of the Royal Bank, broke all local records for nine and eighteen holes on the local course on Monday last. He made the first nine in 33 and the second in 36, a total of 69. The best previous record for nine holes, which he held himself, was 34. Fernie has reason to be proud of Sandy. If you will just watch the scores in the different matches throughout the country you will realize how seldom anyone pulls off a 33, even on the most perfect course.

Owing to unsuitable weather last week end the baseball games scheduled between Fernie and Troy had to be cancelled. Local fans will have their first opportunity of seeing Fernie in action on Sunday, when Kimberley will provide the opposition. The Kimberley club are just starting on a tour of the prairies. They have a snappy organization, composed mosctly of college boys and playing their first game of their tour are certain to provide a stiff hurdle for the Fernie club. The game is called for 3 p.m. sharp. Come out and boost.

THE NEED OF PLAYGROUNDS

Few cities and towns as yet provide sufficient playground space for children. And today more than ever the need for such space is emphasized by the increasing death rate among children slain by automobiles while playing in the streets.

Statistics prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that children are in exceptional peril from the reckless driving of speed maniacs and other moral incapables to whom the right to drive an automobile is improperly given. Only recently, presenting automobile dath rate figures for 1923, the statistician for a large insurance company made a point of calling attention to this deplorable truth.

"The lives," he remarked, "which are being lost to an increasing extent year after year through automobile accidents are, very largely, those of children. Approximately one-half of all the deaths from this cause occur among those under fifteen years of age.

"If ever the tide turns and any progress is made in the suppression of fatal automobile injuries, that progress will constitute a step in the direction of the conservation of child life."

It is idle to hope that the automobile slaughter will soon be appreciably lessened. Its lessening requires radical measures—notably the psychological testing of applicants for a driver license—which do not promise to be immediately taken. Meantime children can and should be given the protection of increased playground space as an aid in keeping them out of danger's way.

Childrer must play somewhere in the great outdoors. They need play in the open air for their health's sake and for their morale as well as for that of living. To make no provision for their play while forbidding them to romp in the streets is not only cruel to the children, it is to weaken and handicap society itself.

"The play or recreational problem has two sides. One might be called the spiritual side; the other, the material.

"The first, and most important, is to provide proper instructions, inspiration and control—to build physical strength, and ethical ideals. The second is to provide a place where the instruction and training can be carried into effect.

"School might be taught without school houses, and religion without churches, but it must be admitted that both are important accessories. No permanent work can be carried on in the field of recreation without a permanent field in which the recreation can be carried on."

This is sound doctrine. To ignore it, to withhold playground space from children on the score of expense, or for any other reason, is to perpetuate a grave community blunder.

And so far as expense is concerned, it is in the long run cheaper to compel children to grow up under playless conditions that inevitably tend to weaken them for the demands and activities of adult life?

Then there is, too. the pressing consideration of safeguarding child life from the immediate and increasing peril of the automobile. This alone should be a consideration giving impetus everywhere to the movement for more public playgrounds.

BODIES OF MINERS HAVE BEEN RECOVERED

Cranbrook, June 11. — Early this week Constable Gregory Thomas, of the provincial police, was at Skookumchuck again to make a further search for the two miners, E. Metzner and R. Wahl, who dropped out of sight shortly after Christmas, and who it was feared were lost. They left word that they would return early in the year again and when they did not, a search was made for them. Constable Thomas and a party from Skookumchuck succeeded in reaching their lonely cabin, in spite of the snow, which made the going very difficult. No trace of them was found and it was feared that they had been lost under a slide, signs of which were evident on the way from the shack to where the entrance of their mine was. This conjecture proved all too true, the bodies being recovered on Monday when Constable Thomas went back to make further search, after the snow had disappeared.

NEW DALTON PRODUCTION A CLEVER APACHE STORY

The story, a fast-moving crook drama, is an adaptation of the stage success, "Leah Kleschna," by Charles McLellan. It has to do with the regeneration of a clever girl crook (Dorothy Dalton), who falls in love with a young student of criminology, who rescued her from a fire at a colorful charity ball, where she had gone with her father, a notorious criminal, to steal whatever money might be taken in. It is through Paul Sylvain, played by James Rennie, that the girl renounces her life of crime and goes to a little village in Normandy to begin life anew.

PARALYSIS FROM TICK

In British Columbia about a dozen kinds of ticks are found. The female of one of these ticks may under certain conditions cause paralysis, sometimes followed by death in man and animals. Those chiefly affected are children and sheep.

In the first place attention is drawn to the fact that the six-legged parasites commonly found on sheep and which are usually called ticks are not ticks at all but are in reality wingless flies. It would perhaps avoid confusion if they were generally called by another common name, that of ked. While the sheep ked has only six legs the tick when fully grown has eight.

The paralysis tick in certain parts of Montana is itself affected by small parasites which it passes on to man, causing the disease known as Rocky Mountain Fever or Spotted Fever. Although we fortunately have no records of these ticks carrying Spotted Fever in B.C., we have a number of records of them causing paralysis in man and animals.

Paralysis is caused by the female tick when she is feeding fast, if she is sucking blood slowly paralysis does not occur.

A single tick may cause paralysis or even death.

It is found over the greater part of South Eastern B.C. and in the adjacent portion of Alberta.

A number of cases of paralysis due to ticks have been seen by medical men in the interior of the province. The majority of cases occur in children, but it has been seen in a youth of 18 and twice in adult men.

The symptoms vary slightly in individual cases. but can be stated to be generally as follows: The patient perfectly well one day, may on the next complain of a numbness in the feet and legs and have difficulty in walking; a little later it may be impossible to stand up. The hands and arms are usually affected next. Often there is a partial paralysis of the throat muscles, there being difficulty in swallowing. The tongue is affected, there being difficulty in speaking properly; it may be impossible to protrude the tongue, or if the tongue is protruding it may be impossible to withdraw it. Constitutional symptoms are slight; there may be some restlessness in the early stages, or the patient may complain of feeling a bit seedy. There is no pain, and usually no fever, but the pulse is faster.

The time from the beginning of symptoms to complete paralysis and even death may be less than two days but is usually from three to five days. The chances of recovery are good if the organs of respiration or the heart are not affected.

Treatment—Medical aid should be secured if possible. A search should be made for one or more ticks, especially around the nape of the neck, in the hair, and on the back and chest. The female tick will by this time be bluish in color and about the size of a large bean, and should be found with comparative ease. In removing a tick care should be taken not to leave the head in the skin, otherwise it is liable to cause intense irritation, with the probable formation of an abscess or of an ulcer that is hard to heal. They may be made to lose their hold by covering them with kerosene, gasoline, oil of turpentine, or carbonized vaseline; touching with the hot end of a cigarette will also prove effective. They should be removed with a gentle pull, and if necessary the small piece of skin containing the head can be snipped off with a pair of scissors.

THE VERDICT

Pacific Great Eastern Inquiry

ANSWER TO PROVINCIAL PARTY SLANDERS:

Mr. Gyles, Manager for Price, Waterhouse & Company—the largest chartered accountants in the world—stated Under Oath:

¶ THAT all stores were properly checked out.

¶ THAT no important document was missing.

¶ THAT every voucher, cheque, invoice and payroll was produced.

¶ THAT the missing books had no effect in preventing the audit, because they only sumarised the invoices, vouchers, cheques and payrolls, the originals of which were available.

Mr. Justice Galliher's verdict was :

"I find nothing in the evidence in this inquiry to warrant the imputation that there was anything dishonest, or any dereliction in duty, or disregard of the public interests, or waste, extravagance, or incompetence in the carrying out of this work by the Government."

CANADA AND BOOTLEGGERS

The President of the United States is going to appoint a commission—something that corresponds with the bodies we call Royal Commissions in Canada — to investigate the operations of bootleggers and report thereon. Royal Commissions appointed to investigate anything in Canada seldom find out anything worth while, their reports are hardly ever worth printing and they cost the country a lot of money. The United States commission may discover something worth while, and its report may be exceedingly interesting.

But what a stupendous job that of investigating the operations of bootleggers will be; what an enormous territory, and what a tremendous extent of coast line the commissions will have to cover. Congressional committees have been investigating the matter for themselves, and they have discovered some very interesting facts. If there is an officer or an official in the department at Washington, with the honorable exception of the President, who is not involved, directly or indirectly, in the operations of bootleggers, either as sly consumers, or equally sly purveyors of the stuff dealt in by bootleggers, then many accusers have been bearing false witness against them.

As reports indicate might be the case, bootlegging in the United States is not confined entirely to bootlegging in the stuff called rum. Operators are defying the exclusion law and bootlegging into the country people who have a burning desire to become American citizens. They are smuggling men as well as rum across the border. A representative of the United States government, stationed in a city in Canada which need not be mentioned, has been arrested on a charge of helping to smuggle men into the country and making money out of such irregularities. So that the remifications of the bootlegger are becoming very wide indeed. The exclusiveness of the United States is going to cause the officials of the government a great deal of trouble and a tremendous amount of money.

However, it is reported that the Canadian government has decided to co-operate with the American government against the rum bootlegger. That should simplify somewhat the task of the United States suppression brigade. The British government has an agreement with the American government on the subject, but that is not sufficient for the Canadian government. It probably is considered an infringement upon our "autonomy." How very precious is that blessed word "autonomy." Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King doubtless believes that we shall not be considered as tied to the apron strings of the Mother Country; that secret diplomacy cannot be tolerated by an "autonomous" country; that Canada cannot be a consenting party to any instrument that has not been submitted to and approved by parliament.

However, there may be people in Canada who will not approve of our government entering into a compact to assist in the enforcement of the local laws of a foreign country; to assist in the suppression of something that cannot be suppressed, that experience has demonstrated cannot be suppressed — and squandering the money of the public in an effort to execute that palpably hopeless task. —Victoria Colonist.

CRIME IN UNITED STATES

The Sovereign people of the United States, through their legislature, have decided that the time has come to restrict and select their immigrants. They have declared in effect that the nation cannot properly assimilate great masses of foreigners, particularly foreigners from southern Europe, and create desirable, law-abiding citizens out of them. Crime in the United States has become a reproach to the nation and the people, but whether that state of affairs is due to the unassimilable foreign element or to internal conditions must be a matter of speculation.

The young fellows who murdered the boy Franks under circumstances resembling the manner in which butchers treat cattle in the celebrated stockyards of Chicago may not be of Nordic descent but certainly they must be Americans of a second or third generation, for their fathers are millionaires, and millionaires are not made in a few years, even in the United States; at least, not as a general rule.

Loeb and Leopold, weare told, have had all the advantages a liberal education can bestow. They attended public schools and universities. They must have moved in society that is called good. They had plenty of pocket money. They attended theatres and all places of entertainment. They lacked nothing to make their lives pleasant and agreeable. Their future was assured, for their fathers could afford to make ample provision for them.

Yet before they reached maturity their appetites for pleasure were sated and jaded. They craved some new form of excitement, and they killed a fellow creature under circumstances that were startlingly cold-blooded and atrocious to get it. They have brought death and desolation into one family, plunged two other families in waters of sorrow deeper and more bitter than death, and brought eternal infamy upon themselves.

The underworld of Chicago is notorious throughout the world for its cruelty and wickedness. Many cold-blooded crimes are attributed to it; but the underworld of Chicago has never been guilty of anything more henjous than the crime of the youthful members of the Chicago upperworld. The law-abiding people of the United States, who are just as numerous as the law-abiding people of any other part of the world, should insist upon the nation adopting internal as well as passing external measures for the protection of society.

MINING INDUSTRY PROSPEROUS

A striking evidence of the strides being made in the mining industry in British Columbia is disclosed in the greatly increased number of free miners' certificates issued for the current year. In the Victoria district alone, which may be taken as representative of the entire province, there have been over 2000 certificates issued this year, as against 140 last year. There is also a marked increase in the number of company free miners' certificates taken out. Apart from the war years, when production was artificially stimulated, the year 1923 was the best in the mining history of British Columbia.

7. Every beer license issued under this section shall be subject to all conditions and restrictions imposed by this Act or by the regulations in force from time to time.

8. No holder of a beer license shall keep or permit to be kept in any part of the premises in respect of which the license is issued any bar or counter over or at which any alcoholic or non-alcoholic beverage is sold.

CLEAR THE TRACK

PEANUT POLITICS is trying to hold up the Relief Express. By your vote remove this obstruction to prosperity on June twentieth. A vote for the Liberal Candidate is a vote for John Oliver, the engineer who will bring this Relief Express, bearing prosperity for British Columbia, safely through. It carries Equalized Freight Rates -- the one fundamental that is essential to the prosperity of every man, woman and child in this Province.

Equalized Freight Rates will bring millions to our Province; will double our population in ten years; will develop our ports; will bring to us basic manufacturing industries and their pay-rolls; will develop the necessary market for our agricultural products.

Equalized Freight Rates means more money -- more industries -- more people -- lower taxes -- lower cost of living.

Equalized Freight Rates is the hinge on which the door to prosperity hangs. John Oliver and his Liberal Government have the key in the form of the sympathetic ear of a like Liberal Government at Ottawa.

Your vote for the Liberal Candidate is a message to the industrial, financial and political interests of the East that you are behind John Oliver in his tight for prosperity. Remember this on June twentieth.

CANDIDATES AT ROOSVILLE

Roosville was the centre of political activity on Saturday night last when the three candidates met for the first time in the present contest on the same platform. The meeting had been called in the interests of Jimmy McLean, Liberal candidate, and an invitation had been extended to Dr. Bonnell to be present. Thos. Uphill, who also showed up in the audience, was invited to the platform and an exciting time was expected, but owing to A. I. Fisher, who was the main Liberal mouthpiece for the occasion, refusing to be questioned on his statements, the excitement soon simmered down.

Jimmy McLean was the first speaker. His remarks were very brief. as he said Mr. Fisher would outline the principal planks of the Liberal platform. He said he thought the Oliver government had conducted the affairs of the country in a business-like way and did not see how any other government could cut down the taxation of the country. He asked Dr. Bonnell to show in what way taxation could be reduced.

Dr. Bonnell spoke for ten or fifteen minutes. He went into the debt of the province, showing that although the Liberals had been carried into power on the cry of Conservative extravagance, that in seven years the net debt had grown over forty million dollars. They were spending money like drunken sailors and unless a halt was called the province would soon be bankrupt. The public money was being squandered in Liberal constituencies regardless of everything. In Liberal constituencies the cost of road work throughout the province was over $1400 per mile; in opposition constituencies only $58 per mile was spent. Was this a fair and equitable way of spending the people's money, In John Oliver's Delta constituency, where there was less than 40 miles of road, over a million dollars had been spent in four years, while in a neighboring riding represented by a Labor candidate, there were 128 miles of road and only $5000 had been spent in the same length of time. The liquor board was running up huge bills for railroad express. Falconer, one of the commissioners, had a bill of $5000 for travelling expenses from his home in Vancouver to his office in Victoria. In Nelson riding they had spent in the neighborhood of $300,000 on the Ymir road in a direct effort to buy the electorate of that district in a bye-election. In Revelstoke, where a Liberal minister was sitting, public works to the extent of $700,000 were under way as a bribe to the voters in that district. Cut down the taxes! Why, there were a thousand ways of cutting down the taxes.

Thos. Uphill, Labor candidate, spoke at length. He detailed his work in the house, saying that he had done everything possible for an opposition candidate to do in the work of looking after labor legislation. He had the interests of his constituents at heart and was always on the job.

A. I. Fisher spoke for an hour and a half in a wonderful effort to defend the Liberal government. The debt had grown by leaps and bounds under the Liberals, but this was mostly due to the P. G. & E. being left on their hands by the Bowser government, to the vast sums of money paid out in widows' pensions and to the wonderful educational system which the province had. Dr. Bonnell's figures were a pack of lies and the country was never more prosperous than at the present moment. He himself, while in the house, did everything he could for the Fernie district and the working men in it, but his efforts had not been appreciated. He had been sacrificel by the miners of Fernie, Coal Creek, Michel and Corbin for the sake of Thomas Uphill. It did not matter what you did for them, they were never satisfied. He was not what was known as a good fellow like their candidate in the field. He was a student of economics and not a hail fellows, well met. Some day the public would get tired of voting for good fellows and elect students who really knew what the country needed and then he would have a chance. He appealed to the electorate to vote for Jimmy McLean, the candidate of the Liberal party, that wonderful institution which throughout the ages had been the friend of the poor man and the enemy of the interests, etc., etc. For further particulars see Liberal campaign dope.

By this time the audience had grown very weary and the honking of auto horns made it hard for the speaker to finish.

After the meeting a big dance was held and Tommy Uphill and Jimmy McLean had to vamp the ladies present out of their votes to the wonderful strains of the fox trot.

For the preceding six months, the figure was $1,402,000, and for the half-year before that, $1,250,000.

BLAIRMORE MAYOR LOSES HIS CASE

Toronto, June 10.—Cheques drawn upon the Home Bank and which passed through the hands of other banks at the time of the collapse of the Home Bank on August 17, 1923, were the subject of judgments delivered at Osgoods Hall today.

The master of the supreme court dismissed the application of Archibald McLeod, of Blairmore, Alberta, for a declaration that he is entitled to an order directing the liquidator to pay him the proceeds of a cheque for $2700 which McLeod had given to the local branch of the Home Bank to forward to Lethbridge for collection. McLeod signed no deposit slip but the manager entered it unknown to him in his trust account. The bank forwarded the cheque to its agents, the Bank of Montreal at Lethbridge and it was presented and paid on August 17, the day the Home Bank closed its doors. The draft in settlement was never sent to the Home Bank. The master remarks that it is a hard case, but the authorities are compelled to the decision that McLeod can rank only as an ordinary creditor and is entitled only to the creditor's dividend.

Anger is like fire in the grass. You may put it out but it leaves behind it a waste of blackened ashes.

COAL STRIKE'S PLAIN LESSON

(Calgary Herald)

On Tuesday the employees of the Coal Company at Fernie, B.C., held a mass meeting to consider the advisability of making a new contract direct with the company. The district officers of the United Mine Workers of America, who hurriedly went to Fernie, promised that $3000 would be immediately sent there for strike relief, and that the international union headquarters would at once consider the question of permanent strike pay. On that assurance any move on the part of the men to deal with the company was for the moment stopped and a break with the union averted—temporarily, at least.

The company at Fernie is a large one, probably the largest single operation in District 18. It operates at Fernie and Michel, and employs a large force. Consequently the independent action of the men is of more than ordinary significance in the present strike situation.

The situation at Fernie indicates that even to the union membership the policy of the district officers has become irksome. A parrot-like insistence, on a three-year war-time wage agreement is not sufficient to any thinking man to keep him out indefinitely on strike, particularly if he be out at his own expense, and knows, as many men know, that the same contract negotiated in the States has thrown half the men out of work and swung the business to their non-union competitors.

If the local union leaders are leaders, it is time they recognized the wisdom of re-opening negotiations with the operators on the basis that will not only give their men work, but reasonably steady work, at a wage commensurate with their service, which is no longer on a war-time footing. If they do not read the obvious lesson in the Fernie situation, they are unusually blind, or they are deliberately heading toward a rock upon which they will split their organization.

MRS. DE PENCIER ADDRESSES I.O.D.E.

Mrs. de Pencier, the Organizing Secretary of the Provincial Chapter of the I.O.D.E., addressed a large meeting of the members of the Order on Friday evening, June 13. The David Thompson, Major Robert Black and Mount Fernie Chapters were well represented. These were augmented by members from Waldo, Gateway and Natal.

The Regent of Mount Fernie Chapter, Mrs. J. L. Gates, presided, and introduced the speaker of the evening in a few well chosen words. Mrs. de Pencier gave a very interesting report of the National Annual Meeting, from which she had just returned. She then addressed the meeting. "The Objects and Aims of Our Order" was the subject, with particular stress on:

Stimulation and expression of the sentiment of patriotism. We can help by standing at attention during the singing of the National Anthem; by interesting our friends, both in the by teaching respect to our flag and Empire and in other lands, in our work. We can try to make our Order truly an Imperialistic Order.

We provide an efficient organization through which prompt and united action of the women and children of the Empire may be taken when so desired. We help in time of war by providing little luxuries and necessities to the men and nurses overseas; by looking after returned men and their dependents.

We promote a study of history of our Empire and of current imperialistic questions, by keeping patriotic anniversaries; by cherishing the memory of brave and noble deeds and their doers. We have erected many memorials. To promote the study of history we present books, in some cases libraries, pictures, scholarships and bursaries; also by assisting needy students, who are soldier's or sailor's dependents.

We help care for widows, orphans and other dependents of British soldiers and sailors during the war and in times of peace. Much relief work has yet to be done and temporary assistance is sometimes greatly appreciated.

We can promote unity between the motherland, the sister dominions and ourselves by encouraging loyalty to king and country; by helping all good work; by assisting the progress of art and literature; by instilling patriotism into youth.

Our badgs is the emblem of unity. It bears the title of the association, and is composed of the Union Jack on a seven-point star, surrounded by a garter and surmounted by a crown. The star typifies the seven divisions of our Empire, in unity.

The meeting was closed with the National Anthem.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

The second regular June meeting of the city council was held in the council chamber on Thursday evening, Acting Mayor Irvine occupying the chair in the absence of Mayor Henderson, who is at present in the east on business. Ald. Stewart was absent.

The tender of Thos. Nelson, bricklayer, to overhaul the city hall building at a cost of $35 was accepted.

A communication was received from the House of Commons committee upon the Old Age Pension scheme under consideration at present by the federal government, requesting the views of this municipality upon this scheme and requesting statistics upon persons eligible to receive such a pension should the government grant same, resident in or a charge on the municipality. City Clerk Moffatt was instructed to compile and forward the requested information.

A. J. Carter, on behalf of the Dominion Day sports committee, made application by letter to the council for the use of Victoria Park on July 1 for the purpose of holding the annual celebration. He also stated that the commitee looked to the city to put the grounds in good condition prior to that date. Permission was granted and the parks committee instructed to get the necessary work done.

Some discussion arose as to the disposition of the captured German guns at present placed in the city hall grounds but this matter was left over until next meeting.

An appeal from the Salvation Army for some financial aid was turned down on account of the present financial condition of the city.

THOS. UPHILL ELECTED —GOVERNMENT IN DOUBT

Thos. Uphill, labor member in the late house at Victoria, again carried off the honors in the Fernie constituency today in one of the hardest fights ever pulled off in this district, winning by the handsome margin of 143 votes over his nearest opponent, Dr. Bonnell, Conservative, and 334 over Jas. McLean, the Liberal candidate.

The Liberal party seemed to be amply provided with the sinews of war and kept both the Labor and Conservatives worried all the time. The supporters of Dr. Bonnell were very confident and offered to back their man to any extent but the other parties were cautious and very little money changed hands.

Dr. Bonnell made a fine run in the district but in the coal towns the labor crowd stood solid behind Mr. Uphill and ran up a majority which could not be overcome. The Doctor polled a majority in Elko, Bull River, Fort Steele, Crow's Nest, Jaffray, Wasa, Flagstone, Gateway, McGuires and Roosville. Tom had a majority in Fernie, West Fernie, Coal Creek, Michel, Natal, Corbin, Caithness, while Jimmy McLean led the poll in Galloway, Waldo, Hosmer, White Sulphur and Elk Prairie. Following is the vote in the different polls:

The result of the election in the province today seems to be very much in doubt but a general shake-up seems to have taken place in both parties. Both Premier Oliver and Hon. W. J. Bowser went down to defeat, the former by over 1600 votes and the latter by 2100. Vancouver elected four Liberals and two Provincials, while Victoria came through with four straight Conservatives. General McRae was the only one of the leaders to be elected but only two of his followers carried seats, so he is not in a very strong position. Mary Ellen Smith lost her seat in Vancouver by something like 1000 votes.

Whether the Liberal government will be able to carry on will be very much in doubt till the returns are all in. There are several close seats which the absentee vote may change. Following was the last bulletin issued at midnight showing the standing of the parties:

Liberals 18; Conservatives 15; Labor 3; Provincial 3; Independent 3.—42 seats.

There are six seats in doubt as follows:

Atlin, 6 polls out of 19, Kergin, Liberal 33 majority.

Cariboo, 20 polls out of 42; Fraser, Con., 1 maj.

Fort George, 10 polls out of 49; Burden, Con., 12 majority.

Islands, 12 polls out of 17; Peck, Con., 28 maj.

McKenzie, 9 polls out of 33; Manson, Con., 65 maj.

The returns from the beer plebiscite for Fernie district were very much in favor of selling beer, but the province as a whole seems to have turned the proposition down cold. Only scattered figures are available at this time.

Mr. Higginbotham stated that the bank's investments in buildings was not a sound one for the Canadian public. Fully 60 per cent of the investments by banks were in palatial buildings unsuitable for any other business in case of failure, he said.

MRS. R. W. WOOD ENTERTAINS

On Friday last, June 13, Mrs. R. W. Wood entertained the members of the I.O.D.E. from Natal, Waldo, Gateway and Fernie to an "At Home" held at her residence in the Park. On this occasion the members had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. de Pencier, the past regent and present organizing secretary of the Provincial Chapter.

Mrs. Wood, assisted by Mrs. J. L. Gates, the regent of Mount Fernie Chapter, received the guests and introduced them to Mrs. de Pencier. There were over 125 guests present.

The house was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and the spacious grounds were bright and beautiful with flowers and shrubs. Even the feathered songsters in the garden gayly warbled a hospitable welcome to all.

During the afternoon Miss M. Duncan, Mrs. Asselstine, Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Suddaby delighted their audience with vocal selections. Mrs. Meade rendered the accompaniments in her usual capable and sympathetic style.

The guests were regaled with most delicious refreshments. In the living room, Mrs. J. R. Wallace served punch, while Mrs. Irvine and Mrs. Stewart presided over the tea table. After the guests had enjoyed themselves inside they scattered around the grounds, where Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Ingram dispensed the ices. Other officers of the order assisted in passing these dainties.

Nature smiled on the scene. The weather was so delightful that rambles through the garden were most enjoyable. The guests dispersed about six o'clock, one and all assuring their charming hostess of the most delightful afternoon they had spent.

Brother men, one act of charity will teach us more of the love of God than a thousand sermons—one act of unselfishness, of real self-denial, than whole volumes of the wisest writers on theology.—F. W. Robertson.

PREMIER MINE GOING STRONG

Exploration of the Premier Mine has not yet been completed by any means, as indicated by the report of Vice-President and Managing Director H. A. Guess of the Premier Gold Mining Company, which has recently been issued and which gives the statement of affairs as on December 31, 1923. It gives assurance of a considerable body of good milling ore still in sight.

The company is probing below its No. 4 level and is drifting to cut the main ore vein with what is called the No. 6 tunnel. It is 350 feet below the level of No. 4 tunnel and it is thought that some good milling ore may be obtained at that level.

During 1923 prospecting was begun to explore the ore possibilities of all the above mentioned areas except (2), representing the extension along the southwestern zone, upon which little or nothing in the way of prospecting has as yet been done. The results of the prospecting work in the other areas has, upon the whole, been fairly successful, and in conjunction with new ore found within the area of the mine workings of a year ago, has opened up sufficient new ore so that the ore reserves as of December 31, 1923, are approximately the same as those of a year ago, after producing from the property during 1923, 145,665 dry tons averaging in recovered values approximately .80 ounces gold and 19.0 ounces silver per ton.

The only two areas that have been explored with any degree of completeness during 1923 are the extension south-eastward along the main ore zone and the extension northwestward along the northwestern ore zone. The first of these comprised extending the second level northeastward to the boundary of the property, and in so doing an ore body was found which has now been opened up for a length of 150 feet, and a value of about $35, and which, as indicated by diamond drill holes, may be found to have a total length of around 300 feet. Further development will indicate whether this ore body extends upward to the first level or above, and to what depth below the second level it carries commercial ore.

The explorations along the northwest vein have been carried on chiefly by extending the third level southwestward upon the main ore zone, and at the point where the northwestern ore zone joins the main zone, a drift was run following along the northwest, which indicates that upon this third level, and possibly for some distance both above and below it, the northwestern ore zone makes a substantial ore bady of $25 average value or better, the limit of which has not as yet been reached.

During the past year a deep tunnel called No. 6 tunnel, beginning at the old Bunting tunnel and run at an elevation approximately 550 feet below No. 4 or present bottom level, was started, and at the close of the year had been driven approximately 1400 feet. No values have as yet been encountered and there remains approximately 1100 feet to drive to reach the main ore body at this depth of 550 feet below the fourth level.

Later, the zone traversed by the tunnel will be cross-sectioned at intervals by diamond drill holes, to see whether, closely tributary thereto, any commercial ore is encountered at that horizon, at or near the contact of the tuff and porphyry, the tunnel itself being driven mostly in tuff. This work has, therefore, not as yet reached its objective.

Explorations from the third level within the main workings of the property, by flat diamond drill holes into the hanging wall section, have cut ore at three different points covering a distance of 400 feet along the strike, that is of commercial grade and 10 feet or more in width. Further prospecting of this will be done by cross-cutting out to these points and driving upon the hanging wall zone to see what may be developed, and this hanging wall territory will be also explored from the second level to see whether a similar condition there exists.

The estimated general average of the 93,000 tons broken in stopes as at December 31, 1923, is 67 ounces gold and 16.5 ounces silver. With gold figured at $20 per ounce and silver at 60c per ounce, this represents a gross value of $23.30 per ton.

A conservative estimate of the assured and probable unbroken ore to the present bottom level of the present mine workings is 360,000 tons, averaging .85 ounces gold and 15 ounces silver per ton. With gold figured at $20 per ounce and with silver at 60c per ounce, this represents a gross value of $23.30 per ton.

In addition to this there is a considerable tonnage of ore developed above the bottom level of rather complex mineralization and slightly blow profitable grade at present milling capacity, which, later on, it may become possible to treat at a profit.

Also, there has been indicated by the diamond drilling so far below the present bottom fourth level, 146,000 tons averaging .39 ounces gold and 3.2 ounces silver per ton, and one diamond drill hole, some 400 feet to the northwestward of the above mentioned drilled area below the fourth level, cut at a depth of 130 feet below the fourth level, 10 feet—which, calculated at right angles to the vein, would be about four feet wide — of $50 ore which, while doubtless well above the average value of the ore body, thus more or less indicated, is of interest in connection with the possibilities of this and other tonnages below the fourth level.

THE GUNMAN

(By Walt Mason)

The gunman shoots with wondrous skill; he draws his gat and shoots to kill; for any small excuse he'll drill a stranger through the head; through movie films and books he goes, exterminating all his foes, and leaves behind, in rows and rows, his harvest of the dead. My nephews, young and tender swains, behold this hero of the plains as he shoots people through the brains, and think him something fine; they see him in the films, gadzooks, and read about him in the books that treat of murderers and crooks, and death of swift design. It keeps me talking all the time to show the gunman's not sublime, that in the end his course of crime will bring him to the pen; his finish will be sad to see, and haply on the gallows-tree he'll have to swing, while ravens croak loudly and gain. My nephews yawn, and still I talk until it's nearly 12 o'clock, a tawdry bunch are those who walk along the paths of sin; a beastly villain is the one who grows proficient with the gun, and thinks it is a cort of fun to shoot you in the shin. A better thing it is to tool a plow behind a sorrel mule than furnish carnage in a pool, or corpses in a stack; that sort of hero I detest who makes the crowner hold his quest, who's only working at his best when deadly weapons crack.

COWPUNCHER WINS SCREEN FAME

When men spend days and weeks apart from each other on wide cattle ranges and meet but seldom, as compared to the habits of city dwellers, it happens that the pleasure is more intense and that frequently this pleasure is shown in a peculiar sort of horseplay which for many years has been a distinctive feature of the "com camps" of Western America.

"Cowpuncher humor," however, has suffered sometimes when brought to the stage or screen because the men chosen to interpret it were entirely unfamiliar with it.

So it was that when Paramount Pictures decided to film "Ruggles of Red Gap," by Hary Leon Wilson, perhaps the most humorous story ever written, a cowpuncher was chosen to direct it.

Not a cowpuncher right off the range, however, but one that was, as it were. It is over twenty years since James Cruze punched cows at Pioche, Nevada, but it is said that the dramatic experience he has had since fits in splendidly with his present opportunity to put on the screen the humor which was part of his youth.

BEST FRIENDS

Oh, dear ones far and near,
And dear ones near and far—
They each shine out to me
Like yonder glistening star.

And each, as I behold,
Seems brighter than the rest;
They all are burnished gold
And everyone the best.

So now as time doth fly
I make the taking boast,
Of all my friends, that I
Love everyone the most.

OTTAWA WILL FLOAT $300,000,000 LOAN

Ottawa, June 18.—The Dominion government intends to float a loan of three hundred million dollars. Hon. James Robb, acting Minister of Finance, will shortly bring down legislation to give the necessary authority. Proceeds of the loan will be devoted entirely to refunding. A five-year Victory Loan for $107,955,000, issued in 1919, falls due on Nov. 1, and the proceeds of the new loan will take care of this and other maturing obligations.

Decision has not yet been reached whether the new loan will be floated entirely in Canada.

FORMER FERNIE BOY IS WINNER OF SCHOLARSHIP

Medicine Hat, June 13. — Master John Dick, 533 Aberdeen street, Medicine Hat, formerly of Dalton Avenue, Fernie, has the honor of winning the Rotary Club's history scholarship for the year 1923. A few months ago the Medicine Hat Rotary Club decided to donate a scholarship of the annual value of $50 to the grade ten boy of Alexandra high school showing the highest proficiency in Canadian history. In addition to excelling in history the winner must make a good showing in all the other subjects of study and the scholarship is designed to encourage research in the special study of Canadian history and aid the winner in pursuit of higher education.

The first winner is John Whitelaw Dick, who is receiving the congratulations of his friends and competitors. John is just 16 years of age, having been born in Airdrie, Scotland, on May 29, 1908. He is a son of Archibald Dick, government boiler inspector for Medicine Hat district. John received his primary education in Calgary in the Sunnyside and Hillhurst public schools. He received his Grade 9 training in Elm street school, Medicine Hat, where he stood at the top of his class, and during the past year he has headed his class in Grade 10. One of the conditions incident to winning the scholarship is that the successful candidate shall give an address to the Rotary Club on some phase of Canadian history. John Dick will appear before the Rotary Club at their regular weekly luncheon on Monday, June 16.

About the only safe election bet is that the losers will all feel peeved over the result.

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Here and There

Comparative figures on the hydro power installed in the United States and Canada show that the latter is far in the lead in respect of horse-power installed per 1,000 of population. The United States has 10,455,000 h.p. of installed water power against Canada's water power installations of 3,227,414 h.p. The horse-power per 1,000 of population in the United States is 95, but in Canada it is 350.

A steady increase in the volume of wheat exports from Canada is noted in the monthly statement issued by the Bureau of Statistics. In April, 1924, 6,085,465 bushels in all were exported, as against 5,143,304 in April, 1923. Included in these figures are 32,805 bushels sent to the United States, 2,972,469 to the United Kingdom and 3,080,191 to other countries.

Approximately 80 per cent of Manitoba's wheat acreage has been seeded, despite the general lateness of work on the land occasioned by unfavorable spring weather. Practically every district correspondent reports a reduction in the wheat acreage, with corresponding indications that barley and flax acreage, in particular, will be increased

Alberta provided the bulk of the wool sold by the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association last year, 1,062,613 pounds, of the total of 2,843,365 pounds of the 1923 clip, coming from this province, according to a statement made by the general manager of the Association. Ontario growers took second place, with 636,076 pounds, followed by Manitoba - Saskatchewan, 459,583 pounds. Sundry shipments totalled 345,599 pounds.

The value of the building permits issued in 56 Canadian cities showed a large increase during April, as compared with March, 1924. Representative cities authorized buildings to the value of $13,452,359, as compared with $9,162,763 in the previous month. Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and New Brunswick registered increases in the value of building permits issued.

Except in sheep, Canadian livestock and livestock products show an increase in shipments to the United States all along the line in the January-February period of this year, compared with the corresponding months of last year. Cattle shipments in the period were 11,190, compared with 10,310; beef 923,400 lbs., compared with 446,800 lbs.; bacon 81,700 lbs.. compared with 30,100 lbs.; pork, 165,300 lbs., compared with 90,800 lbs., and mutton 2,400 lbs., compared with 700 lbs.

The first annual pow-wow of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, which will be held July 17-18 at Yoho, will take place in a big sun-dance lodge decorated by Stoney Indians. The order aims to encourage travel through the Canadian Rockies, outdoor life, nature study, and forest conservation, and to honor early explorers. Many noted authors and artists have joined and E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has donated $1,000 towards expenses.

The Canadian Pacific S.S. "Empress of Canada" arrived at Vancouver, B.C., on May 24th, following a world cruise of five months and nearly 30,000 miles. The passengers witnessed a remarkable eruption at Hilo, in the Hawaiian Islands, on May 17th. After a public welcome at Vancouver, they left for the East, stopping en route at Banff Springs Hotel for a dinner-dance. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific, who met the ship, said that she had done important missionary work in carrying the Canadian Ensign over the Seven Seas.

Arrangements are well under way for entertaining the members and friends of the Canadian Teachers' Federation during their trans-Canadian tour, which will take place August 4th-12th over the main lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in a train specially provided for their accommodation. Fort William, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Edmonton, Banff, Lake Louise, Vancouver and Victoria are all planning festivities. The Canadian Pacific is preparing to give the teachers a royal time at their beautiful Rocky Mountain resorts and the people of Victoria, where the subsequent convention will be held, will also help to make their stay in that city a memorable one.

Get far more wear from dainty garments

It isn't because they're so fragile that your crepe garments, fine silks, and laces wear out quickly.

It's the injurious things contained in ordinary laundry soaps.

You can get far more wear from the sheerest, daintiest things you own—by laundering them this way:

Use snowy-white, crinkly PALMOLIVE PRINCESS SOAP FLAKES. Nothing but purest soap. A great foam of suds that gently dissolves all dirt and soil—but never injures the filmiest fabric. And if anything it really brightens and renews delicate colors.

Being pure soap—nothing else—they go farther and clean more thoroughly. That makes them actually economical for use in the washing machine, for all laundering, and for all household purposes in fact.

Your dealer has them in handy one-pound packages. Do get some—if only to try—today.

APPEALING FOR CREMATION

Vancouver, June 18.—An appeal for cremation in perference to burial is being advanced in an educational campaign by the Cremation Society, which is reaching out for a province-wide movement. It is claimed that cremation is more hygenic and economical. Its advantages are being propagated through literature throughout the province. The only crematorium in the province is at Vancouver.

PATIENCE AND CHARITY

I walked in the dusky woodland, where lilies were under my feet; I hummed a song as I went along in that silent old retreat. The sun was over the tree tops, and moss was over their roots—I said: "I'll name what I hope to claim of all earth's choicest fruits. For I've wandered out from the village, and sought out this lovely place, to rest my thoughts on what's been wrought that time can not efface. And I've vowed to name the treasure that Heaven must give to me, where none might hear but the angel ear, and where none might know but he. So I found an old wild grapevine that swung from a bent birch tree, and I leaned 'midst its leaves like one that grieves for what can never be. The beauteous sun sank lower, a stillness covered all; I thought of the past with its fond hopes cast like autumn leaves that fall. A grief subdued and heavy enshrounded the vine and me; and Heaven wept o'er the hopes that swept through my soul like a raging sea. Then with a sigh, I murmured that life is a dreary waste, and in Fate's hands the golden strands with dross are interlaced; and I said, "Is life worth living? Oh, life with its bitter cup! Then I saw at my feet a wild rose sweet, and I stooped and picked it up; and I spied through the drooping branches the sun's last spears of fire. I moved my lips to speak my wish—my heart's utmost desire, for the golden rays brought courage and the rose stirred faith in me, but e'er I spoke the silence broke by a breeze in the old birch tree. It seemed to be whispering a story, so I held my breath to hear, and low on the wings of evening I caught this message clear: "This earth holds joys unmeasured, but ask it not too soon; just wear a smile all the dreary while and keep your soul atune. For now you must taste the bitter that you may know to prize the good, the sweet—the life complete to which your soul shall rise. Then climb to the top of the mountain of Patience and Charity, and the clouds will dissolve and the mystery solve and life will perfect be. Then surely I'll come, the voice whispered, to list to this plea of yours, and whate'er you name shall be yours to claim, where only the good endures." So forth with a better courage I go to this work of mine, and when it is done, in haste will I come, to thank God 'neath this same old vine.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

"THOUGH the mills of the gods grind slowly, yet they grind exceedingly fine!" has been quoted in connection with a thousand causes. Not often is it applicable to roads, but in at least one instance, no glove ever fitted tighter!

Two friends lived across a county line from each other; in the one county was good roads, connection with the nearby county seat; in the other was opposition to good roads, and no good connection with the county seat.

The two friends had many an argument on the subject, he of the good roads exulting in what the good roads did for him; he who had poor roads being glad at the smallness of his taxes.

Then the farm house and the barn where lived the opponent of good roads, caught fire. He telephoned instantly to his county seat; meanwhile his friend was also crying "fire" to his county seat, over his telephone!

The fire engines from the up-to-date county seat arrived and put out the fire before those from the poor road county could be seen!

Of course the poor-road advocate had to pay the cost of that fire run; it was not in his county! And of course the cost was much, much more than a road tax would have been. But he paid it cheerfully.

"Either we get good roads next election, or I'm going to move across the line!" he said.

Adequate fire protection is just one of hundreds of reasons why any other kind of a road than a hard road is uneconomic, expensive, unreasonable and foolish!

You may not know it, but the smallest paper not only delivers more friendly and intimate home-influence circulation, but it is trusted far more widely than the city daily produced by men so far away that they can't possibly be in touch with your community.

There's advice to remember when you want to sell something—offer it to those who read the home-town paper, because they have long ago learned that they can believe what they see in its columns. It isn't so full of advertising, either, that your message will be buried, as often happens to advertisers in the dailies. If you haven't learned the truth about advertising in your home-town paper then you haven't learned all you ought to know about successful merchandising.

NOT MUCH HELP FOR MINERS

Calgary, June 14.—District officers of the U. M. W. of A. now admit that there will be no strike funds to any extent available from Indianapolis.

This information was contained in a circular letter addressed to the Calgary Trades and Labor Council and read at the meeting of that organization on Friday night. It made an appeal for funds in aid of the 10,000 miners now on strike. The letter, it was stated by some of the delegates, had been sent to their locals, and from the tenor of the communication it is evident it is being broadcast to all workers throughout Canada.

The text of the letter was as follows:

"To all labor organizations throughout the Dominion of Canada:

"It must now be evident to all organized workers that the coal miners of District 18, U.M.W.A., comprising Eastern British Columbia and Alberta, are at present on strike against a reduction of $1.17 per day in wages, and also the apparent desire of the operators to establish in this district a system of disorganization amongst the miners that would finally result in the will of the operators prevailing in future disputes in the mining industry.

"The workers to whom this circular is addressed will readily recognize that if the Western Operators' Association are able to force their desires upon the mine workers of this country, such a condition would sooner or later reflect to the disadvantage of members of the trade union movement in the Dominion of Canada. In view of this, we would appeal to you, and every trade unionist in this counry, for moral and financial support, believing as we do that this fight is your fight as well as ours and it behooves all to help with the strike in every manner possible.

"The International Order of the U. M.W.A. have notified the officials of District 18 that, due to many thousands of men on strike in the United States, and also due to the large depression that exists in the coal industry as a result of unemployment, they are unable to come to our asistance at the present time to any marked degree and in the absence of the support, we feel it necessary to appeal to you on behalf of the 10,000 members and their families in need of assistance to carry on the strike.

"It is quite evident to the miners' officials that the operators intend carrying on a lengthy strike in this district. The daily press have been representing the situation in the interest of all the coal companies concerned. We realize that their propaganda is seriously interfering with our work but are sure it will have no effect upon the workers in this country.

"With your assistance the miners of District 18 are prepared to fight to the last ditch against any reduction in wages."

This letter was signed by William A. Sherman, president; C. I. Pattison, acting vice-president; Robt. Peacock, secretary-treasurer; and Rod McDonald, international board member.

Delegate J. E. Worseley roundly condemned the International for allowing some of the mines to open up. He said it was contrary to the agreement when the men came out on strike, and had undoubtedly caused a break among the rank and file in standing firm for the Jacksonville agreement.

A suggestion was eventually made that a contribution should be made from the emergency fund and it was agreed that $50 should be donated.

HEALTH TEACHING

Health habits are being taught in many various and interesting ways in the Fernie schools. The value of playing in the sunshine was demonstrated in the infant class by the little tots helping to make a miniature play field in a sand box. The sand box was filled with beautiful green moss, in the midst of which a Maypole stood with streaming ribbons. Around this gay pole danced several happy looking paper children. Here and there were gay colored flowers. All illustrating health and happiness in beautiful surroundings.

In another room the little ones had collected from current magazines pictures of articles of food which the school nurse had told them would make them strong. These were cut out and pasted in artistic arrangement on separate posters. On some cards there was a graceful bottle of milk, a green spinach plant, a red carrot and a plate of oatmeal.

One ambitious teacher with her little pupils made a long paper border for the walls out of pictures of objects cut from magazines. Here any visitor can see most of the rules of health illustrated, such as open windows, green vegetables, toothbrushes, bath tubs, rest and play, oatmeal and fruit.

All these things are of great interest to the visitor and have given much delight to the little ones, who helped to bring the moss, flowers and pictures to be placed or cut out, while each time they see the posters they get a glow of satisfaction in looking at their own handiwork, and thus with pleasure will remember the rules of health taught in this novel and interesting manner.

FILIBUSTER DE LUXE

Providence, R.I., June 19.—A long filibuster which has blocked the proceedings of the Rhode Island senate was interrupted this morning shortly after 8 o'clock, when fumes said to be chlorine gas drove the senators from the chamber and caused four of them to collapse.

The incident abruptly halted the session after 42 hours without a recess.

After the senators retreated, janitors searched the chamber and found that a newspaper saturated with a gas mixture had been placed behind the draperies at the rear of the rostrum.

Governor Flynn ordered an investigation, declaring: "Gas has been planted in an attempt to suffocate the lieutenant governor. I am going to the bottom of this and find out who did it."

The filibuster was started by the Democratic minority of the senate on the first day of the session, Jan. 1.

The present session has lasted since 2.05 o'clock Tuesday afternoon during which time the lieutenant-governor, the secretary of state, who is the recording clerk, and the reading clerk of the senate, had not left their places.

The renewal of the filibuster when the senate convened on Tuesday was marked by rioting in which spectators and senators were trampled. State police were called before order was restored.

In order to continually occupy the chair the lieutenant governor has his meals brought to him. He called a barber and was shaved in the chamber yesterday.

A Blairmore golf team will visit Fernie on Sunday and meet the local team. Twenty men are expected. The draw will commence at 10 a.m.

Mrs. W. R. Wilson and Miss Ruth, who have been in Vancouver for the past three weeks, arrived home on Monday.

M. Costello, of Seattle, Western Traffic Manager of the G N. Railway, was the guest of A. B. Trites on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Trites arrived home on Thursday after an absence of four months on a trip around the world. They have been in Vancouver for the past month.

At the United Church Manse on Wednesday, the 18th inst., Frank Winter, of Michel, and Mary Erma Lipsey, of Natal,, were united in marriage, Rev. W. F. Burns officiating.

Aubrey McLean and John Puckey, Jr., cycled to Creston this week, a distance of 131 miles. They left Fernie on Monday morning at 5.30 and arrived in Creston on Tuesday afternoon. Each of the boys carried a pack of 80 pounds.

On account of the election there was no scout meeting on Friday evening. A full meeting of the Fernie and Coal Creek troop will be held in the Scout Hall on Friday evening, June 27, to arrange for participation in the Dominion Day parade Every boy scout is requested to attend this meeting.

Dr. Bonnell, S. Herchmer and W. R. Ross were the leading speakers at a crowded meeting held in the Conservative interests in Cranbrook on Wednesday evening. This is the first occasion on which Mr. Ross, late Minister of Lands, has taken an active part in politics for a number of years.

The condition of the city streets has become something terrible; nothing but hills and hollows exist on Victoria avenue If the city council has used up all the money in sight they might call for volunteers for road work or ask the government to take over the upkeep of the main highway through town.

A most delightful luncheon was given by Mrs. G. G. Moffatt at her home in The Park, on Friday of last week, when she entertained Mrs. de Pencier and all the regents of the I.O.D.E. since its inauguration in Fernie. After luncheon the guests spent an enjoyable time at Bridge and Mah-Jong.

Mrs. J. L. Gates extended her genial hospitality to Mrs. de Pencier during her stay in Fernie. She also entertained the members of the Waldo Chapter, who motored into town to attend Mrs. Wood's "At Home" and to hear Mrs. de Pencier speak at the conclusion of the meeting.

Wm. Green and Jack Puckey returned on Monday from Vancouver, after attending the 50th meeting of the Grand Lodge I.O.O.F. of B.C. The next meeting of the Grand Lodge will be held in Revelstoke next June. Mrs. N. Reid and Mrs. E. E. Puckey were the delegates to the Rebekah Assembly, held at the same time. Mrs. Puckey was appointed Grand Chaplain for the next year. They will visit in Vancouver till the end of the month.

At Fernie when the Home Bank crashed, there went into the vortex a fund of about six thousand dollars that had been gathered together as a result of a number of Dominion Day celebrations, to provide a swimming pool and playground for the children. At Ottawa, a day or two before the crash, Hon. Jas. Murdock, from knowledge he had of the impending suspension, was able to withdraw a personal deposit of four thousand dollars, preferring cash, taking no chances with a cheque, and re-depositing it in another bank. Premier King, in a fine play of words, says the minister was not using information he had to profit himself personally, but merely to protect himself from loss. Mr. Murdock but at the same time is paying the money back for the sake of appearances. Why pay it back if there was no wrong in taking it? The honorable minister seems to have a penchant for committing political faux pas.—Cranbrook Herald.

The strike of government postal employees, which was to start at 5 p.m. yesterday throughout the Dominion, is confined mostly to Ontario and Quebec, as the employees in the eastern and western portion of the Dominion did not go out. Reports indicate that many who did go out have returned to their jobs.

Mrs. J. McDonald and daughter, of this city, were on board the C.P.R. liner Metagama when she was rammed by an Italian steamer off Cape Race on Thursday. A report in the C.P.R. news bulletin this afternoon states "that the coolness and skill of the officers of the Metagama brought the liner safely to port at St. Johns." All passengers are safe.

A very delightful time was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hurst, 13th St. North, the occasion being in honor of their son, J. Hurst, of Trail, B.C., who was married to Miss May Hughes at Fernie, June 4. Supper was served by Mrs. B. Miller, assisted by Misses Ethel and Jessie Hurst, cavers being laid for about 58 guests. Dancing and singing helped to pass away a most enjoyable evening. Mr. and Mrs. J. Hurst received many useful and beautiful gifts from the assembled friends. In a few days they will return to Trail, B.C., where they will make their future home.

KIRKPATRICK—BIGGS

The Biggs home on Victoria avenue was the scene of a very pretty wedding last Wednesday morning when Miss Edythe, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Biggs, was united in marriage to Mr. Roy Kirkpatrick, son of Mrs. E. Kirkpatrick, also of this city.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a cocoa-colored beaded Georgette dress and was supported by Miss Florence Hammill. Mr. Wilfrid Murray supported the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Burns, in the presence of a small gathering of relatives and friends.

Immediately following the ceremony the guests sat down to a very dainty wedding breakfast, at which a toast to the future happiness of the newly married couple was given.

The party then motored to the Great Northern depot, where the bride and groom were given a rousing send-off on their honeymoon, which will be spent in Seattle, Vancouver and other coast cities. The bride's going-away dress was of beige vella-vella, marvella coat to match, and powder blue hat.

OUTWITTING SAFE BREAKERS

Impregnable bank vaults are now built by the use of alloy and special steels impervious to attack by the cutting torch. Special machine tools and accurate finishing of the work play an important part, we are told by Herbert R. Simonds in The Iron Trade Review. Mr. Simonds tells us that the public has been misled in its judgment of the vulnerability of bank valuts by reports of burgarlarizing of light safes, designed only for protection against fire. Valuts are much alike in the public mind, but the up to date safe-breaker, Mr. Simonds assures us, keeps well away from the modern bank vault—a virtual admission that its negotiation is beyond his power. In other words, the safe builder is now ahead of the safe-breaker in their game of attack and defence. Says Mr. Simonds:

"Years ago case-hardened steel vaults were built to prevent the destructive use of drills in the hands of safe-breakers. The development of tool steel-cutters made the protection thus afforded inadequate and safe builders next turned to manganese steel and other hard alloys. In an endeavor to find means for hapidly cutting steel, engineers perfected the oxyacetylene torch, and today great masses of tangled steel framework, resulting from a fire may be removed with these torches in a small fraction of the time required before their introduction. On the other hand, the same engineers who helped in this work unwittingly played into the hands of safe breakers.

"The modern oxyacetylene torch and equipment is the most efficient tool ever placed in the hands of a bank robber! Some time was required after the torch was in general use in industry for the thieving profession to discover its usefulness, but once it had been successfully employed in a safe theft, the news travelled rapidly, and almost over night safes which had been thought burglar-proof were considered highly pregnable. Safe and vault manufacturers immediately started work of combating this new enemy.

"Science has again triumphed and the present day bank vault provides adequate protection not only against known destructive elements, but also anticipates conjectural destructive agents of the future.. The bank burglar works at disadvantage in his attempts in gaining entrance to any vault. The mechanics who build the vaults have at their command labor-saving tools and appliances which facilitate the rapid execution of their work. They work in the open without fear and with no limitations placed on the noise or commotion which they make.

"Properly built bank vaults at the present time are burglar proof. During recent years no door of burglar-proof construction has been attacked, to say nothing of being opened The absence of attack is the virtual admission by the burglar that the strength of the steel structure is beyond his capacity to destroy.

Mechanical means for closing a vault door are considered dangerous, we are told, because of the liability of their operation while attendants are in the vault. For this reason thousands of dollars are spent in reducing the hinge friction so that massive doors may be closed and opened by hand. Recently an entirely new principle in door construction has been brought out by vault engineers. Instead of a door being hinged from the outside of the vault it is built in the form of a large vertical cylinder with a rectangular slot like a keeway extending horizontally through its centre. When this cylinder is turned, so that the slot extends from the interior to the exterior of the vault, the slot forms a means of entrance and exit. When the cylinder is turned through 90 degrees, however, the slot is completely concealed and the heavy cylinder walls become a formidable door of double thickness. We read further:

"Vaults are built in a great variety of sizes and their production has led to the development of large manufacturing plants.

"As the door is usually the most vulnerable point of a vault, its construction requires more attention and is of chief interest. The Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank vault door is 48 inches thick and weighs over 200,000 pounds. The door frame is made from three castings which combined weigh 143,000 pounds and also are filled with plate laminations.

"In order to swing a 200,000 pound door, a massive hinge is required. The main casting for this hinge weighs 40,760 pounds. The complete mechanism as assembled weighs 47 tons and is thought to be the largest hinge ever built. The design of bearings for this hinge and the accurate machining are such that one man can swing the heavy door. The principle of roller bearings is utilized, but in addition large alloy crown washers are used to reduce the contact surface.

"As has been described, the door and its frames consist of heavy hollow castings which are later filled with plates of steel and special alloys. The casting, which is but a shell of relatively thin walls, serves as a container for the materials which offer the chief resistance to a burglar's efforts, at cutting. Details of lamination construction are maintained as trade secrets by their manufacturers. The York Safe & Lock Co. has developed a metal plate which looks much like a steel plate, but which is proof against the action of the oxyacetylene torch and other steel burning flames. The plates of this material are alternated with steel plates of various physical properties. These, built up into thicknesses varying from one foot to four feet, and snugly inclosed in strong castings, present such a formidable barrier to the burglar that a successful attempt at the theft of the contents of a vault which is so protected is almost beyond all human possibility."

Queen Helena and Queen Mary were escorted through the Canadian Pacific Pavilion at Wembley by Lord Stevenson, with whom they are seen leaving the building. The policemen are members of the Canadian Pacific detachment from various parts of Canada.

A Nova Scotia scientist expresses the belief that the sun is splitting into two parts. There are days in midsummer when we could dispense with half of Old Sol's heat calories, but it would cause much discomfort in winter should he reduce his output 50 per cent. As no definite date has been set for the "crack of doom" it is hoped that the solar system will retain its solidarity and continue to enlighten this dark old world for centuries to come.

In planning a summer vacation the time, the place and the price are three questions that call for serious consideration.

"NO EMOTIONAL OUTLET"

Moral insanity is the plea entered by young Leopold and Loeb against the charge of murder preferred them in Chicago.

One inspired psychiatrist, engaged for the defence, told newspapermen yesterday that the two youths went bad because they had "no emotional outlet."

No emotional outlet! In a young, ambitious country hungering for intellectual, commercial and artistic leadership, these two gifted young men could find no emotional outlet!

With social problems, industrial problems, problems of transportation, immigration problems by the thousands crying out for solution, these two young fellows saw no emotional outlet!

Someone must find a way to biologically assimilate the dodge podge of nationalities within the United States. Someone must find a way to take the curse of war off the world. Someone must write great plays, great novels and great poetry. Someone must design new beauties of architecture, build great bridges, overcome disease. At no time in the world's history has the spirit of intellectual adventure been challenged by a multiplicity of things to be done.

But these two intelligent boys could find no emotional outlet save in perverted sex experiments and murder.

Perhaps if more time and money had been spent in showing these boys how much there is to be done in the world, instead of training them to do things without giving them anything to do, the situation might have been different.

But at this stage of the game the poisonous theories of Freud and other pseudo psychologists cannot legitimately be called in to save them, particularly since it is just those theories that have corrupted the system of education under which they were trained.

Presented President with Steel Spike

George Munro, pioneer track layer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, received birthday congratulations on May 21 from Mr. E. W. Beatty, during the latter's recent visit in Vancouver. This meeting between one of the oldest employees and the executive head of the Canadian Pacific also marked the forty-ninth anniversary of the turning of the first sod on construction at Fort William in 1875, an event at which George Munro was present.

Another interesting co-incidence in connection with the meeting is the fact that the S. S. Quebec, which carried the handful of construction men including Mr. Munro, from Sarnia to Fort William, in May 1875, was owned and operated by the Beatty Steamship Line, of which Mr. Beatty's father, the late Mr. Henry Beatty, was president.

In 1881 when construction was begun on the last lap of the company's lines between Yale, B. C. and the Coast, Mr. Munro was given charge of track laying at Emery, B. C. and when the last and famous 'gold spike' was driven at Craigellachie by Lord Strathcona in 1885 he took possession of the steel spike which replaced the gold one and after treasuring it for the past 39 years as a keepsake presented it to Mr. Beatty.

Electro-plating a Canadian Railway Operation

Passengers on the Trans-Canada and other Canadian trains have often admired the tableware with which the dining cars are equipped, but comparatively few of the travelling public appreciate the extent to which electro-plating enters into every day use on a Railway. As a matter of fact, practically all metal hardware parts of passenger equipment interiors are plated, many of the engine parts, including the copper reflector of the head-light are plated, and various platings are used on a thousand and one articles which enter daily into the life of a railroader.

The traveller notices the silver plate perhaps more than any other, but many metals are used by the railroad companies. Gold, for instance, is used by the Canadian Pacific for plating pepper caster tops and similar articles, copper is used on lighting and other metal car fixtures, zinc on refrigerator hardware, nickel on kitchen utensils, tin on trainmen's lanterns, mercury on telegraph elements and aluminum or lead on miscellaneous articles.

At its Angus Shops, Montreal, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has quite an extensive plant where the most of its electro-plating is carried on. The method used by this Company is a simple one but none the less effective.

The articles to be plated are first chemically cleaned, after which they are usually hung from a metal bar into a long vat where they are immersed in a chemical solution which varies with the metal to be deposited. The electric current, which is of low voltage, is connected, the positive pole to the metal plate or plates, and the negative to the bar from which the articles to be plated are suspended. As the electric current flows from the plating metal to the suspended articles, the metal is carried through the solution and deposited in the form of a thin coating over the entire surface of the required article.

This process is well illustrated in No. 2, which shows two electric headlight reflectors in the process of receiving silver plating. In this case the plate of silver is suspended in the centre of the reflector, which is filled with cyanide of potassium solution, and the electric current flows from the plate to the reflector which is, itself, the negative pole.

Illustration No. 3 shows the next step in the treatment of the headlight reflector, which, by the way, gives the highest concentration of light known. This is hand burnishing, the operator burnishing two reflectors in a working day. For articles which can be readily polished by a rotating buffing wheel, this is accomplished in the manner shown in No. 4.

Upon completion of the polishing operation, articles to be so treated are placed in a metal container and, by means of a small compressed air gun, sprayed with suitable lacquer. If it is desired to oxidise the plated article in order to make it harmonize with woodwork or other material, as is often the case with copper platings, it is exposed to heat or vapor, or immersed in some solution prior to the application of the finishing coat of lacquer.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company was the first large corporation in Canada to instal its own electro-plating plant, but during the last few years this method of protecting metal from oxidation has developed into quite an industry and one which employs a large number of Canadian workmen.

JAPANESE AND EXCLUSION

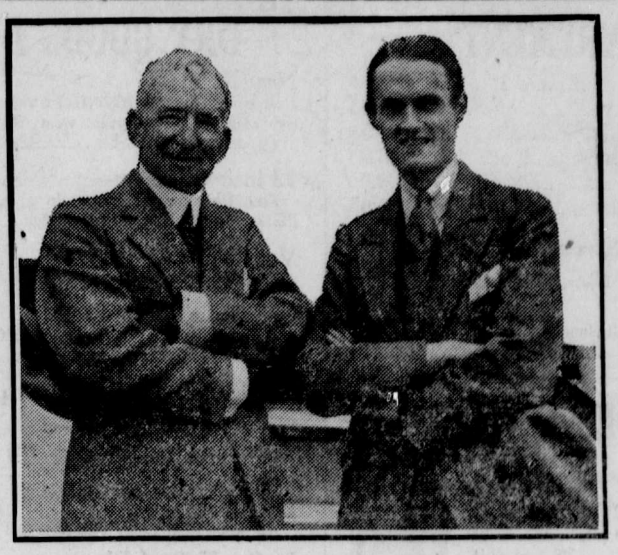
The overwhelming majorities by which the United States Senate and House adopted the conference report on the immigration bill, including the Japanese exclusion provision, regardless of President Coolidge's request that the exclusion clause be deferred until 1925, is said to be sure to increase the resentment of the Japanese, as indicated in their vernacular press. The act will go into effect on July 1st of this year, we are told, and although some Japanese newspapers testify appreciatively to the "consistent impartial policy of President Colidge, as well as of public opinion in America," their bitterness against Congress is especially expressive. Nevertheless the Tokyo Jiji urges that the Japanese ought to be "careful in speech and be prudent in conduct toward the United States," and it adds:

"Even the slightest provocation is likely to cause greater complications between the two nations which are now extremely nervous over the law in question. We must be self-restraining. We must patiently wait till chances arrive at which the American Congress repents its blunders and injustice."

Very different is the attitude of the Tokyo Kokumin, which describes the bill as "a masterpiece of jingoism," and assures its readers that "vigorous public opinion must be aroused to show the world that we are not a nation to be cowed into humiliation by such gross injustice," and it proceeds:

"Once Japan is coerced into disgrace, her neighboring peoples will begin to disdain her, she will lose her influence in the Far East, and her independence will be endangered. Even worse, the illustrious achievement of the late Emperor will be utterly swept away from Japan. We must resort to lawful means to call upon the United States for reflection."

This journal goes on to say that Japan made a "concession in the interests in the United States" by concluding the Gentlemen's Agreement in disregard of her own financial interests. The "gross and extreme insult" to Japan in the passing of the immigration bill, it can hardly pass over with indifference, says the Kokumin, which further observes:



"We cannot avoid a feeling of anxiety as to whether such political injustice may occasion any grave consequences, as stated by Ambassador Hanihara, in the fututre relations between the two countries. As regards the contention that the protest threatens the sovereignty of America and that it endangers the independence of the United States, we insist that it reflects shame upon the Senators themselves.

"Corruption prevailing in the field of American politics, they perhaps thought it good to divert the attention of the general public to a foreign policy. With the Presidential campaign approaching, Mr. Coolidge is not in a position to wield his veto over the resolution. Even though he exercise his veto, the Senate, which has lost its self-restraint, will be prepared to carry its point by the force of majority. Whatever plea they may make, it is undeniable that a majority of Americans do not like the Japanese. At Versailles the proposal of racial equality was defeated, while at the Washington conference the proposal of 7 to 10 was denounced. Incidental to the earthquake disaster, the national strength of Japan was weakened. Financially Japan has been so enfeebled that she was obliged to endure shameful conditions in floating the loans. America has taken advantage of this weakness and gone to the exereme of insulting Japan by passing the unjust immigration law. Arguments on morality or justice will no longer be of avail. Japan must take decisive steps to save herself from dishonor and disgrace."

Politics is governed "not so much by reason as by impulse," according to the Osaka Asahi, which says also that this is essentially the case with the United States, "the country of democracy," and it continues:

"Government by impulse is sometimes effective, but this effectiveness is in the case of religion and of inspiration. When politics are conducted in accordance with the dictates of impulse, women come to be influential in politics. Led astray by the propaganda of the anti-Japanese members of the Western States, the Senate went to the extreme of adopting anti-foreign measures. They did not realize how their action would affect the world.

"Japan has been under a debt of gratitude to the United States in respect to her consideration for this country. The advancement of civilization and progress of material prosperity owe their origin to the great service of the United States to Japan, but her recent injustice toward us has entirely eliminated our feeling of gratitude toward America. The seed of racial hatred has been sown in the bosom of the Japanese. When the agony of surplus population becomes acute, this seed will begin to germinate which, it is feared, will grow into a fierce anti-American boycott. If this proves to be the case, the anti-Japanese immigration under discussion is solely responsible."

Augustus D. Curtis of Chicago, Ill. and Geoffrey H. Bushby of London, England, whom he rescued from death after the latter had fallen exhausted following his flight from within 30 feet of Kileaua volcano during its recent eruption.

The 'Big show' happened while the S.S. Empress of Canada lay at Hilo H.I. and many of the round-the-world passengers were ashore viewing the picturesque sight of the Hawaiin volcanic region. Mr. Bushby had left the party to obtain a close-up of the House of Everlasting Fire when the eruption of May 17 occurred.

Here and There

A party of 50 Australian boys will be the guests of the Exhibition at Toronto from August 30th to September 3rd. They are public school boys from all parts of Australia and their visit to Toronto will be made on their way home from the British Empire Exhibition.

British Columbia is now the third manufacturing province of Canada, with 2,673 manufacturing establishments, over 41,000 employees, invested capital amounting to nearly $225,000,000 and a value of products of approximately $260,000,000, according to Government statistics.

New Brunswick in 1923 produced more coal than at any other time in her history. The output for the year exceeded that of 1922 by more than 12,000 tons and amounted to 251,091 long tons. It is estimated that this industry creates a value of over $1,100,000 annually, most of which goes out in supplies and wages for the benefit of the province.

What will probably be the last big round-up of horses in the West will take place shortly in the range country south-east of Calgary, Alberta, for the purpose of clearing the range of stray horses. The horses will be gathered in one central corral, where owners may claim their animals. It is anticipated that about 10,000 animals will be secured. The Department of Agriculture is supervising the arrangements.

Unstinted praise from prominent citizens and the press of Alberta is given the Canadian Pacific Railway in connection with the Company's recently announced branch line construction program, affecting the southern portion of the province. C. R. Mitchell, member of the Provincial Legislature for Bow Valley, describes the announcement as the most important made in many years.

In a few days the small boy can count on one hand the number of days before school closes for tse summer vacation.

SOME GOLF ETIQUETTE

Barry Cross in a chapter on golf says that a tendency to disregard the etiquette of golf is causing some consternation in Canada, and the Royal Canadian Golf association has sent a circular letter to all clubs urging players to pay greater attention to the rules and unwritten law of the game. While it shouldn't be necessary to call a player's attention to his deportment, the rapid growth of the game among players who know little or nothing about its traditions makes it necessary.

The rule of golf which is most commonly violated is the one which permits a match coming up to play through when looking for a lost ball. This seems a simple enough thing to do, and yet on every course there are players who refuse other players this privilege unless they incist on it. Golf is different from other games, for if it is going to be played at all it should be played right.

It isn't a game where a player can take advantage of the rules on technicalities. Correct and incorrect methods on the course are clearly defined. The player is his own referee and umpire. Observation of the unwritten code is entirely a personal matter. Each player should have consideration for every other player.

Any golfer who knows the difference between a driver and a putter knows that he should always replace the turf he digs up in the operation of making a shot. It is nevertheless true that numerous pieces of turf are never replaced unless some one happens to be watching the plowing-up process. Some of the players who fail to replace the turf ought to think of their own front lawns.

The usual run of golfers observe the rules and are pleasant people to meet on the course. The others are much in the minority, but one does run across them. They crowd you from behind and hold you up when you are ahead. They often fail to shout a warning before you are out of distance.

The type of golfer the Canadian association is trying to reach with its circular letter is the player who gives his ball a kick when it is in a bad lie. He is also the golfer who can improve his score wonderfully with the aid of a pencil. He never holds out his short putts unless requested to do so. He isn't a sportsman at heart and golf is no game for him.

Golf is a silent game. It should not be necessary to tell a player not to talk or make a noise while another player is making a stroke. Yet there are some players who save all their conversation until they get to the golf culb. The circular letter sent out by the Canadian organization could be sent to golf clubs all over the United States without doing any harm.—Spokesman.

GRAIN FED CATTLE FOR EASTERN MARKET

SINCE the first of May a very fine lot of cattle have been passing through the stockyards at Winnipeg. These show the result of intensive feeding they received during the winter, and the large number of cattle recently coming forward indicate that western farmers have greatly enlarged their winter feeding operations over what prevailed two or three years ago. In order to encourage this business the railways last fall reduced the freight rates on feeder cattle taken out from the stockyards to the country to one-half the regular rates, and the co-operative cattle pool announced that no commission would be charged farmers purchasing such cattle from the pool. Many of the good cattle recently received at the yards were purchased by farmers last fall in uniform loads carefully sorted up by the pool, and shipped out under the reduced railway rates. Winter feeding operations have on the whole made a very satisfactory return to a large number of farmers, and cattle purchased at from four to four and a half cents a pound have been resold this spring at from six and a half to seven cents a pound, or occasionally more, after making a gain in weight often averaging two hundred pounds or more.

Many western cattle are now moving east, both to packing plants, for export to Great Britain, and to Ontario farms for further intensive feeding. Many loads of pool cattle are consigned direct to farmers in Ontario who have placed orders for them. To get these cattle to destination in the quickest possible time and to avoid as far as possible shrinkage losses in transit, the Canadian National Railways operate a special fast through cattle train daily from Winnipeg to the east, and cattle for this movement are loaded up each evening about seven o'clock.

FERNIE LOSES BALL GAME

Playing in their first home game of the season the Coal Company baseball team were defeated here last Sunday afternoon before a bumper crowd by the Kimberley aggregation of college stars by a score of four runs to two. The game produced some exceptionally fine baseball and although the home team went under, they fought all the way and put up a fine exhibition. The visitors, once they had obtained the lead put up a winning struggle to hold it.

Snyder made his first debut before a Fernie crowd and made a good impression on the local fans. He has wonderful speed and can put some curious bends in his delivery. The fact that he only granted one base on balls, speaks well for his control.

For the first seven innings the locals found Byersdorf's delivery rather troublesome, biting many times when McMahon was busy scraping the ball out of the dust.

An error which should have made a third out in the fourth innings paved the way for Kimberley to open the scoring, Mattlock crossing the plate after he had stolen second and completed the round on Coen's double. A bad fielders choice in the following innings followed by a couple of scratch hits gave the visitors another run. In the eighth innings they brought their batting forces into play, a single, a double and a single in a row sending two runs across the plate. The Fernie batters came to life in their half of the eighth frame when with one out, Haight connected for a single and scored on Barger's long two bagger, the latter scoring when McTeer slammed out a isngle to right. Shand singled, Steinert struck out and a peculiar play came up. Rushcall hit a high infield, McTeer started for third but thinking there was only one down returned to second. The ball came down between the pitcher, shortstop and third baseman, none of the Kimberley men making any attempt to catch it. Finally Coen grabbed the ball and ran to third for the third out. Both sides were blanked in the ninth.

TENNIS

On Sunday last eight tennis players from Coleman arrived on the morning train to show their stuff against their Fernie opponents. The volleying began when C. Hunsley and G. Auld upheld Fernie be defeating Lindoe and Riddall, of Coleman, 6-2, 6-4. The second division doubles went three sets, Coleman finally emerging victorious, 6-2, 4-6, 4-6. The representatives were Barnes and Glendening for Coleman and A. B. Sanborn and G. Appleyard for Fernie. The third division doubles were won by good net work on the part of Coleman. Three atempts were made at this series between the showers. Purvis and Graham of Coleman won from F. Beale and J. Chell, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3.

The singles lasted only one set as passing showers had washed away much time. While the battle was on, however, much racket skill was shown by both sides. The results were:
Riddall beat Hunsley 6-2.
Glendening lost to Auld 6-1.
Lindo beat Rudnicki 6-1.
Graham lost to Vansacker 6-4.
After the game refreshments were served and before leaving on the evening train a return game at Coleman was arranged for June 29.

MORRISEEY MINES

Mr. Vincent has installed a radio.

A school exhibition and picnic will be held on June 26.

Three school children received a fright on Tuesday when a mother bear with a small cub gave chase, compelling them to seek refuge in a hay loft.

The deer are now feeding on the flats. Five were seen by the Reaburn house and three on the main road.

DANCE AT NEWGATE

Anyone who has the faintest inclination to think that Newgate is not "alive and kicking," should have been present in the Newgate Hall last Saturday night, June 14, where a most successful dance was given by the Newgate-Gateway International Club.

By 10 o'clock the hall, which may well be considered spacious for an outlying point, was filled to its capacity, or I may use the expression which fell on my ears several times during the evening: "There are enough and then some." This, of course, was uttered purely from the dancers' point of view. Personally, I got tired saying "Excuse me" or "I'm sorry," when I stepped on somebody's pet corn or got bumped, and instead, when a "heavyweight" collided with me, I just kind of passed the bump on to the next couple and called it square.

I do not know where all the automobiles came from. They were parked along the road all the way from Williams' store to—did I hear someone say the slough bridge. Well, anyway, for some considerable distance past the hall.

Visitors were present from Rexford, Eureka, Whitefish and Libby, Montana, as well as from Roosville, McGuire and other outlying points on the Canadian side. The sheriff of Missoula was among the visitors and seemed to get exceptional delight out of a "square dance."

The music was good, the floor was good, and in fact everything seemed "just right," and at 2.30 a.m. the strains of the "Home, Sweet Home" waltz brought to a conclusion the most successful dance that has been given in Newgate for some considerable time, the entire crowd, with a few exceptions, being present until that time.

BIG ROCK REMOVED

Anyone who has travelled south from Elko by way of the Canyon will, no doubt, be familiar with the huge rock which lay on the left hand side of the trail after you had crossed the bridge and ascended the opposite bank to within about one hundred yards of the top. Part of this rock jutted out over the trail and made it take on quite a threatening attitude. One often thought while passing that it would make a good place for the climax in a serial moving picture. "Elmo the Mighty," for instance, might easily have lifted that rock and hurled it down on to the bridge below and stopped his pursuers. The moving picture promoter could probably think of something more thrilling. However, it is interesting to some to know that this rock is no longer there, 150 pounds of blasting powder having done the job at 3 p.m. on June 18.

Quite a number of people were present to see Mr. Rock go "sky high," but just between you and me and the gate-post, he did not go very high; just high enough to get off his perch and that was all. When the carge exploded this enormous rock, weighing some two hundred tons, toppled over. It seemed, when just on the turn, to hesitate for a moment, as though it regretted to leave the place it had occupied so long, and then, as if in a fury, it rolled over and went crashing down the bank to the river below, taking trees and everything that came in its way in its final rush in obeyance to the law of gravitation.

One hundred and fifty pounds of dynamite seems a small charge for a job like this and speaks well for the men who laid it. Mr. Nolan was in charge of the operations, his crew at present being engaged in doing repairs to this section of the road.

DOMINION DAY SPORTS

As will be seen by the programme of sports which appears elsewhere in this issue there will be something doing every minute of the day. The football contests promise to provide a half dozen real good games. The senior baseball game should prove to be one of the best ever pulled off in Fernie, and our boys will have to step some to win it. The junior team promise faithfully to make the Michel boys eat crow, and the midget team say that if they don't skin Coal Creek midgets they'll never play again. So there you are.

There are two entrants for the Carnival Queen competition, which is going hot and strong now. The supporters of each will have to work hard to elect their candidate and the result will not be known until the last ballot is counted. Both candidates are very popular young ladies, Miss Edna Johnston and Miss Alice Corrigan. Now boys and girls, men and women, get your tickets (10c each) and boost for your favorite. All the tickets are numbered and the holder of the winning ticket will receive a valuable prize, so remember your numbers. The Queen's outfit will be presented to her by the Trites-Wood Co. and the Crow's Nest Trading Co., jointly.

The dancing contest for children under 14 years of age, which will be competed for in costume, bids fair to be even more interesting than the one held last year.

There will be two bands, brass and pipe, and music will be dispensed all day on the grounds.

The various committees are:

Sports—M. A. Kastner, P. Hughes, J. Sweeney, H. Brown, J. Wilson and R. Billsborough.

Dancing—J. E. Dicks, M. A. Berigan, T. Graves, J. Jerue, C. Edgar.

Refreshments — G. Johnston, J. Laithwaite, C. Commons, J. McVannell and A. B. Steves.

Amusements—F. Shears, S. Lowden, J. Longdon, W. Murray and C. Glover.

MINERS CUT THE WAGES

(Calgary Herald)

Men employed in the lumber camps of the Crow's Nest Pass are raising a loud protest against the striking miners in that district offering to accept work at the camps at much less wages than were current before the strike. This information is contained in a letter sent to the Herald by one of the men at the Fernie camp. He states that previous to the miners' strike in District 18 he was receiving a minimum wage of $4 per day at the lumber camp. Now miners were flooding the camp looking for work and were accepting $2.75 for a ten hour day.

"I do not think it fair," states the Herald's correspondent, "that these men who are striking for a minimum of $7.50 per day of 8 hours should come to the lumber camps and cut the wages in the manner they are doing."

The position of the miners in the Crow's Nest Pass, according to the letter referred to, is daily becoming more precarious owing to the absence of strike relief. While everything at the various mining camps at the moment is quiet the condition of the men is becoming desperate. For the most part they were badly hit in connection with the Home Bank failure, many of them having their life's savings in the bank.

Up to the present they have received a considerable amount of sympathy from the lumbermen, but now that they are slashing the latter's wages a very different feeling is springing up and the U.M.W.A. need not look for any financial support in that direction.

Locally there was no change in the strike situation on Tuesday. Officials of the miners' organization, as already stated, are admant against accepting any cut in wages.

ROGERS NO. 2 REAL EFFORT

(Lethbridge Herald)

The announcement Saturday that the Canadian Oil and Refining company would put down a second well on the Rogers structure created a mild sensation in local oil circles, as it will have a far-reaching effect. It means that the structure, one of the largest in the border field, will receive a deep test for petroleum. It is already proven a gas field of enormous productivity and the belief is strong that underlying the gas sands lie the main reservoir of oil which the findings in the Kevin-Sunburst field are only seepages.

Plans are now being made to sink the No. 2 Rogers well. It will be put down with a rotary rig and should be completed in 60 days if the drillers have good luck. Good headway will be made as the drillers will have the log of No. 1 well to guide them. Furthermore ,their fuel supply will be gas from the big gasser. This will make for speed and will mean an enormous saving in money. The well is to be spudded in just as soon as a drill can be put on the ground and the outfit rigged up.

The fact that the Rogers company rejected an offer of over half a million dollars for their holdings and gas well is in itself proof of their conviction that the field is a rich one. As a gas proposition pure and simple, it is certain to yield large returns.

The decision of the directors to drill another well comes at a time when interest is shifting more and more to the Southern Alberta field. Coast and British capital is now appearing for development south of this city, a Vancouver and Edmonton company now making plans for the putting down of a well just north of the Rogers No. 1. This will make three wells at least this summer within a radius of three miles. The Vancouver syndicate are raising money in England to finance their tests of the acreage controlled by them. They are also negotiating for additional acreage now held by independent parties in the vicinity of the Rogers producer as they have in mind an ambitious drilling program. It is expected that this well will be started within 30 days.

That the main reservoir of oil does not exist in the Kevin-Sunburst field it more and more impressing itself on the minds of geologists. They are looking north. The fact that the famous Van Meer well is slowly weakening on the pumps, bearing out the freakish character of the field, strengthens the opinion now growing that in Southern and Central Alberta the so-called "mother pool" lies on the Canadian side.

TORONTO CONTROLLER SUED BY HOME BANK

Toronto, June 24.—A writ was issued yesterday at Osgoods Hall by T. G. Clarkston and I. E. Weldon, liquidators of the Home bank, against F. H. Richardson, former member of the Toronto board of control, for $13,500. The amount represents monies claimed to have been accepted by the defendant from the Home Bank between March 28, 1921, and July 5, 1923.

The plaintiffs are also claiming interest on the money which Richardson was alleged to have received for using his influence for the Home bank in securing city of Toronto deposits.

PARIAH'S MONEY IS STILL GOOD

British law in India administers impartially to Hindu and Pariah alike, yet the enormous power and prestige of centuries of Brahman domination survive.

Thus it is still a common sight to see a Pariah indicating to the bazaar shopkeeper, from a safe, undefilable distance, the goods he wishes to purchase, says the New York Times. The goods are then placed in the middle of the street and the money in a receptacle, which is claimed after the unclean purchaser has removed himself to a safe distance. The fact that the money recently handled by the Pariah and carried on his unclean person may be safely used is one of those many anomalies that pester the observer in India.

Moreover, for all its impartiality, British law is necessarily administered by Indian judges and juries. It is here that the Pariah tacitly is made to realize that, despite British law, his countrymen find ways and means of interpreting or reading into it the ancient Hindu laws of Manu. It is in this extra-judicial way, by the sheer weight of ingrained custom and prejudice, that Brahmanism has continued in power despite the levelling influence of the British administration.

Governor Al. Smith of New York one day appeared before the assembled convicts at Sing Sing to make a speech. Forgetting his audience, he began in the usual manner: "Fellow citizens——" A murmur of laughter sounded through the room. The Governor became fussed. "Fellow convicts," he changed. Louder laughter. "Oh, you know what I mean," he stammered, "I mean I'm glad to see so many of you here." They led him out into the air.

The Elks Lodge are giving to each boy and girl in the 1st July Parade 15c in coupons, which are redeemable at any of the stalls in the City Park.

DISCOVER AN OLD TUNNEL

Comes a story from the camp of the company operating on Wild Horse creek of the discovery of an old river channel. It is a tale as strange as it is true. Quite recently, the man controlling the stream of water he was directing against the bank of the creek, had his attention drawn to a great hole in the hillside, a cavity uncovered by the washing away of the soil from its mouth. Being a miner he was not long in doubt as to the nature of his find. He had laid bare the entrance to an ancient tunnel. Sixty years ago, treasure seekers had driven the bore along the bed rock into the heart of the hill. The tunnel has been explored for a distance of 400 feet, the point at which the dank atmosphere of the bore became so destitute of oxygen that candles refused to burn and breathing became a torture. And throughout its entire length that tunnel is laid with steel rails. What manner of men were they who laboriously and with primitive tools drove through concrete gravel, that passage into the bowels of the earth, Their courage and perseverance must have been marvelous. No less wonderful must be the story of their transporting over two hundred miles of mountain trail the rails on which they ran their home made cars with their load of gravel to daylight and the sluice boxes on the creek.

Sixty years ago the town of Walla Walla was the supply point of the diggings on Wild Horse creek. Even in these days of rapid transit and surfaced roads it is a far cry from Wild Horse to the city across the U.S. border. But what an almost immeasurable distance it must have seemed when a mountain trail, a mere bridle path, was the only line of communication connecting Wild Horse with the outside world. The sheer audacity of the men who engineered the transportation on horseback of steel rails for a distance of two hundred miles over a mountain trail is a thing to marvel at.

It is clear that the makers of that tunnel received remuneration for their labor. When they drove that bore they were working in the pay streak of an ancient river bed. True, in time the gravel became so impoverished that it no longer gave up an adequate return for their efforts. Wild Horse gulch had ceased to be a poor man's diggings.

Let it not be supposed, however, that the posibilities of the creek are exhausted. Machinery of the latest type is now playing its part in the ancient diggings. Where the men of sixty years ago labored strenuously to loosen cubic inches of rocky soil with pick and shovel, the big monitors are now making play of tons of earth. As has been pointed out 7c per cubic yard is pay dirt for the six inch nozzles. And, from what can be gathered from the talk of experienced men, the gravels of the creek hold much higher values than that. Wild Horse diggings are making a "come back." The old historic town of Fort Steele, the birth place of civilization in the Kootenays, is entering on an era of prosperity. Justification of the faith of its pioneer miners in the mining future of the district is at hand.—Cranbrook Courier.

Here and There

"Perhaps the most noteworthy fact we discovered was the vastly improved psychology of the people of the west to that which existed a year ago," commented E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, on his return from a recent inspection of the Company's property. "They are full of hope and confidence and realize, as the east should realize, the tremendous benefit to the whole of Canada of a second consecutive large harvest."

The number of big industrial undertakings projected for immediate construction on the coast of British Columbia provides a striking indication of how that province is going ahead. A $400,000 logging railway up the Shehalis River Valley, a $1,000,000 mill plant at Chemaimus, a $200,000 amusement centre at Victoria and a $200,000 sawmill at Port Coquitlam, with about $10,000,000 in power plants in the Seave Lake District are some of the more important and a host of smaller projects are also under way.

Practically all Canada's production of newsprint for export in March was absorbed by the United States. Of March shipments amounting to 127,583 tons valued at $9,756,530, the United States received 125,848 tons, valued at 9,617,823. The only other Canadian exports of newsprint of importance were 599 tons to South Africa and 1,037 tons to New Zealand. It is expected that April shipments will show an even greater proportion of consignments to the United States.

The concentration camp for emigrants to Canada and the United States maintained by the Canadian Pacific Railway and other steamship companies, is located at Southampton, England. It has an average daily attendance of 600 and, on some days, the number is about 1,000. Comfortable quarters and meals at moderate cost are provided and features of the camp are the special dining-room for Jewish passengers, the private shower baths, with towels and bathing gowns supplied and the individual rooms which are also available.

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

CRAIG MINE HANDS LAUNCH NEW STRIKE

Drumheller, June 23.—After a special miners' meeting, held on Sunday afternoon, the men at the Craig mine went on strike on Monday morning, as the operators were not paying the old contract rates. A committee met the management on Monday morning and will report back to a meeting of the Craig miners on Monday afternoon. No information was given out as to the outcome of the committee meeting.

The convention was the most successful held since the organization of the Rotary according to the delegates who were much impressed with the facilities afforded on the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition here, where the business was transacted and social functions held.

ALBERTA FUEL OIL SATISFACTORY TO G.N.

Fuel oil from the Imperial Oil company's refinery at Calgary and from the Coutts refinery has been found satisfactory for locomotive use. Fuel oil is now being used on the mountain run on all transcontinental trains over the G.N. system.

Referring to the use of fuel oil by the Great Northern, the Montana Oil Journal, in its last issue, said:

The Great Northern railway company is broadening its use of oil burner locomotives so that it is now possible to ride sans smoke and sans cinders from Wolf Point, Mont., to Tacoma, Washington. The one train giving the service is the new Oriental Limited. This is the longest run of non-coal passenger traffic in the country.

The Great Northern will steadily increase the use of fuel oil as the supply increases. Four more oil burning locomotives have been forwarded to Havre where a 10,000 barrel tank is being added to storage facilities. A $65,000 gallon storage tank is being erected at Wolf Point.

The most effective beauty treatment known —is this simple method. Millions now employ it to keep youthful loveliness

You will be amazed, reading this, to discover the perfect simplicity of a beauty secret millions of women use.

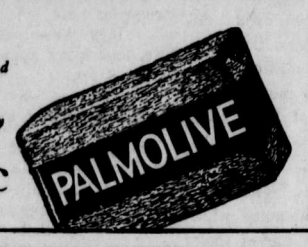
Yet it is the most effective known. It will help you, too, in keeping the radiant loveliness of youthful skin.

Regularly, do this

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.



The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

Just be sure it is Palmolive that you get. Note name and wrapper—for Palmolive is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. In one week you will see most encouraging results!

AS A MAN THINKETH

As a man thinketh deep in his heart,
So doth he grow to be.
Up to this standard he steadily grows
Throughout eternity.
E'er he can step to a higher plane,
He must reach up with his heart again.
Up with his mind goes he.

Purest and best thoughts are what we should sow;
Ever bear this in mind.
They are the seeds from which the deeds grow;
So we should learn their kind.
Character, they, in embryo;
How we should guard them as they grow,
And uproot the ill we find.

When the heart is flooded with warm sunshine,
And the mind is free from doubt,
Then the roots of goodness grow fair and fine,
And everywhere spread about.
The sunshine of optimism invite,
And let all the good within us unite
To drive the evil out.

We act as we think continually,
If thoughts be wholesome or not,
And our character build for eternity;
Let us not its beauty blot.
Though poor a man be in worldly gain,
He is rich indeed if he but maintain
A character free from spot.

If our souls drink deep from the pure clean part,
Then pure in heart grow we;
And the promise is that the pure in heart
The face of God shall see.
Upon the beautiful let us dwell
'Till our souls o'erflow like a living well,
With virtue and purity.

—Ann the Dreamer.

UNITED STATES' REPLY TO JAPAN

Washington, June 19.—The reply of the United States to the Japanese protest against the exclusion provisions of the immigration bill, made public here tonight, is cordial and friendly in tone but at the same time makes it clear that the exclusion provisions in no way trespass upon any written or implied obligation on the part of the United States.

Secretary Hughes points out that congress was wholly within its rights in the enactment of the provision and that the action taken is "mandatory upon the executive branch of the government and allows no latitude for the exercise of executive discretion as to the carrying out of the legislative will, expressed in the statute."

ALPINE GUIDE SEEKS TO CLIMB MT. ALBERTA

Invermere, June 23.—On Friday of last week, Conrad Kain, the celebrated Alpine guide of the Alpine Club of Canada, left for the north preparatory to leading a private expedition in an endeavor to climb Mt. Alberta. This mountain is situated in Lat. 52.14, Long. 117.36, near the headwaters of the Athabasca river, in the Rocky mountains just inside the Alberta boundary. It has a height of 11,874 feet and though a number of attempts have been made to reach the top none have so far proved successful. The mountain is reached by way of trail from Jasper. After accomplishing this hazardous feat Kain will go to Mount Robson in order to establish a high camp for the Alpine Club of Canada, who are holding their annual camp in that part this year.

Born in the Austrian Tyrol of a mountaineering family, Mr. Kain since his early days has been a professional guide and has led parties up giddy heights in all parts of the world. While looking constantly for fresh fields to conquer he still thinks that the glacial fields and giddy heights of the Lake Windermere district afford one of the most varied and easily accessible fields in the Canadian range.

TO handle the soldier bonus, Uncle Sam will have 4000 special clerks. If the work is equally divided, each clerk will have over 1000 veterans to investigate. And for each veteran there's an average of 40 documents in government files. All of these will be gone through, and a considerable part of them balled up and have to be untangled. Red tape multiplies like a family of rabbits.

The U.S. war department long ago had the system schemed out, with the "machinery" ready to be put in operation. The next thing will be to keep corruption out of the work and prevent the usual interminable delay. Either one of which is about as easy as winning the war.

* * * * * *

MAN is said to be a sociable animal, enjoying the company and conversation of his fellows. But though most men can talk not all are talkative. Between strangers the conversation often lags. With barbers it is different, their loquacity being proverbial, and their talkativeness contagious. Some barbers can make the most reticient shavee talk, and the result is discussion of some sort. The barber draws out his patron, especially if he is a stranger in the place, and incidentally passes on to him his own views on politics, religion, the liquor problem and anything and everything else that will make talk.

Community gossip gravitates to the barber shop as readily as water flows down hill, and the tonsorial parlor becomes a center of news and comment. Barber shop discussion is of the most free-for-all character, with no limitations as to the subject and no handicaps as to time. In a very real sense it is a community forum, where the common people speak their minds. While too much importance is not to be attached to discussions of this sort, they have possibilities not to be ignored, for what passes as the common knowledge of the average citizen is a hodge podge derived from many sources.

In these days of propaganda it was to be expected that somebody would conceive the idea of directing barbers' talk into productive channels. Even those who reckon barber shop talk at low value will see that this scheme promises at least to raise it to a higher level. An occasional visit to meetings in the council chamber undoubtedly would give the average barber a different view of his part in community building, but the thought occurs that local patrons of the shop might also help by injecting sound argument into the discussions.

The barber, like the hotel man, comes into contact with strangers visiting the community, and he may give to the visitors good or bad opinions of the place. The idea, therefore, of getting the barber on the right side of community matters is good in that it is designed to make a favorable impression upon the strangers within the gates. Community building must be founded of course in the good opinion of the citizens themselves. They must have faith in their community; they must be jealous of its good name, loyal to its institutions and its aims. Some folks will say of their community what they would be loath to say of their worst enemy, not realizing that in damning their home town they are damning themselves also; for a town is what its citizens make it. It is a good start in community upbuilding to get all the folks, including those in the barber shops, to thinking and speaking well of their town. The idea is so good that it should be used generally.

THERE are certain things that cost nothing and yet yield greater dividends than the highest and most desirable securities on the market. Among the most profitable of these is "courtesy."

A smile, a cheerful greeting, a pleasant word or two, a willingness to please, a sunny disposition, all help to strengthen the bonds of friendship between merchant and customer.

The business world has no place for a grouch or person of sour disposition. So far as intelligence is concerned he may be superior, but if he has not learned the value of courtesy his future in the commercial world is not very promising.

Many business men who find their trade slipping away from them fail to understand why. Their merchandise is the very best, their prices are reasonable, and yet the trade prefers to patronize their competitors.

Very often the remedy lies with the merchant himself. A little courtesy handed out to customers when they enter the store will keep them coming back for more.

And the beauty of it is that it costs nothing.

Since courtesy is so reliable and so cheap, dig in, get your share and put it into play.

CANADIAN FOOTBALLERS LOSE IN AUSTRALIA

Sydney, N.S.W., June 23.—The all-star Canadian football team touring Australia lost the third test match of the tour here today, a representative Australian team defeating the Canucks four goals to one. Canada's line-up was the same that played against the Illicarra eleven on Saturday. Forrest scored for the Canadians.

The game was witnessed by 15,000 persons.

The Canadian defence was strong but the forward line was weak. In the second half the Canadians had the better of the play but missed several glorious chances to score. It was in this half that Forrest tallied.

Three test matches have now been played; one has been won and two lost.

In studying the test matches, the Canadian record to date is six games won, four lost, and four drawn.

Tonight an ice hockey game between Canadian and Australian sevens is being staged.

The Canadian boys have had a strenuous time of it since May 10, when they played their first game here, and today appeared to be very tired.

All members of the Loyal Order of Moose and Women of Mooseheart Legion are requested to meet in the lodge room on Tuesday, July 1, at 10.15 a.m. for the purpose of taking part in the parade. Remember our motto, "Take Care of the Children," and govern yourselves accordingly.

Keen interest is being taken in the contest for Carnival Queen for July 1st. The Elks have nominated Miss Edna Johnston, daughter of William Johnston of the Orpheum, and the Sports Committee have put up Miss Alice Corrigan, of N. E. Suddaby's staff. Both sides are out to win.

For a party to be in power in name only is not a good thing for the welfare of any country. It must mean the adoption of negative policies and the shifting to the background of vigorous constructive policies in order to compromise with those on whom the life of the government depends. —Lethbridge Herald.

The Fernie Boy Scout First Aid team, Jack Larmont, P.L. (Capt.), Ross Workman, T.L., Tom Puckey, Oney Corrigan and Howard Corrie, again captured second place in the Wallace Nesbitt competition for the province of B.C., the team from the Western Fuel Co., of Nanaimo, only defeating them by a narrow margin for the first place.

Once again the public-spirited citizens of Cranbrook guaranteeing a stated sum to Chautauqua for a series of lectures and entertainments stretching over six days, have been compelled to open their purses to cover a deficit. Whatever the cause, Chautauqua does not draw the audiences it once did. Certainly the disagreeable weather of the past week militated to some extent against record attendances; but even when due consideration is given to the effect rainy evenings had on gate receipts it does not appear that the big brown tent shows are now enjoying the popularity of former years.—Cranbrook Courier.

"THE DAYS OF OUR YEARS"

The London Daily Herald recently published a statistical estimate of the apportionment of "the days of our years," assuming that they are 75 days beyond the scriptural threescore and 10. The anonymous statistician has probably made his generalizations from what he considers typical lives. "The vagrant, in whose schedule "work" does not appear at all, is presumably ignored at one end of the tabulation, and the research student, in whose days there is no moment of "idling," at the other. It may be considered the average "bill of life" from the day laborer to the banker. The apportionment of time, omiting two items, one of which is 15 days "waiting for trains" and another 60 days for "sweethearting," is as follows:

	Years.
Sleep	23
Sickness	1½
Eating	3
Washing, shaving, dressing	1¼
School	1¼
Work	18
Reading	7
Play	1¾
Entertainments, etc.	½
Walking, trans, etc.	2¼
Idling	2½
Sundries	7
	70

Everybody is ready to join Cervantes in praying that blessings may light on him who first invented sleep but it is a time-expensive invention for we spend approximately a third of our lives in sleep, the balance that "sets the king and the shepherd, the fool and the wise man even." Unless our unconscious selves are in sleep storing away materials out of our conscious experiences for our waking use, our sentient lives are actually less than two score and 10 in length. The one other large item is "work," but that totals only 18 years out of the 70, which leaves, with sleep substracted, nearly 30 years of one's life for reading, play, eating and other activities. — New York Times.

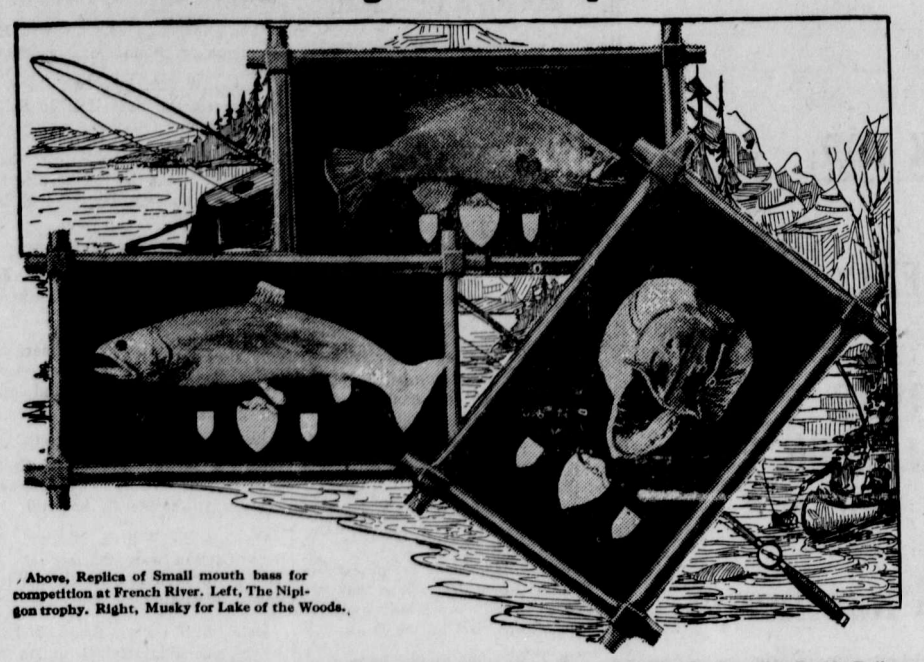
SICCANI INDIANS
BAND OF LEPERS

Edmonton, June 23.—The Siccani Indians, who live in the valley of the Findlay river, are virtually a band of lepers, and are facing extermination, according to Henry Stege, a fur trader, who has arrived in Edmonton from the far north of British Columbia.

Disease has so ravaged this people once full of health and vitality, that today less than 200 of them remain in the Findlay valley, and most of these are either blind, or horribly maimed, Mr. Stege reports.

Some of them, he states, are suffering the tortures of slow death, unable to do anything to check the advancing grip of disease.

Others, blind or nearly so, grope their way about the mountains hunting moose, their principal food, but are unable to see the moose when they shoot him, and so add hunger to their other sufferings.



HEART DISEASE IN CHILDREN

Any inflammation of the joints in children or young persons, especially if accompanied by fever, should be looked upon as a posible source of damage to the heart, and calls for rest in bed and treatment by the family physician, says the New York Times. In children rheumatism shows itself not only in the form of rheumatic fever, but in other ways that are less easily recognized—especially as troublesome "growing pains" and as the nervous affection known as chorea or St. Vitus' dance.

The conditions have the same dangerous possibilities of setting up inflammation of the heart valves as has inflammatory rheumatism itself and deserves the same careful treatment.

"In children who have had rheumatic symptoms of any sort, or who have signs of damage to the heart valves, infected tonsils and adnoids should be removed and scrupulous care should be given to the teeth and mouth," Dr. Lewis A. Conner, professor of medicine at the Cornell university medical school, said in a recent radio lecture broadcast by the New York state department of health. "A better understanding on the part of parents, teachers and the general public of the important relation of throat affections and the various rheumatic manifestations of childhood to valvular heart disease would prevent many children from becoming subject to heart disease."

Striking Fish Trophies

These three handsome trophies of unusual and striking design have been offered by the Canadian Pacific Railway for annual competition between guests at each of its three Ontario Bungalow Camps and will be awarded to angler catching largest fish of specified variety in each case.

The trophies have been prepared from exact moulds made of exceptional specimens of fish and, with white metal as a base underneath a dull silver finish, faithful and lifelike facsimiles have resulted. They are displayed to advantage on a black oak panel.

For French River Bungalow Camp a 6½ pound small mouth bass has been reproduced; while the trophy for the Camp at Nipigon is a replica of a 6¼ pound speckled trout. A feature of the Devil's Gap Camp (Lake of the Woods) trophy is the realistic and fierce expression of the head of a large muscalunge, with its bristling array of teeth.

It is expected that these trophies will create wide-spread interest and keen rivalry among anglers from all over the continent.

UPHOLD THE BIBLE

All sorts of dreadful unrepealed statutes can be invoked against the speaker or writer who seeks to subvert any major tenet of the Christian faith in England, says the Manchester Guardian. There is an unrepealed act of 1588, for instance, which condemns to imprisonment any who question the scriptural account of the last supper, and while an act of 1812 makes special allowance for those who deny the doctrine of the Trinity as a whole, those who deny any one of the Trinity are still, by a statute of 1697, liable on a first or second offence to loss of most of their civil rights, and on a third to be put in jail for three years.

Nor is the common law in theory any kinder to the blasphemer than the statue. So late as 1867 a case came before the courts in which the defendant had broken a contract to let a lecture room on the ground that among other things the lectures would deny the peculiar inspiration of the Bible. The court affirmed that Christianity is still a part of the law of England, and the defendant won the case. No British court in the last 40 years has brought the awesome penalties of the law to bear on any reasoned argument about religion.

Lord Coleridge in 1886 sought to fix the custom of the courts in an age of toleration by asserting that "mere denial of the truths of Christianity does not amount to blasphemy, there must be licentious and contumelious abuse of sacred subjects." Some of the learned dissented at the time, but the courts have followed Lord Coleridge's dictum and the only kind of blasphemy which is now likely to be restricted is such as it is thought may lead to a breach of the peace.

CONFIRMS REPORT OF
P. G. E. NEGOTIATIONS

Vancouver, June 13. — That the British group of financiers reported in a Canadian Press dispatch from London yesterday as having commenced preliminary negotiations for the acquisition of the Pacific Great Eastern railway from the British Columbia government, are financial interests closely in touch with the grain and shipping trade, was stated here today by Capt. Ian MacKenzie, a candidate in Vancouver. The announcement from London yesterday, he said, was the culmination of two and a half years' negotiations, and was the real object of Hon. T. H. Patullo's trips to London during that period.

CANADA TO AID THE U.S.

Rum-running and "dope" smuggling across the Canadian border will be an unhealthy outdoor sport in future, agree the Ottawa Citizen and Buffalo Evening News, situated on opposite sides of the boundary, now that Secretary of State Hughes and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice of the Canadian government, have signed a treaty providing for the suppression of the rum and drug traffic between the two countries. True, ratification of the treaty by the Senate is deferred, but both governments may be expected forthwith to act in the friendly spirit of the engagements.

"The need for some such arrangement is clear," observes the Toronto Globe, speaking for Canada, for—

"The operations of hum-runners along the border shame the people of Canada, and are a menace to the morals and the laws of our neighbors. To prevent the smuggling of liquors and drugs along the thousand miles of international boundary consisting of a line drawn on maps through the centre of the Great Lakes is a most dificult task, at best, for there are no marks upon the surface of the waters to show when a vessel is in Canadian territory and when it crosses the boundary.

"In addition to the water route, smugglers use the railways in a way that is scarcely less scandalous than the abuse of the custom laws. It is, therefore, arrant hypocrisy to sign treaties providing that the government of Canada shall refuse to give clearance to certain vessels, and at the same time wink at the use of the railway cars used for the shipment of liquor disguised as hay and straw."

The Ottawa Citizen now feels certain that—

"Prohibition enforcement in the United States should henceforth be a less difficult problem, than before. The new treaty makes the securing of information and evidence a much easier task than formerly, and this will entail no surrender of rights on the part of citizens of either country. More efficient cooperation between the two countries will work to the advantage of both, and should go far toward stamping out this most insidious and dangerous traffic."

"The treaty is a positive acknowledgment by Canada of her responsibility," maintains the Montreal Star. Furthermore—

"We can not, as a nation, sit with folded hands and assume the Pecksniffian attitude that the enforcement of the prohibition law of the United States is no concern of ours, and that we therefore have no responsibility in curbing the illicit running of liquor across the border. Canadian rum-runners are not a class of whom Canada is proud. For too long we have been sitting pasively, and thereby have encouraged their lawlessness.

"The signing of this treaty does not mean that the matter is now left wholly in the hands of the police and the officers engaged in the prevention of this trade. The treaty was signed by a responsible minister on behalf of the people of Canada, and it is incumbent on every citizen who has a love of constitutional order to see that he does his part, however small, in the repression of this trade."

Incidentally, adds the Windsor Border Cities Star, "now that Canada has shown her willingness to help the United States enforce her prohibition laws, that nation should help to solve the troublesome question caused by the diversion of the water of Lake Michigan through the Chicago drainage canal."

The Buffalo Evening News observes:

"This is a sensible method of dealing with the twin problems of rum-running and narcotic smuggling. It will contribute to maintain the friendly relations between the two countries."

The treaty reads in part as follows:

"Each government is to furnish information, upon request, to the appropriate officers of the other, concerning clearances of vessels or the transportation of cargoes, shipments or loads of articles across the international boundary when the importation of the articles by land is subject to the payment of duties; also information respecting clearances of vessels to any ports when there is ground to suspect that the owners or persons in possession of the cargo intend to smuggle it into American or Canadian territory.

"Clearances are to be denied to vessels carrying cargo consisting of articles the importation of which is forbidden by either country, when it is evident from the tonnage, size or general character of the vessel, or the length of the voyage or certain other conditions, that the vessel will be unable to carry the cargo to the destination proposed in the application for clearance.

"There is an agreement that both countries shall exchange information concerning the names and activities of persons known to be engaged in the violation of the narcotic laws of the two countries.

"The convention is to take effect ten days from the date of the exchange of ratifications and to remain in force for one year, and thereafter is terminable on thirty days' notice."

Here and There

Although it is only 18 years ago that Alberta became a province, its population has increased fourfold, while the grain yield has increased twentyfold. Even at the present low prices, the total agricultural products of Alberta in 1923 were worth $223,000,000.

Reports concerning the apple crop in the Annapolis Valley show that the entire crop, including the estimated local consumption, was 1,816,000 barrels. It is reported that 70,000 apple trees and 3,000 plum trees will be set out in the valley this spring.

The railways of Canada up to the end of last April earned $6,000,000 more than they did for the corresponding period in 1923. This favorable result is due entirely to the fact that the people have been doing more business. All authorities are agreed that such a condition means growing trade.

Nearly 68,000 bushels of high class seed were handled at the Alberta government seed-cleaning plant during the past season. A total of 22,823 bushels of Marquis wheat seed was handled, 3,160 bushels of ruby wheat, 28,073 bushels of Victory oats, 17,862 bushels of Banner oats, and 684 bushels of Bark's Barley.

Three prizes for anglers at the bungalow camps on French River, Nipigon River, and the Lake of the Woods, have been offered to Canadian fishermen by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The trophies are silver replicas of the bass and the trout, and a wonderful reproduction of the head of a fighting muscalonge.

Among the speakers to address the great convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World at London, England, to be held July 14-17, will be E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Beatty will speak on July 17, and has chosen as his theme "Building an Empire with Advertising."

Canada's national wealth in 1921 was $22,195,000,000, according to a report just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In the tabulation, agricultural wealth comes first with $7,982,871,126, nearly 36 per cent of the total and about $908 per head of population. The Western provinces lead, the Yukon topping the list with $4,058. The first in absolute wealth was Ontario, to which is credited the sum of $7,358,000,000, or thirty-three per cent of the Dominion total.

The Elks Lodge are giving to each boy and girl in the 1st July Parade 15c in coupons, which are redeemable at any of the stalls in the City Park.

Laxatives do not overcome constipation

More Important is Internal Cleanliness

LAXATIVES and cathartics provide temporary relief only, at the expense of permanent injury. In time, says an eminent physician, an almost incalculable amount of harm is done by the use of pills, salts, mineral waters, castor oil and the like.

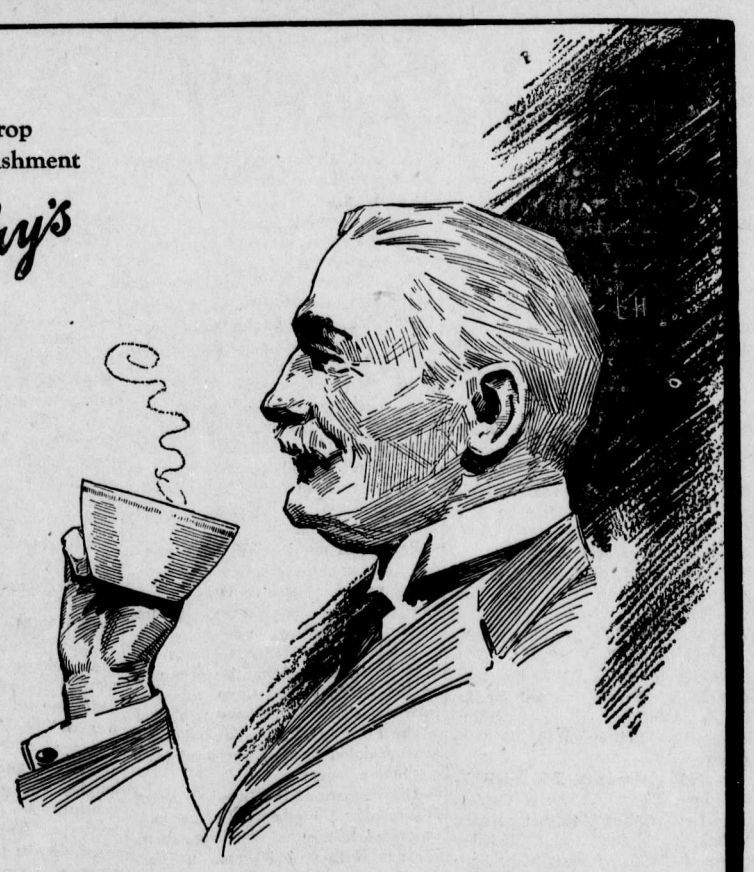
Some laxatives, according to an intestinal specialist, contain poisons which affect the stomach and intestines, resulting in grave disorders. Certain laxatives are a direct cause of piles.

Physicians Advise Lubrication for Internal Cleanliness

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.



Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

COAL CREEK NOTES

This camp has returned back to normal after the recent excitement caused by the election.

The school vacation commenced today.

Five of the pupils of the school up here are attending a course in Fernie school preparatory to the High School.

Mrs. R. Hartley left for Kimberley to join her musband, who has secured work there.

The Kimberley mines seem to be the "mecca" of most of our migrators from camp.

The "Community Sports" for the children of Coal Creek only, organized by the joint Ladies Aids of the churches up here, took place today on the football field. A large program of events was pulled off..

A special mass meeting of Gladstone Local Union to be held on Sunday at 1.30 p.m., has been advertised on the bill boards. Arrangements have been made for a special train to leave here at 12.30 p.m., returing at 4 p.m.

Several of our local K. of P. members contemplate crossing the burning sands that lead to Dokeyism at the ceremonial being staged at Kimberley on Saturday, June 28.

We learn that Clem Stubbs has been transferred from the personnel of the staff at Coal Creek mines to take a position as pit boss at Michel.

The Fernie G.W.V.A. football team are scheduled to meet our local team on Sunday next.

All members of the Loyal Order of Moose and Mooseheart Legion are requested to meet at the lodge room, Victoria Hall, at 10.30 a.m. on Tuesday for the purpose of participating in the parad eat 11 a.m.

BABY ACTRESS SCRUBS FLOOR BY DOG'S AID

Baby Peggy, fildom's youngest star, has evolved a combination of pleasure and light housekeeping that promises to set a fast pace in modern kitchen tactics.

The event leading up to Peggy's claim for scrubbing honors form an interesting scene in her initial multi-reel starring feature for Universal "The Darling of New York," directed by King Baggot. This picture will have its first local showing at the Orpheum theatre Friday and Saturday this week.

Peggy was assigned by an unkind foster parent to the duty of scrubbing the kitchen floor. That in itself is quite a task for such a tiny youngster. But her method of meeting the situation should make kitchen history.

She tied a mop cloth to the tail of the dog. Then she appropriated a dired herring from an ice box, which she tied on a string to a broom handle. Climbing into a chair she began fishing—for the pup.

With the fragrance of the herring assailing its nostrils, the dog immediately forgot the mop trailing behind him. Peggy turned 'round and 'round in the chair, coaxing the dog around the chair. By maneuvering the chair around the kitchen and pouring frequent applications of suds on the floor the kitchen soon was well scrubbed.

Peggy had a lot of fun in the scene and its filming recorded plenty of laughs. The play chronicles her adventures fro mthe time that she leaves an Italian port, in the hands of a diamond smuggler, until she escapes from the crooks in New York city.

Science cannot kill war. Commerce, progress, law, education cannot end war. Who will end war? The world has had three historic scourges, famine, pestilence and war. Commerce killed famine, science killed pestilence, only religion can kill war, for religion creates the new heart. Without religion we are without hope in the world. Without God we are lost.—Dr. Charles E. Jefferson.

JULY FIRST SPORTS SUCCESS

The Children's Swimming Pool Fund will benefit to the extent of between $1500 and $2000 as a result of the Dominion Day sports.

The celebration opened at 11 a.m. with a gigantic parade. School children, C.G.I.T., Boy Scouts, B.P.O.E., L.O.O.M. and their ladies auxiliary, R.C.M.P., the Dominion Day Queen and suite, and a large number of decorated floats, automobiles and bicycles participated. The parade proceeded along Victoria avenue and returned to the court house grounds, where, under the war memorial, Miss Edna Johnston, standard bearer of the Fernie Elks, was crowned Queen of the day by Miss Alice Corrigan, following a brief patriotic address by S. Herchmer.

The first event at the sports grounds was a junior baseball game, Fernie juniors defeating Michel juniors by a score of five runs to nil. George Sofko pitched for the Fernie boys and only allowed the visitors one hit. Sadlish did mound duty for Michel. Midget baseball followed, Fernie midgets defeating the Coal Creek midgets by a score of 10 to 4.

A big feature for the children was the donation from the Fernie Lodge of Elks. Promptly at 1.30 p.m. every child on the grounds was lined up and given three coupons valued at five cents each, which were honored at any of the booths on the grounds.

The day was brought to a conclusion with a big dance held in Victoria Hall, which lasted until the early morning.

WATER FOR THE CEMETERY

Acting Mayor Irvine presided over the first regular July meeting of the city ciuncil last evening. Mayor Henderson is still absent in the east on Home bank business. Ald. Aiello was the only other absentee.

An application was received from the Kootenay Telephone Lines for permission to construct new pole lines on McPherson Ave. between Hanson and McAvoy streets and on McAvoy street from Howland to Dalton Ave. Permission was granted.

City Clerk Moffatt read a certified copy of an order in council passed by the provincial government, placing West Fernie, Annex Extension and the North End under the jurisdiction of the Fernie city police, which goes into effect immediately.

Mr. Moffatt reported that tax collections to the end of June amounted to $61,000, a decrease of $11,000 as compared with the same period last year.

The question of a water supply at the cemetery came up for discussion. City Engineer McCallum submitted an estimated cost of $40.60 to lay a pipe line to the north gate of the cemetery. He was instructed to proceed with the work, which will be completed early next week.

FATAL MISHAP NEAR ELKO

A fatal accident took place on the Mott hill, the other side of Elko, early last evening, when a car driven by a woman backed over the bank and went crashing down the hill, a distance of 150 feet.

The particulars of the affair as reported to the provincial police, were as follows: A family named Alpaugh were travelling from Peachland, B.C., to Calgary. The mother and two children, a child of 11 years and a baby of two months, were in a Chevrolet car ahead and the father and little son were in a truck with the household effects behind. In some way while coming up the Mott hill the gear slipped out and the woman lost her head for a second and backed toward the outside instead of the inside bank. The little 11 year old girl sprang out and tried to block the wheel, but it was too late and the car crashed over the side, carrying the mother and baby some hundred and fifty feet below. The mother escaped serious injury but the baby was instantly killed. The car was smashed to pieces. The family were brought to Fernie and the little one will be buried tomorrow in the Fernie cemetery.

Mr. Alpaugh was at one time a resident of Fernie and worked at Coal Creek up until the time of the 1902 explosion.

INDIAN MURDERED NEAR CRANBROOK

Casimir Phillips, an Indian from the Mission, near Cranbrook, was brought before the police magistrate at Cranbrook on Wednesday charged with the murder of Jacob Andrews, another Indian, during a fight on the night of June 26, and was sent up for trial.

It is alleged that Phillips had intervened when Andrews, in a drunken rage, was beating up his squaw, and in the resultant fight had struck Andrews on the head with the butt end of a gun, fracturing his skull and causing death.

The coroner's jury last Monday brought in a verdict that Andrews had met his death from the effects of a blow from a blunt instrument but did not place any responsibility.

The man who sold Andrews the liquor, one Kirkwood, was sentenced to serve two months in jail and was fined $100, in the same court.

GREAT FALLS BEAT FERNIE

Dominion Day witnessed one of the finest baseball games ever seen in the city when the Miners of Great Falls, Montana, defeated the Coal Co. of Fernie by a score of five runs to one in an exhibition game in aid of the Children's Swimming Pool Fund.

Salazer, the Cuban pitching ace of the Miners, held the Fernie swatsmen to six scattered hits and struck out fifteen. He had everything in the way of pitchers' tricks, and his wonderful change of pace kept the Fernie batters guessing all the time. Hovan, Fernie's lend off man, was the only batter he failed to send back to the bench at least once during the game. Hovan nicked his delivery for a single and a double.

Hines, making his debut for the locals on the mound, was up against the hardest bunch of hitters ever seen in Fernie. He could not have found a stiffer task for his first appearance, but he pitched a splendid game and except for a couple of innings kept the hits off him well scattered.

The Fernie fielders have never been seen in finer form. They accepted 43 chances without a single error and pulled off four double plays. Ault pulled one unassisted and featured in the other three.

Great Falls scored two runs in the first innings. Morton, first man up, struck up; then Leifer drew a pass; Brown connected for a single; then Marshall drove two runs across with a two-bagger. Ault retired the side when he speared Taylor's liner and caught Marshall off second.

Fernie's lone tally came in the first frame, Hovan leading off with a single, Barger was safe on a fielder's choice, Hovan being put out at second; a wild throw by Salazer and Shand's sacrifice sent Barger across the plate. The Miners added another run in the third frame, Salazer leading off with a single and being sacrificed around.

In the sixth frame four singles in a row, two of which were perfectly laid down infield hits, sent Marshall and Taylor across the plate for the last two runs of the game. Salazer got into difficulty in the seventh when Steinert and Rushcal, first two men up, connected for singles, but he tightened up and struck out three in a row. Ground rules prevented Fernie from adding to their score in the last half of the ninth. With Steinert on first, Ault connected for a long hit to right field, where an overflow of cars had invaded the outfield. Two bases was the rule and although Steinert crossed the plate long before the ball was returned, he had to return to third. Salazer then struck out Bishop for the third out.

FERNIE WINS FROM ELKS

Fernie took the Lethbridge Elks into camp last Sunday for their first home win of the season, emerging victors by a score of 9 to 3 runs in a game which was somewhat marred by errors. The Fernie field was considerably changed owing to the illness of shortstop Haight, McTeer going to short, Ault to second, Steinhart catching and Bishop to centre field. The infield were in great form pulling off three real snappy double plays and gobbling up anything that came their way. Bishop was unaccustomed to playing in the outfield and had to be replaced during the game by Colton.

Snyder pitched a splendid game, only allowing the Lethbridge invaders six hits and except for the fourth innings kept a firm hold on the game. A bad error in the fourth allowing runs to be scored seemed to rattle him somewhat and the Elks batted all the way around their order to score three runs. After this frame, however, he tightened up and held the visitors to one single hit in the last five innings.

"Big Six" Geogehegan, who has been the terror of the Southern Alberta league, did not prove much of a puzzle to the locals, who knicked him for eleven hits, four of them being for extra bases. He has lots of speed and with a little more control he would have put up a much better showing. As it was, when he had his fast one working right he sent eleven Fernie swatsmen back to the bench.

A walk, an error and a hit were responsible for the locals getting away to a two run lead in the initial frame. Tall hitting, including a double by Ault and a three-bagger by Shand, in the second gave Fernie three more..

Lethbridge opened up their scoring column in the third when Ault and McTeer failed to get Hovan's throw in from right field, allowing a runner to get home from third. Rushcal scored Fernie's sixth run in the third innings, being driven home by Ault's second two bagger after he had singled. The balloon took a slight ascension in the fourth frame with Lethbridge batting all the way around. A couple of errors, a walk, a double and two singles netted them three runs. Fernie scored another in their half of the fourth and two more in the eighth when Mulholland's error paved the way for Hovan to score on McTeer's double and the latter to get across when Steinhart got the last hit of the game.

CALGARIANS SOME SPORTS

Calgary baseball fraternity appear to be lacking greatly in sportsmanship. Commenting on the ridiculously light gate at the Kimberley-Athletics game, the Albertan says:

The Athletics went to considerable expense in bringing the Kimberley club here and unless the patrons come across considerably better than they did last night the local club will be out of pocket. There were 1500 or more fans at the park yesterday and they contributed by voluntary collection the meagre sum of $82.80. This is a disgrace for Calgary, a city that has been sayled a real ball centre for years. At Lethbridge the Kimberley team received $140.00 as their share for one game, and Lethbridge isn't a quarter the size of Calgary. In the collection cans last night there were hundreds of nickles, coppers and a coin covered with tinsel. The local players are doing their best to give the fans good baseball without any remuneration, and unless the patrons do their share no more outside teams will be brought there. Last night's collection was a disappointment to the Athletics, and they will have to dig into their treasury in order to meet the deficit unless the fans do their part today.

The Albertan scribe might also have mentioned that the Fernie club went to Calgary to meet Rockyford for the Brewery Cup at their own expense with a guarantee of sixty per cent of the gate receipts. Three games were played in the Cow Town and the Fernie club's treasurer was handed the magnificent sum of $89 as their share of the total gate receipts.

NEW UNITED STATES IMMIGRATION LAW

The new American immigration regulations became effective July 1. As applicable locally their leading features are thus summarized by the American Consul at Fernie. Travellers to the United States are divided into two classes, immigrants and non-immigrants.

Immigrants—

(a) Canadian citizens and British subjects domiciled in Canada (1 year residence) must secure immigration visas from the American Consul, but are not required to present passports when applying for visa.

(b) All other immigrants seeking entry to the United States must first procure a passport from their own government and then apply at the American Consulate for an Immigration Visa.

(c) The following classes are not subject to the quota restrictions, viz.: Canadian citizens born in Canada or the United States, their wives and children; ministers and professors of two years' standing, their wives and children; the alien wife and children of an American citizen residing in the U.S.; aliens previously domiciled in the U.S., returning after a visit to Canada of not exceeding six months; and students over 15 entering the United States solely to attend an accredited school. All other classes are subject to the quota. Quota immigrants should write the Consul in advance, to make sure that their quota is not exhausted.

Non-Immigrants—

(a) Canadian citizens and British subjects domiciled in Canada (1 year residence) may enter the United States without passports or visas of any sort, if not going as immigrants.

(b) All other non-immigrants seeking admission to the United States must bear passports visaed by the American Consul.

General Observations—

It will be seen from the foregoing that the most important changes in the American immigration laws are those requiring (1) that Canadians migrating to the United States must be provided with Immigration Visas, and (2) that all residents of Canada, except Canadian citizens born in North America and certain restricted classes enumerated (ministers, professors, etc.) are subject to the quota restrictions, irrespective of length of residence.

Visas cannot be procured by mail or deputy; the applicant must present himself personally before the Consul. He must bring with him his passport (if required above), two unmounted photographs, the necessary fee, and all papers required to establish his record, including a birth certificate and testimonial as to character and residence from his employer, a local minister of religion or the police authorities.

Where a family is migrating to the United States, each member must be provided with a separate Immigration Visa, the fee for which is $10.40.

No immigration forms have as yet been received from the Department of State, so that in the Consul's opinion it will be inadvisable for intending immigrants to visit the Consulate before July 15.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

WHAT OF THE SNEERERS?

Never has there been a time when it was so necessary to examine basic causes as in seeking the incitement leading up to two sons of millionaires being held in Chicago charged with the murder of another youth, son of a third man of wealth.

The alleged crime cannot be charged to their being heirs to large fortunes; there is no good reason on the surface to charge it to home environment; their racial characteristics are not those of slayers. All these themes are discounted by the thousands of well educated young men of wealth who are a credit to any community —the only difference being that they never attract notoriety.

Nothing is easier than to brand the two as moral monsters; but how are such moral monsters generated? It is suggested, therefore that the following chain of events be taken into consideration. For some years this murder has been in the making by a group having its recognized centre in New York city, and rearing unhealthy offspring in every city in the land.

It is a group known to every one familiar with a certain acutely self-conscious element in the literary and artistic circle of Manhattan, a group of educated sneerers. Sometimes its members write or paint, occasionally with brilliant skill, more often vilely; most of them, too indolent to work, devote their lives to self-indulgent emotionalism.

Not devoid of ability, but utterly lacking in sense of proportion, they form a pestilential group. They denounce law, which they call conventionality; they mock at morality, calling it hypocritical fear. Above all, they sneer at the men and women who do the world's work in orderly fashion.

Hitherto, ordinary folk have been disposed to ignore these educated emotionalists. Mingled amusement and irritation have greeted their cult, books, paintings, periodicals. On the whole they were not taken seriously; were permitted to flourish, reaching out into the cities and towns and, above all, into the universities and college to spread the creed of untrammelled emotionalism.

Now a murder has resulted, by two youths who "regard their crime as an interesting scientific experiment." It is easy to condemn them. But what of the sneerers? Are their cults and teachings so harmless and absurd or are they poisoned arrows that hit at the heart of decent society?—Canadian Finance.

This picture, following as it does "The Humming Bird," is a direct contrast in the matter of clothes. Miss Swanson wears 14 different gowns in this production, while in "The Humming Bird" she has but four outfits, one of them being boy's clothes.

She is resplendent in dinner frocks, dazzling evening gowns and snappy sport togs in her role of an ultra-fashionable young society woman, and she hasn't forgotten her acting of "Zara" and "The Humming Bird" either.

And that's not all—with each of the stunning gowns Miss Swanson has a special coiffeur that will make the women folks green with envy.

It's a story of New York high society life — that side so carefully concealed from the public—an expose of the private life of the Four Hundred.

You've never really seen Gloria Swanson until you've seen her in "A Society Scandal."

Rod La Rocque and Ricardo Cortez play opposite the star, and Allan Simpson is also prominently cast as Gloria's pampered husband in the picture, which will be the feature at the Orpheum theatre on Wednesday next.

THIINK NOT OF SELF

Oh soul of mine, think not of self,
But bend thyself to nobler aims,
Lift up thy head and give thy strength
To that alone which virtue claims.

The power that caused thee to exist,
And gave thee place in this dull land,
Has watched thy rugged way and makes
Of thee a wonderful demand.

For He requires of thee to learn
To live and freely sacrifice;
Be calm, be true in all you do,
No matter what may be the price.

Wherever in this darkened earth
Thou wayest better service give,
Fly to that spot, forgetting self,
Henceforth alone for service live.

Oh judge not that the weary years
Shall altogther fruitless be;
For God shall cheer thee with a hope,
And by His spirit comfort thee.

Oh thou shalt stand with purpose bold
To rescue those who slip and fall;
Let resolution hold thee firm,
That thou mayest help the weak who call.

Oh, toil for others' betterment,
For this shall be thy life, thy way,
Which, though 'tis grim to wander in,
Shall lead thee into perfect day.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

WEALTH cannot buy it. Inventive genius cannot create it. And all the well favored and exclusive of the earth have, cannot replace it—and that is just God's pure sunshine.

This is what sunshine does: It makes wealth possible. It gives to labor its life and hope. Without it there would be no food at all—no light, no power, nor even life itself.

The deadly germs that destroy life keep out of the way of sunshine, for they cannot live under its life-giving force.

The seeds planted in the ground, and the flowers that have leaped to life from the ground, open and sing forth their silent melodies and give forth their pure and spreading perfume because of the sunshine that has lifted them out of the dirt of the earth.

When it is dark and gloomy, even the birds seek their nests—but when the sun is high, and bright they travel far, that they may scatter their happiness to the four winds of the compass.

Christ was crucified in a storm, at dead of night. I do not believe that even those hard hearts could have raised that righteous man and nailed him to the cross under the golden rays of His sunshine.

The sun purifies and recreates life.

I recently heard the story of a blind man who went to sleep with the sun shining in his eyes — and when he awoke, behold, he saw!

The sunshine has a wonderful rebuilding, stimulating and health-giving influence over the body. It penetrates into the sleepy, tired nerves, wakes them up, renews them, and gives hope and courage to the entire body.

One of the most persistent advertisers was Robinson Caruso. He knew what he wanted—and put up an ad. for one. He flung a shirt on a pole, at the top of his island, that, in the language of the sea, was plain to every sea-faring man.

The circulation was small—there was no other medium but Crusoe kept at it, despite the fact that he got no inquiries for a long time. He changed his copy—as one garment after anther frayed out—and in the end got what he wanted.

Suppose Crusoe had taken down that signal after a time and declared—"Advertising doesn't pay." Where would he and his story be now?

Put up your signal and keep it there. Crusoe advertised under very discouraging circumstances. You've got a sure thing—it is only necessary to have the patience, persistence and pluck of Robinson Crusoe—and the good ship "Better Business" will soon tie up 'longside your pier.

MORAL CLAIM FOR PAYMENT

Ottawa, July 1.—"Your committee consider the facts brought out in the interim report submitted by Chief Justice McKeown, and the evidence therein referred to, establish that the depositors of the Home Bank have a moral claim in equity for compensation by the country on account of any loss they may suffer by reason of the failure of the Home bank."

This is the concluding paragraph of a report made to the house of commons this afternoon by the banking and commerce committee in regard to the claim of the Home bank depositors for reimbursement.

The report opens by quoting the reference to the committee on this question by the house of commons and the reference by Justice McKeown's interim report. It then continues:

"Your committee consider that the facts therein brought out and the evidence therein referred to, clearly establish that the depositors of the Home bank have no claim under the law of the land for compensation by the country on account of any loss they may have suffered by reason of the failure of the Home bank.

"But your committee are also of the opinion that in view of representations made to the department of finance in the years 1916 and 1918, the government of the time could have made, in 1916 and in 1918, an effective audit under section 56A of the Bank act, and if such an effective audit or thorough investigation into the bank's affairs had been made it would have resulted:

"1. In the immediate liquidation of the bank, or

and that the effect would have been no loss to the depositors in 1916 or 1918.

"Your committee have studied the evidence given before the royal commission by Sir Thomas White, who was then minister of finance, and particularly his statement 'I would never think of putting in a special auditor in a bank and taking chances, especially at a time like that, of closing the bank' (page 345), and further:

"Under no circumstances would I have allowed a bank to fail during the period in question. I had many difficult and dangerous financial situations to deal with during the war. At its outbreak, in view of the panic which prevailed, the government, at my instance, placed itself behind the banks of Canada and gave public assurance that it would loan them such sums as they might require to meet the conditions of the war, and would take all further steps necessary to safeguard the financial situation during its continuance' (page 359), and further:

"The action I took was in my discretion; in exercising his discretion, a minister must have regard to conditions, because conditions have a direct bearing upon the consequences attendant on his action to the bank and the general situation. If you make a mistake in putting in an auditor in peace time, the consequences may be a run, producing little effect upon the bank; if in war time, you may bring down the bank, and in addition you may cause an unspeakable calamity to the country (page 763).

"Your committee is not called upon to question the manner in which Sir Thos. White made use of the powers given to him or whether he exercised his discretion correctly or otherwise."

The East Kootenay Power Co., who have develped 8000 horsepower from Bull River and lately an additional 15,000 horsepower from the Elk river, are considering extending their power lines to Lethbridge and Taber.

Mrs. Fred Johnson and daughter, Betty, of Vancouver, arrived in Fernie this morning and will spend a couple of months with Mr. Johnson here.

To a large degree the success of the Dominion Day celebration was due to the hard work and untiring efforts of the new Elk Lodge recently organized in this city. This fine body of men turned out almost to a man and worked early and late to make the affair the big success it turned out to be. In the big parade in the morning their fine uniforms and neat appearance won the approval and praise of all who saw them.

The Dominion Day competition between the Elks' candidate, Miss Edna Johnston, and the candidate of the Sports Committee, Miss Alice Corrigan, created widespread interest and the supporters of both ladies worked very hard raising the handsome sum of $1400 for the children's fund. So pleased was the Sports Committee at the result that although Miss Johnston won by a fair margin of votes, both young ladies were awarded prizes, the committee feeling under deep obligation to them for their untiring efforts.

The Ladies Aid of the United Church held a social on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Fisher in honor of Mrs. W. R. Wilson, who is leaving shortly for Vancouver, where she will in future reside for at least part of the time. Mrs. Wilson during her residence in Fernie has been closely associated with church work and the ladies of the United Church and others deeply regret her departure at this time. In token of esteem and affection the presentation of a sterling silver flower basket was made during the evening. Mrs. Fisher, as usual, proved a good hostess and all enjoyed a pleasant evening.

A Boy Scout has friends and brothers the world over. This fact was demonstrated here last Monday when Henry Schiller, of Troop No. 1, of Glendale, Long Island, New York, hiked into town and was welcomed by the Fernie Boy Scouts. He held a place of honor at the head of the troop when they paraded in the Dominion Day parade on Tuesday. This enterprising youth set out from New York on foot last August and since that time he has travelled a distance of 6973 miles, hiking across the U.S. to Los Angeles, Cal. He reached Fernie on his return journey Monday and took the road east early Wednesday morning. His route will be through the Crow's Nest Pass to Macleod and Calgary. He will then turn south and head for Denver, Col., and then direct east for his home.

Miss Alice Corrigan wishes to thank all those who so generously gave their time, efforts and money to help her as candidate for Dominion Day Queen. She especially wishes to thank the Sports Committee and the Elks for their courtesy and help.

The Roman Catholic church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday morning when Pete Piola was united in wedlock to Miss Mary Pullandre, both well known in town. Rev. Father Kennedy tied the nuptial knot. The duties of groomsman were carried out by Angelo Farnanetti, while the bride was attended by Miss Nora Hulbert. The wedding repast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The newly-weds were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents. They left for Spokane and other points on Tuesday on their honeymoon.

The Coal Co. baseball team are the official defenders of the Calgary Brewery Challenge Trophy and are now ready to accept challenges from baseball clubs who are playing under the jurisdiction of the Alberta Baseball Association for this trophy. The local club is putting up a brand of baseball which is far superior to anything Fernie has had in previous years and are sparing no expense in bringing in opposing clubs with big reputations to give the Fernie fans some real classy exhibitions of the summer sport. Alberta clubs will not come in here unless they are assured of getting a big part of their expenses so the Fernie fans will have to do their bit and give the boys a boost every time a club comes here, which will have the natural result of providing plenty of baseball during the season.

PRESBYTERIAN PENSION PLAN

Almshouses will no longer beckon to Presbyterian ministers, for Will H. Hays, "Hollywood harmonizer" and Presbyterian elder, presented a successful appeal to the recent Presbyterian General Assembly that $15,000,000 be raised as the foundation for a clergy pension fund. The plan, prepared by a committee assisted by insurance company acturies, and described by Mr. Hays as "modern and fundamentally sound," is to supplement the present $10,000,000 fund so that all clergymen and missionaries, as well as their widows and minor orphans, may be pensioned without regard to their need. It is provided that annuitants at the age of sixty-five, whether retired or not, shall receive a sum equal to one-half their average salary over 35 years' service. Upon total disability a clergyman shall receive a pension equal to 40 per cent of his average salary for the five preceding years. For elderly clergymen who will be unable to meet the full terms of the plan a minimum of $600 yearly will be provided. Widows' pensions, equalling 50 per cent of the amount received by husbands, pensions of $100 for their minor children, and proportionate pensions for those disabled before the age of 65 are also provided for. The fund will be maintained by contributions of 2½ per cent of their salaries, and 7½ per cent from the church or other employing agency. The plan will start April 1, 1926.

The meagreness of ministerial salaries is a reproach of long standing. In recent years, however, effort has been made to put the pulpit on a better financial basis and to relieve the self-sacrifice demanded of every man who dons clerical garb. The forward step of the Presbyterians is in line with steps taken by the Protestant Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal churches, though the Presbyterian church claims priority in the establishment of a pension system by pointing to one that has been in continuous operation since 1717. But this, of course, was inadequate to meet present needs and conditions, and the great majority of ministers find it impossible to save anything from their salaries against the day when they must leave the pulpit for the pew. "These administrators of our one essential industry—religion—are shamefully underpaid," says Mr. Hays, as he is quoted in press reports.

One criticism of the Presbyterian plan is voiced by the Cincinnati Enquirer, and this is on the proposed levy the ministers are to pay out of salaries already inadequate. Nevertheless, concludes the Enquirer, the plan is "commendable as a whole and deserves to be approved by the synods and presbyteries. It is a merited recognition of an obligation owing to humble, faithful servants." Approval is general. While many denominations have long had some form of pension for aged and infirm ministers, yet in most instances, says the Washington Post, such provision has been grossly inadequate. Proper provision for them is comparatively recent, "and it is to be noted with applause that the movement in this direction is spreading and gathering force. For generations the unhappy plight in which the aged and disabled clergy have found themselves has been a shame to their respective denominations. The present movement for pensions is in recognition of claims that run in the name of simple justice." Average pulpit compensation is, on the one hand, the supreme proof of the ministry's self-sacrificing devotion to its task, and, on the other hand, the supreme example of organized society's failure to acknowledge and reward essential loyalties, declares the Grand Rapids Herald. It is as impossible to apply a fiscal yardstick to the services rendered by the man in the pulpit, we are told, as it is to place a money valuation on the legionnaire who lays down his life for his country:

"But it is not impossible to survey minimums and to consent, unescapably, that the ministry is the most grossly underpaid profession in all this land. Indeed, this contemplation frequently amounts to a scandal. We demand inspiration and intellectuality and unremitting zeal in the pulpit; but too frequently we neglect to realize that the laborer is worthy of his hire. We bemoan the fact that it is becoming increasingly difficult to attract our brilliant young men to the tasks of religion; but too frequently we neglect to ask ourselves whether we have done our part in making the prospects not impossibly uninviting. There is no such thing as a pulpit profiteer. We doubt whether there is an overpaid minister anywhere in existence. The very nature of these spiritual works makes their compensation—on the basis of any ordinary commercial standards—all but impossible. It is not a commercial aspiration which leads men and women to dedicate their lives to religious service. The least, then, that the church can do—after failing to provide a competence in the period of ministerial avtivity—is to guarantee its servants against tragedy in their sunset years. The Presbyterian pension program reflects the very minimum of social and economic justice. And are not Justice and Christianity synonyms?"

NOTES AND COMMENT

A religious issue has become an important, possibly a dominating, factor in the nominations for the Presidency of the United States. A religious issue possibly may be a determining factor in the presidential election of the United States.

Al. Smith, governor of the great State of New York, is a Roman Catholic. He is a Democrat and a candidate for nomination for the presidency. We believe no man who professes the Roman Catholic faith ever has been elected to the presidency of the United States. Sam Small, an American revivalist, says no man who professes the Roman Catholic faith shall be elected to the presidency of the United States.

This statement has naturally raised a somewhat bitter discussion and may prove a vital factor in the election. Catholics naturally resent it and say that if one professing their religious faith is not considered worthy of nomination their votes shall be cast for the candidate of a party which is more tolerant in its attitude. That is to say, the narrow spirit of a few Democrats is going to prove a great advantage to the Republicans and may be the determining factor in the election of President Coolidge.

It is a matter of thankfulness, surely, that such an issue never can be raised in any country under the British flag. The British are probably the most tolerant people on the face of the earth in religious matters. The first premier of the province of Ontario, the most pronouncedly Protestant of all the provinces of the Dominion of Canada, was a Roman Catholic. We refer, of course, to Hon. John Sandfield Macdonald. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the most popular premier Canada ever had following Sir John A. Macdonald, was a Roman Catholic.

Racial and religious issues are never raised in the political affairs of the Mother Country. Lord Beasonsfield was a Jew, and enjoyed a high degree of esteem of the Sovereign and the confidence of the people. Rt. Hon. Andrew Bonar Law was a Canadian and a Presbyterian. Anyone, whatever his origin, whether he be of high or low degree, whether born in the purple or in a log cabin in the backwoods of the Dominions, is eligible for the highest position in the land provided he be endowed with the qualities that fit him for that position. The case of Prime Minister MacDonald furnishes the very latest and the most convincing proof of the broad-mindedness and wide tolerance of the British people.

According to British constitutional practice, when the head of the government is defeated, that government ceases to exist. But circumstances may alter constitutional cases, and circumstances have altered a constitutional case in the matter of the Oliver government of British Columbia. If the conditions here were of an ordinary character it would be the duty of the Premier not to stand upon the order of his going, but to tender his resignation to the Lieutenant Governor at the most convenient opportunity and to suggest that someone else be called upon to form a government, for "the King's government must go on."

Technically, however, Premier Oliver has not been defeated. He is under suspended sentence, as it were. The judgment of the electorate cannot be confirmed until all the ballots are counted. The absentee voter has introduced a new element into our constitutional system or practice. Consequently the people who are clamoring for action must wait with patience the counting of the remainder of the ballots and the announcements of the returning officers.

SAVE PAPER SAVE FORESTS

When you burn or otherwise destrop a scrap of waste paper you are, in effect, helping to deforest your country further. For we must have paper, and if not made from waste it requires wood pulp. Hence we can save our forests by saving waste paper. Writing in American Forestry, Warren B. Bullock says that the paper expert, when he sees a huge truck, loaded to the second-story window of the street's skyscrapers with huge bags and bales of waste paper, has a vision of waving forests of spruce or balsam. He hears the singing of the wind through the branches of the evergreens. He sees and hears what the average city dweller little dreams, that the collection of this waste paper means a saving to America of a part of its remaining forests. Every six tons of waste paper collected saves one acre of spruce pulpwood from the axe. Mr. Bullock continues:

"The importance of the waste paper industry to America is very little appreciated. The waste materials industry is a highly organized American industry, with its ramifications. The waste collection industry alone involves many million of dollars. The paper manufacturers of the United States alone pay the waste paper men $50,000,000 a year. And this represents about two million tons of waste paper, which is the average consumption of the mills of the country. Were it not for the utilization of waste paper, there would be a depletion of the forests amounting to some three hundred thousand acres of timberland every year.

"Two chief branches of the paper industry use waste paper—the board and the book-paper mills. The book-paper mills are dependent in large measure for waste paper of good grade for their mills. Old magazines, books, clippings, etc., are in demand for the manufacture of paper for magazines and book publishers. Of course, a large amount of new pulp wood is used in the manufacture of this paper, but such book-paper centers as the Kalamazoo valley are consumers of huge quantities of waste paper.

"The paper board industry represents the largest total tonnage of any branch of the paper industry, with a total of over two million tons of board manufactured in 1922. The value, of course, is not as high as that of some of the finer papers, but the forest conservation effected is a tremendous item in this group of the paper industry.

"Instead of reaching the peak of possibilities of forest conservation by the use of waste paper, many think that there is a still greater future before the paper industry in the closer utilization of waste. The Forest products Laboratory at Madison has made extensive experiments with the de-inking of waste paper for the making of newsprint paper, and this can be done economically, producing at the same time a satisfactory grade of paper.

"If the Canadian campaign for the placing of an embargo on export of pulpwood to the United States is successful, a campaign which has been progressing for the last four years, there will be a further turning to waste paper for the production of newsprint, as well as book paper and paper board.

PREVENT FOREST FIRES -- IT PAYS

PESSIMISM IS VICIOUS

Here is a bit of French allegory that may find application in Canada.

A portrait painter sat in his favorite cafe sipping his wine. His first small bottle finished, he was about t oorder another when his eye fell on a headline in the Figaro,, "Hard Times Are Coming," so instead of ordering his usual second bottle, he called for his check.

"Is there anything wrong with the wine?" asked the landlord.

"The wine is good but I did not order a second bottle because hard times are coming and we must economize," explained the artist.

"Hard times," said the landlord. "Then my wife must not order the silk dress we planned, but must take one of cotton."

"Hard times," repeated the dressmaker when the order was cancelled. "This is no time to expand. I must not make the improvements I had planned in this place."

"Hard times, eh?" said the builder, when the dressmaker cancelled the building plans. "Then I cannot have my wife's portrait painted."

So he wrote the artist and cancelled his order.

After receiving the letter the artist went again to his favorite cafe and ordered a small bottle of wine to soothe him. On a nearby chair was the paper in which he had read of hard times two days before. He picked it up to read more closely and found it was two years old!

Canadians have permitted themselves to consider the announcement that 1000 persons have gone to the United States to be big news, whereas if one thousand get employment here in Canada it is considered of little importance.

Thus it is that little prominence has been given to the latest returns from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa which show that during May 20,500 workers were added to the payrolls of the country with the index number of employment rising to 91.8 compared with 89.3 in May, 1923; 83.3 in May, 1922; and 84.1 in May, 1921.

Trade figures, as represented in exports to the United States for the periods ending May 31 are as follows:

1924	429,265,000

Imports also show an increase, but not as great as the increase in exports. During the post war boom abnormally active business became the rule and everyone formed the habit of expecting constantly increasing wages and profits—forgetting the first law of economics that inflation must inevitably reduce buying power. If only income earners would base their conduct and family budget on a realization that not the number of units, but the purchasing value of each unit, governs their well being, how much better progress they would make.

For two years prices have been comparatively stabilized in Canada. Many persons, comparing the present with the abnormal boom conditions make the error of concluding that business is not what it should be. Business has been stabilized at a new normal somewhere halfway between the old pre-war average and the war-time peak. The pessimist is on the wrong side of the ledger.—Canadian Finance.

SENATE HEADED FOR OBLIVION

Unless the Canadian Senate abandons its present destructive attack on the branch line policy of the Canadian National Railways, that august body is going to be headed straight for oblivion.

Government ownership carries with it a pretty heavy curse, for the simple reason that under government ownership every parliamentary Tom, Dick and Harry seems to feel it his duty to periodically touch up the railway executive with the same misguided zeal that a poorly-trained herd dog goes for a cow's heels.

When Sir Henry Thornton took over the management of the C.N.R. he was assured that this governmental interference would not occur. This assurance seemed to take off part of the curse.

But now, the senate knowing nothing of railway matters, seeks to dig down even into the railway stamp box and render technical advice on every minute point. This is putting the curse on again in full force.

There are several thousand people in the west to whom a progressive branch line policy means bread and butter. And if the senate persists in knocking that bread and butter out of their fingers every time it starts on its way to their lips, this reactionary and stifling element in the Canadian governmental system will have to be removed.—Vancouver Sun.

The absentee vote makes the heart of the almost-elected candidate flutter with hope.

Campaign banners and posters after an election is over are about as exciting as the sawdust in a circus ring after the "big show" has moved to the next town.

A Chicago railroad has added a lounge and smoking car for women passengers to the equipment of its limited trains. The male passengers are not even permitted to watch their smoke.

CANADA'S WORST ADVERTISEMENT

The worst advertisement for the business sagacity of Canadians is the record of forest fires. What's the use of begging immigrants to throw in their lot with us, if we are such wretched housekeepers as to turn five million acres of timberland into charcoal and firewood as we did during the summer of 1923? Every immigrant on the farm is a prodigious user of forest materials. In fact three fourths of the timber cut in America is taken for farm purposes. If we outlaw the forest we outlaw the farm, a procedure that has taken place already in scores of Canadian districts. Seventy per cent of the farmers of Quebec get a substantial part of their livelihood from work in the woods. The length of life we guarantee to our forest estate is precisely the measure of the life of agriculture in Quebec, New Brunswick and a considerable portion of Ontario and British Columbia.

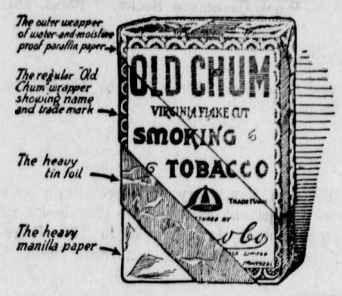
The public is absolute arbiter of the Forest. Whether we shall sweep down hill to bankruptcy or make the Forest redeem our war debt and put us on the highroad to prosperity depends on the deliberate decision of thousands of Canadians who, for work or play, enter the woods and leave a path of red flame behind them. Fire is the one abomination of the woods. It is the killer of industry, the exiler of workmen. Its ravages make the devastations of axemen seem paltry. It lays low ten trees to the axemen's one. It destroys not alone the tree but the soil and postpones for half a century the ability of an area to grow more trees of the kind we want.

Our public leaders are talking of population these days from the single point of view of vacant farm lands. The population problem does not end there. Eighty per cent of our habitable area in Canada is non-agricultural. If forest industries do not find a living there, that 80 per cent remains a No-Man's-Land forever. No other lure exists but the lure of standing timber. Furthermore, the farmer's working plant is derived from the forest and his production costs rise with lumber costs and lumber costs always carry an unseen percentage for foret fires. The late Sir Edmund Walker said shortly before his death that the greatest menace to the business future of Canada was the prevalence of forest fires and Sir Clifford Sifton has since declared that if the present rate of forest destruction continues we cannot avoid a heavy loss of population along with the industries and munilipalities subsisting upon forest manufactures.

The people of Canada own 85 per sent of the forest lands and at the same time are wiping off the ledger of national assets more than five million arres of forest lands a year. This is a day of rising forest valdes, when every district that possesses forests will pull to itself new industries, new population, based entirely upon the world scarcity of timber supplies.

A hundred years ago a forest fire was perhaps excusable but in 1924 the humanest conflagration is little short of treason. Hundreds of good fellows who would consider themselves blacklisted forever if they burnt down the Methodist Church on Main Street have yet to experience the first twinge of conscience when their campfire or cigarette sets ablaze a township of century-old spruce or pine.

POVERTY AND RICHES



By Walt Mason

Once I was poor as blazes, and no bundle was in sight; and I talked in bitter phrases of the poor man's grievous plight. I was living in a cottage, in a lonely weed-grown spot; there I ate my corn meal pottage and bewailed my frightful lot. Oh, my head was thick and sappy when I grumbled in my booth; I had reason to be happy, if I'd only seen the truth. For my poverty was noted all along the banks and braes, and no agents, silver-throated, came to talk for seven days. I was left to my devices by the men with junk to sell, and no salesman quoted prices, boosted gold bricks wildly well. Now I have the pound and shilling safely put away in brine, and the agents come a-drifting to this vine-clad door of mine. Year by year their watch they're keeping, for a chance to cop my stakes, and they rouse me when I'm sleeping, and they bore me when I wake. There's an agent at the casement, there's an agent at the door; in the coal hole, in the basement, there are agents twenty-four. They have heard I have a packet, that I have some coin to spare and they're all resolved to track it, and to drag it from its lair. There are agents in the kitchen, there are agents in the hall, and their divers hands are itchin' to acquire my bundle small; I am worn and broken-hearted, shooing agents from my shack, and I yearn for days deported, when I had no princely stack.

BOY SCOUTS GO TO MCBAIN'S

The Fernie troop of Boy Scouts are busily making all arrangements for their annual summer camp, which will commence on Friday, July 11, and promises to be one of the finest outings the boys have had since the formation of the troop some four years ago.

The total strength of the troop will be three officers, forty boys of the Fernie troop, fourteen from Michel, ten from Coal Creek, one from Elko and one from Baynes, making a grand total of 69, who will spend eleven days in one of Nature's beauty spots, McBain's Lake, 32 miles west of Fernie. This lake conforms to every ideal of scouting. It is well supplied by cool spring water, plenty of trees, plants, animal and bird life, for instruction and practice.

There will be two recognized visitor days during the camp. Sunday, July 13, will be official "Elks Day." The Brother Bills, who are generously giving $50 to the Scout Association to aid in financing the camp, will visit in a body to see for themselves that their investment is a good one and they are already going around among the many boy friends making quiet inquiries as to what they can bring out with them on their trip.

The Rotary Club, who have also notified the association that they are ready to give any financial assistance required, will forego their weekly luncheon next week in town and visit the Boy Scouts at McBain's Lake next Wednesday evening and hold their meeting and luncheon out there. Wednesday having been declared the official visitors' day at camp, it is also expected that a large number of the boys' parents and friends will avail themselves of the opportunity to visit camp.

The camp will be under the charge of Scoutmaster Donaldson of the Fernie troop, who will have the assistance of Assistant Scoutmasters Terry of Fernie and Hartley of Michel.

HOT WIRE FROM BANK DEPOSITORS TO PREMIER KING

Alberta Home Bank depositors demand that the government take some action to see that they are reimbursed, according to a telegram forwarded to Premier King by the Calgary branch Wednesday morning, signed by Chairman P. Harcourt-O'Reilly and Secretary J. B. Kidd. The wire follows:

"Understand press reports government will do nothing for Home Bank depositors. Alberta sentiment will not stand for this. Your government cannot afford to ignore clearly defined obligation. We insist on your reimbursing innocent depositors. This is only common justice."

Directors' Report for the year 1923:

To the Shareholders:

Your Directors for the year 1923 respectfully submit their 27th annual report, showing statement of the Company's Assets and Liabilities on the 31st day of December, 1923, accompanied by figures which show the Profit and Loss Account for the year ending on that date.

The operative returns from the subsidiary company, the Crow's Nest Pass Electric Light & Power Co., Ltd., were $9,695.25, and the Morrissey, Fernie & Michel Railway Co., $14,033.29, and in each case the earnings have been carried to reserve for depreciation. In addition to the preceding two items of earnings, there has been carried over from the Morrissey, Fernie & Michel Railway Co., $148.79 from the Liability Insurance adjustment, which makes a total of $23,877.33 earnings for these two companies, turned over to depreciation charges for the year.

During the year the Coal Company has spent on capital improvements $59,194.33; the Railway company $335.20.

The coal mined during the year amounted to 775,336.17 tons; coke production 65,990.07 tons; the improvement in production during the year of 1923 over the year of 1922 being accounted for by the year's operations being free from labor troubles.

All of which we respectfully submit.

The President's Address.

In moving the adoption of the report, I may take the liberty of reciting that at the Company Annual Meeting last year I stated that after five months of contention about the wages that should be paid for mine labor in this district, a temporary understanding was arrvied at between the United Mine Workers of America and the Operators of this district, to continue paying the 1921 high wage scale until March 31, 1924, which understanding was carried out in the belief of the Operators that at the expiration of the agreement on March 31, 1924, the leaders of the miners' organization would realize the necessity for agreeing to that form of adjustment in coal mining wages that would make it consistently possible for the industry to be carried on in a manner revelant to the claims and requirements of other basic industries, and transportation necessities, and thereby, in their foresight, help to do that which would both preserve the welfare of their own industry and help at the same time to foster, stimulate and encourage the transportation systems of the country to continue using coal as a motive force, instead of forcing such systems to use oils, and permanently plan for the use of electrical service power where it was possible to use such power. I am sorry to state that at this time, or some thirteen weeks after the expiration of the agreement, as herein referred to, those responsible for the union leadership and guidance of the men employed at the coal mines of the district, have not seen their way clear to give anything like deserving recognition to the claims or fundamentals that all claims for wages must naturally rest upon if industry in any form must prosper and continue to succeed.

I will now make a brief reference to the operations of 1923:

The coal production for the year was 775,336.17 tons.

Coal Creek mines, narrow work driven, 30,045 lineal feet.

Michel mines, narrow work driven, 17,105 lineal feet.

Total feet of coal development driven, 47,150 lineal feet.

The preceding figures indicating the developing work done during the year fully maintains the producing capacity of the mines at both camps for the year 1924. During the year we have, by the completion of two rock tunnels, developed No. 2 coal seam, which lies about 80 feet above the top No. 3 seam on the south side of the Creek at Michel, which bed of coal is about seven feet thick, and may be regarded as a good general coal suitable for domestic service, for steam service and a good coking coal. Some 2920 feet of devlopmnt work has been done in this coal seam during the year, thereby proving that the physical merits of the coal are adaptable to the purposes mentioned. The seam is now developed to a sufficient extent to produce 250 tons of coal per day, which production may, if the necessity arises for doing so, be increased each succeeding month at the rate of 50 tons per day, or at the end of six months steady operation, the production of this new mine may be raised to 550 tons per day. During the year the old permanent markets to the south of the line have been steadily depreciated through the high prices we have been compelled to charge for coal, through our continuing to pay high war time wages. Railroads, our chief consumers, are resorting more and more to the use of oil on account of the high cost of coal, and other local consumers of coal in the markets to the south are securing their supplies from mines that are operating at wages from 25 per cent to 40 per cent less than we have been paying here.

H. B. WRIGHT PASSES AWAY

The Daily Telegraph, published at Bluefield, West Virginia, contains the following article on the death of H. B. Wright, at one time chief engineer for the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., and well known to all the old timers in Fernie.

Herbert Bertrand Wright, prominently identified with the mining industry of South West Virginia and Southwestern Virginia for the past thirty years, died yesterday at his home in Pocahontas. Death occurred at 3 o'clock following an illness of twelve months from a complication of troubles for which he had sought relief in many prominent medical institutions throughout the country.

Each medical institution had returned Mr. Wright to his home without bettering his condition or thoroughly diagnosing his aliments. Mr. Wright's condition gradually failed and while it had been known for some time he could not get well yet the news of his death occasioned deep sorrow among his numerous friends and acquaintances in the two Virginias, where he has taken an active part in the development of the coal industry.

The funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence in Pocahontas. The funeral party will leave on train No. 8 and the remains will be taken to Cookshire, Quebec, to be buried at his old home place. Mr. Wright is survived by his widow and one brother, the latter being a resident of Canada.

The death of Herbert Bertrand Wright marks the passing of one of the biggest men of his profession in this country and Canada. He is noted among the leading men of his profession and was recognized as one of the outstanding characters in the professional engineering field. Mr. Wright was probably one of the best posted men on the great coalfields of this section, having been prominently identified with the industry since its early development in the two Virginias.

Mr. Wright was born June 18, 1863, at Bury, Quebec, and was the son of William and Ellen Stobridge Wright, Mr. Wright received his education in the public schools of Quebec and at Eaton Academy, at Eaton, Quebec. He was a naturalized citizen of the United States, having received his final papers in Tazewell county on May 31, 1916. His early career was devoted largely to engineering work on railroad construction and it was in pursuit of this branch of the engineering field which brought Mr. Wright in southern West Virginia for the first time. This wasin 1892, during the construction of the Ohio extension of the Norfolk and Western in McDowell county.

His first work in the coal mining industry was in 1893, when he was employed as supernitendent of construction and operation of a mine belonging to the Elk Ridge Coal and Coke Company in McDowell county. From 1918 up until the time of his death, Mr. Wright was the chief engineer in charge of all engineering features of the Pocahontas Fuel Company. Mr. Wright had a number of fraternal connections. He was a member of the following fraternities: American Institute of Mining and Mettallurgical Engineers, Canada Institute of Mining and Mettallurgical Engineers, Roanoke Consistory Ancient and Accepted Scottosh Rite, Temple A. A. O. N. M. S. of Roanoke; Friendship Lodge No. 66, [illegible], Quebec; Mercer Country Club and was president of the Excelsior By-Product Coal Company.

Mr. Wright's first work of any consequence was in 1883 when he was made a chairman on railroad location for the Canadian Pacific railway in Ontario, Canada. In 1884 he was assistant to the resident engineer in charge of construction of five mile stretch of the Canadian Pacific in Ontario. From 1885 to 1886 he was rodman on three mile section of construction for the Canadian Pacific near Revelstoke, British Columbia, Canada. From 1886 to 1887 he was assistant engineer in charge of a six mile section of snowshed construction near Glacier, British Columbit, Canada. In 1888 he was rodman, transitman and draughtsman on railroad construction in Piscataquis county, Maine, for the Candadian Pacific railway.

Mr. Wright in 1889 accepted a position as draughtsman on railroad location revision in Beauce county, Quebec, Canada, under Chas. A. Stones, and later that year was made chief of party engaged in exploratory survey work in Bonaventure and Gaspe counties, Quebec. Completing this work Mr. Wright came into the states and accepted a position as assistant engineer in charge of a twelve mile section of railroad construction in Newberry county, South Carolina, on the C. C. & C. railroad.

Mr. Wright then came to West Virginia for the first time and in 1892, under Wm. M. Hall, division engineer, accepted a position as assistant engineer on railroad location and construction on the Ohio extension of the Norfolk and Western railroad in McDowell county. From 1893 to 1895 he was employed as engineer and superintnedent in charge of construction and operation of mine belonging Elk Ridge Coal and Coke Company, of McDowell county and from 1896 to 1899 he was manager of the Peerless Coal and Coke Company, at Vivian. In 1902 Mr. Wright was the chief engineer in charge of surveys, prospecting, etc., on some 20,000 acres of coal lands for the Farady Coal & Coke Company, in McDowell and Tazewell counties for the H. C. Frick interests.

Completing this work Mr. Wright left this section and returned to Canada and from 1903 until 1905 he was chief engineer for the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company, at Fernie, B.C., Canada, having in charge all mining construction, development, etc. Mr. Wright returned to the states in 1906 to accept a position as chief engineer in charge of the Triangulation and Land Survey, prospecting and mining for the Clinchfield Coal Corporation, of Dante, Va. He remained at this work until August 31, 1907, when he accepted a position as engineer of the Tazewell division of the Pocahontas Collieries Company, having in charge the mining construction and development. Mr. Wright was engaged in this position until March 1, 1910,when he resigned to accept a position as chief engineer in charge of the mining department for the Tennessee Coal and Iron Railway Co., of Birmingham, Ala.

In 1912 Mr. Wright returned to Pocahontas and was employed as engineer on special work, having in charge mining construction and the application of mechanical specialties to coal mining for the Pocahontas Consolidated Colleries Company in Tazewell, McDowell and Mercer counties. He was engaged in this work until 1914 when he accepted a position as engineer of McDowell county in charge of location and construction of public highways. In 1918 he returned to Pocahontas and was made chief engineer in charge of all engineering features of the Pocahontas Fuel Company, which position he retained until death.

Orpheum Theatre—Wednesday, July 16th

BRANDING SCENE IN PICTURE THRILLS

One of the most strenuous scenes of her career!

This was the opinion of all who witnessed the filming of the branding episode in "The Cheat," starring Pola Negri, produced by George Fitzmaurice and which will be shown at the Orpheum theatre next Wednesday. Jack Holt was a featured role and Charles de Roche leads the supporting cast.

It was the latter, who played the scene with Miss Negri, and after it was over, both were exhausted by the strain, and several bruises testified to the realism injected into the dramatic action.

The episode shows de Roche in the role of a crook parading as a Hindu prince, branding the beautiful star on the shoulder with a tiger's head—denoting that she is his property. This is after she has become financially indebted to him and then tries to pay with money. He calls her a "cheat" and brands her. Later this brand saves her husband and her own peace of mind after she has shot the Hindu, and the burden of guilt is assumed by the husband, played by Mr. Holt.

The scene had to be made with every realistic touch to be effective; worked up to a high nervous tension. The two players went through several rehearsals, and finally "camera" was called. Then with redoubled intensity they proceeded to enact the situation which, on the screen, is said to be one of the most tremendous ever filmed.

LIGHTNING STRIKES HOME BANK ASSET

Toronto, July 7.—The Home bank has suffered many severe shocks, but the latest is to have one of its very good "special assets" struck by lightning. In the statement of assets and liabilities issued by the liquidators a loan of $1,143,334 is shown to the South New Orleans Light & Power company. Word reached Toronto today that a bolt of lightning struck right into the centre of the electric machinery, and at every point available electric explosions occurred, barely giving the employees time to get out of the power house. The loss is substantially covered by insurance.

The boats Vaudreuil and Papoonge, which came into possession of the liquidators of the Home bank through the British Dominion Investment corporation of Montreal, have been sold, it is understood, by the liquidators, and the price realized for them is about $50,000.

SEEKING LEADER FOR B. C. CONSERVATIVES

Ottawa, July 7.—A meeting of the British Columbia Conservative members of parliament was held here this morning when it was understood the leadership of the Conservative party in the Pacific coast province was discussed. No statement was made after the meeting.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie, organizer of the party, was questioned by the Canadian Press regarding a report that he was going to British Columbia in connection with a successor to Hon. W. J. Bowser, provincial leader, who was defeated in the recent elections. Dr. Tolmie said a trip to the coast was part of his plans, but it had nothing to do with the provincial leadership. He did not attend this morning's meeting of Conservative members and could not say whether his name had been mentioned in connection with the leadership.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

NEW FEDERAL BOND ISSUE

A good deal of interest is being displayed by Canadians in the issue of Victory Loan Bonds which matures next fall. To meet these bonds, the government, of course, will float a new bond issue, just as was done last fall to meet the Victory Loan Bonds which matured on Dec. 1st, 1923.

The principal point around which interest centres is whether the new issue of bonds will be offered to Canadian investors or whether the government will sell the bonds in the United States. Investment brokers in the latter country were eager to purchase the Refunding Loan Bonds last fall, and it is reported that they are equally eager to purchase the new issue which will be made some time during the present year.

The general impression in well-informed circles seems to be that the new loan should be offered to Canadian investors. There will be $107,000,000 paid off this year to those who hold the maturing bonds, and unless the government offers an immediate channel for sound reinvestment, it is highly probable that a good deal of this money will reach the hands of unscrupulous promoters of one sort and another and that we in Canada will experience an unprecedented era of speculation. Furthermore, unless money is quickly reinvested there is a natural tendency to spend it needlessly.

A second factor in the situation is the desirable element of national independence insofar as financial requirements are concerned. For many years, Canada relied largely upon capital from other countries, principally Great Britain and the United States, for the financing of her governments, municipalities and corporations. The War Loan and Victory Loan campaigns, however, taught us that we were well able to do the bulk of this financing ourselves, and it should be a source of national pride to know that Canada is no longer dependent upon a foreigner's purse for her financial needs.

As to the ability of Canadian investors to provide money to buy the new bonds which will probably be issued soon, it might be pointed out that savings deposits in the chartered banks have increased by about $33,000,000 since last September. This increase has taken place in spite of the fact that a Dominion Loan of $200,000,000 was sold in Canada last fall. Loans to United States by Canadian banks are also increasing each month and this seems to indicate that there are plenty of funds available for our own domestic requirements.

In this connection, it is also interesting to know that our balance of trade is heavily in favor of Canada. In other words, we export more goods than we import. In this way, we bring large sums of new money into Canada, for which of course we sell agricultural, mineral and manufactured products. It would be unfortunate if the profit from the sale of these goods had to be sent to another country in the form of interest upon Dominion government bonds. If last year's Dominion Government refunding loan had been offered in the United States, we would now be paying $10,000,000 each year in interest to United States investors, instead of paying it to investors in Canada. In addition, we would have to pay the exchange premium upon American funds.

Regarding this question of keeping money at home, by borrowing from our own investors and buying Canadian made goods, the following statement once made by Abraham Lincoln is very interesting:

"I don't know much about tariffs but I do know this: When we import goods, we get the goods and the foreigner gets the money to distribute in employment among his people as well as a profit for himself. If we make these goods here, we get the goods, we get our people employed and all the money and the profit stays in this country."

An apt paraphrase of this might be:

"I don't know much about international finance, but I do know this: If Canada borrows abroad, the interest goes each year to foreigners and eventually the principal has to be paid back to them, but when we borrow from our own people all the interest stays here to be spent among our own people to maintain employments, and to contribute towards the prosperity of the nation as a whole."

The simple, sure way to keep that schoolgirl complexion

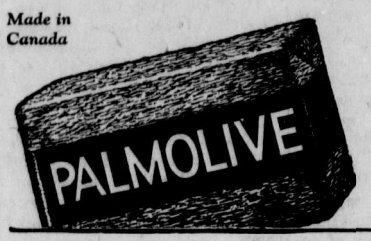
Youthful complexions are becoming the rule—even in middle life and later years. For millions now follow a simple rule—a method you, too, may easily employ.

Do this at night

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.



The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

All dealers carry Palmolive Soap. Try it for just one week. See how it does improve your skin. Note well the name and wrapper. Palmolive is never sold unwrapped.

Costs so little that you may enjoy it for the bath also.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

THE first conclusion at which one arrives in the consideration of the ideal newspaper is that there is no such animal.

No newspaper can be ideal when it features the salacious scandal, the risque, the immoral in our imperfect life. The portrayal of crime in detail, the obsequious deference to beauty in the convict, the labored effort to bring out intimate facts that have no bearing on the crime—none of these are ideal and they all contribute to that certain psychology which leads to moral delinquency and crime. The country newspaper is singularly free from this morbid and unworthy attitude. It is, on the whole, admirably clean. It rarely invades the privacy of the individual or the senctity of the home. The metropolitan press is growing more and more away from those high ideals of newspapering handed down as legacies from the distinguished gentlemen of old-school journalism.

TO the young man who looks forward to mastering a trade it can be suggested that the heads of industrial enterprises are nearly all men who started at the bottom of the ladder and know the details of the business from its foundations. Every successful contractor has probably worked at the bench as a carpenter or with the trowel as a bricklayer. In this democratic country the man working at a trade is eligible to the highest positions of trust and honor.

The so-called "white collar jobs" often keep a man tied to a minor desk all his life while the young fellow who has mastered a trade rises above him into a position or independence. The workers who use their hands are also allowed to use their heads, in Canada, and the combination brings success and often fame to the ambitious and enterprising.

Nelson News: The little two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Whimster had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock when an automobile driven by N. Mallette of the Lakeview hotel struck the carriage in which the little girl was being wheeled across Baker street by her young nursemaid. The auto driver had proceeded down Baker street to Stanley and was making a complete turn around the silent policeman at the intersection of Baker and Stanley streets. As he rounded the button, the carriage in charge of the nursemaid and containing the child started across the street. Fortunately the car was moving very slowly, and when the buggy was within two feet of the sidewalk it was struck. The front wheel of the heavy car passed over the buggy in which the baby was riding, crushing it severely. The child was grabbed up by Mr. Maddock of the Hudson's Bay Co. staff, before the rear wheels of the car reached it. The baby was rushed to the office of Drs. Rose and MacKenzie, where upon examination it was found that, outside of a few bruises the young child was not badly hurt. Mr. Mallette, the car driver, remained on the scene until the child was taken home by Mr. Whimster, who had been called to the scene of the accident. The baby's buggy was damaged beyond repair. Needless to say, the young lady in whose charge little Miss Whimster was, was very badly frightened. Few people witnessed the accident.

ALBERTA COAL AND ONTARIO

(Calgary Herald)

Toronto Saturday Night discusses with its usual sanity and clearness, the question of a supply of Alberta coal for Ontario consumers. It rightly says the three factors that enter into it are freight costs, operators' profits and miners' wages.

The actual cost of hauling coal by trainload lots from this province to Ontario has never been accurately ascertained. If the railway companies know it, they have never made the information public. Ontario has suggested that two solid trains of our coal be hauled to the east to determine the exact cost per ton. If that is found to be less than $7 per ton the Ontario government will pay the Canadian National $7. If the cost is found to be more than $7, the suggestion is that the Dominion government pay the difference. Thus the public, as well as the railways, would know what the actual cost would be.

It is agreed that the railways should not be asked to carry Alberta coal to Ontario at less than cost, but to ask that the national line definitely ascertain what that cost is, and then haul Canadian coal to Canadian consumers at that rate, would not be unreasonable.

On the subject of price at the mine, the Toronto Saturday Night says:

"Alberta coal operators must keep in mind the fact that economy of operation will have much to do with either the success or failure of this venture. They cannot expect to get the top price for their product and still have it supplant Pennsylvania coal in the Ontario market, particularly at this time, when the coal trade of the United States is at sixes and sevens—in fact, utterly demoralized, owing to over production. An insight into this situation can be gathered from the fact that the best United States coal, other than anthracite, and Pocahontas coal from Virginia, is being sold at the present time in the Winnipeg market at $13 per ton, and further, that the same coal has made its way so far west as points in Saskatchewan."

The mine price is of course largely fixed by the wage scale. That this has been high in Alberta, in comparison with other Canadian mining areas and in comparison with non-union districts, is a matter of record.

When the eastern paper says that Alberta "must straighten out its labor problems," and that "the wage scale cannot continue at absurd heights," it is only saying what is well recognized in this province. Toronto Saturday Night makes the surprising statement that it attempted to get from various public bodies in Alberta, statements for publication as to labor conditions in the Alberta coal fields, but failed. The Herald does not know from whom that information was requested, but the Calgary Board of Trade is one well informed organization that would not have hesitated to advise any responsible party of the knowledge in its possession.

One thing is certain. That is, that if the wage rate that has lately been paid has to continue, not only will the Ontario market be lost to Alberta mines, but the Manitoba and part of the Saskatchewan market as well. Instead of supplying a national demand, the coal mines of this province will supply only a local demand. Employment will dwindle through lack of demand for Alberta coal.

Fred Spalding, publicity commissioner, is away this week visiting the different towns interested in the Tourist Association. The tourist traffic is beginning to pick up. A large number are passing through Fernie every day.

A very interesting exhibition of football was given on the north end grounds on Sunday evening last, when the G.W.V.A. eleven matched skill with the West Fernie Bluebirds. After a hard fought game the Bluebirds retired with the odd and only goal scored in the game.

The Catholic church rectory was the scene of a quiet and pretty wedding on Wednesday, July 10, when Miss Annie Cartmell, of Coal Creek, was united in holy matrimony to Mr. Walter McKay, of Michel. Mrs. Wm. Fowler supported the bride, while Wm. Fowler filled the position of best man. The happy couple left on the G.N. train for Spokane.

Two new passenger cars for the M. F. & M. arrived last week from the Edwards Motor Car Co., North Carolina. They are gasoline propelled, with seating capacity for sixty passengers. They are elaborately furnished with toilets, drinking fountains and hot air gas heaters. The trial runs on the hill to Coal Creek have proven fairly satisfactory. A trial run to Michel was made on Wednesday, the journey being accomplished in quick time.

FIRST CO-OPERATIVE WHOLESALE SOCIETY

The railway Y.M.C.A. at Cranbrook was the scene of a historic gathering on June 25, when representatives of the co-operative stores at Fernie, Natal, Erickson and Cranbrook met in conference and decided to incorporate the first Co-Operative Wholesale Society in Western Canada. Letters were read from several other societies, including Lethbridge and Nelson, and it is expected that at least a dozen societies will, at an early date, be included in the new organization.

The conference was essentially a business meeting, the directors and managers of the different societies meeting as one board to consider how, by acting together, they could increase the efficiency and service of the co-operative movement and bring the producers and consumers closer together.

J. H. Cameron, President, Cranbrook, welcomed the delegates, and G. L. Ingram, Secretary, Cranbrook, was voted to the chair. Mr. Van Eckeren, secretary of the Creston Co-Operative Exchange, introduced an interesting discussion on the relations between consumers co-operatives and the fruit growers and other farmers' organizations.

Harvey Smith reported for the Managers' Committee appointed by the Fernie conference. The committee found that by concentrating buying on certain lines and with particular houses, considerable saving could be made, and that this end could best be attained through a wholesale organization. It was not intended at the start to incur any expense nor to open a separate warehouse, but to do business through the manager of one of the existing stores, all the managers working together and co-operating in buying and, wherever possible, pooling their orders. The wholesale would also be a means of affiliating the different societies, standardizing methods of organization and business and avoiding loss and failure. It was hoped that similar local organizations would be formed in other parts of B.C. and Alberta, thus leading the way to provincial and national organization.

It was decided to incorporate as the "A. B. C. Co-operative Wholesale Society," with the following objects:

a. To promote collective buying by retail co-operative societies; to carry on the business of wholesalers, brokers and agents, and in particular to buy, sell, manufacture and deal in goods, stores, consumable articles, chattels and effects of all kinds.

b. To protect and assist co-operative societies and to promote the extension of co-operative organization.

The small measure of success of co-operative societies in the West is largely due to their isolation. One of the main objects of the new organization is to affiliate societies suitably located with regard to transportation, so that they may work together for mutual protection and assistance.

G. G. MOFFATT

PERILS OF THE BATHTUB

The opposition of the medical profession to the bathtub, when it was first introduced into this country, was possibly more farsighted than one would be inclined to think. The Japanese, it will be noted, have always considered bathtubs unclean utensils, and experiments reported by Katherine Hirst and Jean Broadhurst, of Teachers' College, New Work, in The Nation's Health, tend to confirm this opinion, at least in cases where tubs are used by a considerable number of persons without chemical cleansing between times. The experiments recommended the free use of chlorinated lime, or better still the substitution of the shower bath. Many people, the writers say, are willing to substitute the more stimulating shower for the morning tub, but at night most people prefer the more soothing and relaxing effects of the warm tub bath. There are, however, strong arguments for replacing bathtubs by showers in dormitories, boarding houses, and probably in a large percentage of private homes. This is indicated by the study already described, undertaken to test the persistence of characteristic body organisms. We read further:

"Since Bacterium coli is a constant and prominent inhabitant of the human intestines, it was selected as an indicative organism in this study of the bathtub problem. Its persistence would not necessarily prove the survival of definite disease organisms, but we, as a nation, would instinctively object to using a tub we knew held such traces of previous occupancy.

The bathtubs studied were dormitory tubs, used by groups of eight or ten people each. The bathtub samples were obtained by rubbing a fresh cotton swab in three places on each tub. Each swab was placed immediately in a fermentation tube. On incubating two or three days, some of the tubes showed the well-known Bacterium coli reaction.

"In all 113 bathtubs were tested in this way. Of these, 39 were found to give positive Bacterium coli findings.

"This shows that at least one-third of the bathtubs were not thoroughly cleaned between periods of use. The following statements may be made:

"1. As many positive results were obtained from bathtubs that were dry as from wet bathtubs.

"2. The bottom and edge of the drain, which are the slowest places to become dry, show the highest per cent of Bacterium coli findings.

"3. No relationship existed between the results obtained and the eye classifications of the tubs as 'clean' or 'dirty.'

"4. No definite figures were obtained with regard to time intervals since occupancy, because the bathtubs were used irregularly throughout the day as well as during the rush hours at night and morning.

"1. Since Bacterium coli is so frequently found in bathtubs, other organisms that are definitely pathogenic may be transferred through the indiscriminate use of bathtubs, especially where very short intervals elapse between the times when the tub is in use, as in more rushed morning and evening hours.

"2. Special investigations are necessary regarding the methods of cleaning bathtubs.

"Various cleansing agents and disinfectants were tried out. Ammonia failed to kill the organisms in 16 out of 16 trials. Kerosene tested five minutes after application failed to kill the organisms in four out of four tests; when tested 15 minutes after application, kerosene failed in three out of four tests.

"Chlorinated lime, as obtained at ordinary grocery stores in small tin boxes gave very good results, when used as a powder or in freshly made saturated solutions. Tests made five minutes after each application showed that the Bacterium coli was killed in 12 out of 12 trials.

"Neither of two commercial disinfectants was effective in the dilution advertised, though each killed Bacterium coli in one minute when the solution was twice as strong as the one recommended.

"The domestic cleansing agents (two frictional and one chemical) were quite unsatisfactory.

"In all 176 tests were made with eight common disinfecting and cleaning agents.

"Chlorinated lime is the most satisfactory of the agents tested for home and institutional use, both because of its low cost and the rapidity with which it acts. Since stock solutions are effective for seven days, an ordinary five-cent can could be dissolved in a quart of water and kept in a corked jar or bottle for use during the entire week. There is probably no addition to the cleaning and disinfecting substances used in the home so well worth the money and the slight amount of labor required.

"It is recommended, therefore, that:

"1. Bathtubs in boarding houses, hotels, dormitories, etc., should be washed thoroughly with chlorinated lime after use, or at least five minutes preceding filling.

GIVE US A PLACE TO PLAY

"Git out," yells the cop, "'r I'll soon put a stop
To y'r nerve-rackin' din, by runnin' you in.
You won't play on the street when I'm on the beat,
So chase yourself hence. Git away from that fence."
An' th' cop, he's the law, an' we've got to obey,
But he don't tell us what 'r where we can play.
"Git out," yells the men when we kick his ash can;
Then he calls us vile toughs, and villains and roughs,
An' names if I said, would knock mother dead.
We all run our might to get out of his sight,
An' bump into people who kick us away,
An' growl, but don't mention a place we can play.

"Git out of my way," yells a man with a dray,
As he nearly runs down my chum Billy Brown.
He raises his whip, and then all of us skip,
But we only change streets, for where else can we go,
To escape cops and drivers, does anyone know?

If you were a lad, didn't mean to be bad,
Had no place to meet except in the street,
No place to play ball, 'r "tagger" at all,
No place just to yell, when you're feelin' real well,
Now, honest and true, what on earth would you do?
Why, you'd swear and make bets, and smoke cigarettes;
You'd gamble an' fight, and throw stones just for spite,
You'd try to live down to the names you were named;
An' you'd lie, with the gang, without feelin' ashamed.

Good friends of ours, we want to do right,
But try as we will, it's a hard uphill fight.
We'd rather play ball in a place where we dare
Than skulk near a corner an' gamble and swear.
We'd rather climb ladders and act on a bar,
It's up to you, friends. Come, please don't delay,
But give us a playground where we can play.

THE EVEREST TRAGEDY

The latest attempt to climb Mount Everest, attended with such tragic failure in the loss of two of the most prominent members of the expedition, has at least been successful in reaching a height never hitherto attained by man in mountaineering. Members of the expedition won their way to 28,000 feet. It is possible that Messrs. Mallory and Irvine before they died ascended even higher, but, according to the stories told by Colonel Norton and Dr. Somerville, their last fight to win the topmost peak is shrouded in mystery. It is possible even that they were successful. They were the two members of the expedition to make the final assault. The last heard from them was that they were going "exceedingly strong," and then the veil of silence fell. That they perished is taken for granted. The only likely explanation of the tragedy, writes Colonel Norton, is that there are mountaineering accidents unconnected with questions of the weather or the use of oxygen. The added tragedy of the happening lay in the fact that the surviving members of the party were stopped from making any search of any duration for the missing men. The weather was extremely threatening and condition on the mountain appeared to be about as bad as they could be. Other lives had to be considered but even under the best of circumstances it is doubtful if anything could have been done to find the missing men, dead or alive.

Dr. Somerville relates the difficulties experienced after a height of 27,500 feet had been reached. It was necessary to take three or four breaths for every step lower down, but at the higher altitude seven and eight were found hardly sufficient. There was a rest of a minute or two at every twenty or thirty yards. Dr. Somesville had to give in at 28,000 feet, but Colonel Norton struggled on, though after struggling for an hour it is said he had not ascended eight feet farther. It was then realized that a successful issue to the fight was impossible, so far as these two members of the expedition were concerned and they reluctantly yielded. The story, when it is told in all its details, will prove an epic of mountain climbing. It was indeed the most glorious of failures in modern exploration and, because of the almost insuperable difficulties encountered, it is possible that it will prevent future expeditions for a long time to come. In these respects, however, man's spirit is unconquerable and Mount Everest will yet be climbed.—Colonist.

THE APPROACH OF MARS

On August 23 next, Mars will make one of its closest approaches to the earth within the present century. The two planets will be separated by about 35,000,000 miles, which is, cosmically speaking, a mere trifle. Mars is not actually our nearest planetry neighbor in space, as Venus on occasion comes as close as 26,000,000 miles. But on these occasions the dark side of Venus is turned toward us, and we can see nothing; while Mars at closest approach, is fully illuminated. As a consequence we know much more about Mars than about Venus. Mars is considerably smaller than the earth. Its diameter is about 4,260 miles, and its volume less than two-tenths that of the earth. Compared to our cloud-laden planet, Mars may well be described as a world of blue skies and bright sunshine. And this despite the fact that at a distance of about 40 million miles farther from the sun than the earth, it receives considerably less light and heat than we do. The question presents itself to us whether the planet is inhabited by any forms of life. Vegetation we know exists there. Do animals? Do beings akin to man? These are questions to which no definite answer can be returned. All we can say with certainty is that there seems no reason why such a world should not be inhabited.

KILLING OFF THE FIRST-BORN

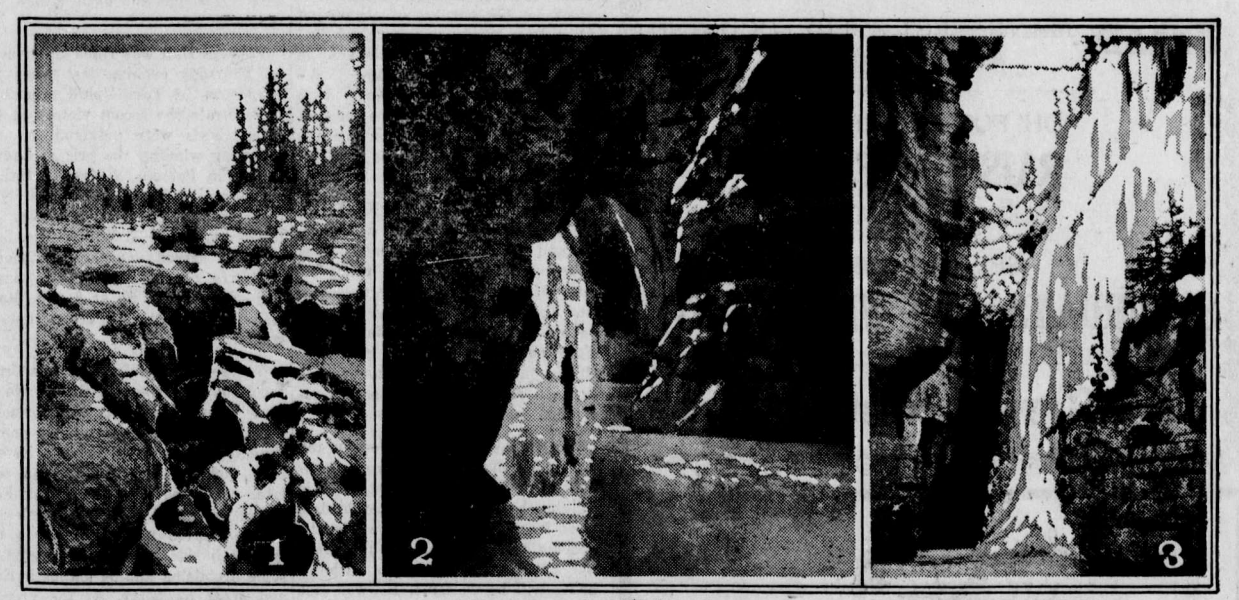
Another homicidal flurry in Russia is reported in the news. Another batch of educated Russians has gone before the executioner for the simple reason that it had dared to wonder if, after all, the Bolshevist system was best; if, without some definite capitalistic basis, Russia could do business with the world.

During the 30 years' war of the 17th century the best Anglo-Saxon blood in Germany was killed off. The fine, big flaxen-haired Anglo-Saxon type was decimated, leaving the stubby Alpine type in the majority.

Russia seems to be doing the same thing now. She is wasting her best blood in revolutionary skirmishes and pressing her best heads to the block. By trying to force a political idea on an unwilling public, her leaders are creating a situation in which it will take years for Russia to recover the best in art, literature, dancing, singing and business ability.

The God of the Israelites only brought the Egyptians to their senses by killing off their "first-born." Russia, probably, will only come to her senses when her "first-born" too, are gone.—Vancouver Sun.

DOING AWAY WITH SLEEP



It is with mixed feelings that one learns of the discovery by an English scientist of a process which will do away with the need of sleep. During sleep the weary brain cells are recharged with vital force, which is electro-chemical in character. Dr. David Fraser Harris has devised an apparatus for recharging the brain-cells with the vital force of the requisite quantity and quality. So it may be that, in the near future, we shall be able to dispense with sleep, and obtain in a few minutes all the recuperative benefit which mankind has heretofore gained by "drinking deep of all the blessedness of sleep."

Time can thus be saved—but how much would be lost! For sleep is not desirable and desired only because it recharges the brain cells. It brings merciful oblivion to the woes and troubles of life. It stays hasty and ill-considered action, and prepares the way for the wise second thought. Not alone in a physical sense is it "tired Nature's sweet restorer." For many other reasons do most of us feel like echoing the sentiment of Sancho Panza, "God bless the man who first invented sleep."

Somehow we are compelled to doubt if the scientific substitute for sleep will ever replace the real thing, even if it were to prove as effective as its discoverer hopes. It may be used in emergencies, to enable people to keep going when they are fagged out and have no time to sleep. But Nature's ways are the best.

ONE OF NATURE'S WONDERS

The Devil's Potholes — Entrance to Cave, Maligne Canyon — The Canyon in Winter

MALIGNE CANYON, in Jasper National Park, is one of the natural wonders of the entire Rocky Mountain region. A vast cleft in the solid rock, reaching a depth of some 200 feet, and so narrow in places that one may step across it easily, draws from the tourist expressions of awe and wonder at the power of accumulated forces of water.

Tumbling headlong down the narrow gorge goes the Maligne River, mysterious as to its source and for part of its length a subterranean stream, on its way to join the quieter waters of the Athabasca far below. At times on its passage through the narrow gorge, it tumbles more than one hundred feet in a sheer drop, its eddies being churned to foam as the waters beat a tattoo against the rocky sides of the canyon on their downward leap.

From the footbridges which span the narrow gash in the solid rock, tourists watch entranced the effect of the waters on the rocky sides. Here and there, seemingly tired of the effort to stand upright through the centuries, the sides of the gorge appear to have leaned toward one another, until an intervening rock cast itself into the narrow space and held the walls apart. Trunks of trees and jutting rocks form footbridges across the chasm a hundred feet below the tourists' feet, as they stand admiring the glint of the noon-day sun upon the falling water.

Maligne Canyon is a mecca for visitors to Jasper Park Lodge the splendid log-cabin hostelry of the Canadian National Railways, and rightly so, for there are few natural rock formations to equal in interest those found in the canyon.

The Devil's Potholes, curious indentations in the solid rock over which the Maligne River flowed before the Canyon was worn to its present depth, are holes worn deep in the surface rock by the action of swirling flood waters, when a large stone has been whirled round and round in an untiring circle until the stone itself was worn small and round, and deep circular holes have been ground into the surface of the rock, remaining as mute testimony to the power of rushing waters.

Maligne Canyon, while one of the most wonderful formations to be found in the Rocky Mountains, is but one of the many natural attractions of Jasper National Park. In addition there are the snow-capped peaks on every side; the glaciers of Mount Edith Cavell and the mountains surrounding Maligne Lake, the Hoodoos of the Cavell motor highway and hundreds of others. Wild animal life is abundant, and the calm peace of the out-of-doors is assured to the tired holiday-seeker.

And in addition to the natural beauties of the Park, a commodious log cabin bungalow hotel; with excellent cuisine and all the comforts of the modern city hotel, provides a starting point from which parties may radiate by motor or pack-horse or afoot to travel by motor road or pack trail into the very heart of the wilderness. It was the addition of the comforts and conveniences of Jasper Park Lodge to the beauties of Jasper National Park which caused one noted American traveller to exclaim: "At last, I have found the place, where God and man go fifty-fifty to produce perfection."

CAMPAIGN FUNDS

In times of political stress one often hears it remarked that elections are not won with prayers. The meaning is that something much more tangible is needed. Money is required to pay travelling erpenses, to hire halls, to advertise and to pay for the publication of campaign literature. All these expenses are perfectly legitimate. They are incurred at least ostensibly in the public interest, but directly the public does not meet them. The money comes from that rather mysterious source known as campaign funds.

British Columbia is close enough to an election to remember that campaign funds are necessary. A couple of weeks ago it was hearing quite a lot about them. It is probably far enough from another election to go thoroughly into the question, if it will, and insist that the veil of secrecy be torn from campaign funds and that the matter be brought entirely out into the open.

In this country, in the United States and in Great Britain, the manner in which we raise the money to pay for our elections is the least creditable phase of our politics. We are suffering in British Columbia from the burden of the P.G.E. debt, and each of the older political parties blames the other for the load. It is well known that the promoters of the P. G. E. contributed very heavily to campaign expenses in this province, and that the war chests of both parties were replenished from this source. No one believes the railway promoters were disinterested. They wanted something. They paid a few hundred thousand and now the people of the province are paying millions.

In the United States the Teapot Dome enquiry showed that wealthy oil operators were in the habit of contributing to the campaign funds of both parties and that they expected a quid pro quo. Recent investigations in connection with the Home Bank in Ontario and the Dominion Iron & Steel Company, in Newfoundland have made plain the evils arising from secret contributions to party funds. In England there were scandals a few years ago over the alleged sale of titles to secure money for campaign purposes, and only a few weeks ago Mr. Stanley Baldwin pointed out that an entirely false relationship had grown up between parliamentary candidates and their constituencies. The constituencies had come to expect their politics to be financed for them and few candidates but those possessed of wealth or backed by some interest or other could hope to succeed.

To put it bluntly, campaign funds, under the system which has grown up and which is condoned by the public are made up of sums paid for the purpose of bribery. The party which gets the money is expected to give some return in the matter of contracts or offices, or by the enactment of legislation or the failure to enact legislation as the case may be. We regard it as reprehensible for an individual to accept a bribe or to sell his vote or his influence for money. Why should it be less reprehensible for a party to do this? Why should venality be condemned in the case of a public official and condoned in the case of a political party?

There is no doubt party organizations are valuable. They rouse, educate and direct public opinion. To quote Lord Bryce: "They bring order out of the chaos of a multitude of voters." Though they seem to act in their own interest they act in the long run in the interests of the public. And they need money if they are to function properly. Why should they be not only allowed but encouraged and even compelled to seek this money from hidden sources? Why should they be forced to do things which smirch their reputation and discredit them in the eyes of the public? This money is spent for public purposes. Indirectly and ultimately, it is admitted the public will pay; and usually, experience has shown, it pays many fold. Why should it not recognize the situation, see that campaign expenses are limited to those that are strictly legitimate and make them a public charge? We should at least know then what we are paying and what we are paying for.—Vancouver Province.

ELDER STATESMEN

At a meeting of the Committee of Imperial Defense, presided over by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, four former prime ministers of Great Britain sat around the table. Lloyd George Lord Balfour, Mr. Asquith and Mr. Baldwin. There might have been a fifth, but the weight of years is lying heavy on Lord Rosebery and he has long ceased to take any part in public affairs.

During the past century and a quarter Britain has never been without an ex-premier. Usually there has been two or three of them. During many premierships there have been four and several times five, as now. It is doubtful, however, if on any previous occasion five men who have reached the highest political office in the gift of the people, have met to discuss questions of moment to the Empire. It is one of the defects of party government that through its working much of the experience achieved in public life is rendered unavailable for the use of those in charge of the administration. A party, after learning as much as possible about government, at the expense of the people, quite often goes out of office and a new set of men come in and have to start at the bottom to learn, again at the expense of the people.

When the Canadian Senate was created it was hoped to make it an advisory and, like the Senate of ancient Rome, a more or less judicial body composed largely of elder statesmen whose experience would, in this way, be rendered available at all times to the state. But the Senate has not developed according to plan. When it is not subservient to the party in power it is usually a mere partisan counterweight, and there is little of the advisory or judicial quality about it. In Great Britain the creation of the Imperial Defense Committee, a non-partisan body, devoted to the larger affairs of Empire, seems to be a very substantial step in the right direction.—Province.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA

Though pessimistic talk is at all times rampant in any country, the optimist has the best of the argument in British Columbia. Considering the youth of the province, remarkable progress has been made and the development bound to occur during the next ten years will be the talk of the commercial world. The Pacific province has been especially blessed by a beneficent Creator, and here are found all the essentials for success. This year will be the biggest tourist year in history and more and more people are coming to British Columbia to spend their holidays. Climate, scenery and other attractions are all that could be asked and transportation facilities are exceptionally good.

The roads of British Columbia are being improved rapidly and credit is given to the department of public works for a road program that must place this province in the front rank. During this year many miles of new highways are to be constructed and the splendid system of roads will play a very important part in the successful development of British Columbia.

The annual report of the department of mines, just released for distribution, is a gratifying one. The value of the mineral production in British Columbia in 1923 was $41,304,320, as compared with $38,158,843 for 1922. The minister predicts that 1924 will be a big year.

Here and There

In response to the appeal of the University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Que., for $500,000, to meet present needs, the Canadian Pacific Railway has supported the plea by subscribing $15,000 to the fund.

Canada will soon be the mecca of many moving picture directors, according to Herbert Brenon, producer for Thomas Meighan, who recently arrived at Banff to film the big outdoor scenes for James Oliver Curwood's "The Alaskan."

The fish catch of the world approximates $1,000,000,000 a year in its cost to the consumer, of which $780,000,000, goes to those who harvest it, statistics furnished by the United States Fish Commission declare.

The value of the tourist traffic to Canada is proved by figures supplied by the Parks Department of the Dominion Government, which show that the enormous sum of $136,000,000 was spent by tourists in this country in 1923. This represents the Dominion's fourth largest source of foreign cash income.

On her arrival at Quebec, June 14, the Canadian Pacific steamship "Empress of France" broke the record for the fastest time made between that port and Southampton, England, from which she sailed, having maintained an average speed of over 19 knots. This vessel also holds the record for the run between Quebec and Liverpool.

Arrangements for the Pageant of Empire, to be held at the British Empire Exhibition July 21-August 30, are now rapidly completing. Episodes showing the history of Canada and the other Dominions as well as of the Mother Country from the earliest times to the present day are being organized with the assistance of prominent residents of the Dominion now in London.

Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries for the Province of Quebec, on his return from a recent extensive trip to the Temiscaming district of that province, stated that there were over 2,000 prospectors exploring the gold-fields of Quebec and at least a million dollars would be expended in development work in the region during the course of the season.

According to figures prepared by the freight department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the export grain movement via Vancouver reached a total of 48,971,930 bushels on May 31, 1924, compared with a total of 17,387,715 bushels as on May 31, 1923. In each instance the figures cover the crop year commencing September 1st. The increase is therefore 31,584,215 bushels or 181.5 per cent.

Enthusiastic celebrations took place at Vancouver and Victoria, B.C., when the special service squadron of the Royal Navy, headed by H.M.S. Hood, the largest warship in the world and flagship of the squadron, visited those places recently. The squadron is expected on the Atlantic seaboard in August, when efforts will be made by Canadians on that coast to outdo the Pacific cities in the warmth of the welcome they extend. The anticipations are that thousands of visitors will gather at Quebec and elsewhere to demonstrate their affection for the officers and men of the fleet.

After carrying the peak load of enthusiasm and excitement for several days it may require a few days to get down to business as usual.

CHICAGO MURDERERS MUST HANG

Another kidnapping plot, this time against the young son of Senator Medill McCormick, has been added to the orgy of kidnapping efforts that has arisen in Chicago since the murder of young Franks by Leopold and Loeb.

This exploit of these two criminals, instead of horrifying and disgusting the criminal element in Chicago, has apparently only encouraged the underworld to emulate it.

And the only thing that can reverse the influence of the Franks murder is the execution of the two who committeed it.

Unless the Chicago courts prove beyond shadow of doubt that the wages of sin are inevitably death, Chicago is going to become a hotbed of criminal infection that will threaten the moral and physical security of the whole North American continent. —Vancouver Sun.

COAL CREEK NOTES

Ed. Shimmins leaves tomorrow for his old home at Whitehaven, Cumberland, Eng.

The report around camp that there was to be a dance in the Club Hall on Wednesday night proved to be a hoax. Keen disappointment was felt.

The local Boy Scouts left today for McBain's Lake for their annual camp.

Bill Young, of this camp, proved to be the tit-bit of the evening at the Uphill celebration held in Fernie. His clever imitation of the renowned Harry Lauder received great appreciation. His monologue on the doings of the famous 107th on the Plains of Morrissey was a scream.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Hartley are back again in camp, having returned from Kimberley.

The marriage of Miss Annie Cartmell to Mr. Walter McKay, of Michel, which took place on Wednesday in Fernie, came as a big surprise to the residents here.

After carrying the peak load of enthusiasm and excitement for several days it may require a few days to get down to business as usual.

QUOTA IMMIGRANTS TO UNITED STATES

The American Consul at Fernie informs us that to date no allotments have been received by him from any of the Quota Control Officers in Canada. Until such allotments arrive he is not authorized to grant visas to Europeans who desire to emigrate to the United States. The allotments are expected in the course of the next two weeks.

In the present situation the Consul can grant visas only to native born Canadians (or Americans naturalized in Canada), their wives and children. and such only should visit the Consulate without previous correspondence. Irrespective of the length of their residence in Canada, Europeans desirous of migrating to the United States should first write the Consul and make arrangements with him before proceeding to Fernie.

Every day Europeans are being halted at the International boundary and returned to Fernie for visas. These they are at present unable to secure because, as stated above, the quota is not yet open.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA LOSES TO CANUCKS

Adelaide, South Australia, July 10.—By a score of three goals to nothing the Canadian all-star soccer football team triumphed over South Australia this afternoon. The teamwork of the Canadian tourists was brilliant. Wilson scored two of the goals and Ford one. Especially good was the Canadian defence, and the Australians found it difficult to penetrate into Canadian goal territory. Linning was the outstanding player in Canada's lineup. In addition to Wilson, Ford and Linning, the team was composed of Noseworthy, McLean, Anderson, Durden, Stobbart, Harley, Sanford and Forrest. Six thousand people saw the game.

The Canadian boys are being royally entertained here. They have been entertained by the lord mayor at a civic reception. On Saturday the final test match against a selected Australian team will be played here.

The record of the Canucks now is nine games won, five lost, and six drawn.

BAD FOREST FIRES NEAR THE COAST

Vancouver, July 10.—Hundreds of men, assisted by pumps and miles of hose, are attempting to check a forest fire, which has licked up thousands of acres of slash and timber, and is burning in a northeasterly direction from Haslam Lake, inland from Myrtle Point, south of Powell River, according to word received by the forestry department.

The fire yesterday spread several miles up the eastern side of Haslam Lake, when it jumped to the west shore, a distance of half a mile.

Sparks are being carried in a strong wind from the roaring inferno to distant points, where fires are started. A pilot with an airplane is locating these new fire breaks and is communicating the information to forest rangers on the ground.

The fire fighters are attempting to enclose the fires but are handicapped because of the mountainous topographical formation of the country. Mountains rise up from the lake on either side.

The Haslam Lake fire is being fought by the most modern appliances. Logging locomotives from Myrtle Point, which is about 6 miles away from the foot of Haslam Lake, have been requisitioned and with their steam pumps are pouring streams of water on the fire burning in the Duck Lake area. Gasoline pumps, mounted on rafts and towed up the lake, are throwing streams of water, through miles of hose, on the burning mountain side. Holes are being blasted for water and streams and creeks are being tapped as supplies.

A forestry department official is supervising the fight form an airplane. A telephone wire has been laid to the foot of Haslam Lake from Myrtle Point, where there is a wireless station.

A few Powell River residents are camping near the foot of the lake. Other forest fires remain unchanged and have been confined to their former limits. Progress has been made in getting control of the Cowichan Road fire and it is expected that an encircling line will be completed today.

The Toronto Mail and Empire has discovered that the reason British Columbia does not want beer by the glass is because it can buy it by the case.

The human freedom, with all the risk of using it wrongly, is better than no freedom. The soul can grow under no other conditions. Man must put out to sea, even with the chance of wreckage, for he will never become a sailor by remaining in port.—Jonathan Brierley.

We Never Know

Preachers and teachers all are we—
Sowers of seeds unconsciously.
Our hearts are beyond our ken,
Yet all we give may come again
With usury of joy or pain.
We never know
To what one little word may grow.
See to it then that all your seeds
Be such as bring forth noble deeds.

FERNIE WON FROM ELKS

(Lethbridge Herald)

Fernie's crashing crew of Brewery cup holders came to town Saturday and put on a ball game at Henderson Park against the Elks as part of the Battle of the Boyne celebration the Orangemen were staging on the glorious Twelfth. We weren't at the battle of the Boyne but from accounts the ristorians write about that historic occasion it was merely an Irish backyard brawl as compared with the battle of the century staged at Henderson stadium Saturday. Fernie won 11 to 10 in a game that left palpitation of the heart a chronic disease among the Lethbridge fans for many weeks to come. It was one of those games that Witwer writes about. It had everything in it from soup to nuts. Twenty-one runs, 24 hits and eight juicy errors contributed to the gaiety of the festive occasion, with the biggest paid crowd of the year, a couple of double plays and a few other entrees thrown in for good measure.

Fernie won because they crashed the ball harder, which isn't saying that the Elks didn't have a few batting clothes with them, too. Mr. Wilson's fence busters from the mountain fastnesses gathered 14 hits for 19 bases off Mr. Geoghengan's benders, while the Elks were annexing 10 hits for 16 bases, so you see the outfielders had quite a large evening of it, and could now qualify for the Olympic relay teams any day in the week.

Lethbridge should have won. It's always proper for the home town paper to say that. If we had made our five juicy errors at some other time, while Fernie was contributing theirs just at the psychological moment, we would have won, which is some consolation. And we nearly did win. We Elks chased Lefty Snyder of the Fernie gang to the showers in the sixth frame, in which, from being down 6 to 2 we emerged up 9 to 6, and that's enough to win most ball games around this neck of the woods. But it wasn't enough to win last Saturday night—not with the fence busters at work. Those seven runs the Elks gathered together off five hits yielded by Mr. Snyder in the sixth melted away like snow in Macleod on Dominion Day in the unlucky seventh when the visiting pirates slammed into Geoghegan's offerings for five hits, including a triple by Rushcal and a double by McTeer. Couple these with a hit by pitcher, Harvey Schweitzer's third dropped fly of the evening and some general all round loose play by the Elks, and you can see where five runs would eventuate. Anyway when the smoke had cleared away the Fernie Miners had run their string up to 11 and we had only nine. Ralph Greenway made a walk turn into a run in the eighth by some smart base running, and after we had set the invaders back one, two, three in the ninth we worked Mr. Hein for two passes with only one down, thinking we would tie the score or maybe win with a lucky hit. But the said Hein, some time of Portland or down in Uncle Sam's country where the bally game originated, struck out Geoghegan and made Sang send him a roller, and the stuff was all off.

Hein, who is one of the niftiest pitchers to appear on the local mound in some moons, went the last three innings without allowing a hit, though he kept himself from getting chills by issuing four passes. He has a world of speed and, being long and lanky, he can use a cross fire ball to perfection. Charge Mr. Hein up with one defeat of the Elks.

The Elks were not going top-hole Saturday night. The official scorer wore blue goggles and only saw five official errors but that doesn't tell all the tale. Cyre in the outfield was going good and took the three chances offered, but Schweitzer and Kosko didn't threaten Ty Cobb's supremacy in their pastures. Geoghegan didn't have his usual amount of stuff on the ball and with support behind him that was ragged at times he wasn't in as good form as he has appeared at times. However, the fans know now that he was up against the fence busting aggregation that won the Brewery cup from Rockyford by their busting and any Alberta crew that wants to annex the Brewery mug can bank on doing it only one way — gather together all the fence busters of the province into one team.

To go into more detail about the second Battle of the Boyne would be wearisome. Let the box score tell the rest of the details:

LIBERALS ARE JUBILANT

Victoria, July 16. — The Liberal government leaders are jubilant over winning North Vancouver and Fort George on the count of absentee ballots.

The Liberals now have 22 straight seats, and count on the support of Maj. R. J. Burde, Independent, Alberni, and P. Harrison, Independent Liberal, Comox, making a total strength of 24 in a house of 48 members. To this they expect to add one more Vancouver seat, hoping that Mrs. Ralph Smith will receive enough absentee votes to defeat Gen. A. D. McRae, Provincial party leader.

Liberals	22
Conservaties	17
Provincials	4
Laborites	3
Independents	2

Later.

Vancouver, July 17.—The Liberals have gained another riding as a result of the absentee vote in the provincial elections, the constituency of Mackenzie giving D. G. McKay, Liberal, a majority of seven over M. Manson, Conservative, who led after the count of the vote on June 20. The final vote stands: McKay 629; Manson 622, and Leicester, Provincial Party 352. The total absentee vote was 227.

THE FINAL COUNT IN THE FERNIE RIDING

The final count for the Fernie Riding in the late election took place on Monday last. There were about 250 absentee votes. The following was the result:

	Absentee Vote	Total Vote
McLean	69	641
Bonnell	83	851
Uphill	89	1002

Spoiled—79.

Yes	1893
No	525

Spoiled—144.

ZANE GREY STORY COMING

The Irvin Willat Paramount production, "The Heritage of the Desert," a picturization of the novel of the same name by Zane Grey, who personally supervised the screen version of his story, will be the feature at the Orpheum theatre next Wednesday. Bebe Daniels, Ernest Torrence, Noah Beery, and Lloyd Hughes are the featured players. James Mason, Richard R. Neill and Leonard Clapham are among the more prominent players in the support.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

The strike situation has not improved and it now looks like a fight to a finish. A couple of representatives from Indianapolis and some district officers visited Gladstone Local on Monday and told the men there was no hope of receiving anything like adequate relief, but even at that they were told they were as well off as if they were working one or two days a week. The men apparently swallowed this dope as usual and decided to tighten their belts for a long siege.

******

The Coal Company has discharged nearly all their office employees and every man that could be dispensed with has been given notice. The overhead expense will be cut to the minimum and the mines will remain closed until such time as they can be worked on a competitive basis with other competing companies.

******

Dozens of miners from Fernie have gone to Kimberley, where they are working hard for less than $4 a day, but they scoff at the idea of working at Coal Creek for less than $7.50. Every little while one wanders back to Fernie kicking about the hard work he has been doing and hoping that the coal strike would soon be over.

******

The lumber camps west have been flooded by men from the coal district who are absolutely willing to work for anything.

******

R. M. Young, Commissioner for the Coal Operators, was in town on Saturday, but had nothing new to report in the rest of the district.

******

News comes from Corbin that the management there will enter into a fresh agreement with the men and that oprations will be resumed there next week. Corbin miners are reported to be heartily sick of the strike and the miserable doles that have been handed out to them by the Union. There is also some talk of Blairmore negotiating a special agreement with their awn employees.

******

The recent change of officers in the Fernie Union would seem to indicate that there is a growing discontent among the men here, but when Sherman comes back and waves the wand they all hop back into line like they were hypotized. How long he will be able to keep them in this docile condition it is hard to say, but some of the miners' wives are reported to be making things rather disagreeable around home for their men and the result is that they spend most of their time fishing.

******

For some three thousand years Job. Say, Job never had any patience when it comes to compare it with the patience of the miners in district. They will sit calmly by at the request of Bill Sherman and actually starve with their children rather than return to work. They daily see the large consumers of coal replacing their product with fuel oil and electricity and never seem to realize that they are putting the coal industry out of business. Some day they will wake up and Mr. Bill and his spellbinders will have to look for new pastures.

B.C. PAYS HEAVILY FOR LIQUOR SUPPLIES

Ottawa, July 17.—British Columbia's liquor imports netted the public purse of the Dominion by way of customs duties alone $4,779,110 in 1922, and $5,503,167 in 1923. In addition to this excise duties on foreign liquor imported totalled $6,721 for the two years.

On domestic spirits and malt liquor, excise totalled in the two years $808,745. These figures are given in a return tabled in the house.

SASKATCHEWAN VOTES WET—BEER DEFEATED

Regina, July 17.—By a majority which early today had advanced to 25,000 and promised to go to 30,000 when 1000 unreported polls had been heard from, prohibition was renounced by Saskatchewan yesterday after four years' experience with the Saskatchewan Temperance Act. At the present time the electors expressed their preference for straight government control of the sale of liquor through official vendors, as opposed to such control accompanied by licensed beer premises by a majority of 9835.

HOME BANK AFFAIRS IN COMMONS TODAY

Ottawa, July 17.—The report of the banking and commerce committee of the house of commons presenting the "moral claims" of the Home Bank depositors upon the government of Canada for reimbursement of their losses will come before the house of commons as the first order of the day on Friday, according to an announcement by Premier King today.

AMERICAN CONSULAR SERVICE

The American Consul at Fernie advises that travel to the United States is rapidly adjusting itself to the situation resulting from enforcement of the new regulations. In two respects, however, the public seems not as yet sufficiently informed. Persons writing the Consulate relative to such matters should always give their allegiance and state period of residence in Canada, and where arrangements are made to visit the Consulate for immigration visa, it is essential that all members of the family who are going to the States should appear at the Consulate.

American citizens are not affected by the immigration laws; they can cross the border at pleasure without legal documents of any nature. Nor do Canadian citizens need official papers when proceeding to the United States merely for a visit. The immigrant authorities at the line are the judges in such matters, and it is well for even visitors to go provided with testimonials from the authorities of their home town.

SPEEDY TRIAL FOR DIRECTORS

London, July 14.—The appeal of the attorney-general of Ontario, Hon. W. F. Nickle, to the privy council against the judgment of Mr. Justice Middleton of the supreme court of Ontario, granting a speedy trial to the accused directors of the Home Bank of Canada on the charges of conspiracy laid against them under the Bank Act, has failed entirely. The judicial committee of the privy council gave judgment today dismissing the appeal.

Lord Cave said the original leave to appeal was based on two facts, first, that the supreme court had no power to issue a mandamus to compel a county court judge to try the respondents; also that the civil jurisdiction had been wrongfully invoked and that portion of the criminal code relating to speedy trials gave the defendants no right to elect for trial by a county judge.

No question arose as to the violation of the principles of natural justice and, therefore, leave to appeal on this matter alone would have been refused, Lord Cave said.

Their lordships of the judicial committee had now been put in possession of the circumstances of the case as a whole, Lord Cave continued, and had found that no serious question had arisen concerning the jurisdiction of the supreme court to grant a mandamus in such a case. That case was clothed by statute with all the powers formerly belonging to the queen's bench of Upper Canada, which had the power to grant a mandamus to an inferior court.

"No rules of leave to appeal to the privy council have yet been made as to a mandamus under the criminal code," Lord Cave continued, "and under the circumstances there is nothing in their lordships' opinion to prevent the supreme court making a free use of its powers. There is no question of any irregular intrusion by the civil court in a criminal matter. The first and effective ground of appeal therefore wholly fails.

"In the circumstances their lordships have considered whether that should allow the appeal to procced on the second ground and have come to the conclusion that it should not be allowed.."

Leave to appeal was originally granted only on the first ground and that ground having proven to possess no substance the question reserved by the order giving leave to appeal, namely, whether the appeal should be entertained, arises for decision. The privy council is of the opinion that the question should be answered in the negative.

"The sole question remaining is one of procedure and upon that question, which is peculiarly within the province of the judges who administer the law, their lordships would not be disposed to entertain the appeal."

The judical committee made no order with regard to the cost in the case.

DISEASES FATAL TO WOMEN

The death rates for the great majority of important maladies are higher among men than among women, but there are some diseases which, year after year, record relatively higher mortality among girls and women. In most cases, says a writer in The Statistical Bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., the reason for the excess is obvious. Certain diseases, including cancer, organic heart disease, and apoplexy, show higher death rates among women, because this sex has the longer average life-span, and more women than men who live to reach those mature ages where most of the deaths from cancer, cardiac conditions and apoplexy occur. He continues:

"There are, however, other diseases which show, year after year, higher death rates among females, and for which the reason is by no means clear. The figures for whooping-cough, for example, have shown a higher incidence among girls than among boys, which is contrary to what occurs with measles, scarlet-fever and diphtheria—the other principal epidemic diseases of childhood.

"Then again, tuberculosis of the intestinal tract, contrary to other forms of tuberculous diseases, kills more women than men. We have never seen a satisfactory explanation of this phenomenon. It is a fact, however, that the excess in the female mortality is confined to the age periods between 10 and 50 years; and this suggests that the sex difference may be due to conditions related to maternity. It has been suggested by one authority that some diseases of the female sex organs reduce the power of resistance and enable the bacillus of tuberculosis to gain a foothold.

"In the United States, women suffer from pellagra to a far greater extent than men. The susceptibility of the former is much more pronounced in America than in Europe. The great preponderance of females over males and the much higher mortality call for explanation. The difference is not so pronounced after the age of 55 as at the younger ages. "Affections of the endocrine glands (the thyroid, the parathyroid, the pituitary, the adrenal and the pancreas) uniformly cause much higher mortality among females. Women are much more frequently attacked, and this is especially true of all forms of goiter. In Addison's disease, a rare affection of the suprarenal capsule, males are more frequently attacked than females, but females, on the other hand, show the higher death rate.

"Diabetes is a disease with a most decided sex incidence. Men are more frequently affected than women — at least more men than women are treated for diabetes—but more women than men die of the disease. One prominent authority suggests that the apparent preponderance of the disease in men may be due to some extent to the larger percentage of men who are examined by life insurance companies. The result is that with women, much more than with men, the disease goes undetected. He suggests, furthermore, that the fact that more men than women receive special medical treatment for diabetes, and that, at the same time, more women than men die of the disease, is evidence in favor of the effectiveness of the present treatments."

Chorea, or St. Vitus' Dance, a disease that affects children for the most part, is far more prevalent in girls than in boys. It sometimes terminates fatally, the writer tells us, and deaths chargeable to it result directly from complications, rather than from chorea itself. Even at advanced ages, where relatively low mortality occurs, the sex incidence prevails. Mental conditions, except general paralysis of the insane, cause 50 per cent higher mortality among women than among men. We read further:

"Anemia, a disease due either to reduction in the amount of blood as a whole, or of the blood corpuscles, or of certain constituents of the blood, is another condition which causes many more deaths among females than males. This is true at every age of life. One type of anemia, known as chlorsis, is, in effect, definitely a disease of girls, the age of onset being usually between the 14th and 17th years. One prominent medical authority states that it is doubtful if males are ever affected with chlorosis, but he does not venture an opinion as to why this is true. One type of anemia, known as pernicious anemia, is more common among males.

"Liver and gall-bladder diseases, with the exception of cirrhosis, show, year in and year out, such strong preponderance in female mortality that there can be no doubt whatever of the existence of a definite cause for this phenomenon. In the case of the rare disease, acute yellow atophy of the liver, the reason for the relatively high female death rate lies in the recognized frequent association of the disease with pregnancy. Pregnancy is also believed (by medical authors to be an important factor in causing the high death rate among women from gall-stones.

"Diseases of the veins and chronic bronchitis are two other conditions more fatal to women.

"Among deaths caused by violence there is only one kind, burns, which is charged with a higher death toll among girls and women. Three out of every five deaths from this cause are those of females.

"The predominance of deaths among this sex may suggest to the clinicians and to the laboratory students of these diseases, relations which will serve as a clue for directing further research."

Beauty Flies For Speckled Beauties

St. Jovite in the mountains of Northern Quebec is famous as a summer and winter resort. Winter times they use a wingless aeroplane for ski joring, but in summer they put the wings and a body on and use it for fishing and swimming. Behind almost every mountain of the Laurentians there is a lake or two — so the plane comes in handy for jumping over the hills to chase the sporting bass and trout to their lairs. The above pretty girl, one of a party of five, has just come in from a flying trip to a nearby lake and is justly proud of her string of speckled beauties.

COL. DENISON RETIRING

Frank C. Denison, United States Consul at this port for several years, is to be retired on July 1st. Colonel Denison has seen 27 years in the service, his first appointment being Woodstock, N.B., second to Fernie, B.C., and then to Prescott. He has served under six presidents in the following order: McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge, and splendid photos of each of them adorns the wall of the local consulate.

He presumes that we shall be glad to see him go, but in that he is mistaken. In his official capacity he has been pleasant and obliging, always. As a citizen, we have none better, and I am quite sure that every citizen who has come in contact with the colonel, and his wife and daughter in a social way during their residence amongst us will exceedingly regret their departure.

He is a native of the state of Vermont and perhaps in his declining years he will be desirous of returning to that state, possibly to the scenes of his boyhood days. At any rate we all join in wishing him good health in the years to come.

CUMBERLAND BEAT HILLHURST

Vancouver, July 14.—The Connaught cup football series between the Calgary Hillhursts and Cumberland, B.C., representatives, ended Saturday with a 2 to 1 victory for Cumberland. Cumberland won Friday's game in Nanaimo 2 to 1 and Saturday's game here was scoreless.

Calgary played a badly crippled team against Cumberland and the boys from across the Rockies put up a splendid battle.

Laziness is defined by a Chicago professor as "controlled power." Many remarkable instances are known where the will to work was restrained by perfect control.

TO STAMP OUT TUBERCULOSIS

Medical scientists are now engaged in a campaign to show what can be done toward stamping out tuberculosis in a large industrial centre as an experiment, in view of a wider campaign later. Many people at present believe that the time is near when tuberculosis, the "great white plague," will be a thing of the past.

It was announced recently that the city of Syracuse, New York, has been selected for the experiment and all the resuorces of science will be used to stamp out and prevent tuberculosis in that city. An effort in a smaller way to the same end was made on a smaller scale in the last year or two in Framington, Mass., resulting in the death rate from tuberculosis being reduced by 67 per cent.

Syracuse, however, is a much larger city, with a medical college, an official health department and unusual cooperation between public and private agencies. The demonstration for which Syracuse has been selected as the center has been invited by many cities. They proffered the cooperation of local agencies and also the support of labor, industrial and mercantile corporations, city officials and newspaper.

It is believed by many that the experiment will be a success in these days of advanced scientific knowledge and that tuberculosis will eventually die out like a number of prehistoric plagues which once had myriads of victims and which are never seen now. A "summer cold," which is seldom a serious complaint, is a faint reminder of one of the deadliest of these plagues, from which in its old deadly form people are now immune, through time, heredity and the spread of medical knowledge.

It is now believed by a large proportion of medical scientists that the time is fast coming when the practical extinction of the "great white plague" following on the Syracuse experiment is among the possibilities of the campaign against it. It has already through growth of scientific knowledge been robbed of some of its terrors. Even incipient tuberculosis was looked on not so long ago as incurable, yet it is cured in many cases at our sanitaria and the patients are discharged in normal health.

CRANBROOK MEMBER'S MAJORITY LOWERED

Cranbrook, July 15.—The counting of the absentee vote here yesterday decreased the majority of Wallinger, the Conservative member-elect from the previous total of 281 to 270. There were 157 ballots counted, including those from other points in the riding as well as those from outside ridings, of which 84 were for Taylor, Liberal, and 79 for Wallinger. There were a number of ballots rejected from outside ridings because the affidavits made by the voters did not establish clearly that they were registered anywhere on the Cranbrook list. The beer plebiscite vote on the absentee vote showed 96 in favor of beer by the glass and 49 against.

REDISTRIBUTION

Lethbridge Herald: The prospects for the redistribution measure being passed through parliament this year are far from bright. What Western Canada should do is to express through its representative organizations strong demand for the passage of the redistribution measure. It should make Ottawa understand that it is not going to take any chance on being further deprived of the representation it is entitled to under the census of 1921.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

FEDERAL LOANS

At the present session of the Federal parliament authority has been secured by the government to issue loans to the amount of $300,000,000. All this money is not wanted at once, but governments always consider it desirable to have a reserve of bond issuing power. Canada, however, will float a loan in the Autumn to retire $108,000,000 of the Victory Loan of 1918, which matures on November 1. On May 1, 1925, a sterling loan of £5,000,000 falls due, and on December 1, next year, a war loan of $42,000,000. Both of these latter are presumably covered by the authority for borrowing now being given to the government. The question that arises in connection with this borrowing is whether the loans should be made in Canada or in the United States. It is said that money in both countries is abundant for such investments. The American government is borrowing at 2¾ per cent, but Canada cannot borrow at this rate, although it is certain that the maturing Victory Loan bearing 5½ percent can be replaced by bonds which will not carry more than 5 per cent.

There is always a strong argument in favor of a domestic loan, particularly because the interest on such will be disbursed at home. There is another side to the question, however, which has to be considered. It is held that the Victory Loan launched in Canada, while indicating in a striking way the country's financial ability, have had the effect of stopping investments in other legitimate enterprises. In other words, money has been absorbed in such gilt-edged securities to an extent which has made it non-available for industrial development within the country. It is true, and there is pleasure in knowing that it is true, that Canada has exhibited in recent years an unexpected capacity to absorb government bonds. From the standpoint of the Dominion, the cost to the country of the war was practically financed at home. Indeed, out of a total funded Dominion debt of $2,443,686,000, an amount of $1,896,753,000, or 77 per cent of the total, is payable in Canada. This means a distribution of some hundred million dollars annually in the country, which is a comfortable consideration.

In the matter, however, of the new loans that must be made to meet maturing liabilities it has to be borne in mind that better terms will be secured in New York and that making the loan on the American side will mean the bringing of new money into the country, which would relieve a situation that now obtains here, namely, the difficulty of obtaining loans on mortgage. In dealing with this loan, or any loan to be made in the immediate future, the Montreal Gazette points out that there is not so much free capital in Canada as formerly, that trade lacks buoyancy, and that the ability of the country to absorb $200,000,000 of bonds is uncertain. The Gazette hints at the possibility of any new loans being issued partly in Canada and partly in New York. What should be guarded against in the operation of Federal finances is anything that will make money tighter in the country than it is at present. On the contrary, the policy should be to budget in the matter of loans of the future in a way that will ameliorate the financial situation within the Dominion.—Victoria Colonist.

BEER BY THE GLASS

Victoria, July 9.—With reports from 29 out of 40 constituencies now in the hands of the provincial secretary's office, the beer plebiscite is found to have been carried in 13 ridings, defeated in 14, and to stand with a tie vote in two others until the absentee votes are counted.

Ridings in the "yes" column are Alberni, Atlin, Columbia, Esquimalt, Fernie, The Islands, Nanaimo, Omineca, Yale, MacKenzie, Prince Rupert, Rossland-Trail, and Fort George.

Ridings in the "no" column are Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Greenwood-Grand Forks, Kamloops, Kaslo-Slocan, Nelson, North Okanagan, North Vancouver, Revelstoke, Richmond-Point Grey, Sannich, South Okanagan, South Vancouver.

Burnaby and Creston are the ridings where tie votes were recorded. In the eleven other ridings the official figures have not yet reached the department. The total vote for the 29 ridings already reported is slightly negative, being 52,716 for beer licenses and 56,180 against.

Neither the popular vote nor the vote by ridings is necessarily decisive, however, as the local option feature of the referendum gives the government power to grant licenses in any polling place or group of polling places where the plebiscite carried. In some of the ridings where the vote was slightly negative the urban centres showed affirmative majorities with the rural vote almost unanimously against beer.

THE ONLY ELIXER OF LIFE

San Francisco Chronicle: There is but one elixer of youth that is any good. And that is a clean life, a clear conscience, regular personal habits, a simple diet, steady work according to one's strength in some useful vocation and a kindly spirit. Mix thoroughly and take every day every year. That prescription regularly taken will produce not, perhaps, actual youth, but peradventure something more satisfying and even more beautiful.

It is asserted that the size of the campaign chest has decided the result of every presidential election, with the exceptio nof one, since the Civil War. According to the best figures obtainable Grant's campaign managers had $400,000, against his opponent's $125,000. Hayes had $950,000, Tilden $900,000. Garfield had $1,100 000, Hancock $355,000. Cleveland beat Blaine by $100,000 when he had $1,400,000 against Blaine's $1,300,000. Next election Cleveland lost to Harrison $855,000 to $1,850,000, but he came back the following election and won $2 350,000 to $1,850,000. Then came Mark Hanna with the mammoth war chest estimated at $25,000,000 for McKinley's two campaigns against which Bryan could only muster $1,100,000 for both. Roosevelt's managers had $3,500,000 against Parker's $1,250,000. Taft had $1,700,000 against Bryan's $750,000. Even in the Progressive split, credited with handing Wilson the election on a platter, Wilson had a fund of $825,000 against Taft's $750,000 and Roosevelt's $325,000. Then followed the only upset, Wilson's $1,400,000 winning against Hughes' $2 012,000. Harding's managers had $2,700,000 against Cox's $1,170,000.

WHEN USING WILSON'S FLY PADS READ DIRECTIONS CAREFULLY AND FOLLOW THEM EXACTLY

There is only one way to kill all the Flies

This is it—Darken the room as much as possible, close the windows, raise one of the blinds where the sun shines in, about eight inches, place as many Wilson's Fly Pads as possible on plates (properly wetted with water but not flooded) on the window ledge where the light is strong, leave the room closed for two or three hours, then sweep up the flies and burn them. See illustration below.

Put the plates away out of the reach of children until required in another room.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

SOME excellent rules for health are given in a recent number of Hygeia, a health journal. Many of them are ignored by thousands in spite of the fact that obeying them is easy and in many cases pleasant. Here are some of them:

Ventilate every room you occupy.

Breathe night air at night time. Open your bedroom windows. Have no fires in bedrooms.

Get back to nature in the matter of foods. Remember the original food products are grains, vegetables, fruits, nuts meat, milk, eggs and water.

Keep the teeth and gums healthy. Keep them clean.

The secret of great personal power is work, play, rest and sleep in moderation. Never permit a piece of work, or stress or strain of any kind, to run without frequent interruptions in the nature of relaxation.

Keep serene no matter what happens.

It is possible for most of us to observe all of these rules. The last one is difficult and its observance depends to a large extent on temperament. Probably the most important admonition is that which advises moderation in all things.

OF all the ills that public men are called upon to suffer, slander must be the most pernicious, if for no other reason than that it is so easy to set in motion and so hard to overtake. Once fairly on its feet a good substantial lie about a man, and particularly about a man in public life, will circle the globe while a truth is lacing its shoes on.

IF you want to find out what hard and disagreeable work it is for most people to do any thinking just discuss something that would require them to think, or hand them a serious book to read on some subject that would require thinking to understand it. You will find that a lot of people shy at the least idea of using their heads, and prefer to take their ideas ready-made from some one else.

FOR every passenger killed the railroads now carry 13 million safely. For every passenger injured they carry 610,000 without injury. It was a different story before the safety first campaigns. Accidents get the attention. Safety is so common it's ignored. With our speed and congestion, the marvel is not that we have so many accidents but that we don't have more. However, that's no reason for cutting down our present degree of vigilance.

IN a spirited address at Victoria, Hon. T. D. Patullo, minister of lands, maintained that British Columbia was the finest place on earth for the young man. He urged more young men to leave the cities and do a little pioneering, claiming that in this way many who would otherwise still be working for wages 20 years hence could accomplish big things for themselves. The minister said there was room for thousands of prospectors. If he were a young man, he said, nothing would suit him better than to tie up to an experienced prospector and hit for the hills. The lumbering industry held good openings for the young man who would go into the woods and learn the business thoroughly. He could own a mill of his own in due time.

"Fishermen operating out of Prince Rupert are getting rich," said Hon. Mr. Patullo. "And there is room for lots more. Working on the land today is a picnic compared with the days of the pioneer."

SPECIAL care has been taken by the government and the Game Conservation Board in the drafting of the big game laws for the 1924 season. Within a few weeks these regulations will be posted all over the province. There has been a tendency to tighten up, so that the wonderful game resources of British Columbia may be conserved, and at the same time the hunter is given every opportunity to secure a good bag.

WHEN you read of the different votes in the Dominion House where hardly a hundred members are present, one wonders where the balance keep themselves. In the federal parliament there are 235 members of the commons, including 17 cabinet ministers, the speaker, deputy speaker and leader of the opposition. In the upper chamber there are 87 senators. Members and senators get an annual indemnity of $4000 and with special indemnities to ministers the total is $1,463,000. That's a whale of a payroll for these bad times.

COURTESY is the beginning of every friendship. You like to associate with the man or woman who is always courteous. This applies to business as well as the social side of life. The more friends you have the more business you do and the pleasanter each day passes by.

Courtesy is nothing more than good will. Good will is the foundation upon which business is built. Good will is founded solely on friendship. Remember well this thought. The corner-stone of good-will and friendship is courtesy.

HELPING OUT THE FUEL SITUATION

The provision of $200,000 in the supplementary estimates by the Federal government for enabling the railways to ship coal to those localities which have to depend on the United States for their fuel supply serves to show that what is a national problem of vast and vital importance has received attention at Ottawa. For a country with its vast resources of coal to be dependent, in some parts of it, and these the most populous, on fuel from another country is a situation which must arrest very serious attention.

It has been accepted, in the provision for helping coal shipments that to move coal from Alberta to Ontario at transportation rates which will enable the coal to be sold at a price which will meet the competition from coal from the United States is not possible. The provision made is in the way of a tentative measure for overcoming the problem of supplying the Eastern market with Western coal. If it means the beginning of a policy to make Canada depend on herself in the way of fuel supply, the appropriation made will mean more than the mere pecuniary aid which it will tend to give.

The government, in the step it has taken, has shown itself alive to the fuel situation as it exists in Canada. But to work out the problem of Canadian coal for Canada needs more than a pecuniary contribution on the part of the government. It calls for solid co-operation on the part of the railways, with every means employed to bring down freight rates on Western coal to that minimum which will enable it to be transported profitably to the East.

There is not a doubt that the pressing problem in Canada today is how to make its people dependent altogether on the abundance of the coal supply which the country possesses without relying on a foreign country, with all the attendant risks which such a policy allows. It calls for solution in united effort all round, looking not so much to the present as to the future. We hear a great deal of the development of our great natural resources. This fully applies to the coal we possess. In the part fuel plays in the national existence, the dependence of the people of Canada on their own fuel supply is one of individual and national self-interest. —Lethbridge Herald.

The tourist camp at the south end of the city is crowded every night, as there has been a heavy traffic all week. Crimean Veteran Praises "Fruit-a-tives"

MAJOR GEO. WALKER

Major George Walker, now a familiar figure in Chatham, Ontario, is one of the men who went through the terrible Indian Mutiny. As he says: "I am a veteran of the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, serving under Lord Roberts. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting and continual exposure left me a great sufferer from Rheumatism, so much so that my legs swelled up, making it impossible for me to walk. My bowels were so constipated that I was in terrible shape until I began to use 'Fruit-a-tives.' They relieved me both of the Rheumatism and the Constipation. Today, I enjoy perfect health—no more Rheumatism or Constipation."

And in another letter, written December 1st, 1923 (eleven years after), Major Walker says: "'Fruit-a-tives' are keeping me in the best of health and I shall never be without them."

ENJOY THE WATER IN SAFETY

Swimming, canoeing, wading and all forms of water sports are healthful and wholesome. They can be enjoyed without the fear of tragedy by observing a few common sense rules. Swimmers and non-swimmers should observe the following "Don'ts":

If You Can't Swim—

Don't go wading alone, or where there is a swift current.

If You Can Swim—

Don't swim if overheated.

Don't swim until exhausted.

Don't cry for help in fun. You may sometimes need help and not get it.

Don't go in swimming alone.

In the Fernie district election there were over seventy spoiled ballots. A large number of these were caused by the carelessness of deputy returning officers, who neglected to put their stamp on the back of the ballots. In one polling booth in Fernie there were ten such ballots.

It is expected that the plan to market 100,000 tons of Alberta coal in Ontario the coming season will mature as a result of the vote of $200,000 by the Federal government for assistance to the railways in handling the coal. The plan is that the Federal government will pay charges above the actual cost of handling the coal in train lots during the slack season in traffic. Many centres in Ontario have already placed preliminary orders for Alberta coal.

The Home Bank should have had its doors closed in 1917. But a Home Bank that closed its doors in 1917 would have doomed the incorporated Grain Growers to suffer a loss of $100,000 on their stock investment and $100,000 more in payment of their double liability. When the doors of the Home Bank were closed in 1923 the Grain Growers did not lost a dollar. If residents of The Pass who suffered in the Home Bank crash wish to know why the Grain Growers escaped, let them address their queries to Tom Crerar.—Coleman Journal.

The road changes around Crow's Nest Lake are nearing completion. The grade around the west end of the small lake is finished and gangs of men are now at work widening the trail around the west bluff. The Slide road is also nearing completion and only needs surfacing at the eastern approach. Tenders are now being invited for the grading of the Hillcrest road from the Hillcrest bridge to the junction near the Slide. It is intended to put this piece of road in first class shape. Some grading is necessary all the way from Bellevue to Lundbreck, particularly near Maple Leaf and the new Rock Creek bridge. The road between Burmis and Lundbreck is in such a disgraceful condition at present that considerable traffic is being diverted via Lee Lake road.

Don't forget the dance at Hosmer schoolhouse, Saturday, July 19, at 10 p.m. Whitehouse 3-piece orchestra. Everybody welcome.

A fatigue party of the G.W.V.A. was at work on the Soldiers' plot in the cemetery on Saturday last, clearing the weeds and fixing up the graves.

There was no council meeting last evening owing to lack of a quorum. Mayor Henderson is still in Ottawa camping on the trail of the government in connection with Home Bank affairs.

The local official count of the absentee vote took place on Monday and there is absolutely no suggestion of any of the ballots being tampered with. This does not seem to be the case in some ridings.

A public meeting will be held tonight in the council chamber, called by the G.W.V.A. to organize sports and a carnival for Labor Day. All citizens interested are invited to attend.

The G.W.V.A. are holding a decoration Day parade on Sunday, Aug. 10. On arrival at the cemetery a drumhead service will be held. The ministers of the various denominations have been invited to attend. Hymn sheets will be provided.

U.M.W. of A. International Representatives I. Steele and W. J. Watkins, were in town on Tuesday reviewing the situation. They addressed a special mass meeting of Gladsaone Local during the afternoon, leaving for Michel after the meeting, where they addressed the Michel miners.

The Elks in large numbers visited the Boy Scout camp at McBain's Lake on Sunday, and on Wednesday the Rotary Club and a large number of citizens paid the boys a visit and gave them a fine treat. There are over seventy boys in camp and the work of keeping things moving is taxing the efforts of Scoutmaster Donaldson and his assistants to the limit. However, the boys are doing fine.

Another large shipment of fish, consisting of 35,000 Kamloops Trout fry, was received by the Fernie District Rod and Gun Club on Thursday last. These have been placed in Silver Springs Lake and McBain's Lake. Sportsmen of this district are looking forward to good fishing in this vicinity for some years to come. The local Rod and Gun Club are to be congratulated for the good work being done by them in re-stocking the streams and lakes of the district.

Funny how that absentee vote seems to go so strong with the government in certain ridings. One might think that it would slip toward the opposition sometimes. However, when the Vancouver vote is counted it will be a pretty good test of whether the count is on the square or not. Mary Ellen is some 68 votes behind McRae and if she makes up this amount it will begin to look fishy as the Vancouver absentee vote is largely made up of men, who are not very partial to Mary Ellen.

On Sunday last a party of joyriders from White Sulphur upset their car over the bank about a mile west of Fernie. They were taken to the local hospital for repairs and after which, as they seemed intoxicated, they were locked up. They came up before Magistrate Stenson on Monday when the driver, Edgar Rolston, was sentenced to seven days in jail without the option of a fine, and Oscar Rosenberg and Alf. Myhwold were each fined $25 and costs. Chief Greenwood said that in future he will always ask for the penalty of imprisonment whenever a man is convicted of driving a car while intoxicated.

SLEEPING SICKNESS

From time to time statements have appeared in the daily press to the effect that the Germans have developed a remarkable remedy, known as "Bayer 205," for African sleeping-sickness. This has generally been accompanied by the assertion that the Germans would not bestow this boon upon the world unless their former colonies of German East Africa should be restored to them. Apropos of this, fresh news has come to hand that certain French scientists have in their turn developed a similar remedy by independent research. We find the matter discussed in a late number of the Bibliotheque Universelle, from which we quote:

"In a note read before the Academy of Sciences, as well as in a report published in the Annals of the Pasteur Institute, E. Fourneau describes researches undertaken by him with the collaboration of Mr. and Mrs. J. Trefouel and Mr. J. Vallee in the endeavor to discover a product equivalent to Bayer 205, of mose composition nothing is known except that it contains neither antimony or arsenic, but which is stated to have an extraordinary effect upon the protozoa known as trypanosomes, germs which cause various diseases of men and animals (especially sleeping-sickness) which scourge Africa."

Fourneau and his assistants set to work by making a thorough study of all patents taken out by Bayer & Co., the German manufacturing chemists, for the last ten years. They discovered one in which the declaration was made that the substances contained therein had the property of acting upon trypanosomes. Taking this as a starting point, they finally developed a highly complex product, which they have designated as 309. Since the full title of this compound contains something like thirty syllables, one is thankful to be able to call it by a number. Chemists call it a "symhetrical urea" of a metaamino acid — trisulfonate of sodium. This has the same physical properties as the Bayer 205, and it likewise has the property of killing trypanosomes. Whether it is chemically the same as the German remedy is unknown, since the formula of the latter is a trade secret. The French compound is to be given freely to the world both as to the substances contained and the manner of preparation. We read further:

"Bayer 205 has an extraordinary effect, without being highly toxic. In the same way the French remedy is extremely active but only slightly poisonous; the difference between the active remedial dose and the injurious dose is very great. A mouse can bear without trouble a dose of 10 to 12 milligrams, but a dose of 1-16 of a milligram has been found sufficient to cure all mice infected with trypanosomes. If 309 is not identical with 205, it is at any rate a very similar and very powerful remedy. Moreover, it possesses to an extraordinary degree the character of specificity. In other words, if this highly complex molecule be modified in the slightest manner, it ceases to act as a germicide for trypanosomes."

The article closes by a reference to the excellent results obtained by German physicians in Africa with Bayer 205, acting under the auspices of the English authorities. The results obtained were so excellent that The British Medical Journal devotes much space to an account of the subject. It is hoped that independent investigators will make comparative studies of the French and the German remedies.

LUCK.

London Daily Express: Bad luck is often another term for bad judgment. A wrong first step, an impulsive action, an unreasoning obstinacy, or a blindness to facts may each produce that train of consequences which we prefer to call "bad luck" because we shrink from blaming ourselves. The future, as yet unborn, is beyond our scrutiny, but it will be nearer to our heart's desire if we act with the conviction that law is over all and that good luck and bad are in the main only the working of the law that we sow what we reap.

SLAUGHTER

The vanity of woman and the greed of man have doome! to extinction the fur-bearing animals of the world. Doctor William T. Hornaday, the director of New York's zoological park, predicts their extermination within twenty years if the present demand for pelts continues. The day of the legitimate use of fur seems to have passed; fashion now decrees that it shall be worn in summer as well as in winter and in ways that have no connection with its rightful function of protecting its wearer from winter's cold. Fur on sunshades, fur on fans, even fur cases for wrist watches—these are a few of the more bizarre methods by which next year the French fashion makers intend to waste animal pelts. Our scientists and naturalists hope that American women will refuse to follow such ridiculous fashions, but they are doubtful. The Blue Cross Society has people asking them to indorse the written to thousands of prominent sentiment: "I protest against the cruel and senseless craze for summer furs as being contrary to good taste and humane feeling," and undoubtedly many women will refuse to wear furs except for warmth. But to many thoughtless people the lure of the latest mode is strong — and the fur trade is a profitable one. So far there has been no sign that the men who control it—and who could control the use of fur—are far-sighted enough to realize that the future of their business lies in their own hands and that the wild life of the world cannot stand for long the present drain of thirty million fur bearers killed each year.

Not only fur-bearing animals are in danger of extermination. Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History, thinks that all wild life is threatened. "Nothing in the history of creation," he says, "has paralleled the ravages of the fur and hide trade, which, with the bone fertilizer trade, now threatens the entire vertebrae kingdom."

The remedy? In a great measure it is in the hands of our women. Their refusal to wear the feathers of song birds helped the Audubon Societies in their fight to save our birds; their refusal to use fur except legitimately would help save our animals. The schools can help by teaching the youngsters that our wild life is a heritage that should be protected, not wasted. Sportsmen can help, too, by making things hot for th game hog and the pot hunter.

ROYALTY LOOKS FOR A JOB

When George was first requested to retire from the Grecian throne he lived on his father-in-law for a while, "even as you and I."

Then when the Rumanian ice-box began to run low, he went to Paris and tried his hand at writing for a living.

And now that he has failed at that, he is coming to America to go into the movies, where he will give zealous Americans a chance to show their republican fervor and wipe out the memory of George IV. by heaving custard pies into his royal countenance.

From all accounts George was a pretty fair king. He studied the needs of his country, married a beautiful queen and kept away from Deauville.

But he can't earn his own living.

This butcher never ruled, never reigned and never wore ermine.

But he could earn his own living.

With a few exceptions, three or four generations of reigning seem to take the starch out of any family.

And the moral is that if you want prosperity to follow your descendants, let your son study to be a plumber if he likes, but make him promise never to be a king.—Vancouver Sun.

The result of the recent presidential election in Mexico is reported to have been so close that an official canvass of the ballots is to be made. They vote and shoot straight in Mexico and there are no absentee votes to complicate the count.

Here and There

It is announced that vigorous efforts will be made by the Government of Manitoba to effect the actual settlement of 224,000 acres of vacant provincial land now under the administration of the Crown.

For the week ended June 21st traffic earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway amounted to $3,301,000, as compared with $3,159,000 for the corresponding period of 1923. This is an increase of $142,000 or 4.4 per cent.

Reports from the Rouyn gold fields of Quebec continue to indicate a great future for that territory. Development is proceeding apace and the English capital now flowing into Canada in search of good investments is interesting itself in this area.

Three carloads of seed grain are being shipped weekly from the provincial seed cleaning and marketing plant at Edmonton, Alta. About 50,000 bushels of seed grain have been handled by the plant since last fall and 20,000 bushels more will be handled before the year's seeding is completed.

The International Paper Company intends to add two new machines to their plant in Three Rivers, Que., so as to increase their production from 300 to 450 tons daily. Another project is also under consideration, viz., to build a plant in Batiscan instead of enlarging the Three Rivers one.

Out of every dollar the Company earns, the sum of 81 cents is spent by the Canadian Pacific Railway in the home markets of Canada for wages, materials, supplies, taxes and insurance, figures recently issued show. In 1923 the total earnings of this great corporation were $195,837,089, and every community in Canada directly benefitted by the expenditure of 81 per cent. of this huge amount in the home market.

The 1924 cut of the East Kootenay (B.C.) forestry district gives promise of running to a grand total of 150,000,000 feet. There is a particularly brisk business in poles of longer lengths and in railway ties, and a cut of some 1,000,000 sawn ties and the usual quantity of the hewn variety is looked for. Sixteen sawmills are now in operation and indications are that there will probably be thirty going before the season closes.

Canada now takes third place, and second place among British possessions, of the gold-producing areas of the world. The total gold production of the world for 1922—the latest year for which returns are available — was 15,440,000 fine ounces, of which the Transvaal produced 7,020,110, or 45.5 per cent. The United States came second, with 2,363,075 ounces, or 15.3 per cent., and Canada followed, with 1,263,364 ounces, or 8.2 per cent.

June 18th was the anniversary of the running of the first Imperial Limited, the Canadian Pacific Railway's famous transcontinental. This was not the Company's first transcontinental, as trains began regular service between Montreal and Vancouver as far back as 1886, but for several years it was the crack Canadian Pacific express. To-day the premier place is held by the Trans-Canada Limited, the fastest long-distance express in the world, which makes the run in 90 hours, or 10 hours less than the time of the original Imperial Limited.

Visiting Sailors Tour Canadian Rockies

Through the courtesy of the Dominion Government twenty-five officers and two hundred and twenty men of the British Service Squadron on tour were given a trip from Vancouver through the Rocky Mountains as far as Calgary by special Canadian Pacific train, returning by way of Edmonton. The men were selected from the Flag Ship H.M.S. Hood, H.M.S. Repulse and H.M.S. Adelaide. All through the mountains the train was given most enthusiastic receptions from people lining the stations wherever it stopped and shouting their greetings from the smaller ones as it passed. During a stop of two hours at Revelstoke the entire crowd was taken to the top of Mount Revelstoke in automobiles. At Field it seemed impossible to get the train away, so anxious were the people to heap flowers and congratulations on the men. Banff citizens met them with automobiles and showed them around at night on arrival and again in the morning when they visited the bathing pools. The reception at Calgary was equal to that accorded the visiting sailors all along the line, and all day they were entertained at receptions and banquets, closing the day with a ball at the Palliser Hotel for the officers and a smoker at the armoury for the men.

Throughout the trip the sailors were as busy photographing as being photographed. All of them have travelled far and viewed the scenery of many lands, but they are unanimous in the opinion that the beauty of the Rockies—Banff National Park, Albert Canyon and so on, is superior and more grand by far than anything else they have seen.

PREVENT FOREST FIRES -- IT PAYS

REPAIRS ON HUMANS

Grumbling about the doctors is reported by an editorial writer for The Scientific American on the part of a friend of his. This man asserts we are told, that as diagnosticians the medical men are but a sorry lot. "Something goes wrong," he said, "with a complicated machine in my factory. I call in a skilled mechanic. He quickly states the trouble; readjustments or repairs are made; and the worry is over. Now the body is a machine and the doctor is the engineer. Something goes wrong. You call in a doctor; he diagnoses; prescribes medicine, diet, etc. You follow instructions faithfully; but with no result. No, take it from me, the average doctor simply isn't in it with the mechanical engineer in finding what is wrong with a machine and setting it right." And the Scientific American man thus comes to the rescue of his medical friend. He says:

"We pointed out that to compare the most ingenious and perfect mechanism ever made by man with the human body, was as foolish as to place his baby's go-cart in the same class with a Rolls-Royce motor. We asked him to consider that although the modern high class automobile in respect of the ingenuity of its design, its power, durability, speed and ease of control, may be regarded as the most perfect mechanical triumph of the age—it is but a child's toy in comparison wih the crowning triumph of all creation, man. Not only is this body of ours a heat engine, with an efficiency undreamed of in any heat engines of man's construction; but it is a self-contained chemical laboratory, in which are carried on, ceaselessly and surely, scores of differing elaborate reactions for the production of the substances needed for the growth and repair of the body.

"For one point in which the men-made machine may go wrong there are a thousand where this infinitely complex human machine may slip into trouble. We bade him be fair to the doctor by recognizing the infinite complexity of the problem of making the right diagnosis in a complicated human disease.

"And then, to drive in the last nail of conviction, we dyelt upon the marvelous fact, that the human machine is self-repairing. To match that, the automobile would have to be capable of building up the walls of its cylinders, the surfaces of its piston-rings and the seating of its valves, continuously, and in the exact measure in which they were worn away. And as for the tires, they would have to fabricate new rubber on their treads as these were ceaselessly disintegrated; and when a deep gash was cut in the shoe, molecule by molecule new rubber would have to be built up by the tire itself, automatically, until the wound was wholly closed.

"Although it is true that but for this marvellous power of self-repair, the doctors and surgeons would, indeed, be in a hopeless quandry, we may at least be assured that the most difficult repair job in a garage or a factory is simplicity itself compared with repair work in a hospital of sick men."

WHERE ALL AGREE

London Times: The result of the Japanese elections was an overwhelming victory for democracy. It is rather remarkable that, according to all reports, the question of Japanese exclusion from America seems to have played little part in the elections. Yet it is known that Japanese public opinion has been deeply stirred by the action of Congress. The right explanation is probably the obvious one that in this matter Japan is united, and that every party feels the same desire to uphold the status of Japanese abroad. Whatever disintegration modern ideas may have produced in domestic politics they are not likely to affect the country's foreign policy or to diminish that national sense of which Japan is so acutely conscious.

COMMONS VOTES FIVE MILLIONS TO FINISH PORT

Ottawa, July 14. — The house of commons tonight passed a resolution introduced by Hon. P. J. Cardin, minister of marine and fisheries, preliminary to a bill empowering the governor in council to advance to the Vancouver harbor commissioners an amount not to exceed $5,000,000, to enable that corporation to complete the construction of terminal facilities in Vancouver harbor. The bill based on the resolution was subsequently given a first reading.

During the debate Robert Gardiner, Progressive, Medicine Hat, said that R. E. Beattie, one of the harbor commissioners, was a former member of parliament who had resigned owing to ill health and intimated that Mr. Beattie, on account of being a member of the board, was also an employee under the board.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen said that he had not been aware until tonight of this government appointe who had appointed himself as his own employee. A harbor commission man had engaged himself, and doubled his own salary. With such instances as this coming out, the government seemed capable of anything.

"This is the man who resigned to let the minister of public works into parliament," said Mr. Meighen.

Hon. J. H. King, minister of public works, defended the appointment of Mr. Beattie and said the success of the harbor was evidence that the appointment had worked well.

Second reading of the bill was postponed until another day.

UNEMPLOYMENT DOLES

Labor members of the British parliament are beginning to acknowledge that the solution of the problem of unemployment is not as simple a one as they thought it when they had nothing to do but criticize governments which they opposed. They are growing restless over the failure of their own government to make any forward steps. One of their number, Mr. Sanderman, of Manchester, proposes that the recipients of the state dole under the age of 50 should be compelled to undergo three hours' physical training every day. That proposal would have moral and physical advantages. It is difficult, however, to see how a Labor government would enforce physical exercise for that would be tantamount to the conscription of labor, and Labor opposes conscription. It would take an army of officials, too, to see that upwards of a million unemployed, scattered all over the country, engaged in any exercise that might be decreed. The suggestion of the Socialist member for Manchester is hardly feasible, but that it should have been made indicates a new current of thought running through the minds of the Labor government's supporters on the question of unemployment and the dole system. Truly responsibility has a chastening influence.

SOLDIERS' PENSION ACT TO BE AMENDED

Ottawa, July 16.—Several amendments to the Soldiers' Pension act are affected in a bill which was given a third reading in the commons today.

The preliminary resolution provides that no pension will be awarded when death or disability of a member of the Canadian forces was due to improper conduct, but that the commissioner may award such pension as he deems fit when an applicant is in a dependent condition. An exception to this rule is when death occurred on service before the Pension act came into force.

Some slight changes also are made in the condition under which dependents of a petitioner are awarded, under which provision is made for "specially meritorious cases" claiming compassionate pension or allowance.

A number of unusual cases, claiming compassionate consideration were cited by various members who took part in the debate.

"If this sort of thing continues," said C. G. Power, Liberal, Quebec South, "we will have a pension system like that in the United States, where old men on their death beds are marrying young women."

Mr. Power was speaking in reference to the lengthening from five to ten years the period within which the widow of a pensioner would be entitled to pension.

CANADIAN HISTORY

Woodstock Sentinel Review: The London Advertiser is of the opinion that the people of Canada do not know their own history as well as they should Probably the same might be said of the peoples of most countries. There ought to be an improvement in this respect in Canada, however. There was a time when it was the belief of many people, even in Canada, that this country had no history, or at least little that was worth reading. Now most people have come to know that Canada has a history, that it is well worth reading, and that several good books in which one may read about it may be found in the public libraries and other places .

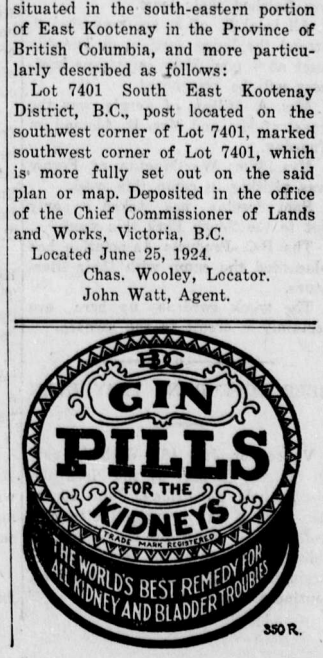
BY MOTOR AND PACK HORSE THROUGH CLOUD WONDERLAND



FOR the man or woman in search of healthful recreation, rest for jaded nerves, and a thoroughly enjoyable holiday, the world offers nothing more entrancing than a holiday in Jasper National Park, Canada's wonderland of scenery, where mountain, crag and torrent vie with one another in claiming the attention and where scenic nature is at her best Towering peaks rise to the north, south, east and west; mirrored in the beauty of placid lakes whose shores provide shelter for the myriad wild life for which the largest of all Canada's national parks is famous.

Whether the tourist goes sightseeing by motor car or by the more romantic pack pony, Jasper National Park offers him the best that can be found anywhere Motor roads and pack trails radiate in every direction from Jasper Park Lodge, the magnificent log cabin hotel of the Canadian National Railways, and the tourist may engage either ponies and guides or an automobile and thus see the mountains at his pleasure

Mount Edith Cavell, named to honor the memory of Britain's heroic nurse, rises by the side of Mount Sorrow, within a short drive of the Lodge and is one of the favorite drives of visitors to the Lodge. The Cavell highway, smooth-surfaced, winds up toward the very foot of the Ghost Glacier, presenting to the visitor a new vista of scenic wonders at every turn. As one rides toward the foot of the glacier, the Athabasca Valley far beneath presents an attractive picture of calm loveliness, while here and there a lake, reflecting blue sky and sunshine, adds its touch to the beauty of the landscape. There are other drives which may be taken in comfort—one may go in an hour, for instance, to the wonderful Maligne Canyon, one of the natural wonders of the entire Rocky Mountain region, where rushing waters go tumbling and boiling through a narrow aperture worn in the rock, two hundred feet below the feet of the tourist as he or she stands on one of the footbridges which span its narrow width. At any turn of the road the visitor may find himself face to face with a bear or a deer, walking calmly across the highway, while on the sides of the mountains he may see mountain sheep or goats grazing.

The tourist to whom riding appeals will find plenty to hold his attention. Pack trails may be followed for miles, when in the company of an efficient guide, one may set forth to explore regions which are beyond the reach of the motor tourist. The wondrous Maligne Lake and Medicine Lake, with their quota of mountains reaching down almost to the water's edge, draw more and more tourists every year.

For years the wonders of Canada's national parks have been better known outside of Canada than they have been to Canadians, but year by year Canadians themselves are realizing that they have, in their own country, scenic attractions which are not surpassed anywhere in the world, and consequently the number of Canadians registering at Jasper Park Lodge is showing remarkable increases. Comfortable, steam-heated cabins are provided for their accommodation, an excellent cuisine is maintained at the main Lodge, where surroundings and service are of the world famous Canadian National Railways standard and every care is taken to see that visitors to Canada's largest and finest national park enjoy their outing to the full.

COAL CREEK NOTES

So many of our residents being out on fishing expeditions, the camp presents a deserted appearnace.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. W. Atherton, a son.

Through the kindness of John Worthington, John Walls and Frank Worthington, the Ladies Aid of the United Church up here enjoyed a splendid outing by auto to Cranbrook on Tuesday.

The old "swimmin ole" still proves attractive and many aquatic feats are performed by the younger generation.

Several auto parties visited McBain's Lake on Wednesday and Thursday.

Sam Heaney says he is glad his partner George has arrived back, as attention to George's business has been an out of pocket affair for Sammy.

A meeting of the householders is called for tonight in the school house to elect two auditors for the school board, J. E. Smith and J. Lees having finished their term.

All local K. of P. are requested to attend the lodge session on Tuesday next at 7 p.m. Very important business will be transacted.

Mrs. A. Hilton, of Fernie, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. Alstead on Tuesday.

Mrs. Wm. Worthington of Fernie was visiting in camp this week.

Sam Proctor has taken a party out to the South Fork this week.

The B.C. Products Association has placarded the camp with their literature.

NEWS NOTES FROM CRANBROOK DISTRICT

Cranbrook, July 17.—Their friends in the city have been welcoming the three daughters of R. E. Beattie, Misses Elsie, Mary and Jean. This is their first visit to their former home town since their removal to Vancouver on Mr. Beattie's appointment to the harbor board there. They motored in from the coast and Mr. Beattie is expected to make a short visit here as well, on his return from a business trip he is making to Ottawa.

Mrs. E. Small and daughters Misses Phyllis and Mary, joined Mr. Small here on Saturday last and are now residing for the summer in the home of Judge and Mrs. Thompson, on Burwell avenue.

The old steam laundry building on Cranbrook street, which was the scene of a fire which left that place in a very dilapidated state, has been condemned by the city authorities, and is to be pulled down.

Mrs. W. J. Johnston and son left the end of last week for Revelstoke to join her husband, a locomotive engineer, who recently transferred to the main line point.

Magee, who is a member of the school staff, here, underwent another serious operation on Friday last, but is now making good progress toward recovery.

Rev. W. J. Haynes, who arrived from England last week, took the services at the Baptist church on cupy the pulpit for some weeks, re-Sunday last, and will continue to occlieving the regular pastor, Rev. W. T. Tapscott.

A wedding of some interest to Kimberley people took place last Thursday evening here at the Presbyterian manse in the evening. The contracting couple were Miss Ethel J. Switzer and David W. Christie, both of Kimberley. The wedding was a quiet one, and the couple were attended by Miss Lily Hawkins and R. A. Whorley.

Saturday last was "Orangemen's Day," the glorious twelfth, and it was marked by the local Orange lodge here with the usual all day session.

The call of the calliope is no longer heard in the land.

TWO BAD FIRES NEAR CRANBROOK

Cranbrook, July 16.—In spite of all the precautions which have been taken this year to prevent forest fires, this district is now very much concerned over two big ones, one near the head of Dutch Creek and the other one back of Yahk. District Forester Moore, with crews of fire fighters, went out to Dutch Creek on Monday. The weather has been exceedingly dry for some time past and high winds which have been blowing for the past few days make the situation very serious. There are several other smaller fires reported and are being watched closely.

Money: Something that is a nuisance if you have and makes a nuisance of you if you haven't. If you save it the tax collector gets it, and if you don't save it the bailiff gets you. If you put it in a bank the financiers get it; if you carry it around with you the bandits get it; if you take it home your wife gets it. If you absent-mindedly allow it to accumulate you're an enemy to society; if you absent-mindedly let it slip through your fingers, you're no good.

THE SENATE AND THE INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES ACT

Ottawa, July 15.—The senate last night reaffirmed its position on the appointment of a third member in industrial disputes. Under the present law where two arbitrators cannot agree on the third, he is appointed by the minister of labor. The senate amended this to give the right of appointment of the third member in such cases to the chief justice of the province in which the dispute is, or if the dispute affects more than one province, to the chief justice of Canada. The commons refused to accept this amendment and in the bill was returned to the senate. Senator Danurand moved that the senate do not insis upon this change. This was defeated 34 to 10.

Hearts that loved him in deepest affection,
Still love him in death just the same.

A GUEST'S SURPRISE

When the guest who went through one of our factories recently came away she said she was more than satisfied that Pacific Milk is as rich and as pure and as clean as milk possibly can be.

She could hardly believe that we wouuld be as particular as we are about everything.

But after all is said we only keep clean and pure the good fresh milk supplied by the matchless herds of the Fraser Valley.

The humblest man or woman can live splendidly. That is the royal truth we need to believe, you and I, who have no "mission" and no great sphere to move in. — William C. Gannett.

A fairly representative body of business people, with representatives of the fraternal societies, joined with the G.W.V.A. at the meeting assembled at the city hall on Friday evening last to consider the advisability of holding sports and a carnival on Labor Day. GOV.-GENERAL ON AUGUST 7

Arrangements are being made for a reception to be given Baron Byng, Governor General of Canada, and party, when they stop off at Fernie on August 7th for two hours. They will be here from 2.30 until 4.30.

Baron Byng is governor general of the Dominion, the king's representative, but his place in the minds of Canadian people is that of the one-time leader of the Canadian corps to some of the most brilliant victories of the Great War. The memory of Byng, the war time leader of the Canadians, will never be effaced by his present high position in peace.

He was born on Sept. 11, 1862. He was married in 1902 to Marie Evelyn, only child of Hon. Sir Richard Moreton, K.C.V.O.

The military career which has led this distinguished soldier to such heights started in 1883, when he joined the 10th Royal Hussars. He was a major in 1893 and a colonel in 1901. He served in the Sudan expedition of 1884, including El Teb and Tamani, for which he wears a medal with clasp, and Khedive's star. He was in South Africa from 1899 to 1902, where he was mentioned in dispatches. For the campaign in Africa he wears the Queen's medal with six clasps and the king's medal.

From 1902 to 1904 he commanded the 10th Royal Hussars and was in charge of the cavalry school at Netherhaven from 1904 to 1907. He commanded the Second Cavalry Brigade from 1905 to 1907, and the First Cavalry Brigade from 1907 to 1909, when he was made a major-general and commanded the East Anglican Division from 1910 to 1912. He was G.O.C. in Egypt from 1912 to 1914.

In 1915 he was mentioned in dispatches from the Dardanelles and promoted to lieutenant general. Previous to this he had commanded the Third Cavalry Division until May, Cavalry Corps, the Ninth Army Corps, and the Seventeenth Army Corps in succession. In April, 1916, he took command of the Canadian Corps and began building up that organization until it took second place to none in the British Army in any department.

Speaking in Calgary recently a divisional commander who served under him in the Canadian Corps, said it was General Byng who inspired the Canadians with the pride in their corps that totally eclipsed the previous viewpoint of battalion and division. He made the corps a living thing. It ceased to be merely four excellent divisions.

In 1917 he took over the Third army in France and became general. He was thanked by parliament for his services and voted £30,000. He is honorary colonel of the 5th Bn. Essex Regiment, and Hon. LL.D. of Cambridge.

ENDEAVOR TO END STRIKE

Calgary, July 24.—Prospects are bright for an early settlement of the miners' strike in Alberta. James Murdock, minister of labor, is expected to arrive in this city within the next ten days or two weeks, and will meet a delegation of officers from District 18, U.M.W. of A., and from the Western Coal Operators' Association, in an endeavor to reach some sort of an agreement. In all probability the meeting will be held in Calgary on Aug. 8, and if successful the miners will start work on Aug. 15.

Wm. Sherman, president of District 18, was not inclined to discuss the proposed conference to any great extent, but said that if a conference was called the miners' representatives would attend. R. M. Young, secretary of the coal operators, could not be reached last night.

The Lethbridge Herald says:

With the fourth month of the coal strike throughout District 18 drawing to a close, the situation remains unchanged, with no immediate prospect for relief, unless Hon. J. Murdock effects a settlement on his Alberta visit in August.

Mining centres are quiet with probably a half of the workers away seeking work. A number have recently returned and report work difficult or impossible to secure. Those who remain seem to be standing the enforced slack time well so far. A limited amount of strike relief is being distributed, the last distribution having been made last week.

The demand for coal throughout the province is small at the present time, and is being filled by various non-union mines throughout the province. At that, mines in the Edmonton country, which are producing the bulk of the coal being used, are working only three days or so a week.

BANK ROBBERY AT THE COAST

Vancouver, July 24.—Three bandits held up the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Granville and Robson streets, at 9.30 o'clock this morning, forced the manager, G. A. Bonnallie, to open the inner compartment of the steel vault, and escaped with $19,000.

Mr. Bonnallie attempted to turn and grapple with one of the desperadoes, and was struck over the head with the butt end of a revolver, which cut open his scalp. Bleeding and dazed, he was compelled to open the vault, and the bandits scooped several bundles of bills from the cash drawer.

The other two robbers kept the other members of the staff covered with their revolvers and compelled them to lie prostrate on the floor. H. Buss, ledgerkeeper, attempted to scrutinize the men but was threatened with death by one of the thugs who struck him with the muzzle of a gun.

The leader of the gang, who directed the others in a cool and deliberate manner, was armed with an automatic. There were two boxes of cash in the vault; one a large one in which were many thousands of dollars and a smaller one containing a lesser amount. These boxes were locked. The bandit was forced to discard the larger one but the smaller one, containing several bundles of bills, was taken.

The teller stated that he will recognize one of the robbers as the man had transacted some business with the bank several days ago.

Running from the bank the bandits jumped into a waiting automobile, which was standing at the curb with the engine running, and sped away south on Granville street, being lost in the traffic.

COM. SPALDING MAKES CIRCLE

My first trip this yea[r] [e]ach of the towns affiliated with [T]ourist Association is now a t[o]f the past and I shall always [r]ber it as one of the most enjo[y] drives in my experience.

I varied my usual rule [t]ime and went east first, callin[g] Cole-man, Blairmore and Pinc[r]reek, where I put up for the [n]ight and started for Waterton Lake[s] following morning. There ha[d] [b]en a lot of rain during the preceding days but I heard that the road was in a fair condition so did not bother to put on chains. The guy who told me that didn't care how he handled the truth. After getting out a few miles I wondered what he would have called a bad road. Several miles of it had just been regraded before the rain. Twenty miles of low gear running. Five other cars were stuck in it all that night.

The more I see of Waterton Lakes Park the better I like it. There is a considerable increase in the accommodation for visitors there now, furnished tents with everything one needs if they want to do their own cooking; if not, there are restaurants to go to for meals. There are a lot of cottages with rooms for rent, and when Mark Rogers has his chalets ready, there will be ample first class accommodation for this and next year.

Whilst at Waterton I had a meeting with the business men there and as a result they have joined our Association.

I drove from there to Lethbridge via Cardston and found those roads to be in excellent shape. Next morning it was heigh ho! for the Macleod Stampede. A procession of several hundred cars was made up and started off at 7 a.m. for Macleod. It is only 35 miles but there must have been at least 75 to 100 cars pulled to the side of the road with tire troubles.

The Macleod people pulled off what is probably the largest and most successful celebration that has ever been held in the west. They are to be congratulated for the way in which everything was managed. There were just on 7000 autos and between 18,000 and 20,000 people in that small town on the 1st, and not a single untoward occurrence marred the day's festivities.

Next day I went on to Medicine Hat, finding the road in splendid shape, but crop conditions very poor and pessimism rather pronounced. It was a very hot afternoon's drive and when I reached the Hat I was taken up to see the swimming pool. It is a dandy and well patronized by young and old and the seats all around it were well filled with interested onlookers.

From the Hat back to Lethbridge, then on to Calgary was my next jump. The weather cooled off somewhat and the road being fine, I enjoyed that drive better htan I have ever enjoyed it before.

The Calgary-Banff road may ultimately be a good one. The improvement over last year, however, is not very noticeable as yet and the less about it the better.

At Banff I met a Mr. Cole, who was making a tour of the Canadian National Parks getting material for lectures on behalf of the Chicago Daily News. He was going from there direct to Jasper Park, but I persuaded him to go with me to Lake Louise, and then come as far as Fernie with me over the B.-W. road. At Lake Louise we did quite a lot of climbing and both got some fine pictures.

I used to think that I was inclined to shoot off films rather extravagantly whenever I was in scenery worth shooting, but I took my hat off to Cole on this trip over the B.-W. road home. It was the slowest drive I have ever made. It was, "Let me out" every quarter mile or so. It took us from 9 a.m., when we left Banff, until 8 p.m. to make the 40 odd miles to Vermillion Crossing. We stayed over night at the Bungalow Camp there and slept in a tepee furnished with floor, two cots, washstand and stove. There were six blankets on each cot. In the morning at about 6.30 the camp roustabout came in and lit a fire for us to dress by. We needed it, too. I woke up cold and pulled my overcoat over the cot. That camp is over a mile up in the air.

The next day was a repetition of the previous one. Cole simply went

SCHOOL BOARD CUTS EXPENSE

There will be considerable change in the Public and High School teaching staff for the coming term. J. B. Beddome, Principal of the High School, has resigned to accept a similar position at Revelstoke, and W. R. Pepper has been elected to the principalship.

Miss Corbett, also of the High School staff, has resigned and her position will be filled by F. M. Wallace, B.A., of Vancouver.

On the Public School staff, Miss Wolefenden, of New Westminster, has been appointed to the position of assistant principal to take the place of Miss Hogan, who resigned some weeks ago.

Miss Edna Wallace has also been added to the Public School staff.

In the Public School several rooms have been consolidated and the staff reduced by two, leaving room for the High School pupils to be moved from the present church building to the Public School. This change will cut down expenses considerably and is a move in the direction of economy which will be gladly welcomed by the taxpayers, who have felt for some time that a move toward consolidation was badly needed.

HOUSE AND HOME BANK

Ottawa, July 17.—The long advertised debate on the claim of the Home bank depositors for reimbursement took place in the house of commons tonight, and lasted less than two minutes. In fact, in the usual of that word, there was no debate. Nevertheless, the house committed itself to the provision that the "depositors of the Home Bank have a moral claim in equity for compensation by the country on account of any loss they may have suffered by reason of the failure of the Home bank."

The subject was called up by Premier King as soon as the house resumed its evening sitting.

Thomas Vien, chairman of the banking committee fo the house, moved a compact resolution that the house concur in the report of the committee. The essence of the report of the committee was the sentence quoted above.

As soon as the speaker had put Mr. Vien's motion to the house it was followed by him saying, "Carried," with the rising inflection of the interrogative.

There were answering cries from the house of "Carried," with an affirmative inflection, but no negatives made themselves heard.

Mr. Vien kept his seat.

There was a pause and a hush of waiting in the chamber.

"Isn't there to be a debate on this question?" asked W. F. MacLean, Conservative, South York.

The only answer was again the cry, "Carried."

The speaker confirmed the verdict of the house and declared the motion carried. The debate was over.

There was a burst of desk hammering and laughter and with a sigh of relief the members turned to the discussion of the routine estimates of the privy council office.

The debate on the Home bank was over and no statement of government policy had been made.

The attitude of Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance, before the banking committee, however, was that the government should have a more complete report of the results of the liquidation proceedings before announcing its policy.

100,000 TONS COAL FOR EAST

(Edmonton Journal)

The announcement that the Dominion government has provided $200,000 in the supplementary estimates, for assistance in the marketing of Alberta coal in Ontario, is the beginning of the end of a campaign for the widening of Alberta markets undertaken as far back as 1920 by Trade Commissioner Howard Stutchbury.

"It was always one of my dreams, when first I took over the office of provincial trade commissioner, that the market for Alberta coal could and must be widened to embrace the prairie provinces and later, the eastern Canadian field," said Mr. Stutchbury, when shown the Ontario dispatch.

This was the first announcement received by Mr. Stutchbury, that his efforts to have the Dominion government get behind the movement, had borne fruit. After the successful conquest of the Winnipeg market in 1921 and 1922, Mr. Stutchbury set himself diligently to the task of introducing Alberta coal in Ontario.

He had mountains of difficulties to climb, and sloughs of discouragement to wade through, but he never wavered in his view that there was a market for Alberta coal in Ontario, if once he could get it opened. The freight rate of $12.70 per ton was against the hauling of Alberta coal to sell in the east at a price that would enable it to compete with American fuel.

Mr. Stutchbury asked the railways for lower rates. The railways said lower rates could not be given. But Mr. Stutchbury persisted. He went to Ontario as the apostle of Alberta coal. Everywhere, he was greeted with enthusiasm by people of city and country alike, who were growing more and more tired each year of using the steadily deteriorating type of U.S. fuel which they had, perforce, to buy.

Premier Ferguson of Ontario got behind the movement started by Mr. Stutchbury. The United Farmers of Ontario went solidly for it. The boards of trade, chambers of commerce, and other public bodies of every city and town in Ontario set up a demand for Alberta coal. Here and there were interests which would be adversely affected if Alberta coal found a footing in Ontario. These interests did their best to kill the movement by insisting that it was economically unsound and would never prevail.

Unscrupulous "get rich quick" financiers saw a chance to make some easy money, and by all sorts of methods took advantage of the interest in Alberta coal, to unload unsound stock-selling proposition on the people of the east, to sell them Alberta coal which they knew they could not deliver; all these things militated against the success of the movement, and held back the inevitable moment of triumph.

But Mr. Stutchbury and his eastern allies persisted. Finally, the C.N.R. granted special rates of $9 per ton on a few shipments of Alberta coal as a try-out. Immediately thereafter, the movement of Alberta coal became a tidal wave of public opinion. The east must and would have Alberta coal.

The U. S. operators lowered their prices to fight the growing tide which was flowing in from the mines of Alberta. They were met with the argument that even if it wasn't directly possible to send Alberta coal to Ontario, Canada, nevertheless saved thousands of dollars because of these reductions in price. At some places, a cut of as much as $3 was made in one week. At Montreal, where Welsh domestic coal was coming in by shiploads, the U.S. operator dropped his price by that amount.

At Norwich, Ont., where Alberta coal last winter was met by the town bands and a cheering populace in gala dress, the U.S. coal dropped $2.50 a ton, out of fear for what Alberta coal might do in the market. Ontario was sold, and sold permanently, on Alberta coal.

In April, 1924 following a second triumphal visit of Mr. Stutchbury to Ontario, where he was again hailed as the apostle of Alberta coal, the provincial trade commissioner wrote Hon. Charles Stewart, suggesting that as there was much confusion and a mass of conflicting opinion as to what it actually cost to carry Alberta coal east, and that as the national line, already in debt, should not be asked or expected to bear the added burden of a loss of coal haulage, the Dominion government agree to cover any loss to the C.N.R. on 100,000 tons of Alberta coal carried in solid train lots at a rate of $6 per ton.

Mr. Stutchbury pointed out then that already the campaign for an Ontario market for Alberta coal had resulted in great savings in price to eastern users due to reduction in price of U.S. coal through fear of low freight rates from Alberta. He suggested that even if there were a loss on carrying this coal and the Dominion government had to make that loss good, the country would gain by the reduced price on U.S. coal.

A compromise figure of $6.50 was finally reached and as stated in the Ottawa dispatch today, Alberta will be able to ship 100,000 tons of coal to Ontario this season, at a price of $6.50 per ton.

Asked how and when this movement would be made, Mr. Stutchbury said he was not yet able to give any information but that it would probably be along lines suggested by him in a memo submitted to the Dominion government and the C.N.R. in May of this year.

The movement would be on the same basis as the grain movement, i.e., in train lots using largest available cars and maximum load for through traffic, shipments to be completed by September. All shipments to be made under direction of the trade commissioner for Alberta, to ensure quality and suitability of the coal shipped.

Costs, suggested Mr. Stutchbury, would be carefully kept, and the movement made during the summer period of unemployment, when cars, motive equipment and men are largely idle.

That the immediate present is the time to begin shipments is borne out by a circular letter sent by the Railway Freight Association of Canada, which advises boards of trade and other public bodies that there is one billion dollars of capital at present tied up in idle railroad equipment, which should be used to carry coal and other produce which could be marketed during the quiet period.

Asked as to wether a rate of $6.50 per ton would be found on careful accounting to show that it was a possible rate, Mr. Stutchbury said, "I am not prepared to say that the railways will find they can carry coal from Alberta to Ontario at $6.50 per ton in solid train lots during the quiet period, but it is my opinion that the government will not be called upon to pay any loss in the operation."

"We are at least now given the chance for which we have been working since 1920 and personally I have no hesitation in stating that this experiment means the final step in the permanent adoption of Alberta coal as Ontario's standard fuel."

LAST YEAR BIG ONE FOR TIMBER INDUSTRY

Victoria, July 23.—A most gratifying report of the timber industry is that just released by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands. It shows that scaling returns for 1923 show a total of 2,521,735,000 feet, of which 2,237,000,000 feet was in the form of saw-logs. This is an increase of 25 per cent over the record year of 1920, and credit is given the forest branch for the efficient administration which has resulted in such encouraging development.

Douglas fir is first, with 1,150,000,000 feet, cedar second with 575,000,000 feet and hemlock third with 340,000,000 feet. The income returned to the timber industries amounted to $86,674,000, an increase of 45 per cent over the previous year.

The water-borne trade rose to 521,707,000 feet, an increase of 91 per cent over 1922, and more than ten times the material shipped in 1917. There were 3000 logging operations carried on and 352 sawmills engaged in cutting lumber.

Hon. Mr. Pattullo shows that the revenue received directly from timber amounted to $3,482,365. In addition was $308,041 received through taxation of crown granted timber.

Forest protection work last year was most effective. The 1530 fires of 1923 caused a timber loss of only $74,000, while the damage to buildings and equipment was $617,000. This was only 30 per cent of the damage done during 1922.

The government has several parties in the field studying timber problems, so that the most effective methods may be followed in the preservation of the timber wealth of British Columbia.

Stowaways and "bling baggage" riders are exposed to fewer hardships and hazards than the daring airomen who venture on a globe-circling trip.

OLIVER HAS HALF OF THE SEATS IN B.C.

Vancouver, July 21.—The completion of the count of absentee ballots in the provincial election held on June 20, resulted in the defeat of Gen. A. D. McRae, of Vancouver, leader of the provincial party, and the re-election of Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith. Mrs. Smith was first elected to the provincial assembly in the general elections of 1916. Twenty-four Liberals, 16 Conservatives, 3 Provincials, 2 Independents and 3 Laborites were declared elected on Friday.

Mrs. Smith was given a majority of 207 votes over Gen. McRae and 165 over A. M. Creery, Provincial, who retains his place as representative of Vancouver in the legislature but drops from fifth to sixth position.

MORE HONORS FOR CANADA

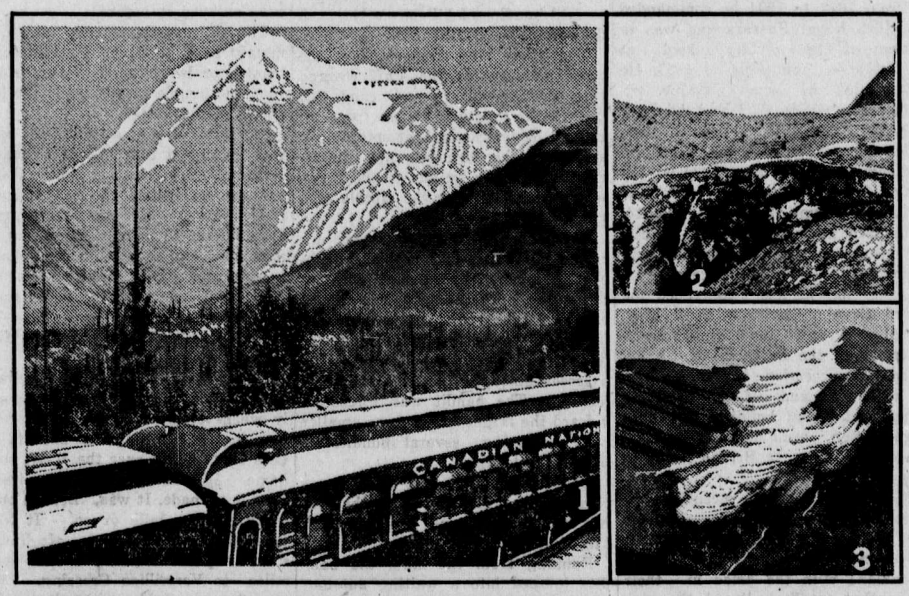
While Vancouver is still rejoicing in the notable achievement of its four-oared crew on the Seine comes the news that Private Burke, of Ottawa, has carried off the King's Prize at Bisley.

The King's Prize is the blue ribbon rifle competition. Established by Queen Victoria in the old Wimbledon days, it was resigned to encourage marksmanship for military purposes, and to that end the rule has been rigidly observed from the first that only officers and men actually serving, whether in the active or auxiliary forces, should be allowed to compete, and that they must compete with the ordinary service rifle.

Canada has brought home the trophy some five or six times. Twenty years ago it came to Vancouver, Private Perry, of F Company, Sixth Regiment, D.C.O.R., winning it with a score of 321 points.

The machine gun has largely replaced the rifle in modern warfare, but the qualities of self-control and perseverance that are developed in training for the King's Prize contest will always be of value, no matter what form the fighting of the future takes.

Therein, in fact, liesthe true worth of all competitions based on real sportsmanship. It is not that a fraction more of skill or endurance is attained by the winner, but that winner and losers alike voluntarily submit themselves to a severe training which makes them, physically, mentally and morally, better men and better citizens.



Canada has no electoral college, but a training school for deputy returning officers would present much inexcusable bungling in recording the vote.

Vigorous protests are being made against the continuance of the passport system, a war-time relic. Passports are generally regarded as having outlived their usefulness, and developed into an expensive and irritating nuisance.

WHERE MIGHTY RIVERS ARE BORN

FROM the snow-capped peak of Mount Robson and other great mountains along the main line of the Canadian National Railways in Alberta and British Columbia, there is a constant trickle of water which, commencing as a small mountain torrent, grows until it reaches the dimensions of a mighty river on its way either to the ocean, to Hudson's Bay or to interior lakes. Fields of ice, stretching as far as the eye can see, provide the source of many streams which later become large enough to bear the burdens of commerce from the interior to the ocean outlets to the world.

Mount Robson, which is seen from the trains of the Canadian National Railway, is 13,068 feet high, and the highest peak of the Canadian Rockies. This year the Alpine Club of Canada, numbering among its members the most eminent authorities on mountain lore, will hold its annual camp at the foot of this monarch of the Rockies, and numerous peaks surrounding the district will be climbed by the hardy lovers of outdoor life.

Canadian National trains stop at the foot of Mount Robson in order that travellers may see this massive peak, towering until it seems to pierce the very sky-line, and scarcely a tourist passes through who does not attempt to get one or more photographic memoirs of his or her trip.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

CASTE IN THE CHURCHES

Another indictment drawn against the much berated denominational system is that it has an undemocratic spirit and program. Theoretically it would seem that a multiplicity of churches of various beliefs would be the essence of democracy, giving to each individual an opportunity to choose whichever is desired. But in actual life, says The Herald of Gospel Liberty, denominationalism is working out very differently. In fact, "it is tending to separate even Christian people into castes and classes," and there is no denying, we are told, that denominational groups form cliques which regard themselves as much superior to some others. Moreover, this tendency breeds an acute selfishness among churches. They pass from a state of indifference to the trials of others to a sense of satisfaction when a neighboring church fails. Continues The Herald of Gospel Liberty:

"But even more serious as a factor in a democracy is the fact that through denominationalism the children of the community are given shamefully unequal chances in their religious education and church life. Certain children go to fine churches, with great equipments and competent Sunday school teachers; while neighbroken down church, with no equipboring children attend some little ment, and with Sunday school teaching unworthy of the name. Such inequality of advantages would not for a moment be tolerated in secular education. The injustice of it in religious education is so apparent that it is tolerated only because we have been hardened to it through a lifetime of familiarity. To shift the responsibility of such inequality of advantages from denominationalism to the individual home, and declare that the children in the poor Sunday schools should be sent to the finer equipped churches, is pure evasion. In the first place, the number of high class churches provided for each city is wholly inadequate to care for all such children. And in the second place, such a process would only tend to build up an aristocracy of denomination — which would make matters tremendously worse than they now are from the standpoint of democracy, making it impossible for the smaller denominations to live. This would hand over the entire Christian program to a few big wealthy denominations that are conducted on a denominational plane and with a denominational spirit."

Such an undemocratic spirit would not be tolerated for an instant in the public school system, says a writer in The Unity Messenger. Children in every ward have equal advantages so far as public school education is concerned, he says, and goes on:

"But some of these same children attend poorly equipped, poorly manned Sunday schools, while others have the best of equipment and leadership lavished upon their religious education. This could not be true if our church funds were administered democratically and equitably, instead of on a basis of denominationalism and essential selfishness. We can never put religious education to the fore in our smaller communities until we get rid of sectarianism. The people are ready. They realize the efficiency, democracy and spiritual effectiveness of the community church. They only need to be given the courage and faith to believe that in their communities they can change the established order and to be shown how they can do so."

VACCINATION AND SMALLPOX

Some striking evidence of the value of vaccination appears in the June issue of the Public Health Journal, under the signature of Dr. R. R. McClenahan of the Ontario public health service.

During February and March of this year several towns in Ontario experienced smallpox epidemics.

	Cases	Deaths	Mort.
Windsor
Never successfully vaccinated	21	15	71%
Vaccinated 12, 20, 21, 23, 30, 40, 50, 62 years previously	8	....	....
Vaccinated in incubation period, i.e., came down with smallpox and a taking vaccination	5	....	....
Amehrstburg and Vicinity
Never successfully vaccinated	11	10	90%
Vaccinated 20, 40, 50, 60 years before	5	....	....
Vaccination in incubation period	1	....	....
Maidstone and Vicinity
Never successfully vaccinated	5	5	100%
Vaccinated years before, number of years unknown	2	....	....
Taking vaccination and smallpox	3	....	....
Totals.
Total unvaccinated	39	32	82%
Total vaccinated at some period of life up to 62 years ago, or taking vaccination	24	....	....

These figures show the high mortality rate among the unvaccinated and how previous vaccination, no matter how long before, modified the course of the disease.

The report continues:

The above figures, however, do not show the following facts, although they are perhaps as striking in connection with the value of vaccination:

1. No person who had been vaccinated at any time in his life or who had a taking vaccination was at any time seriously or dangerously ill. All these cases were very mild in character.

2. All unvaccinated cases who had the disease and recovered ran a very severe course and the majority were so ill that their recovery was not expected.

But the best evidence, after all, is the fact that of the 39 unvaccinated cases, 32 died. Of the 24 vaccinated cases, none died.

This way clever women resist the years

The simplest beauty secret known— but the most effective

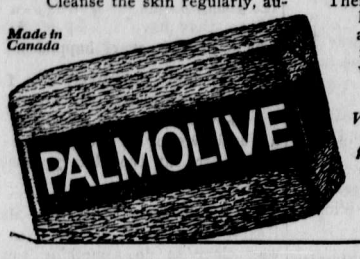
Every day you see women well along in years, who still retain the charm of youthful, lovely skin. They are not unusually fortunate—just clever enough to resist the years!

They know and follow a simple method, which you may employ as successfully as they do. This tells you how.

Authorities advise this

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.



Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

Be sure you get Palmolive Soap—which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. Then try this method. Watch the improvement in your skin.

It is very economical. So let Palmolive do for your whole body what it does for the face.

ANIMAL LIFE FOUND UNDER SAHARA DESERT

There is animal life 200 and 300 feet beneath the burning sands of the Sahara Desert. This amazing discovery has been made through experiments of sinking artesian wells at various points. Water drawn from the great depths were found to contain small crabs, fish and shellfish, all alive. Usually it has been possible to explain the presence of fish in underground waters in the fact that they were locked up during some primeval cataclysm. Those found underneath the Sahara belong to a species inhabiting the lakes of Palestine. Shafts sunk during the last few years in the Sahara prove there are large sheets of water everywhere. Animals found now cause the belief there is a vast underground sea densely inhabited.

Unemployed juveniles of both sexes between the age of 16 and 18 are provided with tasks, known as "duty work" by the authorities at Frankfort-on-Main. It appears that disabled ex-service men, war widows, mothers with large families, the old and infirm and public institutions may call on the services of the unemployed juveniles to go on errands of all kinds, to do housework, to fetch and to carry. They are required to do 12 hours of this nature of work a week and receive a further 12 hours' instruction usually by out of work teachers also doing "duty work." The object is to foster the spirit of social service. Germany in this respect is teaching a lesson to other countries in dealing with her problem of unemployment.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

IT is the easiest thing in the world to knock.

It is the easiest thing in the world to stay away from the election and then complain about the candidates elected.

It's easy to take part in the Parent-Teacher Association meetings and then knock on the schools.

It's easy to play golf or go picnicing all day Sunday and then criticize the church because it does not draw crowds.

It's just the easiest thing in the world to degenerate into a sour-faced, disagreeable, self-satisfied, chronic grumbler.

Every city, every town, no matter how large or how small, has its chronic pessimists, who see nothing but the bad in everything and do nothing to correct it.

A certain number will always exist, no doubt, as a horrible example for the rest of us, and even though they do no good, they at least forever will stand out as a living manifestation of what forward-looking people should not be.

Every community has its anvil chorus, and probably it is a permanent institution, but the membership is by no means as large as it once was and it seems to be dwindling from year to year.

THE ABSENTEE VOTE

Every voter in British Columbia is entitled to the right to exercise his franchise, and the more who take advantage of that right, the better. It is proper, therefore, that every facility should be afforded on election day for the polling of the vote. But the election four weeks ago has shown that there are very definite limits beyond which it is not desirable to go. Of the absentee vote, for instance, the province has had more than sufficient, and citizens will expect that by next election the provisions for taking it will have been wiped from the statute book.

The thing is cumbersome in the first place. The large number of spoiled ballots showed that this provision of the act was not well understood by either voters or returning officers, and was consequently ineffectual. Besides, the recording and counting, considering the comparatively small absentee vote polled, was very expensive.

Lastly, there is the very serious objection that the lengthy period intervening between the day of polling and the day of counting affords opportunity for manipulation, and where there is opportunity there will always be suspicion. It is not suggested that, on the present occasion, there was any unfairness in connection with the absentee vote, but the man in the street is saying that there might have been He does not trust it, and he will not fully trust any government placed in power by virtue of it. To achieve the best results the whole machinery of government should be entirely above suspicion.

Besides all this, there remains the fact that if the absentee vote is cancelled all parties will, on the whole, suffer to approximately the same extent, and this will hold good in the long run despite the fact that on June 20 the majority of voters absent from their homes appear to have been Liberals, though the Liberal vote in the province was only about one-third of the total. — Vancouver Province.

Here is the whole story of the Fruit Treatment for Rheumatism, told by a gentleman who suffered five years with this terrible affliction.

Mr. James Dobson, of Bronte, Ont. says: "The Rheumatism was in my right hip and shoulder; the pain was almost unendurable. After six months' Fruit Treatment with "Fruit-a-tives", I was completely relieved and am now in first class health".

It is a fact—proven by thousands of cases—that "Fruit-a-tives", the Fruit Treatment, absolutely relieves Rheumatism, Pain in the Back, Neuralgia, chronic Headaches due to stomach or liver troubles, and other forms of Kidney Disease.

The roads generally throughout the district are in fairly good shape with the exception of the stretch beteween Hosmer and Michel.

Are we going to have a swimming pool this year? The Free Press believes that there are sufficient funds on hand at present to make a practical start. It is not necessary to wait until the full amount is raised in order to commence operations in this essential and much desired undertaking. We are now passing through an industrial deadlock, and it would appear from what we learn through authentic sources, that the time is very opportune to launch out and make a real effort to get this long talked of scheme started. As a matter of fact, we are of the opinion that so far as the labor cost is concerned there are a number of men who are willing to give their services for the benefit of such an institution. Admitting this, then it would be wise to take advantage of this and make every possible move to get the thing going.

bugs with his camera and we took until eight that night to make Radium Hot Springs at Fairmont, where we had a delightful swim. The improvements which have been made at this place makes it much the best of all the camps along the Banff-Windermere road. There are 25 or 30 large roomy tents fully furnished. Each has a nice verandah with a canvas fly cover. They all have wooden floors and being high off the ground are perfectly dry. There is a large central restaurant, in which also there are furnished rooms. The large cement swimming pool with water of 90 degrees is beside this building, and it has 30 dressing rooms with shower baths.

The next morning was Sunday and we started bright and early for home, reaching here just about dark. When we got there this is what Mr. Cole said: "There is not much of the United States that I have not seen. When I get back to Chicago after this trip I shall be able to say the same about Canada. What I have seen with you in the past week beats anything I have ever seen before, but I would rather have missed it all than to have missed the last twenty miles, from Elko to Fernie. It is the grandest part of the whole trip."

The lateness of the tourist travel this year I found to be general. At Banff there had been none at all to speak of until the 10th of this month, when it started with a rush. The number of cars registered at the entrance to the park for the season, on the day I went through, which was the 8th, was only 193, I was told by the attendant. Not very many of them would be tourists, either; they would be week-end parties from Calgary. Bad weather and the Stampedes are what caused the delay.

Coleman, Blairmore and Pincher Creek have all greatly improved their camping grounds this year. Tourists wherever they stop over along the Crow's Nest Pass now will be very comfortable and they will help to increase the popularity of the Crow's Nest Pass route by speaking well wherever they go of the accommodation they have found.

The Church of England girls have established a holiday camp at Morrissey under the supervision of Mrs. E. Wood and Miss Marion Corsan. A large number of girls are attending and are reported to be having the time of their lives.

One might think that the local Board of Trade might take some action toward bringing about an adjustment of the labor troubles in this camp. There are hundreds of men in Fernie who are willing and anxious to return to work if some equitable arrangement could be arrived at with the Coal Company.

A number of fine elk were seen on the road yesterday near the hairpin turn between Fernie and Morrissey. A large number of deer are also reported along the road and a young cub bear that has taken up his quarters in Stanley Park is creating a great deal of interest for tourists and other travellers along the road.

The many friends of Mrs. J. W. Corning, wife of the former manager of the Victoria branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, will regret to hear of the bereavement she has sustained in the death of her mother, Mrs. Auld, who passed away at her home in Seattle on Tuesday after a long illness.—Victoria Colonist.

Harold Barger motored to Calagry on Saturday. He says he made the run in 7½ hours. Jack Wilson says he made the trip in 6½ hours last week, but we had not heard that he had purchased an airship. However, Jack says he is willing to gamble on six hours. Possibly they have paved the road recently.

Death came quietly to the home of Thomas Prentice, manager of the Crow's Nest Trading Co., early on Sunday morning, when Mrs. Prentice passed peacefully into the great beyond after a lingering illness. The funeral, which took place from Christ Church on Tuesday, was one of the largest ever held in the city and the floral tributes were so numerous that it was necessary to provide a special car for their conveyance. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to Tom, little Billy and other sorrowing relatives in their sad bereavement.

The Ladies Benevolent Society are having plenty of calls owing to the strike. If work does not commence very shortly there are a lot of people in this community going to be pretty hungry before long. The miners should make a desperate effort to make their International Union provide sufficient funds to at least keep the wolf from the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Beck, of Fernie, motored in from the Pittsburg of Canada the end of last week. Tom figures that ten is his lucky number. He ran out of gas about ten miles east of Cranbrook about ten o'clock on the tenth of the month and it seemed like ten hours that he had to wait before relief in the way of a fresh supply of gas could be obtained.—Cranbrook Herald.

The Boy Scouts broke camp at McBain's Lake on Monday evening after the most successful outing that they have yet had. There were over 70 lads out this year and Scoutmaster Donaldson had his hands full in organizing and keeping everything going smoothly, but with the assistance of a number of the older Scouts who had volunteered for the work, everything worked out fine. The people of the city owe a good deal to Mr. Donaldson and his assistants for their wonderful work with the Scouts here. They have surely worked hard and have developed a troop of Scouts which will compare favorably with any others in the province if not in the whole Dominion.

THE MEN WE CALL LUCKY!

SOME men go through life spending money faster than they earn it. When Opportunity comes, they are unable to grasp it, and in their blindness call themselves unlucky.

The successful man looks ahead — systematically building up a good bank balance. Then when Opportunity comes, he is in a position to seize it — does so, and reaps his reward.

He is often called "lucky." It was not luck — it was foresight.

PUNISHMENT FOR WEAK WITS

To execute a sane man who has momentarily given way to passion and to preserve a useless imbecile who never had his passions under control at all is in itself, we are told, an act of imbecility. As a matter of fact, leniency has tended to encourage the weak-minded and those who exhibit streaks of idiocy or insanity; whereas, as a matter of public protection and as a deterrant to prospective and potential criminals among them, the weak-minded should be made to know that the lash or the chair is as inevitable in their case as it is in the case of the criminal in full possession of his powers. So believes Sir Oliver Lodge, scientist and philosopher, who writes in the New York Times that the time has come for serious discussion about certain aspects of punishment. Like Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing prison, the famous scientist does not believe in the efficiency of capital punishment. But as long as the hangman's rope is in use he thinks it should not be thrown aside in the case of a criminal whose only excuse is that his mind is weak.

With the exception of a few vigorous and ill-meaning villains, writes Sir Oliver Lodge, the majority of criminals are not of the Napoleonic or Machiavellian variety. "They are just feeble creatures, perhaps with a warped bodily mechanism, perhaps brought down by evil companions and the dull and dispiriting character of their surroundings and outlook on life." Assuming that people like these constitute the larger number of those who become felons, it is for them and their like that the deterring influence of punishment is mainly intended, and it is in the hope that it has that deterring influence and that it tends to keep others straight that we justify our interference with their liberty. Should we do anything less when it comes to the feeble-minded, the unbalanced, the uncontrollable, the ill-tempered, the obsessed, the semi-insane? Sir Oliver argues:

"Surely we ought to strengthen in every way we can the deficient power of self-control possessed by such persons. If we believe that punishment has a deterrent effect, we ought not to weaken the motives that might keep them straight, and make the unfortunate person's task harder by removing the fear of punishment from him. We ought not to let him feel that if he can only display his feeble-mindedness or idiocy or insanity, or whatever it may be called, he will escape punishment, and be looked after for the rest of his life under not uncomfortable conditions. If any should have the fear of punishment distinctly held over them, if any ought to be subject to the guiding and controlling influence of society, it is those who lack self-discipline, who are weak in character, who are deficient in self-control. They should be made to feel that punishment is more, not less, inevitable in their case."

And so long as capital punishment is the law of the land, continues Sir Oliver, these weaklings should not feel immune from it. The more the budding imbecile can be made to feel that by frequently giving way to ungoverned impulses he is running even more risk than other people, the better for the cultivation of such character as he may possess. "If a person is really so incompetent as not to know the meaning of crime, no medical evidence can be needed to establish his insanity; but in all doubtful cases the law should take its course." The great scientist does not believe that the little-wits do not understand the reason and necessity for punishment, arguing that—

"An animal knows well enough when he is going to be punished; they surely have as much wits as a domestic animal! They often show distinct signs of cunning. Any except the most hopelessly insane must have sufficient cunning to realize what punishment means. They could realize the whip, and they can realize the gallows. Their self-control needs strengthening, not weakening. Punishment is more important to them than to a sane man. They should not be let off on the ground of mental incompetence; they are not so incompetent as all that. Or if they are, if they are hopelessly outside the pale of rudimentary intelligence — well their life is certainly of no value to society. Possibly there should be no capital punishment at all! But as long as it is inflicted let it not be reserved for the sane and competent and denied to the equally responsible weaklings who have never kept themselves in hand and are a nuisance to themselves and every one else.

"Probably no one will agree with this contention. Very well. The alternative is not to inflict capital punishment at all, save for such ghastly premeditated and continuous cruelty that the criminal can no longer be tolerated on earth. It is legitimate to extinguish monstrosities. Society is not responsible for them, unless it could prevent their being bred. Their incarnation is a failure and had better be scrapped. Something has gone wrong. Perhaps they may be allowed another chance under other conditions. These are considerations too high for us to understand completely, or to guide our actions by; but we are bound to reconsider from time to time our responsible social activities, and amend them in the light of growing knowledge and enhanced good feeling."

A FAMOUS CLUB

The Athenaeum, London's famous club, has been celebrating its hundredth birthday. It is a club of great names and great memories. It was founded by John Wilson Croker, a brilliant debater and literary man, described by Macaulay in his essay on Boswell's Life of Johnson as "the most inaccurate writer that ever lived." Tom Moore was Croker's helper at the beginning. Farraday was temporary secretary and Sir Humphrey Davy was the first chairman. The aim of the club was to permit of "the association of individuals known for their scientific or literary attainments, artists of eminence in any class of the fine arts and noblemen and gentlemen distinguished as liberal patrons of science, literature or the arts." During three generations practically every Briton who has attained eminence in literature or the arts has been a member. Besides, all the lord chancellors have belonged, most of the bishops and judges and all the prime ministers since Canning except Gladstone and Bonar Law. Disraeli, whose father was one of the founders, violated the rules as a young man and was ejected. When he sought admission he was blackballed, but was elected 34 years later under a rule which permits the committee to elect each year not more than nine persons who have attained to distinguished eminence.

John Stuart Mill was one of the charter members. Sir Walter Scott was a member of the first committee. Thackery and Dickens frequented the club and made up their unfortunate quarrel in its hall. Newman and Manning were members. So were Palmerston, Lord Lytton Charles Kean, Kemble, Macready and Sir Henry Irving, and Herbert Spencer, who played billiards there "as an athletic exercise." The library is a room full of reminiscences. Macaulay had a corner there; perhaps in it he wrote the article scarifying Croker. He was succeeded in this favorite spot by Lord Acton, Matthew Arnold, Hallam, Sir Henry maine, Mark Pattison and John Morley. In the library is the chair where Dickens did his last work on "Edwin Drood." Here, too, Thackeray dictated a part of "Henry Esmond," Richard Burton translated "The Arabian Nights" and Andrew Lang wrote for hours at a stretch. In this room Trollope heard two clergymen discussing his Barsetshire novels, and both admitted they were tired of "Mrs. Proudie," who had played a par in more than one of them. "Very well," said Trollope, "I'll go home and kill her." And he did.

Thackery has written of the club in his various papers, giving it the name "Megatherium." Byron regarded the club as a pleasant but a little too literary and sober. Theodore Hook didn't place much emphasis on sobriety, and a corner of the coffee room where he consumed his brandy is still referred to ironically as "temperance corner." Hook was a great talker and such crowds of members gathered to hear his after-dinner conversation that the receipts of the coffee room are said to have dropped £300 the year after he left. The very waiters at the Athenaeum said Hook "answer you with eloquence socratical and always place the knives and forks in order mathematical." With waiters and officials the Athenaeum seems never to have had much difficulty. They all stayed on to old age. In its century the club has had but three secretaries.

Vision as Applied to Railroading

Are you color-blind? Short- or long-sighted? Slightly deaf? You may be, without knowing it, if you have never been tested.

These physical deficiencies, in some walks of life, are of little importance. But in railroading certain responsible positions require perfect vision, color-sense and hearing.

The examination of aspirants to positions as engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, watchmen and others directly concerned with the safety of trains, and the periodical re-examination of successful candidates, in these vital matters is the business of the railroads. In the Canadian Pacific, which provides an outstanding example of the care with which they are conducted, there is a special department charged with this work. It is called the Time Service and Vision, Color-Sense and Hearing Department. There is a Chief Examiner for Eastern lines and one for Western lines, each with a separate office.

All applicants for the positions already referred to, which demand a high standard in vision, color-sense and hearing, are required to pass an applicant examination and, if successful, must pass a further examination at least every two years thereafter, and in some instances more frequently, according to the diminution of their vision or hearing. They are also re-examined after any accident in which they are either directly or indirectly involved and which may have been caused by defective sight, hearing or color-sense. In addition, following any serious injury or illness or severe inflammation of either the eyes or eyelids, they are again re-examined and, not content with this, the regulations of the Canadian Pacific require them to face the examiner whenever they are slated for promotion.

The tests employed are exhaustive and are so arranged as to approximate as closely as possible to actual conditions likely to be met with in their work by those examined. Applicants for positions as engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and others similarly employed are required to pass the near and far vision tests without glasses. If, at one of the periodical re-examinations, employees in these positions are found to be in need of glasses, they are allowed to wear them, provided they bring the vision up to the required standard. Applicants for other positions may wear glasses for near or far vision, depending on their work. All glasses must be approved by the company and every employee using them is obliged to carry a second pair for emergencies.

The vision test, which is held indoors, involves the reading of Snellens test types, including letters of varying sizes, at a distance of twenty feet or less, and the reading of an American Railway Association standard reading card for testing near vision.

Applicants and employees examined for hearing must have normal hearing in each ear. They are obliged to repeat correctly train orders given in a normal voice at a distance of twenty feet. How important this is will readily be recognized by those who recollect the difficulties of making out conversation through the noise of a locomotive with steam up or through the clamour of wind or rain. A mistake in a few all-important syllables under these conditions may easily be made unless one has perfect hearing.

Most interesting of the examinations is that for color-sense. The men are asked to identify colors displayed by a Williams lantern and to pass a Holmgren or Thompson color-selection test. The latter test is held in broad daylight. A large number of skeins of wool of varying colors, called confusion colors because they are specially selected with a view to confusing the color-blind, are placed before the examinee. The examiner tells him to pick out all the wools which have red, green or some other color in them or perhaps to match them for shades. The man obeys and in a moment reveals his weakness, if he has any.

In the Williams lantern test the applicant is taken into a dark room. At one end of this room, twenty feet away, is the apparatus, consisting of an electric lantern on the front of which is a revolving disc containing a number of segments of glass, each in a varying shade of red, green, yellow, purple or blue, as well as white, all colors employed by the railways in their signals. The examiner switches on the light and turns the disc, requiring the man to name the colors displayed as the segments pass before the lens. In turn, small red, green, yellow, purple, blue or white circles of light, in varying shades, singly or in combinations of two or three, become visible. "What are they?" asks the examiner. "White—blue and red—light green and dark green," says the applicant, and so on, naming the colors as he sees them.

These wool and lantern tests reveal to an astonishing extent the prevalence of color-blindness. Fully four per cent. of the applicants are color-blind without knowing it and will not believe it when the examiner gently but firmly points out the fact. As it is, of course, vital that all men whose positions involve or might involve the reading of signals and all applicants for those positions should have an accurate color-sense, no color-blind person has the slightest chance of passing.

The number of men, applicants and employees, examined on a system so enormous as the Canadian Pacific is very great. Approximately nine hundred appear before the examiners every month on the Eastern lines alone, and between 13,000 and 15,000 employees on the Eastern lines come up for re-examination every two years. The figures for Western lines are approximately the same.

It will readily be understood that the entire system would be disorganized if these men, many travelling long distances, had to report to the offices of the Chief Examiners for their tests. The Canadian Pacific therefore retains two special cars, one of the Western and one on the Eastern lines, which are specially fitted as travelling-test rooms and are continually on the move. It takes these cars two years to make the round of the stations within their jurisdiction, examining applicants and the employees of the company.

So, year in and year out, the Canadian Pacific continues these exhaustive tests which have as their object the maintenance of safety and efficiency.

outranks St. Paul and Providence, and Springfield, Mass., has passed Grand Rapids.

New York has passed the six million mark. Chicago is approaching three million and Philadelphia the two million mark, while Cleveland is somewhat short of a million. Detroit, for which no estimate was made, likely has passed the million mark, as its population was estimated at almost 996,000 a year ago.

SOVIET PROPAGANDA

At a time when governmental efforts are being made to negotiate trade treaties between Britain and Soviet Russia the Congress of the Third Internationale at Moscow has been outlinging what Communism must do to Britain. Its officials are also members of the Soviet government. Its dictum is that the Internationale must cultivate his fruitful field (Britain) more than any other until the British Communist party has become a real power, dominating the trade unions and the whole of the Labor Party. The Communists must establish their own daily English Communist newspaper; they must worm their way into the vital centres of trade unionism and create a revolutionary left wing; they must make special efforts to influence British working class youth; and they must attack the colonial question boldly, as becomes militant Bolshevists.

One delegate to the Internationale Congress, an Indian revolutionary named Roy, pleaded for more energetic Communist efforts in the British Dominions, because, he said, "every British workman is an imperialist and the only possible way of completely overthrowing British Imperialism is loosening the widespread roots in outlying dependencies, at the same time aiming the severest blows at the centre." This is the character of the propaganda which is carried on by Soviet Ministers, and with the sanction of the Soviet government, and in the face of it Britain, and other nations, have extended de jure recognition to Russia.—Colonist.

POPULATION OF U.S. GROWS

Washington, July 20. — Eleven cities have grown into the 100,000 population class during the last year. Estimates of population of the principal cities of the country as of July 1 this year, show there are 79 having 100,000 or more as compared with 68 last year.

The census bureau in preparing the estimates did not calculate the population of some of the rapidly growing cities, such as Detroit, Los Angeles, Seattle, Denver, Akron, Bridgeport, Houston and Spokane. The population of the country on July 1 is estimated at 112,078,611.

The relative rank of some of the changes is changed by the newly-estimated population. New Orleans has passed Cincinnati, Rochester has outgrown Jersey City, St. Paul has surpassed Providence. Oakland's population has grown so that it now

NO GLORY IN BEING FLOGGED

Robbery under arms by youths in their teens is less the consequence of downright depravity than of a spirit of adventure and urge for notoriety which have been deflected at a bad angle.

It is none the less serious on that account, and Magistrate Marshall of Portage la Prairie is to be commended for so dealing with certain culprits as to take away from their exploits any glamour with which they may be invested in other young and equally shallow minds.

Three boys who had shot and wounded two detectives were convicted before Magistrate Marshall, who sent one to prison and another to a training school, and ordered all to be whipped.

It is conceivable that there is a class of young lads who might admire the prowess of a boy who used firearms in an encounter with the police, even though it ended in a jail sentence. But nobody will admire a boy who is triced up and whipped for his offence. The exploit ends altogether too ignobly for that.

Lads who fancy themselves desperadoes are inflicting Vancouver with a series of store hold-ups at pistol point. If, when they are caught, they are dealt with on the Portage la Prairie plan, it is likely to be some considerable time before any youths who are foolish enough to admire them venture also to emulate them.

The ties that bind Canada to the mother country are drawing closer. The Vancouver four-oared crew finished a scant length behind the English champions at Paris.

THE REVIVAL OF PAGANISM

The paganism which Christianity once confronted and conquered is riding high on a return wave, and there are visible evidences, we are told, that we are on the brink of that corruption and sensualism which preceded the crash of the Roman world and the emptying of her temples. Some of our seers urge that the age is no worse than any other, that we are passing through what generations before us have experienced. But it is the age in which we live, and it behooves us, we are warned from a philosopher's chair, to heed the signs of decay and not to fall back upon an excusing negation. There are tides of spiritual confusion and transition, epochal in their result, and we are in danger of being engulfed. Prof. Joseph A. Leighton, professor of philosophy in the Ohio State University, and author of several works, is in no sense a pessimist. He does not despair of the future; but he does find an ominous analogy between the situation of the world today and the state of Roman society just before the collapse of the ancient world capital. In "Religion and the Mind Today" he gives thoughtful discussion to the religious problems of the present and offers sane counsel to those who have been wavering under recent theological storms. In view of frequent charges that the church is losing influence and frequent exhortations that it must mend itself befor attempting to house the world, we turn to Prof. Leighton's warning chapter on "The Recrudescence of Paganism," in which he confronts us with some disturbing facts. but points the upward path.

We, too, have our commercial Caesarism that saps the foundations of the Republic, writes Prof. Leighton. Our Caesars "have taken toll from the worst criminals, and have debauched the administration of justice." The family life is seriously endangered by the growing frequency of divorce. "The unblushing effrontery and sensual suggestiveness of the lascivious stage corrupt our youth. The appalling increase of suicide, even among the young, indicates a weakening sense of personal responsibility, a breaking down of faith in human dignity, with a corresponding heightening of the tension of living." Prof. Leighton considers the leniency of juries on crimes of passion, and wonders whether belief in the value of law is dying out altogether; he cites the frequent and grave outbursts of lawlessness, the rapid growth of hoodlumism and crimes of violence, and notes that we seem to be in the midst of a new individualism of the sophistical brand, for which individual, with his momentary whims, passions and impulses, is the sole measure of moral values. Our social diseases, we are told, "bear striking analogies to the sophistical age of Athenian life, and to the Roman world of the Caesars." Teachers are well aware, says Prof. Leighton, of the wide dissemination of generalizations of scientific thought which conflicts with traditional forms of theology.

But the imposing march of natural science, its treoretical victories and practical triumphs must not be blind, we are told, to the intellectual error and moral emptiness that result from the endeavor to extract from the study of the physical order alone ethical principles and religious uplife. "From no worship of nature alone can be drawn the moral power and insight to save society." We must look, says Prof. Leighton, "to the rational conscience within us, to the moral order of history, as the threefold revelation of the Divine purpose and destiny of man as an ethical and spiritual being."

Paganism has also gained ground from the attitude toward man's social life that proceeds from individualism in religion, and Prof. Leighton observes that if man's single aim is to get his own soul to heaven, then religion has nothing to do with society and culture. The result of such individualism is "an immoral industrial system, an unethical conception of a state and society, an unspiritual world view." Another form of materialism is "the practical materialism which estimates national progress and prosperity in quantitative terms, in bigness of population and wealth, in individual achievement and well-being, in terms of external success and power, of opportunity for sensuous enjoyment." But, asks Prof. Leighton:

"Why should we boast ourselves and swell with pride because God has given to us the greatest natural opportunity that has ever fallen to the lot of a nation? We have, indeed, with unexampled headlong energy transferred the natural face of this great continent, and even prodigally wasted our resources But what abiding contributions have we made to the spiritual heritage of the race? In other words, what have we achieved in those realms of human production that can not be weighed and appraised by the senses? I do not know any lesson that needs to be driven home more insistently and forcibly to our people than that Athens, the intellectual mother of our culture, was, in the days of her greatest glory, a city less than half the size of Buffalo, and that Palestine, the fountain-head of the redeeming ethical and religious powers in our life, had a smaller area than the state of Vermont. Amidst our great swelling words of 'progress,' it is well to call to mind such facts, and to ask ourselves what shall insure the spiritual immortality of our nation, when in the political vicissitudes of history it shall have gone the way of all peoples? Politically, the Israel of Isaiah and Jesus, and the Athens of Sophocles and Plato have long since fallen before the scythe of Time, but spiritually they will endure as long as the light of reflective thought, and the spur of moral and religious aspiration move in the soul of man. Their names are written in the Lamb's book of life, their acts endure in the everlasting movements of the spirit. Shall we seek for our nation a like remembrance and persistence, or shall we be content to leave our records in the dust to which all merely material achievement eventually returns?"

In view, then, of the moral situation, concludes Prof. Leighton, we need to have taught a philosophy of life and reality which shall recognize the utter inadequacy of physical concepts and materialistic speculations to interpret and explain the meaning and worth of the life of the spirit in history, society and the individual. Here is a lesson:

"The churches are by inheritance and choice the guardians and champions of the moral order in society. Today they fight against heavy odds. It behooves them to get rid of unnecessary baggage; to make an end of irrelevant controversies, to bury dead issues concerning the source of their authority, etc., to combine their forces and concentrate their energies on the one aim of conserving and enforcing the Christian moral values of civilization. Otherwise, the recrudescence of paganism may become the recrudescence of barbarism. In the midst of social and moral chaos a few choice spirits may find consolation and strength in philososphy, but for the many a vivid, passionate, and energetic religious conviction is the condition of moral health and vigor.

"No great civilization has ever outlasted the demise of its religious faith. If the moral bases of our culture are in imminent danger, the danger can be averted only by a new crusade on behalf of social righteousness and personal integrity, animated by a religious view of life, for which the human spirit transcends nature through kinship with absolute Spirit. I need not remind you that here the Christian and the Jew stand together on the common ground of a prophetic ethical religion, whose controlling principle of faith and action is the vision of a righteous social order, the Kingdom of God.

The Springfield Republican is one American newspaper which is evidently not in favor of the latest exclusion legislation aimed at the Japanese. It says: "From the Japanese point of view the present issue is grave enough to justify Ambassador Hanihara's warning to our government, despite the technical error in phrasing which made it susceptible of being interpreted as a threat. That the hard-boiled treatment by Congress of so delicate a matter has contributed to the turmoil in the Far East is obvious, and this result is the more unfortunate because collaboration between the United States and Japan is essential to the fruition of American policies in that part of the world and was a logical step after the abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty. The Japanese government still declares itself in favor of cooperation with the United States, but this is obviously made far more difficult by the intense bitterness of Japanese feeling which has needlessly been provoked."

Should the headquarters of the Liquor Control Board be removed to Vancouver the booze birds may reverse their flight.

THE JAPANESE AND B. C.

The failure of the government to stop the influx of Japanese into British Columbia has been the subject of debate in the House of Commons recently at the instance of Mr. Neill, the member for Alberni, who is a supporter of the King ministry. Mr. Neill recalled the debate of two years ago, on the motion of Mr. McQuarrie, when the word "exclusion" was struck from the resolution at the instance of Mr. Mackenzie King, and "effective restriction" substituted. He pointed out that there has been failure to secure effective restriction under this scheme, but that on the contrary there have been many more Japanese entering this country than contemplated under the "gentlemen's agreement." Thus in one recent year, Mr. Neill pointed out, the number of Japanses entering was 1178, when it was supposed to be only 400; while in April and May of this year the arrivals were 135 for the two months, while the quota under the agreement is supposed to have been reduced to 150 for twelve months. Experience having shown that the effective restriction promised by the present government is not being experienced, Mr. Neill advocated action similar to that taken by the United States, where the law forbids the immigration of people not eligible to become citizens.

The reply of the minister of immigration to these representations was that the Japanses are living up to their agreement "fairly well," and that "we do a very profitable and very fair business with them." He referred to the vote now in the estimates for an elevator at Prince Rupert as part of the return being received by British Columbia for the maintenance of friendly trade relations with Japan. Mr. King added that he had been having more "conversations" with the consul-general for Japan, and he questioned Mr. Neill's figures, holding that they included many Japanese returning after visiting their native land, and improperly appearing as new arrivals. He spoke sympathetically of "the importance of encouraging Japanese students to come to our universities in order to become acquainted with our standards in matters of civic life, methods of government and the like, and to return to the Orient with these ideas." The Prime Minister admitted that at present there is no clear understanding on the point of admission of women claiming to be the wives of Japanese lawfully in Canada, and that there had been a large influx of these women. Mention of this matter moved Mr. McBride, another British Columbia member, to remark that "eleven years ago the Japanese birthrate (in British Columbia) stood in the proportion of 1 to 252 white; today a Japanese baby is born in British Columbia for every 13 whites."

This information was brought out during general discussion of the estimates for immigration. in which besides those already mentioned Dr. Tolmie and Mr. Ladner took part, emphasizing the British Columbia viewpoint with respect to the admission of Orientals. The government passed over the subject as lightly as possible, evidently feeling on ground very insecure while the control of the Japanese movement remains in the hands of a foreign government. It was admitted also that there are in Japan active emigration agencies over whose actions the Japanese government had no effective control. While comparatively little was said on the subject of the arrivals of Japanese women, this feature of the problem is becoming conspicuous as one that must be dealt with resolutely to prevent the rising of new problems.

There is no walk of life in which the Japanese are popular in British Columbia, and in endeavoring to placate public opinion in restricting the occupations of these immigrants the government constantly confronts new difficulties. The attempt at exclusion from control of the fisheries is an illustration. To this occupation the Japanese turned naturally as one for which they were specially qualified, and it was because of their preference for this life and their marked success as fishermen that there arose from the communities of white fishermen the chorus of protest of which the government had to take notice. The result was the reduction of the quota of fishing licenses to be issued to Japanese; but as the Japs driven from the fishery began to take up land in the districts adjoining the scene of their former labors, there arose the new problem of protest from the fruit and poultry interests. It is at the expense of these that the fishermen have benefited. It must be realized by the government that popular discontent will not be allayed by the turning of these unwelcome immigrants from one occupation to another or others; and that the case of British Columbia will be met only by exclusion as effective as that in force in the United States.—British Columbian.

Speculators on the wheat market are anxiously watching the movements of Jupiter Pluvius. Moisture has more to do with determining the price than the efforts of expert manipulators.

Expert poultry breeders are busy developing hens that will lay more and larger eggs. Anything that would reduce the interval between production and consumption would be appreciated by lovers of the "strictly fresh."

FERNIE VS. BONNERS FERRY

Bonners Ferry baseball team, which is making a tour of East Kootenay, met with a disastrous defeat at the hands of the local nine at the ball park last night.

With Ault and McTeer, the old time battery, again at work and showing all their old time speed, the visitors were shown a line of baseball that they did not expect and were lucky to get even the solitary run that they managed to get home in the seventh, when the game was called on account of darkness.

The Fernie team were right up on their toes and showed class all the way through. In the fourth innings, when they piled up seven runs, Bonners Ferry began to think they would never get them out. The visitors changed pitchers three times during the game. Ault, of Fernie, who has not pitched for some time, showed wonderful speed and seemed to have the visitors at his mercy all the time. The score at the end of seven innings stood 12—1.

TENNIS MATCH

Under most ideal weather conditions another inter-club tennis match was staged during the week end between members of the Fernie and Cranbrook tennis clubs.

The result was a decided defeat for Fernie as the Cranbrook players showed a great deal of skill in the handling a tennis racquet and gave both players and spectators much pleasure by their performance. The matches were as follows:

Doubles—
C. Hunsley and A. B. Sanborn vs. G. P. Simpson and A. Raworth. Fernie won, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.
G. S. Appleyard and E. Frey vs. Dr. W. A. Fergie and D. A. McDonald. Fernie lost, 8-6, 6-4.

Singles—
C. Hunsley vs. G. P. Simpson. Fernie lost, 6-4, 6-1.
A. B. Sanborn vs. Dr. W. A. Fergie. Fernie lost, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5.
G. S. Appleyard vs. D. A. McDonald. Fernie lost 6-1, 6-3.
E. Frey vs. A. Raworth. Fernie lost 6-2, 6-3.

Three large fishing parties have gone out to Pine Lodge Creek.

A notice has been posted in camp of a dance to take place next Saturday.

Owing to unforseen circumstances the Coal Creek leather chasers were unable to fulfill their appointment against the K. P. eleven in the city league game on Wednesday evening.

A meeting is called for all local Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters to be held in the Club Hall on Monday evening to consider the holding of a social evening.

All local G.W.V.A. and other ex-service men are notified that Lord Byng, Gov.-General of Canada, will be in Fernie on Aug. 7, arriving at 2.30 and leaving at 4.30 p.m. Watch the boards for official announcements of parades, etc.

The supporters of Tom Uphill are asking when the social dance is to be held.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mason, old time residents of this camp but now of Kimberley, are spending a week's vacation up here, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Fawley.

FERNIE VS. WYCLIFFE

Fernie won a hard game from Wycliffe on Sunday last when they defeated the visitors 4 to 2. Only a fair crowd turned out to witness the game, but those who did got their money's worth.

The teams were:

Fernie — Hovan, Shand, Steinert, McTeer, Haight, Rushcal, Ault, Colton and Hein.

Fernie with one hit slipped four runs across the plate and won the game 4 to 2.

Jahren, who pitched a fine game for Wycliffe, deserved to win. He held Fernie to no hits and no runs until the fifth innings, when Huffman dropped a fly and an error at short and second, with Rusheal's 2-bagger, cinched the game for Fernie.

Somehow or other Jack Shand thought he was playing in the old Sunday school league. He got hit by a pitcher's ball and pulled a Babe Ruth stall. Now listen, Jack, any time you get to that old first pillow as soft as that you just change your chewing tobacco and beat it.

HOME BANK DEPOSITORS ARE PLEASED

Toronto, July 21.—At a meeting of the national committee of the Home bank depositors at the head office today, consideration was given to the position of the depositors as a result of the action of the house of commons in adopting the report of the banking and commerce committee. It was considered that the parliamentary committee had recognized the moral claim of the depositors and it was felt by the depositors committee that a great victory had been won for the depositors insofar as the work had progressed. It was declared to be fully expected that early in the next session of parliament the government would deal with the question and would take steps to reimburse them.

The committee decided on active work from now until the next session, and the local committees of depositors throughout Canada were urged to keep their organizations active and intact.

Norway decided to keep and Saskatchewan reject prohibition on the same day.

PREFERENCE IN GRANTING IMMIGRATION VISAS

The new U.S. Immigration Act provides for preferences in the granting of visas to quota immigrants to the United States. There are two preferred classes, viz.: (1) Skilled agriculturalists and their families, and (2) close relatives of American citizens, for whom special preference authorization has been received from the Department of Labor. Agriculture is used here in the larger sense, so as to include persons in grain culture, horticulture, animal husbandry and forestry, but not everyone who has worked on a farm or handled an axe will be rated as a "skilled agriculturist." He must satisfy the consul as to his qualifications.

Preferred relatives include: Unmarried children under 21; father or mother; husband or wife.

The immigration restrictions do not apply to American citizens, who can return to the United States without papers of any sort.

"ZAZA" STAR ROLE OF MANY NOTED ACTRESSES

When "Zaza" the great French play, was produced in Paris some 25 years ago, and which was the starring vehicle for Madame Rejane, it was believed by many critics that it would be impossible for any American actress to portray that arduous role as artistically as the actress named, but these critics were in error as the evidence showed. The play was for many years a reigning success on the Ameican stage with many notable actresses in the title role.

The picturization of this charming play by Paramount with beautiful Gloria Swanson in the title role is said by many to be a far more powerful characterization than has ever been seen on the American stage or screen. In this splendid picturization, which will be shown at the Orpheum theatre next Wednesday, Miss Swanson relies entirely upon the power of pantomimic are in which the French always have been adepts, but those who have seen the great screen artist in her wonderful emotional interpretations, in which she has appeared for several years, will be the first to declare that Miss Swanson is the only American screen star who vests the role of "Zaza" with a power never heretofore witnessed in silent drama.

The support provided for Miss Swanson in this play, headed by H. B. Warner, is exceptionally praiseworthy, each role being in the hands of an artist. The photoplay was splendidly produced by Allan Dwan and in point of direction and photography, as well as sterling portrayals, it ranks as a masterpiece of the screen.

DEPOSITORS HOLD MEETING

There was a crowded house at the city hall on Tuesday night at the meeting called to hear the report of Mayor G. G. Henderson upon the affairs of the Home Bank. The audience was made up of delegations from the entire district and there were a large number of ladies present who took a keen interest in the report and in the discussion which followed.

Mayor Henderson went into details of the hard fight put up by the National Committee in their endeavor to force the Dominion government to reimburse the depositors for their losses and he was fully persuaded that the government had so far committed themselves, admitting as they did by unanimous resolution, that the depositors had a moral claim, that it would be impossible for them to do anything else. He was greatly disappointed that the government had put off taking definite action in the matter at the last session, but they had the definite promise of the Premier that the matter would be the first consideration of the government at the opening of the next session in January. He then read the following extracts from Hansard to show the way they had tried to force the hands of the government to act at the present session:

On the Orders of the Day:

Mr. T. L. Church (North Toronto): What action, if any, does the government propose to take regarding the resolution passed by this House last night in reference to some aid to the Home Bank depositors on compassionate grounds.

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King (Prime Minister): As the House is aware the report of the Banking committee dealing with the matter just referred to was passed unanimously last night. There are two significant clauses in that report. One reads:

Your committee consider that the facts therein brought out and the evidence therein referred to clearly establish that the depositors of the Home Bank have no claim under the law of the land for compensation by the country on account of any loss they may suffer by reason of the failure of the Home Bank.

The concluding paragraph reads:

Your committee consider that the facts brought out in the interim report submitted by Mr. Chief Justice McKeown, and the evidence therein referred to, establish that the depositors of the Home Bank have a moral claim in equity for compensation by the country on account of any loss they may suffer by reason of the failure of the Home Bank

The government will take into very careful consideration the report which has been accepted unanimously by the House, and at the opening of next session will make an immediate announcement to the House as to the extent to which in their opinion parliament should be asked to recognize the moral claim which in the

COAL PROBE HELD OFF

EDMONTON, July 30.—Recent efforts by the labor end of the provincial government to bring about some possible reconcilation between the striking coal miners and the operators have not been successful, and to date there is no immediate prospect of the two parties in the dispute getting together.

Hon. Alex. Ross, minister in charge of the government's labor's affairs, says that he has made approaches along this line on behalf of the government, offering its services in any way desired to secure a conference of the conflicting interests in some form that will be acceptable to both. So far, however, both the miners and the operators have been disinclined to accept the offer of such intervention and have taken the stand that nothing would be gained at the present stage in holding a get-together meeting.

The local government has no power, the minister points out, to go any further in the matter. Hon. James Murdock, the federal minister of labor, is expected west shortly, and it is thought that he may take a hand in the case.

In the meantime no action will be taken by the Alberta government in the way of settling up the proposed coal commission. The purpose of that commission, as decided upon some months ago was mainly to investigate the general conditions of the coal mining industry from the point of view of operation and production costs and wage disputes as such were not intended to enter into the field of investigation. Mr. Ross says that the government is therefore holding off in the appointment of the commissioners pending the settlement of the strike believing that the time is not opportune for the sort of inquiry it is proposed to make.

RECEPTION TO GOV.-GENERAL

The program as outlined to date for the reception of Governor-General Byng and party on Thursday next is as follows: Train will arrive at 2.30 p.m. and party will be conveyed to Government Building lawn where the Mayor will present an address of welcome. At the conclusion of the address as many of our citizens as desire will be presented to the vice-regal party.

A special meeting of the city council will be held on Monday evening to make all arrangements for the affair and a detailed program will be posted on the public bill board next Tuesday.

DROWNING ACCIDENT

A double drowning accident took place on Sunday last in the Elk river near the White Spruce Lumber Co. mill, when Miss Dorothy, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cheston, of Fernie, and a companion, Miss Pauline, 14 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cosgrove, of Michel, lost their lives.

The two girls were bathing in a pool formed in the river bottom and but a short distance from the home of Miss Cheston, whose parents have a ranch in that locality. They were the only two bathers in the water at the time, but three families from this city were having a picnic party nearby. Three ladies witnessed the accident, and, as it appeared to them, Miss Cosgrove, who it is said could not swim, got beyond her depth and in apparent difficulty, whereupon Miss Cheston, who was a skilled swimmer, immediately went to her companion's assistance.

As to what then happened to both girls none of the eyewitnesses are able to clearly explain, owing to the very muddy condition of this particular pool and the excitement prevailing at the time. They are all certain that neither of the girls uttered any cries of distress, nor did they appear to struggle frantically at all, but almost instantly became totally exhausted and sank.

The male members of the picnic party had all gone down the river fishing and there were only three ladies, Mrs. T. Bennett, Mrs. Robert Mitchell and Mrs. W. Bell, present. They did their utmost to rescue the unfortunate girls, frantically calling for aid, and also formed a human chain, none of them being able to swim, and waded right into the pool until Mrs. Bennett, who was on the outer end of this human chain was virtually beyond her depth. Nevertheless, in this very precarious position they vainly endeavored to render succor by extending a broken limb of a tree to Miss Cheston, but she was by this time too exhausted to grasp it.

The frantic appeals for aid by the three ladies attracted the attention of Ward J. Thomas, accountant for the White Spruce Lumber Company, who was walking along the Great Northern railway track a short distance from the scene. Mr. Thomas promptly responded, and upon reaching the pool, with only discarding his shoes, plunged in.

Owing to the very muddy condition of the water, he could not see either of the bodies, but, groping under water, immediately got hold of Miss Cheston, whom he brought out, and then without delay recovered the body of Miss Cosgrove. He afterward stated his watch stopped at 12:02, and he is firmly of the opinion that not more than four minutes elapsed from the time he heard the first cries until he had both bodies out of the water. Efforts at resuscitation were made at once, and continued vigorously for an hour and 15 minutes when Dr. Asselstine arrived, but life was extinct.

FIRE AT CAITHNESS

CRANBROOK, July 29. —Later particulars about the fire which occurred at the Jewel Lumber company's mill at Caithness report the loss to be near $30,000, which is partly covered by insurance. The fire broke out in the boiler house, which is in the sawmill. The sawmill had not been used for some time, all of the lumber fo rthe planing mill having been brought from the company's plant at Fort Steele. It is not known how the fire originated. It broke out at 1 a.m. last Friday.

PREPARING HIGH SCHOOL

Work is proceeding rapidly on the High School section of the Public School. The officials in charge feel confident that ... ly will a large sum be saved by ... present arrangement, but a mu... superior school plant will result.

Under the ne... eme there will be three bright, ... eated and ventilated rooms o... first floor at the north end o... Public School. But no less care ... pense is being expended in fittir... the two rooms and the laborat... which are just beneath. Modern ... l construction demands a high ... of engineering skill and such is in evidence there. Double walls with four or five feet of air space between, surround the basement. Since these are covered with a coating of waterproof bitumen there is absolutely no possibility of moisture getting through. The ground beneath the floor is kept perfectly dry by a system of tiling and an automatic pump four feet below the surface. The cement floor therefore lies on a bed of dry earth. On the cement floor joists 3 in. by 4 in. are laid about two feet apart. Then on these joists the inch and a half flooring is laid down. As the lumber is well seasoned and the masonry long ago dried out the rooms will be entirely free from moisture. All available wall space is given to window glass because these rooms were originally intended for class rooms. It is also planned to add heating apparatus by placing radiators along the walls. Ventilation will be well taken care of by a local system driven by two powerful electric fans.

Those interested are heartily invited to inspect the work either now while it is being done or when the contract is finished.

THE MAYOR'S GOOD WORK

The following letter to the Secretary of the local Home Bank Depositors' Committee shows the good work done by Mayor Henderson during his recent visit to Ottawa and Toronto:

Toronto, July 25, 1924.

F. G. Perry, Fernie, B.C.:

Dear Sir:—At a meeting of our National Committee held Monday, at which a review of our work during the months which have elapsed since the failure of the Bank and plans for the future were made, I was directed by the Committee to write the Fernie committee expressing the appreciation of the members of our Committee for the very valuable work done at Ottawa by Mr. Hendersn.

Mr. Henderson is so thoroughly sincere and has such a keen realization of the effect of the Home Bank failure, particularly as it affects the Fernie people, that he was able to make a very effective presentation of our case to all with whom he came in contact. Mr. Henderson has worked hard and conscientiously and we know that it was a great disappointment to him that he had to go home without having secured any actual payment for the depositors this year. At the same time, we must realize in looking over all the facts of the case that we have made very considerable progress and can look forward with confidence to some payment being made next session. The opinion of the members of parliament and the public generally in the east here is that we are bound to succeed and I feel that whatever success we attain will be largely due to the unselfish and untiring efforts of men like Mr. Henderson on our committee.

We appreciate the work the Fernie people have done in many directions but especially in making available the services of Mr. Henderson for the depositors at large.

Yours very truly,
W. J. T. Lee,
Chairman Home Bank Depositors
National Relief Committee.

Librarian, Leg. Assembly.

report it is stated the depositors of the bank have in the circumstances. I think it is desirable, before the government makes a final statement on the matter, that it should be in a position to give to parliament in very full detail and as nearly in a final form as possible what amounts will be involved in any recognition of the claims of the depositors. The report, as will be observed, states that the claim is a moral claim in equity for compensation by the country on account of any loss the depositors may suffer by reason of the failure of the Home Bank. I should hope that by the opening of another session the liquidator would be in a position to indicate more clearly than is possible just now to what extent the present assets are likely to be realized upon, so that the government may have before it sufficient information to give parliament a full statement not only of the motives which may have governed it in its action, but all that its action may necessarily involve.

Mr. Church: Is it the intention of the government to introduce during this session any legislation in the matter?

Mr. Mackenzie King: My hon. friend will have gathered from my remarks that it is not the intention of the government at this session to introduce any legislation.

Mr. Anderson: In the opinion of the Prime Minister is the double liability of the stock regarded as part of the assets of the Home Bank?

Mr. Mackenzie King: I have no opinion to express at the moment regarding the question; I shall have to consider what is involved in it before undertaking to reply.

Mr. Irvine: In view of the fact that the question of the Home Bank depositors is one of urgent public importance I would move the adjournment of the House for the purpose of discussing the necessity for immediate action by the government with a view to reimbursing those who have lost their money.

Mr. Speaker: Ample opportunity was afforded last evening for the discussion of the subject. The report of the committee having been laid upon the Table, a motion was made for concurrence and was carried unanimously. I am afraid I should have to rule the motion out of order.

Mr. Shaw: A moral responsibility on the government or on parliament must I think be considered in the light of a legal responsibility on any one else, and on this principle I would ask the Prime Minister whether it would not be possible for him to devise some means by which he could provide a partial compensation to the depositors of the Home Bank, or otherwise give some assurance before the end of the session that something will be done.

Mr. Mackenzie King: It seems to me that in deciding what moral responsibility involves, the government is assuming, in that decision itself, a grave responsibility The government will wish to consider the matter very carefully before making any final statement to parliament concerning it. There is no opportunity at the present time for the government to weigh the situation sufficiently in order to be in a position to make any definite pronouncement, but I have made it clear that as soon as parliament reassembles a statement will be made. In saying that, I think I am going as far as a government should be expected to go in the circumstances.

Mr. Meighen: I do not want to be taken as agreeing with all that has been said with respect to the motion of last night. I am one of those who feel with the hon. member for West Calgary (Mr. Shaw) that a moral obligation, if such exists, has the same binding force on parliament, and to the same extent, as a legal obligation. But I hope, in view of the protests I have made repeatedly this week, that it will not be held that any one who does not speak on a motion to adopt any of these many reports is necessarily acquiescing in every finding of the report. This I think is the only frank stand to take before the House. It must not be interpreted as opposition to any relief which parliament in the future, or now for that matter, may consider it advisable to make.

Mr. E. J. Garland, (Bow River): Mr. Speaker, arising naturally out of the declaration made regarding the policy of the government in the matter of the Home Bank, the government is doubtless aware, that in the West particularly there are a very large number of practically destitute persons—widows, children, miners and old men—who will now be left helpless in the face of the coming winter. Will the government not consider—

Mr. Speaker: Order.

Mr. Garland: I am asking the government a question.

Mr. Speaker: The hon. gentleman is reviewing a debate which was concluded yesterday; and, besides on the orders of the day questions can only be put on matters of public importance. I would ask the hon. member not to argue but to put his question

Mr. Garland (Bow River): Certainly, Mr. Speaker, I am just about to put my question. Will the Prime Minister in view of these facts not take into consideration the possibility of bringing in a supplementary estimate to provide relief, as is done now in the case of agricultural people?

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King: (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, I think on reflection my hon. friend will agree that if this House is to be asked to vote any money for the purpose which he mentions, it will want to know pretty fully the extent of the obligations proposed by the government. I do not think it would be in the interests of the very persons to whom my hon. friend refers for the government to ask parliament at this stage to vote a sum of money without being able to give to parliament the basis on which the government had arrived at its opinion in the matter. This is a very serious responsibility and it has to be met in the light of its importance. I think the government is taking a course which will commend itself to the people of this country.

Mr. H. E. Spencer (Battle River): I would like to ask the government if they have been given any figures with regard to the amounts that the Home Bank depositors are asking for and also if they have any statement as to the number of depositors of the Home Bank who are on relief in Fernie, Toronto and other cities?

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King (Prime Minister): I am unable to speak offhand with reference to my hon. friend's question. I think he will have as good an idea as I have with regard to the information the government has on these matters. The government has all the information placed before the commission and before the committees of the House. He will realize that that is rather an extensive amount of data.

Mayor Henderson went into detail to show how they had carried on their progaganda through the long fight through the press, personal interviews by the hundred, correspondence and thousands of telegrams. The siege had been kept up and he was of the opinion that had it not been for the increasing efforts of its committee and the constant agitation the government would never have made a move in the matter.

He now had the personal promise of many members of the House who are in close touch with the government that they would not rest until the matter was finally settled and the depositors reimbursed. Our own Dr. King, Minister of Public Works, had seemed to be very lukewarm in the matter for a long time, but toward the end he seemed to wake up and take an interest on behalf of the depositors.

Mayor Henderson said that while grievously disappointed that nothing was done at this session toward reimbursing the depositors, he could see the viewpoint of the government. If they had passed a vote for the money at the present time the liquidators might have decided to rest on their oars so far as forcing collection was concerned and if the matter was left over for a while the government would be in a better position to know the actual loss they would be asked to make good.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Henderson for his untiring efforts on behalf of the depositors.

B. Caufield then addressed the meeting at considerable length. He was not so confident as Mr. Henderson that the government would take any further action in the matter. As a member of the local committee for Coal Creek he proposed to keep the good fight going. They had spent a lot of money and time in carrying the fight to the House of Parliament and he did not propose to let the matter drop for a minute. He thought as the Governor General, Baron Byng, was to be in Fernie on Aug. 7, it would be a good idea to have a large delegation wait on him and ask him to use his good offices in the matter. Mr. Caufield was utterly sick of the procrastination of a lot of politicians of the stamp of Dr. King, who seemed to have lots of time to devote to voting money for sending delegations to England and other things of that kind, but were far too busy to pay any attention to the hundreds and hundreds of depositors of the Home Bank in his own riding who were literally on the verge of starvation. He was convinced that if the Conservative government had been in power the matter would have been attended to at their first session, but he was losing all faith in the Mackenzie King government.

J. Smith, R. Phillips and several others took a keen interest in the discussion which followed.

A committee of six was appointed to take the matter up with Governor General Byng and the meeting then adjourned.

TIMBER INDUSTRY INCREASE

Victoria, July 29.—According to figures given out by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, the timber industry is steadily developing in this province. For the first six months of 1924 there was an increase of 15 per cent. in the amount of timber scaled over the total for the corresponding period last year. The total for the half year ending June 30 was over 1,300,000,000 board feet.

Only a matter of intense geography could hope to fix the place of origin of beer plebiscite ballots that became confused during the series of shuffles. Their identity is as obscure as the ownership of a maverick steer.

NATURE OUTWITTED BY "FLAMING BARRIERS"

George Melford, famous Paramount producer, won a novel battle with a roaring mountain torrent, while engaged in filming scenes for his newest Paramount production, "Flaming Barriers" which will be the feature at the Orpheum theatre Wednesday next. Mr. Melford selected a spot on the banks of the Stanislaus river in the mountains fifty-three miles from Sonora, in Northern California, Some of the most important scenes in the picture were filmed on this location.

When the company was ready to work, an unusual difficulty presented itself. Ordinary words of command were completely lost in the thunders of the Stanislaus as it plunged through its rocky bed on its way to the valley, thousands of feet below. Various methods were tried, including pistol shots fired according to a pre-arranged code, without success. The Stanislaus continued to be the most important noise in that section of Tuolumne country.

Finally, Mr. Melford made use of reflectors which are used to throw sunlight under dark trees or into the shadows of walls. One flash in the eyes of the players meant, "get ready." Two flashes meant "camera." Three flashes signified "stop" and so forth. The flashing code proved successful. The Stanislaus river was defeated and production on "Flaming Barriers," which features Jacqueline Logan, Antonio Moreno and Walter Hiers, was successfully continued.

The story deals with small town folk in an entertaining and amusing manner. Jerry Malone, daughter of an impecunious inventor of a fire motor truck, meets and falls in love with Sam Barton, a wealthy golf enthusiast, who is sent as an efficiency expert to direct her father's business. In the action there is a tremendous forest fire, an aeroplane dash above the flames, a motor race across a flame-enveloped bridge and many other thrilling incidents. The picture is said to be one of the best productions of the current season.

FEMALE LABOR IN B. C.

Victoria, July 29.—The annual report of the department of labor shows that throughout British Columbia employers are paying female workers considerably more than the legal minimum wage. The average weekly wage is $17.14, while the minimum under the law runs from $12.75 to $15.50. The average weekly working hours of women and girls is 43.31. Satisfaction is expressed by the Minister of Labor, Hon. A. M. Manson, over the better co-operation between employers and the Minimum Wage Board.

Finnegan's famous dispatch, "Off again, on again, gone again," describes the latest political gyration in Mackenzie riding.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

AN EASTERN VIEW OF STRIKE

The eastern business man takes time enough from his own peculiar problems to cast an interested eye occassionally on conditions among his fellow men in Sunny Southern Alberta, whether it be the way wheat is faring these droughty days or what the striking miners are doing during the long vacation. The editor of the "Saturday Nighe" has settled the latter problem to his own satisfaction and gives utterance to his findings in an editorial, part of which is quoted below:

"The back of the miners' strike which has been in effect in Eastern British Columbia and Alberta for some time has apparently been broken. These men to the number of some ten thousand went on strike with the idea of maintaining war conditions and in other ways consolidating their position. Now they find themselves practically deserted by the United Mine Workers of America so far as financial support is concerned, as that organization is itself in deep water in the United States owing to a general depression in the coal trade, added to the fact that the non-unionized mines are getting the cream of what business there is, while union miners are very largely sucking their fingers for want of a better occupation.

"The Canadian miners have been demanding the impossible, that is to say a three year agreement based upon war time practises and war time pay. Under such conditions the Western Canadian coal mines cannot meet competition except for local consumption.

"According to the agreement that has been in force in the Alberta field while eight hours is mentioned as a day's work it does not necessarily mean that this period is utilized for labor by the underground men. From this eight hours is deducted lunch time and also the period consumed in going to and getting from their work, a custom not recognized in mines in the United States, and the operators calculate that they are thus placed at a disadvantage ranging from 12½ to 15 per cent., as compared with the United States competitors.

"At the moment the United States minee are supplying over 50 per cent. of the coal consumed in Western Canada, every pound of which should be taken from Canadian fields But so long as production costs are higher here than they are in say the State of Washington, not to mention other United States fields, the Alberta mines cannot hope to successfully compete except in a very limited manner."

B.C. BONDS

Victoria, July 29.—The sale of another $2,000,000 issue of British Columbia bonds has been effected by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance. This brings the year's sales up to $8,000,000 and the minister is receiving congratulations upon the splendid price received. Even with $6,000,000 already placed in.

WINDSHIELD DISFIGUREMENT

No doubt some accidents in which motorists are involved could be avoided if the practise of plastering windshields wth signs—fantastic and of the advertising variety—were discontinued. It seems logical to say that the driver of a motor car should have his vision impeded in no way. It is impeded with the signs now disfiguring so many windshields, signs which have neither decorative nor any other value. It would be inconceivable to imagine the glass in the wheelhouse of a ship plastered in this way, yet safety, so far as safety may be provided for by the exercise of vision, is just as important on land as on sea. There should be laws governing these signs on windshields. They should be prohibited altogether. Common sense, without any law ought to inform motorists that by blocking their vision they are increasing the accident hazard. If common sense is not exercised it is time for the law to intervene.

WHAT IS MONEY?

Money is a rag backed up by gold. The mint makes the money, and man either earns it or inherits it, serves for it or steals it, saves or spends it.

Money makes more people sad and more people glad than any other root we dig for.

Money comes and goes like luck. It will bring many things you want and many things you don't want.

Thrifty men take it to the banks; thieves take it from the banks.

It's pretty soft for the man who has it and pretty hard for the man who has had it and then loses it.

You can't eat money, neither can you eat without it. Men preach, teach, steal and murder for it. Without it, a man feels like hell; with it, he often acts like hell.

The more money a man has, the more he thinks he needs. Money does not fill a vacuum—it makes a vacuum. Get a lot of money, and they call you a crook. Have none, and they will call you a "passerine," and this bird is the cuckoo.

Money lends a certain dignity to an aged aunt who has a goodly bank balance, and it brings us over to liking the most obstinate old uncle when he has plenty of undivided property.

The advantage of having money is all summed up in this short clause: The right use of it.

THE CASH WORTH OF A WIFE

How much is a wife worth as a cold cash proposition? The question is put by The American Agriculturist (New York), which compares a few estimates on the value of a wife's services as to business asset. Some of the answers would seem to indicate that the woman is getting the worst of the bargain. tho the implied appeal that the farmer's wife should receive a stated salary is met with the statement that husband and wife should share as business partners. Both men and women answer the question, the answers ranging from his approaching marriage on the ground that he could almost take care of himself and that "it's a poor wife that can't help some," to the woman who submits the following formidable list of statistics:

"In the thirty years of my married life I have served 235,425 meals, made 33,190 loaves of bread, 5,930 cakes and 7960 pies. I have canned 1,550 quarts of fruit, raised 7,660 chicks, churned 5,450 pounds of butter, put in 36,461 hours sweeping washing and scrubbing. I estimate the worth of my labor conservatively at $115,485.50, none of which I have ever collected. But I still love my husband and children and wouldn't mind starting all over again for them."

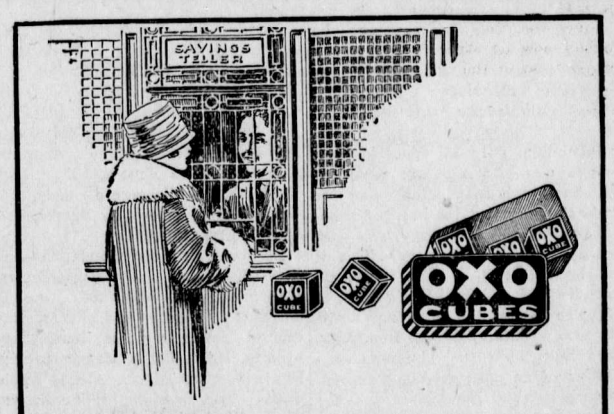
In sharp contrast a man sets down this feeling comment on housekeeping on the farm:

"It is a well established fact that many thousands of good, conscientious women have slaved themselves to death on the farm. They sank into untimely graves to make way for new household drudges. The farmer's second wife would wear out in a few years and fold her toil-worn hands for the long rest. The minister would comment anew, vaguely but feelingly, upon the 'inscrutable providences' of God. Often before the clods were well dried on the departed, 'our bereaved brother,' the victim of these 'inscrutable providences,' would cast a calculating eye over the visible supply of marriageable maidens, looking for another husky young female willing to work eighteen hours a day and 'mother' ten stepchildren for her board and keep.

"But the housewife whose endless round of drudgery has made her the butt of a lot of ill-timed jokes, perpetrated chiefly by soured and saturnine bachelors, has at last been recognized as occupying a place of dignity and importance in the economic world.

"Miss Margaret Feddes, of the University of Nebraska, has figured exactly what the wages of the average farm wife should be, and it comes to the scientifically accurate amounts of $4,004.04. It includes separate items for cooking and serving meals, washing and ironing cleaning, care of children and sick, helping with milking and care of poultry, sewing and mending and miscellaneous services.

"What will the bewildered agriculturist think of the above claim when presented by his smiling 'partner' at the end of the year? We opine that his views will have to undergo a radical change before he will be ready to pay his wife $333.67 per month for just 'piddin' about the house' sixteen or eighteen hours a day, seven days out of the week.



"He has always recognized her as a partner of a few of his jobs and all of his sorrows, but this is a horse of another color."

A woman contributor scorns the time-honored precedent of "giving" the farm wife any particular share of the receipts, such as the butter and egg money. "Under what authority does the husband 'give' his wife the income from anythng?" she asks. "Why should not she just as reasonably present him with a run tpig or a stunted calf, with which he is to provide himself and his children with necessities?" It is difficult, she says, to comprehend the condition by which the wife keeps up the house with butter and egg money, and she asks sarcastically, "What keeps up the farm, the watercress money?" The general opinion expressed in the answers seems to be that the woman who cuts up the kindling and serves at the stove is worth all her husband can pay her, but that her share of the income should be in terms of joint partnership and not as "wages" grudgingly paid.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

IN all this welter of opinion and comment on economy in government it is well that we retain a healthy sense of values. That the tax burden is a heavy one in these critical and stressful days, goes without saying. But as long as we continue to pay golden tribute to automobile manufacturers, to filling stations, to moving picture places, to ice cream parlors, to cigar stands, and to a host of other dealers in luxuries, there is but little sanity or good citizenship in any movement that looks toward a curtailment of school revenues. So long as this government purposes to be a government of the people, for the people and by the people, just so long must this government have and loyally support, at no matter how great a sacrifice, its public school system. So there should be no thought of reduction in teachers' salaries, or other retrenchment which would impair the efficiency of our schools. Perhaps we should declare a holiday in the voting of bonds for public buildings, for road building and for other forms of internal improvements. but whatever course we may be forced to take along these lines, should not be permitted to interfere with the essential and indispensable work of the public school system of any community, which, when all is said and done, is that community's best investment.

SHERMAN PUTS OUT FEELER

Calgary, July 31.—A conference between striking miners and operators with James Murdock, minister of labor as mediator, will be held on Aug. 8 in this city, according to an announcement made last evening by R. Peacock, secretary of District 18, U.M.W.A. Mr. Peacock did not care to discuss the matter, merely announcing that such a conference would be held.

Edmonton, July 31.—Alberta coal miners now on strike are ready to negotiate with the operators on the understanding that the basis of negotiation shall be a return to work without reduction of wages. This is on the authority of Wm. Sherman, president of the U.M.W.A., District 18, who is in the city, and who stated in an interview with Hon. Alex. Ross that, while the minister's suggestion of an open get-together conference between the miners and the operators has not been acceptable to either side, it was hardly the fact that the miners are unwilling to negotiate.

On condition that there shall be no further effort to reduce wages the miners are willing to meet the operators, according to Sherman.

There is no indication, howver, that negotiations on this basis are likely to materialize.

Mr. Sherman stated that a number of the mines included in the strike area are resuming operations, the employers having agreed to pay the employees the union wage.

Calgary, July 31.—It is emphatically denied by local representatives of the North American Collieries that they had signed up a new agreement with the U.M.W.A., in connection with the Imperial mine at Coalhurst.

"There is not the slightest foundation for such a statement," stated the officials of the mine Thursday.

R. M. Young, commissioner of the Western Canada Coal Operators association, stated on Thursday that he knew of no arrangements for a joint conference with the miners' representatives when James Murdock, federal minister of labor, reaches Calgary the beginning of August. "The minister has asked the operators to meet him," he remarked, "but no requests have been made that we meet the miners, nor has any arrangement been made for a joint conference with them."

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION

Of the 5169 candidates who sat for this examination, 2656 or 55 per cent were successful. Besides these, 1959 pupils who have attended graded schools of seven or more divisions were promoted on the recommendation of the principals.

Principals in the schools referred to are allowed to pass 60 per cent of their pupils upon recommendation. Those writing on the examinations are therefore pupils in the remaining 40 per cent of scholars who are seeking honors.

In all, 4815 pupils will be issued certificates entitling them to admission to high school in September next.

Candidates were required to write on five subjects only, namely, arithmetic, grammar and composition, dictation and spelling, geography and drawing. To obtain certificates they had to pass in these subjects and also to submit a statement from their teachers certifying that they had completed the work prescribed for entrance classes in history, literature, hygiene and nature study. A few candidates, whose teachers did not submit the necessary statement, succeeded in passing. These will be granted certificates when they satisfy the department that they have covered satisfactorily all the prescribed work.

A report of the marks obtained by the candidates will be sent to the teachers and secretaries of school boards in the course of a few days.

For the purpose of awarding the bronze medals which are presented annually by his excellency the governor general, the province has been divided into 10 districts. A medal has been awarded to the candidate making the highest marks in his district. The names of the winners of medals follow:

District No. 1—James Allen Miller, Division 2, Willows school, Oak Bay, 450 marks.

Miss F. E. Magee, formerly of the Central school staff, has accepted the position of third assistant at the high school; but owing to illness, it is possible she may not be able to resume teaching when school reopens Her room in the Central school will be taken by Miss M. C. G. Naison, accountant at the Royal Bank, has been transferred and will leave tomorrow for Prince Rupert. His position here will be taken by Chas. Elkins, of Chilliwack, B.C. During his stay here Mr. Naison has become very popular and his departure will be regretted.

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs will picnic at Hosmer next Wednesday. Cars for transportation will leave the Odd Fellow hall from 1 p.m. on. Each person is asked to supply themselves with a cup and spoon. Tea, coffee, ice cream, fruit, etc., will be provided, but the participants are asked to bring along the other requisites.

The city fire brigade was called out on Tuesday to put out a blaze in the Annex at a house belonging to Wm. Abbey. The house, which was empty, was being fumigated and the fire is supposed to have started from one of the fumigation sticks. The brigade made a quick run and succeeded in getting it under control before a great deal of damage was done.

John McKay, of the Dominion Government Agricultural Department at Ottawa was the guest of the Rotary Club at their luncheon on Monday last and gave a very interesting talk on the great scientific work that is being carried on in his department in the interests of the farmers of Canada. His speech was a revelation to most of the Rotarians, as few persons in this city keep in touch with the work of the government along these lines.

J. J. Carmichael, manager of the coal mines at Taber, was in the city on Monday making arrangements for the sale of his product here. Mr. Carmichael says he has 150 men on his payroll and that they have no trouble in getting all the men they want at the old scale, less $1.17 a day war bonus. The mines have not lost a day since the first of May and in spite of the effeorts of union agitators who blow in from time to time everything is running smoothly. The Alberta government provides ample police protection.

A public meeting of those interested in the construction of a swimming pool for Fernie will be held in the council chamber tonight at 8 o'clock. The recent drowning accident has brought the danger of bathing in the Elk River to the attention of the public and it is expected that some immediate action will be taken to get the project under way. As we suggested in our last issue, there is no doubt that with so many idle men in town a large amount of volunteer labor could be secured to help in the work and thus cut down the cost.

Health Restored by The Fruit Treatment

Fourteen years ago, Mr. James S. Delgaty, of Gilbert Plains, Man., was a nervous wreck. His system was shattered by Nervous Prostration, and he was reduced in weight from 170 to 115 pounds.

He wrote on May 15th, 1917, "Every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take 'Fruit-a-tives.' I began to mend at once. After using this fruit medicine for three months, I was back to normal. I have never had such good health as I have enjoyed the past six years. We are never without a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' in the house."

Writing again on September 27th, 1923, Mr. Delgaty says, "I stand by my letter to you in 1917—I still recommend 'Fruit-a-tives'."

"Fruit-a-tives" is a complete fruit treatment—being made of the juices of fresh ripe fruits and tonics.

HIGH SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS

Twenty students were successful out of a class of 22. The work this year has been hard owing to the wide variety of subjects elected by individual students, and to the fact that the classes in Normal Entrance and Junior Matriculation were taken in the same room, while many of the subjcts taken by the classes were different.

Under these circumstances the students are to be congratulated on making such a good showing.

Lily Birkett wins first class honors with an average of 77 and over 60 on all subjects.

Max Cameron, fourth year high school student in the Nelson high school, led the province in the senior matriculation examinations, the results of which were made known yesterday. The Nelson student's percentage was 83.9. With the highest percentage in the senior matriculation goes a scholarship known as the Royal Institute senior scholarship. Marion James, of Revelstoke, won the junior matriculation scholarship for this district.

Victoria, July 25.—Winners of the governor-general's silver medals for the five leading students of the province were: Margaret Tolmie, South Vancouver, 91.5; George Davidson, New Westminster, 87.6; Ralph James, Point Grey, 86.7; Leslie Wagner, Vancouver, 86.5; Kathleen Baird, Vancouver, 85.3.

Senior matriculation winner—Maxwell Cameron, Nelson, 83.9.

Junior matriculation — Margaret Tolmie, South Vancouver, 91.5.

Jack Wilson is confined to his bed, the result of a bad accident when his car turned turtle on the road this side of the White Spruce Lumber Co. mill. The big car was making fast time when it ran into some soft gravel and slipped off the road. In turning back on one of the front wheels broke and the car turned completely over. There was a lady passenger in the car at the time but she was thrown clear and came out uninjured. Jack was pinned under the driving wheel and but for the timely arrival of another car containing a number of people, who succeeded in raising the wreck and dragging him out, he would have soon died. As it was, he sustained severe internal injuries, which will keep him in bed for some time.

THE MEN WE CALL LUCKY!

SOME men go through life spending money faster than they earn it. When Opportunity comes, they are unable to grasp it, and in their blindness call themselves unlucky.

The successful man looks ahead — systematically building up a good bank balance. Then when Opportunity comes, he is in a position to seize it — does so, and reaps his reward.

He is often called "lucky." It was not luck — it was foresight.

TREASURE HUNT NOW ON

Hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of gold, silver and gems lies on the ocean's bottom, in spots that have been well known for years, waiting for some one to go down and pick it up. This operation is prevented only by the tremendous pressure of the water, which makes it impossible for a diver to go farther down than two or three hundrer feet. Some of the treasure will doubtless never be recovered, for this reason; but much of it lies in comparatively shallow water, and the art of diving has been so improved of late years that Chas. Phillips, writing in the New York Times, predicts that more wealth will be recovered from sunken ships in the next ten years than in all the preceding ages in the world's history. Vast fortunes have been spent, he says, in the last fifty years, in vain attempts to retrieve the treasure that lies within sunken hulks. New hope for greater success has come from the salvaging of more than twenty millions of specie from the Laurentic, sunk during the war off the coast of Donegal. He writes:

"Other ships of comparative recent sinking have given up much of their treasure, because science has helped to reach depths never before attempted. Yet the physical limitation of man's blood to stand high pressure air still bars him from the wealth in some of the ships sunk during the late war.

"Great Britain alone lost 2500 ships, aggregating 7,750,000 tons, with a value running into hundreds of millions of dollars. More than 1000 of these ships lie in less than 150 feet of water. Here are billions separated from man by only a wall of water one-fifth of the height of the Woolworth building.

"No doubt more wealth will be recovered from sunken ships in the next ten years than has been salvaged in all the ecenturies preceding. Man has found that the door to great fortunes hinges upon the air sent through the line to the diver's helmet.

"The development of the present diving equipment began with a suit devised by Vegetius, in 1511, when he constructed a buckskin helmet with window lights in the face. To the helmet was attached an air hose connected at the water's surface with a bladder filled with air. Because of the limited air supply and the fact that there was no means by which exhaled air could escape, the diver could stay down only a short time, and only then in shallow water. Lorini, an Italian, improved this by building a platform attached to a vertical shaft supplying air. By this means he was enabled to work at a depth of thirty feet. Borelli, another Italian, in 1682 designed a large skin bag filled with air which had been compressed by a piston working through a rack and pinion.

"In 1715 John Lethbridge, an Englishman, designed a suit not unlike our present kitchen hot water boilers. Two holes in the sides permitted him to put his arms through. A heavy glass in the under side enabled him to look out. Lethbridge remained in sixty feet of water for 34 minutes, but he was unable to control his mobility in the water and the device had little practical value.

"Kleingert, a German, cut the Lethbridge cylinder in half and attached a pair of buckskin pantaloons, so that a man could walk about in the water. Kleingert's equipment was probably the longest stride toward the diving suit of the present day. In 1837, Siche completed a collapsible suit which, with a few modifications, has remained unchanged. In these suits men for 75 years have worked in depths not exceeding 75 feet."

Mr. Phillips quotes John F. O'Hagan, a deep sea investigator,, as saying that it is a popular error that a man in a diving suit runs great risk from the air he has exhaled, which quickly fills the suit if the diver does not carefully work his exhaust valve. True, the carbonic acid gas will cause headache, nausea and after a while induce unconsciousness, but the greatest danger is from nitrogen bubbles in the blood, which are forced in under high pressure in great depths, paralyzing the motive nerves. To quote further:

"O'Hagan says that a diver can descend to a depth of 300 feet in two minutes and feel no serious effects except pain in the ear drums. By swallowing saliva, or by chewing gum, as most divers do,, the outside pressure is counteracted. Another practice of divers is to push the nose hard against the face-plate of the helmet and blow the head and ears clear.

"The air in the suit must in pressure exceed the water pressure. It is the air breathed into the blood at high pressure that saves the diver. The quantity in the suit gives him buoyancy so he can move about, and by valve regulation he can lower or raise himself as the work requires. The greater the depth, the greater the pressure from the lengthening column of water that rests on the body.

"An ordinary body has more than 2000 square inches of surface, and the tremendous force at about 300 feet depth would be equivalent to approrimately 150 pounds a square inch, or ten times the pressure to which one is accustomed. The longer a man remains down, the greater becomes the saturation of his blood with air and nitrogen, which he must slowly get rid of on his way surfaceward by exercising and by resting at stages. Hemorrhages are often caused.

"The body of the diver may be likened to a football bladder which will inflate according to the pressure of the air within. If the pressure becomes too great it will burst. The same thing happens to the blood vessels of the diver; they rupture from the interior pressure.

"Mr. O'Hagan asserts that success in diving depends entirely upon air, not only for the men, but also for the pneumatic tools now being introduced for undersea work, and for the inflation of the pontoons with which to lift and keep afloat such vessels as may be brought to the surface.

"The lifting power of air in water is so great that a cubic foot, or about the amount necessary to inflate a toy balloon, will lift 64 pounds of steel. Steel being seven times heavier than water, a submerged and sinking ship goes straight to the bottom, no matter how deep the water may be. It does not float at certain depths, as is generally believed.

"Records of ships sunk have been kept for centuries, for various reasons. The approximate spots of sinking are known, and these locations are now verified by modern sweeping or dragging methods. Some of the valuable cargo ships located are the Wilhelm der Zweite with 3700 bars of silver, off the African coast; the Florencian in the Bay of Tobermory, Ireland, with $10,000,000 in silver and gold; the Lizard, sunk near Cornwall with $50,000,000 aboard; the Thunderbolt, with $20,000,000; Harlem II. with a cargo of silver; the Merida, off the Virginia Capes, with $3,000,000; the Arabia, with $5,000,000; the General Grant, with $10,000,000; while in a Greek part lie pirate boats made of teakwood with cargoes estimated in millions of pounds sterling.

"These are only a few of the treasure-laden skeletons that have so long lain on the ocean beds of the seven seas—the bays of forgotten ships. Former government divers like Crilley and O'Hagan hope, with improved equipment to bring many such ships to the surface within the next few years."

COMMUNISTIC TEACHING

A measure known as "The Seditious and Blasphemous Teaching to Children Bill" is now before the British Parliament. It originated in the House of Lords, where it was carried by a large vote. Lord Danesfort, its sponsor, explains that the teaching at which the Bill aims is the regular type of Communist propaganda, which has been described by Mr. Churchill as "the vilest garbage of atheism and revolution." In this teaching all religion is held up to contempt and language of scurrility and class hatred, a rebel spirit and the subversion of the Constitution are preached. Lord Danesfort quoted from Communist propaganda literature circulated for the benefit of children, giving these examples:

To teach children the ideal of the Revolution should be the primary object of a Socialist Sunday School. All other teaching is of no avail.

A boy and girl should be learned a real live red-hot Revolutionary speech to take about ten minutes.

Thou shalt not be a patriot, for a patriot is an international blackleg.

Thou shalt teach Revolution, for Revolution means the abolition of the present state and the end of capitalism and raising in their place an industrial republic.

Thou shalt wage the class war.

Dialogue for the "Proletarian Magazine for Boys and Girls":—Girl: Would not the Government suppress your effort to establish Communism? Boy: I have no doubt they would, but we are preparing to meet force with force.

The Archbishop of Canterbury was one of those who spoke to the Bill and he pointed out that some of the teachings in the Proletarian Schools was not only anti-Christian, but vicious and immoral. He had in his possession some of those publications containing matter which was so vile as to be unquotable. It included the teaching of free love in the widest and most animal sense. This was more perilous, he said, than any attack on the Christian religion. Lord Balfour also spoke on the subject, touching, in reference thereto, on the law for preserving the liberty of the subject, but, he said, this Bill had simply to do with whether they were going to allow in schools, supported by they knew not whom teaching admittedly illegal and corrupting, and given to those who had no power to protect themselves. The matter is of interest in Canada, where there are also so-called Proletarian schools.

CONTRACT LET FOR 16 MILES OF THE RED TRAIL

The Alberta provincial highways department have just announced that the contract for that portion of the Red Trail between Pincher Station and the Old Man river, west of Lundbreck, has been awarded to Messrs Creelman & Co. of Calgary.

The firm is well known in this part of the country, having been responsible for the construction of all the larger concerte structures for the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District, including the dam and headgates on the Old Man river, west of Macleod, which so successfully withstood the record flood of last spring.

They have also recently been engaged in improving the rather dangerous portion of the Red Trail near Crow's Nest Lake and in constructing a new road through the Frank Slide. This work is now complete and tourists through the Pass are loud in their praise of the way it which it has been accomplished.

The present contract covers about sixteen miles of main highway and includes a diversion on the west side of the South Fork Coulee hill which will reduce the maximum gradient there from 13 to 7 per cent.

On the low-lying stretch of road for about two miles the grade will running directly south from Cowley for about two miles the grade will be raised from one to two feet throughout and a large number of corrugated iron culverts will be installed to take care of the drainage.

The work is to be undertaken almost immediately and will be completed by thte end of September.

COST MIILION TO NOMINATE CANDIDATE

The high cost of government is one of the problems of democracy which now may be said to be almost in full flower. The cost to the Democratic Party of the United States of holding its late nominating convention in New York was one million dollars

Of course, a million dollars is an insignificant sum to such a country as the United States, figuratively, if not literally, rolling in wealth But why should it cost a million dollars to nominate a candidate? Who provides the money? Politicians as a rule and as a class are not philanthropists, and we doubt whether they are more altruistic and patriotic in their view than people who are merely voters. This latter observation is applicable to politicians in other countries than the United States. It is therefore safe to assume that the men who met the cost nominating a Democratic candidate will expect to be recompensed in some way for their outlay; in fact that they regard their enterprise as an investment. One authority who has had some political experience in the United States says that there were certain "big interestts" behind the candidature of McAdoc and that assuredly other "big interests" are well content with the nomination of the comprise candidate, Davis. If that is true, then the democracy of the United States is confronted with a very serious problem indeed; and if the electors of the United States believe some of the allegations made about certain of the candidates of the major political parties over there, the election to be held in November will be one of the most interesting in the history of the country.

MUDDY CREEK BOTTOM BECOMES BEAUTY SPOT

AN object lesson in reclamation is provided by the present Canadian National station grounds at Vancouver, B.C. Before the site was developed the location was known as False Creek, a muddy stream in the centre of the city over which the tide water from the bay backed. It is now one of the beauty spots of the City of the Lions. The approach to the station is called Thornton Park, in honor of Sir Henry W. Thornton, Chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways, who materially assisted the Parks Commissioners by contributing 19,000 yards of earth for the filling and beautification of the grounds. Work on the park area is not yet completed but when finished it will be one of the most attractive railway terminals on the continent. At present thousands of flowers are bursting into bloom and many hundreds of beautiful shrubs in their attractive foliage add their charm.

THE VILLAGE SMITHY

One by one the old handicrafts are dying out before the onward march of machinery. The latest to be threatened with extinction is the fashioning of horseshoes which can now be made so expeditiously in the factory that the hand-made article can not compete with its rival in price, even though it may surpass it in utility. Everybody would regret the passing of the smithy, interwoven as it is with so much honest sentiment, romance and poety. Although horseshoes may be machine-made to order in countless thousands, the horses themselves are not produced by nature in sizes, half-sizes and quarter sizes like footwear in a shoe store. Indeed there are almost infinite gradations in hoof fittings and this fact may prove the salvation of the smithy. In any large smithy it is a common sight to see discarded shoes in heaps. All have more or less value because with the aid of furance, bellows and hammer they can be adapted to almost any hoof. But rarely indeed can a set of four be picked out which will fit a horse without preliminary treatment at the anvil, and a horse's footgear must fit exactly or he had better by far go unshod. For these practical reasons it may be happily asserted that the village blacksmith in by no means yet a back number, and that the anvil chorus will for many a long day sound its cheery call, symbolical as it is of honest endeavor and duty cheerfully performed. If the worthy blacksmith is eventually put out of business, he is far more likely to meet his fate at the hands of the knacker than through the inroads of machinery, for the knacker has his eye on Dobin, because the street car the automobile, the road bus, the tractor and what not, say that Dobin is outgrowing his usefulness and too slow for these fast times, being better adapted indeed for the production of near-beef and bologna sausage. But Dobin and the anvil which makes his shoes are a long way yet from extinction. For ages sentiment alone will see that they are not relegated to the repository or to the museum. Long may they flouish!—Vancouver Province.

NATURAL RESOURCES

The Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, says:

Canada constitutes practically the last stand for the larger game animals that once roamed the plains of the American continent. With the advance of settlement, however, wild life is gradually being crowded northward and the area of its ranges more limited. While the numbers of the wild animals have largely decreased there are still many in the forests and mountains.

Only by the most strict enforcement of game laws can these animals be retained, and it is well to note that the limits of depletion to which any species may be brought before extinction is imminent is well known.

In the Red Deer Valley large amounts are being spent in excavation work to discover the fossilized skeletons of extinct animals. Let us pay more attention to those we have in Canada, and pass on to future generation living species of the wild life of Canada as we know it and as our ancestors knew it. No natural resource needs the application of greater foresight for its perpetuation than our wild life, for it cannot be replaced once it is destroyed, and its destruction can only be avoided by wise provision.

PREVENT FOREST FIRES -- IT PAYS

A "ROMAN HOLIDAY"

The Chicago Tribune has raised a question which should give its readers and the American people in general subject for some grave thought. It says: "Criminal justice in the United States is now a Roman Holiday and the courts are the Colloseum." In alluding specifically to the Franks case, which it says has been a three-months moral pestilence imposed upon the people before the trial. That newspaper alludes to the injury which is done to justice by publicity before the trial and speaks in this regard of "journalistic lynch law." Prosecuting attorneys hasten to the newspapers with their theories and confessions, obviously with the intention of creating a public opinion which will defeat the ends of justice. The Tribune advocates drastic restriction of publicity before trials and that such restrictions should be imposed by the law. It ought not to be necessary to have any law in this respect, which means a curtailment of the liberty of the press. Common decency and respect for the administration of justice ought to act as sufficient safeguards and stop the newspapers from attempting to prejudice any case coming up for trial.

The Tribune points out that English newspapers print only the briefest and coolest statement of the facts before the trial. American newspapers indulge in speculation, build up theories, secure evidence in advance of its being presented to the courts, dwell at length on all the "pathetic" or "diabolical" circumstances and work up almost a frenzied attitude in respect to criminal cases. The result is that when a case, and particularly a case where there is a capital offence involved, comes to trial it is prejudiced in the public mind. The actual law proceedings often develop into a farce, the ends of justice are frequently defeated and morbidity of interest in the public mind is sedulously fostered. These conditions cannot be good for any people. The Tribune points to the superiority of the British law in regard to the conduct of trials. No sane commentator can doubt this. British law presupposes a man or woman innocent until his or her guilt is proved. The newspapers take this attitude also. They do not attempt to prejudice the case. There is a principle connected with the administration of justice upon which they act and it is a clean and sane principle and one which operates beneficially and in a cleansing way on the public conscience. The United States ultimately must have a task ahead in the reformation of its practice in dealing with crime. Its present methods foster the commission of crime, as statistics are proving yearly. The Chicago Tribune has done the country a signal service in drawing attention to the present conditions, which are a disgrace to the press of the United States, and to the courts, which seem unable to lift themselves to a plane into which no prejudice can enter.—Colonist.

SENATE REFORM

Nothing in the Mackenzie King administration at Ottawa has appealed so much towards the electorate's satisfaction as the announcement that at next session of parliament the government will make proposals for reform of the senate on lines similar to the reform of the house of lords in Great Britain.

British political and social history has the habit of being repeated in the Dominion. The upper house of the mother of parliaments became so alienated from public opinion that its behavior in time reached the height of actual arrogance. Men who, in the house of commons, some years previously advocated political reform, shed their enthusiasms, while stretched on the soft seats of the lords and were among the greatest sticklers for Tory privilege and the "rights" of peers as dominating public desires as better epitomized in the commons itself.

In Canada we have had a suspicion of this same arrogance on the part of senators who recently were imagining they were invested with with that divine right of kings, now happily dissipated by public good sense.

The electorate looks on the senate today as too feudal in its constitution. A member's election for life is not democratic enough in the opinion of the voters. A three-year term is much more in keeping with the people's wishes, and a reform which will recast the powers of the upper house will be acclaimed by all shades of political opinion, especially in the west.—Kamloops Sentinel.

o

MAKE THE BALLOT FOOL-PROOF

The law requires that the elector do certain things. To the credit of the intelligence of the electorate as a wholt, those things were usually done. There were few ballots, comparatively speaking, spoiled by failure of the voter to adhere to the regulations laid down for him.

But, though the voter might have done all that was required of him, though his ballot might have been in perfect order when handed to the deputy returning officer, it by no means followed that it would be recorded when the counting took place.

The deputy had certain duties to perform also, and his omission to perform them, or any of them, meant the rejection of the ballot.

It was the business of the deputy, for instance, to tear off the countrfoil, but if he forgot to do it the vote was lost.

In the case of absentee votes many ballots were put in wrong envelopes by responsible officals and rejected on that account.

The work of conducting an election in necessarily performed by people who happen to be available. Trained election officers at every voting place are therefore an impossibility and untrained men will make errors.

Official mistakes, however, should not be visited on the voter. If his ballot is in order when tendered, nothing done to it subsequently should be allowed to invalidate it.

Admission of any other principle in dealing with ballots opens the way to fraud or at least to suspicion.

Either the system should be so simplified that the deputy returning officier can make no mistakes or the law should be changed so that the mistakes he does make will not disenfanchise the voter affected. —Vancouver Sun.

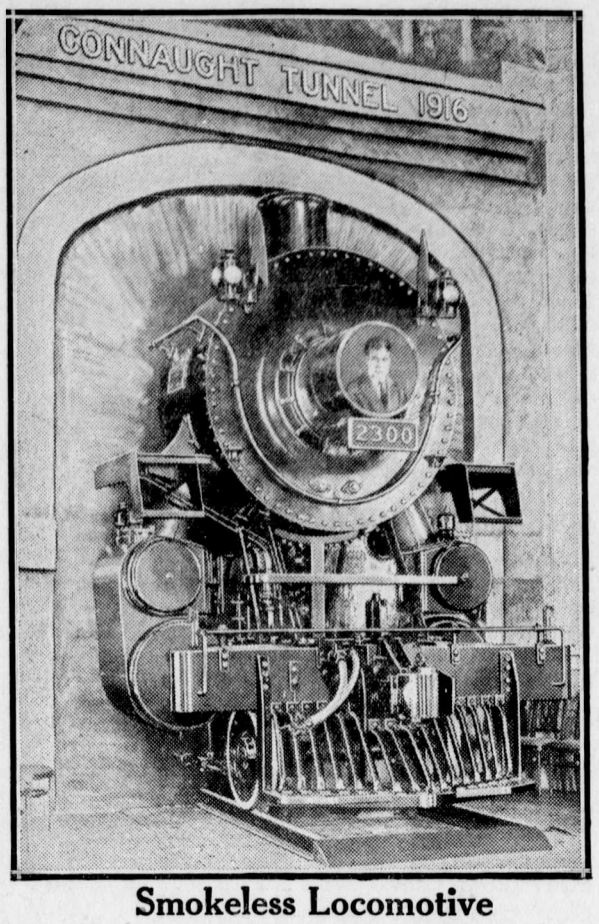
MAN AND MOUNTAIN



Sir Francis Younghusband, commenting on the latest tragic failure to conquer Mount Everest, says that ultimately conquest is inevitable. Forty years ago the heighc of 21,000 feet was attained. Twenty years ago the point reached was 23,000 feet. Within 15 years 25,000 feet was the height climbed; two years ago 27,000, and in the latest attempt 28,000 feet. Sir Francis describes what will be seen when Everest is scaled. From the summit, he says it will be possible to see 200 miles across Tibet and to the plains of India nearly 29,000 feet below. The vision will range along the line of the greatest peaks of the Himalayas Only 14 miles away will be Makalu, 27,790 feet, perhaps the finest in architecture of all Himalayan peaks, and beyond that will be Kangchenjunga, 28,150 feet, and still farther Chomolhari, which stands sentinel over the road to Lhasa. Then Sir Francis writes:

And ever after as man looks upward at Mount Everest it will not be with a craven sense of his own littleness beside her. He will then be justly proud of his own greatness. Supremely loftly as she is among all mountains, he will know for certain that his own spirit can exalt him higher still. And he will have nothing but unsullied love for his mighty foe. She may have shown him no mercy in the struggle. But she will have forced from out of him what except for her he would scarcely have known that he possessed. Compelled by her to exercise the highest in him and give only of his best, he will have found himself responding gladly to her call. Higher courage, more splendid daring, a firmer will and sharper wit he will have had to display. And as his spirit heightens in him he will feel the glow of that joy which high achievement always gives. And he will love her for it.

This is the reward which Everest can confer. By making him be his best she will have made man know the joy which being his best brings, and its thrill will hearten him in every other high endeavor. What he did on Mount Everest he will strive to do in every other sphere. And, as man has just reported when, after snow and numbing cold, he was thrown back only a thousand feet from the summit and half a mile away, the struggle is "worth it—worth it every time."

Smokeless Locomotive

Built of wood at the Angus Shops, this full sized model of one of the latest type locomotives was designed originally as a feature of the dinner decorations at the Chateau Frontenac on the occasion of the Quebec conference of the Canadian Pacific Railway officers. Equipped with bell, whistle and electric lights, not a bolt or bar is lacking to mar the illusion which is that of a perfect engine coming through the wall against which it is placed. The headlight holds a portrait of E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific. At the Toronto Exhibition, August 23rd to September 6th, the model will be given a prominent position in the Company's exhibit.

TOURISTS LIKE FERNIE

(By Fred Spalding)

The Fernie camping grounds are well filled every evening now with tourists, and though there are not many of them who take the trouble to register their visit, those who do all express their appreciation of the conveniences of the camp in terms which leaves no doubt as to the honesty of their expressions.

On my recent trip, everywhere I went I heard praise for the camp grounds all through the Crow's Nest Pass, that of Fernie perhaps coming in for the most. However, that is chiefly on account of the location of the camp here. In this respect we are very fortunate, because there is not another camp anywhere that I know of which has grander surroundings, but when it comes to the conveniences for the tourists, some of the other camps have advanced more than Fernie has. Coleman has a particularly nice camp and well equipped, and as this is its first year, they have started out very well indeed. Blairmore is increasing the conveniences of their grounds and will soon have them second to none. The greatest improvement I noticed in any of the camp grounds was at Pincher Creek. They have a lovely spot located in a grove of big cottonwood trees with the creek on two sides, and it is the shadiest, most parklike camp of them all. Cranbrook camp will ultimately be the best of them all as it is now a charge camp and an attendant is there all the time. The city controls it and they are making money out of it. This money is going back into improvements, such as shower baths, extra cooking facilities, etc. It is a new camp, last year being its first year, and they have had to fight the dust nuisance. They are now making preparations for gravelling the roads in it, and when this is done their principal difficulty will have been overcome.

Last week I told about the opinion expressed by Mr Cole of the Chicago Daily News, that the best scenery he had seen in all his travels was that stretch between Elko and Fernie and he would rather have missed all the other than that. Quite a number of Fernie people have joshed me about that during the past week. Some of them have even gone so far as to tell me that that kind of talk may be good publicity to use outside but that it's foolish talk to use around here. When some of those who talk that way have driven all over the country to the extent I have, their opinions may be worth while, but until then they might at least allow me to have the courage of my own convictions, and again I say that there is not another 20-mile stretch in the whole of North America which can surpass in beauty and variety that particular stretch. I received the following letter in my Thursday's mail which has somewhat of a bearing on that question and comes at rather an opportune time. It is from a man who has been through Fernie each year for the last five on long trips. He is D. M. Jewell, of Mirror, Alta. He says:

Since I came home from Fernie three or four parties have asked me to go back with them to fish and I thought I might go a little later. Will you kindly tell me when the big game season opens in B.C., and if there is an open season on Elk this year, and if we can take out big game to Alberta, and what it would cost us for license from here. I understand the big game season starts the first of September. If this is correct we will come to Fernie the last of August to fish for one week and then hunt the first of Septembr. I want to thank you for the courtesy you people of Fernie extend to tourists and to say that I have toured from Edmonton to Old Mexico and return, tracked some 12,000 miles, and found the finest drive and scenery from Elko to Fernie of any part of our travels.

And that's that!

FOOTBALL

The Bluebirds and the K.P. played at the North end grounds on Wednesday, resulting in a win for the K.P. by a score of 3-1.

The game scheduled for Sunday will be between the Vets and K.P. Both teams will be strongly represented and a good game can be looked for.

The following will be the teams:

Vets—Goal, Sawyer; backs, J. Mills and J. Riley; half-backs, H. Wheeler, W. Riley and J. Sweeney; forwards, H. Eastwood, H. Brown, T. Davidson, R. Thornton, T. Joinson. Reserves: J. Cadoo, Ferguson, G. Goole, G. Ross.

K. of P.—Goal, D. Coste; backs, B. Smith, J. Hamer, Jr.; half backs, A. Thornton, J. Gibson, A. Fleming; forwards, T. Williams, J. Hamer, W. Murray, J .Wilson, J. Robson. Reserves: H. Hobson, Ferguson.

WINS THREE OUT OF FOUR

On Friday evening last Fernie defeated Bonners Ferry in the second of the series by a score of 2-0. Hein occupied the box for the home team and pitched air tight ball. Bonners Ferry had been strengthened considerably since the previous game and the result was one of the best matches that has been played in Fernie this year.

Score—

Fernie	2	0	1

On Sunday the local team pulled off a double header, one at Kimberley and the other at Wycliffe. In the first game it looked like Fernie up to the 8th innings, the score standing 3-1 in favor of the visitors at that time, but the Kimberley boys pulled off a batting rally in that innings which brought in four runs, giving them a lead of one, which the visitors were unable to overcome.

Score—

	R	H	E
Kimberley	4	1	4
Fernie	3	2	2

In the Wycliffe game Fernie got away right from the start and piled up a score of 6-2. Ault was on the mound for Fernie and pitched almost air tight ball. Piper, the old veteran ball player and Wycliffe's star, scored the only two runs for his team. Each pitcher struck out 16 men.

Score—

Fernie	6	3	4

On Sunday morning last, while on her way to Fernie, Mrs. Richmond of Kootenay Orchards, had the misfortune to meet with an accident when about two miles out. It appears that while driving at but moderate speed, the car encountered some gravel, which caused it to skid and roll over on the road. While all the occupants of the car received a bad shaking up, Mrs. Richmond's mother was the only one seriously hurt, she receiving several bruises on the arms and body. On receipt of word of the accident, Ross Pascuzzo, of the Hanson Garage, hurried to the scene and soon had the car righted, and the party returned to Cranbrook with the car practically uninjured. — Cranbrook Courier.

HOLY FAMILY SCHOOL WINS

Carl Steinert's Pets overshadowed the Coleman Crusaders at the city park on Wednesday afternoon very much as Mt. Hosmer overshadows the White Spruce mill. The score was 28 to 14. Fernie boys excelled especially in batting and pitching. Coleman's fielding was just a trifle better. Some of their errors might easily be called fielder's choices, because of the fence-busting propensities of the Holy Family wrecking crew. A fair crowd turned out to see the youngsters lend their efforts to hasten the building of the much needed swimming pool.

Just another word. We have sand lots here just as surely as in the U.S.A. We have the baseball material. Why not do just a little more to help along junior baseball and in fact junior sports of all kinds?

DISCUSSED THE SWIMMING POOL

On Friday evening last quite a large number of citizens, including a number of ladies, assembled at the Council Chamber to hear the report of the Dominion Day Celebration Committee and to discuss the matter of making a start on the long delayed swimming pool.

The report of the Treasurer, A. Klauer, showed that the profits for Dominion Day were $1760.07, less a few small items of expense not yet turned in.

The report also showed that the actual total amount available at present was $4,937.53. A further sum of $4,456.53 is tied up in the Home Bank.

Quite a little discussion took place on the question of making a start of some kind on a swimming pool. There were some who thought that owing to the present outlook that it was inadvisable to make any move in the matter now. However, quite a majority of those present were in favor of an immediate start being made, contending that considerable free labor could be secured at the present time.

A committee consisting of Sherwood Herchmer, K. Bryant and Hartley Wilson was appointed to see what free sites were available and to submit the matter of a site to the popular vote of the people of Fernie; the committee to call another meeting as soon as the site was decided on. They were also asked to submit preliminary plans and estimates, etc.

Since the meeting the committee have been offered a parcel of land on Dalton Avenue between Hanson and Jaffray streets by the City Council. This property is approximately 130x360 feet and besides a place for a swimming pool would provide a considerable space for a playground for the children. Many citizens have taken the trouble to look over this site and the great majority seem to favor this location as the best procurable. The committee feel that owing to this popular sentiment it should really not be necessary to go to the expense and trouble of taking a popular vote. They would like any who have objections to this site to let them know, in order that they may be in a position to ascertain if such a vote is really necessary.

CITY COUNCIL

A short meeting of the city council was held on Monday night last. All members were present except Ald Aiello.

The council expressed its willingness to give a tract of land on Dalton Avenue between Cox and Jaffray streets for a swimming pool site.

A resolution was passed that all consumers of light and water must pay up all arrears by Aug. 26th, in default of which their service would be cut off.

The usual accounts were passed for payment.

MRS. TODHUNTER PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Isabella Todhunter passed away at the St. Eugene Hospital, Aug. 2nd. The late Mrs. Todhunter had been in failing health for a number of months, and although the end was not unexpected news of her passing cast a gloom over the community of which she was an old and highly esteemed resident. Deceased was in her sixty-ninth year.

Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss, two daughters, Mrs. F. Worthington, of Cranbrook, and Mrs. H. P. Crosby, of Tacoma, and three sons, Gibson, Stanley and Albert, of Elko. A sister resides in England.

The late Mrs. Todhunter was born in England, and came to Canada, with her family, in October, 1900, settling in Fernie, later moving to Elko on account of ill-health. Of a kindly and cheerful disposition she won for herself a host of friends in the district who will deeply mourn her passing. She was an ardent church worker and although a life-long member of the Chuch of England, she willingly lent a hand to any charitable society, regardless of denomination. For years she carried on the Sunday School work in Elko.

The funeral was held from the McPherson Undertaking Parlors, Cranbrook, at 3 p.m., Tuesday, to the Church of England, and was largely attended by friends anxious to pay tribute to one who had been so well and favorably known throughout the district. Many floral offerings were sent as a token of esteem in which the deceased was held. All members of her family were present at the funeral. Services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Harrison and interment took place at the Cranbrook Cemetery. The pall-bearers were L. Foisy, T. Roberts, T. Duncan, W. Wood, M. Edmunds and W. J. J. Morrison, all old friends of the deceased. The sympathy of the community is extended to the family in their sad bereavement.

G. W. V. A. PICNIC

Ideal weather prevailed on Tuesday when the G.W.V.A. held their annual children's picnic in the city park. Through the generosity of many auto owners the participants were quickly taken to the park at 10 a.m. On arrival there the children were regaled with ice cream. Races and games were indulged in, the tit-bit being a football game between Coal Creek and Fernie ladies. Jack Knight handled the whistle. The Coal Creek ladies proved victorious by a score of 3 to 2. Luncheon was served at 12 noon. Oranges, soft drinks and ice cream were also served during the afternoon. An enjoyable day was brought to a close at 6 p.m.

The thanks of the committee are hereby tendered to the citizens who provided transportation, Crow's Nest Trading Co. for donation of oranges, the Brewery Co. for soft drinks and Tries-Wood Co. for trucks to carry members from Coal Creek to their homes; also to all workers who joined to make another happy day in the annals of the Vets' kiddies.

BOWSER RETIRES

VICTORIA, Aug. 5.—W. J. Bowser definitely retires from the leadership of the Conservative Party, and from the House.

"The elected Conservative members meet at my invitation Saturday to choose a leader" he states. "I am definitely and finally retiring. I have been defeated at the polls, and accept the people's verdict. I am finished with politics, and have no regrets."

Mr. Bowser will carry on a number of business intereste he has in Vancouver.

R. H. Pooley, Esquimalt, and J. W. Jones, South Okanagan, are mentioned most prominently for the leadership.

VISIT OF LORD BYNG

Long before the scheduled time for the arrival of the special train with Lord and Lady Byng and party arrived here the vicinity of the depot was crowded. A contingent of Veterans, with decorations, 60 strong, under command of Major G. G. Moffatt and Sgt.-Major Cowper Stephenson, formed a guard of honor, with a large contingent of Boy Scouts under Scoutmaster Garlick, of Michel, also in attendance. Autos were placed at the disposal of the distinguished visitors, and followed by the G. W. V. A. band, the Veterans and Boy Scouts, the procession wended its way to the grounds of the provincial building, where a reception platform, suitably decorated, had been erected. Mayor Henderson presented an address of welcome on behalf of the residents of Fernie, as follows:

To His Excellency, the Right Honorable General Lord Byng, of Vimy, G.C.B., R.C.M.G., M.V.O., Governor-General and Commander in chief of the Dominion of Canada.

May it please Your Excellency:

We, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Council of the City of Fernie, on behalf of the citizens of the said City, approach your Excellency on the occasion of your visit here, with sentiments of devotion and loyalty to His Majesty's person and Government, and humbly beg to present for your Excellency's acceptance the following address:

We appreciate the honor of Your Excellency's visit here and extend to you our warmest welcome to our industrial city.

Lumbering has been an important coal producing centres in the Dominion of Canada, the mines having a daily output of about three thousand tons of coal. It is an unfortunate fact that the mines are not being worked at present, owing to a dispute between the operators and the workers. It is the expectation of all, however, that the differences of opinion will reach a speedy settlement, satisfactory to all concerned.

Lumbering has been an impartant industry, but does not now occupy such a prominent position in this locality as heretofore. The easily obtained timber has been used, and this fact, combined with market conditions and other factors, have made this industry difficult to operate on a paying basis.

Agriculture and dairying are improving, as the area of cleared land is increasing.

Water power has been developed, with the result that through the whole pass cheap electrical energy for Lighting and Power is available.

The Crow's Nest Pass is now firmly established as part of a very popular automobile tourist route, and we believe that the scenery is unsurpassed in any part of the World. Road surfaces, grades and curves have been improved. Tourist camps have been established, and everything has been done to give Tourists an enjoyable journey through the Pass.

Assuring your Excellency of our loyal devotion, I have the honor to be

Your Excellency's most obedient servant,

GEORGE G. HENDERSON,
Mayor.

Fernie, B.C.,
August 7, 1924.

Lord Byng made a suitable reply.

Floral tributes were presented to Lady Byng by representatives of the I.O.D.E. and the Boy Scouts.

Lord Byng then inspected the guard of honor, shaking hands and chatting with every member. He then inspected the Boy Scouts, after which any citizen who desired had the opportunity of being presented to Their Excellencies.

On the return to the depot a deputation of the G.W.V.A. waited upon Lord Byng and invited his inspection of the Vets building, which he readily consented to do. He expressed himself freely on the good work the Vets were doing. Before leaving the building Lord Byng presented a life size picture of himself to President George Bowen of the G.W.V.A. This brought forth the old familiar, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The G.W.V.A. band rendered several selections on the outside of the depot. As the train departed Chief Anderson called for three cheers for Their Excellencies, which were lustily given.

The business section of the city wore gala attire on the occasion and the Vets building was profusely decorated with flags and bunting, and had a large banner across the front which read, "Welcome to Our Commander; the Byng Boys Are Here."

Chief Anderson is to be congratulated on the successful manner in which the reception to Lord and Lady Byng was carried out.

WHEAT CUTTING HAS STARTED IN ALBERTA

Lethbridge, Aug. 7.—Spring wheat cutting started on a 320-acre field on the H. P. Ober farm at Coaldale this morning. The yield is estimated at 25 bushels per acre. Cutting has also started at Barnwell, Wilson Siding, Milk River and other points in Southwestern Alberta and will be general next Monday except in districts close to the mountains where the crop is very heavy.

OPERATORS POSITION

(Lethbridge Herald)

Calgary, Aug. 7. — The Western Coal Operators' association do not intend in any way to depart from the position it has taken in connection with the miners' strike in District 18.

The association met Thursday and formally decided to agree to the request of Hon. James Murdock, federal minister of labor, to meet him here on Friday morning.

Individual members of the association after the meeting on Thursday morning gave the very decided impression that there was very little likelihood of the association receding from the position taken by it since the beginning of the strike four months ago, if, in fact, the proposal originally made would still be open.

(Calgary Herald)

"We are always hopeful" was the manner in which Hon. James Murdock, federal minister of labor, replied to a query put to him by The Herald on Thursday as to a possible early settlement of the coal miners' strike in District 18. The minister arrived in the city Thursday morning. He met the executive of the Board of Trade during the morning, and will meet the operators on Friday. No definite date had been set as to when he would meet the miners' officials, he said, but it would probably be some time between now and Friday afternoon.

Whether the minister has any suggestions to make to the operators and miners has not been announced. Mr. Murdock said he had nothing to say for publication on the point. He said he intended to remain in Calgary for a few days, and if he could be of any service he would only be too glad.

WANT B.C. EVIDENCE

TORONTO, Aug. 6.—Formal application for the appointment of a commision to take evidence in British Columbia was made before Judge Coatsworth, in the county judge's court today, by D. L. McCarthy, K.C., special crown prosecutor in the Home Bank case. The application was opposed by I. F. Helmuth, K.C., and other counsel for the accused directors and officials of the bank, who at the same time put up a lengthy fight for further particulars on the charges which the defendants had to face.

After a hearing which lasted several hours, his honor reserved judgment on the question of the adequacy of the particulars furnished by the crown, and tentatively fixed Friday afternoon for the hearing of argument of the application of the crown to take evidence in British Columbia by commission.

Mr. McCarthy announced that in the charges under the Bank Act, hearing of which would begin before Judge Caotsworth, in the county judge's criminal court, on September 9, the crown proposed to proceed with the cases individually. Subject to any emergency that might arise, the Home Bank directors would be arraigned separately.

It was further announced by the crown that it was proposed to proceed with the conspiracy charges, which carry a penalty exceeding five years' imprisonment, before a jury at the criminal assizes commencing October 13 next.

Subsequently it was intended to proceed before Judge Coatsworth with the charges laid under Section 414, which was the case in which all the defendants would be arraigned together.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILROAD

Only a hundred miles more of track remain to be built, to connect the great northwestern grain-fields of Canada with salt water at Hudson Bay. And there is talk of abandoning the project, we are told by an editorial writer in The Railway Review (Chicago). At any rate, construction is to be held up until the completion of an exhaustive engineering investigation, now in progress. The fact that in Canada the Atlantic penetrates far into the middle west has always appealed to the imagination. If it were an ice-free Atlantic there would be no question of the desirability of making quick connection with it. Blocked as it is with ice, however, so that the open season may be as short as ten weeks, the question is quite different, and critics of the plan assert that Canada is faced with great expense for terminals without any prospect of reasonable saving in transportation. We read:

"The Hudson Bay Railway has been promoted with a view to establish a new export route to Europe for wheat and other grains from western Canada. It starts from The Pas, Manitoba, on the Saskatchewan River, at the end of a branch line of the former Canadian Northern Railway, and runs northeast to Hudson Bay, following down the Nelson River to Port Nelson, near the mouth of that stream. The length of the line, as laid out, is 425 miles, of which about 325 miles, to Kettle Rapids, has been constructed, at a cost of $20,500,000.

"Work on the road throughout was closed down in 1917, and now the question before the Canadian public is whether or not construction should be resumed and the road completed. The question has been taken up in Parliament, and is being investigated by the Engineering Institute of Canada. The engineers who have, voluntarily, brought the subject before the Institute have outlined the physical difficulties and commercial conditions in a manner that throws much light on the project, and the points raised lead in the direction of the investigations that should be made to determine whether or not the whole scheme can be made worth while as a measure of national economy.

"So far as railway construction is concerned no unusual difficulties seem to stand in the way of building the remaining hundred miles of road on the located route, but definite plans for a suitable ocean terminal at Port Nelson have never been decided upon, and the physical difficulties presented are such that expensive construction would have to be provided for. Owing to ice troubles and other conditions the terminal for transshipment to vessels would have to be built twenty miles up the stream, involving a great deal of dredging for a harbor of adequate size and for the channel leading to the open sea. The most optimistic estimates of cost are $5,000,000 for completing the railway; about $4,00,000 for harbor and channel dredging; nearly $6,000,000 for storage facilities; and including lighthouses and other necessary marine equipment along the channel and in the straits connecting the bay with the ocean, a total expenditure of $22,500,000 to complete the railway, the port terminal and put navigation to and from the port on a commercial footing.

"The most serious drawback and the condition which gives rise to the most serious doubts on the success of the whole proposition is the short season of open navigation. In some years this has been as short as ten weeks, and the longest that could be expected would be fifteen weeks, beginning about the middle of August This short season would so place limitations on the capacity of the railway that large elevator capacity would have to be provided at the port; and it would so affect the availability of tramps that estimates on freight rates must remain largely conjectural.

"A liberal estimate of the quantity of grain that would move by this outlet is 16 to 24 million bushels. The most favorable conjectural transportation saving would be about ten cents per bushel, disregarding insurance. These estimates are taken from a discussion before the Winnipeg branch of the Institute by Mr. W. Nelson Smith.

"From the foregoing it will appear that the financial sucess of the project of completing the railway line for almost the sole purpose of establishing a new ocean route for grain exportation, in competition with no less than five well-established existing routes, is at least problematical. The very brief navigation season, the chance of encountering Artic conditions during a good part, if not all, of that brief season, the high cost of port development, and, most important of all, the relatively small proportion of the total of grain exports that could go by that route under conditions the most favorable. render the proposition a defensive one from the start. A penetrating inquiry into all the facts, with thorough investigation of natural and commercial conditions, by technical experts or specialists in many lines, will be necessary to determine whether all the benefits possible can be justified on economic grounds."—The Literary Digest.

Here and There

Up to the end of May, 1924, over 779,000,000 fry of different kinds were distributed throughout Canada from the fish hatcheries operated by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, a recent despatch from Ottawa declares.

A surplus of $363,011 is shown in the annual report of the Vancouver Board of Harbor Commissioners for the year 1923. Receipts totalled $725,880. There was an increase of $4,813,797 in the value of all exports and imports. The actual value of all freights was $40,693,924.

Among the passengers sailing for England on the Canadian Pacific steamship "Marloch" July 3rd from Montreal was a large party of teachers, who will join the tour of the Overseas Educational League, which this year is covering Great Britain, France and Belgium.

A set of 12 beautiful colored pictorial menu cards illustrative of the history and romance of Canada has just been placed in service by the Canadian Pacific Railway on its crack transcontinental expresses, the Trans-Canada Limited and the Mountaineer. Especially interesting are four reproducing authentic photographs of prairie Indians, accompanied by descriptive text.

The newsprint production in May this year both for Canadian and United States mills was greater than the previous months. Canadian mills made a new high record, the total for the month being 117,833 tons, compared with a previous high figure of 115,572 tons and their production for the first five months of the year exceeded that of 1923 by 56,087 tons or approximately 11 per cent.

"Canada is the country for the Scotsman and I am going to bring every opportunity that Canada can offer, especially in farming, before my compatriots," declared the Rev. William Dunlop, M.A., F.S.A., of Buckhaven, Fifeshire, when in Montreal recently, on a tour of the Dominion investigating its agricultural possibilities. "But you are sadly in need of more people and we can supply them."

Through the generosity of the British Museum, the Fine Arts School of the City of Quebec has been enriched by the donation of a precious collection of books on arts, which contain over 3,000 reproductions of masterpieces. Among historic schools represented are the English of the 14th Century, the Italian of the 16th Century, the German of the 15th Century and the French and Danish of the 18th and 17th Centuries respectively.

For the 12 months ending May 31, Canada had a favorable trade balance of nearly $200,000,000. Exports during that period totalled $1,069,715,880 and imports $873,367,752 in value. This represents an increase in value over the exports of 1923 of $110,000,000 and of $32,000,000 over the imports of that year. The chief increases in exports were noted in agriculture, wood and paper.

The first residence of the Jesuit Fathers at Sillery, which was built in 1639, has been presented to the Province of Quebec by the sons of the late Hon. R. R. Dobell, a minister in the Laurier cabinet of 1896. This house, which stands at the foot of the path outside the City of Quebec up which Wolfe's army climbed to the Plains of Abraham, is the oldest in Canada and the second oldest in North America, the oldest being situated in Florida.

Something new in the way of "stunts" was staged at Montreal on July 4th by the publicity association of that city, as a send-off to Canadian and United States delegates going to the annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, which opened on July 12 at London, England. The 250 men of the party rolled a huge ball made of wood and canvas through the principal streets from a local hotel to the docks occupied by the Canadian Pacific steamship "Montcalm," upon which they subsequently sailed.

EXECT LARGE CATTLE EXPORTS

Already this year the figures for cattle exports from Canada to Great Britain are far ahead of last year, according to H. S. Arkell, Dominion Livestock Commissioner, in an interview at the Fort Garry hotel during his recent visit to Winnipeg. Mr. Arkell said he had it from the leading cattle exporters throughout the Dominion that they expect a very steady export trade in cattle right up to the end of the year. He had been happy to learn that the various shipments of fat cattle to the Old Country, which had been fed in the open throughout the winter at Edmonton and shipped by Canadian National this spring, realized good prices. "This success should hearten the western farmer, as it shows what is possible in this direction," said the Commissioner.

37,000 HARVESTERS REQUIRED

An estimate of 37,000 harvesters for Western Canada was arrived at by railway and employment officials at a meeting held a few days ago in the Canadian National Railways offices in Winnipeg. It is expected that 19,000 men will be available locally and from British Columbia, the remaining 18,000 to be brought from Eastern Canada.

EASTERN TEACHERS VISIT 'PEG

A party of forty members of the Canadian Teachers' Federation spent a day in Winnipeg this week en route over National lines to the Federation convention in Vancouver. During their stay a tour of inspection was made of the Manitoba Agricultural College, with which the party was much impressed.

INCREASE IN EXPORTS

According to statistics received by the Canadian National Railways at Winnipeg, exports from the port of Vancouver during the six months ending June 30 show a large increase over those for the same period last year. Lumber shipments out of Canada were almost double those of a year ago; canned salmon showed a twenty-five per cent. increase; wheat exports were four times as great; 730,000 barrels of flour were exported against 450,000 during the first six months of last year; and nearly 15,000 boxes of apples were sent out of Canada this year compared with 1,700 boxes for the same period of 1923.

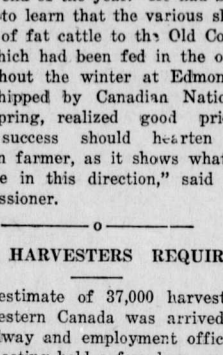
QUOTA LAW BARS CALIFORNIAN MAN'S WIFE

VANCOUVER, Aug. 4.—With their big fruit ranch in California going to ruin, Alexander Bowman and his wife have been held here two months through the United States quota law. He went to California from Scotland 35 years ago. A year ago he went to Scotland to get married. On his return they were held up, as his bride is a British subject. The wires have been kept busy for weeks, but the couple are still here.

TRADE WITH JAPAN

That there are possibilities of trade for Alberta in Japan in livestock and other products is the declaration of H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, who returned recently after superintending a trail shipment of cattle by Canadian National Railways and Canadian Government Merchant Marine to Japan. Mr. Craig made a thorough investigation into market possibilities there, and finds that there is considerable demand for beef cattle, and also for wool, barley, timothy seed, hides, flour, wheat, lumber, butter and cheese.

TRAIN RADIO OPERATOR



THE wireless operator is a familiar and sought for figure on the ocean liners of today. The radio operator aboard the all-steel Continental Limited, the transcontinental express of the Canadian National Railways, is fast becoming known and daily he is fulfilling his part of the work of the regular train crew on that service. The photograph illustrates the uniforms worn by the radio operators, similar in many respects to that of the operator of the ocean liner, but bearing on the lapels and cap the monogram of the Canadian National Railways. The suit is tailored of fine blue serge with double breasted coat with gold buttons and one stripe of gold braid on the sleeve, indicating the rank. The Canadian National Railways are the first company to inaugurate this service as a regular part of their equipment.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

NEW SALT DEPOSIT FOUND

A salt deposit at Kwinitsa, on the Canadian National Railways, 64 miles east of Prince Rupert, is attracting attention, as it is the only known salt deposit on the Pacific Coast of Canada. A Prince Rupert company has taken up 14 claims, comprising about 750 acres. An analysis of the brine brought up by pumps shows 9663 sodium chloride, comparing favorably with well-known salts from different parts of the world The railway passes thru the property, and there is a deep-water boat landing on the Skeena river in front of it.

MUST NOT "RUSH" CHILDREN

A matter of importance in dealing with children is to allow them plenty of time in whatever they are required to do. Children can't hurry because their "reaction time" is longer than in grownups. This reaction time is the time required between the command and the doing of the command. In an adult it may be about the twentieth of a second, swift as lightning, but in a little seven-year-old child it may be five or ten times as long, especially if he is tired or threatened or bothered or not feeling quite well. Parents and teachers who like to exact "instant obedience" should bear in mind the "reaction time." Instant action is necessarily slow in a child. Some children in the same family are slower than others. Psychologists think that boys generally have a shorter reaction time than girls. Children are more absorbed in what they are doing than we are. When they "play ships," the floor of the room is the sea. It really is, and it is hard for them to hear you when you speak to them from your world. They are in another world, a world that they like better than our world. Give a little time and they will manage. —Exchange.

No woman can be homely who does this

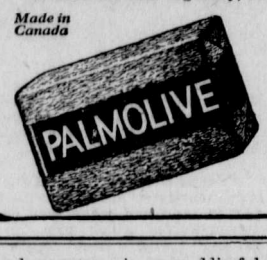
No girl or woman can be called unattractive who has kept the beauty and radiance of youthful complexion.

And today millions of women know this simple method. You too may employ it to keep lovely and young the clear, fresh skin Nature gave you.

This is all you need

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.



Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils— famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive. Let it do for your whole body what it does for the face.

See that you get Palmolive—which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. In a short time improvement will be noticeable, encouraging.

BRITISH DEBATERS COMING

The University of Alberta debating team will meet the debating team from Oxford University, headed by M. J. Macdonald, son of Britain's Premier, some time this fall when the Britishers come to Western Canada.

Here and There

The value of Ontario's mineral production for the first quarter of the present year, as shown by a report of the Department of Mines, has increased $2,333,000 over the corresponding quarter of last year, the total being $11,575,151 and $9,241,853 respectively. Silver was the only metal of importance to record decreased production during the period under review.

Among the passengers sailing on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montlaurier" for England on July 8th, was E. W. Beatty, Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway. While in England, Mr. Beatty is scheduled to address the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World on July 17th on the subject of "Building an Empire with Advertising."

Excellent reports as to the hunting in the Caribou district of British Columbia are being received. F. W. Pridham and Fred. Shaver recently returned from a month's sport in that district with an excellent specimen of grizzly bear weighing about 1,400 pounds. They saw moose, caribou, deer, black bear, pheasants and grouse, and consider the district a hunter's paradise.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Bond Dealers' Association of Canada at Toronto recently, the President declared that during the 12 months ending May 1st, $507,917,000 worth of Canadian bonds had been distributed, this being by far the largest total issued in the Dominion in any post-war year. The most striking feature in this connection is that about 89 per cent. was absorbed within the borders of Canada.

On June 18th Winnipeg, Man., celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its incorporation. From a struggling frontier village of the 70s, Winnipeg has forged into the position of third largest city in the Dominion, with continental repute as a railroad centre. It is the Gateway of the West and 100,000,000 bushels of prairie grain pass through it to the head of the lakes, whence it goes to the markets of the world.

Twenty-five officers and 200 men of the Royal Navy, from the special service squadron headed by H.M.S. Hood, enjoyed a trip through the Rockies over the Canadian Pacific lines while their ships were anchored at Vancouver recently. The sailors, who made a point, in true naval style, of seeing and doing everything, were enthusiastic over the scenery at such show-places as Banff and Lake Louise, which they declared the most beautiful they had seen in all their world cruise.

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR CHECK USERS

Ten rules for thwarting the ambitious check swindler have been sent out by the Forgery Prevention Bureau and are quoted as follows in The American Banker:

1. Keep blank checks and cancelled vouchers under lock.
2. Write checks with safety ink or with a check-writing machine that shreds the paper and impregnates it with the amount in ineradicable ink.
3. In writing checks, leave as little space as possible between the figures of the amount, and start the written amount as close to the left-hand margin as possible, drawing heavy parallel lines through the unfilled space.
4. In drawing checks, use only alteration-proof check paper.
5. Destroy all checks marred in drawing and never permit a check to be issued with any erasures on it.
6. Do not issue checks to unvouched for strangers.
7. Do not sign blank checks.
8. Scrutinize all certified checks, as the stamps are not difficult to duplicate.

Be careful where and how you sign your banking signature.

10. On checks you deposit, write above your signature "For deposit only," thus making it impossible for them to be cashed without alterations

A MESSAGE ASTRAY

A young lady organist in Montreal was anxious to make a good impression on a visiting clergyman one Sunday. The organ was pumped by a somewhat self-witted old sexton, who had his own ideas as to how long an organ voluntary should last, and would "shut off the wind" when he thought there had been enough.

On this particular Sunday the organist thought she would forestall any such accident by writing an appeal in the early part of the servise and giving it to the sexton. The old man received the note, and supposed it was for the minister. In spite of her frantic beckonings, he went straight to the pulpit with the note; and the astonished preacher read this message:

"Oblige me this morning by blowing away until I give you the signal to stop. Miss Allen."

EDITORIAL ECHOES

PROBABLY there is no more healthful diversion than swimming. It brings all the muscles of the body into play; it tones up the vital organs, any in many cases it insures us against an untimely death.

The few good swimmers in every stream are constantly being called upon to help some struggling person who has overreached himself or who has not been in the water since the days of his swimming hole experience. Such swimmers get winded easily and they become exhausted sometimes in deep water. The fact that they know something about swimming makes their rescue comparatively easy. Others who have sense enough to open their mouths above water and call for help when they are in trouble and close it when they go down seldom drown when swimmers are about.

This evening up process already has gone further than seemed possible a few months ago. It may be that fall or winter will find other industry and agriculture closer to a party than at any time during the ten years. That will be the solid basis upon which to build up permanent prosperity for all workers.

THERE are no strangers on the open road. Therefore it is good for everyone to occasionally cast aside business and take to the road. The automobile has made this mode of recreation within the reach of all. There are few so poor but they can command the price of a motor car—be it nothing better than a second-hand and dilapidated flivver. The shining motor car of the millionaire and the humble bus of the lowly tourist are parked side by side in the open spaces. They touch elbows for the time and for the time are brothers in fact. Each gets an insight into the other's viewpoint of life and a fraternity is established.

On the open road the troubles of one are the troubles of many. Few there be who will not halt to lend aid to a fellow traveller in distress. It is a free masonry born of an idea that possesses all to get away from the conventional and for the time being be again a normal person, living a normal life and thinking normal thoughts.

On the open road the troubles of our civilizations are cast aside and those who take to the open road are revealed in their true character, stripped of the things they pretend to be.

Should you doubt this world is yet a friendly old place, just wheel out the old bus and take a flier into the great outdoors, equipped with only a frying pan and a bit of canvas. You will find that there is still such a thing as hospitality in the land.

ODD FELLOW JOINT PICNIC

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Fernie and Michel held a joint picnic at Hosmer on Wednesday. The site chosen was the school grounds, which proved an ideal place. There were upwards of three hundred present and they were sure a happy crowd.

The children's races were the first on the program. First, second and third prizes were awarded and in the first six races for the little tots each child running was given a prize.

Two relay races were pulled off. Six ladies of Michel ran against six ladies from Fernie. The Fernie ladies proved to be the best runners, but when the same number of men ran from each place the Fernie men did not have a look in.

A baseball game between the members of the order from Michel and Fernie was then pulled off and caused much amusement.. The pitchers were like veterans but the catchers were real relics and the basemen and fielders like statues. Michel got the best of the deal, stealing bases like a nigger steals chickens. The score was: Michel 16; Fernie 6, but no wonder, as the umpire, the base umpire and the score keeper all were from Michel.

Lunch was then served.

The Fernie boys won the tug-of-war, but the Michel ladies got even by doing just what they like to the Fernie Rebekahs when they took the end of the rope.

During the day soft drinks, oranges, ice cream and peanuts were distributed to all and sundry, everything on the grounds being free. The affair broke up about 8 o'clock, all feeling satisfied that the first joint picnic had been a great success.

The following were the prize winners:

Girls, 6 years—1 M. Delucca, 2 V. Harrison.

Boys, 6 years—1 J. Delucca, 2 T. Rewers, 3 B. Davis.

EX-SERVICEMEN GIVEN WARNING

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—Canadian ex-servicemen are reminded in a bulletin issued by the Dominion command of the G.W.V.A. that all claims for disability pensions will be outlawed after Aug. 31, 1924. The bulletin states that "every ex-serviceman who suffers from any disability which he believes to be related to his war service should file his claim immediately. Such action may not lead to an early adjustment in his favor but he will secure the basis of full consideration ultimately and protect himself in regard to any development of the disability."

This warning also applies to dependents' claims except that application may be made within three years after death or the date of which the applicant becomes dependent.

The bulletin states further that "during recent years many disabled veterans have abandoned all hope of a pension following the receipt of a communication from the pension commissioners that the disability was not attributable to war service. These men are advised to again test their rights to pension."

OTTAWA PLANS FOR VETERANS' HOME

Ottawa, Aug. 6.—The department of soldiers' civil re-establishment is at present engaged in the working out of a scheme for the better and more economical disposition of disabledmen. It is proposed that in the case of some 900 out of 3,000 odd men under the department's care, the former of whom are not now in need of active continuous treatment, a portion of the existing accommodation be turned into soldiers' homes, where the men would be cared for at a much smaller expense than at present, and still have the best of attention and comfort.

The men would continue to draw their full pensions, but their dependents, being relieved of the care of them, would cease to draw allowances.

It has been suggested that as an alternative to the proposal to turn the canteen funds over to the various provinces, which proposal was killed in the senate last session, a portion of the fund be devoted to the creation of a soldiers' home at some central point in the Dominion.

It is not, however, regarded as likely that any further action will be taken with respect to the disposal of the fund until next session.

HUMAN MOTOR IN HOT WEATHER

A clever parallel between an overheated man and an overheated automobile is used by Dr. E. E. Free in an article written for the McClure Syndicate, to advise his readers how to be cool What makes you hot? asks Dr. Free. Not necessarily the temperature of the air. On an ordinarily hot day this is seldom over 90 or 91 degrees, while the normal temperature of the human body is nearly 99 degrees We are thus always hotter than the air temperature, unless the weather is extremely hot. Why, then, does a temperature of 90 or 91, even a temperature of 80 or 85, make you feel so overheated and uncomfortable? He continues

"The answer involves two things: the fact that your body is continually producing heat and the fact that your feeling of hotness or coolness is not really determined by the temperature of your body but by the speed at which this internal, human heat can be got rid of into the air.

"The human body is really a good deal like a steam-engine. The food that you eat is the fuel. In the stomach and digestive organs this food is converted into soluble substances—one of them is sugar—which can be taken arouid the body by the blood. These substances are merely liquid fuel, like the oil fuel that some engines use.

"In the muscles this fuel is 'burned.' A part of the energy in it is used to make muscular power, another part makes heat. The muscles get warm, just as the steam chest of a locomotive gets warm when the engine is running.

"But if the muscle fibers themselves got too hot they would be damaged. So the heat produced when they work is removed by the blood stream, just as the cooling water of an automobile removes the heat from the cyclinders.

"The body possesses a radiator, too just as antomobile does. It is the skin. When the blood gets warm in the muscles it is pumped to the skin to be cooled off. If the blood is very warm the skin automatically becomes moist so that the evaporation from it will help the cooling process.

"What happens on a very hot day is that your bodily radiator 'boils.' Your face (and all your skin) gets red and flushed. That is because there is more blood in it. The body is attempting to force the circulation through the radiator. At the same time the moisture of perspiration increases the cooling effect.

"A feeling of hotness does not mean that the body has really become hotter than its normal 99 degrees or a little less. It means merely that the radiator is being forced because the loss of heat from it is too low and the engine is tending to get overheated. This feeling of hotness is a kind of radiator thermometer designed to warn the driver when the radiator is ceasing to work adequately and when there is danger of the human motor becoming overheated. It is a signal to the brain that the bodily radiator is beginning to boil and that something ought to be done."

Under these circumstances what do you do with your automobile? asks D. Free. You do one of three things: you slow down the engine so that less heat will be produced, or you take off the radiator cover so that more of its surface will be exposed, or you turn the car around so that the breeze will blow through the radiator better and cool it off more promptly. He goes on:

"You can do exactly these same things with yourself in hot weather. indeed you do do them. First, you do move around so much; that is, you cut down the production of heat in your 'engines,' the muscles. At the same time you expose as much of your 'radiator' as you can; you wear thinner clothes, you open your shirt at the neck, you roll up your sleeves. Finally, you get more breezes past the skin radiator by starting the electric fan or by sitting in a draft. The parallel of the two things—your body and your automobile—is complete.

"But what happens when you get in the water to keep cool? This is simply another way of cooling off the radiator. You can do it with your automobile by playing a hose on the radiator. Water takes up the heat from any radiotor better than air does.

"There is one thing that you can do to keep your body feeling cool that you can not do so well with your automobile. That is you can cut down the fuel.

"In hot weather eat less. Only part of the food you eat is really necessary for the motion of your muscles. Most people eat much more than this. The excess has to be got rid of. The body burns it and makes heat. That means that just that much more heat has to be taken away through your radiator, the skin.

"Stop this. Eat only the minimum of food that you actually need for muscular work. Avoid especially all kinds of cold drinks with sugar in them and all kinds of ice-cream. These do not make you cooler, they make you hotter. They contain sugar and sugar is one of the most concentrated and heat-making foods known. If you want to keep your radiator working comfortably in very warm weather don't eat any sugar, oil or fat at all.

"It is as foolish to eat these fuel-foods as it would be to run an overheated automobile in low gear when the high would do as well."—The Literary Digest.

BOUNDARY MARKED

One of the features of the Alpine Camp which has been held this year at the foot of Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, was the unveiling on the summit of Robson Pass of amonument marking the boundary between Alberta and British Columbia. This ceremony took place on July 31, the date of the annual meeting of the club, and attracted a large number of members to Berg Lake who could not spend the entire period in camp.

THE PULPWOOD COMMISSION

The Royal Pulpwood Commission has reported, but there is nothing in its recommendations affecting the prohibition or restriction of the export of pulpwood from Canada. The Commission has cost the country some $70,000, yet in the main its findings read in similar vein to the propaganda material of a normal forest conservation policy. It has failed wholly to justify its existence. One of its terms of reference war "the question of the prohibition or restriction of the export of pulpwood in Canada." In its summary of conclusions it omits all reference to this. The stimulus which an embargo would give to industrial effort in the country is overlooked or waived aside, and yet in the public mind this was the outstanding matter which the Commission was to consider. That Commission has been in session for a year. It has travelled from one end of Canada to the other hearing evidence. It has suggested nothing that could not have emanated from the forestry branch of the British Columbia Department of Lands. It has dealt in platitudes in its findings, and it leaves the situation respecting our timber supply exactly where it was before $70,000 was spent to find out what is the matter.—The Colonist.

WHERE THE TIN GOES

The price of tin is now $1225 per ton, against only $700 per ton two years ago. In other words there is a "boom" in the metal. An enormous demand is reported to exist and this demand is increasing.

Where does all the tin go? We are of course all familar with tin kettles and other domestic utensils, also with tin containers of all kinds. They are made from tinplate, which are light plates of iron coated over very thinly with the bright metal, and the proportion of tin in a tin kettle made from tinplate is actually very small. The kettle, in fact, is not made of tin but is only "tinned," just as a copper kettle bought cheaply may not be copper at all but merely "coppered."

Another important use for tin is in the manufacture of anti-friction metals used in motor cars, locomotives and other machines that have rapidly revolving parts. The growth of the antomobile industry alone accounts for a largely-increased demand for tin.

Besides, tin is largely used in other alloys such as solder, pewter, bell metal and type metal. The multiplication of newspapers alone foreshadows an increasing demand for this metal. Bronze is partly tin. In the form of chloride, tin is used as a mordaunt by dyers and the pure white oxide is employed in the manufacture of enamel.

Tin, indeed, is one of the most valuable of the non-precious metals and as the growing demand is exceeding the supply prospectors are keenly on the lookout for it. Mines of native tin exist in Cornwall, Australia, and elsewhere, and the main source of the world's supply is the Malay Peninsula, where alluvial tin is sluiced out of enormous gravel deposits. Singapore is a port shipping large quantities of the metal and this fact alone makes the safety of the Empire's eastern possessions of vital importance, for the Empire needs tin in ever increasing quantities for its manifold industries.—The Province.

A TRADE MISSIONARY

On his way back from overseas, Captain I. J. Vince gave an interview at Montreal the other day. in which he told of plans to place a settlement of Scottish fisher folk in the west coast of Vancouver Island. "We can sell to China all the salt herrings we can handle," he said.

Captain Vince's remark suggests that there may lie across the Pacific a market for other foodstuffs, the products of Canada and of British Columbia particularly, and a reference to recent numbers of the Commercial Intelligence Journal, published by the department of trade at Ottawa, shows that Mr. J. W. Ross, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Shanghai, is emphatically of this opinion.

British Columbia potatoes and onions are now to be found in Chinese shops during the season, and the business in them is capable of expansion, Mr. Ross says. Apples from this province have a place on the market in Hongkong and Shanghai and are considered the finest received there. Canadian jams are well regarded, but the packing might be improved. Honey finds a ready market, but nearly all of it is produced in California. A considerable trade, Mr. Ross believes, could be done in bacon and hams and in dairy products such as butter and cheese and condensed and powdered milk.

In attempting to place their goods in the Orient shippers of Canadian food products are laboring under the handicap of having no means of bringing their goods personally to the attention of prospective buyers and they have no depots or wholesale houses where stocks are available at all times. It is difficult to work up a business on a consignment basis or through spasmodic shipments.

There is no doubt the Oriental market, both for foodstuffs and for other manufactured products is well worth cultivating. The trade of the Pacific has increased 400 per cent. in twenty-five years, and this is a mere beginning. The Orient is becoming industrialized, and its population is so enormous that as the standard of living is raised the demand for western products is certain to expand enormously. Canada is not doing badly in providing raw materials at present. She is far behind in her export of manufactures to China and Japan and has allowed the United States to capture the lion's share of this lucrative trade. Vancouver, situated on the ocean of opportunity, and facing the world's greatest potential markets, should assume the task of a go-between and trade missionary.—The Province.

NEW RADIO CALL LETTERS

Through the courtesy of the French colonial office and the government of Morocco, the Canadian National Railways have come into possession of the radio call letters of the Morocco government, "CN." These letters have been adapted by oll the radio stations owned or used by the National Railways when that Moroccan call shrdlu cmfwyp cmfw company is broadcasting. To the Moroccan call has been added the letter "R," together with the first letter of the city from which the broadcast is being made. For example, the Canadian National broadcasting station in Ottawa, which was formerly known as "CKCK," now uses the call letters "CNRO"; Winnipeg is "CNRW," and so on.

Over two thousand newly-weds visited Niagara Falls during the month of June. The big cataract looks its best when viewed by the light of the honeymoon.

AND WHEREAS urgent representations have been made that this increase in royalty is much heavier than the industry can bear,

AND WHEREAS the representations made have gone so far as to say that any attempt to collect this royalty beginning January 1st next as upon the basis of the present Royalty Act would immediately result in a shutdown of the entire industry in the Province,

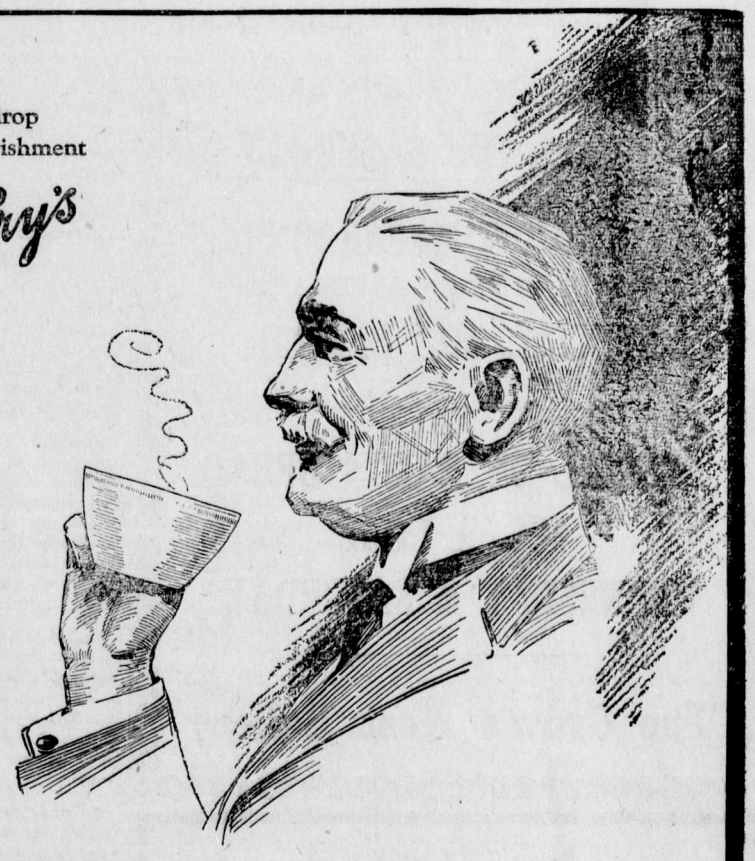
MOUNT GEIKIE CONQUERED BY CANADIANS

TO Canadians goes the honor of being the first to set foot on the top of Mount Geikie, 10,854 feet in altitude and the highest peak in the Ramparts Range of Jasper National Park, along the main line of the Canadian National Railways. The party, composed of Cyril Wates, of Edmonton, Malcolm D. Geddes, of Calgary, and Val. E. Fynn, of St. Louis, made their first ascent of Barbican Peak on July 12, and finding the passage too difficult there decided to return and attempt the southeast side, which route had been unsuccessfully attempted in 1922 by Mr. Wates and Dr. Bulyea, of Edmonton. In that year Yates and Bulyea got within 300 feet of the summit when they were compelled to turn back.

Two days later Wates, Geddes and Fynn left camp at 2.30 in the morning and climbed a steep snow gully and up rock chimneys and cracks, one of which led the climbers into the heart of the mountain, finally emerging like a tunnel on the north face with a drop of over 3,000 feet to the Tonquin Valley below. After reaching the altitude where they had been in 1922 the party traversed a narrow ledge encircling the south side of the mountain and reached the top at four o'clock in the afternoon. In doing so they faced a difficult and dangerous rock climb, having to overcome rotten rock and falling stones at many points.



The party descended by moonlight, reaching their camp at 4.30 on the morning of July 15, exhausted but happy over their success.

Other parties are attempting to climb Mount Geikie this summer, but the honor of first reaching the summit must go to Wates, who has just successfully completed his third attempt. Another party, headed by Dr. Thorrington, noted American climber, was attempting the ascent with guide Conrad Kain, when they saw the Wates party at the top and turned back.

The illustrations show the serried south side of Mount Geikie; the successful climbers, from left to right, Messrs. Geddes, Fynn and Wates; and their awakening the morning after the ascent

PREVENT FOREST FIRES -- IT PAYS

THE SIKH PROBLEM

Sir Malcolm Hailey, the Governor of the Punjaub, has a difficult problem on his hands in dealing with the Sikhs, who, during recent months, have shown a growing restlessness under British rule. The bitterness that has been engendered makes the situation one of growing seriousness. The Sikhs own the best agricultural land in the Punjaub, they pay heavy sums in land revenue, they form an important part of the Indian Army. The genesis of the present trouble was a reform movement started a few years ago which had for its object the purging of Sikhism from abuses, the driving from the temples of unworthy priests and the entire separation of the Sikhs from the Hindus. The reform movement was constituted as the Gurdwara Parbhandak Committee and with the growth of its strength it becomes a political danger. It acquired control of the Glden Temple of Amirtzar and the shrines at Tarn Taran and Nankana Sahib, as well of many other shrines in the Punjaub.

It is the extremists who are making the trouble through the Parbhanak Committee and they have engineered it so that the belief is created that the Government is interfering with the religion of the Sikhs. The difficulties of the Government are very great, for the opinion has been sedulously spread that there has been interference with the Sikh religion, and especially in the control of their temples. Perhaps nine out of ten of the Sikhs feel they have a grievance, although it would be exaggeration to say that there is any definite anti-British movement. The Sikh does not want the end of the British Raj. There are no real grievances, either political or economic, but it is impossible to exercise from his mind the opinion that has grown up within the past few years that he has been persecuted in a religious way. It is a very difficult thing for the Government officials to get at the minds of this people and ameliorate their grievances. The Sikhs themselves are divided in viewpoints. The Government is showing the most exemplary patience, under provocation that is sometimes extreme, but on the Sikh side apparently there is no one who can act with authority. The Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee has no outstanding personality. In fact, the committee has two parties. One is moderate, intensely religious and restrained. The other is composed of extremists.

The points of difference between the Government and the Sikhs are such that an agreement could be reached speedily if it were only possible to find one who could act as plenipotentiary for the Sikhs and interpret their wishes. Briefly stated the Sikhs ask: First, that their shrines should be under Sikh control—that is, under their representative Shrine Managing Committee. known as the Shiramani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee; second that all Sikhs should be allowed to wear kirpans, or daggers, without limit of size; third, that all Sikhs found guilty of crimes or now charged with crimes which may be regarded as religions should be forthwith released; fourth, that the former Maharajah of Nabha should be restored to power. The Government is willing to recognize the Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, proided it confines itself to religious activities. It is probably willing, too, to grant an amnesty to prisoners if there was a general settlement of the outstanding questions at issue. The restoration of the Maharajah of Nabha is a matter in which the British Government could hardly acquiesce. The Sikh question, whenever it is settled will not be settled from Whitehall. It is a matter for education in the villages of the Punjaub, and it may prove a lengthy experience Originally the trouble started for religious reasons, and extremists, agitating against British rule, are seeking to make it political, though there is no indication that they can be ultimately successful in creating any widespread agitation among the Sikhs against the British Raj.—The Colonist.

CANADA'S GOLD PRODUCTION

By 1926 Canada will displace the United States as second among the gold producing countries of the world, in the opinion of Louis D. Huntoon, New York mining engineer, and a former professor of mining and metallurgy in Yale University, Canada is now third, Africa ranking first. However, according to Mr. Huntoon, Canada's output is increasing rapidly while in the United States since 1915 there has been a rapid decline. Among the provinces, British Columbia ranks first, the Canadian Yukon second and Ontario third. "Few appreciate," says Mr. Huntoon, "the importance of the recent gold discoveries in Ontario, the present output from that province, and the exploration and development work which are in progress in both Ontario and Quebec in search of, and opening up, new deposits." He also pointed out that it was a remarkable fact in regard to these recently developed gold fields that they can be reached by Canadian National trains within less than twenty-four hours' ride from Toronto or Montreal.

GAME BAG INCREASED

In the new provincial government game regulations for the guidance of of sportsmen in the province of Manitoba provision is made that during the shooting season for prairie chicken and partridge the bag has been increased from 25 to 60 birds. This means that every day an individual may go out and shoot that many of these birds.

275,000,000 BUSHEL CROP

Sir Henry W. Thornton. chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, during his present tour of the west, has predicted that the prairies will produce a 275,000,000 bushel crop this year.

OUTDOORS AND HEALTH

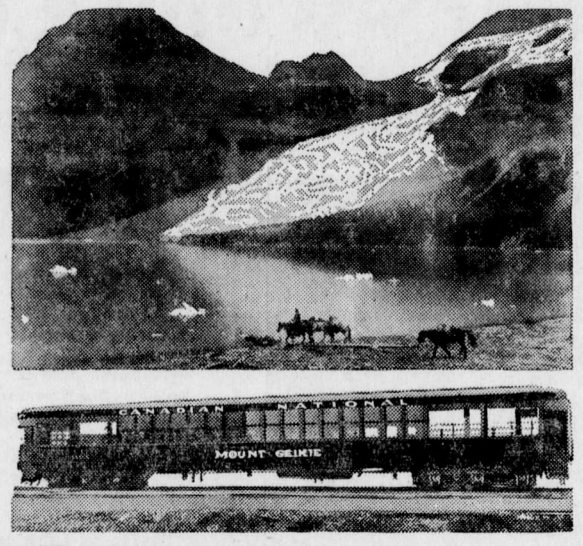
(Rod and Gun)

The physical side of life of the Canadian child is receiving more attention at the present time than ever before. Baby clinics are followed by dental and medical inspection in the schools. Public health nurses to be found in every community, and the state is spending large sums of money for the betterness of the health of the future citizen and taxpayer. Although all social legislation is not successful, it is conceded that the child of today enjoys advantage not to be had by the child of a few years ago.

And while the introduction of greater public interest in the child is commendable, are we not overlooking one vital factor in the making of the brawn of the nation by neglecting to provide for proper outdoor recreation? Cutover forests, depleted streams and barren marshes and prairie will not give enough inducement for the youth to leave the dance hall or motor speedway.

A few hours afield with gun or rod will build better than twice the time spent in setting-up exercises in a gymnasium. The zest and vim in the pursuit of fish or game provides the exercise needed to better the eyesight and to harden the muscles. only with suitable recreation grounds can we hope to attract the future sportsman from the paved streets and indoor amusements.

History tells us that the leaders in all walks of life have either spent their childhood in the country or have drawn their greatness from time spent in solitude with Nature. This being the case, should not all governments devote more attention to developing natural playgrounds so that all the people can play as Nature intended them; in setting aside game santutries so that the animal life can breed and overflow into suitable hunting territory; in increasing the fish hatcheries and preventing pollution of streams so that fishing would again become attractive for the boy?



In addition to setting aside game preserves, re-stocking streams and preventing pollution, it is imperative that steps are taken to destroy the vermin that prays on the game. With the government and game departments taking the lead it will not take long to enlist the rank and file of the sportsmen of the country in an army to do battle with the crow, the obnoxious hawks, which attack the game birds, and in the winter the wolf could be given the attention re merits.

Each year sees fewer wooded spaces, less game, more streams and lakes polluted and poorer fishing. Action is necessary on the part of the state and the individual if the youth of tomorrow is to enjoy the privileges of the sportsman of today. There is no being, however, strong, mentally, morally, spiritually or physically who is not bettered through a sojourn with Nature.

COLEMAN SHADE FERNIE

At the outset the Holy Family School baseball team wish to sincerely thank Messrs. A. Large, J. J. Harrington and Walter Winnett for lending them cars and by so doing making the trip to Coleman possible. We lost the game 7-6, but Fernie boys won a deal of admiration for their good behavior, discipline and true sportsmanship. As soon as the game was over three lusty cheers went up for Coleman and then for "his umps."

Fernie boys rolled into Coleman at 12.30, brimful of confidence and greatly refreshed by a few hours of picnicing around the lakes. Just a whisper. They may have been overconfident, a shortcoming of youth.

Babs slants were too much for our boys for five full innings. In the 6th, however, they laid the wood on the apple and six runs came across. Joe Kasmar pitched well, but the rough ground made fielding almost an impossibility.

Coleman, like Fernie, sadly needs somebody to take charge of the junior sports and in this way develop the best in every boy. There is a strong strain of goodness in every boy, provided it is channelized and developed.

WINNIPEGGERS NOW SHUN BLIND TIGERS

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7.—Two men found drinking in an hotel bar which was raided by the police last night were fined each $50 and costs today. Arrest and prosecution of bar frequenters is the latest move in the present campaign against the illegal sale of liquor, and it promises to make bar premises exceedingly unpopular.

More than one hundred liquor cases now are pending in the police court and the list is being increased daily. Most of the bars in the city are said to be closed.

Motorists from the South are said to be vieing with each other to see who will have the greatest variety of liquor brand labels pasted on the windshields of their cars on the return trip. The bathing girls have no room to dive.

The Coal Co. ran an extra coach on the 2.45 train and delayed the return from Fernie from 4 to 4.20 p.m. to enable the citizens to participate in the reception to Lord Byng at Fernie on Thursday.

The local members of the K. of P. and Pythian Sisters are holding a grand social and dance in the Club Hall on Wednesday next, to which all adult residents of Coal Creek are invited. It is expected that a large number of Fernie members will be present also. K. P. orchestra will supply the music. The affair will start at 8 p.m.

BALL TEAM MADE TOUR

The Fernie baseball team returned last night from a tour of Spokane and the mining country of Idaho. The boys had a fine trip and played five games, winning two and losing three.

The first game took place at Couer d'Alene and was the only one in which the Fernie boys did not give a good account of themselves. It was the weakest team that our boys met on the trip, but they chewed them up 14 to 5. They batted our pitcher, Heine, all over the field, getting some 13 hits off him, and the errors made by the rest of the boys were too numerous to mention. The only excuse that could be presented was that the long auto trip of nearly 300 miles had put them completely off their game.

At Wallace, however, the next day, with Ault and McTeer at work, the boys came back strong and defeated the leaders of the State league and the best all round ball team that they met on the trip, by a margin of one.

The team was idle on Sunday but on Monday met the Kellogg-Wardner aggregation, who are in second place in the league, and brought home the bacon by a score of 6—5. Heine was in the box for Fernie and pitched air-tight ball until the 6th inning, the score standing 6-0 in favor of Fernie. But in the 6th the home team found our pitcher and got in five runs. Heine again got control in the 7th and succeeded in holding them down.

Ault pitched the first game in Spokane and in his old home town won the applause of the crowd by his wonderful control. Heine pitched the second game and it was no fault of his that Fernie lost. He pitched almost air-tight ball until the 9th innings and had it not been for a series of errors caused more by the bad light than anything, our team would have won easily from Spokane's crack nine, as the score up to that time was 3 to 1 in our favor.

Bunching hits in the ninth innings, the Fernie nine defeated Wallace, 5 to 4, in an interesting game after Wallace had attained the long end of a 4 to 3 score in the fifth by an uphill fight. The visitors started things off with a rush and scored three runs in the first innings before the locals were fully awakened to the serious proposition they had to deal with. Five hits were amassed in the first canto and coupled with some nifty base running the game was apparently stowed away.

The Wallace sluggers were determined, however, and in the fourth two runners crossed the plate. The first came on Hunton's long home run to the left field and the second when Flaherty doubled and scored on Goforth's single.

In the fifth Chisholm got a life on an infield error and advanced to second when Hardy walked. Two were out, but Hunton came through with a timely two bagger and bath runners crossed the rubber. Hunton remained on second when Flaherty fanned to end the inning with the locals leading 4 to 3.

After the first inning Garrity, on the mound for Wallace, was master of the situation ,except for the ninth inning, when he weakened and the visitors sent the winning tallies over the plate.

Salty Ault, on the mound for the visitors, allowed Wallace eight hits and fanned 11 bastmen. Garrity was touched for 10 bingles. He fanned five. Both teams were charged with three errors.

THE COAL COMPANY'S PROPOSITION TO THE MEN

Statement submitted at the joint conference by Operators of this district:

(a) The difficulties we are confronted with may in brief be referred to as follows:

First the competition of Virginia districts, the Western Pennsylvania districts, and the Pacific and Vancouver Island Coast Mines; also the mines in Central B.C.

(b) The high price of coal during the last six years, especially together with the seriously intermittent class of coal production that has been carried on, formed the necessity for railroads to the south of the line resorting to the use of oil. This class of reliable fuel is being purchased at prices that vary from 80 cents to $1.20 per barrel, or at the average equivalent of the best coals produced in this district of about $3.00 per ton. This means that before it can be made reasonably possible to regain this valuable coal trade lost to oil that the selling prices of coal will have to be reduced from 33% to 40% below the recent selling prices of coal for this service.

(c) The Washington State non-union mines, which produce from 80% to 85% of the commercial coal mined in that state, which production comes seriously into competition with British Columbia and other Alberta mines, is only paying $6.00 per day to miners for eight hours' work at the face, or the equivalent of $5.25 for about seven hours' face work in this district. Inside labor not specified in these same mines in Washington is paid at the rate of $5.25 per shift of eight hours' actual work, to which the equivalent in wages in this district would be $4.60 per shift of seven hours' working time. Practically the same proportionate less rate of wages applies to all other classes of labor in these competitive mines of the State of Washington.

(d) Then turning to the Dunsmuir Vancouver Island Coast Mines, which previous to the war years generally worked at about the same general wage scale as District 18, we find that this district is now paying miners $5.11 per shift, including 91 cents per day High Cost of Living Bonus, or about 32% less than was paid in this district prior to April 1, 1924. Timbermen at Vancouver Island mines are paid the same rate as Vancouver Island miners for day work or 32% less than the old scale of wages paid here up to April 1, 1924. Drivers at Vancouver Island mines are being paid $4.76 for the same class of work, or about 34% less than the old wage scale of this district.

While it is relevent and natural for the union leaders of the miners of this district to strive and contend for all the wages they may be consistently able to obtain for those they represent; the laws of distribution of material production and the value thereof set the basic limit to which such claims may in consistency be pressed.

The disregard for this one dominating principle has to a large extent been responsible for disintegrating sections of business and forcing responsible consumers of coal to seek other sources of fuel, or procure supplies for their requirements, and unless a more worthy regard for the coal industry and its potential possibilities are brought about in a permanent way at an early date, the industry will not and cannot be expected to prosper as it should.

In connection with this controversy I may state that the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. some weeks ago made the following tentative offer for a permanent solution of the present contention:

That they would enter into an agreement with their employees on a four or five years' contract basis, as represented by the following classification of wages:

It will be observed that the proposal offers wages for coal miners when working day work that are 74% above 1914 scale for 1924—71% higher wages for 1925 than were paid during 1914, and 68% higher wages for 1926 and for 1927 than were paid during 1914.

Then in turning to the day wage rates as they apply to outside labor in particular, the wage scale as proposed offers from 70% to 156% higher wages than was paid during 1914. It may be stated that the proposition embraces 9 1cents per day as a cost of living item, which implies that should the cost of living either rise or fall during the life of the agreement wages as proposed are to be adjusted thereto every six or twelve months.

The purpose of offering this long-time agreement was done with the idea of removing so far as possible the reasons for annual or semi-annual contention about wages, which strife for years has caused not only a serious loss in money to the community depending upon the operations of the mines for a livelihood, but has constantly so upset or disintegrated the coal and coke trade of the district in such a way as to make it impossible to secure and hold extended markets. For example, during the last nine years the mines of this district have lost 132 weeks' work through strike or a total in wages to workers of the community of about $2,990,000 in wages. It should therefore be considered worth our while to remove those causes that have in the past given rise to this wanton and unnecessary loss to us all. It may be pointed out that this actual loss in wages is sufficient to provide an annual income sufficient to keep 1500 old retired miners in respectable comfort.

NEGOTIATIONS BROKEN OFF

Negotiations looking to a settlement of the strike in District 18 have been broken off, and Hon. Jas. Murdock is leaving Calgary today for home.

It is reported that the Miners' Committee stated definitely to the Minister that they would not consider any reduction in wages, and as a substantial reduction is required in order to permit the operators to regain, at least in part, the markets which have been lost, it was considered hopeless to make any further efforts to bring the parties together.

Calgary, Aug. 14.—There is nothing yet on the horizon to indicate that the coal miners' strike is nearing an end. On the contrary, there is abundant evidence that the deadlock between the operators and miners will continue indefinitely.

Nothing of a practical nature came of the joint conference of both parties on Wednesday. On the suggestion of Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, the scale committee of the miners agreed to consider a proposition made by him and the committee was in session Thursday morning. Up to noon, however, Mr. Murdock, stated, he had received no communication from the miners. Prominent operators, who are still in the city, state that there will be no divergence from their position and that unless the miners are agreeable to accept the cut of $1.17 per day the strike would continue.

Calgary, Aug. 14.—The conference between the Western Canada Coal Operators association and the mine workers' officials which was adjourned from Tuesday until yesterday was again continued, a further session being held yesterday morning.

The minister of labor, James Murdock, it is understood, put a proposition before the officials of the miners, who retired for a separate conference. W. A. Sherman, president of the miners' union, stated that the miners were not in a position to give a definite reply to Mr. Murdock right away and required more time to consider the labor minister's suggestion.

McBAIN'S LAKE

As time goes on more and more of the citizens of Fernie seek some quiet resort in which to spend the week end, holidays, etc. There are no lakes in close proximity. Island Lake is eight miles distant and can be reached only by mountain pack trail. Mud Lake has some desirable features but the water is more or less stagnant and many disapprove of it. McBain's is in the ascendency at present. This is a beautiful lake with clear water which is constantly changing. It is surrounded by trees which afford excellent shelter and shade. It can be made a beautiful resort. Lots are being rapidly taken up and the place has become popular for campers. There is one serious disadvantage. The road leading in is bad in spots and a great many who would like to visit the lake shun it on this account. A comparatively small amount of money — say a few hundred dollars—judiciously spent, would remedy this evil. Why cannot the people who are interested in this resort get together and devise ways and means for having this road repaired?

JAPAN TURNING OTHER CHEEK

"A hundred years from now the American territory west of the Rocky Mountains will be Japanese territory." This spark fell from a Japanese firebrand of the Christian persuasion when most of Japan was aglow with indignation over the American Exclusion Act. A loud-voiced minority of Japanese Christian pastors, whose concerted efforts to sever the ties between all Japanese and American Christian churches as a protest against the American immigration bill are said to have attracted wide attention early in June gave weight, we are told, to the dispatches announcing that the Japanese had undergone a revulsion of feeling as far as Americans were concerned. But the National Christian Council of Japan, representing forty Christian organizations, has adopted resolutions rebuking the anti-American agitators and calling on the American missionaries in Japan to stand by their guns. This is the information conveyed in correspondence from Tokyo, published in the New York Herald Tribune. It will hearten those friends of Japan who had feared that the amicable relations so greatly strengthened by American generosity after the cataclysmic earthquake in Japan last September would be broken by the act which bars the Japanese immigrant from American soil. For a time these fears appeared well grounded. The prediction that American territory west of the Rockies would one day become Japanese territory was reported as made by the Rev. Naomi Tamura, a Japanese pastor of independent affiliations, who prefaced his declaration with the assertion that "it is foolish to talk of adopting resolutions of protest. The time will cme when America and Japan will have to fight it out if America continues to observe her present attitude against the colored races." Another Japanese Christian minister, the Rev. Uyemura, writes the correspondent, echoed the preceding speaker's war-cry in these words:

"The American immigration bill is an insult pure and simple to Japan and one ignoring justice, humanity and international courtesy. Mere resolutions are futile. War is not necessary at present, but I am not an advocate of peace at any price. There come times when war is necessary. But I am told Japan cannot afford to fight at present. I suggest that every Japanese Christian organization which obtains financial support from America should sever its connection and become absolutely independent."

A Japanese Christian worker of 47 years' standing, the Rev. Kanzo Uchimura, we are told again, expressed the opinion that "if Japanese Christians keep silent in the face of this insult (the immigration bill), they are bound to invite suspicion abroad that they are being bribed by American missionary interests. It goes without saying that not only Japanese Christians, but Christianity throughout the world, will lose reputation if we do not rise up against this insult. If we fail, we will be cowards and unfaithful to our country, to the world and to the gospel." The only temperate speech delivered at the meeting, says the correspondent, was that of the Rev. Kodaira, a Tokyo pastor, who urged his fellow Christian workers to avoid the boycott movement lest they follow the code of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." Then came the reaction of counter-opinion from "the most influential Japanese Christian pastors in the Empire," says the Herald Tribune correspondent, continuing:

"The Sunday after the anti-American oratorical outburst, Dr. Y. Chiba, president of the National Christian Council, spoke from the pulpit of the Central Baptist Church of Tokyo, an independent Japanese Christian institution, and sounded the conservative not that later prevailed when the body of which he is head met to discuss the immigration situation. Dr. Chiba declared: 'We must not take toward America an anti-Christian attitude of retaliation. Do you think war will make her see her mistake and reverse her action and her attitude toward Japan?' The speaker deplored the suggestion that a boycott would be a fitting gesture against the immigration bill.

"A few days later the National Christian Council of Japan met and adopted a resolution, the meat of which stated 'we desire that the missionaries should remain at their posts undisturbed and continuing in their evangelistic work until their mission is fulfilled.' The resolution, however, branded the American immigration bill as 'not in accordance with the spirit of Christianity.'

"The most recent public declaration by a Japanses Christian leader brands any American missionary who deserts his post as a coward. The Rev. Makoto Kobayashi, a member of the executive committee of the National Christian Council said, 'Missionaries who run away and dodge their duty out of fear of difficulties which may be ahead of them should be branded as cowards.'"

Few, if any, American missionaries in Japan have announced any intention of leaving their posts, we are told ,although a number are said to have reported receiving threatening letters advising them to leave the country. On the other hand, the missionaries are in active sympathy with the Japanese position.

BANKING MATTERS

Maclean's Magazine recently had a delightful article by Mrs. Nellie McClung, relating her experiences in endeavoring to open an account with an English bank during a stay in London. To one who has had experience in both countries the story is an illuminating illustration of the party of the first part to grasp the view of the party of the second part. "Our Nellie," or her imaginary character, evidently supposed that an unknown person entering a London bank in order to open an account would be greeted with open arms and loving words, and was astonished to find that there was not only an entire lack of any such demonstration, but that a certain number of questions had to be answered, and that her temporary account was accepted more as a matter of courtesy than otherwise. She seemed to forget that an English bank looks upon a current account as a responsibility, and does not accept deposits from strangers without knowing something about them. It did not occur to her that a passing account, such as the one she desired, might easily be used for purposes of fraud, and that a bank naturally objects to that. It was owing to this oversight that the lady was furher amused at the questions asked her when she went to close her account, and even when it was explained to her that the bank wanted some reasonable assurance that no cheques were still outstanding, she apparently failed to see the reasonableness of that attitude. But the article was charming, nevertheless.

YOU AND YOUR BOSS

The greatest international sport is the popular pastime, "panning the boss." You find it in all occupations —trades, professions, politics, the army—wherever people carry on any sort of activity involving leadership and its accompanying authority.

"Panning the boss" begins with the toddling child, pouting out its resentment at "Must do this!" and "Must do that!"

It continues all through life right up to the door of the graveyard, with the old man grumbling at the passing of old-time forms of authority and their replacement by the changed boss system of the new generation.

Go where you will, you cannot escape hearing people pan their bosses. Forever there is a grumbling at existing authority—on the farm, in factory, in office, in the home, all the way from the complicated organization of metropolitan life to the Eskimo mumbling about the men who buy his furs, or the tropical jungle native grumbling because he doesn't get more glass beads from his boss, the trading post buyer.

People have such an instinctive hatred of authority, it is a wonder they are able to co-operate in any form of government, even democracy. Man at heart is a philosophical anarchist, hating leaders.

Occasionally men are hypnotized by a leader like Napoleon into flinging their personal freedom to the winds and rallying in emotional ecstacy to the leader. That is as rare as it is brief.—Vancouver Sun.

A HINT THAT WORKED

Bishop K—— is a very large man. On one of his pastoral railway journeys he was told by the porter when he boarded the train about 9 p.m. that there were no more berths left.

"That is too bad," said the bishop. "I have a hard day ahead of me tomorrow, and am worn out. What time does the last man get on?"

"Between two and three, suh."

"Well, can't you give me his reservation. He may never get on, but if he does you must wake me, and I will make it right with him."

The sun was shining when the bishop was called. "Your man did not get on, after all," he said to the porter.

"Yes, sir, he did," was the reply.

"What dd you do then?" the bishop asked.

"Why, boss, I just showed him your shoes and sez I: 'De man what wears dem shoes is sleepin' in your berth. If you wants to wake him you kin, but I ain't agwine to. He is a-settin' in de day coach."

Orpheum Theatre—Wednesday, August 20th

NEW PARAMOUNT, "CODE OF THE SEA," COMING

Thousands of women unconsciously love cowards, according to Jacqueline Logan, popular Paramount player.

"These," she adds, "are largely moral cowards—the kind of men, who could right many wrongs but are restrained because they fear what the world will think of them. Shifting blame to someone else and assuming innocence is so much easier.

It is the second type of coward—the physical—which is portrayed in "Code of the Sea," a Victor Fleming Paramount production, in which Miss Logan is featured with Rod La Rocque.

This is the story of a young man with a yellow streak, a coward just as his father was before him.

There comes a night, when a violent storm at sea, with strong gusts of wind and driving rains arises. The yacht Neroid, with Jenny (Miss Logan) as a passenger, is trying to stagger to port against the fury of the demoniac elements. At the same time the passenger ship Northern, captained by Jenny's fatner (George Fawcett), has lost its propeller.

By wireless, McDow (La Rocque), commander of a lightship, learns of the plight of both. The Northern commands him to stay at his post so that it can bring its human cargo to shore, and simultaneously the Neroid flashes that it is sinking.

Duty requires McDow, the coward, to stay at his post. The code of the sea is that no lightship can leave its moorings until relieved. Jenny on the Neroid faces death. On the yacht only a handful are endangered, while on the Northern there are hundreds dependent upon his decision.

And it is this decision which supplies the smashing, spectacular climax of "Code of the Sea," which will be shown next Wednesday at the Orpheum Theatre.

The story was written for Paramount production by Byron Morgan and is considered one of the most powerful ever transferred to film.

HE KNOWS, BUT WILL HE?

"It is a wise man who knows when to stop work," says Rev. James Andeson, of Syracuse.

It is a wiser man who stops upon knowing when. The country is full of men who are fagged out by the daily grind, who know it, and yet, with one excuse or another, don't stop.

They can't afford it, they think, and yet a good rest is a money-making enterprise, in the long run.

Or, the old shop or office wouldn't get along, if they laid off; and so, the rising young lieutenants in the business no chance to show the managerial stuff that's in them, and, because they haven't been tested or given a chance at experience, the business does break down when death or disease compels "the old man's" vacation.

The business that is dependent solely upon No. 1, day after day, is in a shaky condition, in these times, and the best way to teach No. 2 how to swm is to take him by the hind leg and throw him into seven or eight feet of water; that is, get out and give him a chance to show what is in him.

A good vacation is medicine and a profitable enterprise, and every fellow whose nose is on the grindstone of hard work is entitled to it.

This sounds just like a doctor coming in and saying "you're sick," and letting it go at that, with no attempt at relief. So, we'll add a prescription:

Take a fish rod, or a gun, or a put-stick, or the old "Lizzie" and go 'way off somewhere where telegrams, letters and other worldly affairs, save, perhaps, mosquitoes, can't get at you.

The grindstone will go 'round and 'round as usual and some bright young lieutenant will be sharpening his wits on it, for the good of the business.—Vancouver Sun.

WON'T SHIP COAL EAST THIS YEAR

Edmonton, Aug. 11.—Coal shipments from Alberta to Ontario on the experimental basis proposed under a vote of federal government assistance, will not be undertaken this year after all. For lack of time in which to make the necessary arrangements, the scheme will now have to wait over until another season.

That is the decision reached on an outcome of a conference by Premier Greenfield with Hon. Chas. Stewart and Sir Henry Thornton on Saturday afternoon when the whole situation was taken under review.

The premier pointed out that the local government has had no information of any arrangements having been made at Ottawa to put into effect the plan of federal aid which was contemplated in the passing of an appropriation of $200,000 among the supplementary estimates, and that until the Dominion authorities had taken action along that line nothing could be done at this end to set the coal in motion.

Assistance from the Dominion government, such as that provided for in the vote passed by parliament would be conditional, said Mr. Stewaare, upon the operators reducing the prices on the coal going east, the view at Ottawa being that the producers in Alberta must do something by way of co-operating in the case and must be willing to cut the price at the mine if the government is to help pay the cost of transportation.

According to a recent ruling of a New Jersey court "A person can commit no criminal act when he is unconscious." The evidence established that a motorist charged with colliding with another car and injuring the driver was asleep when the accident occurred.
