HON. DR. KING VISITS FERNIE

The Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Federal Minister of Public Works and representative of East Kootenay riding in the Dominion Parliament paid a short visit to Fernie on New Year's day with a view of securing first hand information upon the effect of the Home Bank failure in his riding. He had been advertised to appear at a public meeting here on Wednesday evening, January 2, but he was compelled to return to Ottawa immediately and could not stay as long as originally planned.

On reaching the city on Tuesday he immediately got in touch with Mayor Henderson, chairman of the Home bank depositors committee and a special meeting was called and held in the Council Chamber the same afternoon, which resulted in a well representative gathering meeting the Minister.

Mayor Henderson occupied the chair at this meeting and after briefly explainng the object of the hurried meeting, he introduced the Hon. Dr. King, whose address was as follows:

"Mr. Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen, I regret that I am not going to be present with you at your advertised meeting for tomorrow night, owing, as the Mayor has intimated to you, my presence being required in Ottawa to get ready for the opening of the coming session and as one of the Western Ministers principally, I should be there, so you have been notified to meet this afternoon. I am your representative, and I come here as your representative in Parliament in order that we may discuss back and forth your disaster, because it has been a disaster, in the matter of the Home Bank. I would liked to have come earlier to Fernie because I knew when the first report came, that the people of Fernie had been very strong supporters of that bank and I feared there would be many that would suffer but none of us thought that the disaster would be so great in this locality. I wish, therefore, to hear your representations and see if some means cannot be devised where we can possibly make representations that are of assistance to you so I will just be seated now and hear from you, we can talk back and forth, tell me what is on your minds in order that I may get your views and be able to represent that viewpoint for you."

On behalf of the Coal Creek depositors, Mr. B. Caufield, told the Minister that considerable arrangements had been made for the advertised meeting bearing strongly upon the cases of real distress caused by the Home Bank failure so that the Honorable Minister would hear for himself how serious the situation is. He stated that he was indeed gratified to see that the Hon. Dr. King had come to his constituency for the facts relative to the disaster prevailing here, which in itself, shows the people of this District that he is not trying to shirk his duty. Mr. Caufield then very concisely outlined some of the distressing cases of hardship and privation caused by this financial fiasco, drawing a picture in the minds of those present of the hardships the miners had to undergo in the bowels of the earth to scrape a few dollars together for a rany day, these meagre savings had been placed n a supposedly sound Canadian financial institution which heretofore to the Canadian workman with his limited knowledge of business affairs, was a place of security for his hard earned savings, only to find he has been woefully misled. Taking the cases at Coal Creek where there was no other bank but a branch of the Home Bank, he pointed out that on account of the convenience the workers had put their money there, rather than probably lose some working-time by coming to Fernie to deposit n some other bank or Post Office Savings Bank, Coal Creek even being denied the latter consideration by the Postal authorities. "After putting money in this rotten institution," he added, "we are told we have no redress, these people at the Head of the bank took our money and gambled with it and when they happend to back the wrong horse we have to be the losers."

Chairman Henderson then addressed the meeting, quoting many cases of dire distress in Fernie, stating that if somethng is not done for these people, this little city will have to provide for them the rest of their lives.

Questions were asked the Honorable Minister as to what action he would take in the matter and he assured the people of Fernie and district that he would make full representations of their arguments as set forth at the meeting and that they would receive every consideration from himself.

At the subsequent meeting held in the Grand Theatre on Wednesday evening, Mayor Henderson and Mr. J. Smith, respectively Fernie and Coal Creek delegates to the Toronto meeting of the Home Bank depositors submitted reports, outlining the great amount of work which had been done in the East and of the still greater amount remaining, which must be carried out. Both were very optimstic as to the final outcome, stating that it was their firm belief that the Home Bank depositors would finally be paid the full amount of their deposits. Mr. Smith strongly praised the work and stated that there were some of the finest men in the country fighting for the depositors. He also stated that Mayor Henderson, of Fernie, was one of the outstanding figures at the Toronto meeting and that Fernie had every reason to be proud of the work he had done in the East. Mr. Henderson stated that in Mr. Clarkson and Mr. Weldon, the Home Bank depositors had secured Liquidators who would carry out their duties without fear or favor.

"Get Ready For The Big Moccasin Dance"

A Fancy Dress Carnival and Dance will be held in the Fernie Skating Rink on Wednesday night, January 16.

This is being given under the auspices of the Rotary Club of Fernie for the purpose of raising a children's fund.

Beginning with a torch light procession, it will abound in spectacular features, novelty races, drills, and an original North Pole dance.

To assist in the success of this function and as suitable prizes will be awarded for the best costumes, it is suggested that all participants prepare or secure their costumes at an early date.

To keep the ice surface fit for dancing only moccasins or rubbers should be worn.

The school children will select the Carnival Queen.

As the proceeds of this Moccasin Dance are to be devoted to a worthy cause the support of everyone is earnestly solicited.

Program will appear in next week's Free Press.

I.O.D.E. DANCE SUCCESSFUL

The hall was just comfortably filled and all those attending report it one of the best dances ever put on by the chapter.

The dance was a novelty one and met with great success with everyone. Paper caps, confetti and balloons being a great source of enjoyment to all.

The New Year was brought in with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and the supper was thoroughly enjoyed by all; the members of the chapter catering was excellent.

Fernie is to be congratulated on the beauty of the younger girls of this city and nowhere could be seen a prettier picture of girls in black and gorgeous colored velvet, satin, charmeuse, metal cloth and georgette gowns, made up in the very latest fashions. Everyone had a jolly time, the musical program was very good. Socially and financially the dance was a huge success.

OLD TIMERS CROSS DIVIDE

George Hoggarth, for the past 20 years proprietor of the Cranbrook Hotel, Cranbrook, died at his home early this morning at the age of 62. Deceased was one of the most widely known old timers, not only in southeastern British Columbia, but throughout the entire west. He came to this Province in the pioneer days of 1887, temporarily locating at Golden during the construction of the main line of the C. P. R. Subsequently he moved to the Crow's Nest Pass and opened the first hotel in the town of Elko in 1902, when construction of the Great Northern Rexford branch was in progress. He was actively engaged in business practically up to the time of his demise although for the past year has suffered from a chronic ailment and gradually failed in health. He is survived by his widow and two sons, all of whom reside in Cranbrook.

George was a good curler and many times was a visitor to Fernie to attend the annual spiels. He had a host of friends here, all of whom deeply deplore his passing.

VICTORIA, Jan. 3.—This city is the political centre of British Columbia. Location and chacen ordained that. So, the average voter in the Pacific Province must naturally look to his Capital City to ascertain which way the politcal winds blow.

The Twentieth Century has witnessed many momentous years. Comparatively speaking, 1924 may be expected to eclipse all preceding years in many ways, and from a purely political viewpoint this is true.

Before this New Year has given way to another, political history in British Columbia will have been made and recorded. And while politcs are often considered apart from national and provincial development, the fact remains that the two are one.

It is absolutely essential that at this stage of British Columbia's growth, a strong, progressive, virile administration should be in power.

The party system of politics has been the foundation of Anglo-Saxon national life. Just as Christianity revolutionized the world, so have Anglo-Saxon principles of government and justice dominated, the latter being the logical sequel of the former. The truth of this is forcefully illustrated by the adoption of those principles by practically all progressive nations.

Where third party—Labor, Progressive, Socialist, Soviet or Independent—have sprung into existence, they have invariably materialized through a temporary disruption of old-time party practices, which have caused a demand for reform—not of acknowledged party principles, but a reform from the digressions directly responsible for that disruption.

Today in British Columbia a third party has sprung into being, but the elector alone can decide the genesis of the movement. If founded upon sincerity it will prevail, but if grounded in self ambition or motivated by the lust for personal profit the movement must naturally fail.

Probably before another winter comes, a general election will be held. The wiseacres names September as the logical month. COLDEST SNAP IN TEN YEARS

Saturday morning, December 29th, ushered in a cold spell which chased the mercury down the lowest it has dropped in Fernie for ten years and up to the time of going to press, the red line has been unable to crawl up above the zero mark.

The readings of the Government thermometer since the 29th have been as follows:

Dec.	29 — 4	Below
"	31 — 32.5	"
Jan.	1 — 37	"
"	2 — 29	"
"	3 — 35	"
"	4 — 32.5	"

The coldest days on record in the past ten years were January 12, 1916, and December 14 of last year, when the mercury dropped to 35 below. Following is a list of the coldest days recorded in the ten year period:

1915-16	Jan.	12 — 35
1916-17	Jan.	31 — 27.5
1917-18	Jan.	31 — 29
1918-19	Feb.	24 — 28.5
1919-20	Dec.	12 — 32
1920-21	Feb.	6 — 10.5
1921-22	Feb.	24 — 23
1922-23	Dec.	14 — 35
1923-24	Jan.	1 — 37

The perciptation for 1923 was 137 inches or one inch greater than the previous year.

The coldest days on record in the past ten years were January 12, 1916, and December 14 of last year, when the mercury dropped to 35 below. Following is a list of the coldest days recorded in the ten year period:

1915-16—Jan.	12	— 35
1916-17—Jan.	31	— 27.5
1917-18—Jan.	31	— 29
1918-19—Feb.	24	— 28.5
1919-20—Dec.	12	— 32
1920-21—Feb.	6	— 10.5
1921-22—Feb.	24	— 23
1922-23—Dec.	14	— 35
1923-24—Jan.	1	— 37

The perciptation for 1923 was 137 inches or one inch greater than the previous year.

NEW CHIEF FOR PHILADELPHIA

"Treat 'em rough," the slogan of the Marine Corps, appears also to be that of their Brigadier-General, Smedley Darlington Butler, who dons a policeman's uniform as Director of Public Safety in Philadelphia, and tells the reporters, It may be necessary to discharge the entire police force." However, the new director's pugnacity is no surprise. The Marines call him "The Fighting Quaker." and we read that it was for his willingness to "treat 'em rough" that Philadelphia's new mayor, W. Freeland Kendrick, induced President Coolidge to grant him a year's furlough. That the City of Brotherly Love requires rough treatment, a Philadelphia paper implies when it observes, "Vice is rather well entrenched in this town," and adds that the city is a "wet burg," where "the morale of the police force is low," and where General Butler will have "the open and secret opposition of many politicians." "I'm expecting a hard time on this job." said the General, when interviewed for the Philadelphia Inquirer, "the Department of Public Safety is going to open up with all six guns on the criminal and the vicious. The casualties will be heavy, but they will delight Philadelphians who want to see their city rid of evil-doers." Then he said:

"I don't care whether the State laws or city ordinances are right or wrong. That question is not one with which I am empowered to deal. But I do know that all of these laws and ordinances are going to be enforced as they were never enforced before.

"I know the police force is tainted, but I also know that somewhere in this country I can get hold of 4200 honest men. A bluecoat doesn't have to be a Philadelphian. I'll get them from Los Angeles, Houston, New Orleans and other points, if necessity forces me to take such action. Just for a starter, I have fifty applications from former marines. I know they'll do what they are told, and there are plenty more like them.

"The trouble in a police department is usually one of bread and butter. The best guaranty I can offer is that my bread and butter is in no danger if I lose this job. I'm losing pay and chances of promotion in coming up here.

"Grafting on the force is the real foot of the police corruption evil. If policemen can get $150 or $200 a month from law-breakers in return for closing their eyes to what is going on and with no fear of dismissal, it is small wonder that they stoop to graft."

General Butler intends to "remold the department throughout," and declares, "When I get through with it the criminals and the vicious element will scurry to cover whenever they see a bluecoat. I'm going to make my men feel proud of their jobs and proud of their own honesty and immunity to corruption." That, he thinks, is "the foundation of a fine police force." Outlining his plans further, he said:

"My first official act will be to call all the city's policemen into a place big enough to hold the half off-duty at a time and then I'll tell them just what I demand that they shall do. The public likes a circus, but this circus won't stop because the public happens to get tired of it. They may kid me for wearing a police uniform, but that will be the least of my worries.

"There probably won't be any anxiety manifested anywhere to keep me here after my year's leave-of-absence is up—and I may not be here a year.

"The cop who leaves the force is the one with a side-line that pays him from $150 to $200 a month. He may not be a bad fellow. But we won't stand for that sort of a fellow. Where there is closing up to be done, I'll be there in person. That means that there will be no ignoring orders."

To a reporter from the Philadelphia Bulletin, General Butler said:

"The thing I crave is action, and plenty of it. I told Mr. Kendrick I wasn't going to brook any political interference. The minute that happens, I go out. They won't know I've gone. I'll leave the key on my desk, take the first train to Washington, and wire back that the director's job is vacant. First, last and all the time, I am a soldier, and I expect to be so for the rest of my life. This is only another responsibility that comes in a soldier's life, that's how I regard it."

General Butler's qualities are thus described in a statement issued to the press by the Navy Department:

"Soldier, engineer, camp-builder, holder of two Congressional Medals of Honor, the record of Brig.-General Smedley D. Butler, fighting man extraordinary of the Marine Corps, stamps him as one of the most brilliant soldiers of the United States.

"Descendant of an ancient Quaker family which settled in Pennsylvania in the time of William Penn, General Butler enlisted in the Marine Corps before reaching the age of seventeen, and won a commission when he was still two months short of his seventeenth birthday.

"The record of his life since that time reads like the pages of a story of adventure. Before his nineteenth birthday he was commended by the allied high command for his gallantry under fire on the historic march for the relief of Peking in the Boxer campaign, and promoted by brevet from lieutenant to captain for bravery.

"From China he went to the Philippines, where he took part in the campaign which ended in the pacification of those islands. Since that time he has served in Cuba, Nicaragua, Panama, Honduras, Mexico, Haiti, San Domingo, France and ashore and afloat in every quarter of the globe, accumulating a record of having served in fourteen campaigns and expeditions in twenty-four years of service.

"During his service General Butler has won commendations and decorations such as rarely fall to the lot of a soldier. For personal bravery in action against the enemy he received the coveted brevet promotion of two Congressional Medals of Honor, the highest decoration within the gift of the nation. Before the World War only three soldiers besides General Butler had received more than one of these medals. In addition he received the Distinguished Service Medal for his services in the World War, and other decorations from the Allied Powers."

Electric Traffic Cop at Railway Intersections

From statistics which cover all railroads and cities on the North American Continent it has been adduced that pedestrians on city streets are much more liable to meet with an accident than are the travellers by train, yet few of those who rely upon the railroads to carry them with safety and despatch from one place to another appreciate the enormous amount of energy and money which is expended annually on the installation and maintenance of the myriad safety appliances and devices which insure the safe and quick handling of rail traffic. Because, with few exceptions, every industry contributes to the upkeep and operation of the railroads, science of late years has contributed more to railroad engineering than to anything other than medicine. As new appliances are evolved, so they are tested for their practicability, and being found serviceable are placed into use. That Canadian railroads are not behind those of other countries in the adoption of improved appliances is evidenced by the fact that the Canadian Pacific Railway has recently installed electrical Interlocking Plants at all points where its rail crossings were unprotected along the line from Montreal to St John, N.B., and at various points elsewhere. These electrically operated plants at points where the lines of two companies cross, eliminate all danger of trains crashing into one another at crossings, and considerably facilitate train movements.

Electrically operated interlocking plants have been operated by this Company for many years, and although not actually revenue bearing they have afforded an additional degree of safety, which can hardly be reckoned in dollars and cents. As an instance of what these plants are and do:—trains approaching Montreal from all over the continent, with a few exceptions, converge at Montreal West, and run over the same tracks from there to Windsor Street Station, a distance of 4.6 miles. Taking into consideration the empty ones and those given over to freight, it is obvious that hundreds of trains use these tracks daily, and it is to safely govern these trains that three electrical interlocking plants have been installed, at Montreal West, Westmount, and the entrance to Windsor Station.

The one at Westmount was last installed, replacing the hand lever system which controlled trains entering or leaving the Glen Yards and using the main lines. The signal tower, which houses most expensive apparatus, is entirely fire proof, and has two stories and a basement. The top floor contains the interlocking machine or levers by which the signals and switches are controlled, an illuminated plan of the tracks under control and telephones giving direct communication with the towers at Montreal West and Windsor Station and the train despatcher and yardmaster at the Glen Yard.

On the ground floor is the power apparatus, the switch boards, relays and other necessary apparatus, and the basement, specially ventilated, contains 55 cells of storage battery with a capacity of 160 ampere hours, or sufficient to operate the plant for one week without recharging.

The track plan, directly over the levers, is electrically lighted, and by watching small light bulbs, the operator is able to mark the approach and progress of all trains. A bell rings when an approaching train is within one mile of the plant, and continues to ring until the signal-man clears the signals and sets the switches over the route.

The levers operating the switches and signals are so interlocked that a signal cannot be given for a train to pass through the plant until a route for it has been set up, and it is impossible for a conflicting move to be made which would endanger it or any other train. When the operator has cleared a signal the switches are so locked that they cannot be changed until the train has passed over them. Should a train be required to travel over a route other than the one originally set up for it, the signal man cannot make the change without operating what is known as the "Time Release", a clockwork mechanism which opens and closes electric circuits, unlocking the levers after a time limit of from one to three minutes. The speed with which trains may travel over some routes is limited, and the object of the time release is to prevent the operator from changing the route so that a fast train would proceed over a slow track.

This safety apparatus, unheeded by the travelling public generally, cost a great deal to instal, and the Canadian Pacific receives no return for this except that which accrues through the additional safety and despatch of its trains.

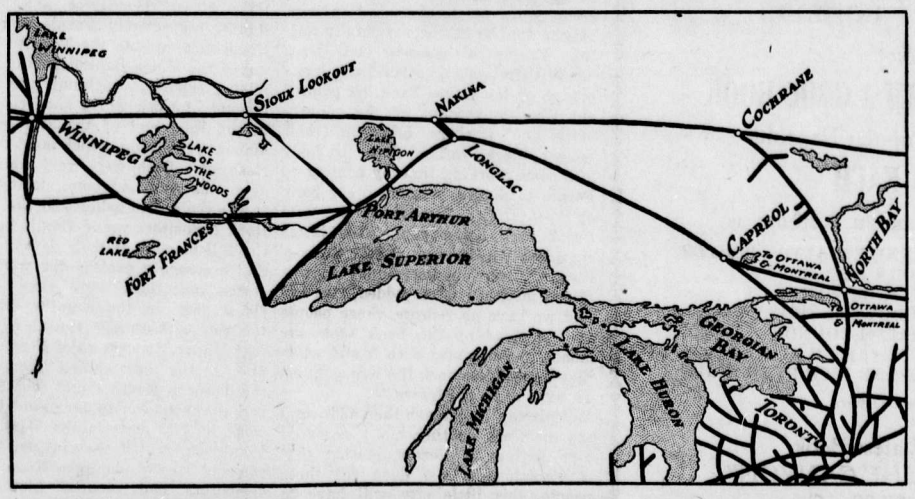
UNCOVER PART OF OLD ROMAN WALL

LONDON, Dec 29.—A large portion of the old Roman wall of London has been uncovered during excavations Houndsditch, in the East End of London.

The length of the wall uncovered is over 100 feet. It is eight feet nine inches in width, and about the same in depth. It is faced with square stones and filled with fragments of Kentish rag stone into which cement had been poured. The excavators had reason to appreciate the strength of this Roman mortar when they came to remove the wall.

It is further strengthened with courses of broad Roman tiles at intervals. These tiles are made of clay which has been baked, and specimens of Roman bricks have also been found. At the foot of the wall there was a pediment of darker stone.

The foundations of the new building cover what was evidently the course of the old Hounds' Ditch, which formerly drained Moorfields and ran into the Thames. The Ditch evidently ran alongside the Roman wall at this place, and was once the receptacle of all the filth and sewage from that part of the old city.



Coins of all ages have been found, including one of Tetricns, a centurian in command of Gaul, a fine sixpence of Queen Elizabeth, and many tradesmen's tokens.

CARIBOO GOLD RUSH RECALLED BY DEATH

By the death of a brave woman and the launching of a staunch craft in recent weeks the earliest days of civilized life in British Columbia are linked with the present. Mrs. Ebenezer Robson, who went West from Upper Canada via the Isthmus of Panama in 1859, to marry in Victoria, has died in Vancouver, leaving many memories of thrilling times in the Cariboo gold rush. Her husband had gone out a few months earlier to serve as missionary among the gold miners of the Fraser River, with headquarters at Hope, reaching the field by canoe. In 1886 Mrs. Robson was compelled by ill-health to return east, but came out again [illegible] on the coast, her husband who became first president of the British Columbia Conference of the Methodist Church, and his brother, Hon. John Robson, once premier of the Province.

With the Robson party in 1859, was Edward father of Rev. J. H. White, recently superintendent of Methodist Missions. The "Edward White" is the latest addition to the fleet of four mission boats operated along the whole British Columbia coast by the Methodist Missionary Society.

NATIONAL WAY SAVES MANY HOURS

GIVING the shortest direct line between eastern and western cities, and not only reducing cost of operation to the railway, but also saving many hours for business men travelling between eastern and western Canada, the Long Lake cutoff of the Canadian National Railways will be ready for operation on December 1st, it is expected. By constructing 30 miles of a cutoff, joining the former Canadian Northern main line through Ontario with the Canadian National Transcontinental line, a saving of 70.2 miles will be made in the distance between Winnipeg and Montreal, while the saving between Winnipeg and Toronto will be 102.6 miles. Instead of having to follow the bend of the former Canadian Northern line down to Fort Francis and Port Arthur, trains to Toronto will travel over the Transcontinental line to Nakina and thence down the cutoff to Long Lake, the most northerly point of the Canadian Northern former main line. Business men travelling to Montreal from Winnipeg will thus save three hours and those travelling to Toronto slightly over four hours.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF FERNIE 1904

CIVIC ELECTIONS 1924

For Mayor, Aldermen, School Trustees and Police Commissioners

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given to the Electors of the Municipality of Fernie and Fernie School District, that I require the presence of the said Electors at the Council Chamber, City Hall, Pellatt Avenue, Fernie, B.C., on the 14 day of January, 1924, at Twelve o'clock noon Coast Time (one o'clock p.m. local time) for the purpose of electing persons to represent them in the Municipal Council as Mayor and Aldermen, and in the School Board as School Trustees, and on the Board of Police Commissioners as Police Commissioner.

The candidates shall be nominated in writing; the writing shall be subscribed by two Electors of the Municipality as proposer and seconder, and shall be delivered to the Returning Officer at any time between the date of the notice and Two P.M. Coast Time (Three P.M. Local Time) of the day of nomination; the said writing may be in the form numbered 5 in the schedule of the Municipal Elections Act and shall state the names, residence and occupation or description of each person proposed, in such manner as sufficiently to identify such candidate; and in the event of a poll being necessary, such poll shall be opened on Thursday, the 17 day of January, A.D. 1924, at the Council Chamber, City Hall, Pellatt Avenue, Fernie, British Columbia, of which every person is hereby required to take notice and govern himself accordingly.

Qualification for Mayor

The persons qualified to be nominated and elected as and to hold the office of Mayor of any city shall, save as otherwise provided in the Municipal Act, be such as are British subjects of the full age of twenty-one years who have been for the six months next preceding the date of nomination and are registered in the Land Registry Office as owners of land or land and improvements within the city of the value, as assessed on the last assessment roll, of one thousand dollars or more over and above all registered judgments and charges, or who are the holders of lands within the city acquired by them by agreement to purchase under the "Soldiers' Land Act," or the "Better Housing Act," or the "Soldiers' Settlement Act, 1917," of the Dominion, or the "Soldiers' Settlement Act, 1919," of the Dominion, and have paid the sum of one thousand dollars or more upon the principal of the purchase price under such agreement to purchase.

Qualification for Aldermen and Police Commissioner

The person qualified to be nominated and elected as and to hold the office of Alderman of any city shall, save as otherwise provided in the Municipal Act, be such as are British subjects of the full age of twenty-one years who have been for the six months next preceding the date of nomination and are registered in the Land Registry Office as owners of land or land and improvements within the city, of the value, as assessed on the last assessment roll, of five hundred dollars or more over and above all registered judgments and charges, or who are the holders of lands within the city acquired by them by agreement to purchase under the "Soldiers' Land Act," or the "Better Housing Act," or the "Soldiers' Settlement Act, 1917," of the Dominion, or the "Soldiers' Settlement Act, 1919," of the Dominion, and have paid the sum of five hundred dollars or more upon the principal of the purchase price under such agreement to purchase.

Qualification for School Trustee

Any person who is a British subject of the full age of twenty-one years, actually residing within the District, and having been for the six months next preceding the date of nomination the registered owner, in the Land Registry Office, of land or real property in the Fernie School District of the Assessed Value, on the last Municipal Assessment Roll, of five hundred dollars or more over and above any registered judgment or charge, and being otherwise qualified to vote at an election of School Trustees in the said Fernie School District.

Given under my hand at Fernie, British Columbia, this 3rd day of January, A.D. 1924.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

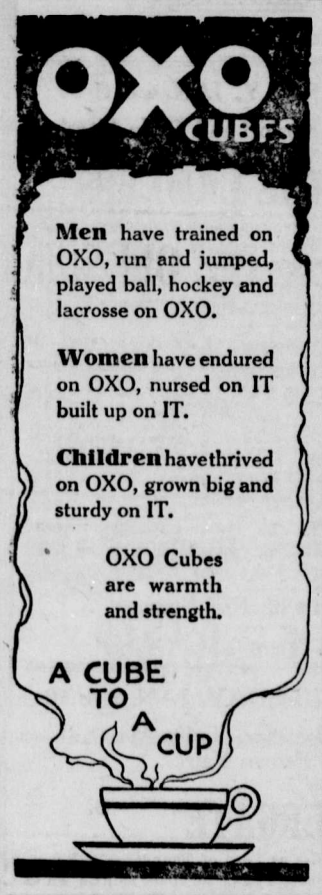
Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES



For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Mother Finds Vicks Handy For Manys Ills

Mrs. Brown of Brandon Finds It A Most Useful Remedy

Mrs. John Brown, of 426 24th St. Brandon, Manitoba, writes: "I have eight small children, aged from one to twelve years, and can certainly say that Vicks is the only cold remedy I have in the house all winter If the cold is in the child's head I just put a little up each nostril and it gives relief in a short time. If it is in the chest I rub Vicks well in at night and by morning the cold has almost disappeared. I also use Vicks for chilblains and for burns; in fact I use it too for severe headaches and find relief in a very short time. I always recommend Vicks to my friends, especially those who have children."

Vicks comes as a salve—the external direct treatment for all cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and inhaled as a vapor.

It is a modern direct treatment for all cold troubles—the successor to goose grease, camphorated oil, liniments, poultices and plasters.

Used for croup and children's colds, Vicks gives remarkably quick results and also avoids nauseating internal dosing. Just as good for adults and for skin inflammations, such as cuts, burns, bruises, bites and stings.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

OVER 40 per cent. increase in mineral production in British Columbia in two years, is the highly gratifying report of Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines. Despite the big production of 1922, last year showed the big increase of 12 per cent. over that year. The 1923 figures are all the more significant considering the fact that they exceeded the inflated production of war years.

The actual monetary value of last year's production of minerals was $39,699,758, as compared with $35,-158,843 in 1922, an increase of $4,-540,915. The production of 1921 had a value of $28,066,641; so that in two years the industry has made an advance equal to $11,633,117, or 41 per cent.

The increase production of gold is most encouraging, as was the jump in copper. In 1923 there were 54,-000,000 of the latter metal produced, as against 32,359,000 pounds in 1922.

The increase in zinc production is pointed to as most remarkable. During the war years this metal was produced at the rate of between forty and fifty million pounds per annum, which was considered most striking. However, in 1923 the production was 62,000,000 pounds, an increase of 5,-000,000 pounds over 1922.

The Minister of Mines predicts that even greater strides will be made in mining durng 1924. Confidence has been restored in British Columbia mining investments, the world has come to realize that in this province are mining properties of untold wealth. With the labor market stabilized and lumbering and agriculture on a sound basis, there is every reason to look forward to a record era of mining development and mineral production during the next few years.

WITH the time getting short before the appointment of the royal commission to investigate provincial party charges, unusual interest is being manfested by the man in the street. Premier Oliver has been commended and condemned for promising an investigation. Those public officials interested in promoting the development of British Columbia maintain that there is nothing to investigate in connection with the government's handling of the P. G. E. Ry., and therefore public money should not be spent on an enquiry. Premier Oliver has always contended this and took the stand that until definite charges were made money would not be wasted on a royal commission. However, he takes the stand that the public life of the province is directly affected and harmed through the spreading of charges of wrongdoing and it is in the public interest to clean the matter up. Undoubtedly the investigation will have a far-reaching effect. Third party adherents admit that if they are unable to substantiate their charges their party will die, while Mr. Bowser, opposition leader, recently declared at Sidney that if the charges made against him were true he should not be representing Vancouver in the Legislature nor leading the Conservative party.

MANY business men spend a lot of time killing time, waiting for the day to come when business will happen their way. Such men are blind to the eternal fact that business comes where it is invited and stays where it is best treated. No true business man loses any time waiting for business to happen; he gets busy advertising and makes it happen.

Happy is the country that can cut down its taxes.

THE announcement of Henry Ford that he would not run for President on any ticket against Calvin Coolidge is one of the most important developments of the Presidential situation. It means that the movement that has been in progress to induce him to enter the presidential race will terminate and that political progrosticators will be without a favorite topic on which to speculate. There is not the slightest question but that Henry Ford was favored for the Presidency by a large number of people throughout the country. This was manifested in many ways. Although he never expressed a desire for the nomination there developed a wide-spread sentiment in favor of his selection; and in some states it chrystalized into organized action. Definite announcement of his determination not to be a candidate will give impetus to the candidacy of several other men who are aspirants for this honor. The sentiment which developed in favor of the nomination of Mr. Ford is a high compliment to him. It was based upon the conviction of many that the genius that he has shown in the development and management of his private industry would find great opportunity for service in the discharge of the duties of the head of the nation.

PESSIMISTS would have you believe that this world is reaching a stage of mediocre living—that life at its best now is a continual groping to exist.

But the year 1924 will unquestionably find the Canadian government, the Province of B. C., the City of Fernie and your family in improved conditions. Those who yell "loudest" are frequently responsible for their individual ills.

This world has its faults, every age had faults to combat—but, if it were not for these hills to climb, we would become a race of tagnant people.

Optimism in the universe is a stable way of expressing "everything will come out in the wash, even though it is a long time washing."

Count every day of 1924 a forward step to maintaining the equilibrium of your family life. Make this community hum with your actual progress of betterment.

It's up to you, what you make the year of 1924.

* * * * * *

PROMOTE in every way the interest of your community for in that way you can best promote your own interests. And do not overlook the fact that the kind of a town you live in is the kind of a town you help make the town you live in.

WHY CANADA CAN'T HELP

If the United States still wonders why Canada can not render her aid in suppressing rum-running, she should find the clue to the answer in the current news story telling how a rum-runner was arrested in New York with $42,000 in his pockets.

So long as rum-running is profitable enough to enable those who follow that calling to run around with $42,-000 in their pockets, all the laws of Canada and the United States are not going to make much impression on the traffic.

Certainly, strict law enforcement will make the rum-running business more risky. But no matter how risky a job is, men can always be found to do it providing they make enough money out of it.

Bootlegging will not stop in the United States until the traffic is pinched at both ends. Rum-running will have to be made so risky that the market will not stand the added expense necessary to pay men to take the risk.

The immediate possibility of the United States liquor market falling to that low ebb seems extremely remote.—Vancouver Sun.

TO ABOLISH ALL BEER CLUBS ON FEBRUARY 1

VICTORIA, Dec. 28. — Beer clubs throughout the province will be abolished February 1. This will be the effect of regulations which are being drafted by the Liquor Control Board now, it is understood, at the Parliament Buildings.

How the new regulations will define clubs where liquor can be kept by members is not known yet. It is known, however, that all proprietary clubs will be prevented from keeping liquor.

Many returned soldiers' clubs will be prevented from keeping liquor under the new regulations, it was said at the attorney-general's department today. Some of these organizations are proprietary clubs, and will come under the same category as other proprietary clubs, which are to be wiped out, it was stated.

ROYAL BANK OF CANADA

The annual statement of The Royal Bank of Canada for the fiscal year ended November 30th, 1923, is one of the most striking banking documents presented to shareholders in recent years. In a period which has marked considerable contraction, owing to the after effects of post war deflation, the Bank has been able to make a noteworthy progress by an increase in total assets of close to $59,000,000, to the large total of $538,358,554.

Even more striking is the achievement in increasing general deposits to the extent of almost $50,000,000, in a period when conditions were not generally favorable. These now amount to $421,334,265, as compared with $372,003,961 in the preceding year.

The proportion of liquid assets are about 50% of the total liabilities to the public. They amount to $233,125,-474, and indicate a position of exceptional strength. Included in them are cash resources of $81,604,539, equal to 28% of public liabilities. The corresponding figures in the previous year were $216.048.331 in liquid assets and $63,935,920 cash resources. Under the amended method of denoting cash resources this year's deposit in the Central Gold Reserves, amounting to $11,500,000, is included, whereas a year ago the gold deposit of $8,000,000 was given among the general list of liquid assets.

In addition to this the general character of the Bank's holdings of higher grade securities has been greatly strengthened, with a view to fortifying its already strong position. Thus, Dominion and Provincial Government securities have been increased from $27,983,715 to $28,783,050 and Canadian Municipal securities and British, Foreign and Colonial securities, other than Canadian have risen from $7,901,927 to $15,900,363, while Railway and Other Bonds, Debentures and Stocks have decreased from $13,462,068 to $10,436,951.

Call and short loans on bonds, debentures, stocks and other securities have shown a decrease of upwards of $2,000,000, from $48,510,120 to $46,-372,574, there being a slight increase in such loans in Canada and a decrease elsewhere. The Bank has thus effected a distinct gain in the quality of its investments.

The measure of the Bank's general assistance to trade and commerce is shown in its current loans, which have risen in the year from $242,937,476 to $264,722,967, an increase of close to $22,000,000.

It is worthy of note that the profits of the year's operations were maintained at a level showing very little change from the preceding year, this showing having been effected in a period when general conditions were not so favorable than they had been in previous years. The profits amounted to $3,909,316, as against $3,958,469 for the preceding year. Together with the balance from the previous year, the total available for distribution was $4,916,830, as compared with $4,-863,514 in 1922 and after dividends, appropriations and taxes, there was carried forward $1,085,830, as against $1,007,514 last year.

Qualification of Trustees In Municipal School Districts

The qualification of candidates for election as trustees for any municipal school district shall, mutatis mutandis, be the like qualifications as are prescribed by law for persons eligible for election as Aldermen or Councillors of the municipality comprised in the school district, except that every candidate shall be actually resident in the school district. The wife or the husband of every person who is qualified to become a candidate for election as a trustee under the foregoing provisons of this section shall, if she or he is of the full age of twenty-one years and is actually resident in the school district, be qualified also to become a candidate for election as a trustee for the school district.

END STOMACH TROUBLE, GASES OR DYSPEPSIA

"Pape's Diapepsin" makes sick, sour, gassy stomachs surely feel fine in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach-headache, you can get relief in five minutes by neutralizing acidity. Put an end to such stomach distress now by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder caused by food fermentation due to excessive acid in stomach.

The curling season opened on New Year's Day with a big match—President Harry Douglas vs Vice-President S. Herchmer. There were ten rinks on each side, the Vice-President winning by the big margin of 34 points. Harry may be a good curler himself but his judgment in choosing seems to be poor.

The regular meetings of the Knights of Pythias for the first term of 1924 will commence Tuesday, January 8. Business: Installation of officers. All members are especially requested to be present and also to bring refreshments for the social being held in conjunction with this meeting. A cordial welcome is ertended to the members' wives and Pythian Sisters to be present.

The general committee meeting of the Home Bank depositors, meeting in Toronto, decided to launch a country-wide campaign to obtain the support of members of parliament for their appeal for compensation for both depositors and shareholders. Meetings are to be held from Montreal to Vancouver at central points, and members of parliament are to be asked to address gatherings. A delegation will go to Ottawa and present the petiton to the cabinet. It was announced at the meeting that between $25,000 and $30,000 had been subscribed by depositors to meet the expenses of the campaign.

In a comparative statement entitled "The Strength of the Three Uniting Churches," issued by the Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, convenor of the Presbyterian union committee, the relative strength of the three churches which are to form the proposed United Church of Canada is given as follows: Church population as per Dominion census—Congregational, 30,574; Methodist, 1,158.744; Presbyterian, $1,408,-812. Number of members on the church rolls—Congregational, 12,763; Methodist, 407,264; Presbyterian, 369,-939. "In property value," said Dr. Pidgeon, "the Methodist church owns over $17,000,000 worth of real property more than the Presbyterian church, while the Presbyterian debt on all real property is $313.72 in excess of the Methodist debt. In college endowments the Methodists have over $1,000,000 in excess of the Presbyterians. In the total givings last year to all purposes the Methodists are over $20,00 ahead of the Presbyterians. The only financial items in which the Presbyterians exceed the Methodists are in the ministers' stipends raised by congregations and in the missions reserve and trust funds."

George Appleyard returned on Sunday last from a trip to Minneapolis and other eastern points. The Appleyard house had been closed during his absence and George had a real interesting time with Jack Frost when he endeavored to get the place in shape for habitation again. For some time he thought of turning the house into a skating rink for the balance of the winter, but, on one occasion, when his shoes actually froze to the floor, he decided it was even too cold for that purpose.

As a result of a car, which he was driving, skidding on the road surface, Jack McEachern, a well known Cranbrook man, and a nephew of Murdoch McEachern of this city, is lying dead in the MacPherson undertaking parlors. It is understood that the accident occurred at Sand Creek bridge, five miles east of Jaffray, on Christmas day. The car, evidently, left road to plunge through the bridge railing into the creek. The unfortunate man was pinned under the car to meet death in the icy water. Mr. McEachern was a man of middle age and a bachelor. He came of an old Prince Edward Island family and was the son of a former superintendent of the Inter-colonial Railway. The funeral will be held on the arrival of relatives from the east and other points.—Cranbrook Courier.

YOUR BOY and HIS FUTURE

No One starting out in life ever expects to fail. Youth is always hopeful, but hope alone cannot bring success.

If your hope is to see your boy a success in the world, securing independence and comfort—the vision of so many, yet the attainment of so few—adopt a regular savings plan for him now, and teach him in his tender years the value of saving something out of every dollar.

THAT WAY LIES HIS SUCCESS

Canadian Pacific Directors on Annual Tour

E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is now on his annual tour of inspection over the Company's lines. He is accompanied by a number of Canadian Pacific Directors, and the trip will probably prove of more than usual importance in view of the many questions connected with transportation that are under discussion in the West.

The party of directors consists of Sir Herbert Holt, Montreal; Sir Augustus Nanton, Winnipeg; J. K. L. Ross, Montreal; F. W. Molson, Montreal; and W. N. Tilley, K.C., of Toronto. Vice-President A.D. Mac Tier accompanied the President as far as Port Arthur. The party left Montreal on September 6 and made the first stop at Toronto, leaving next day for Port Arthur and Fort William. Short stops were made at Winnipeg, Brandon, Moose Jaw, Medicine Hat, Calgary and Revelstoke. At Winnipeg a meeting of the board of directors was held, this being the first time in the history of the Canadian Pacific Railway that such a meeting has been held in Western Canada. Vancouver was reached on September 15th, and the party then proceeded to Skagway by the Canadian Pacific Coast Steamship Service. They will return to Vancouver on September 24th. The return journey will be made via Nelson, Lethbridge, Calgary and Edmonton. A short stop will be made at Nelson on September 30th, at Lethbridge, on October 1st, Calgary, October 2nd. Edmonton, October 3rd. Saskatoon, October 4th and at Winnipeg the following day.

Relief for Famine Sufferers

Empress of Russia at Vancouver loading supplies for the earthquake stricken thousands of Japan.

With every available inch of her cargo space crammed with foodstuffs and a capacity stock of ships stores, sufficient to replenish the supplies of the Empress of Canada and the Empress of Australia, on relief duty off the Japanese coast, the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Russia was the first relief ship to arrive. She carried consignments of flour, canned milk and canned salmon amounting to 350 tons, from the Canadian government. The British Columbia branch of the Canadian Red Cross sent twenty tons of canned milk and fifty tons of other canned food-stuffs, while the Vancouver Japanese Association contributed an initial shipment of fifty tons of flour for their famine stricken countrymen. More than two hundred & twenty-five of the "Russia's" three thousand tons of cargo was of flour.

BABIES AND SUNSHINE

Death-rates prove that the first few years of life are the hardest, and that babies under one year die as fast as people seventy-five years old. Your infant son, or daughter, has a much better chance of growing up than you did, and if he collects all that the law of averages allow him, he should live about ten years longer than you do. So we are told by Watson Davis of Science Service writing in the New York World. We read:

"Since we grown-ups were young, ideas about diet have been revolutionized. Water and milk supplies have been cleaned up. Baby's food and drink have been primary factors in the reduction of infant death-rate; if the mother can not feed her baby as nature intended, good imitations are available. Yet we do not know as much about nutrition as we thought we did, and unknown factors are continually forcing themselves upon us. Now Dr. Alfred F. Hess, of New York, finds that good baby food does not always assure good baby nutrition.

"Three out of four of the infants living in an average city block suffer from rickets at some time in their early lives, particularly in winter, This may sound surprizing, and mothers may scoff at it. This sort of rickets is not the kind that you will find described in the medical books which show pictures of babies with large, square heads and very bowed legs, but it is a mild form of bone trouble which, although it can be distinguished by measuring the phosphatse in the blood and X-raying the bones, may lead to slight deformities and render the children susceptible to such infectious diseases as grippe and pnuemonia.

"Sunshine is the preventive and cure. Wise doctors and parents will let youngsters kick up their heels in glee at the sun and run around naked without even a pane of glass between them and the distant power-plant for this earth. In summer when there is plenty of sunshine and the weather is such that mothers do not hesitate to give them large doses of it, riskets is practically non-existent, but in fall when days grow shorter, the sun becomes less bright and the weather is colder, babies see the sun less often and rickets often begins to develop. The flood-tide of this trouble is reached in March after the babies have been cooped up in dark tenements or apartment houses during the winter.

"If the sun will not shine properly and conveniently, the babies can be bathed in artificial sunshine. Mercury vapor when electrified gives out ultra-violet rays, too short to be seen but identical with those produced by the sun. Bones heal as rapidly under their influence as though the real sun were shining. The mercury-vapor lanmp also gives the greenish-blue light which can often be seen in photographers' windows, but there it is hemmed in by window-glass which is just as effective in cutting off the beneficial ultra-violet rays as the heavy clothes in which infants are often bundled up. Tubes for mercury-vapor lamps for therapeutic use must be made of quartz, which is transparent to these short rays. For the same reason, luxurious solartariums are useless for sunshine bathing if they are glassed in.

"These new facts are believed by Dr. Hess to be strong arguments for a change of fashion in baby-clothes. Legs and arms of infants can be exposed to sunlight, even in cold December, provided their hands, feet and bodies are warmly clad. Short and sleeveless dresses and a fad for no stockings are advocated by Dr. Hess instead of the enveloping, many-layered swaddling clothes of the past.

"As a partner of sunshine in the prevention and cure of rickets, there is cod-liver oil, which is to rickets what quinine is to malara. Sunshine is good medicine, as the Indians might say. It would be hard to find a simpler one, as cheap and easy to take."

GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has sore throat, diarrhœa, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

The New Ford Coupe

An entirely new body design of remarkable beauty as well as practical utility, is the distinguishing feature of the new Ford Coupe.

The body lines follow in one graceful sweep from the new high radiator to the "Turtle-back" curve of the rear deck, which has been enlarged to conveniently accommodate bulky grips and packages.

Upholstering is luxuriously deep both in the seat and back, the covering being of rich brown broadcloth with mahogany stripe. A recess shelf is provided behind the seat, for parcels.

Interior fittings include revolving window regulators, and door locks and handles finished in nickel. The large rear window is fitted with silk poplin shade in dull silvered mountings.

The windshield is surmounted by a broad sun-visor, which protects the eyes from glare.

As a handsome and practical all-weather car for town or country, the new Ford Coupe cannot be surpassed.

WORLD-WIDE BROADCASTING

A new system of broadcasting, introduced by the Westinghouse Company, is asserted by them to be the most important step since broadcasting itself was initiated. The system makes it possible for a speech or concert delivered at a central point to be received clearly in the area which is at present bounded by the Panama Canal Zone, Bermuda, the North Pole and the Hawaiian Islands. This is done by sending out the original broadcasting on a very low wavelength with peculiar penetrating quality not possessed by the high wavelengths usually employed for broadcasting. The low wave-length broadcasting can not be heard with the ordinary receiver, but it can be picked up by special apparatus at the various stations and repeated to local listeners on the ordinary wave-length. It is thus possible for small local stations to obtain regularly material of the highest quality. The uses of such a system are obvious. In an editorial headed: "The Whole World as Radio Audience," The Post (Pittsburg) says of it:

"Radio service in the past few years has gone so far beyond the early forecasts of it that when we are informed now of a system of relaying broadcasts by which the people of the United States and neighboring countries may be treated as one audience, we may easily believe the prophecy that it will not be long until there will be a world crier as there used to be a town beadle.

"Now the Westinghouse Company has perfected a system by which great musical or other programs may be heard simultaneously by the people of the two Americas and their neighbors. By the new arrangement the highest talent may be obtained for each evening's entertainment. This great system is started by the establishment of a relaying station at Hastings (Neb.), the first of its kind in the world. Broadcasts will be picked up as easily and with the same apparatus in the far Western States as they are now in the Pittsburg district.

"What this will mean to the Government, to education, to business and to the candidates in National campaigns is beyond estimate. It should be of the utmost aid in relieving our Presidents of the hardships in speaking tours. The President can speak into a microphone in Washington and be heard distinctly throughthis country and its neighbors—by an audience estimated up to 200,000,000. In time, it is predicted, he will be able to speak in this way to the entire world—not in any instance through an announcer, but by his own voice wholly. On Sundays the people everywhere may hear the greatest preachers.

"With such a marvelous device to serve it, civilization ought to progress as never before, with the world made more interesting as well as wiser."

Magnificent Specimen of Moose Head

THIS record moose head from an animal shot in Northern Ontario has been secured by the Canadian National Railways to be placed in their building at the British Empire Exhibition in London. The head has been specially mounted for display and is one of the finest specimens ever secured. As far as is known only two larger moose heads have ever been secured and one of these was presented to the late King Edward VII. by Canadian sportsmen.

Before being shipped to England the head will be displayed in the windows of ticket offices of the Canadian National Railways in various cities. It is now on exhibition at the ticket office at the northwest corner of King and Yonge Sts., Toronto, where it is attracting much attention and comment.

TRAVELLERS WHO NEVER RETURN

Nine hundred women and girls, nearly nineteen for every State in the Union, are still missing at the end of a year's search. What tragedy overcame them, whether they are dead or alive, is not known to friend or family. From this sad speculation it is comforting to turn to the announcement that the rest of the total of 11,000 reported by the police in thirty-three cities to be missing were found. To aid the traveler and to help find those who are lost or lured away is the work of the Traveller's Aid Society, which recently announced that last year it extended aid to more than 2,000,000 persons, many of them young girls. According to the report of John R. Shillady, general director of the National Association of Travellers' Aid Societies, summarized in the New York Tribune, thirty-seven cities reported a total of 31,638 men, women and children who had disappeared. Of these 2,500 had not been found by the end of the year. All the rest had been accounted for and turned to their homes. Proceeding:

"The service helps all travelers, from mere information-seekers to those in dire emergency. Police reports show that in this city 244 girls and women were reported missing, 1652 of whom were girls under twenty-one years of age. Chicago reported 1549, Los Angeles 1020, Philadelphia 1006, St. Louis had 798, San Francisco 471 and Detroit 311. About 92 per cent. of the missing were finally found alive."

Large as these figures are, they represent, we are told, only about one-half of the actual number of those actually dropped out of sight at some time during the year. This is the opinion of Capt. John H. Ayres, chief of the New York Bureau of Missing Persons, whose statement is thus quoted in the Tribune:

"People often fail to report disappearing members of their family to us because they mistakingly fear we will bring publicity upon them, when that is the last thing we want to do.

"Many also drop out of sight who have no one sufficiently interested to make a report. In our best judgment, we feel it is fair to double our actual figures, making a total of 4892 missing women and girls in this city, of whom 3304 were under twenty-one years of age.

"If the same ratio of disappearance holds good for the United States as applies to New York, then we can arrive by an arithmetical computation at the total for the United States, which will approximate 60,000 girls who probably disappear annually. Of course, it must be understood that those are not permanently disappearances, as a very large per cent. are accounted for. Our record for last year was 98 per cent. found."

The season for open winters may now be considered officially closed.

1924 being divisable by four, heavy casualties are predicted in the ranks of the bachelors.

Help the Veterans

Try this new patience

The Poster-Judging Competition now being conducted in Canada for the benefit of the Veterans' Associations is one of the most fascinating of games. On the ticket-folder which donors of $1.20 are presented with, sixteen of the most famous posters of BOVRIL are reproduced in colors.

Which are the 12 best, in order of merit, is what you must decide. The folder shows just what you must do and how to do it.

It is an interesting trial of taste and judgment to class these posters in the order which popular fancy will endorse. It is a real game which can be played over and over again, and in which all the family can join and which will interest visitors, be they young or old.

You can make as many trials as you like—for every donation of $1.20 one ticket-folder is presented, thus $12.00 secures 10 folders—though only one prize will be given to one person.

BOVRIL LIMITED has donated £30,000, about $138,888, which has been divided into 2,003 prizes. The first three are approximately as follows :

2nd	"	13,888.00
3rd	"	4,555.00

Send donations to any of the following organizations or their branches which are actively interested and ask your help :

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Fernie Free Press:

Dear Sir—The Doctors' Question is still a live issue and going strong in Drs. Asselstine and Garner's favor; many of the Coal Company employees having reconsidered the question and have signed up with them again, and for the information of those who don't know, any employee may sign up on any day of the week for the doctors he prefers, at the Big Office in Fernie. Nuff sed.

The Relief Committee, another name but practically the same men who compose the Medical Committee, have unconsciously given the old doctors the biggest boost of the whole campaign by refusing to pay over to those union men of B North Mine, who signed for the old doctors, the money collected for that very purpose. Well to me it seems both inhuman as well as unlawful. Need anyone wonder that many names will be added to swell the old doctors' list as a consequence of their unfeeling action.

To those who have a copy of the U. W. W. of A. Constitution it would be time well spent to read it over; to those who have none and are members, kindly ask the Secretary for a copy. There is information of value to be gained by reading it, and many disputes would be avoided by putting it into practice. Personally I have no hesitation in saying that those who are so insistently saying "fall into line with the Union" are the very persons who are doing all they know to disrupt it—this is not hearsay, but solid fact.

With regard to calling in District 18 Officials, who by the way are doing their level best to get the imported men out of the Edmonton district to return from whence they came, would suggest that every mineworker in this camp who promtly sign up for the old doctors, is helping on the good work of shipping out the imported Doctors, and doing the work more efficiently than the District officials could do if they came. So get busy.

The Fernie Free Press:

Dear Sir—I would like to beg a small space in your valuable paper regarding the Home Bank depositors, as in my opinion they don't seem very much bothered about their savings all being lost.

There was a General Meeting called for Wednesday evening, January 2nd, 1924, for the Mayor (Mr. G. G. Henderson) and Mr. J. E. Smith ,of Coal Creek, to submit their reports of the Toronto meeting so that the depositors would learn what these two gentlemen had done on behalf of the local depositors in trying to secure 100 cents on the dollar and I don't think they, the depositors, have shown appreciation of the efforts of our Mayor, for the good he is doing, not only for the city, but for the depositors.

I am sure Mr. Henderson was more than disappointed in seeing such a few of the depositors present; also the absence of the business men of the city, as there was only three turned out to the meeting. But I am afraid they will be more anxious when the taxes are put up—for that is what it will come to if we don't get 100 cents on the dollar. And it seems to me we are doing very little for ourselves in the matter, and I think it is the least we could do to attend all the meetings to hear what is being done on our behalf by Mr. Henderson, to secure the 100 cents on the dollar, and our appreciation of his services.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, yours truly,—A Depositor.

MYSTIC CHINA AGAIN SHOWN ON SCREEN

Mystic China! Elaborate, colorful settings! Pretentious costumes! Excitement! Drama! Romance! All these and more in "Thundergate," a First National picture, which comes to the Orpheum Theatre for Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

The story deals with an American, who, through the duplicity of the girl to whom he is engaged, abetted by her lover, sinks to degradation in China. Through circumstances he is forced to masquerade as a Chinese over-lord and then meets romance in the shape of a white birl, who had been reared as a Chinese.

The girls is brought to him as a slave-wife. He learns she is white and then a conflict begins to save her from the Chinese and at the same time expose the duplicity of his former associates.

"Thundergate" is described as a swiftly moving drama replete with thrills. Owen Moore, one of the screen's most popular players, enacts the leading role. Virginia Brown Faire plays the part of the slave wife. Other film celebrities in the cast are Sylvia Breamer, Tully Marshall, Robert McKim, Richard Cummings and Ynez Seabury.

TO FERNIE

Oh Fernie is a happy place,
A nestling in the hills;
And, there the boys and girls do love
To enjoy sleighing thrills.
And after nine o'clock rings out,
The younger fry go home;
And the older ones who do not shout
In love; the streets they roam.

So Fernie is, you must agree,
A gay and lively city;
And why the rest are not like it,
It surely is a pity.
Then earth would be a happy place,
And none would long to leave it,
And critics, who in sorrow race,
Would have no cause to grieve it.

So when the sun does arise,
And the mountains starts adorning;
It goldens all the past night skies
And brightens the clouds of morning.
At nine a.m. the youth troop off,
To gain an education;
And make this happy place of ours
A strong and happy nation.

The men in business try to please
The people all around;
Whether it be some ice to freeze,
Or a new satin gown.
On winter morns the air is fresh,
And send your blood a-crawling;
But when it thaws, youth use their paws
To renew their fun snowballing.

At early morn, the men pass by,
To work in mines and other labor;
And their wives stay home to fry,
Or cook meals to their favor.
So may we with a happy song,
And sing this little ditty;
And always try to boost along,
This great place, Fernie City.

THRIVING ON DEPRESSION

Revelstoke Review: The following is a close analysis from a psychological point of view of the mind of a reader who has just finished reading one of those magazines whose so-called idea it is to reform evil by exposing it. He feels that the whole world is rotten to the core. The chief business of the citizens of the country is to perpetrate evil, the judges seem impotent to deal justice, the millionaires are committing suicide, whereas he thought they at least would be happy; night birds, child slavery, moonshine, mothers' torture, a super crook, lure of the Oriental, traffic in filth, business swindlers, sins of war time, sex problems, all this and more in one issue for the sum of twopence.

In other words, he accrues a nasty fit of depression. In this state he wants more, he wants to gloat over the ruination and folly of others. The beautiful side, the sunshiny side of life is completely blotted out.

A certain amount of good may be done by these papers, but the greatest proof that it is not all good is the astounding fact that the man who filled the country with his rantings against evil doers is now in prison for a gigantic swindle, carried on concurrently with his fiery denunciations. There is infinitely more of good in the world than evil, and furthermore there are two sides to every question.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94 PER CENT AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise —no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. B. Johnson, 579 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

HOCKEY LID PRYED OFF

The Fernie City Hockey League opened its 1923-24 season at the local skating arena last Monday evening when Ingram's 150 team and the Northerns locked horns in the initial game, the 150's snatching a last minute win from their opponents by scoring the only goal of the game within thirty seconds of the final bell.

The game was one of the cleanest ever seen on local ice, Referee Dicken not being called upon during the entire game to banish a player from the ice, even for a minor offence. This is certainly a splendid record for the opening game and it is to be hoped that the whole league schedule will be carried out in this manner. Hockey fans like to see good, clean hockey and the big crowd in attendance on Monday evening voiced their approval of this feature of the game in no uncertain manner.

Lack of team work was apparent, but this was probably due to the teams being unable to practice, owing to unfavorable weather. With a few more games the teams will be able to get down to systematic play. Both the Northerns and the 150's kept up a three man defence all through the game and this proved to be a most effective play in keeping the opposing forwards at bay. Both goaltenders were at their best and pulled off some exceptionally fine saves. The winning goal, however, was rather an easy one coming just before the final bell, when McLachlan got off down the left and when tackled by the defence, flipped the puck goalwards, the rubber slid along the ice and Hovan closed his feet to stop it, but the elusive disc slipped through his skates and into the net for the tally which won the game.

Referee—A. Dicken.

Goal summary—1st period, none; 2nd period, none; 3rd period, 150, McLachlan unass., 14:30.

Hockey will boom in Fernie this season if displays, such as were put up Wednesday evening, continue to be given the fans. Two picked teams, the Seniors and the All-stars met in the first of their regular Wednesday evening games, the latter winning in a closely fought contest by the score of five goals to four.

Right from the start of the first period the All-stars set up a fast clip and one minute from the face-off, Baker got away on his own, down the left wing and working close in scored the opening goal. Four minutes latter, Shand with another end to end rush put the All-stars two up. This made the Seniors speed up somewhat and following a nice combination rush up the ice, Dicken snapped up a goalmouth pass from Glover and scored the first goal for the Seniors. Not to be outplayed in combination, the All-stars' forward line, combining nicely, came down the ice three abreast and Thomson picking up a final pass from T. Wilson, again gave the All-stars a two goal lead. The City Leaguers certainly had the better of the exchanges in the first session and their lead at the end of the period was a good reflection of the run of play.

The second period saw the Seniors open up with some of their expected brilliancy, their defence holding up strongly against the All-star raiders while their forwards through Dicken and Sofko tied the score and forged ahead just at the close of the period when Bish Wilson netted, following a whirlwind rush up the ice.

In the final session considerable slashing came into play but Referee Walker soon stopped this, his bell and fingers working on every occasion and at one time both teams had only four men each on the ice. Five minutes from the start M. Commons getting the puck behind his own goal, came down the ice like a streak and fired in a sizzler from left wing which gave Coste no chance and tied the score. End to end play followed during which both Colton and Coste had their work cut out to prevent further scoring. Two minutes from the call of time Shand got away and working into the corner, shot across towards goal, Coste tried to intercept the pass but the puck glanced off his stick into the net, giving the All-stars what proved to be the winning goal.

Referee—Cy. Walker.

With the close of the installation ceremonies, a fine musical program was provided by various members of the lodge which was followed by supper, thus passing a most pleasant evening. Many visiting brothers and sisters were present.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

Our latest information is that J. S. Irvine, Dan Markland, E. K. Stewart, Andrew Lees, Joseph Aiello and William Robishaud have signified their intention of standing for Aldermen for 1924.

The coming year is going to be a very difficult one, indeed, for the Mayor and Aldermen of the City, due to the heavy loss sustained by the suspension of the Home Bank, and the citizens generally are fortunate indeed in having such represntative men stand as above.

Harry Douglas, who is retiring from the Council, will stand for Police Commissioner. We understand it is not the intention of Harold Wilson to be a candidate this year.

For School Trustees, Wm.. Gates and Dr. Garner, whose term expires, will both be candidates for re-election.

PREMIER MINE PAYS BACK VALUE OF SHARE CAPITAL

With the payment of another 8 per cent dividend in January, the Premier mine will have produced dividends in a little more than two years of five million dollars, which is the equal of the par value of its share capital.

The last dividend for this year will be declared at a meeting in New York on January 3, according to reports. The plans for the development of the mine for the coming year also will be outlined and it is the intention to enlarge the equipment and expand development. The result is expected to be largely increased and, if the ore values continue as in the last two years, it would not surprise anyone if the dividend from this "cave of wealth" exceed the present record in a comparatively short time.

The first Premier dividend of 8 per cent., or $400,000, was declared December 31, 1921, and regularly every three months thereafter a dividend has been paid. The largest, $800,000 was paid June 30, 1922. The total dividends paid in 1922 were two million, eight hundred thousand dollars. The payments for 1923 will reach only $1,600,000. This year, however, it is understood that a large fund was set aside for expansion operations.

Ownership of the Premier is in the hands of but a few men—The Guggenheim, Keith and Untermeyer interests of New York owning control, and R. W. Wood, A. B. Trites, W. R. Wilson, of Fernie, and R. K. Neill, of Spokane, with odd small shareholders owning the balance.

Woods, Trites and Wilson, the B.C. owners, are putting a large share of their money back into the mine, and are backing several other mining undertakings.

Sausage factories in Hamburg are beseiged by hungry throngs willing to work for their "eats." Sausage which sold before the war for 15 and 20 cents a German pound, which is twelve ounces, has now reached the unprecedented price of $1.25 to $1.75.

CURLING LEAGUE

The close of the first week of the new system of team curling, adopted by the Fernie Curling Club for thei 1923-24 season, finds the local devotees of the "roarin' game" highly elated over the success of this system.

The teams — Beavers, Maple Leafs, Thistles and Shamrocks—have each played four games during the first week with the following results:

Wednesday—Beavers defeated Thistles. Shamrocks defeated Maple Leafs.

Wednesday — Shamrocks defeated Maple Leafs. Thistles defeated Beavers.

Thistles	Won 3	Lost 1
Shamrocks	" 3	" 1
Beavers	" 2	" 2
Maple Leafs	" 0	" 4

This new system of play is that the four teams comprising the league are each made up of five different rinks, each with their own skip while one of these skips is elected captain of the team. When two teams meet, five games are played simultaneously. The team scoring three or more wins in the series are credited with a win in the league schedule. The schedule is so arranged that during the season each rink on one team will have played against every rink in the other three teams. At the end of the league schedule, the team heading the table will play down among themselves to decide which will hold the Trophy put up for this competition.

COAL CREEK NOTES

The bird of the elongated legs paid a visit to camp on Saturday last, depositing his burden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Furneaux, the manager of the local branch of the Trites-Wood Co. Mother and son doing fine. Tommy wearing the smile that won't come off.

Johnny Millar, our genial night watchman, has been a victim to King Flu for a few days. In spite of which, his masticatory and digestive organs were not interfered with.

The recent severe cold weather was the cause of many sulphurious remarks from the residents, resultant of frozen pipes, etc.

Provincial Chief Constable Greenwood paid an official visit to camp, taking in all the sights this burg affords.

A large number of the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters, attended the ceremony of installation of officers and social held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Tuesday night.

Arrangements are well under way for the formation of a local hockey club. The adherents to the game putting in lots of practice on the new skating rink here.

Bill Branch, of Michel, was a visitor in camp during the week.

The Club Hall has been engaged for Monday night, to hold a grand dance, to raise funds for the projected hockey club.

The "Tipple' is proving very attractive to the species of wild life around here. A few weeks ago a young deer was captured and last week Billy Thompson caught a young owl.

The disclosures of the Home Bank affairs, by Mr. Clarkstone, liquidator, as published in "The Hook," are read with great interest by the depositors up here. The shady transactions and gambles pointed out being a revalation.

BANK NOT IN DANGER, WHITE

TORONTO, Jan. 6. — Sir Thomas White, former minister of finance in the Dominion government, declares in a statement given out here today, that no facts were at any time brought to his attention, while minister, justifying action on his part which would have brought about the suspension of the Home Bank, which eventually suspended payment on August 17 last, and is now in liquidation.

"In 1918 complaint was received by me on behalf of the three western directors of the bank, Messrs. Crerar, Kennedy and Persse, with regard to three accounts of the bank, namely, the Frost Timber account, the Pellatt account and an account with the Prudential Trust company, relating to the bonds of a New Orleans traction company,' says the ex-minister.

"As a result of my action at this time, General Mason was displaced as general manager, and the board of directors of the bank harmonized and reorganized under the presidency of Mr. Haney.

"It was reported to me that the reorganized board was satisfied that it would be found that the capital of the bank was intact, and there was no danger of loss to creditors or depositors I was assured by letter on behalf of the three western directors who had brought the three accounts to my attention that no external audit or inspection was necessary."

The statement of Sir Thomas said, in regard to the Frost timber account in 1918, that there was at that time no sound ground for instituting an investigation, which would then have had most serious consequences with respect not only to the Home bank, but the general financial situation. Canada was at that time in the midst of the $700,000,000 Victory loan campaign, and the loan was most vital to the agricultural and business interests of Canada, whose products it financed.

"Under no circumstances would I have allowed a bank to fail during the period in question," said Sir Thomas. "If it had appeared to me that the bank was not able to meet its public obligations, I should have taken steps to have it taken over by some other bank or banks, or, failing this, would have given it necessary assistance under the Finance Act of 1914. Such action would have been justified in the public interest at that time

"At no time was it suggested by the western directors or anyone else that the bank was not able to meet its liabilities or that it should be wound up.

"I have no desire to hamper depositors of the Home bank, the condition of some of whom is deplorable, to seek relief in any way they may deem expedient. I merely desire to place the facts before the Canadian public, whom I had the honor to serve, I believe, to the best of my ability as minister of finance during the war."

GIVE THE MOUNTIES A CHANCE

The enquiry into the charges made by Attorney-General Manson against the Vancouver detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, which has been in progress in Vancouver and Victoria for several weeks has so far failed to reveal that any member or special agent of the force was trafficking in narcotics as alleged. It has shown, however, that friction exists, and has existed practically ever since the Mounted Police were sent to the coast, between them and the Dominion customs officials and between them and the provincial police. At the present time there are four crime-detecting agencies operating officially in Vancouver, the Mounted Police, the Customs detectives, the Provincial police and the city police. They are independent of each other and frequently come into collision. The Mounted Police witnesses at the enquiry testified that several big coups whereby they would have landed the higherups in the drug traffic were frustrated at the last moment by minor arrests made by the city police. Several customs officials in Vancouver were dismissed two years ago for permitting the illegal entry of narcotics, and since then the Mounted Police have been active in trying to stop the traffic. Both in the interests of economy and effectiveness, the customs police and the provincial police should be moved away from Vancouver. The public can ill afford the extravagance of maintaining the present costly and unsatisfactory system. Let the famous Red Coats have a free field and unless they have sadly deteriorated in recent years they will produce results.—Saturday Night.

LARGE FUNERAL FOR LATE GEO. HOGARTH IN CRANBROOK

CRANBROOK, Jan. 6.—The funeral took place this afternoon of the late George Hogarth, whose death Friday morning cast Cranbrook in gloom, and the event was one of the largest of its kind in the city's history.

Mr. Hogarth was one of the most well known figures in the city of Cranbrook, being proprietor of the Cranbrook Hotel, and known personally to most of those who have had occasion to visit this city on business.

He was the pioneer hotel proprietor, having come to this city from Elko almost 20 years ago. He leaves a widow and twin sons, Thomas and Enos, now grown up.

The late Mr. Hogarth had been prominently identified with the growth of the city, and was an enthusiastic curler, having figured in bonspiels in all the Crow towns. He was president of the Cranbrook Curling Club at the time of his death.

He had been ill for some weeks, but few were prepared for the news of his passing.

FUNERAL OF ACCIDENT VICTIM HELD MONDAY

The funeral of the late John McEachern who lost his life in an automobile accident at Sand Creek on the Jaffray road, Christmas day, was held on Monday afternnon last at the Cranbrook Cemetery. The funeral was delayed pending the arrival of members of the family. Deceased was one of a family of eleven and his passing makes the first gap in this large circle of grown up sons and daughters. Among those of his family who were here to attend the funeral, were his father, D. B. McEachern, formerly of the I. C. R. service, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McEachern, brother and sister-in-law, of Vancouver, and Messrs. Everett and William from Saskatchewan and Waldo respectively. Other relatives in the city are Mr. Murdock McEachern, an uncle, and Archie, of Penticton, and Mrs. F. A. Small.

The funeral service was held at the Presbyterian church at 2.30, conducted by Rev. E. W. MacKay and was attended by members of Cranbrook Masonic Lodge of which deceased was also a member. At the cemetery after the usual brief service of commital, the Masonic funeral service was read by Bro. A. E. Jones, and the brother Masons attending threw their emblametic sprigs of evergreen into the open grave. The pall bearers were all members of the order, namely, Messrs. W. F. Cameron, L. Clapp, N. A. Wallinger, H. B. Hicks, A. A. MacKinnon and J. S. Newman.—Cranbrook Herald.

Truth about winter is out at last. Persons who abhor the season need no longer shiver and repeat the futile "Why?" It was answered recently by Charles O. Beaman, head of the high school science department, State Normal School, Brockport, N.Y., who spoke before the Nature Study Society of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. There are four reasons for winter. Prof. Beaman said so. They are: The sun heats the earth about six hours a day less in winter than in summer. It spreads less heat each day over a larger surface. The rays have come a longer distance through the atmoshere. Much of the sun's heat is used in winter to melt the ice and snow and not to warm the atmosphere. Prof. Beaman said the sun comes north in winter and goes south in the summer. It begins its northern journey December 21, and starts its return trip on June 21.

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

Fernie Lodge No. 1335, Loyal Order of Moose are out on a campaign for new members. Their reason for so doing is that they want every good citizen to have an opportunity to help in the good work which is being carreid on by the Order for children at Mooseheart, and the old folks at Moosehaven.

"Every child is entitled to at least a high school education and a trade." —James J. Davis.

The Loyal Order of Moose is an international fraternal-beneficiary society consisting of more than sixteen hundred Lodges in the United States, Canada and throughout the English-speaking world, having an aggregate membership in all these Lodges of almost 600,000 men. Most of the Lodges provide for sick benefits and funeral expense funds for their members. Each Lodge is a complete unit in itself, with full local autonomy.

1. Mooseheart is the "home—school —town" operated and maintained by the 600,000 members of the Loyal Order of Moose for the care, training and education of the dependent children of the deceased members of the Order.

2. Mooseheart consists of an estate of 1023 acres of Northern Illinois agricultural land on the Lincoln Highway and Fox River, forty miles west of Chicago. Eight hundred acres are under cultivation. During the nine years following its establishment in 1913, about $6,000,000.00 was expended in the purchase of land, the install- and heating systems and in the erection of sewer, water, electric light tion of modern fire-proof buildings for the care, training and education of these children.

3. Mooseheart is not an "orphanage." The beneficiaries are merely taking advantage of the heritage provided for them by their parents. Everything possible is done to keep up the ties between the children and such surviving relatives as there may be, and in trying to surround the children with home-like conditions.

4. Mooseheart is a great "melting-pot," as the children come from all sections of the North American Continent. They form one large, healthy, happy family where democracy and cosmopolitanism reign.

5. The students at Mooseheart are not uniformed. Each girl and boy is privileged to select his or her own dress, hat, shirt, etc., from a large up-to-date stock.

6. At Mooseheart the children are of all ages from those yet unborn to those nineteen years of age. From the time of birth to the kindergarten age the babies are cared for in the "Pennsylvania Baby Village," built especially for this purpose. They are next taken to the "Kindergarten Village," where they remain until they attend the grade school and make their home with one of the "family groups" in the various halls and dormitories.

7. Children of all ages live in the same building with the exception of the very young children, in order to allow the development of the "big brother spirit," whereby the older children look after the younger ones.

8. During the first two weeks new children at Mooseheart are kept in "quarantine" until they have been examined by the physician for all possible ailments and defects, before they are transferred to a permanent residence and attend Assembly for the first time.

Join the Loyal Order of Moose now and participate in this great work. Further particulars from any member of the Order or James Wilson, Secretary.

LEMONS WHITEN AND BEAUTIFY THE SKIN

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It is marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

"Nothing Equals Vicks For a Cold."

The quick direct treatment for colds of children and grown-ups, too, is an application of Vicks over throat and chest at bedtime.

Not only is Vicks absorbed through the skin, but its healing vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Turpentine, etc., are breathed all night directly into the affected air passages. Relief usually comes by morning.

Mrs. Ryckman, 817, 10th Street, Brandon, Manitoba, says: "I have used Vicks VapoRub with the greatest satisfaction, and think there is nothing to equal it for a cold. As soon as I feel a cold coming on I just rub a little of Vicks on my throat, nose and chest when I go to bed at night, and my cold is all gone in the morning. I really think it the most wonderful remedy I ever used, and I will always have it in my home."

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Company, 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

THIS IS A POOR REWARD

TORONTO, Jan. 8. — Presented with three shares of Home Bank stock for her coolness in saving a large sum of money when the Home Bank at Melbourne, Ont., was robbed on April 11, 1921, Miss Agnes Campbell, sister of Russell Campbell, who was shot dead in the raid, is now faced as a shareholder with a suit for the $300 value of the shares at the time they were presented to her, and she must pay the double liability.

HONEYMOONING IN A FORD

Last month the two were wedded,
In the church across the way;
And one of the wedding presents,
Was a brand new Ford coupe.
The groom he cranked the engine,
And the engine ran so good;
That the wheels ran out from underneath,
And left behind the hood.

But they got it soon together,
And were rambling down the road;
The first thing they ran over,
Was a big fat ugly toad.
The bridegroom became nervous,
And the bride felt quite faint;
When they ran into a hardware store
And spilt a barrel of paint.

The bride spoke out loudly,
"Oh dear! What shall we do?"
When the groom, whose mind was righted,
Says, "We'll have our Irish Stew."
So they hiked off to a restaurant,
With hearts that could not die;
And the bride ordered lemons,
So the groom he ordered pie.

After lunch they struck Toronto,
With their car that was of tin;
So they rambled down to "Sunnyside,"
To take their evening swim.
There the band played The Maple Leaf
With the thistle twined around;
So they left the gay old city,
And struck "Long Island Sound."

There the mosquitoes gave the music,
With voices that were meek;
And they left their well-known trade mark,
On the bride's and bridgroom's cheek.
He dare not leave her alone,
To his bride he sweetly spoke;
"Darling, I am growing dreary,
And my bank book's nearly broke."

So with love more tightly clinging,
They steered the Ford alone;
While they started sweetly singing,
They struck for "Home Sweet Home."
Thus their honeymoon had ended,
Both with cheerful hearts they sang;
But their cheerful lives were severed,

But now they live in their new house,
And never to the club does he go;
For he is afraid of his new spouse,
Because she might hit him a blow.
So after this he stays at home,
And never leaves his wife;
He dare not leave her alon,
So such is "married life."

NEW LAMP BURNS 94 PER CENT AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise —no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. B. Johnson, 579 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

The UP-TO-DATE GARAGE

NEPTUNE TO VISIT WORLD CRUISERS

The certificate as shown above will be issued to all passengers aboard the Empress of Canada who appear before Neptune, as did those passengers on the Empress of France last year, who are shown in pictures 2 and 3.

When to travel upon the sea was to venture in great danger it was usually thought wise by the voyagers to propitiate the god of the waters by making gifts to him before setting sail, and oftentimes, when Neptune displayed his wrath at sea, human sacrifices were made to him. To our superstitious ancestors the son of Saturn and Ops had great power over the waves, especially those of the sea, and had, therefore, in his hands the welfare of all vessels and their human and other freight. The worship of Neptune was early introduced into Rome, and July 23rd, "Neptunalia," was his feast.

As science reduced the terrors of the sea, and education and higher civilization erased the sometimes terrible superstitions from the minds of the world, so the worship of and sacrifices to Neptune ceased, but even to this day he is venerated by many Latin and Scandinavian sailors and no ship crosses the equator without some recognition being made of him. Usually this takes the form of a burlesque performance in which those who are making their first "crossing of the line" are initiated into the mysteries of the deep.

The unique photograph reproduced above was taken aboard the Canadian Pacific "Empress of France" while on a "Round the World" cruise last year. Neptune boarded the great liner in the early morning of the day on which the "line" was crossed, and held court. He was attended by the Royal Barber and other high officials who assisted in the initiation ceremony. Most of the passengers were summoned to his august presence and were tried for their misdemeanour, punishment or praise being awarded without favor. Those who produced evidence of having been "initiated" before were, of course, exempt from trial.

This year, when Neptune boards the Empress of Canada, which leaves New York on a Round the World cruise on January 30th, his secretary will issue to all those who pass before the God of the Waters, certificates to that effect, which will be countersigned by Captain S Robinson, R.N.R., who commands the vessel, and whic besides being valuable souvenirs of the trip, will exem the holder from further trial.

The program will include many vocal and musical numbers and will be followed by refreshments and dancing. All Oddfellows and Rebekahs are cordially invited.

The recent cold snap drove all the cars to cover with the exception of W. R. Wilson's, which was out as usual. The official reading of the government thermometer showed the mercury dropped to 37 below on Jan. 1st, buth other thermometers registered as low as 44 below, and, as the Spokesman Review put it, "one man's thermometer is as good as another's and a damn site better."

The 150 All Sports Gym will be the scene of a big night's sport on Tuesday, January 15, when Paul Paulson, of Warner, Alta., and Billy Chisholm, of Fernie, will meet in a wrestling bout. Leo Stokes will give exhibitions, boxing Geo. Larner and Jimmy White, while there will be five other items on the program, which will keep things lively for the entire evening.

Billy Duncan, Leon Ruschall and Jim Reynolds are leaving in the morning for Bozeman, Montana, where they will spend a week in attendance at the Boys' Conference in Vocational Guidance for the Northwestern States. They are going in response to an invitation extended to the local High School by the State authorities to represent Canada at the conference. More than a thousand boys of High School age will be in attendance.

True to Scottish traditions, Mr. Alan Graham threw open his home to a large number of friends on New Year's Eve. It was a good old-fashioned gathering where good old-fashioned cheer was dispensed with lavish hand. The company saw the old year out and the new year in much in the manner of the Grahams of other days when Hogmanay was not the least among annual festivals. Patey's orchestra furnished the music to which the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Graham danced as the dying year was being counted into the tale of past centuries.—Cranbrook Courier.

The liquidators of the Home Bank entered suit against Herbert J. Daly, president of the institution, and Phoebe J. Daly for a declaration that the transfer of property on Warren Road, Toronto, and in Nassau by Daly to his wife in April was null and void against the plaintiff and other creditors. An order for the sale of the property is asked, the proceeds to be applied to the payment of Daly's creditors. The foregoing is an extract from the Toronto Telegram, of Jan. 7th, and was one of the suggestions of Mayor Henderson during his trip as delegate of the local depositors and is now apparently being acted upon.

The City's share from the Provincial Government Liquor Control fund this year amounted to $5089.52, less the cost of two convictions—some $1176.75. The cost of covictions apparently varies quite a lot. In Nelson three cases cost some nine hundred dollars, or three hundred dollars each. In Cranbrook and Fernie they run as high as six hundred dollars each. Of course the difference must be in the freight and Premier Oliver has worked so hard for a reduction in freight rates.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Fernie Free Press, Fernie, B.C.

Dear Sir—May I have a space in your valuable paper to mention two things which added greatly to the Christmas spirit in Fernie, namely, the carol singing by the Musical Club and the pictures of the Christ Child's Nativity, donated by Mr. Hawthorne.

It would be pleasant to know that the Old-Country custom of carol singing was to become an annual event in our western city.

The large Christmas posters herald the new era of bill-board advertisements which does not sacrifice beauty to advertising and gives its space towards keeping the Yuletide.

Thanking you, I am, yours very truly,

A Booster for a "Fernie Beautiful."

COMMUNICATION

Fernie, B.C., Jan. 9, 1924.

Dear Sir—I an a World War Veteran who served 2 years in France and Belgium, was in the army for 3 years until the armistice ended the war. I volunteered at 57 years of age, believing then, as I do now, that a country worth living in was a country worth fighting for when fighting is necessary. I was never sick or wounded and have no pension. The Gratuity I got went, along with my other savings, in the Home Bank of Canada failure.

Now, Sir, having done my best for this country as a miner, as a soldier and as a desirable inhabitant, I appeal to you for help in my time of need, also for others who have been quite as useful in other spheres of usefulness and perhaps even more unfortunate than myself, the crippled mineworkers, the aged of both sexes, and the widows and their dependents. All these have been practically beggared by the Home Bank failure.

I appeal to you to act promptly in this matter. Governments are elected to defend those who defend the country in her extremity, any Government refusing to do this would disgrace itself before the world at large and what the soldiers did overseas was made possible by the thrifty workers at home.

I can assure you that Government failure to relieve the depositors will open up the whole banking system of Canada with the one sole object in view of abolishing the Chartered Banks as speedily as possible on the grounds that they are against the public welfare and a danger to the State.

I remain, yours sincerely,

Robert Draper.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Free Press:

Dear Sir—I am glad to see that you are keeping your paper open for discussion on the Doctors' Question and also to see that Mr. Draper is still discussing it, as we know from past experience that he is a man that knows what he is talking about and also likes to see fair play.

As most people know, President Sherman has been in and has actually agreed with the men that they are forcing this thing upon us, although he has had the same kind of business to contend with in Edmonton. Of course, I partly knew before he came which side he was taking but I wanted to see how he would reconcile his action at Edmonton with his action here. He says he is sorry that this division has taken place at such a critical time, but to me it looks like a thing done on purpose to railroad it through at this time, as it could just as easy have been done a year ago as now. Doctors Garner and Asselstine have been working for us for over a year now without signing a new contract and they have proved themselves honorable gentlemen in dealing with the miners and their families.

President Sherman also says that he noticed it is the same men that they have trouble with always, if they try to make any improvements to better the conditions of the workers, but the majority of us fail to see what improvements the change in the Doctors and Hospital would be.

And again I must now tell the Medical Committee and Executive that we are living in the 20th Century and in Canada, and not in Russia. It seems they forget this when they stop money due to men that are off work at B North. Money that was collected from all the miners, two per cent. off their wages, and in the first place there was no conditions, but afterwards they formed a committee to put the screws to four of those men to make them sign over to the imported doctors, and some of those men with their families are destitute. I wonder how the executive and committee felt at Christmas time when they sat down to sumptuous meals, as no doubt they were able to, and were depriving their fellow men the bare necessities of life. It is one of the most cruel things we have had around to deal with and I think the miners should take this matter up and as they haven't had a chance of a referendum vote, they should get shoulder to shoulder, as union is strength, and go and sign for the Doctors they want. This question looked crooked from the start, when according to the advertisements in all the newspapers, all tenders were to be in by the 15th of October and when Doctors Garner and Asselstine sent in an application on the 13th, they were told by one of the Executive that they were too late. And now they say they didn't get an application from those doctors at all. (They must have poor memories). They say this is finished as far as the local is concerned so I think some one should refer it to the International to see if they can take away the men's civic rights from them and let the miners get this question settled.

I remain, yours respectfully,

A Miner's Wife.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Bertha, beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Reuter, who died, January 9th, 1920:

Four years have passed, our hearts still sore;
As time goes on we miss her more.
One of the dearest, one of the best;
We miss her most, who loved her best.

Thy will be done, seems hard to say,
When those we loved are called away;
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts, she liveth still.

—Inserted by her Mother, Father and Sister.

FIVE YEARS' AGONY ENDED

When He Took "Fruit-a-tives" For Rheumatism

The Medicine Made From Fruit

There can be no doubt that "Fruit-a-tives" is the long sought remedy for Rheumatism and Lumbago. From all over Canada come letters testifying to this fact.

Mr. John E. Guilderson of Parrsboro, N.S. writes: "I suffered badly with Rheumatism for five years—tried different medicines—was treated by doctors in Amherst—and here at home—but the Rheumatism came back.

In 1916, I saw an advertisement for "Fruit-a-tives" and took a box and got relief, so I took them for about six months and the Rheumatism was all gone and I have never felt it since".

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa. Ont.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mount Fernie Chapter I.O.D.E. will be held on Saturday, January 12, at 3.30 p.m., in the Council Chamber. Nominations for the ensuing year. Dues for 1924 are due.

Down in Cranbrook there is more excitement over municipal affairs in a day than would take place in Fernie in ten years. Both sides are saying a lot of nasty things about each other.

The Loyal Order of Moose will hold their Burn's Night dance in the Victoria Hall on Thursday, January 24. Dancing 10 to 2. Refreshments. Whitehouse orchestra. Admission: Gents $1.00; Ladies 50 cents.

In spite of the intense cold of Sunday, December 29, the funeral of the late Robert J. Cooke was largely attended. The arrangements were carried out under the direction of the L. O.O.M. Representatives of the K. of P., Pythian Sisters and the G.W.V.A. were present with floral tributes. Mrs. Cooke and family desire to thank all for sympthies and floral tribute, especially the Loyal Order of Moose for their kindness in directing affairs.

Recent word from Spokane says that E. C. Olsen, better known in Fernie as "Stoney," has secured a big two million dollar logging contract in Priest River, Washington and is in a fair way to clean up a nice little stake. When "Stoney" left Fernie a few years ago, he was broke, but not down and out. He went down into the Big Bend country in Oregon where he grubbed around for about a year and then came back to Spokane, where he applied for a job with the Diamond Match Company. He was offered a job at $75 per month in a bush camp. "Stoney" remarked that this was not a very husky salary to keep a family on, but if there was any chance for a raise, he would take it on. The manager told him to go to it. Once a week the boss came around and looked him up and every time he came "Stoney" got a raise. He worked like a trojan and made good at every job he was put on. At the end of the first year he was drawing down a salary of $5000. The management of the company became vacant shortly after and he was recommended for job. He made good and it was through his association with this concern that he recently was able to secure the big logging contract and put him in a position where he may be able to clean up a real stake. All "Stoney's" old friends here wish him every success.

The drawing for shawl and sweater, under the auspices of the W.A., G.W.V.A., was held in December, the winners being, shawl, Mrs. Henney, Michel and sweater, Miss R. Caufield, Coal Creek.

J. E. Underwood, a civil engineer from Saskatoon, was called to Fernie this week by the City Council to look into the trouble which the contractors are having in connection with putting the water main under the Elk River. Mr. Underwood was a guest of the Rotary Club at their Thursday luncheon.

The City Police raided the premises of Alf Dragon, on Victoria Ave., last Tuesday and found sixteen bottles of beer and three bottles of liquor cunningly hidden under the cellar floor. The police had just about given up the search after tapping walls, flooring, etc., for false pannelling, when Constable Davis discovered a hole in the flooring of the cellar under the stairway. Upon removing considerable rubbish the Constable discovered the liquor, which was promptly confiscated. This case has not, as yet, come up for trial.

Dr. King's non-committal answer to the rumor that he may not be a candidate in this riding at the next federal election, will give rise to disquieting questions as to whether the East Kootenay riding is to be sacrificed for the sake of gratifying ambitions that the Coast entertains of getting a minister into a seat there, for reasons that can be imagined, and which probably have some backing at Ottawa. This is either the case, or in view of the feeling at Fernie over the Home Bank debacle, and the result of the Cranbrook by-election, it is no longer considered a safe seat. —Cranbrook Herald.

The Women of Mooseheart Legion held their monthly whist drive and dance in the Lodge room on Tuesday evening, which was largely attended by the Loyal Order of Moose and their wives. Cards were played until 9.30 p.m. after which refreshments were served. Dancing was then the order of the evening until 12.30 Bro. James Whitehouse officiating at the piano in his usual style. Everybody voted they had a good time and went home tired but happy. The following is the prize winners at the whist drive: Ladies' 1st prize, Sister Pugh; 2nd prize, Mrs. H. Brown; Booby, Sister Savage; Gents' 1st prize, Bro. Cartlidge; 2nd prize, Bro. C. Carter; Booby, Bro. Macpherson.

CANADIAN NEWS BRIEFS

Increased Bank Clearings — Winnipeg bank clearings for the week ending Dec. 27, showed an increase of $6,000,000, as compared with the corresponding week of last year. The 1923 clearings for the week mentioned were $50,777,441 and for 1922 $44,-436,710.

Refutes Tales of Harvesters — In a recent issue of the Toronto Globe, a statement appears from a Scottish immigrant to Canada in the form of a letter to the "Edinburgh Scotsman," taking exception to the action of British harvesters who have returned to the Old Country with tales of hardship and suffering endured this year while in the Dominion. He emphasizes the fact that 12,000 Britishers who came to Canada for the 1923 harvest, only 500 to 1000 had gone back and these few had made noise and trouble so out of proportion to their number that many must have been led to believe that they were voicing the feelings of the harvesters in general.

Record Oat Yield — A yield of 140 bushels of oats per acre is reported from Lloydminster, Alberta. The crop was grown by R. S. Symonds, a farmer of that district, who threshed 1050 bushels from 7½ acres His other oats ran 120 bushels per acre.

New Lake Record — Creating a new lake navigation record, the S.S. C. O. Jenkins cleared Fort William on December 24, and arrived at Midland, December 28. This voyage marked the close of lake navigation for the season, and broke the record set two years ago by the C. O. Jenkins when she cleared Fort William on December 21st with a cargo of grain.

British Demand Growing—That all financial arrangements had been made in London, England, by W. Hill Foster, the well known cattle dealer who made a record run recently over the Canadian National to Quebec with an overseas shipment of cattle, for the importation from Canada of 12,000 store cattle in weekly lots of 250, commencing February, was stated this week at Winnipeg by Col. A. H. Mullins, who had the information by cable from Mr. Foster.

Cut-Off in Operation — Announcement is made from general headquarters of the Canadian National Railways that the Long Lac Cut-Off, the new connecting link between the southern and northern transcontinental routes of the system between Toronto and Winnipeg has been completed and that the operation of passenger trains over the new route will commence on Saturday, January 5th. The Long Lac Cut-off, which is about 30 miles in length, commences at Long Lac station about 640 east of Winnipeg on the southern transcontinental route of the National system between Toronto and Winnipeg. From Long Lac station it runs almost due north to Nakina, which is about 500 miles east of Winnipeg on the northern transcontinental route. By using the new cut-off in the operation of "The National" the transcontinental train of the Canadian National Railways running out of Toronto daily, a saving in time of five hours and five minutes will be made. The present schedule of "The National" calls for its departure at 10.45 p.m. daily and its arrival in Winnipeg at 9.15 p.m. of the second day. The schedule over the Long Lac Cut-off route calls for its arrival in Winnipeg at 4.10 p.m. on the second day .

Live Market for Canada — A live market for Canadian lumber, cured meats, livestock and other produce is being developed in the orient, according to Mr. A. Brostedt, oriental representative of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, who was in Winnipeg recently on his way back from conferences in Montreal. China and Japan are both buying considerably more Canadian produce than heretofore, Mr. Brostedt stated, and there is room for much great development if Canadian manufacturers and exporters will study the needs of the oriental market and arrange for representation in the orient by business men who know those coutnries.

B.C. Mineral Output — The mineral production of British Columbia for 1923 shows an increase of 12.8 per cent. in monetary value over that of the previous year. The output for 1923 was valued at $39,699,758, as against $35,158,843 for 1922, an increase of $4,540,915. The 1921 production was valued at $28,066,641.

Return from Conference — Mr. G. E. Bunting, General Traffic Agent of the Canadian National Railways in Australia, accompanied Premier Massey across Canada this week en route to Australia. Mr. Bunting was returning from a conference of Canadian National officials in Montreal, which was attended by the company's foreign representatives, including A. Brostedt, Hong Kong, General Traffic Manager for the orient and William Phillips ,London, European manager.

Canadian Wheat to Brazil — For the first time in the history of the Canadian grain trade, wheat was exported from Canada to South America, one of the Dominion's largest export firms having the honor of working this first shipment from Winnipeg to Rio de Janerio, capital of Brazil. Brazil has always been an importer of both wheat and flour, doing a large trade in the latter commodity especially, but naturally she has always secured her requirements from the nearby Argentine. The present time, however, is between seasons in the south and the Brazilian Millers require Canadian wheat for blending purposes. The shipment was made from Vancouver via the Panama.

Low Fares for Sports — Excursion rates from St. Paul and Minneapolis will prevail over the Minneapolis and Sault Ste. Marie Railway to Winnipeg for sports week ,beginning February 11, according to information just received by the Winnipeg Board of Trade. It is understood that the same rate, namely, a fare and a third, will also apply on Canadian National lines from all points in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, for Winnipeg Sports Week.

Prominent Visitor — Premier Massey, of New Zealand, spent New Year's Eve in Winnipeg en route from the recent conference of premiers in England. Mr. Massey had just a short time in the city, during the stay of the Canadian National "Continental Limited," and his stay was spent at the Fort Gary Hotel seeing friends resident in Winnipeg.

New C.N.R. Station — A splendid new addition to the buildings in the town of Emerson, Man., is the new Canadian National Railways station recently opened to the public there. The building is 50 feet by 25 feet, heated by hot air, electrically lighted, and has a large public waiting room, ticket office, express rooms and full-sized basement.

Western Turkeys — The western turkey is in solid with Montreal. Five turkeys out of every six which come into that city from outside points this year came from Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, and 60,000 birds were consumed on Christmas Day, according to Montreal dealers, or three times as many as ever before. Had it not been for the western supply, Christmas turkey in Montreal would have cost 60 cents per pound, instead of around 35 cents.

C.N.R. Earnings — The gross eranings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending December 21, 1923, were $5,455,793, being an increase of $778,084, or 14 per cent., as compared with the corresponding week of 1922. The gross earnings from January 1 to December 21, 1923, were $248,547,527.87, being an increase of $20,967,521.18 as compared with the corresponding period of 1922.

Seeing Canada — The trip from Portland, Ore., to Toledo, Ohio, for the Scott High School Football team of the latter city will be taken as far as possible over the Canadian National Railways in order to give the boys an opportunity to view Western Canada and see as much as possible of the Canadian Rockies on their way home.

The persons qualified to be nominated and elected as and to hold the office of Alderman of any city shall, save as otherwise provided in the Municipal Act, be such as are British subjects of the full age of twenty-one years who have been for the six months next preceding the date of nomination and are registered in the Land Registry Office as owners of land or land and improvements within the city, of the value, as assessed on the last assessment roll, of five hundred dollars or more over and above all registered judgments and charges, or who are the holders of lands within the city acquired by them by agreement to purchase under the "Soldiers' Land Act," or the "Better Housing Act," or the "Soldiers' Settlement Act, 1917," of the Dominion, or the "Soldiers' Settlement Act, 1919," of the Dominion, and have paid the sum of five hundred dollars or more upon the principal of the purchase price under such agreement to purchase.

Qualifications of Trustees in Municipal School Districts

The qualifications of candidates for election as trustees for any municipal school district shall, mutatis mutandis, be the like qualifications as are prescribed by law for persons eligible for election as Aldermen or Councillors of the Municipality comprised in the school district, except that every candidate shall be actually resident in the school district. The wife or the husband of every person who is qualified to become a candidate for election as a trustee under the foregoing provisions of this section shall, if she or he is of the full age of twenty-one years and is actually resident in the school district, be qualified also to become a candidate for election as a trustee for the school district.

WATER NOTICE

Clearing Streams

TAKE NOTICE that I, Andrew Rosen, whose address is Jaffray, B. C. will apply for a licence to use the waters of Big Sand Creek for "Clearing-streams" purpose (i.e., clearing and improving the stream for driving, booming, or rafting of logs). The points in the stream between which it is proposed to clear are 6245 to the mouth of Big Sand Creek. The estimate mileage between the said points is 3½ miles. The term proposed for the licence is One year. This notice was posted on the ground on the 4th day of December, 1923. A copy of this notice and an application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act, 1914," will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Fernie, B.C. Objections to the application may be filed with the said Water Recorder or with the Comptroller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C., within thirty days after the first appearance of this notice in a local newspaper. The date of the first publication of this notice is January 11, 1924.

Andrew Rosen,
Applicant.

—the reward of internal cleanliness

HEALTH and good looks go hand in hand. If you do not keep clean internally, your looks and health are undermined together. A clogged intestine breeds poisons that reach every part of the body. These poisons ruin the complexion and undermine health. Constipation brings on such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks, and insomnia—each of which sapsyour health and vitality. Soon much more serious conditions follow.

Good Looks Throughout Life If You Keep Clean Internally

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation.

Physicians Favor Lubrication

The lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is not a laxative and cannot gripe. Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

Cleanliness Demands More Than Bathing

Don't give disease a start. Adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. Nujol is not a medicine. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

NATIONAL PARKS ARE GAME SANCTUARIES

THE National Parks of Canada are a haven for wild life; where guns and hunting dogs are forbidden and where the animals have come to look upon man as their friend rather than as their destroyer. As a result wild animals are increasing in the national parks of Canada and the graceful deer, the lordly bison and the always interesting bear live at peace in their natural habitat without molestation.

At Jasper National Park in Alberta, which is 4,400 square miles in extent and the largest of Canada's national parks, bears, deer, moose, mountain sheep and goats abound, and the visitor finds also great numbers of smaller animals such as beaver, squirrel and others which are becoming quite tame since they realize that they are protected.

At Wainwright, on the main line of the Canadian National Railways, east of Edmonton, there exists one of the finest demonstrations of the feasibility of game conservation, for there, in the buffalo park are some 8,000 animals, the growth from a herd of 716 which was purchased some sixteen years ago by the Canadian Government and allowed to multiply in peace. So great has been the development of the herd that this fall 2,000 of the surplus animals had to be slaughtered and in the spring another 2,000 young buffalo are to be moved into the northern hinterland and allowed to roam at will there under conditions where they also will be safe from ruthless hunters.

In addition to buffalo, the government has at Wainwright large numbers of elk and yak, which are fast becoming unknown animals except to the adventurous hunter who was prepared to go miles beyond the limits of civilization, and these animals also are multiplying in the conditions under which they are being kept.

Visitors to Jasper Park at the present time find cinnamon, brown and black bears very numerous; if they go far enough afield they may reach the haunts of the grizzly, still within the park limits. Deer may be found browsing within a stone's throw of Jasper Park Lodge, the bungalow camp hotel operated by the Canadian National Railways and cariboo are reported to be becoming more plentiful year by year. The "bighorn" mountain sheep grazes peacefuly along the lower slopes of the great mountains which rise on every side, while the more timorous mountain goat may be seen on the higher slopes, making his way over precarious footing and seeming to challenge the camera enthusiast to climb up and include his picture in the collection.

By means of the sanctuaries which have been given to various animals, the younger Canadians growing up today can now and in the future see for themselves, specimens of various big game animals which a few years ago were threatened with destruction. And since Canada was almost the last native haunt of many of these, such as the buffalo, the educational value alone of the sanctuaries is great. The experiments already made have shown that such animals as the buffalo can readily be propagated in captivity and in their case also, the revenue derived by the government from the sale of buffalo meats, hides and heads from the animals which it has become necessary to kill, will, it is estimated, go a long way towards paying for the cost of the experiment and the upkeep of the National Parks.

NO RUSH TO KNOW RUSSIA

Visions of Uncle Sam extending a diplomatic hand of recognition and greeting to the Moscow Government, which appeared to various minds in Washington and Moscow after the President spoke of his hope of a change of attitude "near at hand" in his address to Congress, went glimmering when Secretary Hughes had his say on Russia less than two weeks later. And the upshot of it all is that our editors and political correspondents seem certain that recognition of the Soviet Government is now farther away than ever, opinion being divided over the desirability of the prolonged postponment, and over the Hughes way of doing the postponing. Incidentally, the subject is opened up for Congressional discussion, with Senators Bora hand others demanding more light, and Secretary Hughes publishing documents showing the Muscovite desire to put a Red flag on the White House.

There seems to be little sectional or partizan grouping of the apparently predominating proportion of papers which express approval of the Hughes policy. The Philadelphia Bulletin (R.) likes the "ring of righteous wrath to the Hughes note." The Providence News (Ind.) declares that Secretary Hughes never contributed "a finer document" than his reply to the Russian officials. In the "humble estimation" of the New York Commercial, "Secretary Hughes, by the manner in which he addressed the Russian despots, did more to reaffirm the people in this country in the wisdom of leaving the Communist terrorists and nation-wreckers to stew in their own juice unti lthey have a change of heart than he could by a baker's dozen of diplomatic notes, couched in involved phrases capable of being read any way that best suited the reader." As the New York Tribune (Rep.) sees it, whatever the temporary profits of broader trade relations might be, "we can not afford to deal at present with a Russia which stands aloof from decent standards of international association." Russia now, it explains, does not respect the rules of international comity or the sanctity of international engagements, "it does not want to acknowledge the validity of the Russian Government's debt to the American Government, or of Russian debts to American citizens," and it encourages "propaganda here for the forcible overthrow of our Republican institutions." According to The Tribune:

"These offenses against international decency make Soviet Russia an outlaw. Our people do not deny Russia's right to govern herself and to put up with despotism, posturing either as Bolshevism or Czarism. But we do demand that Russia shall go back to civilized conduct of her foreign relations before the United States gives her the benefit of diplomatic recognition.

"Russian Communism is a Box and Cox affair. Governing in the Kremlin, it may promise not to agitate for the destruction of other Governments. But sitting in the Third International, it can supply state funds for such agitation, as it has been doing for a long time in the case of the United States."

Or, as a Democratic paper, the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening puts it:

"So long as the Communist party thrusts it fingers into all the activities of life in Russia, including its economic side, and its educational and religious sides; and so long as the peasants and industrial classes attempt to set up a rule of equality of ownership, and socialistic confiscation, Russia's Government always will stand upon an uncertain brink. Evidentally it is this condition that impresses itself on the mind of Secretary Hughes; and until Russia has found herself in the spirit of true representative government, based upon sound legal and economic principles she will remain isolated from the other nations of the world.—Literary Digest.

Here and There

A grizzly bear barbecue will be one of the features of the Winter Carnival at Banff in February.

Ten Canadian and three United States teams have already entered for the Eastern International Dog Derby, which will be run during the Winter Carnival in Quebec, February 21, 22 and 23.

Progress and bright prospects in the development of sodium sulphate in Saskatchewan is reported by the Bureau of Labor and Industries. Sodium sulphate recovered from Saskatchewan deposits is now being used in the manufacture of glass at Redcliff.

A report of the British Columbia Industrial Commission Department shows loans to industries amounting to $1,176,694 embracing 60 plants. Repayments have been made on principal by 55 industries. Total repayments amount to $181,428, of which $71,245 was interest.

For the purpose of extending Canadian trade in Greece, Turkey and the Eastern Mediterranean, W. McL. Clarke, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Milan, Italy, has been instructed to visit these countries and report on the opportunities for the sale of Canadian goods.

E. D. Calvert, noted guide and sportsman of Rainy River, who has done much towards bringing tourists from all parts of the United States to the Lake of the Woods, states that the tourist traffic this year has greatly exceeded all previous years and anticipates a greater increase next season.

United States grain shipped from Canadian ports during the crop year, September 1, 1922 to August 31, 1923, totalled 55,000,000 bushels. This meant total handlings of approximately 110,000,000 bushels, as it was necessary for the grain to pass through the elevators at lake ports and at ports of exit.

Miss Marion Towne, of Berlin, N.H., who in three years since she first put on a ski, has achieved fame through her daring and graceful jumping, has expressed her desire to compete with Canada's best girl ski jumpers at the winter sports carnival in Quebec on February 21, 22, 23 and 24th, during which time she will make exhibition jumps.

Further indications that the year 1923 will create a record in ocean traffic are shown by figures given out at the headquarters of the Canadian Pacific Steamships. Bookings for westbound sailings were exceptionally large, while those for sailings to the Old Country for Christmas and the New Year were in advance of the traffic of any previous year.

The Calgary Board of Trade is taking interest in the proposal of large British interests, which involves the utilization of western straw for the manufacture of paper and other products, and is getting all possible information with respect to the development of industries. Hundreds of thousands of tons of straw are burned in the prairies every year, which it is claimed has a commercial value.

St. Jovite, Quebec, has been chosen once more as a movie location, and arrangements have been made by Conrad Nagle and Alma Rubens for the transportation of themselves, party of 17 and equipment to that place during the early winter. Last winter Lionel Barrymore and Seena Owen located at St. Jovite for the filming of "Snow Blind" prior to taking other parts of the picture around the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, and Windermere, British Columbia.

Traffic through the Lachine Canal in 1923 showed an increase over that of 1922 in almost every particular, the total grain carried being 88,285,270 bushels, as compared with 87,831,212 in 1922, the best previous year; coal receipts totalling 813,591 tons, compared with 384,575 tons; the ship tonnage operated being 5,462,200, against 4,786,543; shipments of pulpwood totalling 356,980 tons, against 313,134 last year; the cargo tonnage being 4,411,183, compared with 4,360,328; and the number of passengers carried totalling 78,097, against 69,392 in 1922.

MAE MURRAY FLAYS RABID FILM CRITICS

Mae Murray, popular Metro star, had occasion recently in New York to say several things pertinent to motion picture censorship, which is just now one of the chief topics of discussion in and out of movie circles. Her remarks, made without any prejudice, offer a sane solution equitable to both sides of the controversy.

"Since every individual is bound by prejudice," Miss Murray is quoted to have said, "the most broad minded and tolerant of censors is likely to have his judgment go astray through 'complexes' over which he has no control. Because of such unconscious prejudice I would suggest that a system be introduced in the selection of censors that would correspond to the system used in the selection of jurors, since motion pictures are on trial.

"We who make pictures are by the very nature of censorship put on trial. A defendant in a criminal case has a right to challenge jurors bel cause of prejudice. Motion pictures should have the right to challenge censors on the same ground. If a juror is disqualified by prejudice so should a censor be disqualified for the same reason.

"In my own case censorship offers a great problem. In 'The French Doll,' which I have just completed, a fortune was spent on clothes and sets which I, and those associated with me, have considered from the standpoint of beauty and artistic effect. Now a censor might differ with us because of prejudices purely personal and order various scenes to be cut. A serious waste of money ensues. Moreover since we profess to be experts in our line the censor has questioned our fitness, while at the same time he may be not at all fitted for his job, his original profession being at the other end of the pole. Again we have seen pictures cut by the censors in which things that we believed should be really cut, were not, while obviously harmless things were taken out. So you see censorship is quite a problem and I think the solution I offer might go a long way to smooth out a lot of unnecessary aggravation."

Incidentally "The French Doll," of which Miss Murray was speaking, is coming to the Orpheum Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Miss Murray recently completed "The French Doll" on the west coast. It is a Robert Z. Leonard presentation through Metro and is sponsored by Tiffany Productions, of which Mr. Leonard is director-general and M. H. Hoffman general manager.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

Tells how to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.

Help the Veterans

Try this new patience

The Poster-Judging Competition now being conducted in Canada for the benefit of the Veterans' Associations is one of the most fascinating of games. On the ticket-folder which donors of $1.20 are presented with, sixteen of the most famous posters of BOVRIL are reproduced in colors.

Which are the 12 best, in order of merit, is what you must decide. The folder shows just what you must do and how to do it.

It is an interesting trial of taste and judgment to class these posters in the order which popular fancy will endorse. It is a real game which can be played over and over again, and in which all the family can join and which will interest visitors, be they young or old.

You can make as many trials as you like—for every donation of $1.20 one ticket-folder is presented, thus $12.00 secures 10 folders—though only one prize will be given to one person.

BOVRIL LIMITED has donated £30,000, about $138,888, which has been divided into 2,003 prizes. The first three are approximately as follows :

A New Ford Body Type —The Tudor Sedan

The Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, announces a new two-door type closed car which will be known as the Tudor Sedan.

It differs materially in seating arrangement from the four-door type recently announced. It is also lower in price.

Among the other noteworthy features of this latest Ford model is the coach type body—never before available in a low priced car.

The Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is considerably behind in its manufacturing schedule on this type of body. Consequently we are not able to state definitely when this model will be on display in our showrooms. Watch for its appearance.

New Ford Prices

THE ROTARY CARNIVAL

The Moccasin Dance and Dress Carnival, conducted under the supervision of the Rotary Club on Wednesday afternoon and evening, was not only an event to be long remembered, but was such that a repetition on a larger scale should be carried out another year.

The afternoon programme consisted of dog and ski races. Victoria had been carefully cleared of excess snow and was in prme condition for the races. The largest crowd which we have seen in Fernie since July 1st assembled to witness these contests. The canine-owning fraternity of boys with their steeds were on hand at the hour appointed. There were collies, hounds, etc., in this collection, but mostly "just dogs." The committee in charge had some difficulty in getting the entrants away to a good start. Some of the animals became suddenly possessed to go either, east, west or south, instead of north, as the course called for. In the olden days, the grandfathers of these dogs were trained in the art of racing and well understood the desirability of travelling in the direction of the goal, but the present generation of dogs had never participated in a race before and were somewhat ignorant of the rules of the road. If races were conducted periodically, both boys and dogs would soon be able to give a good account of themselves.

The ski races for school boys were well contested. Such races on the level street can never prove exciting to spectators, but could not well be omitted from any winter sports' programme.

The thrilling event of the afternoon was the ski-joring. The horses were well ridden and the ski-riders performed skillfully. One mishap occurred when one of the contestants came into contact with a telegraph pole, but we understand that no serious injury resulted. Should another such race be held in the future, it would be well, both for the convenience of those in charge and for the safety of the spectators, to have the two city blocks, where the people congregate, roped or wired in. During the intervals between the races, a little comedy was injected in the program by Jack Taylor on his favorite "steedmule" and by the initial appearance of "Spark-plug."

The evening programme was more elaborate in plan and execution. At 7.30 p.m., a torch light procession started from the Scout Hall. This was led by two riders in white, then followed the Queen of the Carnival, accompanied by James Johnstone. Next came the Fernie Pipe Band followed by Scoutmaster Donaldson and his troop of Scouts, while Rotarians and citizens in general took up the rear. In front of the rink a large bonfire provided light and heat to those waiting for admission.

The ceremony of crowning the Carnival Queen was performed by "Sheik" Herchmer, president of the Rotary Club. The candidate elected for this honor being Miss Dorothy Corrie. Five girls were nominated by the High School, and election took place in the Public School with the choice falling to the lot of the one named. The Community Singing was ably conducted by Mr. T. Biggs. The races on slippery ice was a novelty to most of us. Negotiating the turns at high speed was a difficult task and occasionally a runner would go off at a tangent, but most of them reaching the goal. The crab race perhaps proved the source of most amusement. The North Pole Dance was one of the big features of the programme. Some sixteen girls, most tastefully dressed in costume, led by Miss Anderson, gave this exhibition.

No mere man could describe the costumes worn by the women, men and children. Many of these were "fearfully and wonderfully made." There were sheiks from the desert, eskimos from the frozen north and negroes from the sunny south; Chief Grizzly Claw and his squaw, the small-wristed lady of a past generation, the newly-weds, the victims of the Home Bank disaster, all mingled together. While we would like to say complimentary things about many of these which appealed most strongly to ourselves, yet we refrain for reasons which can be well understood and appreciated.

Dancing occupied the greater part of the evening. Dancing is common, but dancing on ice in moccasins is different. There is no dust and floor powder so commonly used is unnecessary.

LONG TIME BEFORE ANOTHER HOME BANK PAYMENT

OTTAWA, Jan. 15.—It will be a long time before Home Bank depositors receive another payment from the estate of the bank, I. E. Weldon, associate liquidator, said here today. Nothing further can be secured for the depositors until mortgages held by the bank are in some way realized on. This will take a long time, Mr. Weldon stated. Large parts of the property which will eventually return some part of the defunct bank's loan are in British Columbia and cannot be satisfactorily dealt with in the near future.

THE NEW COUNCIL

The year 1924 stands alone in the history of the City of Fernie in regard to Civic Elections. Nomination day, last Monday, failed to bring out more candidates than were necessary to fill the vacancies for elective offices and consequently the Mayor, six Aldermen, Police Commissoner and School Trustees were declared elected by acclamation.

The only occasion on record since the City was incorporated when acclamation for all vacancies occurred was in 1914, but earlier that year there was an election which was declared void on account of some irregularity in the form of ballots used, and subsequently by a special act of legislature another election was arranged when those who had been elected at the previous election were returned unopposed.

Mayor—G. G. Henderson (fifth consecutive term).

School Trustees, 1924-25—Dr. E. L. Garner and W. H. Gates.

While there were some things which might be improved upon on another occasion, still the whole affair was a success and we trust may be the means of giving new impetus to winter sports.

A suggestion in closing. Next year no doubt the District Bonspiel will he held in Fernie. Why not combine with it a two-day Winter Carnival. Let the 'Spiel start, say Monday morning. In three days many rinks would be eliminated and the carnival could start Thursday and continue for two days. Even the prairie towns, which have so few facilities for winter sports, often have successful carnivals. Why could not Fernie, with all her resources in this line, carry out a successful programme.

The thanks of the Rotary Club is extended to all who helped to make the present affair a success, especially the Loyal Order of Moose and the Miners' Union, both of which endorsed this movement and gave it their support and patronage.

Following is a list of the prize winners of the races and at the rink:

Single Dog Race — 1st, Bob Williams; 2nd, Donald Harvie.

Double Dog Race—1st, Bob Williams; 2nd Clement Mercer.

Consolation Dog Race—1st, Frank Hovan; 2nd, Steve Bella.

A man who lives right and is right has more power in his silence than another has by his words.—Phillips Brooks.

CRANBROOK ELECTION

While Fernie was showing very little interest in Civic Electons, only bringing forward sufficient cadidates to fill the vacant elective offices, our neighbors at Cranbrook were having a most spirited contest, with exactly double the number of candidates as there were offices vacant. A double slate contest between the forces of Alderman Balment and Alderman J. H. Cameron resulted in a very peculiar situation. Ald. Balment securing a majority of 79 votes over his opponent while the Cameron force selected four of their candidates for Aldermanic honors, Flowers and Brondson being the only Balment supporters elected.

The following is the complete returns as announced at Cranbrook on Thursday evening: (Elected in heavy type).

For Mayor—
Ald. A. J. Balment	285

BENEVOLENT SOCIETY

Following is the annual report of the Ladies' Benevolent Society for the year ending November 30, 1923:

During the year seven meetings were held and one executive meeting. The President, Mrs. Suddaby, presiding at five meetings and the executive:

Last Christmas, nine hampers were sent out to some needy families and same were gratefully received.

A great many visits were made by the Investigating Committee and distress was relieved wherever possible.

In one particular case, where the patient is an intense sufferer, special extras were provided in order to try and relieve her.

Government aid was procured for two families through Mr. Stenson, one a monthly allowance for a few months and the other case a few orders of groceries were all that was needed.

A donation of $25.00 was sent to the Children's Aid Society, Vancouver, to assist in their work as there are always some Fernie children in the Home receiving care.

Owing to Victoria Hall changing hands after the fire, we were unable to replace our dishes for rental, hence our work has been much lighter. The income which we derived from the rent of the dishes helped considerably and we are now without this source of income.

Mrs. Watson very kindly donated half the proceeds of her Concert, held last Spring, amounting to $87.50, for which the Society was very grateful.

Receipts—
Cash in Bank		$133.70
Victory Bonds	$400.00
Cash Donations		87.50
Dues		12.00
Rent, Dishes		38.97

Disbursements—
Groceries		$118.85
Meat		2.80
Milk		4.00
Coal		16.50
Donations		28.00
Drugs		1.00
Laundry		19.70
Cash in Bank		514.30
Victory Bonds	$200.00
		$705.15
Assets—
Cash in Bank		$514.30
Victory Bonds		200.00
		$714.30

The election of officers for the year 1924 took place and the following were elected:

President—Mrs. Suddaby.
1st Vice President—Mr. O'Neill.
2nd Vice President—Mrs. Irvine.
Secretary—Mrs. Wallace.
Treasurer—Mrs. Stewart.

ADJOURN HOME BANK TRIAL FOR A MONTH

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—At the opening of the criminal assizes before Mr. Justice Riddell this afternoon, the trial of the ten directors and officials of the Home Bank charged with conspiracy was, upon the application of D. L. McCarthy, K.C., special crown prosecutor, adjourned for one month and the accused were re-admitted to bail in the same amounts as granted at the last assizes.

14TH CROW'S NEST 'SPIEL

(By J. S. K.)

Bonspiels. What thought that word brings from the treasure house of memory! One exciting battle is retold only to be followed by the recounting of how some freak shot upset the best laid plans of skips and men. Never yet has a group of curlers gathered but somebody starts the happy circle of story telling moving, and the history of former bonspiels is opened for review. Not just the one last year, but back, back and still further back through the years. A good game of curling never fades from the minds of the men who waged the battle with broom and stones until the 12th end or possibly it was the 13th, decided who had the buck for that day.

Bonspiels are to the curlers what "world series" are to baseball.

Southern Alberta and South-eastern British Columbia have now for fourteen years held their annual bonspiel under the direction of officers of the Crow's Nest Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club. The original members were Cranbrook, Fernie, Macleod and Lethbridge, and for those years the "spiel" has alternated between points in British Columbia and Southern Alberta. At Cranbrook, Fernie or Lethbridge the big 'spel has been staged without a break each year since formation. Last year it was at Cranbrook. This year Lethbridge is to act as host, and the curlers from the whole countryside are hardening up for the opening which has been set for Monday, February 4.

Long since have the original clubs forgotten the day of the 16- to 24-rink bonspiels. The high-water mark in entries was reached in 1921 when Fernie, with nine sheets of ice, entertained 42 rinks for the full week necessary to run off a real 'spiel.

This year the prediction is that 50 rinks will line up and get under way for the curlers' festival.

Entries are expected from the following clubs: Cranbrook, Fernie, Bull River, Blairmore, Coleman, Hillcrest, Pincher Creek, Macleod, Granum, Stavely, Claresholm, Vulcan, Blackie, Carmangay, Champion, Nanton, Taber Bow Island and Lethbridge.

Old bonspielers who have curled everywhere the game is played have time and again expressed their opinion that the bonspiel staged by the Crow's Nest Curling Association as being the best littld 'spiel in the world—keen competition, better fellowship and generally a happier get-together occasion than held anywhere in the whole world! You heard us the first time—I hope we said it whole world—and we mean it! The bigger 'spiels of Calgary, Edmonton or Winnipeg offer no better prizes, or open the way for any better time than the curlers in session at the annual "Crow 'Spiel." It simply is impossible to duplicate the get-together companionship and keen competition provided in this particular district.

Southern Alberta and South-eastern British Columbia curlers never look farther afield. It is no use.

There are five open events and one closed. All events have been yearly fixtures for a long time, and the respective winners of these events are from year to year the heroes of curlerdom.

Each open event carries four sets of prizes—1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th, and each event is supported by some particular club which supplies the prizes for that event.

Some years ago it was decided that the first prize in each event should be four small silver cups, these to go to the winning rink. This is unversally accepted as showing the real spirit of the grand game of curling, in that it signfies that the honor of winning is the thing and not the particular prizes that might have been put up.

The idea of giving cups is firmly established in this district and other bonspiels might well follow this idea—sport for sport's sake and not gluttony of prize collecting.

In addition there is a trophy and four individual cups that go to the rink that wins the most games in the open events. This is the grand aggregate. The trophy and cups are put up by the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., of Fernie. It usually takes about fifteen wins to grab off this, the highest honor of the bonspiel.

The closed event is the Inter-Provincial. Rinks from Alberta and British Columbia are chosen, enough to fill all the ice for one draw. The total points for all the games decide; then points for all the games decide then which province has won; then all the rinks of that province play down to see who gains possession of the trophy for the ensuing year.

Mr. A. C. Liphardt, jeweler, of Fernie, an enthusiastic and veteran curler, presents the Liphardt cup for this Inter-Provincial event, and each year supplies the individual cups that go with it.

The open events, five in number, are:

The Grand Challenge, the premier event of the 'spiel. This competition is supported each year by the Cranbrook Curling Club.

The Trites-Wood event, supported by the Trites-Wood Co., Ltd., of Fernie, and the Fernie Curling Club.

The Magrath event—a cup donated by C. A. Magrath and supported by the Lethbridge Curling Club.

The International cup, donated by the International Coal & Coke Co., Ltd., of Coleman, and supported by that curling club.

For years there was the Walker cup, which was up for play for ten years, to become the property of the club whose rinks won it the most times in those ten years. Fernie and Lethbridge were tied with three wins each when the tenth year rolled around, and the finals took place between M. A. Kastner, of Fernie, and D. P. McNabb, of Lethbridge. In a real thriller Milt Kastner gained possession for the Fernie curlers. This took place two years ago at Lethbridge. The International now takes its place, and with five open events once more, it gives every rink a chance to play at least five games and makes lots of curling for everybody.

All open events are played down by the knock-out system and are actually of equal importance. It takes the best of curling to win any of these events.

Lethbridge will have ten to twelve rinks entered. The skips this year will likely be Jas. Aird, D. D. McNabb, John Muir, J. F. Simpson, N. B. Peat, Mr. Sewell, S. J. Shepherd, Donald Duff, J. S. Kirkham, W. L. McKenzie, N. T. Macleod, C. E. Carberry, Arch. McCorvie, Dan Currie and possibly others.

Fernie is usually represented by Sherwood Herchmer, Milt Kastner, Bill Baldrey, Harvey Brown, F. C. Lawe, E. K. Stewart, J. R. Wallace, A. C. Liphardt and other tried big leaguers.

Bill (augmentation) Cameron, Mayor of Cranbrook, is always on hand, with Ward, McPhee and McPherson. A noticeable and deeply regretted break in the curling ranks is keenly felt in the recent death of Geo. Hogarth, who was president of the associaton for this year.

McBurney and Morrison will be on hand from Coleman. The Stewart boys—four or five of them—and their dad, from Macleod, with Arthur Young and Scotty Pringle, usually carry home a load of bacon.

Jack Ross (the dean of the Taberites), brings along accessories of no mean curling ability in Hip Munroe, Cecil Mahon and one or both of the Patterson boys. Geo. Wildman (8-end) Baird—and we could name a dozen more.

Mayor Reid, of Bow Island, will be here to explain about the gas pressure.

Kiever, the man with the voice, from Vulcan, reports his elevator full to overflowing and a week to spare, so as he can make the rafters ring and the glass shake and the chimney topple when he exhales a lungful.

Them and more, many more, could we name who will be heading for Lethbridge and the Big 'Spiel to make curling history for another year.

The work of preparing for the invaders is now under way. The committees in charge are as follows:

Ice committee — M. Freeman, J. Marnoch, Jas. Aird.

Draw committee — J. S. Kirkham, R. W. Greenway, K. D. Johnson, Sherwood Herchmer, Fernie, Hip Munroe, Taber, L. W. Clark, Blairmore.

Transportation committee — H. H. Nicholls, Peter Smith.

Umpires — J. W. Wood, and Hugh Boyd.

Bonspiel Treasurer—J. Haines.

Bonspiel Secretary—J. S. Kirkham.

I. W. W. CALL OUT LUMBER WORKERS

Evidently cold weather holds no terrors to the I.W.W. as witness the calling out of the lumber workers of Camp 2 of the B.C. Spruce company of Lumberton, early this week. Primarily, the reason for calling out the men by the officials of the I.W.W. is that it is considered that the rate of pay does not compensate the workmen for the arduous labor they have to perform. The strikers are claiming a minimum wage of $4 per eight-hour day, the present working day being from daylight to dark, or, in effect, ten hours. It is also understood that the I.W.W. officials demand that their literature be allowed to pass through the mails. It would not appear that the strike is going to benefit anyone to any great extent. At least, that is the opinon of many of the men. They do not relish the idea of being thrown out of work at a time when there are as many or more men than there are jobs. It is scarcely likely that the walk-out will become general. Some of the men who, unthinkingly, struck at the bidding of the union officials have repented their hasty act and will return to their work.—Cranbrook Courier.

HOME TOWN INTERDEPENDENCE

Every man should recognize himself as a factor in his home town and become a soldier of the common good.

Why not? We are mutually dependent, every one of us, from the sunrise to the sunset of life, for no man lives to or for himself. The utterly selfish man is a misfit in the scheme of human existence, is a libel upon a beneficient providence.

As we recognize these facts the town grows and prospers. A town that believes in itself and appreciates this fact of dependence upon each other will go forward with rapid strides, because its people work together for the common good.

We have in mind two towns. In one the population increased nearly 100 per cent. during the past ten years, while another town similarly situated, only twenty miles away, has increased about one per cent. in thirty years. Why the difference? The other town is cut up into cliques and factions. Some sets won't trade or neighbor with other sets. The result is that thousands of dollars every month are sent out of that town for mail order purchases, whereas in the town first mentioned, where the people pull together, it has been estimated that the home merchants get about 98 per cent. of the trade.—Exchange.

Quebec city is again becoming the Mecca of winter-loving tourists. Arrangements for the forthcoming carnival are nearing completion and sports of all kinds, including tobogganing sliding on the four-track chute on Dufferin Terrace, are in full swing.

The mild weather prevailing in Quebec until recently greatly hindered lumbering operations in the province. This situation, according to Mr. Piche, Chief Forester, has been adjusted, however, by late falls of snow, and the total cut has been brought up to normal.

There are 300 ports and harbors on the coasts of Canada. The majority are, of course, small affairs, the big ports not exceeding six. However, one of Canada's ports, Montreal, ranks sixth among the world's ports and third on the basis of export business done during the seven months in which it is open.

Newsprint production in Canada for the eleven months of 1923 ending in November was 1,166,225 tons, as compared with 993,988 tons for the same period in 1922, the increase being equal to 17 per cent. The estimated production for the year is 1,270,000 tons, or 189,000 tons over that for 1922.

The value of Canada's 1923 grain crop is estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at $892,572,300. Of this total approximately $450,000 is credited to the three prairie provinces. It is interesting to note that while the figures for Manitoba and Saskatchewan are below those of the year 1922, those of Alberta are above by over $45,000,000.

Grain marketed along the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1923 totalled 187,642,224 bushels, an increase of 33,324,619 bushels over any similar period in the railway's history. The increase in bushels shipped was 13,086,730, or 9.2 per cent over 1922, and 83.1 per cent of the total amount marketed had been shipped by December 3rd.

Government statistics estimate the apple crop of Canada for 1923 at 10,794,500 boxes, which, at an estimated average of $2 a box, makes the value a little over $21,000,000. By provinces the estimated production was as follows: Nova Scotia, 5,250,000 boxes; British Columbia, 3,194,000; Ontario, 2,275,000; Quebec, 110,000; and New Brunswick, 35,500.

A herd of 20 buffalo is soon to be shipped from Wainwright Park, Alta., to the Yukon, where a game preserve is to be laid out in the central part of the territory. This announcement was made here by Robert Lowe, of White Pass, Yukon Territory, on his way back from Ottawa, where he arranged for the shipment.

The Banff Winter Carnival is to be held from February 2nd to 9th, 1924, both dates inclusive, and will run concurrently with the Banff Bonspiel, which will be held from February 4th to 9th, inclusive. A widely varied and attractive programme has been arranged, culminating in a Grand Carnival dance, when the Carnival Queen for 1924 will be announced and crowned.

Among the New Year's honors for 1924 one of the most popular is the award of the C.B.E. by His Majesty the King to Captain S. Robinson, R.N.R., who, it will be recalled, so distinguished himself in command of the Canadian Pacific S.S. "Empress of Australia" during the Japanese disaster and is now commanding the Canadian Pacific S.S. "Empress of Canada" for that vessel's forthcoming world cruise

The beauties of the Laurentian Mountains, which have already attracted the attention of moving picture producers, are continuing to draw such companies. The latest to make use of this location is the Distinctive Pictures Corporation, starring Alma Rubens and Conrad Nagle, which has been shooting at Gray Rocks Inn, Ste. Jovite over the New Year holiday period. A feature of their work has been the co-operation of the Chateau Frontenac dog team, led by Mountie, a veteran of five years service in the North.

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

Fernie Lodge No. 1335, Loyal Order of Moose are out on a campaign for new members. Their reason for so doing is that they want every good citizen to have an opportunity to help in the good work which is being carried on by the Order for children at Mooseheart, and the old folks at Moosehaven.

"Every child is entitled to at least a high school education and a trade."—James J. Davis.

The Loyal Order of Moose is an international fraternal-beneficiary society, consistng of more than sixteen hundred lodges in the United States Canada and throughout the English-speaking world, having an aggregate membership in all these Lodges of almost 600,000 men. Most of the Lodges provide for sick benefits and funeral expense funds for their members. Each Lodge is a complete unit in itself, with full local autonomy.

Thirty-five facts regarding Mooseheart—

9. The children are under a supervised, self-government of which each student is a member. This Assembly develops the spirit of independence and ability.

10. The school-day of the Mooseheart student is divided between the class-room and the work-shop. During their preliminary education the children devote three months to each of the trades and vocations taught at Mooseheart. When, after careful observation by the instructors, they show special interest and proficiency in one of the trades, all of their effort is directed toward a thorough training in that work.

11. The instructors at Mooseheart are selected and employed according to their training and experience in the respective subjects which they teach. They are not in any way connected with the home-life of the children.

12. The students in printing and journalism edit and print the "Mooseheart Weekly," a student publication which treats with the activities of the student body and Mooseheart news.

13. Every child has a bank account in the "Students' Savings Bank," operated solely for the education and instruction of the students.

14. Those children who are qualified and who wish to continue their education by availing themselves of a college or university course, may borrow from the "Revolving Fund" for that purpose. This Fund is created by certain members of the Order and the loans are refunded at the convenience of the students.

15. Special attention is given to the musical development of the children. After careful individual instruction they have the opportunity for practical training in the fifty-piece Senior Band, the fifty-piece Junior Band, the Philharmonic Orchestra, and the several choral and glee clubs.

16. Mooseheart has its own resident physician, dentist, nurses and a hospital fully equipped for the thorough and scientific examination and care of each child.

His Hearing Restored

The invisible ear drum invented by A. O. Leonard, which is a miniature megaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York city. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does it so successfully that no one can tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 436, 70 Fifth Ave., New York City, will be given a prompt reply. [Adv.

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Vicks Wins Most Enthusiastic Praise

Western Mothers Like Vicks VapoRub

A CASE IN NORTH VANCOUVER

Mrs. H. Runnerz, of 322 15th St., West, North Vancouver, B.C., writes: "I have tried Vicks VapoRub and find it very good. I have bronchitis every winter, but Vicks helped me and it will do all that you claim for it."

REPORT FROM REVELSTOKE

Mrs. Gertrude V. Milton, of Revelstoke, B.C., says: "I have used Vicks VapoRub and found it a beneficial remedy for catarrh and cold in the head or chest. Vicks sure speaks for itself."

VICTORIA SENDS FOLLOWING

Mr. H. Thomas, of 1827 Quadra St., Victoria, B.C., writes: "We have found Vicks above par. We have three young children with severe colds and Vicks is doing wonders for them. We would not be without it. I can honestly recommend Vicks to anyone."

Skeptical at first about external treatment for cold troubles, British Columbia people have been completely won over by the remarkably quick action of Vicks VapoRub.

For Vicks medication takes effect immediately it is applied, in two distinct ways. First, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a liniment, poultice or plaster. Second, its ingredients are released by the body heat as vapors and are inhaled with each breath directly into the nose, throat and lungs. It is an obstinate cold that can resist this direct double action.

Vicks is composed of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine and other of the world's best remedies for congestion and imflammation—whether in the air passages, such as croup, colds, catarrh or bronchitis, or on the surface, like cuts, bruises, burns, sores and stings.

Vicks is a family standby in the States. Over 17 million jars are used yearly. During its introduction in British Columbia last winter several thousand samples were given out by druggists to good, responsible families, to be tested out. Alongside are reports from some of these people who have kindly consented that their experiences be published.

Mr. B. G. Laight, of Wabamun, Alberta, writes: "I had a very bad cold and by using Vicks VapoRub as directed, both by rubbing on the chest and throat and inhaling the vapors, I got great relief."

WALSH "BEST YET"

Miss Ester Heinrich, of Walsh, Alberta, says: "Vicks VapoRub is the best remedy for colds. When my mother had a very bad cold she tried Vicks one night and the next morning she was better. We shall never be without Vicks again as it is the best yet."

Grain Movement Over The Canadian Pacific Railway

Sept. 1 - Dec. 12, 1923

Clickety-click, clickety-click... It is the sound of car wheels passing over the railroad tracks, and you could stand and listen to the same clickety-click for 44 hours on end, if you were to watch that part of the magnificent crop of Canada grown in districts served by the Canadian Pacific railway and moved from the harvest fields by that company. Imagine, if you can, a train 881 miles long, or as far as from Winnipeg to the upper reaches of the Rocky Mountains. That is how many freight cars there would be. But cars alone cannot make a train. There are the engines, as well, and the road has kept in the neighborhood of 670 freight engines tugging grain trains east and west day and night throughout the season and in addition to these there are 171 switch engines employed at terminals. The season, be it understood, is taken as the period from the opening of the Canadian crop year, Sept. 1 to the official close of navigation with regard to shipping insurance on the Great Lakes, which falls Dec. 12.

So much for computation trains. In point of fact however, the longest train which was made up during the season consisted of 125 cars and was approximately 1 mile in length. It was operated from Stoughton to Arcola, Saskatchewan, on October 5th. The weight of the train not including the engine totalled 7,946 tons, of this 5,556 tons being freight. The train handled 185,000 bushels of wheat.

Now during the season, there were 88 days on which cars could be loaded, for Sundays are excluded. During those 88 days there were trains operated on an average every 50 minutes day and night, trains carrying nothing but grain mind you, for passenger traffic and other freight business were conducted at the same time, and on uninterrupted schedules too, be it noted. These trains were on an average 45 cars long.

In all, from Sept. 1 to Dec. 12, 1923, there were marketed in districts served by the Canadian Pacific Railway more than 200,000,000 bushels of all grains the largest quantity ever reported since the inception of the road. Taking the cars loaded as more truly representative of the activities of the company in the matter of grain movement, these have been reported at 116,232 for the period, representing 169,931,184 bushels. Suppose for a moment that all that grain were to be dumped into a river bed 100 feet wide and five feet deep, and that the new 'river' were able to flow at an average rate for water, say a mile an hour, then he who stood on the bank and had the patience to watch, might pitch his tent and picnic for three and one half days before this stream would be dried up.

A second trip into the land of imagination and one might put mountains in the background, and might make those mountains up of all the grains kernels which had been taken from the freight cars engaged in their transportation. If the grain were heaped up on acre lots of ground, there might well be three mountains, and each one of them would tower 5,000 feet into the heavens. The Canadian Pacific railway station at Lake Louise, one of the highest in the Rocky Mountains, is 5,044 feet above sea level. In the three mountains would be included oats, rye, barley, flax — all the coarse grains commonly grown in the Dominion as well as wheat, but if the latter were to be sorted out and put into mountains by itself, supposing there were still to be three mountains, then each of these would rise 4,200 feet from the ground. Banff itself is only 4,500 feet above the sea.

But after all, wheat is of little use in imaginary rivers or even mountains, however high or picturesque they may be. Let us consider what would happen if all the wheat were made into flour (leaving coarse grains aside) and kneaded up and baked into bread. If this were done there would be approximately 104,700 miles of regulation size, 16 ounce loaves, if they were placed end to end. This tremendous string of loaves would stretch back and forth across Canada, from Montreal to Vancouver 36 times. If the loaves were laid side by side and end to end, they would form a solid belt across the Dominion wider than the height of a city lamp post. Again if they were piled in a trans-Canada wall one loaf deep, the height of the wall would be 12 feet.

A particularly interesting feature of the grain movement of the present season according to company officials is the increase which had been reported in the amount of grain sent by Canadian Pacific to Vancouver for export. In all there were 5,532 cars received representing 8,087,784 bushels, or a very large percentage of the total exports from Vancouver which aggregated 8,910,966 bushels to the United Kingdom, and 80,300 mostly to South America. Last season for the corresponding period there were 3,548 cars received at Vancouver and 4,897,019 bushels exported.

"CIVILIZATIONS do not always fall before the attack of invading armies; sometimes they fall before the peaceful penetration of alien peoples coming through nation's gates as workers."—James J. Davis.

This truth is just beginning to sink into the minds of the people of Canada and the United States. We are just awakening to the fact that for a generation, as a result of our foolish policy of indiscriminate welcome to all sorts and conditions of alien people regardless of their fitness for citizenship, we have set in motion forces that threaten to destroy our civilization.

True, these modern invaders do not come, like the alien hordes of old, on horseback, fantastically clad and brandishing glittering swords. But they come with their minds filled with all sorts of strange social and political ideas, with their bodies infested with vermin, their blood often tainted by racial instincts that bear an unalterable enmity to the spirit and purposes of our national life.

Anyone who doubts the truth of this statement need only examine the membership roles of the communist and anarchist groups in the United States and the registers of the public penal, charitable and insane institutions. The disproportionately high percentum of alien stock members and inmates in these quarters will settle the doubts of the most skeptical on this point.

The plain truth is that certain European governments for a generation have practiced the official policy of unloading their degenerates and undesirables upon Canada and the United States as emigrants. The leaders of the old world privately admit the fact. Said the President of one republic of Central Europe: "We are willing to let you have our immigrants—the old, the infirm and the rubbish!" Said the ex-Prime Minister of another great state of Southern Europe: "Remember gentlemen, that we cannot afford to let you have any of our good peasants. You may have our political malcontents, but not our good people."

It is amazingly true that sentimentalists still demand liberal immigration as a means of helping relieve human congestion in European countries. "We have got to take care of Europe," they say. They close their eyes to the bigger fact; that the time is here when we have got to take care of ourselves. Wt have a right and a duty to bar any group of aliens who do not fit in with our scheme of life.

DECLARING that for the past fifteen years the Home Bank of Canada had subsisted by means of fraud and that the government inspection of banks is a farce, "The Hook," Vancouver's weekly paper, is publishing a complete expose of the Home Bank's history since its inception, from the pen of Mr. E. R. C. Clarkson, the interim liquidator.

According to Mr. Clarkson the books of the concern reveal that as far back as 1908 the bank made large advances against Chicago and Milwaukee railway bonds which failed to pay interest and rapidly depreciated in value until they were worth only about twenty per cent of their par value. Instead of writing off the depreciation the bank continued to show these securities at their full value, and credited the interest on the balance sheet as if fully paid. Ultimately the bank advanced $720,000 to A. C. Frost and Co., purporting to be on the security of B. C. timber limits, the Frost firm in turn payin $312,000 back to the bank for the purchase of the depreciated securities at full value. Advances to the firm of A. C. Frost and Co., large loans to Sir Henry Pellatt and the Pellatt companies are dealt with in detail. Sir Henry, it is said, secured $418,000 on notes to carry out a real estate speculation, giving $325,000 for the property which he turned over to one of his companies for $1,205,000, receiving $600,000 in stock, a mortgage of $2000,000 on the property and $400,000 in notes which he discounted.

Further revelations in regard to the causes of the bank's failure are promised. "The Hook" says that the banks are of little use in western Canada for development work, as their function is to collect deposits for loaning in Eastern Canada, New York and foreign countries, and that the public is entitled to the fullest guarantee that they are safe repositories for savings.

INTEREST over the appointment of the forthcoming Commission to enquire into charges made by the McRae party against Hon. W. Sloan and others is quickened by an intimation that the enquiry will open at Victoria before the end of January. Delay is over the naming of a judge by the Ottawa authorities to act as Commissioner.

Speaking in Vancouver recently, Mr. W. J. Bowser, who is also named by the McRae party as having profited from the P.G.E. promotion, declared that Sir Charles Tupper, K.C., Mr. E. P. Davis, K.C. and L. G. McPhillips, K.C. had secured sixty laymen to sign the accusation against himself, but had refrained from attaching their own names. "Nobody knew better than these men, the responsibility assumed by those signing the resolution," said Mr. Bowser, who asserted that the signatories laid themselves open to a charge of criminal libel or civil damages, if the Commission vindicates him from the charge.

Mrs. Robt. Winstanley and Mrs. Wm. Fowler, both of Michel, were in the city this week.

Geo. Heafford, who is spending a few days in Spokane, was robbed of his bank roll the other day. Geo. wired for money.

Louis Demoure, a well known Ferie boy, has joined the mechanic forces of the American Aviation Corp and is sailing on the 20th for Honolulu.

Mrs. D. F. Markland journeyed to Michel on Sunday night to organize a Women's Auxiliary in connection with the Michel Branch of the G. W. V. A.

Work on the Elk River waterworks project, near Fairy Creek bridge, is at a standstill until the Contractors and the City authorities reach an understanding.

M. J. Costello, of Seattle, Assistant Traffic Manager of the G.N. and J F. Pewpers, General Agent at Spokane, were guests of the Rotary Club on Thursday of this week.

Esther Rebekah Lodge will hold a whist drive and dance on Thursday, January 31st in the I.O.O.F. Hall. Cards from 8 to 10.30. Dancing from 11 to 2. Refreshments. Admission 50c. Whitehouse Orchestra.

Alf. Dragon was up in the police court on Tuesday charged with having unsealed liquor on the premises at his pool room. It was the second offence and he was fined $200 and costs.

Mayor Henderson was booked to leave the city yesterday for Ottawa on Home Bank business, but different arrangements have been made and he will not leave until the House is in session, about February 17th.

If the archbishop of this diocese decides to forbid dancing to Catholics in Montreal district they will have brought this privation on themselves by the abuses they have permitted, the Rev. Gerald McShane told his congregation at St. Patrick's church. The evil was not all in the dancing, but in the manner of dancing. There were those who danced every dance modestly, and others who could not dance any dance without being indecent, he said.

SNOWSHOE PARTY DINES OUT

Last Sunday evening the first snowshoe party of the season made a trip into the mountains east of town. The party was a fairly large one, consisting as it did of eighteen persons: Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Moses, Mrs. Mott, Mrs. Ellie, the three Misses Kirkpatrick, Miss Maud Hogan, Miss Grace Logie, Misses Walker and Williams, of the hospital staff, Prof. Beddome, the pathfinder, Mr. Pepper, Dr. Garner and his dog Mack, Mr. Walker and Mr. Brand.

The party went across the hills a distance of two and a half miles to the Tuxis Boys' cabin. We say "two and a half miles" with some trepidation, as some of the ladies insisted that it was a good four miles from Fernie. But that is neither here nor there; the travelling was excellent and the eating at the cabin (where Jack Puckey officiated as host) was beyond criticism. The doctor furnished the beans.

"BAD MAN" ON SCREEN AFTER 3 YEARS ON STAGE

Holbrook Blinn, star of Edwin Carewe's "The Bad Man," a First National picture which comes to the Orpheum Theatre beginning Wednesday of next week, is the original "bad man" of both stage and screen .

Blinn, up to the time of the release of "The Bad Man," was the only actor who had ever played the role. This is a unique achievement in itself, because seldom is a stage actor as good in the films as he is on the stage and vice versa.

Blinn began playing the role back in 1920 when the play was first presented in New York City. For three years without cessation he played the role of "Pancho Lopez" before Broadway audiences. Then he followed this with a short tour of the country, playing in all the principal cities, returning to Chicago for a solid year. This was followed by another tour which ended in Los Angeles.

During the making of the film in Hollywood, Blinn was also appearing the stage version of the play at a local theatre. For nearly a month the only clothes he wore were his "stage" clothes. He would don them in the morning for his film scenes and keep them on all day, appearing at the theatre in the evening in the same make-up.

"The Bad Man" was adapted from the play by Porter Emerson Browne by John Lynch. Sol Polito was the photographer and Wallace Fox assisted Carewe in drecting it.

Wm. Johnston has started the auto season by the sale yesterday of a Star Sedan.

The Fernie Hotel Barber Shop has been fitted up with a first-class beauty parlor for ladies. "Slim" will be in charge.

The G.W.V.A. Concert Party is reorganizing and putting in strenuous practice. You will hear from them in the near future.

B. J. Campbell, organizer for the Elks, gave a luncheon last Sunday afternoon to the old members of the organization, who are residents of Fernie.

Don't forget the social and dance in the Catholic Hall on Wednesday, January 23. Cards from 9 to 10.30. Dancing from 11 to 1. Admission 50c. Remember the date — Wednesday, January 23.

Here's something you'll enjoy—a novelty dance to be given by the I. O. D. E. (Robert J. Black Chapter) in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Friday, January 25. Evan's three-piece orchestra. Dancing 10 to 2. Refreshments.

His Honor Judge Thompson gave judgment yesterday in the case of Altomare vs. Foot, the former suing the latter for damages caused in an automobile collision. The judge dismissed the action claiming they were both to blame.

Don't forget the G. W. V. A. whist drive and dance on the 22nd of January. The Fernie Juvenile Caledonian Dancers will be in attendance, also a few numbers will be furnished by the G.W.V.A. Concert Party. Cards at 7 o'clock sharp. Refreshments will be served.

Quite a blaze took place on Monday night, at Coal Creek, when the big blacksmith shop was destroyed by fire. The building was only worth a few hundred dollars, but it contained some valuable machinery, which would run the loss into several thousand dollars. Nothing is known of the cause of the fire, which took place about 11 o'clock at night.

Rumor has it that R. B. Bennett, of Calgary, has become interested in the Wigwam Pulp and Paper Co., with big timber holdings south of Elko. It is said that Mr. Bennett has purchased the Ross interest in the company. If this is true we may look forward to something doing in the spring as R. B. Bennett represents big Canadian capital.

On Tuesday evening, many Coal Creek parents and children enjoyed the postponed Christmas Concert given by the United Church Sunday School children. The program was augmented by Rev. Humphries, of Fernie, who gave an illustrated lecture on "The Life of Christ." Mrs. Humphries recited an appreciated Christmas selection. Treats, rewards and presents were freely distributed, chief of which were: Rev. Burns, pastor, purse containing fifty dollars, from the Ladies' Aid; Mrs. Larmont, silver sugar bowl and cream jug, from the Ladies' Aid of which she is president; and Mr. Groat, Sunday School Supt., writing case, from the Ladies' Aid and congregation.

S. B. Wallace, of Fernie, has arrived at Detroit, Michigan, where he is taking special training to enter the automobile business. He is attending the Michigan State Automobile School in that city. The automobile industry is fast becoming the world's greatest business. The total registration of automobiles, trucks and tractors, in actual use in the United States is now over fourteen million. Production of new automobiles in 1923 was over four million. Ninety-four per cent. of these cars come from the Detroit district. Visits to these factories for insepection and study of their methods are part of the Michigan State Automobile School course. Being in the "heart of the automobile industry," Mr. Wallace expects to secure exceptional advantages. The Michigan State Automobile School is one of the leading vocational training institutions of the world, and has started many ambitious young men towards success.

The Banff Dance Orchestra gave a very successful dance in Victoria Hall on Wednesday evening. The members of the orchestra were the guests of B. J. Campbell at a dinner at the Fernie Hotel on Wednesday.

I. W. W. representatives have been in the city for the past ten days. A man named McDonald, who claims to have been a political prisoner in the United States, addresed a large meeting in the Miners' Hall on Monday evening. He spoke on the lumbermen's strike at Golden and Cranbrook.

The Loyal Order of Moose will hold their Burn's Night dance in the Victoria Hall on Thursday, January 24. Dancing 10 to 2. Refreshments. Whitehouse orchestra. Admission: Gents $1.00; Ladies 50c. Christina Thomson and Gladys Arbuckle will give an exhibiton of Higland Step Dancing.

The pupils of the 150 All Sports Gymnasium staged a boxing and wrestling exhibition in the Gym on Tuesday evening, providing a most pleasant entertainment for the local fans. Boxers all the way from paperweights to middleweights displayed their wares, many of them showing ramarkable form. Instructor Leo Stokes, who hales from Fargo, N.D., and Spokane, Wn., boxed a couple of exhibition bouts with Geo. Larner and Jimmy White, both of this city. The concluding event was a three ten-minute rounds wrestling exhibton between Paul Paulson, of Warner, Alta., and Bill Chisholm, of Fernie. No fall was accomplished in this go, and no decision was given.

The Fernie Lodge of the Knights of Pythias held their semi-annual installation of officers Tuesday evening when the following officers were duly placed in office: C.C., Wm. Davies; V.C., H. BRITAIN'S WAR BILL

Everybody knows that the late and still lamented war was not only the biggest but the costliest war in history. It remained for Great Britain to show how rapidly modern warfare runs into money, so that, for instance, the mere setting of the stage for a single battle may cost upward of $100,000,000.

During the fourteen days from July 17 to July 30, 1917, the British army was getting ready for the third battle of Ypres. Part of this preparation consisted in a thorough bombardment of the German positions, during which the British guns expended 4,283,550 rounds of ammunition. This ammunition cost £22,211,389 14s. 4d., or approximately $107,947,351 at normal exchange, according to "statistics of the military effort of the British Empire during the great war."

This formidable volume, recently published with the sanction of the Wa Ocice, audits Armageddon and renders a cost accounting of destruction with almost appalling minuteness, as witness the four pence noted in the receipted bill for the preliminary bombardment at Ypres, which is furthermore itemized to show the different varieties and sizes of shell used. They ranged from 1606 fired by the giant fifteen-inch howitzers to 2,239,608 shrapnel and high explosives from the eighteen pounders corresponding to the three-inch field gun. Next to these the six-inch howitzers consumed most shell—750,119—and the 4.5-inch gun was close third with 728,345.

The total cost of this preparation was greater than that of any other indulged in by Britain during the war. But the cost per day had mounted to an even higher level six weeks earlier, when, from May 20 to June 6, they were getting set for the battle of Messines. During a period of eleven days their artillierists expended 3,561, 630 rounds at an approximate cost of $85,075,502. This averages $7,734,227 a day, where the longer bombardment at Ypres averaged $7,710.525.

But even Ypres and Messines do not represent the peak load. The heaviest expenditure in any single day by the British armies in France was from noon to noon, September 28-29, 1918, when they pushed off for the final advance in Flanders before the armistice. During these twenty-four hours 943,847 rounds were expended, very nearly twelve shells a second of 720 a minute. The stated approximate cost of this ammuniton was $18,813,060, which amounts to $783,878 an hour and $13,064 a minute. Every time a watch ticked off a second that day the equivalent of $217.77, or more than the monthly income of the average family went up in smoke.

These figures are for artillery ammunition and for France alone where the estimated strength of the British forces, all ranks and labor units, on November 1, 1918, was 1,966,727 officers and men. And this was only one of several theatres of war in which Britsh land forces were operating. In Italy, on the same day, their number was 83,630; in Salonica, 183,007; in British East Africa, 115,670; in Egypt, 458,246; in Mesopotamia, 408,138; and at Aden, 11,461; giving a grand total of 3,226,879 in the expeditionary forces. To this must be added the estimated strength of British and colonial troops at home, 1,603,384, and in India, Burmah and the garrisons of defended ports. This brings the total estimated strength of British land forces ten days before the armistice to 5,336,943.

To maintain and operate such armies cost correspondingly great sums. The "Statistics" state that for the period from April 1, 1914, to March 31, 1919, five full fiscal years, the army expenditure proper was equivalent to $14,118,249,807, of which $4,008,330.198 was spent in 1918-19 alone. The average yearly expenditure during the period was $2,823,649,981. The army expenditure for the year April 1, 1913, to March 31, 1914, was $137,859,256. So the average war-time annual expenditure was 2048 per cent. of what it had been, and during 1918-19 was more than 2900 per cent. higher.

1916—October 8 to December 9, $27,970,040 daily.

1917—April 1 to May 5, when the Germans retreated to the Hindenburg line and the Arras offensive began, $36,261,020 daily.

1918—April 1 to November 9, a stretch of more than eight months, $36,172,980 daily.

To provide for these expenditures Parliament granted between August 6, 1914, and November 12, 1918, a series of twenty-five war votes of credit ranging in amount from £37,000,000 to £700,000,000. The grand total of these credits was £8,742,000,000, equivalent to $42,486,120,000 at normal exchange for the sovereign.

Great Britain, like the United States and unlike France, adopted the pay as you go policy and raised by taxation the largest feasible amounts of war revenue. Nevertheless her national debt, which on April 1, 1914, was £707,634,110, had on April 1, 1920, six years later, become £7,835,000,000, equivalent to $34,638,998,225, and an increase of 1007 per cent.

The total provision of men for the army, all ranks and colors, during the whole war, was 8,654,467, a contribution of man power, according to the "Statistics," second only to France, though the actual figures of the strength of the French armies are not available for comparison. The third largest contribution was made by the United States in sending approximately 2,000,000 men to France in the A. E. F.

The number of Casualties among British troops in all theatres of war up to November 11, 1918, is given as 3,084,018, or more than 35 per cent. of the total man power employed. Of these 689,246 were killed or died of wounds or disease, the greatest proportions of these mortalities, 561,335, occurring among the forces in France. The wounded numbered 2,035,965.

These figures take no account of the reduction of the number of effectives through such casualties as ordinary illness, and which in several of the theatres were the cause of very heavy "wastage." In France, for example, though the maximum strength at any one time was 2,046,901, the total personnel employed during the war period was 5,399,563, requiring heavy replacements.

The operations in Mesopotamia created the heaviest wastage of all. There the maximum strength on any date was 447,531, and the total personnel employed during the operations was 889,702, or all but double, largely because of heavy casualties from sickness, there being only 31,758 battle mortalities, 51,156 wounded and 13,350 missing and prisoners.

Another table gives the approximate number of British casualties from the outbreak of war in 1914 to December 31, 1920, as 908.371 soldiers dead in or through the war, and the number of wounds received as 2,090.212. Of the dead 702,410 were natives of the British Isles, 59,330 were Canadians and 62,056, were Indian natives.

The variations in the length of the line held by British forces in France and Flanders is given in another table. It ranged from twenty miles in September, 1914, following the retreat from Mons and the first battle of Ypres, to a maximum of 123 miles in February and March of 1918, after which it steadily declined until it measured sixty-four miles at the cessation of hostilities on November 11.

In regard to discipline, 304,262 officers and soldiers were tried by courts-martial during the war. Of these, 270,927, almost 90 per cent., were convicted.

These courts passed 3080 death sentences, of which only 346 were carried out, however, three of the culprits being officers, one of them found guilty of murder and the other two of desertion. Desertion, with 266 death penalties inflicted, consisted the chief capital offence. Murder was second, with 37 death penalties inflicted, and cowardice third, with 18 cases.

Between December 16, 1914, and August 5, 1918, Great Britain was exposed to forty-eight Zeppelin raids, of which twelve included London: fifty-nine airplane raids, of which twenty included London, and to twelve bombardments from the sea by German vessels.

The airship raids killed 536 and wounded 1357 persons, and the airplanes killed 857 and wounded 2050, while the bombardment killed 157 and injured 634. The total number of casualties from the three causes was 5611, of whom all but 752 were civilians. The raids and bombardments killed 411 women and 295 children and injured 1210 women and 772 children.

From an output of only 245,400 empty and 526,300 filled shell of all calibres in the period from August to December, 1914, the manufatcure of gun ammunition was increased to a peak output of 84,167,000 empty and 87,688,053 filled shell during 1917. The total output during the war period was 258,397,100 empty and 218,280,586 filled shell.

Production of high explosive was built up from 11,891 tons in the last quarter of 1915 to a peak of 259,665 tons in 1917 and a total for the war of 603,364 tons, of which 200,534 tons were TNT and 332,193 tons were ammonium nitrate. Propellants ,including cordite, balliste and NCT, increased from 12,967 tons in 1915 to a peak of 204,809 tons in 1917 and a war total of 432,183 tons.

For trench warfare a total of 19,096 trench mortars and howitzers were put out and 16,994,315 rounds of ammunition for them. The output of hand grenades was increased from 2152 in 1914 to a peak of 34,867,968 in 1916, and a total of 100,102,719 for the war.

Machine guns were increased from 274 in 1914 to an ouput of 120,864 in 1918 and a war total of 239,870, while rifles, numbering 120,093 in 1914 were built up to a peak output of 2,123,287 in 1917 and a war total of 5,090,442, of which 1,117,850 were manufactured in the United States. The war total of small arm ammunition for machine guns and rifles was 8,637,112,000 rounds, of which 876,587,000 rounds were manufactured in the United States.

The first tanks, a British device in origin, were built during the last half of 1916, 150 of them. During 1917 the output was 1277, and during 1918 it was 1391, giving a total output of 2818 tanks.

Teach your child internal cleanliness

Washing Cleans Only The Skin

THE mother who permits constipation in her baby or older child is risking the health, even the life of her little one.

It must be remembered that an infant is helpless, unable to tell that constipation is making its life miserable. Consequently the mother must be able to recognize signs of constipation in her baby. Convulsions, night terrors, grinding the teeth in sleep, feverishness, fretfulness and such symptoms—any of these may indicate that poisons from baby's stagnant intestine are flooding the little body.

In older children biliousness, coated tongue, loss of appetite warn the mother that constipation is present. Constipation, unchecked in youth, may lead to serious consequences. In constipation, according to intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Only Aggravate Constipation

The mother should not resort to laxatives. A noted authority says that laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

More Important Than Soap and Water

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in children's and general hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Let your infant or child have Nujol regularly—and see rosy cheeks, clear eyes and happiness return once more.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol yourself as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has sore throat, diarrhœa, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

Splendid work being done for Children of Montreal by Child Welfare Association

About one thousand happy, delighted children were the guests of honor, The Child's Welfare Association of Montreal was the host, while through the courtesy of His Master's Voice Limited, the entertainment was provided and perhaps no afternoon in the lives of these children was more enjoyed than that spent yesterday at the summer day camp of the Association on Dorchester Street, Montreal.

Patriotic tunes, stirring marches, songs and calls of native birds, whistling selections and the popular tunes of the day contributed to the intence delight of the children and all this joy and brightness undoubtedly added to the affection and greatfulness which the children have come to have for the Welfare Association because of its unceasing effort in their behalf.

So life-like were the selections rendered that it was interesting to note the amazement of the children who really felt sure they were undoubtedly listening to the various performers themselves instead of a reproduction of their art on a regular stock model of "His Master's Voice"-Victrola by means of "His Master's" Voice Victor records.

And what made the illusion more striking was the amplifying arrangement made possible through the co-operation of The Northern Electric Company who installed for the purpose of carrying the performance of the Victrola to every one of the junior audience—the same set of amplifiers used to broadcast the address delivered at Vancouver recently by the late President Harding.

The Child Welfare Association of Montreal has many activities for the promotion of the welfare of children. It has estabiished thirteen Health centres in different parts of the city where more than 2700 mothers are coming with their babies to receive instruction and supervision in baby care..

The splendid work of health education being carried on by this association is bringing its results in the greatly lowered death rate among the families who come to the Health Centres for advice. Another special activity is the Nutrition classes for under-nourished children which are carried in selected schools during the the school year. Very amazing results have been obtained by means of these classes.

The members of the executive under whose direction this splendid and needy work is carried on are-

Try this new patience

The Poster-Judging Competition now being conducted in Canada for the benefit of the Veterans' Associations is one of the most fascinating of games. On the ticket-folder which donors of $1.20 are presented with, sixteen of the most famous posters of BOVRIL are reproduced in colors.

Which are the 12 best, in order of merit, is what you must decide. The folder shows just what you must do and how to do it.

It is an interesting trial of taste and judgment to class these posters in the order which popular fancy will endorse. It is a real game which can be played over and over again, and in which all the family can join and which will interest visitors, be they young or old.

You can make as many trials as you like—for every donation of $1.20 one ticket-folder is presented, thus $12.00 secures 10 folders—though only one prize will be given to one person.

BOVRIL LIMITED has donated £30,000, about $138,888, which has been divided into 2,003 prizes. The first three are approximately as follows :

1st	Prize,	$55,555.00
2nd	"	13,888.00
3rd	"	4,555.00

OLDEST EGGS IN THE WORLD

The oldest eggs in the world were preserved, long but very good, not by cold, but in the burning sands of the Gobi desert, where they lay for a period estimated at ten million years—a record for hot-storage that it will take cold-storage several eons to surpass. They were laid by a dinsaur and were recovered by the American Museum of Natural History's third Asiatic Expedition. Roy Chapman Andrews, its leader, tells the story of this remarkable fossil find—perhaps the most unusual and interesting in scientfic history—in an article entitled "Where the Dinosaur Hid its Eggs," contributed to Asia (New York, Jan.). The expedition found also, in the same locality in Mongolia, one of the most extensive deposits of reptilian skeletons ever unearthed by geologists. Mr. Andrews' speculations about how they came there, and in particular about how such fragile objects as eggs came to be preserved, are contained in the following excerpts. In his own words:

"Ten million years ago a goblin-like creature stood on the edge of a shallow basin in what now is called Mongolia. Its great round eyes stared unblinkingly from a thin, hatchet face, ending in a hooked beak. Its head sloped up and back into a circular bony frill, which formed a solid armature over the slender neck and almost covered the shoulders. Low in front and high behind, with its ten-foot body ending in a thick tail, it seemed like a horrid nightmare fantasy. It gazed across a fertile upland with lush grass where forest patches broke the sky-line and dotted the open savannas with islets of vivid green. Slowly it waddled down the slope and settled itself into the sand. And there in the hollow it left ten elliptical white eggs, fated, though warmed by the sun's rays, never to be hatched.

"But it and its kind laid other eggs, which did hatch, and they lived their alloted span and died. They never could know that their progeny, after thousands of generations, would wander into Siberia, cross the land-bridge to America and spread inland from its western coast.

"It was on a brilliant day of midsummer, ten million years after the reptile had made its nest in the sandy hollow, that we pitched our tents on the rim of a great depression just above the spot where the eggs were laid. Since that far, dim day when they were left to be hatched by the Cretaceous sun, hundreds of feet of earth had drifted over them and, through the action of wind, frost and rain, had been worn away again, leaving them half exposed. Some showed only as bits of broken shell, but four remained intact. They were no longer white; during their long entombment they had changed to a delicate brown.

"The dinosaur that laid the eggs never would have recognized the surroundings of the nest could it have seen them in 1923. A great depression a dozen miles in width and more than that in length had been scooped out of a plain as hard and smooth as a tennis-court, which swept in gentle undulations to the base of the Altai Mountains, thirty miles away. The plain dropped abruptly into the basin, its edge a vast complex of ravines and gullies, red battlements and rounded turrets. Sheer walls and gigantic chimneys stood isolated on the sandy floor like the ruins of a war-swept city. Among these wandered two humped camels, and sheep drifted in snow-white patches over the green reaches of a dying lake-bed.

"It was a great day for the Third Asiatic Expedition when we arrived at the red-beds this year. It was impossible to keep the enthusiastic fossil-huntres from immediately exploring the fascinating basin that lay before them.

"One by one they wandered down the steep bluff, and soon they all were scattered among the ravines and along the sides of the sculptured buttes. In less than an hour Albert Johnson reported the discovery of a large white skull. In a few moments Kaison hurried up the slope for his collecting materials, and, when we gathered about the dinner-table in the mess-tent that evening, every man had begun to excavate a dinosaur skull.

"Our real thrill came on the second day, when George Olsen reported at tiffin that he was sure he had found fossil eggs. We joked him a good deal, but nevertheless all of us were ference suddenly evaporated, for we curious enough to walk down with him after luncheon. Then our indif- realized that we were looking at the first dinosaur eggs ever seen by a human being. That they must be those of a dinosaur, we felt certain True enough, it never was known before that dinosaurs did lay eggs, but, since most modern reptiles are oviparous, it was considered probable that their ancient ancestors followed this method of reproduction.

"These eggs could not be those of a bird. No birds are known from the geological horizon in which the eggs were found, and the elongate shape of the eggs is distinctly reptilian. A bird's egg usually is much larger at one end than at the other, because it is deposited in a nest, from which it might roll out unless it revolved on its point. Reptile eggs, which often are buried in the earth or sand, usually are elongate and similar in shape to the specimens that we found. These eggs were in a great deposit fill of dinosaur skeletons and containing, so far as we could discover, no remains of other animals or of birds.

"Three of the eggs lay in a cluster and evidently were in the exact spot where they had been deposited by the dinosaur. The broken shells of several others were partially embedded in the rock. Just under a low sandstone shelf, beside which they were lying, we could see the projecting ends of two others. While all the members of the Expedition were on their hands and knees about those ten-million-year-old eggs, George Olsen began to scrape away the loose rock on the summit of the shelf, and to our amazement he uncovered the skeleton of a small dinosaur, lying eight or ten inches above the eggs. Was it the reptile that had laid the eggs, or was it a predatory dinosaur that had come to feed upon them? We can not tell, but we like to think that some sudden catastrophe overtook the animal when on a visit to its nest."

Tells how to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.

A New Ford Body Type
—The Tudor Sedan

The Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, announces a new two-door type closed car which will be known as the Tudor Sedan.

It differs materially in seating arrangement from the four-door type recently announced. It is also lower in price.

Among the other noteworthy features of this latest Ford model is the coach type body—never before available in a low priced car.

The Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is considerably behind in its manufacturing schedule on this type of body. Consequently we are not able to state definitely when this model will be on display in our showrooms. Watch for its appearance.

BLUEBIRDS TAKE LEAD

The Bluebirds forged into the lead of the City Hockey league table over last week-end by winning from Ingram's 150 on Friday evening by a score of three goals to two and from the Northerns on Monday evening by a score of four goals to two.

Friday's game was one of the most keenly contested games ever witnessed in Fernie, both teams travelling at express rate all the way through the encounter. McLachlan opened the scoring in the second period when he circled around the Bluebird's goal and slipped the puck around the goal-post into the net. Ingrams maintained their lead for only six minutes when Commons broke right through the defence and scored with an unsavable shot.

From the drop of the puck in the final session the Bluebirds maintained continuous pressure on the 150's goal and after two minutes play Commons again found the net. Five minutes of end to end play followed then McLachlan on an individual rush evened up the score. With but one minute to go, Thomson snatched up a loose puck on the left wing and with Colton unsighted, bulged the twine for the winning goal.

Referee—C. Glover.

Monday evening's game was a case of Bluebird forwards versus the Northern defence practically the whole way through, the West Fernie team confining practically eighty per cent. of the play to the Northern territory but goals were few. The opening tally came after twelve minutes of play, Commons getting through on his own and scored. There was no further scoring until well on in the second period when, following a raid by the Northerns, Davidson picked up a pass from Kasmar and evened up the score.

The puck had hardly been faced off in the third period when the Bluebird forward line were down in a body around the Northern goal and following a scrimmage Gibson slipped the puck to Thomson who made no mistake. The Northerns took up the offensive for a few minutes, then White, getting the puck behind his own goal, skated through the entire Northern team and finished the zig-zag run by putting the puck past Hovan for the Bluebirds third goal. A scrimmage in front of the Bluebird goal resulted in the Northerns getting their second goal, Davidson managing to slip the puck out to Baker, who lifted it over a mass of players into the net. Just before the close of the game the Bluebirds notched their fourth tally through Thomson, who sent in rather an easy shot but Hovan, trying to bat the puck to the corner, missed it entirely and the rubber slipped on its way into the net.

Referee—A. Dicken.

To the Editor of the Fernie Free Press

Dear Sir—The Doctors' Question is still going strong so will with your permission make it both lively and interesting.

Those of your numerous readers who have read my letters on this subject will have noticed that I have refrained from dragging in the U.W.W. of A. Union into this controversy, realizing that it is and always has been an employees question to arrange with the Doctors.

However, the local Union have decided otherwise and President Sherman, according to reports, at the meeting held on January 9, has upheld their view. That being so, will fight them on their own ground for the sake of the argument and give them all the medicine they will want to use from the Constitution of the U.M.W. of America. Can heartily agree with the President when he stated that it was the usual few trouble makers who were making all the trouble. Can also sympathize with a man who is fixed between the devil and the deep sea; who tries to call a thing black in Edmonton but white in Fernie. Very poor logic, but just consider the fix he was in.

I have no hesitation in saying that the holdup staged by the union officials to deprive B North men of the money collected for them because they signed for the old Doctors, is not justified in the Constitution.

True, in Article 6 Section 2, there is authority to penalize members who have been trafficking in transfer cards, etc., but I defy any union official to find a penalty clause that allows a man to be penalized for signing for the Doctor he desires. But I can find in the Constitution of the U.M.W. of America something that will put out of business those who penalized the B North men. I cannot say "shame them." They have no shame. (See Article 14 Section 2).

Have been told that the Doctors' Union, or in other words, the Doctors' Association, will not accept the imported Doctors as members. Surely this can not be true. The Gladstone Local officials would, I am sure, never employ non-union labor.

A few words now to our Coal Creek friends, they are in this affair to a small extent. Every union mine-worker was assessed two per cent. on his earnings to support the B North men. Are you in favor of the holdup that occurred just before Christmas, when some of these men were deprived of all their share of the money you paid to support them, their only fault being that they had signed for the old Doctors? Coal Creek have the Doctor they want, then help the Fernie families to keep the Doctors they want, and go your own way about it.

This Doctors' Question has opened up a situation that was never forseen by those who originated it, but I am satisfied of one thing that has been brought clearly to the surface, namely, that we have reactionary tyrants in Fernie who are far from being capitalists.

When young I hated Tyranny,
Now aged, I hate it still;
And will as long as given life,
Fight it with all my will.
The Tyrant may be rich or poor,
For tyrants you will find;
Are all alike in one respect,
Would inslave the humankind.

Thanking you in anticipation, I remain, yours,—Robert Draper.

SEEK TO CANCEL SALE OF CLAIMS TO PREMIER CO.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 11.—Evidence of Capt. E. J. Fader, of Seattle, is to be taken by a commission for trial here of an action in which Silver Ores Inc., is attempting to recover seven mineral claims from the Premier Gold Mining Company. Capt. Fader has been a co-defendant, but action against him has been discontinued. The seven mineral claims adjoin the Premier mine at Stewart, and the action is to cancel conveyances from Fader to the Premier Company, on the ground that Fader was acting as trustee for the Silver Ores Inc.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94 PER CENT AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise —no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. B. Johnson, 579 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

The 1924 City Council held its first meeting in the Council Chambers Thursday evening, Mayor Henderson occupied the chair, Aldermen Aiello, Lees, Markland, Robichaud and Stewart present.

The minutes of the last meeting of the old council were adopted as read and the City Clerk read several letters which were ordered filed.

An application from Mrs. Jennings for the transfer of the license for the Waldorf Hotel from Leslie Mills to herself, which had been recommended by the Chief of Police, was granted.

A communicaton from the Manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada stating that the Bank was prepared to advance the amount of $57,000.00, being seventy-five per cent. of the Fernie rates, for the purpose of current city expenditures, was referred to the Finance Committee.

A bill from Herchmer & Mitchell for $436.26, being their costs in connection with the action of Drs. Garner & Asselstine against the City, was passed for payment.

A motion appointing Alderman J. S. Irvine as Acting Mayor for the year 1924 was passed.

The Mayor appointed the following committees for the year, the first named to be Chairman of the committee and the Mayor to be an ex-officio members of each committee:

Finance — Aldermen Irvine and Stewart.

Fire, Water and Light—Aldermen Stewart and Aiello.

Public Works — Aldermen Robichaud and Lees.

Parks — Aldermen Markland and Robichaud.

Health—Aldermen Lees and Irvine.

A motion was passed stipulating that the meetings of the Fernie City Council will be held on the first and third Thursdays of evry month during the year 1924.

The Council as a whole was appointed to sit as a Court of Revision, to try all cases of appeal by the assessed against assessment and will sit in the Council Chambers on Friday evening, February 8.

City Clerk, Arthur J. Moffatt, was authorized to rent a safety deposit box in the Imperial Bank of Canada for the safe keeping of the Sinking Fund bonds.

A new by-law, No. 259, being the Temporary Loan By-Law, authorizing the borrowing of money for current expenses, before the annual revenue becomes payable by the taxpayers, which provides for the borrowing of the sum of $57,000.00 in such sums as may be required from time to time, from the Imperial Bank of Canada at the rate of six per cent. per annum, the whole to be repaid the Bank by December 31st, 1924, went through its various stages and was finally adopted.

Following the passage of this by-law, Mayor Henderson stated that it was a crime that such a by-law should have to be brought into effect, when the councils of the past four years had worked hard to bring the city into the strong financial position it had held previous to the Home Bank fiasco. Notwithstanding the enormous expenditure during the year 1923, when the council had replaced the wooden water main with up-to-date cast iron pipe, there would have been a small credit balance in the Bank had it not been for the "Home Bank steal."

Considerable discussion arose regarding the ambulance, which is at present being handled free by the city. Several of the council members stated that the privilege was being greatly abused, causing considerable unnecessary expense to the city. This matter was refered to the Health Committe, who are to investigate and report their findings at the next council meeting.

Just prior to adjournment, Mayor Henderson complimented the members of the council in the manner in which they had handled the affairs of the city at the first meeting and he was sure that they would continue their duties amicably and with the welfare of the city of Fernie their foremost thought.

GIRLS PLAY WEDNESDAY

On Wednesday afternoon next, the Fernie Swastikas go into action against an outside team for the first time this season, when they meet the Shamrocks, of Coleman, at the local Arena. The game commences at 5 p.m., so that the visitors from Coleman will be able to get away on the evening train for their homes.

Last season the Swastikas were a little too good for the Coleman sextette, but this year the Shamrocks have been making a name for themselves, having defeated the Lethbridge Ladies by a score of four goals to two and come here with the Southern Alberta Championship honors and determined to let the Swastikas know they are an aggregation to be reckoned with for the Western Canada honors.

This will be the only game the Fernie Ladies will play before making the journey to the Banff Winter Carnival where they will defend the Alpine Cup against all comers. Having brought the cup to Fernie last year, it is imperative that they defend it this year, and to do so the local ladies require substantial aid from the citizens of Fernie as the expense incurred on the trip to Banff is more than they can handle personally.

This game with the Coleman Shamrocks will be their only means of raising funds for the trip, so it behooves the Fernie citizens to make the gate receipts a record.

THIS WEEK'S CITY LEAGUE

"Old Man Jinx" continues to follow the Northerns in the City Hockey League race, and Mrs. Barrett's standard bearers went down to a 1 to 0 defeat at the hands of Ingram's 150 last Friday evening.

During the first two periods the Northern sextette had the bulk of the play, Colton in goal for the 150 however refused to let anything past. Ingrams, however, were always well in the picture and Hovan was often called upon to stop the rubber from bumping against the twine.

The only goal of the game came about half way through the third period, when following a nice combination rush up the ice by the 150 forward line, McLachlan pounced on the final pass from F. Hovan and shot the puck into the net. From then on play became exceptionally fast, the puck swinging from one end of the rink to the other, several likely chances for the Northerns were spoiled by lack of finish in front of the net and several opportunities to even the score were missed. Just before the call of time McLachlan again shot the puck into the net but the goal was disallowed as that player received the puck in an off-side position.

Ingram's 150 assumed the lead in the City Hockey League on Monday evening when they defeated the Bluebirds by a score of two goals to one. The game was one of the hardest fought matches played here this season, both teams worked full tilt from the drop of the puck in the opening period right up to the final bell. The Bluebirds were without their goaltender, Cameron, who had sustained an injured knee and Hovan, of the Northern team, substituted and played his finest game this season. Colton, in goal for the 150 aggregation, had much to do with that team's win.

In the first period both teams maintained a three man defense system and two man end to end rushes kept the fans on their toes. It was not until within a couple of minutes of the end of the period that Wilson and McLachlan got through the Bluebird defense, the latter opening the scoring with a shot that gave Hovan no chance.

Ingrams got a stronger hold on the game in the second period and had the edge of the play throughout this session, although the Bluebird defense stood up well under the continuous pressure. After ten minutes play, Shand got the puck behind his own goal and with a brilliant individual rush went through the entire Bluebird team and with only Hovan left to beat he landed the puck in the net.

The run of play was completely reversed in the final tilt, shot after shot rained in on Colton, who seemed to be in luck's good graces, one shot from Thomson dropping on his shoulder and bouncing over the top of the goal. After ten minutes play, Thomson got through on his own and this time gave Colton no chance to intercept the puck's course into the net. With the scoring of the Bluebird's goal, play went off at a furious rate, end to end swung the puck, but no further goals were forthcoming. Just before the end, McLachlan and Smith staged a little fracas and were both sent to the cooler.

League standing—	W	L	Pts
Ingram's 150	3	1	6
Bluebirds	2	1	4
Northerns	0	3	0

The Wednesday evening Senior vs All-star games are becoming very popular, a large crowd turning out on Wednesday evening to see them in action. The game resulted in a five goal tie, and as the score indicates there was very little to choose between the two teams. Only a few weeks remains before they play-off between the winner of the Cranbrook-Kimberley League meets Fernie for the East Kootenay Championship, so that it is very necessary that strong opposition be put on the ice against the Seniors to give them thorough work-outs.

The games scheduled for the coming week are: Friday, Jan. 25, Northerns vs Bluebirds; Monday, Jan. 28, Northerns vs Ingram's 150 and on Thursday, January 31, Seniors vs All-stars.

TROUBLE IN LUMBER CAMPS IN THE CROW

CALGARY, Jan. 21.—For the asking, work awaits 700 or 800 men today in the lumbering camps in the Blairmore and Crow's Nest Pass district as a result of the serious situation from the labor troubles which have been fomented there by representatives of the I. W. W.

I. W. Poole, of Nelson, secretary of the Mountain Lumber Manufacturers' association, is authority for this statement and the whole matter of the labor troubles in the Crow's Nest Nest district formed one of the principal points of discussion at the annual convention of that associaton which was started at the Palliser hotel on Monday morning and will be continued on Tuesday.

As a result of the agitation by what Mr. Poole terms professionals at this sort of work, the men have been practically forced to abandon work in the territory, but at the present time, there is ample police protection and workmen may not fear going into the district ready to go to work at once. A serious situation exists there at the present time as the weather is practically ideal for lumbering and with a reduced output due to no workmen and a high cost of operation, it may result in higher lumber prices in the spring, explains Mr. Poole.

TO BURN COAL TWICE

Henry Ford is not the only man who undertakes to "burn coal twice." The process recently acquired by him, and described not long ago in The Literary Digest, is only one of a very large number for the "low-temperature carbonizaton" of coal. No less than eleven American processes are described in The Chemical Age (New York) by Charles V. McIntire, chairman of the Low-Temperature Carbonization of the American Gas Association; and this takes no account of English, German and other foreign processes. Mr. McIntire believes that all these are still experimental and in no shape to be taken up by the small investor, although he notes that both the engineer and the layman continue to feel that the pressing need of a suitable substitute for anthracite coal as a domestic fuel will be met by some process of low-temperature carbonization. He continues:

"The distillation of coal at low temperature holds a certain fascinaton for the layman as well as for the Chemist and the inventor. It should be said here that there have been no developments which would justify any assumption that the art has passed from the experimental into the commercial field. Distillation of coal at low-temperatures has most certainly not been done on a money-making scale, yielding profits sufficient to carry the operating costs and the capital charges. It has been tried experimentally; and in one case in a full-sized commercial plant, but none of these attempts has been entirely satisfactory. No process has yet made public any data which would justify the small investor in investing in it, and the development of any process is a matter only for large capitalists. One of the greatest misconceptions held with regard to low-temperature carbonization, even on the part of some technical men, is the assumption that the by-product yields from low-temperature processes are so superior in value to those derived from high-temperature processes that the revenue from them would immediately remove low-tempertaure coke from all fear of competition with by-product coke.

"When low-temperature tar is made in large quantities, and the fractions become available to the industrial arts, a market will undoubtedly arise to absorb them, most authorities agreeing that these tar-oils are potentially more valuable than the secondary tars of the coke-oven. This showing in favor of the low-temperature process, however, is almost balanced, under present conditions, by the much larger quantity of saleable gas produced by the coke-oven. Ammonia yields are also in favor of the coke-oven.

"The men who are backing the various processes do not agree with one another as to the nature of the product they are striving to produce. Some are trying to make, in a one-stage process, a coke possessing all the excellent physical characteristics of by-product coke plus a relatively high content of volatile matter, to give it free burning qualities; some wish to produce a semi-coke, high in volatiles, porous and soft in structure; others have as their objective a small-sized porous semi-coke which they intend to prepare for the market by briquetting. All are striving to make the ideal smokeless domestic fuel, an anthracite substitute.

"We are not concerned with the definition of the ideal domestic fuel; but we wish to set down the opinion that low-temperature coke is not inherently superior to coke-oven coke unless it is improved physically by briquetting or some other means."

The chief American process before the public are now described at some length. The reader who has been led to believe that the one acquired by Henry Ford is the only one, will be superized at their number. There is "carbocoal," whose inventor, Harry A. Curtis, is now professor of chemical engineering at Yale. An attempt to make it commercially has now been suspended in favor of renewed experimental work on a large scale. The Piron process, also called the Caracristi process, is the one controlled by Ford. Large plants for its employment are now under construction. The Greene-Laucks process, in course of development at Denver, uses a vertical cylinder, within which revolves a hollow screw that receives coal at the bottom, slowly hoists it, and discharges it as coke at the top. The Wallace process, invented by an East St. Louis man, was in operation at Petersburg, Virginia, for two years, and a plant to use it is now being built there. It uses a brick shell with a hollow, perforated metal core, around which the coal is charged. The Richards and Pringle process, developed in England, makes a product called coalite.

The Babcock process, developed by Dean Babcock of the University of North Dakota, use a "battery" of small brick chambers, and is of the by-product-recovery type. The Johns process, developed in Denver in connection with the distillation of oil-shale, is to be used with lignite, and the product is to be briquetted. The Brown process, also designed for the treatment of shale, is now in the market. It uses a retort consisting of three horizontal revolving drums, heated externally. The West process, under experimentation at Pittsburg, is intended to be used in connection with the production of blast-furnace coke. The Strausfield carbonizer, developed by the Lignite Utilization Board, a body financed by the Canadian Government, has been used in a semi-commercial plant at intervals. The Hood-Odell process, designed by the chief mechanical engineer of the United States Bureau of Mines, is to carbonize lignite cheaply and does not recover by-products. The product will probably be briquetted.

The author of this article, Mr. McIntire, was largely responsible, he states, for the design of the plant to be used for the Carbocoal process, mentioned first in his list, and will have active charge of the experimental work connected with it. While this fact must doubtless be taken into account in rating his judgment of other processes, his caution that all processess must still be regarded as experimental is significant as emanating from one so closely connected with their development. — Literary Digest.

A new record has been established by the Department of Marine and Fisheries in the number of white fish eggs collected for hatchery purposes in the Great Lakes and the Lake of the Woods. A total of 464,560,000 eggs were obtained, which exceeds all previous collections in the province of Ontario.

A new deposit of soapstone has been discovered on Trap Lake, a small lake south of Wabigoon Lake, in northwestern Ontario. The quality of the stone has been reported as excellent for various industrial uses, and practical trials are under way. Water transportation is available direct from the deposits to Wabigoon and Dryden, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

It is announced by the Canadian Pacific Railway that two free scholarships covering four years' tuition in architecture, chemical, civil, mechanical or electrical engineering at McGill University, are offered, subject to competitive examinations, to apprentices and other employees enrolled on the permanent staff of the company and under 21 years of age, and to minor sons of employees.

Canada's fisheries' production during 1923 is estimated to be worth $40,000,000. At the beginning of the year it was not thought that anything like this mark would be reached, for the Fordney tariff had cut deeply into exports to the United States. But as the year wore on the demand and prices generally improved, thus giving fishermen along the Atlantic coast especially a much better market.

Approximately $5,000,000 will be spent by the Dominion Coal Company to open up a new mine and colliery at Lingan, Nova Scotia, and construction of a branch line of railway to the new site has already been started. The new colliery will be equipped with every modern device, and a model town will be planned in its vicinity. It will have a capacity of some 2,000 tons daily.

The tenth annual Ski Tournament will be held at Revelstoke, February 5th and 6th, in connection with which ski-joring, tobogganing, snowshoeing, skating, etc., will be featured An endeavor is being made to secure the attendance of Uno Hilstrom, Sweden's champion ski-jumper, as well as other famous ski-jumpers from both Canada and the United States.

Canada in 1923 produced more coal, lead, cobalt and asbestos than during any other year since mining records have been kept. The output of coal was in the neighborhood of 17,300,000 tons, or 635,000 tons better than the best previous record, and 2,000,000 tons over that in 1922. The output of copper, nickel, cement and asbestos was also much above that for the preceding years. Gold production was down somewhat, but this was due more to a power shortage than anything else.

As a result of efforts on the part of Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, a 20 per cent. preference rate on Atlantic passages for all British immigrants settling in Canada has been arranged to come into effect on March 1 and continue until the end of the main immigration season at the end of November. It will apply only to British immigrants coming direct to Canada from the British Isles, and will affect all lines coming to Canadian Atlantic ports.

Three delightful cruises have been awarded to agents of the Canadian Pacific Railway for services rendered the company during the past year. One of them, J. J. Forster, general agent at Vancouver, will sail on a round-the-world cruise on the "Empress of Canada"; W. C. Casey, general agent at Winnipeg, will spend sixty-eight days cruising the Mediterranean on the "Empress of Scotland," while D. R. Kennedy, general agent at Buffalo, will enjoy a twenty-nine-day cruise in the West Indies on the "Empress of Britain." The trips were awarded by the company in recognition of last year's work in connection with cruise bookings.

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

Fernie Lodge No. 1335, Loyal Order of Moose are out on a campaign for new members. Their reason for so doing is that they want every good citizen to have an opportunity to help in the good work which is being carreid on by the Order for children at Mooseheart, and the old folks at Moosehaven.

"Every child is entitled to at least a high school education and a trade." —James J. Davis.

The Loyal Order of Moose is an international fraternal-beneficiary society, consistng of more than sixteen hundred lodges in the United States Canada and throughout the English-speaking world, having an aggregate membership in all these Lodges of almost 600,000 men. Most of the Lodges provide for sick benefits and funeral expense funds for their members. Each Lodge is a complete unit in itself, with full local autonomy.

Thirty-five facts regarding Mooseheart—

17. Play-grounds, thoroughly equipped and supervised, develop the girls and boys, through games and play, into strong, healthy and vigorous womanhood and manhood.

18. Although recruited from a much smaller group of eligibles, Mooseheart's football, baseball and track teams have proved superior to those of other high-schools, due no doubt to the clean, healthy, vigorous lives of the children.

19. The children at Mooseheart are getting the real country life, but under city conditions as far as the school and home life go. They come in daily contact with the operation of a modern farm, but live in modern homes and attend modern schols within a few miles of several thriving towns and within an hour of the central metropolis of the continent.

20. Opportunities for social contact are provided under proper supervision, so that the children will experience much the same life and environment as they would in the ordinary home.

22. The Mooseheart boys and girls receive pay for work done outside the period for school work, vocational work, home duties and chores. The money earned is credited to their accounts in the "Students' Savings Bank."

23. These children are never 'farmed out.' The families are kept together until after graduation.

24. Whenever possible the mothers are admitted to Mooseheart with their children and are employed at such tasks as they can perform in connection with the care of the children. thus the entire family is kept intact until graduation.

"Miss America" Declares Tanlac Wonderful Health Giving Tonic

Miss Campbell as "Miss America" crown which she has won on two occasions.
Photograph by Atlantic Foto Service

Miss Mary Katherine Campbell, twice proclaimed "Miss America," has taken TANLAC and endorses it in a statement recently given to the women of America through International Proprietaries, Inc., distributors of this great tonic. In this statement, Miss America declares that Good Health is the basis of all Beauty, and advises women who would be beautiful to "first find good health."

Her complete statement as given is as follows: "I consider it a great privilege to be able to tell the thousands of women everywhere what a great tonic TANLAC is. Health is the basis of all beauty. Without good health, one is apt to be run down, nervous, underweight high-strung, anemic. Indigestion drives the roses from a woman's cheeks and robs her of that radiant quality of womanhood that is real beauty.

"I have taken TANLAC and I do not hesitate to say that it is a wonderful health-giving tonic. It has brought relief and good health to many women, and with good health one may have a measure of beauty that will overcome shortcomings in face and figure.

"Rosy cheeks, sparkling eyes, a well-rounded figure, a lovable disposition, go hand in hand with good health. To those searching for beauty, I would say—'First of all, Find Good Health." The TANLAC treatment has proven itself a boon to womankind, and I recommend it.' '

Miss Campbell has written a booklet on Health and Beauty which may be secured by filling out the coupon below.

Showing the Canadian Pavilion, at Wembly, under course of construction. As portions of the Canadian space allotment have been given over to the two great railway systems, the building which will house the Government exhibits will be somewhat smaller than those of other Dominions, but a great deal of time and money has been spent on its design and decoration, with the result that it promises to be the gem of the British Empire Exhibition. The photograph shows the progress made up to the end of December.

Inset is shown the entrance to the Canadian Pacific pavilion. This building is grouped with the Canadian Government pavilion with which it has been designed to harmonize. A massive imple entrance, two stories high, deeply recessed with painted and coffered ceiling, richly colored doors and grilles of Canadian wood, approached by a broad flight of steps flanked on either side by a bronze moose and buffalo, s the centre of a facade enriched with decorated panels and columns. The strong color scheme of this entrance is emphasized at night by a unique lighting effect.

A visitor to the Canadian buildings will find displayed to good advantage examples of all Canadian natural and manufactured products, and agricultural exhibits which cannot but impress him with the magnitude of the resources of this Dominion and the vast opportunities which await the immigrant and settler.

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Croup at Night

No longer causes alarm

WHEN the child seems croupy in the evening apply Vicks over throat and chest. It usually averts a night attack. If croup comes on without warning, use of Vicks often brings relief in 15 minutes—eases rough breathing, subdues the brassy cough. Vicks is ideal for all children's cold troubles—it avoids so much dosing. Just as good for grown-ups' colds, and for cuts, burns, bruises, stings and skin itchings.

TAXATION AND MODERN COMMUNITIES

At a time like the present when one of the chief political cries in civic provincial and dominion affairs is a cry against taxation it might do nobody any harm to reflect that after all taxes are necessary, and have to be levied and must be paid. There ought to be a distinct recognition of the inevitable nature of taxes, and no one ought to be carried away by partizan denounciations of official "extravagance," or by fulminations against iniquity of specified taxes being imposed by reckless governing bodies upon oppressed and overburdened taxpayers. In our community there must be taxes and the taxes have to be considerable, and efficiently collected, the criticism against government would be a great deal more vigorous than it is at present. But our administrative bodies must at all times keep the cost of these services, which are now considered necessary, at a minimum.

The society in which we are living is the most complicated and exclusive in the history of the world. You cannot lift your eyes without seeing some work, some service, some utility which we simply would not do without, but which is a charge on the public revenues, and a heavy charge at that. If we pay heavy taxes, we get heavy service in return; and the point is that even under highly efficient and economical administration taxes in a modern community are bound to be high. We can get nothing that is not paid for; and the enormous body of public undertakings which constitutes the backbone of our civilization are all charges on the community at large and would constitute a tremendous expense even if administered without the waste of a single dollar.

It is worth while recollecting the foregoing facts, trite and obvious as they are. They may help us to retain the correct prospective about taxes which the heated criticisms from opponents of various taxes mght otherwise distort. There can be no escape from heavy taxation by communities such as ours, the problem lies in economic administration of the public revenues, and the distribution of the taxes over the general body of the population in accordance with their individual ability to pay.—Canadian Finance.

Ten Commandments Of The Curler

By Broomstick

1. Thou shall have no other game before me, for I am the Roaring Game which was in the beginning (even in the stone age) is now, and ever shall be.

2. Come not upon the ice with the old house broom for thous canst not quicken the pace of a dying rock with a last year's broom.

3. Thou shalt learn thy turns both the in and the out, for the skip will not hold his guiltless that throweth a wrong turn.

4. Play not a running shot when thou art asked for a guard lest thou raise they own shot, so sending the skip in the air; such play getteth his goat, queereth his game, causeth him to swallow his gum, and to revile thee openiy.

5. Thou shalt harken diligently to the defeated skip when his voice is lifted up in lamentations against the punk ice, and thou shalt not turn thy face from him when be blameth his third man. Even so shalt thou secure a listener aginst the day of thine own defeat.

6. Thou shalt not strew straws from thy broom in the path of thine own or thine adversary's rock, neither shalt thou spit in front of them causing them to halt in their course and to die suddenly and become Pork, for even as Pork is an abomination to the Jews, so also is a Hog in the sight of the skip.

7. Thou shalt have no discourse with thine adversary while his foot is in the Hack and his hand on the rock, but if thou wilt thou canst pray for him.

8. Thou shalt not push or kick a rock into the house from behind stealthily, for the opposing skip will know of a surety and his anger will be kindled aginst thee and he will rise up in righteous indignation over thee and he will smite thee with his broom handle, and thrust thee thence from the sight of the Curlers and the days of thy curling will be ended, for this is the unpardonable sin.

9. Thou shalt not covet thy opponent's rock, nor his broom, nor his lead player, neither shall thou filch from him his third man, who is his mainstay and a wall of defence in the day of battle.

10. And when thou cometh to the last end and has won the game nd hast still a rock to play and thou playest with great deliberation and thy rock gambles playfully down the ice, sailing jauntily around the guard and through the port and wicketh thine adversary's rock into the house so that it counts him the end and the game, and thou cometh down the ice in fear and trembling and art hailed by the enemy as a Good Sport and a Curler, and by his own side with groans and murmurings, and findest thou hast peddled the game away, thou shalt receive the proffered hand of thine adversary and Wring it, even if in thine heart thou couldst wish it were his Neck.

BUILDS UP SYSTEM INCREASES ENERGY

People in all walks of life who suffered from symptoms like those described above have found that it is easy to throw off these troubles and feel fine by toning up one vital organ of the body.

Gives Quick Relief

This organ is your liver! When working properly your liver purifies your blood, every drop of which filters through your liver every fifteen minutes. Also, your liver supplies secretions that are essential to proper digestion and nourishment and prevent constipation. But, when your liver becomes clogged and sluggish, how can it do these three things as Nature intended? The result is you often wake up feeling dull and tired and suffer frequently from one or more symptoms such as indigestion, sour stomach and gas, faulty movement of the bowels, coated tongue, poor complexion, sallowness, and a general run-down, nervous and upset condition.

Special Trial Offer

Get quick relief! Take just a few spoonfulls of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals to cleanse and tone your liver and help Nature build up your system. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise druggists are authorized to refund your money.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by Suddaby Drug and Book Store, Fernie, and by leading druggists in every city and town.

Cincinnati man tells how to shrivel up corns or calluses so they lift off with fingers.

Ouch ! ? ! ? ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezone, tell him to order a small bottle for you.

Most headaches due to lack of internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisons form in the accumulated food waste. These poisons, absorbed by the blood, are carried throughout the body. Headaches follow. Biliousness, sleepless nights, lack of energy, all result from constipation. Each of these takes away piecemeal something of your health and strength. In time, intestinal poisoning due to lack of internal cleanliness may cause the breakdown of some vital organ.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

More Important Than Soap and Water

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Health and Happiness Reward Internal Cleanliness

Physicians Favor Lubrication

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

TREMENDOUS strides are being made in the lumbering and allied industries in British Columbia. Hon. J. D. McLean, acting Minister of Lands, announces that the total timber scale for the year 1923 was 2,542,280,000 board feet, an increase of nearly 34 per cent. over 1922, when the scale amounted to 1,899,158,000 board feet. Vancouver district scaled 1,906,103,360 board feet, or more than the amount for the whole province in 1922. An increase of 60 per cent. was made in the Prince Rupert district for the year.

Lumbering is by far the most important industry in the province, and through the following of sane conservation methods and fire protection, as adopted by the Department of Lands, under Hon. T. D. Pattullo, the timber resources of British Columbia are nearly inexhaustible. This province is estimated to have 400 billion feet of standing timber, with an annual increase through growth alone of eight billion feet. The capacity of the saw-mills is about three billion feet, while a certain amount of timber is destroyed each year by fire. But the timber cut and burned does not represent more than half the natural increase.

DETERMINED to keep his pledge and eliminate the proprietary beer club, Attorney-General Manson and the Government have taken the first step in this direction. A new regulation has been passed relating to applications for club licences and the forms call for the fullest information from all applicants. It is understood that there will be few licences granted and these will only be to well-organized clubs, carried on strictly along old lines. That is, clubs existing for the purpose of serving meals and providing sleeping accomodation.

The attorney-general's intention is to kill the club operated for private gain. All applicants will be required to state what purpose the club is operated for, giving date of incorporation, information regarding the premises, the number of rooms furnished for bed-rooms and the number of meals served. A balance sheet will be required showing profits for 1923, as well as a copy of the club constitution and by-laws.

CRANBROOK BOY TRAGEDY VICTIM

CRANBROOK, Jan. 20.—Tragedy entered the home of one of Cranbrook's most respected families Sunday morning about 9 o'clock, when Gordon Woodman, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Woodman, died under particularly distressing circumstances

Deceased was about seventeen years of age, born and raised in Cranbrook, and known to all as an upright and exemplary young man whom everyone liked. The news of his tragic passing caused little short of consternation as it was first learned, followed by intense sympathy for the members of the bereaved family.

He had completed his high school course here some time ago and it is thought that the responsibility of deciding on his future weighed too heavily on him, which is borne out by a brief message his mother received.

Death occurred at his home and his father was immediately summoned from Kitchener, where, as a member of the firm of the Cranbrook Sash & Door Co., he is engaged at the mill of the company there.

The eldest daughter, Miss Bessie Woodman, is teaching at Corbin, B.C., and is expected to arrive home on Monday afternoon. Deceased was a member of the Tuxis Square boys' class at the Baptist church, and the funeral will take place from that church, of which the family are prominent members.

Two brothers and three sisters remain, as well as the bereaved parents.

"WHY WORRY" AIMS HIGHER THAN PREVIOUS HAROLD LLOYD COMEDY SUCCESSES

That is a question that has puzzled people inside the motion picture industry as well as the millons of followers Lloyd has won by his clean, wholesome comedy on the screen.

Yet he does. He followed "A Sailor-Made Man" with a great picture in "Grandma's Boy." He maintained the pace with "Dr. Jack," and with "Safety Last" he hit a notch which many felt it would be impossible for him to hit again.

Nevertheless, he has in "Why Worry?" a six-reel farce which will be shown at the Orpheum Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. "Why Worry?" will win many new friends for Lloyd. It is going to prove that Lloyd can not set a pace too fast for himself. Each picture he makes it become more difficult, of course, for him to equal its predecessor, but by a greater effort he always does.

"Why Worry?" was seven months actually in production. He started it in December and the finishing touches were not put on it until June, or just before Harold and his young bride, Mildred Davis, left for New York, on their delayed honeymoon. Few pictures takes that long in work. It was a difficult production to make, yet the harder they are the more vigor Lloyd and his staff put back of their efforts.

Lloyd has never taken a step backward. He always travels forward.

LEMONS WHITEN AND BEAUTIFY THE SKIN

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It is marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

Inspector Dunwoody, of Nelson, is spending a few days in the city.

The local authorities have the ban on all punch boards and gambling devices in business houses.

Mrs. E. L. Fehlberg, of Kalispell, Mont., is visiting Mrs. R. P. Colton and Mrs. J. J. Harrington.

Our meat pies are good. Have you tried them? We will have steak and kidney pies for Saturday. Take one Home.—Crow's Nest Bakery.

Jimmy Davidson, of the P. Burns office staff, has been transferred to Lethbridge. He will leave on Monday.

The Junior C.G.I.T., of the Baptist Church, will hold a tea and a home-cooking stall, in the basement of the church, on Saturday, January 26th, at 3 p.m. Come and help the girls out.

Certain capitalists are negotiating for the purchase of the timber in the Cedar Valley. The timber is owned by a number of local men and the Elk Valley Lumber Company.

Esther Rebekah Lodge are holding a Leap Year dance in the I.O.O.F. Hall, February 29. Admission $1.00 a couple, extra gentleman 50c. Whitehouse orchestra.

On St. Patrick's Day, Monday, March 17, the Young Ladies of the Sodality will hold their second annual play, entitled, "The Coming of Jeraldine" or "The Adventures of an Irish Colleen," in the Grand Theatre. Be sure to get a ticket and keep the date open.

At nine o'clock tonight, at the Napanee, sixty or seventy oldtimers of the district will sit down at the third annual banquet of the association. A fine program has been arranged. Every year this event is becoming more successful than the last and those who attend will certainly have a big time tonight.

The ladies' beauty parlor in the Fernie Hotel will open for business on Saturday morning. The parlor has been fitted up with all the most modern equipment for the work and a thoroughly competent and experienced lady will be in charge. Fernie ladies have long felt the need of an establishment of this kind and it will no doubt be a real convenience. Phone for appointments.

Judgment has just been handed down for the Plaintff by Mr. Justice Macdonald in the case of James Frye against Ed. Marsham and Thomas McGladrey, which was tried at the Fall Assize here. The plaintiff, Frye, while proceeding up Thompson Street in the Annex, towards the Great Northern Station and while partly across a crossing, was knocked down by the defendant McGladrey's car, driven at the time by the defendant Marsham. His Lordship has allowed the plaintiff Frye $1800.00 and costs. Herchmer & Mitchell were acting for the plaintiff and Lawe & Fisher for defendant McGladrey and G. J. Spreull for defendant Marsham.

The Fernie local of the Brewery Workers' union held its annual banquet in the Grand Central hotel Friday evening last, at wihch officers for the year were formerly placed in office. After the dinner, Thomas Uphill. M.P.P., was appointed chairman, and expressed great appreciation of the work of the brewery workers in remaining true to the union. He pointed out that at one time nearly every craft had its own local union here, but backsliding among the members had left only two labor union locals in the city, these being the miners and brewery workers. The following program was then proceeded with: song, F. E. Alexander; address, J. McGladrey, president of the brewery workers' union; song, Messrs. Easton, Banks and Riley; address, J. Jerue, brewmaster; French song and dance, Walter Harwood and Vic Lalonde; address, J. Robson, local secretary; song, George Bowen; step dance, Jack (Lanky) Hayes; recitation, H. Wheeler. This was followed by a brief outline of what transpired during the last session of the legislature, by Mr. Uphill, who is one of the labor representatives. Every individual present was then called upon to take a part in the program, making a real lively close to one of the successful gatherings the brewery workers have ever held.

WHITE STAR YEAST CAKES

"Just as Good" Kind

THEY ARE THE BEST

There has been a dance in Fernie every night this week.

Born, on January 14, 1924, to Mr. and Mrs. Steve, of the Crow's Nest Bakery, a son.

The G.W.V.A. Band will meet for practice on Sunday evening at 7.15. All band members govern themselves accordingly.

John Dufour has purchased the residence on Victoria Avenue, in which he now resides, from the local lodge of Odd Fellows.

Geo. Appleyard returned early in the week from Minneapolis, where he was called owing to the sudden illness of Mrs. Appleyard.

The Junior C.G.I.T., of the Baptist Church, will hold a tea and a home-cooking stall, in the basement of the church, on Saturday, January 26th, at 3 p.m. Come and help the girls out.

When business is poor with the big city stores they do their heavy advertising for force trade. In the smaller towns when trade is slow the merchants stop advertisng, crawl under the counter and go to sleep.

Esther Rebekah Lodge will hold a whist drive and dance in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Thursday, January 31. Cards from 8.30 to 10.30, dancing 11 to 2. Refreshments. Whitehouse orchestra. Admission 50 cents.

Fernie skips are lining up rinks for the District Bonspiel, which opens at Lethbridge on the 4th of February. There will probably be six rinks from Fernie, two from Cranbrook and two from Natal to represent British Columbia.

The Loyal Order of Moose held their Burn's Night dance last evening. The crowd voted they had a good time, the dance being kept up for one hour extra. The feature of the evening was the step dancing by Misses Arbuckle and Thomson. The Moose take this opportunity of thanking these artists, also Mr. Strachan for music. Bro. James Whitehouse supplied the music for the big dance in his usual style.

Rev. Father Anthony, who has been in charge of the district work of the Roman Catholic Church here for the past ten years, has been transferred to Sechelt, B.C., where he will have charge of the Indian School. Rev. Father Anthony has been a sterling citizen, possessing a broad minded Christianity and a generous heart, which endeared him to both Protestants and Catholics alike. Fernie has indeed lost a real man and everyone wishes him success and happiness in his new field. He left on Saturday for Sechelt.

The success attending the efforts of the Women's Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. in the first of a series of get-together socials, held in Tuesday evening, augurs well for the future. The seating capacity of the Vets Assembly room being taxed to the utmost. Whist was indulged in from 7 to 9 p.m., the winners being: ladies, prize, Mrs. Phillips, Sr.; gents' Tom Uphill, M.P.P.; the booby prizes being won by Miss E. Galloway and Dr. G. Kelman respecitvely. The Scotch dancers, under the direction of Piper Hardy, gave a series of national dances. The Fire Hall orchestra furnished terpsichorean music, the dancing being interspersed by vocal and elocution turns, given by members of the Vets Concert Party. Refreshments were served during the evening with the wee sma' hours bringing to a close another great event in the annals of the local Veterans and their Women's Auxiliary.

THE QUEST OF THE POLE

It's not a new idea, this proposition of reaching the North Pole through the air. The thought first came to S. A. Andree, a Swedish aeronaut, in 1895. Andree that year built a balloon for his projected trip to "the top of the world," but at the eleventh hour decided that the aircraft was not suited for that trip, and began to construct a larger bag.

Two yars later, on July 11, 1897, Andree and his balloon sailed toward the frozen North from Spitzenberg. Late that evening he dropped a message to the effect that he was on his way. That was the last heard of him. The aeronaut and his gas bag disappeared in the insatiable maw of the Arctic, which for more than two thousand years has been exacting a heavy toll in the lives of men who have defied it in their quest for its secrets.

Plans have been made by the Germans to rediscover the North Pole with the aid of a Zeppelin. Propositions have been advanced to explore the Arctic regions with the help of airplanes. But the forthcoming trip of the navy aviators finds the mysterious reaches which Peary conquered still unvisited by aircraft of any type. Before them lies a glory second only to that which came to Peary.

The lure of the Arctic—the call of the frozen North—have drawn many a daring navigator to his death. The ancients always wondered—what lies there to the north? Homer conceived a northland divided into two great sections—one where it always was night and another where night never came. The popular conception of the North among the Greeks of the pre-Christian era was a land where men lived in peace and plenty, where the sun never set.

That the old Greeks were not far from the truth was pointed out only several years ago by Vihljalmer Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, who in his book "The Friendly North" tears away some of the veils of mystery and clouds of misunderstanding about the Arctic lands. According to Stefansson, the vast empire of the ice king is a land of promise and plenty, with mineral resources unmatched anywhere else—a land with pleasant summers and none too dreary winters, of dazzling days and alluring nights.

Stefansson has been fortunate. He has seen the Far North smile. He has seen a friendly Arctic. But most of his predecessors met a deadly, treacherous Far North—a relentless, unconquerable Arctic which killed with a chill even as Moloch killed with his fire. They have met a land which blinded with snow glare, a land which demanded everything and gave nothing—a defiant vastness of ice and glaciers into which they had to bring their own food or perish. And perish many of them did.

'Tis a remarkable thing, this lure of the Arctic. It is as powerful now as it was before Peary attained his goal fourteen years ago. Men always seek the seemingly unattainable. Men always strive to conquer nature and her allies. Since Eve bit into the apple, the quest of the absolute and the unquenchable desire for the forbidden have been strong in the minds of humans. Navigators, adventurers, scientists, sportsmen — men sick of the plaudits of civiliaztion and men thirsting for the plaudits of men—men of all nations—have been fighting their way into the playground of the frost furies and great have been their successes. But many have been the failures.

The sagas of the Arctic are full of tragedies such as that which befel Sir John Franklin, the English explorer who sailed away into the North in 1846 and never was seen or heard from again. While Sir John failed his expedition gave the greatest impetus to Arctic exploration and led to the greatest advances towards the goal which was to succumb to Peary's indomitable courage. It was the ill-fated Franklin expedition which developed interest in the quest of the Pole in the United States and in 1850 led to the sailing of the Greely expedition.

Ship after ship was sent to the relief of Franklin. Franklin never was found, but the searchers discovered new lands up ther, new seas, new bays, new races of men, animals hitherto unknown. Sir James Ross, who commanded the first Franklin relief expedition, discovered the Arctic Highlanders, a race of Farthest North Eskimos. Stefansson came back with stories of the blonde Eskimo, a new race which fought the dangers of the North valiantly, but succumbed to common measles without even a chance for life. A strange land, this Arctic empire!

The dramtic tale of the fight for the Pole stretches over a period of 2234 years. Even as far back as 35 B.C. the ancients reached out for the secrets of the Northland. In that year Pythmeas, a Greek, sailed from Massalia, now Marseilles, and got as far as the north of Norway. "There is a land called Thule up there, with ice and strange men and peculiar animals," wrote Pytheas when he came back.

This brave Greek from Massaila, in the modern vernacular, "started something." In 825 A. D., according to the monk Dicuil, a body of Irish monks set sail for unknown lands in the North and discovered Iceland.

The first real Arctic expedition came about the year 870, and is told about by King Alfred in his translation of Orosius. The Norwegian Ottar, a seaman brave and bold, went forth into Arctic, and on his return recounted his adventures and discoveries to Alfred. Ottar rounded North Cape, sailed up the Murman coast and discovered the White Sea. Ottar hand no steamship, no ice breakers, no pemmican, no gum drops. A hardy Noresman was Ottar.

In 1070, while William and his Normans were at war with the English after the battle of Hastings, the Norsemen already were trying hard to subjugate the Arctic. Adam of Bremen sets down in his writings that the Norse King Harold Haardraade made a trip into the unknown spaces and saw many strange sights.

The Lorelei of the Far North has sent out her bewitching and deathly call to the adventurers of all nations. The chart of Arctic explorations lists Italians and Portugese, Dutch and Germans, Greek and Americans. The first Portugese to make the jaunt into the fountainhead of chilblains was Vasqueanes Cortes-Real, whose advance really was phenominal.

It is very likely that Cortes-Real reached Hudson Strait. He sailed "twenty leagues into it," according to the writings of the time, "without all impediments of ice; but their victuals failing them, they returned back agayne with joy." Many an expedi- after years and many found that they tion found its victuals failing it in could not "return back agayne with joy."

As early as 1858 the story of Arctic exploration turns up the forerunner of Dr. Cook, the self-appointed "discoverer" of the North Pole, whose tale startled the world in 1909, just before Peary got to the top of the earth. In 1858 Nicolo Zeno of Venice announced the discovery of what he called Frisland, a mythical Arctic country. Zeno got up elaborate maps of this fake empire and fooled many wise navigators, who followed the spurious charts and believed that they had discovered the land which Zeno had located by the mental and absent treatment method.

Martin Frobisher, the English navigator, whose heroism has left its imprint on this continent, reached Baffin Land. Nine years later John Davis, the most scientific seaman of that day, sailed away on the first of three voyages into the Arctic. After Frobisher and Davis came Britons and Scandinavians aplenty, all determined to reach farther into this mystic land.

Those were the days of heroic adventure and great discoveries and explorations. The nations of Europe were reaching out for new lands to claim, new people to conquer, and even the icy North was not beyond their desires—and their avarice, too. For it was spread about Europe that the Arctic country was full of gold.

In 1819 the modern era of Arctic discovery and exploration was ushered in with the first of Parry's three voyages. That same year his friend, Captain Franklin, started for the North by a different route. But the Pole could not be conquered.

In 1846 came the first great expedition, one of the most famous of all the Arctic voyages and the most tragic in the history of the quest of the Pole. Sir John Franklin sailed the Advance and the Rescue, Lieut. de Haven, Lieut Griffith and Dr. E. K. Kane as a relief expedition.

American expeditions came thick and fast after that. Dr. Kane sailed in 1853, Dr. I. I. Hayes in 1860, Charles Hall in 1860 and Lieut. Schwanke of the U. S. Army in 1879. The Schwanke expedition was an official relief party of the United States Government, for the sarch for Franklin still was being conducted.

In 1879, James Gordon Bennett, owner of the New York Herald, outfitted the schooner, Jeanette, under Lieut. De Long, and sent her on her ill-fated voyage. She was manned by men from the United States Navy. The Jeanette was crushed in the ice floes and most of her crew, including De Long, were lost.

The year 1882 saw an international conference which established Arctic stations for observations. In July 1886, Lieut. Robert E. Peary sailed on his first voyage into the Arctic zone. In 1888, Dr. Nansen sailed toward the Pole, but never reached it. Dr. Nansen lived to return and tell the tale. He conceived the idea that if a ship were allowed to drift up there in the North it would drift over the Pole. So in 1893 he started on his courageous and valuable drift in the Fram, in which he made discoveries of high scientific value.

In 1900 the Abruzzi expedition with Captain Cagni at the head in place of the Duke, who had been frost bitten, reached beyond 86 degrees north latitude, and in 1901 Dr. Roald Amundsen set out for the pole. Still the goal could not be reached. Men said that it never would be attained.

In 1898 Peary began the serier of systematic serious efforts which, at the end of twenty-three years of hardship and heroism brought him to the Pole. Lord Northcliffe presented to to the Arctic in a previous expedition. Peary persisted. The voyage in the Windward failed, but the expedition in the Roosevelt brought success in 1909.

The North Pole has been reached by water. Peary found that the top of the world was a vast ice field and that there was no land there. Now the Shenandoah will seek to conquer this task by air. And perhaps the men of the Shenandoah will find what Peary did not find—a great continent beyond the peak of Asia.

The death of the French engineer, M. Alexandre Eiffel, recalls that his name is inseparably connected with the tower in Paris which he erected to a height of 984 feet. There is no other structure anywhere which stands so high, be it pyramid, dome, skyscraper or obelisk. The tower was erected 35 years ago. It is now used as a wireless station, but it was built originally to help M. Eiffel in his engineering experiments. In the realm of research work M. Eiffel accomplished a great deal, and this was particularly true in his study of aerodynamics. He conducted wind-tunnel experiments and investigated the theory of plane surfaces and of propellors. He became a force behind the development of the aeroplane, although not widely or popularly recognized as such. In the early days of aeroplane evolution he collaborated with Belriot, the Voison brothers, Mr. Handley Page and the Wright brothers. As an engineer he was famous all over the world, although the Eiffel Tower, which has brought his name within the knowledge of so many, is frequently regard in a spirit of frivolity.

THE QUEST OF THE POLE

It's not a new idea, this proposition of reaching the North Pole through the air. The thought first came to S. A. Andree, a Swedish aeronaut, in 1895. Andree that year built a balloon for his projected trip to "the top of the world," but at the eleventh hour decided that the aircraft was not suited for that trip, and began to construct a larger bag.

Two yars later, on July 11, 1897, Andree and his balloon sailed toward the frozen North from Spitzenberg. Late that evening he dropped a message to the effect that he was on his way. That was the last heard of him. The aeronaut and his gas bag disappeared in the insatiable maw of the Arctic, which for more than two thousand years has been exacting a heavy toll in the lives of men who have defied it in their quest for its secrets.

Plans have been made by the Germans to rediscover the North Pole with the aid of a Zeppelin. Propositions have been advanced to explore the Arctic regions with the help of airplanes. But the forthcoming trip of the navy aviators finds the mysterious reaches which Peary conquered still unvisited by aircraft of any type. Before them lies a glory second only to that which came to Peary.

The lure of the Arctic—the call of the frozen North—have drawn many a daring navigator to his death. The ancients always wondered—what lies there to the north? Homer conceived a northland divided into two great sections—one where it always was night and another where night never came. The popular conception of the North among the Greeks of the pre-Christian era was a land where men lived in peace and plenty, where the sun never set.

That the old Greeks were not far from the truth was pointed out only several years ago by Vihljalmer Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, who in his book "The Friendly North" tears away some of the veils of mystery and clouds of misunderstanding about the Arctic lands. According to Stefansson, the vast empire of the ice king is a land of promise and plenty, with mineral resources unmatched anywhere else—a land with pleasant summers and none too dreary winters, of dazzling days and alluring nights.

Stefansson has been fortunate. He has seen the Far North smile. He has seen a friendly Arctic. But most of his predecessors met a deadly, treacherous Far North—a relentless, unconquerable Arctic which killed with a chill even as Moloch killed with his fire. They have met a land which blinded with snow glare, a land which demanded everything and gave nothing—a defiant vastness of ice and glaciers into which they had to bring their own food or perish. And perish many of them did.

'Tis a remarkable thing, this lure of the Arctic. It is as powerful now as it was before Peary attained his goal fourteen years ago. Men always seek the seemingly unattainable. Men always strive to conquer nature and her allies. Since Eve bit into the apple, the quest of the absolute and the unquenchable desire for the forbidden have been strong in the minds of humans. Navigators, adventurers, scientists, sportsmen — men sick of the plaudits of civiliaztion and men thirsting for the plaudits of men—men of all nations—have been fighting their way into the playground of the frost furies and great have been their successes. But many have been the failures.

The sagas of the Arctic are full of tragedies such as that which befel Sir John Franklin, the English explorer who sailed away into the North in 1846 and never was seen or heard from again. While Sir John failed his expedition gave the greatest impetus to Arctic exploration and led to the greatest advances towards the goal which was to succumb to Peary's indomitable courage. It was the ill-fated Franklin expedition which developed interest in the quest of the Pole in the United States and in 1850 led to the sailing of the Greely expedition.

Ship after ship was sent to the relief of Franklin. Franklin never was found, but the searchers discovered new lands up ther, new seas, new bays, new races of men, animals hitherto unknown. Sir James Ross, who commanded the first Franklin relief expedition, discovered the Arctic Highlanders, a race of Farthest North Eskimos. Stefansson came back with stories of the blonde Eskimo, a new race which fought the dangers of the North valiantly, but succumbed to common measles without even a chance for life. A strange land, this Arctic empire!

The dramtic tale of the fight for the Pole stretches over a period of 2234 years. Even as far back as 35 B.C. the ancients reached out for the secrets of the Northland. In that year Pythmeas, a Greek, sailed from Massalia, now Marseilles, and got as far as the north of Norway. "There is a land called Thule up there, with ice and strange men and peculiar animals," wrote Pytheas when he came back.

This brave Greek from Massaila, in the modern vernacular, "started something." In 825 A. D., according to the monk Dicuil, a body of Irish monks set sail for unknown lands in the North and discovered Iceland.

The first real Arctic expedition came about the year 870, and is told about by King Alfred in his translation of Orosius. The Norwegian Ottar, a seaman brave and bold, went forth into Arctic, and on his return recounted his adventures and discoveries to Alfred. Ottar rounded North Cape, sailed up the Murman coast and discovered the White Sea. Ottar hand no steamship, no ice breakers, no pemmican, no gum drops. A hardy Noresman was Ottar.

In 1070, while William and his Normans were at war with the English after the battle of Hastings, the Norsemen already were trying hard to subjugate the Arctic. Adam of Bremen sets down in his writings that the Norse King Harold Haardraade made a trip into the unknown spaces and saw many strange sights.

The Lorelei of the Far North has sent out her bewitching and deathly call to the adventurers of all nations. The chart of Arctic explorations lists Italians and Portugese, Dutch and Germans, Greek and Americans. The first Portugese to make the jaunt into the fountainhead of chilblains was Vasqueanes Cortes-Real, whose advance really was phenominal.

It is very likely that Cortes-Real reached Hudson Strait. He sailed "twenty leagues into it," according to the writings of the time, "without all impediments of ice; but their victuals failing them, they returned back agayne with joy." Many an expedi- after years and many found that they tion found its victuals failing it in could not "return back agayne with joy."

As early as 1858 the story of Arctic exploration turns up the forerunner of Dr. Cook, the self-appointed "discoverer" of the North Pole, whose tale startled the world in 1909, just before Peary got to the top of the earth. In 1858 Nicolo Zeno of Venice announced the discovery of what he called Frisland, a mythical Arctic country. Zeno got up elaborate maps of this fake empire and fooled many wise navigators, who followed the spurious charts and believed that they had discovered the land which Zeno had located by the mental and absent treatment method.

Martin Frobisher, the English navigator, whose heroism has left its imprint on this continent, reached Baffin Land. Nine years later John Davis, the most scientific seaman of that day, sailed away on the first of three voyages into the Arctic. After Frobisher and Davis came Britons and Scandinavians aplenty, all determined to reach farther into this mystic land.

Those were the days of heroic adventure and great discoveries and explorations. The nations of Europe were reaching out for new lands to claim, new people to conquer, and even the icy North was not beyond their desires—and their avarice, too. For it was spread about Europe that the Arctic country was full of gold.

In 1819 the modern era of Arctic discovery and exploration was ushered in with the first of Parry's three voyages. That same year his friend, Captain Franklin, started for the North by a different route. But the Pole could not be conquered.

In 1846 came the first great expedition, one of the most famous of all the Arctic voyages and the most tragic in the history of the quest of the Pole. Sir John Franklin sailed the Advance and the Rescue, Lieut. de Haven, Lieut Griffith and Dr. E. K. Kane as a relief expedition.

American expeditions came thick and fast after that. Dr. Kane sailed in 1853, Dr. I. I. Hayes in 1860, Charles Hall in 1860 and Lieut. Schwanke of the U. S. Army in 1879. The Schwanke expedition was an official relief party of the United States Government, for the sarch for Franklin still was being conducted.

In 1879, James Gordon Bennett, owner of the New York Herald, outfitted the schooner, Jeanette, under Lieut. De Long, and sent her on her ill-fated voyage. She was manned by men from the United States Navy. The Jeanette was crushed in the ice floes and most of her crew, including De Long, were lost.

The year 1882 saw an international conference which established Arctic stations for observations. In July 1886, Lieut. Robert E. Peary sailed on his first voyage into the Arctic zone. In 1888, Dr. Nansen sailed toward the Pole, but never reached it. Dr. Nansen lived to return and tell the tale. He conceived the idea that if a ship were allowed to drift up there in the North it would drift over the Pole. So in 1893 he started on his courageous and valuable drift in the Fram, in which he made discoveries of high scientific value.

In 1900 the Abruzzi expedition with Captain Cagni at the head in place of the Duke, who had been frost bitten, reached beyond 86 degrees north latitude, and in 1901 Dr. Roald Amundsen set out for the pole. Still the goal could not be reached. Men said that it never would be attained.

AUTOPSIES 3000 YEARS LATE

X-Rays and modern knowledge make an autopsy on an Egyptian mummy perfectly possible, says Watson Davis, of Science Service, writing in the New York World. We may presently know just how Tut-ankh-Amen came to his death. Written history at its best is a second-hand record, necessarily inaccurate in fine or gross details, Mr. Davis remarks. The news of forty centuries ago has been greatly distorted through transfer into hierolyphs and subsequent translations to language that we can understand. He continues:

"Rich as are the records of the Valley of the Nile, where nearly every square foot contains a trace of human antiquity, no evidence is more final and striking than the remains of what were once livng men. Graves record the process of man.

"Historians, Egyptoligists, art connaisseurs, and archeologists are not alone in being interested in all that is mortal of Tut-ankh-Amen, minor king of Egypt, who now reigns supreme among the mortuary splendors of a past age. Doctors, dentists, paleontologists — and undertakers — will read with interest the reports that come out of Egypt as Tut-ankh-Amen's mummy is found.

"The king is said to have been young when his rule ended, but his death-certificate is missing. Perhaps the priests and the wise men of his time may not have known what disease carried off their ruler. Perhaps they knew and would not tell.

"With X-rays and modern knowledge, the archeologists may be able to rewrite the record of Tut-ankh-Amen's death. Without disturbing a fragment of his shroud, rays of which he never dreamed will picture on photographic plates an outline of his bony frame. If medical men are allowed to perform a belated autopsy they will probably find some interesting pathologic signs.

"Amenhotep II, the Pharaoh of the Exodus and a ruler of the Eighteenth Dynasty, 1580 to 1350 B.C., to which Tut-ankh-Amen belonged, had hardening of the arteries, and was a man of great age when he died. From his mummified remains and those of some 10,000 ancient Egyptians that have been studied by such paleopathologists as Sir Marc Arman Ruffer, Dr. G. Elliot Smith, and others, the physical ills of over ten thousand years of Egyptian civilization have been learned. Skin, bones, muscles, nerves, blood-vessles, hearts, livers, kidneys, lungs and stomachs from the mummies showed evidence of smallpox, rickets, appendicitis, tuberculosis, bone-lesions, infantile paralysis and other diseases. These ills were painfully like those of today; little or no change has been porduced by a few thousand years.

"The bodies of Pharaohs usually came to ignominious ends only a few hundred years after they were laid to rest. Thieves in the locality of Luxor plied a thriving trade in despoiling tombs of their furniture, and selling pieces of mummies, which were believed to have high medicinal value. Amenhotep with arteriosclerosis is the only Pharaoh so far found who escaped such destruction." — Literary Digest.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE B.C. DIVISION OF THE C.I.M.M.

Arrangements in connection with the annual general meeting of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, in the Hotel Vancouver, Vancouver, on February 13 to 15, have now been completed, and an excellent programme has been prepared. All the subjects to be discussed at the technical session are of timely interest and involve considerations in which the general public is equally concerned with those directly engaged in the mining industry of the province.

The material welfare of British Columbia is largely dependent on the prosperity of the mining industry. All will agree that everything possible should be done to ensure that general conditions shall be as conducive as they can be made to an uninterrupted and progressive expansion of the industry. Certain existing economic and industrial conditions are exerting a retarding effect on our mining industry. These unfavorable conditions may be removed or at least ameliorated. Ways and means in other directions of stimulating progress need constantly be explored. The promotion of the welfare of the mining industry is the principle purpose of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy as set forth in its charter. In keeping with this purpose, attention at the forthcoming meeting will be mainly directed to a survey of industrial conditions as affecting mining in the Province, with a view to their betterment. The subjects to be immediately considered are included under the respective heads of: "Conditions favorable and unfavorable to mining in British Columbia;" "The disabilities of the Coal Mining industry in British Columbia and possible remedies;" "The possibilities for an iron and steel industry in British Columbia;" and "Research in connection with local metallurgical problems."

The meetings, it may be added, are open to the public.

COMMUNIST QUARRELS

In an unheralded way, but none the less significant on that account, the Russian Revolution has entered on a new phase through the quarrels that have broken out among the Communist leaders. There is something in the nature of a revolt in progress and it seems it is against individuals in the Soviet Government and against the party machine as a whole. It is the discipline that is resented because it is regarded as intolearble. That discipline was borne when there was war on hand but now that Russia is at peace internal disputes have arisen and they have been smouldering for over a year At the bottom of the dissention is a desire for a real voice by the people in the choice of the party's executive. The clamor is for a reorganization of the Soviet on democratic instead of autocratic principles.

The storm burst at Moscow last month. Certain Communist leaders declared themselves the spokesmen of the masses and demanded that restrictions should be removed, especially those of an electoral character. M. Trotsky was unable to attend the gathering at which this outbreak occurred but he sent a letter in which he said he was kept at home "by the counter-revolutionary force of malaria.' His letter was interpreted as supporting the revolt within his party. There are now constant recriminations among the Soviet members. There is talk of party disintegration and the possibility of final ruin. There is, whatever may happen in the future, an end of the united front which the Communists have hitherto presented to the world. They make no secret themselves that they are at loggerheads. M. Zinovieff is striving hard to quell the march of democracy in Russia. At a recent meeting he said: "The time for legalizing the formation of groups can never come, because it would involve the freedom of the press, and, in general, political rights for non-proletarian classes. We cannot allow division of the party as this would involve division of the State." Through all this the attitude of the Russian people is one of expectancy. Some observers say the present situation parrallels that of December and January of 1916 - 1917. Victoria Colonist.

DOG DERBY RACERS IN TRAINING

DOG mushers at The Pas are working hard to get their teams in trim for the next annual Dog Derby which is to be held this year on March 11. Shorty Russick, winner of last year's race at Banff and second to Morgan in The Pas event, is on the ground training. The Morgan team, winners last year, will be driven by Bert Hayes; Billy Grayson, who drove Morgan's dogs last year, will drive a team belonging to Tom Creighton. Winterton, another old Dog Derby musher, will enter a team. The Bancroft-Dupas team is in harness and Jack Bacon has a splendid team in training for the 200-mile non-stop grind. Several teams from outside of Manitoba are expected to test their speed and endurance against the northern huskies and their drivers, and an energetic committee is at work striving to make the 1924 Derby bigger and better than anything that has yet been staged at "The Gateway to the North."

This year will see also a "Queen of the Carnival" contest in which beautiful young ladies from all parts of Manitoba will compete for the honor of being Queen of the Carnival or members of the Carnival Queen's Court. Entries in this contest are beginning to reach the committee and a lively contest for the carnival honors is assured.

Carnival features are being arranged for the enjoyment of outsiders visiting The Pas during the period of the Dog Derby and efforts are being made to provide amusement for everyone visiting the ambitious northerners during their annual winter fun festival.

Definite Policy of Immigration for Canadian National Railways

WHEN, a little more than a year ago, Sir Henry W. Thornton, K. B. E., was chosen to head the Canadian National Railways, one of his first acts was to put into motion machinery for aiding in the colonization and development of Canada, particularly along the lines of the National System. He realized that one of the crying needs of Canada was for more population, and he has since been quoted, on several occasions as saying that if Canada had a population of twenty-five million people, Canada would have no railway problem.

Dr. W. J. Black

The organization of a department to look after colonization and development was entrusted by Sir Henry to Mr. W. D. Robb, Vice-President, and Mr. Robb at once proceeded to build up the necessary organization to look after this most important national work. Investigations, conferences and careful planning gradually brought into being an effective department, the effort of the year culminating in the engagement of Dr. W. J. Black, Deputy Minister of Immigration and Colonization in the Federal Government, as Manager of the Colonization and Development Department of the Canadian National Railways, with headquarters in London, England. That was early in the Fall of 1923. Dr. Black proceeded at once to Great Britain, where he spent some weeks carrying out a series of investigations. These completed, he returned to Canada and a general conference of all officers of the department was called and a definite plan of colonization and development was drawn up and announced. This was the first definite announcement on immigration to be announced in Canada.

Dr. Black's Career

In engaging Dr. Black, the Canadian National Railways secured an officer who is probably better acquainted with the immigration needs of Canada, and the best methods of remedying those needs, than any other man in the country. All his life he has been connected with the argricultural industry and has run the gauntlet of all its intricate phases. He was born and brought up on a farm in Dufferin County, Ontario, and in 1902 graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College with a Toronto University degree. At his graduation he was appointed editor of the "Farmers' Advocate," Winnipeg, Manitoba, and he held this post for two years. In 1905 he joined the Government of Manitoba as Deputy Minister of Agriculture, a post which he left the following year to became President of the Manitoba Agricultural College. He remained in this important position until 1916, when he became Commissioner of Agriculture for Canada. At the conclusion of the Great War in 1918, Dr. Black was appointed Chairman of the Soldiers' Settlement Board of Canada, a position he held until his appointment, in 1921, as Deputy Minister of Immigration and Colonization for Canada.

Dr. Black is a man who is thoroughly respected, both for his opinions and his achievements, throughout Canada. He carries a lasting and genuine enthusiasm into his work, and as a quiet but eloquent and convincing speaker he is well fitted to broadcast the message of his important mission.

The Policy.

There are seven points to the programme which has received the approval of Sir Henry W. Thornton, and the principles of policy will be placed into effect immediately. Dr. Black sailed for England again on January 5th, and on his arrival in London his department commenced to function actively. The thorough character of the policy can be judged from a recapitulation of the seven principles, which are as follows:

1—To influence the immigration and satisfactory settlement in Canada of the largest possible number of people of productive capacity that the country can absorb and assimilate.

2—To contribute to the dissemination of information concerning the vast and extensive natural resources of the Dominion and the widespread opportunities for industrial development, so that capital may be attracted from other countries and invested where enterprises will be legitimately rewarded.

3—To promote the land settlement of new Canadians under conditions that will ensure the maximum possibility of success in their farming operations, and enable them to enjoy such social and religious institutions as are necessary to individual happiness and contentment.

4—To encourage improvement in agriculture, that more diversified methods may be employed in farming, and that crop, livestock, and dairy production may be increased in accordance with market demands and prospects.

5—To assist by organized effort in the immigration of young people of desirable type and character, especially from Great Britain, and in their placement in respectable rural homes where they may become qualified to participate in constructive activities and acquire citizenship of distinct value to Canada.

6—To aid in the development of new opportunities for service and to facilitate every effective means of selecting immigrants physically fit and anxious for work.

7—To co-operate with the Federal and Provincial Governments and business organizations throughout the Dominion in promoting all measures calculated to contribute toward an increase in immigration of adaptable people, and in their settlement under the most favorable conditions possible.

Back to Work in Four Days

If you are a sufferer from kidney or bladder trouble, read how this man was relieved:—

"I have used Gin Pills for bladder trouble and general kidney derangement. I suffered from an aching back which interfered with my work on the railroad. It was so bad that I had to give up my work for about two months. Then I started using Gin Pills for the Kidneys, which gave me relief in four days, so that I could go back to work. I know Gin Pills to be a wonderful remedy for kidney and bladder complaints, and can recommend them to any one who may be suffering as I did."

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the
Fernie Free Press:

Dear Sir—I will, with your permission, have a few words once again on the Doctor's Question. The public may be a little tired of the subject but those who like to see justice will no doubt bear with it a little longer.

The executive and medical committee say that all the miners of Gladstone Local have got to sign to the imported Doctors or be fined. Now their actions say just the opposite because if it is compulsory, why go to the trouble and expense of sending men around to get votes or signatures for those same Doctors?

I think although this is a very vexed question, that good may result from it because it has let us see the true characters of the men that our men voted into a position of trust and I for one think that the miners should remember this when the next election of officers comes, when they will be allowed a referendum vote.

This question is absurd in the extreme. We know that any one has a right to come to any town and set up a business, but cannot compel people to deal with them or be fined for not having them as Doctors or what is the good having government laws.

These men say they are not going to fine them for not signing to the Doctors, but because they are going against the policy of the local. They may as well call a spade a spade.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain, yours respectfully,
A Miner's Wife.

To the Editor of the
Fernie Free Press:

Dear Sir—Allow me room in your paper for a few words.

I noticed another letter from Mr. Draper in the Free Press of the 18th re the Doctors' Question. Now Mr. Draper, if you want the old Doctors, keep them, but bear in mind we are not all so weak-minded as to be ruled by you.

Also, Mr. Draper, the people buy the Fernie Free Press for the news of the city and surrounding places, but to be faced with a letter from you each week takes the interest out of the paper.

Thanking you in anticipation,

FROM AN OLD CORRESPONDENT

Coeur d'Alene Hotel,
Spokane, Wn., Jan. 22, 1924

Mr. Editor:

Deer Sur—Just a few lines to tell you about a littul trip I am takeing down here. I would of written you sooner, but I didn't, so that's why.

Well, Sur, Mr. Editor, in the 1st place I passed the Customary Officer at the line all O. Kay and he didn't never find my bottul of throat varnish wich I taken along with me, ac. of some guy telling me he had snakes in Spokane, and I am awful scared of snakes biteing me. A snake bit me one time in the bush, and it was sure paneful.

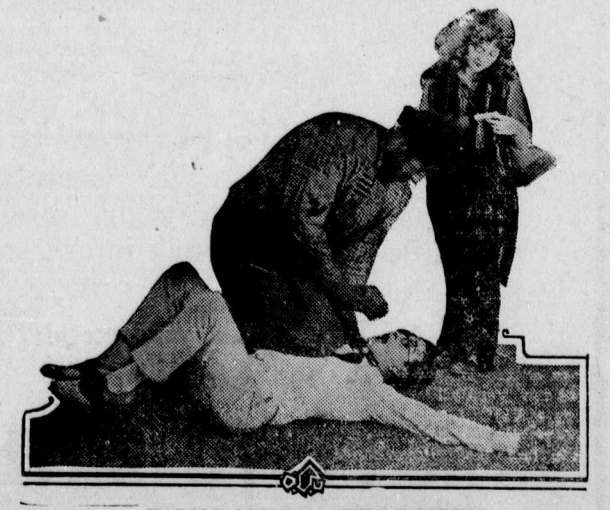
Well, Sur, Mr. Editor, I didn't got of the train 2 mins. when a awful nice man walked up to me and asked me where I was from, and I sez, "Fernie." Well, before I could apologize for it, he said he had met me there and he was very glad to see me again.

I couldn't for the life of me remember of meeting him, but I hated to show my iggorance, so I smiled and sez, "Hello yourself." He was a mity nice guy. He offered me to make me his partner right away, ac. of him takeing a sudden likeing to me. He had a new idea for an air brake for trains, and he sez, "I got all kinds of air, but I am a littul short of money, and if you can let me have fifty (50) dollars I will make a brake for a train in about two minutes." So I gave it to him and I haven't seen him since.

Well, Sur, Mr. Editor, I walked into the hotel here and the clerk must have been a mindreader, because before I had time to open my mouth, he sez, "You want a room." Now how in trinket did he know that. Anyway we get in that there cage what runs up and down on a rope, and he showed me a room and I guess they expect me to stay hear for 2 weeks, because they was two towels in the room and a cake of sope what nobody hadn't used yet, so I take a wash every day now.

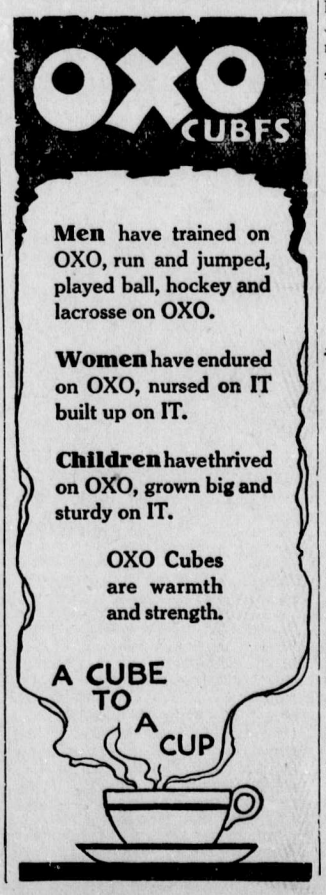
Anyway, I wanted to go to bed and tried to turn out the lite. I blue for 15 mins. and finally got mad and cut the string it was tied on and, Mr. Editor, Sur, I never in my life seen so much hell come out of a littul piece of string before. The next day I got me a job in a Lady's Long-Jerry store and I sure did feel bashful. Pretty soon a lady come in and she sez to me, "what size underwear have you." "38," sez I and I don't see what bizness it was of hers anyway, do you.

Anyway, she sure did spend money reckless. She bought a pair of silk whats-is-names and some doo dads and a silk nighty, with lace around the bottom. She wanted one with lace around the neck, but I told her they didn't make them any more. She sez, "young man, I don't thing you know much about ladies' underwear." "Lady," I sez, "you'd be surprised." I felt as cheap as I did that time Fat Nick showed me four Jacks. Anyway, when Satdy night come, the boss sez, "how much money do you want?" "You can pay me what I'm worth," I sez. So she did and I put another 20c. with it and went and saw a vodevil show. It was a grate show. Paddy Hughes would of sure enjoyed it



There was a lady came out and sang something about "Mingle your eyebrows with mine, love." It was very pathootic. I cried so much that a guy sitting next to me put on his rubers. I was scared every minit for fear that lady would sneeze. If she had of, Mr. Editor, Sur, they would have to drop the curtain quick.

There is a awful cute chambermaid in this hotel and I think she is stuck on me, for she asked me this a.m. if I ever dreamed about her.



Well, Sur, I must draw to a clothes, as I am so tired I am pretty near dead.

Hopeing this finds you the same,
I remain, — F. O. B.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94 PER CENT AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. B. Johnson, 579 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

Tells how to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.

A Manufacturer's Wife Who Cooks

A woman whose husband is a manufacturer in Vancouver, writes a letter of congratulation to us because, she says, we are producing canned milk that is "far and away the best in Canada." We know, of course, that Pacific is higher quality, but most of the credit is due to the good milk supplied by British Columbia dairy herds.

OLD TIMERS' BANQUET

Fifty-five members of the Old Timers' Association sat down to their annual banquet at the Napanee Hotel on Burns' Night. The old time spirit of comradship was present and a grand and glorious evening was enjoyed by all.

Dr. D. Corsan presided and made a very excellent chairman. The program was interspersed by vocal and instrumental music provided by the Riley Brothers, Chief Anderson, A. Watson and J. L. McIntyre, a quartette of little highland dancers and the Whitehouse orchestra.

Dr. Corsan opened the program with a few well chosen remarks, expressing the pleasure it gave him to meet at these affairs, old and tried friends of twenty-five years' standing. His only regret was that the ladies were not present also. He then called upon E. C. Smith, who had come all the way from Marysville to attend the banquet. Mr. Smith, who was the second member of the Legislature to represent this district, spoke briefly. He was very grateful for the invitation to be present. He had expected to meet a lot of old, gray beards, and was surprised to see the number of comparatively young men who belonged to the association. Ill health had dogged his steps during the past few years and he had neglected to keep in touch with the old timers throughout the district, but in future, he promised to be present at all the gatherings of the association and help carry on the good work.

The principal speaker of the evening was Mr. W. R. Wilson, President of the C. N. P. Coal Company. He said in part—

Mr. Chairman — In responding to your invitation to speak at this annual gathering of old time settlers, I may be permitted to make the following casual observations: We are living in an age of social endeavor and in the organization of this form of human effort we see much that attracts our attention.

Human thoughts, all through the ages have been surrounded and influenced by different forms of environment, and through conditions of human contact, some of which have been pleasant and good for us, and influences that have not been good for us, and in some instances conditions have arisen that have been detrimental to our permanent welfare.

We have, year after year, passed on through the various social influences ,with our judgment of changing conditions becoming more matured through the diversification of events that have taken place.

From the various forms of passing experience, our understanding has, or should at least have been enlarged. We have become more capable of realizing what is best, or what might have been best for our community, and for ourselves. If through all the opportunities afforded us during the passing years, we have failed to better understand the current and future potential possibilities of the temporal things that surround us, we, in proportion to our omissions, have failed to obtain for ourselves that measure of temporal satisfaction that old association and its corresponding opportunities ought to have brought to us.

It may be in order, Mr. Chairman, for me to state that I understand that the original ideas of this Old Timers' Association were based on the principle of fellowship. Fellowship that lingers on the memories of the past, goes back to the time when men imbued with the ideas of progressive venture came into the district to make trails, to build roads, to clear the forest that densely covered the landscape for the purpose of making room to build homes, to thin the water streams that abound in fish life, to build railroads, to exploit the potential possibilites of the vast coal beds that lay under the protecting shield of massive mountains that nature's forces had been millions of years in building up to the present organized form.

In brief, to those that came here in response to nature's pioneer call, to take advantage of the natural opportunities that had been provided so abundantly, through the laws of ordination for man's service and welfare.

In all the forms of association, excepting only those that pertain to domestic and religious service, there is no form of association that can, or should appeal to us in more convincing terms than that which arises from old recollections. Life with most of us at least, seems to be so constituted that in spite of all we can do, our memories will go back to the past, to the pleasant hours of our youth, to the pleasant hours spent with old associates, to the time when we left our parental home and our first real friends. Then as the years pass on, we, through the directing influence of circumstances, change from place to place to meet and make new friends. The process of human endeavor is, with its many sides, a theme of great and instructive interest for us all. Hence, we are gathered here tonight to revive the momories of the past, to commemorate our early coming to this locality, to encourage and build up a living sentiment and generous regard for the pleasant and trying days that have gone. To again think of some of the good men and women who lived here amongst us in the days that have gone, when by their cheerful presence and friendly consideration, they made things more pleasant for us all.

We are here tonight, to again look upon each other in memory of the past, to better observe and realize how the passing years are changing our appearance and prospective here so that we may better understand the markings of time upon each countenance present, and in final to rejoice that we are again privileged to unite in comradship with those that we have enjoyed long years of residence with.

Mr. Wilson then took up the history of the coal industry in this district. He said—

It may be interesting to observe that during the fluctuating history of the operations of the Coal Creek Mines, that 14,430,906 tons of coal have been produced and 6,314,351 tons at Michel Mines.

The total production of coal at Fernie, Michel and Carbonado, during the history of the Company, is recorded at 18,219,733 tons; and the total production of coke at the same three plants amounting to 4,142,523 tons.

In connection with the above as it applies to clearing land, building homes for employees or company houses, building mine plants, and coke oven plants, with the opening of mines for the above stated production of coal and coke required the services of about 9,442,000 human days work, which implies that there has been employed in this organized means of production from the commencement up to date, an average of about 1440 men and boys per day in the combined branches of employment during the twenty-five years' history of the company.

Mr. Wilson then went on to tell of fight the company had made and was still making to hold its own against a combination of circumstances which seemed to conspire to destroy. He however was still in the fight and hinted that things might not always be as black as they looked at present.

In closing Mr. Wilson said he had noticed the Chairman's regrets that the ladies were not present. He, too, regretted their absence and generously offered to provide a banquet for the Old-timers and their Ladies to take place in the immediate future.

Among the other speakers of the evening were Mayor Henderson, Dr. S. Bonnell, A Rosen, of Jaffray and E. Rutledge.

ROD AND GUN CLUB MEET

The regular meeting of the Fernie District Rod and Gun Club was held on Tuesday evening, January 29, at which a large number of local anglers and sportsmen were present.

The chief topic of discussion at this meeting was the re-stocking of streams in this district, which are becoming rapidly depleted of our most noted game fish, the cut throat trout. Applications for cut throat trout fry were filled out and have been forwarded to the Department of Fisheries, and it is expected that considerable re-stocking will be done during the present year.

Through the efforts of the Rod and Gun Club, many waters throughout this district were re-stocked during the past year, and prospects are now brighter than ever for considerable of this work being done during the present year.

It has taken many years of persistent hard work on the part of the Rod and Gun Clubs throughout the district to get the Government to take action in this important matter, and it behooves every sportsman in the district to join this organization and help along the good work that is being done.

ENTERTAINED SCHOOL GIRLS

The Mount Fernie Chapter I. O. D. E. entertained the Entrance Class girls to a banquet on Wednesday evening, January 30. Thirty-seven girls attended besides the members of the Chapter.

Mrs. J. R. Wallace, the Regent, welcomed the girls and stated it gave the Chapter and herself great pleasure to have the girls as guests this evening.

Community singing, a feature of the evening, was an added attraction.

Mrs. Norman Suddaby, the first Regent of the Chapter, gave a splendid address, her subject being "Heroines of Canadian History." The speaker said: "I have chosen for my subject a brief survey of the outstanding Heroines of Canadian History. The records of the deeds vary, as greatly as human nature. Some were impressed by love of God; others, love of Country while others, love of humanity. But they all had one characteristic and that was a sense of responsibility, which may be transmitted to you, who are just on the threshold of life, in doing as well as possible every task that comes your way.

"This develops character and when the objects and achievements of life are summed up, you will find that the only thing that has a lasting value is character.

"The Heroines, whose lives we extoll, all possessed this quality, based on loyalty to God, Country and Flag. They held that service, not power, is the greatest thing that serve well the race and their Country is the supreme ideal.

"History records the deeds of very few of the genuine heroines who lived during the formation period of our Country. But what about the countless hundreds who braved the frontier, who lived noble lives and died heroic deaths. Concerning this vast multitude, history is silent. It was no trifling matter to battle with the impediments that nature placed in the way of the early settlers. The rigours of a severe winter, brought sore trials, that we, with the comforts and luxuries of the 20th Century, can scarcely appreciate.

"We have no conception of the terrible experiences of the pioneers, with the blood-thirsty savages, who lost no opportunity to attack white settlements with terrible cruelites. Hundreds of loving mothers, faithful wives, tender sisters, have thus laid down their lives. Their names do not appear in history's roll of honor.

"Gaunt famine, more than once, stalked over this happy land, where now we have plenty and to spare. Many a woman labored in the forests, digging the roots of wild plants, and gathering the buds of trees, in order to secure some scant nourishment for her starving children, who were in time to become the stalwart founders of the civilization which now fill their places. Many outstanding heroines could be mentioned of that time —Madame de la Pellue, Mademoiselle Nance, Madelaine de V'euchers. Coming to a later period, we find foremost in the roll of heroines, the names of Laura Secord. The late King Edward, upon his visit to Canada in 1860, learned her history and was so impressed by her loyalty and heroism that he sent her a cheque for £100 sterling. Another worthy of mention is Abigail Becker, who helped to rescue the sailors not far from the Welland Canal in 1854. The sailors and merchants of Buffalo presented her with a purse of gold and a gold medal was awarded by the American Human Society. But what she prized most highly was a letter from our Most Gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria, who did not consider it beneath the dignity of the greatest Sovereign of the greatest nation of the world to send her greetings to the noble wife of the poor trapper of Long Point.

"There is no class of women in Canada upon whom a greater responsibilty is cast than upon the teachers in our public schools. Her duties are most exacting and call for the exercise of tact, self- control and patience, in order to maintain discipline and at the same time preserve the good will of the pupils.

"The death of no single individual was more universally mourned than that of Sarah Maxwell, principle of the Hochelaga School, in Montreal, in 1907. The people of Montreal raised

GAME KILLED THIS SEASON

Some time since an attempt was made to secure full data on the game situation in the southern portion of the Canadian Kootenay, generally known as the Crow's Nest Country for the year 1923. The statements and table below are based on information kindly furnished by a large number of Provincial Officers and citizens, including Percy W. Green, of the Winlaw Rod & Gun Club; D. H. Reid, of the Rossland Rod & Gun Club; Geo. M. Helbecque, of Bonnington Falls; David P. Kane, of Kaslo; Constables H. L. McLaren, E. A. Vachon, W. H. Laird and P. W. Jupp, of the Provincial Police and Game Wardens Ira Brown and Gregory Thomas, of Fernie and Cranbrook. It should be stated, however, that the totals are only partial, for two reasons: first, because no returns have been received from some of the minor districts; and secondly, because only non-resident hunters are required to report the game killed by them. It is submitted for the light it throws on the game situation in this district.

Winlaw	1	4
Cranbrook	4	100	1	8	3	2	83
Creston	7						39
Bonnington Falls	6	20
Salmo	9	35
Rossland		50
New Denver	15	40		6		3
Nakusp	17	43		9		4	13
Fernie	16	180	9	8	12	32	60

Winlaw reports but little game in that region, and that much further back in the mountains than usual. Deer were also unusually scarce in the Bonnington Falls district, the late fall and light fall of snow being given as the reason. No data is available for the Kaslo district, but both deer and bear are reported to have been very plentiful there, and quite a number of both species were killed. In the New Denver district there were few sheep, but deer were more plentiful than for many years past, and there was an abundance of bear within a short distance of the towns.

Wild goats are the most abundant in East Kootenay and in the Slocan district of West Kootenay, but are not hunted to any great extent. The correspondent at Rossland reports bear as being very scarce in that neighborhood, owing to the feeding grounds having been burned over by forest fires in 1922.

It is questionable whether the timber wolf exists in this district; if so the number is very small. All wolves killed during 1923 appear to have been coyotes. The coyote does not appear to be particularly destructive either to big game or to domestic stock. The bounty on coyotes is $2.00 and on timber wolves $20.00.

The leading enemies of big game in this district are four: the cougar (puma), the Indian, the sportsman and forest fires, and in the number of animals destroyed, especially deer, the cougar seems to have the lead by a long way. A single cougar will account for many deer in a season, sometimes killing four or five in a single day. Many Indians make good wages in winter, hunting them for the bounty—$40.00. They are also hunted to some extent by hunters from the United States, who take them alive for parks and zoological gardens. Where shot, the hunter secures in addition to the $40.00 bounty an average price of $10.00 for the skin. The pelt in itself is of no great value, but they are in demand for rugs.

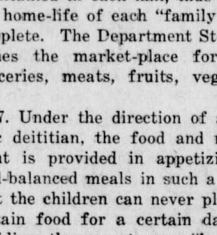
THOMAS MEIGHEN IN "WOMAN PROOF"

More than six months were spent in research, in revising the plot and in selecting the cast for Thomas Meighen's new Paramount star vehicle, "Woman Proof," before a scene was filmed. The story was written by George Ade, noted humorist and short story writer, and it was revised again and again until in its present form it is claimed to be perfect in plot, drama and heart interest.



This Paramount picture, which comes to the Orpheum Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, was directed by Alfred E. Green. While the picture is filled with comedy situations, it has a vein of seriousness which mirrors modern American life. It is one of the first Paramount pictures to be produced under the new policy of fifty-two pictures a year instead of the usual production of from seventy-five to eighty photoplays.

The story concerns a young civil engineer, Tom Rockwood, the part played by Thomas Meighen, who is too busy with a big industrial project to think of matrimony. The boy's father had left a will stipulating that all his sons and daughters must marry and settle down before they can inherit his fortune of several million dollars.

Tom's brother and two sisters find little difficulty in choosing mates, but Tom cannot interest himself in women. As the time limit when all must be married approaches, Tom's family grow frantic in their attempts to induce him to enter matrimony.

A garden party is staged and Tom is surrounded by women of varied personalities. But he is bored and leaves before the affair is over for his work. Here he meets Louise Halliday (Lila Lee) and falls in love with her. Milo Bleech, executor of the Rockwood estate, will lose this post if all the Rockwoods marry.

He therefore tries to make Tom's proposal of marriage to Louise Halliday look like a business deal. Louise and Tom accidentally meet on board a steamer as she is leaving dock and here a reconciliation is affected. A radio-gram instructs the Rockwoods on shore to marry and with the wedding at sea of Tom and Louise, the fortune is saved for all the Rockwoods.

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

Fernie Lodge No. 1335, Loyal Order of Moose are out on a campaign for new members. Their reason for so doing is that they want every good citizen to have an opportunity to help in the good work which is being carreid on by the Order for children at Mooseheart, and the old folks at Moosehaven.

"Every child is entitled to at least a high school education and a trade." —James J. Davis.

The Loyal Order of Moose is an international fraternal-beneficiary society, consistng of more than sixteen hundred lodges in the United States Canada and throughout the English-speaking world, having an aggregate membership in all these Lodges of almost 600,000 men. Most of the Lodges provide for sick benefits and funeral expense funds for their members. Each Lodge is a complete unit in itself, with full local autonomy.

Thirty-five facts regarding Mooseheart—

25. All children at Mooseheart are taught the religon of their parents. When completed, the Mooseheart "House of God" will be the shrine of worship for all denominations.

26. A kitchen and dining-room is maintained in each hall, thus making the home-life of each "family group" complete. The Department Store furnishes the market-place for staple groceries, meats, fruits, vegetables, etc.

27. Under the direction of a scientific deititian, the food and nourishment is provided in appetizing and well-balanced meals in such a variety that the children can never plan on a certain food for a certain day, thus avoiding the monotonous "bean-day" on Wednesday, and "mush-day" on Friday.

28. Corporal punishment is not tolerated at Mooseheart. When a child knowingly commits a misdeamor sufficiently serious to warrant punishment he or she is reprimanded and denied some of the customary pleasures for a specific length of time.

29. Individual and special attention is given to patriotism and the duties and qualifications of good citizenship.

30. A limitation in accepting children is made in regard to those who are mentally and physically subnormal. Such children require special treatment which Mooseheart can not give. Dependent children are accepted in preference to all others.

31. The Law of the Order further provides the membership shall be composed of male persons of the Caucasian or White Race, above the age of twenty-one years, and not married to some one of any other than the Caucasian or White Race, who are of good moral character, physically and mentally normal, and who profess a belief in a Supreme Being. Therefore, children of mixed races are not accepted at Mooseheart. However, there is no prejudice against children of mixed nationalities if all are of the Caucasian Race.

32. During the recent World War the Government selected Mooseheart as one of the institutions capable of training its soldiers, consequently two groups of about 110 soldiers each, including officers, were trained in construction work at Mooseheart. Realizing the merit of this system of training our Government has sent, up to the present time, about 600 disabled soldiers to be trained in the various trades. In many instances the veteran will leave Mooseheart better fitted and better satisfied with his position in life than ever before.

DOMINION LOAN EARN MONEY TO PAY DEPOSITORS

OTTAWA—A government loan to the banks, out of which the deficit in the Home Bank assets might be made up, is one of the plans being discussed for the solution of the Home Bank problem. The scheme wes discussed recently by I. E. Weldon, secretary of the national committee of Home Bank depositors and the assistant liquidator for the bank.

Mr. Weldon suggests that the government should extend a credit of $17,000,000 to the associated banks of Canada. Out of this sum the associated banks should loan the Home Bank $8,500,000, which Mr. Weldon thinks would supply the deficit between the present assets of the bank and the amount owed to depositors.

The remainder of the government loan would be used by the banks for investment purposes, yielding the government 5 per cent. and earning the banks, say 7 per cent. This would bring in a net profit of about $85,000 a year, which amortized over a period of 40 years would make up the $8,500,000 provided to pay the depositors.

The case for the depositors and shareholders in the Home Bank of Canada, which suspended business last August, was presented to the Dominion government last week, sitting as the privy council of Canada. The prime minister promised sympathetic consideration, and reserved a statement of his policy on the matter until parliament is essembled.

The national committee representing depositors and shareholders of the bank, which journeyed to Ottawa to present a petition to the government for 100 per cent. indemnification for depositors, and freedom from financial responsibility for the shareholders, returned to their homes assured of every possible consideration of their claims.

The committee of 20, of which W. T. J. Lee, of Toronto, is chairman, and I. E. Weldon, of Toronto, interim liquidator of the Home Bank, is secretary, urged that Canada as a whole should assume the liability incurred in the bank's failure, and not the depositors and shareholders of the bank.

The committe waited upon Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition, and presented the case and received promise of sympathetic consideration.

Should the dream of visionaries that there is habitable territory beyond the North Pole be confirmed by aerial exploration, enterprising promoters may get busy plotting subdivisions of "Glacier City," "Aurora Borealis," "Polarville" and other Arctic community centres.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at leas' five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

VICKS RELIEVES HER CATARRH

"Cannot Praise It Too Much," Says Mrs. Cayer.

Melt a little Vicks VapoRub in a spoon. Inhale the vapors. Then insert some in nostrils, snuffing it well back. You will be delighted to see how it clears the head.

Catarrh sufferers seem to think they live in a "catarrh climate." The disease is hard to get rid of, but Vicks brings welcome relief and in many cases persistent use has wrought permanent benefit.

Vicks is a quick-acting treatment for all cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and at the same time inhaled as a vapor.

Mrs. J. B. Cayer, Ete. Anne, Manitoba, says: "I am a sufferer from catarrh and Vicks VapoRub has done me a great deal of good. I tried everything without success until I used your salve. I cannot praise it too much. I will never be without it. I recommend Vicks to all sufferers from catarrh and cold in the head."

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

THE BENEVOLENT AND PROTECTIVE ORDER OF ELKS

"Elkdom fraternity is no myth. It is a new sun sparkling with joy and peace—a love song that lingers about the hearth-stone and fills the human heart with light as golden as sunbeams smiling down on a sea of jewels. It is as sweet as the dew that brings beauty to the flowers and as tender as the glow of the moon. It sets the soul to music, and shadows flee away to bring in view the purple light that was unseen."

It is not an insurance or assessment organization. It does, however, aid its members or their families whenever circumstances require.

It is sound financially.

Elkdom's teachings embrace the best principles of fraternal relations, and its secrets are only such as to distinguish it from the other orders. It contains nothing derogatory to any faith that includes a belief in the Supreme Ruler of the universe.

Elkdom aims specially to aid the widow, orphan and aged.

Cultivate a charitable disposition and life will be happier for you and others.

Any white male person who has been a resident of the Dominion of Canada or Newfoundland for at least six months immediately preceding the date of his application; of sound mind and body, of good reputation, a believer in the Supreme Being; an adherent of lawful government, and who shall have attained the age of twenty-one years, may become a member of the B. P. O. E.

Elkdom believes that brotherly love, expressed by service, makes for an ideal community.

Elkdom aims to make the gladsome call, "Hello Bill!" reach throughout Canada and Newfoundland.

We seek to enlist good fellows, worthy of membership. Let us have your application and join with us in the grand work our Order is doing.

To make life Sweeter, Men Better, and the World Happier.

Elkdom justly stands pre-eminent in the life of the twentieth century business and professional man; its extended social sphere in both Lodge and Club is notable throughout Canada and Newfoundland.

Elkdom aims to promote a healthier and stronger spirit of patriotism among its members.

Elkdom believes a country is not made great by the number of square miles it contains, but by the number of square people it contains.

Thousands of sad hearts made glad at Christmas through the splendid work of our members.

Here and There

That the average weight of Alberta's 1923 wheat was 64 pounds to the bushel, or four pounds more than the standard, is the statement of George Hill, Dominion Grain Inspector at Calgary.

The season of navigation for the year 1928 is the longest since the year 1814, or 109 years ago, according to a statement made at Quebec by Captain J. E. Bernier, Arctic explorer.

Two-thirds of Canada's exhibits for the British Empire Exhibition are now in England, most of these being already at Webley. Among them is a monster silver nugget, weighing nearly three tons, the biggest ever unearthed, which was dug up in Canada.

Twenty-nine million pounds of halibut were landed at Prince Rupert, B.C., during the past year, with figures for the month of December incomplete. This total is considerably in excess of the previous year. Several large shipments were made to Chicago and other middle Western States' points.

E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has accepted the honorary presidency of the Province of Quebec Safety League, succeeding the late Lord Shaughnessy, who was its first honorary president. The object of the League is to institute safeguards for the protection of life, especially children, providing protected playgrounds and streets.

It is estimated by the provincial tourist bureau of the Province of Quebec that 125,000 American automobiles visited the province in 1923. Of this number 40,000 travelled over the King Edward Highway, the principal route of automobilists from across the border motoring to Montreal and a record in the annals of that thoroughfare as regards American cars.

The Canadian Independent Oil Company, of St. John, New Brunswick, has closed a contract to supply lubricating oils of all kinds to all Canadian Pacific steamships plying to Atlantic ports. This is said to be the biggest contract for lubricating oils ever closed in Canada. This company means a new industry for St. John, for its compounding plant will be located in East St. John.

The Klondyke is in the throes of another gold and silver rush. At the head of the Beaver River, 50 miles west of Keno Hill, a silver and gold discovery of unusual proportions has started a stampede from Mayo, the major mining settlement of the Yukon, to the new country, where it is said assays reveal pay dirt running 1,100 ounces of silver to the ton.

Rapid progress is being made in preparing the Canadian section of the British Empire Exhibition. The giant pavilion was roofed in and ready for exhibits in sixty days from its commencement and will be ready for opening on March 1st. Two million feet of Canadian lumber, 7 miles of roofing and 200 tons of nails, nuts and bolts have already been used in the building.

It is reported that the Rothermere interests of England, which recently acquired a large block of timber land in the Manicouagan River Basin, have headed a syndicate which will spend $16,000,000 in erecting pulp and newsprint manufacturing plants near Quebec city. With this news comes the announcement that the St. Regis Paper Company will build a $4,000,000 plant near the parish of St. Augustin, a suburb of Quebec.

Records compiled by the Bureau of Railway Statistics in Chicago show how greatly the cost of railroad equipment in North America has increased in the past sixteen years. Since 1907, these figures show, the cost of heavy freight locomotives has risen from $16,243 to $53,550 each; passenger locomotives from $16,057 to $66,200 each; passenger coaches from $7,330 to $28,900 each; freight cars from $700 to $2,301 each; and steel rails from $28 to $43 per ton.

The Indians of the three prairie provinces in the 1923 season harvested the greatest crop in their history, according to the annual report of the Department of Indian Affairs. In the three provinces, the Indians harvested 638,561 bushels of wheat, 574,282 bushels of oats and 62,304 bushels of barley. The report shows they raised 58,264 bushels of potatoes and 10,000 bushels of other vegetables. They summerfallowed 20,000 acres of land, broke 6,808 acres, put up 57,000 tons of hay and 9,516 of green feed.

HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION WILL HOLD REUNION OF PIONEERS

The British Columbia Historical Association is contemplating having a reunion of pioneers of British Columbia, and would be glad if those persons who arrived on the Island or Mainland prior to 1871 would furnish their name and address to the Secretary, J. Forsyth, Provincial Library, Victoria, who will issue invitations when arrangements are completed.

In order to have the list of pioneers as complete as possible, all persons who may know old-time residents will confer a favor by furnishing names.

Local organizations who are interested in the early history of the Province are also asked to cooperate with the Canadian Historical Association, and is also an auxiliary to the Provincial Archives Department, wherein are preserved the records, journals, diaries and photographs relating to the Colonial days of Vancouver Island and British Columbia.

Prepared forms for the personal records of pioneer residents may be obtained upon application to the Provincial Library and Archives Department, Victoria, B.C.

GREAT INTEREST IN RESULTS OF SYRUP USED BY NOTED PHYSICIAN

Many Now Use Prescription For Stomach Trouble, Colds, Headache, Nervousness and Run-Down Condition.

BUILDS UP SYSTEM; INCREASES STRENGTH

With men and women in all walks of life pointing to their own quick relief, there is little wonder that everyone is talking about the syrup used by Dr. Thacher, or that druggists report a constant increase in its use.

These people have demonstrated that symptoms such as those described above are often the result of a sluggish condition of the liver. They now know that relief comes quickly when the liver is properly cleansed with Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup.

Gives Quick Relief

There is a scientific reason for this quick relief! When working as Nature intended your liver purifies your blood, every drop of which filters through the liver every fifteen minutes. Your liver furnishes the secretions that are essential to proper digestion and nourishment. Also, your liver supplies the secretions Nature uses to lubricate your bowels so that they can move naturally, gently and regularly every day. And how can your liver do these three things properly when it needs to be cleansed and toned? The result is you often wake up feeling dull and tired and frequently suffer from one or more symptoms, such as sick headaches, acid stomach, gas, constipation, colds or a nervous, upset condition.

Special Trial Offer

Get quick relief! Take just a few spoonfulls of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals to cleanse and tone your liver and help Nature build up your system. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise druggists are authorized to refund your money.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by Suddaby Drug and Book Store, Fernie, and by leading druggists in every city and town.

THE BENEVOLENT AND PROTECTIVE ORDER OF ELKS

The Elks are not an insurance or assessment organization. They are the clan whose blood circulates. Their cardinal virtues are to aid the sick, bury the dead and inject sunshine into the dark places.

They are not saints, simply distributers of practical Christianity.

There are no ELKS in potter fields or county shrouds.

They live by the way and lend unto the Lord, for they give unto the poor. Their mission is to do good. There are no hungry ELKS.

WATER NOTICE

Clearing Streams

TAKE NOTICE that I, Andrew Rosen, whose address is Jaffray, B. C., will apply for a licence to use the waters of Big Sand Creek for "Clearing-streams" purpose (i.e., clearing and improving the stream for driving, booming, or rafting of logs). The points in the stream between which it is proposed to clear are 6245 to the mouth of Big Sand Creek. The estimate mileage between the said points is 3½ miles. The term proposed for the licence is One year. This notice was posted on the ground on the 4th day of December, 1923. A copy of this notice and an application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act, 1914," will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Fernie, B.C. Objections to the application may be filed with the said Water Recorder or with the Comptroller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C., within thirty days after the first appearance of this notice in a local newspaper. The date of the first publication of this notice is January 11, 1924.

75% of disease avoided through internal cleanliness

Internal Cleanliness More Important Than Bathing

WHY run the risk of sickness? Keep clean internally. When you are constipated, poisons form in the accumulated food waste. These poisons, absorbed by the blood, attack all parts of the body. The first results, headache, biliousness, a feeling of "heaviness," etc., serve as warnings of a graver danger. If this intestinal poisoning continues unchecked, you become the victim of some serious organic disease.

This is why intestinal specialists state that constipation is the primary cause of three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Washing Cleans Only the Skin

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

FEBRUARY 1 has been generally accepted as the date when beer clubs will definitely go out of business. The new government regulations are very drastic and are expected to clean up the liquor troubles to a large degree. These will come into effect February 1, when the lid will be put on in earnest. Only bona fide clubs will be permitted to carry liquor and these will be under the strictest supervision, with the locker system in force.

STOP, look and listen before marrying. Would-be newlyweds should "stop, look and listen," before signing up for life.

Many a light heart fails to ponder on the gravity of his or her act until they are a team of "until-death-do-us-parters." But with a few days to think the matter over and maybe run into someone more entrancing than one's intended, the whole situation is fraught with danger. Great changes have taken place in seventy-two hours and many a girl or man who on Tuesday is just wild to marry might on Thursday decide they were wild to even think of such a thing.

He who hesitates is often lost and three days is a long, long time for lovers to mark time.

THE greatest power so far discovered by man is electricity. We all know this instinctively. That's why we get a creepy feeling up our spines when we are caught out in a storm and see electricity in its natural state—lightning.

It's often said that we live in an Electrical Age. Yet, despite the many ways electricity has been harnessed, only 111 million people—of the world's total population of at least 1700 millions—live in electrically-lighted houses.

Here is a gigantic power, waiting to serve us. But we have barely started to harness it. In electricity you see The Future Power, though as usual, it is taking a fearfully long time to get a wonderful discovery into general use.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94 PER CENT AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. B. Johnson, 579 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

THE spectacular increase of 34 per cent. in the amount of timber scaled in British Columbia last year over 1922 is a forceful illustration of the immense value of lumbering and allied industries in this province. The total scale in 1923 we 2,542,280,000 board feet, as compared with 1,899,150,000 board feet the preceding year.

Federal figures, admittedly conservative, place the standing timber of the province at 360 billion board feet. The figure is generally given by the provincial authorities and timber experts as 400 billion feet. In 1922 the loss through forest fires was very heavy. Last year, happily, fire losses were but a small part of those of the former "dry" year.

The Forest Branch is credited with an efficient conservation policy, in so far as protection against fire is concerned, but even at that, the annual waste through the ravages of the destroying lement is heavy.

Three years ago the total capacity of provisional saw-mills was placed at 2,500,000,000 board feet per annum. Last year's scale slightly surpassed that figure, but many new mill have been established, so that the present capacity is probably three billion feet per year. Adding a mean average loss through fire of a billion feet, the capital stock of timber is being depleted by approximately four billion feet each year. On the other hand, the annual increase of British Columbia timber through growth alone is placed at eight billion feet. A portion of this increase naturally occurs in remote districts and in forests where logging operations at present are not profitable. But the fact remains that with the practice of the intelligent conservation methods now being followed by the Lands Department, careful cutting and modern reforestation, British Columbia has an almost inexhaustible asset in her forest resources.

Mrs. de Wolfe says, "For years I was a dreadful sufferer from Constipation and Headaches and I was miserable in every way. Nothing in the way of medicine seemed to help me. Then I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and the effect was splendid; and after taking only one box, I was completely relieved and now feel like a new person".

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

J. McNiven, Provincial Deputy Minister of Labor, has been in the East Kootenay district during the past week in an endeavor to settle the labor dispute now seriously hampering the lumbering industry in and around Cranbrook, where the I.W.W. have secured a strong hold on the lumber workers. Mr. McNiven visited Fernie Tuesday and Wednesday, investigating the general labor situation here.

Weather permitting, five rinks will leave on Sunday to attend the iDstrict Bonspiel. They will be made up as follows: M. A. Kastner, skip, G. Johnson, A. Walde and J. J. Harrington; A. C. Liphardt, skip, J. McLaren, D. Harvie and A. Sherwood; S. Herchmer, skip, W. Baldrey, J. Wilson; Ed. Stewart, skip, A. Corrie, P. Bean and R. Kerr; H. Brown, skip, W. Gates, F. Dawson and C. O'Neil. Up to the present time the weather in Lethbridge has been very mild this week, but the ice is still holding and a cold snap is predicted.

Cokato Farmers' Institute announce that Mr. A. Morton. of the Dominion live stock branch, will give a moving picture exhibition in the School House at Cokato on Wednesday next, February 6, at 8. p.m. Mr. Morton will also give an address, when the various films are shown, these by the way, will be of an educative kind, illustrating the best breeds of cattle, horses and other live stock, implements and all that goes towards making life worth living on the farm. This exhibition is a novelty that the members will appreciate and the kiddies remember for many years to come, so be on time and bring them with you.

"Let us not forget the sacrifices of our nurses in the recent war and former periods. Hundreds volunteered to do their bit wherever they were called and most needed. If one could but read the unwritten stories of the war, how many nurses' names would appear on the roll of our Country's Heroines.

"Canada owes much to her men who have fought her battles and borne the burdens of State . But she owes much, yea more, to the noble women who instilled the principles of loyalty and devotion in the breasts of their sons and were never found wanting when the call came to them to sacrifice their loved ones and what was esteemed of less value by them; their own lives, for the Country they loved so well."

Mrs. J. R. Wallace, the Regent, stated, we as members of the I. O. D.E., are very interested in you, and we are very glad you are striving to receive an education and we desire to see you succeed in life and become loyal citizens of this Dominion.

An exceedingly pleasant occurrence the presentation of a Bar Pin, by the Regent, from the Chapter, to Mrs. Graham, who has been our Treasurer for five years. Mrs. Wallace stated that she deeply regretted her departure from this Chapter and hoped she will become a member of the Order wherever she will make her new home. On behalf of the Chapter she expressed grateful appreciation for the faithful services rendered as Treasurer and also as an active member. Mrs. Graham was deeply touched and said it was a great source of pleasure to work with the members, and she would carry with her pleasant recollections of the Mount Fernie Chapter I.O.D.E.

A duet rendered by the girls was highly appreciated. Much credit is due Miss Hogan and it is impossible find expressions sufficiently praiseworthy of the efficient training of the girls.

Our Educational Secretary, Mrs. S. ... was convenor of the entertainment and everyone spoke glowingly of the arragements and delightful evening spent.

The banquet closed with the singing of "O Canada" and the National Anthem "God Save the King."

The Fernie team had the better of the exchanges in the first and last periods, while honors were even in the second. Miss Paterson scored five of Fernie's points and Miss Decew netted the other two. Miss Home and Miss Anderton each scored two points for Cranbrook. The teams were: Cranbrook — Misses Burton, Wolfe, Moir, Home and Anderton. Fernie—Misses Mercer, Corbett, Paterson, Johnston, Decew, Nicholson and Bean.

The Farmers' Institute of East Kootenay held their annual convention in Cranbrook on January 30 and 31. Dr. Warnock, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, C. E. Whitney Griffiths, Secretary of the Advisory Board and others attended the convention. Many resolutions concerning farming, fruit growing and stock raising, were passed by the convention. Mr. Bricker, member to the Advisory Board from this district, gave much capable assistance. Out of this convention has arisen a district association. Few farmers of the district have a clear understanding of the Institute and Advisory Board. The local Institute is an organization to help the farmer in buying his requirements and in selling his products, but it is not a co-operative society. It is a part of the duty of the officers of an Institute to see that any complaints laid with them are investigated. It is a self-governing organization to help the farmer solve his problems. The Advisory Board, which is made up of nine representatives from the different parts of the province, take up matters pertaining to farming direct with the different departments of our Provincial Government. In this way, much needed legislation has been put in force and no doubt the good work will continue. Mr. Whitney Griffiths, Mr. Hay, Mr. Good and others will address a meeting of farmers and poultrymen in the basement of the United Church on Tuesday evening, February 5.

Jack Cunliffe, driver boss in No. 2 mine, Coal Creek, sustained a couple of broken ribs in an accident which occurred in that mine last Saturday morning. He had ben standing at the bottom of a room, when a horse, which was decending the slope, stepped on a rail and slipped, pinning Cunliffe between the shafts and a mine prop.

Cranbrook curlers, led by J. M. Cameron and Dan Burton, casting covetous eyes upon the Flieshman Cup, invaded Fernie last Saturday evening, but it will be noted that this trophy still rests in its well known position in Kastner's window. Sherwood and Milt both won their defending games handily and Messrs. Cameron and Burton wended their way back to Cranbrook Sunday morning empty handed.

The Women of Mooseheart Legion held their whist drive and dance on Tuesday evening. These drives are getting more popular among the Moose members as shown by the attendance on Tuesday. Cards were played until 9.30, after which refreshments were served, but they had to be served in the large hall as the crowd was too large to be seated in the banquet room. Dancing was continued until 12.30. Bro. J. Whitehouse supplied the music in his usual style. The following is the prize winners at whist: Ladies, 1st, Sister Rahal; 2nd, Sister Savage; booby, Mrs. H. Brown; Gents, 1st, Bro. T. Payne; 2nd, Bro. J. Hamer; booby, Bro. J. Ridyard.

A concert of unusual merit was given by the choir and friends of the Methodist Church, Michel, to a large and appreciative audience on Wednesday evening, January 30, in Michel Opera House The choir, under the capable choirmaster, Mr. James, presented "The Daughter of Zion," which was exceedingly well rendered. Some excellent numbers were rendered by the male voice choir under the leadership of Mr. John Dawe. Amongst these were voices of quality and finish seldom heard in a small community. Various items on the program were of a very high standard and called forth repeated encores. The soloists were: Mrs. Gullett. Mrs. Rothel. Miss Golightly, Mr. Goodwell, Mr. Waller, Mr. McCrone, Mr. Dawe and Mr. Guss Smalley, baritone, late of Lincoln Cathedral, Eng. Little Miss Muriel James delighted the audience with her smart little action songs and had to respond to repeated encores. Mrs. Goodwill, a gifted musician, did excellent work as accompanist. It was voted the concert of the season in Michel.

DO YOU EVER HAVE A DREAM?

Curse the luck! Just when you were all set for shivery thrills in telling your acquaintances you dreamed of a funeral last night and of a marriage the night before, along come the psychologist to say it does not mean that you may die within the month. To be sure, he admits that dreams have a well-founded idea of prophecy, inasmuch as dreams are a part of the thinking mechanism. But in such cases they are born of the deepest desires, the psychologist says, so that the sleeping as well as the waking mind follows one direction and in that phase the dreams are prophetic in so far as the person eventually causes his intenseness to obtain the prize for which he longs.

Otherwise dreams are the result of desires represented, the psychologist says. Nightmares are the fantastical fashioning of desires.

"Ah!" says one dream to another, "let us play around out here in the shadows. We will play as hard as we like and run riot everywhere. But we must not awaken him. No, that would never do. For if we awaken him then his consciousness will return and we will be dreams no longer, but only memories, pleasant or unpleasant as we have played."

Dreams are metaphors of our innermost being, says the psychologist. They are symbols of this, that and the other that is locked up somewhere in our minds. How may they be interpreted? What is the proper method for decoding them?

The psychologist who is not too impulsive and not too enthusiastic will tell you the methods are theories, some of which seem well proved, some of which still give opportunity for debate. There remains much to be learned about dreams. Perhaps Freud and his theories have had as much publicity, both written and oral, as any others. That is as you like. The fair psychologist says that those who criticize Freud rarely have read him but have read what other people have said or written about him.

But suddenly you go off on a tangent. You say with great finality:

"It does not interest me; I never dream."

The psychologist says you do. Of course he will not slap your face when he says it, because the psychologist in his chair at the other side of the desk already knows many things about you of which you are unconscious. He will smile and nod and tell you that it is because you are not interested in dreams you do not remember them. In your conscious life, he says, the desires continue to be repressed. The moment you awaken the dream is handcuffed, with leg irons put on and the key turned solidly in the pail door. You go about your daily life and never think about the desire unless there comes that thin link between your conscious and your unconscious self.

Your interest in dreams grows. You talk with the psychologist and after a while you may become somewhat angry at him.

"He made me dream," you say, "I never dreamed before."

"No," says the psychologist, "I did not make you dream. The dreams were there all the time and because you became interested you began to remember them. Up to that time you shut them out of your waking life. The instant of your passing from the unconscious to the conscious was like snapping the lock on your dreams."

There is no set rule for the interpretation of dreams, necromancery to the contrary notwithstanding, the psychologist says. Each dream has its individual significance. One person dreams he has killed his father. There are several theories for its interpretation and the impulse from which it sprang. Here is the discovery of one eminent psychologist in such a case brought before him:

The person said the dream was absurd, that he and his father were on the best of terms, and there was no interpretation unless it be based on the mince pie that was eaten the night before. But the psychologist set out to find what was behind the man's outer consciousness. He worked on the theory that the dream was a repressed desire. The man apparently did not wish to do away with his parent. What then?

Did the parent resemble some one else who had come into the man's life?

Certainly. His father was the spit and image of another person the man had almost forgotten and whom he much disliked.

Had the man ever wished the other person dead?

We-e-ell, perhaps the world would be better off without the other person.

"That was the significance to me," the psychologist told him. "You really wished that person was dead. But you are a law-abiding citizen and in the social code you knew it was wrong to kill the other person, or even to think about killing him. You repressed the desire so that in your waking hours you had almost forgotten him.

MR. WALTER PRATT

"But one night the mince pie helped to turn the lock and out of jail came the little desire and disguised dream as a dream. The word 'dream' you know means to harm, to hurt, to try to hurt, to deceive. And so the repressed desire deceived you. He substituted the image of your father for that other person you disliked and then he became a desire fulfilled by having you kill your father as a proxy."

Yes, mince pie and rich foods help to make you dream. They do not produce the material, the psychologist says, but they produce a physical condition that puts you in the mood to dream. They are the starters for the urge. They perhaps reduce your mental alertness so that the repressed desire finds a loophole through which he may escape from his prison and go frolicking in that vast land of fantasy, which is so delightful to him. And with what strange fabrics the miscreant cloaks himself!

"Even the concentration of directed thought is subject to intrusions of more or less irrelevant fringes of other chains of associations or occasional saltatory ideas," says Dr. Frederick Peterson in his "Psychology of Anticipation and of Dreams," reprinted from "Contributions to Medical and Biological Research." "In day dreams the looseness of concatenation lends itself still more to such intrusions and incoherence. In the dreams of sleep there is still greater relaxation of direction, all the doors of memory are unlocked, flung wide, the countless strands of associations, with all sorts of intrusions, autosuggestions and immediate suggestions from the more or less active sensory apparatus of the body, all played with by reminiscence and anticipation.

"The anticipations may be disagreeable and painful or agreeable and pleasant ,and the dreams correspondently occupied with subjects of apprehension, fear and terror, or of hopes, wishes and desires. The currents of dream consciousness would seem to be a kind of reflection of the currents of alert consciousness, a moonlit underworld of daily common life, with wider horizons as to past and future, without the tension of wholly 'disinterested," as Bergson would have it, with a looser mesh of association and wide open to sugestion from any source, either in the flowing stream of the unconscious mind or in the sensitive body of conscious impression.

Dr. Brill, head of the clinc of psychiarty and clinical assistant in neurology at Columbia University Medical School, says:

"The dream is not a senseless jumble but a perfect mechanism and when analyzed it is found to contain the fulfillment of a wish; it always treats of the inmost thought of personality."

Dr. Brill divides dreams into three classes. The first, he says, are those that represent an unrepressed wish as fulfilled. He gives as example the situation in which the sleeper finds himself after he has eaten salty food and dreams of cooling springs. The dream, Dr. Brill explains, tries to appease the sleeper so as to avoid disturbance of sleep.

The second class is those dreams which represent realization of repressed wish in an entirely concealed form. The third is made up of those which represent the realization of a repressed wish in a form insufficiently or only partially repressed. The last group of dreams, he says, is generally accompanied by fear which interrupts the dream and takes the place of distortion found in the second group.

But after all, however, they may classify or group the dreams, psychologists seem to agree that no universal rule for their interpretation exists and that the psychologist must know the background for each.

"Many physicians do not take the dream except as collateral," says Dr. L. Pierce Clark, of the classification clinic, New York, sixty-fifth street, commenting on the subject of dreams, "and investigate the situation of childhood. They deem it unnecessary to analyze the dream but accept it only as an emanation of something else."

Sometimes the dream goes far back into the realm of forgotten things for its inspiration. Somewhere in that prison which is filled with repressed desires there is the germ of a fantastic plot. Its incidents, so far as the conscious mind is aware, never existed. It is gone into the land of lost things with the thousand and one other incidents that happened long ago. But to the unconscious mind, the psychologist will tell you, it is very realistic and some day comes trooping out to romp and caprice and have a wonderful time to your very great surprise.

There is the story of the banker who had been a success in a way. But he loathed his task although he tried to make himself believe he liked it. His dreams by day and by night were of other things, however, and one day he transferred his business and devoted himself to art. It was his fondest desire and in comparison he became in a short time a far better artist than he ever had been a banker.

The psychologist will tell you that nature reclaimed him, that the repressed desire would not stay repressed and that eventually he became what he always had wanted to de. Sometimes a person's whole character is changed, the psychologist says, and the personality that is out of whack with the rest of the world is readjusted for the better.

It is a wide and varied subject, this matter of dreams, the psychologist says. But if you still want to shiver and thrill with the premonition of disaster and have a perfectly wonderful time enjoying the terrors which you can conjure us as the answer to your dream, then the psychologist says his mission is to help you and free your mind from terrors.

Chateau Frontenac Team Leader's Long Journey

A breath from the freezing winds of the Canadian Arctic, with something of its loneliness, its savagery, its call upon the elemental qualities of courage and endurance and a dash of the romance of the long trails are embodied in Mountie, veteran hero of the wilderness and new leader of the Chateau Frontenac dog-team at Quebec.

Mountie is a husky, in other words, part wolf and his wolf strain shows itself in his handsome head, with its sharp ears and nose, its steel-hard, flaming eyes, its gleaming fangs and its great ruff of fur. He is a dark grey giant, almost one hundred weight of muscle, bone and sinew, ferocity, grim determination and unwavering fidelity. He was born away up within the Arctic Circle, at Lac-du-Brochet, bought in 1919, when very young, by Sergeant Grennan of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and trained by him. He put in nearly five years as a member of that famous force running patrols on His Majesty's Service with the red-coated heroes of the waste.

The journey from Le Pas, in Northern Manitoba, where he was purchased, to Quebec, a distance of well over two thousand miles, was an exciting and extraordinary experience for Mountie. He spent Christmas Day at Winnipeg, where the kind-hearted officials of the Canadian Pacific offered him seasonal fare, which he did not like much, except as a dessert following a mea of his accustomed fish and biscuits He made friends with the baggage men, who were more than sorry to part with him. At Montreal, he had a day's rest and there adjusted himself comparatively easily to the strange turmoil of the great city. His driver, Arthur Beauvais, an Indian from Caughnawaga, took him for a short stroll through the streets, where he created a tremendous sensation. And no wonder, for Beauvais says he is without exception the finest husky he has ever seen, while the Mounted Police report that he has always been greatly admired wherever he has been, both for his appearance and his capacities.

Now he is at the Chateau Frontenac, working comparatively easily at giving visitors a ride and is one of the big attractions of winter-time Quebec and will no doubt shine brilliantly at the forthcoming carnival there.

HAUNTED HOUSES?

Are there haunted houses?

The average American man will shrug his shoulders and smile at the thought. But Camille Flammarion, world-renowned savant and astronomer, is far from sharing the skepticism of the average man. He is not prepared to ridicule the suggestion that ghostly footsteps resound at times in buildings said to be frequented by spirits of beings who once dwelled in them.

On the other hand he has compiled a dossier of 5600 "authentic" cases of haunted houses. From this mass of material he has written a book described as "agonizing," which will appear shortly.

Spiritualism has gained a most distinguished ally in attracting to its fold the personage of Flammarion. Since 1861 he has felt the call to raise the curtain on the mysteries of physical science. But a most vivid imagination has always been the handmaiden of his scientific research. For him the immensities of celestial space, which he still scrutinizes as keenly as ever, are peopled with unknown forces endowed with an intelligence which, added to a determined will, influence humans on the planet Earth, as well as on the planet Mars, which he holds to be inhabited by beings happier than those in the world we know.

One may, perhaps, be justified in describing his forthcoming book as "fantastic." But few will deny the weight given this volume by the addition of Flammarion's signature coupled with the announcement that the cases he enumerates are "facts."

"It is inadmissable," he states, "that nature, animate as well as inanimate, be circumscribed to the visible universe. We must think—we who do not even know the true nature of man—that there can exist other beings of a different type and with an extremely variegated intelligence, these existing in the invisible universe as well as in the visible world."

It is not in refutation that Dr. Pierre Louis Rehm commented on this amazing statement. "All opinions," he said, "are open to discussion. Nevertheless, it must be remembered that the book of Flammarion's contains facts for which we must thank him for having exposed in the manner of a magistrate. There will come a day when some one will find the key with which to unlock the mystery, but that will, perhaps, not be during our generation."

The cases enumerated by Flammarion "give all guarantee of severe investigation." This is important, especially when it is remembered that judicial investigation of many houses reputed to be haunted revealed that their reputation resulted from pranks played by persons interested in depreciating the value of the property which they wished to buy.

One of the most bizarre episodes recounted in the forthcoming work concerns the ghostly adventures of M. Homen Christo, a well-known writer of Portugese birth who has long been a resident of Paris. In 1919, when he was a student of law, M. Christo was expelled from the university. In the latter part of that year he took up his abode near the village of Comeada in a house which, according to the people of the countryside, was visited each night by "spirits of hell." M. Christo evidently shared the same skepticism that the average American man holds for ghosts. Undisturbed by such reports, he went to bed on the first night that he occupied the villa and soon fell into a profound sleep. In an adjoining room slept his young wife and their infant.

Morning came, and a quiet investigation revealed that the members of the family were all well and had heard no unusual sounds during the night. It is conceivable that M. Christo breathed a quiet sigh of relief, for, although he was not superstitious and had proved it by moving himself into a house that was supposedly haunted, still—

All went well on the second night and the third night and, in fact, for the first seven nights.

But the eighth night was another matter. By that time M. Christo had ceased to worry about the ravages of ghostly spirits and went to bed ready for a night of peaceful slumber, for had he not lived for seven nights in the haunted house without molestation?

At 1 o'clock in the morning an "infernal racket" resounded through the house. There were sounds of violent blows and peals of sardonic laughter. Tightly bolted doors and shutters opened and closed regardless of locks, as if in open defiance to the careful safeguard of the hand of man.

These astounding events were promptly reported to the police next morning, and it was arranged to have a guard stand watch the next evening.

The guard arrived and took its place but in the course of the night things began to happen again. They assumed an even more diabolical form than the preceding night. In mounting the stairs M. Christo was violently slapped by an unseen hand as his wife cried out for help when invisible hands pulled her backward by clutching her feet. She finally fainted.

The child vanished from its cradle and was found on a marble table in a room on the floor below. A careful inspection showed that none of the doors through which it must have passed had been opened. It had evidently been transported through closed and bolted doors. One of the police guards became insane as the result of his experiences. His skepticism in ghosts considerably shaken and his morale entirely disrupted, M. Christo, with his family, fled the house.

Both M. Christo and the police took no stock in the belief that a trick had been played on them by human hands. They were keenly watching for some manifestation of human skill and ingenuity and they were confident that no human other than themselves had been in or near the house that night. M. Christo had been slapped vigorously, and yet there was no one visible near him at the time. Nor were there any curtains nearby to conceal the one who had made the assault. His wife had been quite alone when her feet were clutched.

When asked what he thought of this case, Prof. Charles Richet, one of the leading scientists of France and author of several treatises dealing with the subject of metaphysics, replied: As I have not verified the facts for myself, I am not in a position to offer any sort of explanation. But I am very much inclined to believe that the case existed as stated. We live surrounded by an invisible world which often gives us disconcerting manifestations. We still know little about those things, but at least we have started to clear up the field of our ignorance."

Many of the incidents recorded in Flammarion's book seem to bear out the contention advanced by many delvers in the occult that many spirits are mischievous. Surely no one could fear those "dwellers on the threshold" who amuse themselves by toying with the hearth broom or tweaking the tail of the sleeping cat. But to vigorously slap a man in the face, to clutch at a wife's feet and to steal a sleeping infant from its crib and place it naked on a marble table could not be the work of a mere mischievous spirit. Such a spirit, it would seem, must be of the most liabolical kind.

It was doubtlessly, as Flammarion's book relates, a spirit of pranking propensities who inhabited the estate of "La Constantinie" in the Correze. Flammarion cites that this property in 1895 was "persecuted by invisible forces which have never been explained." Casks rolled in the cellar, a cup of coffee turned completely over without a drop being spilled, china cracked and walls were tapped; a bottle and a broom exchanged places. These things are said to have taken place without the application of visible force. Less amusing were the drops of blood that fell upon an open newspaper and the thick smoke that filled a room in which there was not a trace of fire and which returned to the bed from which it seemed to emerge.

Another of the many incidents recorded in Flammarion's book is the case of the house located in Paris in Rue des Noyers, near the Sorbonne, which was assailed by a hail of projectiles in 1849. The house was uninhabited at the time, and the projectiles consisted of paving stones and pieces of walls from neighboring houses, including huge stones which could not have been thrown by human hands because of the weight and size. Police exerted a careful watch, but still the phenomenon continued. When the stones assumed long, flat shapes so they could enter through the slits in the shutters. Despite the closest guarding, police were unable to either stop or account for the strange happenings. They continued until the house was torn to the ground.

MR. A. E. WARREN
General Manager, Western Region, Canadian National Railways

Camille Flammarion has been an outstanding figure in the world of science since the appearance of his first book on astronomy when he was nineteen years old. He is now eighty-one. He has been credited with popularizing astronomy as no other scientist has been able to do so, for throu all his books runs an element of romance and a style that is refreshing to laymen. They are intensely interesting reading. Yet each one is founded on the solid basis of scientific fact.

About fifteen years ago he conceived the idea of digging an immense hole in the earth for a depth of six or seven miles in order to ascertain the structure of the globe. It was his idea that deep in the earth lie imbedded immense deposits of gold, silver, platinum, radium and possibly other valuable minerals as yet unknown. It is a scientific fact that the more valuable minerals have the highest specific gravity and Flammarion believed that their natural resting place was far down in the earth and that the small deposits discovered have been found by accident where they were brought near the surface by some freak of nature. eH attempted before the war to unite several of the larger nations in the plan of digging the hole and it was said that several millionaires had agreed to aid his scheme. What miracles a pound of pure radium might perform no man knows, and Flammarion, was firmly convinced that such a find could be made. It seems strange, he said, that scientists have been able to gain considerable information about the stars and planets millions of miles away, and yet are in total ignorance of what lies directly under their feet at a depth of eight or nine miles.

Lessthan a year ago Flammarion sprang into world prominence again by the discovery of the strange action of Beta Ceti, the star that collided with another heavenly body and was rendered a mass of flame. With the collision the star became the most brilliant in the heavens. It was even greater than Aldebaran of Taurus, which is estimated to be a thousand times larger than our sun.

A short time after this, he presented his evidence that the soul survives after death and subsquently published a book on the subject.

M. Flammarion was one of the first scientists to assert that Mars is inhabited and he has already constructed a number of maps of the planet. In August of this year, Mars will be the shortest distance from the earth than it has ever been, in the memory of man. Flammarion is making arrangements to study the planet at that time.

M. Flammarion believes that the day will come when the inhabitants of earth will be able to communicate with Mars, but that instead of using mechanical devices for the purpose, it will be accomplished by the use of psychic currents.

"You can be sure we shall correspond with the Martians some day. H. G. Wells has predicted this with rather burlesque fantasy, but we will not utilize machines; we will make use of psychic currents in which I firmly believe telepathic power is stronger than space."

In the publication of Flammarion's latest book of "ghosts" is really a supplementary treatise on his experiments and efforts to gather evidence substantiating his belief that the soul lives after the body is buried and decayed. He does not attempt to explain the phenomena he has recorded but asserts that while many cases of fraud are known to exist, that each case is recorded in his book was "controlled" in the presence of worthy observers.

The UP-TO-DATE GARAGE

Why Ford Predominates

Low First Cost

The low price of Ford cars and trucks has been one of the great dynamic forces in the development of motor transportation.

Since January 1920 the average price of Ford products has dropped 38% and Ford prices are now the lowest in the history of the industry.

And because Ford prices are so low, the worker and his family enjoy the innumerable benefits and delights of owning an automobile; the merchant and manufacturer extend their business into new and profitable fields by means of motor delivery; the farmer carries his fresh produce to the best markets with none of the old-time hardship and delay—and all for a very small initial investment.

Fifty out of every hundred cars and trucks in Canada are Fords—due to the public appreciation of Ford value.

BLUEBIRDS WIN AGAIN

Jeff Commons, in a scoring mood, was responsible for the fourth successive defeat of the Northerns in the City League fixture last Friday evening, when the Bluebirds emerged victors by a score of four goals to three, all four goals for the winners being scored by Commons.

The game was in progress only two minutes when the Northern forwards finished a fine combination run by beating Cameron, Glover being the marksman. This lead was short-lived, Commons getting the puck from the face-off and going right down, scored the equalizer.

Commons gave the Bluebirds the lead after ten second of play in the second period. This seemed to speed up the game, the Northerns having the edge on the play and their combination rushes were always dangerous, and resulted in Biggs and Davidson notching a couple of goals, both on passes from Alex Thomson, giving them the lead. Just before the close of the period, a scrimmage occurred in front of Hovan and while the goaltender was stretched full length across the goalmouth, Commons got the rubber again and tapped it into the net, and the period ended with honors even.

Both teams started out in determined fashion in the final session to gain the upper hand but it was not until near the call of time that Commons picked up a pass from Smalek and drove in the winning goal.

Bluebirds — Cameron; White and Smalek; Commons, J. Thomson, Paton, Smith and Gibson.

Referee—Cy. Walker.

The long-drawn-out battle between Seattle and Tacoma as to whether Mount Rainer or Mount Tacoma is the proper name for the lofty peak in the vicinity of the two cities is to be decided by the United States Senate. A Washington senator has introduced a resolution to change the name back to its original Indian appellation. The controversy has enlarged a mole hill into a mountain.

COAL CREEK PLAY HOCKEY

John Kirkwood leaves for Brooklyn, N.Y., this week-end, to join his wife who preceeded him a few weeks ago, prior to taking a trip to the Old Country.

The Village "wag" created consternation in the camp during last week-end by displaying a notice on the bulletin board to the effect that all dances held in the Club Hall must close at 10 p.m.

Our local hockey league got away to a good start during the past fourteen days. The teams comprising the league being as follows: Shamrocks, Falcons, Shieks and Crystals. The officers being as follows: Hon. Pres., W. R. Wilson, Esq.; Hon. Vice Pres., Bernard Caufield; Pres., Dr. Workman; Vice Pres., Wm. Puckey; Sec., John Corlett; Treas., Duncan Alexander; Committee, Messrs. G. Larmont, P. Corrigan, D. Smith, T. Walls, H. Corrigan, S. Fowler and W. Glover. League standing to date—

Shieks	2	1	0	1

Our "rink" took on the appearance of a gala day on Sunday last, when the residents, augmented by a number of Fernie hockey fans, assembled to witness a battle of wit and skill between the Take-a-Swats and Morning Glories. The line-up being as follows: Take-a-Swats — Goal, Miss Nelly Simpson; defence, Helen Workman and Queenie Branch; forwards, Beatrice Coughlan, Gwennie Larmont, Lily Birkett and Alice Millar. Morning Glories—Goal Mrs. Stewart; defence, Mrs. Mowat and Mrs. Corlett; forwards, Mesdames P. Anderson, J. Haile and R. Glover. Referee—Owen Corrigan. It would take a far abler pen than "ye scribe" to paint a word picture of the game. From the tinkle of the opening bell to the close, being brim full of excitement and amusement to the vast concourse of spectators; each player strivng their utmost to get the upper hand of their opponent The referee running in great danger by some of his decisions, especially when having to place the players in the cooler for infringement of rules. Great credit reflects on Mrs. Anderson for the skilfull manipulation of the puck, for the Morning Glories. The game resulted in a win for the Take-a-Swats, the score being 7 to 6.

The skating enthusiasm of Carmichael McNay was dimmed on Saturday last when his face came in contact with the ice, necessitating attention by Dr. Workman.

A challenge has been issued by the Tee Pee Bruisers to play the Old Stiffs in a hockey game on Sunday, February 3, atmospheric conditions permitting, or on first available opportunity. The challenge has been accepted and with suitable weather, this game will be a great attraction. The following teams are posted: Tee Pee Bruisers —Goal, Arthur Boran; defence, Jack McAlpine and Nels Storey forwards, Pete Nolan, Tom Caufield and Ralph Benn. Old Stiffs—Goal, Joe Worthington (Eagle eye); defence Alf. Atkinson and W. Cocburn; forwards, Ed. Shimmins, Marrow Branch and Jonty Gaskill. Referee—R. Johnstone (must wear skates). The Old Stiffs will assemble at the Club Hall at 2.15 and proceed to rink in the following order: Marshall, M. Hugall; special constables, H. Billsborough, J. Ogden and A. Arrowsmith; red cross attendants, Dr. Workman and Joe Hamer; players; then substitutes (too numerous to mention).

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of
The Fernie Free Press:

re The Doctors' Question

Dear Sir—Confucious, the Chinese philosopher, says: "To know what is right and fear to do it, this is moral cowardice." It is evident to any unbiased mind, that the forces of reaction operating in Fernie are losing out; let them call themselves Medical Committee, Relief Committee or Fence Sitters or whatever title suits them best, their own actions condemns them. They are simply reactionary tyrants who are wallowing in the ditch they fell into when they refused the right that is granted to the most degraded criminal; to address the court in their own defence. Every step they have since taken takes them deeper into the mud.

Proof. They imported doctors who were willing to work at a reduced contract scale, proving my previous statements true; that the dispute Edmonton way and in Fernie amounted to the same thing, with the slight difference—cheap coal in Edmonton; cheap medicine in Fernie.

They then got a grand idea, and like youthful brigands, conspired and framed the hold-up that deprived the out-of-work B North men of the money badly needed for the Christmas holidays. This by the way was criminal law-breaking, and steps should have been taken to punish the criminals, however, they covered themselves with glory, or something else.

Even a few days ago they went through the mine train soliciting the men to sign for the doctors they have no use for, and their meetings are noted for certain individuals using threats to those who differ on the question at issue. Coercion in various form are used to intimidate the timid into signing for the new doctors, will say that those who are practicing this kind of stuff are just blusterers, or cowards, or both.

I agree with a Miner's Wife, that much good will follow this controversy, for the same reason she gives in her last letter; adding to it that the U. M. W. of A. Constitution is a very good instrument for the purpose it was designed for. Even as a good ship will carry you over troubled waters, should the good ship become invested with barracles, then it is up to the ship's crew to get busy and scrape them off, before they can do much harm. The scrapers are badly needed in Gladstone Local, but they are being made to be used.

A letter from Miner's Wife No. 2

Like base coin, doesn't ring true;
And must confess, puzzles me.
Will follow the best plan
To treat her as a lady,
But believe she is a man.
She refuses to be ruled by me
In that she is quite right;
But if I was ruled by her,
How pitiful would be my plight.
Her letter proves that she is vexed
—To be continued in our next.

I remain, yours,—Robert Draper.

CHARGES FOR AMBULANCE

The City Council held their first regular February meeting in the Council Chamber Thursday evening, Mayor Henderson occupied the chair, all Aldermen present.

The Health Committee, Aldermen Lees and Irvine, to whom the question of the Ambulance was referred, submitted the following report:

"In event of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. providing a suitable housing for the Ambulance at the M. F. & M. shops and undertaking to convey all accident cases arising at Coal Creek during the day shift, with their own horses;

"That the city will convey all other cases where the Ambulance is called, with their team and will also take care of any accident cases from Coal Creek which reaches Fernie after the day shift is over;

"And that the City Council make the following charge per trip where Ambulance is called, this charge to be paid or guaranteed to the City Clerk before the trip is made, on all cases except accident cases from Coal Creek: within the city limits, $2.50; within one mile outside city limits, $3.50; beyond one mile from city limits, depending on distance, $4.00 to $5.00; night calls, $1.00 ertra on foregoing charges."

The Council accepted the report and enacted that these charges for Ambulance calls be put into effect immediately.

J. Fred Johnson, city auditor, submitted his report to the council, who referred it to the Finance Committee for examination prior to publication.

The usual sheaf of accounts were passed for payment.

By-law No. 259, being the Temporary Loan By-law, providing for the borrowing of $57,000, as required for current civic expenses, was finally considered and adopted.

Mayor Henderson retired and Alderman Irvine took the chair. By-law No. 260, being the Mayor's Salary By-law, providing for the payment of $2000 out of the civic revenue to the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Fernie for the year 1924, went through it usual stages and was finally passed.

SYKES — MACDONALD

The marriage was recently solemnized at the residence of Mrs. MacDonald, Corbin, B.C., of her youngest daughter, Margaret, to Walter Roy Sykes, of Leamington, Ont. The Rev. Mr. Garlick, of Michel was the officiating clergyman. The bride, who was given away by her brother, James, looked charming in a crepe de chene dress with a hat of ostrich feathers to match. Her sister, Mrs. B. Littley, was briedsmaid and her brother, John, was best man. After the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. Mrs. MacDonald, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Barnes, sister, received the guests and a supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Sykes left later for a honeymoon trip to Spokane, Seattle, etc. After their honeymoon they will reside in Corbin. They were the recipients of many valuable presents.

PROSSER — NEIDIG

The Manse of the United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon last when the Rev. W. F. Burns tied the nuptial knot between Mr. William Prosser and Miss Alice Neidig, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Neidig, of this city. The bride was tastefully attired and attended by Miss Lavina Mercer. The duties of groomsman being ably carried out by Mr. Harold Neidig, brother of the bride. After the ceremony the happy couple and a large number of relatives and personal friends sat down to a sumptuous repast at the home of the bride's parents on Victoria Avenue. Congratulatory speeches, singing and dancing were indulged in until the wee sma' hours of the morning. The happy couple were the recipients of many useful presents, as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Neidig, table silver and comforter; Mildred Rauter and John Gibson, casserole; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, silver cake dish; Miss Lavina Mercer, silver dish; Misses Ella and Ruby Wilson, silver forks and butter knife; Mr. Harold Neidig, set of cut glasses and salt shakers; Danny Nee, electric iron; Mr. and Mrs. A. Mercer, fancy towels; Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen, table cloth; Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, linen pillow covers; Master E. Neidig, table cloth; Mr. and Mrs. W. Clarkstone, bed sheets; Mr. and Mrs. W. Bailey, coffee percolator; Mr. and Mrs. H. Murray, bed spread; Mr. and Mrs. Negard, Bull River, blankets, cups and saucers; Mrs. J. Cole, dresser scarf; Mr. E. Neidig and Mr. Prosser, glass rolling pin (to be used on husband only). The young couple have taken up their residence at Wilkes' Boarding House.

B.C. GIRLS FACE SERIOUS ORDEAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—California justice proved lenient to Anita Tell, formerly of Fernie, B.C., today after she pleaded quilty to one of two burglary counts against her. The British Columbia girl was released on her own recognizance pending action on her application for probation. It is believed likely she will receive suspended sentence.

Anita Misseur, also formely of Fernie, was held to answer trial in Superior court. Two witnesses, former employees, appeared against her, saying she had stolen $1500 worth of property, including a mah jongg set.

1500 CLUB FOR FERNIE

Fifteen Hundred Clubs are becoming very popular in this western country and we are now about to have one organized in Fernie. Mr. T. Beck has been busy for the past week getting names of those who are willing to become members of a club of this kind and has now a list sufficient to justify organizing a club.

Nelson has had a club of this kind for the past twelve years, later one was established in Kaslo, Rossland and Trail also has one. A short time ago a club was originated in Calgary and filled up so quickly that a Two Thousand Club was organized, which is also nearly filled.

The principal objects of the Society is to make provision, by means of subscriptions, for relieving the widows, orphan children, or other dependants of members, but not otherwise to carry on the business of insurance, and not to conduct a trading or merchandising venture, or for purposes of commercial gain, and its membership is limited to Fifteen Hundred members.

The membership fee is $5.00; yearly dues, $2.00, and first assessment, $1.00, making a total of $8.00; afterwards the assessments are $1.00 for each death of a member.

The benefits are that on the death of a member of the Society the beneficiary shall receive one dollar from the Society for each member in good standing at the time of death. If the club has one hundred members and a death takes place then the benefit amount is $100.00; if there is 500 members and a death takes place then the benefit would be $500.00; till the full number of Fifteen Hundred is reached.

There will be a meeting in the I. O.O.F. Hall at 8 o'clock on Monday evening, February 18, when all proposed members are expected to be present and will also be open to the public. Those who become members will be asked to elect a Board of five directors and also a secretary-treasurer.

The board then has the general supervision of the work of the Society until the next annual general meeting when they are re-elected to office or any change made that the members may deem advisable.

The expenses of the working of the Society is very small, the secretary-treasurer receiving a small allowance for clerical work, together with the necessary supplies, postage, etc., comprise all the expense.

This is the cheapest and most popular form of benefits that can be devised and Fernie should have a club of full Fifteen Hundred members in a very short time.

SWASTIKAS ELIMINATED

The Fernie Swastikas have been eliminated from the 1924 Western Canada Ladies' Hockey Championship series at Banff and are expected to return to the City Saturday morning. Only meagre details of the two games they played in the series are available but these indicate that luck was entirely against them in the game with Canmore, in which they were defeated by the only goal of the match. Defeat at that stage was extremely disconcerting after the wonderful game they played against the Calgary Patricias, reported to be the strongest opposition they would have at Banff, this game they easily won by a score of four goals to one.

The first game against the Patricias was played Tuesday evening and proved to be one of the most exciting games ever witnessed at Banff. In the opening stages the Calgary team maintained a strong pressure on the Fernie defence and after ten minutes play Miss Malm opened the scoring on a pass from Miss Crick. The Patricias held their lead until well on in the second period, but the Swastikas gradually hit their stride and were soon masters of the situation. Miss Schagel was injured when she struck the boards but returned to the game after a short rest. Smart combination by the Fernie girls resulted in Miss Biggs equalizing on a pass from Miss Muir. The puck had hardly been faced-off when the Fernie girls were back around the Patricias goal, Miss Henderson bringing the puck down the ice and drawing off the defence, slipped the puck to Miss Muir, who put Fernie one up.

The game slowed up considerably during the third period, the pace set up evidently telling on the girls, but Fernie kept striving for more goals. Miss Schagel made a beautiful end to end rush and gave Miss Biggs a perfect pass, and that player made no mistake in driving the rubber into the twines. Just before the close of the game, Miss Biggs added another goal for the Swastikas.

The only available report on the Canmore-Swastika game appeared in the Calgary Albertan this morning. It reads as follows:

"At 4.30 p.m. (Thursday) the fourth game of the Ladies' Hockey Championship was staged between Canmore and Fernie and in the first period the Canmore team scored a lone goal with a long shot, and after that, while the Fernie girls played a much better class of hockey, they were not able to find the net and at the close of the game the score stood 1 to 0 in favor of the Canmore girls.

ELABORATE SCENES IN FAMOUS SCREEN COMEDY

"Potash and Perlmutter," a First National picture produced by Samuel Goldwyn, and which is coming to the Orpheum Theatre on Wednesday next for a two day engagement, contains a number of exceptionally elaborate settings.

Ordinarly a screen comedy does not possess as sumptuous settings as a drama, but in this instance Producer Goldwyn has furnished a luxurious background because the story was big and required it.

One of the settings is the showroom where the cloak and suit firm of Potash and Perlmutter exhibited its latest styles to the trade. While the buyers leaned back in mammoth chairs and divans, supplied with cigars, cigarettes and refreshments, by uniformed lackeys, a score of handsome models paraded up and down an immense room draped with velvet and silk and illuminated by handsome chandeliers and shaded sidelights.

Another setting of an unusually elaborate nature is the cabaret. In the centre of it is a huge fountain, the water from the bowl dripping into the basin beneath. The figures of four beautiful girls are stationed beneath the bowl, impersonating statues bolding up their burden. As the spotlight is turned on them they "come to life" and go through the intricacies of a rythmic dance.

Clarence Badger directed "Potash and Perlmutter," Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr having the roles of the partners, assisted by Vera Gordon. It is from the famous play by Montague Glass and Charles Klein.

Turkey has resumed "government control" of the liquor trade. The national treasury was dry and she needed the money.

DIAMOND JUBILEE OF THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ORDER

Tuesday, February 19th, will mark the fifty year milestone in the annals of Pythianism. The members of the local lodge are leaving no stone unturned to make the event a red letter day. For the convenience of the members residing at Coal Creek, it has been decided to hold the Jubilee Ceremony in the Club Hall, Coal Creek.

Invitations have been extended to the other Fraternal Societies to send a representative, also to prominent citizens of Fernie and Coal Creek, all Knights of Pythias and the members of the Pythian Sisters. A universal order of ceremony has been arranged, short addresses will be delivered by Brothers appointed during the ceremony. After the ceremony a banquet will be held at the Tee Pee Boarding House. In order that necessary arrangements may be made for catering, it is absolutely essential that all Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters intending to participate, must have their names in to Fred Beale, Keeper of Records and Seals, not later than Tuesday evening, February 12, (lodge night).

Particulars as to transportation, etc,, will be posted later.

FERNIE BEATS KIMBERLEY

Special to the Free Press

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Feb. 7.—Playing the first game of a home and home series for the hockey championship of East Kootenay, Fernie defeated Kimberley, winners of the Cranbrook-Kimberley league, at Kimberley, this evening, by a score of four goals to three.

Fernie gave a fine exhibition of combination playing, stick handling and fast skating. They led at the end of the first period with three goals, all of which they scored in the first ten minutes of play. In the second period both teams scored one goal each while Kimberley ran in a couple of tallies in the third.

Snow falling on the ice hampered play considerably and during the second period the puck was invisible most of the time to the spectators, owing to the snow and mist.

The second game of the series will be played at Fernie Friday (tonight) total goals in these two games to count. The winner of this series will proceed to Rossland where they will meet Rossland, winners of the West Kootenay league, in a two game series to decide the championship of the Kootenays, which carries the McBride Cup, and the right to proceed to the coast for the British Columbia Allen Cup play-off.

The line-up—

Referee—W. A. Caldwell.

THE PASSING OF NIKOLAI LENIN

Commenting on the death of Nikolia Lenin the New York Evening Post says:

"Every sorrow that has fallen on the world since it beginning fell upon Russia with his coming. His outriders were the Four Horsemen. He found Russia a nation and left it a fallow field, furrowed with graves and flecked with blood.

"Lenin had strength. That very strength was a curse to Russia. He was clear-eyed. How, then, could his dying vision fail to glimpse the dark path down which he had driven Russia?

"If the fantoms of Russia's dead might but gather to receive the ghost of Lenin!

"He should stand in the centre of an amphitheatre as vast as Russia. On one side should be massed the wraiths of the Red Wrath's victims—peasants, savants, aristocrats, judges, priests, soldiers, and workers, they with their women, children, aged and crippled. They should come up from their shallow, pitiful graves and rise from the river ooze, from wells, pools, pits, and the quick-lime vaults of the Chekha.

"On the other side should gather the dead of famine and pestilence—the simple villagers and peasants, the timid, mystical Slav souls who perished because of the hunger and plagues that followed Lenin and his savage dreamers. For these also are his victims.

"In a silence, then, as deep as eternity, the dead eyes of these slain millions should look down upon Lenin. In the damp, cold breath blowing from a land of graves, in the phosphorescent glow of decay flickering over the massed hosts of the dead, Lenin should stand in the day of his judgment.

"The ex-Kaiser has his apologists, defenders, and wreath-bearers. Lenin will have his. Legends and little tales will be told of his human goodness, but the good that was in him will be interred with his bones. The marks he leaves on the world are terrible scars. The evil he has done will live after him.

"Nikolai Lenin will be remembered as Attila, Alaric and Tamerlane are remembered."

Thus departs "one of the few great personalities thrown up by the war," remarks the Brooklyn Eagle—"the czar of the Russian Revolution, last of the war Premiers, leader of the Soviet Republic since its establishment in 1917. His great opportunity" this paper adds, "came when the German Government sent him to Russia in 1917. He threw out Kerensky, established Communism, signed the peace of Brest-Liovsk, promoted Bolshevism in Germany and Hungary, and organized his forces for world revolution." Lenin's career, "perhaps created more interest throughout the world than that of any political leader since Napoleon," observes the New York World, in a sketch which we here reprint in abbreviated form:

"Lenin, whose real name was Vladimir Ilyitsch Ulianoff, was born in Simbirsk, Russia, April 24, 1870. In school he stood at the head of his class each year, and was graduated at seventeen, highly commended. Before young Lenin left school an older brother was executed on a charge of plotting against the Czar. Later a massacre of miners by Czarist officers added bitterness to the desire to avenge his brother. He wrote radical articles under the name Nikolai Lenin, which he afterward adopted for his own.

"By the time he was graduated from the University of Petrograd, he was closely associated with the revolutionaries of the capital. At the age of twenty-five he was exiled to Siberia for helping organize the 'Union for the Emancipation of the Working Classes.' He was later freed and went to live in Munich, London, and then Geneva. He was in Petrograd at the time of the 1905 revolution, making his escape to Finland. In 1906, he went to Paris, then to Galicia, where he assumed control of Bolshevik activities. He was in Carcow, in Austria Galicia, when the war broke out. The Austrians expelled him, and he went to Switzerland, and continued his propaganda for international Socialist action, though he broke with the Moderate Socialists, calling them 'traitors to the proletariat.'

"With the overthrow of the Czar, early in 1917, Lenin returned to Russia. He had clear passage across Germany, a circumstance construed as evidence that he was an agent of Germany, provided with German funds to work for the disruption of the Russian Army and to separate Russia from the Allies.

"At the All-Soviet Congress he declaimed against the Kerensky Government, and in July, 1917, made an unsuccessful attempt to overthrow that regime. He escaped from Petrograd, suffered great hardships, reached Finland, and in November came back to Petrograd by the help of Trotsky. Kerensky's Provisional Government fell, and the Soviets took charge. Lenin's chief concern was peace, and he put through the Brest-Litovsk Treaty.

"Lenin was made Premier of 'the Soviet Republic.' He was forty-seven years old—a short, rather stout little man, whose only striking characteristics was his keen blue eyes.

"The fact that the government of a country as vast as Russia was in the hands of men who not only put their Socialist doctrines into effect in their own country, but who sought to incite the peoples of the earth to join with them, aroused the most violent opposition in other nations, which watched with the deepest anxiety the progress of events under Lenin.

"Commercial intercourse with foreign nations was impossible, while the world refused to recognize a Government based on such principles, and the economical condition of Russia grew worse from year to year.

"Faced with economic demoralization, and struggling vainly to prevail upon the other nations of the world to supply the commercial help so sorely needed, while at the same time refusing to admit the impracticability of a Communist State; seeing millions of his people starving from disaster to the crops, Lenin, in May, 1922, broke beneath the strain.

"He suffered from insomnia and gastric disorders. Disdainful of his physicians, he kept at work. By September he was forced to go to the country for rest. Thereafter he was counsellor in affairs rather than director.

"He was married, but had no children."

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

Fernie Lodge No. 1335, Loyal Order of Moose are out on a campaign for new members. Their reason for so doing is that they want every good citizen to have an opportunity to help in the good work which is being carreid on by the Order for children at Mooseheart, and the old folks at Moosehaven.

"Every child is entitled to at least a high school education and a trade." —James J. Davis.

The Loyal Order of Moose is an international fraternal-beneficiary society, consistng of more than sixteen hundred lodges in the United States Canada and throughout the English-speaking world, having an aggregate membership in all these Lodges of almost 600,000 men. Most of the Lodges provide for sick benefits and funeral expense funds for their members. Each Lodge is a complete unit in itself, with full local autonomy.

Thirty-five facts regarding Mooseheart—

33. The annual expenditure for the care, training and education of each child at Mooseheart is approximately $800.00. In a few words, no system of education can raise the children to a larger and broader plain of physical, mental and spiritual education that that which they receive at Mooseheart.

34. The Mooseheart family today (August 1st, 1922) is composed of 624 boys, 476 girls and 75 mothers with more to be added each month.

35. The motto of the institution is "Mooseheart, the School that Trains for Life." This training is made possible by an annual contribution of two dollars from each of the 600,000 members of the Loyal Order of Moose. Further particulars from any member of the Order or James Wilson, Secretary.

DECORATED AT NEW YORK

Upon the arrival of the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Canada at New York, following her cruise Round America, Captain S. Robinson, R.N.R., who now commands this vessel on world cruise, was created a Commander of the Order of the British Empire in recognition of his heroic work at Yokohama when Japan was rocked by earthquake and when the Empress of Australia, which he then commanded, was the headquarters for the rescue parties and relief workers. The investiture was made by Sir Harry Armstrong, British Consul General at New York in the presence of a large gathering of important figures in Canadian and American political and commercial life. This photograph was taken at the time of the investiture and shows, from left to right, Sir Harry Armstrong, Captain S. Robinson, C.B.E., R.N.R., and Mr. E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who visited the blue ribbon vessel of the Canadian Pacific fleet after the ceremony.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Neighbors Recommend Vicks For Colds

Now this Manitoba Family Always Has a Jar On Hand

The impulse to help is strong in human nature and people are always willing to talk about a remedy that really brings relief. In this way, that is through the neighbors, many hundreds—yes, thousands—of Canadians have heard of Vicks.

Mrs. Walter Dryia, of 101 7th St., Brandon, Manitoba, writes: "I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude for what Vicks VapoRub has done for me and other members of my family. It gives us so much satisfaction that we all use it whenever we feel the need of a salve. Last winter we all had bad colds in our family and I didn't know what to do. Some neighbors told me to try Vicks VapoRub, so I got a jar and in a short time our colds were all gone. Now we always keep a jar on hand."

Applied externally, Vicks acts like a liniment or poultice. In addition, the volatile oils are vaporized by the body heat and inhaled directly into the air passages. This double action quickly loosens a cold.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

GIRLS! WHITEN YOUR SKIN WITH LEMON JUICE

Make a beauty lotion for a few cents to remove tan, freckles, sallowness.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply you with three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Squeeze the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle, then put in the orchard white and shake well. This makes a quarter pint of the very best lemon skin whitener and complexion beautifier known. Massage this fragrant, creamy lotion daily into the face, neck, arms and hands and just see how freckles, tan, sallowness, redness and roughness disappear and how smooth, soft and clear the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless, and the beautiful results will surprise you.

FARMERS IN CONFERENCE

(Cranbrook Herald)

The meetings of the Farmers' Institute District Convention opened in the council chamber of the city hall on Wednesday afternoon, when the delegates from the various institutes were received and introduced, and the resolutions to be considered at the convention meetings were presented. The following delegates were in attendance:

Mr. Draper, Cokato; Mr. Crowe, Jaffray; G. D. Quail, Fernie; R. G. Newton, Invermere;; Mr. Tompkins, Windermere; Mr. Harper, Glenlily; Capt. Barnard, Baynes Lake; Mr. Lawson, Wardner; Mr. L. Mott and Mr. A. B. Smith, Cranbrook.

At 6 p.m. the delegates and a number of others interested sat down to a dinner at the Masonic Hall, where after satisfying the cravings of the inner man with an enjoyable and bountiful repast, a very pleasant and profitable time was spent for an hour listening to some after-dinner talks.

N. A. Wallinger, M.P.P., as chairman expressed the pleasure he felt in filling that position, at a meeting of those whose occupation was the basis of every country's prosperity.

Mayor Balment extended a very cordial welcome to the delegates and visitors on behalf of the city, expressing the hope that their deliberations would be of much benefit to them.

The speakers were all listened to with marked attention. Many referred to theuseful work that the Institute was carrying on and the advantage to be derived from the co-operation of merchant and the farmer. The work of Mr. A. Hay, the local district agriculturist came in for a lot of favorable comment, he being given full credit for the many successes achieved by the district since he has been here.

The speakers of the evening were the following: W. H. Wilson, president of the board of trade; T. R. Flett, superintendent, Cranbrook Division, C.P.R.; R. G. Newton, superintendent Dominion Experimental Farm at Invermere; Dr. Warnock, deputy minister of agriculture, Victoria; C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, secretary to the Provincial Advisory Board, Farmers' Institute; A. L. Hay, district agriculturist and Dr. Rutledge, dairy inspector, city of Cranbrook.

Besides the delegates, the boys of the district who won the judging competition events at the New Westminster Fair were present, Allen Keer, Stewart McClure and John Clark. It had been hoped that the medals they had won would be ready for presentation to the boys at this time but these have not yet been received from the coast.

After the dinner the meeting adjourned to the city hall, where the second session of the convention took place. The speakers were Dr. Warnock, D. O. Bricker, district representative on the advisory board and C. E. Whitney - Griffiths, secretary. Mr. Whitney-Griffiths dealt principally with the activities of the association during the past year. Mr. Bricker dealt with the question of agricultural credits.

Thursday morning and afternoon very profitable sessions of the convention were held. A central District Institute was formed comprising about twelve individual districts, the headquarters of which will be in Cranbrook, where all conventions will be held.

BUILDS UP SYSTEM; GIVES QUICK RELIEF

"The majority of people who come into this store for medicines of various sorts are really suffering because of a sluggish liver," declared a leading druggist the other day. "What they really need is Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup to cleanse and tone the liver and build up the system so that they feel their best again. It gives quick relief; this is why we can afford to sell it with the understanding that it will give complete satisfaction; otherwise the purchase price will be returned."

It is easy to tell when your liver is sluggish and clogged. Just ask yourself: Do you feel dull and tired so often? Do you wake up with a bad taste, coated tongue and offensive breath? Do you suffer from such symptoms as bad colds, sour stomach and gas, irregular movement of the bowels and that tired, nervous, upset, and depressed feeling? If so, take just a spoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup after the next few meals and notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel.

Get a bottle of Dr. Thacher's from the Suddaby Drug and Book Store or the leading druggist in every city or town, and unless you really appreciate what it has done for you come back and your money will be refunded without a single question. This is how much confidence we have in this splendid, corrective, health-building preparation.

Internal cleanliness protects against disease

IT is but a step from those immediate results of constipation—headache, heaviness, loss of appetite—to serious disease. Such minor ailments are a warning that poisons from food waste are flooding your body. Keep clean internally.

Your Bath Goes Only Skin Deep

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Lavatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

THE place of Woodrow Wilson in history is fixed. His name is destined to occupy a conspicuous page in the annals of his country. He was easily one of the outstanding figures in the great World War. The service which he rendered in this great drama of blood and iron is a matter for future historians to adequately set forth. As an idealist he will continue to hold a foremost place among the great statesmen of his generation. The crowning achievement of his life failed of its full accomplishment largely through his own inexorable devotion to his idealism. But the League of Nations, for which he probably gave his life, will ever remain as a monument to his memory. Like most great men, he had his faults, but these faults do not obscure his great contributions to his country and the world in the masterful manner in which he conducted the nation's affairs in the time of the world's sorest trials. There is no denying the fact that Woodrow Wilson has enshrined himself in the hearts of great multitudes of his fellow countrymen, and established himself in the high estimation of the peoples of all the nations of the world. The news of Woodrow Wilson's death was the occasion for universal expression of respect for him as a man and appreciation of his great service in the cause of humanity.

IN 1923 the Panama Canal was used by 5046 ships, compared with 2997 in 1922. They paid tolls of $22,961,000, while in 1922 the tolls amounted to only $12,573,407. Canal traffic furnishes an index of the state of commerce throughout the world. Its rapid growth is indicative of the steady trend towards normalcy everywhere.

THERE is a strong feeling of revolt against the drunken automobile driver and it is doubtful if the penalty is heavy enough. Rum runners have their cars confiscated. Yet the drunken driver is more dangerous than the rum-runners. A fine is not heavy enough punishment. Take his car and put him in jail, too. "Treat 'en rough."

THERE will be close to 1,300,000 funerals in the United States during 1924. The national death rate now is about 12 a year to the 1000 population.

Births will exceed deaths, so the total population will increase—which seems to be nature's principal worry. We are like an army forever marching into the stage of life from one side and marching off the other into oblivion. And we are across and into the wings a lot sooner than we expect.

NEXT to the parents no one is so interested in the children's welfare, so devoted to their growth and development as well as their school education as the teacher. Her work will be far more effective if the children know that the parents and trustees believe in her, trust her judgment, and back her up in her ideals and her decisions. She will be happier as well as more effective in doing it if the appreciation that is in the hearts of the people of the community finds expression occasionally in words, in occosional hospitalities extended, and in other small acts of consideration. Co-operate with your teacher.

FEW merchants really have the proper appreciation of what advertising means to them. A writer in an exchange aptly put it in this way: If a man spoke to his wife only once a month or every two months she wouldn't recognize his voice, says an exchange. Yet some business men advertise one a month or every two months and then wonder why they don't get more bussiness. Advertise every week. Remember "the used key is always bright." The store that tells the public what it is doing every day is the store that gets there in the end.

It's no crime to be poor, but it's an awful mistakes.

Man is the only animal that reasons and laughs. Let us resolve to do a little of both in 1924.

A person isn't necessarily knocking when he says the roads in any community are in bad condition and need fixing. He may be telling the truth.

It is said that no fewer than ten thousand words were added to the English language during the world war. But half of them are not fit to print.

Don't let any politician fool you with the assertion that he has a plan to tax somebody else. It can't be done. In the end every tax is distributed over the population of the country, and the only way to get relief is to repeal the law.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

There was some curling at the rink last evening, but the ice was heavy.

The road to Michel is now open for cars and is in fairly good shape.

G. F. Johnson and G. G. Moffatt left on Tuesday for Vancouver.

To be(er) or not to be(er) is the question now agitating the minds in clubdom around town.

J. Terris says that a little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men, but there is a limit.

Try one of our meat pies, or steak and kidney pies, and you will always have them—Crow's Nest Bakery.

The monthly tea of the Christ Church Ladies' Guild will be given Wednesday, February 13, in the Rectory, from 3.30 to 6 p.m.

Joseph Taverna, recently with S. Graham, has opened a butcher shop in the premises recently vacated by Wm. Barraclough.

The gymnasium in connection with the Miners' Club is proving a big attraction. Work is proceeding in the erection of a bath and showers. Billy Lewis is instructor.

The annual meeting of the Mount Fernie Chapter I.O.D.E. will be held in the Council Chamber at 3.30 sharp on Saturday afternoon, February 9. 1924 fees are due. A full attendance is requested.

Mrs. Neil McCallum and Miss Alice Corrigan wish to convey their sincere thanks to the Doctors and Nurses of the Fernie Hospital; and to other friends who were so kind to them during their recent sad bereavement.

D. O. Bricker, of Fernie, advisory board representative for this district, was a caller at the Herald office while in the city attending the Farmers' Institute convention.—Cranbrook Herald.

A very quiet marriage was performed at Christ Church on Saturday, February 2, when Victor George Garvin and Sarah Mabel McCall were united in wedlock by the Rev. H. U. Oswald. Mrs. J. Wood, mother of the bride, and a few friends attended the ceremony.

There will be a unique service in United Church on Tuesday evening, the feature of which will be the burning of some ten thousand dollars in mortgages. All are invited to this "bon-fire." See notice in Church calendar.

The District Bonspiel, called for last Monday at Lethbridge, had to be postponed one week owing to soft ice. At present the weather looks as though it might be possible to start on Monday. One Fernie rink has dropped out owing to the change in time.

Carl McKee, a son of the late James McKee, of Elko, died at Kimberley last Tuesday, very suddenly. The funeral is being held in Elko today. Deceased was a brother of Mrs. James Osborne, of Fernie.

Don't forget the annual meeting of the Mount Fernie Chapter I.O.D.E. in the Council Chamber on Saturday, February 9, at 3.30 sharp. The "Echos" secretary will receive subscriptions to "Echos."

The Women's Auxiliary G.W.V.A. will hold a whist drive and dance in the Vets rooms on Tuesday evening, February 12. Cards at 7 p.m. sharp. Dancing 9.30. Refreshments provided. A good time assured for all. Be on Time.

A Valentine Dance will be held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on February 14th. Do not miss this or you'll be sorry if you do. Something special in store for you. Ladies! Remember this is Leap Year and your only chance for a good time. Don't forget the date and you are sure of a good time from the Pythian Sisters.

Here and There

Navigation of the St. Lawrence river is expected to open early in the month of April. According to preliminary schedules issued by the various steamship companies operating between Canadian Atlantic ports and Europe, 192 ships will visit the port of Quebec in 1924.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has inaugurated as a special feature the serving of afternoon tea regularly on all dining, cafe and buffet cars throughout the system. The tasteful little menu which the company provides includes tea, coffee, chocolate, toast, muffins, cake, ice cream and preserves at reasonable prices.

The Spiller Company, a great British concern with $150,000,000 capital, has completed arrangements for the establishment of facilities in Canada which will entail an outlay of $6,000,000 to finish the plant of the Alberta Flour Mills in Calgary, with another $2,000,000 to build an elevator at Vancouver.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Made of Fruit Juices and Tonics

The most convincing proof of the true worth of "Fruit-a-tives" as a medicine for women is found in the letters written by them to "Fruit-a-tives". For instance:

"I suffered with all the symptoms of female trouble, pains low down in the back and sides, constipation and constant headache. A doctor advised an operation. I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and this fruit medicine completely relieved me of all my misery".

COAL CREEK NOTES

Owing to the prevailing atmospheric condition the Old Stiffs vs Bruisers hockey game had to be postponed and will take place on the first available opportunity.

Mr. Robert Fowler was removed to Dr. Kelman's hospital on Tuesday morning, inflammatory condition having set in following an operation for tumor.

A wire was received in camp from the Sanitarium at Kamloops, notifying of the passing away of George Simpson, of this camp. The deceased was well known and respected here, being an old-time resident, working for the Coal Company as horse-shoer up to his removal to Kamloops about two years ago. Mrs. Simpson received an urgent wire on Monday and left Tuesday morning, being present when he passed away. The sympathy of the residents is extended to the widow and family left to mourn his loss.

Visions of prosperity arose when the mines worked two days together. But was rudely shattered by the appearance of the usual notice on Tuesday afternoon.

The bird of the elongated legs paid a visit to camp, eventually depositing his burden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Riverside Ave. Everything O.K. George all smiles.

To be stranded in a strange city with no worldly assets but a suit of dress-clothes and yet to come out of the adventure victorious is to achieve something. Joe and Bill arrived in Montreal a few nights ago, their baggage consisting of the clothes they wore, two dress suits, an adequate quantity of the needful and an enthusiastic determination to see Life with a capital L. When they woke on the morning after, they found that someone had relieved them of everything they possessed except the dress suits they had slept in, and which they had worn for the previous night's affray.

In this predicament they appealed to the authorities at the Canadian Pacific Windsor Station, for work whereby to earn enough to take hem out of the wicked city. Sympathetic officials put them on the snow-shovelling gang. And here these two stout fellows, in their dress suits, Joe with his feet wrapped in sacking to keep them warm, labored heartily for four days, earning the price of their tickets back to the little old home town. So once more fiction and the movies are beaten.

Billy McKay, of Waldo, spent several days in town this week.

A whist drive and dance will be held on Tuesday evening, February 19, in the basement of Christ Church.

Robert Kerr is around again after undergoing a serious operation, successfully performed by Dr. Bonnell.

The Fernie Cartage Co. has purchased the building occupied by the Fernie Garage. The deal was put through by M. A. Kastner.

Don't forget the social and dance in Catholic Hall, Friday, February 8. Cards from 8.30 p.m. Dancing from 11 to 1. Admission 50c. Remember the time, 8.30 p.m.

Mrs. Louise Stebler, 161 Victoria Avenue, was a charming hostess on Friday evening last at a whist dance party in honor of her house guest, Miss Marie McDonald, of Flagstone.

Esther Rebekah Lodge are holding a Leap Year dance in the I. O. O. F. Hall, February 29. Admission $1.00 a couple, extra gentleman 50c. Whitehouse Orchestra. Dancing from 10 to 2.

Jim Taverna has taken over the meat market on Howland Avenue formerly occupied by Wm. Barraclough and is prepared to supply the public with a choice line of meats at the very lowest possible prices.

Archie Farquharson, the well known timber contractor of Fernie, was in Cranbrook between trains on Tuesday of this week. Mr. Farquharson is one of Fernie's oldest residents. He came to the coal city before the steel was laid down on the "Crow."—Courier.

Alfred Cummings, B.C.L.S., of Fernie, who has been completing a survey for the East Kootenay Power Company, from the Mission to Kimberley, returned to Fernie on Thursday, after a week spent in the district. Mr. Billy Dicken, who was assisting him, returned also.—Herald.

On Tuesday of this week, a well known old timer in the person of Wm. Corrigan crossed the great divide at the age of 67 years. Deceased, who came to Fernie almost seventeen years ago, had been ill for some time, but death came suddenly at the end and was a sorrowful surprise to his many friends. He leaves a family of seven to mourn his death, four daughters and three sons. Two of the daughters. Mrs. N. McCalum and Miss Alice Corrigan, reside in Fernie. Two of the sons also reside in Fernie. The funeral, which took place this morning from the home of Mr. Neil McCallum, was largely attended.

Last Friday evening, in the Assembly Hall of the Central Public School, Dr. Lamb, provincial travelling health officer, gave a very interesting and instructive talk to a small but appreciative audience on Tuberculosis. Dr. Lamb handled his subject from a preventative point and also dealt with the early stages of the disease and how, with proper treatment, it could be cured and insistent cases checked. He laid great stress upon isolation and sanitary care of patients so as to protect other members of the family. He explained the first symptoms of the disease and urged the necessity of medical attention at once. He also urged upon parents the importance of watching their children. Seventy-five per cent. of the children under the age of fifteen contract infection more or less. Those with normal condition throw off the infection more easily; others require extra care and nourishment to resist the infection. Climatic conditions here are good and children, with proper care and nourishment, have every advantage. Watch the children.

Invitations are out for the big banquet which Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson are tendering the old-timers and their wives next Friday evening. The affair, which promises to be the event of the season will take place in the I. O. O. F. Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock and it it expected that there will be at least one hundred and fifty guests present. One of the best programs every provided is being arranged for. Kindly reply to invitations not later than Monday to Mr. James McLean, secretary of the Old Timers' Association, so proper provisions can be made.

Through the Provincial Board of Health, Dr. Corsan has secured a limited supply of Schick's Diphtheritic Tests. This test, which is very simple in its application, demonstrates whether or not a person (child or adult) is liable to contract diphtheria. Those who respond to the test, showing their susceptibility to the disease, can then be inoculated with toxin-antitoxin mixture, a comparatively recent discovery, which will protect them from diphtheria for an indefinite period. The results obtained in large centres in Eastern Canada and the United States from the use of toxin-anitoxin have been highly satsatisfactory. It is requested that all those who wish to take advantage of this protection for themselves and their children will make application as soon as possible. Arrangements will be made so that those interested can have the services of their own medical attendant in administering the test and toxin-antitoxin.

"BEAR" TO RETIRE

One of the most famous vessels on the Pacific flying the American flag is being made ready at Seattle for what may prove to be her last voyage. This is the good ship "Bear," which is entering upon her fortieth year in the Pacific service.

The Bear has been for all these years a part of the Coast Guard fleet assigned to duty in Alaskan waters and generally throughout the Arctic region. To hundreds of Vancouver and old-timers of the North she is familiar. Celebrated in story and song for more than a generation, this gallant old cutter and her achievements are discussed wherever sailors congregate, and much interest has been excited by the announcement that following her cruise next summer she may be placed on the retired list.

No story of Alaska could be complete without a reference to the work performed by the Bear along the extensive coast line of this great Territory. The ship and her crew have taken part in many relief expeditions that have penetrate the Frozen North, thus adding greatly to the renown of the Coast Guard service.

The Bear first came into public notice in 1883, when she was bought from a Glasgow whaling company by the United States for use on the Greely relief expedition. After successfully accomplishing that mission she was transferred to the Revenue Cutter service, now known as the Coast Guard. Since that time the Bear and her crew have figured in many thrilling episodes, and the story of the Bear is in a large measure the story of Alaska and its making.

In addition to bringing back the Greely survivors in 1883, the Bear was utilized in the great Overland Relief Expedition in 1897, and in 1921 sough out and rescued the crew of the steamer Maud, the ship on which Capt. Roald Amundsen sailed on his journey of exploration in the polar regions.

The Bear has figured in open fights on the high seas incident to the enforcement of the liquor laws and in quelling mutinous crews. She has been a guardian of the peace in Alaska, and on ocasion has prevented desperate characters from driving out the worthy settlers and interfering with the quietude of people in coastal communities. She enforces revenue, criminal and civil laws, performs as a common carrier for government officers, looks after shipwrecked marines, miners and oil prospectors in hard luck, acts as a protector and advisor of the native population, transports the mail, protects the seal industry, and carries supplies between government stations.

The Bear is often referred to in Alaska as the "floating court." One of her officers on every cruise is sworn in as a United States Commissioner, while another carries the warrant of a United States Marshal. The officer acting as Commissioner tries cases involving minor offenses and is empowered to impose sentence.

In November 1897, it was brought to the attention of President McKinley that eight vessels of the whaling fleet were caught by the ice in the vicinity of Point Barrow and their crews were in danger of starvation. The danger was so threatening and the necessity for relief so urgent that the President immediately ordered a relief expedition. Little hope was held out by those experienced in work in the Arctic regions that anything could be accomplished by an expedition in the winter season, but by order of the President the revenue cutter was prepared.

The plan of this Overland Relief Expedition was drawn and the direction of it placed under Capt. Francis Tuttle, whose experience and ability especially fitted him for such a command. The officers and crew were all volunteers, and although the Bear had just returned from a six months cruise in Arctic waters she was prepared, fitted out and sailed from Seattle, November 27, 1897, just three weeks from the date of her arrival from the North. Ten months later she returned to Seattle, bringing four crews of wrecked whalers, and having fully carried out all the orders and accomplished all the purposes of the expedition without loss or accident.

The men who had immediate charge of this expedition endured great hardships and privation and exhibited wonderful bravery and endurance. The Bear, after an eventful voyage, landed three officers, Lieutenants D. H. Jarvis and E. D. Bertholf and Dr. S. J. Call, with a small quantity of supplies at an Indian village on Nelson Island in the Arctic Circle.

From Nelson Island these officers travelled by dog sled and reindeer for 1500 miles over snow-covered mountains, down the Yukon River to the coast, and along the shore of the frozen ocean, all the time living off the country. They obtained fur clothing from an occasional native village, and drove most of the way a herd of 400 reindeer, which they used for their own food and with which they kept alive the destitute whalers after they arrived at Point Barrow until the Bear arrived there the middle of the following June.

Another notable exploit of the Bear took place in 1914. At the request of the Canadian Government the Bear, while returning from Point Barrow, made an attempt to rescue the survivors of the Canadian polar expedition which had been wrecked in the steamer Karluk near Wrangel Island in the Arctic Ocean. Stormy weather with thick fog and heavy snow squalls were experienced and after several days of unsuccessful effort to break through the ice it was deemed advisable to return to Nome to replenish the coal before making further attempts to rescue the shipwrecked men.

After a delay of four days at Nome, due to bad weather, sufficient coal was received and the Bear started again for Wrangel Island on September 5. On September 8 a schooner was sighted, which proved to be the gas schooner King and Winge of Seattle. Owing to her light draft this vessel had succeeded in landing at Wrangel Island, where eight members of the expedition were found, together with one Eskimo, his wife and two children.

When dispatches from the north brought the story in 1921 that the expedition of Capt. Amundsen was jammed in the ice off the coast of Siberia and in danger on account of the tremendous floes into which it had drifted the Bear again started on a mission of mercy. This voyage, one of the most interesting ever undertaken by a Coast Guard crew, is told in the official records in most matter of fact language.

The Bear has often been used on assignments such as rarely fall to the lot of revenue cutters off other coasts. For example, in 1922 the ship was sent on a quest that required careful and painstaking work. This mission was fulfilled at the request of the British Government. Nearly 100 years ago the British ship Blossom was engaged in making charts of the coast line and ocean bottom in the northern part of the Arctic, and during its labors placed a stone somewhere near Point Barrow to mark the northermost point of Alaska which she reached.

This stone was lost. The British Government asked the United States to find it, set it up in a conspicuous place and suitably inscribe it. The job was turned over to the Coast Guard. Officers of the Bear took a lively interest in the effort because the British charts, although made nearly a century ago, are in use by American vessels every year.

It is a matter of official record that the Bear took the first reindeer to Alaska. The introduction of these animals into the Territory was the result of a suggestion made by Capt. M. A. Healey, who was in command of the cutter in 1893. Lieut. E. P. Bertholf, who was attached to the vessel at that time, took a trip across Siberia to the eastern coast, purchasing deer, which were shipped to Alaska across Bering Strait.

More than 1200 deer were imported between 1902 and 1906 and their breeding given over to Laplanders, who taught the natives how to handle and raise them. There are now over 35,000 deer in Alaska and they have added greatly to the material prosperity of the natives. As a result of the part taken by the Bear in the introduction of reindeer into Alaska the ship's crew are permitted to shoot deer for fresh meat, and they are the only white men accorded that privilege.

The officers and crew of the Bear and other cutters in Alaska have done notable work in protecting native women from maurauders from the States. A brief paragraph from a report of the Coast Guard throws considerable light on the varied activities that have fallen to the lot of the Bear's officers and crew. Here it is:

"A native man, Tom Kiak, and his wife, were received on board for passage to Nome. This native woman was in a very critical condition and in great danger of dying unless relief at a hospital was furnished within a few hours. Her case is one of the saddest of the kind which I have ever heard. While still a young woman, her health is completely ruined by the treatment accorded her on a whaler some years ago when she was only eleven years old.

"It is, of course, impossible to bring the crimes committed against this young woman home to any particular person or persons, but I am informed that she was forcibly taken on board a whaler while but eleven years of age and kept the entire season, being treated in the most revolting cruel manner. It is gratifying to state that no evidences of similar crimes have been heard of along the American shores within the last few years owing to the vigorous steps taken by the various commanding officers of the Bear and the Thetis."

On her annual cruise to the North in the summer the Bear spends a few months in the vicinity of Point Barrow, the northermost point in Alaska. To get there she must wait for the ice fields to break up in June and July, and she must hasten away to keep from being frozen in for the long winter.

The Bear has had a remarkable career since she first hoisted the American flag as a government vessel in 1883. That she was stoutly built is indicated by the fact that she has so long withstood the rigors of service in the ice fields.

ENJOY RADIO ON CONTINENTAL LIMITED

No longer need the business man or broker be out of touch with market fluctuations while he is travelling from his own city to another on the Continental Limited, the all-steel train of the Canadian National Railways. The Canadian National system is the first railway in Canada to provide radio receiving sets aboard its regular trains for the convenience and entertainment of passengers. Efficient receiving sets, in charge of competent operators, are being installed in observation cars on the Continental Limited, with the result that the business man or broker may, if he wishes, follow the markets regularly while travelling or may enjoy music or other entertainment features broadcast from the various stations in Canada and the United States. Market quotations are sent from the large American and Canadian broadcasting stations at regular intervals during the business day, and in addition to these, passengers aboard the Continental Limited are enabled to enjoy good music and other features as they travel across the continent.

The Bear was built at Greenock, Scotland, and was originally used as an Arctic whaler. She is built very solidly of wood—Australian gum—for service in the ice. She has been modernized, so that today, despite her long service, she is in fairly good condition. Only a year ago the Bear went on a long criuse in the Arctic region taking moving pictures of scenes in northern waters. In addition to having modern machinery, she is rigged for full sail as a barkentine. —The Hook.

Vancouver — With the beer clubs closed, rigid orders issued to the police to "clean up" the town, an exodus of undesirable characters, and the moral squad pledged to its best efforts, Vancouver is undergoing a spasm of good behavior coincident with the appointment of the new Chief of Police, W. H. Long. The closing of the clubs, however, followed an edict from the attorney-general's office. The order is not proving popular, and is resented by patrons who do not belong to the privileged clubs, and who also prefer keg beer by the glass. Vancouver has spasmodic moral upheavals, but this is the first of its kind for many moons.

The plan has been abandoned.

Some unrest prevails among the members in the Brilliant and Nelson district, it is said, and others now living in Alberta, are said to be anxious to migrate to this province. It is reported that the colony would have about 75 adults and many children of school age, but the Doukhobors wish to handle their own school problems.

Vancouver — Believing that their young daughter was doing well at school, because reports seemed favorable, but surprised because the child was making no prgoress, a respected Kitsilano couple investigated and discovered the girl had been in a "subnormal class" for several years, and The Hook has exposed the system of the "Psychological Department" where such blunders are being made. In this instance the girl was removed to a private school, where she has proved of usual intelligence and is now outstripping her classmates in her studies.

Victoria — A paper and pulp mill for Northern B.C. is now assured, according to the statements of Hon. T. D. Pattullo, who has returned from Montreal, where he has been in negotiation with Messrs. Frank Jones and Angus McLean, representing Eastern capitalists and holders of timber leases in the Prince George district.

Previous negotiations for a paper and pulp mill for Prince George came to naught, owing to the refusal of Hon. Mr. Pattullo, Minister of Lands and Forests, to grant a fixed royalty. The minister took the view that, with the growing world scarcity of timber and pulp, it was unfair to posterity to grant a fixed royalty. In the recent negotiations between the Minister of Lands and the Eastern capitalists, certain concessions were granted to the applicants, who have withdrawn their demand for a fixed royalty. Commencement of construction will be made in the present year.

Vancouver — As a result of the exposure in The Hook and a demand for action by the Imperial Japanese and British authorities, official denial has been made of the shocking allegations made against the crew of a British steamer, in the Japanese native press, to the effect that the officers and crew of a P. & O. liner, during the earthquake, grossly maltreated a shipload of women refugees and threw overboard all who would not submit to dishonor.

In the current number of The Hook, the directors of the P. & O. line express their thanks to the Vancouver weekly paper for taking up the matter, stating they have received a letter from the Imperial Japanese authorities denying that there is any truth in the story, which has run like wildfire through the Japanese press of the Orient and of the Pacific Coast. The Japan Chronicle in acknowledging the services performed by The Hook, also prints communications on the subject by the British Vice-Consul at Kobe and the British Ambassador at Tokyo.

The irony of the situation is increased by the fact that the only P. & O. liner at Yokohama during the earthquake was the S.S. Dongola, the officers and crew of which performed valuable rescue services similar to that of the crew of the Empress of Australia, the report of the Dongola's rescue work, made by Capt. Griffin, having recently been published in the London Times. To offset the mischief done by the circulation of the absurd and libellous story, the demand is being made that the Japanese native press print the official story of the work done by the S.S. Dongola during the Yokohama earthquake.

OLD AND NEW FORT GARRY.

THE story of the Winnipeg forts of the early fur-trading days—Rouge and Gibraltar, Douglas and Garry, is among the most interesting that could be found anywhere. When Verendrye came to the junction of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers in 1738 he established Fort Rouge. The Northwest Company, sixty years later, established Fort Gibraltar, and a few years later Fort Douglas, named after Thomas Douglas, the fifth Earl of Selkirk, was constructed by the Hudson's Bay Company. Many stories are told of conflicts between the servants of the Hudson's Bay and North-West Companies, but the feuds terminated with the amalgamation of the two companies in 1821, and the first Fort Garry was erected as a trading post and settlers' depot. This was an elaborate structure with stone walls, bastions and portholes.

On 1881 the building of Lower Fort Garry, 19 miles down the river was commenced. This was for a time the residence of the Governor of Rupert's Land and the seat of government. In 1835 Upper Fort Garry was begun at the junction of the two rivers and this was the centre of business, government, education and public affairs for more than 30 years, and was the nucleus of the present city of Winnipeg.

The Fort was sold in 1882 and the front gate, now owned by the city and standing beside the new Fort Garry, the hotel of the Canadian National Railways, is all that remains of this historic group of buildings.

THE GREAT PYRAMID

Mr. Waynman Dixon, the engineer who dug up Cleoparta's Needle in 1877 and prepared it for shipment to Britain, makes a plea for further exploration work at the Great Pyramid. He wants its mystery explained. He wants it determined whether or not Herodotus was right in alluding to the subterranean apartments in the hill on which the Pyramid stands and in which Cheops, the Paraoh of the Fourt Dynasty, is reputed to have made a burial vault for himself. The subterranean island chamber has never been discovered. Mr. Dixon suggests a drilling process might reveal another chamber or chambers, and he speaks with the knowledge of several years spent in examining the marvellous design and masonry of the greatest of the Seven Wonders of the World.

Mr. Dixon had the good fortune to make the only new discovery in connection with the Great Pyramid during recent years. He describes this discovery himself as follows: "By reasoning and deduction, coupled with some imagination, I suspected the existence of two small channels leading from the Queen's Chamber, similar to those which existed in the King's Chamber above. We measured to the spot where they ought to be, and, though there was no visible indication in the solid and most perfect condition of the wall, with hammer and chisel we drilled a one-inch hole, and when it was five inches deep the chisel went through into an open space. We then cut away the surrounding stone and revealed a small channel about nine inches square in section, which went in horizontally and then turned upwards at a steep angle. There was also found a similar one in the opposite wall. But where they led to we were unable to prove; probably to some other chamber, or up to exterior—a distance of some 250 feet."

Mr. Dixon now draws attention to the existence in the exterior platform on which the Pyramid is built of a full-sized model (excavated in the solid rock) of the entrance passages, which unmistakably indicates where another passage presumably exists, leading to some unknown chamber where the coffer could have been partially up-ended, and thus made to enter the present ascending passage, and so be conveyed to the King's Chamber. The existence (or otherwise) of such a passage could easily be proved by drilling a hole for a few feet at the right spot.

It is not to be presumed that archaeologists will rest satisfied with Egyptian exploration until the tomb of Cheops is discovered, or that the mystery of the Great Pyramid will always remain such. In modern times the Great Pyramid has been elaborately surveyed and measured. There are those who contend that its measurements have an important relation to the life of the earth and even Biblical prophecies are held to concide with its proportions; but its mystery remains as great as ever in many respects. Mr. Dixon's plea for further exploration to determine if there are subterranean apartments, in one of which the mummy of Cheops may be found, will arouse new interest in the Great Pyramid.—Colonist.

Why Ford Predominates

The Empire Builders

From time immemorial, Britons have gone forth and pioneered the remote corners of the earth.

In the face of seemingly insuperable difficulties they have built up a world-wide trade—trade that grew and flourished in spite of the limitations of those primitive burden-bearers, the native carriers, the mule train and the camel caravan.

Ford carries the burdens of Empire trade on the hill-trails of India, on the African veldt, on the sheep-stations of Australia and New Zealand, on the plantations of Ceylon and Burma, on the rubber estates of Malaya and on the jungle-paths of Borneo.

Universal usage under all these conditions has stamped the Ford as dependable transportation.

Made in Canada for the Empire

The Ford car is completely made in Canada with the exception of parts to the value of $15.02.

FARMERS HEAR LECTURERS

A joint meeting of the Cokato Farmers' Institute, the Poultry Association and the Fernie Farmers' Institute was held in the basement of the United Church last Tuesday evening.

Mr. Hay, district agriculturist; Mr. Whitney-Griffiths, secretary of the advisory board; Mr. Good, district poultryman; Mr. Morton, Dominion live stock branch and Messrs T. Uphill, M.P.P. and A. I. Fisher of this city, addressed the gathering.

Mr. Hay and Mr. Good, with whom many citizens of Fernie and district are already acquainted, gave short talks on their respective work. Mr. Hay outlining the formation of a pig club and the successes that these clubs have had in this district. Both of these men promised to make another visit to Fernie in the near future.

Mr. Whitney-Griffiths gave a very interesting talk on Farmers' Institutes, the Advisory Board, and their relation between them and the Government. Some of the work already accomplished was pointed out while some of the difficulties still to be overcome were brought to the attention of the assembly. Closer and better organization among the farmers was urged.

Mr. Morton, after a short talk, entertained the gathering with moving pictures. The pictures were on the city of Ottawa, which is dear to the hearts of all Canadians, and on sheep raising. Mr. Morton's entertainment was something new for Fernie and was appreciated by all.

During the evening opportunity was found for both Mr. T. Uphill, M.P.P., and Mr. A. I. Fisher to say a few words. Mr. Uphill endorsed many of the remarks made by Mr. Whitney-Griffiths and spoke on the attitude of the Government towards agriculture. Mr. Fisher spoke on the opening up of this district for agriculture and on the unfair conditions existing here with regard to government assistance in comparison to the conditions existing in some districts along the coast.

The meeting was felt by all to be a great success. The speakers were instructive and entertaining and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to them. It is to be hoped that these men will do us the honor of visiting our district again at no distant date.

NEW DOMINION EGG REGULATIONS

The Fernie Farmers' Institute calls to the attention of its members the new Dominion Government Egg Regulations which became effective July 7, 1923.

This Act requires that all eggs must be bought and sold on graded basis with certain exceptions appended below. These regulations provide protection for producers, wholesalers, retailers and consumers. This means that producers get better prices for better quality. There is every inducement to produce the best possible now.

Under the old system, a producer holding eggs for a period, received just as much as producers taking care of products and shipping regularly, but not so today.

There is every protection for the retail dealer, as when he takes eggs in trade, if more than 15 dozen lot in one day, he pays for what he receives, so many dozen extras, first and seconds; thereby taking no loss whatever. Under the old system, the retailer allowed whatever the market price was at the time, in trade for eggs, when he looked them over found a big percentage of low grade and bad eggs for which he could claim no rebate.

Consumers are protected and assured of quality of each grade. Extras are appetizing and healthful and can be cooked alone or in combination with other foods and can be relied upon to give entire satisfaction. Firsts are a good egg, but not equal to Extras in flavor. Can be cooked alone or in combination with other foods. Seconds cannot be cooked alone and do not give general satisfaction; usually used in conjunction with other strong flavored dishes.

Penalty for infringement of regulations, $500 fine or three months in jail, or both fine and imprisonment.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Free Press:

Dear Sir — I was pleased to see another letter on the Doctors' Question two weeks ago signed "Another Miners' Wife,' as one does not feel so lonely when you find that others are interested. And also one word she used helped me. That was the word weak-minded. I think it looks as though the Medical Committee and Executive think that some of the miners are weak-minded to be sitting down to this kind of thing. And although this committee have used so many threats, I think miners should look after their rights. It is officially announced that three out of those four men have got their money that was collected for them, but I guess the one has not been made to sign over for the new doctors or he would have had his.

Now, "Another Miner's Wife." you say "The Fernie Free Press" is for the news of the city. Well, isn't this news that Mr. Draper Puts in; especially to those who have not got a Constitution. I guess if the truth was known "The Fernie Free Press" has been circulated better this last three months than ever before and it is not only sold in Fernie but in other places where the miners' rights are being discussed.

Now a few of the men are saying that Doctors Garner and Asselstine were pushed onto them a few years ago. Now, I would like to say what I remember about the way these doctors had the contract. One of the doctors, previous to Doctors Garner and Asselstine, wanted to sell his share of the business for reason best known to himself. So Doctors Garner and Asselstine bought him out and set up business with the remaining partner. Now I know that some of the miners and families were sorry to part with that doctor's services, but he wanted to sell out, so therefore, they could not have him. So I suppose the miners have been satisfied up till now with the way things were settled and having known Dr. Asselstine for a long time, as he had worked for the miners some years previous, and Dr. Garner was not a stranger either, as he had been working in the town as a private doctor.

Now, everything was settled in a business-like way and I should think if any one had a kick that was the time to kick and not let it be until now, and after the doctors have done their best for the miners and their families, even their opponents say they have no kick against them, only that they would not sign the contract. Now I have stated this which I know to be quite true. People who like to see fair play will see that this is quite a difference to the way this business has been transacted at the present time, that is importing doctors in and saying you have got to have them or be fined.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain, yours truly,

—A Miner's Wife.

Michel, B.C., Feb. 2, 1924

To the Editor, The Fernie Free Press:

Dear Sir—Could you find room in your paper for these few lines.

I saw in the paper a glowing account of the concert we had here last Wednesday, but as usual the Tuxis Boys' part in it was omitted. I think it is time the public knew a few things Mr. Moses has accomplished with the Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers with never a line to the papers. About the first thing was the Tuxis first aid team that took second prize at Fernie two years ago; then he made it possible for the Trail Rangers to have two weeks' summer camp last year and this year the Tuxis Boys have built and are running a skating rink on ground kindly given by Mr. W. R. Wilson, and last but not least, he was able to make it possible for Michel to be represented at the Older Boys' Parliament at Victoria. This is just a few things they have done and I think it is about time that whoever sends the Michel news, to wake up to the fact that we have a bunch of boys in this camp that do as much for the public welfare as anyone. I am ever, the boys' friend—Alf Lyne.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Davide Eastwood, who departed this life January 26th, 1924, aged 17 years.

Long days and nights I bore great pain;
To try for cure 'twas all in vain.
God gave me ease, he thought it best;
He took my pain and gave me rest.

He was a son; kind and dear;
A mother's love, had he;
A friend to all who knew him here,
A heart both kind and free.

—Inserted by Father, Mother, Sisters and brothers.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of a kind, loving Husband and our Dear Father, Arthur Harrad, who passed away on February 11th, 1923, afte four days' illness.

A bitter grief, a shock severe.
We little knew death was so near.
Only those who've lost are able to tell
The pain that's felt at not saying farewell.

One year has passed, our hearts still sore,
As time goes on we miss him more.
One of the dearest, one of the best,
We miss him most who loved him best.

SUDDABY'S

LOSS ON LOANS FOUR MILLION

Toronto, Feb. 13.—That the assets of the Home Bank of Canada, including the amounts recoverable under the double liability of the shareholders, will fall very far short of the amount necessary to meet the liabilities of the bank, is the opinion of G. T. Clarkston, liquidator, given in an affidavit filed by A. W. Ballantyne, K.C., on a motion before Chas. Garrow, K.C., master of the supreme court, on application for a call upon the shareholders for the amount entered opposite their names on the list of contributories.

The motion will be made on Tuesday next. It is expected that in the meantime counsel for the shareholders will endeavor to examine Mr. Clarkson upon his affidavit.

The purpose of the affidavit is to show the necessity for resorting to the double liability of the shareholders to meet the losses. Losses which it is expected will be incurred in realizing upon loans made by the bank are placed at $4,400,000, which will more than wipe out the capital and reserve of $2,595,734 and will, it is expected, leave a deficit of not less than $1,800,000. In addition losses which may reach $700,000 are expected from minor agricultural and commercial loans made at the branches of the bank.

The liquidator declines to disclose such information as he has as to the losses expected on loans totalling $5,800,000 in connection with the Frost account, the New Orleans railway investment, the County Investment company, the Toronto City Estates, Limited and the Elgin Land Co.

Mr. Clarkson submits as exhibit A a list of securities and loans which he estimates have depreciated $4,400,000 from the total at which they were carried on the books of the bank. Following are some of the items shown in exhibit A, with the probable loss on each:

Canadian Property company, limited, Toronto — Loans, $919,347; loss $150,000.

Canadian Shoe company, limited, and King Shoe company, limited, Toronto—Loans $577,558; loss $475,000.

Estate of General Mason, Toronto —Loans $54,618; loss $40,000.

False Creek Timber company, limited, Vancouver—Loans $126,394; loss $120,000.

Holmes, A. G., Alsask, Sask. — Loans $275,347; loss $225,000.

Lamont, A. G. & Hector, Toronto—Loans $157,342; loss $75,000.

Mitchell, W. G. & Co., Toronto — Loans $39,000; loss $39,000.

Howe Sound Pulp & Paper company, limited, Toronto—Loans $980,000; loss $500,000.

British Dominion Holding & Investment company, Montreal—Loans $1,428,811; loss $950,000.

Manufacturers' Holding & Investment company, Toronto—Loans $481,228; loss $81,000 and on share valued at $180,000 a loss of $180,000.

H. J. Daly, Toronto—Loans $84,759, loss $8000.

Canadian Trucks, limited, et al — Loans $72,000; loss $20,000.

Foreign department losses on overvaluation of foreign balance—Loss, $755,000.

Call loan losses—

Florence Mason—Loans $8553; loss $4000.

H. C. Osborne—Loans $3229; loss $3000.

Osborne & Francis—Loans $6125; loss $3500.

Security losses—$124,300, Murray-Kay, limited, 7 per cent preferred stock loans, $11,655; loss $50,000. $75,550, Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee railway first preferred loans, $80,180; loss $40,000. $25,000 James Ogilvie, limited, 7 per cent preferred lonas $225,000; losses $25,000. $57,000 British Empire Steel 7 per cent second preferred issue loans, $22,610, losses $10,000. $24,000 British Empire Steel common loans $2960, losses $1000.

Vancouver—Eagle Timber company, limited, loans, $66,464, losses $25,000.

Harris & Co., loans $73,743, losses $10,000.

Fixtures and furniture: As per books of bank $321,000; realizable value is probably $40,000; for purposes of this statement taken at $121,293; loss would then be about $200,000.

The statement also shows aggregate possible losses on loans at the various branches. Some of the biggest items are:

Amuet, Sask.—$20,000.
Cabri, Sask.—$100,000.
Fernie, B.C.—$25,000.
Moose Jaw, Sask.—$30,000.
Neepawa, Man.—$40,000.
Shackleton, Sask.—$15,000.
Sintaluta, Sask.—$15,000.
Weyburn, Sask.—$40,000.

U.M.W. MAY GO TO ISLAND FIELD

Calgary, Feb. 9 .— Wm. Sherman, president of district 18 of the U. M. W. of A., stated tonight that he would attend a convention of the Montana and Washington district of the U.M.W.A., some time in May to discuss the feasibility of organizing the Vancouver Island field.

The international body of the U.M.W.A. have refused to have anything to do with the Vancouver island field, and the last effort made to organize this field was in 1913, at a cost of about $2,000 000.

The U.M.W.A. absorbed an organization which started at Ladysmith in 1911, and had branches in South Wellington, Nanaimo and Cumberland. In 1912 a strike was called and this continued for more than a year, during which it was necessary to call out th emilitia.

There is a strong feeling current among many of the miners that the length and manner of the strike was largely for the benefit of the coal miners on the other side of the boundary. Coal contracts were lost as a result of the tie-up that have never been regained, and work has not been carried on with any certainty of "full time" since the U.M.W.A. withdrew from the field early in 1914.

RESERVE OF OFFICERS CANADIAN MILITIA

Officers of the Reserve C.M., residing in the Province of British Columbia are notified that they should report in writing to the D.O.C., M.D. 11, Victoria, B.C., on or before the 1st April in each year, giving address for the current year, this in order that their names be retained in the Militia List. This also applies to officers formerly R.O., C.E.F., as this list has been absorbed into the R.O., C.M.

Retired List, Canadian Militia—Officers on the Retired List C.M. are notified that they should report in writing to National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa, on the 1st May in each year, in order that their names be retained on this list, failing to report will entail the removal of their names from the Militia List. This also applies to Officers on the Retired List, C.E.F., as they have been absorbed into the Retired List, C.M.

BURNING OF THE MORTGAGES

Tuesday night was a big occasion for the members and adherents of the United Church, when they celebrated the clearing off of the debts on both their church buildings with a big banquet and a fine program of music and speeches and the burning of the mortgages.

There were considerably over two hundred present when the Rev. Burns took the chair and in a few well chosen words stated the object of the gathering. He then called upon Rev. Mr. Freeman, of Cranbrook, chairman of the District Board. Rev. Freeman, who is a fluent speaker, expressed his pleasure at being present upon one of the most joyful occasions for which a church gathering can be called together, viz., the celebration of the clearing off of their debt. He spoke for half an hour, taking as his subject, "The Coming of the Kingdom."

After a very beautiful solo by Mrs. T. Lawes, Mr. W. R. Wilson was called upon. He spoke at length upon the good influences of the church in the community and hoped that now the church was in a solid position financially its activities would be extended along lines more in keeping with the work of the Lord.

A duet by Miss Hogan and Mr. W. Owen was followed by a short talk from Rev. Oswald, of Christ Church. Mr. Oswald congratulated the church upon being clear of debt. He knew what the constant drag of a mortgage meant. He also hoped the day was not far distant when the idea of church union would be carried out among all Christian denominations.

After the singing of a solo by Miss Dicken, the big ceremony of burning the mortgages took place. There were seven documents in all, covering a period of twenty years and an amount of $18,000 was involved. Mrs. W. R. Wilson started the conflagration.

After the fire the entire assembly adjourned to the banqet hall, where a magnificent spread had been arranged by the ladies. A. I. Fisher occupied the chair and made an ideal presiding officer. After supper there were a number of speeches from prominent churchmen, among whom were Dr. Bonnell, H. J. Johnson, A. C. Liphardt, H. A. Wilkes. N. F. Brand, W. R. Wilson, Mrs. H. J. Johnson and Mrs. D. McVannell. The program was interspersed by community songs led by Mr. T. Biggs.

Mr. H. Douglas, treasurer of the United Church, gave an interesting talk on the finances. He also went into the history of the union of the two churches, paying a real tribute to the late D. V. Mott, who had been chairman of the gatherings which ultimately decided upon the union. It had been a heavy task to finally wear down certain denominational prejudices which were constantly cropping up in the early days of the union, but now these differences had been forgotten and everything was gliding along smoothly.

Mr. Wilson, again being called upon, said that while a great deal of thanks had been extended to A. B. Tries, R. W. Wood and himself for assisting in paying off the church mortgage, the credit was due to Mr. Burns and the ladies of the church who, by their hard work and united effort, had won his heart and made it a pleasure to give any assistance he could.

He was a thorough believer in the influence of the church on the life of a community. While in South Africa he had met with conditions in a certain mining community in which there was no school or church, which taught him the value of these. Moral conditions had revealed such a low ebb in that camp that in desperation he had appealed to the president of the company and put the matter up to him as a business proposition. The company put up half the cost of a building and he had used his influence with the men to have them guarantee the balance. In a few months a vast change was noticeable in conditions. Dozens of men brought out their families from the old land and the men soon learned that there was more in life than booze and wickedness, and when he left South Africa that camp was a real town. Today nearly every school building in that district was modelled after the one he had been instrumental in erecting and of which he drew the plans himself.

Mrs. H. J. Johnson told of the early struggles of the Presbyterian church in Fernie. She was one of the first women in Fernie. In those days the membership was almost entirely composed of men, but today this condition is reversed, the congregation being mostly women.

H. A. Wilkes gave an interesting talk of the early history of the Methodist church in the city.

The affair was brought to a close at 12.30 by the singing of God Save the King.

CAN'T LAY ANY NEW CHARGES AGAINST BANK DIRECTORS

Toronto, Feb. 12.—"There is no grand jury—it has been dismissed," said D. L. McCarthy, K.C., special counsel for the crown, when asked yesterday if any new charges would be laid against the Home Bank directors and officials now that the ten-day stay has expired, during which no new action was to be taken.

Asked if there would be any further charges laid when a new grand jury is summoned for the spring assizes opening on April 14, Mr. McCarthy said: "I cannot say."

SWASTIKAS RETURN

The Fernie Swastikas returned from their trip to Banff Winter Carnival last Monday morning minus the Alpine Cup but by no means downhearted. Their defeat by the Canmore ladies by a one goal to nothing score was a hard blow to them, but they can console themselves in the fact that although defeated in the goal getting, their play ranked so high above that of their opponents that the game had resolved itself in the Fernie team playing six Canmore goal-tenders.

One high honor they did secure, however, their captain, Miss Dahlia Schagel, was singled out by popular vote for the position of Carnival Queen for the 1925 Carnival, in a very spirited voting contest. Her closest rival was Miss S. Blaskin, of Canmore, their respective polls being 82,400 to 81,000, giving Miss Schagel a majority of 2400 votes.

At the farewell dance given last Saturday evening, Miss Schagel was officially crowned Carnival Queen by her predecessor, Mrs. Frank Patrick, of Vancouver, and immediately took up the reigns of office by presenting the prizes to the winners in the different events throughout the week.

Saturday afternoon the Swastikas met the Calgary Hollies, winners of the 1924 Western Canada Ladies Hockey championship, in an exhibition game in which the Calgary team emerged victors by a score of two goals to one. The Swastikas were without the services of Miss Edith Biggs, who scored three goals in the first game, but was injured in the first period of the Canmore game, sustaining a cracked rib through being run in to the boards by a Canmore player, and consequently was unable to participate in any further hockey games.

The warm sunshine slowed the big ice sheet considerably on one side and thus upset the balance of the teams. Hard checking was the rule in this most interesting game which attracted a large crowd, and which kept the partisans in a foment of excitement.

Half way through the first period Daisy Blight shot a high fast one from 20 yards out into the Fernie net. Considerable feeling crept into the game and hard knocks were given and taken. No further scoring took place in this period of the game.

The second period consisted chiefly of long individual rushes and little attempt at combination by either team. Blight scored another goal from a difficult angle, the best goal of the game. Schagel was the most effective player on the ice, her skating and clever stick work being much admired by the fans. The Lea sisters, playing stellar hockey for the Hollies, were a constant source of trouble to the Swastikas. Schagel secured the puck near her own goal and skating through the Calgary defence in a series of puzzling swerves shot a swift one past goal tender Hannay. Score: Hollies 2, Swastikas 1.

The third period was hotly contested. Fernie girls strove hard to reduce the one goal lead. Throughout this stage of the game they displayed the same brand of hockey that seemed to baffle the Calgary Patricias and for ten minutes had the Hollies in a tight corner. Weaknes in shooting alone prevented them from tieing the score on several occasions. There was no more scoring in this period, the game ending in a well earned win for the champions of 1924.

NEW SCALE IN NOVA SCOTIA

Montreal, Feb. 11. — Instructions were wired tonight to the coal miners of Nova Scotia to return to work, by their representatives here who today signed a one-year agreement with the British Empire Steel corporation, the terms of which are retroactive to January 16 of this year.

It provides for the following increases over the rates in effect on January 15, of this year.

Datal surface men, 25 cents a day.

It is estimated that the increase will involve an addition to the payroll of the 12,000 miners of the corporation, of more than $1,000,000 a year.

The price of domestic coal to the miners is increased from $2.25 to $2.60 per ton.

Not only will more than 12,000 miners return to work as the result of today's agreement, but the Sydney Steel plant can be reopened, returning more than 1000 men to work, and other persons incidentally thrown out of employment will resume work.

The close down of Nova Scotia mines commenced at midnight, January 15, from announcement by the company of a cut in wages during the slack months of the year, of 20 per cent. The miners had refused to renew their contract at 1923 rates.

The miners have termed the present close down a "lock out." Whatever it was, it was the quietest cessation of work in Cape Breton, and contrasts with the July strike of last summer, when about 1500 troops were sent to the district, and the so-called "radical" officers were ousted by International President Lewis of the U. M. W. of A. The present officers are his appointees.

The agreement deals in detail with practically all the returns which are likely to arise between the corporation and the miners, and in this respect is said to be the first agreement of its kind in Nova Scotia. For instance, although the "checkoff," the system of the company collection of union dues through the pay roll, has long been in force in Nova Scotia coal fields, today's agreement is the first to provide for it in writing.

President Ray Wolvin of the British Empire Steel corporation referred to the fact that the agreement covered in much the detail the working conditions at the colleries, and said that in this regard it was a much more safe contract than had previously been negotiated with the U.M.W. of A.

He said: "It is confidently expected that as a result of the more thorough understanding arrived at, better operating at the coal mines will result."

"It is a satisfactory agreement," said President Silby Barrett, for the miners and in this he was confirmed by the other miner representatives.

The negotiations have been in progress in Cape Breton since last November, and in Montreal since Feb. 4. Despite the stubborness of the negotiations, all parties stated that good feeling had prevailed throughout.

REUNION OF BRITISH COLUMBIA PIONEERS

A committee of the British Columbia Historical Assaciation is making arangements for a grand reunion of old-time residents of British Columbia. In its effort to make this gathering an outstanding event in the history of the province the committee has secured the hearty cooperation of the Victoria Posts of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, and to secure a representative gathering similar societies throughout the province and individuals are asked to supply names and addresses of all pioneer residents in their respective districts. For the present purpose, the term "pioneer" is being applied to all those who resided in British Columbia prior to Confederation in 1871.

The time of the reunion will be about the middle of May, to coincide with the Annual Convention of the Native Sons of British Columbia, which is to be held in Victoria this year. Although it will be some time before final arrangements are made, the program will contain entertainment for two or three days, and will probably include an "Old-timers'" dinner, a reception at Government House, and automobile drives to places of interest in and around Victoria and Vancouver Island.

The Provincial Archives Dept. is taking this opportunity of collecting records and has prepared forms for personal history of pioneers. These forms may be obtained on application to J. Forsyth, Librarian and Archivist, Victoria, and those with the residence qualifications who furnish their names and addresses will later receive invitations to the reunion.

DEATH KNELL OF BEER CLUBS

Victoria, Feb. 12.—The death knell of British Columbia's beer clubs — chief violators of the liquor law—has been sounded by Attorney General Manson in drastic new club regulations.

Any club which does not hold a license from the Liquor Control Board will be a "public place" where the possession of liquor will be illegal. In licensed clubs members must keep their liquor in separate lockers under lock and key and each locker must be clearly marked with the name of the member holding it..

"No liquor other than the bonafide property of a member of a club shall be kept on the premises of the club," the new regulations declare. "No member of a club entitled to keep liquor in his locker shall allow any other member of said club to keep any lisuor therein."

The Liquor Control Board is given complete power to issue and cancel club licenses as it sees fit. It may cancel or suspend any license at any time without hearing. The board will issue no licenses to proprietory clubs of any kind nor to clubs convicted in the past of infractions of the liquor law. Clubs will be held responsible for infractions of the liquor law by members.

The police, under the new regulations, are given drastic powers of inspection and may go into any club and break open any cupboard or locker in which they suspect liquor is contained.

CUSTOMS OFFICER FOR FORTY YEARS

Creston, Feb. 11.—In an announcement at the end of the week of the superannuation of J. C. Rykert, customs officer and immigration agent at Rykert's, a few miles south of Creston, where the Kootenay river crosses the Idaho boundary into British Columbia, East Kootenay witnesses the disappearance of its first and oldest—in point of service—federal civil servant, Mr. Rykert having held that post since quitting the R.N.W.M. P. in 1883. His successor is Charles Davis, a returned man, who has been assistant to Mr. Rykert for the past three years, and with the change will come in the spring a remodelling of customs operations that will facilitate tourist traffic north and southbound. When the office was established Mr. Rykert located an office and home site at a location that was ideal for the then river and later on, rail traffic, but as both of these are now but a memory so far as the B.C. side of the line is concerned, it is the intention to locate the new official at a more accessible location and make improvements that will facilitate the auto traffic, and should the auto road now building north to Porthill, just opposite to Rykert's, enter B.C. at a point further east than at present, it is likely new office quarters will have to be arranged for. The superannuation of Mr. Rykert marks the removal of the second federal officer who has been prominently identified with the very early history of East Kootenay, the other to be given retirement being R. T. L. Galbraith of Fort Steele, who for almost sixty years has been an East Kootenay resident, and who, prior to superannuation in 1922, was for almost as long a period as Mr. Rykert in charge of the East Kootenay Indians.

LANDMARK BURNT FOR NEW GIBSON THRILL PICTURE

Even boards and plaster must at some time pay their farewell tribute to art. Especially when the art is for the screen and a fire scene is needed with realistic details at stake.

After three years of gracing one of the green canyons of the Universal City, the famous Italian villa, built during the summer of 1920 for "Foolish Wives," was burned to the ground for a big scene in "Hook and Ladder," Hoot Gibson's latest starring feature, coming Friday and Saturday to the Orpheum theatre.

The villa, one of the largest individual building sets ever constructed for a motion picture, because of its classic beauty, became famous as a landmark on the Universal lot.

Its burning furnishes one of the most spectacular night scenes filmed at Universal City in many a month. For sheer thrilling spectacle it even rivaled some of the night shots of the mammoth sets of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

The scene came as a dramatic climax to the story, which is built around the thrilling life of a fireman. A dozen cameras ground out their action as Hoot, in the role of the fireman, climbed to the balcony of the burning building and rescued tiny Mildred June, then leaped with her from the balcony to the firemen's net below.

"Hook and Ladder" is an original story by Edward Sedgwick, Gibson's director, and Raymond L. Schrick, who have worked together on many of Gibson's recent successes. Others in the cast are Edwards Davis, famous preacher-actor, Philo McCullough and Frank Beal.

CARROL McKEE DIES OF INFLUENZA

(Cranbrook Courier)

Succumbing to pneumonia following an attack of influenza, Carrol McKee, a former Elko boy, died at the Kimberley hospital at 4 a.m. on Tuesday last. The death of young McKee—he was but twenty-seven years old—was quite unexpected. The deceased had ever been strong and robust and not until within a few hours of the end was it thought that he had not an excellent chance of recovery. Mrs. Fernie to be with her ailing brother, Fernie to be with her ailng brother, was with him to the last.

The late Carrol McKee was a great favorite with all who knew him. His was one of those kindly natures that has ever a host of friends. He was a returned man, having gone overseas early in 1918.

Shortly after his return from Europe he came to Cranbrook to work for the C.P.R. but later he accepted a situation in the machine shops of the Consolidated Mining company at Kimberley, in whose employ he was up until the day he was stricken down by the malady which carried him off.

The deceased leaves to mourn his loss besides the relatives mentioned, his mother, Mrs. Jas. McKee, of Fernie; Ernest McKee, formerly of Cranbrook but now of Seattle, Wash.; and Percy McKee, of Los Angeles, Cal. All of those mentioned except Percy McKee, were present at the interment in Elko.

The late Carrol McKee was a son of James McKee, the veteran C.P.R. B. and B. foreman who died at Elko six years ago. For many years the family lived in Elko until the death of the father broke up the old home.

Betokening the esteem in which the deceased was held by a host of friends in Fernie, Elko, Kimberley and Cranbrook, many beautiful floral offerings were received by the relatives as well as many cards of condolence from all parts of the provnce. In the death of Carrol McKee the district has lost one of its most promising young men, and the sympathy of the entire community has gone out to those who are grieving for the loss of a son and brother.

Floral offerings included those from mother and family, Fernie; Martha Anderson, Fernie; Selkirk Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 55, Cranbrook; I.O.O.F. Lodge, Kimberley; K. P. North Star Lodge No. 56, Kimberley; Marion Westby, Fernie; Mr. and Mrs. Lunn, Cranbrook; Mr. and Mrs. C. Cook and Mr. A. Heines, Kimberley; friends of Elko; Mr. Tom Rafferty, Cranbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Burton, Cranbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Mills and Mrs. Jennings, Fernie; Mr. and Mrs. P. Johnson, Kimberley; friends of Elko; Mr. and Mrs. Birnie, Elko; friends of Elko; Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Barr, Kimberley; Fernie Muscal Club; friends of Elko; Elertrical Department, Kimberley; Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., Kimberley; Mechanical Department, Kimberley.

B.C. LOOKING ROR PREFERENTIAL TREATMENT

Victoria, Feb. 13.—Premier Oliver has wired to Hon. T. A. Low, Dominion Minister of Trade and Commerce, urging that British Columbia lumber, boxes, sash and doors, etc., and British Columbia fresh fruits be placed on the list for preferential treatment in the proposed reciprocal tariff arrangement with Australia.

Senator Wilson, of Australia, is in the east, as representative of Premier Bruce and the Australian government, to confer with the Canadian government regarding proposals for a reciprocal tariff agreement to be placed before the Canadian and Australian governments in the course of the next few months.

Premier Oliver has been advised by Hon. T. A. Low that he will do his utmost for Pacific coast products in the negotiations.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Her Bronchitis Yields To Vicks

Alberta Lady Finds Relief After Five Years' Suffering

Mrs. A. Metcalfe of Pickardville, Alberta, says: "I have had chronic bronchitis for about five years and have tried everything—throat sprays and all kinds of medicines but with little benefit. Finally I tried Vicks Vapo Rub. I found it so soothing and healing to the lungs that I got relief at once so that I could sleep at nights without coughing. Previous to this, I used to cough for an hour or more on going to bed."

Vicks VapoRub is an externally applied vaporizing salve. While it acts like a liniment or plaster, it is also inhaled as a vapor and so gets into the throat and lungs immediately. The most stubborn colds are often broken up overnight.

Used for croup and children's colds, Vicks gives remarkably quick results and also avoids nauseating internal dosing. Just as good for burns, bruises, bites, stings.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St. W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

Quebec is not prepared to enact a blue sky law at present, but the citizens are warned to keep their eyes open and their pockets closed when approached by high pressure promoters.

LOGGERS' STRIKE IS PETERING OUT

(Cranbrook Courier)

One month ago a strike of lumber workers was declared in this district. Today the strike is still in force, wth the prospects of the workers losing out if an immediate settlement is not effected. Men are coming in from the prairies to work in the woods, 65 arriving here Tuesday. A number of the camps have all the men required, although many are inexperienced.

The Courier has, for the past two weeks, been literally bombarded with communications on the subject. Readers have been given a free and full discussion—with what results? Nothing. The fly in the ointment is the I.W.W. The Mountain Lumber Manufacturers association will not deal with them in any manner, shape or form.

Both those who toil in the woods and the lumber manufacturers have sustained a heavy loss which will take a season to recover, although production in some of the camps for January was up to normal. There is no denying the fact that the entire district has been seriously affected by the prolonged labor disturbance. Every line of business in the district is more or less affected, from the railroad down to the smallest storekeeper.

Surrounded by a district of natural wealth, it is apparent that resources alone will not build a city and district. Capital alone cannot build a city; resources and capital and labor cannot build a city unless they are properly related. Capital and labor can accomplish anything within the power of man, if they occupy the right attitude toward each other. They can be aided in this work if the third party, the public, itself, is friendly and sympathetic with their efforts. The propaganda being spread among the working class by the I.W.W. leaders in the strike, that there is nothing in common between capital and labor, is not in keeping with twentieth century methods of settling disputes. On the contrary, there is everything in common between these two classes. The application of reason should be injected into the strike and we believe that should a board of conciliation be appointed the differences could be settled in a very short space of time. It is apparent that the lumbermen will recognize an organization of workers, but they will close everything down tight rather than submit to recognition of the Industrial Workers of the World, which they class as an outlaw organization, not recognized by trades unions, and impossible to deal with.

BRATTICE CLOTH TO BE MADE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Victoria, Feb. 12.—Brattice cloth, a heavy, close-woven jute material, chemically treated to make it flameproof, is to be manufactured in Vancouver, states Major D. B. Martyn, Deputy Minister of Industries.

The material is extensively used in the coal mining industry as a safeguard against explosive gases. The coal mining regulations insist on its extensive use as a protection to the men in the mines.

Hitherto, the product has been imported from Scotland and this is the first effort in manufacturing it in Canada.

"The new company will prove a boon to the small operator, who has had to import this cloth from abroad in car load lots, while the industry should be the means of retaining considerable money in British Columbia and provide for increased employment," states Major Martyn.

DOCTOR RELIEVES COLDS WITH SCIENTIFIC VEGETABLE SYRUP

Prescribed by Dr. Thacher to Build Up Tystem So You May Quickly Throw Off Cold and Feel Your Best Again.

It is impossible to get rid of a disagreeable cold so long as your system is too run-down to throw off the cold as Nature intended. And you cannot be healthy or feel good so long as one vital organ in your body is not functioning as it should.

This organ is your liver! When working as Nature intended it purifies your blood, every drop of which filters through your liver every fifteen minutes. Your liver also aids digestion and nourishment, prevents constipation and does many important things to keep your system in condition. But, when it becomes clogged and sluggish your liver cannot do these three things. Consequently you often wake up mornings dull and tired, frequently bothered with one or more symptoms such as lack of appetite, poor digestion, coated tongue, sick-headaches. stuffy cold, sore throat, nervous and upset.

Get quick relief, and feel your best again. Take a spoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup after the next few meals. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. This vegetable syrup contains only ingredients that are known to the medical profession for their corrective and health-building properties. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is pleasant to take, and you will be completely satisfied; otherwise, druggists are authorized to return the small cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by Suddaby Drug and Book Store, Fernie, and by leading druggists in every city and town.

One of the radical leaders of political thought and action in Great Britain has laid an interesting "proposition" before the people. This leader is a Scot, and of course is or has been a student of the Book of Books. He remembers that it is said to be easier for a camel to go through the eye of a nedle than for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven. He purposes removing that disability and obstacle by a very simple process—by taking the wealth from the wealthy and distributing it for the benefit of the poor. That would make all men free and equal here below, and give them an equal chance of entering into their inheritance above. We wonder what Mr. Lloyd George, who seems to be trimming his political sails in the hope of catching a breath of the Labor wind, would think about it if a large proportion of the sack of dollars he is receviing for his "literary" contributions to the American press were to be confiscated by the Labor government.

Your doctor advises internal cleanliness

"Keep Clean Inside" Say Physicians

HE will tell you that the first results of constipation—headache, sleepless nights, biliousness, backache, etc.—warn that the body is flooded with intestinal poisons. In time, these poisons may cause the breakdown of health and lead to serious disease. In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Washing Cleans Only the Skin

Hence, doctors urge internal cleanliness—regular and thorough removal of food waste from the body.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

PREMIER Oliver devoted an hour's time to a discussion of Third Party matters, when addressing a meeting recently at Esquimalt. He spoke of General McRae's activities in various business ventures and said he would like to ask how McRae still continued to be a multi-millionaire, having regard to the losses which he imposed upon the debenture holders of the Pacific Fisheries.

"He tells us that he pays $3000 year taxes on his Vancouver residence," said the Premier," and after paying his household expenses had not enough left out of $25,000 a year to 'wad a gun.' I ask you to compare this man's style of living with the fate of those who, on the strength of his representations, entrusted their money to his care and lost almost all the capital they invested.

Another statement of the Premier's was: I have been asked repeatedly what is the motive behind the activities of McRae, and in reply I will propound you a simple problem in mathematics: If McRae is able by the cunning of his brain to extract a net profit of $9,000,000 out of the disposition of 5,500,000 acres of prairie land, how much would he be able to extract for the benefit of himself and his associates were he entrusted with the administration and disposal of the lands, timber, fisheries and mineral wealth of British Columbia?

THIS week Attorney General Manson will announce the personnel of the Royal Commission which will investigate the charges of the Third Party relative to P.G.E. railway matters. The scope of the commission will be comprehensive, it is learned from inside sources, and before the commission has finished its work opportunity will have been provided for the fullest enquiry into every charge of wrongdoing, inefficiency and excessive costs in the handling of the government line. The final audit being made by Price, Waterhouse & Co. is about completed. Auditors of that firm will be summoned as witnesses to give evidence of all expenditures, and from present indications in the capital it appears that the Provincial Party have pulled a blomer and have no chance of discrediting the administration. On the other hand, the enquiry will no doubt benefit the province greatly.

PUBLIC sentiment favors punishing drunken drivers severely. One drink of any kind of liquor may do as much harm as many drinks. When automobile drivers learn that when they are caught on the highway with even the smell of liquor on their breaths they run a good risk of getting put in jail, then very few persons will be willing to take a drink and drive a car afterwards.

Drunken automobile drivers must be banished from the roads. This is the people's verdict.

THE man who boosts his home town does not do it primarily because he gets direct financial returns from that boosting. There has to be a lot of self-sacrifice and unselfishness about the boosting game, in the very nature of it.

However, there is no question that boosting needs to be made more popular.

If a booster is made the object of levity or slurs—if he is accused of being merely a publicity seeker with no actual concern for the welfare of the city—it means that the community will gradually lose its boosters. If, on the other hand, the booster receives the moral and business support of those who believe in boosting, it means that the town will surely drive ahead.

Boosting should be made less of a thankless task. If a knocker and a booster are asking you for business, all other things being equal, do you give it to the knocker or booster?

If you give the business to the knocker, you are boosting the knocking game. That is about all there is to it. The logic is inescapable.

When this principle soaks in — when the citizens of a community more generally act on this principle—the community will go ahead faster than ever.

FERNIE prices are, as usual, lower than big-city prices. Your home town merchant is selling the merchandise that he cannot afford to carry at prices that you CAN afford to pay. It is up to you, the buyer, to support him, not in a spirit of giving him something, but in the spirit of contributing to your mutual welfare.

Individual prosperity is in no small measure dependent on merchant prosperity, and vice versa. Buy what you need now, buy all you need, and—be sure you buy it in Fernie.

Don't forget that Germany held out against the rest of the world in the great war for so long a time only because she spent all her money at home.

Home-spending makes for home-strength. Strengthen yourself, your merchants and your city by spending your money in Fernie.

I.W.W. EMPLOYS EXAGGERATION

Strenuous methods are being adopted by the I.W.W. organization in the United States to raise money with which to finance the strike in the lumber camps between Cranbrook and Golden in British Columbia, according to information received from the district affected.

Declarations that 15,000 men are out on strike, that each day the strike progresses the lumber operators are losing thousands of dollars and that the operators must give in soon, constitute some of the arguments advanced in the official organ of the I.W.W. published in Chicago.

Under date of Feb. 2 this official organ. "Industrial Solidarity," makes the following statement regarding the strike near Cranbrook and the necessity for funds with which to help the strikers over their period of idleness:

"Fellow Workers: In one of the most splendid exhibitions of solidarity ever seen, 15,000 lumber workers of British Columbia are out on strike. They want the eight hour day, the release of class-war prisoners in the United States, a $4 minimum wage, and better conditions, real I.W.W. demands. They are fighting the entire lumber trust of Western Canada and the U.S.A.

"The British Columbia strike takes place in the heart of the sub-Arctic winter, with the whole country frozen solid. To be without warm shelter clothing and good food is death.

"The lumber companies are badly hurt; this is the time of the year when they are making fortunes every day. Every day the strike lasts costs them thousands of dollars. They must yield soon if the strike is to go on.

"But every hour of the strike brings the menace of a Canadian winter just that much closer to the heroic strikers. They must have help.

"This is the decisive moment. Something is going to happen quicky. We shall win or lose within a few days. Financial aid must be sent immediately and in large amounts. Send funds to James L. Peterson, chairman strike committee, box 761, Cranbrook, B. C., Canada. Signed, Robert Russel, chairman, C.E.B.

The annual meeting of the Fernie-Fort Steele Brewing Co. took place on Tuesday. Among those from out of town who were present were R. L. T. Galbraith, A. Doyle and Wm. Carlin, of Fort Steele, and A. Mutz, of Vulcan, Alta. The report of the brewing company for the year was very satisfactory. All the old directors and retiring officers were re-elected.

Fire breaking out in the residence of Bert Ferguson, back of the Church of St. George the Martyr, Rossland, while the occupants were at the hockey game between Rossland and Fernie teams, took the entire block of four residences on Monte Cristo St. between the church and the intersection of Second street. The buildings destroyed were the residences of Bert Ferguson, Ald. E. Langdon, Mrs. T. Eyton and P. Pontin.

CLASS LEADERS FOR JANUARY

Division 9 — Catherine O'Neil, Mary Montalbetti, Elizabeth Hapton, Robert Williams.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED CLUB

Since the article regarding this club appeared in last week's press, there have been many enquiries made to Mr. Beck for further information on the subject and many more names have been added to the lists of those wishing to join up.

Public interest is keen in the matter and the remarks of appreciation and commendation heard on all sides augurs well for the speedy filling up of the club, as the community spirit of it appeals mostly to the public.

It is pointed out particularly that the terms and rates are the same for women as for men and it is the usual thing for both the man and his wife to become members.

It is urgently requested that all subscribers to the lists and the public generally attend the meeting called for next Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the I.O.O.F. Hall to further discuss the scheme, appoint directors and attend to other matters in connection with getting the club well launched and under way, so that the application for the charter may go into the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies at Victoria as soon as possible.

COAL CREEK NOTES

Sunday last was gala day up here, when the skating rink was the mecca for the postponed Old Stiffs—Bruisers rockey game. The vast audience was kept in a state of hilarity by the antics of the players. Referee Johnstone handled the game in a crenitable manner. A fully equipped ambulance wagon was in attendance, with "Spark Plug" between the shafts. In spite of the many times when all one could see was a conglomeration of bodies and sticks, we are pleased to report the absence of any serious accidents. The game was evenly contested, as the result, 3—3, signifies.

Mrs. George Simpson and family desire to thank the residents for their expressions of sympathy and floral tokens, during their recent bereavement. Also the Coal Co. for special train facilities and the members of the Loyal Order of Moose and Women of Mooseheart Legion.

Fred Carmello's company gave a show in the Club Hall on Wednesday night, which was well attended.

The "Bachelor Boys" held a social dance up here on Thursday evening. The light fantastic was indulged in until 2 a.m. A four-piece orchestra supplied the music.

The members of the Club up here will entertain the teams of the G. W. V. A. in the first of a series of inter-club games, on Sunday next.

A little excitement was caused in camp on Tuesday when the firefighters turned out to a chimney fire at the home of one of our residents.

We are asked to request all Knights Pythias who have taken the degree of Dokayism, to wear their fez on Tuesday evening, the 19th, on the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee to be held up here. A special train will leave Fernie at 6.30 for the convenience of the Fernie members.

The many friends of Robt. Fowler will be pleased to learn that he is progressing favorably under the care and treatment of Drs. Kelman & Buckley.

There is only one way to keep from getting old; that is to dies first.

"FLAMING PASSION"

(Lucretia Lombard)

Adapted from the novel by Kathleen Norris

Featuring IRENE RICH and MONTE BLUE

Two women run, like frightened deer, through the doomed forest which crackles and snaps as the fire gains headway. Their clothes ripped to shreds, hands and faces scratched, they gain a little bridge spanning a rivulet just in time.

Lucretia Lombard and Mimi, rivals for the hand of the same man, are together. Lucretia struggles to her feet and sees her opportunity, for Mimi, wife of the man she loves, is senseless. Should she—it could be done so easily, a push of the foot and the woman would be heard of no more.

What should she do? What would you do?

LOCAL & GENERAL

Mrs. Geo. Appleyard and son arrived home on Wednesday from Minneapolis.

Miss Flora Macdonald returned on Saturday from Calgary, where she visited her friend, Mrs. Dewar, who is very ill.

The Junior I.O.D.E. held a Valentine party at the home of Mrs. Thos. Beck last evening. The young people had a good time.

The Fernie hockey girls wish to thank the business men for their kindness in making the trip to Banff possible.

A whist drive and dance will be held in the Catholic Hall on Friday, Feb. 15 at 8.30 p.m. Dancing 11 to 1. Whitehouse orchestra. Refreshments. Admission 50c.

A special mass meeting of Gladstone Local Union will be held tonight, when President Sherman and Secretary Peacock will address the miners on current events.

Don't forget the Elks Leap Year Novelty Dance, Thursday, Feb. 21st, Victoria Hal. Banff Orchestra. Entertainment and refreshments. $1.50 percouple; extra lady 50c.

A series of interclub tournament games have been arranged between the G.W.V.A., the Miners and Coal Creek Clubs. The opening games will take place at Coal Creek on Sunday next, when the local G.W.V.A. are scheduled to meet the Creekites.

The monthly socials held under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary G.W.V.A. are proving a great attraction, as evidenced by the attendance on Tuesday evening. Harold Wheeler and his energetic committee are to be complimented on the good fare provided.

The many friends of Mrs. William Whitehouse learned with deep regret of her death on Sunday last. Deceased, who was only 30 years of age, was widely known in the city and the husband and sorrowing family have the sincere sympathy of the community. The funeral took place at 2 p.m. today from Christ Church, Rev. Oswald officiating.

The local lodge of the Knights of Pythias will hold the Diamond Jubilee celebration in Coal Creek Club Hall on Tuesday next, Feb. 19. Through the kindness of W. R. Wilson, a special train will leave Fernie at 6.30 p.m. There will be a banquet held in the Tee Pee boarding house. Free of charge. All members who have gone through the D.O.K.K.'s are requested to wear the fez on this occasion.

Tickets for the St. Patrick's Day concert, "The Coming of Geraldine," may be had from any of the Sodality members at the small charge of $1. Buy now and be sure of a seat. The orchestra, which every lover of music had such a good word for last year, is practicing very hard. Their aim is to be better than before. The Sodality members are also working hard on their different parts, so as to make this play a great success.

Tenders for the building of a new road through the Frank slide were opened Thursday at Edmonton. It now looks as though this much needed trail will be built this summer. The proposed road is one mile in length and overcomes much of the dangerous and oversomes much of the dangerous down the grade from 13 feet to the 100 feet to 6 feet to the 100 feet. The road is also materially reduced in length. Practically all of the present road will be abandoned when the new road is completed. A good graded road will be built.

The C.G.I.T. of Michel and Natal gave a concert entitled "Flora's Birthday," on Wednesday evening. The girls were trained by their leader, Mrs. Moses, and gave a very creditable account of themselves. Each girl represented a flower and was dressed in colors to suit. The flowers paid homage to Flora on her birthday. Even King Neptune was represented by James Lyne, who presented an anchor. Little Kenny Owen was good with his cauliflower. The piece was tastefully got up and the melodies were pretty. Solos were sung by Miss Golightly, Mrs. Gullet, Mr. James and Mr. Waller in addition to the program. Miss Paul ocupied the chair. There was a large attendance.

J. M. Crookston left yesterday for Penticton to assume his duties in the Bank of Commerce there.

The Valentine dance held in the I. O.O.F. Hall under the auspices of the Pythian Sisters on Thursday evening was well patronized.

A Clearance Sale of all our Winter Millinery, etc., to make room for our New Spring Goods. Bargains now in order at Mrs. Colton's, over Liphardt's Jewelry Store. F15-2

Judge Thompson and Mrs. Thompson, who have been spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Herchmer, left yesterday for Cranbrook.

A whist drive and dance will be held on Tuesday evening, Feb. 19, at 8 o'clock in the basement of Christ Church. Admission 50c.

The C.G.I.T. girls of the United Church are giving a "Demonstration" on Feb. 21, at 8 p.m. in the church. Come and help the girls raise funds to retain Miss Fountain as Girls' Work Secretary of B.C.

The regular monthly tea of the Ladies Aid of the United Church will be held at the home of Mrs. James Marshall, Riverbank Ave, on Tuesday, Feb. 19, from 3 to 6.

Everything is set up for the big banquet in the Odd Fellows' Hall this evening, when Mr. Wilson will entertain nearly two hundred Oldtimers with their ladies. No effort has been spared to secure the best talent that can be provided and those who are sufficiently lucky to have secured an invitation are looking forward to a big night.

The funeral of the late Geo. Simpson, of Coal Creek, who died at Tranquille Sanitarium on Feb. 7, took place from the United Church, Fernie, on Wednesday, and was very largely attended. The Loyal Order of Moose, of which the deceased was a member, attended in a body. There was also a large attendance from the Mooseheart Legion.

Members of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches of Fernie who have got along well under the United Church government, learn with great pleasure of the growth of the movement. In Manitoba there are 92 union churches, 37 Methodist and 55 Presbyterian; or, putting it another way there are as many union charges outside the three cities as there are Methodist and Presbyterian charges added together.

Engineer Underwood, from Saskatoon, was in the city again yesterday consulting with the mayor and council on the river work, which has been tied up for some weeks owing to a misunderstanding over the original contract for putting the pipe under the river. If this work is to be completed before high water this season it will be necessary to move some. A lot of valuable time has already been lost and if the high water should come early it will be impossible to finish it.

In the election of town councillors at Blairmore an odd thing occurred. Editor Bartlett of the Enterprise and Solicitor Gillis each got 93 votes. A recount failed to make any change and then the returning officer gave his casting vote in favor of Gillis as Bartlett had recommended, although Gillis suggested that the honor be given Bartlett. There were only four candidates and it was necessary to elect three, the other two successful contestants being J. Montalbetti and A. E. Ferguson, the former getting 112 and the latter 106 votes. — Coleman Journal.

THEY ARE THE BEST

THE MEN WE CALL LUCKY!

SOME men go through life spending money faster than they earn it. When Opportunity comes, they are unable to grasp it, and in their blindness call themselves unlucky.

The successful man looks ahead—systematically building up a good bank balance. Then when Opportunity comes, he is in a position to seize it—does so, and reaps his reward.

He is often called "lucky." It was not luck — it was Foresight.

STEM TIDE BANK FAILURES

Banks have been failing in the Northwest United States at the rate of three or four a day. In Montana and the Dakotas alone, 200 banks have had to close their doors in the last four months. More than 400 banks are said to have failed in the last year in Minnesota, Montana and the Dakotas. State authorities have put the largest South Dakota bank in charge of trustees. Such is the news coming out of the Northwest, accompanied by statements like Senator Ladd's that during the last 12 months in one county in his State of North Dakota mortgages were foreclosed on 36 per cent of the farms. Now it happens that the day before Calvin Coolidge became President he was at work on his father's farm. So when the farmers of the Northwest went with their tale of woe to the White House they found a sympathetic physician who knew what they were talking about; a specialist, so to speak. And when the President, a few days ago, prescribed first-aid treatment for the acute symptoms in the Northwest wheat country, and suggested means to effect a permanent cure, it was interesting to note that the criticism came mostly from the papers close to Wal Street, which have been acclaiming the "safe and sane" Coolidge for six months, while out in the Northwest where the radicalism of La Fillette and Townley has taken root, and where advice from the wise men of the East is generally scorned the President's message was cordially welcomed.

A transfusion of cash from financially husky Eastern cities, to keep the patient alive through the present crisis, and then a course of treatment to insure against relapse, is what the President prescribes. In other words, he asks the government officials and private citizens to supply cash to keep the banks solvent a few months longer, and he asks Congress to lend every spring-wheat farmer in the Northwest $1000 to buy a cow, a sow, or some chickens, so he can get along even if wheat yields or prices are disappointing.

The farmer and the banker are brothers in distress, according to the farm press and papers published in the Northwest. The average farmer raises nothing but wheat. He may even buy his milk and his vegetables. Wheat is the big cash crop, but two or three years of low prices and a locally poor crop last year have forced him to mortgage his farm—if not his family's needs the money that should go toward paying off the already mortgaged—and to spend for mortgage. The banker finds all his money tied up in these "frozen loans." The big bank in the large city thinks it isn't good business to give him more credit. There is no use foreclosing, because nobody wants to buy Dakota farms just now. Depositors begin to be nervous and draw out their money and what can the banker do but go out of business? And that is just what he has been doing in the Northwest.

HOW MACDONALD ROSE TO LEADERSHIP IN ENGLAND

Rawsay Macdonald, the first labor party premier of England, wrote of his wife, who died in 1911, "to turn to her in stress and storm was like going into a sheltered haven, where waters are at rest, and smiling up into the face of heaven." Truly the romances of staid England are more notable than those of any other land. She was a woman of position and wealth, yet she married the son of a farm servant. Her means endowed him with opportunity to develop the forces of leadership which have brought him to the political summit of his country.

He founded the labor party, with the assistance of Kier Hardie, in 1896. The early years were a succession of defeats at the polls but the strength of the leader was reflected in the expansion of the party. Mrs. Macdonald gave him all the material advantages of her position. She encouraged him in his work, soothed him by her cheery faith — in short gave her whole life for him, and the things for which she struggled. Surely there was a woman's hand in the rise of Ramsay Macdonald

In London, having ventured as a youth from the Scottish farm, he began life as a warehouse clerk at $3 a week. Study won him a place as secretary to a member of parliament at $75 a year. His writings added to his income and he bought a new home for his mother. His pacifist theories during the war caused him to be ejected from his club and his children were ostracized. He rode out the storm and his zeal for the betterment of the conditions which face his countrymen has lifted him to greatest popularity.

LUNCH COUNTER CARS ON NATIONAL

LUNCH counter cars which will care for the needs of passengers in the colonist, first class and tourist cars of the main line trains, if they desire to patronize them, are to be operated by the Canadian National Railways for the convenience of the travelling public, and particularly of immigrants arriving in Canada. As an experiment, lunch counter cars have been placed in service between Winnipeg and Toronto. While these trains carry dining cars and while the Canadian National Railways also have lunch counters and restaurants at all divisional points, it is considered that the lunch counter car will be a great benefit to women travelling with children and to others who may be physically unfit or unable to leave the train at stations because of severe weather, or for other reasons.

The lunch counter has been fitted up at one end of a steel colonist car, where the best grade of tea and coffee freshly made will be served. Light meals comprising cereals, sandwiches, pies, preserved fruits and other canned goods will be available at Canadian National standard lunch counter prices. A competent and courteous attendant will be in charge of each lunch counter and service may be secured at any time during the day.

The suggestion of the lunch counter cars was made by Mr. Walter Pratt, General Manager of Dining, Sleeping and Parlor Cars and of Hotels, who has been anxious to provide this facility to further improve travelling conditions and add to the comforts of passengers on the Canadian National Railways.

CANADIAN NEWS BRIEFS

Alberta Coal Gainging Ground — Sixty per cent of the coal consumption at Sudbury is Western Canadian coal, used in preference to the American product at the same price, according to A. N. Walker, of the Alberta Coal Distributors, who has just returned from a trip to Ontario. Mr. Walker found that dealers in middle and northern Ontario are buying Alberta bituminous in preference to Pennsylvania hard at the same price.

Norwegians May Come — Canada will secure between eight and ten thousand Norwegian immigrants during the coming navigation season, if reports of five prominent Norwegian shipping men who have just arrived in Canada are received with favor by the interested parties in Canada. They have come to this country for the purpose of studying farming conditions, so that they may present an intelligent and detailed report upon their return.

French Canadians Returning — Mr. J. E. LaForce, general agent of col-C.N.R. at Boston, states that on an average 150 families of French Canadians are returning to Canada from New England weekly. This movement has been going on since the first of the year and a considerable increase is expected with the arrival of spring.

Net Revenue Increase—An increase of nearly $11,000,000 in the net operating revenues on all lines of the Canadian National Railways during eleven months of 1923 is shown by official figures given out this month.

Manitoba Butter Shipments — Out of a total production of 10,730,130 pounds of creamery butter in 1923, Manitoba exported 3,863,264 pounds in 180 carloads, representing 68,965 56-pound packages and valued at $1,518,169.76. The shipments were to the Old Country, New York, Chicago and Montreal. The 1922 production was 10,559,601 pounds.

New Silver Region—Referring to the rush now in progress from Mayo to the newly discovered silver region of Beaver river district in the Yukon territory, W. E. Cockfield, of the Dominion government geological survey, states that silver lead ores have been discovered at many points and with much of the area still unprospected there is an excellent chance that further discoveries will be made. The district is fairly accessible, being within a few miles of territory already prospected and partly worked.

Western Route Conference — The Calgary Board of Trade has decided to call a conference during the summer of farmers, grain men and others in Alberta insterested in the western grain route. The Vancouver Harbor Board and others in British Columbia will attend.

Egg Production—Total production of farm eggs in Canada last year was approximately 202,186,508 dozen, as against 194,058,468 dozen in 1922. The total estimated value was $48,770,780 in 1923, compared with $48,490,478 in 1922

C.N.R. Immigation Work—Extensive plans for immigration and colonization work were made at the annual conference of officials and staffs of the land and townsite, colonization and development departments of the Canadian National Railways held at Winnipeg last week by Land Commissioner A. E. Field. A substantial increase in the sale of farm lands during 1923 over the previous year was reported.

Canadians Well Off— —Conditions among the farmers in Alberta and other parts of Canada are much better than in the north western States, according to Dr. H. M. Tory, of the Albera University, who has just completed a survey of the rural credits question across the line for the Dominion finance department.

Doukhobors Leave—The vanguard of the Doukhobor movement from Western Canada left last week, when 24 Doukhobors from Kamsack, Sask., went east over Canadian National lines to New York, where they will set sail for Odessa. The party consisted of eight families, few of whom could speak English.

Thirty Million Objective—In a talk to Canadian National employees by radio last week, Sir Henry W. Thornton, chairman and president of the system, pointed out that while the net earnings of the company last year amounted to twenty million dollars, he hoped this year to make it thirty million. Given a little luck and the hearty support of his men, he had every confidence that the objective could be reached.

Finns May Emigrate—Six or seven thousand Finns are waiting to emigrate to Canada because of the closure of the Finnish quota to the United States, according to Martin Maurd, representative of the Swedish-American Line at New York. Mr. Maurd prophesies that there will be a great wave of immigration from Scandinavian countries to Canada during 1924.

Pulp Commission—Members of the Canadian Pulp Commission arrived in Winnipeg last week via the Canadian National to open investigation into the pulp situation in Western Canada. Three days were spent in Winnipeg, the commission leaving Feb. 9 for points further west along National lines.

A special reduction of 25 per cent on the tax on incomes which are earned in the United States is being put into effect. For this purpose all taxable incomes under $5000 are defined as earned, while $20,000 is set as the maximum of income on which the reduction could be made effective. There are 13,000,000 people with incomes of less than $5,000 in the United States, so that it is easy to see the relief that will be affected by the reduction in taxation.

PROTEIN IN FOOD FAVORS CANCER

Prevalence of cancer in countries where over eating and lack of exercise are the rule rather than the exception among inhabitants, leads the Medical Correspondent of the Sunday Times (London) to observe that the inroads of the dread malady, especially in the United States, are due in large measure to the assimilation of too much protein. He says that he has observed that over-feeding in the United States "is very conspicuous and very gross," and it is associated with the general abondonment of walking, "resulting in over-weight, noticeably abdominal, of large numbers of American men and women." In that country, he declares, cancer is rapidly increasing.

One of the soundest proofs this expert has come across occurred in Denmark where, he says, during the period of war rationing of food there was a "reducing influence on the cancer death rate." Touching on his observations in other countries, he goes on:

It needs only a brief stay in Switzerland, a land unhappily conspicuous for its high cancer death rate, to see the large quantities of protein consumed. We must be perfectly impartial and recognize that cheese is mostly protein, and even though that be the protein of milk, it is protein still, and excess of it still excess.

Even allowing for possibly inferior diagnosis in respect of some forms of cancer, there seems to be no doubt that the malignant death rate is distinctly lower in Italy, for instance, than in the northern countries. Indeed, the generalization has been made that the cancer death rate rises as one passes from the tropics northwards. The assertion has also been made that where malaria abounds cancer does not, and the suggestion has been made that malarial poison may be antagonistic to malignant cells. It is discreditable to us that these matters have not been thoroughly investigated, and that we are compelled to repeat loose propositions which are clearly capable of exact inquiry. But at any rate it is certain that gross protein excess is less common in Italy than in Holland, which I visited in November, or the more northern countries already named. The form and habit of the people in the streets in Milan, Venice, Florence, Rome, is conspicuously to be contrasted with what one has lately seen in Amsterdam and Copenhagen and Stockholm. Observation of the table suggests that protein excess, notably in respect of meat, must be far less common here. On the average, the Italian carries far less superfluous avoirdupois than the American, the Dane, or Swede or Dutchman. He eats freely of salads and fruit—he should certainly be ashemed of himself if he did not. These antagonize constipation and the better for him. He suffers much less from cancer, and one certainly cannot believe that the present distribution of malaria in Italy is enough to account for the difference, even if one were inclined to attach any weight to the malaria-versus--cancer supposition.

Considerable interest has been aroused, especially among Christian students, in the announcement that Messrs. Kouchakji of Paris and New York, dealers in Oriental art, are publishing a sumptuous monograph in two folio volumes on a silver Chalice, which is claimed to be one of the earliest and most precious relics of Christian art in existence. It was discovered in 1910 in a well in Antioch. The claim made is that it contains contemporary portraits of Christ (one as a youth and the other as older in years), of St. James the Less, and St. Jude, the two nearest relatives of Christ on earth and six other Apostles and Evangelists. The symbols found on the Chalice, it is said, are only such as are found in the Bible. Dr. Gustavus Eisen, the author of the monograph, says: "The Chalice proves by its form and decorations to be the earliest artistic Christian object known. It contains admirable portraits of the founders of the Christian religion. . It proves that the earliest Christians accepted two distinct miracles of feeding the multitude. It proves that the author of the Fourth Gospel was St. John the Evangelist and Apostle, and not the 'disciple' of the critics."

FERNIE WON E.K. CHAMPIONSHIP

Playing in the final game of the home and home series for the East Kootenay Amateur Hockey championship at the local arena last Friday evening, the Fernie Seniors defeated Kimberley by a score of three goals to four in favor of the Fernie boys, thus giving them the right to meet Rossland, winners of the West Kootenay championship, in the McBride Cup finals.

The ice at the start of the game was somewhat soft and badly cut up but as the game progressed conditions became more favorable for fast hockey and before the game finished both teams were travelling at express rate. Kimberley's downfalll was brought about by the invulnerable defence of the Fernie Club. Not once did the Kimberley raiders break through and were forced to shoot from outside, the long shots giving Colton very little trouble. Peever, the one armed Kimberley goal tender, was the outstanding player on the visitors' side. Time after time he stopped shots from all angles, when it seemed certain that the rubber was ticketed for goal.

The opening goal was not scored until within fifteen seconds of the bell for the close of the first period when, following a combination rush down the ice, Dicken drew the Kimberley defence to the right wing and when checked whipped the puck across the goalmouth to Thompson. Peever came out to intercept, but Thompson hooked the puck towards him and then pushed it into the open net.

On the drop of the puck in the opening of the second period Bish Wilson secured the puck and travelling a short distance up the ice let fly a bullet-like drive for goal, and catching Peever unsighted, put Fernie two up. End to end rushes followed, Kimberley exerting themselves to full extent in an endeavor to reduce Fernie's leeway but the local defence was playing brilliant hockey and try as they would the visitors could not get through on Colton. After twelve minutes of play Kimberley secured their only goal, when Slawter took a long shot at goal from the right boards. The rubber glanced off Swedeberg into the net.

Fernie assumed the upper hand in the third period and kept the rubber well confined to Kimberley territory, the visitors only carrying it into the Fernie territory in spasmodic rushes, which were usually subdued before reaching the danger zone, while the Fernie forwards kept up a regular bombardment on Peever. After 12 minutes of play the Fernie van came through on a nice combination rush, Thompson getting the final pass from Dicken with the defence well beaten, and slammed the puck into the net.

The line-up:

Kimberley		Fernie

Musser		Kirkpatrick
Smith		Swedeberg

TEX RICKARD BACKS NEW HOCKEY LOOP

Montreal, Feb. 11.—New York and Boston will be added to Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Hamilton on an international hockey league circuit next season according to a statement issued last night following a meeting of the directors of the N.H.L., held here. Thos. J. Duggan, who is interested with Tex Rickard in the New York end of the project, and Charles F. Adams, a director of the Boston arena, attended the meeting and explained in detail the plans they had in mind should the scheme be accepted. The present move is the sequel to the option Mr. Duggan obtained from the National Hockey league last year to bring in some United States clubs.

Eddie J. Livingstone, of Toronto, was present at the meeting and put forward a proposition of his own, the nature of which was not divulged by the league officers. He was asked to formulate his plans in writing to the directors.

B.C. ARCHIVES DEPARTMENT APPEALS FOR RECORDS

Time is fast eradicating the landmarks connected with the early history of British Columbia, and with the influx of population and the rapid settlement and cultivation of the country, unless some concerted effort is made to collect permanent records many of the associations of pioneer days will gradually disappear. The photograph is probably one of the best mediums for recording the development of the country. There must be in the hands of private individuals many photographs taken in past years depicting localities in their virgin state in which latterly towns and cities have grown up.

It is with a view to gathering these records in a central place that the Provincial Archives Department with the cooperation of the Arts, Historical and Scientific Association of Vancouver, and the B.C. Historical Association, is making this appeal to municipalities, railroads, lumber companies and officials or individuals associated with development work in British Columbia in the hope that from these sources original photographs old and new, may be obtained or permission obtained to make copies.

The Provincial Archives in addition to collecting pioneer records, Ms. journals, diaries and letters, has for several years been collecting portraits of pioneer residents, and historical views, as well as photographs of Indians showing their dwellings, customs, dress, etc. A system has recently been inaugurated whereby these photographic records are carefully indexed by subject and placed in a series of large albums where they are made readily available for reference.

An appeal is also made to those having books, pamphlets and manuscript records relating to early days to place these in trust with the Provincial Library and Archives Department. Many important records have been destroyed by fire in the houses of owners or have fallen into the hands of those who, having no interest in the collection of such things, have caused the destruction of much valuable information.

The Provincial Library and Archives Dept. is made use of by thousands of people seeking information on innumerable subjects including those of provincial interest, and it would assist the management greatly if municipal authorities, societies and institutions would place the Provincial Library on their mailing lists to receive printed reports regularly as issued.

A lame excuse is better than none and the Prince of Wales now has one to offer for remaining a bachelor.

This is indeed a froward and perverse generation. If the people are prohibited by law from possessing certain things or from going to certain places they will encompass heaven and earth to get such things and to reach the forbidden places. Consider what is going on in the United States under prohibition. The people will have liquor at any price, they will even take a chance of poisoning themselves in order to satisfy their desires. The government of the United States is spending what would be sufficient revenue to meet the requirements of many countries in maintaining an army to enforce the provisions of the prohibition law, and that law is not enforced; never will be enforced.

ROSSLAND WINS FROM FERNIE

Rossland, Feb. 12.—Stepping out in the last period and grabbing off six goals while the Fernie boys were played almost to a standstill, the Rossland seniors tonight won the first game of the East Kootenay-West Kootenay playoff series by a score of eight goals to one.

Fernie put up an excellent game in the first two periods, and were on the aggressive all the way. In the first period they skated up to the Rossland team, and the teams skated off with a tally each.

In the second, Rosland stepped up one, the period ending with a 2 to 1 score in favor of the locals. In the last period the heavy ice told on the Fernie players, and Rossland, uncorking a burst of speed, ran in six goals in rapid succession. This practically assures Rossland as the team which will meet the Okanagan winners, or in the event of soft weather, who will go on to the coast to compete for provincial honors. Jewell was the fast man on the ice, and was skated down repeatedly by the Fernie speed merchants.

The lineup was as follows:

Fernie		Rossland
	Goal
Colton		Johnson
	Defence
Kirkpatrick		Marsters
Swedeberg		Nelson
	Right Wing
B. Wilson		Molisky
	Left Wing
McTeer		Jewell
	Centre
Dicken		Singer
	Forwards
Thompson		Norris
S. Wilson		Huffman
		Cavanaugh

Goal Summary

First period — Rossland, Singer; Fernie, Thompson.

Second period—Nelson, Rossland.

Third period—Cavanaugh, Huffman, Molisky (2), Nelson (2), Rossland.

Penalties: First period—Kirkpatrick, Fernie; Cavanaugh, Rossland. Second period — Marsters, Rossland; Marsters, Rossland; Norris, Fernie; Third period—Wilson, Fernie; McTeer, Fernie; Marsters, Rossland.

Rossland, B.C., Feb. 13.—Staked to a 7-goal lead from Monday night's game, Rossland seniors tonight, with no difficulty, annexed the series with Fernie, the East Kootenay hockey champions, by a series score of 15-5, tonight's contest being won by the golden city team 7-4. Merritt district champions of the Similikameen, having defaulted, Rossland now goes to the coast for the playoff. It is probable that the Kootenay boys will leave for Vancouver Saturday night, to play games in Vancouver next Tuesday and Thursday for the provincial championship.

Before a good and vociferous hockey crowd, Fernie put up an uphill battle with Rossland, and the game was remarkably fast all through, in spite of the fact that the players had to contend with sticky ice, which made heavy going.

The coal city boys netted the first goal, but thereafter the Rossland lads got their combination going, and outwitted their opponents, the net result being four goals for the gold city in the firs tperiod.

Fast play characterized the second period, which was an even break both in play and in goals, for neither side was able to beat the defence opposed to it.

In the last period the Crow's Nest Pass team woke up, got its machine going and ran tway from the West Kootenay team, nicking three goals to the home team's two.

MOUNTIES EXONERATED

Whatever elation western people may feel over the report from Ottawa clearing the R.C.M.P. of charges laid in connection with the drug traffic, will be tempered by a certain measure of disgust that through spleen and ill-will those charges were laid at all.

Crime detection must, of necessity, be undertaken through secret channels. And in order that police operatives may have no opportunity to abuse their privilege of working in secrecy, the public must have utter confidence in the police heads to whom those operatives are responsible.

For this reason the charges laid against individual operatives of the R. C. M. P. were really charges laid against the whole force, since they inferred slackness of discipline on the part of officers.

At no time since its inception has this northwest mounted police force ever lost for one moment the absolute confidence of the public.

This recent investigation, reflecting on the efficiency and integrity of the force, was undertaken in opposition to the great mass of public opinion. And public opinion, as usual, was proved to be in the right.

The real harm accompished by the fruitless investigation lay in the fact that the crime detention methods of the force were ruthlessly exposed to the public, thus nullifying the utility of the methods which could only be effective while they were secret.

The only result of the investigation was to pour water on the force's gunpowder, making necessary the building up of entirely new crime detection methods.

It was a foolish, expensive and short-sighted undertaking and should prove to those who started it that public faith in a long established tradition of honor and service is usually founded on fact.

RE DOCTOR QUESTION

Editor Fernie Free Press:

Dear Sir—It is only an error of judgment to make a mistake, but it argues an infirmity of character to adhere to it when discovered; or as the Chinese say, the glory is not in never falling, but in rising every time you fall over.

Will those responsible for this muddle ever realize the truth of the above quotation. One would naturally think that having made so many mistakes, they would at least desist from adding to their number. In my last letter I clearly proved a few mistakes they had made, and it is my duty to record another even more serious than the previous ones, i.e., unlawfully trying to obtain money from workmen's wages at Coal Creek, without their authority or consent.

This time, however, they will be taught better manners. President Lewis will have something to say about it; also the B.C. law department may take a hand in putting these individuals' fingers in a safer place than a miner worker's envelope. However, the would be looters have not got away with the money; the Coal Co. have it and have been instructed to hold it until common sense or law settles the case. Personally I have every confidence that to those it belongs to those it will return.

It may be as well to mention that this fining business re doctors is contrary to everything taught in the U. M.W. of A. constitution. The Articles they use for their purpose, Articles 18, Sec. 2, and Article 6, Sec. 2, are wilfully twisted to suit their purpose. Read your constitution for proof of my statement.

It is well to know that the reactionaries have about got to the end of their tether. Financial difficulties are looming ahead. Realizing this, one of those whining blusterers appealed to one of our men, casually mentioning that a change of doctor would follow in the near future. Men, beware of the trap. These men are capable of anything as their past records prove. They declared war; and it is up to them to sue for peace and reinstate the old doctors. Then, and then only, will the doctor question be settled.

It seems strange to me that the old doctors, who are ragarded as desirable citizens, and have the good word of nearly all the inhabitants of Fernie district, who have proved themselves to be gentlemen in every sense of the word, should have been treated so unmercifully, just because they refused to take a cut in their wages. For that is all it amounts to. Comment on the authors of his unfair deal is needless; it speaks for itself. Would ask any sensible man or woman to put themselves in fancy into the old doctors' position; then they will realize their position is far from being an enviable one. And remember those who are doing this kind of work to the doctors are capable of giving the same medicine to all who dare to disagree with them.

The question naturally arises, who are these men? Oh, yes, ask me another. You cannot find one solitary individual who has got the courage to own up to the part he has taken in this discreditable business. Nothing doing. All you will get from all these fence sitters is: It was carried at the meeting, mentioning the day. Well, will conclude for this time. I remain yours. Robert Draper.

COMMUNICATION

Another Victim of the Home Bank

To the Editor of the Free Press:

Dear Sir—I should like to correct a false impression in the minds of some of the people of Fernie that I have not paid Mrs. Terry for the property on Victoria Avenue at 339. I paid Mrs. Terry on the 6th of August in cash in Mr. Mitchell's office, who was acting for both of us. The money was left with Mr. Mitchell because he said it was the proper thing to do, while he had the title deeds searched at Nelson. Well, the outcome of it is that he put the money in the Home Bank, but sent Mrs. Terry a check on Aug. 14, and she received it just too late to cash it. And now she has issued a writ against me for the full amount; also for rent during the time I have occupied the house; also for damages; and has made it impossible for me to sell the property or even to get a mortgage on it. I have no money to engage a lawyer out of town and the writ calls for me to send in a defence or appear in person by next Wednesday, unless Mr. Fisher gets a stay of execution. He thinks he might be able to get the case tried here in Fernie. If he does, I ask the property owners to watch the case closely, because if you can part with your money and get a receipt for it, also clear indefeasible title from Nelson, and then be calmly asked to return the property back or pay again. I am being made the goat in this case. Yours respectfully,
M. Calza.

Usual services during the week.

We are planning on the erection of a bronze Memorial Tablet containing the names of all from this church who served in the great war. We find that the temporary honor rolls which we have are not always accurate or complete. First of all a correct list is needed. Will all interested kindly help in supplying this information. The present honor rolls are in the church vestry. If there are names that should be changed or new names to be added will you kindly give this information to the pastor of the church. While no definite plans have been made, still we have sufficient data re designs, prices, etc., of tablets to allow us to proceed without delay. We hope that a great many people will share in this worthy object. If many do something the burden need not be heavy to any and it will have the advantage of being a real congregational memorial.

BANQUET TO OLD TIMERS

Possibly the banquet given by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson to the Old Timers and their friends on Friday evening last was the finest affair of the kind ever held in Fernie. The ladies of the I.O.D.E. had the affair in hand and provided a magnificent spread. The tables, which seated over two hundred, were beautifully decorated with flowers and the banquet hall was hung with bunting, lending a color scheme to the whole affair which was altogether harmonious.

The chair was occupied by Dr. D. Corsan, who creditably filled the position throughout the long program, which lasted over four hours.

After all had partaken of the good things provided, Mayor G. G. Henderson presented Mrs. W. R. Wilson with a handsome bouquet of American Beauty roses and in a few well chosen remarks told of the wonderful esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are held by the members of the Old Timers and by the people of Fernie in general.

The chairman then called upon Dr. Bonnell to propose a toast to "Our Host and Hostess." The doctor spoke at length. He said that it was not every town in Canada that had as its leading citizen a man of such outstanding character and ability as Mr. Wilson. He was a man whose reputation in his own sphere in life was known in every mining centre in the world. He himself had known Mr. Wilson to have received many fine offers for his services with other companies, but Mr. Wilson had so far elected to stay with Fernie and cast his lot with his old friends here. The doctor's long speech was one glowing tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson.

In responding Mr. Wilson thanked his old friends for coming together as his guests. He and his good wife felt deeply honored by the large number who had turned out and by the kind remarks that had been tendered them by the previous speakers. Twenty-three years ago he had first arrived in Fernie from Pittsburg, where he had labored incessantly for twenty-one years without a holiday in a land thick with the smoke of industry and he had fallen in love with our mountains and scenery. He came here as an engineer to report on the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. properties and had no intention of remaining, but upon being pressed by the directors to do so, spent a year or two here. Later he went to South Africa, where he remained for several years, but the call of the Canadian Rockies was in his blood and when the opportunity again offered he gladly took it up and had remained here ever since. Mr. Wilson was in particular good voice and his numerous anecdotes and stories kept his large audience in the best of humor.

A long program of music, songs and dances was presented by the leading talent of the town and was greatly enjoyed. Among those who took part were: Miss Charlebois, piano solo; Mrs. E. Kirkpatrick, solo; Mr. and Mrs. W. Owen, duet; Chief Anderson, solo; A. Watson, violin solo; a double quartette consisting of T. Biggs, F. Alexander, W. Owen, H. Douglas, Miss Hogan, Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Miss Dicken and Mrs. Lawes; Mrs. N. E. Suddaby, solo; Mr. DeVolder, song; Mrs. A. Watson, solo; Miss I. Dicken, solo; Mr. Owen and Miss Hogan, duet; the Thompson and Arbuckle chidren, step dancing. The audience was particularly carried away with the singing of Chief Anderson, Mr. DeVolder and the violin playing of Sandy Watson, who were called back repeatedly by encores.

Mr. Thos. Beck, in a short speech, moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for the able manner in which they had provided the banquet.

Among the list of invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. P. Arcuri, Mr. and Mrs. D. Alton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Alexander, M. Berigan, Mrs. A. Black, Mr. and Mrs. T. Beck, Miss Jessie Beck, Dr. Bonnell, Mrs. Bonnell, Miss Bonnell, Mrs. Belayti, J. Belayti, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Biggs, Miss J. Cody, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. J. OIL BURNERS ON G.N. RAILWAY

Use of oil burner locomotives in the Montana and Kalispell divisions of the Great Northern is resulting in operating efficiency of from 15 to 25 per cent according to W. R. Smith, general superintendent of the Central division of the Great Northern Railway Co.

There are now 20 locomotives of the Santa Fe type, freight, and six locomotives of the Mountain type, passenger, now in service. One of the former in a test run between Cut Bank and Havre hauled a load of 3000 tons, which is 500 tons in excess of the usual loads hauled by coal-burning locomotives. The run required 3450 gallons of oil. The tank of this type of locomotive carries 5000 gallons of fuel.

Use of oil burner locomotives is nothing new in the experience of Superintendent Smith, who used oil burners on the Cascade division many years before they were used elsewhere on the Great Northern system. His experience is that they effect greater efficiency in cold weather through the maintenance of steam pressure. Use of oil burner locomotives on the western district has resulted in some cases in making it possible to increase the distance between division points.

Motto: "Our Country First."

Executive—

Regent—Mrs. J. R. Wallace.

1st Vice Regent—Mrs. S. Bonnell.

2nd Vice Regent—Mrs. A. B. Trites

Secretary—Mrs. J. L. Gates.

Treasurer—Mrs. S. Graham.

Educational Secretary — Mrs. S. Herchmer.

Echoes Secretary—Mrs. A. I. Fisher

Standard Bearer — Miss Olive Brown.

I have the honor of presenting to you the 11th Annual Report as Secretary of this Chapter, and must record a year of steady progress.

We have 47 members in good standing.

During the ten months of active work, the sum of $1097.10 was deposited to the credit of Mount Fernie Chapter.

The activities of this Chapter have been mainly directed towards Educational work, and in helping the various charitable organizations.

There are five National Life Members and two Primary Life members.

We have 71 subscribers to "Echoes."

National Fees sent were $23.50; Officers Fees $5.25; Provincial Capital Tax Office Fees $35.25.

The Cumberland disaster was assisted to the extent of $25.00.

Japanese relief was assisted to the extent of $15.00.

B.C. University Players Club presented a play under the auspices of the Chapter. Part proceeds to them $145.85.

A Provincial Life Membership was purchased for our former Regent, but owing to her absence we were unable to present pin.

On July 1st we assisted the Sports Committee, taking charge of the Refreshment Booth, the gross receipts being $137.25.

Attendance of the members at regular and executive meetings has been most gratifying.

I.O.D.E. Sunday was observed by special services attended by the Chapter in a body.

Twenty-five dollars was remitted to the St. Dunstans Home for the Blind.

A new feature at our meetings during the past year was the giving of short addresses by various members. This has resulted in making our meetings more atractive.

On May 24 our Chapter attended the unveiling of our Local Memorial, placing a wreath on same.

From a rummage sale we realized $167.30.

The local library was assisted to the extent of $25.00.

Hampers were sent out at Christmas.

The Chapter is interested in the Boy Scout movement and contributed towards their organization $125.00.

The Graves Committee did faithful work.

Our annual New Year dance was a success socially and financially. Gross receipts $326.75.

Assistance was given towards the education of a veteran's son.

The sum of $10 was contributed towards the G.W.V.A. Children's Christmas Tree.

Our Chapter has a very efficient visiting committee; a Secondary Education Fund; and also a Compassionate Fund, from which we are able to help soldiers' wives in sickness.

We augmented the Compassionate Fund to the extent of $25.00 and the Secondary Education to $50.00.

Fifty dollars was given to the National Memorial.

Our Chapter joined with the G.W.V.A. in Armistice Day services, and the unveiling of the cenotaph at the cemetery, placing a wreath on same, also placing wreath on the local memorial.

We redeemed our War Stamps,

LETHBRIDGE BONSPIEL

The first day's curling was under ideal conditions, the ice standing up in splendid shape. All draws started on time and finished within the time limit. Things were black for a few minutes during the 6 p.m. draw Monday when the lights went out, but no complaints were registered of anybody having moved a rock. Curlers are honest men.

There were no rinks scratched, everyone arriving as forecasted. The ice men under Jack Fuller, our champion ice maker, got to work on the skating rink. But it appears to be a super-human task to have it ready for 9 a.m. However 12 a.m. Tuesday will see 9 rinks in operation.

The prizes are on display in the Elite Cigar store and are exceptionally fine.

It is too early to forecast likely winners of the grand aggregate. All through McNabb's ring is working nice, and the Sewell rink, under the skippership of Jimmy Aird have had two easy wins at this writing.

Mr. Spooner and Cecil Mahon are having a little tough work, the result of being in the extra series and having to play two or three graveyard draws.

The luck of the draw leaves S. J. Stewart with only one game the first day. The draw plays funny tricks, but we assure the visitors that the committee has tried to use everybody fairly but the games have to be played.

It was brought to the writer's attention that A. C. Liphardt was the Fernie skip who two years ago won

K.P. CELEBRATE JUBILEE

Fernie Lodge, No. 31, Knights of Pythias, together with the members of their sister lodge, and fraternal delegates from all other fraternal societies in Fernie, on Tuesday evening celebrated the 60th anniversary of the founding of their order, with an impressive ceremony held in the Coal Creek Club rooms, Coal Creek.

A special train was run from Fernie to Coal Creek for this occasion and over two hundred Fernie brothers and sisters made the trip. Upon arrival of the train the Fernie contingent was escorted by their Coal Creek members to Mr. Johnston's hotel, where a sumptuous banquet awaited them.

Immediately following the banquet, the gathering proceeded to the Club Hall, where the Diamond Jubilee ceremony commemorating the 60th anniversary of the founding of the Knights of Pythias order on Feb. 19, 1864, was held. The ceremony opened with an overture "The War March of Priests," played by the K.P. 10-piece orchestra. The Union Jack was then brought to the centre of the hall and a salute was given to the flag, followed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Chancelor Commander H. E. Douglas, in the chair, called upon the officers of the lodge to declare the four great prerepts of the order, Friendship, Charity, Benevolenie and Patriotism, short addresses being given on each subject by Bros. D. F. Markland, G. W. Auld, C. McNay and Geo. Quail respectively. At the close of the official ceremony the following program, interrupted at various times for dancing, made the evening one of the greatest successes ever staged by the organization:

Intermezzo—"Barcarolle," K .P. Orchestra.

Song—"If the Rest of the World," Miss Billsborough.

Recitation—"Private McFee's Haggis," D. J. Black.

Song—"In Days of Old," B. Smith.

Duet—"When You Come Home," Bros. Kennedy.

Highland Fling—Misses Fleming, Brown and Smith.

Monologue—"Parson's Topics," H. Sharp.

Overture—"Bohemian Girl," K. P. Orchestra.

Classic Dance—Misses Star, Star and Williams.

Song—"Friend of Mine," G. Kennedy.

Sword Dance—Misses Brown and Smith.

Sailors' Hornpipe—Misses Brown, Smith and Fleming.

Song—"Take Thou This Rose," T. Kennedy.

God Save the King.

the final in the Walker competition, which gave Fernie final possession. We tried to give our old friend Milt Kastner credit, but Dougal McNabb beat him in the semi-final—only to lose to Mr. Liphardt in the final.

There are some 108 visitors in town curling and they all are wanting to meet "Bob" Dinning. Unfortunately Bob is up at Edmonton. We have wired him for permission. As a matter of fact we have it already—go to it boys the mayor is a Scotchman, a curling fan, and the chief of police is a curler himself, and the chief of detectives broke a rib at the game. Nuff sed!

Only two of the Stewart brothers from Macleod are on hand, Gordon and Orville.

The first 13-ender of the 'spiel was between two Fernie rinks, Stewart and Brown in the Trites-Wood event. Stewart won.

The Carmangay curlers have a grievance. We omitted to name Mr. MacKay, mayor of Carmangay among the city officials present. That makes seven mayors actually in attendance.

(By J. S. K.)

As predicted, the farther the bonspiel goes the more sensational are the games and Tuesday had its full quota of those events which make curling an endless source of conversation, where'er bonspielers gather. The "I remember one game" stuff was amply replenished by the happenings of Tuesday. Everybody who was around the rink had a few to add to their repertoire of stories.

The one event of the day that probably caused more excitemtnt and continuous gossip was that of the Kastner-Freeman game.

To do justice to this we must as in all "adventures" write an introduction. The introduction goes back three years, which of course is long enough—but—the scene is Fernie. The writer was mixing it with the hero of this story, one Milt Kastner, of Fernie. Yours truly had Milt down five on the 11th end. Milt whispered in disgust to throw up the rocks as he was beat, the writer in all innocence of his good intentions and suffering under the physical infirmity of deafness, did not hear that kind remark, so held his broom for the lead rock and as the end was started the game went on. We bare our naked wound to the gaze of the readers. Even yet the festering torment of the blow we received poisons our blood and destroys our sleep many and many a night. The cold plain unadulterated truth is that Mr. Milt Kastner purloined us for a six end and won the game. The harpoon of punishment was twisted in this all but mortal wound by Mit telling everybody—yes everybody—that he had told me to throw up the rocks as he was satisfied he was licked. The barbs of torment were flung at us for the remainder of the bonspiel and ever since by those who saw our disaster or had heard about it.

But the scene changes — Tuesday afternoon on the 12 p.m. draw, Mr. Kastner's chickens came home to roost.

Milt was drifting along under easy sail and turned into the home stretch on the long end of a 9 to 4 score. Lady Luck gave fortune's wheel a twirl and Mr. Freeman pulled a juicy six-end on the 12th head and won. Much fever left our wound and indications are that it will eventually heal. Milt has nothing on us. We caught him in the waiting room explaining how it happened. We walked up to him, fixed him with our glittering eye and said we knew all that old stuff by heart. Explanations are no good—suffer-creature-suffer. We hope Milt hears of this last six-ender until we are sure of bonsipel weather which to be perfectly frank is never while we mortals shuffle off this mortal coil.

Mr. McNaughton also stepped into scoring a six end on the strong Aird-scoring a six end on the tsrong Aird-Sewell combination but he was forced to take a loss.

Our former fellow townsman Wally Clark pulled a seven ender on F. J. Stewart of Vulcan, which with promiscuous scoring in the first five ends forced Stewart down and out in six ends. The shortest game of the spiel.

Wednesday

There were a number of surprises and "incidents" in Wednesday's play. There were six and five ends frequently. Clark repeated with a six end against the McNabb rink which helped them win.

There is only one undefeated rink at the present writing, that is the Jimmy Aird-Sewell combination.

The Stewart brothers of Macleod met their first defeat at the hands of the Kirkham rink. The Kirkham rink by the way is the first rink to enter the jewery class, winning three straight games Wednesday in the Grand Challenge, defeating Patterson on Tuesday, they mowed through the Stewart brothers at 3 p.m., the Wyatt rink from Claresholm at 9 p.m., and the Chalmers rink from Carmangay at 12 p.m., or rather finishing at 4.30 a.m., Thursday.

The Stewart brothers almost fell again when McMurdo had a 10 point lead on them but they buckled up and pulled a win.

The Aird-Sewell rink playing at the skating rink pretty near had their colors dipped by Wyatt of Claresholm. Wyatt was nine up at one stage of the game but Jimmy tied it up on the 12th head and tucked away a win on the 13th end.

The Inter-provincial was won by B.C. It is only fair to say that the crack Alberta rinks were so filled up with games that those who had been knocked out were chosen. This is really an alibi. but B.C. is aways pretty cockey. Alberta has only won this this competition once.

Thursday sees the real battle, the survival of the fittest. The jewelry class will be filled out pretty well by tonight.

The wins and losses from 3 p. m. Wednesday follow:

Graduate Nurse Finds "The Perfect Remedy"

"From my long experience as a professional nurse, I do not hesitate to say I consider TANLAC the most efficient and natural stomach medicine to be had. It is undoubtedly Nature's most perfect remedy," is the far-reaching statement given out for publication recently by Mrs. I. A. Borden, Seattle, Wash., a graduate of the National Temperance Hospital, of Chicago.

"I have used TANLAC often in treatment of my patients and my experience has been that for keeping the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels functioning properly, and for toning up the system in general, it has no equal.

Tells of Case

"About a year ago I had a lady patient who could not keep a thing on her stomach fifteen minutes, not even water. I prevailed on her to try TANLAC and after the sixth bottle she could eat absolutely anything she wanted without the slightest bad after effects.

"I had another patient who simply could not eat. I got him started on TANLAC and by the time he finished three bottles he was eating ravenously and had regained sufficient strength to return to work.

"These two instances are typical of my experience with TANLAC. My confidence in TANLAC is unlimited.

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 40 million bottles sold. Accept no substitute.

DEATH OVERTAKES JAMES BUCHANAN

When the news of the death of Mr. James "Scotty" Buchanan became known on Tuesday last there was not a citizen of Cranbrook who did not voice a genuine sorrow on learning of the passing of the proprietor of the Cross Keys hotel.

While it was generally known that the late Mr. Buchanan had been suffering from erysipelas for some time, not the closest of his friends dreamed that the veteran hotel man had all but reached the nd of the trail. "Scotty," as he was affectionately called, seldom complained. Indeed, up to within an hour of his death Mr. Buchanan was going about the house. When he announced his intention of lying down to read no one thought much of the matter. Reading in bed was a common practice of the deceased. Within fifteen minutes of the time Mr. Buchanan had retired, Richard McClure entered the room to find him dead on the bed. He was lying with his hands crossed upon his breast, his book by his side and his spectacles resting upon his nose, just as though he had dozed off when his eyes had tired of the printed page. An alarm was at once raised and the doctor called; but "Scotty," the friend of the lumberjack, was dead.

The late Jas. Buchanan was a resident of British Columbia of some 20 years' standing. He came to Cranbrook from Calgary to take a position in the employ of the P. Burns Meat Market company, in which employ he remained for several years prior to his going into the hotel business.

It is not positively known where the deceased first saw the light, although it is supposed that his birthplace was in the vicinity of Glasgow, Scotland. Certainly, he spent the greater part of his young manhood in that city as a butcher and a buyer of cattle. Mr. Buchanan's greatest pleasure was in meeting a brother Scot who knew the city on the banks of the Clyde. And if so happened that the latter also knew the many cattle markets of the old land, all the cattle gossip of three decades ago had to be retold before the chance acquaintance was allowed to depart.

B.C. INCOME TAX MAY BE DEDUCTED UNDER EXPENSES

British Columbia business will greet with relief the announcement from the Dominion income tax office that, in future, the amount of "personal property tax" paid to the provincial government will be allowed as an expense to be deducted.

"Where provincial income tax only is paid as in the case of individuals not in business," said Norman Lee, assistant income tax collector, "this is still disallowed but where a merchant pays 'personal property and income tax' the amount representing the personal property tax will be allowed, and only the excess, if any, representing income tax will be disallowed, as heretofore."

The above ruling will take effect with the filing of income tax returns for 1923. Forms for the filing of these returns are now available and may be completed and filed on or before April 30.

BUILDS UP SYSTEM; INCREASES STRENGTH

Numbers of people have now profited through the demonstrations of Dr. H. S. Thacher, in which he proved that it is necessary to keep the liver in condition if one expects to throw off ailments like those described above and really feel fine every day.

Gives Quick Relief

Here is why so many have gained lasting relief! When working properly your liver purifies your blood, every drop of which filters through your liver every fifteen minutes. Your liver also aids digestion and nourishment and prevents constipation. But, when your liver is clogged and sluggish, how can it do these three things as Nature intended? The result is you often wake up feeling dull and tired and frequently suffer from one or more symptoms such as gas or sour stomach after meals, faulty movement of the bowels, coated tongue, complexion poor and a general run-down, nervous and upset condition of your system. You catch cold easily and your system is too run down to throw off the cold.

Trial Guarantee

Get quick relief! Take just a spoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup after the next few meals. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. This vegetable syrup contains only ingredients that are known to the medical profession for their corrective and health-building properties. Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is pleasant to take, and you will be completely satisfied; otherwise, druggists are authorized to return the purchase price.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by Suddaby Drug and Book Store, Fernie, and by leading druggists in every city and town.

Get rid of constipation by internal cleanliness

THERE is no reason why you should suffer from constipation. Headaches, biliousness, sleepless nights, heaviness, are nature's warning that intestinal poisons are flooding your system. If allowed to continue, you may become a victim of serious organic disease.

Many Diseases Start from Clogged Intestines

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

THE new Game Board regulations, passed at the last session of the Legislature, which were expected to do much towards the conservation of fur in this province, are now in effect, and reports from game wardens show that the changes have resulted in improved conditions.

The board points out that British Columbia is the chief source of fur on the continent. There are 100,000 square miles of virgin territory where the sound of the rifle is rarely heard and where the fur-bearers require only reasonable protection to ensure a good "crop" for many decades to come. Every effort is being put forth to conserve this valuable industry, which produces several millions of dollars annually.

DISCUSSING narcotic and liquor problems before the Victoria Local Council of Women, Attorney General Manson warned mothers against the insidious campaign of the drug vendor, who found many victims among the girls and boys who indulge in too much dancing unchaperoned.

"It might surprise you to find out how many boys and girls are addicts," he asserted. "In Vancouver last year a notorious trafficker who had been arranging cocaine parties for boys and girls, with the assistance of Vancouver men, was convicted. Addicts are more to be pitied than punished. But as for those who traffic in the drug, I would add the lash to the sentence of conviction."

Dealing with the liquor question, Hon. Mr. Manson said that this was the most difficult problem of administration. The people had declared for government control, an dany government, no matter what its party, was bound to carry out the will of the electorate He declared that the task of handling the liquor question was enough to drive anyone insane and he appealed for cooperation of all in this undertaking.

YOU can't be hard and grasping and selfish and inconsiderate and conceited, and not have it show in your face. You can't lose your eyes in anger and bitterness, and not have them tell on you when you are not at your best behavior. You cannot tighten your lips in meanness, and not have mare than a hint of the devil within you. You cannot spend half your time frowning and not have a few permanent lines creep in.

A laugh a day keeps the wrinkles away. Only multiply that by a hundred. Beauty goes deeper than the skin. You can prove that to yourself in five minutes in front of the mirror.

Laughter, Love, Friendship and Sympathy, that is what keeps away the wrinkles and makes one beautiful, physically as well as personally and morally.

THE industry, courage and faith evidenced by the farmers of the West during the past three years are slowly bringing their reward. Improvement in agricultural conditions on the prairie continues — not as rapidly as desired or needed, nor as rapidly as deserved, but nevertheless it continues. The promise of the year has been fulfilled. The year 1924 comes with the promise of continued impravement in the material prosperity of the farmer, and the farmer continues to be the material and spiritual backbone of the nation.

COAL CREEK NOTES

The stork visited camp again on Saturday, depositing his bundle at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Parker of Mossissey Cottage.

The first of the series of interclub tournaments took place up here on Sunday ast, when the members of the Club entertained the Fernie G.W.V.A. Keen interest was displayed and a spirit of friendly rivalry was maintained throughout. Billiards, Cribbage, Dominoes, Whist, Seven Up and All Fours were the scheduled games. The visitors won the series with 245 points to their credit.

In the card of thanks for Mrs. Simpson published last week, we omitted to mention Gladstone Local Union and herein apologize.

The return of the wintery weather enabled our hockey players and fans to indulge in their pursuits on Wednesday. A keeny contested game between the Shamrocks and the Shieks was staged.

If the condition of the ice holds the replay of Od Stiffs vs. Tee Pee Bruisers will take place on Sunday; also the return game, Morning Glories vs. Take-a-Swats.

Thos. Beck was in camp on Wednesday night rustling for the 1500 club project.

Mrs. Hartley, of Cedar Valley, was visiting at the home of her son in Welsh camp on Sunday.

Fire calls for the various sections of the camp have been posted around the company's property.

The Club Hall has been engaged by the Fernie G.W.V.A. to hold a whist drive and dance on March 13. Full particulars will be posted later.

R. Fowler returned on Thursday from Drs Kelman's hospital. He reports splendid attention and treatment and desires to thank Drs. Kelman and Buckley and staff for services rendered.

A large number of Creekites attended the special mass meeting of Gladstone Local Union to hear District President Sherman's report on the Indianapois convention. Indignation ran high on the arbitrary action of the Compensation Board re Dr. Kelman's hospital.

Great credit is due the committee in charge of the skating rink for the spendid manner in which they attend to their various duties. A little more attention to the rules laid down on the part of the schoolboys would be greatly appreciated.

which netted us interest, $9.04.

The Educational work of the Chapter has been most faithfuly carried on, and has proved of great benefit to the city.

The Chapter presented to the Public schools for the fifth season, historical pictures and books as prizes for the highest standing in Canadian History.

In conclusion. may I say the members of the Chapter have been most faithful in assisting in all our undertakings by their co-operative loyalty, and their united action has resulted in a year of successful achievement.

We also desire to thank all others who have heped to make the year a successful one; especially Mr. Moffatt, who kindly audits our books, and the Fernie Free Press, which brings our work before the public.

I am pleased to be able to state that during the year the Mount Fernie Chapter raised the sum of $1097.10.

Al of which is respectfully submitted.

Agnes M. Gates, Secretary.

SEVEN YEARS OF TORTURE

Headaches and Indigestion Ended By "Fruit-a-tives"

The Marvellous Fruit Medicine

Like thousands and thousands of other sufferers, Mr. Albert Varner of Buckingham, P.Q., tried many remedies and went to doctors and specialists; but nothing did him any good.

Finally a friend advised him to try "Fruit-a-tives"—now he is well. As he says in a letter:

"For seven years, I suffered terribly from Headaches and Indigestion. I had belching gas, bitter stuff would come up in my mouth, often vomiting, and was terribly constipated. I took Fruit-a-tives and this grand fruit medicine made me well".

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or sent by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED CLUB NOW UNDER WAY

The Fifteen Hundred Club held a very successful meeting in the I. O. O. F. hall on Monday, Feb. 18. There was a good attendance and the first steps towards organization took place. The following were elected as directors: Dick Phillips, H. E. Douglas, Thos. Biggs, Jack McIntyre, M. Berigan; Thos. Beck, Sec.-Treas.

Bylaws are being prepared for the working of the new Club and as soon as those are ready another meeting will be called, so that they may be approved by the members. About one hundred and fifty have already signed up and more are coming in every day. Anyone wishing information should see Thos. Beck.

FERNIE GIRLS BEAT CRANBROOK AT BASKETBALL

Last Thursday evening Fernie came out on the big end of the score in a basketball game between the young ladies of Cranbrook and Fernie.

The first period was opened by heavy shooting by Cranbrook but no score was made by either side.

In the second period Fernie gathered two baskets to Cranbrook's one, leaving the score 4-2.

The third period was the reverse of the second, Cranbrook getting the goals, making a score of 6-

In the six minutes of overtime P. Patterson of Fernie got the winning basket, making the final score 8-6.

Referee: C. G. Mason.

by Alexandre Dumas

This story, which has been read by millions, and which will ever remain as a classic of adventure, love and romance, provides an excellent theme for a screen drama. It is possible through the scope of the motion picture camera to carry the audience to France, the locale of the story, and there depict in a faithful way the stirring adventures of the youth first known as Edmond Dantes. Monte Christo is a great picture. Don't Miss It.

The city council held their regular meeting Tuesday evening this week instead of Thursday owing to the Mayor being called to Kaslo on business in connection with the Home Bank.

According to figures given by J. M. Wardle, chief engineer of the Banff National Park, nearly 1600 American cars came into the park over the new Banff-Windermere highway during the period from June 30 to Nov. 23, and 3341 Canadian cars entered the park, with 15,500 passengers.

The Compensation Board threw a bombshell into the local doctors' controversy the other day by issuing an order that all compensation cases be treated at the Fernie hospital. Wm. Sherman and Thos. Uphill, M.P.P., left immediatey for the coast to take the matter up with the government.

The women of Mooseheart Legion held their monthly social and whist drive in Victoria Hall on Tuesday, Feb. 19, everyone having a good time. The winners for whist were as follows: Ladies, 1st Sister Cartlidge, 2nd Mrs. Jas. Whitehouse, booby Sister Quince. Gentlemen: 1st Bro. Vanbuskirk, 2nd Bro. Mitchell, booby Bro. Hebb.

The White Spruce Lumber Co., which recently went into liquidation, has issued a statement showing liabilities of approximately $380,000. No estimate of the possible assets has yet been made. A number of Fernie business men are heavy creditors. A meeting of the creditors is called for Friday, Feb. 29, in Fernie.

A special sitting of the Court of Revision for the purpose of revising the Provincial Voters List is called for Monday, April 7, at 10 a.m. If your name is not on the list you had better call at the court house, as this will be your last opportunity to register before an election is called. All the indications point toward an election being held this summer.

The dance given under the auspices of the Elks, the first effort of that organization in Ferne, was a huge success. It was a real novelty affair and the committee in charge provided a program for the evening which gave everybody a delightful time. The Banff orchestra provided the music for the occasion.

J. E. Underwood, Saskatoon; A. J. Creelman, Calgary, and W. K. Gwyer of Penticton, were in the city on Friday and Saturday last acting as an arbitration board in the settlement of the dispute between Dawson, the man who has had the contract for putting the water pipes under the Elk river, and the city of Fernie. They made their report to the council on Saturday evening, but as there were only three members in attendance the matter was laid over until a meeting to be held next Thursday evening. However, a settlement fairly satisfactory to the city seems to be in sight. A full report of the arbitration board will appear in our next issue.

Rev. Wm. Burns occupied the chair at the Rotary Club luncheon on Thursday in the absence of S. Herchmer. He created quite a lot of excitement and controversy among the members when he introduced the subject of excessive taxation and this subject will be thoroughly threshed out at a future meeting. The idea seems to be that our educational scheme for one thing is costing us too much money for what the public is getting out of it. An increase of 800 per cent in the cost in the past 20 years seems to be too much for the value of the product turned out. One Rotarian, who has employed stenographers for 20 years, said that he had never yet had one who could write an ordinary business letter and use good English. He thought that if the average school pupil was given a better training in reading, writing and arithmetic they would be abe to meet the problems of this world in a great deal better shape.

The girls of the United Church organized under the C.G.I.T. program, gave an entertainment last evening which was well patronized. The evening was taken up with musical numbers, addresses,etc., but the special feature was a demonstration of the work carried on by this organization, which aims at the four-fold development of the girls' life, Physical, Mental, Spiritual and Social. The Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist and Congregational churches of B.C. are united in the work of religious education, of which girls work in one phase. Organized groups of girls in these churches are holding entertainments this week throughout the province, to bring their organization before the public and to raise funds to support a permanent field secretary for girls' work. If other provincial groups do as well as the group in the United Church has done this object is accomplished.

THE MEN WE CALL LUCKY!

SOME men go through life spending money faster than they earn it. When Opportunity comes, they are unable to grasp it, and in their blindness call themselves unlucky.

The successful man looks ahead—systematically building up a good bank balance. Then when Opportunity comes, he is in a position to seize it—does so, and reaps his reward.

He is often called "lucky." It was not luck — it was Foresight.

DISTRICT FARMERS

The Conference of District Farmers' Institutes, which met at Cranbrook last week, has been and gone. It was the most alive and hopeful, as well as the best attended gathering of farmers, held in East Kootenay for many years.

Delegates were present from the following Institutes in District I: Windermere, Fernie, Cokato, Jaffray, Wardner, Baynes and Cranbrook, also Glenlily, up to the present included in District "G" but in future it is hoped to be included in this District, as similarity of conditions and ease of communication show to be wise. In addition to the delegates the Conference had the presence and very valuable help of the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Dr. Warnock, Mr. C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, the energetic Secretary of the Advisory Board of Farmers' Institutes, who is also the Vancouver Island representative on the Board; Mr. D. O. Bricker, the East Kootenay Member of Advisory Board; Mr. C. Good, the Department Poultry Instructor for Kooteany; Mr. R. G. Newton, Superintendent of Dominion Experimental Farm at Invermere; and Mr. A. L. Hay, the District Agriculturalist.

The first session was called to order at 2 p.m. Wednesday by A. B. Smith, as President of the local Farmers' Institute, and in addition to the delegates the council chamber was well filled with local farmers and remained so throughout every session. Mr. Smith was voted to the chair and Mr. Hay, Secretary of the meeting. The roll call was answered by the above Institutes in the persons of, in the order named: Messrs. Tompkins, Quail, Draper, Crow, Lawson, Barnard, Smith and Mott; Mr. Harper of Glenlily not arriving till the eastbound train that evening.

Messrs. Newton and Draper were made a resolutions committee and while they prepared the file of resolutions the chairman in a few words said he hoped that before adjournment, steps would be taken to form a permanent Central Institute as was done by the other Districts, instead of the present arrangement which with no executive fell to pieces after each annual gathering, when a formal organization would be able at any time to act on matters demanding attention rather than lay these over until the next annual, when it was often too late. As they came from the committee resolutions were dealt with, the representative of the Institute presenting the matter under discussion, being first asked to open the question with his seconder, each delegate then experssed himself and before a vote was taken the chair asked anyone in the audience who had intrest or information on the matter to take part briefly in the discussion. One resolution that provoked a lot of discussion before voted down was to provide for the widening of the guage of sleighs to the same width as wagons and cars; about half the speakers were very set in the idea that this change would be an advantage and as many or a few more as vehement that it would be the height of foolishness.

The remarks of one or two of the delegates on certain matters would have merited a verbatim report; especially Mr. Draper on Home Bank resolution, a copy of the one passed by Manitoba Farmers at Winnipeg recently. Mr. Draper presented a feeling picture of many aged people, himself included, quite or nearly past the age for any further active labor, who had lost their sole hope of a little comfort in their declining years, and placed strong emphasis on the fact that Sir Thomas White, although cognizant of the desperate state of this bank in 1916, had suppressed his knowledge and failed to act in the interests of Canada as a whole and the critical struggle we were then engaged in. On this account Mr. Draper presented the plea that if the wrecking of these people was permitted for the interests of the Dominion it was the duty of the Dominion to recoup the depositors and that in his view he felt this to be more creditable than allowing them to become a charge on the state, as many, he felt, were bound to be. His able exposition of his case was an affirmative for the resolution on a vote.

Resolutions were carried on railway fencing; those on the Kootenay Central and the Great Northern coming in for especially severe attention.

The poundage fees in Fernie were brought up but the chair ruled them out of the matters the conference could deal with, but stated he felt that a charge of ten dollars for impounding a beast was little short of confiscation, and he felt that a publicity campaign by the stockowners around Fernie ought to be sufficient to get such an outrageous fee cut down.

Questions of inspection of brands, illegal round up work on the range, scrub bulls, scrub stallions and the use of unrecorded brands were all brought up, on each of which the chair informed them that the remedy was in the hands of the sufferers but they must have the nerve to lay their complaints of such transgressions and a conviction or two would soon stop them. Dr. Warnock very emphatically stated that unregistered brands were being handled severely when complained of and he did not think any man should expect the burden of complaints to be a duty for his neighmor to assume but for himself; if stock improvement was to go on public sentiment in range matters had to be more strongly expressed.

Regarding the tuberculin testing of dairy cows, re which a resolution was on the agenda, Dr. Warnock informed the meeting that no power rested in the province in this matter except by consent of the owners or through the authority resting in the municipalities and their by-laws, and Boards of Health, and that therefore the present scope of work could not be extended. But he informed those present that the Federal authorities were preparing a Dominion wide campaign for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis by the quarantined zone system, and as British Columbia was the first and practically the only province to have attempted to help herself in this matter the work would be begun with Vancouver Island, to be the first zone to be cleaned up, that during work in any district each locality, each form and the district as a whole, would be isolated when found infected until in a condition to be called an accredited tuberculosis free section, when another would be taken up as fast as financial conditions permitted, that the work would be very drastic and thorough and it was expected would be inaugurated as soon as possible after the next Federal session, as estimates have been prepared to be placed in the appropriations for this purpose.

He also intimated that henceforth dairymen purchasing cows from outside the province without a clean test with them need expect no compensation from the B.C. department, when found diseased.

Local citizens brought up the matter of the pollution of Joseph Creek by the city sewerage works with a recounting of death and disease attributed thereto. The discussion was very general and heated, and the impossibility of preventing children and travellers from using the water being pointed out, the first because they cannot be made to understand the seriousness; the latter because no motoring tourist is likely to see the typhoid placards unless he stops just where one is placed. Those qualified to speak advised that this be brought to the Federal health authorities as being in control of natural streams and it was so ordered by the vote.

The question of importation of hardy varieties of fruit was discussed at length. Messrs. Same Johnson, Wm. Hamilton and the Chairman, all pointing out the great drawback fumigation works on East Kootenay as British Columbia nurseries do not carry the sorts that costly work by these three men and one or two others, has demonstrated to be absoutely essential here.

Those having tested the matter out showed that nursery stock from Dakota or Manitoba, by the time it travelled to Vancouver for fumigation, and back to the buyer in East Kootenay, carried more than its first cost, in carriage fees, in addition to duty if from Dakota, to which they asserted could be added the fact that the stock came in in a bad condition and in poor shape to survive our trying summers. The chair pointed out that he had been in almost yearly communication with the Department Officials for some way of overcoming this handicap, ever since his first visit to Victoria on behalf of the Farmers' Institute in 1915 until 1921, and so far had only succeeded in getting the horticulturists to consider himsef a pest. To queries as to small temporary plants, Dr. Warnock's reply was as the department's has always been, "that it was impracticable." Both Mr. Johnson and the Chairman pointed out that they had no fancy that East Kootenay would enter into competition with farther west points in commercial growing of tree fruits but the benefits of a proven success in the planting and growing of a fruit crop suited to every ranch for home use were pointed out; Mr. Johnson's success the last two years having demonstrated to a great many unbelievers that there is no longer room for doubt that on most farms in East Kootenay some location can be found where acting on the advice of Mr. S. Johnson, A. B. Smith or Jack Delmer, as to varieties, every farmer can grow both apples, plums, and raspberries to the full capacity of his family.

That this question is important here was evident, the discussion becoming quite warm. No recommendation was made by the Conference but we are informed by the chair that Dr. Warnock assured him that if the Central Institute executive could obtain from a limited number of nurseries located where the climatic conditions were as severe or more so than East Kootenay, a certificate of cleanliness in their stock and assurance that only the product of such nurseries, and no purchased stock, would be shipped, the Department would consider as favorably as possible the standing of the certificate and the authority granting it and if satisfied as to that and that no attempt would be made to exceed the limits of East Kootenay in importations they might relax the regulations to assist us, but the Institutes must assist the Department by confirming the bona fides of members using any permit thus granted; which we feel is a concession to our needs that will greatly assist at least, if it can be carried through.

The Colorado Potato Beetle was the subject of a resolution calling on the Department to be as watchful and energetic in measures to control it. Mr. A. L. Hay pointed out to the satisfaction of the Conference that the strongest action was intended this season, poison and instruction as to its application would be given and rigid inspection practiced, but the farmers and town lot growers themselves must be ready to inform the authorities as to any fields they found to be infested as it woud be impossible for the department to supervise this whole district unless assisted.

A resolution was passed asking that as far as possible steps be taken to secure the manufacture of logs within the province rather than the export.

Pointing out the burden accruing on rural schoos by reason of cettlers abandoning their holdings, the upkeep being thus augmented on those remaining, a resolution was passed asking that these abandoned lands having reverted to the government their proportion of school taxes continue to be paid towards the school support rather than by over-burdening the remaining owners, finally forcing them aso to leave.

Two resolutions from West Kootenay Central Institute were supported. One asking investigation of a new marketing system in operation in England. The other for the better financing of Central organization.

A resolution, wired in from Newgate, asked experiments on range lands, such as burnt over or overgrazed areas, to ascertain if some variety of grass could not be found that would successfuly occupy such areas to the exclusion of noxious weeds as well as to replace the native grasses and supply pasturage. Mr. Bricker stated that arrangements were already made by which at least one four acre area would be fenced and seeded to different sorts this spring in the Fernie district and if successful it woud be extended to other districts as a demonstration.

Road resolution and bridge resolution from Sand Creek and Cokato were not passed but ordered to be presented to the District Engineer with the recommendation of the Conference for investigation. All the delegates expressed the hope that outlying districts would receive as much consideration as possible from the Public Works Department.

Cranbrook's gopher control resolution was replied to by Dr. Warnock to the effect that the Department was intending to devote attention to it but not in the whollesale manner of 1922, as a lot of gophers were paid for that were miles from any crops they were capable of injuring, and a continuance of such work would break the government.

The next Conference was set for Cranbrook and Mr. Bricker was re-elected Advisory Board Member for 1924.

Resolutions passed covering the organization of a permanent Central for East Kootenay Institutes, briefly stated as follows:

The delegates present to form a provisional directorate, the executive being a president, vice-president, secretary and the Advisory Board Member ex-officio. A. B. Smith was voted president; G. D. Quail, vice-president, and A. L. Hay, temporary secretary.

The office to be placed in the District Agricultural office.

The provisional directors to be confirmed by their own locals or replaced. Each Institute to have one director, the unrepresented Institutes to be asked to come in. Glenlily, if agreeable to its members to be transferred from West Kootenay Central to East Kootenay, and the locals to pay into the Central a per capita for their membership of 10c each per annum.

It is hoped every local Institute will become a member; it will greatly strengthen the Advisory Board Member in his work for this district at the coast as well as showing appreciation of the concessions already obtained by Mr. Bricker and his predecessors in the past five years that the Advisory Board has realy functioned in behalf of farmers in B.C.

Copies of all resolutions and formal action on matters of interest will be submitted to all the locals for consideration at an early date and it is hoped will be approved.

Before closing the seesion. Mr. Bricker thanked the Conference for their confidence in him and expressed the appreciation of those present for the help of Mr. Hay and the trouble taken and helpful interest shown by Dr. Warnock and Mr. Whitney-Griffiths.

Oh, mammy FRY'S does taste so good when you're hungry!

Mothers! Just try this—let the children have a cup of delicious, warming and invigorating FRY'S Cocoa when they come home from school. It is such a "hungry time," and such a long wait from dinner to supper, whereas a cup of FRY'S is easily made and every drop is nourishment of the finest kind.

If your child is nervous, pale and not strong, you will find a regular afternoon cup of FRY'S a wonderful tonic food because it contains every element a child needs for growing. Of course, everyone likes FRY'S, its flavor is so delightful, and really, it is one of the most economical foods you can buy. Of ccurse, remember

SMELTER NEEDS OF B.C.

Unqualified support of the movement to establish a smelter on the southern B.C. coast to treat copper, gold, silver and zinc was expressed by Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, when he spoke to the members of the B.C. division, Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy at a dinner in the Hotel Vancouver, which concluded the institute's three day annual session.

"I have no hesitation in going on record in unqualified terms as supporting the object of the movement started by the enterprising press of Vancouver," said Mr. Sloan. "I believe the time is rapidly approaching when our own products must be treated and finished for the market within our own borders. This policy is imperative where it is economicaly sound."

Throughout an address of unusual optimism for the future of the mining industry in British Coumbia, Mr. Sloan maintained as the dominating note his belief that the time has arrived for B.C. to retain its mineral wealth for treatment at home.

"Without any ill feeling or disparagement for our friends to the south we may be depended upon to see that, in the future, the cities established by the minerals of B.C. shall be built in B.C.," he said, after relating the manner in which Spokane had been built from ore of the Slocan district of BC.

"In Vancouver the new spirit in regard to mining is in the air. It is surprising, but happily true, that in this section of the province, where such a large proportion of the population is centered, a better understanding of what mining and its associated industries may be made to mean to the province is developing. The people are beginning to realize the truth, which is that the mines department, because it has to do with the administration of matters relating to an industry without which B.C. would stagnate, is one of the most important in the government."

Referring to the question of a smelter for precious metas, the speaker said:

"I believe that a smelter will come to the coast. I am convinced that, as the industry develops, it will be found to be an imperative need. I am enthusiasticaly behind any effort aimed at the beginning of new industry in the province.

"When interviewed recently I stated that there were responsible parties already considering the matter. I pointed to the fact that there were two properties, one on the south and the other on the western coast of Vancouver island, which had ben deveoped to the point where it was possible to assert without doubt that arge bodies of economic copper bearing ore were avaiabe.

"I would not favor any proposal that the government should enter upon the enterprise. I do not think the people would wish its representatives to commit them to going into the smelter business. This industry is one that requires the close attention of highy sualified technical men, that must be marked by the closest cohesion between the mining branches, and that must be operated, on occasion, on the smallest possible of margins.

"It is something that lies within the province of private enterprise and which I am persuaded, private enterprise will take up as soon as conditions warrant. This is not to say that the government does not recognize that it has a duty to perform. That duty, as I conceive it, is to iontinue the guarantee of stable laws, to stimulate prospecting in every possible way, to eniourage the development of promising prospects so that the reserve of ore avaiable for the mtintenance of a smelter will be assured, and by fair dealing to convince capital of the certainty of receiving just and square treatment, always having in view the ultimate policy of conserving our resources for the benefit of our own people.

"I feel that I must say a good word in regard to the iron and steel industry, if only to emphasize the statement I made on the floor of the provincial legisature on the matter. I am anxious to see the industry started. We have extended the government bounty for an indefinite period and undertaken to enter into an agreement to pay up to $2,000,000 to any such industry or industries under this act. This bounty awaits any individuas, or group of individuals, who are prepared to prove their bona fides by providing the plant necessary to produce iron in the province.

"Experiments are to be carried on with B.C. ores furnished by the department of mines. Some tests are also to be made in a plant in Vancouver. I am hopeful that a plant will be established in the province for the production of pig iron and steel by this method. We are doing all in our power to encourage it.

"During the last session of the provincial legislature I moved a resolution bringing to the attention of the Dominion government, B.C.'s claim for consideration by way of the offering of a federal bounty on iron and steel produced in this province. This resolution was passed unanimously. I feel that we are justified in looking for favorable treatment from the Ottawa administration in view of the fact that the Dominion expended $12,000,000 through bounties which laid the foundation of the great iron and steel industry of eastern Canada.

"I hold it is difficult to say too much as to the promise of the mining industry of the province. It is true that the coal mining branch has been passing through trying times. Production on the coast and in the interior has fallen off because of the inroads of fuel oil competition. When the output begins to decline we will realize how dependent we are on the coal industry. Without it we cannot hope to progress industrially and all this talk of smelters can never have effect if we allow our coal industry to perish while we nourish a foreign and competing industry. However, I repeat that my optimism burns brighter than ever and that I am confident that mining in B.C. is on the threshhod of a period of exceptional progress and prosperity."

"MONTE CRISTO" WINS YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE

The name "Monte Cristo," despite its nineteenth century origin, is as easily recognized as are the names of our most expensive automobiles, or the soap that floats, or a popuar breakfast food. This is because millions have read the famous Alexandre Dumas novel. It is one of the most popular of the public library novels.

The William Fox production of that name, adapted from the story, therefore has an appeal that is universal. The dwellers of Manhattan and the residents of Waterloo, Iowa, alike will be interested in seeing this marvelous drama of love and adventure. It commences its local run at the Orpheum theatre next Wednesday.

Old people and young have read the book. Many who have not read it will do so after seeing the screen drama. It has been called a classic of adventure. The screen version is sufficiently true to the original story to please and thoroughly entertain the reader of the novel. The entire cast is capable and each actor is said to do justice to the role assigned him. It has, indeed, an all-star cast.

The production has been accorded a splendid reception in a number of the large cities and in many instances has broken all local theatrical records.

Why Ford Predominates

Ford Resources

The Ford is the product of a self-made institution which, over a period of years, has provided dependable transportation for all peoples.

Recognizing the value of Ford transportation, these peoples have purchased Ford products in such volume that the sale of Ford cars and trucks equals the sales of all other makes combined.

As a result, the resources of Ford of Canada are now over $20,000,000. These resources mean ability to buy the best material at a minimum price.

They mean the ability to organize each process of production, from the purchase of materials to the completion of the finished car, on such a basis that every non-essential operation is eliminated.

The economies thus accomplished are reflected in Ford prices which, always consistently low, are now the lowest in history.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor Free Press:

Dear Sir—I was pleased to see another letter from Mr. Draper last week, as I think he has as much right to have a say in the doctor question as a man that has not worked in the mines for a number of years and yet is working for the new doctors. There are a lot of people that are surprised at the way this same man has entered into this controversy, a man who should know the laws of the country from A to Z; also the rules of the U. M. W. of A. I don't know what his motive is in this but to my mind it is poor policy on his part to be encouraging imported doctors, and it would have been better had he told the medical committee and executive that they were breaking the law by trying to force the miners to have those doctors. I suppose if Mr. Draper had been working for the new doctors he would have had a "special privilege" to attend the miners, union meetings, the same as the man I have above mentioned. Regarding those men going to the coast to fight the Compensation Board. It seems as if the executive think more about the welfare of the new doctors than they do of their fellow men, as it must be taking a lot of money that our men have worked hard for. Of course, it was voted and carried and put on the books, but that does not say that the thing is right. I have been wondering lately if we have really not the true meaning of unionism. As I have always understood it, it is a number of men banded together to help men keep their individual rights but in this case it is taking their rights away. Some of the miners may think it is the easiest way out of the difficulty to be sitting down to this but if they do it this time no doubt there will be something else put across them another time by those same men. I remain, Yours respectfully,

A Miner's Wife.

RE DOCTOR QUESTION

The following letter is self-explanatory:

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 18, 1924.

Robert Draper, Esq., Fernie, B.C.:

Dear Sir—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 11th inst., and to say that no Union can compel you to pay doctor's fees for the support of any doctor unless you so desire. No employer can force you to do so unless that is a term of your employment.

I have the honor to be, Sir, Your obedient servant,

Deputy Attorney General.

A few motor cars have made their way in from the west but the roads are still very bad and are closed entirely after passing Michel.

On Saturday evening last a number of the old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Graham met in the city hall and as evidence of their appreciation presented them with a little token of their regard upon the eve of their departure for California. Dr. Bonnell, Mayor Henderson, J. L. McIntyre and several others made brief speeches expressing their sorrow at the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Graham.

Fernie citizens extend their deep sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. George Appleyard upon the death of their infant son, which sad event took place early Sunday morning. The child had been in perfect health the previous day, but early Sunday morning when the mother went to the child it was found dead, a blood vessel havinb burst in its head. The body was taken to Minneapolis for interment.

The members of Trinity Temple, No. 7, paid a surprise visit to the home of Brother and Sister Galloway on Wednesday evening. The object of the visit was to present Sister Galoway with P.C. and P.S. pins. Bro. Markland made the presentation and made a few suitable remarks, after which a most pleasant evening was spent in dancing, singing and games. Will members please note that the regular meeting will be held on Thursday, Feb. 28, at 7 p.m. sharp.

The little home on Chipman avenue where A. Gasparotto and his wife and children resided, was destroyed by fire about 6 o'clock on Saturday morning. Mrs. Gasparotto had been up early and given her husband his breakfast and he had gone to work. She had gone back to bed with the two small shildren, when she was suddenly awakened to find the whoe house in flames. She snatched the children up and they fled in their night clothes. The fire, which evidently started from a blow out from the stove, spread so rapidly that by the time the fire brigade arrived on the scene the building was practically destroyed. The house, which was the property of R. McGalley, was partly covered by insurance. The furniture also was covered by insurance.

Frank Rafaelo, of Kansas City, probably holds the record for spaghetti eating. At a banquet recently he ate 10,584 feet of Italian asparagus, pitching more than two miles of spaghetti in two hours and twenty four minutes. Fernie's champion, John Miscisco, will try to beat Rafaelo's record. L. Carosella has ordered a carload of spaghetti.

LUMBER CAMPS STRIKE APPEARS TO BE BROKEN

Supt. Wm. Carnill of the Alberta labor bureau, says he has reason to believe that the strike is over at the lumber camps at Cranbrook, as he received a wire on Tuesday morning saying that they needed no more men there, the camps being full. During the strike a large number of men were sent in from Alberta, and also large numbers from points in Saskatchewan.

No new representations have been made to Arnold George, head of the local immigration office, with regard to the labor troubles in the lumbering districts between Cranbrook and Golden in B.C., and reports unofficially received indicate that the situation created by I.W.W. agitators is gradually righting itself without much government interference.

Reports show that men are steadily returning to the jobs in the camps and that others are taking the places of those remaining on strike. Mr. George will make another trip into the territory affected within a short time. At present investigation into the records of the principal agitators is being carried on. Calgary Albertan.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of William King Simpson, aged 19 years and 3 months, killed at Coal Creek, Feb. 26, 1921.

A bitter grief, a shock severe.
We little knew death was so near.
Only those who've lost are able to tell

Three years have passed; our hearts still sore;
As time goes on we miss him more.
One of the dearest, one of the best,
We miss him most who loved him best.

SUDDABY'S

ANNUAL REPORT POLICE DEPT.

To the Chairman and Board of Police Commisioners of the City of Fernie, B.C.:

Gentlemen—I herewith beg to submit my second annual report, being for the year ending Dec. 31, 1923, with statistics of the work performed by this department during the year.

The total number of persons arrested was 97; the number of persons summoned 74, making a total of 171 cases for the year. Classification of the foregoing is as follows:

Assaults	13
Carrying offensive weapons	2
Damage to property	4
Deserted Wives Main. Act	1
Forest Act	2
Fradulently obtaining board and lodgings	2
Frequenting disorderly flouse	1
Govt. Liquor Act	85
Harboring vicious dog	1
Health By-law	1
Licensing By-law	4
Motor Vehicle Act	7
Obstructing police officer	1
Pound By-law	1
Theft	4
Vagrancy	8
Vag. disorderly conduct
Vag. creating a disturbance	22
Vag. disorderly conduct	7
Vag. support by gaming	3
Wounding a dog	1

Total—171.

Of the above total, 8 of the charges were withdrawn, and six charges were dismissed.

Fines collected for 1923 ..... $5415.50
Fines collected for 1922 .... $6,299.50

Property to the value of $482.00 was reported as having been stolen. Of this amount we recovered stolen property to the value of $371.00, leaving a balance of $111.00 worth of goods to be located.

All property reported to this department as having been lost was located and returned to the rightful owners.

During the year we conducted no less than 30 raids and as a result succeeded in securing convictions in each case. In the majority of raids we were making searches for evidence in support of illicit trafficing in liquor. Over half of the premises raided were private dwellings, and you will appreciate the great difficulty we had in dealing with places of this character. At no time have we used the services of liquor agents to assist this department in the search for liquor.

During the year just closed a greater amount of work has been necessary in connection with juveniles and dealing with domestic difficulties. By far the greater number of these matters were with the younger generation and, in my opinion, if any real good is to be accomplished we must start to properly educate the young and thereby remove to a large extent the inclination on their part to commit wrongful acts. In fact during the past year our efforts have been mostly centered in this direction and will continue to be, with the result, I trust, that the efforts of this department in this connection will to some extent at least prove beneficial.

Automobile accidents to the number of four were reported to this department during the year, only one of which, however, was of a serious nature.

We responded to 12 ambulance calls during the night and 6 day calls, during 1923.

Twenty-four prisoners served their sentences in the city gaol. We received 29 prisoners from the Provincial police and from the R.C.M.P., 9. Total meals served to prisoners for the year, 2272, for which the expenditure was $268.77, or an average cost of 11.9c. per meal.

The most outstanding feature in connection with the foregoing statistics, to which I wish to draw attention, is that there has been no really serious crime committed in the city during the year, and the second year has now passed without a case having to be sent to the Supreme Court.

I wish to commend the men who I have under me. They have given very valuable service for the past year and complete harmony exists in the department. This also applies with regard to our relations with all other police forces operating from within the city. We have had every assistance from both the Provincial Police and the R.C.M.P. and the feeling of reciprocation has been prevalent at all times.

CLARKSON DECLARES LOSSES SIX MILLION

Toronto, Feb. 26.—G. T. Clarkson, liquidator of the Home Bank, when examined this afternoon by W. J. Lee, K.C., counsel for Home Bank depositors, upon his affidavit as to the losses of the bank, declared at the close of the hearing that the losses would total $7,000,000.

Later he modified the statement and declared that they would reach $6,250,000 anyway exclusive of certain large accounts as to which information was not vouchsafed. These losses had been conservatively placed at $4,852,000 in Mr. Clarkson's affidavit.

ARBITRATION AWARD

Following is a copy of the Arbitration Board's award in connection with the dispute between Contractor Dawson and the City of Fernie re Elk River crossing:

We beg to submit the finding of the Board of Arbitration in the matter of a dispute between the Corporation of the City of Fernie and Fred J. Dawson, Contractor, relating to that piece of work across the Elk River, a distance of 648 feet, more or less, as defined on the profile submitted by the City Engineer.

We wish to most emphatically point out that in our opinion the specifications governing this Contract are very vague and indefinite, and we have experienced considerable difficulty in arriving at a definite conclusion.

We find that the City has not followed the usual procedure in either drafting this contract, or in having the work laid out properly on the ground and supervised by a competent engineer.

We venture to say that if this had been done there would have been no cause for dispute such as has arisen in this case. We also find that the Contractor has been delinquent in so far that he did not call for the proper establishment of a grade line, and further he did not insist upon the proper supervision which is usual in such cases.

On examining the profiles submitted by the City's engineer, Mr. Johnson, we find that the depth of the excavation through the bed of the river to be increased from an average depth of 6 to 7.64 feet, and our decision is that this would, to that extent constitute extra work, although we have agreed that the dry excavation was not down to grade, i.e., to an average depth of 6 feet.

We came to the decision that this was an ertra for the following reason: That even though, as before admitted, the section of the dry ditch was not down to grade the cost of excavation in the wet section is very considerably more than that for the dry section, therefore the council should not expect the contractor to excavte to a lower depth throughout the more expensive portion of the work, in order to make up an average of six feet.

We find that an award is due the contractor for the total amount of work performed, including extras. in the sum of $2061.04, but that a further allowance be made the Contractor of $600 for false work erected across the river only and providing that this is used at any future time by the City or by their future contractors in completing the work.

We further decide that the costs of the arbitration be borne equally by both parties.

In conclusion we wish to thank all parties interested for the facilities provided and courtesies shown during our investigation of what we may describe as a very difficult matter.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. K. Gwyer,
Chairman Board of Arbitration.
J. Underwood,
Member of Board nominated by the Corporation of the City of Fernie.
A. L. Creelman,
Member of Board nominated by the Contractor.

LOOKS LIKE COAL STRIKE

It now looks as though a coal strike is certain to occur this spring. The operators have indicated that there is no justification for the continuation of the present wage scale, which is the same as that obtaining during the war, while the miners are equally firm in their opposition to a reduction, as far as can be gathered.

The scale committee of District 18 U. M. W. of A. meets Monday in convention at Calagry, when Robt. Livett and Rod McDonald, who have been in attendance at the Jacksonville, Fla., conference between the operators and miners, will present the position of the two factions as indicated at that meeting. The joint conference between the miners and operators in this district is set for March 4 in Calgary.

"It is at the March 4 meeting that the question of a new agreement will become a real issue and until then it is impossible to make any safe predictions," a Lethbridge operator said this morning. "One thing is certain, we have got to get coal down to a level nearer to the level of wheat, which can only be done by a cut in the wage scale."

J. Sloan and W. Grant will represent the Lethbridge union at the scale convention. H. Ostlund, K.C., of this city, solicitor for District 18, will also be in attendance.

The whole mining situation in this province is decidedly nervous at the present time. The great problem is a lack of markets. This is causing a number of mines, both in the north and the south, to shut down temporarily at least. One man, close to the situation said today that the only hope of a permanent prosperity in the coal industry in the west is a reduction all along the line. "The operators must accept a cut in their profits. The railways must cut their rates, making it possibe for us to ship our coal to Ontario. Dealers must be willing to handle our coal at a lower figure, and manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers must sell their commodities cheaper. Then the miner will be ready to accede to a reduction," he declared. He claims that this would open up markets that would mean a steady run for all the mines in the province.

Locally, the most important development this week is the shutting down of No. 3, one of the Galt group. Workmen are now busy taking up the equipment and storing it. This dismantling process will consume about three weeks, and the mine will then be closed up. Robt. Livingstone, superintendent, states they are absorbing men as fast as possible at No. 6. In answer to a question, he replied that while the company had extensive coal property across the river, they had nothing in view now with respect to the opening up of a new mine. No. 3, it should be explained, is being abandoned because the property is worked out. It was opened up in 1894, and is one of the famous coal properties in Western Canada.

COMPROMISE IN DISPUTE

Calgary, Feb. 24.—A compromise was reached by officials of district No. 18 of the United Mine Workers of America and the workmen's compensation board of B.C. over the dispute between that body and the new doctors recently appointed in the Fernie field. This information was given out tonight by Wm. Sherman, president of district No. 18 on his return from Vancouver, where he had been representing the miners before the board.

Mr. Sherman stated the dispute had arisen over the organization of a hospital by the newly appointed doctors, the suggestion of the miners being that, as the doctor who had examined the hospital and condemned it was a partner of one of the doctors who were formerly the company doctors, the new doctors had been discriminated against.

The board agreed that it would specify what was needed for a hospital under the act, and in the meantime any patient from the Coal Creek mines would be taken care of at the Cranbrook hospital.

1925 SPIEL IN FERNIE

Taking advantage of the soft spell which put the ice out of commission from 3 o'clock until midnight, the curlers held the annual meeting at the Lethbridge Y.M.C.A. at 5 o'clock on Thursday last. The banquet was called off as most of the curlers wanted to go to the wrestling match, and the ice committee called on the draws starting at 12 p.m., Thursday, again at 3 a.m., to be followed with the further draws at 9 a.m. Friday.

The annual meeting was a success in that all questions and suggestions were given very careful and thorough discussion.

With Vice-President Kirkham in the chair, supported by Secretary S. Herchmer, of Fernie, the meeting opened with election of officers, resulting as follows:

President— J. S. Kirkham, Lethbridge.

Vice President — E. K. Stewart, Fernie.

The following were elected to the executive:

Vulcan, Mr. Spooner; Fernie, H. Brown; Bull River, W. W. Douglas; Cranbrook, W. F. Cameron; Blairmore, L. W. Clark; Pincher Creek, McMurdo; Carmangay, Jas. McNaughton; Coleman, McBurney; Lethbridge, M. Freeman; Taber, T. Patterson; Macleod, A. Young; Claresholm, R. E. Moffatt; Bow Island, J. W. Reid; Natal, John Little; Stavely, Mr. Crumley; Champion, B. Hummel; Kimberley, Mr. Montgomery.

There was much discussion about the inter-provincial event. It was felt that this event should receive more prominence than at present. It was decided with this end in view to hold the first draw in this event on the second day of the spiel, and all attempts made to have the very strongest rinks from each province compete.

The question of financing the spiel each year received careful consideration with the result that the following motion was adopted:

"Each club to be assessed 25c a member including clubs supporting prizes, which fee must be paid to the secretary before a rink from any club could enter."

The Pincher Creek club took the responsibility of providing the third prizes in the Macleod event. Mr. Cameron of Cranbrook assured the meeting that Kimberley would from now on also support one of the events if necessary, with third and fourth prizes.

As far as possible the plan of having no two rinks drawn against each other in the opening draws in any events will be followed. This is

The Old Timers' Association of Coleman is getting well under way and prospects are that it will soon be quite an active organization with a substantial membership. On Sunday afternoon the bylaw committee met at Mr. Unsworth's residence and compiled a set of bylaws, which means that this new organization has as its aim a plan that is highly commendable. A general meeting will be held on Sunday afternoon next when all Coleman people who were residents of this town at any time prior to Jan. 1, 1906, are invited to attend. —Coleman Journal.

The secretary was instructed to write letters of this association's sympathy to Mrs. Geo. Hogarth and Mrs. J. H. Robinson, who have suffered the loss of their husbands in the last year, both of whom were great curlers.

The Lethbridge executive regret very much that the decision to call off the banquet was found necessary. But curling comes first and the competitions had to be completed Saturday night.

Only one game was defaulted in the open events, and this caused so much comment that a subscription was immediately taken up and we believe Arthur Young of Macleod is to receive a beautiful open faced harsh ringing alarm clock. Arthur's rink slept peacefully through the 6 a.m. draw Wednesday morning. Sleeping during bonspiel week is deuced bad form. You have 51 other weeks to do your sleeping.

(By J.S.K.)

When the Fernie rinks spread their winnings out in the rotunda of the Aexandra hotel it looked as if somebody was opening a jewelry store. With four cups, the International, the Macleod, the Magrath and the Grand Chalenge, in the open events and the Liphardt cup—and the Grand Aggregate cup and no less than 24 little individual cups together with several second sets and third sets, we say it looked like a successful raid had been made.

Each of the four Fernie rinks won a cup.

E. K. Stewart takes the Grand Challenge. The other three cups in the open events are still undecided as these will have to be played down between Brown, Kastner and Herchmer rinks on their home ice.

"Scotty" Chalmers of Carmangay, taken the Trites-Wood trophy. This was a most popular win. Scotty is a most genial soul, the ace of good sports and a real curler.

Harvey Brown also won the Inter-Provincial, which we believe is for the second successive year.

As for the Lethbridge rinks the story is soon told. The Aird-Sewell combination playing short-handed the last day, slipped a little. They were semi-finalists in one event and finalists in the Grand Challenge. The only other Lethbridge rinks to show at all were both in the Grand Challenge, J. F. Simpson's rink taking third and J. S. Kirkham's rink was fourth.

Starting under amost ideal conditions th ebreak in the weather caused the three last days to be days of real misery. It was unfortunate, that as the events narrowed down. that the contests should develop into slugging matches, rather than skill.

The draws had to be cut down and the ice shortened, all of which is most unsatisfactory. With the weather for the last day uncertain. many of the strong outside rinks did not feel they could waste a day and went home. The Stewart boys of Macleod, the Clark rink of Blairmore, and the F. J. Stewart rink of Vulcan were all in the running for the finals.

Every winning rink should realize that continued winning means curling on six days of the week, and some consideration must be given to rinks who play four and five games a day. The withdrawal of these rinks before the final day was to be regretted. To give any of those rinks more games on Friday it meant six or more games for their opponents.

However, all things considered the spiel was a success owing to its number of entries and the number of outside points represented.

Again it has taught the curlers some lessons, among which are the following:

The draw committee on ice room should be supreme and consult nobody as to the draws except themselves. They should not be curling in the bonspiel themselves.

That no games shoud be in progress after 1 o'clock in the morning, or started before 8 o'clock any morning.

That no rink should be called upon to play more than four games in 24 hours.

That an entry list of over 32 rinks in five events needs 10 sheets of ice for the full six days.

That three hours per draw handles nicely giving a slight leeway so all draws can start on time.

That a change in the Inter-Provincial competition is necessary to make it a more interesting event.

That the Consolation (Cameron cup) draws should commence to operate by the morning of the fourth day at least.

That the bonspiel must be supported by all clubs represented financially on a pro-rata of membership basis, if not in full, at least to a larger extent as it is an expensive proposition for a home club to operate.

That January should be benspiel month.

That all entries should be in the hands of the home club by Saturday afternoon preceding the opening day.

That score cards shuold be used and returned after each game to the ice room.

That bonspiel week is for curling and outside attractions should not be allowed to interfere.

That the annual meeting and banquet shoud be held on the Wednesday of the bonspiel week.

That if at all possible competitions should be finished on the bonspiel ice so that results will all be known on Saturday night.

Here and There

Although the Canadian Pacific Railway has yet issued no forecast of construction contemplated for 1924, the fact that it has ordered 50,000 tons of steel from the Algoma Steel Company, of Sault Ste. Marie, seems to indicate that its program will be extensive.

According to a statement recently made by the Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines for the Province of Ontario, 85 per cent of the world's nickel supply is being taken out in the vicinity of Sudbury, where there is an inexhaustible supply of this metal.

Alberta's butter production last year was 18,500,000 pounds, or 2,000,000 pounds more than in 1922, according to reports presented at the annual meeting of the Alberta Dairymen's Association. It was not so long ago that Alberta was using butter imported from New Zealand.

The year 1923 was a favorable one in the building and construction activities of Canada, and returns show an advance of about 10 per cent. In 1922 the total expenditures in this regard were $315,000,000, and in 1923 $345,000,000, an increase of $30,000,000.

Exports of pulpwood from Canada for the year 1923 amounted to 1,384,230 cords, compared with 1,011,332 for 1922, an increase of 372,898 cords or 35 per cent. The 1923 figures are equivalent to about 900,000 tons of newsprint, the amount which can be manufactured from that amount of wood.

C. E. E. Ussher, General Passenger Traffic Manager, and E. J. Hebert, First Assistant General Passenger Agent, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, have been presented with medals by the French Government, in recognition of their services to the French Exhibition train in Canada in 1921. The medals take the form of tablets on small stands.

Attention has been drawn once more by airship experts in London, England, to the fact that the only known supply of helium gas in the British Empire exists in the Province of Alberta, that 10,000,000 feet of this gas is going to waste annually in this province and that the possibility of establishing an airship base at some future date in Alberta is being discussed.

Canada's fisheries production during 1923 is estimated to be worth $40,000,000. At the beginning of the year it was not thought that anything like this mark would be reached, for the Fordney tariff had cut deeply into exports to the United States. But as the year wore on the demand and prices generally improved, thus giving fishermen along the Atlantic coast especially a much better price.

Official figures recently issued show that the Dominion of Canada is the greatest single contributor to the wheat supply of the world. She stands second only to the United States in automobile exports. Her flour exports are far ahead of the palmiest war years and are rapidly gaining in the foreign markets. Canada's mineral, forest, agricultural and fisheries industries are now valued at $2,420,000,000, or $252,000,000 higher than a year ago.

British immigration during the nine months ended December, totalled 64,127, compared with 28,525 in the corresponding period of the previous year, an increase of 125 per cent. Immigration from the United States was 17,282, compared with 18,982, a decrease of nine per cent. Total immigration for the nine-month period of 1923 was 124,680, compared with 60,247 in the same period in the previous year, an increase of 107 per cent.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has received from Boorings, Willis, Faber & Company, 2,152.10 pounds sterling for distribution to the officers and crew of the steamship "Empress of Australia" for saving their ship and for salvaging during the Japanese earthquake. For the purpose of purchasing a memento to be presented to Captain Samuel Robinson, C.B.E., R.N.R., then commander of the "Empress of Australia" and now commander of the "Empress of Canada" on her world cruise, 210 pounds sterling have been retained from the above amount. Plans are being made to honor the captain when the "Empress of Canada" reaches Yokohama next May, the Japanese government participating in the ceremonies.

Declaring that the importation of cheap field grown products from the United States was driving many of their number out of business, Ontario fruit and vegetable growers are petitioning the Federal government to impose a heavy luxury tax of 10 per cent in addition to present tariff levies on imported vegetables and fruits.

DEPOSITORS THINK PROBE SHOWS THEY WON

Toronto, Feb. 26.—On behalf of the depositors' committee of the Home Bank, I. E. Weldon today issued the following statement:

"While they cannot speak for the committee as a whole as to the policy adopted by the government, the members of the committee in Toronto consider that the action of the government in appointing a royal commission is a recognition of the fact that the depositors' committee have made out a prima facie case, and if their allegations are proved the depositors will be entitled to relief.

"They call attention to the fact that under the order in council the scope of the investigation is limited to the grounds raised by their petition, and for this reason they believe that there should be no delay, and that a report should be made by the commission early in the present session."

REASONS FOR SIGNIFICANCE OF "THE FIGHTING BLADE"

Our own was for independence, our revolution against King George III. of England, is undoubtedly the most significant period of our history. It marked the birth of our republic. A like period in English history is that which marked the birth of freedom, of representative government for the British, the period in which "The Fighting Blade," a First National picture, starring Richard Barthelmess, and which the Orpheum theatre will present next week, commencing Wednesday, is laid. The picture is for that reason significant. Again, "The Fighting Blade" is the only story of the Cromwellian era which has ever been filmed. Incidentally, the producers have taken no liberties in matters of detail and the student of history will find no anachronisms in the production. The settings, the costuming, the furnishing, the manners and customs were reproduced only after the most thorough and diligent research had been undertaken. Another reason for the significance of the picture.

Oliver Cromwell was leader of the Parliamentary Party, which chafed at their lack of voice in government. Charles I. was king. He disdained the Parliamentarians and vested power in the Cavalier Party, as the lords, or royalists, were known. Cromwell led a revolution and, from 1642 through 1649, civil war was waged in England, ending with the execution of Charles I. Four years later Cromwell was made Lord Protector of England. And he established the foundations for the present popular government.

"The Fighting Blade" depicts one of the most dramatic episodes of the historic conflict, reciting the expoits and the romance of the valorous Kerstenbroock (played by Richard Barthelmess), a French soldier of fortune who gained fame as the most deadly duelist in all Europe and who by circumstances was drawn to the people's side in their fight for the right to govern themseves, and who paved the way for Cromwell's success. The picture unfolds a story which, even without its historic background would be a tremendously fascinating entertainment. In addition to the star the cast includes Dorothy Mackaill, Frederick Burton, Morgan Wallace, Lee Baker, Bradley Barker, Stuart Sage, Allyn King and others —a sterling cast in an unusually worthy and worthwhile picture.

KIDDIES' MENU ON NATIONAL TRAINS

WHEN little Folk a-travelling go
There's one important thing to know
About a dining car:—
The Line whose printed menus tell
What hungry girls and boys love well,
AND THAT'S THE C.N.R.!

We find the most wonderful things to eat,
And what makes everything twice worth while
Is to have it served in the "National Style."

THIS is not a page out of any ordinary nursery rhyme book, but is the front and back cover of the Canadian National Railway's new menu for children, which is now in use on all dining cars on the system. No more need the mother travelling with little ones dread the ordeal of trying to choose suitable meals for the children, with two pages of combination menus for breakfast, dinner and tea made up of the most nourishing and appetizing foods obtainable at prices which are in accord with the size of the small patrons who enjoy the meals.

The Canadian National is one of the first railways to cater in this way to the young travelling public and in future each visit to the dining car will be looked forward to by the little folk with great pleasure if only for the opportunity of seeing again the "little picture book" from which they may choose what they will have to eat. Eight pages of gaily colored pictures and funny little verses combine to make a most delightful story to pass the time while the waiter is getting the order.

So attractive is the "Menu for the Little Folk" and so much enjoyed by children since its introduction on the National trains, that numerous appreciations have come into the office of the superintendent of dining cars, Mr. Walter Pratt, who feels that he is doing a service, not only to the parents, but to many children who will be taken along on the very next trip we make, because travelling with kiddies is certainly no hardship now and it is a shame to deprive them of all the fun they could get out of their own personal dining car service such as this," to put it in the words of one father and mother who travelled west the "National Way" just a few days ago.

In an endeavor to make the dining car service the greatest possible benefit to the travelling public, Mr. Pratt has recently inaugurated a lunch counter service in Colonist cars between Winnipeg and Toronto. These are on trial at present and if they meet with the approval of the public will be placed on all transcontinental trains in the service. Judging from the patronage of the first lunch counter Colonist car sent out, the convenience is much appreciated.

RUB BABY'S COLD AWAY WITH VICKS

REGINA MOTHER HAS USED IT FOR FIVE YEARS

Treat one cold with Vicks VapoRub, and, as in the case reported below, you will undoubtedly adopt this external method for all the cold troubles of the family.

When the little ones come in wet and sniffling, just apply Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a flannel cloth. Repeat at bedtime.

Vicks acts like a liniment or plaster. In addition, its ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

The child is usually better next morning and the bad after effects of internal dosing are avoided. Just as good, of course, for adults.

Mrs. Earl Harper, 1523 Victoria Avenue, Regina, Sask., writes: "I have used Vicks VapoRub for my children's coughs and colds for five years and have found no other ointment that will equal it. I have used it in pneumonia and also for sore throat and to loosen colds in the head. Vicks is the best."

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

NEIGHBORHOOD ROWS

(By Walt Mason)

I said, "Ods Bones," to Gossip Jones, "your hens destroy my lawn; they scratch the land to beat the band, they're always camped thereon. They're locoed fowls, their clucks and howls destroy my midday snooze; now put in pens your tinhorn hens, or some of them you'll lose. I've bought a gun that shoots a ton of shinglenails and shot, and I will slay your hens today if they come on my lot." "By cripes," quoth he, "it was your bee that stung my little niece, and now I go in grief and woe to summon the police. Your cheap john bees go where they please and sting whom they elect; my niece's beak is now a freak, her beauty has been wrecked. My hens may scratch a garden patch where worthless milkweed grows, my hens may sing, but they don't sting a lovely lady's nose. You make me faint with your complaint, your wrath gives me a pain; I bounce a hock upon your block, to show you my disdain." "My bees don't spoil your grassy soil," I cried, in angry tones; "my bees don't squawk around the block and wake you, Gossip Jones. Your are not fair you do not care for neighbors' ills or woes, and so, poor hick, I throw this brick and hope it bursts your nose." So rows begin and 'tis a sin how largely they expand, and lives grow sour and bleak and dour, that might be sweet and grand.

GEORGE RAMBLES

U.S., Febrey 14.

Mr. Editur, dere sir—i are down here at a place called Priest River (pronounced Priest River, the G being silent as in fish) and thot i would drop you the odd line so as you would know i are not in jail yet, but i still have hopes.

i left Fernie last Sunday, and i had quite a lot of trouble getting reddy, for i had a awful headache, a|c of me eating something that didn't set well on my stomich. But finelly i had both suits of underwear packed in 1 grip, and my shirt in anuther, and i high-tailed it to the deepo.

Well, sir, Mr. Editur, i was supprised to see so many fernie gurls at the deepo, and i sez to myself, i sez, ha ha, at last when it is too late, some of them realize what they are going to miss, and i started to feel quite swelled up, but just then i see that they was just saying goobye to the Cranbrook basket ball teem, and i didn't feel so cocky then.

The trip to the bounderry was very monotous, the only excitement being when i went into the diner and eat one of them lunches which the c.p.r. gives away at about $1.75 per give.

i was awful scared the customary offiser would find the throat varnish, which i had hid some among my lingerie, but i told him that one about the secret numbers of the ku klux klan (i bet that gets a laff) and he snickered so much he didn't serch me very close, but he caught some poor sucker with a pint, and fined him $5 and took the bottul.

When the train got started again i and this sucker was sitting in the smoke room and i sez: "too bad they got yours, i got by with mine fine." Well, sir, Mr. Editur, he wouldn't believe me, so i had to show him a bottul, and then he wouldn't believe it was whiskey until i let him taste it, and after i seen what he took for a taste, i thought i had better take some myself before he took a drink, and that durned bottul was gone in no time. But from then on the scenery was beautiful.

i had a nice time in Spokane. i went to a dance and danced with a awful nice gurl, but i had a hard job to get her to talk. i sez, "isn't the weather terrible." She sez, "yes." i sez, "do you come here very often." She sez, "No." i sez, "do you think it will ever stop raining?" She sez, "it always has." i sez, "do you likt to ride horseback?" She sez, "yes." i sez, "when you was learning to ride did it used to make your head ache." She sez, no, just the opposite." i sez, "isn't this a wonderful floor." She sez, "do you think so?" i sez "yes." Well, she sez, "for god's sake dance on it once in a while," and she walked right away from me, so i left her. No gurl can get away with that stuff on me. But there was one good thing about that dance hall. There was no old hens setting around, doing nothing but take up territory and talk scandel.

The next day i see a guy i know on the corner of Sprague and Wall, and i sez, "Hello, Henry, i sez, i just seen your wife." "How did you like her new gold teeth," hesez. "i couldn't see them," i sez, "she had hermouth shut." "That wasn't my wife," sez he. i took in a picture show in the p.m. and i was lucky. i found three good pieces of gum under the seat. That night the hotel bootlegger stopped in at my room, and i sez, "Have you got any of that hootch with 3 stars on it?" "No," sez he, "mine all has moon on it."

The next day i am on a street car and they was two farmers sitting in front of me and they was good. One sez to the other, he sez, "Hiram, "where is that cow you were going to sell me for 11 dollars?" "Why," he sez, "that cow got well again." And then he starts in to tell Jed about his goat, which had stuck his nose into a buzz-saw and cut his nose right off. "Well," he sez, "and how did he smell?" "Pretty dern strong," sez Hiram.

They were telling in Spokane about a young feller there who was stuck on a frail whose old man had lots of jack. This guy braces the old man and tells him he wants to marry his daughter. "Well," says the old boy, "how much money do you earn a week." "I earn fifteen dollars," sez the youth. The old man laughed at him. "Why," he sez, "that wouldn't keep my daughter in handkerchiefs." "Well," the kid sez, "if she's got that kind of a nose i don't want her anyway."

Well, Mr. Editur, sir, i guess that's all for this time. i would tell you lots mare, but what's the use, you wouldn't believe haff of it. Yours in spite of all. F.O.B.

WAKE UP FRESH AND VIGOROUS AFTER USING VEGETABLE SYRUP

There are lots of people here who are neither very well nor very sick, but who never really feel their best at this time of the year. And the trouble, in the majority of cases, is due to the sluggishness of one vital organ.

This organ is your liver! When working properly it aids digestion, prevents constipation and purifies the blood. When it is clogged up with impurities, it cannot do these three things until it is properly cleansed and toned. Consequently you often wake up mornings feeling dull and tired, tongue coated, complexion sallow, digestion poor—often constipated, nervous and upset. You catch cold easily and your system is too run down to throw off these ailments. You continue to feel badly until your liver has been properly cleansed and toned.

Get quick relief! Take just a spoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup after the next few meals. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. This vegetable syrup contains only ingredients that are known to the medical profession for their corrective and health-building properties. It is pleasant to take, and you will be completely satisfied; otherwise druggists will return the small cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by Suddaby Drug and Book Store, Fernie, and by leading druggists in every city and town.

A school of baking is to be established in connection with the Ontario Agricultural College. Good mixers can demonstrate how to put the dough in doughnuts.

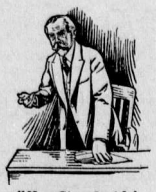
Laxatives do not overcome constipation



More Important is Internal Cleanliness

LAXATIVES and cathartics provide temporary relief only, at the expense of permanent injury. In time, says an eminent physician, an almost incalculable amount of harm is done by the use of pills, salts, mineral waters, castor oil and the like.

Some laxatives, according to an intestinal specialist, contain poisons which affect the stomach and intestines, resulting in grave disorders. Certain laxatives are a direct cause of piles.

Physicians Advise Lubrication for Internal Cleanliness

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

"Keep Clean Inside" say Physicians

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

MANY a citizen who brags about his own community speaks from faith rather than knowledge. A local man suggests it would be a great idea to "know Fernie," and he has asked us to print a few questions. Here they are: Study them, post yourself on them, and the next time you go to boost the town your proud of, you'll be in a position to back up the argument. Here are the questions: What is the population? How did the site of the town happen to be selected? How did it get its name? What is the birth rate? What is the death rate? Do most of the citizens own their own homes? What per cent are renters? What about our water? Is the supply adequate to meet all emergencies, and is the water pure? Is there proper ventilation and light in our school houses in this community? What kind of schools have we? Are they receiving the co-operation of our citizens that they deserve? What have we here to offer the man with a family who is seeking a permanent home?

THE autimobile is an instrument of death if carelessly driven. Run by a drunken driver it is a potential juggernaut. Everything possible should be done to prevent persons under the influence of liquor from running cars, and those who disregard the laws in this respect should be jailed and their licenses taken away forthwith. The risk to the public is too great to permit driving by persons who because of liquor are not in full possession of their faculties.

THE VALUE OF CALLING

The chief value in personal calls upon women in their homes is not what it was expected to be. We wanted to know what they think of "Made - in - British - Columbia" products. What we learn is that, generally speaking, local food products are of finer quaity than brands shipped in from outside. So far, four in every five homes where canned milk is used, they prefer Pacific.

HOME BANK COMMISSION

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The personnel of the commission which will investigate the recent failure of the Home Bank has not been decided tonight. By an order in council issued today the governmen trules that under the Public Inquiries act a probe will be conducted into the status of the Home Bank in the years 1915, 1916 and 1918, when the minister of finance is said to have failed to recognize representations made to him by responsible citizens concerning the financial standing of the bank.

Representations have been made by a committee of depositors in the Home Bank that if the government of the day had availed itself of its right to search into the assets and conduct of the Home Bank in 1915, 1916 or 1918 continued operation as a chartered bank would probably have been forbidden. The shareholders contend that suspension of the bank at that time would have resulted in a winding up with very little loss to depositors.

But, permitted to operate until August, 1923, the Home Bank piled up responsibilities to its depositors which it would not face on its suspension at that date, the shareholders' petition says.

On the assumption that the government of the day refrained from questioning the solvency of the Home Bank because such interference might have undermined public confidence during war time the shareholders claim that the country as a whole should bear the loss rather than the depositors of the Home Bank.

The petition of the depositors was backed by a committee representing all depositors and shareholders of the Home Bank in Canada headed by W. J. H. Lee of Toronto, which recently waited on the cabinet in Ottawa to urge that the Dominion government introduce into parliament spenial legislation to indemnify depositors against loss and shareholders against the double indemnity which they are threatened with.

The government has, therefore, ordered a public inquiry into the bank's failure under the order in council which states that the government does not necessarily recognize the shareholders' and depositors' claims. The date of the inquiry has not been fixed.

Receipts—
Trade Licenses	$5155.00
Dog Licenses	436.50
Fines (Police Court)	5415.50
Road Tax	912.00
Poll Tax	2495.00
Keep Prov. Prisoners	197.85
	$14,888.85

We have endeavored throughout the year to keep a very close inspection upon all licensed places. The transients were checked up at every opportunity. In this particular we show an increase over last year of $555.00.

The same difficulty has been our experience in the collection of licenses as was the case which I reported last year. Most of the transients operate under the license of some storekeeper in the city. In this way the city loses a great many license fees which to my mind should be collectable.

Sanitation and Health—

A certain amount of good work has been done in this connection, but to my mind we should extend our efforts so as to clean up the outskirts of the city as well. On the whole, in a fair measure, the sanitary condition of the city is good.

Inspections of dairies were carried out by the Medical Health Officer; we acted under his advice when orders had to be carried out. Milk tests were taken several times during the year and we have kept complete records of all these returns.

Truancy: Twenty-four cases of truancy were reported to the department and in most of the cases we found the children had been kept at home by the parents for some legitimate cause or another.

In conclusion I wish to thank your honorable Board for the deep interest taken in the work of the department during the year 1923, and for the valuable assistance and the many courtesies shown me at all times.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
Chas. Anderson, Chief of Police.

LIMBS AND BODY ALL SWOLLEN

"Fruit-a-tives" Relieved Both Dropsy and Sick Kidneys

The Wonder of Fruit Medicine

Those who know they have Kidney Trouble—who suffer with pain in the back—who are up frequently at night—will welcome the news that "Fruit-a-tives", the wonderful medicine made from fruit juices and tonics, will positively relieve Kidney and Bladder Troubles—as proven by this letter.

"Our little girl had Kidney Trouble and Dropsy—her limbs and body were all swollen. We decided to try "Fruit-a-tives". In a short time, the swelling went down. Now, she is the healthiest one of the family".

COAL CREEK NOTES

In spite of the unsatisfactory condition of the ice at the local rink, the Old Stiffs met the Tee Pee Bruisers in the replay game on Sunday last. Referee Bob Johnstone handled the game in a creditable manner. Owing to the soft weather the ice took on the appearance of a ploughed field before the game finished. The Bruisers proved too much for the Old Stoffs, winning by 5 goals to 1.

Apropos of the above game the Old Stiffs have now challenged the Bruisers to a football game as follows: The Old Stiffs challenge the Tee PePe Bruisers to a game of football as soon as the football field is available.—Skinney Atherton, Manager. Acceptance: Whereas such signal success attended the efforts of the Tee Pee Bruisers in the game of hockey with the Old Stiffs, and whereas the Old Stiffs have signified a desire to meet the Tee Pee Bruisers in a game of football, therefore be it known that we accept the said challenge and will proceed to clean up on the Old Stiffs at the earliest opportunity, under the captaincy of Pete Nolan, through whose inspiring leadership we won such a splendid victory over the said Old Stiffs at hockey on Feb. 14. — I said it, Ed. Grott, Manager; He did it, K. Jack, Secretary.

The examination for proficiency in Home Nursing scheduled for Sunday last was postponed owing to the inability of Dr. Kelman of Fernie to attend.

Dr. Buckley paid a professional visit to camp on Thursday.

The decision of the Compensation Board relegating all accident cases from Coal Creek mines to Cranbrook hospital is the main topic of conversation these days.

A telegram was received on Tuesday morning by Pete Gaskell notifying them of the very serious illness of their daughter Annie, who, with her husband resides at Ladysmith. Immediately following another telegram arrived to say she had passed away. Mr. and Mrs. Gaskell and family left on Wednesday for Ladysmith. The deceased lady was well known in this camp, residing here for a number of years. She was a prominent worker at the Methodist church and Sunday school. The sympathy of the residents is extended to the bereaved.

Three accidents took place in the mines here on Tuesday. Angelo Gigliotti was brought out of 1 East mine having sustained injuries to the plevis by being crushed between a car and a post. John Mogielka received injuries to his foot in No. 3 mine, a lump of coal falling on it. John Payne stuck the point of his pick in his eye in 1 South mine.

Joe Brown has arrived back in camp after his ramblings in various parts of Canada and the U.S.

The Bachelor Boys and Girls held a successful dance in the Club Hall last night.

THE P. G. E. MUDDLE

Vancouver, Feb. 27.— Withdrawal of L. G. McPhillips, K.C., senior counsel for the Provincial party, from the proceedings, an adjournment of the hearings until March 6, and the categorical denial by Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, who voluntarily took the stand, that he had received $50,000, or any other sum for political purposes, as alleged, featured today's sessions of the royal commission on P.G.E. railway affairs.

When Mr. McPhillips dramatically walked out of the commission chamber, the sections of the inquiry relating to the alleged payment of $50,000 to W. J. Bowser, Conservative leader, and Mr. Sloan came to an end.

It was announced that A. H. McNeill, K.C., will continue at a later date, to act as counsel for the Provincial party in the one remaining charge, that of neglect and over-expenditure in the later construction of the P.G.E. by the Northern Construction Co. since 1918.

This phase of the inquiry may last for several weeks as there are many witnesses on both sides to be examined.

Mr. McPhillips and other counsel for the Provincial party have claimed all along that the documentwhich gave the commissioner his instructions was much too narrow to cover all the charges made. They had hoped to inquire generally into campaign funds, and asserted that their petition clearly asked this. Mr. Justice Galliher, however, held down the question to whether Mr. Bowser or Mr. Sloan got $50,000 each, or any other sum.

"You have been absolutely fair, but I disagree with you in making that ruling," said Mr. McPhillips to his lordship, just before he packed his papers.

Commissioner Galliher said he wanted to correct a false impression. He felt that certain definite charges had been made that Mr. Bowser was named as having received $50,000 through the Union bank, and he, the commissioner, felt that counsel for the provincial party should call at least one or two witnesses before Mr. Bowser was called.

Dr. J. Ewart Gee, Secretary of the Fernie Boy Scouts Association, has been advised by the Provincial Secretary that the Commissioner for B.C., J. Ross Sutherland, who is at present undergoing special training in Boy Scout work at Ottawa, will visit Fernie about the middle of March to inspect the local troop. He will also address a public meeting of Fernie citizens later in the evening and will outline the work of organization in Canada. The exact date of Mr. Sutherland's arrival will be announced in these columns next week and also by posters. Watch for the date.

Peter H. Ross, of Calgary, who says he is a member of the firm of the Alberta & B.C. Hay and Grain Co., was arrested in Nelson a few days ago and brought up for trial in Fernie on the 25th before Magistrate Stenson, charged with obtaining money under false pretences. It seems that for several weeks the accused has been going along the Crow and having drafts discounted in the different towns upon his firm. The firm repudiated the drafts and the merchants who endorsed them were compelled to settle. The magistrate heard the evidence and he was committed for trial. The accused elected for a speedy trial and the case will come up for trial on April 12.

CHURCH'S DUTY TO DISEASE

It is not the duty of the Church to apply its means of restoration to no higher end than the recovery of bodly health, reports the Church of England Committee on Spiritual Healing, and no "sick person must look to a clergyman to do what is a physician's or surgeon's work to do." However, it is not intended to convey that the clergyman has no part to play in healing, for the committee recognizes the duty of the Church to combat disease, and declares that it has a certain field in which it can act properly and advantageously.

The place and value of spiritual healing have been studied for three years by the committee, which was appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury at the end of the Lambeth Conference in 1920, when it was decided that the Anglican Church "ought to take more account of the recent growth of knowledge about the power of spirit over the mind and body." The Bishop of Oxford was appointed chairman of the committee, and its other members include the Bishops of St. Albans and Liverpool, and several well known physicians and members of the clergy. They heard evidence on behalf of healing by faith, the laying on of hands, and the blessing of the sick, and considered the relation of these practices to the work and practices of the Anglican Church. The report, as it is summarized in the New York press, recommends in effect, that methods hitherto confined to the Church of Christ Scientist, roto psycchoanalysts, should be established as part of the Anglican practice, with this distinction, that, while the majority of the faith-healing cults disdain the medical profession, the Church of England committee is fully mindful of medical science, and proposes that the direct power of moral and spiritual suggestion be allied with scientific knowledge. No separate or distinct ministry of healing is planned, nor is licensing of individual healers or official recognition of healng soceties recommended. As the report is summarized in dispatches cabled from London, its general tenor may be found in this recommendation:

"The Church must sanction methods of religious treatment of bodily disease, but in doing so must give full weight to the scientific discoveries of those who investigate the interrelation of spirit, mind and body."

While no consideration is made for those who desire the Church's aid for physical recovery merely, the committee declares that "there is considerable evidence that those who definitely apply truths of Christianity to patients suffering in mind and body have obtained remarkable results in many cases." It is added, however, that the committee has found "no case of healing which cannot be paralleled by similar cures wrought by instances of spontaneous healing psychotherapy without religion and by which often occur in the gravest cases of ordinary medical practice." Similarly, the committee found no case in which those practicing spiritual healing did not desire to work with the medical profession. The report severely scores the amateur healers practicing psychology as a treatment for disease, declaring that the committee "can not be blind to the fact that the exponents of some of these methods have departed from legitimate fields of scientific investigation and have propogated views that are subversive both of moral and religious principles." It is strest also that "forces may be released in the patient's mind which an amateur healer is incapable of controlling." In explaining the value of spiritual healing as a necessary and valuable complement to the work of the doctor, the report enumerates the three ways of healing the body: first, "material, as surgery, drugs, diet, etc."; second, psychical, as suggestion and different forms of mental analysis; third, devotional and sacramental. The report then argues:

"'Spiritual' healing may be said to be that which makes use of all or any of these factors in reliance to God, tho in popular use the term is inaccurately confined to the last. As in all these methods of healing faith is or may be an important element contributing powerfully to the cure, it must be noted that, as far as purely physical healing goes, faith works irrespective of the grounds on which it rests.

"In the third line of approach, where something more than physical healing is in view, the character and trustworthiness of the faith are of primary importance.

"The line of approach with which we are more immediately concerned is devotional and sacramental. Here the appeal is direct to God as the immediate source of all life and health, without the use of any material means. It is an appeal which has taken various forms, as in Christian Science and kindred doctrines. Within the Church it has occasioned revival of systems of healing based on the redemptiv ework of our Lord.

"They all spring from belief in the fundamental principle that the power to exercise spiritual healing is taught by Christ to be the natural heritage of Christian people who are living in fellowship with God, and is part of the ministry of Christ through His body. the Church; they rest upon a definite doctrine as to the nature of disease, the object aimed at in its treatment, and the result which should be expected.

"With regard to the ultimate end, spiritual healing aims definitely at the purifying and strengthening of the whole life, especially spiritual life, as the centre of personality.

"Restoration of the whole man, which is the goal of spiritual healing, will often include his physical healing, but this is only a fraction of the work aimed at and will not be exclusive pre-occupation of the healer."

No case of the cure of organic disease was found by the committee, and Dr. J. A. Hadfield, a member of the committee, makes a point of the fact that most healing cults make "the mistake" of failing to discriminate between organic diseases and those originating in the mind. "Medical men," he declares, as he is quoted by Warre B. Wells in a dispatch to the New York Tribune, "are almost unanimous in holding that we can not cure by mental or spiritual means the so-called organic diseases like cancer or tuberculosis, but only those conditions like hysteria, neurosis and neurasthenia or shell-shock, which arise from a disturbance in the emotional life."

Here and There

Manitoba is perhaps the most marrying province in Canada. For instance, in Ontario, there were 24,871 marriages in 1921, a rate of 8.5 per 1,000, while in Manitoba it was 8.7 per 1,000 of its 610,000 population.

Eastbound steamship travel from Canadian ports via Canadian Pacific steamships is heavier at the present time than for several years past at this season, a recent report declares. Bookings in some instances have run as high as 70 per cent increase over those of last winter.

According to a recent official compilation, out of every 100 people in Canada 51 live on farms. The 70,000 farms in Canada represent a gross worth of $700,000,000 or about $10,000 per farm, and produce an annual revenue of nearly $1,500,000, an average income per farm of $2,000 yearly.

From the opening of the crop year, September 1st, to the official closing of navigation, December 12th, the Canadian Pacific Railway reported the heaviest marketing of grain since the inception of the road. Cars loaded by the company also created a record for the season, having numbered 116,232. Grain marketed topped the 200,000,000 bushel mark.

Thirty-seven per cent of all automobiles in Canada are owned by farmers. Ownership of the balance, according to recent statistics, is made up as follows: business men and brokers, 16 per cent; salesmen and travellers, 16 per cent; professional men, 8 per cent; laborers, 4 per cent; contractors and livery men, 3 per cent each, and miscellaneous and no occupation stated, 13 per cent.

When the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Canada" left New York on January 30th for her great round-the-world cruise, she was the first Canadian vessel ever to commence such a voyage carrying a regular bookstall in the charge of experienced attendants, in addition to a free library. The stock includes many excellent recent books on travel, which will enable passengers to prepare themselves for the foreign lands they will visit, as well as a large number of novels by the best-known authors.

Of the total wheat exported from Canada in November, amounting to 64,196,903 bushels, by far the greater proportion went to the United Kingdom, which took 43,815,391 bushels. The United States was second largest importer of Canadian wheat, taking 9,010,143 bushels. Italy came next, taking 4,013,152 bushels, and Greece next, with 2,066,480 bushels. The exports of Canadian wheat to France during this period amounted to 1,328,368 bushels and to Belgium 1,075,216 bushels. Those to Germany totalled 129.320 bushels.

Here and There

In the keenest competition, embracing entries from all important agricultural districts of the North American continent, Alberta farmers won 43 prizes at the recent international stock and grain show at Chicago. Two grand championships—wheat, Major G. H. L. Strange and oats, J. W. Biglands—went to the province. Major Strange was also first with white field peas and Nunemaker Brothers, of Brooks, first with red clover seed. Major Strange's success is especially remarkable as he has only been a farmer four years.

The latest statements of the earnings and expenses of the Canadian Pacific Railway show that the strong position of that organization has been well maintained, and that a steady improvement has been achieved, in spite of the difficulties of the past few years. The figures for December show gross earnings of $19,136,674, working expenses of $15,180,546, and a net profit of $3,956,127, an increase of $491,322 over that of December, 1922. The 1923 totals show gross earnings of $195,837,089, working expenses of $158,358,079 and a net profit of $37,479,010, an increase of $1,177,319 over the total earnings of the road in 1922. Net earnings for this year were the highest since 1917 and gross earnings the highest since 1920.

The second of the two large paper machines recently installed by the Belgo-Canadian Paper Company at Shawinigan Falls, Que., has commenced operations. The machine, which is the product of the Dominion Engineering Company, is now producing newsprint. It will be tuned up and is expected to produce a commercial grade of newsprint at or above its daily capacity of 75 tons in the near future.

Speaking at Toronto recently, E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, declared that "what Canada is suffering from is lack of men, lack of capital and lack of those forward policies which will enable the country to realize within a reasonable time its own manifest destiny." He added that he did not believe in "exaggerated whisperings or in any statements which are calculated to destroy the belief of Canadians in their own country."

Captain S. Robinson, C.B.E., R.N.R., commanding the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Canada," was invested with the C.B.E. by Sir Harry Armstrong, British Consul-General at New York, when his ship arrived there on January 25th, prior to setting out on her great world cruise. Captain Robinson also received the freedom of the city of New York. These honors were in recognition of his gallant work when commanding the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Australia" at Yokohama, at the time of the Japanese disaster.

72 Years Old, But Actively on the Job

Railroad Man Attributes Good Health and Strength to TANLAC.

Seventy-two years of age, but still in possession of the priceless boon of good health and actively on the job with the Central Vermont Railroad, where he has worked for 40 years, is the remarkable record of H. H. Moore, 24 Messenger St., Albans, Vt., who attributes his present health and strength to the use fo TANLAC.

"I have never in my life seen the equal of TANLAC," said Mr. Moore recently. "After spending a lot of money on things that proved worthless for stomach trouble of the most obstinate kind, TANLAC made me feel like an entirely different man. For nearly two years I had been gradually getting worse, and my strength and vitality had got so low it was hard for me to attend to my duties. Indigestion, constipation and nervousness made life miserable before I found TANLAC, but now my health is normal and I feel happy as I work. I shall always be grateful to TANLAC."

ALCOHOL'S FOOD VALUE

Alcohol's only food value is as an energy-producer; and even so, this energy can not be stored but must be used at once, says Dr. J. Frank Daniel of the University of California in the Scientific Monthly (Lannaster, Pa.). We quote the concluding paragraph from one of a series of articles on "Alcohol From a Scientific Point of View," contributed by him to that magazine. He says:

"We recognize two services performed by foods. (1) They may build up living protoplasm, and (2) they supply energy. Certain foods, the proteins, can build up protoplasm and can produce energy which may either be stored for future use or used immediately; other foods, the carbohydrates and fats, while unable to repair protoplasm, can produce energy to be stored for the future or to be made immediate use of. Alcohol can not repair protoplasm; neither can it produce energy to be stored for future use. Its use as a food is restricted to the production of energy which may be made immediate use of. Further, it should be noted that its employment as a fuel to be made immediate use of is conditioned by the amount which can be used without disturbing the nervous balance. Beyond this amount alcohol acts as a drug and as such can not be said to have the same valid nutritive qualities."

LABOR DILUTION

One of the questions which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has found he must face as premier is the provision of houses for the poorer people in the big cities of Engand and Scotland. The conditions prevailing are described as appaling. The government has announced its intention of launching a building scheme, and as a preliminary, has informed manufacturers and merchants in the building trades that it will brook no raising of the prices of material. The manufacturers have responded at once, assuring the government that there will be no profiteering, and offering to co-operate.

One difficuty, however, must be surmounted. In undertaking a building campaign the government has two objects, to build houses and to create employment. In building houses there is a great deal of work which can be done by unskilled labor, but the bricklayers and carpenters have, all along, been opposed to dilution of labor in their trades on any large scale, and there is no indication that they are disposed to modify their stand so far as the government's scheme is concerned. Here, as in a number of other fields, the new government is finding its difficulties increased, not by its Liberal or Conservative opponents, but by men who are, nominaly, at least, its own supporters.

Another Canadian Railroad Record

1 Unloading new rail from a flat car. 2 A Canadian Pacific work train. 3 Placing a new rail unit. 4 Throwing the old rail to the outside of the track. Note how the wheels are edging the old metal over the new.

Although Canada owes its prosperity, and even its national life to the Railroads which stretch across the Dominion and send feeders north and south into its rich agricultural and mining countries, the Railroad history of the country does not yet cover fifty years. In their short existence, however, Canadian Railways have progressed, and been so forced to meet the increasing demands and requirements of the country that their development has been extraordinarily rapid. Not only were the engineers employed by the Canadian Pacific compelled to press the laying of steel to the Pacific at a pace hitherto unknown, regardless of the many difficulties and obstacles which they encountered both on the plains and in the Rockies which were once thought impassable, but competition with other lines and the demand of the travelling public for service, comfort and convenience has stimulated the activities of the operating departments to such an extent that in the matter of equipment and service railroads in this Dominion are not surpassed on the continent.

Experiences gained in "construction days" were not lost, nor has the standard of efficiency which signalized the Canadian engineer been lowered, and today Canadians claim to be the world's leaders in railway construction maintenance and operation.

Using unusual and effective methods, the Canadian Pacific recently laid over 100 miles of 100 pound rail at the rate of a mile or more an hour securing total daily mileages up to 10 miles and over and thus establishing another record. This while the road was under heavy traffic. First came the train with the new rail. By means of special handling appliances the rails were distributed along the track, outside the old steel. Following the distribution of the new steel, the rails were picked up by a special gang, set up end to end, and bolted into two rail units. Next, the inside spikes were pulled by a gang detailed off for this work, and the old rails were pushed in towards the centre of the track. The new rail was then lifted into place and spiked down against the shoulder of the old tie plates before being bolted into one continuous stretch. This ensured that the alignment and surface of the track remained undisturbed. The new tie plates were inserted later.

Perhaps the most interesting operation was the moving of the old rail to the outside of the track where it could be picked up by the salvage train. The discarded steel was not unbolted, being one continuous piece, sometimes half a mile in length. The end of this rail was thrown outside the new track and as a heavily weighted truck was pushed slowly by a powerful engine, so the phlanges on its foremost wheels shoved the old rail over the new to the outside of the track — a simple operation, but one which, in course of a few years saves the Company thousands of dollars. As a matter of fact, this system of re-laying track, practised first by the Canadian Pacific on the Megantic Subdivision, has attracted the attention of railroad officials all over the continent, many of whom have sent representatives from as far away as Texas to secure first hand knowledge of it and the special unloading equipment used.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

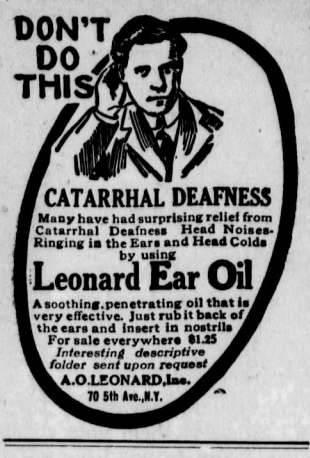
PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.



LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

A Pittsburg paper publishes the interesting if true statement, that there is a movement in Fiji to establish closer trade reations with Canada. According to this authority the question is to be taken up at Ottawa with the object of the famous islands joining Canada as Hawaii joined the United States. It is mentioned that "the islands have striven gallantly to produce sugar cane, coffee, copra, cotton, rubber and catte. In the tropics, it is said there is no ointment without its fly —sugar cane has its labor shortage, the banana its borer, coffee its leaf disease, cotton the capricious American market and cocoanuts the hurricane. In spite of these obstacles, Fiji's exports rose from $6,000,000 in 1919 to nearly $12,000,000 in 1921. These South Sea Islands are developing a profitable trade with Canada. On the face of things it would seem that Fiji might be better attached to New Zealand or Australia, but aws passed by these governments, designed to monopoize Fiji trade, have alienated the natural affections of the island's residents.

TOO MUCH GUN TOTING IN U.S.

A drastic bill to prohibit the importation of revolvers and placing an excise tax of $100 each on those manufactured in the United States except for export, introduced in the United States senate by Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, has been indorsed by the Michigan Audubon society, Mrs. Edith Munger, of Hart, Mich., the president, has announced.

The bill, largely written by Chief Magistrate William McAdoo of New York city, was recommended to the Michigan society by its crime prevention committee, chairman, Joseph Beatty Burtt.

In acknowledging the society action, Magistrate McAdoo declared that the bill had been indorsed by two international police conventions and approved by the American Bar association, as well as New York judges and the mayor.

Those opposing it, he said, are advancing "an illusion very common, that a law-abiding citizen armed with a pistol meets an outlaw, highwayman or burgler on terms of equality. This is absolutely not so," he declared. "The robber has carefully prepared to surprise the victim in or outdoors and I challenge opponents of the proposal to give the number of cases within the last 10 years where the armed citizen has prevented the burglary, shot the burglar or deterred the highwayman from carrying out his purpose.

"Pistols are as common in the United States as lead pencils. There are more people in the United States carrying pistols or possessing them, outside the armed forces, than in all the rest of the world. There are more shootings and killings with revolvers in the United States than in all the countries of Europe, Asia and Africa.

"After we have taxed the pistol out of existence as far as possible in the United States, we will then be in a position to deal with crooks.

"From my experience as former police commissioner and 11 years as chief city magistrate of the city of New York, my advice to law-abiding citizens, if they have revolvers, is to go down to the river and throw them in."

GERMAN TELLS THE GERMANS

It is the overwhelming and tragic misfortune of the German people that in international relations and problems they can be led to believe, almost en masse, a dangerous untruth. It was that national weakness that precipitated civilization into the World war.

They were made to believe, by falsifying leaders, that their "kultur" was unequalled and was destined to bring all other systems and cultures into subjection.

They were made to believe that they were engirdled by enemies seeking their destruction.

They were made to believe that France and England plotted the war against them and they were victims of a wicked conspiracy.

They were made to believe that the United States was an enemy, when its was their friend. They were made to believe that the United States would not fight, no matter how atrocious their submarine depredations.

And, when the United States came into the war they were long made to believe that America could not put an army across the Atlantic.

They were made to believe, and are still believing, that Germany laid down arms in the World war on a promise that President Wilson's 14 points would give them a dignified and easy peace. That fantastic notion is believed even by many Germans in the United States.

There is, however, one German — the one man who is best qualified to know the truth about the matter— who is standing up with courage and daring to tell the German nation the truth about it. That man is Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States.

"This," declares von Bernstorff in an article in a German newspaper, "is a falsification of history, as every one knows who was present at the negotiations. We laid down our arms because army headquarters urgently asked it to avoid catastrophe, and only then we called for President Wilson's help in connection with his 14 points."

That is the medicine that the German people need — the wholesome truth. Too long have they been fed on lies and half truths. Their supreme need is leaders of frankness and sourage who will strike the scales from their eyes and bring them to a true understanding.—Spokesman-Review.

Hon. T. D. Patullo, B.C. minister of lands, is in receipt of a cable from Agent-General Wade stating that, subject to inspection, Dutch emigratiin organizations are ready to purchase 200,000 acres in the Stuart lake country, which were offered to the British government, in the same terms and conditions and to populate the area over a term of years.

THE CONQUEST OF THE SAHARA

The Sahara may have been amazed, but it was not conquered, by Citroen's exploit in crossing the desert in 20 days with caterpillar cars. They traveled over a hard surface, and the caterpillar car afterwards was completely baffled by a 75 mile trip over shifting dunes. Who would conquer the Sahara must use a vehicle capable of negotiating slopes of soft sand as steep as 45 degrees; and, moreover, he must expect to find such hills tomorrow where he traversed flat country yesterday. Now, however, we are told that this feat has actually been accomplished by President Dalpiaz, of the Compaigne Generale Transatlantique, in specially designed cars, having six pair of wheels. His trip, from Touggourt to Tozeur, was only 186 miles, but it is said to be the worst in the Sahara. Camel caravans take ten to twelve days for it; Dalpiaz required but two. This looks like a real "conquest," which will open up to rapid and thorough exploration a tract of country larger than the whole United States. Says the New York Times, commenting editorially on this feat:

"The success of President Dalpiaz insures the penetration of the remotest parts of the great desert by such vehicles. Bearing in mind that the area of the Sahara, including Tripoli and Fezzan, is 3,459,500 miles, this means that the mystery of the untraveled Sahara will shortly be a plain tale, and that plans for its development, including reclaiming by irrigation and even flooding parts of it from the Mediterranean, may be realized. The result should be greater wealth and prestige for France, whose title to so much of the Sahara is indefeasible.

"When M. Citroen and his mission 'conquered' the desert, the achievement was celebrated in the first flush of enthusiasm as a solution of many colonial problems. But afterward the caterpillar tractor made heavy work of an attempt to reach southern Tunisia from Touggourt, getting no farther than El-Oued, 75 miles out. The shifting sand dunes baffled it. If the Sahara was really to be conquered, a dune-taking motor car had to be designed. The two automobiles used by Dalpiaz and his party ascended, and plowed down hills at an angle as great as 45 degrees, although there were seven persons in each car.

"The surface is said to be the worst in the Sahara, owing to the action of strong winds on the sand. Levels become hills overnight, and landmarks are effaced. A French officer, who is familiar with the Sahara, believes that this improvement on the caterpillar motor could go anywhere in the desert. Its radius would be limited only by the need of contact with wells or water holes, unless a supply in tanks were carried. The airplane has the same limitations.

"Doubts have been raised concerning the operation of railways in the Sahara. Capt. A. H. H. Haywood, of the British Army, who found his way from Sierra Leone, through Timbuctoo and across the desert to Algiers in 1911, pointed out that frequent wind storms would often cover a railway track many feet deep for long distances. Moreover, fueling and watering of locomotives would be so difficult that, taking into consideration freight requirements, a transcontinental road would probably not pay. However that might be, the use of the new design of motors should be profitable on any chain of short hauls, and for pioneer work of every kind they would be indispensable."

Why Ford Predominates

VALUE

From 1904 until 1923 the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, manufactured 450,000 Ford cars and trucks of which 91% are still in use. More convincing proof of their inbuilt worth could hardly be given.

Selected materials, simple design, and accurate workmanship are factors in this long life. They explain the high utility and operating economy of the Ford when new. And they also give it the ruggedness to withstand the wear and tear of daily driving year after year.

This long life means slow depreciation, sustained value, satisfactory performance from your Ford while you continue to drive it, and a measurable resale value when you wish to dispose of it.

It means that the Ford gives you unusual value per dollar invested, not only this year but for a long term of years to follow—means that when you select the Ford you obtain approved security for the dollars you invest.

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE

The Fernie Hockey League after a four week spell of inactivity caused by the mild weather, managed to play one game last Friday evening, the West Fernie Bluebirds defeating Ingram's 150s by a score of 8 goals to 3, in the most one-sided City League game witnessed on local ice this season.

The first period was the only one where real hockey was shown on both sides and it appeared that a spirited contest was to be played before a decision could be reached. The first goal came after 11 minutes of play, Smalek picking up a pass from Commons and beating Colton with a long shot. A minute later Ingrams evened up the count with a two man rush, McLachlan and Wilson carrying the rubber through the Bluebirds' defence and the former getting the final pass in the goal mouth had no difficulty in beating Coste.

Ingrams began to show signs of weariness in the second period and with the Bluebirds travelling at a fast clip they took the lead three minutes from the start, Commons scoring on a pass from Thompson. Another goal by Commons put the Bluebirds still further ahead in the next minute. The 150's livened up a little and play became more interesting, with both teams working hard. McLachlan pulled off an end to end individual rush and getting through the defence scored. Just before the close of the second period Thompson got through on his own and added a fourth goal for the Bluebirds.

In the third period the Bluebirds ran amuck, practically confining the play to the 150's territory throughout the entire 15 minutes. They scored four goals through Thompson, Smalek, Commons and Paton, the first three unassisted and the fourth following a scrimmage in front of Colton. Before the close of the period McLachlan and Wilson made another combination rush, scoring on the final pass.

The line-up—

Ingrams — Goal, Colton; defence, Shand and Colton; forwards, McLachlan, Wilson, Hovan and Tutin.

Referee: Cy Walker.

Mild weather has again interrupted the league schedule, but an effort will be made to finish the remaining games should weather permit.

The league standing to date is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pts.
Bluebirds	4	1	8
Northerns	0	4	0

Editor Fernie Free Press:

Dear Sir—The bomb dropped by the Compensation Board a few days ago gives promise of bringing this controversy speedily to an end.

Have duly noted and inwardly digested a Miner's Wife's letter in your last issue. However, one question at a time is good policy. Brevity is often said to be the soul of wit, so will be brief; and for a change give to those who dare read my letters (after being told at the meeting not to do so)

Mixed Medicine

The battle is nearly over,
The losers are looking glum,
They do not like my medicine,
It puts them on the bum.
They used medicine on our doctors;
The doctors stood it fine;
They tried it on some B North men
Who had refused to sign.
Then they got their backs up,
To prove it was no jest,
Got medicine in bulk enough
To dose up all the rest.
But sad to say their schemes went wrong,
As schemes will often do,
And left the schemers derelicts,
Not knowing what to do.
They are beaten, and they know it;
For this we fought and waited;
Our doctors soon will get their job,
In fact, be reinstated.

Thanking you in anticipation, I remain yours. Robt. Draper.

IN MEMORIAM

To Cady

Oh, Cady Boy, they say you're gone
Where good men always go;
May God but bless the spot you lay
Beneath the pure white snow.
Oh, Cady Boy, just hear my words,
And see my bitter tears;
I shed them for the days gone by,
Not for the future years.
'Cause, Cady Boy, I know you're safe,
You've played the game so true;
You played the man as all do know,
And God will see you through.
It's hard to think of you, Old Boy,
That's gone and passed away,
But still it's nice to think of you
As not been led astray.
My heart grows light just when I think
Where rests your last remains,
'Cause you are laying with the boys
We played in olden days.
Cady Boy, my time shall come,
When I am called to go,
To lay beside my fellow men,
That's where I want to go.
And when on passing by the school
The children are at play,
I'll think of you, old Cady Boy,
Your spirit just as gay.
You know we used to do the same
When at the same old school,
We never liked to play at games
Except against the rule.
But now we're scattered far and wide,
All men and women grown,
And I am sure there isn't one
Who for you doesn't mourn.
Oh, God be blessed that peace and rest
Is for you ever more;
God will be just unto your dust;
You've reached the distant shore.

CONFERENCE AT CALGARY

Operators interviewed on Tuesday after the joint conference with the miners' negotiating committee over a new wage scale agreement, left the undoubted impression that on anything like the latter's demands a settlement was an utter impossibility.

The negotiations so far, which lasted for a couple of hours, have been in the way of a preliminary canter. The conference was adjourned to give the operators an opportunity to consider the demands and to prepare a reply and counter proposal to the miners.

The miners demand a three-year contract with the adjustment of what they call "inequalities." Otherwise they are based on the present scale of wages, but the basing on the present scale would be largely affected by the adjustment of the additional demands that the miners make.

With regard to general conditions, the miners ask for many things. While in some instances they have no bearing on the cost of production, they have an important bearing between the relationship of employer and employe.

For example in the settlement of disputes they ask that the clause providing for the appointment of an independent chairman be cut out. The result, apparently, of this would be that if the committee representing both sides failed to agree on a settlement of any disputed matter, the employes would then be at liberty to strike or take such other action as they thought fit to enforce a settlement along the lines of their views. Under the present agreement, where an independent chairman is required to settle any matter of local dispute, he is generally appointed by the minister of labor. The miners' proposal would remove from the minister his jurisdiction in these matters.

The present agreement provides that a dispute may be settled in the first instance by a pit committee and the mine superintendent, whose decision is final if they agree. It is now asked that this decision must be ratified by the local union before it is regarded as final, and if rejected by the local union which appointed the pit committee in the first place, the pit committee apparently must reopen the matter and make another attempt, although their previous settlement indicated their views of a reasonable settlement.

The miners ask that a member of the pit committee may be a checkweighman, or an officer of the local union who need not be selected from among the employes of the mine as formerly.

They ask that the present regulation regarding employes connected with the management of the mine who are not at present under the jurisdiction of the U.M.W. of A., be amended, so as to include all those with the exception of the mine manager, general superintendent, master mechanic, pit boss and office staff.

Men working on construction and extensive repairs who have not previously been under the jurisdiction of the U.M.W.A., they ask should in future be included.

The penalty for absence from work is asked to apply when an employe absents himself for six days, instead of two as formerly, and habitual absence is to be interpreted to mean absence for 10 days a month instead of five days as hitherto.

It is asked that in slack times no men be laid off but that the work be divided equally among those on the pay roll. This means that the force employed during the peak season would become the permanent force, and the work necessarily divided between them.

It is asked that men shall have preference of employment in the same camp operated by the same company and that their names be entered on a waiting list to be kept by the secretary of the local union, who will on requisition issue an O.K. slip to each man to be employed. In other words, every man employed by the company will go to this union official, who will O.K. or reject him as he sees fit.

The present clause providing for a minimum day wage for a man on contract work provides that to obtain the minimum rate, which is a consideration rate, the place in which he works must be abnormal, and that he must have done a fair day's work. It is asked that the latter provision be cut out so that no matter how he works he will be guaranteed the minimum of $7.50 a day.

It is asked that the companies agree to allow individuals to build stores on their leased property, or build or rent them so that employes may buy their stores and groceries from more than one store.

The present agreement provides 10 holidays in the 12 months. It is asked that these be added to by the inclusion of Armistice Day and all civic and government election days. It is also asked that men working in a mine in which a fatal accident has occurred shall suspend work on that day and the day of the funeral. Under the present agreement it is optional with them to do so or not, as they see fit.

There are numerous other demands of more or less local application.

(Later)

Whatever progress has been made in the negotiations for a new wage contract between the operators and miners is not being divulged in the meantime. Both sides have entered into a pact not to give out any information for publication, and this is being rigidly adhered to. The miners are especially desirous that this course be adopted; in fact, it is a well known fact that several members of the negotiating committee have been greatly opposed from the first to anything appearing in the newspapers.

All that was stated officially was that there would be another conference on Thursday afternoon and anything more than this was refused by both parties.

It is surmised, however that practically no progress has yet been made and that everything has been in the nature of a preliminery canter. The meeting on Thursday afternoon may bring matters more to a head as it is understood the operators' counter proposal to the miners' demands will be discussed.

It would not come as a surprise if the miners expressed their willingness to withdraw many of their demands in the way of "inequalities," so long as the operators were agreeable to agree to a renewal of the present contract for a three-year term. While the steam coal operators, it is said, are prepared to take the whole thing "to the mat," and stand out for a reduction in the wage scale, many of the operators in the domestic coal fields at Drumheller are not keen about a fight, but at the same time jib at a three-year term.

It is not anticipated that anything like a definite decision will be reached on Thursday afternoon. The probabilities are that there will be an adjournment for a few days, in order that both sides may give the fullest consideration to the present stage of negotiations.

GAVE WRONG IMPRESSION

In view of the alleged compromise between the Miners Committee and the Compensation Board, the following wire from R. B. Fulton, Secretary of the Compensation Board, speaks for itself:

Vancouver, B.C., March 3, 1924.

Board refused to recognize Kelman hospital. Workmen's representatives informed that disabled men coming under Act could go to any public hospital they might select, which would necessarily include Fernie, Cranbrook or any other city or town having a public hospital.

CONTROL OF BANK TO PASS TO EMPLOYEES

Control of the Bank of Italy, California's largest bank in financial resources and eighth ranking financial institution in the United States, gradually is to be passed to its employees, it was announced recently by A. P. Giannini, the president. This step, he said, would be epoch making in bank management. Giannini started the bank 20 years ago as a small one-room affair. Today this San Francisco bank has 75 branches through California, with deposits exceeding $300,000,000. The bank has 485,000 individual depositors.

REPLY OF OPERATORS

Whereas the demands of the United Mine Workers of America presented on March 4th to the Western Coal Operators' Association as a basis for a three years' agreement fail to take into consideration the conditions affecting coal mining operations in Alberta and South Eastern British Columbia, and

Whereas the miners' demands are based on conditions in the Central Competitive Field, which the United Mine Workers of America propose to this field are comparatively lower by reason of the difference in the hours of labor, making a disadvantage in District 18 of practically 15 per cent, the existing wage scale with this disadvantage being the highest on the North American continent, and

Whereas the conditions affecting the coal mining industry in District 18 are as follows:

(a) The competition of non-union mines operating strip mines, which is taking away the markets from the union mines.

(b) The competition of American mines which are now supplying over 50 per cent of the market which could be supplied by the mines of District 18.

(c) The railways formerly using coal mined in District 18 are now extending the use of fuel oil as well as extending the use of American coal. This condition is brought about through the high cost of coal.

(d) In addition, the market for coal mined in District 18 is further restricted by the imposition of a duty of 53c per ton on coal exported to the United States. This condition was brought about by the Fordney Tariff;

(e) The mines in District 18 cannot compete in their logical markets with coal mined in the State of Washington and on Vancouver Island and Central British Columbia, because the latter mines are operated on a much lower wage scale;

(f) The curtailment of the markets for domestic coal due to the effect of competition with non-union mines which are operating on a much lower wage scale;

(g) The wages paid for carpenters, mechanics, engineers, firemen, laborers, etc., are far in excess of those paid to similar workmen in other industries;

(h) The high rate of wages paid in the mines of District 18 tends to preclude the shipment of Alberta coal to Ontario;

(i) The High Cost of Living Bonus, or War Bonus of $1.17 per man per day is still being paid in the mines of District 18, as well as all other increases granted during the years of and after the war, although the war has been over for nearly six years.

Whereas agreements in Nova Soctia and the State of Washington which were made by the United Mine Workers of America provide for the payment of wage scales from 20 to 40 per cent lower than the present wage scale paid in District 18;

Whereas the majority award of the Knowles' Conciliation Board in 1922 appointed under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act to investigate conditions in District 18 stated as a result of their investigation that

"It would appear that at present the cost of living statistics are approximately where they were in the early part of the year 1917, the Board is not disposed to recommend a reduction of the employees wages downward with mathematical sequence, such a reduction would be too drastic. We do not consider it either fair to the employee or in the interests of the industry generally that a reduction such as this would involve, which would be approximately 45 per cent or 50 per cent, be inflicted at one blow";

And recommended a reduction of about 27½ per cent below the present wage scale in District 18. This award was concurred in by the miners' representative on this Board, and there is no material difference in the Cost of Living since that time, and

Whereas the consuming public are reasonably demanding a reduction in the price of coal,

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That this Association go into Joint Conference to negotiate a wage scale providing for such reduction as the conditions set out above justify, believing that the negotiation of such an agreement will greatly extend the markets for coal from Union Mines, and give steadier employment, which will in turn benefit the miners, the operators, the industry and the consuming public;

That we cannot accept or accede to the demands made upon us by the United Mine Workers of America, but we propose that this Joint Conference of operators and miners of District 18, of the United Mine Workers of America, comprising Alberta and Eastern British Columbia, as now constituted hereby reaffirms the wage scale and contracts now existing between the United Mine Workers of America and the coal operators whose interests are represented in this conference, and hereby extends the same for a period of one year from April 1st, 1924, to March 31st, 1925, in all of their terms, general clauses, provisions and conditions with the exception that the War Bonus of $1.17 per day be eliminated from the wages and contract earnings of all employees.

TENDERS WERE TOO HIGH

The Fernie city council held their first regular March meeting in the council chamber this evening, Acting Mayor Irvine occupying the chair in the absence of Mayor Henderson, who at present is in Ottawa on business in connection with the Home Bank failure. Aldermen Aiello and Robichaud were absent.

The first matter to come up for discussion was the tenders on the completion of the contract to build the cast iron water pipe line across the Elk river, abandoned by Contractor Dawson. Only three tenders were submitted, but these, in the opinion of the council, after consultation with an expert, appeared to be high and a motion was passed rejecting all tenders.

A motion was then passed that the city council proceed with the completion of the contract themselves on a day wage basis and that a competent Engineer-Superintendent be secured to handle the work.

By-law No. 261, being the Levying of Rates By-law for the year 1924, calling for the levying of this year's rate at 40 mills on the dollar, this being made up 25 mills for school purposes and 15 mills for civic requirements, was finally considered and adopted.

In connection with the new Hospital Act in British Columbia, the City Clerk advised the council that it was necessary that they appoint a member of this board from the council. Ald. Irvine was appointed to this position by motion.

Auditor G. F. Johnson submitted a tender of $400 for the position of city auditor for the year ending Dec. 31, 1924, this amount to include expenses. A motion was passed re-appointing Mr. Johnson as city auditor for this year.

SERIOUS SITUATION

The following statement shows the serious situation that the coal mines in the Crow's Nest Pass are slowly but surely drifting into through the advantages in Wage Scale rates that other competitive districts are working under.

The Washington State mines are working for about 35 per cent less average wages than are being paid at the Crow's Nest Pass mines.

The non-union mines, which produce about 80 per cent of all the commercial coal mined in that State, are working for about 35 per cent less wages than are being paid in District No. 18.

The mines on Vancouver Island are working at a wage scale that averages from 32 to 35 per cent less than are being paid here. The coal mines in Central British Columbia are each working at about the same wage scales as are paid at the Coast mines.

These are facts that cannot be contradicted and if the miners of the district do not take them into consideration in presenting their demands they will be making a serious mistake. It is absolutely impossible to meet the competition of the above districts at the present wage scale.

There are compensations. In a town where merchants don't believe in advertising, there is no parking problems.

I.W.W. STRIKE DECLARED OFF

(Calgary Herald)

I. W. W. agitators, leaders and members who have been instrumental in conducting the strike in the logging camps in the Cranbrook, B. C., lumber district during the last few weeks, will find great difficulty during the remainder of the winter in finding employment, according to information received from camp operators by the Herald correspondent in that district.

Just previous to the interim junction, and the late announcement of the abandonment of the strike by the I.W.W. organization. Operators also declared that these workmen are pecking out as many logs as the former workmen would have hauled despite their inexperience in some cases.

So far as the strike was concerned it was virtually over last week, but had not been officially called off. Numerous invasions of the camps by mobs of I.W.W. members in an effort to annoy men at work and to persuade them to leave their jobs, failed to get more than about 15 men to quit. Some of these mobs contained from 50 to 100 men, say the operators.

Manufacturers are somewhat critical of the attitude of the B.C. government during the progress of the strike and feel that the officials have been lax in dealing with the situation.

One operator has informed the Herald correspondent that he has definite information that further trouble may be expected from the I.W.W. in other fields unless their actions are dealt with in a positive manner and that futuure operations would not be carried on in the same quiet and peaceful manner as has characterized the recent trouble.

Much satisfaction was expressed by Arnold George, head of the local immigration office, when he learned that the I.W.W. strike in the lumber camps, near Cranbrook, in B.C., had been called off as a result of a meeting held Saturday.

So far as the immigration officials are concerned their jurisdiction only extends so far as the Immigration Act is effective. Had foreigners been found at the head of the strike committee or as leaders of the trouble, prompt deportation would likely have resulted, but all leaders questioned by the immigration officer proved their right to remain in this country.

"It was not that we were in sympathy with the I.W.W.," said Mr. George, "but that we were unable to do anything except under our act which had not been violated by those whom we questioned."

McLACHLAN GETS TICKET OF LEAVE

Dorchester, N.B., March 4.—Jas. B. McLachlan, sentenced to two years in the penitentiary here for seditious libel growing out of the Cape Breton labor troubles of last summer, will leave the institution tomorrow on ticket of leave.

Ottawa, March 4.—Jas. B. McLachlan, sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for seditious libel in connection with strikes in Cape Breton, has been definitely given ticket of leave. No special conditions, it is stated, are attached.

SITUATION

AT THE ORPHEUM NEXT

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY

Rupert of Hentzau, the sensational sequel to the year's most talked of production, "The Prisoner of Zenda," which created such a furore when presented at the Orpheum Theatre some months ago, will be the attraction at the Orpheum Theatre next Wednesday for a run of two days. It is hailed as a hurricane of thrills and romance, and is said to be even more absorbing than the original story. The picture is guaranteed to keep every one on the edge of their seats throughout its many reels. It is also said to be the most wonderful cast ever assembled for any single production. Lewis Stone and Elaine Hammerstein were given the principal roles. The supporting cast is said to be the most powerful ever assembled for any picture. Among those who have already endeared themselves to the picture-loving public are Bert Lytell, Lew Cody, Claire Windsor, Hobart Bosworth, Bryant Washburn, Marjorie Daw and a number of others who have already endeared themselves to the picture-loving public.

HERE'S WHAT PEOPLE SAY ABOUT TANLAC

"If it had not been for Tanlac I would still be a sick, discouraged woman, for nothing else seemed to do me any good," says Mrs. Edward Gibbs.

All the advertising in the world and all the sales efforts combined could not have made the great success for TANLAC that has been attained, unless this reconstructive tonic possessed merit of the greatest degree. Over 40 Million Bottles of Tanlac have been sold and the demand today is greater than ever before.

That TANLAC possesses merit and has brought relief to hundreds of thousands of persons is attested by the great number of testimonials that have been received by the company from people in every state of the Union and every province of Canada. There are over 100000 such statements on file with the company, all giving sincere praise for TANLAC and what it has accomplished.

Mrs. Edward Gibbs, Lancaster, Pa.: "For 2 years indigestion deprived me of nearly all the pleasure of living. If it had not been for TANLAC I would still be a sick and discouraged woman, for nothing else seemed to do me any good."

Mrs. Mary A. Benson, Seattle, Wash.: "Following an operation my stomach and nerves seemed to give way and I became almost helpless. As a last resort I tried TANLAC. I began to improve from the very first, gained in weight and am feeling fine."

O. E. Moore, Kansas City, Mo.: "My stomach seemed to pain me constantly, food seemed to do me no good, I would bloat up with gas, lose my strength and could not sleep or rest. I was on the down grade all the time. Tanlac corrected my troubles and put me in excellent shape."

Thomas Lucas, Peterboro, Ontario: "Well sir, buying TANLAC was the best investment I ever made, for it built up my health and strength so where I have a coat plaint in the world."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph ET Kanke, Detroit, Mich.: "For more than a year our three children, age 2, 4 and 6, had been so peaked and undone that we were worried about them. Their stomachs were upset, appetites poor, the color had left their cheeks, their nights were restless and during the day they would just mope around, taking no interest in play or anything else. They began to improve with the first dose of TANLAC, and today there are no more healthy children in Detroit."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 40 million bottles sold. Accept no substitute.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

Here and There

Work on the Kenogami dam, in the Province of Quebec, is reported as progressing very well, and the 32,000,000 works located at the upper part of the Saguenay River are expected to be completed within 15 months. As a result of these works, mills operated by the Price interests will be kept in full activity during the whole year, instead of partly closing down in the winter months, as they have had to do in the past.

More than $12,000,000 worth of equipment was added to the Canadian Pacific Railway's service during 1923. Included were 16 Pacific and 20 Mikado type locomotives, all very powerful and equipped with the most modern devices for power, speed and economical operation. Other items were 15 steel baggage cars, 12 mail and express, 15 first class coaches, 6 cafe-parlor and buffet-parlor cars, 1,000 box cars, 250 freight refrigerator cars, 300 coal cars, 50 oil tank cars, 300 automobile cars, 36 vans for freight conductors and 14 snow-ploughs.

The seventh of Canada's direction-finding stations was recently completed for service by the radio branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, to assist the boats and ships navigating the Bay of Fundy and the coastal waters extending to Boston. This station tends to make the route favored by the Canadian Pacific steamships in winter, already splendidly equipped with safety devices, still safer. By means of the apparatus, the wireless operator of any ship in distress within 400 miles of the Canadian shore can find his location simply by pressing a spring. These stations have been described as "a Godsend to us mariners."

Eminent Railway Builders

Each has been identified with one of the three great transcontinental railways now operating in British Columbia, the early engineering, the location and construction of the original main lines within the Province, pioneered through the wilderness of mountains, canyons, forests and rivers by a few of the most highly skilled and perseveringly resourceful of their profession ever assembled, and scarcely equalled in any other part of the world. Each one is engineer, explorer, builder and executive of outstanding ability, and occupies a high place in the esteem of the members of the engineering profession together with the general public. Another very interesting coincidence lies in the fact that each possesses the apparently magic name, Henry or John.

Henry John Cambie, M.E.I.C., was born on October 29th, 1835, in County Tipperary, Ireland. He was in charge of the location of the present main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway from the Coast to Griffin Lake, and was chief engineer of the world-famous construction through the Fraser Canyon, from Yale to Lytton, and also the construction of the section from Savona Ferry to Shuswap Lake. He has been associated with the Canadian Pacific Railway and its predecessor, the Government Railways for sixty-eight years. His name is perpetuated by the Cambie Glacier, on the Canadian Pacific, Cambie, on the giant loop below Glacier. Mr. Cambie explored, surveyed and planned the whole course of the Canadian Pacific through a large section of the Province of British Columbia, and under his direct supervision the part that runs through the canyons of the Fraser was built. At the age of eighty-seven he is still hale and hearty, enjoying the love and esteem of his fellow men.

Thomas Henry White, M.E.I.C., was born on January 27th, 1848, at St. Thomas, Ontario. He was chief engineer of the location and construction of the C.P.R. main line from the Yellowhead Pass, down the North Thompson and Fraser Canyons to New Westminster. It is interesting to note that the two Mr. Clarkes on the right had assisted during the summer of 1873 in the location of the line in the Fraser Canyon.

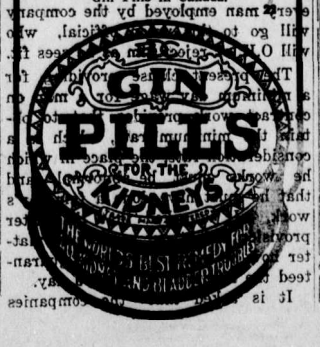
Mr. White has always been popular with his fellow engineers, being noted for abundant good nature, keen sense of humour, and an absolute fairness in all his associations.

James Henry Kennedy, M.E.I.C., was born on March 3rd, 1848, in Carleton County, Ontario. He had charge of the location of the main line in British Columbia, under the Vancouver, Victoria and Eastern Railway charter, from Harrison to the Coast. As chief engineer, he constructed the first section in the Province from Laurier to Grand Forks, through the Kettle Valley country and afterwards constructed the longer section from Chopaka to Hope through the difficult Similkameen and Tulameen Valleys.

The complete record of the life work of each of these pioneer railroaders is full of interesting reminiscence, and the monuments of their handiwork are to be seen in practically every province of the Dominion. Although British Columbians take great pride in the achievements of these men, they nevertheless belong to Canada, from coast to coast.

"I could not walk"

Headaches, dizzy spells, pains in the back, swelling of feet and ankles, suppressed scalding or painful urination —are all indications of kidney trouble. Read how Gin Pills relieved one sufferer:



I am seventy-eight years old and have suffered from kidney trouble for over two years. I had swollen feet and hands, shortness of breath and dizziness so that I could not walk. I began taking Gin Pills and now the swelling has left and I do not have any dizziness, and sleep well. I can recommend Gin Pills.

I.W.W. STRIKE DECLARED OFF

(Calgary Herald)

I. W.W. agitators, leaders and members who have been instrumental in conducting the strike in the logging camps in the Cranbrook, B. C., lumber district during the last few weeks, will find great difficulty during the remainder of the winter in finding employment, according to information received from camp operators by the Herald correspondent in that district.

Just previous to the interim injunction, and the later announcement of the abandonment of the strike by the I.W.W. organization, operators stated that practically all the camps were filled with men who were anxious for work and were not affiliated with the I.W.W. Operators also declared that these workmen are getting out as many logs as the former workmen would have handled despite their inexperience in some cases.

So far as the strike was concerned it was virtually over last week, but had not been officially called off. Numerous invasions of the camps by mobs of I.W.W. members in an effort to annoy men and to persuade them to leave their jobs, failed to get more than about 15 men to quit. Some of these mobs contained from 50 to 100 men, say the operators.

Manufacturers are somewhat critical of the attitude of the B.C. government during the progress of the strike and feel that the officials have been lax in dealing with the situation.

One operator has informed the Herald correspondent that he has definite information that further trouble may be expected from the I.W.W. in other fields unless their actions are dealt with in a positive manner and that futuure operations would not be carried on in the same quiet and peaceful manner as has characterized the recent trouble.

Much satisfaction was expressed by Arnold George, head of the local immigration office, when he learned that the I.W.W. strike in the lumber camps, near Cranbrook, in B.C., had been called off as a result of a meeting held Saturday.

So far as the immigration officials are concerned their jurisdiction only extends so far as the Immigration Act is effective. Had foreigners been found at the head of the strike committee or as leaders of the trouble, prompt deportation would likely have resulted, but all leaders questioned by the immigration officer proved their right to remain in this country.

"It was not that we were in sympathy with the I.W.W.," said Mr. George, "but that we were unable to do anything except under our act which had not been violated by those whom we questioned."

SITUATION

AT THE ORPHEUM NEXT

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY

Rupert of Hentzau, the photo-dramatic sensation of the year, which has been the talk of the town when shown at the Orpheum Theatre next Wednesday for a run of two days is hailed as a hurricane of thrills and mirth-making laughter. The story in itself is a thrill a minute, but in the hands of the cast selected to portray the characters contained within its pages it does not have to be stretched to any length of time at all, as every minute of the principles counted with the audience is filled with interest, from a standpoint of acting and scenic effects. It is absolutely guaranteed to keep every one on the edge of their seats through every foot of film.

The above wonderful cast ever assembled for any single production were given the principal roles. The public are becoming tired of these so-called all-star casts that they could hardly be blamed for being skeptical every time they hear of what is said to be a very pleasing picture, but in fact is not at all what they have actually been treated to by numerous productions. Included in this galaxy of stars are Elaine Hammerstein, Ben Lyon, Lew Cody, Claire Windsor, Hobart Bosworth, Bryant Washburn, Marjorie Daw and a number of others who have already endeared themselves to the picture-loving public.

"If it had not been for Tanlac I would still be a sick, discouraged woman, for nothing else seemed to do me any good," says Mrs. Howard Gibbs.

All the advertising in the world and all the sales efforts combined could not have made the great success for TANLAC that has been attained, unless this reconstructive tonic possessed merit of the greatest degree. Over 40 Million Bottles Of Tanlac have been sold and the demand today is greater than ever before.

That TANLAC possesses merit and has brought relief to hundreds of thousands of persons is attested by the great number of testimonials that have been received by the company from people in every state of the Union and every province of Canada. There are over 100,000 such statements on file with the company, all arising with sincere praise for TANLAC and what it has accomplished.

Mrs. Edward Gibbs, Lancaster, Pa.: "For 2 years indigestion deprived me of nearly all the pleasure of living. If it had not been for TANLAC I would still be a sick and discouraged woman, for nothing else seemed to do me any good."

Mrs. Mary A. Benson, Seattle, Wash.: Following an operation my stomach and nerves seemed to give way and I became almost helpless. As a last resort I tried TANLAC. I began to improve from the very first, gained in weight and am feeling fine."

O. E. Moore, Kansas City, Mo.: "My appetite seemed to pain me constantly, food seemed to do me no good, I would bloat up with gas, I had a sick headache and could not sleep or rest. I was on the down grade all the time. Tanlac corrected my troubles and put me in excellent shape."

Thomas Lucas, Peterboro, Ontario: "Well, sir, buying TANLAC was the best investment I ever made, for it built up my health and strength to where I have a constitution like the world."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kanke, Detroit, Mich.: "We were more than in year our three children, age 2, 4 and 6, had been so peaked and undone that we were worried about them. Their stomachs were upset, appetites poor, the color had left their cheeks, their nights were restless and during the day they would just mope around, taking no interest in play or anything else. They began to improve with the first dose of TANLAC, and today there are no more healthy children in Detroit."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 40 million bottles sold. Accept no substitute.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

Here and There

Work on the Kenogami dam, in the Province of Quebec, is reported as progressing very well, and the 2,000,000 works located at the upper part of the Saguenay River are expected to be completed within 15 months. As a result of these works, mills operated by the Price interests will be kept in full activity during the whole year, instead of partly closing down in the winter months, as they have had to do in the past.

More than $12,000,000 worth of equipment was added to the Canadian Pacific Railway's service during 1923. Included were 16 Pacific and 20 Mikado type locomotives, all very powerful and equipped with the most modern devices for power, speed and economical operation. Other items were 15 steel baggage cars, 12 mail and express, 15 first class coaches, 6 cafe-parlor and buffet-parlor cars, 1,000 box cars, 250 freight refrigerator cars, 300 coal cars, 50 oil tank cars, 300 automobile cars, 36 vans for freight conductors and 14 snow-ploughs.

The seventh of Canada's direction-finding stations was recently completed for service by the radio branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, to assist the boats and ships navigating the Bay of Fundy and the coastal waters extending to Boston. Another very interesting coincidence lies in the fact that each possesses the apparently magic name "Henry" as one of his given names.

Henry John Cambie, M.E.I.C., was born on October 29th, 1850, in County Tyrone, Ireland. He took charge of the location of the present main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway from the Coast to Griffin Lake, and was chief engineer of the world-famous construction through the Fraser Canyon, from Lake to Lytton, and also the construction of the section from Savona Ferry to Shuswap. He was chief engineer of the location and construction of the Canadian Pacific from the Yellowhead Pass, down the North Thompson and Fraser Canyons to New Westminster. It is interesting to note that the late Mr. Cambie's right-hand assistant during the whole of the Fraser Canyon location was Mr. White. He has always been popular with his fellow engineers, being noted for his unfailing good nature, keen sense of humour, and an absolute fairness in all his associations.

James Henry Kennedy, M.E.I.C., was born on March 3rd, 1849, at Cadet, Hastings County, Ontario. He had charge of the location of the main line in British Columbia, under the Canadian Pacific Railway, between Victoria and Eastern Railway connection from Dunsmuir through the Kettle Valley country and afterwards constructed the longer section from Chopaka to Similkameen through the difficult Similkameen and Tulameen Valleys.

This complete record of the life work of each of these pioneer railroaders is full of interesting reminiscence, and the monuments of their handiwork are to be seen in practically every province of the Dominion. Although British Columbians take great pride in the achievements of these men, nevertheless feel that they belong to Canada, from coast to coast.

VICKS IS THE THING FOR ASTHMA

Should Be In Every Home

Mrs. Saskatchewan Lady

Mrs. Thomas Kokott, Box 39, East End, Saskatchewan, says: "Vicks VapoRub is the most wonderful remedy I ever used for asthma and catarrh. I gave it a very good test and found it satisfactory in every way. My sister used it for her baby and got great relief. Vicks should be in every home."

A good way to get relief from asthma is to rub Vicks over the spine from shoulders to the hips, then melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the healing vapors. Also insert some in the nostrils, snuffing well back. You will be delighted to see how it clears the head.

Vicks comes as a clear ointment for external direct treatment for all cold troubles. Rub it on chest and throat like a liniment and inhale the vapor.

Treatment for which Vicks is especially desirable for children as it avoids so much internal dosing. Just as good, too, for cuts, burns, bruises, sores and skin troubles.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For free test size package write Vick Chemical Company, 344 St. Paul St. W., Montreal.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it is America's remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

Twice as Rich as Ordinary Milk

You can dilute the double-rich contents of this tin until the quart bottle overflows with pure milk.

For economy in tinning, more than half of the natural water is removed from the rich, fresh milk that becomes Carnation. This leaves it twice as rich as ordinary milk. Nothing else is removed; nothing at all is added.

Thus, Carnation is rich enough for every milk need, for coffee or cocoa, on cereals, fruits, etc., and in all cooking. Carnation is always rich, clean, pure, safe, convenient and economical. Your grocer has it.

Produced in Canada
CARNATION MILK PRODUCTS CO. LTD.
134 Abbott St., Vancouver, B.C.

FOR HOME COOKS

REMEMBER: Cook with Carnation and your food will be famous for flavor and richness. In any recipe calling for milk use only ½ cup of Carnation to ½ cup water. It's economical!

FOREIGN MISSION JUBILEE

The Baptists of Canada are celebrating the Jubilee of their Foreign Missionary enterprise this week. On March 12, 1874, fifty years ago, Rev. John and Mrs. McLaurin landed in India and commenced work among the Telegus. Today they have 100 missionaries, 80 churches, 580 Sunday schools, 300 day schools, 7 doctors and 7 nurses, 10 boarding schools, 850 pupils, 1 Normal school, 2 High schools, 1 seminary, 1000 Telegus workers, 17,000 members, 17,500 scholars, 10,000 pupils, 6 hospitals, 10 dispensaries, 2 leper asylums, 1 industrial school with 1300 students, 1 weekly paper, 2 Anglo-Indian churches, 1 school for Bible women, 1 orphanage and have, through interdenominational agreement, the care of 8,000,000 persons.

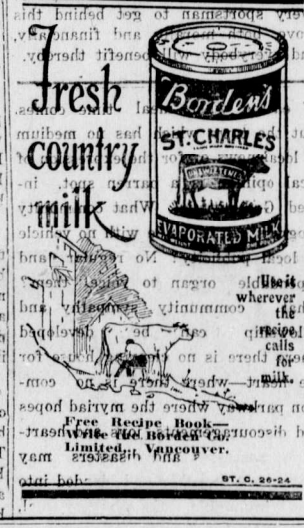
Rev. John McLaurin, the son of the pioneer missionary, and Dr. Lestner, a native physician, are to speak in Massey Hall, Toronto, which has been secured all next week for this purpose. What hath God wrought!

SELF POISONING TODAY'S DANGER

Modern Hurry Upsets Run-Down People — Vital Organ Becomes Clogged and Poisons the System.

Hurried eating and lack of abdominal exercise clogs the system and overloads the liver. This important organ in the body's filtering system becomes sluggish and clogged up, the poisonous waste of the body is improperly eliminated. No longer can the liver properly secrete juices so essential to digestion and correct movement of your bowels. Nor longer can it properly filter and purify your blood. The result is self poisoning.

This explains why a sluggish liver is attended by such symptoms as constipation, biliousness, sick-headache, sourness and gas on a weak stomach, loss of appetite, pain in the back and sides, and an irritable, run-down condition—symptoms that lead to the dangerous and expensive sick-bed unless corrected in time.



Dr. H. S. Thacher, noted medical practitioner, perfected a wholesome vegetable prescription to keep the liver healthy. It is giving quick relief and renewed strength, energy and vigor to numbers here. This prescription, known as Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup, is pleasant to take and contains only ingredients that are known to physicians for their corrective and health-building properties. Try this prescription yourself. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You will be completely satisfied, otherwise, there will be no cost. Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Suddaby's Drug and Book Store, Fernie.

—the reward of internal cleanliness

HEALTH and good looks go hand in hand. If you do not keep clean internally, your looks and health are undermined together. A clogged intestine breeds poisons that reach every part of the body. These poisons ruin the complexion and undermine health. Constipation brings on such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks, and insomnia—each of which sapsyour health and vitality. Soon much more serious conditions follow.

Good Looks Throughout Life If You Keep Clean Internally

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation.

Physicians Favor Lubrication

The lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is not a laxative and cannot gripe. Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

Cleanliness Demands More Than Bathing

Don't give disease a start. Adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. Nujol is not a medicine. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

IN the discussion about the Teapot Dome and California oil leases, there is one thing that puzzles the average citizen, and that is the failure of everyone concerned to keep the oil—all the oil—for the navy.

It is the understanding of the average citizen that the oil reserves were set aside for the navy to meet a great emergency. Oil had become the navy's chief fuel. It should continue to be the navy's chief fuel for a long period.

Along comes a report that the reserves are being drained, and what happens? Not a single effort is made to protect this supply of oil as oil.

The supply of oil in the earth is limited; there is just so much of it. And when that is ued up, nature will supply no more.

The average American citizen would like to know why it is that the strongest power in the world was incapable of protecting its resources.

THERE is a clear and definite line of work for the local newspaper, whether it be daily, semi-weekly or weekly. From no other source can the intimate personal and business news of the small town community be obtained.

There was a period during which the small town newspaper seemed to be smothering under the increasing circulation of the city dailies. The city daily does not and cannot devote space to matters of immediate interest to the small town and surrounding country. We may say, therefore, that while in the great wall of news that confronts us from day to day, the large stones and bricks will always be furnished by the city dailies, though the various news services that cover the entire world, the chinks and the cement will ever be furnished by the local country papers' news from nearby, the intimate heart-throbs that come from the local business, social ,civic and home activities.

Every town owes it to itself to encourage a good, enterprising wide awake progressive paper. Such publications are worth far more to the town than the town usually realizes, By supporting, I mean not only subscribing to the paper and reading it, but also helping it to get the news, by using it as a medium of public discussion and by patronizing its advertising columns.

In too many instances the good local paper is taken as a matter of course—about as we consider the act of eating when meal time comes. But the town which has no medium of local news or for the expression of local opinion is a barren spot, indeed. God pity it! What community progress can be made with no vehicle of local publicity? No regular and dependable organ to voice them? What community sympathy and fellowship can be developed where there is no clearing house for the heart—where there is no common parkway where the myriad hopes and discouragements, joys and heart-aches, successes and disasters may be brought together and blended into that intangible, though very real, thing or substance that we call community spirit?

Every community feels the need for a good, level headed newspaper. It has its work clearly defined for it and if it fulfills its mission it deserves the loyal support of the town and the country around. Such a paper can render invaluable service in breaking down that foolish but age old barrier between town and country by keeping each class supplied with the point of view of the other.

After all, folks are about the same whether in town or country, and the country roads are but extensions of the city streets.

ROD & GUN CLUB GETTING BUSY

The annual meeting of the Fernie District Rod & Gun Club was held in the council chamber on Monday evening, March 3, at which a considerable number of our local sportsmen were present.

J. C. Carnwath was elected president for the ensuing year; W. B. Baldrey vice-president; and F. Denison, secretary-treasurer. The usual committees were also appointed to look after matters in connection with the fish and game of this district.

Following the election of officers, the matter of re-stocking the streams of this district was fully gone into, and a letter was read from the Cranbrook Rod & Gun Club offering to supply a considerable number of cut throat trout fry from their hatchery for the re-stocking of the streams in this district during the coming year, if this club would in return contribute towards the expense of maintaining a man in charge of their hatchery during the hatching season. This was unanimously agreed to by all members ,and it was decided to raise the funds for this purpose by local contributions. This is a move in the right direction, which should have the hearty support of all the fishermen of this district.

During the past year this club has been instrumental in having over 50,000 fry placed in the waters of this district, and has also been the means of having Dominion government hatchery experts sent into the district with a view to ascertaining the possibilities for the taking of cut throat trout eggs for the re-stocking of the waters of this district. During the coming season considerable re-stocking will be undertaken by the club, and it expects to be able to place close to a million fry in the streams in Fernie district.

We have in our midst some of the finest trout fishing streams in Canada, but which have been so heavily fished during the past few years that periodical re-stocking has now become a necessity, and it is up to every sportsman to get behind this move, both morally and financially, and everybody will benefit thereby.

The Women of Mooseheart Legion will supply the eats in their usual style. Good music. Gents $1.00. Lady 50c. Misses Thompson and Arbuckle will give an exhibition of step dancing. Ice cream will be served during the evening. F29-3t

If the weather keeps fine it is going to be considerable trouble to pull off the three final games of the District Bonspiel. No effort will be made to hold the local spiel. With only three weeks of curling this winter we surely seem to be slipping into the banana belt. If it hadn't been for that cold snap early in January we would have had no winter.

On Sunday, Feb. 24, the Pythian Sisters of Alexandra Temple, Michel, paraded to the English church in respect to their late Sister Annie Davies. We regret to say we shall miss her very much, as she was a loyal workers, as well as a charter member. She passed away to the great beyond on Feb. 20. A very interesting sermon was preached by Bro. Garlick. The church was crowded as she was an old timer. She leaves a husband to mourn her loss.

While lumber districts in British Columbia are quiet at present following the decision of the strike committee of the I.W.W. to end the agitation, officially, in the Cranbrook territory, the organization is making an effort to secure places for its representatives in the various logging camps, according to Archie Leach, of Jaffray, B.C. Mr. Leach is connected with the Alberta Wood Preserving Company at Jaffray, and this business has felt the effects of the strike. He states that operators of camps are making an effort to keep I.W.W. members from gaining employment in the camps, to avoid a repetition of the former trouble and he feels that such members will have great difficulty in securing work in that section of the country for some time to come. The workmen who are filling the places of the strikers are doing very well, says Mr. Leach. The day of the old-time lumberjack is practically past, he explains, and the new men are learning their work readily.

COAL CREEK NOTES

That appearances are deceptive was exemplified to two of our local nimrods a few days ago. Seeing what they thought to be two ferocious animals roaming the mountain behind the boarding house, a call to arms was given and two intrepid hunters scaled the perilous ascent, eventually getting within range of their objective. The game turned and made their way towards the hunters and it was found that the ferocious animals were the domestic canine pets of one of our residents.

Dr. D. Corsan, M.H.O., paid professional visit up here on Monday.

A large number of our Club members took in the inter-club tournament games between the Vets and Fernie Literary and Athletic, played at the Vets.

The examination of candidates for efficiency in home nursing took place on Wednesday afternoon in the Club Hall. Dr. Kelman examined.

The boys and girls classes at the English church Sunday school held their usual monthly social on Tuesday evening.

Rehearsals are being held by the United Church Ladies Aid for the staging of a grand concert to be held in the near future. Songs, sketches and everything. Watch for announcement.

Apropos of the G.W.V.A. whist drive and dance to be held here on Thursday next, the committee in charge regret their inability to get a special train for 6.30 p.m. Anyone participating from Fernie must travel on the 5 p.m. train. Cards 7.00; dancing 9.30. Admission 50c.

Supt. Caufield left for Calgary on Monday last to attend the scale conference of operators and miners.

The road between here and Fernie is again open for car traffic. The telephone service car came through on Wednesday.

Owing to the non-arrival of certain material the radio demonstration scheduled for last night by J Longdon, had to be postponed. It is expected to take place on Saturday.

W .R. Wilson, President of the C. N. P. Coal Co., left on Sunday night for Calgary to attend the conference of the miners and operators. He was joined on Tuesday by B. Caufield, Supt. at Coal Creek.

Wm. Johnston, of the Orpheum, will build a picture theatre at Kimberley. He has secured a good location and expects to get the building started at once. With three picture houses going, Bill will be something of a moving picture magnate.

The annual meeting of the Fernie Golf Club will be held in the council chamber on Wednesday, March 12, at 8 p.m. Business will be to hear reports on past year's work and finance, and plans for the coming season. A full attendance of the members is desired, as several important matters are to be discussed. A cordial invitation is extended also to all who are interested in golf and particularly to any who wish to take up the game for the coming season.

At a recent meeting of representatives of the different Co-operative societies of East Kootenay, held in Fernie, it was decided to hold a monster picnic at Elko on May 24. The delegates attending the meeting were: From Fernie, W. Dickinson, president, and W. Pennington, secretary, A. Turner, manager of the local society, and also A. Hinton and R. Baxendale; from Natal, H. Beard, president, A. Harvew Smith, manager of the Natal society, and also A. De Luca, T. Ganzini, J. Vlsak and J. Gergel. Cranbrook was represented by G. L. Ingram, its secretary, C. T. Spence, its manager, and G. F. Bond.

Two provincial government stool pigeons have been working in the city this week. They succeeded in laying charges against two employes of local hotels, but whether they succeed in getting convictions or not the people of Fernie can look forward with great joy to being touched to the tune of any way from $600 to $1000 for the expenses of the cases and the city has absolutely no recourse in the matter. The city chief offered to prosecute the cases, but the command came direct from Victoria that a lawyer must be engaged for that purpose. While certain departments of the government are doing everything in their power to make a good impression with the public, the Attorney General's department seems to go out of its way to get the government in wrong.

Mrs. Mackie received the sad intelligence on Saturday of the death of her mother in Vancouver. Mrs. Mackie left for Calgary where the body was taken for interment.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mount Fernie Chapter I.O.D.E. will be held in the council chamber at 3.30 on Saturday afternoon, March 8. Fees for 1924 are now due. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Fernie Lodge, will institute on Thursday, March 13, in Victoria Hall with 100 members. There will also be some 35 or 40 outside members to help with the work.

Dr. Corsan, City Health Officer, desires to warn all those who have not been recently vaccinated that there are a large number of cases of smallpox in Calgary and vicinity and that it would be well to take the necessary precautions. Smallpox of a most virulent type has been raging near Windsor, Ont., for several weeks.

Francis Jentsch, better known as Slim, for 14 years a well known barber in Fernie, has decided to leave for the Sunny South. Slim has been a good citizen and a universal favorite with all the children in town and he will be very much missed. He suffered heavy financial loss in the recent Home Bank failure and it finally made him restless and he has decided to ramble. Rambling was an old habit with Slim and before he came to Fernie he had visited almost every city in the United States.

The steady progress of the recently opened new huge concentrator of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. at Kimberley has created a new era in that centre. There are at the present time about 500 men employed at the concentrator and in the other developments being carried on by the company. As a result there have been quite a large number of real estate transactions recently and a number of new businesses have been started, among them a dry goods store and two garages. A meeting has been called at Kimberley for the purpose of forming a board of trade there.

Buried Treasure!

LONG AGO, men seeking a safe and secret depository for their money and plate, dug a hole in the ground and buried their treasure, often to lose it from one cause or another.

TODAY, even after centuries of progress and enlightenment, there still are people who prefer to hide their money in "secret" places, only to lose it by fire or theft.

THREE YEAR COAL TRUCE Ratified

(Literary Digest)

The possibility of a prolonged coal strike was considerably lessened, if not altogether eliminated, it is believed, when the United Mine Workers of America at their convention at Indianapolis ratified an agreement with the Northern Coal Operators' Association, which will be in force for three years. The agreement will be the widest ever made in the coal industry, and is the first to be ratified since the Washington agreement of 1917. It provides for a wage increase of 27½ per cent. for the 500,000 miners employed in the Northern fields, and a check-off system of collecting union dues. The operators are also required to recognize the union as the sole bargaining agent for the miners. The new

EXECUTION

Not since the so-called Dark Ages, maintains the Philadelphia Record, has the civilized world produced a piece of official barbarity to match the first lethal gas execution of record in this country. "Nevada is the first state to take human life by this means, and we hope it will be the last," observes the New Haven Courier-Journal. The three physicians who watched this execution of Gee Jon, a Chinese convicted of a tong murder, agree that the unfortunate wretch lapsed into unconsciousness within a second after a spray of liquid hydrocyanic acid was turned into the stone death chamber. The movement of the head for some six minutes afterward, says an Associated Press dispatch from the scene, "was probably due, the doctors explained, to involuntary muscular reaction after death." This explanation, however, does not suit the Albany Journal, which reminds us that "there isn't such 'muscular reaction' when persons are killed instantly by accident nor when a condemned prisoner is electrocuted." In fact, declares the Philadelphia Record, "there is not a single point of justification for this lethal gas innovation." "There is a terror in this thing that even Edgar Allan Poe could not equal," avers the neighboring Public Ledger, which says of the Nevada scene at the Nevada prison:

"Gee Jon did not pass in a prison yard, under the open sky. He was permitted to die where he might hear a human voice. He died shut away from men, as the stray dog dies in the pothunkeeper's death cage. He breathed in his death from the walls.

"No murmur of voices came to him as he lay strapt, helpless, waiting, waiting.

"There is a hissing from the walls, like Satan's hiss of the hooded cobra.

"The Invisible Thing strikes.

"Such is the legal death made and provided by the State of Nevada.

"Nevada sought a way to make executions more humane. In her seeking she stumbled into new refinements and depths of cruelty."

The Pittsburg Chronicle, on the other hand, believes "it is too soon to say that the new method is not likely to be adopted by other States." The first execution by electricity was not generally regarded at the time as working a humanitarian advance, recalls this paper, "but it is now recognized as more merciful than hanging." Furthermore, asserts Lee Overman in a Carson City dispatch to the Omaha World Herald, "those who witnessed the execution of Gee Jon were unanimous in declaring that if they had to suffer capital punishment they would prefer to die by lethal gas." And Major D. A. Turner, of the United States Army medical corps, who was assigned as official military observer of the execution, throws some interesting light upon the Nevada method. Says this authority:

"The lethal-gas method is the quickest and most humane method of putting a human to death. Hanging is the cruelest. Frequently hanged men are conscious from one to fifteen minutes after the trap is sprung. In electrocutions it is frequently necessary to shock a man three and four times before he is dead. There are no scientific proofs that he is not conscious during such an ordeal.

"In shooting executions unconsciousness does not come instantaneously. With the bridding of the chamber, lethal gas power produces instantaneous unconsciousness and practically instantaneous death. There is no chance for pain or suffering. With proper equipment and a specially constructed gas-tight chamber, death could be made both instantaneous and painless."

Blasting a new road through the solid rock of the famous Frank Slide is the task ahead of the Greelman Construction Co., who have the contract for this improvement on the Red Trail. Actual work on the contract began this week.

Dynamite will be used to move the rock, which 20 years ago was deposited there by one of the worst rock slides in the history of America, a moving wall of stone that carried death and destruction along with it.

Today, over this gigantic tomb of rock, thousands of motorists pass annually. In fact, so important has this artery of traffic become that the provincial government is making special efforts to put the one-mile leg of the Red Trail through the Slide in as perfect a condition and as safe for travel as possible.

Creelman's camp has been pitched on the Frank end of the slide, and operations will be carried on from that end. An entirely new road will be built. It will be straighter than the old road and the grade will be materially reduced.

This work is only one small part of the program over which Mr. Keith, the local inspector, has to superintend. He has one of the largest districts in the province, there being on it upwards of a thousand miles of trunk and district roads. Mr. Keith has worked out an elaborate system of market roads for this district, and if the money is available actual construction of these highways will be commenced this year. The program hinges entirely on the funds made available by the legislature.

CANADIAN NATIONAL PRESIDENT TALKS TO WESTERN EMPLOYEES

FOLLOWING up the first successful experiment in remote broadcast from Winnipeg made about ten days ago, Sir Henry W. Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, appears above talking, a few evenings ago, by long distance telephone from his room in the Fort Garry Hotel, Winnipeg, to the company's employees throughout Western Canada via Calgary radio station CFCN. It is Sir Henry's intention, as soon as the company has completed its string of radio stations from coast to coast, to use this medium as often as possible to establish a personal contact with those he terms his "fellow employees" of the Canadian National system.

RE DOCTOR QUESTION

To the Editor Free Press:

Dear Sir—The news that a compromise had been arranged between the Compensation Board and the workmen's representatives, so much in evidence in your last issue, on inquiry, turns out to be untrue, both in substance and in fact. Proof: The Compensation Board's decision is as follows: They refuse to recognize Dr. Kelman's proposed hospital. Workmen's representatives informed that disabled men could go to any public hospital they might select, which would necessarily include the Fernie hospital, Cranbrook or any other city or town having a public hospital.

Would esteem it a favor if any one of your numerous readers or one or both of the men's representatives who met the board, would point out to me where the word compromise fits in the above decision. It would also be interesting to learn how the news got into circulation. Maybe some inquisitive reporter made it out of whole cloth (or vice versa). Be that as it may an explanation would be in order. I remain yours,

Robt. Draper.

A FATAL ACCIDENT AT McGILLIVRAY

Coleman, March 3.—John Bielec died on Saturday morning from injuries received in an accident on Friday evening while working in the McGillivray mine. The accident took place between 5 and 6 p.m. on Friday. Everything was done to help the unfortunate man and he was immediately taken to the hospital, when got out of the mine. The injury seemed to be around the plevic bone. He was suffering much from shock but had wonderful vitality. He rested fairly well but in the morning took a turn for the worse and passed away at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Mr. Bielec owned and lived on an orchard on the Arrow Lakes. He had worked around the mines previous to his going and had come back to work the winter months in the mine. He was a careful and experienced miner. Much sympathy is felt for those so suddenly bereaved.

An inquest was held on Monday, their decision being that no blame was attached to anyone and that he met his death accidentally. They made the following recommendation: "That in future medical aid be given at the mine, as soon as possible after an accident."

$25,000 FIRE AT YAHK

Creston, B.C., March 4.—The bigger half of the business section of Yahk was wiped out by fire early this morning. According to reports received here the fire originated in the Sanderson pool room about two o'clock and before it had been got under control had destroyed the Commercial hotel, a Chinese restaurant, Johnson's general store, the Sanderson and one other pool room as well as a couple of residences.

As the town has absolutely no fire protection nothing could be done but let the flames burn themselves out, and as the buildings were all frame the fire spread with such rapidity tha tvery little was saved.

The loss will total at least $25,000 and due to a heavy rate the insurance carried is reported light. Yahk is the point on the Crow's Nest line of the Canadian Pacific where the branch cuts off to Kingsgate and Spokane.

The railway company has a large sawmill at Yahk, but it is located on the opposite side of the track, too far removed for its fire fighting equipment to be of any assistance.

(Calgary Herald)

The outlook for an amicable settlement of differences between miners and operators over a new wage agreement is not at all promising, although it would be premature to say whether there would be an open break in negotiations.

The scale conference committee of the miners met on Thursday morning at the offices of the U.M.W.A., and reiterated the demands already placed before the operators, and the sub-committee was instructed accordingly. The latter will meet the sub-committee of the operators later.

W. A. Sherman, president of District 18, after the conclusion of the scale committee meeting, stated emphatically and definitely that they would not for one moment consider any reduction in the existing wage scale. He took exception to a statement in the morning paper, purporting to be an interview with him, and which he said was entirely incorrect and unofficial. In the alleged interview, he said he was quoted as saying that "he could not state definitely that the miners would not, on any account, take a cut in wages. That, he said, was absolutely wrong.

His position all along had been, and was now, that if the operators insisted upon any reduction in the present wage scale, there would be a strike on April 1.

"We must have the basic conditions of the Jacksonville contract," he said, "which is a three year term contract on at least the present scale of wages."

Mr. Sherman also stated that as matters stood at present they would also seek to secure the adjustment of many of the "inequalities" which had been presented to the operators.

Mr. Sherman said that if it came to a show down the miners were in a much stronger position to fight than they were five years ago, and financial support would not be lacking from headquarters of their organization at Indianapolis. "Headquarters will back us to the limit in their assistance in bringing about a satisfactory settlement," he said.

The firm position of the miners' officials was further strengthened on Thursday by the receipt of a telegram from John L. Lewis, international president, who stated that District 10, in Washington, an outlying district somewhat similar to District 18 here, had agreed to the Jacksonville terms, and that by the first of the month there was every indication that all other such districts would have accepted the basic conditions.

It had been arranged for the sub-committee to have met the operators at 10 a.m., but at the request of the miners the meeting was postponed in order that they might discuss the situation among themselves. The statement given out by Mr. Sherman as mentioned in the foregoing, however, indicates that the miners' sub-committee will take a definite stand in securing a three-year agreement with at least the existing wage scale.

Pending the meeting with the miners, the members of the operators' sub-committee, when interviewed, declined to express an opinion on the miners' attitude. It is known, however, that a considerable number of the operators will stand pat on the elimination of the war bonus of $1.17 a day, and it is almost certain they will not agree to a three-year contract. Some of the mines at the present time find themselves in the position of not being able to make ends meet, owing to the high cost of production, and those operators, especially, would rather have a showdown right away. In other cases the competition of non-union mines is playing havoc with their business, and they are being forced gradually but surely out of the industry.

There is undoubtedly a desire on the part of the other more fortunately placed operators to prevent a strike occurring but they cannot see any possibility of extending their markets on the present scale of wages and other high operating charges.

It is not expected that anything of a definite nature will occur as the result of the meeting of the sub-committee on Thursday afternoon. The best that can be hoped is that an opportunity might occur for paving the way for satisfactory negotiations when the general conference of operators' and miners' representatives meet at a later date. In view of Mr. Sherman's statement, however, the future is fraught with a great amount of uncertainty.

NOT HOPEFUL TO AVERT STRIKE

Calgary, March 14.—Officials of the U.M.W. of A. will not hazard a guess as to the possible outcome of negotiations of the joint sub-committee, which met on Thursday morning, nor will R. M. Young, commissioner of the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association, express any opinion. From what can be gathered, however, it is not expected that any definite policy was formulated for presentation to the joint conference of operators and miners, that the way may be paved for negotiations leading to a full settlement. That is the most hopeful view that would appear to be taken by either side. There is of course the possibility that the sub-committee may have to report that it is not in a position to make any recommendation at all.

RESTOCKING STREAMS

The persistent efforts of the Fernie District Rod & Gun Club for the restocking of the waters of this district are at last beginning to bear fruit. This week two officials of the government hatchery at Nelson arrived here with the first shipment of fish for our local waters. This shipment consisted of 150,000 Eastern Brook Trout, which have been placed in the streams throughout this district from Elko to Crow's Nest. This is only the first of many shipments to be brought in during the coming season, which will also be placed in our local waters.

This good work will appeal to all the fishermen of this district, who will be able to look forward to some good sport in the years to come. A membership campaign is to be started at once by the local Rod & Gun Club in order to raise funds to defray the necessary expenses attached to this important work, and it is up to every fisherman to show his appreciation by becoming a member of the Club. Membership fees are only $1.00 per year, which is a very small item compared to the good work being done. Boost along the good work by becoming a member.

KASTNER WINS TWO GAMES

A semi-final game in the Magrath and the final game in the International were played off at the curling rink early Sunday morning. The ice was good for the first game, but before the latter was finished was very soft.

In the first game, the semi-final of the Magrath event, M. A. Kastner defeated E. K. Stewart by a score of 12 to 2.

The second game, the final of the International, resulted in Kastner winning from Herchmer after a closely contested match by a score of nine points to seven.

By winning both games played, Milt Kastner with still one more game to play the final of the Magrath, overcame the two game lead of Herchmer for the Grand Aggregate and these two rinks are now tied for the leadership. Sould Kastner win his game against Brown in the final of the Magrath, he will become the custodian of the three trophies until the next bonspiel. If Brown wins this event, another game between Kastner and Herchmer will be necessary to decide the Grand Aggregate.

B. P. O. ELKS ORGANIZE

Fernie Lodge, No. 81, of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the Dominion of Canada and New Foundland, was duly organized last evening, March 13, in the Catholic Hall.

The initiation work was put on by visiting Bros. S. Savage, of Calgary, Grand Treasurer; E. Taylor, of Calgary; and R. J. Gordon, of Kelowna, Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler for Southern B.C. Bro. J. H. Vanbuskirk, of Vernon lodge, also assisted with the work.

B. J. Campbell, Grand Organizer, is to be congratulated on the stamp of men who were put through the Elk Lodge. Mr. Campbell is leaving this week for Calgary and will return next week to start organizing at some other point on the Crow, which will be known at a later date.

The following officers were elected:
Exalted Ruler—W. J. Thomas.
Esteemed Leading Knight—Dr. W. H. Pickering.
Esteemed Loyal Knight — J. W. Carnwath.
Esteemed Lecturing Knight—N. E. Suddaby.
Esquire—M. A. Berigan.
Chaplain—Rev. Oswald.
Secretary—Chas. Edgar.
Treasurer—M. Whitelaw.
Inner Guard—J. E. Dicks.

Bro. R. J. Gordon, of Vernon, Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler for Southern B.C., then installed the above named officers.

During the evening greetings were received from the Baby Lodge of Canada, Lethbridge, and J. A. Killingsworth, of St. Thomas, Ont., Grand Secretary.

Permanent quarters for lodge rooms have not yet been secured but a committee was appointed to find suitable rooms.

The lodge was very fortunate in having an exceptionally fine membership. The following members were initiated: Dr. E. L. Garner, Dr. B. Asselstine, J. Diamond, W. J. Thomas, N. E. Suddaby, J. Whitehouse, Max Belecky, J. E. Dicks, Dr. W. H. Pickering, Wm. Johnston, J. E. Kitchen, Alf. Thompson, J. J. Jerue, A. L. Phillips, M. A. Berigan, J. Letcher, Dick LaRochelle, Ed. Paterson, Jas. Mitchell, J. Cameron, C. G. Glover, Thos. Baker, F. Scarpino, H. B. Barger, H. W. Brown, H. J. Letcher, T. R. Graves, J. W. Richardson, M. F. Robichaud, J. Longdon, J. J. Harrington, R. C. Kirkpatrick, S. Lowden, R. Samson, F. M. Tarr, J. Stark, W. S. Murray, E. Tutin, Nels Krohn, T. C. Smith, J. W. Carnworth, C. Edgar, S. M. Leask, J. Shand, B. A. Wilson, M. P. Aune, K. A. McTeer, R. P. Colton, R. Commons, J. L. Gates, Wm. Barton, W. H. Gates, J. D. McLaren, S. Wilson, J. T. Hovan, H. E. Minton, J. M. Ault, T. Whitehouse, A. Thomas, W. A. Ingram, L. A. Mills, J. Wilson.

In addition there are several applicants on the list awaiting initiation.

At the close of the lodge the visitors and members were entertained by Bro. LaRochelle, who gave a very creditable demonstration of buck and wing dancing, and a vocal selection was rendered in masterly fashion by Bro. R. Samson. The Elks orchestra, consisting of Messrs. Whitehouse. Tarr and Kitchen, rendered several selections during the evening.

The evening ended by all members partaking of a splendid banquet which was thoroughly enjoyed. It was the wee sma hours before all the members finally dispersed.

The lodge wishes to express its thanks to Father Kennedy for the use of the hall and to the wives of the Fernie Elks, who assisted in making the banquet a success.

It was decided to limit the executive to five and the following were elected: H. L. Hayne, E. K. Stewart, T. Prentice, J. L. Gates and Alex. Watson.

Convention Delegates—E. K. Stewart and A. Watson.

The membership fees were fixed as follows:

Men $25; ladies $15; students $5; non-residents $5; non-playing $5; visitors $5; green fees 50c per day.

It was also provided that bank clerks and school teachers may pay half fee for half season up to July 1st and that their successors may play for the balance of the season for half fee.

The secretary was authorized to prepare a membership list that all would be required to sign.

It was decided to send a letter to each member in good standing asking their co-operation in securing new members and that names be turned in to the secretary.

It was decided to have cards advertising the club and its membership fees placed in each of the hotels.

ELKO PLANT IN COMMISSION

At 2.40 a.m. on March 10, another step forward in the development of the Crow's Nest Pass region was taken when the Elko plant of the East Kootenay Power Co., Ltd., commenced generating electrical power for commercial distribution.

The present development is for 15,000 horse power, of which 7,500 horse power is now available. The power thus developed serves the coal mines in the Crow's Nest Pass region to the east and the concentrator of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. to the west, which concentrator is one of the largest in the world.

Among interesting points in this development is a 12 foot wood stave pipeline, which is very close to the largest ever built. This is about 1400 feet long. There is also a 2000 foot rock tunnel, ending in a surge tank 32 feet in diameter and 75 feet deep. Water is delivered at the power house through two 6-foot boiler plate steel penstocks. The turbines are 7500 horse power each, with 6000 kilowatt generators. All switching is remote control. This station is the latest thing in electrical design.

J. B. Haslam on Thursday last made a voluntary assignment of the business assets of Haslam's Drug Store, for the benefit of creditors. M. A. Beale has been appointed custodian of the estate, receiving his official appointment on Monday. Mr. Haslam left on Saturday last for Coleman, where Mrs. Haslam has been for the past three weeks or so. — Cranbrook Herald.

RADICALISM AND PROGRESS

(By C. M. Ripley)

In geopraphy we used to think the world was flat, and now we know it is round.

In astronomy the ancients were positive the sun moved around the earth; now we know positively that the earth moves around the sun. The first man, however, to say that the earth moved around the sun was threatened with the tortures of the Inquisition, and made to "recant."

In psysiology we used to think the blood was stationary in the body like the juice of an orange. When Harvey came out with the statement that the blood circulates in the body, they wanted to run him out of the medical profession as an imposter.

Tuberculosis treatment used to be indoors, and now it is outdoors. Typhoid fever patients used to be given no cold drinks whatsoever, but now they can have ice cream and anything cold they want.

In sharpening knives we used to move the knife against a stationary stone, and now we hold the knife, almost stationary, against a moving stone.

Railroad car wheels used to revolve on the axle; now they are fixed on the axle. The flange used to be on the rail, whereas now it is on the wheel.

Steam boilers used to have the fire on the outside, now the fire is on the inside of the boiler.

All rubber tires used to be solid, now most of them are hollow; books used to be one long piece of paper called a scroll and now they are made up of many short pieces of paper called pages. In writing we used to use a quill, with the ink on the outside, now we use rubber with the ink on the inside.

All airships used to be lighter than air, now nine out of ten are heavier than air. For centuries the eye of the needle was at one end and the point was at the other. Now we could not have a sewing machine unless the eye and the point both were at the same end. The armature of all motors and generators used to be on the inside of the field, but now, in many types of machines, the armatures are on the outside of the field.

But don't think these improvements, these revolutionary changes, have been carried out without opposition. It is said that the first telegraph wires were cut; the first railroad tracks were torn up; the first sewing-machine was smashed; and the first man to sell anthracite coal in Philadelphia was run out of the State of Pennsylvania as an imposter.

In 1832, a group of men in Lancaster, Ohio, wrote to the school board, requesting the use of the school house. They wanted to hold a meeting in order to promote a railroad in their vicinity. As an example of the opposition which progressive minds must always meet, the letter sent this group of men by the school board follows:

"You are at liberty to use the school house to hold meetings for all proper purposes. But railroads and telegraphs are impossible and rank infidelity. If God had intended creatures should travel at the frightful speed of 16 miles an hour by steam, He would have foretold it in the holy prophets. It is a device of Satan to lead immortal souls down to Hell."

The old-time mariners laughed at Robert Fulton when he steamed out of New York in the "Clermont"; Copernicus and Galileo were persecuted for their views on astronomy and Pasteur was threatened with expulsion from the medical profession and advised to stick to the well-known principles of medicine and to forget his wild theory of germ life.

Now and then we meet some courageous individual who thinks he has some new way of doing something. Let us remember the great changes which have taken place in the past generation and in recent years. Then we will be tolerant of his views.

Yes, the world is changing; the radical engineering thought of today is the progressive thought of tomorrow, and one interesting thing about it, is that engineers and scientists are in the forefront in revolutionizing ideas and demonstrating why people should adopt the new devices and different modes of work and living conditions. which they have made possible with inventions and discoveries.—Rotarian.

DEVELOPMENT

The placing of the order for structural steel for the new elevator at Vancouver with an eastern mill in the United States, because steel of this type is not manufactured in the Dominion, caused the Vancouver Sun to remark in the past week that "British Columbia minerals feed American smelters. With mountains of ore lying undeveloped in the province, Vancouver has been forced to send across the continent for steel that should have come out of our own mines, be refined and smelted in our own plants to enrich Canadian payrolls and industry at every step of the way."

Conditions in Ontario parallel those in British Columbia. The development of the ores that lie within the borders of the eastern province is just as important, if not more so, as the development of those on the Pacific coast, and it is a hopeful sign that an Ontario government has at last apparently realized the ores are at hand and that by means of a bounty much may be done in the near future to bring about their utilization, says Canadian Machinery.

SAVING DEPOSITS

LaBanque Nationale suffered from financial disorders which threatened to bring it to the same fate that overtook the Home Bank. If it had been allowed to close thousands in the province of Quebec would have suffered as the Home Bank depositors throughout Canada have suffered. The loss that was endured by the Home Bank depositors was spared the depositors of La Banque Nationale because the government of Quebec intervened to prevent it.

In pursuance of sound policy the Quebec government devised a method of averting the threatened disaster. An arrangement was made under which the Bank of Hochelaga agreed to take over La Banque Nationale, one share being exchanged for two. The strong bank of Hochelaga with its paid up capital of $4,000,000 and its reserve fund of $4,000,000 undertook to absorb La Banque Nationale upon the government's agreeing to place in the treasury of the bank merger thus formed $15,000,000 of provincial bonds, that is to say, to give the bank the benefit of a loan of $15,000,000 at 5 per cent. This amount provides the necessary assurance to the public and is unlikely ever to be turned into liquid capital. Thus without taking any risk the government saves thousands of depositors and the whole business community from the disaster of a bank smash.

Commenting upon these two cases —the one where the depositors were saved from great financial loss and the other where the full effect of the failure fell upon them—the Toronto Mail and Empire asks if a Dominion government that is in office when a bank failure takes place can be held blameless for the consequences to depositors and business interests concerned. It answers its own question as follows:

"The reply to that question is surely in the negative, unless in the case of a government that has too recently entered upon its duties to be in a position to know anything about the bank's affairs. The punishment of people who in the service of the bank have been guilty of wrongdoing contributary to the insolvency of the bank is one thing that concerns government. Surely an equally important thing for government's consideration is the averting, if possible, the calamity that the wrecking of a bank brings to worthy people who have trusted their money to its keeping. It is government's business to see that all the conditions the law requires to ensure perfect soundness in a bank at the very start shall be lived up to. If they are lived up to and if government sees that the conduct of the bank's business is as reported from month to month, then there can never arise need for emergency action to protect the public from a bank smash. There can be no bank smash if the governmennt attends to its duty under the Bank Act. If, for any reason, government should intervene, possibly in some cases as the Quebec government has intervened in La Banque Nationale's affairs, to have the bank taken over instead of allowing it to become a wreck."

Tanlac Saved Life Says Ottawa Lady

Mrs. Varalo Tells of Recovery From Complication of Troubles — Gives Tanlac Full Credit.

"That I am alive and in good health today I can attribute to nothing but Tanlac," is the remarkable statement recently made by Mrs. Eva Varalo, 233 Cumberland St., Ottawa, Ontario, Canada.

"For two long years I suffered terribly from indigestion, constipation, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, palpitation of the heart, almost continuous sick headache and shortness of breath, until life seemed a burden to me and I had given up hopes of ever regaining my health.

"But Tanlac helped me the very first day I took it, and now after using seven bottles my health and strength are as fine as can be, and everyone remarks how well I look. I eat heartily, my food digests just perfectly, my nerves are steady, I sleep sound, my heart never troubles me and work is like play. Really, the way the treatment restored me to perfect health seems almost miraculous. Tanlac is simply grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

VICKS ROUTS CHEST COLDS OVERNIGHT

External Treatment Quickly Brings Relief.

Mr. Allan McLeod, Le Roi Ave., East, Rossland, British Columbia, says: "I found Vicks very satisfactory. My sister was very sick with a cold so I suggested to apply some Vicks. We rubbed it on her chest one night at bedtime and it seemed to break up the cold. The next day the cold was just about gone. That night we put some more Vicks on her chest and in the morning the cold was completely gone."

Vicks VapoRub comes in salve form, and for chest colds you just apply it over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases vapors that are inhaled all night long into the throat and lungs—Menthol, Camphor, Thyme, Eucalyptus and Turpentine. Vicks is also absorbed through and stimulates the skin, aiding the vapors to relieve congestion. Usually colds go in one night and croup is often relieved in 15 minutes.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package write Vick Chemical Co., 244 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does it so successfully that no one can tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. RELIEVES VICTIMS OF LIVER POISON!

Remarkable Prescription of Dr. Thacher Enables Toronto People to End Cause of Sick Headaches, Constipation, Sour Stomach and Nervous, Run-Down Condition.

Poisoned! Made sick by neglecting to cleanse and tone the Liver when it is sluggish and clogged up with poisonous waste! This is why so many wake up feeling dull and tired—tongue coated, bad taste and offensive breath.

It explains why a sluggish liver is attended by such symptoms as Constipation, Biliousness, Sick-Headaches, Sourness and Gas on a Weak Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Pains in the Back and Sides, and a nervous, run-down condition—symptoms that lead to the dangerous and expensive sick-bed unless corrected in time.

Dr. H. S. Thacher, noted medical practitioner, perfected a wholesome vegetable prescription to keep the liver healthy. It is giving quick relief and renewed strength, energy and vigor to numbers here. This prescription, known pharmaceutically as Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup, doesn't cost much, pleasant to take and contains only ingredients that are known to physicians for their corrective and health-giving properties.

Try this great prescription, yourself. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise, there will be no cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Sudday's Drug and Book Store, Fernie, B.C.

A BLENDED TEA IS BETTER

Tea from one garden, no matter how fine it is, possesses certain desirable qualities but may lack others, because all characteristics are not developed under the same condition. If the tea has a perfect flavor it may lack body; if it has body it is perhaps without the same perfection of flavor. To combine all desirable characteristics in one blend has been the work of the "SALADA" Experts for over a quarter of a century and "SALADA" is the fruit of their labors. The flavor is more delicious than any unblended tea grown.

Vancouver, March 12.—The allegation that the excessive western rates charged by the C.P.R. have resulted in that road being so gorged with surplus wealth that it now has a surplus of over half a billion dollars or more than enough to replace the entire railroad, hotel and steamship system, is made by The Hook this week, which analyses the recently published annual report for 1922. According to the report, the surplus, which includes $129,506,000 surplus revenue over operating expenses, is given a book value of $439,793,077 without counting the hotels, which are charged off to advertising. Elsewhere in the report, however, it is stated that certain of these items in the surplus account have an actual value of $61,000,000 more than the book value. "A reasonable surplus as a measure of protection, any well regulated enterprise is entitled to," says The Hook, but no concern that has been given such enormous grants as the C.P.R.

In Any Recipe Calling for Milk

In any recipe calling for milk use Carnation but, because it is twice as rich as ordinary milk, be sure to use ½ cup Carnation to ½ cup of water.

Use Carnation for every milk need of your family. It is always rich, safe and pure. Its convenience and economy make it the most desirable milk for every purpose.

Ask your grocer to deliver Carnation with your other pure foods. He knows its goodness and is glad to sell it.

TWO SHOWS EACH NIGHT AT 7 and 9.

Teach your child internal cleanliness

THE mother who permits constipation in her baby or older child is risking the health, even the life of her little one.

It must be remembered that an infant is helpless, unable to tell that constipation is making its life miserable. Consequently the mother must be able to recognize signs of constipation in her baby. Convulsions, night terrors, grinding the teeth in sleep, feverishness, fretfulness and such symptoms—any of these may indicate that poisons from baby's stagnant intestine are flooding the little body.

In older children biliousness, coated tongue, loss of appetite warn the mother that constipation is present. Constipation, unchecked in youth, may lead to serious consequences. In constipation, according to intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Washing Cleans Only The Skin

Laxatives Only Aggravate Constipation

The mother should not resort to laxatives. A noted authority says that laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

More Important Than Soap and Water

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in children's and general hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Let your infant or child have Nujol regularly—and see rosy cheeks, clear eyes and happiness return once more.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol yourself as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

IN another week a party of seventeen Esthonians will sail from Europe on the liner Minnedosa en route to British Columbia. They will take up land in the Stuart Lake district. Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands, states that the advance guard of Esthonians, who have been influenced in coming to this province by Sir John Pitka, will be met at Vanderhoof by government officials and assisted in getting settled. The minister says that many others will follow during the spring and summer. He points out that the new settlers are splendid people, well able to take care of themselves, and should prove admirable citizens.

******

THE Minister of Mines is at present in Ottawa, conferring with Federal officials. He is urging and expects to secure the abolition of the duty on all mining machinery not manufactured in Canada and a reduction in the tariff on all mining implements, consistent with revenue requirements. A grant will be sought in aid of the construction of mine roads and trails in this province, as well as a Dominion government bounty to supplement that offered by the provincial government for the encouragement of an iron and steel industry. The minister is urging Ottawa to consider seriously the question of present export of Canadian mineral products for smelting in other countries.

SINCE the adjournment of the Royal commission on P.G.E. Railway matters, it is generally conceded that the Third party, under General McRae, failed miserably in their attempts to discredit Hon. Wm. Sloan and W. J. Bowser, K.C. Editorial comments in the leading newspapers of British Columbia, whether politically biased or independent, show this.

The Daily Province says: "When the heads of the Third party formulated serious charges against Mr. Bowser and Mr. Sloan the confidence of the average citizen in high public officials was somewhat shaken. He could not conceive of responsible men making accusations such as these unless there was direct evidence to back them up. What that evidence was based upon, readers must judge for themselves. That the charges failed of proof does not mean that elections in British Columbia are won altogether by prayers or that there are no such things as campaign funds. But it may be taken as fairly showing that the public men of the province are essentially honest. As for this talk of corruption we should hear no more of it. It gives the province a bad name; it discourages interest in public affairs and trust in public men; it diverts attention from vital issues and saps the energy of the administration. Worst of all, perhaps, it deters many a man of judgment, character and ability from entering public life. It is time to go to work."

AN alien does not change into a citizen over night. The changing of his dress may be done in an hour. The changing of his speech is a longer process. And the changing of his ideas is still longer. Really, to become a citizen of our country, a man must first turn his mind from the old land to the new; he must desire to be a Canadian. In the second place, he must learn how Canadian institutions have grown and how they are carried on; he must understand what are a citizen's responsibilities in this land.

SHAWNEE, Oklahoma, has a secretary of a Chamber of Commerce, who is writing and delivering knock-out blows for civic betterment in every way. He is E. R. Waite, and here's what he's got to say about the people who knock their home town: Do you know—

That a man who knocks his home city is a pest. A pest that either should become a booster or be boosted out.

That some of them become knockers to attract attention—others on account of their ignorance.

That in contrast to these pests, you will find in every city many aggressive, courteous, city-building citizens who find no sacrifice too great to help their neighbor and to help their city.

That these citizens are great community assets, ever alert to promote those things of constructive nature that make towards greater growth, development and prosperity.

That there is no discounting the value of the constructive boosting spirit of these citizens.

That it is the indomitable spirit of unceasing optimism and enthusiasm that keeps a city in step with progress.

That teamwork in boosting receives recognition. No city can be without it and attain real distinction.

That a city must believe in itself and believe in letting the world know it, before the world will pay any attention to it.

A COMMON fault in business organizations is that of giving too much attention to getting new business and not attention enough to holding the old ones. Too many organizations think that by gaining new customers, they are going ahead, when, more often, they are standing still. Similarly many an individual is so interested in trying to get the job of the fellow on the next ladder rung above him that he forgets the chap below who is after his scalp. If the present job, or the present customer is handled well the future will take care of itself, almost automatically.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

The report of City Auditor G. F. Johnson, shows that although extensive renewals of the waterworks system were carried out in 1923, the city would have ended the year with a surplus had it not been for the failure of the Home Bank of Canada, in which institution the city did its business.

The report makes the following comment of the city's financial situation:

Revenue and expenditure shows a surplus of revenue over expenditure of $6,025.39, which compares favorably with the 1922 surplus, when it is taken into consideration that the sum of $25,853.94 was spent on waterworks renewals out of the general revenue.

"It should be noted that the Home Bank of Canada still has funds amounting to $89,321.38, after the receipt of a dividend of 25 per cent on the deposits held by the said bank when it suspended payment. The balances are shown on the statements at their full value, as at the time of writing it is not possible to estimate the loss in this connection.

"The electric light and waterworks department both show a vast improvement over previous years, there being a surplus of $13,138.44 and $11,063.31, respectively, after providing for all fixed charges.

"There was spent on waterworks which was provided for as follows: renewals during the year $93,999.53, Waterworks reserve as at January 1, 1923, $14,871.07; general surplus as at January 1, 1923, $53,274.52; the balance of $25,853.94 being paid out of general revenue.

"The school department has kept within its estimates to the amount of $1,795.47, and to this sum is to be added their proportion of the Liquor act profits, $2,414.19, and poll tax for 1923, $2,495., making a total of $6,704.66 to be applied for the relief of taxation in this department for 1924.

"Taxes in arrears to December 31, 1923, were $12,969.81, including interest and penalty charges. The percentage of 1923 taxes collected was 90..7.

Cash receipts for 1923 were $269,892.36, and disbursements $301,318.36. These figures include proceeds of debentures sold, to the amount of $57,150, and disbursements on same account, and also disbursements for waterworks renovation to the amount of over $93.000.

"Owing to the suspension of the Home Bank of Canada on August 17 last, the city will suffer a loss, the amount of which has not yet been ascertained. Satisfactory financial arrangements have been made with the Imperial Bank of Canada to finance the city's requirements, and the debt to the said bank on December 31, 1923, was $52,136.23."

WESTERN CONDITIONS IMPROVE MILK

One of the girls from our own staff, who is rather a good cook, is always trying recipes that come in. We had her make a one-egg cake the other day. It was exceptionally nice, very rich, fine texture and had a delicate cream flavor. Milk canned here seems to have certain elements which gives cooking a distinctive quality—a richness, or rather it imparts a kind of smoothness to flavor.

J. S. Irvine left yesterday on a business trip to Vancouver.

Mrs. Barrett, of the Northern Hotel, was operated on in the Fernie hospital on Monday for mastoids. She is now making fair progress.

Constable Cameron, who was seriously injured some weeks ago, is able to be around again with the assistance of crutches.

Quite a crowd of golfers were out on the local links on Sunday. While the course is not very good yet, still it might be worse.

A small sawmill plant owned by the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., at Michel, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin Sunday morning. The mill, which was located close to the mines, was used for cutting props.

The Women's Auxiliary of the G. W.V.A. will hold a cake and apron sale on Saturday, March 22, in the G.W.V.A. assembly rooms, in the afternoon and evening. The hours will be announced later.

The output of the Great West Amusement Co., which played in West Fernie for a week late last fall, and has been stored in Cranbrook ever since, was sold there under a mortgage the other day.

Peter Ross, charged with obtaining money under false pretences, came up before His Honor Judge Thompson on Wednesday for speedy trial. After hearing the evidence the judge dismissed the case. Ross was immediately rearrested on an Alberta charge.

The announcement of government policy regarding the revision of the powers of the Home Bank commission has been postponed until the return of Premier King. This announcement was made in the house of commons by Hon. G. P. Graham, acting premier.

Dr. Harwood, of Vancouver, a brother of Walter Harwood, of Fernie, was seriously injured in an automobile accident in that city the other day. Dr. Harwood was driving down a hill at Point Grey when the brakes gave out and he was forced to turn into the bank. The car was badly smashed and the Doctor and his aunt, Mrs. (Col.) S. Steele, who was with him in the car, were both seriously injured.

Rotarian Sam Savage, of Calgary, who was in Fernie yesterday in connection with the installation of the Elk Lodge in this city, was the principal speaker at the Rotary luncheon. Same spoke briefly of the work of the Elks and recommended the local organization to the Rotarians. He then gave an interesting discourse on the history of the fruit and produce business in Western Canada, with which he has been connected for the past 35 years.

Acting on behalf of the Industrial Workers of the World in their appeal against the enforcement of injunctions served on their officials by the C.P.R. and several lumber companies of the district, W. R. Ross spent two days of last week in Cranbrook. Mr. Ross, it will be remembered by many, was formerly Fernie's representative in the B.C. legislature, and also held the important post, under the late Bowser administration, of minister of lands for the province. Mr. Ross is now senior member of the law firm of Ross & Ross with offices in Vancouver. Captain William Ross, his son, is junior member of the firm.—Cranbrook Courier.

Wm. Sherman is strong in his statement about maintaining the present wage scale in the mines. That is fine, but if the present wage scale is maintained for the next three years most of the miners and others residing in this district will be looking for a job in some oil field. The high cost of coal is rapidly putting it out of the industrial market. It might be well for those who have the miners side of the case in hand to make a careful study of this aspect of the case before they kill the goose that lays the golden egg. If the C.P.R. and the Canadian National lines were to follow the example of the Great Northern railway and install oil burners, Bill might then see the other fellow's side of the question and what he is up against.

Joe Scott was on Wednesday fined $5 and costs by Magistrate Austin for creating a disturbance.

The local Odd Fellow Lodge has this week installed $1000 worth of new furniture. It was all manufactured in B.C.

The Patracias, of Calgary, defeated the Coleman ladies hockey team on Monday of this week by a score of 3 to 1.

Mrs. D. Townsend returned to the city this morning from an extended visit to her parents in the Old Country.

A very quiet wedding took place at Claresholm on March 1, when Miss Helen Bella, of Fernie, was united in marriage to Mr. Norman Boyce, of Calagry, by Rev. Father Harvey.

The Women's Auxiliary of the G. W.V.A. will hold a special meeting on Tuesday, March 18. All members requested to attend. Important business.

Notice is hereby given that the Eleventh Ordinary General Meeting of Roarin' Game Limited will be held at the office of Messrs. Herchmer & Mitchell, Home Bank Building, Fernie, B.C., on Thursday, the 20th day of March, 1924, at the hour of 4.30 o'clock in the afternoon, to pass the directors' report and accounts, to elect directors and auditor, and to transact the ordinary business of the company.

The Women of Moosecheart Legion held their usual whist drive and dance on Thursday, March 13. During the evening Sister Hooper was the recipient of a handsome suitcase-umbrella. She is leaving shortly for the coast and the sisters took this opportunity of showing the esteem in which they hold her. Mrs. James Wilson, senior Regent, made the presentation and in a neat little speech told of the work done by Sister Hooper. Sister Hooper replied suitably.

The strike is over, but it should not be thought that the I.W.W. will thus capitulate and surrender the East Kootenay district to their arch enemies, the lumber operators. The strike failed because the I.W.W. failed to penetrate the barrier built up which allowed no recognition of them in any way. Steps must be taken by the government to declare the status of the I.W.W. as an illegal body in this country if it is desired to avoid any future conflicts on a larger scale than the episode just closed.—Cranbrook Herald.

THE SIZE OF THE CABINET

Canada in the 57 years of her existence as a Dominion, has never had a ministry so small as the one Sir George Foster suggests. The nearest to it was that of Sir John Abbott, which consisted of 13 members. Sir George thinks 11 could do the work as well as the 17 we now employ. When we compare the situation in Canada with that in the United States, it would seem that we pay a rather high price for ministerial service. We have only 9,000,000 people, and our 17 ministers draw in salaries and indemnities $240,000 a year. In the United States, 10 secretaries look after the government of 110,000,000 people and their aggregate salaries are only $120,000.

In comparing Canada with the United States, however, it must be remembered that our ministers have a triple function in the public life of the country. They are administrators each in charge of a government department. They are legislators also. All are members of one or other of the houses of parliament and on them rests the ultimate responsibility of initiating and framing legislation and of pressing it through the houses. Each minister, in addition, must be prepared to defend on the floor of the house, or senate, not only the conduct of his own department, but the general policy and work of the government. The third function is political. The ministers are the heads of their political party and as such it is part of their business to see that the fortunes of the party do not suffer. They cannot bury themselves in their work of administration, for to lose touch with the country is to court disaster.

In the United States, the secretaries are administrators only. They are not members of congress. They have nothing to do with defending the work of their departments before the house or senate, though from time to time they are called before committees. They may suggest legislation, through the President, but they have nothing to do with seeing that it is enacted. Occasionally, where a secretary is a great national figure, as in the case of Bryan or Hughes or Hoover, he does play a part in politics, but usually he attends to the work of his department only. There is even no necessity tha the shall be politically in sympathy with the balance of his colleagues. James Wilson, for instance, who was secretary for agriculture in the cabinets of Roosevelt and Taft, was a Democrat.—Province.

POWER OF LOVE BASIC THEME OF "MERRY-GO-ROUND"

What is love without handidaps?

Every philosopher and poet who ever amounted to anything has declared that without obstacles in the path of its glorious advance love would be unattractive. It would be colorless.

Most people who read much have noticed that in all powerful love stories the thing that makes them interesting and thrilling is the final victory over apparently insurmountable handicaps.

"Merry-Go-Round," the Universal Super-Jewel spectacle feature which was in the making for many months and comes at last to the Orpheum theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, tells of the love between a peasant girl of the Prater, the famous Coney Island district of Vienna, Austria, and a young count of the Emperor's highest staff.

In real life a successful consummation of that love in happy marriage would be absolutely impossible, and "Merry-Go-Round" is not a fairy tale. It does not try to picture the impossible.

But the recent world war knocked the foundation out from under Austria's proud aristocracy and left a ponderous emptiness where before there had been splendor and pompous idleness. Today members of noble faimilies work, no better than the peasants they once despised.

"Merry-Go-Round," a multiple reel film story, tells this in dramtic form and pictures the social changes that fate made with a drastic hand in the once proud nation.

A presidential boom for William Jennings Bryan is reported. Should "our peerless leader" be elected it would mean the end of "monkey business" at Washington.

THE COST OF LIVING

The Labor Gazette, issued by the Dominion department of labor, contains in each issue a review of conditions pertaining to the cost of living, with prices of staple articles and index numbers showing the tendency of living expenses.

The increase in the family budget of retail prices was very slight but there was a substantial advance in the bureau of statistics index number of wholesale prices.

The cost per week of a list of 29 foods for an average family of five in terms of the average retail prices in some 60 cities was $10.78 at the beginning of January as compared with $10.73 for December, 1923; $10.52 for January, 1923; $11.03 for January, 1922; $14.48 for January, 1921; $16.92 for June, 1920 (the peak); $15.30 for January, 1920; $12.42 for January, 1918; and $7.73 for January, 1914. Prices for eggs, milk, butter continued upward and there were also increases in beef, veal, salt pork, and potatoes, while small declines occurred in the prices of pork roast, cheese and flour. Including the cost of fuel and rent with that of foods the total gudget averaged $21.23 at the beginning of January as compared with $21.21 for December, 1923; $21.13 for January, 1923; $21.52 for January, 1922; $25.30 for January, 1921; $26.92 for July, 1920 (the peak); $24.15 for January, 1920; $19.80 for January, 1918; and $14.49 for January, 1914. Fuel averaged slightly lower. No changes were reported in rent.

In wholesale prices the index number calculated by the Dominion bureau of statistics, based upon the average prices of 238 commodities in 1913 as 100, was substantially higher, the figure for January being 156.7 (the highest point reached since September, 1921) as compared with 153.5 for December, 1923; 151.4 for January, 1923; 149.8 for January, 1922; 201.7 for January, 1921; and 256.9 for May, 1920, which was the highest point reached by the wholesale index number since 1913.

LABOR GETS LION'S SHARE

Because the increase in freight rates since 1913 is smaller than the increase in the cost of living and in wages, the Washington Bureau of Railway Economics finds that the cost of transportation service, considered as one factor of distribution, is lower relatively than the cost of other services involved between the producer and consumer. The abnormal increase in wages as compared both with the cost of living and with freight charges, is brought out:

The cost of living at present, according to the United States department of labor, is 72.1 per cent greater than the cost of living in 1913. The average hourly wages of unionized workers increased 93 per cent between 1913 and 1922, and has increased from 5 to 10 per cent since 1922, so that union wages are now more than 100 per cent greater than in 1913. The hourly wages of railway employees have increased 133 per cent since 1915, while their annual earnings have increased 97 per cent. Freight rates generally are now 54 per cent above 1913. According to Secretary Wallace, freight rates on wheat from country shipping points to primary markets are 45 per cent above the pre-war rates. Railway taxes per mile are 160 per cent higher than in 1913.

Agitators create a great deal of discontent about the relations of capital and labor, always trying to show that these are unfavorable to the workers. A careful study of the situation, however, would seem to indicate on the basis of the figures given above that the division between capital and organized labor is unfair to the investor and to all workers who are not unionized but who must pay the increased cost of living without a corresponding increase in buying power.—Financial Post.

COAST ITEMS

Vancouver, March 1z. — Nearly enough whiskers to stuff a household suite will shortly feature the Fraser Valley with the coming of a new sect, unless present plans fall through. The Community Brotherhood, something after the fashion of the Doukhobors, is arranging to colonize 17 families on a quarter section of land, or 160 acres. Elder Amos, who was here from eastern New York three years ago, is now in town settling details. Messrs. Fraser and Carey, who are handling the proposition, are reticient on details, but state that it is likely that a greater number of the colonists will eventually settle here. There is some hitch in the immigration laws, but the agent of the community states that this is being overcome. The Community Brotherhood is said to be prosperous and exclusive, no efforts being made to secure converts. The sect believes in eugenics or selective progeny. Their families are limited. The maidens of the sect are said to be beautiful and naive. The men wear beards and long hair. All practice the most primitive clothing styles, nudity being said to prevail within the limitations of the colony.

Vancouver, March 12.—After an unexplained absence of 17 years, Donald McAllister has returned to his family here, and his wife refuses to cancel her arrangements for divorce on the assumption that her husband was legally dead. During McAllister's absence, it is stated to the solicitors, his wife prospered with a cafe and rooming house, educated their four children, bought some property and otherwise prospered, while her missing spouse, it is cited, returned in destitute circumstances. He was refused admittance to the home of Mrs. McAllister and her children take her side.

Vancouver, March 12.—Nearly fifty innocent persons were contaminated by a nameless disease spread by a foreign fruit dealer who was diseased and who spat upon his apples before polishing them. This amazing fact was brought out by E. H. S. Winn, K.C., chairman of the Compensation Board, in a public address here. It was also stated that fully 60 per cent of the disease, now prevalent to an astounding degree, is acquired innocently in public conveniences and cafes, and not culpably.

Vancouver, March 12.—Hundreds of people in B.C. are receiving letters from a London agency that claims to be agents for a huge estate seeking heirs. The Hook comes out with the statement that the agency is a fake. It is stated that thousands of dollars have been sent to the agency from various parts of the province since last November, and scores of families have been living in wild hopes of inheriting a fortune.

DANCING VS. GOLF

Cleveland Moffett, the magazine writer and investigator, says that it is, and he advances not only his own experience, but a wealth of argument besides, to prove that every day, and in every way, golf can not compare at least as "an ideal conditioning exercise for those above fifty," with "tripping the light fox-troting toe." Younger men don't need, it appears, to be told of the benefits of dancing, but older ones do. Mr. Moffett, whose abilities, both as investigator and writer, have been revealed wherever magazines are read, devotes several pages of logic in the current issue of Strength, New York, to proving his revolutionary thesis. He begins by saying that he has been an enthusiastic golfer for 18 years, and is one still—even tho he has somewhat neglected the game since the war. He proceeds, possibly to indicate that he isn't prejudiced:

I know the joy of a long, low drive, straight down the course, the thrill of a neatly lifted mashie shot that just gets over some brutal chasm and, backward spinning, lands safely on the green. I know the despair that fills a golfer's soul on bad days when he tops and slices and can not keep his eye on the ball, when he misses short putts that lose the match and otherwise disgraces himself. I have played in the eighties on occasions; usually in the nineties. On the whole, I can look impartially at this question of the comparative merits of exercise—golf and dancing.

Good golfers are apt to regard dancing with contemptuous indifference; they much prefer bridge and the hilarity of a group of good fellows in the cafe to the insipid waltzing and fox-trotting with the ladies —say on Saturday night occasions at the country club.

The net debt of Canada was reduced during the month of February. It is hoped that the long months will copy the headline set by the shortest month in the year.

There is less than 60 days' supply of gasoline on hand in the United States according to the statement of Paul Shoupe, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railway and president of the Pacific and Associated Oil Companies. Three great oil fields in California—Santa Fe Springs, Huntington Beach and Long Beach—have not returned the money invested in them, although it is estimated they have produced $250,000,000 to date, Mr. Shoupe asserted.

Why Ford Predominates

A Triumph of Mechanical Simplicity

The Ford is without superfluous parts, yet has everything needed for efficient operation.

Like all great engineering accomplishments, it has progressed through simplification—the reduction to fundamentals.

This process of simplification has brought into being many of those distinctive features which are found exclusively in Ford cars. The Ford planetary transmission and three-pedal control are among those features.

Experts agree that they are ideally suited to the small, light car.

Another feature is the Ford magneto, so remarkable in principle and so successful in practice that a complete unit was recently presented—by request—to the Smithsonian Institution.

There are many such features, but these are sufficient to indicate the sound foundation upon which engineers have pronounced the Ford to be a triumph of mechanical simplicity.

RED CROSS AND MINE DISASTER

Governor Charles R. Mabey, of Utah, pays a merited tribute to the American Red Cross. The governor had visited the scene of the heart-rending coal mine disaster at Castle Gate, where 173 workers perished, 150 women are widows and 500 children left fatherless.

The governor proffered every facility of the state government to those in distress and started relief expenditures on a generous scale.

The American Red Cross made that possible, for it is not the custom of legislatures to make provision against possible catastrophies by appropriating funds to be expended by the governors.

Utah's governor could, safely and confidently, personally underwrite prompt and generous expenditures that were essential to immediate relief, for he knew that the American Red Cross would cheerfully come to his support by "underwriting any sums stipulated by the governor and then carrying on the campaign for funds." Deeply moved by the distressing tragedy, the governor gratefully acknowledges "in behalf of the state, profuond appreciation of their effort."

What a rock of firm foundation is confidence!

Governor Mabey knew that he could rely upon the Red Cross and the Red Cross knows that it can confidently rely upon the always generous support of the Ameican people, for the people have confidence in the Red Cross and are ever ready to help it carry on.—Spokesman.

A marked increase in the number of railway accidents in Canada during 1923 is shown in the report of the board of railway commissioners, tabled by the minister of railways in the house of commons. There were 3187, compared with 2588 in 1922. Last year 295 were killed and 3587 injured, compared with 243 killed and 2856 injured in 1922. Fifteen passengers were killed in 1923, an increase of 10, and 558 injured, an increase of 182. Employees killed last year totalled 122, an increase of 39, and 2542 injured, an increase of 458. Others killed totalled 158, an increase of three, and 487 injured, an increase of 101. Of these killed, 76 were trespassers on the right of way, and of the injured 98 were trespassers. The last record available of the number of passengers carried by all roads is for 1922, when the figure was 44,383,620.

COMMUNICATION

Fernie, B.C., March 12, 1924
Open Letter to Robert Livett, District 18, Calgary:

Dear Sir—Was surprised to learn of your arrival here this morning. Was at the depot yesterday, hence my surprise and absence from your meeting. Will submit a few points on this doctor question for your consideration.

The doctor question is really one to be settled by the Coal Co. employees and the doctors themse'ves. This was always the custom followed in the past and is not U.M.W. of A. business.

The importing into Fernie of two doctors to take the old doctors' jobs during this dispute is forming a dangerous precedent that the local operators may imitate, and is entirely opposed to union principles.

Unlawfully deducting money from U.M.W. of A. union men's wages, on the ground that they are disobeying a union order, i.e., to sign for the new doctors, is comic, inasmuch as the order is unlawful, and if unwillingly obeyed would make men slaves. The U.M.W. of A. has got plenty of hard uphill work ahead, and should not be pestered by reactionaries ordering men to go for medical attendance to imported doctors. Really, the thing is so comic that one would think they themselves would see how ridiculous they are. I remain, Yours sincerely,
Robt. Draper.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir—I bought a car from a local dealer in July of 1923 and he took it away from me in October, 1923, after I had paid him $544.00. I had agreed to pay for it in twelve months time and he told me that I could have that time to pay for it. If he had given me three months longer I could have paid in full.

Yours truly,
Mike (x) Fitzen.

WINS PAS DOG DERBY

The Pas, Man., March 12.—Coming down the home stretch in a furious burst of speed, his dogs apparently as full of life as when they started Tuesday morning, Shorty Russick romped home at 10.50 this morning, first in The Pas dog derby, in 23 hours and 42 minutes for the 200-mile course, a new world's record for the distance. His victory carries with it a $1200 cash prize and possession of the Grant Rice-Walter Goyne cup for one year.

Thirty minutes later Allan MacDonald arrived, his seven dogs all in good condition. Bill Grayson, driving Creighton's team, arrived 10 minutes later, while Frank Schloegel, the only entrant from Big River and winner of the recent Big River derby, was the fourth in at 12.20. All his dogs were fresh and upstanding.

Adog derby is a long, long trail that tests the endurance of the huskiest of the huskies. Sports who back a loser realize that their money has gone to the dogs.

COAL MINES PROBLEMS

The local delegates to the conference of Operators and Miners returned on Monday from Calgary, all efforts to reach a settlement having failed. Neither side had anything to say in the matter. The local situation is far from bright. The men have been working short time and few of them have any money ahead and most of those who have a little stake have it tied up in the Home Bank. The following editorial from the Calgary Herald relative to the situation may be of interest:

The rupture of negotiations between the coal miners and operators of District 18, on Saturday, found the parties deadlocked over the operators' proposal of a reduction of $1.17 per day in the wages of all employees, and the miners' demand that the existing wage scale be continued for three years.

The operators take the ground that the continued payment of wartime wages is no longer justified, that the $1.17 is a war or high cost of living bonus, the reason for which has disappeared, that the reduced wages will average $3.00 per day per employee over pre-war wages, and that the reduction will enable them to meet local and foreign competition, extend their markets and give their men more steady employment. The miners rest their case on the fact that their central organization in the United States has recently concluded an agreement on terms and for a period similar to that which they proposed here.

Almost simultaneously with the break came the sanction for the appointment of a provincial commission to investigate the coal industry.

Which of the two events will cause the public most concern is a question. Both strikes and commissions are expensive, have taken up a great deal of time, and the resulting good has been negligible. It took two years and cost the people of the United States a million dollars to ascertain the findings of a federal coal commission, which when published did not benefit the consumer by one ten-cent piece.

There are, however, some things in Alberta to which a commission can direct its attention.

It can find out and tell the public why the services of a certain section of coal mines in Alberta are worth $2.00 a day more than another section in the same field and from $2.00 to $3.00 a day more than in Nova Scotia or on Vancouver Island, when the average price obtainable for the coal is $4.07 in Alberta, $4.42 in Nova Scotia and $5.00 in British Columbia, according to the federal coal statistics for 1922.

It can find out and tell the public how far the intermittent employment of which the miners complain is the result of the high wage scale upon which they insist, and whether that scale is broadening the market or slowly strangling it.

It can find out and tell the public whether the reasons which during the war forced miners' wages to a higher basis for work done than anywhere else on the North American continent still exist. and if they do, do they justify the miners' demand that their high wages be continued for three years more. If they do not, it can perhaps find out and explain why Alberta should accept a three-year war-time wage agreement politically engineered at Jacksonville, Florida, instead of a reduction.

If it can do these things, it will then have earned the gratitude of the general public, and have paved the way for some remedy of the existing conditions.

FLOWERS THAT BLOOM ALL THE YEAR ROUND

Classes in paper flower making will be an attraction next week at Suddaby's. These will be conducted by Miss Gudmundson, an expert flower maker, who received her training in Dennison's New York stores.

Paper flowers have such a wide appeal and are suited to so many uses that her classes will unquestionably prove most popular. The flowers made by Miss Gudmundson are entirely natural in appearance. It is not unusual to mistake them for real. There are not only the well known roses, carnations and chrysanthemums, but pansies, nasturtiums and many other varieties not commonly imitated.

All are fascinating to make and they are of real value to the hostess, to bazaar committees and church workers, to professional decorators and window trimmers.

Besides flower making Miss Gudmundson's lessons will cover costume making with Dennison's paper, crepe paper rope, basketry, which enables one to make baskets, shades, lamps and trays in great variety, and sealing wax craft which features an easy method of doing ones own enameling on vases, making beads, buttons, hat pin tops and quaint little raised flowers—all with sealing wax.

You will surely find it very much worth while to attend Miss Gudmundson's classes.

DR. GARNER LEAVES FERNIE

On Tuesday evening of next week Dr. Garner and family leave for Vancouver Island, where the doctor begins his new practice on April 1. The scene of his future labors will be Lake Cowichan, a district some 50 miles from Victoria, which is rapidly developing into one of the big lumber industries of this province. There are now some 800 men employed and the number will increase as time goes on. An hospital is to be erected in the near future.

In the departure of Dr. Garner, Fernie loses a good surgeon, physician and citizen. For seven years he has been with us and time has proven his ability and sterling worth. To many he will be best known and remembered in a professional way. His natural aptitude for surgery and his love for the work have given him a place of high standing in the medical fraternity of B.C. Members of the Compensation Board have been free to say that the work done in the Fernie Hospital ranks with the best that comes under the Board's supervision. Many in this district who have passed through serious sickness and difficult operations, can never forget Dr. Garner's efficency and unfailing devotion. While many men are demanding the six-hour day, our doctors often work 18 to 20 hours and nothing is said about it. Dr. Garner was no exception to this rule. Those who have had occasion to be on the streets in the late hours of night and the early hours of morning, have frequently met him at his work.

While his professional duties were arduous, yet he found time for other things and he filled a large place in the general life of the city. He was a member of the school board, chairman of the Boy Scout Association, member of the Rotary Club and had a place on the Library Board. He was an office bearer in the United Church, where he will be greatly missed, and lecturer in First Aid at the Mine Rescue station on Sunday afternoons. His duties in connection with all these offices were faithfully discharged. He leaves Fernie carrying with him the respect of all right thinking citizens who may have but a casual acquaintance with him, but the love and esteem of all who knew his real worth. We wish him success in his new field of labor.

While the partnership existing between Drs. Garner & Asselstine has been dissolved, Dr. Asselstine will secure other assistance and carry on the work.

BOY SCOUT INSPECTION

R. Ross Sutherland, President of the Provincial Council Boy Scout Association of British Columbia, who is on his way to the coast from a special conference at Ottawa, will visit Fernie on Tuesday, March 25, when he will make an inspection of the local troop.

The troop will meet in the United Church basement on Tuesday evening at 6.30 sharp. A light supper will be served, following which several exhibitions of scout work will be demonstrated for the President, who will later address the boys on Patrol and Scout work generally.

At 8.30 p.m., Mr. Sutherland requests that a public meeting be held, so that he may clearly define the Boy Scout work in every phase. This meeting will also be held in the United Church basement and the local Boy Scout Association earnestly requests that Fernie citizens make it a point to attend the meeting. Parents who already have boys who are members of the troop, and those who have boys of Scout age should make it a point to be present.

WHY MINES ARE IDLE

While the Central States have made a settlement with the United Mine Workers of America, the chief producers of coal who come into competition with District No. 18, or this District, in the Canadian Central markets, (Winnipeg District), have not up to date entered into an agreement with the United Mine Workers of America. This applies to Fairmont, West Virginia, Coal Fields, and to the Pocohontas Districts.

About fifty per cent of the State of Washington miners have signed up with the United Mine Workers of America for three years under the following scale of wages:

Contract miners, on day wages, $7.50 for 8 hours at the face, or at wages that are 12½ per cent less than the wages that are asked for in this District when the hours of work are taken into consideration, which should be done if equity of consideration is to be accorded to the two competitive districts.

The Washington Union Miners have also agreed to accept the following average scale of wages for underground day labor: $6.00 per shift, which is $1.31 less than the average wages requested by the Union for the corresponding classes of work in this District, which when taken into consideration with the one hour less per day actually worked in this District, means that the underground average day wage scale agreed to for underground work in the State of Washington is $2.06 per working time less per day in Washington than the wages that are asked for in this District, or 27 per cent.

The agreement with the United Mine Workers of America and the Union Miners of that State calls for an average wage of $5.00 per day being paid surface labor. This is $1.83 per shift less than the Union is asking for the same average classes of labor to be paid here, or 33 per cent lower wages, when the actual working time of the two districts is taken into account. The settlement at the Union Mines accepted by the United Mine Workers of America in the aggregate means that this organization is ready to sacrifice Canadian production in favor of the American mines, when it is conveniently possible for them to do so. In this particular case, the penalty they are endeavoring to place upon competitive production averages 24 per cent working wage scale in favor of the State of Washington Union mines. This is one of the chief reasons for Fernie District miners losing their employment, a basic cause that may, and can only be rectified by a more reasonable consideration being given by those responsible for the welfare of this community to the actual facts that are so seriously affecting our local coal production.

* * *

We would like to know by what process of reasoning President Lewis reaches the conclusion that the men of District 18 shall receive $2.65 more a day than the men of Nova Scotia, and $2.06 a day more than the men of Washington, taking into consideration the one hour per day less actually worked in District 18. In Nova Scotia he fixes up an agreement with the operators and says in effect to the miners: Accept this or get out of the union. In District 18 he says to the operators: You must pay this impossible wage scale or your mines will be idle. He knows that the Nova Scotia men will not accept the agreement he is trying to force on them and he equally well knows that the operators of District 18 cannot continue to pay the high war wages any longer. To the onlooker it would seem to indicate that the American interests are working to secure the Canadian markets and that our Canadian miners seem to be willing to render them all the assistance possible.

MINERS LOCALS VOTE SOLIDLY AGAINST CUT

Calgary, March 20.—Officials of the United Mine Workers of America in District 18 upon their return to the city on Thursday stated that all mining camps had now been covered regarding the forthcoming strike on March 31. They said that in each case the miners had voted solidly for no reductions in the present wage scale and for a three-year contract.

Other than this there is nothing new in the situation and matters are merely dragging on towards the time when the miners will down tools.

PAID MEN TO STEER DEPOSITS

Toronto, March 19.—Further irregularities in connection with the management of the Home Bank of Canada were brought to light today, when Mr. G. T. Clarkson, liquidator, made the discovery that Fred H. Richardson, formerly of Toronto, now of Pickering, Ont., had been paid a substantial sum of money in the way of commissions, supposedly for influence brought to bear in the way of getting deposits from the city of Toronto.

Mr. Richardson is well known in Toronto circles, having at one time occupied a seat on the board of control and being at present a well to do farmer in the Pickering district. He has taken an active part in the county municipal affairs, being at one time warden of Ontario county and at the last provincial election he ran as United Farmers of Ontario candidate for South Ontario.

The amount of the commission which Mr. Richardson received is not definitely mentioned, though it is said to be a considerable sum; and the inference is that Richardson, to whom the money was paid, according to the books of the Home bank, was able to return services to the bank in securing city deposits which would not otherwise have gone that way.

When Mr. Clarkson made the discovery, he paid a visit to Finance Commissioner George Ross, of Toronto, to ask if the bank had been justified in paying commissions to any person for services rendered in obtaining deposits for the Home bank.

Mr. Ross wrote a letter to Mr. Clarkson declaring that he had never had any business relations with the party who is said to have received the commissions, nor had he ever been in communication with him, directly or indirectly, regarding the city's deposits.

It is stated that someone else received commissions from the bank in connection with the Ontario provincial government's deposits in the Home bank, but it has not yet been ascertained who it was. These commissions, it is claimed, amounted to about $45,000.

No names have been mentioned as yet in connection with the receiving of these commissions. Immediate investigation will, however, be carried on by the provincial government.

STRIKE ALMOST A CERTAINTY

(Calgary Herald)

It is now a certainty that there will be a coal miners' strike in District 18 when the present contract terminates on March 31 next.

The sub-committee of the miners and operators appointed by the joint conference to consider proposals made by each party to the joint conference and the possibility of meeting on some common ground for a new agreement, adjourned at noon on Saturday and reported to their respective organizations their inability to agree.

The proposals upon which the parties split were, on the part of the miners, a renewal of their present agreement for three years, and on the part of the operators, a renewal of the present agreement for one year subject to a reduction in wages to all employees of $1.17 per day.

The miners' representatives upheld their position flatly on the contract negotiated at Jacksonville, covering the central competitive field of the United States, and expressed their determination to secure a similar contract here.

The operators contended for a consideration of the problems and difficulties peculiar to District 18 and for the measure of relief which the proposed reduction would give them.

It was felt that the resumption of the joint conference would be a formality only, and negotiations were adjourned sine die. Unless some change takes place before March 31 in the attitude of the participants in the negotiations now concluded, and there is very little indication of this, the result will be a cessation of work on March 31 in District 18 when the present contract terminates.

When seen after the abortive conference, R. M. Young, commissioner of the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association, said that the Association based its appeal for a reduction of wages on the conditions as they existed in Distrct 18 and as set out in their proposals to the miners on March 6.

The competition of local mines outside of the association, particularly of the "strip" mines in the northern field, and of American coal, as well as the competition of fuel oil and of mines operating in the States, especially in Washington, on a much lower wage scale than paid by the association's mines, were all factors which made some relief an imperative necessity.

It had been said many times, he remarked, that the present scale was the highest attained during the years of and after the war. Many of the increases granted arose out of the increased cost of living, and although that cost had now receded to a point at which it was in 1918, no corresponding consideration had been given in the wage scale. There had been, and continued to be, a very steady pressure on operating companies on the part of the public and industrial users of coal for some reduction in the price. So far as it had been possible to do so some reduction in the price had already been made but that reduction had reached the point beyond which it could not be extended without a corresponding reduction in wages.

The operators feel confident, he said, and had good reason to believe that a reasonable reduction, such as was proposed, would in turn secure an extension of the present market and yield steadier work at the mines in District 18. The men who were not disposed to consider those arguments as affecting their position and their final statement was that they would stand on the Jacksonville agreement negotiated in the United States; in other words they would insist upon the continuance of the present scale for a period of three years.

With the breaking off of negotiations one of the most bitter struggles in the history of the coal mining industry in District 18 will take place when the present contract expires on April 1 next.

About 10,000 miners in the various organized camps in the district will be affected. In all probability the strike will be of long duration and will likely extend to the fall.

The miners throughout the negotiations firmly stood out for at least the basic principles of the contract recently arranged in the mid-competitive field of the United States. This contract called for a three years' contract on the existing wage scale, which is based on the peak wages during and since the war.

The operators agreed to a renewal of the existing contract for one year but with the deletion of the $1.17 per man per day war bonus.

When the operators and miners' conference committees met the beginning of last week no headway was made with negotiations, and a subcommittee of five from both sides was appointed to continue negotiations. They held several meetings, the last of which was on Saturday morning, but they failed to reach a satisfactory basis. The sub-committee reported this to their respective representatives who met in joint conference on Saturday afternoon. The latter negotiations resulted in an open break as mentioned.

The miners' officials in the present negotiations have shown a much bolder front than ever before in asking for the adjustment of a long list of "inequalites" and general conditions. One of the latter was that the clause providng for the appointment of an independent chairman be deleted. The effect of that would have been apparently that if the committee representing both sides failed to agree on a settlement of any disputed matter, the employees would then be at liberty to strike or take such other action as they thought fit to enforce a settlement along the lines of their view. Under the present agreement, where an independent chairman is required to settle any matter of local dispute, he is generally appointed by the minister of labor. The miners' proposal would remove from the minister his jurisdiction in those matters.

Another outstanding feature in the miners' new demands was in connection with the preference of employment in the same camp operated by the same company. It was asked that the names of the men be entered in a "waiting list" to be kept by the the secretary of the local union, who would on requisition issue an O.K. slip to each man to be employed. In other words, every man employed by the company would go to that union official who would O. K. or reject him as he thought fit.

There were many other demands for alterations in conditions made by the miners, which it is contended by th eoperators would seriously hamper the work of the mines.

What has had no little influence no doubt with the majority of the operators has been the marked difference between the wages paid in Alberta compared with the Nova Scotia and Vancouver Island fields. It has been pointed out that even in District 18 itself there is a difference of about $2 a day between the wages paid by Drumheller operators as against those at Edmonton.

Government figures, operators state, show that contract miners receive $2.65 a day more in District 18 than in Nova Scotia; hand miners, $2.35 a day more; hoisting engineers, $2.79; drivers, $3.31; bratticemen, $3.45; pumpmen, $2.54; underground laborers, $3.25; surface laborers, $3.08; machinists, $3.54; carpenters $3.89; and blacksmiths $3.79 more. Many of the operators also state that owing to the excessive competition with the non-union mines, where wages are even less than in the Nova Scotia field, that they are being slowly but surely driven out of the industry.

Both operators' and miners' officials have been exceedingly reticient over the recent negotiations. They have at no time given the slightest inkling as to how they were progressing, and although each side maintained a most friendly attitude, it was easily seen to those who were following the situation closely that a rupture was by no means unlikely owing to the marked difference between the two parties.

From what can be gathered the miners' officials are entering into the forthcoming fray with a comparatively light heart. They state that the headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America at Indianapolis have promised them strong financial support; not merely that, but that the organized miners are now in a much better position to strike owing to District 18 being more thoroughly organized.

Another factor which has had a very considerable weight with the operators in not conceding to the men's demands is that fact that the coal mining industry of District 18 is sadly in need of wider markets, more especially that of Ontario. It has been stated over and over again that at anything like the present high wages and overhead expenses, the operators cannot compete with American coal in Ontario, especially since there is a high freight charge against them. They do claim that with what they figure as fair wages, they can get into the Ontario market to stay and can give their men work practically throughout the year instead of spasmodically as at present.

"The Tanlac Treatment Made Me Look and Feel Like a Different Man," Saye Petro.

"The Tanlac treatment has made me look and feel like a different man," is the positive statement of H. G. Petro, well known citizen of Okotoks, Alberta, Canada.

"Before taking Tanlac I was sorely troubled with indigestion, gas bloating and a tightness in my chest that made me short of breath. My appetite was gone, my circulation poor, and headaches and dizzy spells would strike me most every day. I also had a bad swelling in my leg.

"Three bottles of Tanlac put me in A-1 condition in every way. I have a rousing appetite, sleep like a log and am rid of all my troubles, even the swelling in my leg. Incidentally I have gained so much weight that I am too big for the clothes I wore before taking Tanlac, and am feeling fine. You can't beat Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

"ASHES OF VENGEANCE" AN ENTRANCING PICTURE

"A mountain among the myriad molehills of the screen." Thus did the critic of the New York World characterize Joseph M. Schneck's magnificent production, "Ashes of Vengeance," a First National picture, starring Norma Talmadge, which the Orpheum theatre will present for two days, commencing next Wednesday. In his quest for material with which to add another brilliant chapter to the notable achievements of his great star, Mr. Schenck had his attention called to H. B. Somerville's novel, "Ashes of Vengeance," while in England a year ago. He read the novel and immediately acquired the screen rights. And he determined that the work would be filmed in strict adherence to the narrative and to historical accuracy.

Thus it is that "Ashes of Vengeance" is an entracing romance with rich historical background, dealing with a dramatic period in the annals of France which offers richer opportunities for gorgeousness of costume and setting and for stirring deeds of valor, perhaps than any period in any other country's history.

To insure accuracy in production, Mr. Schenck delegated the writing of the continuity to Frank Lloyd, who had been selected as director, and the art direction to Stephen Goosson, of l'Ecole des Beaux Arts, of Paris. An immense amount of research was undertaken by these directors.

The ranks of motion picture talent were combed for types as true as possible to the historic personages who move across the screen in the majestic sequence of this stirring picture, among them Catherine de Medici, Charles the Ninth and three of the Guises. Among the distinguished artists selected, Norma Talmadge, are Conway Tearle, Wallace Beery, Courtenay Foote, Josephine Crowell, Betty Francisco, Claire McDowell, Andre' de Beranger, Murdock MacQuarrie, Boyd Irwin, Carmen Phillips, Winter Hall, William Clifford, Hector V. Sarno, Earl Schenck, Jimmy Cooley, Lucy Beaumont, Forrest Robinson, Mary McAllister, Kenneth Gibson, Howard Truesdell, Frank Leigh and little Jeanne Carpenter.

It is reassuring to learn on the authority of the Journal of the American Medical Association that "dirty money" is not as dangerous to life and health as the world has been led to suspect. Bacteriological investigations show that "somehow there seems to be something in the composition of the printed bill that acts unfavorably on bacterial life." Confidence restored, "filthy lucre" may continue to be accepted at its face value regardless of its dirty face.

B.C. MUSICAL FESTIVAL AND CHILDREN'S CHOIRS

Much has been said and written concerning the art of music in recent years, and in this day it is hardly possible to read current news without the notice of musical events; this is an indication of the important part which music occupies in our national life.

There was a time in the remote past when the church har the monopoly in this art and the knowledge of music was confined to a limited few. As the years passed by and the art developed in form and character, new interest was created and gradually there came into being, societies composed of men and women with an earnest and profound love of music, who periodically met together to help and encourage each other in the vocal and instrumental arts. The difficulties they contended with and overcame, it is hard for us to imagine, yet from that time progress has been and still is exceptionally marked.

By easy gradations from choirs and societies there came, music in the home, and here is the place, the right place to which music essentially belongs.

There is nothing which is more conducive to the harmony of home life than the harmony of music, nothing is so helpful to the mental and moral upbringing of children. For creating and maintaining the true "home" atmosphere which will endure for all time, music in the home is incomparable.

That this is being recognized by our highest educational authorities is significant. There is not a public school in the province that does not contain music in its curriculum and in the forthcoming B.C. Musical Festival to be held in Vancouver, May 20, we are sure to see remarkable evidence of this, there being a large entry of choirs from our day schools competing for the Lieut.-Governor's Shield and other awards, and the public may look forward with certainty to performances that will well merit their attendance and stimulate their desire for the advancement of the musical education of their children.

Why you have Rheumatism

RHEUMATISM is largely due to weakened and deranged kidneys. When the kidneys fail to properly fulfil their duty of carrying away the poisonous impurities in the blood stream, uric acid accumulates, and rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica and other serious ailments follow.

If you suffer from headaches, pains in the back, dizzy spells, or specks floating before the eyes, painful, suppressed or scalding urination let Gin Pills set your kidneys right, and restore you to the glory of good health. A few doses will bring relief. A few boxes will make you entirely well.

POISONS SELF; DIDN'T KNOW IT

Merchant Didn't Know What Was the Matter Until Nausea, Sick Headache and Bad Digestion Were Traced to Their Cause.

A local merchant was surprised to find that his tired, nervous, bilious condition was due to poison from the food he ate. Instead of being digested and eliminated properly, his food was poisoning his whole system, causing sick headache, nausea, sour gas on a weak stomach, bad digestion, improper movement of his bowels. Having neglected his liver, that important organ became a menace to his health instead of an aid. Dr. H. S. Thacher's Liver & Blood medicine, however, made a quick difference in the way he felt, slept, ate and looked. This remarkable remedy acts directly on the liver and keeps the whole system toned up. It is sold with the understanding you will be completely satisfied; otherwise, there will be no cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Suddaby's Drug & Book Store, Fernie, B.C., and by leading druggists in each city and town.

Here and There

The Canadian Pacific coastwise steamer "Ena" has carried from the seven plants operating on Barclay Sound over 12,000 tons of salt herring since the present season opened in November. This represents almost half the season's output, which will approximate 26,000 tons.

The heaviest immigration to Canada experienced during the last ten years is looked for this year. Already the arrivals are running ahead of those for the same months in 1923, those from European countries being especially large. The enquiries from prospective settlers in the United States are numerous.

Canada exported 6,532 pairs of leather footwear during January, 1924, according to a report of the Bureau of Statistics. Of these 2,179 went to the United States, 2,038 to New Zealand and 2,031 to China and Japan. Bermuda, the Straits Settlements and Newfoundland took the rest. The value was $21,301.

Canadians imported 5,326,567 pounds of tea last month, or about three-fifths of a pound per head of population. The value of last month's tea imports was $1,661,176, and for the twelve months ending January 31, the value of the 43,223,119 pounds imported into Canada was $13,253,642. The bulk of it came from India.

Special trains of immigrants have recently carried lunch counter cars similar to those used on the harvesters' trains last summer. It is understood that the Canadian Pacific have inaugurated this as a feature of all long distance immigrant trains, thus doing away with the necessity of the newcomers providing their own food or using station lunch counters en route.

The completion of plans for the development of hydro-electric power during the current year will add 900,000 h.p., to the present total of 3,228,000 h.p., already installed in Canada. This additional power will be used in British Columbia to assist mining and pulp industries in Manitoba to supply rural needs, and in Ontario for gold-mining and other industries. In Quebec the chief developments are in connection with the pulp and paper industries, and farther east, in the Maritime Provinces, for public utility purposes.

There is every indication that the dearth of the domestic servant in Canada will be greatly relieved in the course of the ensuing few months. Miss Esther Mackie, head of the Woman's branch, Colonization department, Canadian Pacific Railway, London, announces that "Specially conducted parties of domestic servants are being organized under the Empire Settlement Act in conjunction with the Canadian Government for the conveyance to Montreal and to Western Canada."

One of the most attractive features of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's pavilion at the British Empire Exhibition, Wembly, will be the illuminated exterior panels, and the Neon lighting effect, similar to that used at the Coliseum, London, which is wonderfully penetrating and effective under all atmospheric conditions. The interior of the building displays, through working models and magnificent oil and water color paintings, the many ramifications of the great transportation system as well as the natural resources of this country.

According to E. N. Todd, freight traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway the year 1924 will be a banner one as regards foreign capital coming into the country. "During the year 1923 a number of silk manufacturers from England and the United States decided to locate in Canada, and from present indications this particular movement is only in its infancy. At the present time our industrial department is in correspondence with a very large number of manufacturers who are seriously considering locating in Canada."

This Beauty

Every Woman Can Have

Radiant, Youthful Complexion

Nature gave you a skin of beauty, charm. And that is beauty you can keep.

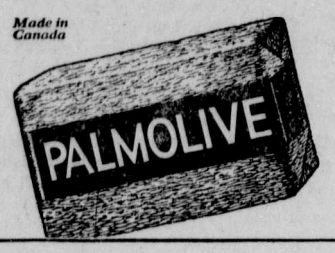
Millions of women do—by following this simple, correct rule. By following it you, too, can keep the loveliness of a schoolgirl complexion.

Just do this regularly

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods—they injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse—and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.



The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

Get Palmolive Soap of any dealer—but note the name and the wrapper. For Palmolive is never sold unwrapped! Then try this method. The improvement will amaze and delight you.

And because Palmolive is so economical, let it do for your whole body what it does for your face.

Most headaches due to lack of internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisons form in the accumulated food waste. These poisons, absorbed by the blood, are carried throughout the body. Headaches follow. Biliousness, sleepless nights, lack of energy, all result from constipation. Each of these takes away piecemeal something of your health and strength. In time, intestinal poisoning due to lack of internal cleanliness may cause the breakdown of some vital organ.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

More Important Than Soap and Water

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Health and Happiness Reward Internal Cleanliness

Physicians Favor Lubrication

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

MANY times we have called attention to the wisdom of patronizing Fernie merchants. There are many people in this territory who send away to mail order houses for many of their purchases. They do this in the belief that better bargains are offered them by the distant business places and that they can make a better deal. But that is a mistaken idea and were it true it would yet be outweighed many times by other considerations. This community would be quite sufficient for itself and far more prosperous if the money that is made here were also spent here. But the mail order houses get a good share of it. In sending this money away the mail order house customer fails to take into consideration many matters that rightly hold a claim upon his attention.

The home merchant is your neighbor and your friend. He is in touch with your affairs and concerned about your success. He bears his part in building the community and the advantages it offers. He pays taxes to keep schools going, government and provide improvements. He contributes liberally to churches and a hundred activities of one kind and another that help to make the community a better place in which to live.

Within the past year numerous demands have been made for contributions for various purposes. Always it is the business and professional people of Fernie who must bear the big load in these drives. And they do not shirk these demands. We have failed to learn of a single instance where a request was made upon a mail order house for contribution. And if it had been made the request would have been ignored. And yet there are mail order houses that receive more money out of this community each year than do many local business houses. The former pay no taxes, they build no schools or churches, they pave no streets, they add nothing to the progress or the life of this community.

This matter was brought forcibly to our attention the other day when somebody stated to us he had just mailed $40 to a distant house for an order of goods. He could have bought these goods from any one of a half dozen places in Fernie and just as cheaply. He would have had the further privilege of inspecting them before buying and taking them with him that day. Yet he sent his money away. This case became more subject to criticism in face of the fact that this particular indivdual is carried on the books of at least one local business house for some hundreds of dollars. When credit must be extended the home merchant is asked to carry the load and when cash can be paid the mail order house gets it. That attitude is all wrong. The and the development of Fernie lies in your hands of the people now living here. Loyalty to this community in all matters is a primary requirement for its progress. One way in which to give expression to that loyalty is by spending our money with Fernie business establishments.

THE government has promised a grant to assist in the entertainment of the officers and men of the British Squadron, which will visit British Columbia in June. It is hoped to give the sailors a tour through the province and also provide school children with an opportunity of becoming better acquainted with naval affairs.

I AM the Country Newspaper.

I am the friend of the family, the bringer of tidings from other friends. I speak to the home in the evening light of summer's vineclad porch or the glow of winter's lamp.

I help to make this evening hour; I record the great and the small, the varied acts of the days and weeks that go by to make up life.

I am for and of the home; I follow those who leave humble beginnings whether they go to greatness or to the gutter, I take to them the thrill of old days, with wholesome messages.

I speak the language of the common man; my words are fitted to his understanding. My congregation is larger than that of any church in my town; my readers are more than those in the schools. Young and old alike find in my stimulation, instruction, entertainment, inspiration, solace, comfort. I am the chronicler of birth, and love and death—the great facts of man's existence.

I bring together buyer and seller, to the benefit of both, I am part of the market-place of the world. Into the home I carry word of the goods which feed and shelter, and which minister to comfort, ease, health and happiness.

I am the word of the week, the history of the year, the record of my community in the archives of state and nation.

I am the exponent of the lives of my readers.

WHATEVER may be said of the folly of the farcical P. G. E. Railway investigation, following charges laid against the Oliver administration by the McRae third party forces, the contention is gaining ground that the investigation will have served a splendid purpose, despite the heavy cost. For years the government — regradless of its being Liberal or Conservative — has been under a cloud. Trouble-makers are always with us, but no one causes more bother and worry than the political aspirant, who seeks office either for personal glorification or in order to put something over for himself and friends. With tremendous development ahead of British Columbia, there has been a manifest attempt upon the part of outsiders to secure control of the administrative machinery, at whatever cost. Meanwhile, their efforts have proven crude in the extreme and the costly enquiry has done much towards removing distrust, suspicion and discontent. For a few years at least, it may be expected that the electorate will rest content with the activities of its chosen representatives and that there will be every opportunity afforded the administration to carry on with the endorsation of the voters.

Granting that the public's share of the cost of the enquiry is $50,000, that is only a per capita charge of ten cents—not an overly large sum for having the clouds rolled away and the fog of misunderstading cleared up.

TENDERS are being called for by Hon. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works, for the completion of more new British Columbia University buildings. The tenders call for the putting up of a certified cheque for $80,000 by the bidders. and the work is said to be the biggest public works contract let in the province in many years.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PROGRAM

A delightful St. Patrick's Day program was presented by the young people of Holy Family parish at the Grand theatre on March 17. The house was packed. The program consisted of a play, "The Coming of Geraldine," in five acts, pleasantly interspersed with Irish songs and dances and completed by a tableau and the singing of "Rock of Ages."

Miss Catherine Hughes, as "Miss Geraldine O'Connor," played well the leading part, ably seconded, however, by "Betty" (Miss Emma Chubra) her maid. Miss Annie Shulaika, as "Granny Malone," bewails the good old times when there were "lashins and lavings" in the Castle of the O'Connors, and looks with contempt upon America, "where gold can be picked up in the streets, they say."

Ten little tots in white and green, give Granny, and incidentally the audience, a demonstration of the surpassing excellence of the Irish jig over all the new-fangled dances.

Miss Helen Mulligan and Miss Annie Sedrovich had no chance to "cut up,"—they were Quakers, but were good friends, nevertheless, to Miss Geraldine and Betty when homeless in New York.

Miss Julia Vansacker acted well the unscrupulous society women, scheming to keep her wealth and station at all costs, while the Misses R. A. Mulligan and Annie Janos, as her nieces, fully supported her in the role of sophisticated and contemptuous young ladies. Poor "Effie," the little "Nigger" girl (Miss Nettie Nicoletti) had a hard time with them, but her irrepressible good spirits carried her through all difficulties to the good end—"The Coming of Geraldine."

Miss Lizzie Becker, as housekeeper, supported ably the dignity of her part, while Miss Jenny Baddeley, as the German woman, "brought the house down" with her accent and her children. "Fritzy" and "Already Vonce" (Belinda Anselmo).

Ireland is the "dear old land of fairies," and as you might expect, the "Little People" came out when lights were low and music was soft, and performed fairy dances and mystic evolutions on the green. Less bashful, children of mortals, danced the Kerry Dance to the lively strains of "the dear old music."

The Messrs. Joseph and Wm. Riley both sang and were encored, while Master Billy Wilson made his debut in bravely singing "The Minstrel Boy."

The orchestra gave a spirited and much appreciated rendering of Irish airs throughout the evening. The last number on the program was both beautiful and impressive. In the dim light stood a white cross, while white figures moved and grouped themselves suppliantly around it as "Rock of Ages" thrilled upon the air.

The Sodality wishes to thank the Rev. Sisters, the Knights of Columbus and other members of the congregation, whose generous support helped materially to make their St. Patrick's Day concert an unprecedented success.

SEVEN YEARS OF TORTURE

The Marvellous Fruit Medicine

Like thousands and thousands of other sufferers, Mr. Albert Varner of Buckingham, P.Q., tried many remedies and went to doctors and specialists; but nothing did him any good.

Finally a friend advised him to try "Fruit-a-tives"—now he is well. As he says in a letter:

"For seven years, I suffered terribly from Headaches and Indigestion. I had belching gas, bitter stuff would come up in my mouth, often vomiting, and was terribly constipated. I took Fruit-a-tives and this grand fruit medicine made me well".

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or sent by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

HOME BANK IN COMMONS

Ottawa, March 20. — The Home Bank is expected to be the chief subject of discussion of the house today. It is to be brought up by Wm. Irvine, labor member for Calgary East, who has a motion on the order paper calling for the appointment of a committee of the house to investigate the Home Bank failure. The Irvine motion provides that the committee should endeavor to amend the Bank Act to prevent similar occurrences in future, should devise some means to protect depositors generally, and should make recommendations as to the possiblity of saving the Home Bank depositors from loss.

T. L. Church, Conservative, North Toronto, also has a motion before the house dealing with the Home Bank, but Mr. Irvine has priority on the order paper. The Church resolution declares that the government should consider some form of immediate and direct relief to the depositors of the Home Bank of Canada by way of recouping them for losses sustained by the failure of this bank, in view of the special circumstances of this case and that the Canadian Bankers' Association should assist the government to meet the losses aforesaid.

The debate is regarded as likely to bring in a considerable number of the members of the house and is arousing much interest in parliamentary circles. In view of the appointment of a royal commissioner to investigate this matter it is not regarded as likely that the government will announce its decision on the question of recouping the Home Bank depositors for their losses, although it is likely that the cabinet will make known whether it is willing to have a parliamentary committee conduct an inquiry parallel with that of the royal commission. It would not cause great surprise if the appointment of the royal commission was given as ground for declining to appoint a committee of the house. In this connection much notice has been attracted by the inclusion in the powers of the royal commission of authority to investigate withdrawals of depositors just before the bank's failure, especially in view of the fact that one of these withdrawals was made by Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor.

BULL RIVER PLANT BURNS

(Cranbrook Courier)

The town of Bull River was the scene of a fierce blaze when the planing mill of the C.P.R. Natural Resources was completely destroyed by fire on Thursday morning. So far as is known at present the origin of the fire remains a mystery.

The first intimation of the mill being in danger was given by a train crew who had observed the flames shooting up from the structure. They at once raised an alarm but the blaze had gained such headway as to make any attempt to salvage the plant abortive. It was with difficulty that the adjoining sawmill and lumber yards were saved from being also a prey to the flames.

It is understood that the train crew performed excellent service in hauling away loaded cars of lumber out of the danger zone. Their pluck has been recognized by the railway company to the extent of the trainmen being rewarded with five merit marks each.

Although the loss occasioned by the blaze is not definitely known by the public, it is believed to be in excess of $35,000. The loss is thought to be fairly well covered by insurance. Up to the time of going to press the company's plans for the rebuilding of the planing mill have not been ascertained, but it is believed that the plant will be speedily replaced.

Vancouver, March 20.—A sweeping exodus of undesirables who are being chased across the border, marks the latest reform wave in Vancouver. It was found that hundreds of parasites, livng from the earnings of fallen women, were livng in luxury in defiance of the law, until The Hook pointed out that Vancouver was harboring the scum of many American cities. Chief of Police Long has been rounding them up for deportation. One man, it was found had four girls "working" for him, the women being in fear of his abuse. He took all the money that was left from their police court fines and finery.

Vancouver, March 20. — German trade is returning to this port with its pre-war activity. With the arrival of the German vessel Irma this week arose the necessity for a German consul and a petiton has been issued to Berlin. One fleet of German ships, now heading for this place, will have seven large ships. The vessels are engaged in general commerce.

SOCIAL HYGIENE AND LABOR

That labor is deeply interested not only in shorter hours of work, better wages, shop conditions and housing, but also in the production of the finest physical and mental types of citizens was demonstrated at an unusual Social Hygiene Exhibit which has been running to crowded houses twice daily in Toronto for the past month. It was demonstrated not only by the keen interest of labor leaders in the purpose of the Exhibit but by equal interest on the part of employers of labor and by many thousands of workers who availed themselves of the opportunity afforded to get clear cut authoritative information not only regarding personal health problems but regarding the responsibility of the individual man or woman for community health.

One of the great points stressed by this Exhibit and by all the speakers at it was this interdependence of private with public health.

The Exhibit which was prepared by the Social Hygiene Council acting in co-operation with the Federal, Provincial and City Boards of Health, consisted of a series of posters depicting right and wrong ways of living with the physical and mental consequences of both, of sets of scientific wax models from Paris demonstrating the physical havoc wrought by venereal diseases, of some remarkable films presenting the processes of life in plants, birds, animals and humans; of others exhibiting the painful health reactions to ignorance and vice, and of noonday or evening talks in the hands of men or women physicians, magistrates, hygiene experts, labor leaders, educationalists, economists, clergymen, manufacturers or physical instructors on a wide range of community problems. While the menace of ignorance and disease were clearly shown at the Exhibit the way of heathful life, the part recreation plays in building health, the value of good housing, of supervised playgrounds, of intelligent handling of sex problems in every home, the urgent need for community centres and for the active participation of the church in forwarding the teaching of social hygiene were all demonstrated in detail by one or other angle of the things shown or heard.

The fundamentally national aspects of social hygiene as a science of community health were powerfully presented not only by Mayor Hiltz, of Toronto, Dr. J. W. S. McCullough of the Ontario Dept. of Health, and Dr. C. J. O. Hastings, Toronto's Medical Health Officer, on the opening day of the exhibit, but by almost all of the speakers at later dates.

During the entire course of the Health Exhibt, it was remarked that people attending its daily crowded sessions represented a cross section of society. All classes wanted the knowledge offered. Women of leisure rubbed shoulders with factory operatives, during the showing for women while office hands or professional women were prominent among the thousands of mothers of families who exhibited such eagerness for understanding of life and health problems. At his showing institutional guidance about the exhibit was in the hands of corps of nurses or other experts and to these were told many tragic histories of the results of ignorance.

Audiences of men were also from all walks of life, but by far the larger number were from workers and these exhibited a remarkably intelligent desire for the instruction offered. It was remarked by the attendants that many workers at their noon hour came day after day to hear the speakers, and H. V. Mackintosh, Secretary of the Toronto Social Hygiene Council, reported that the heaviest buyers of the educative, medical or other pamphlets which were for sale were these eager workers. Altogether 100,000 pieces of literature were given or sold at the exhibit. Physicians were in charge of the showings for men each day. They were assisted by instructed guides from the members of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Knights of Columbus, Lions, Trades and Labor or other men's organizations.

Students swarmed to the Exhibit but no boys or girls under 16 years were admitted to its sessions. Over fifteen thousand persons visited this unique health exhibit and there have been six demands from other cities in Ontario for further exhibitions. Although admissions were free contributions from grateful persons attending it were sufficient to cover all expenses.

Dr. Gordon Bates, General Secretary of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, has expressed much gratification at the impetus given the cause of public health through the interest aroused in this Exhibit and states that he hopes to make such exhibitions a permanent feature of Social Hygiene activities throughout the Dominion.

DIVORCE VS. COMMON SENSE

Vancouver courts, in the past few days, have been given particularly poignant evidence of the soul-twisting influence of divorce on the children of those who seek this means of getting free of one another.

The number of young lives that have been spoiled, soured and embittered in the divorce courts is beyond count.

For it is an absolute and unalterable fact that while divorce has solved in a feeble way the problem of mis-mating as between man and woman, it has utterly failed to touch the problem of the children left homeless by the dissolution of marriage.

Divorce is probably an essential part of the social scheme. There are men with which no woman could possibly live in self-respect and harmony. There are women of the same stamp. Divorce, therefore, is a lesser evil than the compulsory and continued union of totally incompatible people, which amounts to no more than virtual prostitution.

But for one marriage of such a kind that is dissolved, ten are dissolved that might have continued through the application of a little common sense, a little tolerance and a little unselfishness.

Moreover, no man's life is his own. No woman's life is her own. Upon the head of every man and woman rests moral responsibility for countless generations of little children that must follow in years to come.

It is better that one man and one woman be unhappy for 25 or 30 years than that a whole line of descendants be tainted with the bitterness that inevitably comes to children through the destruction of a home. It is better that a hundred men and women be secretly unhappy for their lifetimes than that one child be steeped in the conviction that marriage is a failing institution.

For the unhappiness of one father and one mother can be confined to two people.

But the impression made on a child by the dissolution of a home, contains in itself enough bitter virus to disrupt the social fabric of a nation.

Divorce is a splendid thing in its way. But the abuse of divorce is one of the worst crimes that can be committed against posterity.—Vancouver Sun.

FOOD IS LIFE AND DEATH

Monks of the Carthusian Monastery in Engand are immune from influenza, consumption and about twenty other diseases that annually carry off thousands of other English people.

Medical opinion in Surrey is that this immunity comes through proper diet. And in order to place the benefits of the monks' dietic knowledge at the disposal of all England, a special medical committee has been formed to investigate this diet thoroughly.

If the medical fraternity is really waking up at last to the importance of diet in health, the death rates of the world are due to suffer a tremendous cutting.

Food contains elements of both life and death. Properly used, food brings health, builds strong bodies and assures long life. Improperly used, food clogs up the system and poisons every cell in the body.

If every doctor in the world devoted a single year to instructing his patients intelligently in the proper use of food, disease on earth would be reduced a full 50 per cent.—Vancouver Sun.

American oil companies are following the lead given in England by doing away with disfiguring signs on the highways. The Standard Oil Co. of California announces that there will be no more signs advertising its products erected on the highways of the Pacific coast. The 1200 permanent signs which now are standing are to be removed. Signs in the future are to be confined to commercial locations. This is a tardy recognition that the natural beauties of the countryside should not be defaced.

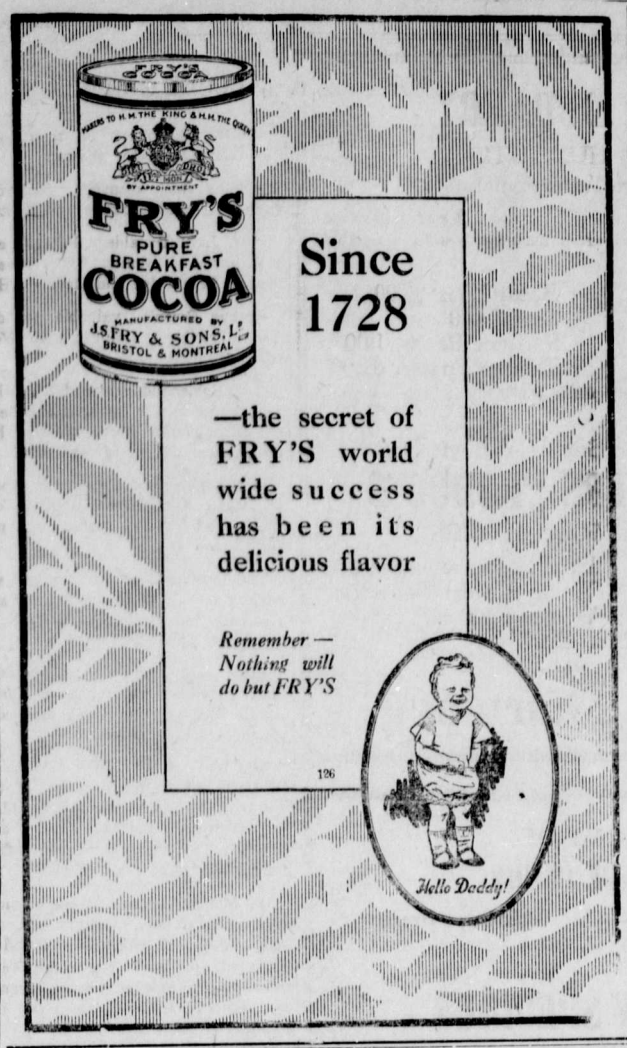
A MATTER OF CLOTHING



Is the wearing of court dress at a royal levee compatible with socialistic aim? Does Socialism imply a cult of the frowsy, a deification of the drab?

The British Labor party comprising many members who regard knee breeches, cocked hats, heralds, pursuivants, caps of maintenance, swords of state, gentlemen ushers, and even yeomen of the guard as so much mediaeval junk to be scrapped at the first convenient opportunity. As a conception of Labor susceptibilities the lord chamberlain has sanctioned a modified type of court dress for Labor members, some of whom quite legitmately boast that they began their working lives in the habiliments of pit boys.

Insofar at least as the Britsh monarchy is concerned, divinity doth still hedge the King. "Mankind not millinery," the Cromwellian gesture of contempt at the mace in the Commons. "Take away that bauble," sneers at church ceremonial and "ecclesiastical bunting" are and will continue to be futile jibes in a country which has a shrewd idea of the value of and a liking for pomp and circumstance and the outward trappings of power. Mr. MacDonald would not advance the cause of Socialism one whit by enacting sumptuary laws on a puritan model .The thing has been tried before and it has always failed. When the Russian Soviet was rioting in the spoils of their murdered aristocracy it was a common sight to see in the Kremlin commissars and their women folk strutting about in their "borrowed" finery; the bait was too tempting for Mrs. Commissar at least; their craving for display could not be suppressed even in their communistic bosoms.

Some Welsh workmen put the matter before a Welsh bishop in quite another way. They had asked him to arbitrate over a matter of wages. They said: "Us chaps don't mind you living in a palace. What we objects to is living in hovels ourselves."

Once the English people become convinced that Socialism means to attack customs which are harmless in themselves and endeared to them by long usage, that it means a levelling down instead of a levelling up and that the crown itself may be the first butt of its experiments, Socialism in England will be jettisoned. But Mr. MacDonald realizes no doubt the value of the vast female vote. Whatever his personal feeings in sumptuary matters may be he may be quite certain that the wives of Labor men bent on paying their respects to Their Majesties will present themselves traditionally attired if their husbands' means will permit it. Anyhow. Mr. MacDonald needs "gang warily" or he will trip over court trains and affronted ladies—and after that the deluge!—The Province.

POPULAR INTEREST SHOWN IN RELIGION

A questionaire recently issued in England shows — unexpectedly, we are told—that religious books stand next to fiction in favor with the reading public. The general opinion had been otherwise, says the Christian Herald, and the result of this questionaire "should go far to correct our pessimism as to religion." Other signs, we are told, are strongly confirmative of this view. Bookstores are filled with books of sermons that have a ready sale, and denominational journals have wide circulation. Continues the Christian Herald:

"These are simple, granite facts. They speak for themselves. And they show that God, Religion, the Scriptures and Eternal Life are still the dominating vital themes, as becomes rational beings. This is a most encouraging truth. And any one who has a real religous message, with voice or pen, need not fear but that he will have hearers or readers."

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

ALBERTA COAL MINES PROBE

Edmonton, March 15.—In his statement to the legislature on Friday, in which he advocated the establishment of a commission with full powers to inquire into the whole question of coal mining in the province, Premier Greenfield, after outlining the situation with regard to coal costs in the various fields, seasoned employment and the need of wider markets, went on to say:

"The United States coal commission, which recently issued its report making the following statement with preference to intermittent employment:

"The cost of producing a ton of coal, other things being equal, varies with the steadiness at which the mine is operated. If the mine runs every working day, the cost is the lowest; each idle day adds to the cost of producing coal on the days worked. This is so because part of the costs go on, whether the mine operates or stands idle. Since irregular operation of bituminous coal mines is the best rule rather than the exception, it is important to determine the cost of idle days.

"Taking the months of 25 working days as full time operation it is found that when the mine works 16 days, 4 days per week, the cost per ton is increased 8 to 9 percent over full time operation. When working time is 12 days per month or 3 days per week, that is half time, the unit cost is 21 to 25 per cent over full time or minimum cost. And when but 8 days per month or 2 days per week is worked costs increased 48 per cent. Four days per month or one day per week of operation raises costs 104 to 120 percent over the minimum. If but one day is worked per month, the increase is from 474 to 549 per cent over full time operating costs.

"These figures are based on the detailed reports of costs of production made to the U.S. federal trade commission for 1918 and to the U.S. coal commission for 1921.

"Then take the question of capitalization.

"The total amount of securities that have been issued by joint stock companies that were operating coal mines in Alberta during 1921 is $45,000,058. This amount of capital has been invested in the coal industry and our output in 1923 was only 6,866,923 tons. Capitalization appears heavy in relation to output.

"Toward the end of 1919 it was estimated that $4,378,500 of which had been invested in mines that have since been abandoned. At the same date—end of 1919—it was estimated that $18,315,000 had been invested in bituminous and anthracite mines, and $5,435,000 of this had been invested in mines since abandoned, making a total amount invested in mines since abandoned of $9,813,500.

"Then there is the question of the number of mines in operation in Alberta. In 1923 there were 362 mines with an output of 6,866,923 tons. In Nova Scotia in 1923 there were 55 mines with an approximate output of 6,500,000 tons.

"The larger number of mines operating in the province is due in no small degree to the ease with which it is possible to lease properties under the Dominion regulations. It is true that a large proportion of the 362 mines we have are not producers, but it is equally true that we have too many mines operating in Alberta with a consequent multiplication of overhead cost.

Dealing with the question of mining methods Premier Greenfield said:

"It is true that we have vast deposits of coal in Alberta but that fact cannot be given as a justification for wasteful methods of mining coal. Wealth is no justification for waste. How are we mining our coal? Are we mining with due consideration for the conservation of this valuable resource?

"In 1919 it was estimated that from 1905 to 1909, 102,603,927 tons has been blocked out for mining of which 54,379,071 tons had been extracted leaving 48,224,846 tons still unextracted. Of this 48,224,846 tons approximately 20 per cent only would be recoverable. This means 43,000,000 tons which should have been recoverable are irrevocably lost.

"Practically the same thing is going on today. This matter of waste in mining coal has been engaging the attention of the Dominion government, and they are seriously considering a plan of inspecting mines and mining methods in the interests of coal conservation.

"In Great Britain the proportion of coal salvaged is around 85 per cent to 90 per cent. In Alberta the opinion of competent engineers is that the proportion salvaged is around 60 per cent all over this province.

In conclusion, Premier Greenfield said:

"I have outlined some of the conditions surrounding the coal mining industry of Alberta, sufficient I think to indicate that it is desirable in the interests of the industry and in the public interest that a very careful exhaustive enquiry, by a commission clothed with power that will enable them to obtain the facts, should be made.

"As stated by the mover of the resolution, coal is as much a public necessity as public utilities or transportation facilities. The province is negotating for the control of its natural resources. We have been endeavoring through the work of the scientific and industrial research council, to prepare for the time when the province does control its own resources by gathering all the information possible in relation to them. Chief among our mineral resources is coal. The demand for this coal, wherever tried, is insistent. If we are to obtain the maximum of expansion in markets, the cost of production must be brought down as low as it can be brought, to allow for an adequate fair wage for labor engaged in the industry, and an adequate return for legitimate capital invested.

"The government deems it necessary that all the information possible regarding the coal industry should be available, in order that, in the event of the settlement of the resources question being reached, we may have this information for our guidance in administering the coal resources of the country."

"The government therefore will support the resolution."

MANY LAWS—MUCH CRIME

Distinguished students of social conditions are projecting the theory that the notorious disregard for law in the United States is due to the fact that the United States has too many laws.

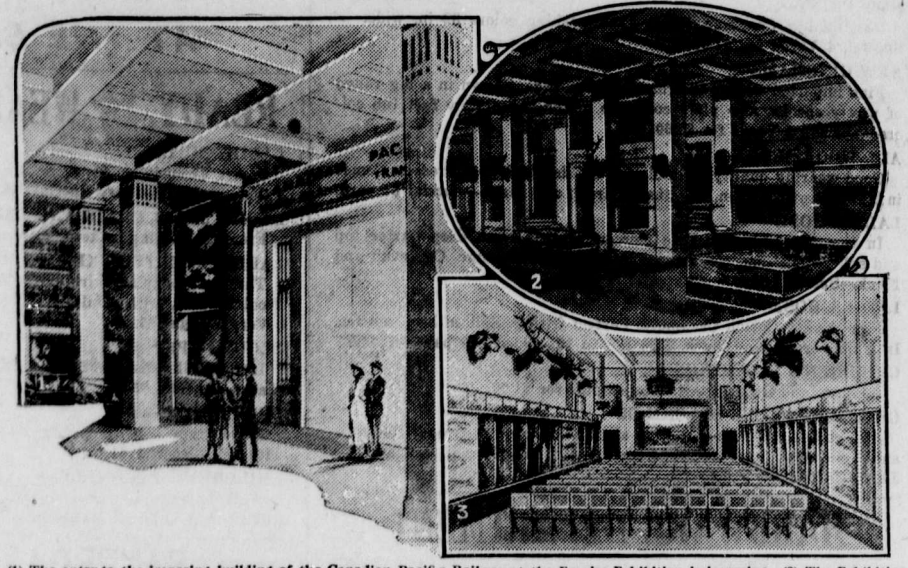
Statistics in the matter certainly seem to bear out this contention.

The British parliament enacts an average of 150 new laws annually. The American congress and state legislatures are estimated to produce from 3000 to 15,000 new enactments each legislative session.

Comparative crime figures show that the extent of crime and the number of new laws passed are definitely related to each other, having a reaction that is equal and opposite.

Thus, within the sameperiod, the city of New York had six times as many homicides as the city of London; Chicago had 12 times as many; and Cleveland, with about one-tenth the population of London, had more than three times as many, or in the proportion of 30 to one.

Burglaries in American cities are much more numerous than in Britain. Some of the smaller municipalities report more burglaries annually than the total for all the cities of England and Wales combined, a fact reflected in American rates for burglary insurance, which are 15 to 20 times the rates charged in the principal cities of Britain.



So far as assault and robbery is concerned, there is scarcely an American city of the third or fourth class that cannot show an annual account of more assaults and robberies than all the cities of Britain put together.

A law-ridden country seems to be a crime-ridden country. And many laws, much crime seems to be the rule.—Vancouver Sun.

A Great Railway Exhibit at London's Great Empire Show

(1) The entry to the imposing building of the Canadian Pacific Railway at the Empire Exhibition is imposing. (2) The Exhibition Hall is filled with displays of Canadian products and scenic glories. (3) A complete theatre is also part of the Company's exhibit.

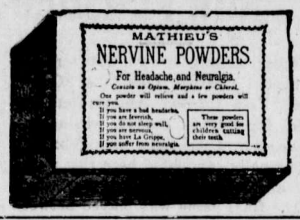
Canada's exhibit at the British Empire Exhibition, which opens at Wembly next month, will be one of the most interesting and attractive features of the whole. No phase of Canadian life or activities has been overlooked and every resource of the country will be displayed to good advantage. The Canadian Pacific Pavilion, which has been designed to harmonize with the Government building, directly faces the main bridge leading into this portion of the grounds and at once catches the eye of all visitors. This pavilion is a massive building, approached by a broad flight of steps flanked on either side by bronze models of buffalo and moose. A strong color scheme will be strikingly emphasized at night by a Neon lighting effect similar to that at the Coliseum in London, wonderfully penetrating and effective under all atmospheric conditions, and another attractive feature of the exterior will be the encircling series of illuminating panels in relief depicting the manifold activities of the Canadian Pacific.

Equally alluring will be the decorations and exhibits in the interior of the pavilion. The floor space on the ground floor comprises 7,700 square feet. Along the main floor there runs a 400-foot frieze illustrating the Canadian Pacific route from the United Kingdom to Japan. In this diorama there will be moving models of Canadian Pacific liners crossing the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, mechanically driven and electrically illuminated, and the train journey across the Dominion will be depicted by two Trans-Canada trains, each consisting of locomotive and eight coaches. These also will be electrically illuminated and mechanically driven with head and rear lights etc., and the realistic effect will be supplemented by an illuminated signal system, automatic gates, and all the other appurtenances of a complete railway track.

In an adjoining section of the interior exhibits there will be shown six mechanically and electrically illuminated vitascope models of Liverpool, Quebec, the prairie region, Banff Springs Hotel in the Canadian Rockies, Vancouver and Yokohama.

A fruit orchard scene in British Columbia and a scene depicting Japan and Japanese life are next presented for the entertainment and edification of the visitors. The model of Japan gives a general view of the country around Fuji Yama, with the world-famed mount itself rising high in the heavens. There will also be models of Japanese houses, bridges, streets and other typical sights of the Flowery Kingdom.

Prospective settlers in the Dominion will be attracted by the model of a 160-acre irrigation farm in the west with all the buildings and equipment, running water and moving train running across the holding. The adventure-lover will be charmed by the spacious scene depicting the big game life of Canada. Grizzly bears, black bears, wolves, muskox and other representative specimens of the denizens of the wilds will confront the spectators in defiant attitude. All over the building, too, the heads of big game will snarl or grin, according to the respective temperaments of their erstwhile owners.



The lecture hall, which will accommodate 300 people, is very artistically arranged and decorated. Numerous cases, containing grain, fish, birds, maple sugar and honey exhibits will be on view. There will be a continuous cinema performance in this hall between the hours of one and five-thirty, and between seven and ten, with a lecturer in attendance to explain and entertain.

The Saskatchewan legislature, now in session at Regina, had to compete with a rival attraction last week. During a poultry show the roosters on exhibition engaged in a crowing contest. The prize was awarded to a lusty chanticleer that scored fourteen "cook-a-doodle-doos" in the allotted time.

Uncle Sam may have the bulk of the gold coin in the world, but he has no monopoly of the raw product. Prof. A. P. Coleman, formerly professor of geology at the University of Toronto, in a recent address, said that until recently the United States and Australia had been the greatest gold producing countries of the world. At the present time Ontario was ahead of Australia or any one of the States in gold production and bid fair to surpass the entire United States. "In a few years the probability is that our mines will produce more gold than all the United States," concluded the professor.

BONSPIEL NOW FINISHED

After a long drawn out struggle with the weather man, the Crow's Nest Pass Curling Association bonspiel for 1923-24 season, which commenced in Lethbridge in February, was finally completed here this morning and passed into history.

The final game was played between Milt Kastner and Harvey Brown, both of Fernie, Brown quitting in the 10th end with the score standing 11 points to 2 in Kastner's favor. This win for Kastner brought his total up to 14 wins and thereby gave him the Grand Aggregate, nosing out S. Herchmer by one game.

The following is the list of winners in all events of the spiel. It will be noted that Kastner heads the list with three trophies, while the three other rinks which took part in the spiel each secured one cup. Only two of the eight trophies failed to be brought to Fernie. Of course Fernie had no eligible rinks to compete for the Consolation event, and Herchmer, of Fernie, was the loser in the final of the Trites-Wood.

Grand Aggregate—M. A. Kastner, Fernie.

Grand Challenge—E. K. Stewart, Fernie.

Trites-Wood — "Scotty" Chalmers, Claresholm, Alta.

Macleod—M. A. Kastner, Fernie.

Magrath—M. A. Kastner, Fernie.

International—L. K. S. Herchmer, Fernie.

Inter-Provincial — Harvey Brown, Fernie.

Consolation—J. M. Cameron, Cranbrook.

SELKIRKS BEAT BELLEVUE

Winnipeg, March 19. — A two-goal advantage was the best that the highly touted Selkirks could gain over the miners of Bellevue, Alta., in the first game of a two-game series which will determine who is to go to Toronto. The victors were worthy winners of a 3 to 1 victory. The hardy opponents kept it to a two-goal margin. The locals had an edge on the exchanges, but found the visitors a formidable bunch to beat, and many well directed rushes ended at the Bellevue defence.

The Selkirks held a slight lead all the way, but had to travel their best to gain the verdict. It took them over 15 minutes to get the first counter, when O'Mera took a neat pass from Benard, to shake the twine with a shot from three feet out.

Bellevue knotted the count shortly after the second period had opened, when Butterfield batted the puck into the net on a rebound from Hansen's shot.

Selkirk had some difficulty in breaking the tie, as Thomson put up a sound game in goal, and was given powerful support. But a three-man rush, with Borland passing to Baril, who shot a low one into the net, gave Selkirk the advantage, and they had it to the finish, though they only had a one-goal lead starting the third period.

An individual effort by Bill Boland, when he tricked the defence, and shot a sizzler at Thomson, gave the locals their final tally, though there were occasions when they were through only to miss open chances or find Thomson on the job with a spectacular save.

PROBE COVERS WITHDRAWALS

Ottawa, March 17. — The Home Bank investigator has been authorized to probe into deposits withdrawn under conditions "which might require explanation."

The order in council extending the scope of the Home Bank inquiry provides that "in view of additional representations which have been made to the government, that at divers times while the said bank was in existence, deposits were made and afterwards withdrawn by various depositors, under conditions which might require explanations, the committee of the privy council further advises that the attention of the commissioner be especially directed to this feature in the course of his investigations."

The powers of the commissioner, under the order in council, will extend "to an investigation of the affairs of the said bank during the whole interval between the issue of the bank's charter and the failure of the said bank, including any representations made to the government of the day as to its condition, any action taken by any of the ministers of finance upon such representations as may have been made, and the effect on the position of the depositors of any audit under section 56A of the Bank Act if made at any time in consequence of such representations."

Judge McKeown, chief justice of the court of king's bench of New Brunswick, whose appointment as commissioner is officially announced, will receive no remuneration beyond living and transportation expenses.

Extensions of the commissioner's authority to include power to investigate withdrawal of deposits, is of special interest in view of the discussion which has arisen over the withdrawal of a deposit by Hon. James Murdoch, minister of labor, shortly before the bank ceased business.

COLDS · CHAPPED HANDS · BURNS

The Lethbridge Herald in speaking of non-union coal competition, says: "How the competition of the non-union mines cuts into the output of the union mines can be seen in the working of the Galt mines, where this winter there were only 19 days of full work in December, full time in January all but one day, and only 11 days in February, owing to lack of demand for coal. With the coming in of the non-union mines the coal output in the province has been increased, with, as the operators of the union mines claim, their suffering from the competition in the lower wages paid by these mines. Whereas in the years of 1912-13 the Galt mines were accustomed to be a month and a half behind in the delivery of orders, they have just recently never been more than about five days behind owing to the falling down of orders and with 200 cars shipped as against 1000 in 1912-13.

BOY SCOUT INSPECTION

R. Ross Sutherland, Provincial President of the Boy Scout Association, visited Fernie on Tuesday, stopping of here on his way to the coast from Ottawa, to inspect the local troop.

During the day Mr. Sutherland visited many of the business men of the city, explaining wherever he went that if the Boy Scout movement in this city was to be successful in its aims, the co-operation of every good citizen was necessary. Too much work was being left in the hands of scoutmasters throughout the country. The subjects taught Boy Scouts were too numerous to mention but every subject lay along some line of trade or profession. These subjects could easily be taught by men who were experts in these various lines. He received very attentive hearings in the city and was given assurance by many citizens that they would do all in their power to assist the movement.

In the evening Mr. Sutherland was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the mothers of the Fernie Boy Scouts in the basement of the United Church, at which the troop and the local executive were present. Following the banquet, Dr. E. L. Garner, President of the local Association, who was leaving the city that evening, bade all present farewell and assured them of a hearty welcome should they visit him at his new home at Lake Cowichan. On behalf of the troop, Rev. W. F. Burns presented Patrol Leader Roswell Garner, who was leaving the city with his father, with a fountain pen, as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the boys.

The troop was then brought into patrol formation and Mr. Sutherland inspected the boys, who then demonstrated several of their specialties in Scout work. At the close of the demonstration, Mr. Sutherland took charge of the troop and gave them some of the games he himself had taken part in during his Gillwell training at Ottawa.

The troop dismissed at 8.30 p.m., and Mr. Sutherland addressed a meeting of the parents and those interested in Scouting, outlining the aims and objects of the movement asd appealing for the active support of the organization, and closed his address by calling upon those who cared to act upon the Scout executive to remain for another meeting.

At this meeting, Mr. Sutherland gave many valuable suggestions regarding the actual work of a Scout executive and requested that the members get together at an early date to fully formulate their plans, appoint committees and give their close attention to any duties which may be placed upon them in connection with the Boy Scout work. District Commissioner Major Hicks, of Cranbrook, who had motored here for the occasion, spoke briefly upon the work of the Cranbrook boys, and urged the presence of some Gillwell graduate at all B.C. interior Boy Scout camps for the instruction of both the boys and their scoutmasters. Most of them he stated were unable to spare the time to attend the Gillwell camps.

The Boy Scout Association on behalf of themselves and the boys wish to express their deep appreciation of the work of the ladies in providing the banquet.

PROVINCIAL INCOME TAX

These returns are now in the hands of the taxpayers and should be returned to the Assessor, Cranbrook, by the 31st of this month. Failure to make this return entails a heavy penalty—the maximum fine being $1000. The fact of a taxpayer not having received a return is not accepted as an excuse, as forms may be obtained on application.

In the case of employees of the Coal Co., who are uncertain as to the actual amount they received during 1923, it will be sufficient if the family particulars at the back of the form are filled in and the forms signed. The Assessor, who is in possession of a certified list of the wages paid, will complete the forms when they are received by him.

PRESENTATION MADE TO DR. GARNER

Last Monday afternoon the committee in charge of St. John Ambulance Association met at the Rescue Station for the purpose of presenting Dr. Garner, who has been the class lecturer for the past six year, with a gold mounted fountain pen and a gold Eversharp pencil, as a token of the esteem in which they hold him.

President C. Stubbs, in making the presentation, said the class was not trying to pay the doctor for the work and time he had spent with the First Aid classes, but to give him something as a slight token of respect and something to remind him of the many friends he was leaving in Fernie.

Dr .Garner thanked the committee for their very useful present and good wishes. He said he had always enjoyed the classes and lectures and he hoped the classes would still continue with their humanitarian work, not for themselves, but for the good and welfare of the community in which they reside.

CITY COUNCIL HOLD SESSION

The city council held their regular meeting last Friday evening in the council chamber. Acting Mayor Irvine occupied the chair. Mayor Henderson and Ald. Aiello were absent.

Consulting Engineer J. E. Underwood, of Saskatoon, submitted his estimate for piling to protect the new pipe line at Fairy Creek bridge.

An application from Percy Bean for a permit to install a gasoline pump and tank at his garage on Baker avneue was granted.

A communication from the city clerk of North Vancouver, suggesting that a town planning act would be beneficial to the province, was read.

The council decided to adopt the suggestion and passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That this council go on record as approving of a "Town Planning Act" being passed at the next session of the provincial legislature, making it possible for municipalities to adopt such an act in their several municipalities if so desired.

"That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Provincial Secretary, the local member and the board of trade for their endorsation and support."

A motion was passed that Fred J. Dawson, contractor, be paid the sum of $4,376.14 in final settlement of all his claims upon the city for the laying of the new pipe lines.

DEATH CALLS DAVE BLACK

A telegram received here this morning from Denver, Col., brought the sad news that David Black, one of Fernie's most respected citizens, had passed away in Dr. Tilden's hospital in that city during the night.

Dave, as he was familiarly known to almost everyone in Fernie, left the city during the early part of this month on a trip to California, but while enroute he was compelled to stop off at Denver to undergo treatment for stomach trouble, from which he had been suffering for some time. The news of his death, however, came with startling suddenness, as Mr. Beck, his business partner, received a letter from him last evening stating that he was progressing favorably and expected to be back in Fernie about the end of the month.

He was born in Fergus, Ontario, on Dec. 14, 1884, and came to this city early in 1913. He was one of the first of Fernie's citizens to enlist for service overseas in the Great War, joining the First Canadian Pioneer battalion, and with this regiment he saw over three years of active service. He was gassed during the early part of 1918, and after spending several months in English hospitals was sent back to Canada as unfit for further military service.

Since that time Dave had been the District Representative of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada, and as such was known throughout the entire East Kootenay district.

No funeral arrangements have yet been made, but it is expected that the remains will be shipped from Denver to his birthplace for interment.

SIGNS INDICATE MINERS' STRIKE

(Lethbridge Herald)

Unless there is an unexpected and sudden change in the attitude of either the miners or the operators in District 18, next week the pit men will down their tools and enter on what may prove to be the longest and most stubborn battle ever witnessed in the coal industry in Western Canada. The outlook today is no brighter, and everything is in readiness for the strike on April 1.

Respecting the report that the operators might attempt to work their mines with men gathered from the ranks of incoming immigrants, an informant close to the union officials said this morning that he looked for no such action. If they attempt it, however, he said, the union officials would be quite justified in calling out the mine maintenance men, which would bring matters to a grave climax.

Referring to this matter, President Sherman of District 18 is credited with saying recently that "if immigrants, ignorant of the circumstances of the strike and conditions of working the mines in this country, are used as strikebreakers for the purpose of keeping up the profits of the operators, the union members feel justified in resorting to every lawful means they have to prevent these men from taking away the measures that the resident miners have of retaining their livelihood."

President Sherman and the executive of District 18 are quite reassured by wires received from International President Lewis of Indianapolis. A copy of the complete telegram from President Lewis follows:

"I have your telegram of the 17th. reporting an end of negotiations with the operators because of their request for wage reduction. I endorse the position of the representatives of District 18 in standing squarely upon the basic settlement in the central competitive field. In the event that negotiations are not reopened prior to April 1, the membership will of course suspend work on April 1. I suggest that you endeavor to make satisfactory arrangements for the employment of maintenance men."—Lewis.

Mr. Peacock, secretary-treasurer of District 18, said there was no change in the position of matters. Things were dragging on with every likelihood of a strike occurring when the present contract expired on March 31. A conference would be held some time during the week with the operators as to the wages to be paid to the maintenance men, but that had nothing to do with the reopening of the other negotiations.

NEW CUSTOMS REQUIREMENTS

The Post Office department has issued notice that the United States authorities require that on and after April 1, a customs declaration (form 91B) must be attached to all parcels of general merchandise (parcel post) posted in Canada and addressed for delivery in the United States. They further require that commercial invoices or statements of value be enclosed with books prepaid at printed matter rate, also in sealed parcels of general merchandise prepaid at letter rate, posted in Canada addressed for delivery in the United States.

MISS DONALD DIES AT COAST

The many friends of Miss Donald, for some time school nurse in Fernie, will be much grieved to learn of her demise at Victoria. The following is taken from the Victoria Colonist:

There passed away at an early hour Monday morning at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Miss Thomasina Forsyth Donald, R.N.C.N., age 32 years. She was born in Bellshill, Scotland, and had been a resident of this district for the past three years. The late Miss Donald is survived by her father and two sisters in Scotland, an uncle, R. W. Ward, and three cousins, of 2628 Douglas St., Victoria. The remains will rest at the Sands Funeral Chapel, where the funeral will take place on Wednesday, March 26, at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Campbell will officiate and the remains will be laid to rest at Ross Bay cemetery.

U.M.W.A. MAY WITHDRAW FROM NOVA SCOTIA

New Glasgow, N.S., March 24.—According to a statement here by H. W. Brown, international representative of the United Mine Workers of America, the international executive board will meet in Indianapolis on April 3, when one of the most important questions to be discussed will be the possible withdrawal of the U. M. W. of A. from Nova Scotia.

Amherst, N.S., March 24.—Mining rates similar to those effective in mines operated by the British Empire Steel Corporation were adopted on Saturday by the officials of the Coal, Railway and Power Company at Joggins. The miners in the Joggins field continued to work at the old rates throughout the strike. Five hundred miners are affected.

FIRE FIGHTERS WERE BUSY

Three fires, all of unknown origin, gave the local fire department the busiest week-end they have had for many years. The first alarm came in from the Annex school corner just shortly after midnight last Sunday. The flames had secured a strong hold on the barn at the rear of the Workingmen's Co-operative store, and the fire fighters did well in preventing the fire from spreading. The horse, belonging to Max Conn, who is operating the store, was burned to death, and a large quantity of feed, stored in the barn, was destroyed. No insurance was carried on the contents.

The next alarm came in from the business section of the city at six o'clock the same morning, calling out the brigade to fight a small fire which had started in the Quail hardware store. This blaze was quickly subdued and the damage will not run more than $500.

At two o'clock Monday morning still another alarm came in, again from the Annex, this time from the Pisoni residence on Chipman avenue. The fire brigade made a quick run, but the flames, fanned by a north wind, had made tremendous headway inside the dwelling and it was not until the entire interior had been destroyed that the blaze was subdued. Nothing remains except the frame of the building. Damage in this case is estimated at between $1500 and $2000 and was partly covered by insurance.

OLD TIMER PASSES AWAY

Charles Burgess, one of the old timers of this district, died suddenly at Vancouver last Tuesday morning from heart failure. He was a well known figure in the lumbering industry, being associated in the early days with the old North Star Lumber Co. at Elko. When this mill closed down, he went to Nelson, where he remained for a couple of years, returning to the district at the end of that time to take the position of Secretary-Treasurer of the Baker Lumber Co. at Waldo, which position he held until last summer, when he went to the coast.

The remains are expected to arrive at Cranbrook tommorrow evening for interment at that city. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon under the auspices of Elk River Lodge, A. F. & A.M., of Fernie, and the Knights Templar Lodge of Cranbrook.

FIRST SOCCER GAME AT MICHEL

On the first of this week Michel opened the football season by building two football elevens, playing the Blues against the Stripes, the latter winning by one goal. For the first game it was pretty good, and prospects look good indeed for an extra strong eleven in Michel this season. At a recent meeting the medals for the Crow's Nest Pass league were presented by A. Bonar to the Michel team, the winners last season. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, J. R. Wiseman; vice-president, F. Gullett; secretary, F. McKenzie; treasurer, J. Mangles.

When a prospective Denver bride failed to appear on the date fixed for her marriage the near groom gathered up the wedding presents and conveyed them to his own home as a guarantee of good faith.

MINERS SAY NO INTERFERENCE

(Calgary Herald)

"Absolutely all poppycock" was the manner in which Robert Livett, special international representative of the U.M.W. of A. in District 18, described the statement in the morning paper on Monday that two officials from Indianapolis were on their way to Calgary to re-open negotiations with the operators on more favorable terms to the latter than had been demanded by the permanent officials here.

There appears to be a mystery in connection with these supposed representatives of headquarters. In the first place there are no such men as George L. Merceard and Henry B. Thallson on the list of officials in the possession of the U. M. W. A. here. Again, it is extremely improbable that Indianapolis would be sending any special representatives here without advising the district officials. According to the Winnipeg dispatch they were leaving that city on Friday night and would have reached Calgary on Sunday morning, but although diligent search has been made by Mr. Livett, they cannot be located.

"It is utterly absurd to say that headquarters would send anyone here to attempt to negotiate an agreement on anything less than the Jacksonville basis," said Mr. Livett.

Mr. Livett also took very strong exception to the intimation in the morning paper as to any weakening in the miners' organization if a satisfactory contract was not eventually secured. The union, he said, was stronger today than it ever had been in the history of District 18, and that the rank and file of the miners were unanimous against any cut in wages. They were determined, he said, to strike against any reduction.

"No operators have approached us," said Mr. Livett, when he was asked if there was any truth in the assertion that there was a likelihood of negotiations being re-opened. "There will certainly be no further negotiations unless the operators are prepared to drop their demand for a wage reduction," he said.

It was ridiculous to state that district officials had been sent out to "sound" the operators. That, again, was sheer imagination, he said.

Mr. Livett said that the position was just as it was and that they had no further information from operators as to any further conference.

What operators there are in Calgary state that they certainly have not made any overtures for the reopening of negotiations. They state they have no intention of modifying their offer.

One of these operators doing business in steam coal, states that there is a much more favorable agreement in the Washington coal field than in District 18, with which the mines in the Crow's Nest Pass have to compete.

DEPOSIT COVERED ANNUAL MEETING

Ottawa, March 24.—The deposit of $1,000,000 by the Canadian National railways in the Home Bank on May 28 last, which was subsequently withdrawn on June 2, was the subject of a series of questions put by Sir Henry Drayton, former minister of finance, in the house of commons today.

Hon. C. P. Graham, minister of railways, told Sir Henry the deposit had been made on May 28, and remained in the bank until June 2, when it was transferred to the Bank of Montreal on request of the management of the Canadian National.

Sir Henry asked whether or not the books of the Home Bank were closed for the year on June 1 and submitted to the shareholders at the annual meeting as exhibitng the position of the bank resulting from the year's operations.

No answer was given to this.

"On the showing so made, was a dividend on the bank's stock declared; and if so, what amount?" asked Sir Henry.

"The annual report of the bank as filed with the government shows that the directors declared a dividend of 7 per cent on the operations of the year ended May 31, such dividend being denlared on the profits, and not determined by the deposits," he was told.

"Was the deposit authorized by the directors of the Canadian National railways?" asked Sir Henry.

Mr. Graham said authorization would have been secured at the June meeting of the board had the deposit remained in the Home bank. The matter had been broached by R. P. Gough, then a director of the railway and also of the Home Bank, but did not come before the board.

ONTARIO WANTS ALBERTA COAL

Petitions, which are addressed to Premier King, are being circulated throughout Ontario in connection with the placing of Alberta coal on the Ontario market, a movement which is supported by a large number of daily publications.

The petition says that the province of Ontario is to a great extent dependent upon the United States for an adequate supply of coal for both industrial and domestic purposes; calls attention to the fact that Alberta has an immense supply of coal which has been pronounced suitable for the requirements of Ontario, and asks the Premier to appoint a commission with the end in view that Alberta coal may be placed on the Ontario markets.

CHINAMAN SUICIDES

A startling tragedy was the climax to a fit of despondency assailing a Chinese cook, of Wycliffe, on Tuesday of this week. Choo Ho Chin, engaged as cook by several of his fellow countrymen employed in the mill of the Otis Staples Lumber Co. at Wycliffe, hanged himself in his kitchen on Tuesday afternoon last. The means employed by the unhappy man to put an end to his earthly existence was a clothes line. This he had fastened to the rafters of the kitchen shack. Apparently the deceased had stood on a box in order to accomplish his purpose, which he evidently kicked to one side after he had slipped the noose around his neck. It is thought that death resulted from strangulation, as the body, when found, was lying on the floor of the shack, the cord having broken in the unfortunate man's struggles.

The dead man left a note stating he was tired of life and wished to die. The note also conveyed the information that the deceased was possessed of funds to the amount of $75 in notes and $6.80 in silver.

D. C. Law has taken steps to get into communication with distant relatives of the deceased, who are reported as living in Vancouver. Choo Ho Chin was about 45 years old. So far as known he had no relatives living in this district.—Cranbrook Courier.

"CIRCUS DAYS" HAS FINE COOGAN CAST

"Circus Days," Jackie Coogan's latest First National picture, is coming to the Orpheum theatre next week with an unusually strong cast appearing in support of the little star.

In this picture, which is adapted from James Otis' celebrated circus story, "Toby Tyler," Jackie has the stellar role of Toby, who runs away from an unhappy home to join a circus, becomes a peanut salesman and then, in an entirely unexpected manner, the star clown of the show.

Jackie has an exceedingly lovely and talented little leading lady in the person of Peaches Jackson, a dainty miss who enacts the role of the tiny equestrienne star of the sawdust ring.

It is Jackie's effort as Toby Tyler to aid this little lady in her distress that result in his being suddenly projected into fame and success under "the big top."

Barbara Tennant plays the role of Jackie's screen mother, while Russell Simpson is to be seen as the mean-tempered uncle whose actions cause the boy to run away from home.

Cesare Gravini, who was the old musician and fathered Jackie in "Daddy," again befriends him as the old clown who takes Toby Tyler under his protection.

Other prominent members of the cast are Claire McDowell, Sam De Grasse, as the lemonade man; De Witt Jennings as the circus owner; Nellie Lane and William Barlow, "the fattest woman" and the s"kinniest man," respectively.

"Circus Days" is filmed under the direction of Eddie Claire, is a Sol Lesser production presented through Associated First National.

PRISONERS AND SPOONS

Three prisoners dug their way to freedom out of the Spokane county jail yesterday with a spoon.

This is interesting news because it is unusual.

If it had been the other way around, a case of three men digging their way into slavery with a spoon, it would have been less interesting because of being more common.

As a matter of fact for every three men who dig their way into freedom with a spoon, three million use that utensil for digging their way into the most abject slavery ever existing on this earth—slavery to a ruined digestive apparatus.

Every spoonful of improperly prepared foods, unnecessary foods, or improperly combined foods gets a man just as near slavery as every spoonful of earth got those three Spokane prisoners near freedom. — Vancouver Sun.

PATULLO TAKES EXCEPTION

Victoria, March 27.—Keen exception is being taken by Hon. T. D. Patullo, minister of lands, to reports appearing in eastern newspapers with gard to timber exports from this province.

"A great deal of talk was heard during the last session of the legislature," said the minister in an interview recently, "but if people only realized the situation they would not be misled by erroneous statements, which are often made by persons with some ulterior motive."

The minister points out that while 233,000,000 board feet of logs were exported from British Columbia last year, 100,000,000 feet went to Japan. The balance, 133,000,000 feet went to the United States. Statements have been made that large industries were being built up in the United States through the importation of British Columbia logs. The truth is that the United States last year exported 100,000,000 feet of logs to Japan; so that there was only a balance of 33,000,000 feet of British Columbia timber left t obe handled in mills across the line—so small a quantity as to be entirely negligible.

"The public should not take the alarmists' cries seriously," remarks the minister. "The province is moving along sane lines of conservation. Only a small percentage of unmanufactured timber is permitted to leave the country and as the result of present methods the industry is in a splendid condition."

THE HOODOOS, JASPER NATIONAL PARK

JASPER PARK LODGE, in Jasper National Park, Alberta, is ideally situated as a convenient center from which to climb mountains, traverse trails and motor roads, or embark on fishing and hunting expeditions; while golf, tennis, boating and bathing are right at its door.

For those who have just a short time to spend in the Park there are miles and miles of motor roads through winding valleys and up mountain grades, along the shores of swift rivers and past quiet lakes, to mountain, glacier and canyon.

Towering above all other peaks in the vicinity is stately Mount Edith Cavell, its crown of snow reaching a height of 11,033 feet. From Jasper or the Lodge Mount Edith Cavell is in full view, but it is only by travelling the eighteen miles to Lake Cavell, nestling at the foot of the mountain, that one can really see all the wonders of this now famous mountain named for that heroic British nurse, Edith Cavell, heroine of the Great War.

The peculiar formation of a glacier on the side of Mount Edith Cavell adds to the interest of the place. In a cirque between the mountain and the shoulder extending to the north is a hanging glacier covering about a third of a square mile. An ice fall about three hundred feet wide connects this with another glacier five hundred feet below, the irregular shape of which extends along the foot of the cliffs for more than a mile. This mass of ice presents the form of an angel with outstretched wings and has been aptly named "Glacier of the Ghost." At another point on the mountain a combination of rock and snow forms what appears to be a side view of the head of a turbanned oriental knight. In photographs taken from Chak Peak this formation is plainly discernible.

The road to Mount Cavell is along the valley of the Athabasca River, across the turbulent Miette River, Whistlers and Portal creeks, continuing across the historical Astoria River, which it follows in a southwest direction at the same time climbing the lower slopes of the mountain and finally reaching the shores of Lake Cavell. Many stops should be made en route to view such interesting features as the natural hoodoos with their flat stone hats just along the slope below the road.

Half an hour by motor from Jasper Park Lodge, with mirror-like lakes reflecting the ragged outline of forest and mountain for mile posts, brings one to Maligne Canyon. The scenery along this gradually ascending and winding roadway is unsurpassable. Skirting innumerable little lakes, each of a different hue from the light yellow of Ochre Lake to the opal-like coloring of Lake Edith with its sandy beach for bathing, the road winds round above the Athabasca Valley and thence to Maligne River close to the Canyon.

Following the rocky path of the Maligne River for a short distance one comes to the mouth of the canyon through which great rushes of water have been passing for many hundreds of years wearing away the rocks to a depth of two hundred feet in places. The canyon is a mile and a half long and is so narrow and irregular that in many places it is impossible to see the river flowing along far below. The water enters this huge crevice with a fall of seventy-five feet and goes tumbling through with a sullen roar.

Along the sides of the canyon are huge pot-holes, testifying to the velocity of the water and its erosive quality during the centuries. Near the top are great dents in the rock worn smooth and now covered with moss, and on shelves of rock fifty feet or so below the surface are evergreens fighting for life with barely a foothold in the rock.

Plainly discernible from the rustic bridges built across the canyon so that the falls and river below may be viewed with safety, are stretches of rock wall beautifully vari-colored, and where the river cannot be seen in the dark cavern below it sends its rumbling message to the top.

The mystery of Medicine Lake and the subterranean stream that joins the river below Maligne Canyon is intensely interesting and the rock formation around the lake is well worth the journey of ten miles from the Canyon to see.

Canada's most northerly national park is fast becoming one of the most popular playgrounds of the Dominion and every tourist who visits there becomes an ardent advertiser.

SELF POISONING TODAY'S DANGER

Hurried and improper eating, nervous worry and lack of abdominal exercise clogs up your system and overloads your liver. The result is self poisoning! No longer can your liver do its work properly and the result is you wake up dull and tired, coated tongue, bad taste and offensive breath. Often you suffer from loss of appetite, bad digestion, gas on a sour, weak stomach, improper movement of the bowels and a run-down condition of your whole system.

Cleanse and tone your liver! Put your system in condition! Feel your very best again. Try just a spoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals and notice the quick improvement in the way you eat, sleep and feel—the return of strength, vigor and energy. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise there will be no cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Sudbaby's Drug & Book Store, Fernie, B.C., and by leading druggists in each city and town.

"MALIGNANT TONGUE"

"The tongue, says the Apostle James, is a devouring fire, a world of iniquity, an unruly evil, full of deadly poison. And behold what I would have applied to the tongue of the evil-speaker, had I undertaken to give you a just and natural idea of all the enormity of this vice: I would have said that the tongue of the slanderer is a devouring fire which tarnishes whatever it touches; which exercises its fury on the good grain, equally as on the chaff; on the profane, as on the sacred; which, whenever it passes, leaves only desolation and ruin; digs into the bowels of the earth, and fixes itself on things the most hidden; turns into vile ashes what only a moment before had appeared to us so precious and brilliant; acts with more violence and danger than ever in the time when it was apparently smothered up and almost extinct; which blackens what it cannot consume, and sometimes sparkles and delights before it destroys.

"I would have told you that evil-speaking is an assemblage of iniquity; a secret pride, which discovers to us the mote in our brother's eye, but hides the beam which is in our own; a mean envy, which, hurt at the talents of prosperity of others, makes them the subject of its censures, and studies to dim the splendor of whatever outshines itself; a diguised hatred. which sheds, in its speeches, the hidden venom of the heart; an unworthy duplicity, which praises to the face and tears to pieces behind the back; a shameful levity, which has no command over itself or its words; and often sacrifices both fortune and comfort to the imprudence of an amusing conversation; a deliberate barbarity, which goes to pierce your absent brother; a scandal, where you become a subject of shame and sin to those who listen to you; an injustice, where you ravish from your brother what is dearest to him. I should have said that slander is a restless evil, which disturbs society, spreads dissension through cities and countries, disunites the strictest friendships; is the source of hatred and revenge; fills, wherever it enters, with disturbances and confusion; and everywhere is an enemy to pease, comfort, and Christian good-breeding. Lastly, I should have added that it is an evil full of deadly poison; whatever flows from it is infected, and poisons whatever it approaches; that even its praises are empoisoned, its applauses malicious, its silence criminal; its gestures, motions, and looks have all their venom, and spread it each in their way."

This simple method for youthful loveliness

Millions have learned this easy, natural way to keep that schoolgirl complexion

The beauty and charm that is priceless to every woman and girl may be had by this simple method.

Millions have found the secret of having and keeping complexions radiant and lovely as a schoolgirl's. A method that you, too, may employ.

Regularly do this

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

Just make sure you get Palmolive -- which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. Get some and follow this simple method for a week. Results will surprise and encourage you.

Remember that arms, shoulders, throat need this treatment, too. Let Palmolive do for your whole body what it does for the face.

DOLE SYSTEM MEANS BANKRUPTCY

That dole system which has already cost Great Britain $1,960,000,000, will have to be discontinued at the earliest possible moment, because otherwise the Old Country is going to be fundered very speedily on the shoals of bankruptcy.

The MacDonald government is facing the issue squarely, with two alternatives:

Either the dole system must remain as a constant threat to the financial stability of the nation, or the number of unemployed must be reduced through emigration.

With this great need for a reduction in population the British government is confronted with the problems of how, when and where.

The obvious and essential answer to the "when" problem is "now."

The answer to the "where" problem is "Canada."

And the only answer to the "how" problem lies in shifting enough industrial money to Canada to stir up such industrial prosperity that the surplus population of Britain can be absorbed here without upsetting labor conditions.—Vancouver Sun.

75% of disease avoided through internal cleanliness

Internal Cleanliness More Important Than Bathing

WHY run the risk of sickness? Keep clean internally. When you are constipated, poisons form in the accumulated food waste. These poisons, absorbed by the blood, attack all parts of the body. The first results, headache, biliousness, a feeling of "heaviness," etc., serve as warnings of a graver danger. If this intestinal poisoning continues unchecked, you become the victim of some serious organic disease.

This is why intestinal specialists state that constipation is the primary cause of three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Washing Cleans Only the Skin

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

IN these times when hours of labor have been reduced, people ought to have more time to make their places more attractive. One of the easiest ways of beautifying a home is to plant shrubbery around it. Once you get a bed of shrubs well started, they need little attention. A little spading, trimming and perhaps fertilizing, and these sturdy and independent little bushes take care of themselves and ask no favors from anyone. At their own appointed time, every shrub in a well selected arrangement will burst forth into a rich mass of bloom. If correctly chosen, the bank of shrubbery should have some bloomers at every period in the season. It transforms a bare and cold looking dwelling into a cheerful centre of radiance and beauty. Every home in this community should be adorned with pretty shrubs.

SURELY no one who has any regard for himself or family wants to meet the careless driver in one of his carousals on the highways.

Existing laws are entirely ineffective, and judges are often too lenient.

This is common knowledge among motor vehicle officials and police chiefs. We believe public sentiment demands a general stiffening of existing laws and that the irresponsible drunken operator of a motor car should receive a substantial jail sentence of not less than three months.

CANADA welcomes all desirable aliens who intend to become citizens, but has little use for those who come solely to take advantage of the unparalled opportunities for making money, accumulating a competency and returning to their native countries.

HAVE you ever stopped to consider the fact that loyalty to community interests is the highest form of patriotism? Show us the man who is loyal and true to every interest of his own community and we will show you in that same individual a man whom his country can repose absolute confidence in any emergency that calls for his allegiance.

On the other hand, the man who is careless and unconcerned for the interests of his community is most apt to display the same spirit of indifference toward his government or his state should any serious danger threaten either.

Try to imagine a country composed of innumerable communities welded and cemented into a symmetrical whole, each trying to excel the others, but each, from its own local loyalty, developing a broader and deeper loyalty, that reaches out and embraces the whole.

This would be brought about if we could be brought to see that we owe allegiance to our own people, but that the prosperity and success of others is in no wise a detriment to us, but rather a help; that if each community would develop itself to the utmost — materially, mentally and morally — none would need be envious of others, neither would any need do aught to detract from another's interest.

Let us develop community loyalty to the full—the highest possible form of patriotism.

A NEW basis of co-operation between the four western provinces in labor matters has been reached, states Attorney General Manson, minister of labor, following the Edmonton conference recently. In future where one province is suffering from a shortage of labor the other three provinces will come to its assistance immediately. GONZAGA PASSION PLAY

Several Fernie boys, students at Gonzaga University, Spokane, have been selected to impersonate principle roles in "Golgotha," the spectacular Passion Play to be presented by the students of that institution at the American theatre in Spokane, March 30 to April 6, inclusive. The thespians from Fernie aiding in the rendition of perhaps the most sublime dramatic version of the Saviour's passion, are Wm. Mills and Paul Caravetta.

Both of these men have been selected to carry important parts in the populace, that so powerfully portrays the fickleness of the Jewish people. They raise their voices in "Hosannas" at the triumphant entry into Jerusalem, yet they are quick to lead the cries of "Crucify Him" on Good Friday. The action of the mob throughout is superb, and the effect is first that of a victorious nation leading their King in triumph to his throne, then of a horde of blood-mad creatures filled with the mob spirit hurling abuse at the fallen Hero.

The most sublime and poignantly beautiful story in the world, the earth's imperishable romance of love that knows no wane, loses none of its beauty in the competent hands of the Gonzaga players, who put into their acting all the earnestness and reverence that the entire story inspires.

To a great many people the privilege of time or financial means is not given to make the long journey to witness the Passion Play in the little village of Oberammergau. The portrayal of "Golgotha," then, is like bringing Oberammergau to America. Obviously the story of both plays is the same, the sad, sweet story of the Cross, dramatized in such a way as not only to give offence to the most delicate religious idealism, but on the contrary to uplift the mind and fire the heart with the inspiring object lesson of the Cross. It combines all the power of the drama with the devotion of a prayer.

Let every one remember that he who violates the laws of the land tramples on the blood of the fathers and tears asunder the charter of his own and his children's liberty.—Abraham Lincoln.

FACTS ABOUT SMALLPOX AND VACCINATION

Issued by the Council of the British Medical Association:

1. The mortality from smallpox is much less now than in pre-vaccination times.

2. The greatest diminution in the smallpox mortality is found in the early years of life, in which there is most vaccination.

3. In countries where there is much vaccination and revaccination relatively to the population there is little smallpox.

4. In classes among which there is much vaccination and revaccination there is little smallpox.

5. In places where smallpox prevails it attacks a much greater proportion of the unvaccinated than of the vaccinated, especially where the vaccination is comparatively recent.

6. In houses invaded by smallpox in the course of an outbreak, not nearly so many of the vaccinated inmates are attacked as of the unvaccinated, in proportion to their numbers.

7. The fatality rate among persons attacked by smallpox is much greater, age for age, among the unvaccinated than among the vaccinated.

8. It cannot be truthfully alleged that, independently of vaccination, smallpox is a milder disease now than in former centuries.

9. The degree of protection conferred by vaccination corresponds to the thoroughness with which the operation has been performed; three or four marks being much better than one or two, and a large mark much better than a small one.

10. Sanitation cannot account for the facts above set forth.

11. Though isolation of smallpox cases in hospitals is a useful auxiliary to vaccination, it is no substitute for it.

12. Vaccination is very safe.

IS PLANET MARS SIGNALLING?

Our neighbor Mars will reach its position of closest proximity to the earth this year, and many astronomers are preparing to devote intensive observation to the ruddy planet. Popular interest, too, will be revived and once again the following questions will be asked: Is Mars inhabited? If so, what sort of creatures are the Martians? Is it probable that we shall ever be able to communicate with them and they with us?

As to the first question, nature teaches us that life is the supreme, unquestioned law that rules everything on our poor planet, where so many elements combine against us. There are creatures swarming everywhere from the bottom of the oceans to the top of the mountains—endlessly multiplying creatures, and even parasites that propagate life to its own ruin. Animals and plants will devour one another rather than not live. We cannot help thinging of this when we try to interpret conditions of habitability on Mars.

It is impossible that this motion, this activity, these leasting transformations should have for their results only a permanent miracle of sterility.

The manifestation of seasons on Mars, the periodic polar variations, the melting of the snows in the Spring, the frequently rapid changes observed on both land and seas, the appearance of the canals, the clouds, rains and nocturnal frosts, the floods, the modification of the shades of the surface in all latitudes from the poles to the equator—all these facts agree to reveal a very intense planetary life. And these facts are by no means less significant than would be the aspect of our own earth seen from the same distance. Conditions on Mars are comparable to ours in certain respects—temperature, astival melting of the polar snows, intensity of seasons, etc. But from other points of view the difference between the two worlds are tremendous.

Given important differences in the density of bodies, in weight (which has considerable influence on the state of water, fogs, clouds, all the elements of Martian climatology), and in the probable chemical composition of the respirable atmosphere, and we surmise that the Martians cannot resemble us in certain biological respects. We should try not to picture them as human or animal or vegetable beings analogous to the fauna or flora of the earth.

From these dissimilarities between the two worlds, some great talkers conclude that Mars must be uninhabitable because its condition for life has nothing of ours. This is not the reasoning of philosophers, but of fish. Two fish conversing together (and fish understand one another very well) would agree that it is impossible to live outside the water and that those who believe in fishermen and their lines suffer from hallucinations.

The Martian organic evolution must have given rise to a species very different from the human species, yet paralleling it. Does this imply inferiority? Let us remember that man on this earth is primarily an ailmentary canal. It would be rather humiliating to think that the inhabitants of all the globes of the heavens might be the same.

Shall we ever know? Are the Martians, whatever they are, able to communicate with us? And of what nature might this communication be?

There seems reason to suppose that it would be based on optics and sight, if we admit that these unknown beings may possess organs analogous to our eyes, and that they may have invented optical apparatus of the same kind as ours. This, though unproved, is possible.

If we accept this hypothesis, we can imagine signals — and perhaps this has already occurred. Since we see on Mars lines like canals, several of which appear artificial, we would interpret them as manifestations of intellectual beings if we could recognize in them geometric figures such as triangles, circles, ellipeses, rectangles and squares—for geometry is the same on Mars as on the earth.

It is only a step from this to thinking of making the same kind of signs here in the hope that they would observe us as we observe them. The question would be very simple: "Do you exist?" Their answer by corresponding signs would suffice to convince us. The rest would come of itself? The mute are made to speak and the blind to read.

Would it be presumptuous to think that if the Martians should see these signals they would answer? The first communication of the heavens with the earth! The conquest of the eternal isolation of the spheres! What variety of rhythms could be created for an interplanetary language! Already we have seen on Mars unexplained bright spots, especially those forming the corners of triangles on the maps of Schiaparelli, as well as projections that do not seem natural.

This means of communication presupposes, as we have said, that the Martians resemble us more or less. But there is nothing to prove that their eyes are identical with those of terrestrial men. Here, in the moderately luminous medium of our atmosphere, our optic nerve has developed from the trilobite to man. It can perceive light waves between two definite limits, from red to violet, from 380 trillion vibrations per second (extreme red) to 760 trillion (extreme violet). It is quite possible that the natives of the other planets do not see exactly as we do.

Furthermore, we might communicate with this neighboring world by some means other than light and optics. Who can predict the future progress of science? Can we say that the Martians have not already tried by means of radiotelegraphic waves? Whence come certain unexplained disturbances of wireless telegraphy? Perhaps from the sun, the effects of whose electric storms extend as far as the earth. Yet, for all we know, they may come from another source.

Then there is telepathy.

CHECKING THE UNIVERSITY

There will be general regret on the part of those familiar with the work, at the announcement that the courses in agriculture at the provincial university have had to be curtailed. We think it safe to say that the benefit derived from these courses has not been surpassed by the material advantage of all the rest of the university work combined.

The reason of the curtailment is the withdrawal of the grant from the Dominion government. While it is true that Ottawa has no responsibility for university or other educational work, we think it will be conceded that there was no opposition on the part of the people of Canada to the voluntary contribution to the cause of agricultural education instituted by Mr. Burrell when he was federal minister of agriculture; and that the withdrawal cannot be attributed to dissatisfaction on the part of either parliament or the people. This is simply part of the policy of retrenchment on which the Mackenzie King government has embarked; but it is a sorry beginning.

When, however, the federal government gave notice that this voluntary assistance was to be discontinued, friends of the university had a right to expect that Victoria would have found the funds to carry on the work in which so splendid progress had been made. The responsibility for the university, in all its branches, is directly on the provincial government. That government has shown keen appreciation of the opportunities afforded by the patronage of university expenditures, as witness the recent assumption of authority to let contracts, cost-plus and otherwise, that with safety might have been left to the voluntary committee of business and professional men who direct the general affairs of the institution; and it is a matter for regret that responsibility for providing the cost of the teaching courses such as those in agriculture should be avoided by the ministers who are so keen in the exercise of the patronage in contracts.—British Columbian.

COAL TAR PRODUCTS

The lease of a site by the Harbor Commission to a British firm of manufacturers of products of which one of the raw materials is coal tar, illustrates the extraordinary utility of that once despised substance. In the early days of the manufacture of coal gas the tar was looked upon as refuse and a nuisance, but today it has been described as one of the most useful substances in the world.

One of the first products resulting from this tar, says a writer in Chambers' Journal, was naptha, which was employed by the famous Mackintosh as a solvent for rubber, and it is still used in the preparation of the waterproof material which bears its name. But the possibilities of coal tar as an article of commercial value were not realized until its chemical constitution had been thoroughly analyzed. It was found that coal tar could be split up into about ten primary products, from which 300 intermediates, such as aniline, could be obtained, and these, in turn, have become the source of thousands of dyes of every conceivable hue and shade.

It was due to the genius and enterprise of a young Englishman, the late Sir William Henry Perkin, that the world first awakened to the potentialities of coal tar. At the age of 18 he discovered that aniline when oxidized by potassium bichromate produced a coloring matter never seen before, and now called mauve. But mauve was only the first of an immensely long series of artificial dyes produced by the ugly coal tar. Many of them, such as alizarine, indigo and others, have proved more successful commercially than the natural dyes which they imitated. Except for a limited field many natural dyes have been ousted by the prodigious growth of the artificial color industry, while certain mineral coloring matters have been successfully imitated by the chemist. Other colors, like magenta, malachite green and methyl violet, have never been found in nature, and are purely laboratory products.

Among well known derivatives from coal tar are neroli oil, redolent with frangrance of orange flowers, and oil of jasmine, artificial musk, and oil of wintergreen. Benzine alone can be made to yield useful drugs, like phenacetin, anti-pyrene, aspirin, sulphonal and veronol. Another outlet is in the manufacture of explosives, such as lyddite and TNT. It provides the photographer with his developer and the microscopist with his stains, the dairyman with yellow for his butter, and during the war time scarcity of sugar it produced saccharine tablets. The advances made in the utilization of innumerable by-products of coal tar form one of the greatest achievements in chemistry. —Toronto Globe.

DR. Andrew Wilson, the eminent British authority, once said of the cocoa bean—"It is a kind of vegetable egg which contains all that is needed to build up a living body." Tea and coffee are mere infusions—but cocoa is an actual food in itself. Business men should remember that.

Cocoa, made the FRY way, from the world's choicest beans, is pure, extremely soluble and of most delicious flavour. Nearly two hundred years' knowledge of the cocoa business stands back of FRY'S. Of course, remember

Uruguay has adopted a novel plan to secure men mentally qualified to deal intelligently with the problems of the office to which they seek election. All persons who offer themselves as candidates must pass an intellectual test before a national board. If they pass, their names are allowed to go on the ballot for that particular office. If they fail to pass the test their names are barred from the ballots. Different examinations are given for different offices.

A Turkish question that may give Mustapha Kemal Pasha much concern is the refusal of his government to give women the right to vote while 18 year old boys have the privilege.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Why Ford Predominates

Simplicity of Operation

The Ford is remarkably easy to operate.

Gear shifting is done automatically by the feet. The driver's hands are always on the wheel. His eyes are always on the road. He can watch traffic constantly.

There is no possibility of failure to accomplish a gear shift. Ford gears being of the planetary type are always in mesh and every shift is positive and unfailing.

The Ford is very easy to steer and responds to the slightest movement of the wheel. It will turn in a circle with a radius of nineteen feet three inches.

The short Ford wheelbase is a boon in congested traffic. It gives easy manipulation everywhere, and enables you to park in crowded sections where a big car is handicapped.

You Can't Beat Tanlac Says Alberta Citizen

"The Tanlac Treatment Made Me Look and Feel Like a Different Man," Says Petro.

"The Tanlac treatment has made me look and feel like a different man," is the positive statement of H. G. Petro, well known citizen of Okotoks, Alberta, Canada.

"Before taking Tanlac I was sorely troubled with indigestion, gas bloating and a tightness in my chest that made me short of breath. My appetite was gone, my circulation poor, and headaches and dizzy spells would strike me most every day. I also had a bad swelling in my leg.

"Three bottles of Tanlac put me in A-1 condition in every way. I have a rousing appetite, sleep like a log and am rid of all my troubles, even the swelling in my leg. Incidentally I have gained so much weight that I am too big for the clothes I wore before taking Tanlac, and am feeling fine. You can't beat Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

THE TOURIST TRAFFIC

Speaking to the Lions Club on Thursday, Col. W. W. Foster stated that Canada had scenery to export, and having sold it we had it still. That expresses in a sentence the value of the tourist business to this country. Our scenery is one of our most valuable resources, though it is one to which we give practically no care. It is non-exhaustible; it can be sold a thousand times a day, and it is fresh and ready to sell again next morning. All we get from it is pure profit. But the converse is quite as true. What we fail to get each tourist season is so much loss.

Col. Foster mentions that the income from tourist traffic to Canada in 1923 was $30,000,000. This is a large sum, but there is no doubt it could be increased. Dr. P. E. Doolittle of Toronto, whose work in the interests of good roads has carried him all over the country and has given him some right to speak with authority on tourist questions, told the Ottawa Automobile Club recently that Canada should draw a tribute of $500,000,00 a year from American tourists alone. Canadians, he said, spent $50,000,000 annually in the United States, and as the republic has more than ten times our population, he estimated that there was half a billion available and we had only to go and get it. — Vancouver Province.

TO RELIEVE EYE STRAIN

If an earnest looking person sitting opposite you suddenly begins swinging his eyes from side to side like pendulums of an invisible clock, do not conclude that he is an escaped lunatic. He may be practicing the latest system for restoring normal vision. His doctor may have told him to throw away his spectacles and practise the "universal swing" to relax his eyes whenever the print begins to blur. Says a writer in the New York Sun and Globe:

"You can practise the universal swing over a page of type or you can lift your eyes and practice it over a neighboring lamp or a distant mountain. Its purpose is to take the strain off your eyes.

"But learning to see without strain is not half as easy as it sounds. Many of us never relax our eyes, even in sleep. And the habit of training is intimately bound up with the habit of staring. You will notice that persons with extremely poor sight have a way of fixing their eyes in a changeless stare. It is partly to get out of the staring habit that one practises the universal swing.

"A prerequisite is that one should imagine some simple object quite perfectly and hold it in one's mental vision while swinging the eyes upon an outer object. The imagined object may be a printed period, like the one closing this sentence. Or it may be easier for you to picture a small letter 'o,' or one of the initials of your own signature. Whatever you select for the purpose your imagination of it must be perfect in form and intensely black, standing forth distnctly on a snow-white background.

"Some patients can achieve this immediately, others need some little practise before they can form and hold a mental picture of such a simple thing. When once the art is acquired it can be put to some surprising uses, besides aiding in the relaxation of the eyes.

"Having fixed your interior object of vision, you swing your eyes rhythmically from one side to another of your mountain, your page of type, a picture on the wall or perhaps an optical test card, always carrying your interior object with you. And your first purpose in this is to see the mountain, or whatever it is, swinging from side to side in the opposite direction to that of your eyes.

"This probably won't happen immediately. When it does happen you'll be startled by the suddenness of it, and by the brisk independence with which the test card, picture, lamp, page or mountain will shoot from side to side, as if by its own motion, as your eyes go in the reverse direction. With that experience comes a sense of lightness, of freedom, according to the practicers of the swing. The eyes, they say, feel as if a load has been lifted from them and the type they had been reading with difficulty now stands out clear and black upon the white paper.

"A singular feature of the process is that if the patient's mental picture of his period, initial or other interior object grows blurred or imperfect, or disappears, his habitual defect of vision will reassert itself.

"To overcome the difficulty of making the mountain move—or it may be an advertising card that you're swinging your eyes on—you are advised not to give more than a vague attention to the exterior object, just to be conscious of its mass as your eyes pass and repass it, but do not let it drag them into anything like detailed inspection, for that would inhibit the magical swing."

BRITISH FAITH IN CANADA

An instructive article on the part being taken by British capital in the development of industry in Canada appears in a recent publication of the Canadian Daily Newspapers' Association. The year 1924, it is pointed out, has been remarkable for a great renewal of faith in Canada by the people of Great Britain.

Owing to the exigencies of war, the mother country had perforce to see others step in and reap where she had sown and this particularly in the development of Canada's vast mineral resources. During the year under review British interests have secured a very large interest in the famous Hollinger gold mine; likewise in the Dome, Porcupine Keora, West Shining Tree and other Ontario mines. The action of a big Australian mining syndicate in sinking its available funds in Canadian gold mines merely emphasizes the predictions of the experts that Canadian mines are destined, in the near future, to outrank in output and importance those of all other parts of the Empire.

The year has also seen a steady increase in British investments in other directions. Great Britain now owns 49 per cent of Canadian Pacific railway stock and the total of such stock within the Empire is now 72 per cent. Of Dominion government bonds over 67,000,000 pounds stelling are held in Britain, 42,000,000 pounds in the United States, and 400,000,000 pounds in Canada. In the vast agricultural industry of Western Canada, British firms have made several notable moves during the year. The building of huge flour mills in the wheat belt by the 7,000,000 pound sterling syndicate of which Sir Edgar Nicholls is chairman, means the establishment of a new industry rather than merely an investment.

Hardly less important is the building of a plant to make pulp and paper from straw by the De Vanis process. Although only employing a few hundred men at the commencement, the English company operating this plant are prepared to extend rapidly. From equally small beginnings the present pulp and paper industry has in 40 years grown to a point where it employs 70,000,000 pounds capital and produces goods worth fifty millions.

By the purchase of the Phoenix Bridge Works by Vickers, Ltd., and by the projection of a large British owned steel plant in Britsh Columbia, and by the huge Canadian contracts secured recently by Sir Wm. Arrol and by Vickers, Ltd., Old Country investors and workers alike will benefit. Amongst British branch factories commenced in Canada during the year, that of Courtaulds, Ltd., may well prove the forerunner of important operations by British textile houses. Reports show that negotiations for the acquiring of sites and factories in Canada by British firms reached a higher total than for many years past.

"Last, but certainly not least," this publication comments, "since what Canada needs above all else is immigrants of the right type, 41,000 more Britons came to the Dominion in 1923 than in the previous year. Out of a total of 137,681 new comers, 72,486 came from the United Kingdom, 20,232 from the U. S. A., and 44,963 from other countries."—British Columbian.

THE COST OF SUBNORMALITY

Adelard Delorme, accused of killing his half-brother, has been given three trials in Montreal at a total cost to the country of $1,000,000. Now, a fourth trial is proposed for him at the next assizes.

Whether Delorme killed his half-brother or not, his actions prove conclusively that he is a person of subnormal intellect. If he killed his brother, his subnormality was to blame. If he did not kill his brother, he would never have been brought to trial had not his actions, caused by a subnormal mind, rendered him liable to suspicion.

One million dollars is a lot of money for the people of Canada to spend on one moron.

If Adelard Delorme had been given proper educational attention when he was a boy along the lines that subnormals are now treated, he probably would never have got into trouble. And, if he is guilty, his brother might have been living today.

It is extremely likely that $200 worth of scientific attention bestowed on Delorme when he was a boy would have saved the country $1,000,000 today.

Fifty per cent of all crime, 66 per cent of all prostitution, 40 per cent of all venereal disease is due to the non-care of mental defectives.

The best investment this country can make is in institutions devoted to the care and training of subnormals.—Vancouver Sun.

Despite the financial hazard Portland has decided to hold its rose festival this year. The unique attraction is a big drawing card for the Oregon metropolis and thousands of visitors view the spectacle annually.

INDIAN POETESS STIRS FEELINGS AGAINST BRITISH

Cape Town, March 27.—The Indian poetess, Mrs. Naidhu, who recently appeared in the role of a starmy appeared in the role of a stormy port to the protest of natives of India resident there against disabilities placed upon them by the Kenya government, has now arrived in South Africa to continue the Indian nationalist crusade.

Her inflammatory speeches are beginning to attract a good deal of attention. A few days ago eight or nine thousand Indians attending her meeting were aroused to a high pitch of excitement by her eloquent assertions that Indians were being oppressed by the British. She told them to fight for their rights as long as they had breath in their bodies.

The Cape Times prints a strong leader on her activities in which the question is asked whether the time has not come for South Africa to get rid of the Indian thorn in her side by a generously compensated but inexorably compulsory scheme for the repatriation of Indians to their actual home regardless of their place of birth.

We are furnishing help for early farm work in large numbers and are glad to recommend to farmers the men and women who are coming through.

VACCINATED ARMY

Notwithstanding the continued incidence of smallpox among the civil population in certain areas of the United Kingdom, there has been ni cases among the troops.—From War Office Memorandum on Army Estimates, 1924-25, just issued.

The necessity for vaccination or revaccination on enlistment in the regular army is clearly indicated in the King's Regulations, which make it a cause of discharge from the service where a recruit refuses to carry out the agreement to be vaccinated or revaccinated entered into on enlistment.

Last year 2486 cases of smallpox among civilians were notified in England and Wales. Recently Sir William Joynson-Hicks, late Minister of Health, showed that in the previous five weeks 261 of 425 cases were in parts of the country in which vaccination had been seriously neglected.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

All the officials of District 18 of the United Mine Workers of America were at the various coal centres on Monday making final arrangements for the strike which will take place at all the organized mines in Alberta and south eastern British Columbia, when work ceases on Monday evening. All the operators are likewise on the spot. The last phase before stoppage of work was entered into on Monday, when the arrangements were concluded for the maintenance men to look after the mines during the strike.

Practically 8000 miners will be idle and taking the average earnings of all men, datal and contract mintrs, at $8.50 a day, the loss in wages if the men were working full time would amount to about $70,000 a day. At the present time, owing to the exceptionally fine weather, the mines have only been running to about 35 per cent of their capacity, but even on this basis the loss of wages will amount to about $25,000 a day.

It is generally conceded that the struggle will probably be the longest drawn out in the history of the coal mining industry of District 18.

One of the great obstacles that has prevented an amicable settlement is the fact that there is a very considerable difference between the actual conditions in the central competitive field of the United States and here. The miners stated they were demanding the same contract as in the central competitive field, but, according to their own showing the time in District 18 counted from bank to bank, whereas in the United States the face to face system was in operation, and which meant a difference of about 15 per cent in wages in favor of the Alberta miners. It has been pointed out by the operators that this handicap on the Western Canadian colleries was evidenced by the fact that American steam coal was shutting out the Canadian steam product for a distance of 200 miles west of Winnipeg. Under ordinary conditions, they state, there was no reason why the fuel from Alberta steam and domestic mines could not be sold as far east as Kenora, Ont.

As already mentioned, the grounds upon which the operators and miners split was the question of the reduction of $1.17 a day war bonus. During the negotiations the fact was emphasized that the average employe in the industry had received increases amounting to $4.20 per man per day since 1915, and that the reduction which the operators sought was the $1.17 war bonus only.

The attitude of the men's representatives in refusing to consider the cut of $1.17 a day was based almost entirely on the fact that the United Mine Workers of America had renewed agrements in the central competitive field on the existing wage scale for three years, and they demanded a similar policy in District 18. From the commencement of negotiations it was plainly evident that the miners' officials were not prepared to accept anything less; as a matter of fact there were a large number of other demands made, which the miners themselves conceded amounted to equivalent of an increase of approximately 10 per cent on the existing wage scale.

It is understood they were willing to withdraw the majority of these "adjustments," but were admant in refusing to consider for one moment any reduction in the present wage scale.

The contention of the operators was that with the proposed reduction they would be better able to extend their markets, more especially that of Ontario, and that if the latter market was secured it would give the miners much more constant work, especially so at a time of the year when the domestic mines were invariably shut down.

The operators point out that in 1922, after a strike lasting more than five months, the union fields in the States made a new agreement for one year on the understanding that the federal government would appoint a coal commission to investigate the industry. At the end of that year the coal commission was still investigating and at the suggestion of the government the existing agreement was continued for another year to permit the commission completing its work. For similar reasons, and in the expectation that the report of the commission would be of some guidance in arriving at a permanent agreement both miners and operators accepted the suggestion and renewed the contract for a further year. The same expectation governed the policy at that time in District 18.

Now that the commission has made its report the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association state they are convinced that nothing in that report had any bearing nor governed the parties to the agreement recently executed at Jacksonville, Florida, when they decided to continue the existing wage scale for three years. R. M. Young, the commissioner of the operators' association, states that press reports and public opinion in the United States regard that agreement, made as it was in a presidential year, as based not on the economic situation, but political in every sense of the word. There was no reason why, he says, the people of Western Canada should be required to pay for its coal on a basis of a further continuation of war time wages, and that the operators believed they could count on the support of the public in the position they had taken.

As already mentioned it is generally believed by both the operators and miners' officials that the strike will be of long duration. Interest will next be centered in the forthcoming investigation into the coal mining industry sanctioned by the provincial government. It is expected that this will be quite as exhaustive as the Knowles' investigation two years ago, possibly more so, and considerable time will be occupied before the inquiry is completed and findings made public.

ALDERMEN IN SESSION

The city council held their first regular April meeting in the council chamber last evening. Acting Mayor Irvine occupied the chair in the absence of Mayor Henderson. All the aldermen were present.

A communication from the city clerk at Vancouver regarding the proposed Town Planning Act was ordered filed.

A letter from Premier Oliver regarding the Town Planning Act stated that he was in receipt of numerous resolutions, all similarly worded, and that he believed that the interest displayed at present was probably due to the action of some person or persons urging the municipalities to endorse this resolution, and that in this manner he was unable to correctly discover the feeling of the municipalities in the matter. He stated that a Town Planning Act had come before the house in 1923 and after receiving two readings had been tabled to ascertain how such an act would be regarded by the municipalities, who were circularized regarding this, but very few replies had been received.

The city clerk was instructed to notify the Premier that as British Columbia was a growing province, the Fernie council felt that the Town Planning Act would be of great assistance to the municipalities.

Replying to a question, the Public Works committee reported that the work on the pipe line across the Elk river was progressing very favorably.

The city clerk reported that there were 136 house owners in the Annex who had not yet made connections from their property to the new sewer line. A motion was passed instructing the city clerk to notify these people that under the Health Act they were required to make proper sewer connections and that the same must be done promptly.

The usual sheaf of account was passed.

Ald. Stewart requested information as to the cost of running the two Pierce-Arrow trucks now in possession of the city. Mr. Moffatt answered that the expense during 1923, including depreciation at the rate of 25 per cent, was $3160. The trucks were in use during the same period a total of 97½ days. Mr. Stewart stated that he did not consider that these heavy trucks were at all economical for the city and that the council should give this matter their consideration. He also lodged a complaint regarding the manner in which some of the Fernie citizens were accumulating large ash piles in the lanes and in many cases right on the main streets, and stated that some means should be devised to keep this garbage in proper receptacles.

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET

The High School Track Meet, held on March 28, was won by the second year after an extremely close race with the third year. The final standing was:

2nd Year—79 points.
3rd Year—77 points.
1st Year—54 points.

In the boys' basketball 3rd year drew the bye. First year upset the dope by defeating the second year team ,who were bigger and more experienced, by a score of 6—3. Third year then defeated the first year 10 to 2, thereby gaining 15 points.. The score board wavered back and forth for the next few events, each year holding the lead in turn. Third year finally drew ahead, with second year a close second. Excitement between the rival teams reached a pitch when the girls' basketball game was announced. Third year again drew the bye. If second year won it would place them in the lead. Again first year upset the dope by winning 5—4 from second year. This game was extremely rough, the first year girls winning mostly by using their weight. Third year then defeated first year by a score of 16—2 This gave third year a commanding lead. During the next few events, however, the points were divided between 2nd and 1st year, so that at the end of the 18th event, second year stood a winner by 2 points. Next to the basketball the tug-of-wars were a close second for excitement. Luck, rather than science, seemed to prevail.

After the contests were over a snappy lunch, provided by the students, was served to those present.

The evening was brought to a close by dancing and games, accompanied by the melodious strains of the Fernie High School orchestra, consisting of combs, jazz whistles and kazoos.

Detailed results in the various competitions were as follows:

Boys Shooting Contest—1 Second Year; 2 First Year.

Boys Basketball—1 Third Year; 2 First Year.

Mixed Potato Race—1 Third Year; 2 Second Year.

Girls Three-Legged Race—1 Third Year; 2 Second Year.

CATHOLIC LEAGUE

The fourth annual meeting of the Catholic Women's League of Fernie was held on the evening of April 1.

An account of the work for the year 1923 was read and also a cash statement for the same period. The cash statement showed a balance of $15.46 in the Home Bank of Canada, making a total of $27.11. J. J. Harrington having audited the books, reported this amount correct.

At the regular meeting in December, it was moved and carried that in future the annual meeting be held in April instead of January, as by so doing we would then be in accord with the other sub-divisions of the League.

We have held 13 meetings of regular nature during the year with an average attendance of 12 members. One executive meeting and four special meetings were held.

A very successful bazaar, realizing the sum of $1874.70, was held in June under the auspices of the League. A tea and sale of home cooking held in Advent netted the sum of $303.75. Socials held during the year brought in the sum of $1114.75. These amounts were handed directly to Rev. Father Kennedy, our pastor, for the support of our parish school and do not appear on our books.

At a special meeting held July 10, Mrs. Dennisin handed in her resignation as secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Beaulaurier was elected to fill the vacancy at the September meeting, no meeting having been held in August.

In place of the regular October meeting, the members of the League, assisted by a number of other ladies of the parish, gave their annual shower of preserves, jellies, pickles, etc., to the Sisters of the parochial school, as a small token of our gratitude to them for their noble work in our midst. Rev. Father Kennedy, who kindly acted as chairman, in a short address outlined the work of the League in Canada and of our subdivision in Fernie, and expressed the thanks of the Sisters to the ladies of the League and parish. Solos by Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Beard and the singing of God Save the King closed the pleasant evening.

During the year the dusting and decorating of the altars and washing and care of the church linens have been been attended to by members of the League.

A Mass for all members has been said the first Sunday of each month, the offering for the Mass being made by the members in turn.

The visiting committee reported 35 calls of a social nature and to the sick.

We were unable to send a delegate to the annual Dominion Convention, held at Halifax, but the account sent us later proved very interesting.

We desire to express our appreciation of the letters written us and the interest taken in our sub-division by the officers of the Dominion executive.

We trust that the future will always see the great work undertaken by the Catholic Women's League of Canada crowned with success.

Molly Beaulaurier, Sec.-Trea.
Josephine Klaur, President.

THE HOME BANK PROBE

Ottawa, March 28.—The opening of an investigation into the weakness of the Bank Act, it is stated, was the main object that the proposers of the Irvine resolution had in mind, therefore that the action taken by the House last night which, it is held, provides for the immediate opening of this phase of the inquiry, went a long way to meet their wishes. The committee is further instructed to consider the possibility of saving the Home Bank depositors from loss, but though this is linked with the report of the Royal Commission on the subject, this has been widely regarded as inevitable ever since the Royal Commission was appointed.

It is considered likely that when the banking and commerce commission gets to work more will be heard of the statement made in the house last night by Premier King that Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding had never seen the file dealing with the complaints made to Sir Thos. White in regard to the Home Bank. A further development in regard to the situation in regard to the failure of the bank has come out this morning in the shape of a motion by Sir Henry Drayton for the production of correspondence "between the government or any member thereof or any government official and the management or any directors of the Home Bank since January 1, 1922.".

T. L. Church, Conservative, Toronto, in the debate on Wednesday night, said the Bankers' Association should bear the brunt of the disaster. The association had not played fair with parliament. In his opinion the Bankers' Association had known all about the Home Bank before its failure.

"To all intents and purposes," he said, "instead of having a House of Commons and Senate in this country we have a Senate and a House of Commons and a house known as a Bankers' Association."

Frank Cahill, Liberal, Pontiac, said the depositors of the Home Bank should be reimbursed if at all possible. He did not consider the Canadian banking system perfect. He favored an investigation of the Home Bank, but he thought it should be made by the Bank and Commerce Committee and not by a special committee. With that in view, he moved to amend the resolution before the house by providing that the evidence taken before the legal tribunal in regard to the Home Bank and the report of the royal commission should be made available for the Banking and Commerce Committee with a view to drafting amendments to the Bank Act to prevent similar catastrophe in future and with a view also to considering the possibility of reimbursing the Home Bank depositors.

Sir Henry Drayton opened his speech with an emphatic declaration that he proposed to support a resolution which would secure an investigation of the Home Bank at the present session and not next year or the year after. The amendment moved by Mr. Cahill would tie the hands of parliament efficiently and effectively. Some time during the coming summer the privy council was to decide how the Home Bank officials and drectors were to be tried, and the trials would be still later. Yet, under the Cahill amendment the investigation could not take place until after these trials were over. "Let us start in." said Sir Henry, "by trying to be a little bit honest about it." He asserted that the object of the first order for the royal commission had been to get the hide of Sir Thomas White.

Premier King interrupted to ask if Sir Henry meant to intimate that that was the object of the depositors of the Home Bank.

Sir Henry replied that the petition to the government from the Home Bank depositors had been drafted by one who was a very good Liberal.

"Did he draft it as a Liberal or as counsel?" asked Premier King.

Sir Henry returned that the petition was "very convenient" to the government.

The Premier retorted that the government had no knowledge whatever of the petition until it was presented and there were calls from the Liberal benches to Sir Henry to withdraw what he had said. Sir Henry returned that there was nothing to withdraw.

"Don't let us get politics into this thing," interjected Robert Forke, amid Liberal cheers.

Sir Henry repeated that the main purpose of the order in council seemed to be to get Sir Thomas White. It was just the last thing the depositors were interested in.

After all, said Sir Henry, the chief crime was that the Home Bank had been allowed to smash. There had been applications made to other ministers besides Sir Thomas White, and parliament should be given some information about these other applications.

Hon. E. M. Macdonald took exception to Sir Henry's suggestion that the McKeown commission had been appointed for the sole purpose of getting after Sir Thomas White.

He read the petition presented some months ago by a delegation representing the shareholders of the Home Bank and declared that in the face of this the government could not have done otherwise than appoint a commission of inquiry. Investigation was the only possible way to deal with the case, and this investigation would be thorough. It was all in writing in a file of correspondence between Sir Thomas and certain people who made representations in the war years.

Mr. Meighen said Sir Thomas White had explained the representations made to him in 1915 and 1916 did not justify the proposed inquiry. He had had a private inquiry made at the time and the results thereof were satisfactory to a committee of Home Bank directors. A public inquiry at that time would have done much damage to the bank and to public confidence. It was later, when the bank was going down hill, that government action should have been taken.

The Premier said Sir Henry Drayton's implications that there were political considerations at the bottom of the representations made to the government by the depositors was "unprofessional, unparliamentary and unworthy of himself."

Mr. King read the list of lawyers who had made representations to the government on behalf of the Home Bank depositors. He also mentioned two Conservative members of the House who had been members of the deputation.

The ground upon which the depositors approached the government was the neglect of duty by a previous Minister of Finance, said Mr. King, after reading from the petition presented by the deputation. If the government was to pass judgment on a political predecessor it would be accused of trying to take a political advantage. Fair play and justice could be obtained by the work of the commission.

If it had been the duty of Sir Thomas White to pass certain correspondence to Sir Henry Drayton upon assuming office, it was also the duty of Sir Henry Drayton to pass it on to the next Minister of Finance. Mr. King said that Right Hon. W. S. Fielding had not received the correspondence referred to.

Representatives of the bank had come to the government asking for a large deposit one or two days before the bank failed, said Mr. King.

PICTURE SETTINGS MOST GORGEOUS

"Black Oxen" at the Orpheum Next Wednesday and Thursday

One of th emost important branches of the cinema's pictorial work is that of those mute, immovable impressionists—the backgrounds, the settings.

It might be possible to say that the demands of the screen have brought about a greater improvement in architecture and interior decorating the past five years than was known the previous fifty, and legitimately so, for the buildings and interiors of the screen are seen daily by 20,000,000 people of many different nationalities an dtastes, and furthermore, because the movies are such an influence in our modern life, the details of their production must be the more carefully and accurately handled.

In "Black Oxen," which Frank Lloyd has made into a First National picture, with Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle in the leading roles, the interior settings are the most gorgeous seen on the silver sheet in some time. The nature of the story requires a dignified artistic background for nearly each sequence, and because most of the action transpires within New York homes, even though old architectural lines were followed, it was necessary for each set to have certain modern treatment.

The architecture of the interior of the Ogden (Zatianny) home follows the periods of the Italian Renaissance and of Louis XV, with draperies and other furnishings in harmony. The Oglethorpe home settings are, for the most part, patterned after the Wren period of design. The Austrian court scenes are of an ancient Austrian origination. Clavering's rooms and those of Donnie Ferren are of typical modern design. The Ogden stair hall is of the period of Louis XV.

Decorating, like architecture, has much to do with the success of any truly big production. Robert Little, Frank Lloyd's decorator, makes four trips to New York and one to Europe each year, to study latest decorative creations. Like Stephen Goosson, Mr. Lloyd's architect, Mr. Little's art training was obtained in the leading academies of Europe and he has been responsible for the interior decorations of many of the biggest photoplay productions made.

Mr. Little chose as the color scheme for Mary Ogden's boudoir set, pale lavender. The color scheme for Janet's boudoir was pale lavender and pale green.

A NATIONAL COAL POLICY

Ottawa, April 1.—T. Church, Toronto has introduced in the house his resolution regarding the necessity of having a national policy for a coal supply for Canada independently of the United States.

He pointed out some of the advantages of this policy, including the providing of work for Canadians and the development of resources of Nova Scotia, Alberta and other provinces, where coal is found. The tariff was the means by which Mr. Church proposed to effect this. He would place a duty on coal from the United States to ensure an all-British supply for Canada, and thus afford adequate protection to coal mined and coked under the British flag.

The prosperity and comfort of the world depends just as much on a proper supply of fuel as of food.

Geologists say United States will run out of coal in 30 years, and President Thornton points out that it is essential that Canada take measures to ration the selling radius of our mines. All Ontario and most of Quebec depend on the United States now, and if they choose they can freeze those parts of Canada to death. Manitoba is now rendering itself independent of United States by bringing it from Alberta. Maritime coal could be brought to Ontario by the merchant marine and national railways to Ontario.

There should be a summer rail rate for this coal both from east and west. It is appalling to consider the amount of money sent out of Canada to the United States for coal. Last year it amounted to $89.000,000. The United States coal barons were making easy money out of the people of Canada. Canada should make a declaration of independence against the United States as regards its coal supply. The situation is humiliating.

STIMULATES REVENGE

Freedom of thought and of speech is a boon that has long since been so firmly established in this country that it is difficult to conceive of its suppression. Yet a deliberate policy of oppression is being pursued in Western Europe today, and this country can sympathize with it the less easily because we believe it is not even a policy which is calculated to ensure the safety of France. On the contrary, it is precisely a policy that is most likely to confirm the German desire for vengeance. There are some who, in this time of stress, are willing to come to terms for the sake of profit; others, who are openly loyal to their German allegiance. are driven out of public life. Then rascals of every sort step into the highest places.—Times.

Hon. Wm. Sloan, minister of mines, has returned from Ottawa with the assurance of the Federal government that the duty on mine machinery will probably be removed this year. He has also strong hopes that the Dominion will grant a subsidy on the production of iron ore. Federal aid in the building of mine roads and trails is anticipated, as well as the establishment of a Dominion experimental station in British Columbia for mineral research. Another step likely to be taken is the removal of dual control of minerals in the Dominion Peace River block and in the Railway Belt.

Internal cleanliness protects against disease

IT is but a step from those immediate results of constipation—headache, heaviness, loss of appetite—to serious disease. Such minor ailments are a warning that poisons from food waste are flooding your body. Keep clean internally.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Your Bath Goes Only Skin Deep

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Lavatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

TO ESTABLISH NEW SCHOOL IN DISTRICT SOUTH OF WALDO

(Cranbrook Herald)

The Department of Education recently received an application from a number of ranchers at Dorr, south of Waldo, for the establishment of a school at that point.

To make an investigation of the situation, Inspector Manning made a motor trip to the district on Friday last. It appears that recently a number of Finlanders from Manyberries, Alberta, settled there.

At that point the amount of available bottom land is limited, and the high land on account of the low precipitation has not been considered of much value. The newcomers, however, have selected it in preference to bottom, sub-irrigated land, believing that they can make a success of it. Their progress will be watched with interest.

A Herald representative who accompanied the Inspector, was much impressed with the many evidences of the keen interest shown by these citizens of foreign blood in the starting of a school in their new home.

One had some time ago purchased the Gregory house on the Waldo road and though he might have sold it at a profit, has kept it for a school and is willing to turn it in as part of his contribution thereto.

The department of education supplies the teacher, desks and maps, while the district supplies the building, grounds, running expenses, fuel supply and janitor service.

Should a school be established at this point a number of other families intend settling in that district.

Thirteen pupils of school age are available in this section and as the minimum number for an assisted school is ten, the inspector has recommended that a school be established.

This should be ready for opening about Easer.

DIVORCE COURT REPORTS

A measure before the British parliament which is securing considerable support is one which seeks to curtail the power of newspapers in printing the proceedings before the Divorce Court. It is sponsored by Sir Evelyn Cecil, and is known as the Judicial Proceedings Bill. It debars the printing, circulating or publishing of matter as follows:

(a) in relation to any judicial proceedings any indecent matter or medical, surgical or physiological details being matters or details, the publication of which would be calculated to injure public morals or otherwise be to the public mischief;

(b) in relation to any judicial proceedings for dissolution of marriage, for nullity of marriage, or for judicial separation or proceedings before a Court of Summary Jurisdiction in which an order for judicial separation is made or applied for, any particulars other than the following, that is to say: (i) The names, addresses, and description of the parties and witnesses; (ii) the grounds on which the proceedings are brought and resisted as set forth in the petition and answer and particulars thereof; (iii) submissions on any point of law arising in the course of the proceedings, and the decision of the Court thereon; (iv) the summing-up of the judge and the finding of the jury (if any) and the judgment of the court and observations made by the judge in giving judgment.

A person acting in contravention of the provisions of this Act, if it becomes law, will, in respect of each offence be liable, on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, or to a fine not exceeding £500, or to both such imprisonment or fine. The new legislation can be interpreted as is restraint of the liberty of the press and on that ground it will arouse opposition. For some years past there has been a good deal of controversy as to what should and what should not be published in connection with Divorce Court proceedings. The Bill is the upshot of a belief that there should be some curtailment of the rights of the press in this direction.

A New York paper has started a school for training husbands. Students report that getting up their "home work" is the severest task in the course.

This charm you can keep

Youthful radiance of complexion! Millions of women have learned this simple way

The fresh softness, the radiance of youthful skin need not be lost as the years accumulate. Clever women guard this charm—keep it!—today.

This simple method does that for millions of women. Now you may use it—and keep that schoolgirl complexion.

You need only do this

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse—and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

Be sure you get Palmolive—which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. For just one week try this simple method and watch results. You will be astonished, delighted!

A SAMPLE OF GRAFT AND EFFRONTERY

Talk about private graft being rampant in the United States and not altogether unknown in Canada! Here is a sample of municipal graft and effrontery that probably is without parallel in the history of the world. Chicago asked permission to take a certain amount of water from Lake Michigan for sanitary purposes—to protect the health of its citizens. That right was given by an international treaty. That drainage canal is now being designed to float ships and it is developing a considerable volume of electric power. The provisions of the international treaty are being ignored. There have been consultations between Washington and Ottawa about it. That is as far as Canada has gone in the matter. If there were no interests except those of Canada involved in he question, Chicago might drain the lakes and the rivers dry without protest, because Illinois is a very powerful state politically and there are other states south of Illinois that are almost quite as powerful politically. But when the states of Michigan, Ohio, New York and a number of others adversely affected, call upon the United States government to take action for the protection of their interests, such a protest is not likely to be treated with indifference.

THE QUALITY OF BULK TEA

The Quality of Bulk Tea is always unreliable for several reasons. In the first place, being unlabelled its origin is unknown and there is no one who has any particular responsibility for its goodness. In the second place, it is exposed to the air and therefore very quickly loses its flavour and freshness. Even if it were as good as "SALADA" in the first place, it would rapidly deteriorate and in any case it would be impossible for any dealer to follow consistently the same quality throughout the year. "SALADA" always maintains an unvarying high standard, possible through skilful blending.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

It isn't difficult to discover greater sorrow than we experience ourselves.

But that doesn't mean that we should go around seeking it so that we may have something against which to loose our wrath. The difficulty with most of us is that we never know how fortunate we are and furthermore don't wish to be told. If we were we'd have to find something else to complain about, for who is there that is entirely satisfied?

Many times our greatest regrets are of our own making. Usually we could keep most of the sadness out of our lives. But unfortunately we are inclined to go about seeking new causes for complaint, despite the smoothness of nearly all the pathways we tread. Happy, indeed, is the man who knows his own blessings. Yet how few there are who try a hard to find reasons for rejoicing as to discern new causes for complaint.

Let us learn to smile at the world if we wish it to smile back at us.

Their blue sky stocks were not worth anything as security when they wanted to borrow money. And they were not bringing in any interest or dividends.

WOMEN SENSE THINGS TRULY

It seems that literally thousands of women are active in an unorganized campaign to use Made-in-B.C. products. Their own sense of economy, which is more than practical, teaches them that where a pair of B. C. boots are made, a can of jam or a can of milk consumed, citizens here have had work to do.

We learn this from personal calls —house to house—in different parts of town.

The get-together social held in the United Church, Coal Creek, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid, was a most enjoyable function. A program of songs, readings, games and sketches was successfully managed by Robt. Lee, chairman. In the humorous sketch, "Looking For a Wife," the thespian abilities of Mesdames Fawley, Morrison, Glass and Mr. Harry Sharpe were of a very high standard. Refreshments were supplied by the ladies.

Mrs. Rosie Sciriano is spending a few days with her mother in Fernie.

The company turned out the horses to pasture, on Wednesday.

All members of the G.W.V.A. Band are requested to attend practice on Sunday evening at 7.30 sharp.

The team representing the Coal Creek Club in the inter-club tournament, journeyed to Fernie on Sunday to play the Fernie G.W.V.A. The score was as follows:

Coal Creek—Dominoes 80, Cribbage 140, Seven Up 200, Whist 80, All Fours 160, Billiards 515—Total 1175.

A new government creamery is to be established in the Peace River district of British Columbia, between Pouce Coupe and Rolla, states Hon. E. D. Barrow, minister of agriculture. The creamery will probably be taken over by the patrons after a year or two. The minister says that the principle of establishing creameries at various points in the Interior has worked out most satisfactorily and has proven the only sure means of getting the dairy industry off to a good start.

The Medicine Made From Fruit

There can be no doubt that "Fruit-a-tives" is the long sought remedy for Rheumatism and Lumbago. From all over Canada come letters testifying to this fact.

Mr. John E. Guilderson of Parrsboro, N.S. writes: "I suffered badly with Rheumatism for five years—tried different medicines—was treated by doctors in Amherst—and here at home—but the Rheumatism came back.

In 1916, I saw an advertisement for "Fruit-a-tives" and took a box and got relief, so I took them for about six months and the Rheumatism was all gone and I have never felt it since".

I.O.O.F. EDUCATIONAL AND SOCIAL EVENING

Mount Fernie Lodge I.O.O.F., together with their sister lodge, held one of their series of Educational and Social evenings on Wednesday, a feature which is becoming extremely popular with the membership. Bro. Wm. Barraclough occupied the chair and after a few brief remarks called upon Bro. Cadow, who sang a couple of old Scottish songs in splendid style. Bro. Puckey then rendered a couple of his comic songs in his inimitable manner.

The educational feature of the evening was an address by Bro. Thomas Biggs, who had for his subject "Music." Bro. Biggs was in his element, and having a subject with which he was fully conversant, kept his listeners extremely interested from start to finish. Taking the position as a teacher, with his audience as the class, he outlined various ways of producing sounds and how different vibrations turned these sounds into music. He also gave a very detailed lesson in the new Tonic-Sol-Fa scale and pointed out how, in his opinion, it was a much simpler form of music for singers to follow than the old notation. He stated that the greatest of all musical creations was given to mankind in their own voices. He also showed how the mouth could be used on almost anything to produce music. He had with him a pair of old fashioned "bellows," used usually to coax a slow fire into ablaze, and proceeded to play the tune Robin Adair upon it. In concluding his address Bro. Biggs stated that there was absolutely no reason that in a city the size of Fernie there should not be a united choir of at least 150 voices and a male choir of at least 60 to 100 voices, while there should be a children's choir in every church.

A light supper was then served by the good of the order committee, following which Mr. Evans took charge at the piano and dancing was indulged in until 1 a.m.

A meeting of enthusiastic tennis players was held on Thursday evening and it was decided to form a club known as the Fernie Tennis Club. As the accommodation, unfortunately, is rather limited, those desiring to play during the coming season are requested to kindly interview the secretary, C. Hunsley, who will be pleased to give all information possible. The committee is arranging to have the grounds put into good order so that play can commence as soon as favorable weather arrives. All are looking forward to a very enjoyable season's recreation and entertainment. The committee will meet again in the near future to arrange rules governing play and any other matters of business.

In the Saturday Evening Post of April 5, there are two pictures by our local photographer, Fred Spalding. They are "A Storm Breaking Over the Three Sisters at Canmore," and "The Long, Long Trail a-Winding, an Alberta Sunset." Both of them are very striking pictures. In one of the February issues of that paper there was another of Fred's pictures, "Cascade Mountain at Banff," and shortly there will be another one of his pictures appear. This is of five mountain sheep which he photographed whilst driving over the Banff-Windermere road last summer. The Post has the largest circulation in the world today and has the pick of the work of the photographers of the American continent to choose from. That they have selected four of his pictures for publication and used two of them in one issue is something that Fred should be proud of. No other photographer has had this distinction.

The local Rotarians entertained their wives at dinner in the Napanee Hotel last evening, when a most delightful evening was spent. Principal E. Martin if the Public Schools, was appointed song leader for the occasion and he certainly excelled himself. Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Watson, A. Klauer and J. Whitehouse furnished the musical part of the program and S. Herchmer, W. R. Wilson and Rev. W. Burns were the speakers of the evening. Everybody present had a good time and it is expected that a similar affair will shortly be held again.

Mayor G. G. Henderson arrived home this morning from Ottawa, where he has been working hard on behalf of the depositors of the Home Bank. The Mayor is more or less optimistic about the final outcome of the controversy which is being carried on in the House of Commons and is confident that some measure of relief will be passed at the present session of the House. He says that so far as the members have expressed themselves the majority appear to lean toward the views of the depositors, but that the Senate is an unknown quantity.

FACTS ABOUT VACCINATION

Smallpox, a disease always present in the world, has invaded the civilized countries from earliest times, leaving death and disfigurement in its wake. Before the days of vaccination, smallpox caused at least one-tenth of all deaths. It was a disease of childhood, all adults being protected by a previous attack, and the mortality of the disease varied from 25 to 50 per cent. It is an infectious disease; every case may be traced to a previous case. The disease comes on ten or twelve days after exposure, with backache, headache, chill, and vomiting. In three days the pocks begin to appear, first as small red pimples, but in eight or ten days becoming filled with pus or matter. It is the appearance of the patient at this stage that has always caused such great loathing of the disease. Smallpox, without exception, is the most infectious of diseases. Contact of unvaccinated persons with the disease is invariably followed by an attack. One attack protects the individual from subsequent attacks, a strong immunity being established. Vaccination affords protection, though not quite to the same extent. Jenner, after much study and observation, for absolute proof of the protection afforded by vaccine, inoculated with smallpox a boy whom he had previously vaccinated. Slight local inflammation followed at the site of inoculation, which rapidly subsided. That was in 1796. Since that time we have collected voluminous statistics to prove the value of vaccination.

In these days there is no excuse for using impure vaccine virus. It is raised in young calves that have been carefully tested for those diseases to which they are liable. The process of vaccinating the animals is carried on with all possible antiseptic precautions. After the virus is collected they are immediately killed and examined for any diseased condition. If such is found, the virus is destroyed. If the animals are found to be healthy, the virus is placed in cold storage for several weeks, during which time it is repeatedly examined and also tested upon guinea-pigs to ascertain its purity and efficiency. If it comes up to the desired standard, it is then sealed in glass tubes and is ready for distribution.

Thousands of people have been vaccinated with no untoward effects, but, following a scratch of any kind, the part is liable to become swollen, and inflamed, and sore. This sometimes, though rarely, happens with a vaccinated arm if dirt gets into it, often from a dirty coat sleeve or a colored blouse, and the mother describes it as a "bad arm" and talks about it to her friends and neighbors, who immediately become opposed to vaccination. This bad arm result is a comparatively rare occurrence; in a few days the swelling and inflammation subside, or sooner with appropriate treatment.

"Most children who are born apparently healthy exhibit, as a rule, no sign of disease during the first few months of life. About the third or fourth month they are vaccinated; and about the sixth month the troubles of teething begin, and from this period to the end of the first 18 or 20 months the child's system is in a state of almost continual irritation. Few children escape some evidence of this. Coughs and bronchitis are common, eczema is common, diarrhoea is common and so are many other infantile complaints. It will be noticed that nearly all these come shortly after the period at which the child is vaccinated, and yet because these, the common accompaniments of the teething period, follow vaccination, vaccination gets the discredit of their occurrence."

It is during childhood that the body is most susceptible to many of the acute diseases, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, chicken-pox, infantile spinal paralysis, meningitis, etc., and it is surprising how, even among intelligent people, some of the sequels of these diseases are laid to the door of vaccination.

"With some people everything that follows vaccination must be due to it. A child is vaccinated when three months old; a month later it dies, of eczema or bronchitis. A certain class of newspaper reports the case under the heading of 'Death from Vaccination.' This is simply dishonest; the practice of putting everything that follows to its discredit is utterly unfair. Nevertheless, the harm is done, and nothing but a careful unprejudiced study of the real facts can undo it. Yet few take the trouble to do this. They have seen is stated 'in the papers' that a child has died after vaccination and their minds are made up. One solitary or even untrue statement is more than the reasoned opinions of over 20,000 medical men, whose word on every other matter relating to health or disease is law."

It is natural that individuals who may have seen or experienced any of the disagreeable complications occasionally attending this operation should be prejudiced against it. This is human nature. A broader view of the subject is essential for deciding the real benefit to be derived from the procedure. The official and most reliable evidence the world over is overwhelmingly in its favor, so much so, in fact, that individual incidents should not be permitted to obscure the main facts in the case. No one would think of discarding steam or electricity from our modern life by reason of the occasional accidents resulting from their use. No more should this safeguard against a loathsome disease be given up by reason of an occasional mishap, especially as even that is avoidable.

The evidence that vaccination practically prevents smallpox is overwhelming. Those countries that are most efficiently vaccinated suffer the least from the scourge. For years Germany has led the world in this respect. Efficient vaccination in infancy, childhood, and young adult life has so thoroughly protected her people that she has no pest houses for the care of smallpox, as have other nations. She has been free from this disease for more than forty years, while the adjacent nations are never free from it.

Systematic vaccination by the surgeons of the United States army in six provinces in the Philippines, having an approximate population of 1,000,000, reduced the annual smallpox mortality from 6,000 to nothing. During the succeeding five years there as not a death from this disease in this region of a vaccinated person. Eight hundred natives of Porto Rico were vaccinated by the medical officers of the United States army in 1898 with the result that smallpox was under control for the first time in the history of the island.

These statistics will, we believe, appeal to all unprejudiced thinkers.

Vaccination was never so safe nor so reliable as it is today. It has saved millions of lives. It has prevented an amount of suffering, mental and physical, that surpasses comprehension. The accidents attending the operation are usually avoidable and hence are a negligible factor. The advantages far outweigh the disadvantages. The intelligent portion of mankind the world over accepts the procedure. The risks are slight, so slight that they should not have any weight in deciding the question. They are of little consequence. The experience of more than a century amply justifies confidence in the operation despite the hue and cry of a few woefully mistaken agitators who oppose it. If any event in human affairs has been demonstrated beyond a reasonable doubt, it is the great benefit to be derived from timely, efficient skilful vaccination against smallpox.

WHO KNOWS?

(By Elbert Hubbard)

The man I am going to quote is gone. He was at sea in that terrible disaster several years ago which you will recall when I tell you the man's name was Elbert Hubbard. Before starting on that fateful journey to Europe, he wrote this for the "Fra." —Elbert Hubbard, II.

I have a profound respect for boys. Grimy, ragged, tousled boys in the street often attract me strangely.

A boy is a man in the cocoon—you do not know what it is going to become—his life is big with many possibilities.

He may make or unmake kings, change boundary lines between states, write books that will mould charcters, or invent machines that will revolutionize the commerce of the world.

Every man was once a boy. I trust I shall not be contradicted; it is really so.

Very distinctly and vividly I remember a slim, freckled boy, who was born in the "Patch," and used to pick up coal along the railroad tracks in Buffalo. A few months ago I had a motion to make before the Supreme Court, and the boy from the "Patch" was the judge who wrote the opinion granting my petition.

Yesterday I rode horseback past a field where a boy was plowing. The lad's hair stuck out through the top of his hat; his form was bony and awkward; one suspender held his trousers in place; his bare legs and arms were brown and sunburned and briar-scarred.

He swung his horses around just as I passed by, and from under the flapping brim of his hat he cast a quick glance out of the dark, half bashful eyes and modestly returned my salute. His back turned. I took off my hat and sent a God-bless-you down the furrow after him. Who knows?—I may go to that boy to borrow money, or to hear him preach, or to beg him to defend me in a lawsuit; or he may stand with pulse unhastened, bare of arm. in white apron, ready to do his duty, while the cone is placed over my face, and Night and Death come creeping into my veins.

Canada's Part in Power Conference

1. Queenston-Chippawa hydro-Electric power station of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario on the Niagara River near Niagara Falls Ontario, Canada, as it will appear when completed with the full installation of 550,000 to 600,000 h.p. There were six units of 55,000 h.p. each in operation in 1923 delivering power to the Commission's Niagara system. Two similar units will be added during 1924.
2. Gouin storage dam on the upper waters of the St. Maurice river Quebec, Canada, built by the Quebec Streams Commission for the regulation of flow of the St. Maurice for power purposes. The operation of the reservoir which has an area of 300 square miles and a capacity of 160 billion cubic feet has more than doubled the minimum flow of the river at Shawinigan Falls with a corresponding benefit to the power interests.
3. Hydro-Electric development at Cameron Falls on the Nipigon river, Ontario, of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Canada. The plant has an ultimate designed capacity of 75,000 h.p. of which 25,000 h.p. is now in use, power being transmitted to Port Arthur and Fort William. The Commission are installing an additional 25,000 h.p. during 1924.
4. Hydro-Electric Development of the Manitoba Power Company Limited at Great Falls on the Winnipeg river, Canada. The initial installation of 56,000 h.p. was brought into operation during 1923, the power being sold to and distributed by the Winnipeg Electric Railway Company Limited. It is proposed to add a third unit of 28,000 h.p. in 1924. The ultimate designed capacity of the plant is 168,000 h.p.

Canada will play an important part in the first World Power Conference that is to be held in London, England, from June 30th to July 12th, and this because after the United States, she possesses greater potential water powers than any other country and because in point of per capita production of electric power she stands almost at the head of all nations, her production, in this respect being three times greater than that of the United States.

This is rapidly becoming the electric age, a fact which the impending Conference, which is being held under the auspices of the British Electrical and Allied Manufacturers Association in co-operation with several of the most technical, scientific and industrial institutions throughout the World, emphasizes greatly. The Canadian committee consists of the leading members of the electrical engineering profession with Dr. Charles Camsell, deputy Minister of Mines as chairman.

So far as Canada is concerned the hydro-electric development is a twentieth century development. A quarter of a century ago there was very little hydro-electric development in Canada. In 1910 the turbine installation of water power plants in Canada was but 965,000 h.p.; in 1915 it was 2,078,000 h.p.; in 1920 it was 2,483,000 h.p.; in 1923 it was 3,228,000 h.p. Next year it is expected to be 4,000,000 h.p., the indications being that 5,000,000 h.p. will be reached by 1930.

Canada is very fortunate in that her large water powers are located comparatively close to the centres of her industrial life. When it comes to ability to use her water powers she is immeasurably better off than the United States, 70 per cent of the latters being in the Western states, remote from industrial centres. Within a radius of 300 miles of the Long Sault rapids on the St. Lawrence river, there are available water powers exceeding 9,000,000 horse power. As it is through the development of water power that other operations are made cheaper, capital for it can be more readily secured, and it is for this reason that the power producing industry has progressed more rapidly than any other in Canada during the past few years.

Briefly, the objects of the Power Conference are to consider how the industrial and scientific sources of power may be adjusted nationally and internationally; by considering the potential resources of each country in hydro-electric power, oil and minerals, by comparing experiences in the development of scientific agriculture, irrigation and transportation by land water and air; by conferences of civil, mechanical, marine and mining engineers; by consultation of the consumers of power and the manufacturers of the instruments of production, by discussion on the financial and economic phases of the industry, by conference on the possibility of establishing a permanent World Bureau for the collection of data, the preparation of inventories of the world's resources and the exchange of industrial and scientific information through the representatives of the various countries.

It will be seen then, that the Dominion's part in the Conference cannot be a small one and that through the dissemination of knowledge of her resources she stands to gain considerably. It is interesting to note in this connection that for every new power scheme which calls for large investment, the money comes chiefly from abroad. Indeed it is probably that since 1918 several hundreds of millions of dollars have been secured in this way and it is impossible to overestimate the importance of water-power development as a means of attracting Capital to Canada.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

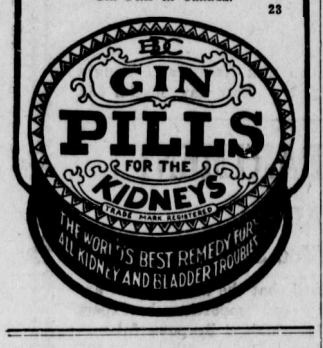
Back to Work in Four Days

If you are a sufferer from kidney or bladder trouble, read how this man was relieved:—



"I have used Gin Pills for bladder trouble and general kidney derangement. I suffered from an aching back which interfered with my work on the railroad. It was so bad that I had to give up my work for about two months. Then I started using Gin Pills for the Kidneys, which gave me relief in four days, so that I could go back to work. I know Gin Pills to be a wonderful remedy for kidney and bladder complaints, and can recommend them to any one who may be suffering as I did."

HOME BANK AND ONTARIO

Toronto, March 31.—It was brought out at the meeting of the public accounts committee of the legislature tonight that a check for $15,000 as a regate from the Home Bank to the Ontario treasury department in December, 1919, on a bond transaction, apparently never reached the department, although it was cashed. The original check cannot be located by G. T. Clarkson, liquidator of the Home Bank, who gave evidence. All that could be found was a stub on which was marked, "P Smith, $15,000." There was also an item in the teller's book of Dec. 18, 1919, indicating that the check had been paid.

According to the chief auditor and the chief clerk of the treasury department at the parliament buildings they could find no trace of the check or credit. This check was issued and cashed about a month later, when Peter Smith took office as provincial treasurer in the Drury government.

It was also brought out by Mr. Clarkson's evidence that credit notes were cashed by the late J. Cooper Mason, general manager of the Home bank, to the extent of $38,100, as commission for securing provincial government deposits. This sum, representing 1 per cent of the deposits, was supposed to have gone to the province, giving it 4 per cent interest on its money in the Home Bank instead of the usual 3 per cent. The province never did get the 4 per cent, according to witnesses.

G. T. Clarkson said this money was always paid to Mr. Mason's credit in legal tender or Dominion of Canada notes. He said there was an atmosphere around the Home Bank in which it was thought Mr. Mason paid money to someone for the provincial deposits but nobody knew to whom.

Hon. Peter Smith, former provincial treasurer, was not present at the meeting tonight, nor was C. A. Matthews, deputy treasurer.

There were no further developments of the persistent rumors of the day that there would be arrests before night.

Hon. W. H. Price said again tonight that he had nothing to say about it, but nevertheless arrests are still expected.

RAILWAY EXECUTIVE HAS METEORIC RISE

W. M. Neal Appointed Assistant to Vice-President of Canadian Pacific

At 38 years of age Assumes Important Position at Montreal Head Office of Big Transportation Company.

Mr. W. M. Neal

Announcement was made recently by Grant Hall, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, of the appointment of W. M. Neal as assistant to the vice-president, to succeed the late James Manson. Mr. Neal undertook his new duties as assistant to the vice-president of the Canadian Pacific on March 17th, a significant date for him, being of Irish descent.

Although still a comparatively young man, Mr. Neal is regarded as one of the most capable and promising of the upper group of officials in the service of the Canadian Pacific. His rise in the service during his 22 years of employment with the company has been little less than a meteoric succession of rapid promotions, owing to his capacity for hard work and intimate grasp of railway work.

W. M. Neal entered the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway in January, 1902, as a clerk in the superintendent's office at Toronto. In March of the same year he was transferred to the office of the general superintendent at Toronto.

He was transferred to the Winnipeg offices in September, 1904, as stenographer and clerk in the office of the superintendent of transportation there. In 1908 he was made chief clerk in the office of the superintendent at Souris, Man. Again in March of the same year he was sent to the general superintendent's office at Winnipeg as clerk, and in January, 1910, he was appointed chief clerk of the car service department at Winnipeg, and in May, 1915, he was transferred to the same position in Montreal.

In January, 1916, Mr. Neal was appointed car service agent of the Eastern Division, with offices at Montreal, and in June of the same year he was promoted assistant superintendent of Montreal terminals. In November, 1916, he became acting superintendent of the car service department at Montreal.

He was appointed general secretary of the Canadian Railway Association, National Defence, on October 23, 1917, in which capacity he did such notable work as to attract the attention of all having business to do with that important department during the latter years of the war.

In February, 1920, he was appointed assistant general superintendent at Montreal, and in April of the same year he went to Toronto, to undertake a similar position there.

Two years later, in July, 1922, he was appointed general superintendent for the Algoma division, with headquarters at North Bay, which position he vacated to take up his duties as assistant to the vice-president.

Mr. Neal was born in Toronto in 1886 and was educated at the Public and Wesely High Schools there. He was married in 1910 to Miss Francis J. Scott of Renfrew.

PAINT A LIFE SAVER

Paint saves life, says Dr. Max C. Starkloff, health commissioner of St. Louis, as quoted in Health (Chicago). By this statement, we are assured, Dr. Starkloff did not mean the kind of paint that goes on the face, but the kind that is put on walls and houses. The writer proceeds:

"The connection between paint and health would seem to be remote, yet Dr. Starkloff shows that they have a very close relation. In a lying-in hospital, says Dr. Starkloff, at a given period there were over a hundred cases of puerperal fever with a high death rate. In an effort to clean up the hospital and make it sanitary to the last degree, the entire place was painted, including floors, ceilings and inside walls. After the painting, cases of puerperal fever almost entirely disappeared. The New York health department is using paint rather than fumigation for sterilizing rooms which contagious disease patients have occupied.

"As further proof of the value of paint as a disinfectant, Mr. Henry A. Gardner of the Institute of Industrial Research at Washington painted a wall surface and then sprayed it with liquid cultures of different germs. A similar area, unpainted, was also saturated with germ cultures. Microscopic study showed that the unpainted area gave abundant growth of germs while the painted trea showed that the germs had developed very little.

"An unpainted, rough wall, says Mr. Gardner, is porous; moisture may be absorbed readily and retained for long periods. In these pores, organic matter and germs may easily lodge and develop. If the wall is painted, however, not only are these pores filled with paint and a rough, absorptive surface turned into a smooth, unabsorptive surface, but a painted wall can be easily and efficiently washed, while the unpainted wall can not be cleaned successfuly. This is another evidence of the fact that good health is nothing but common sense. Keep your surroundings clean and neat and you will lead a healthier and a happier life than you will if you live in the midst of dirt and a happier life than you will if you live in the midst of dirt and confusion."

THE BORROWED DAYS

There is a legend extant in Scotland which speaks of the last three days of March as the "Borrowed Days." The origis or meaning of the fable does not seem clear, but it is believed to have been given birth by a certain character of weather prevailing about the close of March, somewhat different from what the season justifies. In other words, the tail end of March sometimes shows a Winter relapse. We have experienced it here and it is no new thing.

The old adage has been reversed and March this year came in like a lamb, and goes out like a lion. Sir Thomas Browne, in his Vulgar Errors, alludes to the popular fiction about borrowed days, remarking "it is usual to ascribe unto March certain Borrowed Daies from April." The fiction, however, is of much greater antiquity than the time of Browne, for it is alluded to in the Complaynt of Scotland, printed in 1548, and there is also an ancient calendar of the Church of Rome in which allusion is made to the "rustic fable concersing the nature of the month (March); the rustic names of six days which shall follow in April, or may be last in March." In Scotland the popular notion is that these days were borrowed by March with a view to the destruction of a parcel of unoffending young sheep, and there is a rhyme which used to be popular at the fireside of the Scottish peasantry, as follows:

March said to Aperill,
I see three hoggs upon a hill,
And if you lend me days three,
I'll find a way to make them dee.
The first o' them was wind and weet,
The second o' them was snaw and sleet,
The third o' them was sic a freeze,
It froze the birds' nebs to the trees;
When the three days were past and gane,
The three silly hoggs came hirpling hame.

HUSKY NEW FARMERS ON CANADIAN NATIONAL

TWENTY-EIGHT of Canada's new farmer citizens-in-the-making as they arrived in Winnipeg a few days ago in charge of the Salvation Army. This party originally consisted of 58 boys and 12 girls, but those shown in the picture are the only ones who came on to Western Canada to work on the land, the others remaining in Ontario. These boys are the advance guard of a large group of 'teen age lads who are coming to Canada this spring under the auspices of the Salvation Army to work on farms in the west, and never has a more promising looking group of settlers passed through Winnipeg than the young men shown above. They travelled across Canada by Canadian National Railways' special train for immigrants and the picture shows them on their arrival at the Union Station, Winnipeg, and the long train filled with new settlers. Arrangements have been made by the Salvation Army authorities for special equipment to be provided by the Canadian National to bring west the next large party, which is scheduled to sail from the Old Country the end of March.

Why Ford Predominates

Many Reasons From Many Users

If you were to ask the next fifty Ford owners you meet why they prefer Fords, you would get a wide variety of answers.

Some would say, "Because they seem never to wear out;" others would answer, "Because they cost so little." Many would reply "Because I can get service anywhere;" and just as many, "Because it is the only car I can afford to own."

All would tell you, "Because they master a bad road in any weather," a woman driver would respond, "Because I can drive it so easily." From the fleet-owners you would hear, "Because I can buy two or three or four Ford Trucks for the price of one big truck.

Wherever you might inquire you would hear expressed these basic reasons why Ford predominates—why, year after year, Ford sales equal the total sales of all other cars combined.

TOURIST TRAVEL PROSPECTS

That this year will break all previous records by a long way there seems little doubt. All the railroad companies are spending large sums in display advertising and making preparations for an increase of at least 50 per cent over last year.

Whilst at the coast recently I was in to see several of the bureaus and auto clubs and they all stated that the indications were for a large increase.

There were several parties of California motorists in Vancouver and I saw too large California cars, each with a trailer, arrive there, and on the street there were many other cars with Oregon and Washington licenses.

There have been considerably more inquiries through my office to date this year than I have had in previous years before the end of May. Applications are coming in for large supplies of maps and literature from bureaus all over the continent already, which is much earlier than they usually do, and indicates that our advertising of previous years is having the desired effect of interesting motorists in the possibilities and pleasures of driving up into this part of Canada.

The road around Crow's Nest Lake is the only part of the through road which is not yet open, and it is expected that it will be cleared out in the next few days. As soon as it is we are going to have tourists bowling through in a steadily increasing stream.

On Wednesday a large Buick came in from Los Angeles. It was occupied by two ladies and several children, and they told me that with the exception of the ten miles directly west of Fernie, they had found wonderful roads all the way. This ten miles they classed as the worst they had driven over since they left Los Angeles. It is to be hoped that no more tourists will have that to say about our roads this year.—Fred Spalding.

K.T.L. DECLARES DIVIDEND

Cranbrook Courier: Friday evening last the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Kootenay Telephone Lines was held in the office of the company, when some 25 shareholders were present. The auditor's report, the manager's report and that of the secretary-treasurer were read and approved. For the first time in the history of the company a dividend was declared, amounting to 6 per cent, payable April 1. Under the capable management of W. D. Gilroy, and the close co-operation of the directors, this dividend has been made possible. The sysem at both Fernie and Cranbrook is in better condition than at any time in the history of the company, complaints are almost negligible and the staff is co-operating in an honest effort to give the public service. The meeting re-elected the old board of directors.

MINE SAFETY AT ROTARY

B. Caufield, C. Stubbs, Dr. Bonnell and Dr. Asselstine, representing the East Kootenay Mine Association, were the guests of honor at the Rotary luncheon yesterday, when a beautifully engraved silver shield was presented by the Rotary Club to the Asociation for a competition to take place some time during the coming summer.

Mr. Caufield, as President of the E. K. M. S. Association, thanked the members for the interest taken in their work. He went into the work of the Mine Safety at considerable length, showing the big decrease in the number of accidents since the work of educating the miners along the lines of safety first began. Few people had any idea of the unique conditions which existed in the mines at Coal Creek and until a special study had been made of these conditions it had been very hard to guard against accidents. The Association had gone into the matter thoroughly and were spending a lot of time and money to render the mines just as safe as possible. The human factor was the hardest obstacle to overcome. It seemed to be almost impossible to interest the men sufficiently in their own safety. Many of the foreign born miners were fatalists, who believed in predestination and it was a difficult matter to educate them to take necessary precautions to protect their own lives. However, the work had been carried on with the result that last year there was not a single fatal accident at Coal Creek and the rate of minor accidents among the drivers alone had been reduced from one and a half per man for the year to one accident for every two men.

Mr. Stubbs, secretary of the Association, gave a fine talk upon the work of the Association and the different competitions that were carried on every year with the idea of educating the public in the good work of mine safety. His own work as safety inspector brought him in close touch with all the dangers of mining and he deeply appreciated the kindness of the Rotary Club in presenting the shield to help the good work along.

Dr. Bonnell also addressed the members at considerable length upon the work of the conservation of human life and the vast strides that had been made in medical science during the past few years. He illustrated this by a comparison of the methods pursued during the Boer war and those followed during the Great War, showing the wonderful difference. He also gave a short sketch of the work of Dr. Bantin and the obstacles which he had to contend with before he perfected his wonderful cure for diabetes.

MINE EXAMINATIONS TO BE HELD IN MAY

Victoria, April 9. — Notice has been given that examinations for first, second and third class and mine surveyors' certificates of competency, as provided by the Coal Mines Regulation Act of British Columbia, will be held at Nanaimo, Fernie, Cumberland and Merritt on May 20, 21 and 22. The subjects are as follows: First class certificate, mining act and special rules, mine machinery and surveying; second class certificate, mining act and special rules, mine gases, ventilation, general work, including questions on underground machinery and surveying; third class certificate, mining act, special rules and mine gases, general work and ventilation; mine surveyors, surveying, levelling and drawing.

Candidate for a manager's certificate must be British subjects, have had five years' experience in and about the practical working of a coal mine, and be at least 25 years of age.

Five years' practical experience is required of candidates for the office of overman and the candidates must be at least 23 years of age. Candidates for the office of shiftboss, fireboss or shotlighter, must be 23 years of age at least and have had three years' experience, besides being holders of certificates of competency as coal miners. To qualify as mine surveyors, candidates must have had two years' experience in the surveying of mines and be holders of the usual diplomas.

United States world fliers have reached Sitka, Alaska and are held up by bad yeather.

ASK INJUNCTIONS BE ALL SET ASIDE

Calgary, April 8.—Wm. Sherman, president of District 18 of the U. M. W. of A., said Monday that every effort was being made to have all injunctions granted against officials of the organization declared void.

The injunction against him and the district organization so far as the Coal Valley Coal company was concerned, he said, had already been cancelled. When this has been done special attention will be directed to ward organizing the non-union miners.

There were no particular developments here on Monday in connection with the strike situation.

PURCHASES HOME BANK

The Royal Bank of Canada has purchased at a handsome figure the Home Bank building in this city, and they intend moving into the building as soon as all necessary repairs and improvements are effected. In the purchase of this building the Royal Bank had in mind the unfortunate plight of the Home Bank depositors and at the same time this purchase demonstrates the confidence of this big strong financial institution in the future of Fernie.

MINERS PREPARED FOR LONG BATTLE

(Calgary Herald)

The miners of District 18 of the U.M.W.A. are standing pat and are prepared to continue the fight against the operators indefinitely, was the announcement made on Thursday morning by Wm. Sherman, president of district 18.

"We have been assured of financial aid from international headquarters," said Mr. Sherman, replying to a question from a Herald reporter, "and we are prepared to continue the fight indefinitely. There have been absolutely no attempts at strike breaking, and to date we have received no demands for assistance.

"Fair headway is being made in the extension of the strike into non-union mines and we have the Carbon mines shut down 100 per cent. The question of looking after mines is being taken up at our committee meeting on Thursday afternoon. On Thursday morning, we merely dealt with routine matters on which there is nothing to report."

PAY CURATOR OF HOME BANK

Toronto, April 8.—An order by Mr. Justice Fisher authorizes the payment to Archibald B. Barker, manager of the Toronto clearing house, of the sum of $3500 out of the assets of the Home Bank for his services as curator of that institution from the date of its collapse on August 17, 1923, to October 8, when the liquidators were appointed. It is understood that the inspectors have consented to this amount.

Mr. Barker's duties entailed the supervision of the affairs of the bank and the necessary arrangements for the payment of notes of the bank in circulation. He also had to protect the rights of creditors and shareholders and to prepare a report upon the financial condition of the bank.

Immediately after his appointment Mr. Barker took steps to collect the resources and overdue loans of the bank. During that period these loans were decreased by $1,120,000 and the cash balance was increased by $1,053,000 after making considerable expenditures to release securities for the bank which were subject to debtor liens. The cash on hand in October 1923 reached the sum of $2,100,000.

The work was pursued under high pressure on night and holidays and necessitated frequent conferences with the advisory committee appointed by the bankers' association.

WYOMING COAL SEEKING MARKET HERE IN STRIKE

Coal operators over the line are evidently trying to make use of the present coal strike for establishing a market here. A circular letter has been received at the city hall from agents of the Pioneer Coal Co., Ltd., Helena, Montana, offering to supply high grade Wyoming coal at $3 for 7-inch screen, $3 for fancy eggs, $2.75 per ton for mine run, plus $4.50 for freight.—Lethbridge Herald.

GOLDEN WEDDING

On Tuesday, April 8, an event of more than ordinary interest engaged the attention of Fernie, for at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brown they received the congratulations and well wishes of their family and a host of friends on their golden wedding day. Mr. Brown was born in Clifford, Ont., Jan. 19, 1852, and was the first white child born in the township of Minto, county of Wellington, and was married in Hollin, Ont., to Frances Jane Daly by the late Rev. Wm. Hayhurst, on April 8, 1874. Mrs. Brown was born in the town of Brampton, Ont., July 9, 1853. They had a family of nine children, eight of whom are living, five boys and four girls.

One of the most pleasing features of the occasion was the fact that Archibald Campbell, who has resided in the west for the past 30 years, and was best man when Mr. and Mrs. Brown were married, was able to attend their golden wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown received their friends from 4 to 6 in the afternoon and from 8 to 11 in the evening, when refreshments were served. In the afternoon the Ladies Aid of the United Church presented Mrs. Brown with a beautiful gold pin. Mrs. A. I. Fisher, in a few well chosen remarks, told how Mrs. Brown had been an active member of the Ladies Aid of Fernie for the past 20 years, and Mrs. Monkwitz made the presentation.

In the evening the citizens of Fernie presented Mr. and Mrs. Brown with a purse of gold and a beautiful boquet of roses, W. R. Wilson making the presentation of their Fernie friends, and in a few words expressed their cordial and sincere good wishes. Little Lillian Robertson made a charming flower girl.

On this happy anniversary occasion letters, flowers and telegrams were received from friends far and near, and many beautiful gifts bespoke the esteem in which the honored couple are held by their Fernie friends. All Fernie joins in the heartiest congratulations to these esteemed residents and in best wishes for many more happy returns of the glad day.

MICHEL HONORS ESTEEMED CITIZENS

Michel, April 5.—The funeral of the late Fred Montalbetti, who died of heart failure the morning of March 30, was held at 2 p.m. Friday afternoon. Services were held from the Catholic church and members of Victoria Emaniele Society, No. 101 and V. Filoberto, No. 130, as well as Michel miners union, attended in a body. Michel band also played the funeral march. Many cars were in the procession, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by all classes of the community.

Mrs. Frank Winter, an old-time resident of Natal, who has been an invalid for a long time, passed away early Wednesday morning. She leaves a husband, two married daughters and one son as well as Frank at home to mourn her loss. The funeral took place Friday morning at 10.30.

PREMIER EARNS NEAR MILLION IN PAST YEAR

Vancouver, April 9.—The Premier Gold Mining company's annual report shows the company made a net operating profit of $2,135,018, from which administrative expenses, depreciation and depletion, making a total of $1,302,233, have to be deducted, leaving $832,185 available for dividends.

As a matter of fact, dividends totalling $1,738,000 were paid, but the larger part was paid out of depletion reserve.

The company shipped 87,869 tons of crude ore to the smelters, and treated 57,796 tons in its own mill. The metals produced from thse various sources were 117,294 ounces of gold, 2,946,551 ounces of silver, and 62,191 pounds of lead.

The cost of operation appears to have been reduced markedly, compared with the previous year, and figures out at $7.51 a ton.

The restrictions placed on traffic on account of the stock plague in California may have the effect of diverting a considerable number of tourists from that state. They will naturally come north and many of them are likely to visit British Columbia.

BASEBALL

The Coal Co. baseball team will not participate in the East Kootenay baseball league this coming season. The latter body held a meeting in Cranbrook last Sunday, when it is understood only two applications were made for a franchise, Kimberley also remaining aloof from the league.

The opening of the season will find the local ball club starting out in quest of the Calgary Brewery trophy, as their challenge was accepted late last season and the games postponed until this year. If they are able to capture this trophy Fernie will have all the ball games they can handle as any challengers for this cup must play the games on the defending team's diamond.

BUDGET SUMMARY

Ottawa, April 10.—Following is a summary of the budget:

Public debt reduced by $30,000,000 in fiscal year just closed.

Estimated revenue for same period $396,000,000; expenditure, $328,250,000. Surplus $67,750,000.

Sales Tax reduced from 6 to 5 per cent.

Long list of agricultural and dairying implements, mining, quarrying, lumbering and logging machinery, provisions and bread stuffs added to goods exempted from sales tax.

Sales tax reduced 50 per cent on boots and shoes, biscuits, canned vegetables, canned fruits, jams and preserves.

Customs tariff reductions on agricultural and dairying implements, mining, quarrying, lumbering and logging machinery.

No change made in income tax.

Estimated loss of revenue from tariff and sales tax reductions $24,000,000.

BEER PLEBISCITE AND ELECTION TOGETHER ?

Victoria, April 9.—British Columbia electors will decide whether they want beer to be sold in licensed premises or not at the same day when they elect a government.

This appeared certain today, after the date of the beer plebiscite had been considered by the government at long conferences held during the last 24 hours.

While no official statement on the subject was forthcoming, it was understood the government favors the holding of the beer vote at the time of the general election, because it is anxious to avoid the extra expense involved in two separate votes.

Victoria, April 9.—Premier John Oliver today stated no decision had yet been reached by the government as to the day of the provincial election. The statement was made following publication of reports that the election and beer plebiscite would be held simultaneously some time in June.

THE LATEST NEWS BRIEFS

Ottawa, April 11.—The Progressives held a caucus on the budget this morning. Indications are that manufacturers will denounce tariff reductions.

Detroit, April 11.—Four armed bandits today stole seven mail sacks.

Pineville, Ky., April 11.—Two tanks are being used by the military authorities to keep order during the miners' strike here.

London, April 11.—One hundred thousand shipyard workers have been locked out. The steamship Uritania grounded but was refloated and sent to Cherbourg for repairs.

Toronto, April 11.—Hon. T. W. McGarry, formerly provincial treasurer of Ontario, denied before the probing committee that he got a rake off on bond sales.

New York, April 11.—Police today found $40,000 in counterfeit money in a house equipped with arms and nitro-glycerine to withstand a siege.

April 18 being Good Friday, the Free Press will be published one day earlier.

MONTANA OIL PRODUCTION

Conditions in the Kevin-Sunburst field are entirely satisfactory, according to the editor of the Montana Oil Journal, who devoted the feature position in the last issue to a review of the crude production for the first week of pumping this year. The daily runs, according to the Journal, averaged in excess of 3500 barrels a day from about half the completed wells in the field.

The producing wells in the field are today making more oil than they did in the flush production and the prospects are that the production during the season will steadily increase. The winter shut down, says the Journal, had no ill effects on the wells, there being no evidence of water invasion.

F. C. Platt, field scout of the Northern Oil Information company, says: "Shut down has not affected any of the wells in the field as far as can be determined to date. Baker lease made about 1600 barrels first 24 hours. Homestake Howling No. 3 made nearly 1000. Mid-Northern lease near 1000. Their Howling No. 3 making over 500. Shoshone No. 2 makes 300 daily. No more water than before in any of the wells. Apparently all wells are as good as before shutdown if not better."

Gene Gerlough, geologist of the Potlach Oil and Refining company, says: "Practically every well in the field now pumping is making more oil than at the time of the shut down last fall. These wells seem to be holding up in good shape." L. C. Stevenson, president of the Sunburst interests, declares the situation in the field to be entirely satisfactory, and Lee Yealey field superintendent of the Ohio Oil company, says that "in most cases the production is practically double what it was at the time the field shut down. The wells running seem to be standing in good shape."

There is about 20,000 barrels of empty storage in the field and 63,000 barrels of empty storage in the Ohio Oil company's tank farm at Sunburst. The field was shut down by joint agreement of the major operators on October 20, last fall, because of a lack of either market or storage. The movement of oil to the Sunburst and other independent refineries and to the Imperial refinery at Calgary will relieve the situation but will not handle all of the present indicated production.

MONGOL PHEASANTS RELEASED NEAR FT. STEELE

Cranbrook Courier: That the Game Conservation board is determined to stock this district with Mongolian pheasants is evident. This week, fifteen of the birds arrived in the city consigned to Chief Provincial Constable Mortimer and who immediately took steps for the releasing of the feathered beauties. The spot chosen for the first nesting place of the birds is the Westport Flats west of Fort Steeele, it being felt that the river bottom of that section is well suited to the raising of expected broods of young. Quite recently, proof was forthcoming that the Mongolian pheasant can be successfully raised in this district as, contrary to the opinion of many, the species is quite capable of finding forage throughout an ordinary Kootenay winter. Some two weeks ago, Frank Dezall, of this city, reported his having one of the birds of the consignment released here two years ago, sitting on a fence near Westport. So far as he was able to ascertain the bird appeared to be in good condition. The presence of other specimens has been reported from other parts of the immediate district. The pheasants released this week are from the government game farm at Victoria.

Clocks in France were advanced an hour on April 1. Advancing the value of the franc would be another timely movement.

OLIVER OPPOSES PEACE RIVER LINE

Victoria, April 8.—Premier Oliver today voiced opposition to the proposed railway from near Brule Lake on the Canadian National railway, to Grand Prairie, in the Peace River district, on the ground that this link would be of little assistance to settlers in British Columbia, and would delay the construction of a connection between the Edmonton & Dunvegan railway and a British Columbia point.

The premier declared the proposed line would add to the difficulty of solving the Pacific Great Eastern railway problem.

WOMEN WORK AND WEEP, TOO

The day is past when the women wept and let the men work, according to the old song, for now in England especially, it is claimed, the women work as well as weep. Whether this statement is true only of England may be questioned, but the hardest job of all that falls to womankind, we are told, is that of the miner's wife. This is the assertion of a contributor to the Labor organ, the London Daily Herald, and the writer, herself a woman, declares that this is so "without any hesitation and in spite of all protestations." Of all creatures on this earth "not excluding pit-ponies," she says, the miner's wife is the most hard-worked slave, and her chief reasons for this contention are:

"1. The three-shift system prevalent in the coal field, which often results in members of the same household working on three separate shifts.

"2. The abnormally dirty nature of the miner's work, and the lack of 'pit-head baths' and wash houses, compelling the miner to carry the muck and mire of the mine into his home.

"3. The ridiculously low wage of the miner, which makes it impossible for his wife to employ any assistance whatsoever."

This informant goes on to record the dail routine of the average miner's wife, who rises at 5.30 a.m. to get the morning shift off to work. From 6.30 to 7 she cleans up some of the dirt left behind from the pit clothes and boots. From 7 to 8.30 she dresses Tommie and Mary and gets their breakfast before sending them to school. Meanwhile she washes and dresses the baby "at odd moments when the opportunity arises," and we read:

"Nine a.m.: Draw breath for the first time, and decide what next to do, out of the multitude of things that need to be done. According to the day of the week it may be scrubbing, cleaning, washing, ironing, or baking, etc. This goes on till 12 (attending the baby meanwhile). Then prepare for the afternoon shift's departure, cook dinner for the returning morning shift and the children, also try to get a mouthful yourself, if you can spare the time.

"During the afternoon and evening, try to get on with the washing. Oh, those pit flannels, full of the mire of the mine, and the prespiration of the men and boys! It is heartbreaking, but don't forget you have some mending to be done, and moleskin is such a nice thing to sew, especially when it is impregnated with dirt and grease.

"Six o'clock tea for the family, clear up and get little Mary to wash the tea things. She may break one or two, but it can not be helped, one pair of hands can not possibly do all that needs to be done. Go on with the housework till 9.30, then prepare for return of afternoon shift, and departure of night shift. Ten p.m., slip up stairs and make the beds (no time before).

"Then clear up and wash up once more, finish mending working clothes, undress the baby and go to bed, and leave the work till next day, because you can never hope to do it all."

NOTE AND COMMENT

So many extraordinary things have happened during the course of our experience, so many things have happened that never under any circumstances seemed likely to happen, that we hesitate to speak dogmatically upon any subject save possibly the subjects of Rt. Hon. William Mackenzie King and prohibition. Everything, and more, that we predicted has happened in the case of the latter, and every prophesy that we have made either has been or is in course of being fulfilled in the case of the former.

* * *

But when we consider the mysterious forces of nature; when we consider that man, notwithstanding his limitations, has succeeded in doing by bending those forces to his imperious will, we shall henceforth be dumb. First we signal over wires, then we talk over wires, and finally we signal and talk through almost immeasurable distances without any wires at all. Once we scoffed at the very idea of flying machines being put to any practical use, just as our unbelieving and unimaginative forefathers scoffed and jeered at the idea of the locomotive usurping the place of the horse, and the marine engine displacing the white wings of the wind-driven ship.

* * *

Notwithstanding many disillusionments, retrospective, present and prospective, we are skeptical about this new-fangled notion of thought transference, particularly over great distances. The case for the transference of the spoken word through the atmosphere has been demonstrated but there are physical reasons to account for that phenomenon. The words which proceed from our mouths create atmospheric waves or impulses, and those waves or impulses are projected through the air by powerful electrical machinery, picked up at the various receiving stations and translated into speech or song, as the case may be by reproducing apparatus. All such processes are purely physical. But thought, as far as we know, creates no atmospherric waves or impulses. If it can be transferred from the minds of men in one continent to the minds of men in another continent thousands of miles away, that is not a manifestation that can be accounted for by physical law; it is phenomenon that must be accounted for in some other way. Perhaps it may be explained by those who know something about psychological processes. On this matter we are not as Thomas the Doubter, but still "we must be shown."—R. B. D. in Colonist.

G.N. RAILWAY HAS NEW TRAIN

Official announcement is made by the Great Northern railway, of the inauguration of a newly equipped train, the "Oriental Limited," from the Pacific Northwest to Chicago. The new service will be installed on June 1.

This new train will be the most luxurious thing on wheels, embodying the latest designs and improvements in sleeping car equipment by the Pullman company. Many unique features will be available, including shower baths for both men and women, a commodious lounge room exclusively for women, ladies' maid, hair-dresser, manicure, barber and valet. The observation cars are specially designed for mountain travel with unusually deep recessed ends and especially wide windows to enhance the enjoyment of mountain scenery along the route.

In constructing these new cars the comfort of the woman traveler has been of particular concern. Provision has been made for greatly enlarged women's dressing rooms, each one of which will be equipped with a full length vanity table, an unusually large mirror, three wash stands and additional space for four chairs.

A new feature in sleeping car construction is provided with fixed head boards to afford greater privacy during the daylight hours of travel and to speed up the work of making up and taking down the berths, which will cause less inconvenience to passengers.

The new dining cars are as luxurious as the new sleeping cars are in comparison with the average sleeper. They are of very heavy construction, practically sound proof and vibration proof. The dining room is decorated under the direction of a well known interior decorator and will combine elegance with simplicity.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railway, in an official bulletin relative to this new service, says:

"This train, spick and span now in every detail, is the culmination programme of several years which involved expenditure of many millions of dollars. Putting on a new train does not mean merely the purchase of one locomotive and the necessary care for one train. In establishing this new train it was necessary to actually provide the equivalent of ten complete trains."

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

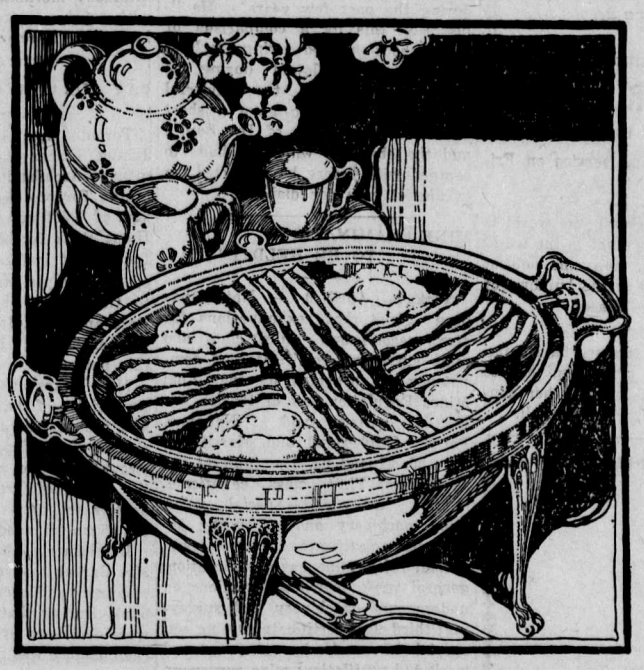
PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES



Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

A Delightful Easter Breakfast

Easter morning! Herald of Springtime; sounding the call of Nature's reawakening to life and vigor. No wonder Easter is a glorious festive season, impatiently awaited: no wonder mankind seeks adequate expression—in new apparel—new colors—and—in thousands of homes by a special breakfast of Premium Bacon or Ham. But be sure it is "Premium", for, as Easter is an outstanding day, it is but appropriate that you should mark it by that which is outstanding in quality and goodness.

PIONEER DIES AT 80

Winnipeg, April 5.—Winnipeg lost a pioneer and a leading citizen, and Western Canada one of its most prominent men late yesterday, when James H. Ashdown died at his home here, five days past his 80th birthday. As a business man, financier, public servant and philanthropist, Mr. Ashdown left his mark. The hardware business which he founded had become one of the foremost institutions in the prairies, with branches in several cities. His interest in civic affairs, and the trust reposed in him, made him an alderman, mayor of Winnipeg, president of the board of trade, and a life governor of the general hospital board. Religious and charitable institutions always found in him a friend.

Mr. Ashdown, whose association with Winnipeg's business life had continued more than half a century, only recently had broken a habit of many years of rising at 7 o'clock and walking to his office by 8. An attack of neuritis had forced him of late to modify his active life and on his birthday he was resting. Shortly afterward he was seized with pneumonia, but it was only yesterday that the public became informed that his illness was serious.

The service this morning at Broadway Methodist chuch, of which Mr. Ashdown was a charter member, and a trustee since its founding, took on an aspect of a memorial service. Dr. L. F. Dimmitt, the pastor, referred to Mr. Ashdown as "the first citizen of Winnipeg." It was announced that a public funeral service would be held at that church Tuesday afternoon, to be conducted by Dr. Dimmitt and Dr. J. H. Riddell, president of Wesley college.

Mr. Ashdown is susvived by his wife, a son and three daughters.

"I have never known him to miss a train nor to be late for an appointment," said his wife, in speaking on his birthday, of his regular habits.

Alfred Ashdown of Theodore, Sask., is a brother, and Mrs. A. J. Barch, Oakland, Cal., and Mrs. C. G. Goodeve, Victoria, B.C., sisters.

James Henry Ashdown was born March 31, 1844, in London, England. He came to Canada with his parents when he was 8 years old, and lived in Ontario, then in Chicago and Kansas, moving to Manitoba in 1868. The following year he established the J. H. Ashdown Hardware Co., Ltd., which at the time of his death has branches in Winnipeg, Calgary and Saskatoon.

The late Mr. Ashdown was also president of the Canadian Fire Insurance company, director of the Bank of Montreal, director of the Northern Trust company, director of the Northern Mortgage company, and director of the Canadian Indemnity company.

He was a member of the Winnipeg city council for three terms, and mayor for the year 1907-1908. In 1906 he was a member of the royal commission on transportation, and largely responsible for its report. He was also a member of the board of commissioners of Greater Winnipeg water district, and one of those chiefly instrumental in securing the incorporation of Winnipeg in the early days. He was defeated for parliament in 1917.

He has been a prominent figure in the commercial, municipal, political, religious and educational life of Winnipeg. His activities included, at different times being charter member and president of the Winnipeg board of trade, president Children's Aid Society, chairman Wesley college board, life governor Winnipeg general hospital, and member of the advisory boards of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

Mr. Ashdown served as a loyalist during the first Riel rebellion, in 1869 and 1870 and suffered imprisonment at Fort Garry with Schultz, Scott and Mair.

He was married in 1876 to Miss Susan Crowson, of Winnipeg, and had one son and three daughters.

The Ashdown Hardware company had a branch in Nelson in the early days, buying out the Lawrence Hardware company, located where C. W. Appleyard's real estate office now is. Hamilton Byress, who was in the hardware business for a time, was a late manager of the branch, and Ronald Brown the last. It was closed in February, 1911, the Nelson Hardware buying it out, with also the building at present occupied.

WHO CAN DRAW THE LINE?

All classes shade into one another these days; the idea that rigid barriers separate the population into sections is quite out of date. Socialists still hug an imaginary distinction between workers and "bourgeois." It really does not exist. Take a solicitor, a draughtsman, a trade union secretary, a publisher; are these workers or bourgeois? And how can any one of them belong to one category more than the other, since all work for a living?

"SALADA" Tea was one of the first pure food products to become widely known in Canada. The flavour-preserving aluminum package keeps the tea fresh and delicious. Women you envy have only this secret

You, too, may employ it to keep the radiance and bloom of youthful skin

Radiant, with the charm of youth still theirs, millions of clever women are admired—and envied!—today.

Yet they have no difficult, hidden secret—no great gift.

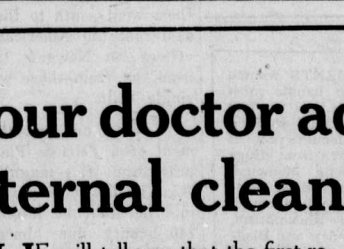
Only this simple method—which is for you, too. To give you, as well, the charm you envy in them.

For one week do this

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.



The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive, so that thousands now use Palmolive for the bath.

Make sure that you get Palmolive — which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. Get it, and try for one week this simplest of all treatments. See how delightfully and how quickly it benefits your skin.

COAST ITEMS

Victoria, April 9.—"I see no reason why white people in British Columbia should have to pay $3.80 per ton more freight rates on grain imported for domestic use than is paid on grain shipped through British Columbia ports for the consumption of Orientals," states Premier Oliver. He shows that while there was a reduction of 17 per cent in this connection in 1922, still it costs 19 cents per hundred more to bring grain into British Columbia from the prairies for domestic use than it costs to ship grain for export.

There will be no beer plebiscite until midsummer. Premier Oliver states that the May revision of the voters' lists will be held on May 19. Ordinarily six weeks are required after a revision for the printing and distribution of the lists. The government is considering the setting of the date of the referendum and will announce it shortly.

The report of Mr. Justice Galliher, who presided over the P.G.E. Royal Commission, will be submitted within a few days. Meanwhile, the McRae forces have apparently decided that the report will be unfavorable to them and they are broadcasting the province with accusations of unfairness, restrictions in the commission, and maintaining that they uncovered all sorts of wrong-doing.

A reward of $1000 has been offered by the government for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Wicherley and his wife at Port Coquitlam recently.

FIELD MARSHAL TELLS OF HIS EARLY CRIMES

Field Marshall Sir William Robertson was in a happy mood at the Working Men's College, St. Pancras, London, recently, where he told some of his experiences in the ranks of the army.

Sir William said he joined the army in 1877 and he had a stroke of bad luck, as the colonel, a fat old Crimean veteran, took an intense dislike to him.

"I can't say that I cared a lot about him," said Sir William, "and he didn't mind that at all. I was not alone in my feeling about the colonel; there were others that did not like him very much. His wife left him, and she ought to know!

"I joined the army," said Sir William, "before I was 18, but the sergeant said I looked a big boy, and he put my age down as 18 years and two months. To this day I receive telegrams congratulating me on my birthday in November, while it really doesn't occur until the following January."

Sir William confessed that his first "crime" in the army was letting a prisoner go, his second was letting a horse go, and then at Brighton, at a volunteer review, a man who was under his charge refreshed himself too freely and his horse ran away with him. The colonel said to him:

"I am getting sick of you; first you let a man go, then you let a horse go, now you let a man and horse go."

Your doctor advises internal cleanliness

"Keep Clean Inside" Say Physicians

Washing Cleans Only the Skin

HE will tell you that the first results of constipation—headache, sleepless nights, biliousness, backache, etc.—warn that the body is flooded with intestinal poisons. In time, these poisons may cause the breakdown of health and lead to serious disease. In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Hence, doctors urge internal cleanliness—regular and thorough removal of food waste from the body.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

WE should all be interested in the prosperity of Fernie. What good citizen is not? The more we work for the growth and development of the town, the more prosperous we shall all be. A good deal of the prosperity of any town depends on the local support received by the institutions we already have — our churches, schools, farms, stores, public amusement places, parks, etc. How many people appreciate their propriety interest in these institutions? We could not use these properties more than we do to our advantage if we owned them all in fee simple.

We are only casting bread upon the waters when we boost for our city. We do not need to concern ourselves about who holds title to certain properties. All instrumentalities which minister to the comfort, service, and education of our citizens are assets of the city and its people.

Encouragement of citizens to go ahead and spend their money to furnish service, necessities and comforts for other citizens means progress and growth. Such activities need to be encouraged in order that they might succeed. When any individual enterprise succeeds it means that the town is forging ahead. Let us put our desire for the further growth and development of Fernie in concrete form by resolving to do these things.

AS we grow older, and the shadows begin to lengthen, and the leaves which seemed so thick in youth above our heads grow thin and show the sky beyond, and as those in the ranks in front drop away, and we come in sight, as we all must, of the eternal rifle-pits beyond, a man begins to feel that among the really precious things of life, more lasting and more substantial than many of those objects of ambition here, is the love of those he loves and the friendship of those whose friendship he prizes.

IT is needless to say that the Free Press is strongly in favor of banishing drunken drivers from our highways. Judges who have to deal with these offenders will be fully justified in assuming that a driver has been a public menace on the highways, if it appears that he had taken even a single drink. It is the effect upon his clearness of thinking and his sense of responsibility due to a single drink that is to be considered rather than his ability to walk with steadiness.

Fur and trophy pirating will be stopped along the British Columbia-Alaska border this year, state officials of the Game Conservation Board. It is expected that Canada and the United States will agree upon a "dead wall" or game sanctuary for 25 miles on either side of the border in the Stickine and Taku districts. Additional efforts will be made to prevent the killing of game animals for meat and the selling of trophies to hunters.

Bert Johnson, manager of the Fernie Meat Market, came in Tuesday to attend the initiation and banquet of the Buffaloes. He was accompanied by Tom Uphill, M.P.P., and other Fernie Buffaloes. They left Wednesday morning for the Fernie metropolis.—Cranbrook Courier.

As a result of the miners' strike there has been a general exodus of the young unmarried miners from Fernie during the past week. Most of them went south to the States. It is said that the American immigration officer at Newgate collected $200 head tax from those who were on a single train.

"Me catch um," was the proud statement of a Tobacco Plains Indian on presenting five magnificent cougar skins at the local government office in order that he might collect the $40 bounty due him on each skin. Questioning on the part of officials elicited the further interesting information that the hunter and some friends of his had taken the cougars in the Gold Creek district last week. And it also appeared that originally the catch had totalled six skins, one of which had been cashed in at Fernie. All the animals killed by the party were full grown. The past winter, viewed from the angle of the cougar tribe, has been a disastrous one. From the viewpoint of the deer, however, it has been most peaceful. The arch enemy of the shy whitetail is being zealously hunted by whites and Indians alike, with the result that winter mortality of deer is being reduced to a minimum. The cougars are gradually being exterminated, thanks to a generous bounty on their scalps, and their prey, the whitetail and mule deer, are increasing satisfactorily in consequence. May the good work continue. — Cranbrook Courier.

W. R. Wilson was in Calgary yesterday on business.

Mrs. H. E. Smith, of Glacier, B.C., is in the city this week visiting her mother, Mrs. R. Dudley.

Mrs. A. I. Fisher left yesterday for Vancouver, where she will spend a couple of weeks.

Aaron Walde paid a visit to Kimberley on Wednesday looking up a site to open a branch confectionery store.

On Tuesday, April 8, Christopher Sandfard Barter, of Lumberton, and Gertrude Kossen were married at Christ church.

On Good Friday afternoon there will be a competition of mixed foursomes at the golf links. Tea will be served during the afternoon.

The East Kootenay Lumber Co. are moving their offices from Jaffray to Cranbrook. L. J. Ruddy, accountant of the company, has been transferred to Cranbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lamb, who have been residents of Fernie for a number of years, left on Tuesday for Spokane, where they expect to reside in future.

Mrs. J. L. Donaldson, who has been visiting friends in Lethbridge and Medicine Hat for the past three weeks, returned to the city Thursday morning.

L. Rizzuto had the misfortune to have his shoulder broken by a fall from the landing at the Rizzuto lumber camp at McGillivray. He was brought to the Fernie hospital for treatment.

Easter Monday Dance—The Loyal Order of Moose will hold a Whist Drive and Dance on Monday, April 21. Cards at 8 p.m. Dancing 11 to 2 a.m. Whitehouse orchestra. Refreshments. Admission 50c. A4-3

Delegates to the annual convention of the British Association of Scientists, which is to be held in Canada this year, will pay a visit to the Crow's Nest Pass during the month of August, travelling in two special trains.

George Joseph Loyns and Catherine Fleming were united in holy wedlock on April 7, at Christ church. Several friends and relatives were present at the ceremony. Afterwards there was a luncheon at the Northern Hotel. In the evening a pleasant time was spent by the wedding guests at the home of the bridegroom.

The members of the G.W.V.A. will entertain their wives, sweethearts and members of the Women's Auxiliary to a whist drive and dance to be held in the Vets hall on Wednesday, April 23. As this is a function entirely by the membership, it is imperative that all members assist the house and entertainment committees.

On Monday evening about thirty young ladies surprised Miss Molly Henderson with a miscellaneous shower at her home on Victoria avenue. After a few hours' enjoyment of various games, a dainty supper was served. at the conclusion of which the bride-to-be was presented with a huge imitation wedding cake filled to capacity with many beautiful and useful gifts.

Large numbers of American and Pacific coast tourists are tied up at Fernie and Michel, because the blockade at Crow's Nest Lake will not permit them to get through to Alberta. The government should get busy at once and make some means of passage for them around the lake. It is understood that present road construction in that vicinity must block the road for a few weeks, but there should be some means whereby the way could be opened, even temporarily, for tourists.—Blairmore Enterprise.

In order that the parents may come in closer touch with Miss E. Wade, R.N., the school nurse, she will be on duty in her office at the Central School every Monday from 1 to 3 p.m. Any mother will be welcome to come and talk with the school nurse concerning the health of her children. As good health is fundamental for the success of anyone, whether they are school children or leading citizens, it is hoped that the mothers in Fernie will take advantage of Monday afternoon to go and find out what is the best way to promote the health of their children.

Bennie Smith has taken over the Fernie Hotel barbr shop.

Russel Ferguson, of Coleman, spent several days in the city this week visiting his mother.

The Coal Co. baseball team held their first practice of the season on Wednesday afternoon.

The reduction of the sales tax on a large number of household articles will reduce prices considerably.

Teddy Hooper, who has been in charge of the employment office here, has gone to Victoria to take a position.

Max Belecky is slowly recovering from an operation for appendicitis. W. J. Kerr has charge of the Napanee during his illness.

The delegates from Fernie to the Rotary convention in Spokane, which commences on Sunday, will leave on Saturday morning for that city.

The Past Noble Grands' Club will hold an afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. D. G. Harvie, 153 Pellatt Ave., Wednesday, April 30, from 3.30 to 6. Don't forget the date.

Constable E. Tutin of the R.C.M.P. local detachment has been transferred temporarily to the hospital at Lethbridge, where he will undergo an operation for appendicitis.

A Cranbrook paper is again boosting Joe Jackson for a position on the Railway Commission. Joe has as much chance of being appointed to the job as Jim Corbett has to become golf champion of America.

Mrs. Dick Phillips left on Saturday last for Battle Creek, Michigan, for three months' treatment for goitre at the International Health Resort founded by Bernard Macfadden, and run according to his methods. Dick is confident that Mrs. Phillips will return absolutely cured.

The fourth annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Ordine Independente Fior d'Italia of Alberta and British Columbia, will be held in Fernie starting on May 4. Delegates will be present from all over both provinces and will remain in Fernie for three or four days. Mayor Henderson and the city council should see that these delegates are made welcome.

W. A. Ingram is spending some time and money in fixing up a baseball ground for the young lads residing in his neighborhood. Billy has spent more money on the young lads of this town in the development of athletic sports than anyone has any idea of. His gymnasium has cost him thousands of dollars.

The Women's Auxiliary of the local G.W.V.A. held a successful whist drive and dance in the Vets hall on Tuesday evening. Messrs. Whitehouse and Commons supplied the music. Prizes were won by the following: Ladies, 1st Mrs. W. Morris; Booby, Mrs. T. Harden. Gentlemen: 1st, Thos. Smith; booby, Mrs. F. Sheers (gent). Refreshments were served during the evening. The light fantastic was indulged in until 1 a.m.

Mayor Henderson since his return from the east is right on the job at the Elk river waterworks crossing, and those who are handling the work for the city are sure having their hands full these days. The recent warm weather has brought the river up a little and the additional water is causing an immense amount of work. Great pumps have been installed and are being kept busy day and night, but it is extremely doubtful if the work will be finished this spring.

GOLDEN A.E.F. FOR FRANCE

The most important world news in many months is not the news that has come out of England or Russia or Mexico or Italy, or even Washington, declares the conservative Wall Street Journal, but what this financial daily designates as "the fourth German war defeat." In other words, the announcement that J. P. Morgan and Co., fiscal agents in the United States of the French government, have established a credit in this country of $100,000,000 for the Bank of France, is a victory for that country in its battle to stabilize the franc, and therefore a defeat for German financiers who are said to have been trying to carry the franc down to the level of the German mark. "Fanciful as it may seem, there is in this timely loan by the house of Morgan something like the arrival of the first American troops in Europe in 1917," notes the Manchester Union. Incidentally, it should be added, a similar credit of $20,000,000 was established at about the same time by London bankers.

The effect of the Morgan "loan" was psychological. The mere knowledge of the existence of the huge credit was sufficient to cause a dramatic recovery of the franc. In less than a week its value increased more than 30 per cent. But the important thing about the "loan," says the New York World, is not that it ended for the time being the downward plunge of the franc, but that "it follows and rests upon the assurance of the French government that taxes will be increased, expenditures cut down, and other measures taken to balance the French budget." Prominent international bankers in New York profess to see in the Morgan credit the end of the German reparations tangle, the arrival of a workable agreement between France and Germany, and the beginnning of economic revival in Europe. As the Wall Street Journal points out:

"Germany was never conquered in the Great War; she was only defeated. Physically disarmed, she started a war for world wreckage, industrially and financially.

"She declared herself bankrupt, but meant to lead France into the way of paper inflation and bankruptcy. France refused the temptation to inflation and easy money, dug deeper into her soil, threw out the German duds and raised bigger crops than ever. She kept the exchanges in her favor, and her peasants continued to buy Treasury notes and bear the burden of reconstruction of the devastated areas.

"This was the second defeat for Germany.

"Then France sent 10 per cent of her army, at expense only of transportation for troops and food, into the Ruhr, to collect 10 per cent of what Germany manufactured and sent out from the Ruhr.

"Germany replied with the war of 'passive resistance' under which she undertook to pay idle workingmen by the printing press. The result was bankruptcy yet more complete for Germany and the entire destruction of the paper mark.

"This was Germany's third defeat. She resumed work and began again to send coal and goods into France.

"Then all over the world German propaganda sprang up: 'Sell the franc short! France must go bankrupt like Germany!'

"Again France finds her ally in England and America, and, under the leadership of the house of Morgan, Germany again goes down to defeat; for more than $100,000,000 are placed behind the Bank of France, the French government and the French franc. All honor to the house of Morgan! All honor to England and American finance! All honor to France!

"It is probable that little of the $100,000,000 French credit will actually be used. The effectiveness of the arrangement lies more in its psychology than in the use of the funds for the purchase of francs in the open market."

The Morgan credit is secured, dollar for dollar, by French gold francs. In statements by the Morgan firm and the Bank of France, which occupies in that country much the same position as the Federal Reserve Bank in the United States, we are told:

"We have formed a banking group which has undertaken to establish very improtant credits in favor of the Bank of France. The bank, with the consent of the French government, has agreed that in the event the credit is not at maturity liquidated in other ways, gold in amount equal to the loan shall be shipped to us in New York.

"In connection with this credit the Governor of the Bank of France makes to us the following statement:

"'After having conferred with the government, I am in a position to assure you that complete measures are going to be taken to ameliorate the financial situation. As long as the financial situation will not have been seriously ameliorated, the government will make no appeal for credit except for the funding of the floating debt, and subsequently it will issue no loan even for the completion of reconstruction of the liberated regions without having assured the service of the loan by normal budgetary receipts.'"

France's floating debt, says a Paris cable to the New York Times, is 70,000,000,000 francs. So far, we read in a Washington dispatch to the New York Journal of Commerce, "one of the fundamental objections to loaning money to France has been the failure of the French to even attempt to balance their budget. Now, however, the Bank of France assures us that measures are to be taken to better the financial situation." And if this is done, thinks the Boston Christian Science Monitor, "France's financial position should soon correspond to her remarkably good economic position." These, it seems, are the sentiments of Mr. Morgan himself, for he said at Nice a few days later, in one of his very rare interviews:

"We have absolute confidence not only in the resources of your country, but even more in the intelligent and industrious population. . . Your national wealth has increased to formidable proportions during the last two years.

"Let France continue in this course and before two years have elapsed she will have reconquered, from the economic view point, the preponderating situation she enjoyed before the war."

POSTAL DEPT. BANKRUPT

London, April 9.—The fact that stamp collectors apparently are overstocked for the moment with the issues of Somaliland, has brought about a financial crisis in the affairs of the postoffice department of that country. In explaining that the department was insolvent the official in charge said the revenue for 1923 was $6,100, a decrease of $9,310 over the previous year "due to the demands of philatelists being satisfied." The government expects to bring out a new issue of stamps this year.

Here and There

The annual tobacco yield in the United States has a value of over $250,000,000.

A regular air service between Sweden and England has been decided upon and will be established shortly. The terminals will be Malino and London with intermediate landings in Hamburg. Only six hours will be required for the flight.

The Minister of Lands has announced that a Dutch organization has offered to purchase 200,000 acres of land in the Stuart Lake district, British Columbia, for the purpose of colonization by Dutch agriculturists.

The Canadian Pacific is now perfecting plans to aid in the development of the mining industry of Ontario, by placing car ferries on Lake Temiskaming. These ferries will ply between South Lorrain and Ville Marie, and between New Liskeard, Haileybury and other Ontario points, and the Quebec port.

Major-General MacBrien, chief of staff of the Department of National Defence, Ottawa, addressing the members of the Canadian Club at London recently, announced that it is probable that the Canadian Permanent Force of Militia will be established by Order-in-Council on April 1.

Forty-nine automobile cars of Ford machines recently left Windsor, Ont., for Vancouver, B.C., via Canadian Pacific. This was an unusually heavy movement of cars to one city, and another remarkable feature was that all of the automobiles, some three hundred, were for local consumption.

The Canadian Pacific Railway, which in 1899 brought down to the head of the lakes only 26,000,000 bushels of grain, actually brought down 186,000,000 bushels last season. This is equal to the total volume of grain moved by all the railways of the United States combined during the same time to the terminals at Minneapolis, Chicago and Duluth.

The Canadian Pacific Railway within the next few weeks will have sent out to its station agents 11,000 packets of seed and from thirty to forty thousand flower bulbs, and later on to its Western station agents 100,000 trees and shrubs. It requires 200,000 bedding plants to fill the beds of the permanent gardens and parks of the company every year.

The crack train of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Trans-Canada, run every summer, will make the trip from Montreal to Vancouver in 90 hours, instead of 92 hours, the schedule run for yast year. Previously the 92-hour run was the fastest continental run in North America, and the two hours cut off this time adds to its superiority for travel between the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Seventy-five creameries in Alberta last year produced 17,750,000 lbs. of butter, as compared with 15,417,070 lbs., representing the output of 54 creameries, in 1922, according to the Provincial Dairy Commissioners' report. In addition, the production of cheese has shown a remarkable growth. In 1922, 14 factories produced 931,922 lbs., while in 1923, 13 factories had an output of 1,850,000 lbs., an increase of almost 100 per cent.

The completion of plans for the development of hydro-electric power during the current year will add 900,000 h.p. to the present total of 3,228,000 h.p. already installed in Canada. This additional power will be used in British Columbia to assist the mining and pulp industries, in Manitoba to supply rural needs, and in Ontario for gold mining and other industries. In Quebec the chief developments are in connection with the pulp and paper industries, and further east, in the Maritime Provinces, for public utility purposes.

While leaving the church, Bobby's mother was criticizing the sermon. Bobby finally turned and said: "Gee, mom, what do you expect for a dime?"

DO AWAY WITH HUMAN ARMIES

London, April 9. — Niels Assen, Norwegian inventor, who was in the French government service throughout the war, has just arrived in London on his way to America to place his most recent idea, "a mechanical soldier," before the United States war department.

Mr. Assen's invention is aimed at nothing less than the complete abolition of armies in warfare, and he says that if all nations would adopt mechanical devices based on radio electricity for waging war there soon would be no armies except a few technical experts pushing buttons.

Wearing the ribbon of the Legion of Honor in his buttonhole, the slight, scholarly Norseman sat in his hotel today and explained a hair-raising scheme for the destruction of hundreds of thousands of lives by the use of radio electricity.

The mechanical soldier consists of a nest of 12 small but powerful mines. Three such nests are controlled by one subterranean wireless station, for which a staff of two engineers is necessary. The idea is essentially defensive as a frontier could be strewn with such mines and the advance of any opposing force be practically certain to be arrested by its total destruction, Prof. Assen says. A staff of 300 engineers could effectively protect a line 200 miles wide without the need of soldiers.

Mr. Assen's idea, which the Danish government intends to try out in tests lasting three months at the end of this summer, after the inventor's return from America, contains two important defensive and two important offensive features.

Besides the "mechanical soldier nests" and the radio electric mines, the inventor offers radio-controlled gas mines which can be raised to the surface and their gas released by pressing a button miles away.

The deadly gas to be used in such a controllable container could be planted in the ground and remain there until (any time later, as the gas does not deteriorate) the enemy arrived at the frontier. Then by pressing a button the mines could be caused to rise and deluge the enemy with certain cyankalium gases invented by two Danish chemists and used by Mr. Assen in his experiments with absolutely deadly effect.

WHITE RACE SHOULD WAKE UP

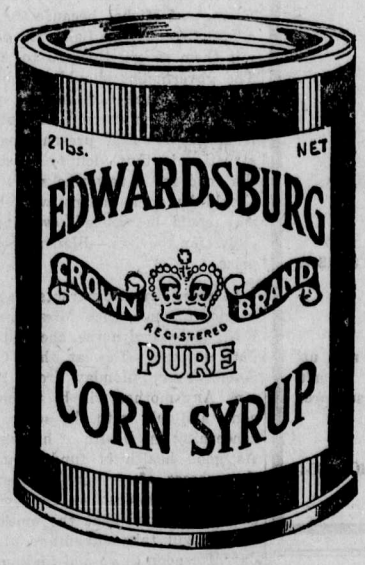
Early yesterday morning twelve white-hooded men carrying a wooden cross got out of an automobile in front of Furnald Hall, planted the cross before Wells' window, set fire to it and ran away.

This impressive ceremony was intended to warn Wells that Negroes who wish to better themselves are going to find it hard going at Columbia.

If Wells, plugging away at his law books, fighting against all traditions of color and caste, typifies the spirit of the Negro race, and these twelve white persons, hooded and timorous, typify the growing spirit of the white race, then the white race should begin to wake up.



One Negro, eager to learn and earnestly hungering for knowledge, is infinitely more powerful than a hundred white men filled only with narrow race prejudice. — Vancouver Sun.

CROWN BRAND CORN SYRUP

The old reliable table syrup that has been on the market for

Over a Quarter of a Century

This well known brand was always "GOOD"
Our constant endeavour has been to make it "BETTER"
Today we claim it is "THE BEST" Corn Syrup on the market.

Put up in 2, 5 and 10 lb. tins.

Therefore when you want Syrup specify "CROWN BRAND" and remember that Corn Syrup (when properly refined, as Crown Brand is), is admitted today by leading medical authorities to be one of the best and most easily assimilated of all foods.

For growing children there is no greater energy food than Crown Brand Corn Syrup as it contains a large percentage of Dextrose, one of the most important food elements.

INTERIOR HIGHWAY

Fraser Valley Record: Persistent rumor circulates, and statements appear in the press from time to time to the effect that the Fraser Canyon route has been chosen as the course for the proposed coast-interior highway. Rumor is said to be nine-tenths truth, so that the old Cariboo road along the Fraser and Thompson rivers will be opened up again after being in disuse since 1885, a period of 37 years. To the average citizen of B.C. who is prejudiced neither one way or the other, the Fraser Canyon appeals as the most feasible, most practical, most permanent, most economical, and the most likely route to be chosen. It is shorter to that great interior which tourists wish to reach, viz., the old Cariboo with its historic associations; the old Cariboo road and its fame in connection with the early rush of gold miners to the rich fields of Barkersville; and the Fort George country where the white man first set foot in the province of British Columbia, and from where Simon Fraser set out on his historical discovery down the river which has since borne his name. And the scenery in that north country cannot be beaten in any other part of the province.

British Columbia, however, has many other valuable assets in the way of attractions and scenery for tourists, such as the Okanagan, the Kootenays and other points in the Rockies; but it has none that will afford a greater magnet of attraction to the sightseer or please the romantic streak of visitors, more than the country lying north of Ashcroft, Lillooet, Lytton or Spence's Bridge, to say nothing about the marvelous scenery along the Fraser river from Hope or Yale north to the Thompson valley. The building of the coast-interior highway via the Fraser Canyon will take nothing away from the Okanagan valley nor the people in the Princeton section of the province. On the contrary it will be the means of bringing tourists in and showing them the whole country before they reutrn to their homes again. American tourists (and this will apply to our own people at the coast) coming in one way will be sure to return by the other, thereby, in making the circle, every important section of the province will be covered. The Fraser Canyon would be open most of the year. and in any event would be capable of taking care of the early summer traffic which begins in April, a thing that would be impossible over the Hope mountains.

A United States newspaper, referring to the oil scandals, says: "We have not had sense enough to keep it (meaning an abundance of oil), even as we have not had sense enough to keep our forests and other great natural resources." The republic might have been indire straits now if it had not had a generous neighbor richly endowed with natural resources, which it, too, has not had sense enough to look after.

NO INCREASE IN CANADIAN DEBT

Ottawa, April 8.—When Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance, brings down the budget on Thursday, it is expected that he will announce some reductions in taxation, that a balance between expenditure and revenue was reached in the financial year which closed a week ago and that for the first time since the war, there was no increase in the net debt. Full figures of expenditure and revenue for the year are not yet available, but in customs and excise revenue alone there was an increase over the previous year of twenty million dollars.

That there will be reductions in the taxation has already been indicated by the government. In parliamentary corridors it is taken for granted that the sales tax will be either reduced or removed altogether from implements of production but considerable doubt exists if, in addition, there will be any considerable reductions in the customs tariff.

Here, the attitude of Progressives will be of especial importance. Progressives have urged not merely a reduced tariff on agricultural implements, but reductions in the tariff generally. Should any tariff reductions granted be insufficient to meet the Progressive viewpoint, a critical political situation is not unlikely to result. Last year, on the main budget motion, the government found itself opposed by the Conservatives and the great majority of the Progressives, resulting in a narrow government majority of eight. Since then the government has lost two bye-elections to Conservatives which, on a division, would count four against the government.

The general expectation, however, is that the government will secure Progressive support sufficient to carry its financial proposals.

NOISE FROM THE STARS

The "music from the spheres" is a phrase which has been part of the stock in trade of minor poets since long before Emerson coined it. But it has been left to a pair of French scientists to transform light rays into audible sounds. It has long been a favorite diversion at children's parties to set up an array of lighted candles of various lengths and to watch the elongation and contraction of their flames in sympathy with certain notes struck upon a piano or violin. The French scientists' discovery, therefore, is but an inversion of the process. They have isolated the source of light from a fixed star at a distance from the earth so stupendous as to be computable only by light-years, and by the use of a rare sensitive element called selenium and electric amplifiers they have made it possible for humans to hearken to the noise made by this distant globe as it hurtles through space in its orbit.

Inferentially, the light from any fixed star or planet may now be harnessed to produce noise, and questions which will naturally obtrude themselves are whether this discovery is worth while, whether the stars should be allowed to make their celestial rumpus without the unasked-for attentions of another world "listening in," and whether the old world is not already sufficiently soused with mere noise from the prattle of babies and politicians to such unavoidable things as the thunder of nature in one of her angry moods.

But, incidentally, this invention draws attention to the world's supply of that strange substance, selenium, half meatal. half non-metal, a conductor of electricity and akin to sulphur in its composition, yet peculiarly sensitive to the influence of light. It may not be generally known that the blood-red tinge imparted to the glass used on tramway headlights and railway signals is obtained by the incorporation of a small portion of this strange substance in its composition while the glass is in a molten state, and also that the sciences of telephotography and radiophotography, still in their infancy, would be impracticable but for selenium.

The principal source of selenium is the flue dust obtained in burning pyrites in the manufacture of sulphuric acid. It conducts electricity to an extent which, though small, increases according to the brightness of the light with which it is illuminated. This peculiar behavior has been employed in transmitting sound by means of light and exhibiting at one place pictures of scenes occurring at another; but unfortunately the property is not retained long. Scientists at the present time are concentrating their efforts upon the "fixing" of these properties, and when this problem has been solved telephotography and radiophotography will become recognized appurtenances of civilized life.

LESS THAN AN ATOM

Recent discoveries in physics have served to substantiate the Gilbertian saying that nothing is what it seems, in addition to bestowing a new word upon an already overloaded dictionary. According to Charles Nordmann, scientific expert of the Paris Matin, tin is not tin but a compound of tins, zinc is not zinc but zincs, and both of them are composed of a certain number of "isotopes," which are infinitely more infinitesimal than the atom. Hence, instead of relying upon the ator as the smallest particle of matter, the isotopes must now take its place, until physics discovers something smaller than the isotope and life once more becomes scientifically more complicated.

In explanation of the discovery M. Nordmann says:

"Among the discoveries of recent times which have sprung from radio activity, as from a living source, that of the isotopes has been one of the most astonishing. This strange new word which does not yet figure in the dictionaries, is from the Greek, signifying 'that which is in the same place.' It was necessary to invent this word in order to describe substances of which formerly no one guessed the existence and which have only recently been discovered.

"In the good old days when science was still in its infancy, which is to say about 20 years ago, scientists were firmly convinced that the various atoms of a given element were absolutely identical with each other and quite immune from any transformation whatsoever. The very name also from the Greek, means indivisible.

"These classic and theoretic ideas have since been vigorously dispelled by experience, for it has been proved that radium atoms are continually emitting in the form of an intense bombardment of tiny electrified particles a part of their own substance.

"It was then demonstrated that these atoms of radium, which had so spent a part of themselves, had undergone a transformation, becoming atoms of other bodies, chemically different from radium and finally producing an element, radium D, which is identical with lead and chemically imperceptible from that metal.

"Today there are about forty known radio-active bodies, starting from two different origins, uranium and thorium, and among them are to be found a certain number which, taken in pairs, are chemically indiscernible from each other, although in reality they are different, inasmuch as they emit dissimilar radio-active rays.

"Where the most delicate chemical methods have failed to differentiate between elements which appear to be identical, radio-active analysis has been able to discern the different substances.

"This is because the latter method is immensely more sensitive than the others and one which permits the easy revelation of the hundred millionth fraction of a milligram of radium. There is no process of chemical analysis, which can attain anything like such sensibility.

"But here is the most surprising part of it. By an electric method no less interesting, the scientists, especially the Englishman Aston, have shown that it is not only among the radio-active elements, but also among the usual and inert bodies that the isotopes are found.

"Aston has discovered that in tin there are eight different species of tin, although most people had believed it to be a metal which was already clearly defined. These species are indiscernible one from the other chemically, but the atoms of which are differently constituted. In a like manner zinc contains no less than four isotopes (of which the atomic weights are slightly different); calcium contains not less than two, magnesium at least three, and mercury six. It will be necessary henceforth, to speak more correctly not of tin, mercury, etc., in the singular, but to refer to them in the plural.

"It is quite probable that many of the so-called simple bodies in chemistry are in the same way composed of different elements intermingled. The isotopes are so called because they are found in the same place as the elements of the simple classification of chemistry, the latter science being unable to separate them. But physics, with its more subtle methods, has been able to distinguish the difference where the other noticed nothing. So in the world of atoms there are atoms and atoms."

Absolutely

At a lecture the speaker orated fervently: "He drove straight to his goal. He looked neither to the right nor to the left, but pressed forward, moved by a definite purpose. Neither friend nor foe could delay him, nor turn him from his course. All who crossed his path did so at their own peril. What would you call such a man?"

"A truck driver," shouted a voice from the audience.

Why Ford Predominates

Do You Know That—the Ford crankshaft is machined accurately to one thousandth part of an inch—

the Ford front axle is made to withstand shocks and strains ten times greater than are ever met in ordinary usage—

the Ford car is composed of four complete units: Power Plant—Front Running Gear—Rear Running Gear—Frame—only five movements of hand and feet are required to accomplish the shift from neutral to high on a Ford car as against 15 on a selective gear shift car—there is no possibility of failure to accomplish gear shift in the Ford car. There is no chance of clashing gears in the Ford transmission—

15,000 operations are performed in the building of each Ford chassis—

the entire building of a Ford closed body requires 38 hours and 15 minutes during which time the body passes through the hands of 249 skilled body-builders, trimmers and finishers.

COAL CREEK NOTES

The residents of this burg were entertained to the first football game of the season, when the married men matched skill with the single men. Some very clever footwork was exhibited by both sides, but the "Old Stiffs" could not stand the pressure of the "Young Bloods" and retired beaten but not disgraced by a score of 3—0. George Barker handled the game.

John Parker has enrolled himself in the ranks of the local autoists.

With the introduction of a vaporizer, Jack McAlpine is putting more pep in his Ford, waxing eloquent on his achievements.

Tom Barton, of Fernie, was in the camp on Tuesday taking photographs of the "beauty spots" of this burg.

Rev. Burns of Fernie conducted services up here on Sunday last.

The younger element of the camp are very enthusiastic over the lectures and practices in First Aid being held in the Club hall every week.

Miss Katherine Fleming, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, of Riverside avenue, was united in marriage to Mr. George Lloyns, of Fernie, on Monday, Rev. Oswald tying the nuptial knot. The young people have taken up their residence at the home of the groom's parents in Fernie Annex.

The Coal Creek Literary and Athletic Association will entertain the teams representing the Fernie Literary and Athletic Association up here on Sunday in the series of inter-club tournament games, to commence at 6.30 p.m. Substitutes will have to be provided for Tom Caufield and Jack Bracken, owing to these two billiard champions having left camp.

Mrs. A. Hilton, who has been nursing Mrs. R. Alstead during her recent severe illness, returned to her home on Wednesday.

Wm. Howarth of the Fernie Music Store, visited camp on Wednesday demonstrating his radio outfit.

Constable McNally has been busy fumigating the residences recently visited by the scarlet fever fiend.

A "hard times" dance will be held in the Club hall tonight.

The local horticulturists are taking advantage of the strike to attend to their garden patches, thereby enhancing the beauty of the camp.

PAPER DEMANDS TAX ON LUXURY DOGS

When is a dog to be classified as a "luxury" dog? And when is it to be considered useful? This question is raised by an editorial in the London Daily Herald, the official organ of the Labor party. The article refers scornfully to "tiny pampered pets on silk cushions" as seen at the dog show and demands that "a distinction be made between useful dogs and luxury dogs, and the latter should be taxed four or five times as high as the former."

Inasmuch as the British dog license costs only about $1.50 at present, the proposed tax would not be prohibitive. Much interest, however, has been aroused as to how the Laborites would classify the canine population.

Obviously the Pomeranians and the Giffons would go in the luxury class. But the owners of such dogs insist that the Great Danes, for instance, are of no practical use whatsoever.

Owners of mastiffs, terriers, bulls and Airedales could probably claim utilitarian motives in keeping them as watchdogs but the question has been raised as to whether the dachshund should be considered a luxury, owing to its enemy origin, or a necessity, owing to the need it is supposed to fill at the sausage factories.

Others suggest a national census of dogs along lines adopted by draft boards, with headquarters for this undertaking in that district of East London bearing the appropriate name of "Barking."

MISS TALMADGE HAS NEW LEADING MAN

Norma Talmadge and Jos. Schildraut—the supreme tragedienne — the most magnetic lover. Here is a new alliance which film fans will anticipate with interest. Norma and Schildkraut will make their first appearance together in "The Song of Love," a story of barbaric life and love on the border of the Arabian desert, at the Orpheum next Wednesday and Thursday.

Schildkraut, her new leading man, has had a successful career in drama in Europe and America. In films his performance in "Ohphans of the Storm" was a distince triumph. His career in films since has been watched with keen interest.

In "The Song of Love," a First National release, Norma and Schildkraut has two unusual roles. Norma as a primitive, half-barbaric Arabian dancing girl, has a part fraught with the tragic and turbulent passion of a Camille. It is a part calling for an abandon and dramatic ardor beyond anything she has ever attempted. All the fierce, primitive emotion of the hot Arabian desert, the bizarre color and stirring romance of the Orient are embodied in her role.

Schildkraut's part is peculiarly well adapted to his magnetic stage personality. As a French spy, daring, handsome, engaging, he exerts a hypnotic spell over the native girl whose love he finds himself unable to return until death reaches out to separate them.

"The Song of Love" was directed by Chester Franklin for release by Producer Joseph M. Schneck. The beautiful photoplay is credited to Gaetano Gaudio, while the picturesque sets were designed by Stephen Goosson.

ART AND INDUSTRY

The two are comrades. The great painters and sculptors of the Renaissance were artisans as well as artists, and in the beginning every statue and painting, every gem and textile pattern and every musical instrument had use rather than beauty as its reason for being. Art is not a thing of decoration applied to a limited range of objects, which men could do without if they must. Everything to which the craftsman sets his hand could be made to delight as well as serve.

FERNIE ELKS HOLD SMOKER

Fernie Lodge No. 81, B.P.O. Elks, gave a smoker on Monday night, April 14, in Ingram's hall, at which there there over a hundred members and guests present. The entertainment, which consisted of boxing, songs, dances and musical numbers, was put over in fine shape, and the committee who were in charge of the affair are to be congratulated on their well chosen program.

W. J. Thomas acted as chairman for the evening.

The boxers put up a very creditable performance considering only local talent was used, and the novelty of the "Bell Boxers" brought roars of laughter from everyone. It hardly seems fair to hit a man when he is down, but it happened in this event more than once.

"Cyclone' Murry and "Dynamite" Carnwath certainly gave a good brand of aggressive fighting while they lasted, though at times they got to hugging each other with a friendly strangle hold, and Referee Glover took many chance when separating these sworn enemies. If it had gone another round one of them would have been "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep."

The Hughes boys, who are only 65 pounders, delighted the audience with the way they went after each other with the gloves and they were loudly applauded.

The other bouts, which were too numerous to detail, were equally good, and the lodge wishes to thank the boys for helping to make the affair such a success.

At the end of the boxing events a varied entertainment of songs, recitations, dances and musical selections was given and it is safe to say that the program was very much enjoyed by all present.

The orchestra, consisting of Messrs. Whitehouse, Worthington, Tarr and Kitchen, was most liberal with their music, rendering a selection between each bout and afterwards taking part in the musical program.

At the close of the pragramme refreshments were served and the smoker broke up about midnight. All claimed to have got their money's worth and stated that they would be on deck for the next one.

This is the first time that this lodge has tried to do any entertaining of this kind. The lodge, which was instituted just a month ago, will soon have over a hundred members, and they propose to keep the boys on their toes all the time by just such occasions as this.

They wish to express their thanks to all who took part in the program and who were so largely responsible in making the affair such a success.

CONCERNING HOME BANK

Ottawa, April 15.—Sittings of the royal commission appointed to investigate the Home Bank case will commence here tomorrow morning. Sittings will be held tomorrow and Thursday and adjournment will then be made over Friday and possibly until Tuesday of next week.

Toronto, April 15. — Mr. Justice Riddell announced in the criminal assizes this afternoon that he admitted the right of the crown to bring the 10 directors and officials of the defunct Home Bank before the court for arraignment. He added, however, that he would not view the refusal of the accused to plead as contempt of court, but would take advantage of that section of the code which empowers the judge to order that a plea of not guilty be entered. The defendants refused to plead to the first indictment charging conspiracy and bail was renewed until April 28.

Toronto, April 14. — The Home Bank depositors are out to get 100 cents on the dollar on their savings, and the instructions of the committee are to ask for nothing less.

This is the answer of W. T. J. Lee, chairman of the depositors committee, to the rumor that a proposal is in the air to make a compromise settlement of the depositors' claims. The story is that the Dominion government would contribute 25 per cent and the Canadian Banking association 25 per cent of the losses of the depositors. The depositors would lose 25 per cent in that event, as they have only received 25 per cent of their savings to date.

"I am sure that no such proposition would be looked on with favor by the depositors, even if it were likely," said Mr. Lee. "We hope to be able to prove before the royal commission, which is soon to begin sponsible for the present condition of work, that the government is re-things."

Fred Perry returned to the city on Tuesday evening from Cranbrook, where he has been court reporting in the police court hearings of the sixteen liquor cases in that city. Fifteen out of the sixteen were convicted. It is understood that nine appeals will be made.

INQUIRING WORK POSSIBILITY

(Calgary Herald)

While there is no indication as yet that there will be an early resumption of negotiations between the operators and miners' officials in District 18, it is learned from a reliable source that at many of the camps the rank and file of the miners are inquiring what amount of extra work could be secured if they agreed to the proposed reduction of $1.17 a day in wages. It is stated they have been told that, while the companies could not actually guarantee what the extended period would be, the operators would naturally do their best to secure the markets they have been losing for some time now owing to the ever encroaching competition of the non-union mines.

While this statement is by no means official, as both the operators' association and the district officials of the miners say there is nothing new to report in the situation. The Herald as mentoned, has it from a reliable quarter that these inquiries are being set on foot by the miners who have no wish to prolong the struggle for any indefinite period. Of course, any actual negotiations would have to be between the officials of the men and the operators. The latter, as was stated by R. M. Young, the commissioner of the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association, have no desire to put the United Mine Workers of America in District 18 out of commission, and friendly relations still exist between the two parties. This is taken by those in close touch with the situation as an eminently satisfactory sign.

Wm. Sherman, president of District 18, is at the present time making a tour of the various mining centres, and other officials are also out in the field. Wm. Ryan, vice-president; Robt. Livett, special international representative and Rod McDonald, international board member, are, however, in the city at the present time.

The latter has just returned from attending a meeting of the international executive at Indianapolis. He informed the Herald that the question of financial relief will be left with the district executive here, and the resident officers at Indianapolis. The assistance would start, according to their constitution, 30 days after the commencement of the strike. At the moment he said he was not prepared to say how much financial assistance would be forthcoming, but they had the strength of the organization behind them.

According to government figures just published, the imports of coal last year were greatly in excess of those of the previous year, the figures being 22,687,320 and 14,257,434 tons, respectively. In view of the present strike, and if this should continue for an indefinite period, there is a likelihood of the increase being larger this year, one of the operators who was in Calgary on Tuesday stated in the course of an interview with the Herald.

ASIA SCORNS OUR CULTURE

So cocksure are we that our civilization, which includes the double-octuple press, motion pictures, automobiles, rapine, war, murder and sudden death, is the hope and salvation of the world that it may astonish some of us to learn that Asia shrugs its shoulders at us and at our works. Our self-esteem is punctured in several places. While we seek to share with Asia what we term our spiritual heritage, we also seek to divide, unequally, her material resources. In the opinion of Asia our Christian society has lost something of its original Galilean flavor; our civilization is too much like that of the Roman Empire's adventuring legions; our culture is too breezy and devoted to material advance. "Bud gwei" — "not squared up"—says a Chinese servant boy of the white Western man. To the outsider, we are told, a discordant note of "material accomplishments, undirected and unharmonized, bursting fitfully from a barbarous theme of world-lust, is the prevailng motive in the music of our culture." Yet Asia's lack of desire for our services we interpret as evidence of her depravity. She has sunk so low, we say, that she fails to appreciate her own need. So we will rescue her, willy-nilly. But the Oriental, writes Upton Close in the Atlantc Monthly, takes leave to raise the question whether we are fitted for our self-appointed task. Hs reasons for questioning our capacity are worth looking into. During eight years' contact with them, says Mr. Close, he has collected little patches of opinion from household servant, ricksha man, clerk, merchant, official, proselyte and every one who has had to do with the foreigner. These form a mosaic at which we may stare with puckered brows. He reports this, for instance:

"'Yes, the things you do,' say they, 'and by them we are compelled to doubt if you have really reached civilization as yet. We are consistent. We have a time-tested wisdom, we know what to call good—but do you? You do many things which no civilized people can continue to do—why? We have built a culture that endures. What have you, take you all together, got in mind to build—anything at all? If so, are you sure that it is anything really possible, or just a dream.'"

Our moral faculty, says the writer, has failed to keep pace with our development in the mechanical, and the Oriental feels this to be dangerous for our civilization and his. Since we went to the Asiatics with material superiority, they demanded from us a corresponding intellectual and spiritual superiority. It may be unreasonable; "but let us not forget that we affirmed ourselves equal to the implied obligation." Events since 1914 have somewhat shaken our self-confidence, and they have utterly shaken Asia's respect for us.

Orientals are still willing to admit our material superiority — we have harnessed the wind and the lightning. But they are disillusioned as to the ethics and spirituality of our civilizaton— a Benny Leonard weighs heavier with us than an Isaiah.

It is certain, we are told, that the Oriental, and the Chinese in particular, is far from being overwhelmed with a desire to discard his own civilization for ours. "A culture which appears to him to contain the seeds of its own destruction is from his long historical view an experiment to watch with interest, while reserving decision to act."

"It would pay us of America to pause in our achievement, to attend to this matter. We can meet the situation only by a new national philosophy. That of the 'go-getter' will never suffice. We need a philosophy which will civil-ize our inventions and political institutions according to the original flavor of the word — make them fit for people living together in peace and civility. For our increased command of natural power, when turned to destructive or unprofitable uses, makes us the real barbarians, the real pagans, the real Huns. To the East, whence once came what our forefathers called 'the scourge of God,' we appear, in our inability to control and benevolently apply our power, as the scourge of mankind."

MACLEOD JUBILEE— AN HISTORICAL EVENT

Tempora mutantur nos et mutantur in illis. The old West is dead. The highty herds of buffalo which once roamed the rolling prairies have passed with the coming of the white man and the creacking of the Red River cart and the war cry of the Redskins will no more be heard in the land. Yet the memory of these stirring times still remains even in our prosaic present of petrol and prohibition. In the far off days of '74 the first forerunners of a famous force completed their historic work of nearly a thousand miles across the pathless prairies and set up their log cabins beside the Old Man river naming the spot Fort Macleod in honor of their dauntless leader. It was an outpost of the Empire in every truth and the citizens of the modern town of Macleod are justly proud of its romantic past. Fifty years have fled since the coming of the N.W.M.P. who brought law and order into the North West Territories. On July 1, 2 and 3 the Jubilee in commemoration of the arrival of the Riders of the Plains and of the founding of the town of Macleod will be celebrated in a manner worthy of the importance of the occasion. If the sympathy and assistance of every old timer in the province and the whole hearted and unanimous support of the citizens is an augury the success of the Macleod Jubilee is a foregone conclusion.

UNCLE SAME OVERREACHES

As it is a good wind that blows no evil to someone, so it is an exceptional enactment that somebody does not find fault with. Quite recently a law was passed in the United States, authorizing preferential railway rates on American roads on goods carried to or from the United States in American bottoms. The object was, of course, to encourage American shipping, and, possibly, in time, the measure may have that effect. Meanwhile, the reuslt, it is held, will be to encuorage certain Canadian industries, notably flour-milling.

Canada, the United States Tariff Commission has found, can produce weat more cheaply than the American farmer. Canadian flour, therefore, has the edge on American flour in the foreign market. Canadian flour is of a better grade, because Canadian wheat has a higher gluten content. So Canada gets another advantage abroad. And now Uncle Sam, in his desire to help his own industries, confers a further favor. He does it this way:

Flour for export from interior mills, which is sent abroad in American vessels gets the preferred railway freight rate under the new order. But, much American flour goes to Europe through New York, Philadelphia and Boston, and there are not nearly enough American bottoms to carry it. Much of it has to go in foreign ships, and this must pay a higher freight rate to the seaboard than Canadian flour pays to the Canadian seaboard. So Canada is able to undersell the rival product in the European market.

"Nothing the British government could do, short of placing a tariff on imported flour, or actually prohibiting imports, would do more to keep United States flour out of that country than this action of the United States government," said the export manager of a very large American firm in discussing the situation at Montreal recently.

His Hearing Restored

The invisible ear drum invented by A. O. Leonard, which is a miniature megaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York city. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does it so successfully that no one can tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 436, 70 Fifth Ave., New York City, will be given a prompt reply. [Adv.

"HALF-A-DOLLAR-BILL" PROMISES THRILLS GALORE

Promised as being something different and original in film plays, but so realistic and human a drama of the sea that one almost feels the sting of salty spray, the new Metro picture, "Half-A-Dollar-Bill," a Max Graf production, will be shown at the Orpheum theatre Friday and Saturday.

Anna Q. Nilsson is the featured feminine player who gives the most notable performance of her career as a girl pressed by poverty to abandon her baby that it might live, and who then recovers her child in later years through the most dramatic developments.

"Half-A-Dollar-Bill" is the name given the foundling by Captain McTeague, when he finds the baby with the tarn half of a dollar bill pinned to it, its mother having kept the other half in order to identify her son when she is able to claim him. McTeague brings the child up as his own so that when he is several years older Bill is mascot of the ship, Grampus. McTeague gives a beating to his first officer, who stole from the Captain's coat the torn bill that is the only clue to the boy's origin. The officer schemes to revenge himself on McTeague, and when they return to land finds his opportunity in spreading slander against the Captain and a woman he has befriended. Unknown to McTeague and the woman she is the mother of "Half-A-Dollar-Bill."

The man who wants to revenge himself on the Captain recognizes the woman as his wife whom he deserted. He kidnaps the boy and the action that follows is so exciting and crammed full of punch that the spectator is constantly "on edge."

ALL FOODS SHOULD BE SEALED

The medical profession very generally advocate that all food products should be sold in sealed packages. All cities rigorously inspect butcher shops to prevent meat from being infected, many prohibit milk from being sold in bulk and gradually this will come with everything. "SALADA" was the first to introduce the package idea as regards tea, over thirty-two years ago, and "SALADA" is still a little purer and a little better than other teas. It has by far the largest sale.

A keen demand for stumping powder may be expected when the election campaign is in full blast.

You need not hide skin defects—now

Millions know this simple way to avoid them—to keep skin lovely, youthful

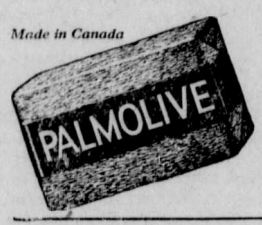
Do not make the mistake of attempting to cover or hide skin defects. It can never succeed. And there is a better way—which millions know:

This simple method to avoid them—to keep the youthful radiance and clearness of schoolgirl complexion.

For a week do this

Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse — and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.



Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive. Enjoy it for the bath also.

But be sure you get Palmolive—which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. Get some and follow this simple method for one week. Results will delight you, even in that short time.

Get rid of constipation by internal cleanliness

THERE is no reason why you should suffer from constipation. Headaches, biliousness, sleepless nights, heaviness, are nature's warning that intestinal poisons are flooding your system. If allowed to continue, you may become a victim of serious organic disease.

Many Diseases Start from Clogged Intestines

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

AMONG the beautiful features of Easter time is the coming of the birds, the swelling of the leaves in the forest, the awakening of the earth, the great national desire to get into the open, to revel in the vagabondage that April and May call out.

It seems this call of the mountain and the plain is irresistible to us humans. It saturates the blood of all humanity. It creates in us an eternal innate desire to go sauntering. The winter is over, the lovely spring is here.

It is in April and May that the gypsy gets into our souls, the restless desire for the hills and valleys, for wandering permeates all nature, human, animal and vegetable.

Everywhere nature is awake. The goddess-queen, Spring, glides through the heavens, and the earth and all that is therein springs up to meet her and do obeisance. We humans now can catch the flutter of her robes, the music of her footfall, the odor of her breath, the brightness of her near-by coming.

We can see a tender green on the earth, intenser blue in the sky, deeper colors, sweeter voices, busier feet, happier hearts.

There's fire in your blood. You loathe the inside work in shop, office, factory or store, and want to join the general outdoor tramp.

FRUIT TREATMENT FOR CONSTIPATION

Quick and Permanent Relief By Taking "Fruit-a-tives"

What a glorious feeling it is to be well! What a relief to be free of cathartics, salts, laxatives and purgatives that merely aggravate constipation and are so unpleasant to take and so weakening in their effect!

What a satisfaction to know that the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes will absolutely and permanently relieve constipation. By a certain process, the juices of these fruits can be concentrated and combined with tonics—and it is these intensified fruit juices that correct constipation, relieve headaches and biliousness, and make you well and keep you well.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold everywhere at 25c. and 50c. a box—or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

"THE WRECK OF THE ARGOSY"

The choir of the United church, augmented by several members of the Anglican and Baptist church choirs, under the leadership of Thos. Biggs, will present the cantata "The Wreck of the Argosy," in the Grand Theatre on Tuesday, April 22. It has been a considerable time since the citizens of Fernie have had the opportunty of hearing local talent in a play of this class and they should not fail to hear this light opera.

The story originates in olden times when piracy and smuggling were very prevalent on the Cornish coast and other places in Britain. A pirate chief aspires for the hand of Nellie Marston, who has already pledged her love to Harry Stanchion, British tar. The pirates by lighting false fires on a stormy night allure the Argosy, which becomes a wreck on the rocks. Henry Stanchion being washed ashore is taken prisoner and is recognized by the Pirate Chief as his rival and is cast into a dungeon and manacled. Whilst the pirates are busy with plundering the vessel, the sister of the Chief, who is present under durance and has a horror for piracy, takes the keys of the manacles and sets the prisoner free and he climbs to safety but is pursued by the pirates. The villagers, believe Henry Stanchion drowned. Nellie cannot be persuaded thus and believes her lover is still alive. Nellie has been ordered by her father to marry the pirate and the wedding is about to take place when a vessel is sighted and the same conveys Henry Stanchion, whose arrival prevents the wedding and he at the same time accuses Ralph Harman of piracy, who is taken care of by the coast guards.

The foregoing is interspersed by good music appropriate to the piece, solos, and duets by the principals and choruses by the villagers, terminating in full chorus, "How Merrily and Gay the Village Bells."

MAKING PRINT TALK

The blind may hereafter "hear" the printed page by means of a recently patented German device for making printers' ink and other pigments conduct electricity. This might seem a comparatively simple matter. One need only pulverize a conducting metal, and mix the powder with a suitable binder. But the lack of close contact between the particles of the metal obstructs the flow of the current, and this obstruction is increased by the oxidation of the surface of each particle. Even if the current succeeds in overcoming the resistance, the conductor is unduly heated—a fatal fault in the case of a paint. Since there are various reasons why it is desirable for industrial purposes to have a paint that will conduct electricity without melting, the problem has engaged the attention of many investigators. It has recently been solved in Germany and patented by the firm of Mertens, who plan to use it particularly in the printing industry. An important feature of the process is that, by modifying it, paints and inks can be prepared which conduct electricity in varying degrees. As most people know, variation in conductivity is th ebasic principle underlying the telephone. It is proposed, therefore, to prepare strips of paper printed in symbols corresponding, for example, to the Morse dot-and-dash system. Such printed strips can then be used, by means of simple electrical apparatus, to make and break contacts so as to sound a bell or a buzzer, so that a blind person familiar with telegraphy could literally hear the printers' ink talking to him. In a recent number of Die Umschau, Georg von Hassel gives some interesting details of this new process and its application. He begins by describing a simple experiment which throws light on the method followed:

"Take a quantity of ordinary bronze or copper powder and divide it into two parcels, subjecting one to an etching process by mixing it with hydrochloric acid; wash thoroughly and dry between layers of filter paper. Then prepare with the freshly etched powder and with the unetched respectively, by mixing the acetone in which celluloid has been dissolved and to which a small amount of amyl acetate has been added. Paint strips of equal width on any suitable surface, and it will be found that while the paint prepared with the unetched powder is a non-conductor, that made with the etched powder is a pretty good conductor. However, the latter soon loses ts conducting power, especially if the surface to which it is applied is polished or when it is exposed for any length of time to the light."

The process patented by Mertens uses a metal with a very low fusing point, the best being one made from an alloy, such as the Woods alloy. It is well known that the particles of a metallic powder can be made to cohere by being exposed to electro-magnetic waves, so that their resistance to the electric current is lessened. The so-called coherers employed in wireless telegraphy offer a familiar example of this. The particles are momentarily fused so as to form a continuous passage for the current.

The essential feature of the Mertens patent is said to consist in the fact that the particles of metal are first mixed with the binder, as for example, with printers' ink, and that this binder is hardened as soon as possible after the cohering or welding process mentioned takes place. This hardening of the binder prevents the metal particles from being shaken apart again, as they are in the ordinary coherer. To quote farther:

"This welding or cohering process, technically known as 'fritting,' renders it possible to impart a property to the paints thus prepared which no method hitherto has achieved—namely, that of graduated conductivity. The ink or paint so made varies in conductivity according to the intensity of the previous fritting process. Now if a row of signs be painted on paper or other suitable surface with ink of different degrees of conductivity, then they will offer correspondingly different degrees of resistance to the passage of an electric current."

As stated above, the Morse alphabet can be represented by printing strips of paper with inks of varying degrees of conductivity. Above this writing a contact is placed at the point of interruption of an electric circuit. When the contact meets a conducting sign, the circut is closed and a buzzer is sounded. Or, if it be preferred, instead of the Morse alphabet different musical notes may be made to correspond to different letters of the alphabet.

Mr. von Hassel closes his article by stating that the well known book and art printers, Foerster and Borries, in Zwickau, Saxony, intend to introduce this new ink of graduated conductivity into the printing industry.

Here and There

For the first time in Ontario, an attempt will be made this spring to organize a voluntary egg pool. Arrangements for the undertaking have been completed by the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, and it is hoped to control absolutely the egg market in the province.

During the year 1923, 3,380 tourist automobiles entered the province of Nova Scotia, the Land of Evangeline, according to the annual report of the Nova Scotia Tourist Commission. Altogether 63,000 tourists visited the province and distributed a sum estimated at $6,000,000.

A picked detachment of an officer and ten men of the Royal Canadain Mounted Police recently crossed the Atlantic on the Canadian Pacific liner Melita. Their duty will be to guard the Canadian exhibits at the British Empire Exhibition. The Exhibition and buildings cost about $200,000,000.

A chain of factories stretching across Canada will be established by the Dominion Tar and Paper Company, sponsored by English interests. This was announced by the Earl of Dunmore, V.C., and Sir Harold Botton after a recent visit to Canada. Sites have already been secured in Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Toronto.

Canada's trade balance is being steadily maintained, for, according to the February returns, just issued, the imports for that month, which totalled $62,133,882, showed a decrease of $3,173,814, from the same month last year, while the reports for February this year, totalling $67,274,543, showed an increase of $9,618,382.

Hon. George H. Henry, Ontario minister of public works and highways, has announced a change in the method of financing the planting of trees along public highways. Instead of sending out its own workmen, he says, the Government has a scheme whereby farmers planting trees in front of their own property will be bonused so much per tree for planting.

Over $1,000 has been paid by the Province of New Brunswick in wild cat bounties since the commencement of the present fiscal year. Already approximately 400 claims for the $3 bounty offered for each animal have been handled by the chief game warden's branch of the Department of Lands and Forests, as compared with the 51 claims made in 1923, following the bounty offer passed by the legislature in that year.

The splendid success attained by irrigationists in Alberta is evidenced by the last financial statement of the Taber Irrigation District. The report reveals a total surplus collectable or on hand of $30,000, of which $7,000 is on deposit in the bank. Operations have been so satisfactory that negotiations have been entered into with the Canadian Pacific Railway to set up a sinking fund of $3,000 to $5,000 to redeem bonds of the district held by the railway. In this way it is hoped that the district will be cleared of debt in a few years.

"THE CONNECTING FILE"

Twenty thousand living citizens of Canada have served in the commissioned or enlisted ranks of the Royal Canadian Regiment, whose headquarters are at Wilseley Barracks, London, Ont., with companies at Halifax, Montreal and Toronto.

But the individuals composing this and the late war—army of 20,000 are scattered across the whole of Canada's northland empire.

But the Royal Canadian Regiment, the peace time skeleton of the mighty force that did its bit towards making the world safe for democracy, is laying plans to keep the old brigade together, by means of a regimental publication which they began on an office typewriter three years ago and called it "The Connecting File."

Through this regimental messenger Col. Hill and the veterans who hold the honor of having commanded and served with the volunteer Canadian soldier in the late war as second to none in their whole lives, save that of serving the King, are planning to former member of the regiment and keep in touch. Every newspaper in Canada in the course of the next few weeks will be asked to give publicity to this effort on the part of the Royal Canadian Regiment, coupled with the urgent request of all former R.C.R. men in their territories — whether veterans of South Africa, the European, or any other war—to write at once to Col. Hill in London. In other words, the C.O. is holding office and every veteran is "for it."

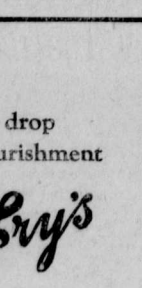
SONG OF LOVE

Clear as the sound of a silver bell,
Sweet as the light from above,
I'll sing you a song, a sweet, sweet song;
A song of my heart's best love.

I love the sky and the light on high,
And the land from coast to coast;
I love the night with the moon so bright;
And, oh, but I love you most.



I love sunrise in the Eastern skies,
And to see him set in the West;
But you must know that of all below,
I love you the most and best.

WHY DOES YOUR DOCTOR ADVISE A SPRING TONIC AT THIS TIME OF YEAR?

This is the season when your system is trying to adjust itself to warmer weather. Your liver becomes sluggish and your bowels clogged up with poisonous sickening wastes. As a result, many suffer from such symptoms as sour stomach, coated tongue, bad taste, biliousness, irregular movement of the bowels, sick-headache, pains in the back and sides.

Make this test! Cleanse and tone your liver with Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup. Put your stomach in condition—soothe your tired and over-taxed nerves, brace up your system and send purer and healthier blood coursing through your veins.

Notice quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel — improvement in less than 14 hours. You, too, will be satisfied, as others have, or no cost.

Dr. Thacher's is sold and recommended by Suddaby's Drug and Book Store, Fernie, and by leading druggists in all cities and towns.

THE SAFETY VALVE

Stable governments are apt to become stodgy or reactionary or worse, whereas unstable governments (the uncertainty of their position calling forth all their talents) sometimes excel. Again, young third parties, like Labor in Britain and the Cockies in Australia, are not to be condemned merely because they are a nuisance to tactless Premiers, or even because they are prone to exact concessions when they hold the balance of power. Broadly considered, they are natural and healthy outlets for popular discontent. In Britain, with 1,250,000 unemployed, mostly ex-service men, the Labor party, whatever may be said against its policy, is certainly a safeguard against revolution.—Sydney Bulletin.

WHAT EYE-WITNESSES SEE

Once more a psychologist has experimentally demonstrated the necessity for accepting with the greatest caution eye-witness testimony, however honest, especially as regards happenings provocative of emotional excitement.

The psychologist in this instance is Professor M. J. Schlagenhauf of Northwestern University in Massachusetts. The subjects of his experiment were a large class of engineering students—that is, of students whose training would be expected to make them exceptionally close and accurate observers.

While the class was in session angry shouts were heard in the corridor leading to the classroom. The door was flung open and a student rushed in, closely followed by another. Then a shot rang out, and the first student fell to the floor. Two students in the front row leaped up and carried him into the corridor, whither his pursuer had in the meantime fled.

Of course there was much confusion, order being restored only when Professor Schlagenhauf held up his hand, stated that nobody had been hurt, and explained that the whole affair had been a piece of make-believe. He then asked the students to write down all they had seen, detailing the sequence of events, describing the participants, etc.

Now, it happened that the revolver shooting in this little drama had been done, not by the pursuer, but by a student in the back of the classroom. Yet many of the "eye-witnesses" insisted the pursuer had done the shooting, some vividly picturing the flash and the smoke from the revolver they thought they saw in his hand.

As a matter of fact he did have something in his hand; but it was not a revolver, merely a harmless banana. Yet, according to a statement given to the Boston Globe by Professor Schlagenhauf:

"Of the fifty witnesses of this 'murder' only two men said the assailant had a banana in his hand. Immediately afterwards they were called 'crazy' by their classmates, the overwhelming majority of whom said the assailant carried a pistol.

"The students who identified either of the men did not remember very clearly anything else. The members of the class later were astounded at themselves at the innacuracy of their observations.

"Most of what the witnesses said took place was wrought in their imagination. They did catch a glimpse of certain things. They saw, for instance, two men, a flash of brown, a face. They heard the shot, saw the man fall, and knew that a 'murder' had been committed. With the idea of murder in their minds they reconstructed the scene, but in doing so they became mixed up, with ridiculous results."

Even the two men who did see that the assailant carried, not a revolver, but a banana, erred markedly in other details. Not one witness, in fact, gave anything like a really accurate account, though the statements were in many cases made with theutmost positiveness.

Which, of course, helps to explain the amazing discrepencies and contradictions of eye-witnesses testimony in court rooms. The common assumption is that somebody must be committing perjury, but that this is not necessarily the case is evident from Professor Schlegenhauf's experiment.

Evident, also is the importance, so far as judges and juries are concerned, of weighing most critically all eye witnesses testimony, particularly in cases the outcome of which depends almost altogether on such testimony.

B.C. AUTOMOBILE CLUB NEWS BULLETIN

The establishment of a towing service throughout the entire province has been decided upon by the Automobile Club of British Columbia. Garages will be selected at all points and the charges will be allowed these stations on the zone system.

A list of selected hotels will be shortly compiled by the Club and will be sent to all Club members as places where the fare is to be recommended and the tariff reasonable.

As showing the amount of tourist traffic that may be expected this coming season, the following figures will prove interesting. During 1920 a total of 1800 automobiles crossed the boundary. In 1921 the figures increased to 29,250, while in 1922 they increased to 38,300. Last year no less than 63,024 cars visited the coast cities. Now that the Pacific Highway is completed it is expected that 100,000 cars will cross into B.C. this season.

Under the provisions of a Surrey traffic by-law passed by the municipal council last year, the parking of automobiles on the pavement of the Pacific Highway for its entire length between New Westminster bridge and the International boundary is prohibited. The speed limit on the highway has been fixed at 30 miles an hour and notices to this effect have been displayed.

A daily automobile ferry service will be inaugurated on April 4 by the Puget Sound Navigation Co. The service, the first of its kind, will connect the Pacific Coast Highway with Vancouver Island and will operate between Anacortes and Sidney, Victoria.

An early spring in the Canadian Rockies is reflected in advices that the hotel at Banff will be opened May 15 instead of June 1 as in former years. The hotel at Lake Louise will be open June 1, and the Hostelry at Glacier B.C. will start the season on June 15.

Necessity the Mother of Invention

The secret of making ends meet, is, not infrequently, the difference between Success and Failure. Adaptability to hard Circumstances in order to study them with a view to overcoming them, is a mere stepping-stone to the foot of the born Inventor. And, however we look at them, Inventors are "born" as well as "made".

An Inventor has the ability to step off, into Space as it were, to "take the plunge" to quote the man in the street, which more timid, or more sophisticated folk, lack.

Most Inventions come out of two desires. A desire to save labor, and a desire for better service. But an even more fundamental stage lies back of these. The period in some man's life, of Rock-bottom Necessity. And so there has come down to us from the Ancients, who were fond of putting Truths into adages the pithy statement that "Necessity is the Mother of Invention."

The Age of Necessity, is there[illegible] the Age richest in Inventions. The Inventions of a fundamental order, those that saved mankind from extinction, rather than those that spared his strength.

Regarded from this viewpoint what people more rich in Invention than the Indian? What people more capable of "making ends meet"? What people closer in spirit to the Secrets of Nature? What people so able to see possibilities, "a way out" where no way apparently exists, as these simple people of the woods, lakes, rivers, plains and mountains?

From these Fundamentalists, the Pioneer had at once most to fear and most to learn. It was this antithesis which sharpened desire to take-up the land and hold it against the veritably embodied Spirit of Circumvention. And it was when the early pioneers began to appreciate the cleverness of the Indian and the Indian began to appreciate the qualities of life as introduced by the new people, that one began to learn of the other and to prosper by exchange of experiences and by exchange of the inventions for which each stood.

The Indian and the pioneer have this in common. Both were always face to face with Necessity. Danger was clear-cut... everywhere. No getting away from it. And to some extent it is interesting to be able to decipher in most of the primitive inventions of the Indians, whether their habitat was the shores about the Great Lakes, the Prairies from the Lakes of the Woods to the foothills of the Rockies, or the Rockies themselves or the littoral of the Pacific, a certain Something, like an Atmosphere, a curious Fragrance, suggestive of Danger... a bizarre note... indicative of the presence of the sinister form or forms which originally called into existence that particular invention.

I well recall the impressions experienced the first time I saw our Indian guide of the French River, drink from his paddle. We had gone up the Murdoch and portaged to Crooked Lake. (A lake that only last year was opened up by the Canadian Pacific Bungalow Camp—above). No sooner had we got into the canoe and gone a few lengths than the guide ceased stroking and careened the paddle blade so that the clean, cool water dripped as from a clear fountain into his thirsty mouth and throat. No weight had changed, the canoe still ranged ahead from the last stroke, the guide did not change his posture, there was no sound, his eye still commanded the scene. The action was so swift and silent that without bidding my own eye ranged off to the wooded bank, searching for the imaginary foe whose mocassined feet and wary intuition may have traced the invasion by the summer camper of this hitherto undeveloped haunt of trout.

Thus swiftly did this simple act recall the time when it was first practiced. That time in the history of Canada when the Red man's foes were so numerous, when the urge of hunting so keen that even when he took a drink of water he must never lose that vigilance which kept him always on guard.

In itself a mere straw, it holds a psychological subtlety that in detail shows us to what necessity and to what finesse or inventiveness those who live right down to the elemental were driven by the combative elemental forces with which they warred for existence.

We admire these things in ancient and distant peoples, but we are given to overlook them and set little value by them when they occur at our very doors as it were.

Canada is particularly rich in "inventions" of this nature. They are not here things of the Past but of the living Present. I saw the Indian drink from the paddle only last summer. You may see him this.

Adaptation or resourcefulness in so simple acts are among these primitives, progressive after a fashion. The next time our guide took a drink of the cool lake water, he broke the deep flower of a pitcher plant from a clump that grew by the bank and made a drinking-cup of it. Not limited to one cup you see. And in the transition from the oar we can feel there was a transition in poetic fancy. It was a drink of relaxation... a sip of nectar from the flower's heart. And had he been of the Far East we should have said "See the artistic development of this Jap" but being of the West and of the Wilds, it was wholly unlooked for and evoked more of surprise than anything else. It called out on elemental feelings of lurking danger or watchful foes, but the pleasing cognizance that Art is Universal and that some of the primitive inventions follow the sweeter paths of fancy, rather than the ever-present Danger spelled of the "oar-blade" cup.—By Victoria Hayward.

"US FOR OURSELVES"

(Toronto Saturday Night)

As we hark back over the years there come up in review many governments, Grit and Tory, but they are all wan and pale in comparison with the late Farmer government of Ontario. When that jokesmith, whoever he was, remarked that U.F.O. stood for "us for ourselves" he spoke more truth than he knew. With the public accounts' committee investigation by no means at end (it is likely to last for a considerable period) sufficient is known to condemn the administration out of hand.

Unless we are sadly misinformed the worst part is yet to come, for while there has been a good deal of testimony of a damning character in respect to the administration of the Provincial Treasurer's office, some of which has stuck to the coat tails of Hon. Peter Smith, the presiding genius, there is yet much to be explained, if explanation be possible.

The dealings between the Hon. Peter Smith and the Home Bank, through its general manager the late J. Cooper Mason, were to say the least of a peculiar character. The evidence presented by documents and by witnesses goes to show that in a period of two and one half years the sum of $100,000 of the funds of this bank found its way from the bank vaults to the pockets of a person or persons as yet unnamed, but who were believed by the bank management to have the power to direct Ontario government bank deposits toward the coffers of the Home Bank. As these transactions were handled on the principle that cash tells no tales the testimony is necessarily of a fragmentary character, though the evidence has brought out the fact that payments ranging from $1500 to $15,000 were made into the hands of Col. Mason at regular intervals by various members of the Home Bank staff, presumably for the purpose of having these sums handed on by the general manager of the Bank to other interested parties, for services rendered.

That the Hon. Peter Smith was a frequent visitor to the office and the home of the late Col. Mason has also been shown, but as Col. Mason has passed on and Peter Smith is not talking for publication the meaning of these visits is left at the moment largely to conjecture.

The probe of the Ontario public accounts' committee will shortly, it is anticipated, be directed toward the highways over which presided Mr. Biggs in the rare old fair old days of the United Farmers of Ontario.

The final outcome of this investigation is of course a matter yet of surmise. But those with a knowledge of the situation are free to admit that Ontario's farmer government in illicit commissions and other forms of graft cost the province something like a million dollars. Pretty good for a government that was elected to office on account of its high moral tone and promises of frugal administration.

NEW CURLING RINK LIKELY AT CRANBROOK

Cranbrook, April 14.—What looks like a solution of the difficulty which has been facing the city council as to what disposition to make of the Arena rink so as to satisfy both the curling club, who have been using the place for several years past, and the amateur athletic association, which is now coming to assume a recognized place in the direction of athletic activities in the city, has been found.

Both organizations have made offers to the city for the use of the place next winter but to have granted it to either would have means shutting the other out. At the last council meeting a compromise was proposed which was to be looked into, whereby the rink might be extended to allow of two sheets of curling ice being made each side of the centre, which would be available for hockey and skating.

Feeling that this would not be altogether the best solution of the matter the curlers have been taking steps in the last few days to canvass among the members to see if sufficient funds could be raised to erect another rink for curling. A provisional site consisting of about half a dozen lots at the end of Cranbrook street on which rink could be built and space provided in the front of the building for bowling in the summer. By the end of th first couple of days of canvassing the promise of upwards of three thousand dollars was forthcoming, a sufficiently encouraging response to warrant the project being carried on to a further stage.

COAL CREEK NOTES

Following out a policy of retenchment the board of management of the Coal Creek Literary and Athletic Association have placed the stewards on half time.

Wm. Puckey and Ralph Benn have taken a trip to Canton City and Cleveland in the state of Ohio.

The Coal Co. tried out their new electric fan on Wednesday.

The exodus of men from this camp has compelled the management of the Tee Pee boarding house to reduce the staff during the past week.

Work has been commenced on the new government bridge crossing the creek at the junction of French camp and Welsh camp.

The members of the Club entertained the tournament teams of the F. L. & A. A. to a series of games, consisting of billiards, dominoes, whist, cribbage, seven-up and all-fours, on Sunday. The visitors left camp victors by a margin of 97 points.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler entertained a few friends to a radio programme on Tuesday evening.

Several of the young ladies of this camp are taking lessons in paper decorations at Suddaby's, Fernie.

Owing to Victoria Hall being engaged for a mhist drive and dance on Easter Monday, we are asked to notify members of the Loyal Order of Moose that the regular weekly session will be held on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. Dufour, of Fernie, was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Alexandra on Wednesday.

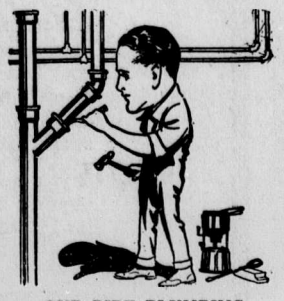
NATURE AND OURSELVES



One woman asked why it is that Pacific Milk has a better flavor than canned milk put up in the East. There are two reasons. Splendid dairy herds, in a climate particularly adaptable to milk production gives us fresh milk of exceptionally high quality. An improved canning process simply returns this rich purity without impairing its taste.

HOME BANK INVESTIGATION

Toronto, April 22.—In the Home Bank investigation counsel should have been arranged for to represent various successive ministers of finance for the Dominion, in the opinion of Sir Thomas White, minister of finance from 1911 to 1919, given in his evidence today before Hon. H. A. McKeown, acting as royal commissioner in the inquiry into the bank's affairs prior to the suspension of that institution last August.

Sir Thos. White produced a heavy dossier of hitherto unpublished personal and confidential letters, memoranda and documents from the files of the department of finance during his term as minister. These had been turned over to him after the suspension of the bank, he said, by his former private secretary, who had regarded them as private, although Sir Thomas had intended them for the use of the department after he left. On his departure for Rio De Janeiro, last February, Sir Thomas said he left these documents with Sir Edward Kemp, to be made available for the information of parliament if called for. He was under the impression when leaving Toronto that it was not the intention of the government to appoint a royal commission.

One of the letters put in by Sir Thos. White as an exhibit was from Hon. T. A. Crerar on behalf of the Western Canadian directors, under date of March 20, 1916. In this letter, Mr. Crerar gave the opinion that consequent upon arrangements being made with the bank, "the situation has materially improved within the past month and, at this juncture with the changes in management recently made it is better to have the inquiry proceed from within rather than from without."

This leter was delivered to Sir Thomas by the late Z. A. Lash, counsel for the Home Bank, and Sir Thomas replied that he was glad to have Mr. Crerar's assurance that the situation had materially improved.

Correspondence indicated that in October, 1918, Sir Thomas demanded various supplementary information to the report furnished the department by the Home Bank directors and this was furnished after some delay owing to the illness of Col. Cooper Mason, the general manager.

G. T. Clarkson, the liquidator, who was also a witness this morning, produced a letter under date of June 14, 1917, from T. A. Crerar, as director, to M. J. Haney, president of the bank, disapproving the appointment of Col. Cooper Mason as general manager. Mr. Crerar said that such an appointment could not have been seriously considered. He would be glad to cooperate, he wrote, provided there was no attempt to appoint Col. Mason. Some time later Mr. Crerar resigned from the directorate.

Mr. Clarkson said that the liabilities of the bank would exceed the assets by from $9,000,000 to $9,500,000.

All dividends paid after 1916 had been paid out of capital. The loss of the bank on fresh advances after May 1, 1916, amounted to $4.500,000, Mr. Clarkson said.

The correspondence produced by Sir Thomas White indicated that on October 31, 1918, he was not satisfied with the statement of the board of directors as filed with the department and asked for various supplementary information. Sir Thomas wrote to the late Z. A. Lash of Toronto, counsel for the Home Bank, in this connection, mentioning certain charges made against the directors by Mr. MacHaffie, who had been assistant to the president.

Sir Thomas wrote, "If, as a matter of fact, the capital of the bank is represented by interest amounting in the aggregate to a large sum and added over a course of years to the principal of inactive accounts, a serious question arises as to whether the true position should not be declared and the capital and reserve of the bank written down. Accordingly in this connection I require a statement showing how much of the capital and reserve is represented by interest which has been added from time to time to the principal of the three accounts in question and any other account where the principal loaned has exceeded $250,000."

This information was later furnished after some delay owing to the illness of the general manager, Col. J. Cooper Mason, and Sir Thomas acknowledged as follows:

"I am obliged for yours of the 25th instant furnishing the particulars of accounts required by me some time ago. I shall look over the documents carefully and if I require anything further, will communicate with you."

This was the last communication produced by Sir Thomas in regard to the matter. It was dated January 29, 1919.

DALY'S SECRETARY BORROWED BIG SUM

Toronto, April 22.—Testifying at this afternoon's session of the royal commission investigating the defunct Home Bank, G. T. Clarkson, liquidator, said that T. L. O'Connor, who was secretary to President Daly, borrowed $130,000 from the bank. This had never been returned.

CELEBRATE MAY 24TH

The city council held their second regular April meeting in the council chamber last Thursday evening, Mayor Henderson occupying the chair. Aldermen Aiello and Robichaud were absent.

An application for the use of the city park for May 24, to be used for holding sports, was made by Dr. Pickering on behalf of the Fernie Elks Lodge.

A motion was passed providing for a charge of 10 per cent gross gate receipts at any events held in the city park, the revenue so derived to be devoted entirely to the upkeep of the park and improving same.

Before this motion was put to the council, Ald. Markland stated that in passing this motion, the city would undertake to put the grounds in perfect shape before any sports day and thus do away with the necessity of any organization which was to hold sports, having to make "working bees" to put the grounds in good condition.

The application of the Elk Lodge for permission to use the park on Victoria Day was then granted on the above condition.

Moved by Ald. Irvine, seconded by Ald. Stewart that the resignation of the city electrician be accepted.

Chief of Police Anderson gave a report on the condition of the streets and alleys as requested at last meeting when the garbage situation was being discussed, and requested instructions.

City Clerk Moffatt was requested to go thoroughly into the by-laws on this matter and report at next meeting.

Moved by Ald. Markland, seconded by Ald. Lees, that the license inspector be instructed to collect a half yearly license of $50 from all pedlars of vegetables, fruits, etc., as provided in the license by-law.

The usual accounts were approved by the finance committee and passed for payment.

"THE WRECK OF THE ARGOSY"

The augmented choir of the United Church, under the leadership of Thos. Biggs, scored a tremendous success in their presentation of the cantata "The Wreck of the Argosy," before a fairly large audience in the Grand Theatre on Tuesday evening.

The choir, taking the part of villagers and pirates, was comprised of 25 mixed voices and their singing was of the finest quality ever heard in the city. The scenery was arranged in a striking manner and gave a splendid background for the play. The cave scene at night with the pirates around their chief was indeed a masterpiece.

The soprano lead, Lellie Marston, the innkeeper's daughter, was portrayed by Mrs. Asselstine, who went through her part in a most capable manner, her singing and acting delighting the audience throughout the play. Thos. Biggs, playing opposite her as Harry Stanchion, the British sailor, carried out his part in his own inimitable way, his song in the second act, the Miserere "Gracious Father," being one of the hits of the evening. Chris. Andrews took the part of the villain, Ralph Harman, the pirate chief, his deep bass voice being exceptionaly well suited to the part, and he certainly merited the applause he received. The character Alice Harman, the pirate chief's sister, was taken by Mrs. Wesley Owen, whose solo "Holy Father Hear My Prayer," was one of the prettiest songs of the cantata. Wesley Owen as Will Sharp, the coast guard, seemed to live his part and his baritone solo "The Streamer of England," was another of the outstanding features of the entertainment.

After the close of the cantata the entire cast was entertained at a light supper in the basement of the United Church, at which they were showered with compliments on the manner in which the cantata had been rendered, and many requests were made for a reproduction of "The Wreck of the Argosy."

LECTURE ON EARTHQUAKES

The people of Fernie enjoyed a rare treat on Monday of last week when Major R. W. Brock, Dean of the Faculty of Science, U.B.C., gave a very entertaining lecture on earthquakes in general and the Japanese catastrophe in particular. The Assembly hall of the Central school was crowded to overflowing, many finding standing room on the stairs, when the Dean was presented by Alfred Cummings, who acted as chairman. Mr. Cummings was a former student of Dean Brock's at Queen's University.

The presence, in spite of the very inclement weather, of so large an audience, and their hearty appreciation, was nothing short of an ovation to Dean Brock, who is the most distinguished of the speakers yet sent out by U.B.C. Extension service. He was for some years head of the geological survey of Canada. He was also Major and O.C. for Canada, in the 196th or Universities Battalion, and served the imperial government on important geological missions in Palestine during the war. Last year he was in the same service in China, from when he was returning when the Japanese earthquake took place.

The speaker began with a general explanation of what an earthquake is and why it occurs. It is brother to the volcanic eruption, the two being fathered by the same cause. The way the shock radiates from a central point, in lines and waves, was illustrated on the screen by a graph, which strikingly resembled a big old deadly spider. Another illustration showed the lines on the earth's surface along which earthquakes are most apt to occur. Tokio and Yokohama are situated exactly at the conjunction of two of these lines and are therefore at the most favorable spot in the world to receive these shocks.

The lecture was illustrated throughout with magnificent lantern slides, many of which must have been unique and very difficult to obtain. These included pictures of all the world-famous quakes, but the greater number were from Japan, showing the strange contortions into which everything was thrown that came within range of the shock.

At one moment the speaker would have his audience in tears at the sight of doorways or whole parks piled up with bodies where the stricken people had congregated for safety; at another his hearers would be in gales of laughter over some personal reminiscence which the speaker had obtained at first hand from survivors. One English lady was sea bathing and not feeling the shock in the water was at a loss to interpret the mirth provoking antics of those on the ground, who would go rolling and tumbling about in the strangest fashion. It was not until she noticed her home collapsing like a house of cards that she understood. Another lady was on the top floor of her hotel taking a bath when the building collapsed. She fell the entire distance to the ground, still in the tub, and escaped unhurt because she was on top of the debris instead of underneath.

There were also pictures showing how the Empress liner did her rescue work, and how the refugees were handled.

W. R. Wilson voiced the appreciation of those present in a neat speech. His vote of thanks, being seconded by Mr. Humphries and vociferously assented to by the audience, was then presented to Dean Brock.

Mrs. Brock, who was a daughter of Judge Brittan of Ontario, accompanied the Dean on his tour.

Owing to the epidemic of mumps in a New Jersey district the local pickle factories have suspended operations until the affliction abates.

HOME BANK PROFITS WERE OVERSTATED

Toronto, April 22.—In 1922, the year previous to the suspension of the Home Bank, the profits of the institution were overstated by $800,000 to the Dominion government, according to evidence of G. T. Clarkson, liquidator, here today at the inquiry before Justice McKeown. In 1921 the profits were "padded by $155,000," said Mr. Clarkson. The excess of $9,000,000 of liabilities over assets which exist at present, said the liquidator, was in addition to the loss of capital and reserve which had been wiped out.

MUCH HIGHER THAN DIST. 19

Calgary, April 23.—Although the United Mine Workers of America, according to local officers of the organization, have repeatedly stated that the Jacksonville agreement is their authority for demanding similar rates in District 18, information reaching Calgary on Wednesday is to the effect that other districts are negotiating and completing agreements with the same organization on a very much lower basis than the Jacksonville contract.

Particulars now to hand show that an agreement was signed on March 24 between District 19 of the U. M. W. of A. and the Kentucyk-Tennessee Coal Operators' Association, the day wage and contract rates being very much lower than the Jacksonville agreement. The new agreement has been signed for a four year term:

	Dist. 19	Dist. 18
Miner and day wage	$4.84	$7.50
Machine miner (air)	5.40	8.02
Driver	4.44	7.21
Trackmen	4.84	7.50
Blacksmiths	5.00	8.14
Carpenters	4.84	8.14
Firemen	4.04	7.08
Teamsters	3.80	7.08
Inside common labor	4.20	6.89
Outside common labor	3.72	6.58

From inquiry made in Calgary on Wednesday it was learned that District 19 last year mined approximately 36,000,000 tons of coal. The contract rates were reduced 20 cents a ton, and day work rates to the level of 1917.

The working day to which the rates in the American field apply, is the eight-hour working day usual in the United States mining districts, that is, eight hours' actual work exclusive of time going to and returning from the place of employment in the mines. In District 18 the travelling time is included in the eight hours' employment, the workman leaving the surface and returning to it within the eight-hour period.

QUESTIONAIRE OF BOARD OF TRADE IS BEFORE MINERS

(Calgary Herald)

Wm. Sherman, president of District 18, U.M.W.A., when seen on Tuesday, stated it was likely the questionaire sent his organization on the strike situation by the Calgary Board of Trade would be dealt with by the executive. It would therefore be some little time before a reply would be sent, if the executive decided to adopt such a course. In the meantime, he said, he was not in a position to make any comment on the questionaire.

So far as the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association is concerned, R. M. Young, the commissioner, stated the questions were perfectly proper and particularly pertinent in view of the present situation. He said that his association proposed to answer the questions raised by the Board of Trade.

In general business circles the hope is expressed that the action of the Board of Trade will result in negotiations between the miners' officials and operators being re-opened, and that the way will thus be paved to a settlement of the strike being reached.

HOME BANK DEPOSITORS MUST WAIT TWO YEARS FOR SECOND DIVIDEND

Toronto, April 24.—G. T. Clarkson, liquidator of the Home Bank of Canada, stated in an interview today that the next dividend to depositors in the defunct institution would not be paid for two years. The first and only dividend of 25 per cent was distributed before Christmas.

ROGERS WELL HITS GAS

Coutts, April 22. — The Rogers-Imperial well in section 29-1-11, about 30 miles east of here, blew-in yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock as a gasser. Whether an oil-bearing structure underlies this gas is as yet undetermined, but the pressure of gas of such enormous proportions is looked upon by oil men here as highly encouraging. Mark C. Rogers, president of the Canadian Oil and Refining Co., Lethbridge, is in Sweet Grass, but has given out no official statement. Field Supt. Applegate of the Imperiol Oil Co. is now en route here.

Estimates of the gas flow vary from 1,000,000 to 3 000,000 cubic feet daily, but no acurate figure can be given until it has been measured. The gas shot out of the well with a bang soon after drilling commenced Monday afternoon. It threw water and shale all over the derrick, the drillers placing 2,000,000 feet as a conservative estimate basing the opinion on the terrific force behind the gas.

The problem of controlling the flow now presents itself.

It is understood the gas was encountered around 2600 feet. It was about 100 feet lower that the Gladys-Belle well No. 1, 12 miles south and east on the Montana side, blew in as the greatest gasser in the North Montana field, the flow measuring more than 30,000,000 feet a day. The Gladys-Belle well encountered considerable oil, but the well will be used as a commercial gas proposition, and a second well on the same structure will be put down, according to an announcement made last Saturday by the company.

Much interest naturally centres in the development at the Rogers' well, as it may mean the opening up of a large oil field on the east end of the border oil area, which geological reports have described as being favorable to the tapping of oil.

Mark C. Rogers, communicating over long distance phone declared that the Rogers-Imperial well was on the rampage and was defying all efforts to control it.

"We've got the wildest proposition you ever saw down here" Mr. Rogers said. "Our drillers, who have been in the oil game all their lives, say they have never witnessed anything as big. The air is impregnated with oil and gas fumes and while we cannot say just what we have because we can't get close enough, it looks like a good well."

Mr. Rogers believes they have encountered a real oil well, one of the best in the field but until it is under control it is difficult to ascertain the character and extent of the field.

So deafening is the roar of the giant that it would break ones eardrums to get close up to it, Mr. Rogers said. The tools are out of the well, and everything is in splendid shape, equipment and tools being removed from the hole as a safeguard against fire.

"I don't think we went over three inches deeper when the increased flow shot up," said Mr. Rogers. "I have no idea what we have until we are able to put the well under control, but it is now a roaring monster."

CANADIAN INDUSTRY GROWING

Ford, Ont., April 23.—An indication of the healthy growth of Canadian industry during the first three months of 1924 is contained in the fact that 43% of the entire production of the Ford Motor Co. has been shipped to British overseas dominion, when coupled with the figures concerning shipments of cars throughout the Dominion of Canada. This makes a truly remarkable showing.

There were produced 9149 cars and trucks in the month of March, 1924, and for the first three month period just ended, a total of 24,049 cars of all models. This compared with a similar period in 1923 shows an increase of 16% in the total business done to date this year. Another interesting feature is the tremendous growth in the closed car business, this branch of the Ford Company's activity approximating 50% of its Canadian sales.

In addition to the huge plant at Ford, and the three assembly plants located at Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, there has recently been opened an assembly branch at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, where about 300 cars per month will be turned out.

WESTERN CATTLE IN EUROPE

Montreal.—Sounding a note of the strongest possible faith in, and optimism for, the future of the agriculturalist in Western Canada, Colonel H. A. Mullins, prominent rancher of Poplar Point, Manitoba, who arrived in Montreal on Sunday, submitted to an interview yesterday.

"The situation on the prairies is rapidly improving," the Colonel declared, "and the Westerner is taking courage. Moreover, many of those who in recent years left the farm are returning. I consider the tide in Western Canada is beginning to turn strongly from the city to the farm once more. The three prairie provinces especially have a tremendous future, and, if due consideration is given to their particular needs, the realization of that future cannot be long deferred.'

Asked to mention some of the influences which, in his opinion, would tend to hasten the Golden Age for Western Canada the Colonel unhesitatingly pleaded first for a better understanding between East and West.

"The Western farmer can also do a great deal to help himself," the Colonel added. "I consistently advocate that all farmers out there should go in for raising livestock as well as other stuff, especially for raising high-grade stock, and that those now in that game should stick to it. They should also stop crowding their shipments—and this applies not only to livestock but to other products, such as grain—into three months or so of the year. Then they won't find themselves forced to take low prices because of the rush, and things will be better for the country generally as well."

Despite many recent setbacks, there is, the Colonel is convinced, a world market for good Western cattle. The demand from the United Kingdom, he says, has been constant and heavy since the lifting of the embargo, though it has been affected adversely by the recent closing of Liverpool, Glasgow and some other ports on account of the outbreak of foot and mouth disease.

Colonel Mullins is in an excellent position to speak with authority on the cattle situation, for he has been shipping cattle overseas steadily and intends to continue. Recently he shipped 148 head from Winnipeg to Montreal. The train, supplemented by cars containing 100 additional head from Toronto, left the Western city at 10 p.m. on Wednesday via Canadian Pacific and arrived at the stock-yards here on Sunday morning, the Colonel following them up by a passenger train which left Winnipeg on Thursday night. The shipment is bound for Dundee via St. John, N.B. The Colonel paid a warm tribute to the Company for the manner in which it had handled his consignment. "The shrinkage in weight was unusually light," he stated, "and not only did they make up this loss of weight in a few hours in the Canadian Pacific yards here, but they are already heavier than they were in Winnipeg. This experience, and my inspection of these yards, has convinced me that ranchers may ship their cattle via Canadian Pacific with confidence that they will be splendidly and rapidly handled."

NAVAL SQUADRON'S VISIT CHANGED

Changes have been necessitated in the initenary of the special service squadron of the Royal Navy, now in Australian waters. This alters the dates for the squadron's stay in British Columbia waters, which are now: Victoria, June 21-25; and Vancouver June 25 to July 5.

NEWS ITEMS OF THE COAST

Official statistics issued by Hon. Wm. Sloan, minister of mines, places the value of the mineral production of British Columbia for the year 1923 at $41,304,320. This is $1,604,562 better than the estimate issued at the beginning of the present year, and $6,145,477 greater than the monetary value of the output during 1922, an increase of 17.5 per cent.

The above figures are taken from the annual report, which is in the hands of the King's printer and which will be available for distribution at an early date. In summing up conditions, the minister's report states:

"It is exceedingly gratifying to note that the output for 1923 has only been exceeded twice in the history of the province. That was in 1916, when production reached $42,290,000, and in 1918, when the figure was $41,782,000. In those two years the production was the result of war-time stimulus and war-time prices. In view of this explanation it may be taken that last year's production clearly indicates the healthy condition of the mining industry in British Columbia."

A statement has been issued by Hon. J. D. MacLean, provincial secretary, showing the marked reduction in the number of civil servants in different departments. In all the land registry offices of the province in 1915-16—the last year of the Conservative government — 28,981 applications were disposed of, by a staff of 132. For the fiscal year 1923-24, no less than 37,415 applications were handled, but the staffs dealing with the work only numbered 89.

Rapid progress is being made on the construction of the new University of B. C. buildings on the government lands at Point Grey. The contract has been let to the E. J. Ryan Contracting Co. for the erection of six semi-permanent buildings, while the new science and library buildings are being rushed to completion. This year the government will sell the first unit of residential property, some 100 acres, and it is generally expected that the revenue from the sale of Point Grey lands which totals 3000 acres, will take care of the entire cost of the new institution, without any additional burden being placed upon the taxpayers.

The government registrar of joint stock companies gives out the gratifying information that during last week 28 new companies were incorporated in British Columbia. Incorporations in this province have been numerous for months, an indication of the steady industrial growth being made.

MANITOBA GOLD FIELDS DEVELOPING

Prospects of a second Klondyke rush are rapidly looming up in the northlands of Manitoba. H. M. Paul, well known English mining engineer and prospector, veteran of many years of experience in the mining fields of Ontario, left last week for Herb Lake, north of Le Pas on the Hudson Bay railway on business which he claimed was of the greatest importance. More than 400 men are employed in that district in mining enterprises.

ROMANCE IN CAVE STORY

London, April 20.—In the story unfolded at the Royal Anthropological Institute recently by Sir Arthur Keith the famous archaeologist there were touches of a tale of romance with not a little of the mystery we associate with the doings of Sherlock Holmes. The story chiefly concerned a great cave — Ghar Dalam— which opens on the side of a ravine, near the south eastern corner of Malta, and about five miles from Valetta.

The cave is a vast rambling place —measuring more than 700 feet from its entrance on the ravine to its most distant recesses. But it is the floor which is the chief centre of interest for archaeologists, they hope to find in the strata of its floor — varying from 8 feet to 18 feet in depth—fossil records of the time when Malta was part of the land bridge which joined Italy to Tunis, and divided the Mediterranean into two lakes. And if by happy chance, early man, passing along this way, were to leave his implements or his bones behind him, as might happen if he called at Ghar Dalam, then all the better for the archaeologists.

The event has proved that early man of the Neanderthal type — the forbidden species which disappeared from Europe long before the Ice Age ended—had passed that way, and by force or by his own free will did enter Ghar Dalam, never to come out again. Only two of his molar teeth have been found but they are amply sufficient for his recognition — they are fossilized to the same degree as the bones of extinct species of elephant and hippopotamus which lay side by side with them in the red cave earth. In no race of men have such teeth ever been seen except in the Neanderthal species. And yet not a trace of the culture of palaeolithic man has been discovered hitherto, either in Ghar Dalam or any part of Malta.

Most of the land on which he lived lies deep in the floor of the Mediterranean. The teeth of Neolithic man differ altogether from the Neanderthal molars. Both molars belonged to the same young man.

Rolled pieces of the fossil bones of three extinct species of elephant and of two hippopotamus. The bone breccia, which varies in thickness from 2½ to 3½ feet and extends along the whole length of the floor of the cave, is made up chiefly of rolled fossil bones. They represent hippopotamus and elephant by the thousand.
