A great business is going on this year in the importation of iron from Africa for use in American manufactures. The Philadelphia Times says that the great reason for preferring African iron to native ore is, of course its cheapness, but it has the further advantage of being remarkably free from phosphorus. This ore has been imported to some extent for two or three years, but never in such quantities as now—one authority estimating that two hundred thousand tons will be shipped to New York this year, and half as much to Philadelphia, the latter for use at the iron works Bethlehem and Johnston and by the Pennsylvania Steel Company. Another notable feature in the iron trade is the importation of Bessemer pig, of which forty-five thousand tons are known to be under contract for the United States. There have been no importations of this sort before since 1873, and the fact that they are starting up again now furnishes another illustration of the improvement in business.
EXORBITANT EXPORTS FROM NEW YORK
New York in one week, has exported nearly $10,000,000 worth of goods, mainly agricultural produce, and including the following—
36,882 barrels wheat flour, 3,499,901 bushels wheat, 108,809 bushels rye, 831,653 bushels corn, 17,349 bales cotton, 3,299 bales wool, 3,251,883 gallons petroleum, 7,640 barrels pork, 1,646 barrels beef, 747 tierces beef, 7,927,588 pounds oat meal, 752,008 pounds butter, 1,042,215 pounds cheese, 4,082,702 pounds lard, 1,257,473 pounds tallow, 3,464 hogsheads tobacco, and 127,876 pounds manufactured tobacco.

I remember all, nor with eyes quite dry, Nor with breast unbentured with doubts and fears, As here by the church at the cross-roads I Stand once again after many years, For it seems to silently question me Of my wandering since I left its fold, And I look beyond it, and almost see The veil from my future life unrolled.

A Wilful Woman.
"If you don't take compassion on such a devoted lover, and one who is so good and worthy of you as Mr. Crichton, all I can say is this," said Mrs. Hinzman, with much emphasis, as she was leading up to a crushing crisis, "I shall have no patience with you, and shall think you are acting very foolishly."
The person addressed gave a little laugh, which sounded unconvincing, although for the last half-hour she had been assailed by arguments on the above subject, some a good deal of the line of application, others undeniably true.
"Yes, you may laugh," said Mrs. Hinzman, resuming the charge after a moment's pause, "but I can tell you one thing; this life you are leading is by no means improving. I do not say it has hurt you yet, although goodness knows the heads of many would have been turned by all the admiration and running after you have had. But what is to become of it all that is what I look for. It can not last forever, and it will be a wonder if you are not spoiled for a married life, or a single one either, soon. Now, as Mr. Crichton's wife—"
"It has not been proved yet that Mr. Crichton desires to have me at all in that capacity," said Mrs. Graham, with another little laugh. And if it were, my own inclination goes for something in the matter, I suppose."
"Your own inclination ought to be for what is good for you," said Mrs. Hinzman, sententiously.
"Sarasparilla? brimstone and treacle? What is it you give your children in the spring. Emily, especially the naughty ones?"
"Yes, that is just what you are like—a very naughty child—and you ought to know better at your age. And so, I hope, you will," concluded Mrs. Hinzman, shaking her head as if her friend, as she rose from her writing table.
"Friends tried and true they were, since their school fellow days, some dozen years ago. Mrs. Hinzman had soon married and settled down to household cares and periodical babies. Alberta Graham, beautiful, clever, and attractive in all ways had, on the contrary, taken her full pleasure out of life, and now at thirty was better-looking than she had been at twenty; and what was to be expected, considerably more willful. Like the Lady of the Loes, she had objected to the thrall of marriage, although, like that ill-fated dame, she had had almost unnumbered suitors. Whether her heart had been always as untouched as had appeared, it would be impertinent here to enquire, since the matter has nothing to do with the present history. If one might hazard a conjecture, it probably had not, being warm by nature, however much being kept in check by strength of will.
About a month ago she had come on a visit to her friend, Emily Hinzman, who lived in a pretty country house in the heart of rural solitude in the west of England. Welsh hills formed the barrier on one side, but here the land was rather flat than otherwise, with billowy mountains rising here and there, and long low meadows that now were green with May's low sweet gnatery, were many interspersed

Poetry.
The Church at the Cross-Roads.
There it stands, as of old, where the gray roads cross,
The meeting-place of my boyhood's days,
Half-forgotten now, and at seeming loss,
For the vanished hours of love and praise,
When the teams were tied to the elm-tree posts,
And there came, in couples and household bands,
The congregations of simple souls,
As if beckoned thither by ghostly hands.
I remember the preacher with form low-bent,
With his beautiful eyes and snow-white hair,
Like songful swallows of kindly seed,
And his saintly smile, like a voiceless prayer:
I remember the sexton, who used to make
The slow through setting among the pews;
The whispered greetings, the notes and amens,
The wave of his hand so eloquent,
And his simple sermons, devout of art,
Upon Christian duties and Christian love,
The simple sermons, devout of art,
Upon Christian duties and Christian love,
The simple sermons, devout of art,
Upon Christian duties and Christian love,

For the vanished hours of love and praise,
When the teams were tied to the elm-tree posts,
And there came, in couples and household bands,
The congregations of simple souls,
As if beckoned thither by ghostly hands.
I remember the preacher with form low-bent,
With his beautiful eyes and snow-white hair,
Like songful swallows of kindly seed,
And his saintly smile, like a voiceless prayer:
I remember the sexton, who used to make
The slow through setting among the pews;
The whispered greetings, the notes and amens,
The wave of his hand so eloquent,
And his simple sermons, devout of art,
Upon Christian duties and Christian love,
The simple sermons, devout of art,
Upon Christian duties and Christian love,
The simple sermons, devout of art,
Upon Christian duties and Christian love,

BRIDGETOWN, SEPTEMBER 24, 1879.

AFGHANISTAN.

The massacre of the English embassy at Kabul has started the civilized world. It is an act of atrocity which could only be perpetrated by barbarians.

It was supposed the Afghans, awed by the prestige and power of British valor, had become the avowed allies of Queen Victoria's empire; that in all time to come there would be no necessity for a further resort to arms to perpetuate their neutrality, if not their active support; and that Russia's path way of prospective invasion, in the direction of India, was effectually blocked.

There can be little doubt that the murderous outrage committed on the British embassy at Kabul may be legitimately attributed to Russian intrigue and instigation. The ignorance and traditional prejudices entertained toward Great Britain by the Afghan people, are such that they may be easily aroused, inflamed and incited by the machinations of a cunning and unscrupulous instigator, to rush into the perpetration of any such execrable deed as that to which we referred in the opening paragraph of this article.

Russia vindictively remembers the results of the Crimean war, by which she was humiliated, and her prestige clouded, a quarter of a century ago; nor has she forgotten how Great Britain thwarted her recent attempt at conquest south of the Danube. To carry out the spirit of her clamorously concealed purpose of revenge, she is ready to resort to any means, fair or foul, to mar Great Britain's interests. No doubt we repeat, Russia's vindictive spirit of intrigue has had much to do with the late atrocity at Kabul.

In truth Russia may be regarded as a dangerous disturber of the world's peace. General tranquility had prevailed in Europe for forty years, when the Czar, with predatory designs, and a lust for the enlargement of territory, descended upon feeble Turkey twenty five years ago with a military force which he deemed irresistible. A continent's quietude was thus outrageously disturbed. The doors of the temple of Janus, long closed, were thus thrown wide open.

Pathway Extension.

Ever since the late Hon. Joseph Howe—first through the Press, and afterwards in our Provincial Parliament—propounded the feasibility and prospective advantages of a railroad between Halifax and Windsor, antagonisms, arising from different quarters and in various shapes, have been arrayed against the opening of this kind of public thoroughfares. Sometimes opposition to locomotion by railway in our Province has been honestly based on a false belief that the country was too poor—its finances too circumscribed—to construct such costly roads; and sometimes they were opposed on mere political grounds. In some instances, ignorance—and in others, party prejudice—assumed an attitude of hostility against them. Years, however, have rolled away; Mr. Howe, whatever may have been his merits or his faults, is in his grave, and the "iron horse" is now traversing more than four hundred and eighty miles of railway in Nova Scotia.

Last Thursday part of the Eastern Extension line was opened between New Glasgow and Antigonish, a distance of forty miles. For several years the Counties of Guysborough and Antigonish have been loudly and righteously clamoring for railway extension from Pictou to the Gut of Canso. Next year, no doubt, that entire line will be completed.

Moreover, not many weeks will elapse before the Western Counties' Railway will be opened for freight, and travel between Yarmouth and Digby, a distance of eighty miles, and probably next Autumn it will be opened from the latter town to Annapolis Royal, then there will be unbroken railway accommodation from the extreme West to the farthest East of "Nova Scotia Proper"; and the same facilities cannot long be withheld from the appended Island of Cape Breton.

It is now ten years since the Windsor and Annapolis railway was completed, and made available for freight and travel. The public benefits and advantages that have been derived from it, are incalculable; and we are therefore in a position to congratulate our sister Counties, east and west, on the propitious inauguration of a new era in their progress and prosperity.

The Tea Meeting at Centreville to-morrow afternoon promises to be an enjoyable affair.

—The Zulus (those who lose) cannot win.

—Potatoes are selling for only 90 cents a barrel in St. John.

—The wreck of the steamer "State of Virginia" was sold last week for $105.

—The fires of party politics are blazing high in the Province of Quebec just now.

—A commercial New York paper says: "There is a revival of business all along the line."

—Several Governors of the United States have accepted invitations to be present at the Dominion Exhibition at Ottawa.

—Who is going to the Sociable at Paradise to-night? We understand that few good-looking people intend to be absent.

Boston, Sept. 17.—Five persons were burned to death, and several severely injured, at a fire in South Boston to-night.

—The schr. "Ivica," Capt. Long mire, collided with the barque "Le Penon" in St. John Harbor on the 10th inst. The former vessel had her main-top-mast and mainsail injured.

—The proprietor of a retail establishment in Halifax advertises—"cheap as usual." The announcement may not be a very successful inducement to buy.

—A converted Jew, the son of a Hebrew Rabbi, has been lecturing in Halifax on his own nationality. The papers say his lectures were edifying and instructive.

Good FOR NOVA SCOTIA.—The Nova Scotia Team has again won the London Merchant's cup and $80 at the Dominion Rifle Competition, which concluded on the 20th inst. This is the second time Nova Scotia has won this prize.

Curse.—The party who borrowed the team hitched in Buckle's yard on Sunday night last—and never returned it until about three hours after, ought to start a brass foundry and cut himself up for the raw material.

—The establishment of a sugar refinery in Halifax seems to be no longer a speculative myth, but a reality to be developed in the near future. Those who have the enterprise in hand appear to mean business.

—A day or two ago nearly a bushel of rosy cheeked peaches was plucked from a tree in Mr. A. M. Gidney's garden. William Miller, Esq., of Clarence, we learn, has also a peach tree which exhibits a prolific fruitage.

—I wish I were you about two hours, she said to her husband, with great tenderness. "And why, y' dear?" "Because," she said, toying affectionately with his watch chain, "because then I would buy my wife a new bonnet."

—A letter from Sandy Cove, Digby Neck, received by a gentleman in this town, gives information that St. Mary's Bay is swarming with mackerel of good quality. Two hundred barrels of number two's had been taken in a weir near Sandy Cove.

—During the thunder storm which passed over this part of the County on the 8th inst., the electric fluid passed down the chimney of John O'Neal's house, not far from Lorne, and killed a dog that was sleeping under a store. The family, though much frightened, were unhurt.

—A correspondent wishes to know whether Warren Smith, the conquering orsman, is a relative of the ubiquitous John Smith. We are not prepared to say precisely; but we believe John has quite a number of family relations in various parts of the world, who will be proud of Warren for the name's sake.

A "Good Old Nigger."—We clip the following from the Boston Herald: "Last Sunday Rev. Mr. Ross of the Webster Street Baptist Church of New Haven received into his church, by letter, a colored man, said to be 108 years of age. He said that he had been a church member for 80 years, and has children 80 years old. The pastor says he does not doubt the man's veracity."

—We learn that the excitement caused by the discovery of gold in Queen's County is becoming daily more intensified. If present hopes be realized, the industrial portion of the people in our sister County will have something profitable to do, though the lumbering business fail. Long after the last pine tree shall have been cut down, mineral wealth, now imbedded in the rocks, may be quarried with remunerative results.

—In a bee-line Halifax is not more than ninety miles from Bridgetown. On last Wednesday afternoon in this town there was a continuous stiff breeze, which about four o'clock abated into quite a gale, and did not abate till after dark. Nobody here thought that the Smith-Morris race could possibly come off at the time. It appears, however, that the Rev. Mr. Bavin then was comparatively calm, and that about sundown the rowers started on their race.

—The barque "James Stafford" arrived in New York on the 14th inst.

—Report of Sunday School Convention arrived too late for insertion in this issue, will appear in our next.

—Soloman Drow has been appointed assignee of Pomeroy & Ballantyne, Nictaux Falls, Annapolis County.

WILMOT, Sept. 20.—We the Live Oak B. C. of Wilmot, hereby challenge any nine under 16 years of age in Nova Scotia to play a game at base ball on our grounds at Wilmot.

SAD AFFAIR.—Mr. Montgomery died very suddenly at Lawrenceton on Monday morning. He was about leaving on a journey and was in his wagon ready to start, when he recollected something he had forgotten he required to take with him, and he died in a few moments. Heart disease was the cause.

Trickett, of Australia, the champion sculler of the world, offers to row Hanlan for £2000 a side, barring expenses, but the latter says he will not hedge from his original challenge of £2000 a side and he to be allowed £300 for expenses if he goes to Australia, or Trickett be allowed $1000 for expenses, if the race be rowed in Canada.

The following bit of practical wisdom is from a popular divine. "Heaven is not populated with singing thieves, or palm bearing bankrupts, or tricksters who are content with twenty-five cents on the dollar Wednesday and ride to church the next Sabbath in a thousand dollar coach, with a man in livery on the box."

ANOTHER CHANGE IN RUNNING OF STEAMER.—On and after to-day, and until further notice the Steamer "Empress" will leave St. John for Annapolis every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday on arrival of express train. The International Steamers will leave St. John every Monday, and Thursday at 8 a. m., for Eastport, Portland and Boston.

A hymenal affair came off in this town on Thursday last in St. James' Church, which was crowded with people to see the happy pair made one who started immediately on their bridal tour. Wreaths, decorations and congratulations indicated the good wishes of their friends. Beckwith, in a very short time, gaily garlanded, was in requisition. It is just the season for an enjoyable honeymoon. May its pleasures be life long.

—If any of our subscribers have an old stove to pieces, smashed up old fashioned "beaver," or silk hat which they wish made into the present style and as good as new, we are prepared to buy them, in which we are now preserved the wax and wooden edgels of several of our kings and queens that have been used in the west. We should be glad to buy the same if they are in the same rank of wondrous as that they assigned to the lions in the Tower. One side of the chimney is being viewed. The cases are ranged round the four sides, however, and one, raised on a pedestal, is being viewed. It does not represent the beautiful being we might picture as the fair vestal throned in the west, but the aged lady who became at the close of her long reign, wrinkled and thin, dressed too in broad silk, with jewelry and a high heeled shoe. Edgels of the Duchess of Buckingham and her son are also preserved, and a slight search will identify as the royal ladies, made evidences of the consideration enjoyed by them. Standing near the monument of King Charles the II. It is erect and life-like. In a closet, by the side of the case that contains the bust of Queen Anne, are placed several undisturbed figures made of wood, stripped for the most part, of their clothes, although in two or more instances still possessing a fragment of the garments with which they were originally clothed. In one of these instances the fragment in question is a necktie, but no indication of a gilded crown. It has been suggested that this effigy may have represented the custom of a monarch who was possibly established this supposition as a fact, though it is believed that effigies were first used at the funeral of Henry V. Previously, the kings themselves were shown to the people in their Royal attire; but as that monarch died at Vincennes, this custom was necessarily abandoned; and on the arrival of the procession that accompanied his remains from Paris, an effigy was placed on the funeral car, which was followed up to the altar.

DEBT COUNTY BONDS.—A correspondent writing to the Digby Courier says:—"It is questioned whether the Hon. J. H. G. of the County, acting on the authority of an Act passed by the Legislature last session, has not accepted an offer to purchase the bonds of 87 cents on the dollar for $52,000 of 36 per cent. county bonds, the proceeds to be appropriated in relieving the 10 years loan to be repaid some two years ago. If this policy be pursued the county would lose about $2000. He thinks that they should be prudently disposed of in Nova Scotia, and advises the officials to be careful and not move too quickly in the matter."

SAID DEATH.—A gentleman, from St. John, named Mr. John F. Lloyd, with his wife and daughter, spent a few days in this town a week or so back, and was on his return home per "Empress," when he was unfortunately killed and died a few minutes after the attack. His lady noticed him standing near the bow of the steamer looking very unwell, and she called to him, and he tried to help him to his stateroom, but before the room could be reached Mr. Lloyd was no more. Heart disease is thought to be the cause.

Provincial Exhibition. We would direct the attention of the public to the following arrangements made by the W. & A. Railway, in connection with the Provincial Agricultural Exhibition at Halifax. Live stock and articles for exhibition will be carried at the ordinary rates to Windsor, and will be returned free if they remain the property of the original owner. They have to be forwarded on Monday 29th Sept., by a special train, which will leave Annapolis at 5 a. m., and arrive at Windsor at 9.30 a. m., whence they will be forwarded to Halifax, through excursion tickets at special cheap fares will be issued at all stations to Windsor, good by any train, and available to return up till Monday 6th October. The fare from Bridgetown is $3.75. On Thursday 2nd Oct., the usual freight train will run; but a special passenger train will leave Annapolis at 6 a. m. and arrive at Halifax at 11.30 a. m. The train will leave Halifax at 6 p. m., and run through to Windsor, and will be returned to Annapolis, thus giving excursionists the option of visiting town, seeing the exhibition and races, and returning home on the same day. On Friday 3rd October, a passenger and freight train will leave Annapolis for Windsor at 6.15 a. m., in lieu of the train cancelled on the preceding day. Altogether these arrangements seem well calculated to accommodate the public, who would be largely availed themselves of the facilities thus offered for seeing what will be the finest agricultural exhibition ever held in the maritime provinces.

Correspondence.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our correspondents.

[For the "Monitor." An Inquiry.]

Mr. Editor, I have been living for many years in this out-of-the-way place, and know little of that is transpiring in the busy world. But I have a question to ask you, in connection with the Halifax printing offices; and every now and then he sends me quite a package of newspapers. I must confess, however, which I do not understand. Of course I am desirous of learning what are to be considered the most important interests and movements in our country's capital—what causes popular excitement, and commands public consideration and patronage. The most prominent matters before the public, according to the space they occupy in the newspapers, are: horse-racing, yacht-sailing, target-firing, cricketing and baseball. These enterprises, whatever they are, seem to take precedence of every other public consideration. Of their aim, scope and utility, I know nothing; but from what I have seen in the papers, I am convinced that they are important elements in the well-being of the Province—that they are conducive to wealth—that their tendency is to promote mental enlightenment, to uphold the cause of education, to strengthen morality, to minister to the interests of religion and education; and that by the agency of the means referred to, the permanent prosperity of the country will be advanced, and the people become better, wiser, wealthier and happier. At least, they must be greatly improved, if we are to be considered a civilized people. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, J. BISHWACKER. Springfield, Sept. 20.

THE MRS. MARRIED REY, STEADMAN—His ADMISION ON THE STAND.—A FOX CROFT, Me., despatch of September 12th says: This afternoon Steadman admitted on the stand in the post office. The name of the bogus despatch from Bath to Foxcroft, announcing the accident and death of his first wife. He also admitted that he was married to Rachel M. Smith, at New Brunswick, in 1875, and is the father of her children. He claims that previous to that time he had been married to Georgia Ellen Campbell, who, he says, he believed to be dead. He subsequently married Smith; that he found his first wife Georgia four years afterwards, and then abandoned Rachel, and that he loved Georgia until she died in 1875, before he married Miss Grey in February. The trial of "Rev." Steadman is exciting much interest at Dover, Maine, and is taking place before a witness from the Maritime Provinces are present.

The Hyde Estate Heirs.—RECOMMENDED BY THE AGENT.—A TELL IN THE FROM THE St. John Daily Star, Sept. 17th.

Up to a very short time ago the Halifax and St. John Committees who had in hand the matter of investigating the claims of a number of heirs to this large estate in England, said to be £50,000,000 sterling, had every confidence in their agent, Mr. Hancock, whom they sent to London to search records, etc. and it was thought generally that much progress had been made towards the desired end. But unsatisfactory letters from the agent, by recent mails, have changed their hopes, and it is rumored that the point aimed at is as far off as ever. Mr. Hancock was employed by the committee some time last year, and was commissioned in the interests above stated to proceed to London. He was supplied with copies of documents, such as Hyde's commission, etc., and he had a goodly sum of money with which to prosecute the search. His object was to accomplish two points and then return to Halifax and commence work in this matter. The first point was to ascertain from the Lords of the Treasury if the money was there, and to ascertain at Plymouth if Hyde's commission was on record. He appears to have got an affirmative answer to these questions, but afterwards made some excuse for not returning to Halifax, and some time no word was received from him and the committee thought he was dead. However after a lapse of some time several letters were received, but they failed to give any idea what he was about, contained no information concerning the matter in question, he apparently knowing nothing to impart, or else, as is more generally believed, withholding what he did know, hoping to make "better terms" with the committee. Each letter, however, called loudly for more "urgent" more "urgent," that he was destitute and almost driven to the streets. During last spring, rumor had it among the heirs that he had taken a contract and had fallen at one time into the hands of the police. The correctness of this report is "wondered" by many. At this last time a St. John gentleman, who was in London by request, looked up Hancock. Finding him to be rather a respectable person, and after hearing the story of his trials he gave him £10, and, it is said, other sums smaller in amount. Lately a report of his success was forwarded to Halifax, but before the committee could obtain possession of it they had to fork out the round sum of £30. This amount was made up, and after the report was examined it was not considered worth the price of an ordinary newspaper. It appears to have dealt with any topic but the one at stake. A later epistle from the agent stated that he will come out if his passage is paid and £25 more forwarded to him to defray his expenses. This the committee decidedly refuse to do, and, in consequence, the negotiations of the tricky agents of their agent. One of the committee informed a "Sun" reporter yesterday that he considered the whole proceeding a fraud, and that he had some hundreds of dollars had been expended and much time wasted for no return whatever. The committee propose to issue a circular, frankly telling the result of their inquiry and calling for more aid to prosecute the investigation with renewed vigor, and it is to be hoped, more satisfactorily. The committee have abandoned Hancock entirely. It is believed that Mr. John L. Harris, of Moncton, one of the heirs, will proceed immediately to London and endeavor to work the matter up with the assistance of a first-class lawyer there. Hancock produced good credentials at the time he was appointed, and secured, if not a full heir to the estate and guaranteed $500 each, to bring the matter to a focus. It is said that he has been largely overpaid this amount.

SMITH VICTORIOUS AGAIN. The two carsmen started quickly. Smith got the water first, but with a light stroke, while Morris, starting a second or two later put more force into his oars and took the lead. Smith rowed about 30 to the minute, Morris 24. As they approached the turning boys both men endeavored to work to the Westward. Morris, having got his bow in line with his buoy, steered a straight course for it. Smith's bow was several points further in and some of his friends feared that he had got astray, but a moment later it was seen that, as it came with Ross, he was making a wide turn to enable him to keep his boat un-checked. Morris made a closer turn. The two men had made a gallant struggle for the turn and their movements were anxiously watched by thousands, as the turn would settle the disputed question as to who had the lead. Smith seemed to have an advantage to boast of. The race, it was seen, was now a very close one and the result was regarded as doubtful by some, but not by Morris' friends, whose ideas of the situation were made clear by one of them (Kennedy) who, at this stage, offered an even bet of $100 that Morris would win. The bet was taken. Morris' party thought that Smith could not keep up the pace, and that now their man had the lead in his hands. This was a grand mistake. They thought that Morris was wearing out Smith, when the fact was that the American was wearing himself out, while his opponent had a good reserve of power. The error was discovered a couple of minutes later, when Smith was found to be drawing away from Morris, despite the desperate efforts of the latter to get the lead. Smith allowed his opponent to get even, but was always ready to resume the lead. The British had stopped short of the turning buoy, and was now returning. As the carsmen passed her they were even. Here a great cheer encouraged Smith to push on, and he promptly responded by shooting ahead in a style that showed he had the race in his hands. Morris had fallen to 28 strokes, and was occasionally splashing. Smith held the lead easily, and finally went over into his opponent's water, and crossed the line three lengths ahead, amid such cheers as Halliganites know how to give the victor in a boat race. The time of the race was 21m. 50s., which was very good, considering the wind and water.—Chronicle.

At the regatta at Norwich, Conn., Sept. 16th, the race for professional single sculls was contested by George Lee, Wallace Ross, and Alexander Bray. From the start it was evident the race lay between Ross and Lee. Ross turned stake boat first and the two shells came down the course nearly abreast, but just before the finish Lee shot ahead and won by two seconds, in 20.20. Ross crossed in 20.22. Bray finished third.

ELLIOTT CHALLENGES BARLOR AGAIN. Elliott has deposited fifty pounds at the Sportsman office, as required by the conditions of the Sportsman cup, desiring the announcement that he challenges Barlor to now over the water, on the 21st inst. The editor of the Sportsman has written Barlor to accept the challenge. Elliott also offered a £200 prize for the winner of the race, on the Thames or Tyne course, for 200 pounds a side. This challenge surprised Barlor very much, but he will have to accept. Several witnesses reported the second or third week in January.

TELEGRAPH NOTES FOR THE WEEK. One block and a half of another were burned last night, including two hotels, one bank, one printing office and one elevator. Loss, $100,000. Ottawa, Sept. 18.—Several persons proposed starting from this section to the Nova Scotia gold fields. Memphis, Sept. 17.—19 new cases of fever are reported to-day, twelve white and seven colored. One additional death is reported, that of a colored man, Dan Sullivan, a well-known steamboat clerk, died this afternoon. St. Louis, Sept. 15.—Notwithstanding the long negotiations, Gen. Stewart has, in accordance with instructions from the Victory, despatched a division of troops with heavy artillery from Candahar, in the district of Ghuzni, to maintain that vicinity. Sir Garnet Wolseley telegraphs from South Africa that all the important military chiefs have now submitted to the British authorities. A great fire broke out on Tuesday last in the town of Ekaterinodar, in Southern Russia. Damage by the fire, the cattle plague having appeared in Russian Poland, Germany has forbidden the importation across the frontier of live animals, and Austria, a special from Winnipeg says advice from Wood Mountain report a fight between Indians, who crossed the line after buffalo, and U. S. soldiers. Nine Indians were killed, and three Americans and two chiefs wounded. Washington, Sept. 18.—Information from Grant county, New Mexico, is to the effect that the Indians are committing horrible atrocities in that section.

A NEW WAY TO TREAT DIPHTHERIA.—Quite a discovery in the treatment of diphtheria has been made here. A young man whose arm had been amputated was attacked by diphtheria before healing took place; and instead of the matter incident to that disease being deposited in the throat, the greater portion appeared on the wound and arm, and the diphtheria was very light and easily managed. Dr. Davis, of Mankato, profited by this, and in his next case of diphtheria blistered his patient's chest, and on this blistered part the chief deposits appeared. This was also an easy case of the disease. The theory of Dr. Davis is that diphtheria usually appears in the throat because of the fitness of the lining of the throat. Hence, when the blister breaks the skin upon any other part of the body, the disease appears there.—MINNESOTA LETTER TO THE SALER (MASS.) GAZETTE.

POSTAL REFORM.—By a recent departmental order, a great reduction has been effected in the rate of postage on letters, and the rate of postage on newspapers, per four ounces, or fraction of four ounces is the new rate. Spectacles and eye glasses, formerly excluded from the mails, may now be sent if securely done up, and circulars written by electric pen, papyrus, or other process, go as printed, engraved or lithographed matter has hitherto passed.

A final assembly of the great chiefs, councillors and people of Zululand was to be held at Ulundi to-day, when terms of peace were to be proclaimed."

NOVA SCOTIA. LUNenburg, Sept. 19.—A sudden death occurred here this morning under peculiar circumstances. A young girl, about 14 years old, named Elizabeth, was accused on Tuesday last of stealing a sum of money, about one hundred dollars, from a lady who employed her as a sewing girl. The accusation evidently preyed upon her mind and health, and she died suddenly this morning. She protested her innocence to the last. An inquest was held this afternoon before Coroner Jost. Medical evidence indicated as the cause of death paralysis of the heart, induced probably by strong excitement. A verdict was rendered in accordance.

THE MECHANICS' BANK. MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—To-day, upon petition of A. O. Weaver, the Mechanics' Bank consented to go into insolvency. The result was addressed to the directors of the bank. This causes some dissatisfaction, it being alleged that the object is to hide some rather doubtful transactions under the old regime. All several directors, still on the Board, are considered responsible.

A NEW INDUSTRY IN SCOTLAND.—It has recently been very successfully demonstrated that the best quality of steel can be manufactured from Scotch pig-iron, as the Parkhead Forge proprietors have made a great deal of money by this extraordinary result. Four months ago, when the collapse of the Scotch iron trade was deemed certain in consequence of the great depression of steel and other things evasive of the Scotch iron trade, it was deemed expedient that the iron masters of the district should attempt the same regime as their southern brethren. Amongst the first to do so was Parkhead, and in the beginning of May last, operations were commenced. Three furnaces have since been erected, and several casts have been made with the greatest success within that almost unprecedented time. The steel is of the best quality, and of the most pliable nature, yielding easily to the hammer, and bends like a piece of tin without showing the slightest fracture. The new industry will give employment to a great many hands.

PARADE.—Mr. Silas R. Lantz, of Paradise, has lately purchased in his mill a new rotary saw and carriage, manufactured by the Lane Manufacturing Co., Montpelier, Vt., which enables him to manufacture a much larger quantity and better class of lumber than heretofore. Two large cargoes of lumber have been shipped from Mr. Lantz' mill this season, and there will be still larger supplies manufactured ready for shipment this fall.
