CONVICTS MUTINY AT PENITENTIARY

Serious Aftermath to Attempted Jail Delivery, Thru Bomb, at Kingston—Hundreds of Prisoners Are "on Strike"—Uproar Is Heard on Streets on Thanksgiving Day Afternoon.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 18.—(By Canadian Press.)—As a startling aftermath to the attempted general jail delivery at the Portsmouth penitentiary, which was published exclusively in The Standard last week, between 150 and 200 convicts at the penitentiary on Saturday went on strike and since then have absolutely refused to work. Late on Saturday the construction gang, known as the "stonepile" gang, and the tailor shop gang, refused absolutely to work and were locked in their cells. All Saturday night and most of yesterday they kept up an uproar, hollering and shouting and hammering on their cell doors with their eating utensils. The ring-leaders of the gangs were locked up in separate places, but the uproar continued and could be heard throughout the city.

COMMODITY PRICES STILL ON TOBOSGAN

Fifty-Five Declines Against Twenty-Two Advances in Week.

New York, Oct. 18.—Although the downward trend of wholesale commodity prices met with rather more resistance last week, and while the changes were relatively less important, the readjustment to a lower basis nevertheless continued strongly in evidence. 55 declines appearing in the list of quotations compiled by Dun's Review, as against 22 advances. The grain markets were again featured by considerable irregularity, but there was some recovery in prices, wheat, rye, and barley disclosing more or less improvement in response to a fair foreign inquiry and reports that farmers were refusing to sell at prevailing levels. Corn, however, was comparatively weak, owing to the practical assurance of a record-breaking crop.

In dairy products, butter was depressed by larger receipts, whereas a short supply strengthened the best grades of eggs. Live meats moved within an unusually narrow range, demand and arrivals about offsetting each other, and the net result was a slight easing in beef and a moderate rise in hogs and sheep. Provisions tended generally upward, the weather favoring an increased movement into consumption. Although few important reductions have been named in iron and steel, the undertone of the markets is distinctly easier, with some concessions offered to induce the placing of new business, and yielding in the minor metals has been something of a feature. The depression in cotton goods continues sharply in evidence, while similar conditions persist in hides and leather.

HARDING ASKED BY HIS FRIENDS?

United States lead the way to a world "fraternity." Neither officials at the White House nor at the state department would comment on the nature of the inquiry referred to the French government. It was understood, however, that the note was transmitted by the state department to the French embassy in Paris. At the French embassy it was stated that no such communication had been received there for transmission.

Secretary Tamm said that no reply had been received by the White House either from Senator Harding or from the French government up to this hour.

Harding Makes Reply. Marion, Ohio, Oct. 18.—Replying to an inquiry from President Wilson, Senator Harding wrote the White House today that since France had sent her "spokesman" to him informally asking the United States to lead the way for an association of nations, the incident had not involved the French government in any violation of international proprieties. The senator declared that in his reference to the French government through Green Castle, Ind., recently he only had sought to convey the thoughts that there had come to him "those who spoke a sentiment which they represented to be very manifest among the French people." He added that his words "could not be construed to say that the French government had sent anybody to me."

Referring to Mr. Wilson's suggestion of impropriety in a foreign nation approaching a "private citizen" on such a subject, Senator Harding pointed out that he is a member of the foreign relations committee as well as a nominee for the presidency and suggested that "an informal expression to me is rather more than to a private citizen."

Parliament's Decorators Affected by New York Strike

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—The Building Trades Council at a meeting tonight refused to take action in regard to the disagreement that has arisen between the Newark firm, who have the contract to decorate the common chamber, and five or six of their employees, who have been on strike for some time. These men walked out in sympathy with the painters because the demands of decorators working for the same firm in New York City were on strike. The council decided that they could take no action unless non-union painters were set to work by the contractors. It is a matter that the Painters' International Union alone is interested in at present.

ARE THEY MEMBERS OF THE BAG GANG?

Two juveniles, both 14 years of age, were arrested by P.C. Carter on a charge of snopbreaking. While the specific charge against the trio is that breaking into the Quaker Candy Works and stealing a quantity of candy, it is understood that seven additional charges of shop and house breaking will be preferred against them when they appear in court this morning.

Both lads, it is stated, admit that they were members of the gang whose other members were arrested on Sunday night by Detectives Winters and Walsh. When arrested one of the lads had a loaded revolver in his possession. The revolver he admitted stealing from one of the places burglarized.

The largest part of the stolen property has been recovered by the police. Accompanied by Detective Black, one of the juveniles went to the old car barns, River and Queen streets, where he showed the officer the place the stolen goods had been cached by the gang.

BUILDING IN U.S. SHOWS DECLINE

Permits in September Lowest for Any Month This Year.

New York, Oct. 18.—Statistical evidence of industrial reaction again appears in the returns of building permits issued at the country's leading centres, the September total of $2,615,655 for 103 cities representing the low point of the present year. The permits granted last month, which are exclusive of those for alterations and repairs, involved a considerably smaller estimated expenditure than was the case in August, when nearly $31,000,000 was recorded at 101 centres, and they mark the fifth consecutive month of reduction. Comparison with the $128,725,602 of September, 1919, discloses practically a 38 per cent. decrease, and there is a falling off of approximately that much at points outside of New York city. Among the cities revealing especially large losses are included Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Philadelphia, while in Great New York a contraction of virtually 38 per cent. is noted.

The deferring of many contemplated construction undertakings is still attributed mainly to the difficulty of securing financial accommodation and to the high cost of labor and materials, altho prices of some of the latter have recently experienced yielding.

HAMILTON

Hamilton, Oct. 18.—According to the accident reports, gathered by the police, a little girl has resulted from the no accident week, which has not been waged here so far as motorists are concerned. During the week forty accidents, the majority of which could have been avoided, were reported at the central police station alone, with several others registered at the east end station.

Damage to the amount of several thousand dollars was caused by a fire which broke out at the Cereal Company, Equator Manufacturing Company, and the Hamilton Lamp Company factories at an unknown cause in the Hamilton Lamp Company's plant, and spread to the other factories before being discovered, with the result that considerable difficulty was experienced by the firemen in getting it under control.

While attempting to make an arrest in the foreign section of the city last evening Constable Bart Sharpe, narrowly escaped being mobbed by a gang and but for the interference of a friendly naturalized foreigner, would most likely have been severely handled.

Considerable damage was caused by a fire, which broke out at the Y.W.C.A., West Main street, at 8.40 this morning, as the result of an overheated electric motor, used in connection with a freight elevator.

ST. THOMAS MAN HIT BY UNKNOWN AUTOIST

St. Thomas, Ont., Oct. 18.—Albert Fraser is in a serious condition in the hospital here as a result of being hit by an automobile late this evening. U. S. BUSINESS FAILURES.

New York, Oct. 18.—Commercial failures this week in the United States, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., are 205 against 200 the previous week, 171 in the preceding week, and 118 the corresponding week last year.

DISLOCATION OF INDUSTRIES

Talk of mediation was still rife, and while there were no tangible developments along this line, railroad employees and the transport men appeared to be inclined not to take precipitate action, pending possible proposals from some source upon which the government and the miners could negotiate.

Progress Basis of Settlement. John Robert Clynes, former food controller, and one of the most moderate of the labor leaders, has expressed confidence a settlement was possible within a week, if both sides could be brought together to calmly discuss the merits of the controversy. He advocates as a basis of agreement the granting to the miners of half their demands, and the submission of the remainder to an impartial tribunal.

His profession prescribes the power of parliament to harmonize the differences between the government and the coal miners, which brought about the strike. J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, has also made moderate statements, and both these men are regarded as doing their utmost to shorten the strike.

A Significant Warning. Newspapers contrast the attitude of Clynes and Thomas with that of C. P. Cramp, president of the National Union of Railwaymen, who has given significant warning to members of that union, that if they do not accept the Dockworkers' Union, who in a speech yesterday, accused the government of having engineered the strike, and charged it with a "homework" without announcing its policy.

Some Favor Sympathetic Strike. While the national leaders as a whole are saying little, there are some of them who have declared in favor of a sympathetic strike, notably in Scotland and at Barry, Wales, an important coal depot.

The newspapers are making considerable of the fact that while the strike is completely effective there are considerable sections of the miners who entered it half-heartedly, not only because they were ordered to do so, but the West Yorkshire miners are among those who disapprove of the strike, altho declaring they will stand by the rest.

The miners of the vital South Wales coal fields represent the belligerent section of the strikers. The bulk of the strikers, however, are to be found here, and they are eager to carry the fight to the bitter end. With the shipping, steel and iron and other industries, which employ many thousands of men out of work in various parts of the country, it seems certain by the end of the week the total will be in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 unemployed, as numbers of factories will be able to operate only a short time without new stocks of coal.

Public Feeling Pinch. The general public already has begun to feel the effect of the restrictions on coal supplies for lighting and for heating. The strikers are today to find themselves faced with sharp fall weather, which demanded either fires or warmer clothing. If the cold snap continues, it is possible it will have an important effect upon the coal situation.

No disorders of any description have been reported since the general strike regarding the strike is entirely different than it was in 1912, when it intervened between owners and miners to settle the dispute. The government, as a result of the war, has been placed in the position of the directorate of the mining industry, the finances of which it controls, and it is consequently interested in the prosperity of the coal trade, which is yielding a large sum to the exchequer. It is maintained the government wholly supports the premier's intimated readiness to explore every device towards any movement toward the reopening of negotiations.

One effect of the coal strike upon financial London, has been the weakening of the pound sterling, which has dropped to $2.44 on buying orders to cover the actual and prospective coal shipments from the United States to Europe. The effect has already been seen on continental exchanges, all of which are showing a marked decline. The fact that Great Britain late last week, and which were again slightly weaker today.

ITALY SAFE FOR A WHILE. Rome, Oct. 18.—Italy will not feel any effects from the British coal strike before the end of November, as the government, in view of the possibility of the strike, accumulated reserves, which now approximate 1,100,000 tons. The fact has been announced it is prepared to supply coal to ocean-going steamers.

TIE IN THE FINAL FOR HERALD CUP

Hamilton, Oct. 18.—Westinghouse and Labor Party battled to a 2-2 tie in the final game for The Herald Cup, played here Thanksgiving morning. Close to two thousand spectators witnessed the contest. Owing to the fact that there was only one play wicket, the kick was delayed for 20 minutes to allow the crowd to see all the game. It was one of the most fiercely contested games ever seen on a local ground. "Calamities were frequent, but they were of a minor nature. Givlear opened the scoring when he made a fine goal for Westinghouse after 30 minutes play. Three minutes later Parker, taking a header, put the ball into the Westinghouse net for the equalizing goal. Shortly before the interval Labor Party jumped in front, again when, following a cross pass from the center, the scrimmage in the Westinghouse goal, McEwan accidentally kicked the ball into his own net. The Laborites were leading 2-1 at half-time.

Continuous Excitement. The second half was 45 minutes of almost continuous excitement. Altho Westinghouse had the better of the play, it looked as if the L.L.E. had the game tucked away, when 15 minutes from the end, Tiny Fomlo sent a short from the left wing, which Crompton, the Laborite goalie, misjudged and the ball twisted into the net. With the game tied, both teams battled hard for the leading goal, which never came full time being called shortly afterwards with the score two each. The line-up: Labor Party—Crompton, Burtonshaw, McLaughlin, Bell, Rodgers, Cooper, Parker, Wands, Dawson, Duncan and Ferguson.

SUGAR FROM SAWDUST.

The recent announcement that sugar can be produced from sawdust is true, but it will not help the housewife, for the kind of sugar which can be so produced is not the same kind as the ordinary "table sugar," the "beet sugar," or even the "beet sugar" of the breakfast table. It is glucose, an entirely different substance chemically, and will not help for a long time to come, if ever, to relieve the sugar famine.

SNAPPY GUELPH TEAM VICTORS OVER LABORITES

Hamilton, Oct. 18.—A basketful of goals were scored when a scratch team of Laborites played the Taylor-Forbes Guelph at Chapple Park in the afternoon, the visitors snatching a 6-4 victory from The Herald cup finalists. Considering the game was only an exhibition it was a snappy one, the Guelphites creating a favorable impression by their clever play. Despite the hostilities weather there was an attendance of over 300.

KING CRITICIZES FEDERAL FINANCES

Tells Audience Out West Unrest Due to Extravagant Methods.

Cranbrook, B.C., Oct. 18.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King spent Thanksgiving Day on the final lap of his tour thru British Columbia. He arrived here this evening and his party ate their Thanksgiving dinner as the guests of Hon. Dr. King, provincial minister of public works, and a number of prominent Liberals of the city who had gathered to honor the head of the Liberal party and his lieutenants.

At this evening's meeting Mr. King was supported by W. C. Kennedy, M.P. for North Essex, and E. A. Lapointe, M.P. for Quebec West. Criticizes Financial Policy. Mr. King confined himself to a criticism of the financial policy and methods of the present administration in Ottawa. He believed one of the causes of the present unrest was the sight of extravagance in national methods of government. He pointed to the fact that commissions without number are being appointed, and stated that during the present tour of British Columbia the sleeping car in which Mr. King and his party were traveling was often sandwiched between or hitched behind a long array of private cars carrying various government officials about the country at enormous expense to the taxpayers, who are looking for relief and not for additional burdens.

He made a vigorous attack on the methods which the government has been pursuing to raise revenue to meet unnecessary expenses, especially the luxury tax, which, he said, was simply a means to extort higher prices from the consumer in order to provide income tax free securities for enriched profiteers. Lapointe's Suggestion. Mr. Lapointe said it was the urgent duty of the government to establish a national budget to build up a tariff policy which would give protection to the consumer as well as the producer and to work out a better understanding between capital and labor. The present parliament, he said, had no mandate to settle these questions and its continuance was a breach of faith with the electors of the Dominion.

PARLIAMENTS DECORATORS

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—The Building Trades Council at a meeting tonight refused to take action in regard to the disagreement that has arisen between the Newark firm, who have the contract to decorate the common chamber, and five or six of their employees, who have been on strike for some time. These men walked out in sympathy with the painters because the demands of decorators working for the same firm in New York City were on strike. The council decided that they could take no action unless non-union painters were set to work by the contractors. It is a matter that the Painters' International Union alone is interested in at present.

RECLAMATION WORK ON THE ZUYDER ZEE

Isle Where Ex-Crown Prince Dwells Will One Day Join the Mainland.

London, Oct. 18.—The Morning Post's special correspondent writes from Holland: "Wieringen, where the ex-crown prince of Germany lives, has had some injustice done to it by literary expatriates of that lonely exile. From their descriptions you might suppose that, like notorious Marken, its rather desolate neighbor in the Zuider Zee, it is inhabited by fisher folk who live in houses set on poles and extract a livelihood from organized tourists brought to gaze at ancient costumes and faked antiquities. Nothing of the kind.

"I might have eased the afflictions of the journey to Wieringen by breaking it at Alkmaar. But Alkmaar was in the full blast of its kermesse, with that of Zaandam contributing raucous echoes; from what one saw, and more particularly heard, of both on the return route, start from Amsterdam at the comfortable morning hour of 5 o'clock may be judged the less painful adventure. The first train out for Zuyder Zee brings you to Schagen. There, after your simple steam train, packet boat and postman's gig, and reach the capital village, Hypolitusheof, for breakfast, about an hour short of noon.

Few fishermen on island. "Whatever discoveries the island has in store, among them certainly are not any fisher and peasant costumes or dwellings that suggest an existence made precarious by the devouring sea. "Most of the islanders live by tillage and cattle-raising. A few are fishermen. Some cultivate the seaweed, converting it into a filling for mattresses, on which some Englishfolk sleep without dream of the Wieringen deeps. In the island villages live those occupations, a handful of bureaucrats, and all who are maintained by the several services of church and state and the refreshment of the tourist's customary in a little Dutch commune.

"About one hour's walking from Hypolitusheof (so the Dutch reckon distance) is the smallest village of Oosterland, the single street of which, by the bend near the church and the cafe, the ex-crown prince lives. His house is the Pastorie—not a schieds. His neighbors are such folk as I have described. He has made good friends with them, and will play knuckle-bones with their children, who address him with a familiar contraction of 'high mightiness,' from which the awe of royalty has disappeared.

Vision From the Dyke. "The islanders all assume that the stranger is visiting their shores for this sensation, which for themselves is a sensation no longer. Even the stranger will find that the curiosity of Oosterland can minister to his curiosity has already been supplied him, more highly colored than in life, by a postcard window on the way thither.

"And now to discover the real romance of Wieringen. Walk back along its western dyke, opposite Eijkeluis, on the mainland, where a family of mail boat this morning. Facing you on the right is the Amstel Diep. On the three or four miles of sea between us and Eijkeluis a few dredgers are at work.

"Close in by the dyke, where operations of some kind are evident, is a collection of craft of sorts, and some of these and some vessels of the harbor as well have printed on them in great white letters 'Zuider Zee Werf.' In a word here, in this most fashionable fashion, has begun the draining of the Zuider Zee, in which undertaking Wieringen is to play so great a role.

"Without a map, which alone furnishes the eyes with understanding here, I despair of describing it. Holland, a matter of water rather than of land, can only be navigated by the chart. But perhaps you can visualize its configuration sufficiently to remember how, in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, the sea took two bites (a hundred years between them) of the mainland of the North Netherlands.

"It ate out the soft fenland, leaving the serrated coastline of the present Zuider Zee.

"As one of the many consequences, Amsterdam became a port, and her ships sailed thru this misty Diep by Tessel. When they became too big for this strait gate, the city constructed a North Holland canal, from which they could issue at Den Helder.

"We followed its course more or less to Schagen. Scarce was this canal finished than a greater was needed, and also we crossed the Y polders formed in the construction of the North Sea canal cut sheer to the North at Uvuiden. And finally (for my present purpose) this little island of Wieringen was left here at the northern entrance to the inland Zee, three or four miles from North Holland at Eijkeluis, and some fifteen from the other, Frisian coast.

Zuider Zee Reclamation. "Imagine a containing seawall built from Wieringen to either shore—this short one, just begun, and the longer to Friesland to follow as best experience may show. Thru a lock, or locks,

DISEASE IS RIFE IN THE BALKANS

People Have No Idea of Sanitation and Are Ignorant of Germ-Carriers.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 18.—Disease in the Balkans is looked upon by the people as a result of fate. The peasantry has been educated in superstitions rather than in the laws of sanitation. They are opposed to the killing of mosquitoes, rats, flies and vermin, believing that they are a part of life. They know nothing about disease carriers of disease. The importance of protecting their food supplies from winged insects has not been impressed upon them. Little or no attempt is made to drain mosquito pools or marshes, so that the Balkan states claim the distinction of having some of the worst malarial sections on earth.

The peasant has little faith in medical science. "How can a bug give us typhus?" they ask. "Every living thing harbors insects. Why not man? If the good Lord sends us disease and misfortune, we believe that he knows best."

In most districts in the Balkans, the horses and cattle, the population are small and poorly connected. Many of them are built of mud and straw and have no provision for sanitation or ventilation. The only air admitted to the houses is through a small, unperfected chimney.

Bath tubs are rare in the Balkans, even in the larger cities. The people are not used to bathing. "You must be very unclean people in the United States," said a well-to-do traveler of Sofia, to an American, "if you find it necessary to bathe every day."

RUSS GOLD CAME ON JAP WARSHIP

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 18.—Two seemingly unrelated items appeared recently in news despatches which recalled a hitherto unpublished and romantic story of the war. The scene centered in Vancouver, but under censorship rules the story could not be published at the time.

The two items were a Reuter despatch, in which Mr. Novitsky, former assistant to the minister of finance in the all-Russian government, hinted at the huge amount of gold which was shipped thru Vancouver during the war, including $9,000,000 pounds from Vladivostok, and a statement of the sale of the obsolete government warship Rainbow to a Seattle firm.

Both Mr. Novitsky and the Rainbow were central figures in one of the most interesting incidents of the war, so far as it affected Vancouver. The first shipment of Russian gold, amounting to about $45,000,000, arrived here in February of 1915. It was in the form of bullion encased in boxes about 15 inches long, 6 inches wide and 3 or 4 feet deep. It was loaded at Vladivostok for transfer to the mint at Ottawa, and came across the Pacific in a big Japanese warship, with Novitsky in charge of the treasure.

Transhipped at Sea. "The treasure warship never came into harbor. Far out at sea, off Cape Henry, in a half-gale, the warship was met by the H.M.S. Rainbow, and the precious freight transferred between the two vessels of the rollers. The most elaborate measures of secrecy were observed, and it was three o'clock of a morning, and the Rainbow was under way, when the H.M.S. Rainbow was met by the H.M.S. Rainbow, and the precious freight transferred between the two vessels of the rollers.

BETTY. (Copyright, 1920, by the Wheeler Syndicate.) Betty, conjuring visions of a saucy, quaint young person, is really a name of sacred import. It has a lengthy Biblical history and bears the significance of "God's oath." CONVICTS MUTINY AT PENITENTIARY (Continued From Page 1) disclosure of last week, and the convicts, seeing their source of tobacco cut off, are up in arms against this denial of their unlawful privileges.

On Edge of Volcano. Following up its sensational story of Thursday that a plot was hatched in the Portsmouth penitentiary, supposedly with the connivance of some of the penitentiary officials, for the escape of some desperate prisoners from that institution, The Kingston Standard today declares that its story was based on facts that are beyond doubt, and that those of the officials of the big prison who were cognizant of the daring and clever scheme might be expected any moment to be arrested of officials in a short time.

Stunning Disclosures. The first intimation that the chief officials of the penitentiary had that something was wrong and that there was evidently an understanding between some of the prison officers and the gang now suspected of the plot, is said to have followed upon the discovery, some time ago, that Washkalis, the notorious criminal sent here from the penitentiary at Edmonton, Alberta, had seen the bars of his cell, preliminary to the escape plan, and the still more startling disclosure that half a dozen or more bar-saws had been smuggled into the institution. It is believed that not only Washkalis, but the other ringleaders in the scheme to break jail, had intended to use these saws, according to the story of The Standard today.

Saws Smuggled In. That these saws were smuggled in from the outside thru the connivance of some of the penitentiary officials is asserted by The Standard, which states that proof of this is in the hands of the Dominion police.

MORE DEATHS IN CORK JAIL LIKELY

Death of Fitzgerald Expected to Have a Bad Effect.

SOUGHT TO MARRY

Prison Chaplain Said to Have Been Refused Permission to Act.

Cork, Oct. 18.—The death last night of Michael Fitzgerald, first of the 11 hunger strikers in the Cork jail...

It is understood that a military inquiry into the death of Fitzgerald will be held before the body is removed from Cork jail.

With the announcement of the death of Fitzgerald there came to light a romance which would have resulted in the marriage of Fitzgerald on his deathbed if permission could have been obtained to hold the ceremony.

A constant attendant on Fitzgerald since he began his hunger strike was Miss Condon of Fermoy, Fitzgerald's home town. She was supposed to have been his sister, but as it turns out, she was his fiancée.

A week ago Fitzgerald expressed a desire that he be married to Miss Condon before he died. He said he felt that death was near.

While, however, old-established firms throughout the country generally distributed their vast profits with prudent eye to the future, the innumerable companies promoted in recent years have, in the great majority of cases, used their gains to satisfy the demand of shareholders for a quick return of their money at the expense of the stability of the concern itself.

WAR MILLIONAIRES SPENT FORTUNES

Japanese Social Unrest Caused by Labor Troubles and Rich.

An interesting report on how Japan was affected by the war has been issued by the commercial secretary of the British embassy at Tokio.

It is pointed out that although Japan participated in the great war on the side of Great Britain and her allies, her unique position, remote from the central theatres of hostilities, safeguarded her from the dangers and damages of war and created for her vast commercial, economic, and industrial opportunities, of which generally speaking, she took full advantage.

Immediately prior to the war she was experiencing strong reaction from the economic activity which followed the Russo-Japanese War.

Her position, however, relieved her of any of the difficulties experienced by the chief belligerents in raising the sinews of war, and she was even enabled to afford financial assistance to the allies without recourse to any special measure, and also to reduce considerably her foreign debt.

In spite of frequent setbacks, responding to reverses in the west, the Japanese stock market rose steadily throughout the war, and two of the most noticeable features of industrial and economic expansion last year were amalgamation and capital increase.

The prosperity from the war, and the consequent flow of money into the agricultural districts was one of the principal factors in the national prosperity.

While, however, old-established firms throughout the country generally distributed their vast profits with prudent eye to the future, the innumerable companies promoted in recent years have, in the great majority of cases, used their gains to satisfy the demand of shareholders for a quick return of their money at the expense of the stability of the concern itself.

MOST MORAL CASINO IN SEASIDE RESORT

Sacred Music and Ban on Ladies With Bare Backs.

Villers-sur-Mer, the little seaside resort in Normandy, five miles from world-famed and luxurious Deauville (says a Paris correspondent) possesses a casino which can claim to be the most moral casino in France.

This little casino belongs to the wife of a Paris architect, who, having for a year failed to make a living, decided to run the casino. She enlisted the local priest as her assistant in organizing fetes there, and musical and theatrical events are given for the benefit of local charities.

Each concert includes sacred music, and the dances are originally evenings a week, tangos, two-steps, fox trots, and other modern dances are forbidden, while ladies are not admitted in low-necked dresses.

No alcohol is served at the bars, only temperance drinks, being obtainable. Gambling is not forbidden, but 20-francs is the maximum stake at the petits-chevaux tables, and the maximum at baccarat is 50 francs.

In spite of all these restrictions the managers of the casino say she is making very handsome profits.

QUERY ABOUT EYES

Telegram, "Collect," Mabel Normand's Good-Natured Penalty.

Mabel Normand is always being asked for advice by girls who want to go into motion pictures, but the prize query came the other day, she says. It read:

"I have seen all of your Goldwyn pictures and you are one of my favorite stars. You always seem so good-natured in your pictures that I've selected you as the person to tell my ambition to go into motion pictures, and am sure I would be good in them. But I am worried about one thing. I have one blue eye and one brown one. Would it show in the pictures? Also I have a drunken father. Prohibition doesn't seem to prohibit him any. But aside from those things, I am all right and I'm sure I'd be a hit in pictures. Would you like me to come to your company? Please answer immediately."

And the best part of it is that the young woman sent all that by teletype—collect!

VILLA'S COUSIN.

While roaming the hills across the Mexican border in search of appropriate types for his Pathe serial, "The Double Adventure," Charles Hutchison ran across a cousin of the noted outlaw, Poncho Villa.

PRECIOUS INFANT.

In an infant school the teacher chose the miracle of the water being turned into wine for the subject of the usual Bible lesson.

In telling the story she occasionally asked a few questions. One of them was:

"When the new wine was brought to the banquet of the feast, what did he say?"

A little girl, remembering what she had heard probably on some festive occasion, called out:

"Here's luck!"

THE TRUTH OF THE MATTER.

An argument as to the origin of bagpipes had waxed loud and long between two Scotchmen and an Irishman, each of whom claimed that his own country had produced the instrument.

Finally the Irishman clinched matters by remarking:

"Well, the truth is, the Irish invented the pipes and they made a present of them to the Scots. And the Scots haven't seen the joke yet!"

BRITISH GENIUS CREATES ENGINES

From Watt Till Now, All Great Improvements Are by Four Men.

ALL ARE ANGLO-SAXON

Still, the Newest, Conserves Fuel—Parsons and Todd.

THE pre-eminence of the Anglo-Saxon race is nowhere more marked than in the field of scientific invention. Britain and America lead the world both in the originating of the majority of the most far-reaching ideas and in the bringing of those ideas to a practical fruition.

France and Italy come next in this connection. Germany is often spoken of as a nation of inventors, but it would probably be truer to say that she had often reaped the benefit of the inventions of others.

The most important machine the world has ever produced is the steam engine, and no better example could be found of British inventive superiority than the story of the progress of steam engine design.

Altho Neocom Savory, and others thru the ages back to Hero of Greece played a not unimportant part in the evolution of the steam engine, all agree in giving the honor of the credit of developing what was little more than a scientific toy, or in its larger forms a machine of so low efficiency as to have little practical application, into a motive unit embodying most of the salient features present in the reciprocating steam engine of the present day.

Two Great Advances.

Hon. Sir Charles Parsons, third son of the Earl of Ross, produced the first compound steam turbine in 1884 at Gateshead-on-Tyne. A year later T. J. Parsons produced the first uniflow engine, later claimed by the Germans, but a Britisher's invention and now enthusiastically taken up by British makers of engines.

The last of the great revolutionary steps which have carried up the design of the steam engine to its present high stage of efficiency is also the work of an English engineer. In the Still engine an attempt has been made to approach nearer to the perfect thermal cycle by utilizing the waste gases of the internal combustion engine for the generation of the steam in the steam engine, and to make the reserve of power contained in the steam engine tends to eliminate what has been felt to be one of the unsatisfactory features of the internal combustion engine for marine practice.

The Still engine, invented by Mr. William J. Still, is capable of using in its main working cylinder any of the fuels usually employed, and the heat which passes thru the surface of the combustion cylinder, and is contained in the exhaust gases, is recovered as far as possible for the generation of the steam. The steam from one side of the piston, the combustion stroke acting on the other. The design both increases the power of the engine and reduces the consumption of the fuel per horsepower developed.

Economy of Still Engine. The engine and cooling water form part of the circulating system of a steam generator, the cooling water entering and leaving the cylinder at a constant temperature regulated by the pressure of the steam, so that, excluding radiation losses, all heat from the walls of the cylinder is usefully recovered as steam.

The engine is of the constant volume or constant pressure type, or a combination of both, and the exhaust gases are employed after combustion in preheating all the water required for the steam generated in the jacket water and in the generator. The heat efficiency of the combined cycles is exceedingly good, the initial temperature being over 2,000 deg. F. and the final temperature at exhaust to atmosphere as low as 150 deg. F.

It is interesting to note how far the Still engine is applicable to all the uses for which steam engines are required at the present day, but it is a matter of extreme satisfaction that this engine has been built in Britain, so that steam engine progress in both the past and present centres round the British names of Watt, Parsons, Todd, and Still.

GRAND DUCHESS TO ENTER A CONVENT

Ex-Ruler of Luxembourg Leaves Throne to Become a Nun.

The Bishop of Luxembourg officially announces that the ex-ruler of Luxembourg, the Grand Duchess Marie Adelaide, is about to take the veil and join the Order of Saint Theresa at the Moderna Convent, Italy.

Born in 1894, the eldest daughter of the Grand Duke William of Luxembourg and Grand Duchess Marie Anne de Braganza, and cousin of the Queen of the Belgians, she was proclaimed grand duchess on her father's death, but only took possession of the throne on her majority in 1908. She abdicated in favor of her younger sister on June 8, 1919.

The grand duchess is very beautiful, and is known for her goodness, piety, and gentleness. On the heights of Mount Carmel, Modena, she intends to spend her time praying for the people who were once her subjects, as she promised in the proclamation of her abdication.

HAS DISTILLERY AND A WATER RESERVOIR

Dry "Mulguy" is Subject of Jokes by Glasgow Wags.

"Mulguy," in Lanarkshire (its name correctly written, in Mingsavie), is notable for two things—a distillery and a reservoir from which a large portion of Glasgow's water supply is drawn.

It has now achieved the fresh distinction of being the first district in which the Scottish prohibitionists have scored a success. The necessary requisition has been secured for a poll of the citizens there on the "no-license" issue.

Much humor is being expended on the prospect of "dry Mulguy" hoping to continue to supply Glasgow "wags" with whiskey and water. "Mulguy may vote dry," says one wag, "but there will always be the reservoir to fall back upon."

SWEDEN SHOWS VALUE OF REFORESTATION

If one were looking for evidence of what reforestation can accomplish in perpetuating the timber supplies against the drain of continued exploitation, he would probably be satisfied in going to Sweden, where, notwithstanding unabated encroachment on the timber, for commercial purposes, in their own manufacture and for export, than they were fifty years ago.

In Sweden most replant the area cut over, and they are consequently the most successful in the world. The result is that, although Sweden cuts and exports a great amount of timber, the forests are not only preserved, but are in better condition today than they have ever been since modern encroachments have been made upon them.

LOVERS ARE REUNITED AFTER HALF CENTURY

A romance that had its inception over a half century ago has culminated in the wedding of Mrs. Martha Gabriel Blotter and Edward Remsen Teller, of New York. Fifty-seven years ago, when both had attained the eighteenth year, their troth was plighted. Preparations for their wedding were well under way, when the jealousy of a third person caused their engagement to be broken. They drifted apart and both subsequently married. It was not until twenty-five years later that they learned they had been victimized by a fake love letter.

Fate, again took a hand in their affairs and brought their paths together a year ago after their spouses had died.

Navy League—What—Another Campaign?

We think we hear your exclamation. You want to forget the war and all its aftermath. We are with you in your desire to forget—but we must not, in forgetfulness, bury the solemn obligations undertaken in the days of sacrifice. Canadians have bounden duties to those who must bear a burden until the "graves are opened and the sea gives up its dead"—who must forever carry the memory of sons and husbands and fathers who went down to the sea in ships and never returned.

Navy League—What—Another Campaign?

Yes, another campaign. A campaign from which the Navy League does not flinch; but on the contrary is proud to bring before the people—because it is the people's trustee.

The obligation to provide for our merchant sailors' dependents was undertaken by the people during the war, and must be maintained by them, until the need for it is no more.

After this year, however, the League expects to cease asking for funds for the relief of the Canadian dependents of Merchant Sailors who were killed on active service. With the Trust Funds now in hand, together with the sum set aside in the Budget, to be raised by public subscription this week, it should be possible to establish an endowment, the income from which will be sufficient to provide these dependents with a pension equal to that granted to the dependents of Naval men killed on active service.

As many of these dependents are young children, the endowment must continue for a number of years, until the children become self-supporting.

Navy League—What—Another Campaign?

Yes, another campaign. Is it nothing to you? Maybe not; but there are wives and mothers and children praying anxiously this week, knowing that upon the results of the campaign must depend their sustenance for many years.

Navy League—What—Another Campaign?

Yes, another campaign. The people accepted this responsibility during the war. The people must live up to it now. Give generously when you are called upon.

THE dame what went into a swell joint and ordered up artichokes and didn't know how to tackle 'em ain't got a thing on me. They say she's got a couple of parents what eat like regular folks, but that didn't help her none when they fetched in the chokes "hind de fore and a little aft." Neither did it do me any stub. It didn't put me wise on how to hit the birth on my way down to see the big signs burnin'.

So, hall and hearty, I got in the darn hammock and had to open the window to get "right away," which I certainly got right away on account of leanin' up again the bell which fetches the porter guy. He come alright and when he poked his ebony block like my two-by-two, I'll say I give him a eyeful. I was wild, and was tryin' to figure out how I was gonna get my pins untangled, and, as I said before, tryin' to eat a high-brow vegetable ain't nothin' to gettin' your arm you with a book of instructions instead of a timetable, for a birthin' yourself to one is a real education.

Then the last straw was when the female heavyweight, which was booked above me, busted the ladder gettin' up. Straw is right. She was. Then she wanted all the men on the train put off, because she caught one lookin' at her for a minute I heard on the news, alright. You used to get all of you whiskered for a dime—suit, overcoat and hat—but hand the pilot a quarter now and he dusts your lapel.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 19.

The Leadership of Humanity.

No one doubts but that Britain will pull thru the coal miners' strike and the discord in Ireland. After all the strain and struggle of the war, fighting her own battles as well as the battles of other nations, she simply has to continue to fight with her back to the wall.

She is trying to do better for her work people and for Ireland; but she intends to do it in her own way. She will not be browbeaten, least of all when war is still in the air.

But not all the organization of her enemies, nor all the plottings in Ireland and out of Ireland, will break her of her purpose.

Nor would it be a good thing for the cause of labor, for the cause of better government, that she should have to surrender to those who would dictate her line of action in the work of reconstruction she has mapped out for labor and for Ireland.

Britain, with all her faults, with the centuries of social and political injustices that she may have against her, yet all in all there is no other land and people that have done so much for humanity and for freedom as has that one little island of concentrated purpose.

What would the world be today without British leadership, peace, sacrifice and devotion to the well-being of others?

And the world at large is with her in the struggle. If England were to be wrecked and her traditions cease to be upheld, good day to any hope for a new world and a new earth.

Humanity seeks more than ever for a new heaven and a new earth and the attainment of both must come by way of British leadership, British devotion, British sacrifice.

The world still needs Britain, and Canada and the United States need her, and are with her when she has her back to the wall. Labor, even Ireland, will both come into their own, because Britain did not deny their claim.

Petroleum in Northern Canada.

We hope the news is true that oil has been found in one big well at least away up on the Mackenzie river, a thousand miles north of Peace river, our last and near-Arctic railway station.

Should the find be confirmed, it means that Canada is likely to be a great field for oil production. The geologists have long predicted it, and the explorers have often run into gas, gasoline and other indications.

Petroleum in quantity would be the greatest source of wealth that Canada could wish for.

We believe it will not be long before our railways will be pushed to the "frozen sea," and that many other valuable resources will be uncovered.

Canada has one more new territory to exploit in an agricultural way—that of the Peace river; but she may have a greater than Alaska toward the Arctic ocean.

Room for Economy.

At the last session of parliament one hundred persons were given cause to be thankful by the removal of their matrimonial shackles. Nearly all of them, no doubt, complained of the great expense attendant upon that somewhat delicate operation, and we believe a considerable sum was netted from these suitors of parliament by the Canada Gazette. Yet this small profit to the country, we fear, is largely eaten up by the wasteful way in which bills of divorce are passed, and after passage are published in the sessional statutes of Canada.

A divorce bill is in form a bill for the relief of the petitioner, which contains a preamble and then two sections. Visitors to the gallery of the house when these bills are being put thru with lightning speed on a Friday evening, will hear the chairman of the committee of the whole groaning a formula something like this:

Section 1. Marriage dissolved. Carried. Section 2. Leave to marry again. Carried. Shall I report the bill? Carried. The handful of members present seldom know whether any particular bill thus passed is for the relief of Abigail Adams or Zachary Zurich, but when the statutes come to be compiled, all of these private acts are duly printed in alphabetical order. Each one occupies a page with the royal arms above, and the gratifying announcement that the bill was passed in such and such a year of his Ukrainian Army to Join Wrangel. Warsaw, Oct. 18.—Actual fighting having ceased on the northern Russian front, attention has been shifted to Ukraine, where the Ukrainians are busy on the war for the purpose of ridding their country of the Bolsheviks.

The Ukrainian government has signed an agreement with General Baron Wrangel, head of the south Russian government, by which the Ukrainian army will fight with the Wrangel forces. Plans are being made for the two armies to join soon, and the Ukrainians are gradually working their way to the southeast, where General Wrangel's anti-Bolshevik forces are in conflict with Soviet troops.

Nearly all of them, no doubt, complained of the great expense attendant upon that somewhat delicate operation, and we believe a considerable sum was netted from these suitors of parliament by the Canada Gazette. Yet this small profit to the country, we fear, is largely eaten up by the wasteful way in which bills of divorce are passed, and after passage are published in the sessional statutes of Canada.

NEW RULE GOVERNS COAL EMERGENCIES

Needs of Public Utilities Will Be Forwarded as Requests to Washington.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—A change in the method of handling applications for shipments of emergency coal to public utilities was announced today by the board of railway commissioners, thru their fuel control representative.

Where a critical condition of operation may arise, special application forms for protective treatment may be secured from the fuel administrator for the province, who, on return to him of the form duly filled out, will at once make a recommendation to the board of railway commissioners. If the application is approved by the board, representations will be made by the latter to a special committee at Washington, just appointed by the United States authorities.

The above announcement follows on word received today from M. M. Mahoney of the Canadian war mission at Washington, to the effect that the Interstate Commerce Commission has placed the handling of fuel supplies for public utilities in the hands of a joint committee of the American Railroad Association and the National Coal Association, and this committee will make every effort to have shipments voluntarily made, before falling back on the interstate commerce commission for any special orders assigning cars under service order No. 21.

In Case of Schools. No special forms are as yet required for institutions, such as schools, hospitals and government buildings, as distinct from utilities, but it is understood that another committee will be appointed to deal with such applications, so that institutions of this kind will also, in case of emergency, do well to make application to the provincial administrator for recommendation to Ottawa.

The operators meanwhile are being asked to give special attention to the contract order for supply of coal to public institutions, and these, as well as public utilities, when applying for help, must indicate that everything possible has been done to have shipments made to them from their usual sources of supply.

UKRAINIAN ARMY TO JOIN WRANGEL

Warsaw, Oct. 18.—Actual fighting having ceased on the northern Russian front, attention has been shifted to Ukraine, where the Ukrainians are busy on the war for the purpose of ridding their country of the Bolsheviks.

The Ukrainian government has signed an agreement with General Baron Wrangel, head of the south Russian government, by which the Ukrainian army will fight with the Wrangel forces. Plans are being made for the two armies to join soon, and the Ukrainians are gradually working their way to the southeast, where General Wrangel's anti-Bolshevik forces are in conflict with Soviet troops.

NOTABLE EXPLOITS OF SELF-STARVERS

Paris, Oct. 1.—The long hunger strike of Mayor MacSwiney of Cork has caused much discussion here as to how long it is possible for a man to fast. Dr. Socquet has told the Paris Midi that the record is 63 days without food, set by William Granier in 1831.

Granier had been sentenced to death and was confined in the prison of Toulouse," said Dr. Socquet. "He had a horror of the guillotine and to save himself from death by that instrument determined to starve, which he did after 63 days.

"Many hunger strikers have lived longer than could have been expected," he went on. "There are the cases of Tanner, Succi and Merlati, the latter of whom starved for 48 days while he lost one-quarter of his weight. Taylor tells of the case of a worker who was imprisoned in a mine for 60 days without food. He lived three days after his rescue, and died as a result of being excessively fed. Many lunatics have refused to take food for 20, 30, or even 40 days.

"No rule can be established as to length of time a man can fast. His endurance will depend upon his previous health, his constitution and also upon his spiritual condition, which is very important. It is well known that a starving man may increase his endurance a great deal by drinking water."

NOT WORTH DENYING, SAYS PREMIER MEIGHEN

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—Inquiry was made at the office of the prime minister this morning with regard to a remark made by Parly P. Christensen, at St. Louis, Mo., that Premier Meighen had told him in private conversation that the Farmer-Labor party would dominate Canada by 1923. "It is not worth denying," the premier replied, "I have never to my knowledge heard of Mr. Christensen before."

STALKING A COUGAR NEW VANCOUVER SPORT

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 18.—Cougar stalking in a large city is the latest sport. Many reputable residents of the east end reported seeing a large cougar prowling about at night, destroying cats. The police department, at first sceptical, have formally taken cognizance of the animal. Several hunting parties were organized, but without result. So many small boys accompany these parties that police officials declare it will be impossible to do any shooting if the cougar is encountered and that the only safe way will be to fall on him and choke him to death.

THE HOUSE 'ROUND THE CORNER

By GORDON HOLMES

Instantly there flitted before Armathwaite's vision a picture of the besotted Faulkner offering libations of wine to the black figure scowling from the stained-glass window. Perhaps the old toper had been lifting his head in a final bumper when he fell backward down the stairs and broke his neck.

Armathwaite shut the book with a bang. When he went out, he found that Betty had forgotten to leave a candle in the hall, and he must either go upstairs in the dark or carry with him the lamp still burning on its bracket.

He stared steadily at the dull outline of the effigy in armor. "I'm not superstitious," he muttered, "but if I could have my own way with you, my beauty, I'd smash you into little bits!"

Then, to show his contempt for all ghouls and demons, he extinguished the lamp, and felt his way by holding the banisters. It was creepy work. Once he was aware of a curious contraction of the skin at the nape of his neck. He turned in a fury, and eyed the window. Now that he had come from the hall, some of its color was restored, and certain blue and orange tints in the border were so perfect in tone that he was moved from resentment to admiration.

"Not for the first time in the history of art the frame is better than the picture," he thought. "Very well, you limp of darkness, some day, and soon, I hope, we'll dislodge you and keep you setting."

He did not ask himself whom he included in that pronoun "we." There was no need. The mighty had fallen at last. He loved Marguerite Ogilvie and would marry her if she would accept him the her parents had committed all the crimes in the calendar, and her ancestors were wizards and necromancers without exception.

CHAPTER XI.

Preparations for Battle. James Walker, the younger, took thought while his cob paced the eight miles between Elmdale and Nuttonby. In the result, he changed his plans and did not go. He had a premonition of the office of Holloway & Dobb, he signalled a clerk who peered out at him thru a dust-laden window. It was a singular fact that more dust gathered on the windows of offices occupied by respectable country solicitors than on the windows of all other professional men collectively.

"Would you mind asking Mr. Dobb to come and see me for a minute on the important business?" he said when the clerk came out. "After betting delay Mr. Dobb appeared. He was portly and bespectacled, and not inclined to hurry. Moreover, he did not make a practice of holding consultations with clients in the street. It needed a man of country rank to prefer such a request, and Mr. Dobb, commissioner for oaths and leading solicitor in Nuttonby, was very much astonished when he heard that "young Walker, the auctioneer," had invited him outside.

"Well, what is it?" he inquired stiffly, standing in the doorway, and clearly resolved not to budge another inch. "Sorry to trouble you, sir," said Walker humbly, "but I can't leave this pony when so near his stable. He'd take off on his own account."

Dobb, the slightly mollified by an eminently reasonable explanation, did not offer to cross the pavement, so Walker, after glancing up and down the street to make sure that no passer-by could overhear, continued in a low tone: "I've just come from the Grange, Elmdale, and saw Miss Meg Garth there. She passed a remark which seemed to imply that her father is still living, and got very angry when I told her that he was dead and buried two years ago."

Mr. Dobb descended from the doorway quickly enough then. Resting a fat hand on the rail of the dash-board, he looked up into Walker's red face. The scrutiny was not friendly. He was sure that the junior member of the firm of Walker & Son had been drinking.

"Do you know what you are talking about?" he said, sternly. Walker leaned down, under his ferret eyes peered closely into those of the angry solicitor.

"That's why I'm here, sir," he said, with the utmost deference of manner. "Of course, I'm aware that you represent the family—at any rate, with regard to the Elmdale property—and when Miss Meg herself said that her father was alive, and flew into a rage when I ventured to correct her, what was I to think? I admit I was knocked all of a heap and may have put things rather bluntly, but there cannot be the slightest doubt as to what she meant. More than that, her cousin, Mr. Robert Armathwaite, bore out her statement, and got so mad with me for sticking to it that Mr. Garth has committed suicide, that we almost came to blows."

Walker was quite sober—the solicitor had no doubt on that score now. Perhaps vague memories stirred in the shrewd, legal mind, and recalled certain curious discrepancies he had noted in events already passing into the limbo of forgetfulness. He, too, looked to right and left, lest some keen-eyed citizen should have crept up unobserved.

"Can't you take your trap to the stable and come back here?" he asked, thereby admitting that Walker's breach of decorum was condoned.

"That's really what I had in mind, sir," said Walker. "Look here, I had the office before I was at liberty, as I have a few matters to attend to when I reach our own place, and I didn't want to intrude by calling at your house."

Dobb was watching him critically, and was evidently becoming more puzzled each moment.

PARKEALE TIE UP ONTARIO UNION BY BEATING TORONTO 16 TO 9—Varsity Tear Tiger Line to Pieces in Exhibition Affray and Win 25 to 7—Strong Line Is Shown by Students.

The local holiday Thanksgiving rugby supplied plenty of thrills and no small measure of surprise. In the morning Parkdale tied up senior O.F.U. race by taking a fall out of Toronto 16 to 9, and the best of it was that they easily earned the victory.

In the afternoon Varsity surprised the regulars by simply making Tigris meaner than the student line plunger thru the final period Cassella's boys bucked the fray in the last quarter and sent the regulars to the ground.

The student outfit tore the much-touted Tiger line to shreds, engineered well-thought-out plays that were big ground gainers, and showed in Red McKenzie a kicker who was as well off with any of them. It was the line that was advertised to fall down, it was the opposite. Varsity held like a strong wall and when they hit the Tiger defence they bowled them over like tenpins and made yards time after time.

It was a pleasant awakening for the Toronto fans, and Varsity will go into the McGill game on Saturday with plenty of backing.

Before the turkey spread Parkdale went right to work on the boys job of taming the Toronto 16 to 9. They did it by playing heady football and keeping it going right thru the game. Brophy started off a little off color with his booting, steadily improved until he was the pivot of the whole play and carried his team along with heady lifts ably backed by a wing line that failed to let the Toronto backfield get a word in.

At the other end Conacher was the big noise. His dodging running was hard to stop, and so well did he manage it that he had the big Toronto back very tired at the end. Parkdale outside were good, and Conacher was especially brilliant with his tackling. Goddard was a good dodging back, but declined to tuck in. The Toronto line all the work to Brophy's shoulders, but he was well able to carry the load. Grass was a sure catcher and good runner for Toronto.

DeGruchy was a star at quarter for Toronto. He was the best of the boys and was a bear for work, gaining much ground. It was a satisfactory win for Parkdale and was a tidy race to the finish for the honors.

Toronto were first to score. Brophy had kicked into the end, and then Toronto pulled a run round the end when it was passed to Conacher, who left Grass (5) in the end. He had a clear field. Grass galloped over for a try that was not converted. There was no further score in the opening period.

Mistake costly. A foolish play by Parkdale to tie the score after the second session got under way. Brophy kicked to Grass behind the line and the Toronto backs safe and rousing Grass attempted to kick it out with tacklers on top of him. The result was that the ball was fumbled and fell on it for a try. It was not converted.

Brophy put the west enders in front with a boot to the deadline. Brophy's good right foot forced a rouse in the next few minutes. Conacher booted Charlie Carroll, who was downed three yards out from the Parkdale line, and on the first scrimmage Toronto broke through the rouse forced the paddlers over for a safety touch, tying the score, leaving it 7 points each at half time.

The experience gained in the first half gave Parkdale confidence, and they looked like a different team. From thirty yards out Brophy tried a drop kick, but missed. Conacher followed up fast, and before Conacher could get his hands properly on the bounding ball matched it to the line on a pigskin for a touch. It was not converted.

Brophy boosted Parkdale's score to 13 with pretty fine goal from thirty yards out. Conacher got one back for Toronto by kicking into touch in goal and the big Toronto back forced the rouse before the period ended to leave the three-quarter time score: Parkdale 15, Toronto 9.

Conacher tried hard to get his team somewhere in the last session, but Gage marked him closely. The Ottawa was down heavily several times. It was no park and before the final Brophy kicked another deadball and the final score was: Parkdale 16, Toronto 9. The teams: Parkdale (15)—Flying wing, Lalonde; halves, Carroll, Brophy, Hodson, Gatt; quarter, DeGruchy; scrum, W. Smith, Murgar, Tremaine; inside, R. Smith, Armstrong; middle, B. Smith, Hughes; outside, Lynch, McFarland.

SELKIRKS WRECKED BY THE TOURISTS

Winnipeg, Oct. 18.—Joe Simpson, individual star of the Selkirk hockey team, has left for Edmonton to the care of the Estrie defence for the coming hockey season. He was accompanied by Ernie Anderson, the Selkirk forward, who also is to don Eskimo colors.

Selkirk has been bereft of so many of its hockey stars that it is scarcely likely that the team will be able to participate in local senior hockey the coming season.

Just a little too good, and never got away. Perhaps the most pleasing bit was the Bengal time plunger thru the final period Cassella's boys bucked the fray in the last quarter and sent the regulars to the ground.

The Tigers were off in front when Leadley kicked over, and Allen was equal to the job, and so well did he manage it that he had the big Toronto back very tired at the end. Parkdale outside were good, and Conacher was especially brilliant with his tackling.

Goddard was a good dodging back, but declined to tuck in. The Toronto line all the work to Brophy's shoulders, but he was well able to carry the load. Grass was a sure catcher and good runner for Toronto.

Hamilton Is Victor by Eight to Five Score—Game Was Spirited.

Hamilton, Oct. 18.—Varsity seconds were defeated by Tiger intermediates in a game that was a real test of their mettle.

JOYCE HOLDS WALLACE TO DRAW IN TEN ROUNDS

Ted Joyce, the Toronto featherweight, surprised the crowd that filled the Arthurs last night by holding the great Philadelphia boxer, Patay Wallace, to a draw.

Some of the best amateurs in the province were on hand, and the crowd was well pleased with the entertainment provided by the two fighters.

The first bout was between Russell Young and Earl Duffy at 110 pounds. It was an exciting bout of the evening, and, as the judge's decision was in favor of Young, the consensus of opinion among the spectators was that Duffy clearly outpointed his man.

GLoucester Men To Welcome Cancks

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 18.—Give us good weather and we'll make the international cup races look like a pink tea," said the Gloucester fishermen when they came in from the banks last today.

No one in Gloucester knew tonight just how many Canadians would come for the conference or what time they would arrive, but the local fishermen, led by Charles B. Brown, as chairman of the committee on arrangements, to spare no pains in welcoming the visitors what a Gloucester welcome was.

An announcement tonight commissioned Captain Marjory L. White, who is part owner of the auxiliary schooner Theima, as skipper of the Esperanto in the race. Four crews are to be the "beat killers" on the coast.

At the conference tomorrow, the local fishermen expect to see a number of new challengers for a series of three races. The date of the meeting, it was said, will be decided in the afternoon.

Dimensions of the contesting schooners were made public tonight as follows: Esperanto, Duxiana. Net tonnage—91.33 85.

Length—107 ft. 4 in. 106 ft. 8 in. Breadth—24 ft. 2 in. 24 ft. 2 in. Depth—11 ft. 4 in. 10 ft. 4 in.

The Esperanto was hauled out of the water today and seamen began cleaning and overhauling her for the contest. It is expected that she will be ready by the end of the week.

CATTLE MARKET SLOW AND EASIER

With around 4400 cattle at the Union Stock Yards yesterday, although the receipts were light, the market did not show any improvement, on the other hand, the tendency was all toward lower prices. Reports from Buffalo and other outside points were very discouraging. There was a fair demand for some good and choice butcher cattle and some heavy steers with weight—that is, 1000 lbs. and upward. The butcher cow trade was fairly steady and canners were lower. Bologna bulls held about steady. Bologna bulls held about steady. For milch cows and springers the better class were in demand. It being a holiday the trading was slow all round, but the prospects are not very encouraging for all classes of cattle for the future, and at the close a good many cattle were left unsold. Many western cattle were in the yards during the afternoon, which were billed thru to Buffalo, Lancaster and other points South. Sheep and Lambs. With around 5000 lambs on sale the market again sold off pretty closely sorted, dollar a hundred—the top on the general run of the lambs being around 11 1/2c a lb. a few odd lots pretty closely sorted might and did bring a little more money. The sheep trade was easier in sympathy.

FIRST NIGHT AT THEATRES

Delightful Musical Play. The musical play, "The Maid of the Mountains," which has delighted London audiences during a prolonged run opened at the Royal Alexandra Theatre last night, and bids fair to be a huge success. The entire English cast and chorus appears, under the supervision of Percy Hutchinson. The play is picturesque, both in setting and plot, and the musical numbers are delightful.

The scene opens in the brigands' cave. The brigand band, including Teresa, the mountain maid, are making merry with song and story. Suddenly the brigand chief, Baldassarre, appears. He bids the men depart, and he is left with Teresa. He tells her that the cave has been discovered, and she must flee, lest she fall into danger. Teresa is in love with Baldassarre, and pleads with him to allow her to stay. She charges him with having grown cold towards her. This he denies, but insists that she must flee for her life. The brigands are summoned and Teresa departs, one of the band accompanying her for safe conduct over the mountains. The brigands then bring out their spoils. While they are dividing them a knock is heard at the gate. The door is opened by command of the chief, but instead of armed men there stands a beautiful girl, who with her companion has lost her way. Baldassarre invites them in and offers the hospitality of the cave. From the girls he learns that a new governor is expected at the palace of Santo. Baldassarre commands one of the men to conduct the girls to their destination, and as soon as they depart news is brought that Teresa has been captured and will only be surrendered on condition that Baldassarre, the brigand chief, gives himself up. This his men urge him not to do, but he nobly turns a deaf ear to entreaties for his own safety and decides to save Teresa. At that moment, Beppo, who is in love with Teresa, enters, and Baldassarre draws his attention to a procession just coming into view. The new governor, Baldassarre conceives the plan of capturing the governor and himself taking his place, thus effecting the rescue of Teresa. The plot is worked out with remarkable skill. Romance and adventure vie with each other to once charm and thrill the onlooker.

Viva Daron, as Teresa, played her role with vivacity and charm. Her songs brought forth enthusiastic applause. H. Morner White, as Baldassarre, the brigand chief, was excellent. The underlying strain of nobility which prompted Baldassarre to prefer capture rather than the sacrifice of Teresa was brought prominently forward by this skilful actor. Fred Wright, as Tonia, was especially pleasing. His jests and sallies would provoke laughter from the most sombre and experienced playgoer. "The Maid of the Mountains" is an altogether delightful play, and if the first evening's criticism is correct, draw crowded houses during its stay in Toronto.

"Clarence" a four-act comedy by Booth Tarkington, opened at the Princess Theatre yesterday. The piece is typically American in its humor and is played by a clever cast. On the whole, would not care to go so far as one well-known New York critic who described it as the best light comedy written by an American. The plot of the piece contains some delightfully funny passages, the dialog is witty and the characters are all in capable hands.

The character of Clarence is taken by Robert Odanes and is quaintly portrayed and is the pivot around which the many amusing situations revolve. Gregory Kelly as Bobby Wheeler, the "nut," displayed unusual ability in a character whose success depended upon those droll qualities which Mr. Kelly possesses in a marked degree. The foolish little lovelorn flapper, Cora Wheeler, was taken by Ruth Gordon. The character lost nothing by being in her hands. Mrs. Wheeler, the jealous wife, was well done by Grace Pitkin, while Byron Benesky as Mr. Wheeler, the wealthy and tired business man with his troubles in tow, and worse ones at home, did some effective work. The other characters, including Mrs. Martyn, taken by Clara Blaudick, Violet Pinney by Florence Palf, Della by Joe Wallace, Dinwiddie by James T. Ford, and Hubert Stern

NO. 10.

It is over three years since Charles (Chic) Sale visited Toronto, and his return to Shea's Theatre yesterday received quite an ovation on the part of his admirers, and well he deserved it. His "Rural Sunday School Benefit," in which he impersonates many characters, is brim full of good, honest fun from start to finish. Beneficial, with his friend, Mr. Nobody, in an argument about nothing in particular, just kept his audience in tearful laughter for some 15 minutes. His patter was new and novel. Warren Jackson and Harold Whaley, assisted by seven beautifully-gowned girls, present a song, "Ye Song Shop," which is a kind of competition between the songs of the old days and the present time. Each song is illustrated by a young lady dressed to interpret the words. In his particular line, "Ye Song Shop" undoubtedly has the first place in the class. Eduardo and Elisa Cansino, Spanish dancers, are pleasing, while the White is entertaining in illustrated songs. Vittorio and Georgette, as the up-to-date boys, cause some amusement, and Lucy Bruch, as a gypsy fiddler, plays sweetly. Delmar and Kolb, in "One Summer Day," were acceptable, whilst the pictures, which give the life history of the famous horse, Man o' War, were quite up to date.

Arbuckle at Pantages. The inimitable Arbuckle humor has probably appeared to no better advantage than in the role of "Sheriff Hoover," which the popular star essays in "The Round Up," the film featuring this week's bill at Pantages Theatre. The scene of the film is laid along the Mexican border, and the picturesque attempts to give color to the various ineffectual round-up romances upon which the picture is based. The picture is of interest that is new to the Arbuckle comedies, and which revolves about the intrigues in which a unscrupulous half-breed of the border country and a company of competent vocalists and dancing artists. The "No Trespassing" sketches presents a battle of wits between the male and female of the species and ends in the discomfiture of a sceptic of woman's ability in the field of practical endeavor. A clever musical and comedy act is offered by Pete, Pluto, and Boyle, Daring trapeze work is done with practiced ease by the Four Danube Aerialists, and comedy is cleverly interspersed among the acrobatics of Panzer and Sylvia. The Pantages News Feature Film attracts unusual interest this week by virtue of showing pictures of the recent Irish reprisals of the "Black and Tans." The temper of the Toronto audience was indicated by the mixed hand-clapping which greeted the pictures of the sacked dwellings and factories were greeted.

At Loew's Uptown. Comedy and drama mingle in "The Night Wife," the film presentation headlining this week's bill at Loew's Uptown Theatre. The story deals with the supposed instability of a hurriedly married wife to her husband's tastes, and relates the experiences, both humorous and sensational, between the supposedly unfaithful principal role, shows the same charm which in previous productions has gained for her her popularity with Toronto audiences. The picture is a comedy and the latest Mack Bennett release, "It's a Boy," provide strong comedy features for the bill, and with the humorous "The House of the Telling" and "The House of the Telling" are the highlights of the year's contests at the Canadian National Exhibition. Mr. Messervy sings both classical and popular airs, and couples a "Lake Resumings" principal role, shows the same charm which in previous productions has gained for her her popularity with Toronto audiences.

Novelty at the Hipp. Shea's Hippodrome has a real novelty in "The House of the Telling," undoubtedly fill the house from top to bottom afternoon and evening. The management have arranged the moving picture, depicting a gorgeous Chinese scene, draped every where with wondrous lantern effects; and presenting a chorus chant to the moon, beautifully and artistically rendered, or again the dance, or yet again the half-dozen Chinese ditties and song touches, both in solo and chorus, which delighted the audience. But besides these delightful effects were the comedy studies, which made this musical comedy a delicate ray of humor, with here and there a reversion to war, as for instance, the ludicrous touches presented by Mr. J. V. Barrett-Lennard as Sir Bango Bung, the British consul at Canton, who, true to type, a Britisher because he couldn't be anything else.

There were several such as he, but among the comedians was Fred Walton, who has a particular genius for humor, which belongs to no particular class or race, but who keeps everyone alive from start to finish. He is undoubtedly a notable figure in the cast, one perhaps out of the ordinary, and we would say that he ranks easily with Miss Zara Clinton as one of the keystone comedians of the arch. Rex Carter as Bobbie, son of Sir Bango, and lover of San Toy, is a very frank natural actor with much promise. Miss Zara Clinton was in excellent form last night, and was happy in her supporting cast. Others who carried out their parts with the same ability were Miss Grace Renard as the maid to Poppy, daughter, taken splendidly by Miss Kitty Arthur; Miss Pauline Harvey as the nun, Lucretia; Mr. Warren Lawrence as the lawyer; Mr. George Wydenham as Ben How, great mandarin and father of San Toy; and Mr. R. Barrett-Lennard as the lieutenant of the English party in the comedy. But comedians are always odious. All the members of the cast were above par, and the chorus held place with the individual members in the interpretation of the humorous and ludicrous as well as artistic touches.

"San Toy" has practically no plot. It is the simple life of a Chinese, who favors the emperor, but who loves the son of the British representative, while the princess, a Chinese student, who has written poems upon all phases of the melon seed, loves her, but finding his love unrequited, gets her married father into trouble. A few complications, with royal clemency, ease a delicate situation, and Chinese maiden and British boy wed.

Old Favorites at Shea's. It is over three years since Charles (Chic) Sale visited Toronto, and his return to Shea's Theatre yesterday received quite an ovation on the part of his admirers, and well he deserved it. His "Rural Sunday School Benefit," in which he impersonates many characters, is brim full of good, honest fun from start to finish. Beneficial, with his friend, Mr. Nobody, in an argument about nothing in particular, just kept his audience in tearful laughter for some 15 minutes. His patter was new and novel. Warren Jackson and Harold Whaley, assisted by seven beautifully-gowned girls, present a song, "Ye Song Shop," which is a kind of competition between the songs of the old days and the present time. Each song is illustrated by a young lady dressed to interpret the words. In his particular line, "Ye Song Shop" undoubtedly has the first place in the class. Eduardo and Elisa Cansino, Spanish dancers, are pleasing, while the White is entertaining in illustrated songs. Vittorio and Georgette, as the up-to-date boys, cause some amusement, and Lucy Bruch, as a gypsy fiddler, plays sweetly. Delmar and Kolb, in "One Summer Day," were acceptable, whilst the pictures, which give the life history of the famous horse, Man o' War, were quite up to date.

Arbuckle at Pantages. The inimitable Arbuckle humor has probably appeared to no better advantage than in the role of "Sheriff Hoover," which the popular star essays in "The Round Up," the film featuring this week's bill at Pantages Theatre. The scene of the film is laid along the Mexican border, and the picturesque attempts to give color to the various ineffectual round-up romances upon which the picture is based. The picture is of interest that is new to the Arbuckle comedies, and which revolves about the intrigues in which a unscrupulous half-breed of the border country and a company of competent vocalists and dancing artists. The "No Trespassing" sketches presents a battle of wits between the male and female of the species and ends in the discomfiture of a sceptic of woman's ability in the field of practical endeavor. A clever musical and comedy act is offered by Pete,

CHURCH FAILURE?

Query of Spoor

Slimly Attended World Brotherhood Meeting Inspires Question.

In the cause of the World Brotherhood Movement last night, four distinguished visitors from London, England, delivered addresses from the pulpit of the Elm Street Methodist Church. The congregation was, however, of scant proportions, and included few young men or women. The absence of youth among the listeners was especially pointed out and deplored by the speakers, particularly as it is upon youth that the re-orientation of the world largely depends.

Charles G. Ammon, a member of the London City Council, and organizing secretary of the Union of Post-office Workers of London, S.W., linked up the history of the church which brought him to Toronto five years ago as a trades union representative. He said that the labor unions and the brotherhood movement were inseparable.

"The average man is a practical man," said Mr. Ammon. "What he cares about is the application of your preaching to the life of the individual. The great mass of people are alienated from the church, and we must meet them where they are. 'Christ would have been dubbed an agitator had he preached in the present day. But those of great wealth or influence can go on without any fear, for they know that a reasonable extent at least no ordinary Christian is going to attempt to turn the world upside down.'

"The element of antagonism has been very real on this platform," said Rev. S. W. Hughes. "Today as never before, in human history, the church has created a great consciousness in social matters. But the social ordeals of the world will not be taken away until all return to the Man of Nazareth."

"And if there is anything in business or industry that cannot be squared over the altar of being the church, its no good for business or industry. The obligation of commerce is to put labor first. If a contractor or manufacturer ten hours a day, he must be paid at the biggest price, he must not be surprised if the workman asks the price for his services. 'When it comes to earth, must come thru the church, and in the name of Christ, Rev. Gaurty contended it was the duty of every church member to spread the gospel of the Kingdom of God, and personally fit to be the vehicle of Jesus Christ's work among men.'

Ben Spoor, M.P., took a rather different view of things than the three speakers. He said that the church is doing a wonderful work, but that it is not doing it in the right way. HOLIDAY ENJOYED

ON THANKSGIVING

Railways, Steamers, Theatres and Restaurants Do Thriving Business.

Thanksgiving holiday for 1920 is now a thing of the past, and taking the three days as a whole the people have much to be grateful for to the gentleman who supplies us with the weather. Yesterday was overcast for part of the day and towards evening a heavy mist hung over the bay and consequently made the Niagara boats somewhat late in getting back to Toronto.

The holiday really began on Saturday morning, when the Union Station was packed by passengers anxious to get back to their homes, and a real or North Bay or a day of summer at home or with friends, the steamers to Niagara were packed on Saturday and Sunday with people spending the vacation out of the city.

Weather Was Depressing. Despite this migration there were many thousands left here to celebrate the day, and royal and well did they do so. Although the morning was cold and overcast, the 7:30 Niagara boat carried a full load of passengers across the lake, whilst the 7:30 was also well patronized. The majority of the people who stayed in the city did not spend the day at their homes, and a man at one period would have been very rich indeed who would have purchased a ticket yesterday afternoon for either a theatre or a picture show, as they were all crowded to the limit.

During the afternoon the holiday-makers who had left town on Saturday began to wander back to the city and as the major portion of them had come some distance, quite a young rabble was made on the city restaurants, the streets, and the parks, and a number were to be found from early morning to late at night.

All the places of amusement were if possible more crowded last night than in the afternoon, and many were the young couples who had to suffer disappointment and return home and comfort each other in mother's sitting room. The street railway had a merry day, and by the crowded state of the cars should have no difficulty in finding that little sun they owe the city authorities.

Today everyone will be back at work refreshed and encouraged to face the 67 days of business before the advent of the next holiday.

MACSWINEY TAKES

CHANGE FOR WORSE

London, Oct. 18.—The condition of Lord Mayor MacSwiney in Brixton prison has taken a change for the worse. This announcement was made in the bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination League at five o'clock this evening.

"The two prison doctors and an outside specialist, Dr. Bedard, visited him this afternoon," continues the statement. "Dr. Bedard informed the sister of the prisoner that the lord mayor was showing symptoms of scurvy which if it developed would cause great pain. He advised that MacSwiney should be induced to take lime juice or orange juice to prevent development."

"Miss MacSwiney thinks it won't be possible to induce the lord mayor to consent." The cold contracted by the lord mayor is still confined to his head and throat, according to the afternoon bulletin, which adds that there is grave danger it may pass to the lungs. Every precaution is being taken to avoid that.

He was very quiet all morning, speaking now and then about Fitzgerald, who had just died, and praying for him and his comrades who are dying in Cork jail.

Red Cross physicians at Constaninople after looking up every available record, are said to be convinced that Zora, born at Bithlis, Armenia, early in 1875, is the oldest man in the world. That makes him 145 years of age. He went to Constantinople when a youth, married at 18, lost his wife, married again and had the father of 15 children. His only surviving son is 56 years old. For a century, the sturdy Kurd made a comfortable living as a hawker, or street hawker. He is now employed as a caponier (janitor) at the artillery arsenal at Top-Hane. His health has failed somewhat, and he complains bitterly against the doctors who have had much trouble forcing him to live on milk and milk foods.
