HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

MR. HANINGTON MAKES AN EXPLANATION. The Select Committee Majority Report Excuses Attorney-General and Condemns the Charge—Mr. Phinney Submits a Minority Report.

MR. HANINGTON'S EXPLANATION. FREDERICTON, April 17.—Mr. Hanington called the attention of the House to the report of proceedings before the committee on the charge against Mr. Blair published in last evening's Globe wherein it is reported to have said "He (Hanington) would say now that he thought the chairman (Wilson) had throughout the investigation given fair and just decisions, and that his rulings were honest and impartial."

He (Hanington) had never said anything of the kind. He could not recall to him but he had said and believed and still believed quite the contrary. What he did say before the committee was that a statement in a former report by the Globe reporter, who, it is understood, is an officer of the Government and a student of the law, was such a gross misstatement of the facts that he (Hanington) had said that the chairman was "not fit to sit in a nigger court" was not correct, as he had only said that the same relationship existing between him (Wilson) and Mr. Blair (as by marriage) would on the ground of relationship disqualify him (Wilson) from sitting as a judge in any court, even a "nigger court," referring to the petty courts known of that name.

HE KILLED HIS RIVAL.

PRATT IDEA THAT THE INNOCENT CASE OF MURDER. A Discarded Youth Attacks the Favorite of His Wife and Her Opponent—Another Inmate of the Penitentiary—A Fatal Blow.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Pratt black-eyed Ida Young was the innocent cause of a murder last night. Ida, who is one of the most attractive-looking girls in the southeastern part of the city, had two suitors, Murray Cassen and Charles Thompson, each eighteen years of age.

Both the lads were madly in love with pretty Ida. At first she was inclined to look with favor upon Cassen, who was a good looking Virginian, recently moved here. For a time all went well, and apparently each was necessary to the other's happiness. They were wont to take moonlight strolls about the Capitol grounds.

A fortnight ago a change came over the fair Ida's dreams and her manner toward her young Virginian lover became cold and indifferent. When Murray requested the pleasure of her company for an evening stroll she pleaded many excuses for declining.

Recently Cassen learned that the true reason was that she had come to fancy the society of Charles Thompson more than his. The proud Virginian boiled at the thought of being discarded for another and constantly brooded over it.

He told his friends, one of whom was Charles Lynch, Ida's cousin of his suffering at heart and they sympathized with him. He formed an intense hatred for his happy rival and said he would like to kill him.

Last night Cassen and some friends were standing on the East Branch bridge when Thompson came along with Ida leaning on his arm. There was a dead silence on the bridge as the two men looked at each other. Thompson was not a gentleman to use vile language and was not to fight in the presence of a lady.

Finally the rivals began to fight and Cassen took a small pocket-knife and stabbed Thompson in the back and in the leg. Thompson seemed satisfied with the result and walked away. Cassen was able to walk nearly a mile to a doctor's office. On the way he told his friends that he had done it.

The wounds were dressed and he was sent to his home, on Fort Street, at 2 o'clock this morning. Thompson was shortly afterward arrested on the watchman's report that he had been seen near the bridge.

Ida is distracted with grief, although she does not know the name of her assailant. Railway Purse Completed. New York, April 17.—Calvin S. Brice, secretary of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad has completed the deal for the purchase of the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railway from Elijah Mitchell, Lake Erie and Western bonds with amount of $10,000,000 per mile, or a total of $1,300,000. The balance of the money is to be paid in installments.

A MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING.

CASE FOR DETECTIVES TO UNRAVEL IN A NEW YORK FLAT. Mr. Jameson Changes his Mind About His Cattle's Name—An Air of Solemn Mystery about the British Ship-owners.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Newsmen swarmed into the tenement house at 254 East Tenth street about a fortnight ago. The family included Frank White, a porter, 30 years old, his wife Harriet, and a young man, who, the wife told the janitor, was her brother. About noon today the alleged brother left the house, and the janitor said that his brother-in-law had shot himself.

It was nearly 1 o'clock when Mrs. White entered the Fifth street police station and reported the shooting. She told the officers that her husband had been sitting at dinner in the kitchen. Suddenly the door opened and a man entered. She did not know the man, but she saw him enter the room, where he stood leaning against the window. A few moments later she saw the man standing by the door, and she saw him enter the room, where he stood leaning against the window.

THE NEW IRISH YACHT.

SEE WELL PROBABLY BE CHRISTENED IERNA. Mr. Jameson Changes his Mind About His Cattle's Name—An Air of Solemn Mystery about the British Ship-owners.

LONDON, April 15.—John Jameson has changed his mind. He says this morning that his new yacht will be called the Ierna, and that she will be launched Saturday. As the Scotch boat was called the Ierna, the Irish boat might have been appropriately called the Shamrock, as it was understood she would be, and as Jameson said on one occasion, according to the statement of one who is intimate in yachting affairs.

Whether the name Ierna will hold till Saturday is another matter, perhaps, but that the new cutter may be christened Shamrock or Ierna, as more appropriately still, a bottle of John Jameson's Dublin whiskey may be broken over the bows, and the Scotch champagne may elude bravely into Southampton's muddy waters with the classic name of Ierna. Even in the simple matter of a name it is apparently necessary to preserve an air of solemn mystery until the launching hour.

More than three months ago we published the particulars about the Ierna, Shamrock, or whatever she is to be called, and immediately after that the information was repeated from Boston to Kingston, where the Ierna was christened. The Ierna was christened by the name of Ierna, and she was christened by the name of Ierna.

THE COLLAPSE OF THE INQUIRY.

Attorney General Blair ought to be greatly obliged to Dr. Atkinson and Mr. Daniel L. Harrington for the pains they have taken to rehabilitate him in the good opinion of his constituents.

For their effort in this direction it may have been a question whether Mr. Blair would not have encountered serious opposition in the county of York in the case of his having to go to the stumps.

There is no denying the fact that owing to the stumping difficulty certain interests were likely to be allied against him in his own county, which formerly were in his favor.

The effect of the stumping question and of all other questions has been wholly neutralized by the grand attempt which has been made by the opposition to fasten upon the leader of the government the most serious charge of which a public man has ever been accused.

Dr. Atkinson, with a degree of impudence almost unparalleled, declared by his resolution that he believed that Attorney General Blair had sold the dock contract to Mr. Leary for a sum of money to be used for the purpose of corrupting the constituencies of this province in the interest of the government.

Every honest man who has read the evidence from the beginning must now be convinced that this charge was not only entirely false, but that it was maliciously false.

Dr. Atkinson was unable to produce a single atom of evidence to substantiate his charge.

Every man connected with the Leary matter was brought forward and their united testimony showed, not only that no money had been received by Mr. Blair from Mr. Leary or on Mr. Leary's behalf, but that no money had been paid by Mr. Leary to any one who had any pretence of acting on behalf of the government.

This malicious and false charge having been thus disproved, Mr. Blair's strength in the minds of those who have voted for him ever since, it is well known that every false accusation against a public man, and that one who made it, and when the contents of this province find that the opposition is so utterly reckless and regardless of character or veridicality, and that they cannot substantiate, they will refuse to put any confidence in him for all time to come.

Mr. Daniel L. Harrington has always been a dead weight on every political party with which he has been connected.

He had the distinguished distinction of being the first man to be unseated for bribery and corruption under the act of the legislature, and every party party to which he has given his support has suffered from it.

When Mr. Harrington, by the retirement of Judge King and Judge Fraser, became the premier of the late government, so unpopular was he, so utterly unable to cope with the difficulties that would be set upon him, that he was unable to keep his party together and his government collapsed.

That event took place seven years ago, and since then, Mr. Harrington has posed as the leader of the opposition. It is safe to say that so long as Mr. Harrington remains leader, the opposition will continue to be in the government, Mr. Harrington is so unpopularity, he wins so little respect, that it is impossible that he should be brought to power.

We look upon the investigation which has been brought up in regard to the Leary matter as a most fortunate thing for the Blair government, inasmuch as the investigation will tend to destroy the worthlessness and falseness of their accusations.

The government party in this episode will be stronger than ever in the government and in the constituencies.

THE BANKING BILL.

We observe an article in the Montreal Gazette which occupies a column and a half of that paper, and appears to have been suggested, if not written, by an outside source, which is very severe upon the new banking bill which is now before parliament.

The ground taken by the Gazette in the editorial referred to is very much the same as that taken by this paper during the preliminary discussions upon the bill which were conducted before the Minister of Finance.

It is immaterial whether the attitude of the Gazette has been suggested by some powerful banking corporation at Montreal or whether it is due to an earnest conviction on the part of those who conduct that newspaper. This much is certain, that the position taken by the Gazette in this matter is a sound one, and that it is justified by the experience of those who have dealt with similar measures in times past.

The objects which the people of the Dominion demand shall be accomplished by the new banking measure, are absolute security of the currency issued by the banks and its acceptance all over the Dominion without any discount.

The new bank act of Mr. Foster's proposes to accomplish both of these objects, but it is gravely feared that it will not have result.

The security of the currency is to be guaranteed by a deposit of 5 per cent. of the circulation of each bank in a general fund, which will be applicable for the redemption of the notes of any bank which falls. And in order that there may be no loss to the depositors in banks which close their doors, interest at the rate of 6 per cent will be allowed on all notes held over from the day of suspension until the time of payment.

But as it is pointed out in this article, and as this paper pointed out some time ago, this guarantee is simply taking the liability off the shoulders of the stronger banks which have no right to bear it.

It is also clear that a deposit of 5 per cent. would be utterly insufficient to meet any general collapse on the part of the banks in the event of a crisis which would cause two or three of them to suspend payment at once.

Five per cent on the total circulation of the Canadian banks would not redeem the notes we could name, much less of two or three should occasion unfortunately arise for them to go into liquidation.

This serious difficulty at the outset, therefore, confronts the Finance Minister in dealing with this complicated and important matter, and it is not unlikely that the bill will go over until next session in order that fuller information may be had upon this point.

It seems that the proper solution as well as the most simple process would be for the bankers to consent to an act similar to the American banking act, by which all the circulation of notes issued by a national character, redeemable by the state.

No doubt the banks are opposed to this in the main, because under the present system they are allowed to issue very large amounts of paper in proportion to their capital, and their profits are thereby increased to a considerable extent.

But there is no good reason why banking corporations or any other corporations should be enabled to make enormous profits from the public which at the same time the public are exposed to risk from their operations.

No one can have the slightest objection to the banks making as much money as they can possibly earn in a legitimate way, but it is no good reason against a national currency, that it would reduce the dividends of the banks.

The general public have interests of their own which are much more precious than those of the stock holders of the banks, and when the two come in conflict it is clear that the interests of the public must prevail.

We regard this article as very significant at the present time, and as indicating that serious differences of opinion have arisen even among the bankers themselves in regard to the wisdom of the bill which has been drafted by the Finance Minister and which is now before parliament.

SPRING AND THE SPRING POET.

So called humorists have for many years taken especial delight in the exhortation of those poets who, like the birds, burst into melody when the fields and woods burst from the fetters by which they have been so long confined.

The nature of the spring poet is highly sensitive, and except at rare intervals, in these latter days, he seems to have accepted the prevalent opinion that his silence is better than his song.

Yet if we refuse to believe in the poet, we seem to silence him with contempt, why may we not close our ears to the troubadours of the garden, woods, and woods, who come to us every year in the spring, with songs that though always old are always new?

There is much of poetry in nature's music, which is especially sweet at this season of budding buds. One fancies that in the trees and by the water courses he hears rhythmic voices, and there was a time when the poet would hear a time he should hear the grasses growing over him in his grave.

They may be unfortunate individuals, but they are not so called humorists, but they belong to a goodly company. Shakespeare wrote the finest spring poetry that man ever penned, with the exception, perhaps, of some Bible passages.

Milton, Thomson and Montgomery, Wordsworth, Scott and Coleridge, have varied very much in their appreciation of this season of all seasons, the most poetic and musical.

The so called humorist is often quite as glantly in his humor as the poet, and it is his duty to be so. He is not a desecrating of consideration as the former. As well might one attempt to silence the birds, who brooks to prevent the grass from springing and the flowers from budding at the vernal season, as to silence the poet, who is in his poetry, and it is his duty to be so.

It is not rash to join in the melody and in the merriment of the season, but it is not rash to join in the melody and in the merriment of the season, but it is not rash to join in the melody and in the merriment of the season.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The Sun this morning makes a lengthy attack on the government which is long and full of the observation that in the long run it does not pay to humbug.

Humbug has been the main stock in trade of the Sun for some time past.

Dr. Atkinson when placed on the stand for the Blair government, to his serious charge against Mr. Blair had admitted that he had no information on the subject, except that derived from hearsay, and Mr. Harrington refused to allow him to name his informant.

This is a pitiable evidence of a scandalous charge which ought never to have been made and which has only covered its authors with confusion.

THE PROCEEDINGS THROUGH TO A CLOSE.

The Proceedings Through to a Close. FEBRUARY 17, 1890.—This morning the committee unanimously decided to hear counsel for three-quarters of an hour with respect to the proposed amendments to the bill.

The amendments should be addressed to the committee in the absence of the reporters and the public, the desire of the committee being, if possible, to have arguments calmly presented and their opinion evidently being, from past experience in the committee, that if the room was open to the public Mr. Harrington would make it the occasion of talking to the country instead of the committee.

rather than addressing himself to the evidence. When the committee met to night, contrary to the decision, which had been arrived at by the committee, including Mr. Finney and Dr. Atkinson himself, Mr. Harrington insisted that the room should be open to the public.

The chairman reminded him of the decision of the committee and stated they would address to that. Mr. Harrington began his usual course of abuse, referring to the committee as a star chamber, whereupon the solicitor general interposed and stated that he did not intend to address the committee as he thought the evidence so clearly established the innocence of the attorney general that he would not insult the intelligence of the committee in the argument.

He then left the room. Shortly afterwards Mr. Harrington was observed backing out of the room with the provincial secretary in close proximity. Mr. Harrington at the time making the atmosphere unwholesome with uncomplimentary and abusive exclamations. It is understood that the committee will report in the morning.

In the report of Solicitor General Finney's evidence he is made to say that the saving clause in the contract was at first inserted against the wish of Mr. Murray. This is not a correct report. What he said was that the provision making the contract void in case of a change in the mind of the contractor was inserted against the wish of Mr. Murray, but that he (the solicitor general) had insisted upon its being in the contract in order to guard the public interest.

AT THE CAPITAL.

The Work of Parliament Yesterday. OTTAWA, April 16.—The house was occupied all afternoon with the consideration of Thompson's memorial bill on the third reading.

Bergin moved to strike out the clause protecting female employes in factories and workshops against offences by employers or foremen, the protection to extend to women up to thirty years of age. His motion was supported.

Mr. Mitchell then moved to extend the protection to female employes in all places, with the age limit reduced to 21 years. This was lost.

Mr. Tisdale moved that the age limit be reduced to 20 years, and this also was lost.

The bill was then read a third time and passed.

After recess, on motion to go into committee on ways and means, Bergin moved that the government should admit free of duty such nursery stock as had been contracted for prior to the imposition of the duty. His request was supported.

Mr. Campbell, Tisdale, Kirk, Mitchell, Charlton, Laurier and several others.

Foster and Boveil said that the government could not grant the request, as the importers of nursery stock had various other claims which would be effected by the changes in the tariff.

Cook called attention of the government to illegal fishing of herring in the Georgian Bay district resulting in the wholesale slaughter of fish. His remarks were supported by Dawson, Cockburn and McNeill.

The house then went into committee of ways and means.

With respect to the glass duties, Hon. Mr. Foster announced several minor changes. Rough and rolled colored plate glass was made to read: Rough and rolled plate glass. Silvers glass was made to read: Silvers glass in panes of plate glass. The extra duty of one cent per square foot if bevelled, is made two cents.

These two items were struck out: Fur felt hats, $1.50 per dozen and 20 per cent ad valorem, and ladies hats and caps 25 per cent ad valorem. Instead, by hats, and bonnets generally are to be 30 per cent ad valorem.

The items respecting iron tubing were altered as follows: Pipes and cast iron pipes, and cast iron fittings, to be 30 per cent ad valorem, but the importation is to be a duty of 10 per cent.

The words "when not tinted," are inserted in the iron tubes.

The duty on skins for Morocco leather is made 15 per cent instead of 10. The belting leather item will read: "Tanned, but not dressed, waxed or glazed," in place of "tanned or dressed, but not waxed or glazed."

In the most duties is added the item: "Salted beef in barrels, 2 cents per pound." In the case of all imports of meat, the cases or barrels are to be free.

Mustard seed is put on the free list, in place of paying 10 per cent.

The words "various kinds of rice" are struck out of the item where they occur after "dry, white and red lead, orange, mineral and fine white lead." Instead, All liquids or ready-mixed paints, not elsewhere specified, are declared to be dutiable at 30 per cent in place of five cents per pound and 25 per cent.

In paper hangings, white blanks and white papers and satins will be three cents per roll in place of two cents.

Flumage will be 15 per cent, in place of 25.

Garden seeds, in bulk or large parcels, will be 10 per cent, instead of 15.

The changes noted above were all made on motion of Hon. Mr. Foster, being the outcome of representations made since the new tariff was submitted with the budget.

The committee rose at 1:30 and the house adjourned.

In the Cemetery.

There are cities whose gates are always open: where the rich and the poor, the educated and the illiterate, the only and the beautiful, are and welcome. Their inhabitants make no enquiries concerning the financial standing or social status of the newcomers; they receive him in silence, and no matter how imprudent the use of his tongue he hitherto may have been, or how bitterly he may have reproved his fellows, he is no longer imprudent or capable of evil. And, if a man, no one recognizes his villainship. The world knows no other democracy like that which prevails in the cities of the dead.

No, they do neither weep nor sleep. And the day is like the night. For their vision is of ether kind they sleep. They do not stir nor weep, nor do they sleep. In the land of the dead, they sleep away the hours: But they lie, while or their range Winter still and summer change, And a hundred happy whispings of flowers. No, they do neither weep nor sleep.
