Nothing more strikingly expressive of the Pope's frame of mind has yet been made public than his few emphatic phrases to the cardinalate Saturday. Leo, XIII. is not only the head of the great church of historical primacy, he is recognized as reviving the highest traditions of state craft associated with the papacy. When, therefore, he feels it incumbent to utter his mud so freely as he does to the car- dinals, one of two things may be inferies: Ether he has resolved irrevocably to quit Rome and break the imposing association of centuries, or he hopes to exact from the secular powers certain guarantees, with- out which the papal tenure of the Eternal City has become impossible. It has been asserted explicitly in French and Itahan journals that since the summer outbreak on the removal of the late pope's remains, the most precious refices of the church in the Vaticau and St. Peters have been care- fully inventoried and removed by night to the various legations in Rome accredited to the Papal court. The significant pre- caution, in conjunction with the Pope's explicit assertion on Saturday, gives weight to the growing rumor that Leo XIII., feeling himself virtually in the same posi- tion that Louis XVI. tound himself after his failure to escape in 1789, means to as- sure before it is too late. WEALTH OF THE QUEEN .- It is usually supposed that the Queen has laid by a great deal of money, and, acting on this supposition, it is asked why she cannot provide for her family? As a matter of fact she has not. When Prince Albert died many of the state departments were in debt; these debts have been paid off.

Some of them-such as that of the Master of the Horse, for which £10,000 per annum is allowed-always have to borrow from the other departments or from the Privy Purse. The Queen really does not put by as much as £20,000 per annum on an average of years. She has always given ters who has married, and this has drained
