FAIR PLAY WINS THE RACE

(By The Associated Negro Press)

In a Boston high school boys' race, a few days ago, a colored lad was speedy enough to get in front of and open up a lead on the rest of the field. As the tape hove in sight, his strength waned fast, from the effects of the killing pace he had set, and a white competitor, with plenty of strength in reserve, shot by him to a win, the colored boy finishing second.

The pandemonium of the crowd has been followed by group discussions of the relative merits of the boys who figured in the running, of their judgment in setting the pace or laying back and of other fine points of running.

Hark! The colored boy's name reverberates through the hall, from the announcer's megaphone, as the winner. The boy who finished first has been disqualified for fouling the colored. Yes, he accidentally struck, or touched him when passing. A foul has been committed according to the rules and the penalty is disqualification. Fair track officials have enforced the rules impartially and applied the penalty. The admirers of the youth who had apparently won the race and the pupils of the school represented by him, though showing disappointment, accept the decision gracefully. The rule governing this foul is a most salutary one. The slightest interference will many times throw a runner out of his stride and may even cause him to stumble and fall, with perhaps serious injury, not only to himself, but to others who are at his heels, and who cannot avoid him as he falls or after he is down. The slightest interference will also often change the whole complexion of a close race. So it behooves a competitor to exercise care that he does not foul another competitor.

The colored youth's friends realize that the foul was unintentional; also that it did not change the order in which the contestants finished, as their man was spent and the fellow who sped by him strong.

The boy who carried away the first prize will recall this incident many a time; and later in life he will wish that the game was played according to the rules, and that he might meet with as fair play as he did in the school boy race.

WINNER OF ESSEX SIX

Miss Freida Perkins, the beautiful young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perkins, 977 Howard Ave., Windsor, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Handson, of Dover, was the recipient of a beautiful new Essex Coach, the Grand Prize donated by the Booker T. Club of Detroit at their entertainment in Arcadia Hall, Feb. 28th.

This club is organized to raise funds to erect a fraternity house for the colored students at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Miss Perkins was the holder of the lucky ticket which won for her this beautiful car.

Services Held For Mr. G. Chandler

A brief and solemn service was conducted at the John Ferguson and Son's Undertaking Parlors on Tuesday, March 18th, at 10.30 a.m., previous to the removal of the remains of Mr. George Chandler to his former home in Fort Erie for interment. Mr. Chandler departed this life on Sunday, March 16th at 10.30 a.m. Rev. F. O. Stewart, of the B.M.E. Church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. E. M. Woods, of Hill St. Baptist Church. Throughout his long siege of suffering, Mr. Chandler was patient and enduring, not murmuring to those who visited him. Mr. Huray, President of the G.W.V.A. attended the services accompanied by three other men from Ward 8 at the Victoria Hospital, the ward wherein Mr. Chandler was confined during the most of his illness. He spoke very highly of Mr. Chandler and said that he was one of the most sympathetic men he had ever met. He stated that the thoughts of Mr. Chandler were always for others, although he himself was in very intense agony. Mr. Chandler was of a very congenial disposition, and will be greatly missed among the boys and girls of our city, especially those of the baseball team.

ACTOR MUSICIAN OUT FOR HIMSELF

(By The Associated Negro Press)

Chicago—All primed for a brand new show of its own, the team of Chapelle and Stinnette, until last Sunday the stars of the famous Plantation Days musical comedy, came out with the promise that within the next few weeks they are to offer the theatre-going public something distinctive in the line of the art of the theatre. Mr. Chapelle makes the confession that he was brought up in the South, that he loves music, the music of his race, and that he has seldom seen it done with the credit he thinks it should have in the theatre. For that reason he has made a special study of this music as it has appealed to him and incorporated his findings in the show he is to put out. New stars are promised, some of whom may come from Chicago. The new producer has made the rounds of the music schools of the city and culled out the prodigies who are to shine for him.

THE HOUR OF DECISION

We are face to face with one of the greatest problems the forces of temperance have met for many years, and the hour of decision is upon us. While every available means is being brought into play to defeat the O.T.A., shall the forces of men and women who were instrumental in the existence of this act stand and see it crushed to oblivion.

While the black side is being painted and it is made to look as despicable as possible by the opposition, it would appear that its defenders have been submerged under the barrage of the enemy.

We are not claiming for this act any degree of idealism, nor are we saying much regarding its enforcement. But we do say this about it, that we are conscious that it was an endeavour on the part of its framers to give to the public a remedy for the evils confronting it. What shall we do about it, now that the forces of opposition are rising up to cast it aside.

The forces of all workers for human good must be marshalled against this effort. The Churches must be held to high accountability. They are, indeed, more constant in their temperance teaching and practice than any other forces in society. But it must be admitted that if all the Churches presented a unity of teaching against the evil, and a solid line against any change whatever, there would not be much need of alarm.

Then put by the side of the Churches, the press of the country, and public opinion would make the sale of alcohol impossible and the enforcement of the O.T.A. a reality. Public opinion in our estimation is the final authority. Whoever shapes public opinion makes the laws, fixes the pursuits and dictates the amusements. The pulpit and the press aroused and united would bring about some wonderful changes in the world of mankind, in the course of a year, that would be startling to humanity. Shall we decide in this hour of trial, to unite our forces and sound the alarm. It is a great thing to have the great papers of our province to sound the alarm and turn public attention to this evil and demand some remedy. We must not grow weary in well doing. The cause of temperance is the cause of Christ and sooner or later will triumph. We know not how soon our cause will triumph; for it is none of our business to know. But this we do know, and that is enough to nerve us to our greatest and best efforts: that our cause is right. And, being right, will ultimately win the field. Whatever action is to be taken in this all important question, let us decide at once. Let every battery be manned, every gun pointed in the right direction, and one great volume, unanimous and uncontrolled, go forth for God, for truth, for temperance, for the Cross of Christ, and for the betterment of humanity.

F. O. STEWART,
London, Canada.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:—

May I compliment you on the Dawn of Tomorrow. With eagerness I await it weekly. I read it with pleasure. Please allow me to compliment you on the first page. In nearly every other paper they select the front page on which to put the murders. But in The Dawn of Tomorrow there is always something on the front page which is an uplift to humanity and especially to our race. And I truly trust our race in Canada will see this and boost The Dawn until it grows to be the biggest paper, white or colored in the Dominion of Canada.

LOVE RULES

(By S. E. G. Allen)

Love rules the world, for God is love, Whatever fate mankind befall. On earth beneath, or Heaven above, Sublime the truth, that loves rules all.

We hesitate, we pause, we fear. "Could we but see," how oft we say, "And feel the hand that leads us here?" Love sees for us a better way.

With wavering faith the shadows fall. And darkening clouds would thus defer, The sweetening peace that comes to all In trusting Love that cannot err.

Oh Love Divine: How sweet to know Where'er our wandering footsteps be On heights above, on vale below, Nought but all-conquering Love we see.
