FLYING.

Toronto has 18 games to play before the season closes; six with Rochester, four with Syracuse, and eight with Buffalo.

It has been practically determined that the Baltimore baseball team will go to Europe soon after the close of the present season. The trip will be under the management of John McGraw, and twelve men will probably undertake the journey upon a purely co-operative plan, playing such clubs as they find in existence on the other side.

Meekin is suffering from a bad attack of malaria, and is unable to play.

Pickering, of Louisville, does not seem to be hitting the ball in the style that his work gave promise.

Arthur Clarkson is still lingering with his old cough, although his lease on Baltimore life expired some time ago.

President Borge, of the Wilkes-Barre team, and Manager Howard Earl had some difficulty with the manner in which a game was played last week. Earl became very abusive, and was fined $100 and suspended indefinitely.

THE TURF.

WINDSOR RACES.

Windsor Race Track, Sept. 1.—Following are yesterday's results:

First race, 3-4 mile, selling—Kenedy 1, Bill Ellison 2, Lord Nelson 3. Time, 1:34 1-2.

Second race, 4-1-2 furlongs—Arlington 1, Rideau 2, John Carr 3. Time, 3:56.

Third race, mile, handicap—Florence Colville 1, Beau Ideal 2, Ardath 3. Time, 1:41 3-4.

Fourth race, 5 furlongs, selling—Shuffleboard 1, Brown Girl 2, Dr. Newman 3. Time, 1:02 1-4.

Fifth race, seven furlongs, selling—Mrs. Morgan 1, Dockstead 2, Bona Schoenfeld 3. Time, 1:23.

Sixth race, 5 furlongs, selling—Edith 1, Twonet 2, Austen 3. Time, 1:03 3-4.

Derby Princess has to her credit already $4,340.

Nuthacker, 2:24 1-2, once a sensation, is dead. He was 13 years old, and as a 3-year-old was great.

A pacer named simply Red stepped Lexington track last week in 2:15 3-4. He is without a record.

"Doc" Bailey, the Portland, Me., veterinarian, who persistently argues against the two-minute performer, will wager $5,000 that neither the present trotting record, 2:03 3-4, or the pacing, 2:01 1-2, will be beaten this year.

Thordine, 2:11 1-4, the star 2-year-old pacer, is of the hopped variety.

Buffalo Driving Park will probably be cut up into building lots and sold. It is not likely the Hamiltons will rebuild.

Star Pointer, 2:04 1-2, will try for the stallion record on 2:03. He has been shipped to Rigby, the track on which Joe Patchen accomplished the task.

THE WHEEL.

RELAY RIDERS LOSE TIME.

Rawlins, Wyo., Sept. 1.—The riders of the San Francisco Examiner and New York Journal relay lost time on account of a cloudburst and bad roads. They were six hours and eight minutes late yesterday.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 1.—The Examiner-Journal relay riders arrived at Kimball last evening at 6:26, having been on the road 6 days, 6 hours and 26 minutes, and having traveled 1,422 miles.

HORSE AGAINST BICYCLIST.

A match race, mile heats, has been made between Joe Patchen, the pacer, 2:03, and W. W. Hamilton, the cyclist, who holds several world's records, to take place at Rochester, N. Y., on Sept. 13, for a purse of $2,000. Hamilton will have the pole. The track, which is a very fast mile course, will be especially prepared for this event.

SPOKES.

Bald leads the L. A. W. percentage table with .83; then comes Cooper, .829; Tom Butler, .826; Gardiner, .715; Sanger, .680; Zeigler, .633; Loughhead, .636.

At Oshawa on Saturday McCarthy won the half-mile and mile professional races, with Elliott second in each. Moore won the mile amateur, with Hulse second. Cinnamon won the novice, and Johnston won the championship of Ontario and Durham counties.

The river road, between Windsor and Amherstburg, is in a very bad condition for wheelmen, and strangers are advised to run out the Huron line and the old Malden line, which are in first-class condition, except about three miles, which are rather sandy.

On the L. A. W. National Circuit to date Gardner has won $1,245; Bald $1,035; Cooper, $885; Sanger $730; Zeigler $650; Tom Butler $500; Loughhead $240. Gardner has followed the circuit more steadily than the other named, hence his lead. Taking all meets, Bald and Cooper are calculated to have earned about $5,000 each this year, and Tom Butler $2,000.

TRIGGER.

CAPT. WATT'S SCORE.

At the nursery match (500 yards, 5 rounds), at the D. R. A. matches in Ottawa, yesterday, Capt. P. J. Watt, of the Seventh Fusiliers, London, made 21, and won a $3 prize. The highest score was 25, made by Pte. L. Hartford, 71st, and Pte. H. Wall, 1st.

In Ireland's Interest.

Opening of the National Convention at Dublin.

Archbishop Walsh Heads the Canadian Delegation.

Dillon Claims the Success of the Gathering Is Assured.

Dublin, Sept. 1.—The first session of the Irish National Convention opened at noon today in Leinster Hall, which was well filled with delegates. It was estimated that the Irish race was represented here today by from 600 to 700 delegates, but it is hoped that at least 1,000 more will arrive during the day. They came from Ireland, Great Britain as a rule, but the United States, Canada, Australia and South Africa are also represented.

Inscribed on the tickets of admission of the accredited representatives was the following utterance of the Irish statesman Henry Grattan: "You have done too much not to do more; you have gone too far not to go on. You are in that situation where you must silently advocate your country's rights or publicly reject them." The walls of Leinster Hall were appropriately decorated for the occasion. Mr. John Dillon, M.P., chairman of the Irish parliamentary party, presided at the opening of the convention, expressed the opinion that its success was already assured, and that the attendance would be twice as great as that of the last year. He said they had dared to hope for. He said that the delegates present represented four-fifths of the Irish Nationalists, and that there was a good number of Parnellites present, in spite of the opposition of the latter to the convention. The Parnellite press continues to be hostile to the convention, claiming it to be little more than a party machine, and asserting that the delegates are knaves. The feeling among the foreign delegations was that all sections should unite. With this object in view, a meeting of 40 foreign delegates took place last night, 35 of them being from the United States and Canada, at which it was proposed to appoint a committee of seven foreign delegates to personally interview Messrs. Redmond, Healy and Dillon, with the object of inducing all factions to support one leader, and as an alternative it was suggested that all donations from foreign sources should be stopped in case the warring factions failed to come to an understanding.

The resolution was stubbornly opposed by Mr. M. J. Ryan, of Philadelphia, who insisted that all action should be postponed until tonight. After a heated discussion, lasting two hours, the meeting dispersed without having accomplished anything except, it was feared, to sow seeds of discontent.

The convention was called to order promptly at noon by Mr. Justin McCarthy, M. P., who nominated the Most Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, D.D., Bishop of Raphoe, for permanent chairman. The bishop was unanimously elected.

There is talk of a plank in favor of currency reform, having for its main object the retirement of the greenbacks and a revised system of issuing bank notes to take the place of the greenbacks, the notes to be redeemed and re-issued, and supported by a gold reserve in the banks, with the maintenance of all currency at a par with gold. This scheme is said to have behind it several strong men who will push it before the committee on resolutions. There is also a movement to secure an indorsement of the principles of the income tax, but this does not receive very hearty support from the delegates now here.

At the Brandon Asylum on Sunday a lunatic named Carrothers killed another lunatic named Ronnet by striking him on the head with an axe. The deed was done deliberately and without the slightest provocation while they were engaged milking cows.

Emmett F. Schmitt, a wealthy Chicagoan, was found dead behind the locked door of his bedroom in his residence on Prairie avenue. The gas in the room had been turned on, and Schmitt had died from asphyxiation. Since the death of his wife fourteen months ago he had been much depressed.

Mrs. Phelps, wife of the president of the Grimsby Park Company, who had been ill for some days, died on Sunday, surrounded by her family and hosts of friends in the president's summer home on the grounds. The directors of the Park Company acted as pallbearers, carrying the casket to the station for conveyance by train to Merriton, where the funeral will take place.

A VETERAN IN CRIME.

Dunnville, Ont., Sept. 1.—Humphrey Gurst, 75 years of age, was arrested here Saturday night by Constables McIndoe and Stevens for horse stealing. He had left the horse about a mile east of the town, where he offered it for sale. He was taken to St. Catharines, where he was committed for trial. The horse was stolen from F. W. Gregory, a farmer near St. Catharines. Gurst has spent some 45 years at Kingston, mostly for horse stealing.

Do You Use It?

It's the best thing for the hair under all circumstances.

Just as no man by taking thought can add an inch to his stature, so no preparation can make hair. The utmost that can be done is to promote conditions favorable to growth. This is done by Ayer's Hair Vigor. It removes dandruff, cleanses the scalp, nourishes the soil in which the hair grows, and, just as a desert will blossom under rain, so bald heads grow hair, when the roots are nourished. But the roots must be there. If you wish your hair to retain its normal color, or if you wish to restore the lost tint of gray or faded hair use ly elected, amid the wildest applause. Bishop O'Donnell then read a message from the Pope, in which his Holiness prayed that the Irish leaders might end their dissensions. The chairman then specially welcomed the delegates from the United States and Canada, and delivered an address pleading for unity.

The Canadian delegation was headed by Archbishop Walsh, of Toronto.

During the early stages of the meeting a circular issued by Messrs. Ryan and Cronin, the secretaries respectively of the United States and Canadian delegations, was handed about among the delegates. The circular, it was claimed, was issued in the name of all the foreign delegates, and protested against the attacks of the Parnellite press. It was stated that the foreigners came over at their own expense, that they were absolutely unpledged, and that they were not committed to any opinion in regard to the merits of the different factions. On this ground the foreign delegates claimed that they had the right to courteous treatment upon the part of every newspaper professing to advocate home rule for Ireland.

The Gold Democrats.

Gathering for the Convention at Indianapolis.

Casting About for a Candidate—Conflict Over the Platform Likely.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 1.—Although the national convention of gold standard Democrats is not yet open, away, the delegates are slow in arriving. A few of the notables, including New York, Louis Elwell, of the New York, Comptroller Eckels, of Illinois, Senator Vilas, of Wisconsin, ex-Representative Cuthbert, of Ohio, and C. S. Perry, of Connecticut, got here yesterday, but the real influx will not begin until today.

Thus far, but one delegate has appeared who does not favor the nomination of a third ticket. The managers look upon a ticket in the doubtful States as of vital importance, but the general expectation now is that an electoral ticket will be put in almost every State in the Union.

The managers have begun to cast about for a nominee for Connecticut. The most prominent of the new names suggested is that of Senator George Gray, of Delaware.

There was considerable discussion last night about the platform which the convention will adopt, and there are indications that a conflict may be the outcome. Mr. Bynum today received from Abram S. Hewitt, of New York, a draft of the platform which the New York men think should be adopted. Mr. Bynum some time ago wrote to numerous leading gold Democrats throughout the country, asking them to submit their ideas as to what the platform should be. Several responded with drafts of different planks, but Mr. Hewitt sent an entire platform of New York.

There is talk of a plank in favor of currency reform, having for its main object the retirement of the greenbacks and a revised system of issuing bank notes to take the place of the greenbacks, the notes to be redeemed and re-issued, and supported by a gold reserve in the banks, with the maintenance of all currency at a par with gold. scrofula

Any doctor will tell you that Professor Hare, of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, is one of the highest authorities in the world on the action of drugs. In his last work, speaking of the treatment of scrofula, he says:

It is hardly necessary to state that cod-liver oil is the best remedy for scrofula. It is given in emulsion, so prepared as to be palatable.

He also says that the hypophosphites should be combined with the oil.

Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, is precisely such a preparation.

TORONTO INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

SPECIAL NOTICE:

VISITORS to the above who are musically inclined should carefully inspect the Mason & Risch Piano exhibit. Our stand is the first one on the left as you enter the Musical Pavilion. Our exhibit is not a large one, as we believe that the beautiful tones of instruments can be more fully appreciated in the quiet of our warerooms than amidst the bustle and confusion of an exhibition. We shall therefore make our principal exhibit at our warerooms, 32 King street west, to which all visitors are cordially invited.

One of the most valuable paintings at the Art Gallery in the exhibition building will be the famous portrait of the great pianist, Frank List, which was painted at his command by Baron Joukovsky, a great Russian artist, and presented to Messrs. Masch & Risch as a tribute to the wonderful tone qualities of their pianos. Every lover of art should make it a point to see this painting. It is valued by experts at $5,000.

The Sewerage Bylaw.

Final Meeting for Discussion of the Subject.

New Phases of the Subject Presented and Objections Answered.

Tomorrow the vote will be taken on the sewerage bylaw. The public meeting at Waterloo street north school last night was the final one of the series held for the purpose of setting the matter before the ratepayers in the various wards, and it by far exceeded the former meetings in length and heated discussion. Mr. Seldon S. Casey was chairman, and a number of speeches for and against the bylaw were made.

Dr. Campbell, the first speaker, replied to Mr. W. Scarrow's letter in yesterday's Advertiser, in which the writer stated that undue haste was shown in putting the matter through. No time had been lost, the speaker said, in getting the plans ready to submit to the people as early as possible, and the courts had decided that something must be done before Sept. 1.

Then there was a personal attack. The letter referred to by the doctor as a "hobby-ride." Dr. Campbell said it was unfair to make this statement, as he had only done as forced to do, being a member of the Board of Health. With regard to his action as chairman of the school board at that time, the doctor gave no attention to the question of graded schools. Referring again to the sewerage question, Dr. Campbell said this system provides for carrying off all the sewage and rain-fall of the city. He had asked Engineer Ashbridge of Toronto, to make a calculation, and learned the sewer would carry 1,200 cubic feet per minute, which means 11,600,000 cubic feet per day. Referring to the noted engineers who had advised the plan, he asked was it conceivable that they were going to make a lot of blunders? The scheme would be perfectly satisfactory, he said. It would last for many years to come, and finally the Provincial Board of Health had given their unanimous approval to it. It had been estimated that the cost would be half a million dollars, but Engineer Chipman, who, for the sake of his reputation, always gave the lowest estimate, had figured $200,000, and in all probability that is over the mark instead of under.

Mr. Little entered while the doctor was speaking, and succeeded him on the platform. He said he had not only two objections to the scheme, but also two objections to the sewerage. He thought that should be left to the engineers, and would not set up his opinion in opposition to theirs on the matter. Although not willing to admit that it was necessary to accept the question of size, he pledged himself that this should be done before the sewerage was put in. He was at the head of the council, and the scheme seemed satisfactory to almost all. With regard to special taxes, he said the ratepayers along the line of the sewerage were to be taxed, and he thought it was a fair thing to do. He thought the sewerage was a necessary thing, and he thought it was a fair thing to do.

Mr. Wm. Scarrow wanted the speaker to give names. His Worship would not give the names; he made the statement, and if it suited anybody he could take it to himself. This matter had been discussed in the City Council. There was a certain number of chronic drinkers in the city, and he thought it was a fair thing to do. He thought the sewerage was a necessary thing, and he thought it was a fair thing to do.

Mr. Ed. Walker, who far north does the intercepting sewer run? Someone in the audience—it'll hit the North End fire hall. (Laughter.) The mayor pointed out the course of the sewer.

The Mayor—There shall be added 10 per cent to the cost of the sewer. It has been the custom at the City Hall to add 10 per cent to the cost of sewers, and he thought it was a fair thing to do. He thought the sewerage was a necessary thing, and he thought it was a fair thing to do.

Ald. Armstrong then spoke in favor of the bylaw, and pointed out its many advantages to be gained by the new system. Ex-Ald. Scarrow was the next speaker, and vigorously opposed the bylaw. He claimed that the size of the sewers would be too small, and was of the opinion that the plan was for sewage only, and not surface water, and that these gentlemen (the mayor and Dr. Campbell) misrepresented what the experts had said. We should solve both problems, said the speaker, while we are at it. A trunk sewer along Carling's Creek would increase the value of land in that region from $3 and $4 a foot to $12 and $15. He said the advocates of the scheme had represented the cost to be $7,000 yearly, which would be an extra half-million on the assessment at 20 mills. This was only on the $150,000 only. The $55,000, which the Government had given them the permission to use, was the excess of the sinking fund debentures.

Ex-Ald. Boyd—Why was it not applied to the Fair buildings. The Mayor—it can be used for this purpose only.

Ex-Ald. Wm. Wyatt thought the size of the proposed sewers would not be large enough to carry off the storm water.

Mr. John Christie supported the scheme, and urged the ratepayers not to miss this chance to improve the city.

Question—Is Mr. Christie satisfied that the new system will drain the cellars of that part of the city better than at present?

Mr. Christie answered that he was.

Ald. Armstrong spoke strongly in favor of the bylaw. He said the mayor and Dr. Campbell were actuated by the highest motives.

Ald. Cooper asked if we had paid those engineers to tell us whether this system is right or not.

M. Shea—What about the fire hall you were going to give us?

Ald. Cooper—if you had coaxed Ald. Garratt you would have had that fire hall. The alderman expressed himself strongly in favor of the scheme. When he had used all his time, the chairman pointed out that fact, but the fourth warder turned to him, saying, "Do you know I represent this ward?" and kept on talking.

Ex-Ald. John Boyd was in favor of annexing London West to get over the sewage difficulty, and of making a trunk sewer of Carling's Creek to carry away the storm water.

Mr. Harry Carling asked if any individual living near the river might not bring action against the city for emptying the sewage into the river?

Mr. Boyd admitted they could.

Dr. Niven said the drains which open into the south branch of the river were a menace to the health of that part of the city. The bylaw should be supported, as improved sewage and a bridge work, 170 Dundas street.

Mr. James Parsons spoke against the bylaw.

Mr. J. M. Parsons opposed the bylaw on the ground that sufficient time had not been given to consider the matter.

Sir John Carling was the last speaker, and addressed the electors in the same strain as at the City Hall.

Mr. Boyd submitted a resolution to the effect that in the opinion of the meeting the proposed bylaw should be voted down in order to give the ratepayers more time to consider the plans in detail.

The chairman was about to put the resolution, and Ald. Cooper tried to get in a word. Mr. Casey wanted to know who was running the show.

The resolution received only seven votes.

A Sweeping Claim Made Many Years Ago.

Now Stronger Than Ever.

Paine's Celery Compound Still the Best and Most Reliable.

Just a few words to every suffering brother and sister in this dear Canada of ours.

Years ago, the broad and sweeping claim was made that Paine's Celery Compound was the only safe and reliable medicine—the only true life-giver and flesh-builder ever brought to the notice of suffering humanity. Years of grand and noble work of marvelous cures of diseases from disease and death—have fully maintained the high position claimed for Paine's Celery Compound. Tens of thousands have been made well and strong after months and years of suffering, and have given public testimony that has never been approached by letters written for other medicines.

Amongst the tens of thousands saved by Paine's Celery Compound, we have those who once suffered from nervousness, sleeplessness, liver and kidney troubles, rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, heart trouble and blood diseases.

From, dear reader, a sufferer from any of these diseases, or have you any of the symptoms that point to them? If you are now suffering, we lovingly urge you to use Paine's Celery Compound, which physicians themselves strongly recommend. If you are only experiencing the symptoms that point to these diseases try one or two bottles, and be assured you will not be disappointed, for Paine's Celery Compound makes people well.

The Vote Tomorrow—The Sewerage Bylaw.

Tomorrow (Wednesday) the voting will take place on the sewerage by-law.

Particulars as to polling places will be found in our advertising columns.

We hope and believe that the bylaw will be carried, but if that is to be the case it will be noted that every favorable vote be polled.

We cannot do better than recapitulate the reasons already given why the bylaw should be sustained. In the first place, it must be distinctly understood that improved sewerage for the city is not optional—it is compulsory. The courts have decided that we must not put our sewerage into the river. A fine has been imposed; and an injunction to close up the present sewers prepared. These have been suspended for some years in order that the city might have reasonable time to prepare a satisfactory scheme of sewerage disposal. If we now refuse to do anything, and vote down the bylaw to be submitted, we must calculate to pay the fine; and be prepared to wake up some morning and find our sewers closed.

In addition, there are other lawsuits against the city, growing out of its imperfect sewerage. One of these has already been decided against us; but the judge allowed a few months' grace to enable us to abate the nuisance. The time has just expired.

There is really only one question to consider: Is the plan proposed a satisfactory one? The best answer to the question is this: The plan is one endorsed by three of the best sanitary engineers that could be secured—one in the United States and two in Canada. It is to be presumed that after a careful consideration by our local Board of Health for more than a year; and by the three consulting engineers—each of whom devoted several months to the problem, that it ought to be satisfactory. There can be no doubt that all conceivable methods have been carefully discussed; and the conclusions so unanimously reached may be accepted by us without hesitation.

The plans, and the system of disposal, have also received the official sanction of the Provincial Board of Health, without which approval no system of sewerage could be adopted by us.

But the chief reason why we should improve our sewerage, though it is not the one that always appeals most strongly to the public, is that we need it for sanitary advantages. London is a fairly healthy city. Its general cleanliness, its excellent water, its favorable surroundings, all tend to healthfulness. Only one thing more is needed. With a good system of sewerage it will stand without a peer in the Dominion. For this cause alone, the money expended would be the most profitable investment the city ever made.

The only objections anyone can raise would have their origin in the very natural hesitation we all feel over spending money, and increasing taxation. Fortunately in this case, the act obtained last session is exceedingly favorable. If the entire amount should be borrowed at once (which of course will not be necessary), it would only add between six and seven thousand dollars a year to our taxes; in other words, less than half a mill on the dollar of assessment. Surely, the outlay is trifling when compared with the beneficial results that are to be obtained, in improving the city, and in relieving it from legal disabilities which would in the end cost much more than the sewer debentures will cost.

Let every ratepayer see where his voting place is, and go to the polls. If all those who are in favor of the bylaw vote, it will be carried easily. But if they are indifferent, and neglect to vote, each one thinking there will be enough without him, then it is safe to say it will be defeated.

Lord Aberdeen and the Senatorial Appointments.

The organs of Sir Charles Tupper, in discussing the action of his Excellency the Earl of Aberdeen, in respect to Senatorial appointments, adopt a line of argument which will not admit of a moment's examination; but in this they are simply following the lead of Sir Charles himself. Sir Charles points out in his memorandum that Peers are sometimes appointed by retiring Ministers, and he infers from this that a retiring Minister in Canada may with equal propriety appoint new Senators. This is not so. The number of peers is wholly unlimited. The appointment of prominent men to the peerage in England in no way hampers or interferes with their successors in office. This is not so in respect to the appointment of Senators. The number who may have seats in the Senate Chamber is limited; and the filling up of vacancies by a retiring government may be very unjust and extremely embarrassing to their successors in office. If a prominent statesman in England is required in the House of Lords by an incoming administration, there is no impediment in the way of his being elevated to the peerage. But if Sir Charles Tupper had been permitted to have a free hand, Mr. Laurier could not have sent Sir Oliver Mowat to the Senate. But, besides the inconvenience to an administration, there is the further consideration mentioned by Lord Aberdeen that there were only five or six Senators who belonged to the Liberal party; while there were upwards of seventy Senators in that Chamber supporting the retiring Administration. No one will for a moment argue that the state of parties has ever been such as to make their relative number in the Senate a proportional representation of the two great parties in the State. The use that Sir Charles Tupper proposed to make of the royal prerogative would have necessitated immediate action in the direction of Senatorial reform, and would have probably led to the abolition of the Senate, because it had become an obstructive committee within the Conservative party.

We are not among the number who think that a second chamber properly constituted is without obvious utility; but had Sir Charles Tupper's advice been taken, it is not improbable that an immediate demand would have arisen all over the country for the total abolition of the second chamber. A second chamber, recruited from time to time from men of long parliamentary experience in the House of Commons, would unquestionably be of advantage to the State. We by no means contend that no others should be chosen, but we do think that the class of men we have mentioned should be of the number. But those that have gone thither, whether from within the House of Commons, or from the great mass without, have been, with few rare exceptions, not of those who should have found their way into that chamber. Prof. Goldwin Smith, in his essay on the younger Pitt, points out that while that statesman was comparatively free from having had recourse to pecuniary bribery, he was, beyond any man who had preceded him, the great briber by offering to wealthy and obscure men seats in the House of Lords.

We are at a loss to understand why Sir Charles Tupper should have been so anxious that this correspondence should be laid before Parliament. We feel quite sure that the public judgment will be entirely with Lord Aberdeen and against Sir Charles Tupper in the country.

By the Way.

The Hamilton Spectator (Conservative) is hailing dead cats at the Governor-General, and at Lady Aberdeen, too.

The prohibition neblistic deputation will meet Mr. Laurier and Sir Oliver at Ottawa on Thursday at noon.

The voters on the sewerage bylaw tomorrow are all freeholders of $400 and over; and all lease-holders of 40 years' tenure.

What is Sir Oliver Mowat's particular scheme for ameliorating the Senate? There are more ways than one of killing a cat, you know.

At Montreal, on the 15th of September, it is proposed to start a Canadian Bar Association. Hitherto, all such associations have been local, or at most provincial. It is believed, in the words of the circular, that "an opportunity for a comparison of views and friendly intercourse is needed by the profession, and would be of service in helping to advance the science of jurisprudence, promote the administration of justice and uniformity of legislation, and uphold the honor of the profession of the law in Canada."

The Canada Presbyterian thinks it questionable kindness on the part of directors of the Toronto Fair to urge Mr. Laurier, while in the thick of his first Parliamentary session, as Premier, to open the exhibition. The Ottawa Free Press joins in warning Mr. Laurier not to kill himself, or allow himself to be killed, by over-engagements and overwork. In any ordinary year, Parliament would not be sitting in September, but this year is abnormal, in a Parliamentary sense.

A correspondent writes to know about the expression, "As poor as Job's turkey." Says the correspondent: "I suppose I am very ignorant and ought to know; but I don't. Did Job have a turkey, and how poor was it?"

Wanted for Murder.

A Tramp in Woodstock Jail Under the Accusation.

Was Sent Down for Breaking Into a Sealed G. T. R. Car.

Chief Skirving, of Ingersoll, yesterday received a telegram from the chief of police of Houston, Texas, asking him to arrest George C. Underwood on the charge of murder.

Underwood is the tramp who was arrested by Chief Skirving for breaking into a sealed car on the G. T. R. He was sent to Woodstock jail for 30 days and given six days more for trespass. Chief Skirving asked him at the time if he had been a cowboy. Underwood replied affirmatively.

"Did you ever kill a man?" the chief asked.

"Oh, yes," said Underwood, with an air of bravado.

What for?" asked the chief. Underwood replied that he shot a colored man dead for attempting to assault a white woman. He asked the chief to write to New York, asking to have his mail forwarded to Woodstock. The New York authorities had been posted by the Houston police, and immediately informed the latter of Underwood's whereabouts. The Houston chief is expected in Ingersoll in a day or two, when particulars of the crime will be learned.

IN A PASSION.

A Michigan Boy Accidentally Kills His Brother With a Pair of Shears.

Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 1.—Elmer Buisson, an employee of the Oval Wood Dish Company, aged 28, went home, and found his brother, Leon, a younger brother, aged 14, took his sister's part.

During the quarrel Leon seized a large pair of shears and threw them at Elmer, piercing the abdomen and causing a wound from which Elmer died on Saturday night.

Leon, who had no intention of hurting his brother, is prostrated with grief. Elmer, in his dying words, told Leon not to grieve about what was purely an accident.

COACHMAN WEDS GOVERNNESS.

Sandwich, Mass., Sept. 1.—John J. Nolan, President of Cleveland's coachman, and Jennie Schultz Landers, the governess in Mr. Cleveland's family, were married here on Sunday. Mr. Cleveland gave the couple a substantial check as a wedding gift.

A New Plan in Mining.

A new departure in mining companies was opened in our midst during the past week, and has awakened much interest among investors and financiers. The plan is to develop the sterling qualities in the business methods of the Colorado Gold Mining and Development Company, as shown in the plan of their prospectus, even in The Advertiser the past few days. Many people have always held a disregard for mining investments in general, from the fact of a speculative, speculative nature. The scheme which has been presented by this company is an entirely new one, doing away with the objectionable element of speculation, and offering instead a plan for profitable investment, which is purely mutual in its benefits, each stockholder possessing equal rights in the same basis with the officers and promoters of the company.

The plan of developing collectively and only such projects as show profit at sight, as in cases where valuable claims have been abandoned from lack of necessary funds to continue work, surely broadens the field for success, for when a single mine would be liable to exhaustion, even though a fair face was presented, the co-operation of an unlimited number, as handled in this way, makes satisfactory results practically certain, and the endorsement which has already been accorded the Colorado Gold Mining and Development Company must create an unusual amount of interest among those anxious to make profitable mining investments.

'Twix Love and Duty.

He knew all the stories of these men; how, fortified by their natural bravery and by their Calvinistic acquiescence in the purposes of Providence, they put out to sea in any weather, braved any danger, fought their enemies wherever they found them, worked like beavers behind their dams, and yet defiantly flung open their sluice gates, and let in the ocean to drown out their oppressors.

Through his mother, a beautiful Zealand woman, he was related to the Eversens, the victorious admirals of Zealand, and also to the great mercantile family of Overstraten; and he thought the enterprise of the one as honorable as the valor of the other. Besides the sailor pictures of Cornelius and Jan Eversen, and the famous "Keesje the Devil," he hung sundry likenesses of men with grave, calm faces, proud and lofty of aspect, dressed in rich black velvet and large wide collars—merchants, who were every inch princes of commerce and industry.

These lines of thought, almost tedious to indicate, flashed hotly and vividly through his mind. The likes and dislikes, the faiths and aspirations of past centuries, colored the present moment, as light flung through richly-stained glass has its white radiance tinged by it. The feeling of race—that strong and mysterious tie which no time or circumstances can eradicate—was so living a motive in Joris Van Heemskirk's heart that he had been quite conscious of its appeal when Semple spoke of a marriage between Katherine and his own son. And Semple had understood this when he so cunningly insinuated a common stock and a common form of faith. For he had felt instinctively that even the long tie of friendship between them was hardly sufficient to bridge over the gulf of different nationalities.

Then, Katherine was Van Heemskirk's darling, the very apple of his eye. He felt angry that already there should be plans laid to separate her in any way from him. His eldest daughters, Cornelia and Anna, had married men of substance in Esopus and Albany; he knew they had done well for themselves, and had become contented in that knowledge; but he also felt that they were far away from his love and home. Joanna was already betrothed to Captain Baravus de Vries; Bram would doubtless find himself a wife very soon; for a little while he had certainly hoped to keep Katherine by his own side; and Semple, in speaking of her as already marriageable, had given him a shock. It seemed such a few years since he had walked alone at night, cradled in his strong arms, close to his great loving heart; such a little while ago when she toddled about the garden at his side, her plump white hands holding his big forefinger; only yesterday that she had been going to the school, with her spelling book and Heidelberg in her hand. When Lysbet had spoken to him of the English lady staying with Madame Semple, who was teaching Katherine the new cursive script, it had appeared to him quite proper that such a child should be busy learning something in the way of needlework. "Needlework" had been given as the reason of these visits—which he now remembered had been very frequent—and he was so absolutely truthful that he never imagined the word to be in any measure a false description.

Therefore, Elder Semple's implication had stung him like a buffet. In his room he sat down on a big oak chest, and, as he thought, his wrath slowly gathered. Semple knew that gay young English officers were coming and going about his house, and he had not told him until he feared they would interfere with his own plans for keeping Katherine near him. The beautiful little Dutch maiden had been an attraction which he was proud to exhibit, just as he was proud of his imported furniture, his pictures and his library. He remembered that Semple had spoken with touching emphasis of his longing to keep his last son near home; but must he give up his darling Katherine to further this plan?

"I like it not," he muttered, "God for the Dutchman's sake! the Dutchman. That is the right way; but I will not make angry myself, for so much of passion, so much of nothing at all to the purpose. That is the truth. Always I have found it so."

Then Lysbet, having finished her second looking up, entered the room. She came in as one wearied and troubled, and said, with a sigh, as she untied her apron: "By the girls' bedside I stopped one minute. Dear me! when one is young the sleep is sound."

"Well, then, they were awake when I passed. That is not so much as one quarter of the hour—talking and laughing—I heard them."

"And now they are fast in sleep, their heads are on one pillow, and Katherine's head is fast clasped in Joanna's hand. The dear ones! Joris the Elder's words have made trouble in my heart. What did the man mean?"

"Who can tell? what a man says we know; but only God understands what he means. But I will say this, Lysbet, and it is what I mean, the Semple has led my daughter into the way of temptation, then, for all that is past and gone, we shall be unfortunates."

"Give yourself no concern on that matter, Joris. Why should not our girls be made of? Have not some of our best maidens married into the English set? And none of them were as beautiful as Katherine. There is no harm, I think, in a girl taking a few steps up when she puts on the wedding ring."

"Mean you that our little daughter should marry some English good-for-nothing? Look, then, I would rather see her white and cold in the dead chamber! In a word, I will have no Englishman among the Van Heemskirks! Thenceforth let us sleep; tonight I will speak no more."

But madam could not sleep. She was quite sensible that she had tacitly encouraged Katherine's visits to Semple House, even after she understood that Captain Hyde and other fashionable and notable persons were frequent visitors there. In her heart she had dreamed such dreams of social advancement for her daughter as most mothers encourage. Her prejudices were less deep than those of her husband, or, perhaps, they were more powerfully combated by her greater respect for the pomp and vanities of life. She thought rather well, in all of those people of her own race and class who had made themselves a place in the most exclusive ranks.

During the past ten years there had been great changes in New York's social life; many families had become very wealthy, and there was a rapidly growing tendency to luxurious and splendid living. Lysbet Van Heemskirk saw no reason why her younger children should not move with this current, when it might set them among the growing aristocracy of the New World.

She tried to recall Katherine's demeanor and words during the past day, and she could find no cause for alarm in them. True, the child had spent a long time in arranging her beautiful hair, and she had also begged from her the bright amber necklace that had been her own girlish pride—but what then? It was so natural, especially when there was likely to be fine young gentlemen to see them. She could not remember having noticed anything at all which ought to make her uneasy; and what Lysbet did not see nor hear she could not imagine.

Yet the past ten hours had really been full of danger to the young girl. Early in the afternoon, some hours before Joanna was ready to go, Katherine was dressed for her visit to Semple House; it was the next dwelling to the Van Heemskirks' on the river bank, about a quarter of a mile distant, but plainly in sight, and this very proximity gave the mother a sense of security for her children. It was a different house from the Dutch man's—one of those great square, plain buildings so common in the Georgian era—not at all picturesque, but finished inside with handsomely carved woodwork, and with mirrors and wall-papering brought specially for it from England.

It stood, like Van Heemskirk's, at the head of a garden sloping to the river, and there was a good deal of pleasant rivalry about these gardens; both proprietors having impressed their own individuality upon their pleasure grounds. Semple's had nothing of the Dutchman's glowing prettiness and quaintness—no clipped yew and hollies, no fanciful flower beds and little Gothic summer houses. Its slope was divided into three fine terraces, the descent from one to the other being by broad low steps, the last flight ending in a small pier, to which the pleasure and fishing boats were fastened. These terraced walks were finely shaded and adorned with shrubs, and on the main one there was a stone sun-dial with a stone seat around it. Van Heemskirk did not think highly of Semple's garden, and Semple was sure "that in the matter of flowers and fancy clippings, Van Heemskirk had far outdone a good thing." But still the rivalry had always been a good-natured one, and in the interchange of bulbs and seeds productive of much friendly feeling.

The space between the two houses was an inclosed meadow, and this afternoon, the grass being warm and dry and full of wild flowers, Katherine followed the narrow footpath through it and entered the Semple garden by the small side gate. Near this was a stone dairy sunk into the ground—a deliciously cool, clean spot, even in the hottest weather. Passing it, she saw that the door was open, and Madame Semple busy among its large, shallow, pewter cream dishes. Lifting her dainty silk skirts, she went down the few steps and stood smiling and nodding in the doorway. Madame was beating some rich curd with eggs and currants and spices, and Katherine, with a sympathetic smile, asked delightedly, "Cheesecakes, madam?"

After Two Years of Misery Endured Backache Succumbs to Dodd's Kidney Pills

Madam, Aug. 31.—In a place like this, people suffer and sympathize, hope and mourn with each other. But her many friends here, as elsewhere, who have long been aware of the precarious health and long-suffering of Mrs. J. Ferguson, were pleased to learn that her painful sufferings have ended at last, and that instead of being unable, as she says, "to turn herself in bed," she is herself once more as the result of using a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. She further says that from the third day after commencing to use and, that now she feels as well as ever before in her life.

The Board of Trade Consider the Sewerage Matter.

Resolution Favoring the Scheme Passed Without a Dissenting Voice.

Large and Representative Meeting—Speeches by the President, Sir John Carling, Dr. Campbell, John Campbell and Others.

The sewerage question was under consideration by the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon. Other business was held in abeyance, and this subject alone discussed. The meeting was a large and representative one. Not for some time have the members turned out in such numbers, thus showing the great importance they attach to the proposed sewerage system. President Bowman occupied the chair, and around the chamber were seated Messrs. D. W. Blackwell, John Cameron, J. D. Saunby, L. H. Ingram, Thomas Bryan, A. S. McIntosh, D. B. Deane, J. Mattinson, John Campbell, J. R. Rodd, J. de la Roche, H. W. Burnett, A. H. Beddome, Arthur White, A. M. Smart, Dr. C. T. Campbell and Secretary Neilles.

President Bowman stated the object of meeting. Members of the board were the heaviest taxpayers in the city, and they were of opinion that they wanted the most perfect system of sewerage they could get. The regular sewer didn't seem to meet the requirements of the city. We had fine avenues and everything needed to make a perfect city, with the exception of a sewerage and drainage system. There were bright prospects for the city—the new car works, the cold storage, and a new normal school, and with these things before them it was needful to look ahead. One very important item in the consideration was that we had a number of schools, only one or two of which had proper sewerage connection. In these schools there were about 6,000 children, whose health had to be looked after. The proposed system of sewerage had been approved by the Provincial Board of Health. In this scheme not one dollar of the city's money would be wasted. To leave it until a later date would simply mean a greater expense. It was something that had to be done sooner or later.

Dr. Campbell followed. He said he didn't come prepared to make a formal address, but rather to answer any question which might be asked. He said they had had this thing forced upon them. He dealt with the circumstances, and he proposed to inaugurate in London. By this was not meant a sewer on every street. What he meant to do was to put down sewers in such a manner as to save a depth that any street in the city could be sewerage, which could not be done in the present system. This applied particularly to South London, the fifth ward and the northern part of the city. According to the new system of sewerage, the city would be sewered. A sewer of this kind had to be made for London to have the proper sanitary conditions that it was necessary to have. The sewer would be wasted. Years hence the present plans might need alteration, but in this event the sewers would be there to alter, and would not have to be built then.

Sir John Carling said there was just one question he would like to ask Dr. Campbell. He had heard that the diameter of the tile to be employed was not of sufficient capacity. He hoped these things had been looked into. He had heard that the trunk sewer from the end of Dundas street would be of the necessary capacity. Dr. Campbell explained that the sewer plans had been prepared by experts who understood their business. The trunk sewer was three feet in diameter from the corner of King and Ridout streets to the farm, which was large enough for a city of a great deal bigger than London.

Sir John Carling said he was glad to hear that, and he believed that the whole scheme was most satisfactory. Forty years ago the council had considered it necessary to establish a sewerage system. The plans were drawn and the levels taken, and the scheme was pushed through. London East and the northern portion of the city were practically without sewerage at that time. There were fifteen or twenty schools in the city, and few of these had sewerage connections. There were 5,000 or 6,000 school children attending these schools, and it was necessary to have a perfect and healthy system of sewerage. He referred to the Asylum Creek, and the action taken against the Government, and said that after consideration the provincial authorities had concurred in the opinion that the plans now submitted to the present system were the right and proper ones for the city. As to the time, he said money could be borrowed on debentures at 3-1/2 to 4 per cent. The system could be built and taken up so that London might have the name it deserved. It would make the city a well-drained city, and a healthy one, and it would attract people to it. The city had a fair name all over the Dominion. It had a record of health second to none. It had beautiful avenues and fine asphalt pavements. He hoped this plan would meet the approval of the people. He was glad to see that the press were all in favor of it. They understood the questions pretty well, and presented them fairly to the people. Hon. John Carling then moved the following resolution, seconded by Mr. John Campbell:

"That the members of the Board of Trade of the City of London are strongly in favor of the passage of the proposed sewer by-law. We consider the question to be one of the greatest importance, as the present sewerage system does not meet with the requirements of the city. There is a prospect of a large increase of population and that many new public buildings will be constructed at an early date, and the present system would not be sufficient to deal with the drainage. It is therefore absolutely necessary that as perfect and complete a sewerage system as is possible be constructed at an early date. The members of this board feel assured that the proposed scheme is the result of a great deal of thought, and the best judgment, and that the knowledge available has been brought to bear upon to the perfecting of the present plans. Seeing that the scheme meets with the approval of the Provincial Board of Health and that it will relieve the city of the judgment of the courts and also meet the city's requirements, he it therefore resolved that this board do its utmost to support the carrying out of the proposed by-law."

Mr. John Campbell, in speaking to the motion, said he recognized the fact that a perfect system of sewerage was needful. He remembered the part that Sir John Carling and Mr. Hyndall had taken in advocating the waterworks system. London had the best water system, a good supply, and the purest in the continent of America. He characterized Mayor Little as the most shrewd man in Ontario, and he was surrounded by an honest council, because he would have no other. They were heartily in accord with the plan about to be voted on, and they wanted now was a good system of sewerage.

Mr. John Bland said he thought the members of the Board of Trade should not put out and do something to help the matter along. Many people would object to it, and they would be out in full force. He advised all to take an active part in the matter. Mr. Somerville seconded in accord with the undertaking. The motion was put and carried unanimously.

JOE'S WEDDING.
This is what the Detroit News says about it: "Joe Paladino, the handsome and popular treasurer of the Lyceum Theater, left Detroit last midnight a bachelor, and returns today a benedict. The lady who has taken him for better and for worse is Miss Margaret Watson, of London, Ont. The ceremony was performed in St. Peter's Church, in that city, at 7 o'clock this morning, by Rev. Fr. Tierney. Joe is a modest sort of chap, and is not having a fuss made over anything, so only a few of his intimate friends in Detroit knew of his intentions. The news leaked out, however, Saturday evening, and since then messenger boys have been kept busy carrying little packages to the box office in the Lyceum.
Mr. and Mrs. Watson will set up their household gods in the opera house
block on Randolph street.

THE DOG SHOW.
Norris Bros' tent at the corner of Queen's and Park avenues was packed last night by a well pleased audience. The performance by the trained ponies and dogs was a marvelous illustration of the degree of intelligence to which these animals can be brought by proper training. They are a handsome lot, the dogs being varied in breed, and some of them very rare.
A comedian, a performing monkey,
and a trained goat add much to the entertainment. The performance of the children into paroxysms of delight. The performance throughout is instructive, amusing and innocent. It is entirely free of the low and vulgar under main in London until Thursday night,

showing afternoon and evening.

Days at Port Stanley.
Closing Entertainments and Closing Remarks.
High jinks on the "Heights" culminated in a frolicsome sheet and pillow case party, given by Mrs. J. R.
Shuttleworth, last Friday evening. No one was away who could be present, for every one felt that it was to be the last reunion of good friends and pleasant summer acquaintances, a grand wind up to high days and low days.
Accordingly it was near the hour
when
"Churchyards yawn.
And dying men's groans Mingle with the rattle of dead men's bones."
That pale and ghostly forms in winding sheets, began to get in and out at gates, and along the darkened road, moonless and cloudy, only the cliffs looming up large and dark against the sky. In silence, and mute as the rest, the pale cold company towards an appointed meeting place wended
its way, where murmured greetings, low, half intelligible, took place, but then might gaze upon the face of another, far away, as in that city
by the Tiber. "The sheeted dead did sneak and gibber, in the streets of Rome," but loud outbursts or explosions of boisterous mirth there were none. For about exactly ten minutes, this is. Each ghost walked erect, and perpetrated heroically, under his pillow case, and white mask, till it was time to seize upon a partner for the Lancers, when a sort of general game of blind man's buff ensued. Many and loud were the mistakes that occurred, and to this moment a certain lady wishes she knew if the fat, thick hand she so confidently claimed as her husband's was really the property of that gentleman or another. The present writer knows, but thinks it would be a pity to tell her.

The rest of the evening was spent in a dark "Lady or the Tiger" state of uncertainty, and then came the order to unmask for supper, where on all sides rose exclamations and questions of "Oh, I thought it was you."
"Didn't you really know me?"
"I'm afraid I've been calling Mr.
So-and-so 'Ellen' all the evening,"
etc., etc.
No one seemed to feel like going home, particularly after being very comfortably provided with refreshment by Mrs. Shuttleworth, when the "astral body" began visibly to melt away, and in a very short time the ghostly phantoms were at it again.
Treading in that pennyworth of candle wax, that went down early in the afternoon (it's wonderful what a lot of cleverness you can get out of one wax candle).
Amongst the ghosts of those whom one once knew on earth, I noticed Mrs. Hyman, and her little sister, Miss Bessie Moore, Miss Kathleen Moore, Miss May Fraser, Mr.
Harry Pavey, Miss Maud Pavey, Mr.
Hugh Niven, Mr. and Mrs. J. McIntosh, Miss McIntosh, Mr. Gordon Mc-Intosh, Miss Walker, Miss Corinne
Drake, Mr. Norman Alexander, Mr.
Frank Ware, Mr. Ed Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Strong, Miss Mamie Pavey,
the Misses McIntosh, and Miss Hutchins, of Chicago, and many others.

SATURDAY NIGHT HOP.
I think everyone recognized with a little gasp the fact that it was the
last hop of the season; the summer
has seemed so short, but, however, it was the liveliest and best attended hop of the season that took place on Saturday evening.
From Orchard Beach and
Erie Rest, the Heights, and all over,
people flocked in to enjoy the last of the series. Chas. Mr. Fraser, who made so pleasant, at the Fraser
House. There were also people from town, and several former Londoners
from a distance, amongst these, believing Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Sharran, of Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. George Ben-
net of Bennet Bros' Furniture Company, from Glasgow, in which city
they thrived; Mr. George M. Reid,
also arrived from New York, in time
to stroll over with Mrs. Reid; and, plumply meeting Mr. Hyman at the door, the first-mentioned gentleman
was observed to stop and shake hands
(very gently) with the standard-bearer
of London's Liberals. Mr. Hyman
was the cynosure of a great many eyes, with his graceful, well knit fig-

The 1st of September finds everyone with faces turned citywards, but it is with reluctant feet, and unwilling hearts. Only the stern business of life, which recalls one so soon, to fall into step, is able to drag away
the contented sojourners in a paradise of sky and hills and water. There is no doubt that Port Stanley is becoming more and more of a necessity to the people of London. This season's results show it. Nothing could exceed the satisfaction and pleasure expressed by those who have been privileged to spend a summer within its precincts, with Port Stanley, its situation, water outlook, and breezing air,
and more particularly with the kindness and attentions of those who are at present in charge of the Fraser House, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser do not put a narrow interpretation on the word "neighbor," and those who have been fortunate enough to live near them in this respect, as residents along the Heights, for instance, will all testify of the thoughtfulness and consideration that have ever been extended them. Neither can too much be said for the ability and discrimination with which Miss Fraser has managed the office work of the Fraser House this summer. No one who has had dealings with her but has found her quick and intelligent, always bright and full of amiability, a veritable sunbeam in the house, and it is not exaggeration to say that, in or out of Port Stanley, there is scarcely one so universally liked and beloved by young and old as Miss Fraser, of the Fraser House.

YOUR OLD CREAM DRESS.
You Can Make It Fit for Evening Wear.
Many ladies have dresses made from
cream colored Nun's Cloth, Cashmere, Serse or Silk that have become soiled,
spotted and faded. At a very small cost these dresses can be dyed with
the wonderful Diamond Dyes a lovely
shade of Turquoise Blue, Salmon, Shell
Pink or a delicate Lilac, and made fit
for evening wear.
All wise and economical women use
Diamond Dyes as suggested above,
and are able to save scores of dollars
each year. In order to secure the best
and most fashionable shades and tints
for evening wear, it is absolutely necessary to use Diamond Dyes, as crude
and imitation package dyes are positively dangerous to use.

chins, of Chicago, and many others.SATURDAY NIGHT HOP.I think everyone recognized with a little gasp the fact that it was the
last hop of the season; the summer
had seemed so short, but, however, it was the liveliest and best attended hop of the season that took place on Saturday evening last. From Orchard Beach and Erie Rest, the Heights, and all over,
people flocked in to enjoy the last of the series which Mr. Fraser has made so pleasant, at the Fraser
House. There were also people from
town, and several former Londoners
from a distance, amongst these being, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Shannon, of Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. George Ben-
net (of Bennet Bros' Furniture Company), from Glasgow, in which city
he has thrived; Mr. George M. Reid,
also arrived from New York, in time
to stroll over with Mrs. Reid; and,
plumply meeting Mr. Hyman at the
door, the first-mentioned gentleman
was observed to stop and shake hands
(very gently) with the standard-bearer
of London's Liberals. Mr. Hyman
was the cynosure of a great many
eyes, with his graceful, well knit fig-Kingsmill's . . .

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly, and causes a healthy and natural action.
This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc.,
in the market.Miss Ellen Terry's health is the cause of some anxiety to her friends. She is suffering from the effects of overwork.
We have no hesitation in saying that
Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhea, cholera, and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.YOUR OLD CREAM DRESS.You Can Make It Fit for Evening Wear.Many ladies have dresses made from
cream colored Nun's Cloth, Cashmere, Serice or Silk that have become soiled,
spotted and faded. At a very small
cost these dresses can be dyed with
the wonderful Diamond Dyes a lovely
shade of Turquoise Blue, Salmon, Shell
Pink or a delicate Lilac, and made fit
for evening wear.All wise and economical women use
Diamond Dyes as suggested above,
and are able to save scores of dollars
each year. In order to secure the best
and most fashionable shades and tints
for evening wear, it is absolutely necessary to use Diamond Dyes, as crude
and imitation package dyes are positively dangerous to use.Germany, hitherto practically a ry-eating country, is rapidly going over to wheat bread.Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial.
It removed ten corns from one pair
