

Electors of East End Honor City's New Cabinet Minister

Great Gathering of Workingmen Hear Mr. Hyman's Splendid Speech.

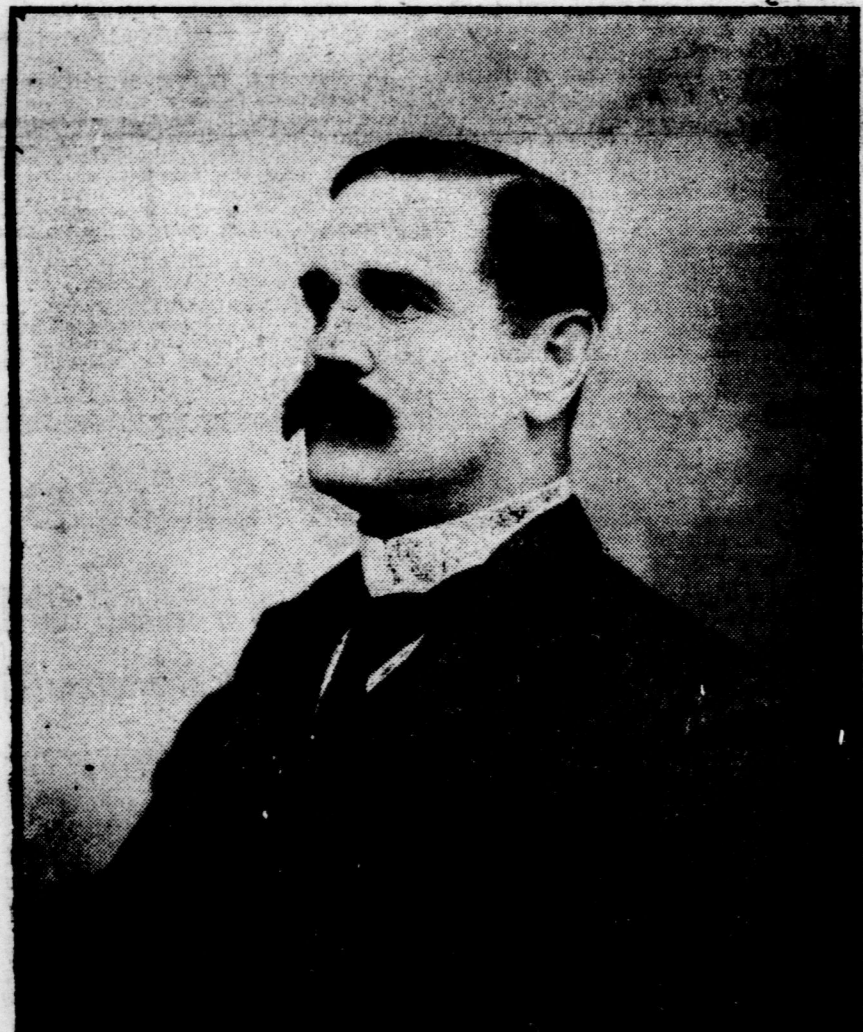

Sir Wm. Mulock Shows What Liberal Government Has Done for the Working Classes.

Mr. Walter Scott, M.P., Assiniboia, Tells Electors That Northwest Is Satisfied with School Clauses.

One of the Greatest Political Rallies Ever Held in London—Rain Did Not Keep East End Electors Away—A Series of Convincing Addresses.

Last night was not by any means a propitious one for a political meeting, but despite the heavy rainstorm which set in early in the evening and continued almost incessantly until this morning, the Liberal rally in the Jubilee Rink was a grand success.

Mr. Hyman's speech was particularly effective, and his exposure of Mr. Borden's lack of candor and the equivocal character of his alleged policy on the school question.

HON. C. S. HYMAN.

Finally there was not a vacant chair to be had and hundreds of men stood along the side of the rink and at the rear. In the audience were also very many ladies, whose presence, in spite of the elements, was not overlooked by the speakers in their addresses.

Mr. Hyman was the first speaker called upon by the chairman, Mr. John Stevely, who acted as chairman, made a very happy speech, and his eulogies of the new Minister of Public Works were seconded by loud and prolonged cheers of all present.

A MASTERLY ADDRESS

Liberal Candidate Deals Fully with the School Question and Other Matters.

In his very flattering allusions to me, but I think I can say that during the years I have lived in the city of London I have always endeavored in every possible way to further the best interests of the city.

"Mr. Chairman, I quite understand and realize the responsibilities of the high office to which I have been called, and I am determined to discharge them to the best of my ability."

"We are told that this election campaign in London is being fought only on one issue. I take exception to that. There are material issues to be fought in this campaign."

"Is it nothing to the people of London that the tariff amendments have added materially to the business wealth of the people of this country?"

"Is it nothing to the people of London that the years of deficits—many and large—have practically passed away and that the years of surpluses have come, and the surpluses continued to increase until last year they reached something like $1,000,000?"

"Is it nothing to the citizens of London that the manufacturers have never been as prosperous as they are under the present Government?"

"Is it nothing to every man in the city of London who can have employment at good wages and at good hours?"

"Is it nothing to the city of London that the immigration policy of the Government has had the effect of helping to fill the Northwest Territories as they were never being filled before?"

"Are all these material things nothing to the city of London?"

"Is it nothing to the citizens of London that the Grand Trunk Pacific and its outlying lines have been added to the city of London?"

"Is it nothing to the city of London that the Government has established a railway commission—that in its duties between shippers and railway companies we have a commission that can in a few hours or days step in and settle them without delay?"

"Yet, Mr. Chairman, we are told that all of these matters amount to nothing—that so far as the material welfare of the city is concerned they are to be considered as nothing and that they are called upon to meet the only issue that our opponents care to discuss?"

Not Afraid of School Issue.

"I am not afraid of that issue," declared Mr. Hyman, amid applause, "but I do want the people of the city of London, I do want my constituents to thoroughly understand the question and not to take it as it is being handed around from house to house in the city by those who seek to cause nothing except to stir up race and religious difficulty amongst us."

"I want just one moment to refer to one or two matters. I desire to refer to one matter which was a somewhat heated question in November of 1904, and I want to ask this large audience tonight if since that time events have not justified me in the course I took at that time. I refer to the Grand Trunk provident bill. I was accused of opposing that bill. The accusation was based on the fact that the measure had been adjourned from time to time, but the reason the bill did not become law as soon as many people would have desired it, was because of the fact that at most important moments the amendment had been made to it. This amendment was to the effect that the supreme court should be asked if the Parliament of Canada had power to pass such a bill. My reason for asking for this amendment was that if the bill had been passed before it was known that Parliament really had power to pass it, any employee who began an action against the company, because of an accident, would have been confronted by the company with the statement that the bill was ultra vires and would have been compelled to fight the company from court to court until it was decided that the act was legal, and this would mean the carrying of the case to the Privy Council in England."

Mr. Hyman's Amendment.

"I would ask if there is any employee here who would be ready to put up $25,000 or $25,000 in order to win his case, I think not. But few men are ready to fight such a case as this. And here lies my justification. I can tell you all that Mr. Harvey Hall, only three weeks today, asked me if I would use my influence to have the bill passed by the Government, and also to have it passed upon by the Privy Council, so that no railway will have the power or the excuse to put up as a defense, when it is being sued, that Parliament had not the power to pass the bill."

"And I can promise you, and Sir William Mulock, the Minister of Labor, who is being sued, that I will join with me in this promise, that we will carry the bill to the Privy Council."

"I am not afraid of that issue," declared Mr. Hyman, amid applause, "but I do want the people of the city of London, I do want my constituents to thoroughly understand the question and not to take it as it is being handed around from house to house in the city by those who seek to cause nothing except to stir up race and religious difficulty amongst us."

cell, so that a workman may sue the company for damages under the provisions of the bill without fearing that the company will set up as a defense that the bill is ultra vires. (Applause.) The supreme court of Canada has already decided that we have the power to pass the bill. And now to settle the matter for all time and protect the workman, we shall carry it to the Privy Council at the expense of the Government.

Pere Marquette Investigation.

"I may be also permitted to make a slight reference to another matter which is of interest to the workmen of London. I refer to the Pere Marquette matter. Some time ago I was informed that the Pere Marquette was importing men from the United States to take the places of good Canadian workmen. I at once wrote to Sir William Mulock and asked him to take immediate action under the alien labor law. I do not know that I am in love with the alien labor law, but the Government of Canada were practically forced to put the law into operation. It was through no feeling of hostility toward the Pere Marquette that we did this. It was simply to protect the workmen of Canada. (Cheers.) AS Continued on page 7.

"KNOCKER" THEN; "JOLLIER" NOW.

Workingman—It's the glad hand, now, is it Mr. Gray? But you had the hammer out for us not so long ago. Let's see your other hand.

Five days have elapsed since the charge was made that Mr. William Gray, the Conservative candidate, knifed the union men of London the time of the street car strike in this city.

Since the charge was made Mr. Gray addressed a meeting of workingmen at East London, but he evaded the question.

The workers of London know where Mr. Gray, who has dubbed himself the friend of labor, now stands.

In 1899 he went to St. Thomas and essayed the role of strike-breaker without being asked.

Now he needs the votes of the workmen and he is attempting to foist himself on the voters as a friend of the workers.

At the time of the second street car strike in this city, it was proposed to hold the Old Boys' reunion at Springbank Park.

The old boys in other towns were corresponded with, and Mr. J. T. Marks, editor of the Industrial Banner, went to St. Thomas to induce the Old Boys of that city to stay away from Springbank, unless they should see fit to drive down.

The same night the St. Thomas Old Boys were meeting, and Mr. Marks dropped in on them, only to find Mr. Gray on hand. Mr. Gray, who now poses as the friend of the workmen, urged the St. Thomas Old Boys to ignore the strike and patronize the Springbank cars.

On the other hand, Mr. Marks did his utmost to have the Old Boys to stay away from Springbank, but he was opposed by Mr. Gray for the better part of two hours. In fact, Mr. Gray as much as told Mr. Marks that he was a curse to the city.

Mr. Gray also tried to lead the St. Thomas Old Boys to believe that Londoners were not in sympathy with the strike.

These are absolute facts. Mr. Gray knifed the union men of London in 1899.

In November last he succeeded in misleading some of the labor men. But if any labor man in London doubts the charge let him ask Mr. Marks or any one of the men who took part in the strike.

AS SEEN BY AN ONLOOKER

The big audience in the Jubilee rink last night proved that London is not to be daunted by bad weather when it's a case of listening to one of her favorite sons talk on a live issue. The temper of the meeting was shown when the chairman made a passing allusion to "Charlie Hyman."

A great gust of cheering swept through the assemblage when the new Minister of Public Works was spoken of in these familiar terms. It was an acknowledgment that London has a warm spot in her heart for the man, and that cabinet rank doesn't make any sort of difference when the chap who gets it is a good fellow. Man and boy, Mr. Hyman has lived here for fifty-one years. London has seen him grow up and has watched him develop. He wears no honor that he hasn't earned. He has worked for all he has got, and jealousy of his success is disarmed by the fact that he has deserved it. His career has not been meteoric. He never asked anybody to take him on suspicion. When quite young he got into the habit of doing things first, and coming around for the reward — which was the esteem of his fellow-citizens — afterwards. He began at the foot of the ladder in public life and climbed up, rung by rung — thus differing from some other people, who would like to begin at the top and fall down. Without any drum-beating or horn-blowing, he has proved himself equal to all his opportunities. Although a convincing speaker, he has permitted his actions to do most of the talking.

A cheer may be a small thing on which to build a sermon, but cheers are much desired by everybody, and heroes take off their hats to them. It is all in the way they are given. When they come straight up from the depths of a genuine enthusiasm there's no mistaking them. They are the finest music in the world. That cheer for "Charlie Hyman" in the Jubilee rink last night was a splendid tribute to his personal equation. It means that the people know a strong man when they see him, and take an interest in him, and put him on a friendly footing in their minds. It will be "Charlie Hyman" to the end of the chapter.

Of course, there were other cheers at the Jubilee rink — plenty of 'em — but they were drawn out by the arguments, mere acknowledgments that reason saw the point. The discerning person chooses rather to dwell on this particular one, which seemed to carry with it the affection of the people, and the homage due to a long period of faithful and intelligent public service. There may have been some pride in it, too — pride that London is to have a cabinet minister in the councils of the nation, flesh of her flesh and bone of her bone, and a worthy representative of the city's best activities. But pride, though a very human weakness, is, we are told, a deadly sin. The Opposition newspapers say that it is very wrong of London to have such thoughts, and that it is even more heinous to entertain the idea that with one cabinet minister at Toronto and another at Ottawa, this city can hardly get the worst of it. Sober than have two cabinet ministers for London, the Free Press, and the Toronto World, and the Toronto News would sacrifice — Mr. Hyman. It is said to be low cunning for any town to think of playing both ends against the middle and selfish to boot. No doubt it is but the fact that the Conservative papers mention it seems to indicate that the thought will intrude on the severest moralists. We feel quite sure that nobody at the Jubilee rink harbored these crafty notions, which must be the jaundiced imaginings of hypersensitive critics.

Mr. Hyman excels in business statement. His speech last night was followed closely, even by the jaded political correspondents, who are sick of the sound of Autonomy Bills. Into a little over half an hour the Minister of Public Works compressed a prodigious amount of information and argument. As one Ottawa correspondent remarked, it wasn't jammed so tight that you couldn't see what was in it, but at the same time there was nothing in it that could have been cut out. To newspaper men who had listened to or read long-winded speeches in the House of Commons on the same subject, it came as a surprise that a clear, forcible and entirely adequate presentation of the school clauses could be compassed in twenty minutes. And yet that was what Mr. Hyman succeeded in doing. He traced the history of the school question in the Territories, explained its status just previous to the introduction of the autonomy bill, and gave a remarkably lucid exposition of the tenor and effect of the school clauses in the bill now before the House. Mr. Hyman is not a lawyer, but he has a mental grasp which enabled him to disentangle the intricacies of the law on the question in a manner intelligible to the duldest man in the audience. This is no small task when one considers the hair-splitting and quibbling that has been going on in press and Parliament for some months now over the bearing of Section 93 of the British North America Act on Clause 16 of the Autonomy Bill. After Mr. Hyman had finished, everybody must have had a clear idea as to what it all meant, and enough insight into the constitutional aspect of the case to give a street-corner argument force and cogency. Three or four things stood out plainly — that the so-called separate schools in the Northwest are genuine national schools under national control, should, in fact, be named Roman Catholic public schools, since they conform in all respects to the Government's standards as to curriculum, examinations, inspection and qualification of teachers; that the system has been in vogue in the Northwest for fourteen years with satisfaction to all concerned; that it is considered by the people of the west a better school law than we have in Ontario, one of the best school laws, indeed, in the world; and, finally, that the school clauses of the Autonomy Bill do not add one work to or take one word from the law, which has been given such a long trial, and shown such excellent results in the Northwest Territories. Incidentally, Mr. Hyman showed that Mr. Borden was dodging the question, and that an amendment which makes a specious plea for provincial rights, "subject to the constitution," that is subject to the limitations and restrictions of Section 93 of the B. N. A. Act, is sheer humbug. It is a piece of humbug, and is not intended to do anything except mark time. The amendment leaves provincial rights where they always were, that is, in Section 93 of the B. N. A. Act, where they cannot be dislodged without a two-thirds vote of the British Parliament. Mr. Borden's amendment does not add anything to provincial rights. All the new provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan would get out of the Opposition policy would be a crop of lawsuits. It is this fact that the Borden amendment means nothing which allows Mr. George E. Foster and others to say that the main point of the amendment is not hard for the politicians who tried to coerce Manitoba in 1896 to feel they are not doing anything which derogates from that position now. Otherwise Mr. Foster couldn't eat crow with the straight face he does now.

At any rate, Mr. Hyman left no misunderstandings on the school question. His handling of the subject was a splendid example of pith and vigor. The main topic was not confused by digressions and rhetorical excursions. Like Mr. Sifton's speech, it was addressed to the man on the street, and had the advantage over that masterly effort of being shorter and more easily carried in the head. There were people in the Jubilee rink, so it is said, who doubted if Mr. William Gray could have done as well in as few words. In some quarters it is alleged that Mr. Gray is merely going through the motions of debate without thinking deeply enough on the subject to get a head-ache.

What Mr. Hyman said on the more local issues, the Pere Marquette deportations, the Grand Trunk provident bill and his vote on the union label bill will be found in another column. The main thing to be gathered is that, without making any fuss, Mr. Hyman has been quietly at work doing what he can for organized labor, and not saying much about it, because he considered it all in the day's work of a public man trying to do his duty toward all classes. Mr. Gray, we know, has a record as a strike-breaker, and his conversion to the side of the masses is almost as sudden as that which overtook Saul of Tarsus. But then, Mr. Gray does everything suddenly. Mr. Hyman rose to a cabinet minister, through intermediate stages of alderman, mayor, and member of Parliament. Mr. Gray has no tedious, plodding past. A good mixer, he has shown more in club and social than he has in public life. He has no political record but the genius of statesmanship rocks him to the top. Mr. Borden was made leader of the Conservative party because nobody could say anything about him, and Mr. Gray naturally cannot see why he shouldn't be elected member for London for the same reason. Besides, as the Free Press says, a vote for Gray is a vote for King Edward.

STRATFORD LOSES GAME IN JUNIOR W. F. A.

Stratford, June 1.-Seaforth is now tied with London for the championship in the junior series W. F. A., having lost by 1 to 9 in the game with the Stratford Juniors. Stratford had their strong team and was out for honors, but failed to get them by a narrow margin.

The play was pretty evenly divided, Seaforth naturally putting up a stronger game as so much was at stake, and to one congratulates them more heartily than the Stratford juniors. Evidently the Seaforths had trained up for the game, as their playing was as near perfect as could be. Their good running, following, combination play and judicious kicking has seldom been equaled here. The only goal won was in the first part of the first half, which showed that the game was no child's play. The line-up:

Seaforth-Gol. Roberts; backs, Shea, Self; half-backs, Carlin, Stapleton, Holland; forward, McKenzie, Carlin, Chette, Speal and Letch.

Stratford-Gol. Eveston; backs, Stock, Grosch; half-backs, Davidson, Kilow, Widdis; forwards, Herringer, Hart, Swain, Forest, Empire, Brown, or Berlin.

In an interesting game of ball the South London Maple Leaves defeated the Nelsons 12 to 9. The features were W. McCormick's batting and Durham's pitching. Score: Maple Leaves..... 2 2 3 2 1 0 0 1-12 Nelsons..... 1 2 0 0 3 2 0 1-9

A game of ball was played on the tracks diamond between the South London Victorias and the Blues. Score: Victorias 26, Blues 7. Batteries: Victorias, Widdowson and Thompson; Blues, Peggenden and Stevenson.

The London Street Railway motor-men defeated a picked team at baseball yesterday on the Springfield diamond by a score of 25 to 2. Battery for winners, Stewart and Cranston; for losers, Lore and Petrie.

CANTERBURY'S VISIT

Archbishop of Armagh Declares it a Fine Object Lesson. Dublin, June 1.-The Archbishop of Armagh, in an address to before the Church of Ireland, said that the conception of the religion of a great state, seen in an exalted position like that of the Archbishop of Canterbury, produced a great effect where it might be least expected. For instance, when the present archbishop visited America not many months ago, his words were followed by countless thousands; his visit almost everywhere, the presidential election. This was no doubt greatly because he represented the most sane and masculine conception of the reformation that which endorsed philosophy with a faith and faith with a philosophy, faith which was not afraid to reason, and a philosophy which was not ashamed to adore.

The Archbishop also said that the appointment to parishes was mostly in the hands of the bishops. No doubt there was much room during recent years for the imputation of nepotism. He recollected the great names of the establishment; the plative beauty of a Christian priest in Goldsmith's "Deserted Village" was taken from a clergyman of the Established Church of Ireland. Was it not a bad sign when nations took to disestablishing churches and enabling predatory prime ministers and chancellors of the exchequer to lay bogus surpluses before an excited crowd? But it was surely an evil for the children of the church to have everything paid for them.

Japanese Thrilling Story of How Russian Fleet Was Wiped Out: Tokyo, Wednesday, May 31—2 p.m.—A Japanese officer who has just returned to Sasebo writes the following account of the sea fight off the Tsushima Islands: At 5:30 Saturday morning a wireless message received from the Japanese fleet, reached the Japanese naval base. This message was transmitted to all our ships by the flagship, with instructions to get ready for action. Our squadron left their rendezvous ahead for the eastern channel off Tsushima. Our men seemed to be filled with new inspiration, and were eager for the long-delayed fight to begin.

A Positive Cure for Dandruff.

Dandruff is an enemy of luxuriant hair. It makes the scalp unhealthy—retards the growth—causes the hair to fall out. Oriental Balm and Quinine Tonic keep the scalp clean and healthy—and positively cures dandruff. It feeds the hair—stops it from falling out—makes it grow thick and beautiful. Only 50 cents a bottle. Provincial Rights.

Are Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Hyman, by the Autonomy Bills, interfering with Northwest Provincial Rights? What are the facts? Mr. Borden, Mr. Foster, Mr. Haultain—indeed every public man who has spoken or written, with the exception of Mr. Sifton and Mr. Leighton McCarthy—agree that the provisions of the B. N. A. Act should apply to the new provinces.

The B. N. A. Act deprived the provinces of all power in the matter of customs or excise duties, for instance. In placing the new provinces in the same position as the old provinces in this respect, the Government is not invading Provincial Rights. The point serves as an illustration. If, therefore, as regards education, the new provinces are treated as the old provinces were treated, how can it justly be charged that Northwest Provincial Rights are infringed? How were the old provinces treated? Section 93 of the B. N. A. Act, which is the constitution of every existing province, is as follows:

"In and for the province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education, subject and according to the provision . . . that nothing in any such law shall prejudicially affect any right or privilege with respect to denominational schools, which any class of persons have by law in the province at the date of the passing of the act."

The B. N. A. Act did not introduce or enact a separate school law in or for any of the provinces. The B. N. A. Act did and does, however, compel any and every province in which separate schools existed when it entered Confederation as a province, to retain and maintain such system of separate schools.

The education clause which the Government are inserting in the charters for Alberta and Saskatchewan is in effect the following: "In and for the province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education, subject and according to the provision . . . that nothing in any such law shall prejudicially affect any right or privilege with respect to separate schools which any class of persons have at the date of the passing of the act under the terms of chapters 23 and 29 of the ordinances of the N. W. T., passed in 1901."

Compare this provision framed to apply to Alberta and Saskatchewan with the provision applying in every other province. Are not Alberta and Saskatchewan obtaining the same exclusive control over education which is being exercised by the other provinces? The Government is not proposing to enforce anything on the provinces—the Government is merely providing that what exists as regards separate schools shall continue to exist, and in so doing the Government is following the example of the Fathers of Confederation and obeying the spirit of the Confederation Act.

But the language of section 93 is varied in the Alberta and Saskatchewan charters. Yes, and at whose instance? At the instance of Mr. Sifton and the Northwest Liberals who feared that the exact language of section 93 might result in clerical control of the Northwest separate schools. Public control of the Northwest schools was brought about in 1892 by new ordinances of the Territorial Legislature. These ordinances were further amended in 1901. So that no uncertainty could exist, and so that the principle of complete public control should be safeguarded for all schools Mr. Sifton and the Northwest Liberals insisted that the rights which Northwest minorities possess by law should be definitely specified as being what are contained in the existing ordinances, and nothing else.

Let London electors carefully compare the B. N. A. provision as regards education with the provision inserted in the Northwest Autonomy Bills, and determine for themselves whether the new provinces are not being treated precisely as the old provinces were treated; that is to say, as Alberta and Saskatchewan, in being required to respect the separate school privilege now existing in the Northwest, not being asked to do just what all other provinces were required to do? Is the honest answer Yes or No? Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, British Columbia and Manitoba are compelled by the B. N. A. Act to respect and observe such separate school privileges as existed within each province respectively at the moment each entered the Confederation. This statement is literally and absolutely true. Alberta and Saskatchewan are being required to do exactly the same thing—to respect and observe such separate school privileges as are actually being now; not such as they might claim a right to under the N. W. T. Act of 1875, but only such as they have by and under the ordinances adopted by the Northwest people themselves in their Legislature. This statement is equally true. Then how can it be justly charged that Northwest Provincial Rights are infringed?

Northwest Provincial Rights are not infringed as regards education, any more than as regards the customs and excise. No province controls the customs and excise, and the Northwest in its autonomy demand did not request power over these subjects. Neither did the Northwest request more exclusive control in the matter of education than the B. N. A. Act confers upon the old provinces. Section No. 2 of the Haultain Draft Bill provided for the application of section 93 of the B. N. A. Act in Alberta and Saskatchewan "in the same way and to the same extent as it (section 93) applies to the several provinces of Canada, and as if Alberta and Saskatchewan had been provinces originally united by the B. N. A. Act." Premier Haultain's memo, in explanation of section No. 2 of his Draft Bill was this: "This is the provision adopted in the incorporation of each of the provinces since the union."

The Northwest Legislature unanimously approved the above, and in a local general election in 1902, the Northwest people unanimously approved it. Excepting a very few partisans the Northwest people today are entirely content with the education clause of the Autonomy Bills. Why should London Conservatives and Liberals together not be willing to permit the grant to the Northwest of a charter which the majority of both Northwest Conservatives and Liberals have asked for and approved?

Northwest Roman Catholics and Protestants alike during fourteen years have found harmony, efficiency and satisfaction in the working of the school law. They wish the same law maintained. Then why should any London Protestant or Roman Catholic hesitate to grant to the Northwest people the thing that both Roman Catholics and Protestants in the Northwest desire to obtain? Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Hyman make the same appeal to Ontario and Quebec, the same appeal to Conservatives and Liberals, the same appeal to Protestants and Roman Catholics, and this is the appeal: They are granting to the Northwest a constitution as regards education which is strictly in accordance with the spirit of the Confederation Act, and which is, moreover, completely satisfactory to the vast majority of Conservatives, Liberals, Protestants and Roman Catholics in the Northwest.

Mr. Borden Exposed.

A point to which frequent reference has been made in these columns—Mr. Borden's elusive position on the school question—was elaborated by Mr. Hyman in his splendid address last night. Every elector who wishes to go to the root of the controversy should read the extract from Hansard which is embodied in the report of Mr. Hyman's address on another page of this issue. Mr. Brodeur, in the House of Commons, asked the leader of the Opposition for a frank explanation of his amendment. "Does he mean that section 93 of the British North America Act shall apply to the Northwest? Or does he mean that an education is concerned?" This was the gist of Mr. Brodeur's question.

EDUCATION.

93. In and for each province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education, subject and according to the following propositions: 1. Nothing in any such law shall prejudicially affect any right or privilege with respect to denominational schools which any class of persons have by law at the union. 2. All the powers, privileges and duties at the union by law conferred and imposed in Upper Canada on the separate schools and school trustees of the Queen's Roman Catholic subjects shall be and the same are hereby extended to the dissenting schools of the Queen's Protestant and Roman Catholic subjects in Quebec. 3. Where in any province a system of separate or dissenting schools exists by law at the union, or is thereafter established by the Legislature of the province, an appeal shall lie to the Governor-General in Council from any act or decision of any provincial authority affecting any right or privilege of the Protestant or Roman Catholic minority of the Queen's subjects in relation to education. 4. In case any such provincial law as from time to time seems by the Governor-General in Council requisite for the due execution of this section is not made, or in case any decision of the Governor-General in Council on any appeal under this section is not duly executed by the proper provincial authority in that behalf, then, and in every such case, and as far only as the circumstances of each case require, the Parliament of Canada may make remedial laws for the due execution of the provisions of this section, and of any decision of the Governor-General in Council under this section.

of the Opposition, went on to say that he thought subsection 1 of section 93 would not apply to the Territories, but as to subsections 3 and 4 HE HAD NOT A STRONG OPINION.

Is it any wonder Mr. Brodeur was constrained to remark, "My honorable friend does not seem able to decide the meaning of his amendment?" While one wing of his party is raising an anti-separate school cry, Mr. Borden confesses that he has not a strong opinion as to whether his policy would give the new Provincial Legislatures the power to abolish separate schools without creating a grievance which the Parliament would be bound to redress.

$10,000,000 STEEL PLANT TO BE BUILT NEAR WINDSOR

The U. S. Steel Corporation Will Erect Giant Mills On Site Below Sandwich.

Detroit, June 2. — The full significance of the visit of the United States steel magnates to Detroit a few weeks ago when they quietly chartered a ferry boat and with a corps of photographers inspected, and took views of both shores from Sandwich to Amherstburg, including Fighting Island, and on the Detroit side from Delray to Wyandotte, has now come out. It is stated on what is believed to be unimpeachable authority that the United States Steel Corporation has on the Canadian side below Sandwich, and is now securing options on the steel corporation will erect a Bessemer mill somewhere in the Zug Island district. The Canadian plant will turn out structural steel, as there is no structural steel factories in Canada outside of the Walkerville Bridge and Iron plant. It is believed that the steel corporation will also erect extensive rail mills on the Canadian side to get the benefit of the bounties amounting to about $7.50 a ton.

Czar's Mortally Wounded Cast Into Sea by Mates

One Hundred and Forty Thrown Overboard, as Shrieks Tended to Put Crew in a Panic.

Tokio, June 2. — It is planned to bring the battleship Orel to Yokohama, where the Emperor will visit her. A remarkable story is in circulation concerning the wounded on the Orel. It is said that at the opening of the fight 300 men were killed and wounded, and that the groans and shrieks of the wounded exercised so harmful an effect that it was decided to throw the mortally wounded into the sea. ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY, IT IS SAID, WERE THROWN OVERboard. Those slightly wounded were then fastened to THE MAST TO PREVENT THEIR INTERFERENCE WITH THE FIGHTING OF THE SHIP.

It is impossible to obtain any confirmation of this story, but later reports indicate that the crew of the Orel fought with desperate bravery throughout the day previous to their surrender. The hull of the vessel is shell-marked, and many of her guns are smashed and dismantled.

BORODINO FOUGHT UNTIL SUBMERGED

Japanese Testify to Splendid But Hopeless Fight of the Russians.

Tokio, June 1, 9:30 p.m.—The following tells of the surrender of Nebogatoff: After a short but fierce fight the Admiral Onshakoff's deck was observed to be ablaze and the ship left the line. At 4:30 in the afternoon the Russian line was disordered and its fire slackened. The Borodino and Kameshatka had been disabled and soon sank. The Borodino continued the fight bravely until the ship was submerged. The Japanese fleet took possession of the captured positions from sundown until dawn. Sunday morning opened misty, but the weather soon cleared and the search of the remnants of the fleet was begun. Five Russian ships were discovered in the vicinity of Lisoucourt Island and they were immediately surrounded. One, supposed to be the Izoum, escaped at full speed. The remaining four offered no resistance and hoisted the Japanese flag over the Russian colors, apparently offering to surrender. Capt. Yashiro, commanding the Asama, started in a small boat to ascertain the real intentions of the Russians, when Admiral Nebogatoff lowered a boat and came on board the Asama, where he formally surrendered. The prisoners were distributed among the Japanese ships and prizes were taken. The route of the captured vessels.

About this time we received a message saying that a portion of our squadron was hotly engaging the Russian ships. The Asama happened to the scene of combat and found the Russian cruiser, Dmitri Donskoi, vigorously resisting the Japanese.

The Donskoi attempted to escape and we pursued until after sundown, resting on Monday morning the search was resumed by a portion of the squadron. The Donskoi had been beached on Ulou Island. We were ordered to bring the Donskoi to the Orel. On the way the captain of the Orel died of wounds received during the battle. While we were proceeding we were advised of the capture of Rostevsky and our men were greatly cheered by the news.

CAME TO PARIS TO KILL ALFONSO

Spaniard Confesses to Plot to Assassinate the Boy Monarch.

Paris, June 1.—An enthusiastic reception was accorded King Alfonso and President Loubet on their return from Chalons-sur-Mer. Premier Rouvier, Minister of the Interior, Instruction, Bienveüe Martin waited at the station and congratulated His Majesty on his escape. The route of the railway terminus to the quarters of the royal guest, which led through the center of Paris, was packed with cheering throngs. The acclamations were renewed when later King Alfonso proceeded to the Elysee Palace, where President Loubet held a garden party which was attended by the diplomatic corps, the cabinet ministers and leading officials. Cheering crowds still filled the streets when he returned to the Palace D'Orsay.

King Alfonso will award the Spanish medal for military merit to the officers and soldiers who were wounded or were thrown from their horses by the explosion. The magistrates have searched for incriminating documents at the residence of the Spanish Anarchist Matato who was arrested but refused to reply to questions without legal advice.

Another Spaniard named Volina when questioned declared he had been in Paris for a month with several companions preparing for an attempt on King Alfonso's life. They had received five uncharged bombs from Barcelona, he said, which were hidden in the Bois de Vincennes in order to escape police investigations. The prisoner promised to show where they were hidden tomorrow.

GOOD OUTLOOK FOR THE FRUIT CROP

Yield in Ontario Expected To Be Large and of Good Quality, Barring Peaches.

Ottawa, June 2. — Following is the fruit crop report for Ontario, as furnished by the department of agriculture: The general conditions for fruit of all kinds are excellent. The winter, though cold, has not resulted in exceptional damage to trees and vines. The only serious losses are from tree-grubbing by mice, and the mutilation of the trees by the heavy snowfall in the Maritime Provinces. Minor losses by winter-killing in Eastern Canada are reported in cases of trees injured, but not killed outright, by the winter of 1904-5, as well as in cases of trees that were overladen in 1904.

Apples—Reports are almost unanimous that the show for bloom is excellent. It must not be forgotten that the critical period of "setting" is not yet reported over any large area. The weather has been very unfavorable for pollination for the past two weeks in Western Ontario. It is also too early to report on fungus and the most destructive insects.

Pears—Pear bloom is most abundant. Plums—The commercial plum sections all report the outlook favorable. The light crop last year, as well as the good weather conditions for growth, has placed the plum trees in excellent condition for a large crop this year. If insects, frosts or fungus do Conference Elects the Rev. J. C. Philp President. Methodists Continue Business at Listowel—Temperance Societies Losing Ground.

The conference temperance service held on Thursday evening was the most largely attended thus far of any of the public gatherings. Perhaps this was partly accounted for by the presence of Mr. P. S. Spence, of Toronto, one of the speakers of the evening.

The first address on the question was by Rev. H. D. Moyer, of Kingsville. Mr. Moyer stated that his theme was "The Methodist Church and the Saloon." It was not without reason, he declared, that he had united the church and saloon in the wording of his subject, and he wished to show the unfortunate and inconsistent connection between things so opposite in their spirit and character as the saloon and the church.

Controlled Spence, in rising to address the audience, was given a magnificent reception by the excellent music of the Chautauque salutes. "The present Government deserves credit for an attempt to enforce the present license law. But there is need for a repetition of moral suasion efforts of by-gone years, when much more real temperance work was done than is being done now."

The temperance societies are not what they once were. Nor are the temperance societies as strong as they were ten years ago. Where are our Band of Hope Societies? How few ministers preach a sermon on temperance once during the year! There has been an increase in the number of saloons, and the whisky drinking of our Canadian people. "To vote as you pray does not amount to much unless you have done a great deal more than that on before the day of voting."

Mr. J. G. Sing Goes to Toronto as Acting Engineer—Mr. Lamb in Charge Here. School System Proposed by Government Excellent, Says Dr. Carmichael.

Winnipeg, June 1. — There are few men in Canada, east or west, who are better entitled to be heard upon public school matters in the Northwest than Rev. J. L. Carmichael, D.D., superintendent of home missions of the Presbyterian Church in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories. Few, if any, have had better opportunity than Dr. Carmichael of judging what is the sentiment of the people with regard to the vexed questions concerning education recently raised.

In a newspaper interview today Dr. Carmichael discussed the present situation candidly and freely. Asked if he had found any of the people in any of the new provinces in any great excitement over the educational clauses of the constitution, he replied: "I had occasion to pay a visit to Toronto recently," he continued, "about the time the autonomy bill was up for its second reading, and not until I reached North Bay did I find any evidence of interest in the matter. Between North Bay and Toronto I heard more discussion of it than one would hear in the west in a whole month."

"Does this silence of the people most concerned denote indifference merely, or does it show satisfaction with the provisions?" "I think," Dr. Carmichael replied, "that the western people are well satisfied with their educational system, and, indeed, if they are not able to pay for a costly pavement, I think that it is up to the government to take the people into consideration and never mind the paving companies."

Quite a number of people were attracted to the gunroom in the east end of the Armories to see the long-delayed guns, and they were freely admired on all sides. They are grass green in color, according to the latest and most approved type, and are the first of their kind to appear in this city. It is probable that grass green guns will be plentiful in future, since Governments are seeing the wisdom of having them painted this color.

No Bitulithic or Asphalt Pavement for Them—Just Macadam. The ratpayers of King street did not wait on the board of works last night to ask for a macadam pavement on the street. One of them told a reporter today that the reason was that yesterday they had a conversation with Chairman Forristal, of the board of works, and they felt after hearing his opinion that it would be well to appear before the committee. This ratpayer says that the sheet asphalt pavement, the sheet asphalt will cost us about $150 a yard; the bitulithic about $220 a yard, and the asphalt blocks about $260 a yard. And if the city will allow us to have what we want we can secure a first-class macadam roadway, such as is now on Albert street, for 60 cents a yard.

On the street there are many poor people—some of them widows—and they are not able to pay for a costly pavement. I think that it is up to the government to take the people into consideration and never mind the paving companies."
