The Wheatly Whitecappers Still Successfully Elude the Justice Sleuths

Caustic Comment From the Court on the Case-Constable Tremblay Resigns.

"This outrage is one of the most, disgraceful things that has ever taken place in the west. That the ded fendants were not guilty of participation I find, but I think it deplorable that so many people think it was all right."

Such was the comment of Judge Houston yesterday in dismissing the seven men charged with the Wheatley whitecapping affair on Thomas S. Dulmage. The Judge added a caustic comment on Constable Tremblay, who "so far forgot his oath of office as to refrain from interfering or attempting to stay the terfering or attempting to stay the disgraceful occurrence."

It was evident from the evidence that the seven men charged were not the white-cappers—some were not even present and wheever supplied their names to the Crown were giving the authorities a "steer." It seems equally true that the disgraceful assault in all its lurid details occurred just as it was reported, but all the witnesses were terribly troubled with defective eyesight and failing memories, and, afthough they were present, could not name a man who took part or recollect just how it had been done. Crown Attorney Smith was very severe on Constable Tremblay and reported him to the County, Judge in Essex. Mr. Lewis retailated by saying that Tremblay's resignation would be forwarded immediately.

PLUCKY LADS

Wind Carried Their Boat Out on Eau and They Rowed Two Hours in the Darkness:

Two little ten-year-old lads, George Kerr and Garner Scullard, the sons of J. G. Kerr and ex-Ald. Scullard respectively, had a somewhat thrill-ing experience at the Eau last even-ing, which caused their parents con-ing experience at the Batt parents considerable anxiety.

The lads, who are wonderfully agile and fearless for their age, embarked shortly before seven o'clock in with small row-boat. They had not been out very long before making a phensomenal capture by landing a two-foot pike in their minnow net.

The success fired the ambition of the boys and they hoisted a novel sail iin the nature of a shawl and proceeded to go out farther. Quite a heavy sea was rolling, white-caps were numerous and a stiff, reefing, sou'east wind was blowing. The little fellows, of course, had not mastered the art of sailing into the wind and the strong breeze carried them out and over towards the mouth of the creek.

out and over towards the mouth of the creek.

By ten o'clock last night nothing had been heard from them and much anxiety was felt for their safety. Mr. Kerr secured a boat and started off to search for them, finally locating the boat off the creek shore, its primitive sail still up and the two youngsters, with oars in hand and perspiration dripping from them, endeavoring to row in. The little felicity was hadly frightened but had deavoring to row in. The little fel-lows were badly frightened but had pluckily stuck to the oars. They had been rowing for nearly two hours.

PROPOSED BOCK

Enginear Lamb, of Ottawa, and A. H. Clarke, M. P., Windsor, were in Tilbury Wednesday and drove to the lighthouse to locate the proposed dock, for which the sum of $4,800 has been placed in the estimates. If the dock is built, it is expected that Tilbury North will build a new bridge over Big Creek, and with the assistance of the government build a new dredged road to the lighthouse from the M. C. R. pumping station on Tecumseh road. It is claimed that this would be little or no farther than the site of the proposed dock further up the river.

SOO SEMI-CENTENNIAL

Exercises Close With Speeches by Official Visitors.

Crowd Nearly as Great on Thursday As on Wednesday - Vice-President Fairbanks of the United States Makes a Speech of Good-Will and Amity Toward Canada - Canada's Representatives.

Representatives.

Sauit Ste. Marie, Aug. 4.—The big celebration of the semi-centennial of the construction of the first canal lock on the American side of the St. Mar's River was concluded yesterday afternoon. Yesterday's exercises were chiefly speechmaking by the official visitors representative of the United States, Michigan and the Canadian Governments. The exercises were held on the canal park, which was filled with crowds almost as large as those of Wednesday. The speakers included Hon. Chase S. Osborne, who welcomed the visitors; Vice-President Fairbanks, Governor Warner of Michigan, Hon. Peter White of Marquette, Attorney-General Lemieux and Senator Dandurand, representing Ganada, and others. Vice-President Fairbanks, in his address, said:

General Lemieux and Senator Dandurand, representing Canada, and others. Vice-President Fairbanks, in his address, said:

"We cordially welcome our friends from Canada to share in this celebration. The event we commemorate is of mutual interest to the people of the two countries. There, side by side, are the great locks, one constructed by the United States and the other by the Dominion of Canada. Through them passes interchangably the commerce of the two countries. Here they will stand in close fellowship for centuries to come. We trust that they will always be symbolical of cordial relations and neighborly regard of the two peoples through whose veins flows the blood of a common ancestry.

We owe allegiance to different flags, emblems of the mightiest powers upon this earth. We have no sense of rivalry except in those ways which make for a higher and better civilization.

"There are no fortifications along our common frontier; no battleships upon the waters which divide us. These are not needed now and we trust that, in God's providence, they shall never be required. We are the respecters of each others institutions, of each others laws, of each others rights. We are bound to each other by strong social ties and sentiments of mutual respect. "The national policies of the United States and Canada may not be in accord. If they be not, it will be due to no unfriendliness of purpose, but to that sense of duty which each primarity owes to its own. The sceptre of commercial power is speedily passing into American control. The conquest will be achieved by men of trade and not by men of war. It will come by an irresistible law of commercial gravity."

Boom For the St. Lawrence.

Boom For the St. Lawrence.

Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux said, in part:
"If ever there was an occasion when both Americans and Canadians should unite in the celebration of an event calculated to bring — nay, to assure peace and harmony between the two countries, this, indeed, was the most fitting, the most appropriate. With the good-will of both and with a fair-policy in matters concerning trade relations, there is in store for them a future of much brightness as will overshadow all other nations, past or present." Boom For the St. Lawren shadow all other nations, pasterent."

Hon. Roaul Dandurand, Speaker of the Senate of Canada, said: "We know what you have done for the betterment of navigation on the lakes and how helpful you have been to our mariners. We hope to be able before another half century is completed to reciprocate in kind by offering you a direct outlet to the sea, through a 20-foot waterway via the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers, thus saving you the annoyance of twice breaking bulk before reaching a European port."

Barrister Kerr Exposes in County Court an Interesting Scheme Worked in Thamesville

Warren O'Neil, whiskey detective and reward-seeker, is a marked man in Thamesville. Around his personality and performances centered an abortive liquor case before Judge Houston at County Court this morn-

It seems that the local option committee offer a standing reward of $25 for information leading to the conviction of anyone selling intoxicants in the temperance town. As a result, 'tis said, O'Neil is earning a comfortable livelihood and making aimself generally disliked in liquor himself generally disliked in liquor circles.

Barrister J. G. Kerr, who represented Fred. Thorne, accused of illicit selling at to-day's sitting, told the Court of O'Neil's most eminent detective achievement. He approached a suspected party, pleaded friendship and illness, got his liquor—and later his conviction and the incidental $25.

To get back at him a plan was carefully laid. George Fish, John Everitt and Thomas Twigg beheld him reconnoitering. Forthwith they mysteriously visited Thorne's place and came forth apparently much regaled. The sleuth got busy and today's care resulted.

The plot to trap O'Neil was disclosed in evidence and Thorne was accordingly honorably acquitted and secured costs. Judge Houston was, however, quite severe on the witnesses who put up the job and refused them their fees and expenses. Inspector Boon and the Crown had been put to considerable expense and work as a result and Thorne himself had been most unfairly treated.

O'Neil, who was in the Court, seemed to enjoy the situation and smiled broadly when the trap laid for him

BOTH ENGINES WRECKED.

Express Ran Into Rear of Freight on G. T. R. at Berlin.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—Passenger train No. 4, bound for Toronto, in charge of Conductor Hollinger, Stratford, drawn by engines Nos. 410 and 573, driven by Engineers W. Walsh, Sarnia, and Hall, Toronto, crashed into the rear of a freight at the Grand Trunk yard here at 6.10 o'clock yesterday morning. Both engines were wrecked, No. 410, the leader, being a mass of scrap iron. Both crews jumped and saved their lives, as they would have been crushed by staying on beard. Walsh escaped with a wrenched leg. His fireman, Oldfield, Sarnia Tunnel, has his nose broken and is in the hospital with serious injuries, which may result fatally. The coaches stayed on the rails and not a passenger was hurt. Their escape is miraculous. The track was blocked for four hours, and the train left here at 9 o'clock.

Engine Goes Over Trestle.

Guelph, Aug. 4.—A serious accident occurred on the Grand River on the Guelph and Goderich Railway a few miles from this city on Wednesday as a result of which Engineer Arthur Burley of Buffalo, is lying in a critical condition with his skull crushed in. The small engine which is used in construction work went over the high trestle to the ground forty feet below. Engineer Burley stayed with his engine and was caught beneath it. There is little hope for his recovery. The engine and the four cars with it were completely wrecked.

Old Railway Employe Killed.

Guelph, Aug. 4.—David Pickering, one of the oldest employes of the Grand Trunk Railway, was caught between an engine and a baggage coach at the G. T. R. depot last evening and almost instantly killed. "Dad" as he was familiarly known, had been on the road for upwards of forty years. He was nearly seventy years of age and leaves a widow and a family of five daughters and one son.

C. N. R. Freight Trains Wrecked.
Port Arthur, Aug. 4.—Two Canadian Northern freight trains collided at Stanley yesterday. The crews jumped and were uninjured, but the trains were badly wrecked.

Roy Dixon, Fort William, had a foot badly crushed between two flat cars last night. He was riding on a ballast train when the train suddenly stopped and he fell between the cars.

Killed by a Train.

Bracebridge, Aug. 4.—William Walker, aged 50, of Minden, while walking south on the G. T. R. track from Bracebridge, was struck and killed by the northbound passenger train yesterday afternoon. His body was picked up two hours later.

Dies From Injuries.

Kingston, Aug. 4.—Gus Montgomery, Yarker, sectionman of the Bay of Q. Railway, who was badly cut up by falling under the wheels, died in the General Hospital here at midnight. He was 50 years of age.

THE AUDITOR GENERAL.

FRIDAY, AUGUST, 4, 1905.

The Ottawa Government has got even with the Auditor-General. In order to mark its anger at his stand against their scandalous methods of finance, the Government has descended to the meanness of giving him the very lowest pension possible when a much larger amount should have fairly been granted him, considering the length and value of his services. The country as a whole is not aware of the immense importance of having a strong, capable and absolutely independent man as Auditor-General. Very large sums have been saved the country, owing to Mr. Mc-Dougall's watchfulness, but in the future it is very doubtful if his successor will be equally successful, in view of the Government's action.

The law allows the auditor to object to a proposed payment when it is improper. But the same law permits the Government which has ordered the payment to overrule the

The Auditor has claimed that this system is wrong, and has suggested that some authority other than the Government should interpret the law. To this proposition the Government thas made reply by introducing a bill making it easier for the Cabinet to overrule the Audit Office. It is within the power of the Auditor to call for documents and evidence to prove that a charge is a proper charge before passing it. If the Auditor thus incurs delay, the Government ander its processed with a charge is a proper charge before passing it. If the Auditor thus incurs delay, the Government ander that the Railway Company consider that the Railway Company consider that that the Railway Company consid Auditor thus incurs delay, the Government, under its proposed plan, can pass the account over the head of the Auditor, or without any report from him.

The difference between the Auditor and the Government is, it will be seen, quite marked. By the officer it is contented that no accounts shall pass unless properly certified to, and that in case of dispute between the Government and the Audit Office, an independent tribunal shall find what is right. By the Government, on the other hand, it is claimed that there shall be 'no reference to an independent tribunal, and that the Ministers shall be at liberty to pay out whatever sums they please, re gardless of the opinion of the Auditor with reference to them.

We believe the position of the Auditor is the correct one. His proposition prevents wrong-doing, and is in accordance with the practice of civilized countries

CURE FOR HAY FEVER

The Central Drug Co. Say Hye Will Give Relief-Sold U

The season for hay fever is almost at hand, and many people feel that they will be obliged to go away in order to avoid the sneezing, watery eyes, and other annoying symptoms of this disagreeable summer disease. The Central Drug Co. wish us to announce that when Hyomei is used as a preventive, or a cure, there will be no hay fever. They advise daily treatment with Hyomei for two or three weeks before the usual time for the annual appearance of hay fever. If this is done, the attack will be prevented. However, if the preventive treatment is not started soon enough, and the disease makes its appearance, use Hyomei six or seven times daily, and relief will be given at once.

There is no stomach dosing when Hyomei is used. Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, its medicated air reaches the minutest air cells, killing aff germs and soothing and head ing aff germs and soothing and heal ing all germs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, extra bottles 50 cents. It is the only treatment for hay fever sold by the Central Drug Co. under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

HEROISM OF AUTHORS

ence and Mistory, Is Indebted to Pain and Worry and Suffering For Some of Its Choicest Gems.

There are heroes of the pen as well as of the sword, and the victories of the study are quite as affecting and memorable as those of the battlefield.

If a complete list of the fine exam-ples of heroism of authors were complied it would reach well out into the thousands and include a large number of illustrious names: In fact, it is said that few authors have done really great work except under adverse circum-stances. Literature, as well as science, art and history, is indebted to pain and worry and suffering for some of its choicest gems.

There are few finer examples of the heroism of the study than that presented by Professor Finsen, the discoverer of the light cure for lupus. For the last twenty years of his too short life he suffered from painful diseases of the heart and liver, to which dropsy was superadded, and it was only by daily self denial and the strictest diet-ing that he was able to live at all.

Yet for all these years, lived in the very shadow of death and in constant suffering, he stuck bravely to his great life work, even studying his own diseases with the keenest attention and writing articles on them for medical journals. The last two or three years of his life were spent lying on his back, unable even to be carried to his beloved institute a few yards away, and yet the lion hearted scientist never re laxed for a single day his gallant fight for his fellow men against disease. The heroism of the Danish profess or suggests a similar brave battle waged by an English professor, J. R. Green, the historian, against disease and pain. It was in 1869, when the disease which had assailed him for many years finally prostrated him and when the doctors gave him no hope of living more than six months, that Green set to work to write his famous "Short History of the English Peo-ple." Day after day he toiled at his task, holding desperately on to life and in a state of ceaseless pain and exhaustion, and so brave was the man's spirit that he actually prolonged his life for five years. Even he was bound to confess, "I wonder how in those years of physical pain and despondency I could ever have written the book at all." General Grant's memoirs, which brought his widow the enormous sum of $500,000, were written under even more trying conditions than Green's history. In 1884, the year before his death, the ex-president found himself bankrupt through the failure of the Marine bank and face to face with the prospect of dying penniless and leaving his wife destitute. It was at this terrible crisis that he began to write the story of his stirring career. But the cup of his misfortune was not yet full. A cancer formed at the root of his tongue, and the gallant soldier was compelled to write day after day, suffering constant and severe agony. Mrs. Browning, too, wrote most of her beautiful poems confined to a darkened chamber, to which only her own family and a few devoted friends could be admitted, in great weakness and almost unintermittent suffering, with her favorite spaniel as her com-

The German poet Heine was another martyr and hero of the study. The last seven years of his life were spent on his "mattress grave," racked with such excruciating pain that he had to take doses of opium large enough to have killed several men in order to give him a few blessed hours of free-dom from it. Through all these years of torture he not only bore himself with a noble resignation and cheerfulness, but produced many of his finest and most finished works, including his 'Last Poems and Thoughts" and his

"Confessions." Sir Walter Scott's heroic struggle with misfortune and failing health during the closing years of his life is per-haps too well known to call for more than mention. After the commercial crash came which left him crushed with debt and with shattered health he set to work "with wearled eyes and worn brain" and toiled for years, often as much as fourteen hours a day, until the end came and with it the lifting of all burdens, including that of his debts, every penny of which his monumental toil had paid.

In the list are also Frank Smedley, who wrote his book on "a bed of an-guish;" Edna Lyall, who kept death at bay by her brave spirit and busy pen, and Clark Russell, who set a magnificent example of patience by his in-dustry when racked with rheumatism. It is also said that much of Sir Arthur Sullivan's sweetest music was distilled Economy.

The following letter was received from his sister by a New Yorker who was away from home on a visit:

I am sending by mail a parcel containing the golf coat you wanted. As the brass buttons are heavy I have cut them off to save postage. Your loving sister, P. S.—You will find the buttons in the right hand pocket of the coat.

Would Leave It.

"I insist upon your leaving the house," she said angrily.

"Certainly," replied the tramp blandly. "I have no intention of taking it with me."

To every duty performed there is attached an inward satisfaction which deepens with the difficulty of the task.

Scott.

"I enjoyed good health until about two years ago when I noticed my back began to ache frequently; it became sore and lame, and headache soon added to my misery; also found that my general health diminished. I became thin and weak and nervous, having severe pains at regular intervals," writes Mrs. Augustus Emory, Treasurer New Century Club, 34 Dean Street (Roxbury), Boston, Mass. She continues: "My work which before had seemed an easy task soon seemed like a heavy burden. I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Payorite Prescription, which several of my friends praised so highly. I felt relief within a week, my appetite came back, the pains gradually decreased and I enjoyed sound sleep. Within fourteen weeks I had completely recovered my health. I seemed built up anew, my pulse, which had been weak became normal, and new life animated my entire being. I gladly endorse your medicine."

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health, by curing the local womanly diseases which are generally responsible for the failure of the general health. A woman's entire being is centered in her woman's entire being was man ducers gnaw the general health will reflect the progress of disease, in increasing weakness, nervousness, backache, headache, loss of appetite and sleeplessness.

VICTORIA CATARACT | Four Facts For

IT IS ONE OF THE NOTABLE WON-DERS OF THE WORLD.

There Is No Other Falls on Earth Just Like It, and There Is No Possibility of Comparison Between It and Our Own Niagara.

It was on the 22d of November, 1855, that the friendly natives with whom he was traveling brought Dr. David Liv-ingstone for the first time within sight and sound of the wonderful cataract on the Zambezi river, now known as the Victoria falls. Before finding it, the good missionary had journeyed for nearly two years, and from his point of departure at Kuruman, in Cape ony, had traversed quite 4,000 miles of hitherto unknown country.

Today one takes the train at Cape Town on Wednesday, passes through Kimberley on Thursday, reaches Bulu-wayo on Saturday, and late in the afternoon of Sunday begins to see in the distance the rising pillar of mist from the great cataract. The natives call it "Mosi-oa-tuni," meaning "the roaring smoke." Twenty miles away the spray thrown back from the depths of the tremendous cavern into which the river tumbles appears like a column of smoke rising from a burning village, and during the last mile of the railway journey the roar of the falling water becomes no-ticeable. Finally, when the edge of the chasm is reached, if the river is in flood, the eye and ear are assailed by a combination of phenomena that probably cannot be duplicated as marvels anywhere else on the planet.

The first question that is asked of an American who has seen this African wonder generally is, "How does it compare with Niagara?" There is no possibility of comparison. The two are as different as day and night. Niagara is a perfect picture in a lovely natural framework. Every point and line and curve of motionless rock, trembling verdure and gliding water is a touch of majestic beauty. Victoria is simply a phenomenon, a terrific gash in the floor of an apparently unending plain, which as one gazes simply swallows a river in a manner that produces almost a thrill of horror.

The Zambezi valley for a hundred miles or more in every direction from the cataract is a rough and broken plateau covered with low brush and stunted trees, with here and there an outcrop of somber basaltic rock, all thoroughly uninteresting. The herbage is but faintly green and the tropical sky only faintly blue. It is a hazy half tone landscape, wanting in clear cut lines in every direction and lacking, above everything else, that element we always unconsciously seek in a nature picture-life. The absence of this produces in the mind a feeling of loneliness and often of fear. Across this solemn scene appears a river that in flood time is perhaps half a mile wide. If a deaf man were following down one of its banks he would notice little but the quiet water and the odd looking column of smoke ahead. As this column was approached he would expect to see the river banks bending and the water flowing away to one side of the conflagration and might glance to the right and left to note the direction taken. But the panorama changes as he gazes. The river is no more, and there, where it should be, is only the brown plain, as lonely, brush covered and monotonous as ever. One must go twenty miles farther before the vanished water and the surface of the land again commingle, before it will be possible to walk along the bank in company with the river. So sudden is the transformation.

Meantime the pillar of smoke has re solved itself into a dense mist forced upward in terrible puffs from a yawn ing gash stretching directly across the bed of the river. This fearful abyss is every second swallowing thousands of tons of green and white water and belching up blasts of mist that rise hundreds of feet into the air and hurry away with the winds as if rejoicing at their escape from the inferno be low. And somewhere, nearly 400 feet below, the entrapped river is fighting its way between sheer walls of black rock toward a narrow cleft in the eastern wall, whence it escapes, foaming and boiling, through the zigzags and curves of a deep gorge leading off to the eastward. One goes to an edge of this delivering chasm and looks down upon the tossing waters, ever pressed from behind by other floods struggling out of the narrow black gateway, and perhaps the most promnent mental sensation is that of thankfulness that even in such a grim and ghastly way nature has provided a means by which the fearful slit of a throat above that has swallowed the stream can disgorge it again without causing an overwhelming catastrophe. The Victoria cataract should be visited at least twice before one is competent to pass an opinion upon it. When the river is in flood (July) the scene is simply terrible. One sees nothing but an enormous sheet of water disappear-ing into the bowels of the earth with a noise as of mountains falling upon one another, while from the awful gash comes back in fierce gusts and swirls the foaming breath of the tortured element below. But in December, when the water is low, the edge of the catathe water is low, the edge of the caus-ract shows as a long, creamy film of lovely lase; the rising mist flows soft-ly away through the little rain forest below the cavern's lip; the gigantic vault itself becomes a wonderful spec-tacle, a dream of neutral tints, a cave of beauty. Far down in its dark depths the waters, gliding along the depths the waters, gliding along the rocky walls and bending gracefully around the corners toward the narrow outlet pass gayly and laughingly to freedom. For a time the demon of the cataract is sleeping.—Theodore F. Van Wagenen in Century.

Sick Women To Consider

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has an Unequalled Record of Cures-Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Is Confidential, Free, and always Helpful

FIRST.—That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, such symptoms as necessarily and painful menstruation, leucorrhosa, displacements of the uterus, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

SECOND.—The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia. E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. nothing else can.

For thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, all uter ine and ovarian inflammation, weak ine and ovarian inflammation, weak ness and displacements, regulating menstruation perfectly and overcom-ing its pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life.

Third.—The great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass.. many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

FOURTH.—Every ailing woman in Canada is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women.—Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, your trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of the vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Surely, any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

Accident on Wabash Delays Train-Narrow Escape of Two Chathamites

Those who were in Detroit yesterday and waited for the late Wabash train which reaches here at 11.20, did not arrive home until about three o'clock this morning.

The delay was the result of an accident to the train about three o'clock yesterday afternoon while between Kansas City and Detroit. While the train was going at a high rate of speed the axle beams on the coal tender became twisted, throwing the wheels sideways. The engineer and fireman, seeing a switch shead, thought that an accident could not be averted when the engine crossed it and were all prepared to jump. In some miraculous manner, however, the switch rails spread and allowed the skidding wheels of the tender to pass. After about half a mile had been traversed the train was stopped, when it was found the engine was so badly wrecked that it could not proceed and another was called out.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Young Man Named Tomlinson Appears in the Police Court Charged with Reckless Driving-Other Cases.

A very interesting case of alleged reckless driving was tried at the Police Court this morning.

On the 11th of July a young man named Tomlinson, ran over the foot of a small child on Park avenue. The father of the child, Edward Laque, entered a complaint against the young man, and, after the hearing of considerable evidence, the case was adjourned until Monday.

The injured child was playing in the road, when young Tomlinson came along driving a dray. Tomlinson claims that the children commenced throwing stones at him and, in the confusion, the child got in the road, unseen by him, and was run over. Laque claims that Tomlinson drove out of the road when he ran ver the child.

WRIT ISSUED

Pine St. Sewer Causes Trouble-Mayor invited to London-Alleged Error by Local Physician.

C. F. W. Atkinson, barrister, of Port Rowan, acting on behalf of C. R. Atkinson, Park avenue, has issued a writ against the city. The claim is for damages suffered by the plaintiff by reason of the overtaxing of the S. George street sewer and for an injuction to restrain the building of a sewer along Park avenue and Pine street to connect with the one on St. George street.

The outlet for the Pine street sewer is not yet settled, but there is a strong likelihood it will be into the one on William street, all the others being already overtaxed.

The work on the market sheds is going ahead apace, the building being up a considerable height from the ground. In a few days the work will be far enough advanced to use the building. The police station is completed with the exception of the slating to be done on the roof.

Some time ago a young child be-longing to Ed. Rouse, of the Suther-land-Innes Co., was taken ill with diphtheria and removed to the St. Clair street hospital. While there diphtheria and removed to the St. Clair street hospital. While there another child was admitted to the hospital suffering from scarlet fever, wrongly diagnosed as diphtheria by a local physician. Mr. Rouse's child, as a consequence, caught the scarlet fever infection and he asks the city to pay the bill. The city will, in all likelihood, be indemnified by the physician who brought the scarlet physician who brought the scarlet fever patient to the hospital instead of sending it to the contagious ward of the hospital proper.

Burglars in Paris Catacombs.
Part of the catacombs of Paris beyond the Luxemburg have been invaded by burglars who were on the lookout not for loot, but for skulls. The thieves, four in number, did not venture far into the subterranean place of the dead, as they were evidently afraid of the labyrinths of the dently afraid of the labyrinths of the catacombs. They attacked the first pile of bones which they saw after having effected an entrance and carried away several skulls. The four catacombs burglars were arrested and tried. They stated in the police court that they wanted the skulls to decorate the rooms of their lodgings. In reality they proposed to sell them to medical students. The four were concerned to fines and to terms of imdemned to fines and to terms of im-

Humor In Men and Women.

There can be no doubt that women have less sense of humor than men. Much humor in a woman is rare and remarkable. The love of approbation is as common among women as humor among men, and as rare among men as humor among women. The temptation to say the unpalatable thing which, quite apart from dislike or anger, at times seems to attack the masculing and when times seems to attack the mase times mind seldom occurs to them, and when it does it denotes not, as in men, a mere ebullition of the spirit of independence, but a real want of benev lence going down to the roots of the nature. Most women would rather be liked by every one; very many wish for, and a few actually crave, approbation.

Cornishmen and Tails.

Natives of Devonshire, England, in past centuries used to say that Corn-ishmen all had tails, asserting that it was a sign of the divine disapproval of was a sign of the driving off the tail of Thomas a Becket's horse. A sixteenth century writer says: "So hath England in all other lands a perpetual infamy of tayles by theye wryteen legendes of lyes, yet can they not well tell where to bestowe them truly. An Englishman now cannot travayle in another land by way of marchandyse or any other hon-est occupyinge, but it is most contumeliously thrown in his tethe that all Eng-lishmen have tayles."

Burial by Machinery

The Armley burial board at Leeds, in England, is considering the desirability of adopting a singular labor-saving device for interments, says The London Chronicle. The invention consists of an appliance for lowering the coffins into the grave, and it is claimed that there is nothing to offend the sensibilities of the mourners, the body being lowered slowly and reverently. When the coffin reaches its resting place the the coffin reaches its resting place the girths of the appliance release them-selves automatically. The adoption of the invention, it is pointed out, will pre-vent the painful scenes that sometimes occur at funerals.

European Powers Arming. The tremendous demands for artillery which are reported from the great Krupp foundry in Germany cannot come alone from the actual beligerents in the far east. The very size of the orders mentioned indicates as much. It is apparent that other powers are arming themselves at renewed pressure, doubtless ordering new equipments of artillery as a result of lessons learned on the held in Manchuria. Germany would seem on the face of things the power chiefly concerned. Thus the ruinous waste goes on, and "the armed camp of Burope" grows more and more a reality. The tremendous demands for artil

CRIOKET

The Chatham team lost a very close game to Detroit yesterday, the score being 97-87. The locals went close game to Detroit yesterday, the score being 97-87. The locals went to bat first on a good wicket, Sullivan with 22 to his credit, and Brundage making the first stand. After the fall of these two wickets the others fell rapidly and only 39 runs had been registered for the first six wickets, of which number Harry Northwood put on 10. The tail end, in this case the last four wickets, saved the defeat from being a rout by putting on 47 runs—Taylor and by putting on 47 runs—Taylor and Pritchard making a stand which added over 30 runs.

For Detroit the score was made by Bredin, who had 33 to his credit, Davis following with 22.

The features of the local's game were the batting of Taylor and Sullivan with 23 and 22 respectively, and the bowling of Harry Northwood, who had three wickets for 12 runs.

Aunt Hannah Snow, wife of Captain as good a sailor as her husband. She had gone with him to the West Indies on seven voyages and had acted as mate and second mate. She could mend a sail, steer her trick, make or take in sail and use a quadrant as well as any one, or at least as well as any mate that ever sailed with the Hannah Snow, as the brig was named. Captain Snow ran between Boston and the West India islands, and the shippers of Boston came to know his wife and the way she could discipline a crew and han-On a certain date the brig was loading in Boston for a quick market. Extra help was put on to get the cargo aboard, and Captain Jabez signed a bond to get that cargo to its destination within a certain number of days, barring hurricanes, waterspouts and other acts of Providence. The bond had not been signed more than an hour when he broke his leg. Nothing was surer than that he could not carry out his agreement, and a great financial loss as well as many weeks of vexatious delay stared the couple in the face. They must either find a captain to take charge of the brig or forfeit the charter and pay a good round sum, and Captain Jabez was wondering if a man could be found when his wife

"Jabez, you have broke your leg, and I don't want to be cross with you, but you seem to forgit that I am still on earth." "No. I don't," he replied, "but I don't see what you can do in this case except to git me back home and nurse "Well. I see where I can do some thing else, and I'm goin' to do it too. I'm goin' to take the Hannah to the West Indies and back and save our

"Not a bit of it. If I couldn't make that voyage I wouldn't be worth my salt. I know all the crew, and I'll have Bill Henderson for mate. We'll slip down there and be back ag'in before your leg has begun to knit. There needn't be any more talk about finding a captain."

When Captain Jabez thought the matter over he was inclined to think that his wife could do all she said, but the consignees had to be consulted. When Aunt Hannah went to them and stated the case they did not raise a single objection, and it was settled that she was to be Captain Hannah Snow for the voyage. It was only after the brig had left port that the mate's meanness came to the surface. He had sailed with the craft on several voyages and was a neighbor of the Snows at home. When the accident happened to Captain Jabez the mate naturally hoped to get command for the voyage. He would have been distressed if any other captain had come aboard but to be walked over by a woman, even though she was the captain's wife and a neighbor, was too

Aunt Hannah saw that he was in the "Look here, Bill Henderson," she said, "it won't do you the least mite of good to go on biting your tongue over this. I can captain this brig as well as Jabez, and I'm going to take her out and back."

"You'll have her at the bottom before we strike the gulf stream," he re-

"You never mind where I'll have her but 'tend to your knitting. We are to crack on and make the best time we

A day later she found the mate carry ing too little sail, and an argument ensued. Later on she came on deck from her watch below to find him chumming with the men. Two or three other things happened to put her out of temper, and she exercised the privilege of a captain by "breaking" the mate and sending him to the fo'-castle. When she would replace him with the next best man, the sailor re-fused to take the place. The crew was with the mate. Aunt Hannah express ed her mind freely, and as a conse quence the crew refused to obey. The brig was brought to the wind, sail taken off, and the woman was laughed at. She was told that not a man would do duty until the mate was reinstated.

"Then it's mutiny, is it?" she replied. "Very well. I'll let you know that you've got the wrong pig by the ear. I'll lose brig, cargo and everything else in the world before I'll give in."

For a day and a night the brig made no progress, and as the weather was

The crew saw that the woman did not intend to give in, and it angered them. There was one among them who had read dozens of pirate books and always longed to sail under the black flag. Things had never come right for him before, but now he took advantage of the temper of the others talker, and he held out such an alluring picture that even the mate, who was above the average man in intelligence with the others. This decision was communicated to Captain Hannah, who was wandering about unconcernedly. "Waal, Bill, that's all right," she retorted. "There's a rum and sugar loaded bark comin' our way, and you might begin on her. I've got a black shawl which I'll give you for a flag, and you just lay to, board that bark "I'll either turn pirate or command it but for the woman left aboard. Just before they reached the bark sh hoisted her black shawl as a signal and a warning. The crew of the stranger saw that something was wrong, and when the "pirates" attempted to board they were met with capstan bars and belaying pins. Some were seized and flung into the sea after being well thumped, and when the bark resumed her voyage and the yawl returned to the brig with the discomfited "pirates they were met at the gangway by Cap tain Hannah and an ancient fowling piece and told to shear off. They felt it wise to obey, and for seven long hours they floated within a cable's length of the brig and took turns begging Aunt Hannah's pardon and en treating her forgiveness. When they

It Recalled the Honeymor Here is a quaint little story told of a young couple upon their wedding trip, crossing from Dover to Calais. Jenny had grown tired and sickly on deck. and James had led her to the saloon below, lovingly wrapping her up in a Scotch plaid in a snug looking corner. He then went and fetched her some eau de cologne and was not less lavish of endearing words until—until he found he had made a mistake.

His wife had moved to another cor ner of the saloon more free from drafts, and an elderly woman with just the same sort of plaid had taken her place. Realizing the condition of af fairs, James dropped the cologne bottle and fled. Later he induced his wife to go and apologize to the woman he had unwittingly lavished tenderness upon, and Jenny went.

John never meant to be unkind and probably did love his wife. Only, like too many other married men, he fancied that the love which made for itself speech without measure before marriage had no need to break silence afterward.-London Tit-Bits

Why Prussia Is So Called,

The modern name of Prussia is derived from Borussi, or Porussi, conquered the country about 320 B. C. Little is known concerning Prussia and its people till the tenth century except that that portion of the Baltic shore which is now included in the kingdom of Prussia was formerly inhabited by Slavonic tribes akin in customs and languages to the Lithuanians. They came in occasional collision with wave after wave of the great Teutonic race as it flowed down from the icy north, receiving their first knowledge of Christianity from Bishop Adalbert of Prague, whom they martyred in 997. In the middle of the thirteenth century the Teutonic knights, on their return from the crusades, undertook the conquest and conversion of Prussia. The Borussia element mingled with the followers of the Teutonic knights, and conse quently with the Poles.

"Then it is a pirate you'll become for you'll never git command here." So a signal of distress was set on the brig, and when the bark came up and was hove to she was boarded by all the crew of the Snow in their own yawl. They might have committed some foolish act and had to smart fo were half dead with thirst and hunger she invited them aboard, or, rather permitted them to crawl over the rail

"My dear," said the elderly woman tearfully, "don't apologize. It was nice to be called such sweet names. It reminded me of my honeymoon time It's many a long year since my John had a tender word for me."

The Giant's Chair. In Dolgelly, in the north of Wales, there is a mountain celebrated in folklore, poetry and song as Cader Idris, excavation on the top of the mountain has given the peak its name. According to the Welsh bards, the depression was caused by the giant Idris long using it as a chair. There is a local tradition in north Wales that whoever passes the night in the Giant's Chair will be found in the morning either dead, crazy or endowed with the highest poetical aspirations. Idris is variously represented in Welsh tradition as a prince, magician, sorcerer and astronomer, the only thing on which all authorities agree be ing his immense stature. The "Lake of the Three Pebbles," which lies at the foot of the Giant's Chair, contains three large blocks of stone, which Idris is said to have once poured out of his boots. The smallest of these stones will weigh a ton and a half.

Tridacna shells are very commonly used in churches in Europe for holy water basins and even fonts. The largest perhaps are those in use at St. Peter's, Rome. These shells attain a weight of 500 pounds (the two valves together), the animal itself sometimes being twenty pounds in weight. The word "tridacna" is from the Greek tri-daknos (eaten at three bites), but who could eat a twenty pound animal at three bites?—St Nicholas. From Fourteen to Twenty Is the Time to Form Character.

There should be no happier time in a girl's life than the years from four-teen to twenty. She should have no serious responsibilities during those years, though she should not be permitted to give up her time entirely to frivolity. She has much to learn, and her character is usually in such a formative state that these years may be the making or the marring of her whole life, says Woman's Life.

There can be no laying down of hard and fast rules for this age. Individual needs must be considered always, and solicitous parents must remember that something must be left to the girl herself and that too close supervision is as Sad as too little.

There is no need to be discouraged over the number of foolish fancies which the girl will take up at this time, for they are transitory, and in a few years she will be the first to laugh at them. The chief things are to lay the foundation for a true womanly character and make her girlhood so happy that she would be only too glad to live

WORLD TREASURES OF ART HUNG IN THE NATIONAL GALLERY.

Striking Representations of All the Schools of Art and Their Celsbrated Exponents-True, as Ruskin Said: The National Gallery is the Most Important Collection of Paintings in Europe.

Whoever desires knowledge of the achievements of the brush has only to study the pictures forming the Trafalgar square treasures, writes W. E. C. in Lloyd's Weekly. All the schools of painting and their celebrated exponents are upon the whole strikingly represented. It is this feature which drew from Ruskin his opinion that "fer the purposes of the grantle stream of the property of the prope from Ruskin his opinion that "fer the purposes of the general student, the National Gallery without question is now the most important collection of paintings in Europe."

Italian art reaches a supreme point in Raphael's "Virgin and Child attended by St. John the Baptist and St. Nicholas of Barri," commonly known as the "Ansidel Madonna," having been painted for that family in Perugia. It is not only the glory of the Umbrian room, but of the collection. The land-scape beyond the arch in the rear of the group is full of beauty and brightness. There is only suggestion of Michael Angelo's power in his "Entombment of Our Lord," being an unfinished picture; but the "Madonna and Infant Christ, St. John the Baptist, and Angels" has magnetic influence from the wondrow beauty and the wondrow beauty and the prist, and and Infant Christ, St. John the Baptist, and Angels" has magnetic influence from the wondrous beauty of the faces. Kindred charm makes itself feit in Leonardo da Vinci's "Virgin of the Rocks," the countenances of the Divine Mother and St. Anne expressing influite benignity and sweetness, those of the boy Saviour and infant St. John entrancing artlessness and leve.

The three principal portions of an altar piece in the Umbrian room, the altar piece in the Umbrian room altar piece in the Umbrian room, the "Virgin adoring the Infant Christ," by Pietro Perugino, master of Raphael, form one of the most beautiful decorative pictures in the world. The compartment on the right represents the Archangel Michael, that on the left the Archangel Raphael with the youth Tebias. The suffusion of light in the work, at once delicate and tender, makes it a marvel of the brush. Titlan, by many considered the greatest of the work, at once delicate and tender, makes it a marvel of the brush. Titian, by many considered the greatest of the Italian painters, certainly "the bright econsummate star" of the Venetian school, is represented in the recently acquired "Ariosto," the "Bacchus and Ariadne," "Christ appearing to Mary Magdalen after His Resurrection," and other works. The artist's genius fixes the spectator in the Pagan tale, whether by the leap of Bacchus, the flight of Ariadne, or Silenus and the crowd of hymps, fauns, and-satyrs. The plcture, full of poetic feelings, abounds in splendid color. A great figure in the Venetian school was Giovanni Bellini, many of whose works adorn the gallery. His portrait of the Doge Leonardo Leredano is superb. Attired in State robes, the man looks out upon the spectator with fixed eye and collected mien, giving assurance he is a born ruler of his fellows, whether in Venice or elsewhere. Bellini's picture, "Landscape, with the death of Peter, Martyr," contains a perfect representation of a wood.

Full of impressiveness is the "Raising of Lazarus," from the brush of Seastian del Piombo, Very dramotic

Full of impressiveness is the "Rais-ing of Lazzrus," from the brush of Se-bastian del Piombo. Very dramatic grouping occurs, which all tends to sway imagination in realizing the sup-ernatural incident. These aids are the ernatural incident. These aids are the Divine Saviour in the midst uttering. "Loose him, and let him go": Lazarus casting away his cerements: and the mingled look of awe and wonder on the faces of the crowd at the stupendous nature of the miracle. The most imposing scenic performance is Paul Veronese's canvas, the "Family of Dartus at the feet of Alexander after the battle of Issus," splendid in color, composition, characterization, and accessorbattle of Issus," splendid in color, com-position, characterization, and accessor-les, noticeably the graceful architectur-al details. Among other paintings by this artist is the "St. Helena; Vision of the Invention of the Cross," a life-sized figure reclining in sleep or reverie on a marble window seat, noetically sugthe Invention of the Cross," a life-sized figure reclining in sleep or reverte on a marble window seat, poetically suggestive of tranquil ecstasy. Two earlier masters, Carlo Crivelli and Sandro Botticelli, must be specially noticed Both painters are richly represented the former better than in any other gallery; the latter in several examples, all displaying the artists's prolific invention, poetical sentiment, and profound sense of beauty. Crivelli well can be studied in his elaborate example of pictorial decoration, the wonderful altar piece, "Madonna and Child enthroned, surrounded by Saints." It is in three stages and thirteen compartments, and a surprising study of the human face, whether of the Virgin Mother and her Divine Babe, alike very beautiful, or of the numerous martyrs and confessors presented with their symbols. In the "Nativity of the Saviour," seen beneath a thatched pent house, by Botticelli, the predominant spirit expressed is intense ecstacy, signally displayed by the Magi and the shepherds attended by angels. How great was Botticelli's range of subjects has witness in the "Mars and Venus," the latter robed in white and gold—the god asleep.

The graver's art has familiarized Correggio's "Christ presented by Pilate ter robed in white and gold—the god asleep.

The graver's art has familiarized Correggio's "Christ presented by Pilate to the People, called Ecco Homo." Here, as in his other works, the artist makes a deep impression by the life he puts into his faces, aided by a matchless gift in painting. Examples occur in this picture in the sorrow-stricken Saviour, the fainting inother, and the noble head of the Roman soldier. A masterplece now widely celebrated, "Mercury instructing Cupid in the presence of Venus," shows Correggio in the happiest mood and at the acme of accomplishment. Nothing can be more captivating than the smilling goddess, the graceful Mercury, and the shapely and attent child. Scarcely any picture more rivets popular attention than Moreni's "Tailor," a sight of the collection. It has the painter's special gifts, absolute fidelity to truth in color, and the greatest ease in execution. or, and the greatest ease in execution.

A supreme technical achievement by the artist is the "Fortrait of an Italian Lady." She is seated in an armchair, wearing an underdress of gold tissue, over which is a red satin robe. The subtle quality of the brush-work is a marvel.

one of the things that Some men have so much common individual who waits.

Some men have so much common the German school, had it only produced Hans Holbein the younger, must have peculiar interest for Englishmen, from the memorable connection the great painter had with this country. His genius has remarkable witness in the large work "The Ambassadors," contenting full-length postratics of Length postratics o the large work "The Ambassadors," containing full-length portraits of Jean de Dintevill, Lord of Polisy, and George Selve, Bishop of Lavour. The former was ambassador from France to England in 1522 to which wear the picture. was ambassador from France to England in 1533, in which year the plcture was painted. At that time the bishop was on a visit to his friend. The portraiture, strikingly realistic and commanding, set off by accessories indicating wealth and intellectual tastes, is a treasure replete with great historis a treasure replete with great historical and artistic interest. Velasquez, a sovereign of art, can be studied with profit and delight. There are the animated "Boar Hunt." "Christ in the House of Martha," and the "Betrothal," all absolutely true to nature. all absolutely true to nature. But interest grows absorbed in looking at either the portrait of "Philip IV., King of Spain," or that of the "Spanish Admiral, Palido-Pareja." So full of truth and collections. Admiral, Palido-Pareja." So full of truth and reality are the pictures of the men before you that the mind inquires how the images could have been put there. There is no thought of the hand and the brush. Velasquez's work is the perfection of painting. His admiral, swarthy and fierce in expression, is a picturesque-looking grandee. A truly delightful Spanish picture is the "Boy Drinking," by Murillo. It is one of his happlest efforts, full of life and spontaneous touch.

There is rare and often strangely beautiful work of the Flemish schools, ranging during the 15th, 16th, and 17th centuries. John van Eyck's portraiture of "Jean Arnolini and Jeanne de Chenany, his wife," is a specimen of amazingly fine minute painting, so perfect that it shows to advantage inaneous touch. amazingly fine minute painting, so perfect that it shows to advantage inspected through the most powerful glass. Memilinc's paintings on wood, religious pieces, abound in realism and truly fascinating color. Gheeraert David's "A Canon and his Patron Saint," one of his finest works, is extraordinary in imitative power, both in figures and the accessories, the general effect being most picturesque. Rubens is seen in numerous works, well witnessing his splendid genius, the most capityating being the portrait of "Susanne Fourment," known as the "Chapeau de Perille," the lady's black Spanish beaver, or felt hat, shading her beaver, or felt hat, shading ish beaver, or felt hat, shading her charming face. Memorable as a great historical link and a splendid work of art, Van Dyck's "Equestrian Portrait of Charles I." is one of the most noteworthy treasures. Another is the same painter's "Gevartius," famous all the world over.

world over. The series of Claudes give distinction to our French collection. They embrace materpieces, whether the "Marriage Festival of Isaac and Rebecca," "Embarcation of the Queen of Sheba," or the sunny "Landscape and view in Rome." There is another noble work, Gaspard Poussin's materpiece work, Gaspard Poussin's materpiece "Abraham and Isaac going to the Sacrifice." A feature is the number of rare and precious works of the Dutch schools. The great master is, of course. world over. schools. The great master is, of course, Rembrandt, and he can be studied in all his greatness. There are nearly 20 of his works all testifying his potent genius for interpreting human character and nature. There is nothing in the whole art of pointing for the property of the studies of the state of pointing for the state of pointing the state of pointing the state of pointing the state of th ter and nature. There is nothing in the whole art of painting finer than Rembrandt's "Own Portrait at 32," "A Jew Merchant," and the old lady in black with white cap and ruff. Other pictures of the school which cannot be ignored from transcendent merit are Frank Hals's portraits, the woman in black, with large white ruff, and a fresh-colored man in dark doubist; Hobbema's "Avenue at Middleharnis"; and Gerard Terburg's "Peace of Munster," unsurpassed in miniature portraiture.

Our own artists, toe, impress and Our own artists, toe, impress and charm. Hogarth, the first great original English painter, the Meliere of the brush, can be studied, both for his invention and satire, in the series "The Marriage a la Mode." a work of rare genius. Sir John Reynolds, a master in the portraiture of great-men and of children, is finely represented in Lord Heathfield, the "Heads of Angels," and the "Infant Samuel"; and Gainsborough, equally gifted in painting woman, draws admiration by his beautiful portrait of Sarah Siddons. The poetry and perfection of Turner's landscape can be gauged in all its wondrous variety and beauty, as likewise Millais's great artist qualities in "The Yeoman of the Guard" and the masterly portraits of Sarah Siddon and the masterly portraits of Cleder and the masterly portraits of the comments of the comments and the masterly portraits of the comments and the masterly portraits of Cleder and the comments and the masterly portraits of the comments and the Guard" and the masterly portrait of Gladstone.

The pictures enumerated and many others make our National Gallery a very Mecca of art.

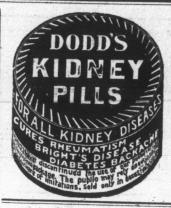

Labouchere's Tale Out of School.

I remember, some years ago, the Government suddenly found itself in a minority at about 3 o'clock a. m. Men were put up to talk, and messengers were sent to the houses of the abzentees urging them to get up and come at once to the House. The wives retees urging them to get up and come at once to the House. The wives replied that their husbands were not at home, and that probably they were in the House, and then a good many of them came themselves, fearing that their husbands had been run ever, or something of that kind. In the meantime most of the absentees had been discovered and had made their appearance. One of them said to me: "You know my wife; pray manage to throw yourself in her way, and tell her that you and I had been talking about some business in the library since midnight." I did not hesitate a moment to secure the domestic bliss of a Conservative, although at the expense of crude veractive for I hed a secure in the secure of although at the expense of crude veracity, for I had not seen my friend during the entire sitting.—London Truth.

was at home."—From M. A. P.

Putting food into a diseased stomach is like putting money into a pocket with holes. The money is lost. All its value goes for rothing. When the stomach is diseased, with the allied organs of digestion and nutrition, the food which is put into it is largely lost. The nutriment is not extracted from it. The body is weak and the blood impoverished.

The pocket can be mended. The

stomach can be cured. That sterling medicine for the stomach and blood,
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, acts with peculiar promptness and power on the organs of diges-tion and nutrition. It is a positive cure for almost all disorders of these organs, and cures also such diseases of the heart, blood, liver and othorgans, as have their cause in a weak or diseased condition of the stomach.

But It Is Too Soon to Discuss Them Says Earl Percy.

If Yangste Valley Railway Can Be Financed, British and American Capital Will Be Given Preference-Britain Negotiating With France for Construction of the Line - Probable Meeting of King and Kaiser.

London, Aug. 4. The session of the House of Commons yesterday was tak-en up with a discusion of the foreign policy. Earl Percy, Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, said that under the present circumstances it was impossible to discuss the changes in the Far East that might be brought about by the war, or changes that might be desirable to introduce into the Anglo-Japan-able to introduce into the Anglo-Japanese alliance. He thought that the general state of Europe presented no cause for anxiety.

Reverting to the Far East he said that it was true that while Great Britain in common with other countries was losing trade in China, Japan's trade in that country was increasing. Efforts were being made to obtain fresh markets in the interior, he continued, and China had promised, if the Chinese were unable to finance the proposed railway through the Yangise Valley to the Redstone Basin in the Province of Szechuan, to apply first to the British and American capital to build it.

Great Britain, he said, was now negotiating with France for the joint construction of the line.

The motive for Earl Percy's reticence was a desire to avoid Parliamentary discussion on the subject, while peace negotiations were proceeding. Sir Charles Dilke, who initiated the discussion, intimated that a renewal of the Anglo-Janaese alliance would British Fleet's Visit to Baltic Sea Approved by Germany.

London, Aug. 4.—The forthcoming visit of the British fleet to the Baltic Sea appears more than likely to mark the beginning of more cordial relations between Germany and Great Britain, instead of, as has been suggested in some quarters, adding to the friction now existing. The proposed visit was known to the German Foreign Office months ago and suggestions that objections were raised by Germany are unfounded.

Ernest George Pretyman, Secretary ernest George Frechman, secretary of the Admiralty, yesterday in reply to questions, stated definitely that no protests regarding the visit of the fleat had been received. Friendly comment on the pending cruise from German Baltic ports creates the belief that it will help along King Edward's desire for good relations between Germany and Great Britain, and the announceand Great Britain, and the announce-ment of Emperor William's support of the candidacy of Prince Charles of Denmark for the Norwegian throne is accepted as an indication that the German ruler proposes to work in the mame direction.

Break Lord's Day Act.

Cornwall, Aug. 4.—It is not offen that any one in this section is charged with failure to observe the Lord's day, and consequently considerable interest was aroused by the charge laid against Mr. Bronson, a farmer, who was accused of building a fence, hauling in and unloading hay on a Sunday.

The case came up before D. Davis, police magistrate. Bronson's solicitor held that the Lord's Day Act of the consolidated statutes of Upper Canada did not place farmers in, the class of persons prohibited from labor on Sunday, and the the Privy Council had declared the Ontario legislation on this point ultra vires.
