any has been utterly routed. The remains took Le Mans by storm and 6000 prisoners.

Paris was on fire in several places last night. The burning portions proved an excellent mark for the German gunners. "LONDON, January 14. Paris newspapers of the tenth instant publish particulars of the bombardment. Men are killed in the streets and their beds and infants in their mother's arms. One projectile killed four children and wounded five others.

Unrivaled works of art were destroyed. The hospitals suffered greatly and wounded soldiers were killed in their beds.

RUSSIAN ENTRY INTO PARIS DESCRIBED BY HERALD WRITER. "PARIS, January 18. A large majority of the inhabitants of the bombarded districts have changed their residences to safer quarters. They have retreated with their beds to their cars, many of which are decorated in the most picturesque fashion. The occupants of those lower regions, as they are called, are full of jokes over their misadventures."

"LONDON, January 23. Emperor William has sent the following telegraphic dispatch to the Empress Augusta:— "Last night an armistice for three weeks was signed. We occupy all the forts. Paris remains invested, but will be allowed to retreat as soon as the forts are surrendered."

"BERLIN, February 27. Emperor William telegraphed from Versailles to the Empress Augusta as follows:— "With a deeply moved heart I pray to God, I inform you that the preliminaries of peace have been signed."

"LONDON, March 14. The Herald correspondent at Versailles telegraphs:— "I have just returned from Paris, which I entered with the Seventh corps of the German army. "The Parisians made no hostile demonstration, whatever."

"Soon after our arrival there came up the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg, the Duke of Baden, Prince Leopold of Bavaria, with their staffs. Next came Count Bismarck attired in full Prussian uniform. Shortly after came Prince Adalbert, attired in an admiral's uniform and cocked hat."

"Exactly at half-past ten o'clock the speaker of Germany rode up to the top of the Longchamps race course. Fighting from his carriage on the steps of the entrance, he mounted his horse and cantered along the field along the line of troops.

"As he rode down the line the flags were dropped and the men gave three cheering cheers."

The march up the avenue of theamps Elisee was one of the most superb military spectacles ever witnessed. Nothing could have been more splendid than the discipline of the men. They were attired as if for dress parade. With the march of the Germans into Paris the humiliation of the French was complete.

ARMIES TRYING TO TWIST

Flank Movements are Attempted by Both Forces.

Heavy Rains Make Difficult Task of the Allies.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 21.—While the fortunes of battle fluctuate between the lines along the center of the extended front in France, desperate efforts are being made to execute turning movements on both flanks.

"The Anglo-French left wing is gathering every ounce of strength to turn the flank of the German general Von Kluck, who is reported as having received heavy reinforcements, while the German left, according to cautiously worded announcement in Berlin, is making equally strenuous efforts to outflank the French right resting on Verdun.

Under ordinary weather conditions the Anglo-French task would be the easier, by reason that Verdun, heavily fortified, must fall before the French right can be seriously threatened; but heavy rains have made such a morass of the Valley of the Oise that the allies are hardly likely to move along what would be their natural course until the German front north of Soissons has been driven back. The high ground between Noyon and Chauny has been newly fortified by General Von Kluck and dominates the whole valley of the Oise.

That the Germans have their present defensive position deliberately indicated by the fact that their heavy artillery rests on cement foundations which must have taken time to construct. Also the cement had to be allowed time to set.

Some reports received in London declared that the reason for the desperate German counter attack on Rheims is found in a movement of the allies to the westward. More or less definite rumors continue to circulate in London to the effect that the Germans are preparing a great retreat from France on their own border fortifications. The latest of these is a story related by a French officer who has returned to Paris. This Frenchman declares that an aeroplane reconnoitering has given rise to the belief that a large portion of the German force is retreating, accompanied by trains of heavy stores, and leaving only 200,000 men to cover the retreat.

One reason for the death of news from the battle front, is to be found in the bad weather, which has rendered ordinary signalling and aeroplane scouting unreliable. Stories now filtering through set forth that the Germans made desperate efforts, by the middle of last week, to recapture the ground they had lost along the river Aisne. Day and night the assaults continued. The Germans, placed in action by bands of men on the hastily constructed entrenchments of the allies, were cold steel against cold steel, and ended in the allies holding the positions desperately won by them.

Rheims, where the ruins of the famous cathedral are still smoking, is likely to prove a subject of controversy long after the military forces now in the field have ceased to contend for its possession. The Germans claim that the cathedral was in the line of fire and that it was impossible to save it in spite of their instructions to spare the building. It has been said that a check has been given the victorious Russians in Galicia. According to advices received here the advance of the Serbians continues. According to advices a combined Serbo-Montenegrin army expects to enter Sarajevo within a week.

WILL GIVE PROTEST. PARIS, Sept. 21.—The Havas Agency says that the government will make a protest against the destruction of the cathedral at Rheims. It is said that the cathedral sheltered a large number of wounded Germans who had been picked up and were being cared for by the French hospital authorities. It is not known here whether it was possible to save these men before the edifice was destroyed.

Private Cox of the 90th Regiment Winnipeg died at the Quebec military hospital from enteric. Germans continued bombarding the principal buildings of Rheims yesterday and last night. Debris

GERMANS MAKE STAND ON THE AISNE WHILE ARMY APPROACHING VERDUN FROM METZ RETIRES INTO GERMANY. General von Kluck's army is making a stand north of the River Aisne, while the armies of General von Buslow, General von Hausen, the Duke of Wurttemberg and the Crown Prince are reported to be falling back to form a new line, the extreme German left resting on Consenvoye, just north of Verdun, thus abandoning the attack on that fortress. At the same time the Bavarian army, which had invaded France from Metz in the direction of Verdun, is doubling back on Etain, in France, and Metz, Deime and Chateau Salins, across the German frontier.

CAN'T TAKE RHEIMS GERMANS DESTROY IT, WAS A FIERCE BATTLE

General Opinion Prevails That French and British Have the Advantage of Position—Plight of All Troops is a Sorry One.

[By Special Wire to the Courier.] PARIS, Sept. 21.—5 a. m.—There is little change in the situation in the great battle of the Aisne, according to the latest official announcements. The extreme left of the allied forces continues to bear the brunt of the fighting, and one time, Saturday or Sunday, the official reports do not bring out the time clearly, the Germans, in a furious counter attack, gained some ground, which, however, was speedily regained.

Elsewhere along the big battle front, the success of one side have been counterbalanced by the forward movements of the other but military experts here claim the allies have bettered their position, so far as it affects the continuation of the struggle since they have reached the front. The first ranks suffered terribly, but as fast as the men fell others rushed up to take their places, and when the enemy's lines were reached there were furious hand-to-hand encounters in which the Germans were forced to give ground, except on the heights of Brimont, which, owing to the overwhelming fire of machine guns, the Germans recaptured.

At the same time, the French made a fierce assault on the heights of La Pompelle, which they carried at the point of the bayonet. The struggle here was a desperate one, and after the retirement of the Germans, Turcos were found dead from bayonet wounds with their hands clasped in such vice-like grips around the necks of antagonists that they literally had to be pried open. Persons who have returned here from Rheims, say that it is difficult to find words to describe these attacks and counter attacks of infantry and showers of shot and shell and in a deluge of rain. The Germans, they declare, seem in a desperate hurry to finish their task, and are enraged at the stubborn resistance of the French. The Germans, they say, had all the best of the position at the opening of the battle, but the situation is now changed and the French have been able to gain possessions on high ground that will enable them to fight on even terms, and declare the Germans will never be able to break their line at Rheims.

WANTON DESTRUCTION OF CATHEDRAL CRIME AGAINST THE WORLD

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Rheims correspondent of the Daily Mail sends this story of the damage wrought in the cathedral there.

"The magnificent cathedral of Rheims, which was a national monument of universal fame, is now no more than an empty shell of charred and blackened walls. It is not yet known to what extent its stone work has been weakened by the flames, or whether it can later be restored, but it will never be what it was before. "The fire started between four and five o'clock Sunday afternoon after shells had been crashing into the tower all day. Over 500 fell between early morning and sunset. The flames spread from street to street. The cathedral Thursday had been turned into a hospital for the German wounded so as to secure for the building the protection of the Red Cross flag. When the first shell struck the roof everyone believed it was a stray shot, but later in the day a German battery on a hill four miles away, began making the great Gothic pile its particular target. "Shell after shell crashed its way into the old masonry and stonework that had stood the storms of centuries, or fell into the deserted streets round about. At half past four, some scaffolding around on the east end of the cathedral, whose repairs were going on, caught fire, and soon the whole network of poles and planks was ablaze. Then the roof of old oak timber, caught fire and soon the ceiling of the nave and transepts were a roaring furnace. "The blazing piers of carved woodwork crashed to the floor where piles of straw had been gathered in connection with the work of the old hospital. As soon as this caught fire the panelling of the altars, the chairs and other furniture were devoured. "The German wounded would have been burned alive if the French doctors had not removed them at great personal risk. There was a bad moment while these German injured were being removed. A crowd of people had gathered outside watching the flames, and when the Germans, some in uniform, were brought from the transept door, the crowd gave a howl of uncontrollable rage and earnest voices screamed 'Kill them.' Some of the soldiers in the crowd actually levelled their rifles to despatch the Germans, when a little priest, the Abbe Andrieux, sprang between the Germans and the rifles. "Don't fire,' he said. 'You would make yourselves as guilty as they are.' "Trowd calmed somewhat and the Germans were carried into the shelter of the museum amid boots and threats."

BIG BATTLE IS BEING RAGED FIERCELY DAY AFTER DAY, ALLIES ARE HOLDING OWN

Pluck of the British Troops is Once More in Evidence—Germans Beaten Back With Terrific Loss.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 21.—The correspondent of The Times near Soissons, continuing his story of the operations on the Aisne, affirms that the allies had successfully crossed the river, says:— "On Tuesday, the fifteenth attack was made by the enemy who evidently had been reinforced and was determined if possible to break through the allied lines between Vic-Sur-Aisne and Soissons, that is, between the British and French forces. "This attack was heralded by a tremendous outburst of heavy artillery fire, followed by a systematic advance of the infantry and machine guns. The allied forces stood their ground splendidly, plunged a deadly fire into the attackers and finally in certain cases repulsed them at the point of the bayonet. This battle continued with unabated fury all night and throughout Wednesday and Thursday. "On Wednesday night the Germans attacked the French furiously in the region of Rheims. They attacked three times but each time they were repulsed with heavy loss. "On Thursday they attacked the British with equal fierceness in the neighborhood of Soissons when again their losses were enormous. "The first sign of weakening (Continued on Page Four.)

SUMMARY OF ALL THE WAR NEWS

[By Special Wire to the Courier] The battle of the Aisne, which has now raged in France for ten days, continues. Both sides claim successes and favorable positions.

The ten days of desperate battle, fierce artillery fire day and night, infantry charges in which the fighting has been hand to hand and cavalry onslaughts when opportunity offered, have shown one result, the soldiers of the three nations engaged are becoming exhausted, the human machine is weakening under the frightful demand made upon it. Lulls in the battling are ascribed simply to utter fatigue.

Another factor which has had a notable effect on the conduct of the operations, has been the weather. An incessant cold rain has flooded the valley of the Aisne. The river has overflowed its banks and the trenches filled with water. The men are drenched to the skin day and night, and French soldiers coming to Paris from the front are encumbered with mud. Workers are succumbing to the hardships of fighting and living in the opening under such weather conditions, and transportation of supplies with effective promptness on account of the heavy roads. The men are camping in water, and the Germans are said from French sources, to be suffering from lack of food.

While neither side claims a decisive outcome, yet there appears to be good reason to believe that it is drawing to some definite development. Military opinion, both in London and Paris, leads to the conviction that the present lines, battered for ten days, soon will have to show noticeable changes. The fighting is fiercest on the allied side, where desperate efforts are being made to turn the flank of the army under General Von Kluck. Von Kluck has been reinforced, but in spite of this the French, in the late official reports, claim advantage, though it is admitted to be slight. The Germans it appears to be making desperate and persistent efforts to turn the right wings of the allies resting on Verdun. The help of this fortified position is of advantage to the French.

On the centre the fortunes of war fluctuate. The positions where the Germans now are were well selected and well fortified. Some of their heavy artillery is described as resting upon cement foundations.

MAY HAVE TO LEAVE FRANCE

Germans Said to be Planning a General Retreat.

Loss of Ground is Warning as to What is Coming.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 21.—The military correspondent of the Daily News says:— "The Germans have been losing instead of gaining ground ever since they rallied their routed forces in the positions now occupied by them. The loss of ground at present is only slight, but it is sufficient to be a warning to the enemy to know what to expect if they hold on much longer where they are, and the probability is that under cover of their repeated counter attacks they have already made preparations for their inevitable retreat, which has been forced on them by the failure of their strategy.

"Their counter attacks are not to be taken as implying an intention to resume the lost offensive, or even to break through the allies' lines. The German army in France has gone down the hill too far, both morally and materially, since it was driven in disorder from the Marne, to enable it to advance again on Paris with any hope of success.

"What the German commanders are now doing is gaining time for their retreat. Meanwhile the German right wing is being retorted by troops coming from Lorraine. "Fortunately for the Germans, the rear of their battle front is through Thionville, Montmedy and Metz, and extends north to Hirson and Laon. This enables such reinforcements as are available at Metz to be detrained within a day's march of any threatened point on the German line.

"Though the German commander on the right is holding on to the Nayon-la-Fere position, it can hardly be with the hope of keeping his line of retreat open through Belgium. It is too long, too exposed and too circuitous a route for a retreating army to use under the circumstances in which Von Kluck finds himself placed. "What seems probable is that the Germans will hold the line of the Meuse from Liege up through Namur and Givet to Metz, and then bring their armies back to Germany through the Belgian Ardennes and the Duchy of Luxembourg. The Prussian crown Prince, by his precipitate retirement, has already secured his safe retreat through Luxembourg, and the Grand Duke of Wurttemberg, can abandon his present communications and do the same, leaving the three German armies on the right to fall back through the Belgian Ardennes.

"We may expect then to find Van Kluck holding on to his present position with all his might till he finds he is decidedly in danger of being outflanked. Then he will endeavor to fall back to Hirson, make a prolonged stand there, and then retire to the Meuse to cover his lines of retreat through the Ardennes. Von Kluck is evidently a general of great resources and ability."

They Carried Away From Rheims the Sum of Three Hundred Thousand Dollars.

GERMANS GET LOOT

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 21.—Despatches to the Daily Mail from Paris say:— "From a large number of the French districts which were occupied by the Germans the local authorities fled and several prefects and sub-prefects and mayors have been relieved of their offices for failing to do their duty. The debt owed by those towns whose mayors did remain is large. The Germans treat with a properly constituted body when they enter a town."

Describing the occupation of Epernay, the centre of the champagne district, the correspondent says:— "The Germans gave orders not to loot the champagne country. It was intended, they said, to amaze it. The general staff requisitioned 300 bottles of wine and said they would be paid for, after the war. "Leaving Rheims the Germans took away $60,000 ($300,000 in cash).

"He's been shot; over a hundred spies have been shot at Vincennes and La Muelette," writes a Paris correspondent. This Frenchman was speaking of an hotel manager. CROSSES NO USE NOW

BORDEAUX, Sept. 21.—The Petite Gironde has published a despatch from Verdun setting forth that some French soldiers near that point found a valise belonging to a Prussian officer containing a quantity of little iron crosses strung on black and white ribbons, and bearing the inscription: "1814-1914." The crosses were distributed to German soldiers after the entry of the German army into Paris.

When the Wills of Tommy Atkins and Jack Tar are Legal

The Statutes of Wills in force in Great Britain provide that wills of soldiers in actual military service, and of sailors, are legal, and that the wills of personal estate. Wills of petty officers and seamen in the navy, and of marines, money as relates to their pay or prize money, and wills made by a seaman in the merchant service must, if made at sea, be attested by the master or mate, and if made on land, by a superior officer, a minister of religion, justice of the peace, or consular or customs officer. The effects of seamen, marines, and British soldiers, who are not in the regular duty; and if they amount to less than a hundred pounds, they are not protected, and are subject to special regulations. Under the French law, oral wills are not recognized. The wills of British soldiers are subject to special rules as in most other countries. In Germany there is a provision that the formalities may be relaxed in certain cases, such as during a soldier's prevailing epidemic, a state of siege. Recently the officers of the German warships Goeben and Breslau filed their wills with the German consul at Halifax, so that these could come under that classification. The cruisers were supposed to be preparing to run out through the English fleet, which was reported to be waiting for them off the harbor, but instead they fled with all speed to neutral waters, where they were sold to prevent fighting and capture.

THE BRANTFORD FUND.

This week sees the launching of the appeal in connection with the Brant Patriotic and War Relief Fund. The object is two-fold:

1. To help look after the wives, children and other dependents of the men of the city and county who have gone, and may go, to the front.

2. To help care for those who, through no fault of their own, are out of employment. In this latter regard some improvements of a public nature are under contemplation.

The sum aimed at is a minimum of $100,000, and it is the plain and the solemn duty of every one who has, to give according to their ability. Those of us at home must do our part, yes, to the extent of personal sacrifice.

THE SITUATION.

The grim, locked situation continues at the front between the Allies and the German forces. The latter would seem to have the advantage in present location, but not in pertinacity or courage. The British and the French are fighting side by side with a unitedness which is inspiring and with a dash and courage which is thrilling. There seem to be no such words in their lexicon as fail, or doubt as to ultimate victory.

The troops of the Kaiser still continue their acts of wanton vandalism. One of the latest is the destruction of the famous cathedral of Rheims, which at the time was occupied by a number of German prisoners, many of whom were injured. The structure was one of the most notable and beautiful in all Europe and very justly the pride of the French nation.

Evidence as to atrocities on the part of the invaders in Belgium continues to accumulate. Alexander Powell of the New York World, who is with the headquarters of the Ninth Imperial German Army, writes his paper that he saw a woman's body with hands and feet cut off; that he helped to bury a white-haired man and his son, civilians, and that he counted twenty-two bayonet wounds in the old man's face; that he attended the funeral of a little girl shot while in her mother's arms by a Hun; that he saw an old man hanging from the rafters of his house with the remains of a bonfire under him. He states that these things will also be confirmed by Mr. Gibson, secretary of the American Legation at Brussels, who was also present during the destruction of Louvain. When he spoke to General von Boehn regarding such acts he replied that sometimes soldiers got out of hand and did things which would not be tolerated if known. Perhaps so, but no such awful trail will follow the wake of either the British or French forces. The Germans have run amuck, and nothing less than that.

THE TRADE THAT WAS GERMANY'S. Some benefits that Canada might derive from Europe's war are denied us by restrictions of Empire patriotism. The keepest Canadian business man would not willingly profit to-day by a situation that handicaps the Mother Country. But in the field of commercial activity now open to Canadian manufacturers, there are now—by reason of this unsought war—various opportunities for us, which mean loss to none other than Germany.

Much of the trade that was Germany's in Canada should now become our own. Who but our own Canadian manufacturers should now make the hosiery, the underwear, the paper, the toys, the silver and much of the chemicals, dye stuffs and other things Germany has supplied us?

All this additional business, now so readily tending toward Canadian concerns, will be divided among them in proportions depending upon the aggressiveness with which they, respectively, go after such business.

And in that aggressiveness, as in all commercial campaigning, ADVERTISING must be an important factor. Doubly important right now—because this trade that was Germany's is going to be apportioned among our factories at once. Our people must have these things—not six months or a year hence—they are buying them now. Stocks are running low, and the firms that ask most insistently for their share are going to get it—large and quickly.

It will be a test. Advertising will soon reveal which of our industrial enterprises are most worthy and best prepared to profit by Germany's set-back. The firms first to advertise for this business that was Germany's will be the first to profit, and the ones to profit most largely when that business becomes Canada's.

Who, among our Canadian manufacturers, is willing to be left out in the cold? Who, among such firms, will fail to advertise?

(During the period before the commencement of the war, when Great Britain was using all her powers of diplomacy to prevent such a disaster, Germany was given to plainly understand that if she violated her neutrality treaty with Belgium, John Bull would at once jump into the ring with his coat off. "Just for a scrap of paper," ejaculated the Chancellor.)

Just for a scrap of paper, Just for a nation's word, Just for a clean tradition, Just for a treaty shurled, Just for a pledge defaulted, Just for a dastard blow, Just for an ally's summons, Just for a friend struck low, Just for the need of progress, Just for a trust held dear, Just for the rights of mankind, Just for a duty clear, Just for a Prussian insult, Just for a splendid cause, Just for the hope of progress, Just for the right of laws, Just for the Kingdom's peril, Just for a deed of shame, Just for defence of honor, Just for the British name.

A MEMORABLE INCIDENT. The Parliamentary correspondent of the Yorkshire Post, sent the following interesting despatch to his paper: "Some little time ago I noticed an editorial in a paper regarding prompt payment of taxes, and would like to know how the average workman can pay his taxes promptly when on account of the war for which the workman is in no way responsible; he has been dismissed temporarily from his position. Would also like to ask whether the vast majority of foreigners owning no property and paying no taxes should be given employment in preference to the respectable townsman who has all his life lived in our country and spent his money here."

Though British official reports say that the allies still are gaining ground, their progress necessarily is small-like, and the public here is beginning to feel that the turning point of the battle never will be reached until one side or the other has been outflanked. The suggestion, that the allies would accomplish this Saturday or Sunday on the German right was not fulfilled, and apparently their efforts are being continued to-day.

For days the British press referred to Von Kluck's peril, but so far the German commander has been able to check what must be terrific pressure from the British and French left.

Naturally there has been no intimation from German sources to confirm the report that a comparatively small part of the German army proposes to maintain merely a defensive position in France while the main body makes a stand on the frontier, but optimists among the allied adherents believe it to be exceedingly improbable that Emperor William's troops again will assume a general offensive on a rich territory. They contend, however, that a retirement of the German forces from French soil must shortly become inevitable unless the offensive is averted.

Further encouragement is seen here in the backward movement of the army of Crown Prince to the skin by the heavy rains which continues to fall. The chalky clay ground north of Rheims has been so soft, they say, that it will be impossible for a retreating army to get away its artillery. To this fact they attribute the desperation with which the Germans are fighting.

Floods caused by the continuous rain are likely to greatly impede military operations, especially in the East, where the streams are beginning to overflow their banks. The River Savoureuse already is out of its banks, and some habitations are isolated. While rescuing a family M. Gouns, the administrator at Belfort, was seriously injured. He was mentioned in the orders of the day for bravery by the general in command.

Going After Germany's Trade With Britain

One of the smaller manufacturing concerns of Canada—R. E. Thorne & Co. of Montreal and Valleyfield, in view of an aggressive policy in view of present industrial conditions that might well be emulated by other and larger Canadian manufacturing industries.

This Company operates the Canadian Bronze Powder Works, which supply most of the Canadian consumption of bronze powders, gold paints and bronze liquids, as well as a portion of the demand for these articles in the United Kingdom. Germany has been the principal competitor of this company both in Canada and in the United Kingdom, and the company is making strenuous efforts to secure the trade in both countries that the firm remains in Canada to direct these efforts in this country, the other member is now on the Atlantic, enroute to an aggressive campaign there. In the meantime, in order to cope with the increased orders that are already coming in, due to the shift of the factory in the company's plant at Valleyfield. If Frederick William, which, it is argued, means the failure to establish for the invaders new and shorter communications by way of Metz and the Rhine.

Hardly less discussed to-day than the battle itself is the destruction, or at least the partial destruction, of the Rheims cathedral. This edifice has been called the Urn of French History, and its loss will be a greater shock to historians and worshippers of antiquity than was the destruction of the library D'Belgian, town of Louvain. The Germans were quick to issue a formal statement from Berlin saying that the damage to the cathedral was unintentional, and was incidental to absolutely necessary operations.

Vienna despatches say that the newspapers of the Austrian capital continue silent concerning the operations in the Austrian provinces of Galicia and against the Servians, but they are appealing daily for more nurses, doctors and medical supplies to be sent to the front. The Austrian hospital equipment is said to be woefully inadequate, the wounded often lying on the field from twenty to forty-eight hours.

From Trieste, the principal Austrian port on the Adriatic Sea, concerning whose attitude in case of an attack there has been so much speculation, came a statement to-day that in case of attack it would not be evacuated.

Students and young professional men are conspicuous in every "night" sweep upon the London streets.

"It's a Long Way to Tipperary" now has become a fixed classic song in this war, much in the same manner as "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" swept through the American army during the Cuban campaign.

It was announced here to-day that David Lloyd-George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, is heading a movement to raise a complete Welsh army corps.

Moose Jaw is forming a Scottish kilted regiment. Forty natives of Scotland have joined already.

Calgary now has a new police headquarters building said to be one of the finest in Canada.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Do your duty by the Patriotic Fund, and do it willingly.

Instead of the "Jackdaw of Rheims" it has proved to be a case of "A Jackal at Rheims."

Servia and Belgium are small, but when it comes to fighting they are Johnnies on the spot.

Lloyd-George certainly has a way of hitting off a situation in novel language. "Prussia is the road hog of Europe" fits well.

Arthur S. Pier, the well-known United States novelist, calling upon the Boston Herald, calls upon the States to help the Allies, and says: "Germany, the outlaw, must be hunted down, even if it takes the police force of the world to do it."

An editor in Winnipeg has got into trouble because of attacks upon Col. Sam Hughes. This is no time for arm-chair critics, who often don't know one end of a rifle from the other, to sit down in slippered feet and criticize those at the head of affairs. Those who know agree that it is a good thing that there is such a live and active man at the head of the Militia Department as the Hon. Sam.

To The Editor

A REASONABLE APPEAL. Brantford, September 17th, 1914. To the Editor of The Courier: Sir,—Some little time ago I noticed an editorial in a paper regarding prompt payment of taxes, and would like to know how the average workman can pay his taxes promptly when on account of the war for which the workman is in no way responsible; he has been dismissed temporarily from his position. Would also like to ask whether the vast majority of foreigners owning no property and paying no taxes should be given employment in preference to the respectable townsman who has all his life lived in our country and spent his money here."

SUMMARY

A news despatch received in London from France says an aeroplane reconnaissance has given rise to the conviction that a large portion of the German forces is retiring in the direction of fortified positions on the German border.

The destruction by German shell fire of the famous cathedral of Rheims has been made a matter of protest on the part of the German government. Berlin, in an official statement, asserts that the fire of suspense which must last so long as the great battle of the Aisne now in its tenth day, remains undecided.

Though British official reports say that the allies still are gaining ground, their progress necessarily is small-like, and the public here is beginning to feel that the turning point of the battle never will be reached until one side or the other has been outflanked. The suggestion, that the allies would accomplish this Saturday or Sunday on the German right was not fulfilled, and apparently their efforts are being continued to-day.

BIG BATTLE

(Continued from Page 1) was noticed Thursday afternoon after the fierce attacks of that day had been repulsed. The German losses were colossal. The Germans charged in close formation with utter recklessness of human life.

"The whole idea of German strategists seems to be to throw plenty of weight in the belief that some of it is bound to get through."

PLUCK WAS THERE. LONDON, Sept. 21.—The correspondent of the Times, telegraphing from near Soissons on Sunday, in describing the German counter attacks on the allies left wing Wednesday and Thursday says:

"The men were literally thrown away to act as mere dead weight. They hurled themselves down at us like a landslide. Our officers were wonderfully cool and made us lie close and tight close. That and a bit of pluck did it, but it certainly did want pluck."

"Soissons has suffered terribly. It has been subjected to a regular, daily bombardment until almost irreparable damage has been done. Even the cathedral and the Church of St. Jean are badly damaged. "To-day the fearful fusillade continues."

ALLIES HOLD KEY. LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Daily Chronicle's Paris correspondent in despatch filed Sunday assumes that the western front of Noyon, Compiègne and Vic is now in the hands of the allies.

"The German possessions," the correspondent declares, remain very strong, but they have been pierced and what the middle of last week looked like a continuous wall of iron from Compiègne to Rheims, now presents rather the appearance of three groups of entrenched hills, which are liable to be isolated and turned.

Loyon, capital of the department of Aisne, is the key of the roads of retreat to the defence of which the German forces are now reduced. Here the Germans had time to choose good artillery positions and entrench themselves strongly.

"The allies have reached the edge of the Craonne plateau at Vendresse and Vassange. There is a substantial breach in the German lines between Faon and Rheims and it is doubtless this threat of their armies being divided which accounts for the repeated and desperate assaults on the French before Rheims."

APPEAL TO FARMERS. OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—The current number of the Agricultural Gazette, issued by the department of agriculture, makes a further appeal to the farmers of Canada to increase the country's wheat area. With 20,000,000 men under arms in Europe, it says, the demand for wheat next year will be abnormal.

Calgary now has a new police headquarters building said to be one of the finest in Canada.

NAVY HOLDS THE WORLD

NAVY. Na6Cnr 46N6 [By Special Wire to the Courier] BORDEAUX via London, Sept. 21.—An official communication, addressed to the navy and reviewing the work of the fleet since the outbreak of hostilities, says:

"The navy was called upon to cover the return of troops to France from Africa which was done satisfactorily.

"Assisted by the British forces in the channel and the North Sea, the command of the sea was attained from the first day the war broke out. The French and British fleets also assured the security of the Mediterranean after the flight of the Goeben and the Brestal and the enemy has not appeared again.

"The German fleet does not leave its base. Nevertheless, the British fleet was able to fight a naval battle off Heligoland from which it emerged victorious. It is impossible to know whether the enemy's fleet will end by accepting the challenge, but meanwhile the allied squadrons are mistresses of the sea, and are blockading the German and Austrian coasts, forcing the enemy to live almost exclusively on their own resources. This is certain assurance of ultimate success for us if the war is prolonged."

The communication proceeds to show that the French sea board trade continues to enjoy full liberty of movement.

ELM AVENUE CHURCH OPENS

President of Hamilton Conference Officiates at Ceremony Sunday.

Elm Avenue Methodist Church was solemnly dedicated to the service of God yesterday afternoon when the services, conducted after the ritual of the Methodist Church, were impressively celebrated by the Rev. H. W. Crews, President of the Hamilton Conference. In these holy duties, he was assisted by the Rev. T. E. Holling, Rev. A. E. Lavell and Mr. John Mann, each of whom spoke briefly upon the work of the Methodist Church and of the great benefit which the residents of Echo Place would derive from the splendid new building erected in their midst. Both morning and evening services were largely attended by appreciative residents and the handsome sum of four hundred and twenty dollars was given during the afternoon, and liberal contributions at night brought the total offering to over eight hundred dollars. The Rev. H. W. Crews, who had charge of both afternoon and evening services, preached eloquently and dealt with the ever increasing popularity of the Methodist Church. He complimented the residents of Echo Place upon their excellent progress and upon the magnificent building which had been built in their midst. Miss Agnes Butler was heard in a splendid voice in the afternoon when she rendered a solo, as was Mrs. Leeming and Mr. Sanderson in a vocal number in the evening. The presentation of the key was made by Mr. Barnes, who in a few words thanked the Rev. Crews and made the presentation to the pastor. The evening service was most impressive and ended the day of dedication in a very suitable manner.

A committee from the newly amalgamated force was appointed. It was as follows: The Mayor, F. G. Scott, L. Harris, Reg. Scarle, W. T. Henderson, W. S. Brewster, and Rev. R. D. Hamilton.

AEROPLANES PLAINLY SEEN LAST NIGHT

Three Machines Moted to the South-west of the City for Some Time.

Three aeroplanes were distinctly discernible last night manoeuvring in the far distance to the southwest. Upon a high building in the centre of the city they were seen in the armories direction signalling one to the other and taking up different positions, but always moving. This continued for some two hours last night from about 7.30 until 9.30, after which the lights disappeared and were not again seen. Each machine carried a red and blue light with a bright signalling light. They were probably some three or four miles out of the city and occasionally they would approach much nearer to retreat back to their original position. There could be little doubt about their being launched Wednesday morning to travel around with surprising speed.

MADE A RAID

Police Last Night Arrested Thirteen Chinamen on Dalhousie Street.

The police last night made a successful raid upon a Chinese gambling den when thirteen Orientals were caught in a cellar and taken into custody. For some time past the police have been vigilantly searching for such a den and they got the tip that a number of Chinamen were located in the house of Sam Yuen of 147 Dalhousie street. Sergt. Wallace, accompanied by Police Constables Burn, Stanley, Roberts, Dowling and Blower proceeded to the premises. A search upstairs revealed nothing and a careful survey of the ground floor revealed a trap door hidden away under loads of groceries and tea boxes. These were quietly removed and suddenly the Sergeant descended into the cellar and there he found the gamblers seated around two tables, where a game of fan-tan was in progress. The Chinamen were making little noise and surrendered quietly. They were taken into the patrol wagon and conveyed to the police station where they were searched. Various sums were found upon them, one having as much as sixty dollars, while others had only a few cents. The Orientals, who treated the matter lightly and smiled continually during the searching process, were afterwards bailed out and will be brought up to be charged with gambling on the Lord's Day, while the owner will have to answer a charge of keeping a house for the purpose of gambling.

The cellar in which the men were caught, was situated in the centre of the building and was airtight and sound proof. There was only one entrance and that was hidden. Yuen carries on an Oriental grocery business and all the men caught are laundrymen. The cash collected at the police court amounted to about $850.

YOUR DUTY HERE CAN BE FULFILLED IN THE BIG CAMPAIGN

At every church in the city yesterday, a boy scout appeared carrying a message from the patriotic committee of Brantford. This message outlined the purpose of the big campaign to be launched Wednesday morning to raise $100,000 for local distribution during the war. That it is a fact that there are many families in distress right at the present moment, and they are not dependents of soldiers but those of bread winners thrown out of employment, is borne out by the receipt already of appeals by the secretary of the patriotic committee. In their appeals, people declare they do not want charity and have never accepted it in their lives.

Shooting at the Ranges Was Brisk on Saturday Signal Corps and F Company Members Hold Competitions - Good Scores Were Made.

The members of the Dufferin Rifles Signal Corps held their annual shoot at the Mohawk ranges on Saturday afternoon, when the boys proved that they could shoot as well as wave a flag. Although the lads have not had as much practice with the rifle as the members of the companies and in spite of the fact that several of them had never used a military rifle before, some very good scores were made. One and all the boys expressed their desire to take up shooting more seriously next year, when the signalers expect to be right up near the top in all competitions and to make the best companies hurry all the way. Any bright young men with a little spare time at their disposal would be welcomed to come in with the signalers and learn something that would be interesting as well as beneficial to them. The corps expects to have its new wireless telegraph station complete and in operation some time in the near future, and that it will be one of the best in Ontario is assured. All members of the corps are fully instructed in the use of the Morse code on flags, lamps, heliograph, telegraph key and buzzers, as well as in wireless telegraph. The signalers' indoor baseball team expects to be stronger this year than ever before, and to try to carry off some of the silverware, although before the season opens there are still a few places on the baseball and the basketball teams open, and Sergeant McKie or Capt. Coale would like to get a few more all round athletes in the corps to help make a stronger bid in all the events in the regimental sports this fall. All the boys are determined to win the championship of Canada and the Government cup in signalling this year, as we were second in Canada last year, and we are going to fight to the very last ditch to get it this year. Be a member of Ontario's champion signal corps. You could not join a better one because there is none. Some of Saturday's scores were as follows:

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK, THICK, GLOSSY Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair which fades and streaks gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home. Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyleth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. Wash with a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two our hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—In a despatch from Rome, the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company, says that six Austrian torpedo boats have bombarded Antivari, a fortified port of Montenegro. They made an especial but fruitless effort to destroy the French wireless station. No damage was inflicted on the town. THEY MUST HANG. CALGARY, Sept. 19.—An Afanicy Sokoloff and Jack Smith will be hanged at MacLeod, Friday, September 25, for the murder of Jack Wilson, a paymaster at Exshaw, near Calgary, whom they shot and robbed of $3,000 on May 22. Max Menkel, a mere youth, inveigled into the affair, was reprieved and his sentence commuted to life imprisonment. This was the substance of a wire received by Sheriff Graham here from Ottawa.

War Will Help Canadian Trade The Canadian Manufacturers' Association is authority for the statement that last year we spent about one million dollars a day for foreign made goods. The war has already made it impossible for us to buy such goods to the extent now and, as time goes on, we are likely to find less and less of such goods upon which to spend our money. As a result of this we have spent this money for things we needed and that we shall continue to need them, and you have the situation that faces the Canadian manufacturer and the Canadian consumer at the present moment. The present crisis in trade has had upon the Canadian manufacturer a more decided business restriction. Not many Canadian industries have been producing up to capacity for many months. It has been a time of business slackness and consequent financial retrenchment, physically the effect of it has been to leave a good deal of idle, or partially idle, plant and machinery, in this country, "eating its head off" in overhead costs. But right here the manufacturer sees a gleam of brightness to lighten the darkness in Europe. "I've got capacity for a higher business than I have been doing," he says. "If I can get some of this new business to come my way, I have the capacity to handle it, and I don't want to lose it for want of additional cost for expansion or installation." Development and Industry It need occasion no surprise that the European manufacturer has obtained so strong a foothold in the Canadian market. His industrial skill and development are evolutionary processes. No great manufacturer matters how much capital may be behind it, springs up anywhere in a single night or a single year. Years ago a German firm of manufacturing chemists and, by-the-way, there are such firms in Germany employing 8,000 hands—wanted to perfect a process for manufacturing indigo dyes cheaply. The way they did it was to engage two eminent chemists from the staff of Leipzig University, at that time the most famous European University for chemical research—gave them big salaries, happen when a peculiar skill in imitation meets the demand for a price which is ruinously low for an honest article. This is a time of crisis in Canadian affairs. Very much depends upon what the next few months bring forth. There is no necessity to emphasize the importance of our manufacturers to Canada any more than there is justice in undertaking special pleading for their support. It is merely a matter for common sense consideration. We have the opportunity to do big things in the world of commerce. We have the raw material, the transportation facilities, a sound financial system and the brains. We have, too, such an opportunity as this country has never had and is not unlikely to have again. No matter what happens, we are going to go on eating, drinking, dressing and using multitudes of things just as we always have. The difference will be that it now becomes our duty, more imperative than ever before, to insist that these things, which we eat and wear and use shall be of Canadian material, made in Canada by Canadian labor. Before Canada can become a world power in commerce and manufacture, she must be able to supply her own needs. Before the world market can be conquered the home market must be filled and the way to make the home market is to make it. "Made in Canada" must become the watchword of the Canadian consumer. Winnipeg's Patriotic Fund has received $250,000.

THE STORY OF Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN.

Copyright, 1913 by Kate Douglas Wiggin.

"I should like that, for they would be our only wedding bells. Oh, Mark! What if Waitstill shouldn't go, after all, though I heard father tell her that he needed her to buy things for the store, and that they wouldn't be back till after midnight. Just to think of being married without Waitstill!"

"You can do without Waitstill on this one occasion, better than you can without me," laughed Mark, pinching Patty's cheek. "I've given the town clerk due notice and I have a friend to meet me at his office. He is going to lend me his horse for the drive home, and we shall change back the next week. That will give us a fresh horse each way and we'll fly like the wind, snow or no snow. When we come down Guide-Board hill that night, Patty, we shall be man and wife; isn't that wonderful?"

"We shall be man and wife in New Hampshire, but not in Maine, you say," Patty reminded him dolefully. "It does seem dreadful that we can't be married in our own state and have to go dangle about with this secret on our minds day and night, but it can't be helped. You'll try not to even think of me as your wife till we go to Portsmouth to live, won't you?"

"You're asking too much when you say I'm not to think of you as my wife, for I shall think of nothing else, but I've given you my solemn promise," said Mark stoutly, "and I'll keep it as sure as I live. We'll be legally married by the laws of New Hampshire, but we won't think of it as a marriage till I tell your father and mine and we drive away once more together. That time it will be in the sight of everybody, with our heads in the air. I've got the little house in Portsmouth all ready, Patty. It's small, but it's in a nice part of the town. Portsmouth is a pretty place, but it'll be a great deal prettier when it has Mrs. Mark Wilson living in it. We can be married over again in Maine afterward if your heart is set upon it. I'm willing to marry you in every state of the Union so far as I am concerned."

"I think you've been so kind and good and thoughtful, Mark, dear," said Patty, more fondly and meltingly than she had ever spoken to him before, "and so clever too. I do respect you for getting that good position in Portsmouth and being able to set up for yourself at your age. I shouldn't wonder a bit if you were a judge some day and then what a proud girl I shall be!"

Patty's praise was bestowed none too frequently, and it sounded very sweet in the young man's ears. "I do believe I can get on with you to help me, Patty," he said, pressing her arm more closely to his side and looking down ardently into her radiant face. "You're a great deal cleverer than I am, but I have a faculty for the business of the law, so my father says, and a faculty for money making too. And even if we have to begin in a small way my salary will be a certainty, and we'll work up together. I can see you in a yellow satin dress stiff enough to stand alone!"

"It must be white satin, if you please, not yellow! After having used a hundred and ten yards of shrew worn yellow calico on myself within two years I never want to wear that color again! If only I could come to you better provided," she sighed, with the suggestion of tears in her voice. "If I'd been a common servant I could have saved something from my wages to be married on. I haven't even got anything to be married in!"

"I'll get you anything you want in Portland tomorrow."

"Certainly not; I'd rather be married in rags than have you spend your money upon me beforehand!"

"Remember to have a box of your belongings packed and slipped under the shed somewhere. You can't be certain what your father will say or do when the time comes for telling him, and I want you to be ready to leave on a moment's notice."

"I will; I'll do everything you say, Mark. But are you sure that we have thought of every other way? I do so hate being underhanded. Everything depends on my keeping it secret from Waitstill, but she doesn't suspect anything yet. She thinks of me as nothing but a child still. Do you suppose Ellen would go with us just to give me a little comfort? I shouldn't miss Waitstill so much if I had Ellen, and how happy I shall be if she approves of me for a sister and thinks your mother and father will like me in time."

"I don't know; look at Aunt Abby Cole," said Patty pensively. "Well, it does not seem as if a marriage that isn't good in Riverboro was really decent. How tiresome of Maine to want all those days of public notice; people must so often want to get married in a minute. If I think about anything too long I always get out of the notion."

ENGLAND EXPECTS EVERY MAN WILL DO HIS DUTY

Give! Give! Give!

A Call to Brantford in the Name of Women and Children!

'Lord, God of Hosts be with us yet, Lest we forget, Lest we forget'

GREAT BRITAIN is engaged in the most terrible war the world has ever known, and on it hangs the fate of the British Empire and the freedom and happiness of everyone of its citizens.

Thousands and thousands of our best manhood are fighting the bloodiest of battles at the front—they are laying down their lives FOR YOU. What is your duty to them and to the Empire? What Share of the burden will you carry?

IN THREE DAYS!

A great campaign is to be conducted this week by 150 of Brantford's best business men to raise $100,000 in three days as a War Relief Fund.

This money is to be expended in Brant County to care for the dependents of those who have gone to the front, and also to help those, who, through no fault of their own, will be made to suffer because of unemployment caused by the war.

Now is the time to raise the money—not weeks hence when the cold of the winter will make the suffering more intense.

Everybody will be called upon and asked to contribute. The widow's mite will be just as acceptable as the hundreds of the well-to-do.

The emperor is still in Vienna, which has been turned into a military hospital.

BELGIUM REFUSED

LONDON, Sept. 21.—In a despatch from Antwerp, the correspondent of the Central News declares that the armistice proposal made some days ago by Germany to Belgium provided that the civil government in all Belgian towns should be immediately resumed by Belgium, and the German occupation of these towns be discontinued, on condition that communication with the Germans in France be not interfered with. ON GERMAN STANDS PROOF FOR THE WAR

LONDON, Sept. 21.—On the subject of the Russian official Orange Book on the diplomatic antecedents of the war, the Times says that, taken in conjunction with the official papers issued by the British foreign office, the publication completes the chain of evidence fixing irrevocably upon Germany and Austria the responsibility for the outbreak of the war. The despatches give proof, says the paper, that Russia made efforts to avert the conflict by finding a formula satisfactory to Austria and acceptable to Serbia. On July 13, it is stated, Sergius Sazonoff, Russian minister of foreign affairs, instructed the Russian ambassador at Rome to urge Italy to use her influence with Austria in favor of peace. On July 27, Sazonoff expressed his readiness to accept the proposal of Sir Edward Grey, British minister of foreign affairs, for a conference, but on that same date Germany insisted upon the possibility of holding a conference of mediation, and sought to persuade France to associate herself with Germany in putting pressure upon Russia. The Times says that the real situation is first indicated in a telegram to Petrograd from the Russian ambassador to Austria, pointing out that Austria, influenced by the assurances of the German ambassador at Vienna, who has played the whole crisis, counted on the probability of the localization of her conflict with Serbia and on the possibility of striking a severe blow with impunity.

HOW GENERAL FINDLEY WENT TO HIS DEATH

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail in France, describes the death of General Neil Douglas Findley, of the Royal Artillery as follows: "When at dawn on Saturday the British advance continued toward Soissons, the enemy was fighting exceptionally fierce rear guard action. A terrible shell fire was directed against our artillery under General Findley. It seemed a matter of moments when we should have to spike our guns, and General Findley saw the urgency for action. "Boys, his voice rolled down the line, 'we are going to get every gun into position.' Then deliberately the general approached the regimental chaplain, kneeling beside a gunner. 'Here are some of my personal belongings, chaplain. See that they don't go astray.' "One by one our guns began to blaze away, and the general had a word of encouragement and advice for every man. In vain his staff tried to persuade him to leave the danger zone. "Our range was perfect, the German fire slackened and died away, and with a yell our men went on to the assault. The outburst of our guns was so effective that the German shell exploded in a contact with Findley's horse, shattered man and beast. VIENNA CITY IS DEPRESSED

VIENNA, Sept. 21, via Paris.—The Vienna papers continue to maintain silence regarding the fighting in Galicia and Serbia. They seem, however, to draw encouragement from the general raising his valorous troops, admitting that they have been compelled to cease the offensive in the face of overwhelming forces. The papers are appealing daily for more doctors and more surgical supplies. The increase in the number of cases of dysentery also is causing much apprehension. The epidemic is spreading among the population. The municipality of Vienna is erecting an emergency hospital for the treatment of the infectious diseases at a cost of $200,000. All available public buildings are being rapidly converted into hospitals for the wounded. Several thousand additional refugees have arrived in Vienna.

The thirteen Chinamen who were caught in a gambling den by Sgt. Wallace and his men at a late hour last night were not tried this morning. Without any evidence or pleas being taken the case was adjourned until to-morrow and the Chinese element left the court room. There is nothing new, the Germans are fortifying themselves in the vicinity of Delmit, to the south of Chateau Salim.

CANADA'S FUND.

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—The Minister of Finance announces to-day the total of the Canadian Patriotic Fund as $26,128.30. The latest list of donors includes $2,500 from the Duke of Connaught and $25,000 from the Union Bank of Canada.

MORE MONEY FOR LAWYERS:

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—An order issued in Orphans court here to-day directed the trustee to pay to Harry K. Thaw of $142,124, due him from the Coke Trust, created by the will of his father, William Thaw. It was the second payment made to Thaw since last June when he won his suit against the Fidelity Title and Trust Company of Pittsburgh, trustee, compelling it to pay him the money as it came due. At that time he received $160,780.

RUSSIAN STATEMENT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Col. Golejewski, military attache to the Russian embassy, issued to-day at the Russian consulate here the following official statement, which he said he had received from Petrograd: "The Austrian rear guard which attempted to delay our advance near Baranow and Rzeszaw were driven back with heavy losses. Our artillery is bombarding Jaroslau. Fighting with the artillery of the fortresses has opened fire. On passing through the woods our troops find batteries of guns abandoned by the Austrians."

WAS TERRIFIC FIRE.

BORDEAUX, France Sept. 21.—A detailed account of the German bombardment of Rheims has become available. The relations of the commanding of the French city has lasted for a fortnight. The Germans are said to have used petroleum shells and the city was set afire in many places. Whole blocks of houses have been reduced to heaps of smoking ruins. That part of the population which was unable or unwilling to leave the city was without food for several days. The people took shelter in cellars. A certain number of them were injured, but little or no loss of life has been reported.

OFFICIAL NOTE IS ISSUED

PARIS, Sept. 21.—The following official announcement was given out in Paris to-day: "First: On our left wing on the right bank of the River Oise, the Heights of Lassigny, west of Noyon. To the east of the Oise and north of the River Aisne, the German army has given evidence of its recrossing of activity. "In the region of Craonne there have been violent encounters, which did not stop short of bayonet charges. The enemy has been everywhere repulsed, with considerable losses. In the country around Rheims the enemy has not undertaken any serious attacks confining itself to artillery fire, directed against our front from heavy guns. "Second: On the centre, in the Champagne country and on the western slopes of the Argonne River, an exception being made of Soussin we have taken Mesnil-Hurlu and Maasigny. In the Vosges district the enemy still holds the region of Thiaucourt, and has cannonaded Hassambat. "On our right, Lorraine and the Vosges there is nothing new. The Germans are fortifying themselves in the vicinity of Delmit, to the south of Chateau Salim."
