MRS. ANDROS TALKS OF HORRIBLE WRECK

Aged Regina Lady Tells the West of Heart Breaking Scenes When Cars Went Over Embankment at Chapleau--Cause of Wreck Broken Rail

Mrs. Andros, mother of A. B. Andros, Rose street, who has just returned to the city from a visit to the east, was a passenger on the ill-fated train that was wrecked at Chapleau. Mrs. Andros, was in the sleeping car and was accompanied by Mrs. Metcalf of Edmonton. They were badly shaken up and thrown into confusion for the moment as the first coaches rolled down the embankment, but when the injured were brought into their car they forgot their troubles to lend assistance to the unfortunate ones who were in a half dying state. Those who could lend any aid did so, and the train hands did everything possible for the victims.

Awful Sight
 Mrs. Andros did not look upon the sickening scene where the mangled remains were being taken out, as other passengers who did go out to see this feature of the wreck turned away from the horrible view. The dead were all immigrants, and two mothers perished with their babies. The frantic husbands were separated from them at the time of the accident and while such a parting was particularly sad, if they had been together they all, no doubt, would have perished.

Silvered as are her locks, such a trying time as this was new to Mrs. Andros, whose nerves are more or less shaken by the accident, but she is thankful that she is not numbered with the victims. The stock of the moment, the sight of the wounded, and their cries, will never fade from her memory.

This is the most shocking calamity ever experienced during operation of the C.P.R. It occurred last Thursday near Chapleau when the west bound transcontinental carrying several hundred immigrants left the rails resulting in the death of many people who had expected to reach their future homes. The cause of the disaster is said to be a broken rail.

C.P.R. Statement
 Train No. 1 derailed 23 miles west of Chapleau yesterday account of broken rail. Tourist car said to have taken fire and the following passengers missing:
 Mrs. R. B. Champion and baby, no address given.
 Mrs. R. Davidson and baby, no address given.
 Wm. Day, London, Eng.
 Winnifred Horton and Sossie Horton, Charing Heath, Kent, Eng.
 C. H. Gooding, his brother's wife, and two children, 47 Selmon Road, Plaistow, near London.
 Mrs. August R. Jorklund, and two children, Worcester, Mass.
 Mr. R. B. Champion and Mr. Davidson were accompanying their families but escaped.

Nine passengers are being taken to Port Arthur hospital and several with but slight injuries will continue journey. Names are not obtainable, but as far as can be ascertained all were immigrants.

CATHOLIC RATEPAYERS AND AUTONOMY ACT

Ald. Kramer Gives Notice on Behalf of Catholic Citizens That They Will Refuse to pay Taxes to Public High School--Test Case to Follow

The Catholics have taken the first opportunity to protest against the taxation of their citizens for the support of a public high school. When the bylaw was introduced in the council last night respecting the establishment of a high school in this city, making Regina a high school district according to the provisions of the act recently passed by the legislature Ald. Kramer, on behalf of the Catholics said in addressing the board that he did not want to open old sores, but in this matter a principle is involved which he cannot ignore, and as the act of the legislature and the provisions of the autonomy act he felt it his duty to make a protest against this bylaw. The Catholics are not opposed to higher education and, lest it be thought they are he would not like to vote against the bylaw, and on principle he could not vote for it. The people will shortly see, said he, where the Catholics stand on the question of secondary education.

The last remark of Ald. Kramer is construed to mean that the Catholics will establish a college in the city for themselves, and they purchased last week half of the Barrow-Mowat property, which is no doubt intended for some such purpose.

Ald. Kusch supported Ald. Kramer and asked that he too be excused from voting, which was allowed.

This is the beginning of a test case to be taken by the Catholics against the bill passed by the legislature this session and which is palpably ultra vires if the Autonomy bill is good law. If the Catholics win the test case, the contention of Mr. Scott with regard to the freedom of the province to legislate in her own educational affairs is a myth, and if the provincial act is constitutional, then the autonomy act is not.

The Catholics have decided to find out at the earliest opportunity what their rights are. They took a case to the privy council from Manitoba and they are prepared to do the same in Saskatchewan.

C.N. and C.P. Open North Line and Canadian Northern Clean up the Yard Taking Everything out on Sunday--Story of Blockade

The Lord's Day Act did not cut much figure here on Sunday last when the Canadian Northern after being tied up fourteen days on the north line, sent forward all their settlers' effects and two passenger trains consisting of nine coaches.

The train which left here on April first returned Sunday morning having been out a week from Prince-Albert. Much has been written about the hardships of the blockade and the extent of the tie up, but half has not been told. The fact of the whole matter is that the country has been snow-bound since last October and notwithstanding the closer proximity of Old Sol and the date of the month of April, the feeling is gaining ground that something has happened to contradict the Bible story that "While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest shall not cease."

Things were never so bad on the north line as they were during the first thirteen days of April. The storms which blocked the line were soft and the snow packed like ice thus making it difficult to contend with. Of course there was only about eighty men at work and after a days operation they would not accomplish much. The whole line would not have been dug out till

July had not the C.P.R. sent out a plow and engine which opened up the cuts with great deal of difficulty. It has been said that this trouble on the branch was largely due to the want of equipment, but those who were out bucking snow with the C.P.R. outfit are ready to admit that nothing like this winter's experience has ever been encountered before, but, that of course if heavy engines and proper plows had been provided in the early part of the winter things might have been different. The fact remains, however, that with seventeen cuts between Bladworth and Kenniston ranging from three to twelve feet deep, and they plugged with hard snow, it tries the best equipment to open up the road.

During the week en route from the northern city the passengers got familiarly acquainted in most of the towns and in some cases they purchased real estate and transacted other business. They ate Bladworth and Kenniston out of house and home and walked on to the next grub pile.

To give an exact idea of how slow the train travelled, it is only necessary to cite the fact that six teams of horses from the Prince Albert

NO STRIKES ON HERE

Winnipeg Announcement is Wrong and Everything is Smooth Between Employers and Men

After publishing in our last issue that a Winnipeg paper contained notices of strikes here in the building and decorators trades, local contractors rang up The West and protested that they had heard nothing of this trouble.

The West got the information from the Winnipeg Voice, but at meeting of the Regina Trades and Labor Council, Saturday evening, this matter was taken up and representatives of the Bricklayers and Painters Unions declared that the threatened friction was overcome and the outlook was bright for a big and prosperous season's work.

The question of securing the appointment of a Regina correspondent for the Labour Gazette was taken up and the Council recommended that the proper representations be made to the Labour department at Ottawa to have Hugh Peat, secretary treasurer of the Trades and Labor Council duly appointed to that position.

At the meeting of the council on Saturday evening in the Trades hall President Molloy was in the chair and the reports of the various unions were submitted.

The following credentials were received and the delegates named there in were given a seat and vote in the council.

Bricklayers—A. Luhm, J. Lockwood, Powell and Stanlake. Carpenters—W. B. Bird, J. Simmons, J. Burland, A. Monte. Plumbers—Geo. T. Walker, George Klity. Printers—Thos. M. Molloy, Hugh Peat.

begging. The city had organized a scheme of relief for those in need, but they did not propose to be held up if they knew it.

The following are the telegrams respecting the north line blockade.

Regina, April 11, '07. E. A. James, Esq., Gen. Mgr. C.N.R., Winnipeg. 50 cars settlers' effects for the North tied up here, many since early last week, without feed or food, and in many cases without funds.

Canadian Northern Railway should realize their liability and instruct staff here to take care of these people by enabling them to unload stock furnishing hay, and seeing that families requiring food be supplied. Stock dying and appeals being made to the city or relief. Your immediate attention asked for. Wire answer quick.

Regina, April 11, '07. Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of Interior, Ottawa, Ont. Over fifty cars settlers' effects, 200 cars dead freight, hundreds of passengers and tons of mail tied up in Regina for over a week. Canadian Northern railway unable to move owing to lack of motive power. Many of these from states. Feed in many cases being exhausted. Appeals for relief being made on city, C.N.R. and C.P.R. both deny liability. Great damage to immigration policy of the government likely to ensue. Something should be done at once to compel railways to relieve congestion.

Further complications likely to follow from spring floods and distress likely to become acute. Have wired railway commission. Can you assist us? Answer.

Regina, April 11, '07. Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of Interior, Ottawa, Ont. The following reply was received from Hon. Frank Oliver: "Your wire received yesterday. I have communicated its contents to Railway Commission. Reply says board has sent practical operating official to advise respecting S.N. service. It is not in power of commission to compel other railroad companies to give use of their engines. Board has written Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific asking if they will loan engines to relieve situation. It has also communicated with the Canadian Northern."

Railway Commission, Ottawa, Ont. Over fifty cars settlers' effects, 200 cars dead freight, hundreds of passengers and tons of mail tied up in railroad yards here for north. Canadian Northern railway unable to move them and on account of great length of time on the road many of the settlers' food, feed and funds are exhausted. Stock dying in cars, unable to get cars spotted to unload.

Under existing circumstances absolutely necessary that immediate steps be taken to force railroad company to relieve the situation. Grand Trunk, C.P.R. or other engines equal to the requirements should be placed in commission on the North line at once. Further complications likely to follow from spring floods and distress likely to become more acute. Please act at once. Answer. (Signed) J. KELSO HUNTER, City Clerk. By Order of City Council.

In reply to an appeal from the city council, the secretary of the Railway Commission sent the following telegram: J. Kelso Hunter, City Clerk, Regina.

Board sending practical railway operating official to inquire and advise respecting service on the Canadian Northern. Board has no power to compel other railways to give the Canadian Northern use of their engines, but will inquire whether such can be obtained.

A. D. CARTWRIGHT, Secretary.

A Human Match Factory.

The body of the average man contains phosphorus sufficient to make 483,840 matches, enough to fill about 6,000 boxes, allowing eighty matches to the box. Phosphorus is one of fourteen elements entering into the composition of the body. It is divided among the bones, flesh, nervous system, and other organs. Without phosphorus the brain would be weak, the body feeble, and the bones would disintegrate, leaving man a squally, invertebrate squirming in the dust. The perfect health of the human body requires a perfect balance of the constituent elements of which it is composed. The carbon, iron, lime, sulphur, sodium, etc., must all be replaced as they are used up in human energy. Take all the iron from the blood and the circulation stops. That's death. Change the proper proportion of these substances to each other, destroy their natural balance in the body, and you destroy the balance of health.

THE FOOD WE EAT. Where do these essential elements of vital force come from? From the food we eat. How are they extracted and distributed to the several organs they sustain? They are extracted and distributed by the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. What happens when the stomach is "weak"? The food is only partly digested and assimilated. And then what? Then the balance of health is destroyed and there's blood "trouble," nerve "trouble," lung "trouble," heart "trouble," or some other "trouble" with the vital organs of the body. Pain is the hunger cry of the starved organs. What then is the logical first step to health?

Put the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition into a condition of normal health. That is just Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and that is just the secret of the many marvelous cures effected by this remedy. No medicine can make fat or flesh. Food alone can make them. Only the stomach and its allied organs can extract from the food the elements that make flesh and fat and sustain life. "Nerve foods," "blood-making" medicines, are mere fads and fallacies. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition prepare and distribute the food.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is not a cure-all. It does one thing. It cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. The rest Nature does. Nature feeds the nerves, enriches the blood, heals the lungs and restores the falling vital powers. "Golden Medical Discovery" only removes the obstructions disease has put in Nature's way.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it contains neither opium, cocaine nor any other narcotic. Doctor Pierce holds no secrets from you—he tells you that the "Discovery" contains the following ingredients: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and Chemically Pure Glycerine.

From "Organic Medicines" by Grover Cox, M. D., of New York, we extract the following: "Hydrastis (Golden Seal) excites an especial influence over mucous surfaces. Upon the liver it acts with equal certainty and efficacy. As a cholagogue (liver invigorator), it has few equals. In affections of the spleen, and abdominal viscera generally, it is an efficient and reliable remedy. Also in scrofula, glandular diseases generally, cutaneous eruptions, indigestion, debility, diarrhoea and dysentery, constipation and all morbid and critical discharges."

F. Ellingwood, M. D., says of Stone root (Collinsonia), "stimulates the stomach, acts as a tonic to enfeeble and stimulates the action of the heart and has a direct influence upon stonic (weak) and dilated or otherwise impaired conditions of the vessels. It is a specific remedy in pleurisy. In catarrhal gastritis, where the circulation is affected, it either alone or combined with hydrastis, is of first importance. They increase the appetite and greatly improve the digestion and assimilation of food. Good for rectal pains and piles of the pregnant woman. Is a heart tonic of direct and permanent influence. Excellent in the bicycle heart, in rheumatic inflammation and clergyman's sore throat."

American Dispensary says of Blood root, "stimulates digestive organs, increases action of heart and arteries—stimulant and tonic. Very valuable as a cough remedy—acts as a sedative—further valuable as an alterative."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser is a valuable work for frequent consultation and is free from technical terms. It contains over one thousand pages. It is sent post paid, on receipt of sufficient in one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only, 31 stamps for a copy in flexible paper covers, or 50 stamps for a cloth-bound copy. Address Doctor R. V. THE CLOSED DOOR

At a recent meeting of the Alberta cattle breeders' association, the Live Stock Commissioner, Dr. Rutherford protested against the door being shut against breeders of other provinces, and the Alberta breeders immediately jumped on the commissioner for daring to interfere with their domestic affairs.

The Calgary Herald voiced the kick against Dr. Rutherford in very strong editorial comment, but we have reason to believe that these protests are not unanimously concurred in by the breeders, for we know that during the spring show and sale in Regina, western ranchers in attendance admired the fine herds of heretofore which are thriving ranching breeds, and regretted that the associations could not arrange inter-provincial relations allowing cattle to go from one province to another, so that on such an occasion as an annual spring show and sale all would be benefited by further choice and suitable exchange.

There are few such herds in Alberta as the Heretofore of this city and district and we know that they would be picked up very quickly at Calgary. On the other hand there are breeders in Saskatchewan who would like to buy Alberta stock and unless they go to Calgary they cannot do this. It will be remembered that a Regina resident paid the highest price offered at Calgary for a sire.

Dr. Rutherford is not alone in the views he expressed with regard to the closed door policy.

SENATE IMPROVING

The Senate has done a great deal during the present session to command the support of Saskatchewan. The action of Senator Davis is commendable in bringing to the attention of the Upper House of parliament, and through them to the outside world the vastness of the northern portions of this province yet unexplored and unknown. In the investigation which followed the initiative of Senator Davis, much information is spread abroad regarding the resources of northern Saskatchewan.

The forest wealth, even on the fringe of the bush country, is demonstrated in the development of the large lumber interests now operating at Prince Albert and other points. This industry is only in its infancy, but backed by an enormous forest wealth and an insatiable market within our own boundaries, who will place a limitation on its possibilities? The streams and lakes of the north are teeming with as good fresh water fish as can be found in the world and the most of the catch is now being sent to the American market. The inland fisheries are being conducted in a very small way at present, and no doubt this industry will be exploited in the near future.

In minerals, practically nothing has been done in the line of development, although rich deposits are known to exist, and the exploration will no doubt result in discoveries that will startle the continent beyond the priceless finds in Cobalt. Senator Davis has already exhibited samples of bituminous coal which have been declared by experts to be the best on the continent.

Everybody today knows about the fur trade, which, despite the operations of the Hudson's Bay and other companies for so many years, still brings in large returns, and will continue to be very valuable.

Besides extensively advertising our great hinter land, Senator Davis has during this session, advocated government ownership of telegraphs and telephones. By means of exploitation, or other means of acquisition he would place both these systems under a similar system of operation as the post office department. The resolution respecting this matter introduced by Senator Davis has found favor in the west and is in accord with the public ownership movement so strongly advocated by the western provinces.

MR. KNOWLES AND REGINA

We have a great deal of respect for the independence shown by the Liberals of this city in criticising Mr. Knowles, member for West Assiniboia, who in the distribution of patronage of the Dominion Government has entirely ignored Regina as if this city were not in his constituency.

Of course as a party man and a politician, Mr. Knowles can justify himself by saying that he is playing the game according to his own party rules, only that in this instance, he, owing to force of circumstances, has to hit his own party friends. Regina did not get the Liberal nomination for Mr. Knowles, but when the by-election threatened a contest, Regina Liberals stood shoulder to shoulder ready for the fray, and Mr. Knowles should not forget that he owes his Regina Liberal friends something. On the other hand the redistribution properly places Moose Jaw and Regina in different constituencies and Mr. Knowles will not have to seek the assistance of his Regina friends in the next election. He no doubt considers that human nature is somewhat similar within a radius of fifty miles under similar circumstances and that if the Liberals of Regina are sore on him for what he is doing for Moose Jaw, he will be able to appeal to the Conservatives of Moose Jaw to vindicate him against the attacks from his party friends here.

There is, however, another side to the question from our standpoint, and that is that Mr. Knowles is not the head of the inland revenue, Interior or Postal departments, and after all the Ministers in these departments and the government are responsible for the injustice to this city through the centralisation of Government departments in other places, and the present is perhaps not the most opportune time for our Liberal citizens to make their stand in the interests of Regina. The general elections are not much nearer than eighteen months, and the Government as astute politicians, are not very likely to take seriously any protests at the present. Although the attitude of Regina Liberals is commendable, yet to succeed they must hold their ground till the moment for attack arrives and then, rather than pay the penalty, the Government will make terms. This is a bold hold-up game but Mr. Knowles started it and the Government has stood for it, therefore they cannot blame the people here.

We trust that the Liberals of this city will be successful, but to achieve success they must do more than bluff for the Government is confronted with this game every day and generally knows when to call.

SESSIONAL COMMENTS

The place to make politicians is on the Opposition benches especially when the ministry is weak and on the defensive.

Without a leader of course no party can become strong, but with such a leader as Mr. Haultain no party should become weak. With the confidence in the head of the party and with the Government lacking in sound administrative policy, and in many cases without a policy at all, the Opposition members in the legislature developed to a marked degree during the recent session. The

During the provincial elections we were assured that by the excessive lands, that we should be free from generosity of the Dominion government subsidy in lieu of our public financial needs almost forever and a day. But in a year and a half here we are stamp up against direct taxation for one single service, almost to the extent of one whole land subsidy! Suppose next year (and it is quite possible) the government add another cent an acre for road improvement, and the year after another cent for government expenses, and the year after—but we mustn't go any further or some of our friends will have a fit.

The estimates will show that the men on the Government side of the House who did the least talking got the most appropriations for their constituencies. This is either a tribute to the silent members themselves or the Government has penalized those practically beyond control. To the right of the Speaker there has not been any particular improvement this session except in legislative experience, for they have all got much better acquainted with procedure.

To Mr. Speaker's left the new members showed very much improvement all round. Their grasp of the issues before the House, their spirited debate, and their thoughtful suggestions in committee, all stand to their credit. Messrs. Argue, Wylie and Wellington did not take a prominent part in the first session, but they laid a good foundation for work accomplished during the recent session.

The members for Maple Creek and Moosomin deserve particular mention because of their vigorous attitude in debate. Mr. Wylie came to the front very rapidly and with great judgment in discussion, is a hard hitter. His last stand at the rights of the ranchers was an arraignment of the Government policy of direct taxation, second only to the criticism of his leader, and delivered in original western style, was entirely void of all the frills of eloquence but was none the less entertaining and effective.

Dr. Ellis, well known for scathing retort, which is always enjoyable to spectators, appealed less to the galleries than he did to the reason and better judgment of the House. The member for Moosomin is a able debater, but his raking style at times embitters his opponents, but the doctor is liked by his own side of the House because of the enemies he makes across the floor. Moosomin constituency may well be proud of a member who on all occasions holds himself with such ability and so upholds the honor of his constituency.

Except when the division bells ring the Opposition may be said to have the numbers on the Government side of the House outclassed, and if the electors of Saskatchewan could hold in upon the sessional scenes for a few days they would have no hesitation in handing the reins of Government to the man who in the public life of this country has borne the burden and the heat of the day.

EMMERSON'S DEFENCE

Ex-Minister Says he is not Pure but That Those Without sin Ought to Cast First Stone.

After the resigning of his portfolio as minister of railways, Mr. Emerson made a speech from his place in parliament as a private member, part of which is as follows: Mr. Speaker, with your permission, I would like to say one other word. In common with every other member of this House, I recognise this fact, that gossip has caused more mischief against the world than have the decrees of tyrants; and while I have been aware of time and again, that slanderous statements were being made about me, yet they were not made in such tangible way that I could take cognizance of them before my peers and my fellows.

In a way I feel relieved to think that this matter has come to a head that it has reached a point where I will be able to meet my traducers face to face. "I do not know, Mr. Speaker, whether or not it is a fact that every man in this house is willing to have his private life exposed. I do not know if there is any man, within the sound of my voice, indeed with this country, who is in a position to say that he has done no wrong. I have my foibles.

I admit that I have had my weaknesses. I have had my foibles. Until this matter reached the point it has reached, I had not thought that it was a subject matter for parliamentary discussion or for parliamentary investigation.

I had felt this at least, Sir, that the man who was without sin should be the man to cast the first stone, but while I stand as I do before the bar of public opinion and as within a very few days I will stand before the courts of justice, I must tell the truth and the whole truth. I do not ask to be judged by the standard of "you're another." I ask no mercy from that standpoint. The standard that should be the standard of the people of the country, shall govern me and, if I am unfit or unworthy of recognition by that standard in this house or in this country, I am willing to go down.

But sir, after that and when that question has been fought out and determined, there is one other question the members of this house will ask themselves, and that the people of the country will ask this house, and it is this: "Are there others?" Denies Charges

I want to be understood unmistakably as saying that those charges against me are unqualifiedly false and that anything I have ever done either in the city of Montreal or under any other circumstances, I did it to protect the innocent, and I have never been, mark my words, Mr. Speaker, for I make them with full knowledge of the dignity of my position, I have never been in a hotel in Montreal in my life with anybody of ill-repute.

I shall take occasion, sir, to show the accusations to be untrue and the protection which I have at all times afforded to the innocent, and I will not abandon to build up myself on anybody's downfall.

Mr. Speaker it must be recognized as a crisis in any man's life when statements of this kind are paraded before the country and, while I almost feel a sense of relief and gratification to know that I am now put where I can and will meet my traducers, I have been in the position during the recent discussions in this house of not knowing whether certain insinuations and innuendoes were aimed at me or not.

Nothing To Seize Upon There was nothing tangible, nothing that I could seize upon, nothing that I could take hold of. But the occasion has come, the time is now here, and I hope to be able to seize this opportunity, so that every man who heretofore has been able to grasp my hand as a friend and an equal will be able hereafter to feel that he can still grasp my hand and welcome as heretofore as a friend.

So far as my political opponents are concerned, I have no word to say. Political life has its difficulties its troubles and its struggles. I have known it for over a score of years. I have not these difficulties. I have surmounted these obstacles, with all my weakness and all my foibles.

Possibly other members of the house are free from human frailty. I hope so. I hope they are within the sound of my voice; but with all that whatever may be mine—and I have them in common with humanity—I have a strong element of human nature about me and I think it has been a sympathetic and warm-hearted human nature.

At this moment I make no reprisals. I have had good friends; I believe I have them yet, and I say this—that my enemies do not include all those in the ranks of the opposition—and I have this to say in closing that I will do my duty fearlessly.

Won't Take Back Representatives of the Toronto World, Halifax Herald and Fredericton Gleaner, recently held a conference at Moncton and after comparing notes they decided that they would not retract anything said, and will fight Mr. Emerson in his libel charges.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Men who are accustomed to drive over many leagues of trails, snowy in winter and muddy or dusty in spring, and summer, are liable to become horribly bored, unless they keep their eyes open to observe things which are all the more interesting because they require to be looked for. In the part of Southern Manitoba, where I live the leading feature of the landscape is the valley of the Pembina River, which winds in horse-shoe fashion with the old mound at its base, that ancient land mark whence our town takes its name—Pilot Mound. The old settlers who used the mound as a pilot in steering across the prairie call this river bend "the Elbow." Once upon a time, the Pembina valley contained a mighty river, but the upheaval of the prairie slopes during the past centuries has reduced the river itself to a comparatively tiny stream which meanders at the bottom of the valley between ragged elms. Here and there, however, as at Rock Lake

The above return shows that the territory that went to make up the two provinces elected five members each. The next election will be fought on the redistribution based on the census of 1901 in all the provinces except Saskatchewan and Alberta.

SOME CANADIAN HISTORY The following is one of a series of articles appearing in the Canadian Chorus prepared by George Johnson F. S.S. under the direction of Hon. Sydney Fisher. With the opening of the seventeenth century there appears upon the scene one of the most remarkable of the many remarkable men who have taken an active part in moulding the destinies of Canada. This was Samuel de Champlain, whose high qualities both as sailor and soldier marked him out as one peculiarly fitted for the task of opening up New France to civilization.

When R. L. Borden can carry 54 seats in Ontario, 25 seats in Quebec and 15 seats in the maritime provinces, he will be strong enough to cut the Laurier following below 50 in the west, and thus carry the country. An opposition that has to carry a wretched majority in the next parliament must come back from the provinces as follows—

Table with 2 columns: Province, Seats. Includes Maritime provinces (45), Quebec (25), Ontario (59), The West (30), Total (159).

British Columbia will return at least three Conservatives. As yet there are no signs of a sweeping victory against the government east of the Rocky mountains and west of Lake Superior. A solid west was the logical answer to a solid Quebec. When a Montreal-bossed opposition at Ottawa wailed F. W. G. Haultain to be butchered to make a Quebec holiday without effectual protest, it missed a great chance to gain working claim on the gratitude of the west.

It is a great fact that the three prairie provinces of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan will elect 27 members to the next House of Commons. The census of 1910 will probably raise the representation of these three provinces to 50. The census of 1920 will bring 100 members from Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan to the House of Commons at Ottawa.

So far the west is accused of caring more for dollar bills than for principles. The style of fighting at Ottawa, does not give any part of the country much chance to reject clear cut principles. The growth of the west will surely create a demand for a nobler, more heroic style of political fighting at Ottawa.

red and fifty years of fierce fighting around Port Royal for supremacy through the arts of war, are now, and have been for a century and a third, joint proprietors of Canada, having settled down to the nobler rivalries in the arts of peace, with the one common object of making the land they live in a shining example of the prosperity that surely comes from concord and well cemented union.

years, the history of Quebec was the history of Canada, and its annals contain little beyond the pathetic struggles of the colonists with the dangers which constantly menaced them from their Indian foes. For the intense hostility of the Indians the French were themselves wholly to blame. We have already seen how Cartier's treatment of Donnacona recoiled on him; and now Champlain, under stringency of circumstances through necessity of dividing the Indian tribes for his own preservation, incurred the implacable hatred of the powerful Iroquois nation, by joining forces with the Algonquins in an attack upon one of their strongholds. The temporary advantage thereby gained was dearly paid for by a century and a half of rapine, plunder, and nameless barbarities.

and Swan Lake, a remnant of the ancient rolling flood has been left though these lakes are but large shallow pools now. Some weeks back, crossing one of the lakes, I was surprised to find a neighboring settler had thrown a heap of manure on the ice. Surely about the present time this heap will fall to the lake bottom as the ice gives way, and then the waters will suffer pollution. Such a condition is not likely to improve the water which supports large numbers of pickers and suckers. But talking of manure heaps, human beings do some queer things to themselves. It is still quite common—though not so common as it was three or four years back—to see farm houses banked up with manure all round the base of the house to keep out the cold. Doubtless this method is particularly warm, especially as it allows the deeper layers nearest the floor to ferment and putrify. Quite often, in the winter, especially on the south side, the warmth is sufficient to encourage the bacteria of decomposition to develop so that the air circulating beneath the floor becomes charged with many kinds of unhealthy germs. It is, therefore, only rational to suppose that one of the reasons why so much sickness occurs at the end of a long winter like the present is the fouling of the lower living rooms with air laden with bacteria. This is all the more likely to take place at the end of March when the powerful sun sets the south aspect of any manure-heap fermenting. As is usual at the end of a long cold western winter with abundant snow, it is the women and children who are the chief sufferers; and it is the women and children who inhabit most of the lower living rooms where the atmosphere already stove-heated and dried becomes liable to repeated foulings from the manure banked around the house.

ply of fresh fish proved a welcome and wholesome variation in their food supply. Fresh fish newly frozen were exported forty or fifty miles south of the Pembina valley to places where a fish is a luxury seldom seen. You might suggest that the fish left behind around the open places would putrify and foul the waters, but, if no other wild scavengers have forestalled them, the common crows will have cleared up the dead fish. This bird (Corvus Americanus) may be looked for in the Pembina valley any day about March 20, on which date of this year the first pair appeared. By March 22, the crows come not "in single spies but in battalions." In close association as to appearance come the wedge-shaped commandos of the Canada geese working northwards to their breeding grounds. Ducks then usually follow on.

Regarding the Lord's Day Act, the Canadian Church Courier, edited by Rev. Dr. Coard says, 'The passing of the Lord's Day Act, which came recently into operation, has given general satisfaction, and in our Western Provinces has not been provocative of any opposition worthy of the term. Already Sunday was well kept on the prairie, whether in cities, towns, or villages, the only really unpardonable breach of the law on the day being "sport" in the shape of game shooting. At this the Royal North-West Mounted Police seem to have "winked," for it is well known that the Provincial law against Sunday hunting is practically a dead letter. Saloons generally are hermetically sealed on the day of rest except in the case of a few proprietors who would be themselves better out of the business. Where Sunday drinking is the rule it is done on the quiet though not altogether quiet in its results; and there ought not to be any difficulty in securing a conviction in nearly every instance in which Sunday drunkenness prevails. What is patent to the person should be palpable to the policeman; and while perhaps it is the duty of the former to become informer, it is hard on him to arouse animosity in his parish because the officer charged with such duty neglects to act his proper role of reformer. A straight strict letter of instructions from the Commissioner of Police to his men on this subject would have the desired effect. It is hard on the honest, reputable hotel proprietor to see his guests return drunk from the opposition saloon and use his accommodation in which to sober up. To a weak-minded hotel proprietor it might be a strong temptation to open his bar and so to keep the money in his own till.

The railways have always observed Sunday as a rest day on their branch lines as concerning passenger traffic, though they have used it as the most convenient day on which to clear off arrears of freight traffic. They may continue to do so by starting freight trains on the Saturday; but they cannot run "way freight" on Sundays. This will mean a slight limitation which no one will feel a grievance. Sometimes hockey, baseball, and the like are practised on Sundays both in town and country districts; but

Commons run Amuck--Members Call Each Other Liars and Thieves--Howling Scenes

Ottawa, April 11.—The commons today witnessed one of the most remarkable scenes in its history. The debate on the insurance commission's report was resumed by Hugh Lennox George W. Fowler who followed, and who started right in to defend the land transaction with which his name is connected. He claimed that there was no parallel to be drawn between it and the deals which have been discussed in the house this session, such as the Robins Irrigation Co. and the Galway Horse and Cattle Co. The minister of the Interior had defended these grabs and grafts and so had his satellites.

There was a howl from the rear Liberal benches which drew a strong retort from Mr. Fowler.

At this point Mr. Martin, recently elected as a member for St. Mary's, Montreal, who was sitting just in front of Mr. Fowler, leaning back addressed him in audible tones to the effect that the Liberal members referred to had not used money from corporations with which they were connected.

Mr. Fowler at once repudiated this insinuation and in heated tones continued: "That statement is untrue, it is scandalous."

The Liberal benches were in an uproar and nothing could be heard but howls and cries of "Take it back."

"Withdraw." The chairman then ruled that it was out of order for any member to use such language with regard to a statement made by another member.

Mr. Fowler lost no time in objecting. "Do you mean to say," he asked, "that when a member makes such statements to me that I cannot denounce them when I know them to be untrue? Let him repeat them so that the whole house can hear them."

Mr. Martin rose and speaking in French made a general statement laying down the principle that it was improper for any member to use the money of any corporation with which he was connected in a fiduciary capacity, for his own profit.

Mr. Fowler—"I have a little knowledge of French generally. I understood what the hon. gentleman said. But if any member of this house accuses me of that I say again it is absolutely false, scandalous and untrue. I defy him to prove it and challenge him to do so."

This again produced an undesirable tumult from the Liberal benches, the Liberals calling on Mr. Fowler to withdraw, while the Conservatives strongly insisted that Mr. Martin take back.

When quiet was partially restored Chairman Marcell explained that Mr. Martin had merely laid down a general principle which did not apply definitely to Mr. Fowler.

Fowler Combative Mr. Fowler—Oh, well, let him speak out of it that way then."

Mr. Foster—I move that the first words uttered by Mr. Martin be taken down and made a matter of record.

Hon. W. S. Fielding who had been hurriedly sent for when the row started, objected to this on the ground that it had not been demanded when the words were uttered and that intervening business had occurred.

In this the acting premier was sustained by the chair, who said that Mr. Martin's first words, were so indistinct that he could not hear them, and that his second explanation, not referring directly to Mr. Fowler, could be taken as a withdrawal.

Mr. Borden replied to this, saying "Mr. Fowler immediately took objection to that statement, and declared that it was untrue, false and scandalous, and repeated his denunciation after Mr. Martin had made a few remarks of a general character in French. Mr. Martin was called upon to withdraw, and does not do so, therefore Mr. Foster had a perfect right to ask that his words be taken down."

Mr. Fielding—Mr. Fowler did not ask that the words be taken down when Mr. Martin attacked him for what he considered an impropriety.

Parliament Powerless Mr. Foster then rose and angrily cried: "This parliament is utterly powerless, if things of this sort are to be treated in this way. If this sort of thing is allowed to go on and malicious statements given in this way there is no way in which the rules can be operated unless you have the right to have them taken down before another proceeding of another nature has intervened. No such proceeding has intervened. Here is a scandalous lying assertion made by one member to another and so declared by the member to whom it was made."

The latter part of Mr. Foster's speech was lost in thunders of Opposition applause which, in turn was almost drowned by shouts and howls from the government side. In the midst of the bedlam Mr. Aylesworth, almost purple with anger, jumped up and shaking his fist violently in Mr. Foster's direction, attempted to speak. For several minutes his voice could not be heard above the tumult. As the noise abated a little, Foster pointing towards Aylesworth shouted "There is the arch conspirator."

This created a further tumult and cries of order. Finally Mr. Aylesworth still wildly shaking his fist made himself heard.

"I ask" he said, "if it is parliamentary for any member to call a statement of another member a lying statement."

David Henderson at once retorted: "I object to the minister of justice shaking his closed fist at me or any other member across the floor of the house."

This sally convulsed both sides and in the comparative calm Hon. Wm. Patterson tried to pour oil on the smothering waters. In bland tones he regretted that he himself and so many others had been unable to understand what Martin said. Under the circumstances he did not think that the chairman was in a position to take down Martin's words if he wanted to.

The chairman said My ruling is that Mr. Martin spoke very indistinctly and later explained by laying down a general principle and made no personal attack on Mr. Fowler. This explanation must be accepted, but I think the word lying used by Mr. Foster goes far beyond the usage of parliamentary debate.

"I think it seems to be an essential element of it," retorted Mr. Foster.

Mr. Fowler again demanded a ruling, and amidst loud laughter the chairman replied: My ruling is that it now being one o'clock I do leave the chair."

Fowler was Puzzled. Mr. Fowler, continuing his speech said when he was summoned before the commission he could not see what he had to do with insurance, but he went. The commission was engaged in other enquiries and would not call him. He went west on urgent business, stating that he would return when wanted.

Mr. Bennett—Why didn't you go to California? Mr. Fowler—I should have been out of the jurisdiction. (Laughter.) Besides my health was good and California is a place for people with shattered nerves. (Great laughter.)

He hastened eastward, telegraphing from Revelstoke that he was on the way. At north Bay he was met by a message which was called a peremptory order to appear next morning. He told the messenger to tell Shepley that he had no air ship but would be there when the train arrived. He went to the commission and found he had to wait. He saw the bench two end men who seemed to have passed the borderland between old age and dotage, and between them a younger man—the professional hired commissioner ready to sign anything prepared for him. (Laughter.)

Shepley the Torquemada Before them was the rotund figure of Shepley, the chief inquisitor, the Torquemada of the enterprise. When Shepley got ready he took up the contempt charge, and having heard Mr. Fowler said that the language rather supported the accusation that he regarded the court with contempt. "I think he was right in that," said Mr. Fowler. "If the court had punished me for contempt by imprisonment and the punishment had been proportioned to the contempt, the period since the Christian era it would have been inadequate. It would take an eternity." (Great laughter.)

Mr. Fowler took up some features of the insurance report. It had been charged that he and his friends had withheld some lands from the tract sold to the Great West Land Co. He showed that the land sold was specified and marked in the deed. All the bonds were given and the acreage stated. There was no statement that the syndicate was selling all the lands it had. Everything was plainly stated. Yet the insurance report falsely stated it so that there would appear to be some deception about it. In some way the report dealing with the Kamloops purchase represented him as the agent of the Union Trust company, and therefore not entitled to any profit.

Never An Agent. "I was never an agent in this matter," said Mr. Fowler. "The option was my own. I had offered it and partly sold it to other parties before the Union Trust Co. took it. I had this option seven weeks."

Nor was it true as stated by the report that the Union Trust Co. had paid the cost of exploration. It never paid a dollar for this purpose. The exploration payments were made in connection with different lands altogether. All the British Columbia lands which Mr. Fowler had anything to do with had been sold, and had since been turned over at a profit of $210,000, and if the lands had been properly handled they would be worth a million. Having reviewed the circumstances, Mr. Fowler turned his attention to Mr. Aylesworth.

"How," he asked, "can one expect a limpid stream of justice to flow from such a source. The hon. gentleman has used his position to try and bring down a man whose shoes he is unworthy to tie, whose name will shine when that of the minister is forgotten." (Applause.)

The minister had dared to compare Mr. Foster with an amberbering bank officer. (Shame shame.) He did not wonder the members cried shame. The commissioner, Mr. Fowler continued, never wrote a line of this report. He did not believe that they even read it. Probably they wrote their names at the end of it but that was all. Shepley wrote and dictated the whole of it. He carried out his instructions to the full. He had thrown mud upon all whom it was thought necessary to discredit or defame. He had especially tried to discredit the trusted lieutenant leader and that honorable leader himself.

Grit Plot Falls In this the plot had singularly failed. (Applause.) It was plain to anyone present yesterday that Foster never stood higher than today in the confidence of his party (applause) and what was better he stood high in the respect of all who knew him in both parties. As for the item before the house it was nothing short of highway robbery to make the people of Canada pay for the work of this commission. If the bills had to be paid, at least two thirds of the sum should be paid out of the Grit corruption funds. (Laughter and applause.)

A YUKON KIPLING

A new poet has arisen, whose home and whose themes are in the far off Yukon, Mr. Robert Service, who has just issued a volume under the title of "Songs of a Sowdough."

There is no questioning that Kipling is his inspiration, but he is no mere slavish imitator. There is a fine ring about the following lines, which apply to western as well as Northwestern Canada:

This is the law of the Yukon, and ever she makes it plain, Send not your foolish and feeble; Send me your strong and your sane.

Strong for the red rage of battle; Sane for I harry them sore, Send me the men girt for combat, men who are grit to the core; Swift as the panther in triumph, fierce as the bear in defeat, Born of a bulldog parent, steeled in the furnace heat.

Purists may object to the last lines of the following, but it certainly gives a distinctly western flavor, to a strong bit of verse:

The summer—no sweeter was ever; The sunshiny woods all a-thrill, The greying a-leap in the river, The highborn asleep on the hill, The strong life that never knows harness,

The wilds where the caribou call; The freshness, the freedom, the fair-ness, Oh, God! how I'm stuck on it all in the KOOTENAY

The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. The national law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package.

For this reason mothers and others should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe but it is said to be by those who know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Simply refuse to accept any other. FATALLY INJURED Strathcona, Alta., April 9.—E. J. McMillan, a prominent citizen of Strathcona, was fatally injured here last night. Mr. McMillan was walking on the track in front of the C. P.R. station as the midnight express from the south was coming in. He was seen to fall immediately in front of the train and before it could be stopped the unfortunate man was run over, receiving such injuries that he died a few hours later in the general hospital. Both legs were severed by the wheels. It is expected that the body will be shipped to Stratford, Ont., where deceased's parents reside.

THE FARMERS' COLUMN What to sow and How to sow in the North-West

As regards the variety of wheat sown, Red Fife continues to stand out head and shoulders above all competitors. There are, however, some valuable earlier hybrids of this wheat which may be sown to advantage in rich slow ripening soils and in the newer districts.

The germinating properties of all seed grain should be tested before sowing. This is most important, as experience has taught us that a good, even robust, crop of wheat in the west is the battle half won.

The amount to sow per acre is also important. If too little be sown, then stooiling is encouraged and maturity retarded. If too much then it will not withstand the drought that frequently comes at one time or another during the crop growing season. Districts differ so much in soil and rainfall that no hard and fast rules as to the amount of seed to sow per acre can be recommended for the West as a whole. Indeed individual experience on individual farms is the only guide to follow, and even then so much is dependent on the particular kind of season that follows.

Early autumn frosts and summer droughts, although largely overcome by the effects of settlement and better methods of tillage, are climatic conditions still to be feared in some parts of the West. In a locality where the former is feared, then fairly thick seeding—from 1 1/2 to 2 bushels per acre—should be practised to hasten maturity. But in districts where drought is more to be forearmed against, then a half bushel less seed per acre will invariably give better results.

Harvesting is an interesting and very anxious time on a Western wheat farm. Twenty-five years ago our prairie wheat crop was handled very much in accordance with Eastern Canadian customs and methods. That is, it was permitted to ripen well, carefully, stooked and capped, stacked, and allowed to properly sweat before threshing. But during more recent years, the rapidly extending wheat areas, with the consequent scarcity of farm labor, has introduced entirely new, cheaper and more expeditious methods, all of which are necessary in these modern days to handle a bulky and heavy commodity like wheat. Because of the larger acreage to be cut and the tendency of our wheat to shell, if permitted to get fully ripe and hard, wheat is now cut on the green side. Besides advancing the farm work, this has the additional advantage of producing a thin skinned high grade milling wheat.

The stooking is largely done now without capping, partly owing to the difficulty in securing competent labor to do it properly, and partly because it takes more time to do it.

Stacking in many localities is also a thing of the past, the threshing being done direct from the stook. There can be no doubt that this latter practice has a slight tendency, especially in the latter part of the season, to reduce the high gilt-edge appearance of our wheat, but the depreciation is considered to be so little that it is much more than offset by saving the laborious task of stacking. Besides, it is very difficult to secure good stackers in the rush of the busy harvest, and experience has taught us that, under such circumstances, wheat is better in a good stook than in a poorly built stack.

In a series of short articles of this kind I can but touch briefly on some of the more important and salient features of the question of wheat growing. Sufficient, however, has been written to draw attention to the principle outstanding features of successful wheat culture in the west, together with the wonderful potentialities of our millions of acres of as yet unbroken prairie.

If we wish to attain and maintain the supremacy that is to be ours in the very near future, as the largest exporters of the best hard milling wheat in the world, we must pay due regard, in the growing of the article, to all those details so essential to the production of a first-class product. Seed selection must receive more attention, so must weed eradication, while many are of opinion that the identity of our wheat in transit might be better preserved.

No mention has been made of the success that has already been attained in the production of winter wheat, especially in Southern Alberta, but this is a sufficiently large and interesting question in itself to form the subject of a separate article.

Jas. McKay, K.C., of Prince Albert, is in the city attending the full court.

P. J. Nolan, the noted Calgary lawyer was in the city attending the court en banc.

Fred Piper of Fleming is in the city visiting friends. He is en route to Calgary.

W. Taft of Melfort, is in the city and is a guest at the Clayton. He has an important case before the court en banc.

Geo. Hagel, formerly of Watford, Ont., has arrived in the city to take charge of the office and accounting of the Glasgow House.

The highest priced animal sold at the Alberta stock show and sale at Calgary was purchased by Paul M. Bredt, of Regina, for $170.

C. C. Wilson of Portage la Prairie and W. White of Medicine Hat have arrived in the city and taken positions on the Glasgow House staff. The former in the grocery and the latter in the dry goods department.

Mrs. L. B. Boise laid a purse on Saturday, containing about six dollars, a five dollar bill and some silver. She first missed the purse on South Railway street near the Glasgow House.

The Regina Brewery is now in operation and their beer is now on tap in the various hostleries. It is one of the finest products on the market—at least so experienced beer drinkers say.

I. R. Bligham of Moosomin, is in the city returning from Calgary, where he installed a lithographing plant for the Hammond Lithographing Co. This is the first plant of the kind between Winnipeg and the coast.

A Cupar dispatch says while in that town recently Hon. W. R. Motherwell had a long conversation with W. H. Fynn on the subject of the provincial university, and that Mr. Fynn is likely to be offered a professorship in that institution.

Geo. Hawkins, who was badly shaken up in the wreck at Rosthern recently will not be able to resume his duties as mail clerk for some time. He was brought to the city by Supt. Wilcox on Sunday morning. Mr. Hawkins was the only one injured in the run off on the north line.

Dr. Charlton, provincial bacteriologist, has not yet completed his analysis of the stomach of Wm. Dixon, the well known Grenfell farmer, who was found dead in bed at Broadview. As laudanum is a very volatile substance the analysis will take a few days yet, the work having to be done at a much lower temperature than that applying to other poisons. This is a very important case, but as deceased was known to have suffered financial troubles, during the last year there is no doubt at present that he committed suicide. It is said that his son bought the laudanum for him, and probably on the plea that the father was suffering from toothache. Nothing further can be determined until Dr. Charlton makes his report.

R. F. Chisholm, of Battleford died last week at Warman after undergoing an operation for appendicitis and was buried at Battleford on the 12th inst. Deceased was enroute to Winnipeg to be operated on, but his train was delayed indefinitely at Warman and after a week's wait he decided to undergo treatment in a drug store in that town. He was too weak, however, to stand the shock and died soon afterwards. Deceased was at one time teacher in the public schools here and studied law in the offices of Scott & Hamilton. He afterwards went to Prince Albert where he practiced and subsequently accepted a position in the Dominion Lands office. He was a brother of Mrs. Colbeck of this city. Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Kitchen of Weyburn, parents of Mrs. Chisholm, were in the city for several days waiting to go to Battleford to attend the funeral, but were unable to get out owing to the blockade.

Messrs. Willoughby, Smith and Sayder were a deputation from the builders' exchange to wait on the city council respecting water supply for this season's work.

A stone cutter named Coldwell got in a mix-up with a freight train yesterday and had to be placed under the doctor's care. He was put in cold storage at the cells after having his wounds bound up, being intoxicated at the time. His face is badly twisted and he had a narrow escape. He is expecting his wife to arrive shortly from Illinois.

The dates for the Regina fair have been set for July 30 and 31 and Aug. 1 and 2. Owing to the indifference of the government in respect to a provincial fair and their refusal of the anticipated financial aid, the exhibition will not be as provincial as intended when the new institution was organized although every effort will be made to make it as large as possible and successful, and next year a Saskatchewan fair will no doubt be undertaken whether the government assists or not.

Mr. Willing of the agricultural department has established the nucleus of a provincial museum by gathering specimens of our game birds and animals which are mounted and enclosed in large glass cases in a room in the department set aside for that purpose. Mr. Willing takes a great interest in this work, which is not only attractive, but important in a historical way.
