The Lost Will; OR, LOVE TRIUMPHS AT LAST!

CHAPTER XXI.

"Thank you very much," said poor Jack; "but I'm afraid that won't be possible. Fact is, he went on, as if inspired, "I have just accepted an appointment which will keep me in London. I was going to write to Miss Norton, but perhaps you will be so kind as to discuss the matter with her."

Ferndale looked slightly surprised, and Jack hurried on: "As you know, I have been acting as her agent, and, as I have to take up this appointment at once, I'm afraid I shall have to ask Miss Norton to accept my resignation without much notice—or any, in fact," he stammered. "Everything is straight. I dare say I can run down once or twice—if it's necessary; but I hope it won't be. You see, it's quite probable I may have to go abroad any moment. Perhaps I could see Mr. Horton in town and settle up affairs with him."

Ferndale still looked surprised; but he thought that the appointment Jack spoke of was an urgent one, and he said, good-naturedly enough:

"You must not let anything stand in the way of your interests, Mr. Chalfonte. I am sure Mr. Horton could arrange so that you should be quite free. You have told her, I suppose?" "Well, no—no, I haven't," replied Jack. "Fact is, I didn't want to bother her about business this afternoon. I'll see Horton in London." He glanced at his watch. "By George! I've only just time to catch the train. Good-bye, Ferndale—and good luck!"

"Thanks; and good luck to you," responded Ferndale, and he held out his hand and gave Jack's quite a warm, hearty shake.

Jack walked about London for the rest of the day; he felt that he could not meet even Jiggles; but he need not have been afraid of doing so, for that hard-working barrister had gone on circuit.

Jack made the appointments with Horton; and the next morning he went to that gentleman's office.

"How do you do, Chalfonte? Why, what's the matter—sore?" was Mr. Horton's greeting. "You don't look well."

"Just a bit off colour; nothing more. Can we settle up the matters of the estate right away, as I wrote and asked you to do?"

"Why, yes," said Horton, glancing at him keenly. "This is rather sudden, isn't it? I mean, your change of movements. Lord Ferndale told me about it last night. I hope this appointment of yours is a good one. What is it, by the way?"

Jack was floored for a moment, and he turned away as he replied: "Well, it's something I'm not quite at liberty to speak about just at present; tell you later. Got the papers?"

They seated themselves at the table and went into business; everything was clear and straightforward, and the settling-up did not take very long. Presently, and suddenly, with a penetrating look, Horton said:

"Of course, you have heard of Miss Norton's engagement to Lord Ferndale?"

Jack was prepared for the question, and, bracing himself, answered quite cheerily:

"Oh, yes. Splendid match, isn't it?" "Yes," said Mr. Horton, knitting his brows as if he were slightly puzzled. "Yes, they seem eminently suited to each other, and from a financial point of view, it is an excellent match. Of course, they will live at the Abbey—there will be plenty of money now—and Chertson Hall will have to be let. By the way, Chalfonte, have you ever mentioned to any one the incident of the two wills? I ask because it occurred to me that perhaps Lord Ferndale should be informed of the mysterious incidents connected with Mr. Chalfonte's bequest of his fortune to Miss Norton."

"I've never mentioned the matter to a single soul," said Jack quickly; "and I don't intend doing so. And I don't see any reason why Miss Norton or Ferndale should be told. It would only make them—well, uncomfortable; and why on earth should you do that?"

Mr. Horton nodded gravely. "Well!" he said, thoughtfully. There was a pause, then he went on: "That mystery—if I'm not using too big a word—worryes me still, Chalfonte. That two wills were signed that night is absolutely certain; the men's evidence is too clear to leave any doubt about it. The mystery lies in the question—What became of the other will? I am certain it was not burnt; for there were no traces, no ashes to be found in the room; and it was not torn up, or it would have been in the waste-paper basket. It is in evidence that Chalfonte meant to leave the money to you, and I'm inclined to think that very night he signed one will leaving it to Miss Norton, and the other leaving it to you."

"Oh, what's the use of speculating or worrying about the thing?" said Jack, with a touch of weary indifference and impatience. "I thought we'd settled that question long ago. Anyhow, that torn letter of Chalfonte's made it clear that he was leaving everything to her. Don't bother any more about it. I've ceased to trouble my head about it long since. Besides, I'd a darned sight sooner she had it than I. Oh!" He jumped up and took his hat. "Well, I must be off; got lots to do: may have to leave England at any moment; perhaps sha'n't see you again—for some time. Everything's squared up, isn't it?"

"Everything excepting one little matter," said Mr. Horton, with a dry smile. He handed Jack a cheque. "It isn't often a man forgets his salary, Chalfonte."

"Oh, that!" said Jack, flushing redly and staring at the cheque. "Oh, well, look here, Horton. I've got a curious kind of feeling about this money. I don't want to take it. You see, I've had a lot of fun over this job; it's been more pleasure than work, and I—I'd rather not accept anything in the way of screw. Here, look here! You take the cheque and buy a wedding present for Miss Norton for me."

He scrawled his name on the back of the cheque and laid it on the table. Mr. Horton looked from the slip of paper to Jack's face, then he laid his hand on the young man's shoulder and bent a piercing gaze on him.

"I understand, Chalfonte," he said, in a low voice. "I'm sorry. I'm very sorry."

"That's all right," said Jack, and he shook Horton's hand and went out.

When he reached his chambers, he wrote a letter to Mrs. Feltham, telling her of his "appointment," and his possible sudden departure—for some place unnamed. He tried to write a line or two to Nora, but he could not, simply could not. Reopening Mrs. Feltham's letter, he added a postscript: "Will you please give my kind regards to Miss Norton, and ask her if she will be good enough to accept Jim from me? I couldn't possibly take him where I am going."

Having got through his correspondence, he formed himself into a committee of ways and means. It was not a cheerful committee; for Jack found that his worldly possessions consisted of a little over ten pounds, his furniture, clothes, and a few articles of jewellery. As he had given up the Law, or the Law had given him up, the chambers were an unnecessary luxury. He gave notice to the landlord and wrote a line to Jiggles, asking him to take over the furniture or sell it; then he went out into the street and wondered what his "appointment" was and how he was going to get it.

Towards evening he found himself at the Sports Club, and, though he had no appetite, he ordered a modest chop. While he was eating it, Telby came in. You had only to look at Telby's face to see that 'By the Wayside' was going strong, and he seated himself opposite Jack and told him, with unctuous self-satisfaction, that they were playing to "capacity," meaning that the house held every night as large an audience as it was capable of doing, and he added that Miss Grace Lawless was in fine form.

This new, thick, fruity sauce from England is simply delicious, and such a welcome change to the old-fashioned sauces.

Wouldn't it be worth your while to try the one and only H.P. Sauce?

"Better come round with me and have a look at her," he said.

But Jack declined, and remarked abruptly that he was going abroad for a considerable period and that he had to do his packing. As a matter of fact, he did not pack at once, for the simple reason that, though he longed to get away somewhere, he did not know where to go; but during the sleepless night he did succeed in making something of a plan. Jiggles had laughed when he, Jack, had suggested the Colonies as the place for him, but now it seemed to Jack that there was nothing else. When a man cannot earn his living by his brains, he must do it with his hands. He was a strong man, even amongst strong men, and surely it would be possible for him to get his bread and cheese as a farm labourer. He could even drive a milk-cart.

With the desire of men in his condition to be doing something definite, he began to pack a portmanteau, deciding to start at once for somewhere. He was in the midst of the litter which he had created when there came a knock at the door, and Jack, thinking it was his charwoman, answered, "Come in!" without turning his head. The door opened and closed, but no one spoke, and Jack, looking over his shoulder, saw Maud standing looking at him.

London has a mysterious power of working sudden changes in those who come under its spell. It had certainly worked a marked transformation in Maud Delman, and the change did not lie so much in the fact that she was now beautifully dressed in something approaching perfect taste, but that her mien and carriage were altered; the old grace of her form was accentuated by a certain refinement and ease of bearing which even her short training had given her. But it was evident that the self-possession she displayed at this moment was attained by an effort, for her face was pale, her lips slightly tremulous, and there was a shamed look, an expression of painful anxiety, in her eyes.

"Hallo!" cried Jack pleasantly; then he grew suddenly grave. "I say, what's brought you here? This is no place—I mean, I'm a bachelor, and don't receive lady visitors."

She came forward with outstretched hands. "Don't be angry, Mr. Chalfonte. I—I couldn't help it. Mr. Telby told me last night"—she struggled with her voice, and tried to smile—"that you were going away—abroad."

"That's so," said Jack, in a matter-of-fact voice. "But there's nothing extraordinary in that. I'm not the first man to go abroad."

"But he said you were going for a long time," she faltered, and involuntarily she sank into a chair and, gripping the arms, gazed at him with the eyes which worked such havoc with the male part of the audience at the Theatres.

"Oh, so you'd thought you'd come and say good-bye," said Jack, vaguely confused and worried by the trouble that was shown so eloquently in her face. "That's very good of you, Maud. And so you're getting on quite famously, Telby tells me. You'll be at the top of the tree before long—one of the stars, with a hundred pounds a week and your portrait in all the papers. But it's been there already—saw it last week. Well, I'm very glad. I suppose you're going to have a big part in the new piece when it comes?"

WASHINGTON

President Wilson has informed the cabinet that he has transmitted its message to the German government, asking that it make an armistice and peace to the effect that if these governments are ready to accept peace upon the terms and the principles of the military advisers and the military states be asked to submit the necessary armistice as will fully protect the interests involved. He says that should such concrete evidence of her unequivocal terms and principles of peace.

BRITISH OPEN NEW ATTACK.

HUN LINES SMASHED.
WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 23.—The British Third and Fourth armies to-day smashed through strong German defensive positions south of Valenciennes. They gained ground to a depth of more than five thousand yards on an extended front, capturing many important villages and several thousand prisoners, together with numerous guns and driving a wedge into the enemy positions at what probably is the most vital point of the line the Germans are holding. The fighting was of a desperate nature, as German machine gunners holding out to the last. Large numbers of the enemy were killed. The advance continues and the menace to the Germans to the north and south of the front attacked is hourly growing. Further retreats are expected.

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 23.—The attack of the British Third and Fourth Armies on a wide front south of Valenciennes to-day, is of vital strategic importance. Wilson Suggests an Armistice!

WASHINGTON, October 23.

President Wilson has informed the German Government that he has transmitted its correspondence to him seeking an armistice and peace to the Allies with the suggestion that if these governments are disposed to effect peace upon the terms and the principles indicated, their military advisers and the military advisers of the United States be asked to submit the necessary terms of such an armistice as will fully protect the interests of the people involved. He says that should such terms of armistice suggested, acceptance by Germany will afford the best concrete evidence of her unequivocal acceptance of the terms and principles of peace.

Has the President Been Bluffed by German Guile? --British Make Attack of Strategic Importance-- Hun Lines Again Smashed, and Prisoners Taken.

The President's reply to the last German note was made public to-night and will be transmitted to Berlin through the Swiss Legation immediately. It says that having received the solemn and explicit assurance of the German Government that it unreservedly accepts the terms of peace and principles enumerated by him, that the desire to discuss the details of the application emanated not from those who hitherto dictated the German policy but from ministers who speak for the overwhelming majority of the German people, and having received explicit promise that the human rules of civilized warfare will be observed by the German armed forces, the President feels he can't decline to take up the question of an armistice with the Allies.

WILSON FORWARDS REPLY TO GERMANY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—President Wilson's reply was forwarded to Germany at 9 o'clock to-night.

BRITISH OPEN NEW ATTACK.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The British began a new attack to-day on the front between Le Quesnoy and Solesmes, south of Valenciennes. Field Marshal Haig announced to-day. The British have captured Bruyay, two and a half miles north of Valenciennes.

HUN LINES SMASHED.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 23.—The British Third and Fourth armies to-day smashed through strong German defensive positions south of Valenciennes. They gained ground to a depth of more than five thousand yards on an extended front, capturing many important villages and several thousand prisoners, together with numerous guns and driving a wedge into the enemy positions at what probably is the most vital point of the lines the Germans are holding. The fighting was of a desperate nature, the German machine gunners holding out to the last. Large numbers of the enemy were killed. The advance continues and the menace to the Germans to the north and south of the front attacked is hourly growing. Further retreats are expected.

AN IMPORTANT ATTACK.

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 23.—The attack of the British Third and Fourth Armies on a wide front south of Valenciennes to-day, is of vital strategic importance. The Allied effort here menaces the German lines all the way to Holland and if it is widened it will have a tremendous effect also on the enemy front to the south.

BRITISH PROGRESS.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—North of Valenciennes the British captured about two-thirds of the Rafemes Forest. Further north they have got well east of St. Amand and reached the Scheidt north of the Belgian frontier.

TWO MILLION AMERICAN SOLDIERS.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 23.—At the same time that the Premier's reply to Germany was made public the White House gave out correspondence between Secretary Baker and President Wilson showing that more than two million American soldiers have embarked to participate in the war overseas.

STIFF FIGHTING.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTH WEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 23.—The stiffest fighting of the American offensive west of the Meuse was underway to-day. The line is swaying back and forth in the region of Grand Pre, on the western end of the front. The Americans threw back repeated violent German counter attacks.

PRISONERS TAKEN.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Two thousand prisoners were taken by the British in to-day's attack.

FORET WOOD CAPTURED.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTH WEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 23.—In the face of stubborn resistance American forces to-day cleaned up Bois de Foret, just west of Briouilles, capturing 75 prisoners, many of them machine gunners who fought to the last. The fight for Bois de Foret began a week ago and has been one of the most stubborn since the beginning of the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

ENEMY RESISTING STIFFLY.

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 23.—The defences south of Valenciennes apparently constitute only one of several intermediate lines of resistance which the Germans have constructed, but they probably will attempt to hold on there if the situation to the north and south improves from their point of view. The new British attack south of Valenciennes is on a front of five to six miles and the Germans have been driven back about a mile along the entire front. The enemy is resisting stiffly.

FRENCH PROGRESS.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—On the Serre front last night the Germans met with heavy machine gun fire the efforts of the French to cross the Souche and Serres, the war office announced. Further east the French made progress between Nizy-le-comte and Lethor taking prisoners.

GHEENT EVACUATED.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 23.—The evacuation of Ghent, Belgium, is in full swing, according to a despatch to the Telegraaf from Sasvanger.

BRUGES VISITED.

DUNKIRK, Oct. 23.—King Albert and Queen Elizabeth visited Bruges by airplane Tuesday, and were given a joyful welcome by the populace.

EXPRESSES COMPLAINT.

BASEL, Oct. 23.—Official comment in Vienna on President Wilson's answer to the Austrian note expresses a complaint that it does not answer the precise question put forward and that it is now necessary to again ask the President's attitude toward an armistice and their re-establishment of peace, according to advices received from the Austrian capital.

President Wilson's reply to the Austrian peace proposals in no way justifies the conclusion that the exchange of views which has been begun is to be interrupted, according to Baron Von Hussarek, the Austrian Premier in the House of Lords yesterday, according to Vienna advices received here.

MAXIMILIAN'S NEW RULES.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 23.—The lot of our soldiers to-day, Prince Maximilian in a speech to-day says, is terribly hard. They fight with anxiety for the homeland and with their minds fixed on peace and they hold their ground. The extraordinary war time measures, the Chancellor explained, could not yet be dispensed with, but they could be carried out only by the Chancellor who would be responsible to the Reichstag for their application. His Majesty's decrees, which I announced recently, have now been issued, he went on. They concern not only the censorship, the right of public meeting and restrictions on personal liberty, but have to do with economic, social and political matters. If local military commanders disagree with the civil authorities the decision must be reached immediately by the highest commander who will not be able to promulgate any decision to which agreement is not given by myself or my representative, namely Secretary of State Groeber. Care will be taken that the state of siege is maintained in the spirit in which I assumed the functions of the government and in which I am resolved to discharge them. My programme of October 6th embraced amnesty for persons under sentence for political crimes, especially those connected with labor troubles, street demonstrations, etc. Far-reaching amnesty of this nature was proposed by the Emperor and has now been applied. Many persons had been set at liberty, Prince Maximilian added, only with strong misgivings on the part of the Government but the conviction of the necessity of benevolence and a trustful policy decided the matter. The principles upon which we have agreed as a rule of conduct also involve internal questions. From many quarters it has been represented to me that an acceptance of President Wilson's conditions would mean submission to an anti-German court of justice which would decide legal questions entirely from the view point of its own interests. If that is the case why then is it that the extreme apostles of force in the Entente fear the counsel chamber as the guilty fear the court of justice. Prince Maximilian said that he would deny that heavy opposition in Germany must be conquered before the idea of a league of nations could be realized, but he continued, whether the next few days or weeks shall call us to fight on or open the way to peace, there is no doubt we are now equal to the task of either war or peace by carrying out the government's programme and definitely breaking away from the old system. The announcement was made by the Chancellor of a bill making the Reichstag responsible for war and peace, the measure to become effective when the project for a league of nations becomes operative.

MUCH VAGUE TALK.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The opinion of the London newspapers on the speech of Prince Maximilian before the Reichstag is summed up on this comment by the Evening Standard, "There is much vague talk but nothing else."

CONFIDENCE IN MAXIMILIAN.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The German Reichstag, after a short debate, adopted a resolution approving the statement made to it by Prince Maximilian, the Chancellor, according to an Exchange Telegram despatch from Amsterdam. The resolution also expressed confidence in the new Chancellor.

READY TO EVACUATE.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Germany's high command is ready to evacuate the invaded territories of France and Belgium on the express condition that the Allied troops will not follow them in retreat, but will remain where they are now located, according to the latest information from Berlin, says the Zurich correspondent of the Journal. This grotesque proposal is the outcome of the latest conference of Berlin between the members of the general staff and the war cabinet. It is said, the despatch says, that the existing government remains very hostile to the retrocession of Alsace and Lorraine to France. Emperor William himself is reported to have emphatically denounced such an event at the meeting of the Crown Council on Saturday.

GERMANY'S SITUATION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The new German note, an official despatch from Rome to-day says, strengthens the belief there in the accounts of the wretched internal situation in Germany and that complete dismemberment of the Germanic alliance is at hand at the moment when the Entente Allies are bound more solidly together. It is not surprising, the despatch adds, to find the German people alone in imploring their own salvation. In three weeks, it says, Germany's allies have fallen under mortal blows of the armies of our Allies and the logic of President Wilson. That the last of the three should fall mortally wounded is necessary to remove every equivocation.

MURDERER IN CHARGE.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Referring to the Berlin telegram which stated that a neutral commission under the direction of Baron Von Der Lancken had been appointed to go to the front and investigate the accusations regarding wanton German devastation, the Daily News says that the selection of Von Der Lancken of the political department at Brussels is extraordinary, when it is recalled that he played a leading role in the murder of Edith Cavell. It was Von Der Lancken who ignored the American Minister's representations and refused to allow Miss Cavell to receive a visit from a Belgian lawyer. It was Von Der Lancken to whom Whitlock made his moving appeal to save this unfortunate woman from death.

WAR COUNCIL WILL HAVE A SAY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Exchanges between Washington and the Allied capitals have been in progress on the basis of the wireless version of the note received Monday and it is regarded as certain that any reply the President makes will be governed by the supreme war council in France.

GETTING GENEROUS.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 23.—The Austrian authorities in the part of Poland occupied by the Austrian armies have formally handed over the administration to Polish authorities, says a Vienna despatch to the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin.

A TWO MILE ADVANCE.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Northwest of Laon French troops have reached the line of the Serre river having made an advance of two to three miles on an eight mile front.

INDEPENDENCE FOR HUNGARY.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Measures are being taken to carry into effect the proclamation of Emperor Charles conferring independence on Hungary, says a Zurich despatch to the Petit Parisien. It is reported that Count Julius Andrássy will be Hungarian Foreign Minister.

SOCIALISTS ELECT LEADER.

BASEL, Switzerland, Oct. 23.—Austrian Premier, Karl Seitz, leader of the German Socialists in Austria, has been elected President of the new assembly. The deputies have announced their desire to bring about the autonomy of the Germans in Austria and to establish relations with other nations.

CARGO BOAT LOST.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The sinking of the American cargo ship, Lake Borgne, off the coast of France without loss of life, was announced to-day by the Navy Department. The ship foundered after striking a rock. The crew of 47 were saved.

WOUNDED WITH CANADIANS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Casualties to-day include infantry, wounded, J. Hayes, Newfoundland; R. Peters, St. John's, Nfld.; E. Sparks, St. John's, Nfld.; N. Taylor, Change Islands, Nfld.

WILSON HAS OFFICIAL NOTE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Germany's new note to President Wilson in official text was delivered to Secretary of State Lansing at 10 o'clock this morning, by Frederick Oederlin, Charge of the Swiss Legation.

"Holy Fish."

The name "halibut" is composed of two Scandinavian words meaning flat-fish of the deep. That Arivivata is found in the dictionaries; but the term first appears in the ancient Norse legends as "halgi-butta," which signifies a holy messenger, one who is sent to relieve suffering or save either body or soul.

Peps
What are they?

Peps are handy little tablets which provide the newest, surest and most scientific treatment for coughs, colds and throat and chest troubles. If you have a cough or a cold, why does your stomach with liquid preparation? Your stomach is not ailing! Peps provide a better way.

You put a "Pep" on your tongue and let it dissolve slowly. As it does so, certain healing essences it contains turn into vapor, and you breathe this medicinal vapor direct to your lungs and air passages. On its way it bathes the delicate membranes thoroughly in its healing ingredients, kills the germs of disease, cures the irritation and inflammation which cause your cough and ends the trouble.

Just as the out-door treatment for consumption—the "breathing" treatment—is now admitted to be the only rational treatment, so the "Peps" treatment for colds and throat and chest troubles is the only rational home treatment.

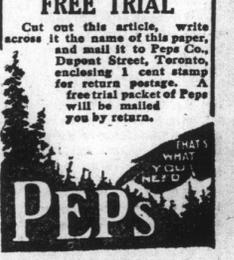

Another great advantage in Peps is their entire freedom from opium, morphine or other poisons, thus making Peps the best and safest remedy for children's coughs and colds.

Peps cure catarrh, coughs, bronchitis, sore throat, tightness or aching across the chest, difficulty in breathing, night cough, hoarseness, asthma, laryngitis, smoker's throat, etc.

All druggists and stores sell Peps at 5c a box or 3 for $1.25.

Unconditional Surrender.

An analysis of Germany's last reply to President Wilson's demands shows but very little change in tenor from that of the previous answer. The form of expression and verbiage is altered, but no more, if the diplomatic fabrications be excepted, and a strain of hypocrisy and cant pervades the whole document. The most glaring and transparent piece of diplomatic falsehood is the statement that the whole constitutional fabric of Germany has been changed, and that "a new government has been formed in complete accordance with the wishes of the representatives of the people, based on equal, universal, secret and direct franchise." Nothing could be further from the truth. No government in existence could so drastically change its constitution in the short period of two weeks, and put through a general election, and the German Chancellor's deliberate lie is immediately discernible. Its object is plain. It is as Senator Lodge says, "A clumsy trap, awkwardly set to involve us in diplomatic discussion, and if it is answered at all, it should be with demands only for UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER. It seems unbelievable that anyone should be taken in by the last German note. All they say about changing their Government is pure camouflage; there has been no election in Germany. It is the same old Reichstag, governed by the same forces and interests." The hypocrisy of the Kaiser and his following is amply demonstrated in the protest which they make "against the reproach of illegal and inhuman actions made against the German land and sea forces and thereby against the German people." No one but a case hardened criminal could incorporate such a protest into a peace proposal. The name of German reeks of dishonor and inhumanity and barbarity. Why repeat again the tale of their unparalleled atrocities on land and sea. They are indelibly printed in the memory and can never be erased. The echoes of the drowning cries of the women and children of the Lusitania have not yet ceased. The shrieks of the tortured women and children of Belgium, slain, outraged, maimed and murdered have not yet died away, yet the Hun complacently denies these crimes and expects the world to forget their commission. "The German Government," continues the note, "further denies that the German navy is sinking ships, or has ever purposely destroyed life boats with their passengers." Perhaps the Imperial German Chancellor wishes it to be understood that the U-boats responsible for these piratical acts do not belong to the German navy, but are acting on the sole initiative of their commanders in their crime of lawless and unjustifiable sea murder. But Anglo-Saxons have long memories and the glaringly deliberate untruths uttered by Maximilian are doubtless intended for home consumption. They cannot mislead the Allies, nor turn them aside from the main object. The German people, to quote the Psalmist, "are continually gathered together for war," and through their Chancellor, "they have sharpened their tongues like a serpent, and adders poison is under their lips."

Many assertions have been made that we have quarrel with the German people, who are a particularly harmless class of individuals. This assertion is absolutely untrue. The war is as much the war of the German people as it is of the Kaiser. The difference perhaps being that the motives of the people were less worthy than those of their Emperor. He sought honor and glory, and the making of a mighty Empire. They coveted the property and envied the prosperity of their neighbors, and went headlong into war for plunder and the lust of gain. Therefore their punishment must take the form of deprivation of wealth, stripping them of their power to do future evil, taking from them their wrongfully acquired corporate possessions, and compelling them jointly to indemnify those whom they have robbed. We cannot, we must not, "forget and forgive" either Germany or the German people, no matter how commendable this human tendency may be, because now is the time to remember all that they have done, and upon our remembering much of the future depends. Any overlooking of Germany's crimes would be to encourage, if not to invite, similar atrocities hereafter. "Had her vile misdeeds been accidental, or even due to the heat of military passion they might have been overlooked to a certain degree. But they were cold blooded, deliberately planned and perpetuated on inhuman principles. They must not only be borne in mind but thoroughly avenged. This is not demanded by the spirit of vindictiveness, but by the stern requirements of immutable justice—the sure law of God and of man."

The demand of the Allies, in order to bring the punishment of civilization and justice upon the German people and their Kaiser, must be for absolute, unqualified and unconditional Surrender. The world is not inclined to accept anything less.

Pte. Pyke Wounded.

Mrs. Mary Pyke, of Portugal Cove, has been officially notified from Ottawa that her husband, Pte. George Philip Pyke, of the 85th Battalion Nova Scotia Highlanders, was wounded on the 30th September, 1918, suffering from fractured tibia.

Pte. Pyke went overseas with the Highland Brigade two years ago, enlisting at Halifax in the 85th Battalion. He came through Vimy Ridge action without a scratch, and received his first wound in the battle of Arras, but it was not serious enough to take him to hospital, so he remained on duty. A month later he was taken from the trenches after being gassed which was followed by a bad attack of asthma and bronchitis. After being in hospital many months he again went to France, and spent three months in special training as a sniper, and on August 15th he took up his duties in the firing line in that capacity. He remained at this duty until September 30th when he received his second wound.

Pte. Pyke has another brother in the trenches, as well as two brothers-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Pyke resided in Halifax many years previous to the war, but at present Mrs. Pyke is living with her parents at Portugal Cove, she having suffered very great loss in the Halifax Disaster.

The many friends of Pte. Pyke wish him a speedy and full recovery.

The Passing of Hon. Jas. Angel.

One by one the leaders of our country are passing away, and the men who pioneered our industries are being numbered with the past.

The class of men who pioneered the industries of Newfoundland were of a strong and robust constitution, and they possessed characteristics which especially fitted them for their duties. Of such a class was the late Hon. Jas. Angel whose death occurred yesterday, who, for more than sixty years was closely identified with our country in all its interests. Of him it may be said that he was the founder of much of its mechanical and engineering development. His career began away back in the fifties, when Newfoundland had neither mills nor machinery, and to him and his father belong the distinctions of having erected the first saw mill, and of constructing the first steam engine for local use. To-day there are hundreds of those utilities in operation throughout Newfoundland, and they stand for the progress of the country; but their beginning lay in the genius and practical skill of our departed and respected citizen, the late James Angel.

During his long career in St. John's Mr. Angel was known for his application to business and for his strong determination to get things done. His was no milk and water policy. To him duty was first, and even though it meant the ill-will of his fellows, he feared not, but looked beyond such things and saw his reward in "duty performed." To those of us who worked with him for a half century or more were associated with him, his worth became better known as we saw his work develop. The strength and characteristics of the man revealed themselves with the experience of the years, and his influence made us all the stronger. We admired him because he was practical, and was always one with the people. In his promotions and in his honours he still retained his personality, and never got beyond the circle of his fellow workers. From first to last he, himself, was a worker, and as such he held a big place in the hearts of the working classes.

As a legislator, Mr. Angel, no doubt did much good; but his greater good, and his greater self, were really manifested in his business career, and social life. Official life does not permit of the best in man at all times, for its restrictions limit them; and this is why some of leaders get so lost to the people. To be a leader, and at the same time, one of the people, is only accomplished by men of strong will-power; and such a man was James Angel. His firmness was his forte and to it he owed much of his success, both in business and in public life.

Of his usefulness to his church and of his christian liberality we will leave others to write; last we pay our humble tribute to him in the broad sense of citizenship and in the closer sense of friendship. In these associations we walked with him, and now that his career has closed we feel that another link is broken in life's chain, and that another landmark has been removed from our midst.

Fire At Woolen Mills.

Yesterday morning a fire broke out in the card room of the Knitting Mills, Alexander Street. The fire was supposed to have been caused by a spark from the electric switch, which ignited some rubbish on the floor. However, an automatic sprinkler was turned on the blaze, which was rather big, and within two or three minutes, the blaze was extinguished, so that the services of the firemen, who had arrived, were not required. Quite an amount of excitement was caused, but this died out with the going of the flames.

Jas. Ryan Dead!

Mr. James Ryan, uncle of Lance-Corporal Ryan, writer of the History of Newfoundland Regiment, which has been published in the Colonial Commerce, died at his residence, Adelaide Street. He was a widely known, and much respected citizen of the West End for a great many years. He was married, but left no children. To the sorrow-stricken wife, and a large number of relatives, the Telegram offers sympathy.

Why Not?

"Who'll hate to hear the war is over?" said files-on-Parade.
"The bloomin' profiteer be sure," the sergeant-major said.
"Why does he dread it's near the end?" said files-on-Parade.
"Because the war's his greatest friend," the sergeant-major said. He wants to make a million more before the scrap's all in.
And to let me and you escape with any surplus tin,
Is deemed by him a hideous and unforgivable sin,
So he's bound to boost his prices every morning.

"What makes the merchant charge so high?" said files-on-Parade.
"He wants another car to buy," the sergeant-major said.
"Why don't we stop his thievin' game?" said files-on-Parade.
"Because our bloomin' nerve's to blame," the sergeant-major said. There's no one left with spunk enough to an' tell him blarney.
That he's a common home-made Hun, whose actions make him rank
With pirate captains like old Kuff, who made folks walk the plank,
Or cut their throats right gaily in the morning.

"When will he cut the prices some?" said files-on-Parade.
"When Dooms Day to the earth shall come," the sergeant-major said.
"But can't we rush it up a bit?" said files-on-Parade.
"We might if we but had the grip," the sergeant-major said.
For all we do help us is a straight and honest man,
Who for the gentry (?) or the 'rings' don't give a tinker's dam;
Who won't be baulked or bought, but who'll lay bare the whole blamed sham,
That robs us of our savin's every morning.

"They're goin' to make the Hun cough up," said files-on-Parade.
"What of this blasted grafter pup?" said files-on-Parade.
"He's robbed the wife of half her pay," said files-on-Parade.
"The widow curses him to-day," the sergeant-major said.
He should be made disgorge his ill-gotten profits to the men Whom we shall never see around with all their limbs agone,
Or who for months have hungured in some stinkin' German pen.
When we claim reward for victory in the morning.

One Kind of Shirking.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

A woman whom I was talking with yesterday said of a certain thing an acquaintance of ours had done, "What a stupid thing to do!" Then she suddenly caught herself up and added "I don't mean stupid, I mean perverse."

At that change I took off my hat to that woman. Not literally, because it didn't have it on, but figuratively. For it meant that she was one of those one-in-ten-thousand people who make an effort to say exactly, and not approximately, what they mean.

I always thought that woman had a first class mind. Now I know it. For, in my opinion, there is no surer hall mark of a really clear, good mind than careful choice of words.

Some Symptoms of the Flabby Mind.

A flabby mind shirks the effort to express itself accurately. The symptoms of this shirking are various. There is, for example, the habit of using one adjective to express everything one likes, and another to express everything one dislikes. For instance we all know the young girl to whom everything she likes is "cute," or "grand," and everything she dislikes "horrid" or "awful" or "mean."

The Use of "Er."

The use of "er" is another symptom of the foggy, flabby mind. Occasionally, of course, people use it to fill in while they are seeking for the right word. But more often they simply say it because they are not thinking clearly and distinctly of what they are saying. And if one is searching for the right word, it is much more dignified to do it in silence.

Why Slang Hurts.

The bad feature about slang is not so much the fact that it is "unauthorized language" as the dictionary puts it, as that it is picked up, by the unthinking and used here, there and everywhere to take the place of innumerable shades and variations of meaning and emotion which they are too lazy to attempt to express. Slang is like a crutch used by a normal person until he becomes lame. Or like an indigestible food that has no harm in it except that it usurps the functions of normal digestion and makes the stomach lazy.

The Reporter who "Died Over There."

Give suppleness to inactive muscles.

(From the New York Times.)
 According to the New York Times correspondent with the American armies, Don Martin died a death symbolic of the newspaper man's tradition, the kind of death that might have been expected of him. He died not merely doing his duty, but doing more than his duty. Stricken with illness on September 28th, he stayed at the front "travelling long hours along the battlefield in cold and rainy weather" until unable to keep up, then took to his bed and died in two days. He was one of the unnumbered heroes of his profession; he was brought up in the old school that demanded of a man not only a day's work for a day's wage, but work that took no account of health or life, that put "the paper" above all. It was such a standard as that to which Gregory Humes conformed four years ago, when, fatally mangled in a railroad disaster, he saw to it that his paper "got the story" before he died. Most of the men who have paid the last full measure of devotion to that standard have been unknown outside a narrow circle; but Don Martin was known from one end of the United States to the other, and wherever he was known he was loved. His circle of friends ran from Presidents to his professional comrades. Mr. Hughes, in his campaign for the Presidency, speaking at Silver Creek, N.Y., said he was glad to be there because "this is Don Martin's home." His sunny dis-

UNSELFISHNESS.
 We'll never rise to greatness till we've ceased to think of self. We'll never come to splendor in the light that's made for self. If we keep within the circle that is ours and our alone. We shall never know the beauty of a soul that's fully grown. For the joys of real service we must reach the goals afar. We must live our lives for others and not question who they are.

It is easy to be selfish; it's not very much to do. To keep summer roses blooming in a garden just for you. But it's different planting roses for the strangers' eyes to see. And it's different leaving beauty where but seldom you may be. For it's not your selfish garden, after all that makes you great. But the blossoms that another may enjoy outside your gate.

It's not hard to toll for money for the needs that are your own. Any man can come to riches if he'll work for them alone. But it calls for real, realness to forsake the joys of the path, and to make smooth the path of others, and for good to give away. For the world has need of service, and the test of man and boy is the work that each is doing that another may enjoy.

Judicial Enquiry

Hector Ross, sworn and examined by Mr. Mews, B.L.

I am the master carpenter with the Reid Newfoundland Company. I have been working with the Company off and on for the last forty years. I remember the train which left St. John's on Monday, the 23rd September last for Port aux Basques. That train included a second class car, diner, first class car, baggage car and two sleepers, and engine. I have two men under me whose business it is to examine the cars when they come in and before they go out each trip. Those two men are Legrow and These two men are old experienced hands in the employ. The two men examined the cars of that train before it left. These two men passed all the cars in good order. Four of the cars of that train came back to me for repairs. These were two sleepers, first class car and the diner. One truck of the second class car of that train also came back to me for repairs; that was the truck that was left on the road bed as I understand. I did not go over to the scene of the accident. The first sleeper . . . we got in was (Q.) What damage was done to that car?

(A.) Several panes of glass were broken; three in the top section of the sash were broken right out, and in the lower section three panes of plate glass broken; one double window above, was also so it had to be taken down for repairs. New steps had to be put on this car, and the hand rails on the platform were badly bent up. The wheels were alright.

(Q.) What damage was done to the second sleeper "Trepassey"?

(A.) This car was more smashed up than the other sleeper. Six panes of plate glass in the main sash were broken, and either five or six of the lead lights above were gone. Two double seats were started out about an inch from the wall and were split in the ends in three places. We had to take them both out and repair them and put them both back again. One berth was out of order caused by the car falling upon a stump of a tree. The trucks and the wheels of that car were very good, we had them out and looked over them. These cars came in on their own wheels.

(Q.) What damage was done to the first class car?

(A.) The giss on the one side of the car was broken. The balloon deck was stove up at the one end, about ten feet of it. The balloon deck is the section of the top of the car which is narrower than the main body of the car, about four feet five inches wide, eighteen inches high and runs the full length of the car. All the wheels and trucks were in good running order when they came in.

(Q.) What damage was done to the diner?

(A.) She was brought in on her own wheels. The balloon deck was stove up at the one end, about ten feet of it. The balloon deck is the section of the top of the car which is narrower than the main body of the car, about four feet five inches wide, eighteen inches high and runs the full length of the car. All the wheels and trucks were in good running order when they came in.

(Q.) What damage was done to the truck of the second class car?

(A.) The truck of the second class car was brought in five or six days after the accident. I examined that truck when it came in. A truck consists of two pairs of wheels, four oil boxes and four housings and the body frame of the truck. The frame consists of two sides plated with three eight iron plates inside and outside, six inches wide, full size of the frame. The two end beams are four by six. The beam of the front end of the truck is cut out three inches deep by two feet long, and then there is a three-eighths iron plate four inches wide, about three feet long put in under the four by six timber where it is cut out to strengthen it on the top to allow the draw bar to swing back and forth on top of the truck. Two hanger beams, each and a half by five, with three-quarter ends bent to fit the outside of the truck, come up on the front and over the top and turn down about an inch on the outside. That is to carry the bolster, the spring board and springs. The car sets directly on top of the bolster.

(Q.) What parts of this truck were damaged?

(A.) The end beam was broken in two places where the axle timber went against it. This was the frame end beam that was broken. The back end of the axle timbers butt against

Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir,—At this season of the year the reporters of the daily papers start in to get their Christmas Numbers ready, and go about among the business people soliciting advertisements. The business man is only too willing to help along the reporters because they realize that without advertisements no local Xmas Number could be published without incurring a financial loss. They also feel that they are more or less indebted to the reporters, who in every kind of weather and at all hours of the day and night are at the public service, therefore when the Christmas season approaches and the reporters solicit an ad, nearly every business man in the city readily falls in line.

So far so good. But there is a nuisance now in existence, and that is, that every Tom, Dick and Harry who dream that they must get out a Number and starts on the war path to jabs people for advertisements and hold up people to lend them their brains and spend a couple of nights writing articles for them with which to fill the Number. These "scabs," whom I refer, are engaged at everything but the journalistic business throughout the year; many of them are incapable of writing out a "To Let" notice for a vacant house, but as soon as October arrives, look out for them, for they will be after you for an "ad" for their number which, of course, going to be a stunner.

It is high time that those individuals realized that they are not playing the game. Let them stick to their own business and watch it, and they will not be forced to wedge themselves in where they are not wanted.

Yours truly, BUSINESS.

Crowned.

Over the wave you went my laddie,
 Over the wave you went,
 Big were the things you did my laddie,
 Big were the gifts you sent.

Back to us o'er the spangled billows,
 Back o'er God's glorious deep, Blooming and comfort how large in measure—
 All for our hands to reap.

You went away from the home-roof
 laddie
 Where faces smiled sweet and fair
 But away from their love so strong, so tender,
 You cannot—"twill reach you there.

For love is a thing death cannot sever,
 Its qualities are divine,
 And up to thee on its mystic stairway,
 Laddie, some day we'll climb.

Bonny the light in your dear eyes,
 Laddie,
 Bright, but brave your smile;
 Laughter and love were all yours, my
 laddie,
 Just for a little while?

No, 'twill be love through the sunny
 ages,
 Life for thee full and broad;
 You're being now in the wider freedom
 The liberties large of God.

A knight all white like thee, dear
 laddie,
 Will sit at the table round,
 You followed the gleam of truth, dear
 laddie,
 'Till the Great Divine you found.

High over the mountain steep and rugged
 Ways did that white light lead,
 Steady and swift were your boyish footsteps
 Eager that light to feed.

Pure the thoughts of your young heart, laddie,
 Yours not to loot and lie,
 But keep the banner of truth awaving
 In freedom's unclouded sky.

We will not seek you out dear Percy,
 In France on her tortured sod,
 For up through the shadowed sky we see you Crowned in the light of God.

The above lines were written as a passing tribute to the memory of Pte.
 Wm. Percival Tidwell, 8th Batt.
 C. E. F.

At the outset of the war Percy went to Aldershot, he was then barely sixteen, so was sent home to grow. The persevering young soldier was determined to stand with the boys in France. Again he left his home and for a year or more lived with his soldier chums, aiding them and helping to win freedom for all. A few days ago the message came: "Killed in action," and another broken-hearted mother bows her head and says: "My son, my son!"

Percy was the son of Mr. and Mrs.
 Wm. Tidwell, of Halifax, N.S., and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. G. Way, of this city.

Delightful Road.
 The world like to draw the attention of the Municipal Council, the Association, the Government, House of Parliament, or anybody anything that will do something to improve the condition of that portion Waterford Bridge Road, extending outside the Tannery to Symes' sign. This road has no drains, or walks, and extends from fence to fence. The mud is about 25 feet deep, and is covered by a beautiful lake of mud in which the motor cars delight to splash over the pedestrian as if pedestrian was not to be had. It would be amusing, were it not so pathetic, to see a man getting along trying to collect a minimum of mud, and reminding one of a bird topping along on one leg. At one extra part of the road those who do possess stilt, are obliged to walk along on the fence, walking on bottom rail, and holding onto the top rail. The mud is so deep that it resembles a gymnasium with bars and acrobats exercising. It would not be supposed that we have personal animus against this road, we do like to see roads that one can walk on. Ruskin says: "To any

A New Word.

A peculiar expression has arisen in Vancouver. If one lives in that Canadian Pacific port, and has not heard the term "jaywalker," then he or she can claim a particular merit as a law-abiding citizen. To be a "jaywalker" is to be a person who, when crossing a street, does so at some point other than a street intersection, and thereby ignores the by-law which, in his defence let it be said, has fallen into what a politician once termed "innocuous desuetude."
 It used to be said in this country of anyone who crossed a street at a point other than the intersections, that he thereby proclaimed himself to be a foreigner.

Broad and Universal.

In the language of President Wilson,
 "no general peace, no peace worth the infinite sacrifices of these years of tragical suffering," can be arrived at by the old methods of barter and concession. "What we are striving for is a new international order, based upon the broad and universal principles of right and justice."

Sir Eric's Warning.

(New York Herald.)
 Filled with pregnancy is Sir Eric Geddes' declaration that the keynote of Great Britain's naval policy and the basis of all his advice to others is the maintenance of an early peace must be hugged, but we must prepare "for an ever receding duration of the war. We must always be prepared for two years more, and then only shall we have the sure means for the final victory in our hands."
 Here is the voice of authority—based on daily experience, sound judgment and fortified knowledge.

Mother is Well Now
Your Noise Does Not Disturb Me Any More—It is a Pleasure to Hear You Romp and Play.

"It is like a dream now to think of the long, weary months I spent in nervous helplessness. Some days I would be cheered by feeling better, but only to slip back again, and to be more than ever discouraged.

"I had always been very active. Had a wide acquaintance and did much entertaining. In addition to helping in whatever was going on at the church, there was Red Cross work to be done, and all the time I had my little family to look after and could not get help.

"I suppose I tried to do too much, for I got so I could not sleep at nights and always felt tired out in the mornings.
 Then I would have headaches and did not seem to care for my meals.

"Instead of the usual ambition and energy I found myself putting off the duties of the day. I got behind with the housework, and this worried me.

"I did not think that I was sick, but only tired. However, the time came when I did not get up in the morning. I simply could not. The doctor came and said, "Nervous Prostration." It seems I had kept on the go until the nervous system was wrung dry of all nerve force.

"Then came the long, weary weeks, and weeks dragged into months, without finding much improvement. I was completely discouraged and almost devoid of hope.

"But one day a friend told me of her experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and she was so sure that this treatment
 would do me good that I decided to give it a chance.

"I need scarcely say that there were some dark, discouraging days after beginning the use of the Nerve Food, but my appetite and digestion improved
 I felt that I was gradually getting back the old-time vigor. Sleep became more natural and refreshing. The dark days passed and I began to take a more cheerful view of the future. Then I began to plan what I would do when I got around again. The house must be decorated and the children brought home, for I had to send them to my sister's on account of the way their noise disturbed me.

"Now I feel that I am entirely well again, and without hesitation give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I cannot tell you the pleasure it gives me to be restored to my husband and children after the long period of helplessness."

Murder After Poker Game.

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 17.—Sam
 Zaphler, better known as Sam Morgan, keeper of a clothing store here, died
 this afternoon, making the second victim of Joseph Cameron, the Calgary gunman, who also killed Frank Bee-vers, a city policeman, in a double shooting this morning. Cameron is still at large, and the city, provincial and mounted police are scouring the city, but as yet have no trace of the murderer.

The first shooting took place near the home of Mrs. Lewis, in the northeast end of the city, where the two men and a third man named "Curley"
 had gone at seven in the morning, after a poker game.

When they got out of the automobile Cameron, who was the loser, shot Zaphler twice and took $665 and a diamond ring from him, according to the ante-mortem statement. Then he compelled the automobile driver to rush him back to the city. He took refuge in the Northern Hotel, and at 10 in the morning he fatally shot Bee-vers, who was guarding the lane at the rear of the hotel. Two shots were fired at Beevers, one taking effect in the stomach and the other in the breast. Cameron made a clean getaway, and though the police were close behind he managed to elude them.

 A Canadian corporal on furlough
 in Chattanooga lately was asked:
 "What does a soldier think as he bay-though he were sticking a knife into hot butter."

 delegates held at Budapest recently, Deputy Deskinaki, a Pole, openly announced that he was in favor of the establishment of a Bohemian republic, with Professor Ernest Denin, of Par-

The majority, however, favored a monarchy, headed by Prince Maximilian of Hohenberg, son of Archduke

 tion at Sarajevo, in June, 1914 gave rise to the ultimatum to Serbia, which resulted in the outbreak of the war.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

RAMPANT IN INDIA.

BOMBAY, India, Oct. 23. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—Deaths from influenza on Saturday, October 5, were 768, the highest in the history of Bombay. Lower Caste Hindus, Mohammedans and Jews were the chief sufferers. Deaths during the week to October 6, were 4,844 as compared with 3,205 in the previous week. The migration of country continues, although the epidemic is rampant elsewhere throughout the presidency of Bombay.

ALSO IN SOUTH AFRICA.

CAPE TOWN, Oct. 23. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The influenza epidemic is diminishing here in the larger towns, but there are serious local outbreaks throughout the country. The death toll, in Johannesburg last week, was six hundred, and in the Kimberley district four thousand, of which six hundred were Europeans.

ANOTHER V. C.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Victoria Cross has been awarded to Corporal David Hunter, whose exploit is mentioned in General Haig's communication of September 29. The official story of his exploit concludes: "Foodless and waterless he held on to his post over 48 hours, and not only withstood constant attacks, but had also to undergo the enemy and our own barrage fire, which came right across his post. The outstanding bravery, determination, fortitude and endurance of Corporal Hunter are beyond all praise and he set a magnificent example to all."

COMPARISON OF MARINE LOSSES.

LONDON, Oct. 23. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The British Admiralty announces that British merchant tonnage losses during September, totalled 150,000 gross tons. Allied and neutral, combined, 85,000, an aggregate which constitutes the lowest monthly sinkings since August 1916, and is below that year's monthly averages. The total losses, for the three months ending September, are 893,000 tons, compared with 964,000 in the preceding quarter, and a million and a half in the corresponding quarter of last year. The sailings of steamships, exceeding five hundred tons gross, between the United Kingdom and foreign ports, excluding the cross channel traffic was seven and a half million tons in September.

FOOD SAVING IN INDIA.

LONDON, Oct. 23. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The Government of India has stopped all wheat purchases for export, except for Mesopotamia.

WHAT WAS THOUGHT.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—In the House of Commons, replying to Mr. Johnson Hicks, James J. Hope stated that the Government informed Austria that the sternest reprisals would immediately be taken if British airmen were put to death for dropping leaflets on the enemy (cheers). Replying to David Davies, the Right Hon. Andrew Bonar Law stated that the statements made by Lord Milner, in the interview cabled on October 17, were made on his own responsibility. Replying to Mr. G. C. Ross in the British House of Commons, the Right Hon. E. S. Montagu, Under Secretary for India, stated that General Allenby's force included over a hundred thousand Indian troops and accounts testified to the courage, discipline and endurance of all ranks.

MORE HUN DEVILEY.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—In the House of Commons, R. P. Houston affirmed that the sinking of the steamship "Penland Range" was due to a bomb placed aboard by an enemy agent at Buenos Aires, and that the fire aboard the Danish steamer Fiona, loaded with hessian bags for the British Commissioner of White Star Line, was due to incendiaries. The Right Hon. T. J. MacNamara, affirmed that enquiries supported both suggestions.

THE WAY TO VICTORY.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The text of the British official communication of to-night, in part, is as follows:—The attack this morning was delivered by Anglo-Scottish troops of the Third and Fourth Armies between the Sambre Canal and the River Scheldt. South of Valenciennes an advance was made over country that was difficult, over many streams and through villages and woods, which were defended with much resolution. During the morning we pressed on over the whole of the front, carrying the enemy's positions to a depth of over three miles, driving him from many strongly defended villages, farms, woods and other localities, organized for resistance. In these highly successful operations several thousand prisoners and many guns were captured by our troops, whose advance is continuing on the whole of the front.

THE GUN'S ANSWER.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—The War Office statement of operations on the Western front, issued to-night, records great artillery activity and gain of ground on the Oise front. One hundred and fifty prisoners were captured. Stubborn fighting during the day on the Serre-Souche front, favoured the French between Oley and Grandpre, Themoille and Beaufrepaire, and prisoners were captured. In Flanders, Waereghen was occupied, and two hundred prisoners taken.

NOON.

WILL NOT ACCEPT GERMANY'S WORD.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Approval of President Wilson's reply to the last German note was varied everywhere among officials, who declared that the note demanded the surrender upon which America and the Allies insist, and at the same time, held up to the German people a picture of their situation in a way likely to hasten their rise to throw out the Kaiser and his War Lords completely. In Congress the expressions of leaders indicated a divided opinion.

STRAPING THE HUN.

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 23. (By the A.P.)—The British have taken more than six thousand prisoners and many guns in their new attack which began yesterday morning on the front below Valenciennes.

TWO PRESS OPINIONS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Owing to the lateness of the hour at which the President's reply to Germany was issued last night, most of the morning newspapers restrict themselves to a hurried analysis of the note. The Herald says that leaving all questions of an armistice in the hands of the military commanders means that "Germany is not going to be allowed to withdraw her troops in safety from France and Belgium, to be reformed at the German frontier as a wall of safety, and to act as Prussianism's loaded dice at a peace table. In this, as in his plain notice to Prussianism that it must surrender, the President accurately and clearly voices the demand of the Am-the A.P.)—British troops have reached virtually the whole Canal bank, north-east of Valenciennes. The Germans have broken down the banks, and opened the sluice gates northeast and southwest of the city, and have flooded vast stretches of the country in an effort to delay the British advance. The British, however, have fought their way into the city from the west, and there have been sharp encounters in the streets between patrols.

LATEST!

THE FEAR OF THE FUTURE.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from the Hague says, from all information available in Germany, there is a widespread dread of winter, and of daily and nightly air raids from the German airdromes in Belgium, which are now in the hands of the Allies, and it is indicated that such raids would produce internal results in Germany, quite different from the present symptoms of unrest.

DIVIDED OPINIONS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Approval of President Wilson's reply to the last German note was varied everywhere among officials, who declared that the note demanded the surrender upon which America and the Allies insist, and at the same time, held up to the German people a picture of their situation in a way likely to hasten their rise to throw out the Kaiser and his War Lords completely. INCREASING GAINS.
PARIS, Oct. 24.—Southeast of Escalton, French troops have crossed the Sambre Canal, east of Grand Verly, says the War Office statement to-day. The French maintained their gains east of the Canal in spite of strong German counter attacks. South of Mont Cornet, further to the east, the French have increased their gains, and north of Nizy Le Comte, along the Serre, there was lively fighting.

He asks that the confidence reposed in him in the day of success be continued.

THE EFFECT IN AUSTRIA.

BASEL, Oct. 23.—President Wilson's reply to Austria's note has had an overwhelming effect in Vienna, according to a despatch received from the Austrian capital. Not only was there a violent panic in financial circles but the note was considered in political quarters as being extremely humiliating for the dual monarchy.

Spanish "Flu."

Twenty cases of Spanish influenza
were reported in the city yesterday, and three deaths resulted from the disease, the victims being Mrs. Hagerly, Queen St., Mrs. Mills, McParlane St. and a woman whose name we could not ascertain. Eight patients were admitted to the Grenfell Hall hospital, where over 100 cases have been treated since opening. Seven men and twelve women were removed to the convalescent ward. The billiard and reading rooms of the institute have now been commandeered, and the restaurant is now being converted into a ward. Dr. Campbell, who is in attendance most of the time, speaks very highly of the nurses, most of whom are volunteers. Much credit is also due the first aid soldiers Boland, Brake, Whalen and Garland, who,
when Surgeon-Major Paterson called for volunteers immediately offered their services. Some 750 cases have been reported from all over the country, since the outbreak, and of these only 16 deaths have occurred. Six patients were released yesterday from the Grenfell Hall hospital, having fully recovered. Dr. Fraser received a message from Mr. W. W. Batrd, Campbellton, stating that 30 persons were ill there, presumably of the disease. Mr. R. Stone, J.P., wired asking that a doctor be sent to White Rock, T.B., as there was a bad case there. Whatever assistance can be rendered, will be given to both cases immediately.

Flash Disinfectant

Will kill the germs and prevent you from getting Spanish Influenza.

ships.

THE SERBS.

We must admit the Serbs, who have back so strong; their danfulness couage nothing
curbs, or side-
tracks, very long.
We thought the Serbs had looped
the loops, were done, for good and all; but they came back, with ringing whoops,
this most auspicious fall. They've undergone enough of we to read 'halfsodis in two, kerfummized by a brutal foe that never mercy know.
That foe believed all Serbs were candied who were not in their graves, that never, in their native land, would they be aught but slaves. The peoples everywhere believed that they with war were done; and this explains why men were peevish when speaking of the Hun. And then one morning brought the news. "The Serbs are coming back! They're sprinting, in their six league shoes, upon the Bulgar's track!
They prance along, with buoyant step,
upon the mountain road; they're loas-ed up with so much pep they threaten to explode!" Oh, gallant Serbs, you suffered much, first victims of the fry, and now it simply beats the Dutch, how you put up the hay! Oh, Serbs, they made you the excuse for this atrocious war, and now they wonder what the deuce they made that blunder for.

said farewell.

FENCE IMPROVEMENT—We wish to thank the Municipal Council for attending to the broken-down fence on the Southside Road, just above the trestle bridge. It has been re-built,
and now looks solid and substantial,
but the important thing is that no horses or children will now be able to fall over the bank, and perhaps become injured on the railway track below.

Not Generally Known!
 The average man or woman may think all WAR STANDARD FLOURS are alike. Such is not the case. The Canadian Government has decreed that Flour must not be milled ABOVE a certain standard. But there is nothing to prevent millers from milling BELOW that standard.

Ogilvie's
Standard Flour
 is milled to limit of Govt. requirements.
