A Trust Company as EXECUTOR

A TRUST Company as Executor affords the Estate for which it is acting all the advantages of the best private Executor with none of the weaknesses which are inseparable from individual Executorships.

In addition, there are many exclusive advantages possessed by a Trust Company which should be carefully considered by all intending Testators before appointing an Executor for the administration of their Estate.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED

communicate with the officers of this Company and they will explain the matter fully to you.

"BURNSIDE" Coal.

NOT something
"just as good."

Fire!

While the contents of our office in Cabot Building were completely destroyed by the fire which occurred on Sunday morning, we are glad to be in a position to resume business to-day as our price lists and other information relative to Safe Cabinets and Victor Safes as well as our other records which were contained in a Victor Safe are undamaged.

Your turn may come next. Are your Records Protected?

Record protection is bought for one day—"The Day of the Fire". A Safe that protects your records at that critical time is cheap, no matter how much you paid for it.

We can supply a size for every business of a known, scientifically-proven protection against fire and prices are down to 1915-16.

The Foundation of Good Cookery

Add a Spoonful of BOVRIL

It makes the whole dish more nourishing.

Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"If you are trying to insult me," she began.

"Insult you!" he raved. "Insult you—when I saw you with my own eyes—I saw you coming out of the theatre with him . . . He broke off choking."

There was a little silence, then—"I saw you—too," said Eva very quietly.

The hot colour rushed to his face. "You saw me . . . Well! and what if you did! I can explain what I was doing—it was the merest accident . . . The contempt in her eyes stung him."

"You don't believe me," he demanded savagely.

She did not answer, but her silence was eloquent.

"It was the merest accident," Philip said again agitatedly. "I went to dine with Featherstone, I told you—I'd no more idea than the dead that he knew Kitty Arlington—it appears they're second cousins or something. She's staying in town—and he'd promised to take her to a theatre—there was a ticket to spare and he asked me to use it. He never told me his cousin's name—I'd no more idea than the dead who she was till we met her. I couldn't back out then—it would have been too absurd . . . He stopped. Eva moved a little closer to the fire; she was shivering, but not with cold."

"There is no need to offer me any explanation. I have not asked you for any. I don't want any."

"You mean that you don't believe me?" he demanded stormily.

Again no answer.

"I've told you the simple truth," he rushed on. "There's no need to make a mystery of it. Ask Featherstone if you don't believe me—or Kitty herself."

"I'm not interested."

Could Not Eat

Constipation is caused by a torpid condition of the liver. Dosing with salts, castor oil, etc., to move the bowels, cannot afford more than temporary relief.

If you are to rid yourself of this ailment and the scores of annoying symptoms and diseases which come in its wake, it is necessary to get the liver right by such treatment as is suggested in this letter:

Mrs. Alvin Richards, R. R. No. 1, Seely's Bay, Ont., writes: "For two years I was afflicted with indigestion, and in the morning when I got up my breath was bad. I had a poor appetite, and just felt like eating certain foods. I used many different medicines as a laxative without benefit, and the doctor's medicine did not help me at all. Finally I tried Dr. Cass's Kidney-Liver Pills, and found them better than anything I had ever tried. I can highly recommend them to anyone troubled with constipation or kidney troubles."

far have forgotten himself as to strike a woman, and that woman his own wife.

He had always prided himself on his chivalry; he was afraid of the storm of passion that had swept away his self-control.

Eva was standing like a statue; the red mark made by his hand stood out accusingly against the marble white of her face; presently she moved in a queer, jerky way, almost as if she was walking in her sleep. She did not look at Philip; she reached the door and put her fingers on the handle; then she spoke in an odd, choked voice of finality:

"This—this—finishes—it . . ."

And then again: "This—this—finishes—it . . ."

She waited a moment, not in the least because she expected him to answer her, but because she could not believe that she would not wake up and find that this horror was only a nightmare creation of sleep; then she dragged the door open and walked across the dark hall to her own room.

She shut the door, but she did not look at it; she turned on every light and walked over to the looking-glass.

She stared at her reflection with dazed eyes—the pretty evening gown had been torn by Philip's ruthless hand, there was a bruise on her bare arm, and the red, angry mark of his hand on her face; her hair was a little dishevelled, and she mechanically raised a hand to straighten it.

For the moment she was only conscious of a dull sort of misery. Philip had struck her—he hated her so much that now he was not merely content with neglect and indifference—he had struck her.

For the first time in her life there was no softening in her heart towards him; for the first time in her life she did not try to make any excuses for him; it was irrevocable now, and final. Her own words, "This—finishes—it," summed up the only emotion in her heart.

She would stay with him no longer; she would put an end to this marriage that had been no marriage at all.

She had adored Philip with all the strength and energy of her being, but now she remembered nothing save what she had endured at his hands.

She found herself speaking aloud in the silence.

"If I stay I shall only suffer misery and shame and jealousy; if I go I shall suffer, too, but at least I shall keep my self-respect."

It sounded almost as if she were arguing with someone as she stood there, a tragic figure in the brilliantly-lit room.

She thought of her wedding day and the moment when she had trampled her dress underfoot; she should have gone then, she told herself wildly—she ought never to have set out on this impossible journey.

She walked away from the glass and sat down on the couch at the foot of the bed, clutching its sides with both hands as if to keep herself from falling.

The clock out in the hall struck one, and then half-past, but she did not move. She was chilled through and aching in every limb, but she was not conscious of it.

Presently she closed her eyes giddily; there was a throbbing pulse in her head that seemed to be driving her mad; she opened them again with a little moan of pain to find Philip standing beside her.

He was as white as a ghost, with contracted brows and miserable eyes. (To be continued.)

Stafford's COD LIVER OIL Compound TONIC and TISSUE BUILDER

This combination possesses the curative properties of cod liver oil with the activity of the latter's disagreeable features, as well as the medicinal virtues of the other standard remedies that enter into its composition. It is palatable, effective, and does not, even in the most delicate, produce stomach disturbances, and other bad after-effects that are such a drawback to the best action of cod liver oil in its crude state and many other disagreeable medicines.

Collins Makes New Proposal to Craig.

Suggests Common Policy and New Constitution—No Results in Papal Election Yet—Boer General De Wet Dead—Municipal Workers in Germany Strike.

CONFERENCE SUGGESTED.

LONDON, Feb. 5. Michael Collins' suggestion to President Craig of Ulster, for a conference of the representatives of the whole of Ireland, to adopt a common policy and a constitution, is the main outcome of the new deadlock in the Irish situation, but it is now too late to indicate whether any immediate development is likely to come. The Morning Post quotes Mr. Craig as saying, we will not go to appeal for help not only from the British, but throughout the world, if this attempt is persisted in, to drive our people unwillingly under the old British flag. The discussion is almost ended, the time for action arrived, and Mr. Craig's suggestion is the only one left. Instead of providing a settlement of the Irish question, it will revive the bitterest animosity of the two peoples of Ireland.

STILL NO ELECTION.

ROME, Feb. 5. Today's balloting for a new Pope was unsuccessful. Ballots were taken in the morning and again in the afternoon. Black smoke issuing from the Sistine Chapel indicated failure.

BORIS LOSE SUPPORTER.

LONDON, Feb. 5. Charles Jesson, member of parliament and an old Trade Union official, severed his connection with the Labor Party, declaring it consisted of four groups, each preaching a philosophy which, if successful, would destroy the other three. The Trade Union Congress group had been committed to a policy of nationalizing everything, but the Co-operative Trading Group declared nationalization must not be applied to them. Another group told the workers that all they need worry about was higher wages and shorter hours, and going slow to give other fellows a job. Workers should realize, Mr. Jesson added, that if labor saving machinery was properly used enough wealth could be produced to allow the workers two months' holidays every year and six-hour working days.

YOUTHFUL DELEGATES FOR REPUBLIC.

DUBLIN, Feb. 5. One hundred delegates, most of them youthful, representing Women's Sinn Féin organizations, re-affirmed their allegiance to the Irish Republic in a resolution to-day. They also called upon the women of Ireland to support at the coming election only candidates standing true to the Republic proclaimed in 1916, and asked them to join in reimposing the Belfast boycott unless prisoners in Northern jails for political offences are released forthwith.

DEWET IS DEAD.

BLOEMFONTEIN, Feb. 5. General Christian DeWet, commander-in-chief of the Boer forces in 1899, died at his home in Dewetdorp on Friday. He served in the first Anglo-Boer war of 1899-1901, and on the outbreak of the second war in 1899 was given an obscure command. He, however, succeeded General Cronje on the latter's surrender, and displayed considerable strategical ability in his operations against the British. After the outbreak of the world war, De Wet headed a rebellion in the Orange Free State, but his forces surrendered to General Louis Botha.

FURTHER STRIKES IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, Feb. 5. Tramway service and gas, water and electric supply here were completely paralyzed when municipal employees struck this morning. Even hospitals were without light and water.

OUTRAGES CONTINUE.

DUBLIN, Feb. 5. Michael Collins, Provisional President, has informed a delegation from Derry that the Provisional Government intends to establish an advisory committee to counsel on matters concerning Northeast Ulster. Outrages continue, including shootings and robberies. Two black and tan constables, Keershaw and Gouril, were shot dead in Clontarf County on Friday, and a farmer was killed by shots fired through the door of his home near Thurles.

SYDNEY, Feb. 5. The Dominion Coal Company announced that they will accept the Gillen award on wages if the men do so by February 15th.

BORDEN ON THE CONFERENCE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. The greatest accomplishment of the Armament Conference here has been its educative influence. This is the opinion of Sir Robert Borden, the Canadian delegate, expressed to the Canadian Press to-day. While the practical results have been notable, they are, Sir Robert Borden said, of "less vital significance than the educative influence such conference is bound to exercise upon the participating nations." Canada and the United States were both rejoicing to-day that their 4000 miles of interboundary was unarmored. Sir Robert said. Civilizations in the past rose and fell, and though we assumed our own stable, there was no guarantee of this. In fact the recent war had shown that we were possessed of instruments of incredible devastating power. To preserve the progress for which mankind has painfully toiled and assure a vaster advance along the road of freedom, justice and equal opportunity, we must find some efficient means by which the public right shall be enthroned and the peace of the world maintained. "There Is No Limit To The Recommendation I Would Give Tanlac," Declares Montreal Citizen.

Had Not Been Able To Enjoy A Meal For Three Years Because Of Indigestion—Troubles Quickly Ended.

"If there is such a thing as a man getting a new lease on life, Tanlac has given me one. There is absolutely no limit to the recommendation I would like to give this medicine," said Wilfred Doucher, who runs a garage and automobile repair shop at 92 Rivard St., Montreal, Que.

"About three years ago my stomach began to trouble me and from that time up until recently, that is, until I had been taking Tanlac for a short time, I never knew what it was to eat a meal and enjoy it. My back hurt me, too, so bad at times that if I bent over to pick up a wrench I would suffer agony."

"If Tanlac had made me over from head to foot I couldn't be more like a new man than I am. I eat anything, sleep like a top all night long, get up in the morning feeling just fine, do a big day's work and never have a sign of backache."

NOTE—Tanic Vegetable Pills are an essential and vitally important part of the Tanlac treatment. You cannot hope to get the most satisfactory results from Tanlac without first establishing a free and regular movement of the bowels. Tanlac Vegetable Pills are absolutely free from calomel and are sold on a positive guarantee to give satisfaction. Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

rect international consultation must be formed and this has been one of the best lessons of the recent conference, said Sir Robert. From the first to last the spirit has been as admirable as the results have been memorable.

Prize Winners.

IN LITTLE BAY CHURCH LOTTERY

The drawing of the Prizes took place in the Masonic Hall at Little Bay, Jan. 19th. All the Citizens were cordially invited to witness the drawing. When all were assembled the Pastor, Rev. F. J. Pumphrey explained the method of drawing, which was as follows:—All the stubs of tickets sold were placed in a large box, and corresponding number of blanks, with the exception of three, which were marked, 1st. Prize Motor Boat, 2nd. Prize Sovereign, and 3rd. Prize half Sovereign were placed in another. The Committee selected consisting of eight prominent gentlemen were told off in pairs, who were to draw simultaneously from the boxes for a period of 15 minutes, and the number drawn from stub box at the same time that the ticket in blank box with 1st, or 3rd, prize written on it was declared the Winner.

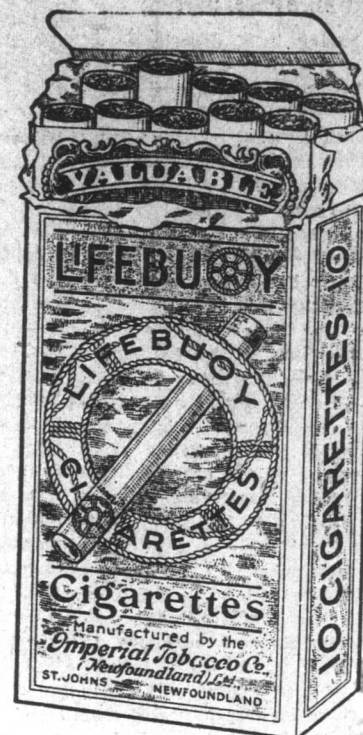

The drawing commenced at 9.35. The first two gentlemen told off were Richard F. Bouzard and Frederick Wagner, after drawing for 15 minutes they were unsuccessful, now being relieved by Michael Bouzard and Donald Turner, who were equally unsuccessful. They were followed by Frederick Wells and Michael Thomas, who shared the same fate as their predecessors, as one remarked "the boat must be broke down, for they did not even hear the exhaust," by this time there were about 400 tickets drawn. The next two were Mr. P. Burke and Const. John Dewling, after about 5 minutes drawing Mr. Burke brought up ticket marked 3rd. prize, Mr. Dewling drawing No. 494, J. Tuer, Little Bay. Two minutes later, 1st. prize, Motor Boat was drawn, No. 312, George Embury, Little Bay. Just at the expiration of these two gentlemen's period of 15 minutes, 2nd. prize, Sovereign was drawn, No. 709, Lawrence Cooney, Bishop's Falls. This brought the drawing to a close. The reverend Pastor in a few well chosen words thanked those who so kindly assisted him in the drawing, and after congratulating the fortunate winners, the younger folk participated in a dance until the wee hours of the morning.—COM.

RECOGNITION.

The care of the teeth is now recognized as a necessity. In fact the large hospitals all over the world examine the patients' teeth and where it is possible put them in good condition before attempting a surgical operation. Experience has shown that the patient has a better chance for recovery with a clean healthy mouth than without it. This ought to convince the most skeptical that care of the teeth is requisite to health.

COAL.

Is there any quantity of coal in Newfoundland worth developing in order to discover the actual quantity that may be available for immediate consumption for domestic purposes, if for no other? That question is actually answered by the advertisements of the two principal Companies, holding areas alleged to contain coal deposits in paying quantities which have been appearing in the local press from day to day. These two concerns, whose directors appear to have any amount of confidence in the stated coal bearing areas of the West Coast as per prospectus of each, are the St. George's Coal Fields Limited, and the Little River Coal Mining Company Limited. According to advertisement both these local corporations have it that there are unlimited areas of bituminous fuel as yet undeveloped and unexplored in the Western Section of this island. So prone has been the belief of the promoters in this direction, that they have not hesitated to buttress their knowledge by the issuance of stock certificates in aid of the development of the regions about which they claim there is an incalculable complement of that so necessary article to the progress of industry both in a domestic and productive aspect, and they back up their prospectus' assertions by freely quoting from every geological survey that has been conducted in Newfoundland since this science was introduced in the country. People have taken these reports and the statements of the prospectuses at face value, and so many of them as could afford it invested—and may yet invest—in the capital stock shares. It will be a good thing for the public if the coal as reported becomes marketable. It will be finer still if they have their investments returned plus substantial dividends. And it is those people who, accept the report of surveyors in the employ of the various companies, and put their money in stock, having in view the idea that they are going to receive cent per cent of their investment, who are the real pioneers of industry. They actually have faith in the resources of the country and by their readiness to purchase stock, show that they are ready and willing to back up their belief with their capital. Being so then, and all things being equal, is it not time that something was done in the way of development—apart from the prospectus sheet idea—in order that those who initially had confidence and faith in the prospect may get some return from their investment. Invested money which turns over nothing to the holder of stock certificates cannot be said to be in circulation, in so far as it is of benefit to the man or woman who possesses hopes of increasing their stock purchases. They hold the shares only and hearken to tales of future wealth, which will be long in coming if some progress and practical knowledge is not developed along with the coal.

The New Pontiff.

BRIEF BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF THE SUCCESSOR TO THE THRONE OF ST. PETER.

The following brief description of the new Pontiff, whose election was announced this morning in the foreign press despatch, with the title of Pius XI, has been given by the Telegram by Rev. Dr. Greene, Archbishop Ratti of Milan now His Holiness Pope Pius XI, was made a Cardinal in June last, and now has been elevated to the chair of St. Peter, at the age of 65.

Whilst Rome has been giving proof of its Catholicity this week on the occasion of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Society "Giovine Cattolica Italiana," Milan showed, on September 8, that she was not behind the Eternal City in giving similar proof on the occasion of the entrance into the "historic city" of the "Manchester of Italy," of its new Archbishop, Cardinal Achille Ratti. For the first time after one hundred and twenty years, the Archbishop of Milan is a Milanese, and by one who knows how the people of the city cling tenaciously to their traditions and dialect and boast that Milan, if not in name, at least in reality, is the capital of Italy and that Milanese should be the official language of the peninsula, the reception given to Cardinal Ratti may be considered.

First of all the selection of the Cardinal met with a warm reception from the Milanese clergy and laity, and his intellectual prestige caused him to be greeted by those who work in opposite camps. The seventy he brought into the discussions which some years ago divided the minds of the Milanese clergy is well remembered. To-day the disputes between the followers of Rosmini and the partisans of Saint Thomas have passed to history. The new Archbishop made his studies in the diocesan seminaries and completed them in Rome, and thus his doctrine was taken from the purest sources; in the contracts which he had with colleagues in the priesthood, he gave proof of an intellectual calmness that was not common. In his devotion to the Holy See the Cardinal has shown himself second to none, for his obedience has always been unconditional. Very many know that on April 25, 1918, when the war was at its height, the Holy Father had destined him as Visitor of Poland and that this came as a kind of blow to the Prefect of the "Vaticana." It was a great sacrifice for him to leave his studies and favourite researches to undertake a journey of an exceedingly delicate nature whilst the roar of the cannon was heard on all sides; but his Holiness had appealed to him, and it was not for him to reason why. He left at once, taking with him a few valises and the necessary linen; his trunk had to follow him. He visited became Nuncio Apostolic at Warsaw, and came back to Italy as the predecessor of His Excellency Mr. Odescalchi, who from the Nunciature of Poland came to be Archbishop of the northern city.

One touching incident must be recorded; before leaving for Poland Mr. Ratti came to Milan to ask for the blessing of Cardinal Ferrari, of whose touching death people read in all Christendom some months ago. Little did the future Archbishop imagine then that he would succeed the Cardinal in the Archdiocese.

At His Native Place.

Wednesday, the 7th., was a day of deep emotion for Cardinal Ratti, for he was at the little town of Desio, quite near Milan, and there in the church he recalled before a large crowd his birth and the years of his infancy in the little town; all were moved on the occasion, and at the end of his discourse he was applauded with loud clapping of hands.

Enthusiasm in Milan.

But all this was nothing compared to the welcome the Archbishop received in Milan itself; it was a veritable triumph; so many flowers were thrown down on the Cardinal's motor car that it was completely covered; almost all the regiments lined the streets in their best uniforms; even an aeroplane flew over the heads of the people. Such was the crowd of ecclesiastical, civil and military authorities who surrounded Cardinal Ratti in the Piazza del Duomo that it took more than ten minutes for this simple function alone, not to mention his musical talent, excelled itself on this occasion; there was a special service of six voices with the title "In Nascenti" specially written for the occasion.

Tribute to the Holy Father

The words of the Archbishop in the Cathedral of Milan to his enthusiastic parishioners must not be omitted, full as they are of admiration for the Papacy: "The Pope," said the Cardinal, "is for us Italians the most tender and sincere friend of Italy, for whom he has just now prayed, saluting her as the cradle of all that makes for civilisation. It is above all being abroad that one sees and touches with one's hand up to what point the Pope is the greatest ornament of Italy. For him all the millions of Catholics who are in the world turn to Italy as to a second home, for him Rome is truly the capital of the world, and one must close one's eyes to evidence not to see at least in the present turning of all states to the Pope—not to see, I say, what prestige from his presence."

The Roman Press is full of accounts of the celebrations at Milan, and special attention is directed in the Liberal papers to the brief phrases of a political character contained in the Cardinal's words. The reference to the relations between Italy and the Vatican is interpreted as the proof that one continues in high ecclesiastical spheres to insist on the necessity of regulating those relations by a new arrangement of an international kind.

The New Pontiff

Is famous as an Alpinist and has the distinction of having been the first to climb to the summit of the Zambstein peak. This feat remains a classic accomplishment of Italian Alpine climbing and was described by Monsignor Ratti himself in the Bulletin of the Italian Alpine Club for 1889, the year in which he made the dangerous ascent. Cardinal Ratti is now sixty-five years old, but his health and strength are still vigorous as the result of his early exercises as one of Italy's foremost Alpine voyagers.

Twenty Years Ago To-Day.

(Evening Telegram, Feb. 6th, 1902.) Miss "Bride Jordan" produced Augustin Daly's famous society drama "Picnic" at St. Patrick's Hall. Mr. T. H. O'Neill had the leading male part. Amongst the others taking part were Mr. J. Baxter as Dr. Gosset, H. Morrissey, M. Donnelly and P. W. Jordan. The census of St. John's just completed showed an increase of 3,966 over that of the count of 1902.

Clonel Byng's column routed a force of the enemy under Commandant Wessels and captured DeWet's last gun. The title of Honorary Chief was conferred upon Governor-General of Canada, Lord Minto by the Huron Indians.

Sir R. A. Squires at Wesley Bible Class.

Yesterday afternoon Sir R. A. Squires gave a very interesting and inspiring address to the Wesley Bible Class on the subject of "Temperance and Prohibition." The Class Room was filled to its utmost capacity many visitors being present. The address was listened to with rapt attention. The speaker showed that although prohibition was not what it should be, yet there had been wonderful results. He quoted the imports of liquor into the country since 1913, and showed that in the case of some brands the importations amounted to one fifth of the total as compared with what it was before the Prohibition Act was placed on the Statute. He stated that efforts were being made to have the law better observed, and in this connection the police force has been considerably augmented, and several new stations opened.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME. Doors open at 6.30 sharp. Please do not smoke during the game or intervals.

To Consider Relief Works.

The men who are engaged on the various relief works are meeting to-night in the C.C.C. Hall when matters of much concern will be discussed. It is understood that the work provided is limited, and means to have it distributed to the most needy will be considered.

Portia Arrives.

S.S. Portia arrived from the Westward at 1.30 p.m. yesterday after making good time on the way down. The ship called at Bay Bulls yesterday morning and took on board the mails and a number of passengers. The following arrived by the ship—Misses, Sheas, Grant, Sullivan, Freebairn and Cashin (2), C. Gibbons, J. Morris, A. O'Leary, M. O'Neill, M. Lawlor, J. Smith, A. Hearn, J. Williams, Dr. Whalen and Rev. Fr. Coady. The Portia sails West again on Wednesday.

Barely in Time.

You'll just have time after reading this to phone The Royal Stationery Co. for tickets for Miss Theresa Power's Recital in the Methodist College Hall to-night. In case you should be too late to do this, you can of course purchase them at the ticket office just before the entertainment starts.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of the late Charles Andrews took place from Monroe Street yesterday afternoon. A large number of citizens attended, and also the S.O. E. of which the deceased was a member. Interment took place at the C. of E. Cemetery, Rev. Canon Field officiating at the grave side. The funeral arrangements were looked after by undertaker Collier.

The Political Situation.

Rumours have been rife to-day concerning the Chamber Proposition which is generally believed to have been considered by the Executive Council on Saturday. It is stated that some modification has been made in the demands of the promoters, and it is further said that the Prime Minister has given his decision in favour of the project. Other reports say that the question will be referred to a plebiscite. It is thought that the House will open on March 1st.

Singers to Be Heard in Popular Numbers.

The selections to be sung by Miss Ruth Chase and Mr. George Dale at the Nickel to-night are such as will appeal to everyone. Miss Chase will sing "Pierrette's Song" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," whilst Mr. Dale will be heard in two Scotch numbers "The Pipes of Gordon's Men" and "Annie Laurie."

Oliver Tell starring in "Love Without Question," adapted from the book "The Abandoned Room," by C. Wadsworth Camp is the feature attraction to-night. This picture has been produced by B. A. Rolfe for Jans Pictures, Inc.

Silas Blackburn has been found mysteriously murdered in the abandoned room with both doors and windows locked from the inside. His ward, Katherine and his grandson Robert are suspected as circumstances point to them as the guilty parties. The solving of the mystery supplies the screen with the most absorbing drama seen for some time. The supporting casts consists of James Morrison, Mario Majorani, Ivo Dawson, Charles Mackay, Gordon Hamilton, Peggy Parr, George Stevens, and Floyd Buckley.

A Prophecy That Came True.

The New York Times of Jan. 24th had an interesting article dealing with the probable successor of Pope Benedict XIV. It gave a rather remarkable forecast of what would take place at the balloting. In speaking of the newly elected Pontiff Cardinal Ratti, Archbishop of Milan, the article says he is a prominent and likeable candidate. He discharged delicate duties successfully in Poland when the Polish question became acute, and for his services received the Cardinal's hat. The Archbishop of Milan is the most important in all Italy. Cardinal Ratti is well versed in political and commercial subjects, and is broad minded. He has liberal tendencies, but probably not so pronounced as Cardinal Ratti. He is noted for his liberality, and this is likely to advance the cause of conciliation.

Sovereign Pontiff Elected Archbishop of Milan Receives the Triple Tiara.

ROME, Feb. 6.

Cardinal Achille Ratti, Archbishop of Milan, was proclaimed elected Pope in succession to the late Benedict XV. this morning. He has taken the name of Pius XI. Thousands waiting in front of St. Peter's for the wisp of smoke which would tell of the election of a new Pope or the failure of the Sacred College to reach a decision, gave a mighty shout at 11.33 o'clock, when a wisp of smoke came from the chimney leading from the Sistine Chapel. It was then known that the Catholic Church had once more a duly elected Pontiff.

LONG LIVE PIUS XI.

ROME, Feb. 6.

As soon as the two-thirds vote for Cardinal Ratti had been verified, Cardinal Vannutelli, as Dean of the Sacred College, arose and proceeded to the throne of the chosen one. He was asked in Latin if he accepted the election to be the supreme Pontiff, and answered with the formal speech "Since it is the will of God, I must obey." The purple canopies of the thrones of the Cardinals were let down, one by one, until only that over the new Pontiff remained. This was done to show that the whole Sacred College rendered obedience to the new head of the church. Dean Vannutelli thereupon asked the new Pontiff what name he chose to take and upon his reply, "Pius XI," the Secretary of the Conclave, Monsignor Sincero, verified his election. The new Pope was then escorted to an anteroom within the Sistine Chapel where he discarded his Cardinal's robes, assisted by Conclavists, and the papal vestments were placed upon him. These included a white cassock, white sash, white stockings, red slippers, red and gold mozzetta and finally a stole of red, worked with gold. The Pontiff thereupon returned to the throne he had occupied in the Sistine Chapel, and there the Cardinals, according to their rank, made their first act of adoration to His Holiness, kissing his feet and then his hands, after which the Pope received them, embraced them, and bestowed upon them his first apostolic benediction. The "Fishermen's Ring" was then placed on his finger, and he left the Chapel. Meanwhile the Dean of the Cardinals, Sincero, followed by several Cardinals repaired to the central chapel of St. Peter's, from which elections of scores of Popes have been officially proclaimed to the world, and solemnly announced to the awaiting crowd below. "I announce to your great joy the election of a Pontiff," Pope Pius XI, after waiting for some minutes, accompanied by members of the Sacred College came forth, and raised his hand and bestowed upon the multitude his first public benediction. Then he returned to the Vatican, where all reigning Popes remain until their death.

The fire although destroying a large quantity of literature did not affect the important documents and papers of the Company, as they were locked up in a safe that proved fire proof. It is understood that the office furniture, fixtures, etc., were covered by insurances.

A Hurried Funeral.

Several complaints have been made to-day concerning the manner in which the funeral of ex-Forester Thos. Young was conducted yesterday. The funeral was advertised to take place at 11 a.m. to the Railway Station, and when G.W.V.A. representatives arrived to take part, at 10.50 a.m., they found the body had been taken to the station and had been followed by a cortege of three. The reason given was that the baggage car would be filled with freight if the body were not brought earlier. As a matter of fact, the car was not half filled at 11.30 a.m.

Co-Operative Marketing

In the course of an opening address, the National Convention of Farmers, recently held at Washington, President Harding used the following words as per N.Y. Times report, which are as applicable here as in the United States, if for "farmer" you substitute "fisherman":

"The co-operative marketing associations of Europe have been effective in uniting action by farmers to increase production and marketing, which have contributed to the stabilization and prosperity of agriculture."

When we examine the co-operative marketing of Russia, now recognized as the most potent support in a disturbed country for orderly agriculture, we turn to the great co-operative marketing associations of the United States, which have strengthened the cultural industries; when we examine the co-operative marketing of Ireland and Denmark or the organizations which handle the products of Maine, or the canneries of Colorado; whether we compare these organizations as means to the farmer's requirements in the market or to selling his products in a more remunerative one, the conclusion is in all cases the same.

That the farmer is as good a business man as any other man when he has the chance; that he is capable of organization, co-operation and co-ordination; that he will apply sound business methods, whenever he has the chance; that his credit can be established, his particular capital on terms suited to requirements can be met; that, when things accomplished, he ceases to be an underpaid laborer, an unpaid apprentice, and a capitalist with an unproductive investment.

It cannot be too strongly urged that the farmer must be ready to help himself. This conference would do nothing good if it would find a way to impress the great mass of farmers to avail themselves of the methods. By this I mean that, the last analysis, legislation can do more than give the farmer the chance to organize and help himself.

The co-operative marketing of farm products are asking for, and it is possible to afford them, the provision of law under which they may carry on in co-operative business operations. These things are not done for them, but we can give them the chance to do them for themselves. It would be better to demonstrate their readiness and willingness and ability to do such instrumentalities. There is need for wide dissemination of information and understanding of method and for development of what I call the spirit and purpose of co-operation. The various excellent efforts of farmers, which are reported here, have a responsibility in regard. They have already much, but they have much more. If the American farmer shall be able most effectively to help himself through organization and co-operation.

When we shall have done this, farmers must become responsible for the rest. They must learn organization, and the practical process of co-operation. These things cannot do for them, but we can give them the chance to do them for themselves. It would be better to demonstrate their readiness and willingness and ability to do such instrumentalities. There is need for wide dissemination of information and understanding of method and for development of what I call the spirit and purpose of co-operation. The various excellent efforts of farmers, which are reported here, have a responsibility in regard. They have already much, but they have much more. If the American farmer shall be able most effectively to help himself through organization and co-operation.

One of the most serious obstacles to proper balancing of agricultural production lies in the lack of essential information. All too frequently such information is gathered by private means rather than the general good. Culture cannot thrive under conditions which permit the speculator, the broker, the forestaller, because of the information to become chief factors. The element of speculation in crop production is at best so small as to dictate that other speculative elements, always liable to be pointed to the disadvantage of the producer, shall be reduced to the minimum.

With proper financial support for culture and with instrumentalities for the collection and dissemination of useful information, a group of co-operative marketing organizations would be able to advise their members as to the probable essential staples, and to propose measures for proper limitation of acreage in such crops. The certainty that scientific distribution of products was to be observed would then the credit of agriculture increase the security of which such advances could be made of.

THE SILLY THINGS WE'RE PROUD OF.

Could anything, when you stop to think of it, be more amusing than the things people take pride in?

I was reminded of that fact when a relative of a friend of mine came home from the holidays from the very big city where he now lives. And the air of superiority that man puts on simply because he is a resident of one of the largest cities in the world would have been annoying if they had not been so funny. He didn't build that city nor even one house in it. He doesn't own a scrap of ground there. His only contribution to its size is in the fact that he is one of the five millions. I have an idea that the part he plays in business is exceedingly modest. And yet he feels superior to everyone in our town because he lives in a city that could, as he expresses it, put ours in its pocket and never know it was there.

A Better Place to Live!

Granted that a big city is a better place to live than a small one (which I don't grant) even so, there is nothing to feel superior about because one's business happens to carry one there.

Here's another. Because one pronounces words a little differently than one's neighbor. A woman I know looks down on all her neighbors in a new home because they pronounce "laugh," and allied words "laif," while she pronounces them "laif" with a very long A.

Why She Does It—

And yet another woman I know, who is a second cousin, or thereabouts, of a family with considerable money looks down upon everyone with less money than this family for that reason. Yet she herself is in modest circumstances and the family in other ways is nothing to be proud of.

Did you ever try to think what are the things we really have a right to be proud of?

As a natural corollary to the above line of thought I made that attempt. And this is the way it worked out in my mind.

What Can We Be Proud Of?

Good birth? No, because we had nothing to do with selecting our parents. That is something to be very glad of, and to be proud of in the sense of trying to live up to it, but not be proud of in the personal sense.

Good looks? Did we make ourselves? Brains? Ditto. When you boil the whole thing down, it seems to me that the one big thing we have a right to be proud of is of having made the best of whatever equipment we were endowed with. In other words, we did not deal the cards but we do play the hand, and if we play it the best it can be played, we have done all there is to do and have real reason for pride.

THE GOOD WORKER.

Jim Jimpson's shoeing horses, and he's a skillful scout, and every one admires the work he's turning out. No loafing with his cronies, discussing ancient news, while there are limping ponies that stand in need of shoes. Some smiths have feet so chilly! They say their trade is dead; the autos knocked it silly and laid it in its bed. They go around complaining, they sadly gnash their hair, and wring their teeth, disdaining all goods but black despair. But Jimpson swings his hammer, and piles his rasp and file, and makes no doleful clamor, but wears a pleasant smile. The outlook may seem phony for such a trade as his, but some one brings a pony, and still he keeps his biz. And some one brings a trotter, and some one brings a mule; and Jim, who's not a rotter, brings forth his shoeing tool; and some one brings a pacer, and some one brings a mare; Jim's business is a facer for smiths who talk despair. There aren't many horses in this fair land of ours; they're lying where the horse is, beneath the cauliflowers. The hanks and other busses have knocked them all abeam, and now the farmer cusses a tractor; not a team. The trade the smith's pursuing may not forever thrive, but Jim will keep on shoeing while there are nags alive.

Patient Arrives.

By the S.S. Daisy which arrived in port on Saturday night, a resident of Western Bay named Joseph Crumay was brought along for admittance to the General Hospital. On Friday last whilst the man was returning from the woods his slide, with its load, fell on him and fractured his leg in several places. After emergency treatment the patient was ordered to Hospital.

Mrs. W. Furness, Hillsdale, Sask., writes:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Linseed & Turpentine with great benefit for my little boy, age three years. He was very sick with croup, so I sent for a large bottle of Dr. Chase's Linseed & Turpentine. The first few doses greatly eased the choking feeling, so I continued to give it to him, and before the first bottle was finished he was quite well again. I also have three other boys, all of them subject to croup, and I never give them anything except Dr. Chase's Linseed & Turpentine. I always keep a bottle in the house and would not be without it as we live so far from town and croup or cold come on so suddenly."

Co-Operative Marketing
vs. Nationalization.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Recently, the Advocate said:—"The Newfoundland fisheries will never give an adequate return until a co-operative scheme of some sort is evolved, under which shipments could be controlled and 'right sales' be compulsory." It is pleasant to find myself in agreement with the Advocate to any extent upon this matter. I agree with what has been said above down to the word "scheme," and disagree with the words that follow it, as I understand them. The words, "of some sort," I read to mean "of any sort," and there is only one sort of co-operation which would be proper; namely, "profit-sharing co-operation" by fishermen and merchants. This is not the sort of co-operation which is presented by the Union Trading Co. and Union Export Co., or the so-called co-operation by Fishery Regulations imposed upon exporters. By "outright sales" the Advocate means, I suppose, the system which was introduced by the Fishery Regulations under which the proposing buyer and seller had to agree, before shipment, a portion of the price was paid by draft against documents, and a portion remained to be paid after delivery, which was to take place in the foreign market. As I have pointed out, these so-called "outright sales" were not sales, but agreements to sell; the sale itself not taking place until delivery abroad, if ever, and the seller being subject to reclamations for bad quality if the buyer received the fish. I have before me a paper upon "The fundamental principles of Co-operation," by G. Harold Powell, General Manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, and formerly an official of the United States Government. The paper is published by the College of Agriculture of the University of California, and, therefore, is of the very highest authority. I shall quote from it freely.

PRODUCERS EXCLUSIVELY.

Mr. Powell says:—"To be co-operative an association must be formed of producers exclusively, and managed by them in proportion to the patronage of each. . . . Wherever the 'interest' or the dividends are considered as a profit, the association is 'primarily a capitalist,' and not a 'co-operative organization.' There is an essential difference between a 'Co-operative Organization' and a 'Capital Stock Corporation' earning 'for profit' . . . A Capital Stock Corporation for profit is founded on the 'earning capacity of the capital' invested. In a Co-operative Organization the earnings or profits are returned proportionately to the volume of their delivery to the association 'by its members' . . . There is much confusion in the use of the term 'Co-operative'; it is commonly applied to 'any group who are assembled for business purposes' . . . Stock Corporation for profit is not a desirable form under which to incorporate. . . . Persons who contribute capital alone should never be admitted to membership of a co-operative organization. 'Because any organization represents power—and the larger the organization the greater its power. Its great danger lies in becoming involved in political affairs, and in movements which, though worthy in themselves, have nothing to do with its primary purposes and can only lead to a divided membership and factional control with ultimate disruption. The severest test put upon the manager, therefore, will probably be that of holding the organization to its primary purposes and he must be fearless of criticism in maintaining this policy.'"

CAPITALIST ORGANIZATIONS.

The Union Trading Co., Ltd., and the Union Export Co., Ltd., are capitalist organizations; that is to say, they have their capital divided into shares, any number of which may be held by any member of the P.F.U. The returns they make to the shareholders are by way of dividends. Their profits, if any, from time to time, are made, in the case of the Trading Co., by the sale of goods, and in the case of the Export Co., by the purchase of fish at home and its sale abroad; and the profits of both Companies, when divided into dividends, are paid to shareholders, who may never have contributed in any manner whatever to the earnings, and not, as rebates or bonuses, to the persons who have purchased goods from the Trading Co. or have sold fish to the Export Co. Therefore, these Companies, by the tests supplied above by Mr. Powell, are not "co-operative" in any true sense of the word, and are contrary to sound principle.

SUBJECT TO PENALTIES.

By the way, I take this occasion to remind the Officers and Directors of the above named Companies that they have not filed the particulars for the years 1920 and 1921 required by the Companies' Act, and are subject to penalties for not doing so. In the case of Companies so large, it is of prime importance that these returns should be promptly filed. Upon perusing the particulars for 1919 in the office of the Registrar of Companies, I find that the Trading Company had issued 21,558 shares under 4,421 share certificates, and that the Export Co. had issued 5,594 Ordinary $10 shares un-quicker, after the transaction of an enormous amount of business last year at 1/2 cent per pound from the low point. Wholesale quotations in St. John's now is $10.25, as against $9.90 in mid-January, and is below the present cost basis for American white granulated. There is a revival of a strong feeling amongst the public that the duty on this article should be reduced.

Potatoes—There is no striking feature in the Potato situation. Very little were imported the past month, showing that consumers are well enough served by the home-grown. Local farmers are supplying the market whenever the weather permits, and prices are twenty to thirty cents per barrel higher than at Xmas. Good selected stock are now $3.80 to $4.00 brought to town, and $2.50 to $3.50 in the outports.

Hay—The market is firm and the local price is now $52.50 to $73.00, wholesale. There is none coming forward these days, owing to the embargo. There are very limited holdings in St. John's, and dealers say that the scarcity will certainly increase the price probably $1.00 to $1.50 additional, before the spring.

Oats—The oats market is little firmer, and the lowest point in quotations has evidently been passed. The S.S. "Sable 1" brought in 2,255 sacks in her last trip, which relieved the scarcity. The ice blockade has closed the narrows all the week, and both the oats and hay held in stock here will soon be absorbed. White Oats are still quoted at $3.80 and Mixed at $3.70 per sack, wholesale. If the ice embargo continues, oats will be dearer.

Llanerch Colliery Explosion.
On Thursday, February 6, 1890, 176 lives were lost by an explosion at the Llanerch Colliery, near Abersychan, in Monmouthshire, no such calamity having happened since the Clifton Hall explosion near Pendlebury, in Lancashire, on June 18, 1885 when 177 miners perished; and the Seaham explosion, near Sunderland, on September 8, 1830, when 164 lives were lost, though all these were surpassed by the Albion Colliery near Pontypriid, explosion, with 286 deaths, on June 3, 1894. The Llanerch Colliery, belonging to the Ebbw Vale Company, was one of the oldest in that district, and therefore any danger might be supposed to be well known; it was considered so safe that naked lights instead of wire-covered safety lamps, were habitually used. But about eighteen months previously, the pit had been lowered in order to obtain coal at deeper measures, and it had also been drained, so that it extended in some places to over 300 feet below the surface. Of the 300 or 400 persons employed over 200 were beneath on the occasion of the catastrophe, they having descended at seven o'clock in the morning. About an hour and a half later those round the mouth heard a terrific report, and a cage, or tram, used for going up and down—just then in the middle of the shaft, or narrow passage, down the mine (in this case, however, not perpendicular, but an inclined road)—was blown to the top of it by a fierce blast—thereby smashing the timber at the top, and throwing out of gear the wheels of the machinery, so that nearly two hours elapsed before they could be employed to lower another cage with persons to seek and help the unfortunate prisoners. One bankman who was near the mouth was blown over by this ascending blast, had his skull fractured, and died the same day. When the manager returned in the cage that was sent down for the rescue he announced that about eighty survivors had been found, but that the explorers had to go half a mile along the bottom of the pit before they found any of them. As they worked in distant veins they had escaped with their lives, though some of them were injured, and several encountered nar-

Saturday's Trade Review.
The export of dried codfish week totalled 18,300 quintals as follows:
St. John's—By S.S. Rosalind 10,000 quintals from various shippers for transshipment to West Indies by "Roy Bruce" from T. H. & Co. to Barbados 2,364 qtls., and "Tracy" from Balne Johnston 2,500 quintals.
Outports—by schooner "Reverend" from P. Templeman, Cataraugus 4,211 quintals to Gibraltar for re-export by schooner General Irons from S. Harris, Ltd., Lamlash, to Gibraltar for orders, the lowest record in weekly sales since last August. Nearly 500 fish in the outports has now been ordered, and there was never so much fish in the stores at this time of the year.
Oil—A slight improvement in the States market in the quotation for common oil, but nothing to cause a change. The fact that new oil will not be on the market for two months, should mean higher prices, and no doubt, according to the experience of the past few months, and oil will likely be in demand. The exports this week were 4,407 gallons from Job & Co., and 10,294 gallons from the Agencies.
Wool—Firmly held on the New York at $21.00 to $22.00 for Norwegian, says a New York exchange, "demand is steady, shipment from Norway $23.00 is firm which price is induced by small stock available rather than by demand. New catch will be offered in a few months and stocks will be sufficient to cover till that time, although the cover is much smaller than in previous years.
The present winter's harvest operations both West and East seem to turn out successful in all respects. There has been no surplus going forward like in other years, and the small regular crop is going out meet a well paid market. The fact that more care holdings are shorter than usual, but there is very little trade doing or in prospect for two months at least.

Beef—The market is quiet and American quotations are keeping at about the same level. The reports were quite heavy the past month, indicating a belief that the most favorable levels had been reached from the buyers' standpoint. It is not reasonable to believe that Beef will go any lower, and in view of the revival of the European export trade the coming spring, predicted by journals any change is certain to be upward. Local prices are same as last week.
Molasses—Both Fancy and Choice Molasses are now quoted at 80 cents a gallon in the puncheon this week. Tierces are three cents and barrels five cents additional. Trade is very quiet just now and except a little movement for sealing time, business will be at a low ebb till April when new crop molasses will be coming in. The "Ozarina" is now due from Barbados with a cargo of old—between five and six hundred puncheons.
Sugar—The markets have become has been taken in packing, especially in having graded quantities and strong barrels, is helping out the situation wonderfully. This week the S.S. Rosalind took out 3,185 barrels to New York from various shippers, and the packages looked creditable.

Flour—Cash wheat advanced five cents per bushel during the week and option wheat three to four cents. The St. John's quotations, however, are well under the foreign market. Leading brands here are $9.75 wholesale, other grades of good wholemeal flour can be had for $9.15, $9.40 and $9.55, wholesale. It is likely that for to come in this month will show an advance corresponding with the outside market.
Pork—Prices of Hogs continue to advance and Pork prices in consequence are firmer. The quotation for Spare Ribs, for instance, is $2.00 higher per barrel, wholesale, this week, and for Ham Butt $1.10 over last week's prices. Mess Pork still remains at $2.00; Fat Back at $2.50; Boston Butt $3.00, and Grocers' Family Mess $4.50 per barrel. Local Disastrous Fire on Water Street.

Damage Estimated at $100,000--
Five Shops Guttled in Early Morning Blaze.

Damage to the extent of over $100,000 was done by a fire which destroyed or gutted five Water Street premises yesterday morning. The insurance carried is approximately $85,000. The alarm signal was given at 10.30 a.m. This is the third big fire that has occurred within the city during the present year. The origin of the fire is unknown as yet. The damaged premises are those of R. E. Innes, T. H. Garland, Roper and Thompson, and The Cabot Building in which Mr. Bert Hayward has a show room, and several commission merchants and others have offices.

POLICE DISCOVER BLAZE.

The fire was first discovered by Sergeant Keefe and Constable Conway of the Police Force, who were patrolling their beat. Shortly after 7 a.m. they noticed smoke issuing from the barber shop owned by T. G. Garland, and situated on the ground floor of the Cabot Building. An alarm was immediately rung in, and the Central Fire Company quickly responded, followed soon after by the men from the Eastern and Western stations. When the firemen arrived, Garland's shop and those on either side of it, were blazing fiercely. Tongues of flame were seen shooting from the top flat of the Cabot Building and dense columns of smoke were issuing from the windows. By this time the flames had spread to the shop and office of R. E. Innes & Co., and a difficult task faced the firemen.

FIGHTING THE FIRE.

Inspector General Hutchings directed the fire fighters. Before long, nine streams of water were playing on the burning buildings. The pressure was the highest known in many years. Five streams were applied from Water Street and four from Duckworth Street. These last were carried through the lane by the News Office, and the new L.S.P.U. Hall. Firemen and police worked like Trojans, in their efforts to extinguish the fiercely burning flames. The fire had gained too much headway, however, to permit of their accomplishing much. Nevertheless, they did all that was humanly possible, braving the scorching heat, in endeavouring to prevent the spreading of the flames.

BUILDINGS DESTROYED.

When, after an hour's work, the fire was at last placed under control, some idea of the damage done, could be obtained. The Innes premises consisting of the "Bon Marche" and R. E. Innes' office were totally destroyed, only the walls remaining. The Cabot Building, in which were Garland's barber shop, Mr. Bert Hayward's office and automobile showroom, and several other offices, was badly gutted. The premises of Roper and Thompson were also gutted but suffered less damage than the other buildings.

NEARLY SUFFOCATED.

On the top flat of Roper's shop, fifty chronometers were stored and an attempt to save these was made by Mr. E. Roper. Upon getting into the building, he was nearly overcome by the smoke and his retreat was cut off by the flames which broke through the adjoining partitions. Ex-fire Constable James Boggan discovered Mr. Roper's dangerous predicament and led him to safety. Boggan later assisted Mr. Roper in saving the valuable instruments.

FIRE FIGHTERS GOOD WORK.

It was very fortunate that there was no wind when the fire broke out as the whole section in which the blaze occurred might have been destroyed. The police under Superintendent Grimes, performed yeoman service, in helping to combat the flames. Many were drenched to the skin and their clothes froze on them, but they remained on the scene until the all-out signal was given. The firemen were also soaked through by the water and took numerous risks in their efforts to get at the seat of the fire.

A USEFUL HYDRANT.

The hydrant at the entrance of the lane between the News Office and the L.S.P.U. Hall, has once more proved its usefulness in case of fire. From this hydrant, several powerful streams of water were poured on the burning buildings from the rear. This hydrant was used in the Saxon and Star of the Sea fires to great advantage. It threw a very heavy stream of water, and yesterday, when it was turned on, two strong men could scarcely control the branch. In fact, they were thrown off their feet but fortunately, were unhurt. It was through fighting the fire from the rear that the firemen prevented it from spreading to Duckworth Street. An out-house owned by Dr. Rendell, however, was destroyed and a brougham which was inside, was partly damaged.

THE DAMAGE.

The Cabot Building, which is owned by Mr. Bert Hayward, was completely gutted. T. H. Garland's barber shop in the ground floor was totally destroyed and only part insurance is carried. The offices occupied by G. D. Shears & Son, T. J. Freeman, and the St. George's Coal Fields, Ltd., C. Rodway, F. Hamlin, Robert Miller, Walter E. White, Willis Davis and E. J. Brown, were gutted. Valuable records were destroyed and samples which were uninsured, were also ruined.

STOCK RENDERED VALUELESS.

Messrs. R. E. Innes & Co., have been heavy losers. A large stock of dry goods was carried, and a large quantity of inflammable goods was stored on the second and top floors. All this has been either burnt or damaged by water to such an extent as to render it useless. Mr. Innes values his stock at over $50,000.

A valuable stock of jewellery was stored on the second and top floors. All this has been either burnt or damaged by water to such an extent as to render it useless. Mr. Innes values his stock at over $50,000.

THE INSURANCE.

The total amount of insurance carried has not yet been estimated, but is in the neighbourhood of $85,000. The principal sufferer is Mr. R. E. Innes whose stock, which was valued at $40,000 has been completely destroyed. He carried only $25,000 insurance, and his loss is therefore about $15,000. There is $12,500 carried on the Cabot Building and $15,000 on its stock. Mr. T. H. Garland carried $12,000 on his stock. All the furniture in the various offices in the building is covered. Dr. Rendell's stable and brougham is also covered. There is $20,000 on Roper's stock. The insurance is divided among several companies including the Fidelity Phoenix, Niagara, Alliance, National Benefit, General Fire and Accident, Union Union, Northern and New York Underwriters. The fire is believed to have originated in the furnace room of the Cabot Building.

Ladies' Night.

PLAYERS ENTERTAINED.
The caste in "Under the Gaslight" at the conclusion of Saturday's matinee were entertained at the B.I.S. Club Rooms by the Ladies' Auxiliary. An excellent supper was served after which Mr. P. F. Moore thanked the players and extended to them the freedom of the Dramatic Company's entertainments. President W. J. Higgins also thanked those present for the assistance given the Society. He then announced that it was to be a "Ladies' Night" and he and Mr. Moore vacated their places at the head of the table and called upon Miss Mary McCarthy to take charge. In an excellent speech she thanked all who had helped her in this. She then called upon the various ladies of the caste for speeches. Misses Angela McGrath, Alice Galway, Anna Murphy, Gertrude Ryan, Mollie Horan, Hildred O'Reilly and Mrs. P. Grace then spoke of the pleasure it gave them to be able to assist the Committee in this production. Cheers were called for the Ladies' Auxiliary and were given with a will. Miss McCarthy then announced the dance as being "Ladies' Privilege." To the music of the Magnavox, a delightful series of dances were participated in until 11.30 when the affair was brought to a close with the singing of "Jolly Good Fellows," "Auld Syne," and the National Anthem.

An Open Letter to the House- wives of St. John's.

Dear Madam:—

Of course all members of your family like Beans, and perhaps you would serve the canned variety more often if you could be absolutely certain they were prepared with the same regard for cleanliness you would observe in your own home.

Let me tell you the story of Libby's Beans as I saw them packed in our mammoth plant at Chatham, Ont., a few weeks ago.

The Beans used are Canadian grown, unequalled for flavor and appearance, and until ready for processing are stored in light, dry chambers into which no rust nor mildew can penetrate. From this room they are carried through chutes to long endless belts, lined on both sides by girls in white uniforms, who pick out by hand all broken and spotted beans, or foreign substance of any kind. The beans are then thoroughly washed in running water to remove all dust, etc., after which they enter the first cooker and remain there for twenty minutes in live steam, which swells and prepares them for the final cooking.

From this they pass through automatic filling machines which deposit one pound of beans in each can, together with just the proper quantity of Libby's celebrated Tomato Sauce to give them the delightful "tang" you like.

In each can is placed a hand cut cube of choicest pig pork, and the cans are then capped and proceed to large retorts where for two hours the beans are cooked in live steam.

After the beans are properly cooked, the cans are passed through a water bath to test for leaks, then to the labelling machines to receive the well known white and blue label, after which they are cased and are ready for shipment to the six Libby's branches served by this factory.

Except for the hand picking operation before washing, Libby's Beans are not touched by human fingers during the entire process, and every machine used is carefully cleaned and sterilized when the day's pack is finished. Libby's Beans are thoroughly cooked, but not crushed in the process, and when you open the can you find nearly every bean in perfect shape.

Order one can from your grocer and serve for tea to-night, and I think you will agree with me that Libby's Beans are without an equal.

Sincerely yours,
E. G. PITMAN.

Herring Plentiful.

Passengers who arrived yesterday by the S.S. Portia report times very dull on the West Coast with destitution in many places. At Channel and Rose Blanche there is an abundance of fish on the grounds but the weather has been so stormy that the fishermen cannot operate. In Belleoram and several places in Fortune Bay herring are plentiful, but they are of small size. Two or three vessels are there loading the fish frozen, for market.

Duty Well Performed.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—I notice by the report of the last meeting of the Municipal Council that mention was made that the Inspector of sidewalks regarding snow thereon was negligent in his duty. As a business man on Water Street, and without favor I would say that in my opinion that never before was the law more strictly enforced, and yet without friction. For the safety of pedestrians, it is attended to too well, as if two or three inches of snow were left on the sidewalks, levelled carefully, it would make a much better path than the slippery concrete and dangerous metal coverings and curbs.

Yours truly,
FAIR PLAY.

Ways to Put Up Good Goods.

Evening Telegram.
Sir—According to the annual report of the Board of Trade I observe that the goods of the past year have been sold at a profit of 10 per cent. This is a very good result, and it is due to the fact that the goods were sold at a price which was fair and reasonable. I am going to reserve my opinion on this matter until I have had a chance to see the goods myself. I am going to reserve my opinion on this matter until I have had a chance to see the goods myself.

lane's statement. I looked at him to see if he was what the Tanks call leg-pulling and decided he wasn't. I said let me explain, my friend. Supposing you had an old Aunt or Mother-in-law who was after living over the allotted span and still persisted in living, and this relative was worth a few thousand iron men, and you were to be the sole beneficiary at her death, now you were up against it hard and wanted the money very badly. One evening just about dusk you asked her out for a stroll to see the air coach, and watching your chance you gave her a push over the Long Bridge and she failed to come up and you became rich. Now you had good reason to dump her, but no Newfoundland jury would excuse your act. Now I said do you see the difference between an excuse and a reason, and as the Inspector gave as his reason having them carted down for repairs I say there wasn't any excuse why those packages should come in here fractured and damaged. It is inconceivable that if the packer or shipper of those packages up North ship them in good condition that he doesn't get a receipt from the carrier certifying them as such that being the case (if it is so) the company or steamship owner should be made pay damages in case of breakage, and thus their employees would be more careful. I am of opinion (subject to correction) that these packages are taken at the shipper's risk. Anyway the matter should be investigated and the responsibility placed on the right shoulders, as this condition of affairs cannot be allowed to exist next season as it is detrimental to the business. Better far to make a bonfire of all these old packages than have this great industry jeopardized by their use. I am afraid, Mr. Editor, I am after overrunning my distance and must conclude to take my bearings. I remain, dear Sir,

Yours very truly,
JAMES J. POWER.

Cape of Good Hope Becomes British.

The Cape of Good Hope was discovered by the Portuguese in 1482, but no effort was made to colonize it until 1652, when the Dutch East India Company took possession of Table Bay, established a fort, and occupied the lands skirting the foot of Table Mountain. For some time the old and new inhabitants lived peacefully, until permission was given to extend the original plan of settlement by the landing of some free men as "boers," or farmers. Nine soldiers and sailors received their discharge at the same time, and also became freemen or burghers, and located near Rondebosch. When the tribe known as "Cape Malays" saw the white men ploughing the ground where they usually dug out roots for their winter food, they became alarmed, lest they should be robbed of their land permanently. Calling the Gorchouquas to their aid, they swept off a number of the colonists' cattle, and thus began the first native and Boer war in 1658. Peace was not made until 1660. The handful of men who under the title of "Free Burghers" may be called the first colonists of the Cape of Good Hope. They were well furnished by the Company (on credit) with cattle, implements and seeds for their farming operations. Their freedom was really only disguised slavery, for they might not buy anything but what came from the Company's stores, and at the Co's price, and they were bound to deliver all their produce to the Company. There were also restrictions on the variety of crops they raised, and they were allowed no intercourse with the crews of ships visiting the port. Thus trampled, and a fair price for their produce denied them, they became discontented, and gave vent to their grievances in a petition in 1685, signed by the burghers and freemen, not one accepted. They were talked over by the Governor, and things went on in the same way for another century. The colonists increased and spread further and further inland until in 1786 a magistracy was established at Graaf Reinet, and the Great Fish River was proclaimed the territorial boundary of the Company's possessions. Quarrels were frequent between the ill-used natives and Boers, and the official records of Graaf Reinet show that between 1786 and 1794 nearly 2,000 bushmen were killed by the "commandoes," and only about 200 persons killed by the bushmen. At last, when called upon to contribute their share of the taxes for the support of the Government, the border-

LARNER-PEREZ.

"Whose diadem he brings, to crown thee with, and to proclaim thee queen."

A quiet but interesting matrimonial ceremony was performed on Saturday afternoon at the oratory of the Presentation Convent, Military Road, when the Reverend Father Pippy united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss Bride Larner, sister of the General Hospital Staff, and Mr. Joseph Perez of the General Stores of the Reid Newfoundland Company. Only the most intimate friends of both the bride and groom were present, the wedding taking place from the house of Mr. Joseph Sellars, Rennie's Mill Road. The bride, who is so well known by those who were under her care at the Ward of the General Hospital over which she presided, looked and was charming in a costume of taupe, together with a bridal veil and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and maidenhair. She was attended by Miss Hartley, a colleague of the Hospital staff, and a life-long friend. The groom was supported by Mr. E. O'Driscoll. After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the home of Mr. Sellars, where a reception was held, accompanied by light refreshments. There were not any guests. The going away costume of the bride was a navy blue tailored suit. The groom's present to the bride was a silver chatelaine with pendant locket attached, and to the best man a gold stick pin. The bride's party subsequently left the home of Mr. Sellars, and drove to the train, taking passage to Holyrood where the honeymoon will be spent. On return to the city, residence will be on Carnell Street. The Hospital staff, of which Sister Larner was such an esteemed and appreciated member, testified their good wishes in a manner more tangible than sentimental. In addition to the valuable presents received from contemporaries the numerous friends of the bride and groom contributed in no small way toward the future welfare of the happy couple, to whom the Telegram offers sincerest felicitations and best wishes for a long and prosperous voyage over the sea of matrimony.

"The Beleaguered."
The Beleaguered is the title of a fine dramatic chorus composed by Sir Arthur S. Sullivan, it is the first concerted piece that will be sung by the St. John's Octette at the College Hall on Thursday night next. Few composers of recent times have conferred such wholesome pleasure on the world than Sullivan has done. His name is more widely known in connection with the Comic Operas of Gilbert and Sullivan fame, but, apart from that, his unique success as the composer of lovely songs, anthems and choruses, has entitled him to a high place in the world of music. Another of his compositions "The Long Day Closes" will also be rendered at this concert, by special request. At the last Octette concert, the rendition of this beautiful part-song was greeted with thunderous applause by an enthusiastic and delighted audience. Tickets for Thursday night's concert may be booked at Mr. P. V. Chessman's on Water Street.

Fads and Fashions.
Black broadcloth is effective trimmed with gray lamb. Pointed vests of Persian silk are used on frocks of dull hue. Evening gowns feature irregular hems, points and small trains. Tinted ostrich plumes droop gracefully on spring millinery. The veil of the moment is sprinkled with graded chenille dots. Jackets of striped homespuns are worn with skirts of plain color. Many of the coats show a decided flare from the hips down. Looped panels, embroidered in heads, appear on recent models. The cape continues to hold a favorable place as a separate wrap. A gold wreath is the favorite accessory for the evening coiffure. The jackets of many suits are long, about 26 inches, and belted. Sleeves of sheer crepe are trimmed with fur or bead embroidery. Broadcloth, in tones of sand, caramel and clay, is very popular.

New Method
