Lady Wyverne's Daughter.

CHAPTER XI.

"That I will," she replied, warmly. "You know, Philip, I have always stood a little on awe of her; she is so beautiful and stately; so reserved, and unlike our English girls. But I will go to her at once; she shall find no want of love or welcome in you, mother."

Philip watched his mother as she re-entered the house. Perhaps for half a moment something like a sigh trembled on his lips as he thought how differently both he and Mrs. Lynne would have felt had Agatha been his promised bride; then he reproached himself for his injustice. Had not one refused him, while the other had lavished a world of love upon him? Even Mrs. Lynne reproached herself, and felt that she had never done Inez justice, when the young girl clasped her arms round her, and laying her beautiful head upon her mother's shoulder, promised that she would always be to her a devoted and most loving child.

"I cannot see any reason for delaying your marriage, Philip," said Mrs. Lynne to her son. "We shall soon have May here; indeed it is spring now. I saw crocuses and violets this morning. You must ask Inez if she has any objection to being married in May."

When Lord Lynne proposed that question to his beautiful fiancée, she smiled and said in reply that she considered it the brightest and fairest month in the year.

"But you know the old superstition," she added, with a smile. "May marriages are proverbially unlucky."

"I do not believe it," he said, warmly. "What is the origin of that superstition?"

"I do not quite remember," she replied; "but I have heard it several times."

"Then, Inez, let us prove its falsity, darling. As far as human eyes can see there is nothing to cloud our future," he said. "We have youth, love, happiness, wealth, position—everything, in fact, that could be wished for. What bad luck can come to us, even supposing the foolish legend to be a true one?"

"I cannot see any," she replied, in a tremulous voice, "unless—"

"Unless what, Inez?" he asked, seeing that she hesitated and looked at him, her beautiful eyes humid with tears.

"Unless you cease to love me," she said.

"The sun must cease to shine and the flowers to bloom, my own heart must cease to beat, and grow cold before that time comes," he cried, passionately, for the loving face turned to him touched him inexpressibly. We will—if you consent—show how fortunate and blessed a May marriage can be," continued Lord Lynne.

"Say, when the month of flowers comes round, Inez, may I claim your promise?"

So it was arranged that the twentieth of May should be the wedding-day of Lord Lynne. It was now April. The time was short enough; for Mrs. Lynne was anxious to attend to the trousseau of her daughter-in-law elect which was to be of unrivalled magnificence. Lord Lynne was constantly engaged; settlements and deeds of all kinds had to be prepared, and he had arranged a charming surprise for Inez. The family jewels, that had never seen the light since Agatha's mother, Lady Lynne, had worn them at her last ball, twelve years ago, were all to be reset and presented to her.

"She will be peerless," thought the young lover; "she was born to live in magnificence. Diamonds will add to her beauty, and she will wear them with the grace and dignity of a queen."

Many were his consultations with the celebrated jewelers in Bond Street before that matchless parure, admired by the whole fashionable world, was finished. And so time ran on until the first of May came round.

CHAPTER XII.

"The first of May," said Mrs. Lynne to Inez, one beautiful morning. "The flowers and birds seem to know May has come. I shall soon have a daughter of my own now, Inez."

The beautiful proud face softened, and the rich voice whispered some loving words that cheered the mother's heart. Lord Lynne was in London—he had been there for more than a month—and he was not expected until the sixteenth. He was busily engaged in furnishing and preparing one of the finest mansions in Belgravia for his wife.

Mrs. Lynne and Inez lingered over the breakfast-table. They had much to discuss, and the hours passed pleasantly enough, until the little ormolu clock on the mantel-piece chimed twelve.

"How late we are!" cried Inez; and just at moment the footman announced Mr. Bohun, to see Miss Lynne.

"Poor Bertie!" said Mrs. Lynne to her young companion. "I quite forgot to tell you, Inez, his regiment is ordered off to Canada. He has come to say good-bye to you, no doubt. Be kind to him, my dear—he is going to danger, if not death."

Something like remorse or pity smote the young girl as she noted the pale, worn face of the young soldier.

"I have just heard the news, Mr. Bohun," she said, holding out her hand to him. "I am very sorry we are going to lose you."

"You are very kind, Miss Lynne," he replied, with the least touch of bitterness. "I am glad to go; for many weeks now I have longed to be off to the wars."

"You like active service," she said, coldly.

"Yes," he replied; "and I should like anything better than staying to see you married. You laughed at me, Miss Lynne, the last time I dared to tell you something of the love that has made me blind, and deaf, and careless to all but you. You laughed at me, and in your heart you called me a foolish boy, did you not?"

"I never intended anything unkind to you," she replied, proudly. "I have always liked and esteemed you."

"Have you?" he cried, his honest young face brightened at her words; "then I am happier, for I thought you despised me for loving you so much. I could not help it, you know. I have never been presumptuous in my folly. I was never mad enough to dream that you would love me. I do not care for that; but if you were to ask me for my life at this moment I would give it to you; and if ever you want a friend, remember my words, that I will give my life to serve you."

"Thank you," she said, simply. "If the time should come when I want you, I shall not forget."

"I should like to hear from your own lips," he continued, "that you are happy. It will comfort me when I am far away to think of you as bright, and radiant, and beloved. If I fall, my last thoughts will be of your face. Tell me, do you love Lord Lynne?"

"I do," she replied. "If it will make you happy to know that I am happy, I will tell you that my heart has no wish left ungratified."

"I am heartily glad," he said; but the brave young face turned a shade paler. "Will you tell me the day settled for your wedding? I shall be upon the blue sea then, but I shall like to know it."

She told him the twentieth of May; then he rose and held out his hand.

"I must not detain you," he said; "but Inez—Miss Lynne, I have given you all the love of my heart. The world is all over for me. I can care for no woman living after loving you. Before I go, will you say to me, 'God bless you, Bertie!'"

Tears rose in those dark eyes as she uttered the words. He bent his noble head before her and kissed her little white hand that lay in his own. With the quick, warm impulse of her Southern nature, she touched his brow with her lips; and she never forgot the expression of his face as she did so. He spoke no word, but in another minute he was gone.

During the remainder of that day Inez was haunted by poor Bertie's face, and the sound of his sad, wistful voice.

The day was drawing nearer, and one thought began to agitate the beautiful bride-elect. How would Lord Lynne and Agatha meet? She wished it were over; and yet she whispered to herself that nothing could so wrong.

British Plan World Flight

CIVIL AVIATOR CHIEF APPROVES SIX MONTHS' AIR JOURNEY.

LONDON, May 12.—Plans for a new world flight by Capt. Norman Macmillan and Capt. Geoffrey H. Mallie have been approved by Major-General Sir William S. Branker, director of civil aviation.

The two officers, who, it will be remembered, took part in last year's effort, are to make the new attempt in one machine, which is being constructed by three different makers in sections.

The aviators had covered the first 10,000 miles of the route they now propose to follow when they broke down last year in the Bay of Bengal. They intend to continue from there by way of Japan, the Kurile Islands and Kamchatka, following the line of the Aleutian Islands to Southern Alaska and Vancouver.

TO CROSS CANADA.

From Vancouver their route lies across Canada and the United States to New York, thence North to Halifax, Newfoundland and Greenland, and back to London by way of Iceland, the Shetlands, the Orkneys, and Scotland. To make sure of the North Pacific crossing, which is regarded as one of the most difficult stages of the flight, a steam yacht will go out to Southern Alaska, with a special crew of "adventurers" in charge of Captain Roger Pocock of the Legion of Frontiersmen, under whose auspices the expedition is taking place. Among the ship's company, of frontiersmen are two flight commanders, a naturalist, a photographer, a scientist and a cinematographer.

From Southern Alaska along the chain of islands between the North Pacific and the Behring Sea, sixteen dumps will be arranged at intervals of 200 miles, with stores on each and on certain islands one or two of the ship's company are to be marooned as a store guard.

TO TAKE SIX MONTHS.

A saloon aboard the yacht has been turned into a showroom in charge of a trade representative, who will introduce British manufacture at each port of call.

The flight itself is expected to take four to six months, and the yacht is being provisioned for a fifteen months cruise. Her stores include 400 pounds of pork, thirty barrels of flour, fifteen Whitehead cheeses, 20,000 Turkish and Egyptian cigarettes and four barrels of neat rum.

Insists on Greece Paying Reparations.

Successor Still a Matter of Speculation--Six Killed in Train Wreck in Portugal.

LAUSANNE, May 21. Greece was merely beaten in a battle in Asia Minor and hostilities were succeeded by an armistice which Greece is trying to transform into peace.

NO SUCCESSOR YET. LONDON, May 21. No move has been made to-night to fill the vacancy of Premiership and the name of Bonar Law's successor is still a matter of speculation. Marquis Curzon and Stanley Baldwin are still the most talked of but it may possibly turn out that their claims so well balance a solution may ultimately be found in a compromise candidate.

THE SWISS REPLY. GENEVA, May 21. The Swiss reply to the Russian note protesting against its contribution to the assassination of Soviet representative Vorovsky states that Switzerland has a better right to demand an explanation for the violence suffered by the thousands of Swiss in Russia under the Soviet regime than to give explanations regarding the death of one Russian who was an unofficial and unwelcome guest. Replying to the protest that Vorovsky was not properly protected, the note says Switzerland cannot give special police supervision to every visitor to the country and concludes with the statement that Maurice Conrad will be tried in strict accordance with Swiss law and no foreign interference will be tolerated.

THREE DAYS IN OPEN DORY.

NORTH SYDNEY, May 21. Captain Walsh and seven men of the Nassau schooner, Marcella, had a thrilling experience, being three days and nights in an open dory in the ice floes of the Cape Breton coast before they landed in an exhausted condition at Port Morien. The Marcella, on a voyage from Nassau to St. Pierre with twelve hundred cases of liquor, became badly jammed and pierced by ice floes and sank shortly after being abandoned, according to members of the crew.

Terra Nova Gymnastic Club.

MEN'S BRANCH.

A meeting of the above Club was held at their headquarters, Grenfell Hall, last night. A review of the work for the past eighteen months showed very pleasing results--thanks to the capable instruction of Mr. A. E. Holmes. The Club now boasts of a number of competent instructors. New officers were elected: President, Mr. R. Jackman, Secretary-Treasurer, H. W. Diamond, Committee, Messrs. W. H. Craze, C. Thompson and W. S. Sparkes; and Physical Director, A. E. Holmes. The principle business of the meeting was in connection with the extending of their gymnastic activities in the city. In view of the efficiency and advancement attained by the members of the Club, Mr. Holmes is now in a position to handle a larger class. It was therefore decided to increase the membership. A programme was drawn up which promises great things in athletic and social activities. Quarterly competitions will be held to the winners of which, medals will be presented, and will include beginners and those of the advanced class. Those desirous of joining should make application immediately as a limited number only will be accepted.

Currents and Climate.

Weather predictions for the sea are still to come, but knowledge of the physical conditions in our waters is rapidly augmenting. On and off our coast a never-ending battle is in progress between the Labrador current with its icy freight from the Arctic regions, and the Gulf Stream with its stored heat from the tropics. The chief battleground lies on and near the Grand Bank of Newfoundland, not far from where the Titanic found a watery grave, and where at the present moment the struggle is most intense, with the cold current in the ascendancy. The contest between the rival forces is not confined to the open ocean; but is waged close to the coast and in the larger bays. It continues throughout the year, for at certain depths, ice-cold Arctic conditions are to be found in late summer, almost to the southernmost tip of Nova Scotia. The variable conditions so produced are responsible for the immensity of our fishery resources, as well as for the great fluctuations from year to year in the amount of fish caught. So knowledge of the causes underlying these weather and water changes which will make their prediction possible beforehand will be of great value. The Dominion Biological experts are studying the question and laying the basis for a rational series of production. They have already discovered what conditions are good for fish and lobster culture and what are not, so they know when it pays best to spread the young fry from the fish-hatcheries.

East End Taxi Service.

The spirit of co-operation if sincere in its application cannot fail to achieve results. The proof of this assertion has been exemplified by the performance of the East End Taxi Service during last season. During the early part of last year, the Taxi Service of St. John's had not been organized on a plane of efficiency sufficient to give the public the satisfaction it desired. To meet this deficiency a party of our well known taxi drivers amalgamated together for the purpose of renting an office and installing a clerk who would handle all telephone calls as per poster. The drivers were in each case the proprietor of their cars, which in the first place augured well for the upkeep of same. They were all men of many years experience and as the name adopted by the party included SERVICE their one ambition was to give such service. In that they succeeded none can doubt, and during the season their business increased to such an extent that it was deemed advisable to engage other reputable drivers. The complaints received from a call from the East End Taxi Co. (Phone 2125) were few if any, this in itself being sufficient recommendation that it lived up to its motto: SERVICE. This year the East End Taxi Service have been re-organized and are to be found at the G.W.V.A. Building, First Floor, Phone No. 2125.

There is also a spare car in case of accident, and it cannot be gainsaid that if satisfaction is required it would be well for the public to make known their requirements to the EAST END TAXI SERVICE, PHONE 2125, who will guarantee every satisfaction consistent with reasonable prices.

Herring Fleet Get Clear.

SCROONERS WERE FROZEN IN ALL WINTER.

The Asst.-Collector of Customs at Wood's Island wired yesterday, to the effect that the schooners, comprising the herring fishery fleet, which had been frozen in there all winter had got clear, and were now proceeding to their destinations. The schooner Aviator has sailed for Gloucester with a cargo of herring. The Helen Nair has left for Halifax with a cargo of empty oil drums, while the Sheppard King and Jean Smith are on their way to Lunenburg in ballast. The schooner W. C. Smith is now loading a cargo of Scotch cured herring, and is expected to leave within a few days for New York. The vessels were recently freed by the Canadian Govt. steamer Montcalm. The herring fishery is said to be a blank as a result of the fleet being frozen in.

This Offers You what you'll be glad to know

A new-type tooth paste, based on modern research, has brought rich benefits to millions. Dentists the world over now advise its use. You see one of its results in glistening teeth wherever you look today.

This offers you a delightful test, to show what it means in your home.

The foe of film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it. So it clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Most tooth troubles, most dingy teeth, are due to that clinging film.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look cloudy. It forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it.

tant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids. In all these ways, Pepsodent is bringing to careful people of some 50 nations a new dental era.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film comb which contains harsh grit.

They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

It was alarming

Tooth troubles due to film were constantly increasing. Very few escaped. The situation was alarming. So dental science sought for film combatants.

Research discovered two. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring. Able authorities proved these methods effective. Thus a tooth paste was created, based on modern knowledge, and those two film combatants were embodied in it. That tooth paste is called Pepsodent.

New protection

Pepsodent brings other new protection. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It multiplies the starch diges-

Famous Jewels and Their Strange Stories.

THE "GREAT HARRY" OF SCOTLAND.

When Mary of Scotland, a slim, fourteen-year-old girl, was married to the Dauphin of France, amidst gorgeous pageantry, in the year 1558, she wore—so we are told—"a matchless jewel."

It gleamed upon her white-and-silver dress, suspended by a chain, or "carcan" of pearls and rubies, a huge ornament of "three great rubies and three great diamonds" supporting a central device in the form of an H set with diamonds.

This jewel was known as the "Great H," or the "Great Harry" of Scotland. At the time of Mary's marriage to the French heir, it was not a Scotch Crown jewel, but her own personal and private property, for the "Harry" who was its namesake and donor was Henry VII. of England, her great-grandfather, on the mother's side, by whom it had been presented as a wedding gift to her grandmother, Queen Mary Tudor.

In 1561, a widow of seventeen, Mary took the great jewel with her to Scotland, where she went to take up the reins of her kingdom's government, and to win the hearts of her subjects, so that one of the most dour of them could write: "Our Queen is most loesome" or "lovesome."

But if all Scotland endorsed Melville's verdict in 1561, four years saw a change in men's minds. By 1565 Scotland was torn by factions for and against the Queen, and her marriage with the unworthy Henry Lennox, Earl of Darnley, did not improve matters.

Whilst Mary still imagined that she loved her foolish young husband, she made a will, in the thought that she might die, at the birth of her child. By this will she disposed of all her immense collection of costly jewels, leaving to Darnley himself, amongst other things, a "St. Michael" made of forty fayre diamonds.

But the first bequest dealt with the "Great Harry," and she left this, her most precious and treasured jewel, to be Crown of Scotland, desiring that in Act might be passed making it part of the regalia, in remembrance of herself and of the Scottish alliance with the "house of Lorraine. The "Great Harry" is definitely bequeathed as an "ornament for the Queen of Scotland" under injunction not to change the setting, nor to give the swel away, but to keep it with the Crown for evermore.

Within a few years of the date of his will Mary began to disperse her jewels in the most reckless fashion, selling many for the purposes of her wars, giving others—to the value of $5,000—to the Earl of Bothwell, with whom she was at this time most desperately in love.

The story of the dispersal of the contents of Queen Mary's jewel-casket is a strange one. Favourites and enemies alike struggled for the possession of them, and we find Queen Elizabeth, her foe and cousin, bidding undisguisedly for those wonderful pearls, 25 in number, and like "black muscades" of a very rare deep purple grape-color.

Elizabeth obtained the pearls, and at a low price. It was then that she cast covetous eyes upon the "Great Harry," envying it, as she envied so much that belonged to her lovely cousin.

But on this point Mary was resolute. She would not sell this jewel which she had bequeathed to the Scotch throne, and it was amongst those left in Edinburgh Castle, when the Queen set out upon that disastrous campaign of 1567, which ended at Carberry Hill.

The jewels—with all else in Edinburgh Castle—were surrendered to the Regent Moray, who delivered them over to the safe-keeping of the Commandant, William Kirkcaldy of Grange.

But Kirkcaldy of Grange, who had been thought so safe upon the side of the Regent, deserted to the Queen's cause immediately, and it was for Mary that he held the Castle and the jewels of the Crown.

During the long and arduous siege which followed, these jewels were the chief source of revenue to the Queen, the only thing which enabled her to carry on the campaign. By 1570 most of those which remained had been sold, some, ironically enough, to the English. Others were sent to London for disposal, but seized and detained by Elizabeth's government.

The "Great Harry" was never sold or offered for sale. It remained in the keeping of Kirkcaldy of Grange inviolate, even when money was most sorely needed.

When at last it became plain that the Castle must be surrendered, when all hope of holding out was over, Kirkcaldy tried to make it one of the terms of capitulation that the "Great Harry" and the other jewels should be sent back to the Queen of Scots.

But the new Regent, Morton, would not hear of this; he would consider nothing but the unconditional surrender of the Castle and all that it contained.

Kirkcaldy, in desperation, consulted James Mossman, the faithful jeweller of the Queen, who made one of the Castle's garrison. Together they set about concealing the jewels, and Kirkcaldy tried to hide the "Great Harry" in his hose, and to endeavor to bear it away. This, however, was not thought to be sure enough, and at dead of night, the two men went down into the cellars of the Castle and concealed the jewel, together with the "Honours" or regalia of Scotland—the crown, the sceptre, and the sword—in a crevice of the living rock upon which the Castle is built.

Somewhat Morton got wind of this treasure-trove—probably when he discovered that the most precious jewels were missing—and the greater part were found and annexed by the Regent.

But the "Great Harry" had vanished—exactly how will never be known—and it was not until some years later that it was discovered in the possession of the Countess of Lennox, widow of the Regent Moray.

A perfect storm now raged for the possession of the famous jewel. Morton, Huntley, Queen Mary herself—all tried to obtain it, whilst Queen Elizabeth—with ulterior motives of her own—supported Moray's widow and her second husband, the Earl of Lennox. It was not until after 1575 that the Countess was finally made to disgorge the jewel and to deliver it over to the Regent Morton.

Queen Mary never saw her treasured jewel again, but it came into the possession of her son, King James I., on his accession to the throne of England. The gold setting and the minor stones of the jewel—the "jewel called the H, with the chains thereof and the rubies of the same"—were amongst the things for which the King gave a discharge to the Earl of Dunbar in 1608. But the great diamond which formed the chief ornament of the jewel was disposed of otherwise, and it may be seen now at the Tower of London in the regalia of Great Britain. For here is the description of the new Crown jewel, made for James I. on his accession, as set forth in the inventory:

"A grete and ryche juell of golde, called the Mirror of Grayte Brytaine, conteyninge, one verle fayre table diamonde, and two other large diamondes, cut losengewise, the one of them called the Stone of the Grete Letter H of Scotland."

Another curious jewel, also connected with his mother's tragedy, was in the possession of James, and is still owned by the Royal Family. This is that known as the Darnley Jewel, which was made by the mother of Darnley, Lady Mary Douglas, as a memento of a murdered husband and a murdered son, and bestowed upon her grandson, James I. It is a golden heart, set with jewels, and enriched with 28 emblems and 6 mottoes, all breathing remembrance—and revenge. One of the figures represents Darnley, lying dead, not himself as a King, but with a king springing from him—the future James VI. of Scotland, and I. of England.

Artful Production Seen at Nickel.

"SMILIN' THROUGH" FINE SCREEN VEHICLE FOR NORMA. Talmadge in a fine dramatic role in the magnetic screen at the Nickel Theatre this production in which she appears in "Smilin' Through," screen play of Allan Langdon Martin's story that gained new laurels as she acted on the speaking stage. Her histrionic best in this powerful role that she is seen first as the heroine, who is slain on her knees by a jealous rival.

Then she is the young and beautiful Kathleen, who is the image of her deceased aunt, Moryeen. Kathleen falls in love with Kenneth Wayne, son of the man who killed Moryeen, and the obstacles placed in the way of the young lovers by John Carteret, who was to have made Moryeen his wife, form the nucleus of a most absorbing plot with a charming romance. In this production Miss Talmadge does some of the very best acting of her career. The photoplay itself is the finest she has yet made. Harrison Ford provides excellent support in the dual role of Kenneth Wayne and Jeremiah Wayne, while Wynham Standing gives a splendid performance as John Carteret. Others in the cast whose fine work contributes to the all-around merit of this magnificent production are Alec B. Francis, Glenn Hunter, Grace Griswold, Miriam Battista and Eugene Lockhart.

HEWERS OF WOOD. Natal Advertiser: Mr. Boyce, the American publicist, telling some Rhodensians the other day how their country could carry a population of five million whites, was dumbfounded with the rejoinder of an intelligent European lady, "But, Mr. Boyce, there wouldn't be natives enough to go round!" Yet the remark unconsciously crystallizes the attitude of hundreds of thousands in our midst today towards the Children of Ham.

At the Casino.

"SMILIN' THROUGH." Since their first appearance here shortly after Easter the Casino Stock Company has given St. John's theatre goers an opportunity of witnessing some very high-class plays. Perhaps the most popular of the lot is "Smilin' Through" by Allan Langdon Martin. Last night this emotional play was produced by special request, but contrary to expectations the audience was not large. From whatever causes it is indeed unfortunate that theatre goers did not turn up in greater numbers, for the play from every standpoint is marvellous. In addition to the pathetic story in the plot, there is the added attraction of gorgeous costumes and wonderful lighting effect. The specially designed costumes worn by the leading lady, Miss Dennis, and Miss Lee are well worth seeing. In striking contrast to the feminine attire of to-day and should be seen to be appreciated. Many who had seen the performance before were present again last night and enjoyed it even more than on the previous occasion. The play is being repeated to-night and to-morrow night, when it is hoped larger houses will be present. If you have already seen this marvellous production you will enjoy it all the more so by seeing it again.

Hints at Bigness of Griffith Film.

A million dollar outlay for a production at the D. W. Griffith studio is no longer a novelty. Hence, nothing about his 1922 picture "Orphans of the Storm," is considered of unusual public interest. But here are some of the things that indicate the magnitude of the film, a United Artists Corporation release, which will be seen at the Majestic Theatre to-day. The reproduction of old Paris, which serves as a background for the Titanic turmoil of the revolution scenes, covered fourteen acres. Twenty-six tons of properties were imported from France to provide detail for the picture. More than 300,000 feet of lumber were used in building the scenery. There were 300 tons of paving stones laid to give the streets the proper touch of realism. With brush or with pneumatic spray, ninety barrels of paint were spread over the setting. For further realism, 4,000 panes of glass were put into the windows facing the streets to play the metropolis. Three exact reproductions of houses still standing in Paris, and past which the death carts rumbled guillotine-ward over a hundred years ago, are among the accurate details followed in this production. Among interiors, the room in which the King of France appears, is an exact duplicate in size, decorations and detail of the grand salon in the Paris at Versailles. Eighteen months of study were required to prepare for this dramatically elaborated version of the famous "Two Orphans" of D'Emery. Nine months of actual work were done before the master hand scribbled "O.K." on the finished production. Coats and capes have a new idea for linings: the upper half of lining is of a soft, contrasting crepe, and the lower half is also of crepe, but matches the color of the coat. White organdie edged with a rainbow trimming of organdie makes the collar and huge gauntlet cuffs of a more dress.

The Reaction.

The inevitable reaction from the high expectation and sanguine hope of better things, better times and plenty of employment aroused in the minds of the electors has already set in amongst the people of the outports who voted for four years more of the Squires Government. This we are learning every day from correspondents and from the expressed opinions of many who have arrived in the city the past week. The stronger the tide ebbs the stronger will it flow. The whirlwind campaign with unlimited Government funds behind it, though it relieved only the present necessity, swept the people off their feet and gave them no time to think. The reaction has set in, the doles are exhausted, the money is spent and some 30,000 men are waiting and wondering what they are going to do the coming summer. The deception and the appeals that prevailed to the extent of inducing a majority of the voters of the country to vote for a continuance of what has been going on the past four years deluded the people. Unfortunately those who voted for a change and for better government must suffer equally in the result with those who gave the Government four years more. The tide of emigration is going on steadily and many more would go only they have not the means to get away. During the election campaign the cry of "Work for all on the Humber" was dinned into the ears of the public day and night, but since that event we hear very little talk of that wonderful proposition which was to cure all our economic troubles and give remunerative work to every man in Newfoundland. It served its purpose and the few thousand men that will get employment there the coming summer will fall very short of solving the unemployment in Newfoundland. It is a dream from which we fear the people who built such high hopes upon will have a rude awakening before the year is out. It was in the fishery that the people looked for some encouragement. Bennett offered it, backed up by such business men as Hickman, Monroe, Long, Crosbie and Ayre, but the people turned them down. We have no hesitation in saying that if these men and their colleagues had been elected in a majority to form a Government Water Street would be booming with business activity in issuing fishery supplies to-day. In the Northern bays the fine fishing schooners of fifty to seventy tons burden are being laid up for the summer and the fishing gear, traps and moorings, lines and twines are stowed away. The old men will do what they can at the shore fishery and the young men will clear out of the country. This is the story told us by a Planter from Wesleyville to-day, and he said that the same applied to many in Trinity Bay and Notre Dame Bay. They had hoped that when the Government was elected they would at once send out a message of encouragement and help to the fishermen that would induce them to take up the fishery again this summer, but they have said nothing and done nothing, and if they intend to do so when the House meets it will be too late. No wonder then that the reaction has set in.

Home-Grown Crops.

From all the indications that force themselves on the thinker and observer of industrial conditions in Newfoundland it is safe to prophesy that 1923 is going to be a trying year on nine-tenths of the people of the country. It is, therefore, incumbent on all those who have agricultural land available and who can get seed potatoes and other seeds to set all they possibly can this season. The fishery under existing conditions cannot support our people from September to next May, and there is no more reliable auxiliary industry than agriculture, especially in those districts of the island where the people have plenty of land suitable for raising the crops that thrive in this country. During the second year of the war when it was anticipated food would be scarce an intensive agricultural campaign was waged, in which his Excellency the late Governor Davidson set the example and encouraged the people to raise all the potatoes possible. As we view the signs of the times there is equal justification for a similar campaign now. What an advantageous position a fisherman farmer stands in the fall of the year who has raised sufficient potatoes, turnips, cabbage, etc., to supply the requirements of himself and family till the following month of June. He has added at least $100 to his summer's earnings, and so much the better if he has raised more than he requires for his own consumption and has surplus stocks to sell. We should not leave out of this calculation hay and oats which grow well in this country and for which there is always an unfailing market. The new Minister of Agriculture, it is reported, will be Mr. Downey. He is a man well qualified for the office, and has a good, practical knowledge of what is being done and what is neglected in respect to raising home grown crops. It is to be hoped that he will not confine all his energies to merely importing seeds as his predecessor seems to have done, but that he will get into personal touch with the fishermen farmers and give them any encouragement and assistance that would contribute to raising at least sufficient vegetables for their own consumption during the months from September to May next inclusive. If they have surplus stocks to sell so much the better. He should then find out who has such stocks and render them practical assistance in finding a market for the disposal of the same. Special rates should be secured on trains, schooners and steamers.

Girl Guide Entertainment

The organizer of the Girl Guide Entertainment and her little band of workers are hard at work rehearsing for the Entertainment to be held on Thursday next. The children's tableaux are specially delightful, and the whole performance promises to be not only very enjoyable but amusing. Mr. Leslie Marshall has taken great trouble with the Orchestra so that the music will be a special feature. The "Girl Guide Badges" will show that the Girl Guides have a sense of humour and they hope the spectators will laugh with them. The matinee given in the afternoon should bring many children to see it, and it is hoped that both performances will be capacity houses.

Former Allan Liner Corsican Sinks off Cape Pine.

Newly Renamed "Marvale" Strikes Rocks at Cape Freels—436 Passengers and Crew Land in Boats

Yesterday evening news was flashed in from Cape Race that the C.P.R. Liner Marvale had crashed ashore at Cape Freels Rock, which lies South-westward distant 3 miles from Cape Pine Lighthouse. The liner bound to Liverpool from Montreal with a cargo of flour and grain and carrying also 436 passengers and crew, struck the land at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. The passengers and crew were at once transferred to boats and later landed at St. Shott's. The ocean greynoid now lies a total wreck one mile off Cape Pine.

FIRST MESSAGES RECEIVED.

The first messages of the disaster were received in the city by Mr. J. J. Collins of the Marconi Wireless Co., at 5 p.m., from Operator Kerton at Cape Race. It stated "the Marvale just struck Cape Freels Rock, holds flooding, now heading for beach; requires immediate assistance; notify Minister of Shipping, St. John's, and advise action quickly."

The Minister of Shipping being notified made arrangements to have S.S. Seal, then in Marystown, go to the ship's assistance, as there were no other ships here available. Mr. Collins also conveyed the information to Sir Michael Cashin, who made immediate preparations to have the steamers Cabot and Susa proceed to the wreck; the former ship left port at 8 p.m., and the Susa an hour later. Sir Michael and Hon. Tasker Cook went along by the Cabot and Mr. Peter Cashin by the Susa.

At 5:30 p.m. a message from the Cape stated that the Marvale reported all passengers safe in boats and an effort was being made to beach the ship.

At about 7 o'clock Cape Race reported that the station was unable to get in touch with the "Marvale" and it was generally surmised that the ship had sunk, as had she been beached, and her engine room out of commission, her emergency wireless set could keep up conversation for at least six or seven hours.

PASSENGERS AND CREW LAND AT ST. SHOTT'S.

In the meantime, all telegraph offices in Trepassey Bay were kept open in the hope of getting in touch with the passengers and crew when they came ashore, as it was believed that they would land either at Trepassey or St. Shott's.

At 11 o'clock Superintendent Saunders of the Anglo received a message from the operator at Trepassey saving Captain Lewis, of the ill-fated ship, had just arrived there, reporting that the "Marvale" had sunk in seven fathoms of water, about one mile from Cape Pine. Captain Lewis reported that the passengers and crew, numbering 436 all told, had landed safely at St. Shott's in the ship's boats.

STRUCK WITH MUCH FORCE.

Apparently the liner hit with much force as in her S.O.S. to Cape Race, Captain Lewis, her commander, reported that after striking she backed off and it was found that her forward holds were flooding, but though an attempt to beach her was being made, it was feared this was impossible so fastly was the "Marvale" settling.

MARVALE FORMERLY AN ALLAN LINER.

The "Marvale" was formerly the S.S. Corsican, owned by the Allan Line, but acquired by the C. P. R. when that concern took over the Allan Line interests. As the Corsican, she was well known in this port, as in the latter part of 1918 a detachment of "Ours" came home by her, while in February, 1919, some 1,100 of our Regiment, including Serjt. T. Rickstis, V.C., returned by the ship. In November, 1915, "G" Company of "Ours" joined the Corsican at Quebec on route for England, when the 55th Canadian Regiment also crossed, so that she will be remembered by many in this city and throughout the country.

At that time Capt. Davidson, a relative of Governor Davidson, was in charge of the ship, but has since been transferred to one of the larger boats. Early this year the Corsican was transferred with others of the C.P.R. fleet, including the Victorian, Tunisian and Scotian, to the "M. vale," the other steamers being known as the Marlock, Marburn and Margien respectively. During the winter she was held up in England where she underwent a general overhauling, and made ready for the season's work on the Montreal-Liverpool service. She only recently arrived at Montreal, and this was her first trip for the season and incidentally her first passage under her new name.

USED TO TRANSPORT TROOPS.

The "Marvale" was built in 1907 by Messrs. Barclay, Currie & Co., Ltd. of Glasgow, and was a ship of 11,419 tons gross and 7,373 tons net, splendidly fitted for passengers and equipped with all modern appliances. She was a sister ship of the Hesperian and Grampian, and during the war, all three were used as troop ships. Many thousands of Canadians were carried back and forth and on many occasions all three had to run the submarine blockade. The Corsican, as she was then known, made several trips to the Mediterranean at the time of the Gallipoli campaign, and as before stated, various detachments of Newfoundlanders travelled by the ship. All three of these fine Allan boats are now no more, the Hesperian having been torpedoed during the war, while the Grampian, which struck an iceberg in the Straits some two years ago, and came in here for repairs, later caught on fire at Antwerp and was so badly damaged that she was condemned. Now the Corsican the last of the trio, is lying a wreck near where the bones of so many other great ships are buried.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS.

Up to 1 p.m. to-day no new developments in relation to the wrecked liner of Marvale have come to hand. It is learned, however, that the passengers and crew who landed in the ship's boats at St. Shott's have been taken to Trepassey, where they will entrain for St. John's. It was first thought that the shipwrecked people would be transferred on board S. S. Empress of Britain, which yesterday evening was rushing to the scene in response to S. O. S. calls.

PASSENGERS AT TREPASSEY.

That this was the intention is evident from the following message received today by Mr. J. J. Collins, Superintendent of the Marconi Station at 11 a.m.: "Understand passengers at present on way to Trepassey to entrain for St. John's. The Empress of Britain at present 30 miles east of Cape Race. She can embark passengers at Trepassey but is unable to get in touch with captain of Marvale." At 11:45 Mr. Collins received a further message stating that S. S. Seal had arrived at Trepassey with the crew and passengers of the Marvale and that they would be taking the train for St. John's late this evening.

MAPLEDOWN AT SCENE.

It was thought that when S. S. Mapledown, Capt. Dufour, arrived in port this morning some particulars of the wreck would be gleaned. The ship was in port on the scene when S. O. S. signals had been sent out, and although Capt. Dufour was within hailing distance of the position where the Marvale sank at 7:15 p.m., nothing could be seen owing to dense fog. Capt. Dufour was only 14 miles distant when the S. O. S. call was received. After arriving on the scene he remained until 11 p.m. and proceeded to St. John's when he received assistance from the Empress of Britain. Before leaving the scene possible was done and all the passengers were O.K. Capt. Dufour states also that in addition to the Empress of Britain, the S. S. Concordia, the Donaldson liners, S. S. Concordia, also was there. This liner arrived at 8 p.m., but stood some distance off and proceeded to Montreal after getting the O.K. signal. The Mapledown left Montreal last Monday and Charlotte-town on Saturday for here. The captain reports very foggy weather, especially near Cape Race. The fog signals, however, he said, could be heard quite distinct. Before leaving the scene he received the following radio message from Cape Race:—"Thanks for assistance. Consider it unnecessary to stand by as the Empress of Britain will probably attend to-morrow morning."

SALVAGE OPERATIONS.

Arrangements for salvaging the cargo of the Marvale are now being made. According to Dale & Co., who left for the wreck by special train this morning, the flour, which forms a considerable part of the cargo, can be salvaged if the weather prevails. The local boats Susa, Cabot, Hugh D. and Mary are at the scene, but have not reported up to press hour.

Relief Trains Proceeding to Trepassey.

PASSENGERS ILL-FATED LINER COMING TO CITY.

A special train consisting of two sleepers, two diners and four first and second class passenger coaches left the depot at noon to-day for Trepassey, to bring the passengers and crew of the ill-fated S.S. Marvale to the city. The dining cars are well stocked with provisions, while every arrangement for the comfort of the passengers when coming citywards. Amongst the passengers who went out were Mr. J. Baxter of the Reid Nfld. Co., Mr. J. Bates of the Furness Withy Co., who will look after the passengers' interests, and Capt. C. J. Stuart of Dale & Co., proceeds to the scene of the wreck. Capt. Stuart represents the Insurwriters, and has received instructions from the London Salvage Association to make a thorough survey of the ship. The train from the Southern Shore arrived in the city at 2 p.m. After her arrival she was immediately got in readiness to start on her return, leaving at 5 p.m. The special train which went out at noon hour, is expected to arrive at Trepassey not later than 6 o'clock, and should leave there about 8 on the return run, arriving in the city early to-morrow morning.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

CROOK GOVERNOR ARRESTED.
BOSTON, May 22. William R. Allen, former Lieutenant Governor of Montana, surrendered to the police last night on indictments charging him with the larceny of six hundred thousand dollars, the property of the Boston-Montana Corporation, and the conspiracy to steal the money of the Boston-Montana Development Company and Boston-Montana Milling Company.

SHOE WORKERS STRIKE.
BROCKTON, Mass., May 22. Shoe factories of this city and nearby towns may be crippled through a strike which began last week and which up to last night had closed several shops. Local unions were in session last night to decide whether they would join strikers. Of the twenty-two thousand shoe workers employed in the area about Brockton, about six thousand are on strike. The strikers are demanding a wage increase of twenty-one per cent and abrogation of agreement under which disputes are referred to a State Board of arbitration and conciliation.

LAW'S CONDITION.
LONDON, May 22. Bonar Law had a good night. His condition is unchanged and no further bulletins will be issued at present. This statement was issued after the former Premier's physicians had visited him this morning. He has written the Glasgow Unionists that he desires to continue to represent the Central Division of Glasgow in the Commons, although he may be unable to attend the present session.

Glenburnie Refloated.
SHIP NOW AT ST. GEORGES HARBOUR.

The Department of Justice received the following message yesterday from Magistrate George Carty, St. Georges.—S. S. Glenburnie, Capt. Dudgeon, bound to Montreal from Greenock with a cargo of 2000 tons coal is ashore at Sandy Cove, Crabb's. Some water has made aft. A further message from the sub-collector at Robinsons states that the Glenburnie was pulled off with help last evening and had proceeded to St. Georges Harbour.

THE WORLD'S PRESS.

SAFETY FIRST.
Louisville Courier-Journal: Screen your open-grate fires in winter, sweat the flies in summer, stop, look and listen at grade-crossings, don't start the kitchen range fire with the kerosene can, keep your nose out of other folks' business, and maybe you will live to be run over by a drunken joy-ride.

HATRED AND SAVAGERY.
London Daily Telegraph: After long and fruitless endeavors to create the impression that Bolshevism had learned moderation and soberness, its internal forces of hatred and savagery are once more in eruption, and to economic and social wreckage is to be added the smashing to pieces, if it is attainable, of the institutions of Christianity on Russian soil.

TAMPERING WITH THE CLOCK.
Westminster Gazette: Tampering with the clock in Europe, at any rate, results in absurdity when any one country refuses to be a party to the innocent deception. And that, of course, gives a new handle to the conservative people who never tire of repeating that you cannot put the clock forward—in spite of the conclusive proof that you can, and with extremely beneficial results. But though the chronological entente may be broken England is not likely to repeat its allegiance to Summer Time.

EGYPTIAN CRISIS.
Al-Siyassa (Egypt): The public has received the Yohi Ibrahim Pasha Cabinet with considerable reserve, because it was formed at a most critical time, because it came after a policy of violence had shaken the whole country and after the political parties had made claims supported by all the responsible men. This Cabinet has drawn up no political programs to assure the public that it will realize its claims—the only means to solve the crisis and get out of this political difficulty.

DUTY ON HOPS AND BARLEY.
London Daily Mail: There is much to be said for the suggested duty on imported hops and malting barley, though the hop industry will never be saved by so small a duty at 20 shillings a hundredweight. Lord Bledisloe insists that though a duty on malting barley may help the eastern counties, it will not be welcomed by west-country farmers. When will agriculturists agree among themselves? They bemoan their plight, and with good reason, but they quarrel constantly about the remedies.

To Renew Forests.
For the purpose of encouraging reforestation throughout Eastern Ontario 300,000 pine seedlings are being planted at the farm of the Kemplville Agricultural School, to be available for distribution to farmers next year. Passenger Dies on Portia
Capt. Field of the S. S. Portia apprised the Government Shipping Department by wire this morning, to the effect that a passenger named James Cassell who boarded the steamer at Harbor Deep to enter the Grenfell Hospital at St. Anthony for treatment, had died on the ship Sunday night last. No further particulars have been received. The Portia left Conche this morning on her way north.

S. Wins Inter-Club Tournament.

LOSE TO B.I.S. BY 119 POINTS.

Establish of the Masonic-B.I.S. Tournament last night was exciting. With only one game to be played and the contest evenly matched, the Masonic team led by 37 points were victorious. At 7:30 Messrs. (B.I.S.) and McKay (Masonic) met for their game. For the first half the Masonic player but O'Neill began the ball running and with a combination succeeded in beating the B.I.S. by 119 points. The scores were as follows:—

Masonic (55)—17, 10, 12, 25, 21, 10, 10, 13, 12, 21, 11, 12—205.

B.I.S. (53)—11, 10, 14, 15, 12, 12.

Result of this game gave the Masonic 54 points and when French (B.I.S.) and Edwards started to play the final excitement ran high. Both players were practically alike in class and the outcome depended on which got the balls running. Both started off well and the fate of the series hung in the balance for a considerable time. At length French by brilliant play succeeded in gaining a lead on Edwards and won his game 65 points ahead, which brought the total lead up to 119 points and gave the victory to the Irish.

The Masonic players and guests who were present were then entertained by the victors. Mr. W. J. Higgins, President, occupied the chair and proposed a toast to the Masonic Club, which was responded to by Mr. F. Hamlin. Mr. Hamlin also proposed the toast of the B. I. S., to which Mr. J. C. Pippy, Vice-President, made suitable response. Mr. F. W. Bradshaw of the City Club also spoke. An impromptu concert was held to which Messrs. P. Dobbin, W. Wallace, W. Tucker, H. Foster, E. W. Taylor, M. F. Aylward, C. R. Duder and D. MacFarlane contributed items. The tournament was most successful. The victors are deserving of every congratulation.

Annual Meeting

C. C. C. ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, BELL ISLAND, ELECTS NEW EXECUTIVE.

The annual meeting of the C. C. C. Athletic Association, Bell Island, was held in the Cadet "Armoury" last week, in the presence of a large and enthusiastic gathering. The meeting was notable for the attendance of the old supporters of the club, who had been identified with the Corps since its formation, and who, with their sons and other relatives, have taken an ardent interest in "building up" clean, manly athletics and sport on the Island.

The report presented by President J. M. Green showed the continued activities of the Corps representatives in all the athletic contests of 1922, and the excellent work of the football team, who captured the Bell Island championship cup, presented by Messrs. Kent, Shea, and Dwyer, came in for special mention; these were:—Goal, M. Farrell; Backs, Gus Connors, J. Murphy; Halves, James Delahunty, J. L. Connors, and W. Connors; forwards, M. Dobbin, R. Dwyer, P. T. Murphy, J. Dwyer and J. Stone. President Green who returns from the chair this year owing to pressure of other duties, was elected Honorary President, in recognition of his past services to the athletes, and he is succeeded in the Presidential office by Mr. J. L. Connors, who has been an active member of the football team since its formation.

Election of officers resulted as follows:—

EXECUTIVE, 1923.

Honorary Presidents—Capt. Leo C. Murphy, Joseph M. Green, Esq.
President—Jas. L. Connors.
Vice-President—Andrew Murphy.
Asst. Vice-Presidents—John Connors, Daniel Steele.
Secretary—Edward Farrell.
Treasurer—W. Whalen.
Committee—Messrs. W. R. Power, John Kent, W. Stone, John Penney, E. Basha and J. Snow.

Under such a capable and experienced Board of officers a successful year for the C.C.C. Athletes at Bell Island is confidently predicted.

Will Sail From New York for Southampton.

COST NINE MILLION TO REBUILD HUGH SHIP.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Fares exceeding $1,000,000 will be paid by those who sail on the Leviathan on her maiden trip July 4. Several millionaires are bidding for the right to pay the top price—$500,000—to occupy the former imperial suite, designed on the old Vaterland for the German Kaiser.

"There will be no steerage," said W. J. Love, vice-president and general manager of the United States Shipping Board. "The Vaterland had three classes and steerage. The rebuilt Leviathan has three classes only—with a minimum fare of $275." Passengers and crew will total 4674. The first class cabin will accommodate 976, second class 542, and third class 1880. The crew comprises 1276. The commander will be Captain Herbert Hartley, formerly of the S.S. St. Louis.

Vice-President Love amplified for his announcement that rebuilding operations now nearing completion at Newport News, Va., made the Leviathan the largest ship afloat. Her gross tonnage is now 59,958.45, as against 54,282 originally. 3,406 more than the Majestic, although she is eight feet shorter and only a fraction of a foot wider.

"It cost $8,500,000 to rebuild and refit the Leviathan," said Love. "The ship is now worth $25,000,000. She has been converted from coal to oil burning.

Crosses in Six Days.

"She will sail from New York for Southampton every three weeks, making the trip in six days. Each trip will consume 5,400 tons of fuel oil. If this 1,462,300 gallons were gasoline it would run a flivver around the world 1,000 times, or would drive a car 10,000 miles a year for 283 years!

"The weight of the Leviathan loaded is 71,276 tons. To transport this weight on land would require 2,380 freight cars.

"There are twelve decks, five passenger elevators, and six freight elevators for luggage and provisions. Even the engine room has an elevator.

"The swimming pool, for first-class passengers only, is 38 feet long, 20 feet wide, and from 3 1/2 to 6 1/2 feet deep. It carries 30,000 gallons, or 118 tons, of water. There is a gymnasium 16x40 for the first-class and another 14x27 for the second class. Also two libraries, containing 4180 volumes.

"Safety is assured on the Leviathan. There are 68 life boats and two 31-foot motor boats equipped with wireless, the 70 boats having a capacity of 4760 persons. There is a Sperry gyro-compass, similar to those used on battleships; draft gauges so the amount of water the vessel is drawing can be read on the bridge; four microphones for submarine signals; two high-power searchlights; 13 watertight transverse bulkheads; and 18 watertight sliding doors hydraulically operated and controlled from the bridge.

"Fire protection includes a 45-station alarm system, 28 miles of copper tubing in which expansion of air raises an alarm of fire automatically, 11,000 feet of hose, and 10 pumps having a capacity of 1,670 gallons a minute.

Hospital For 34.

"The Leviathan has 15,000 electric lamps, and a generating plant providing enough power to supply an ordinary home for seven years. There is a social hall 53 x 216, with a 21-foot ceiling. On board will be three doctors and three hospital stewards, with an operating room and a hospital accommodating 34 patients, in addition to the crew's hospital accommodating 16.

"The distance around the promenade deck is 1,000—4.8 laps to the mile. There are seven galleys, where the cooking will be done by Americans. Chinaware includes 184,000 pieces—and there are 65,000 linen sheets and pillow cases, towels and tablecloths.

"Food? There will be enough for a city on each trip—95 tons of meat, 36 tons of poultry, 3 tons of game birds, 28 tons of fish, 30 tons of potatoes, 10 tons of other vegetables, 8 tons of sugar, 2 tons of tea, and coffee, 2 tons of ham, 26 tons of flour, 2 tons of grapes, 7 1/2 tons of butter, 10 tons of jams and preserves, and a ton of tobacco; besides that 12,285 quarts of milk, 6,714 dozen eggs, and 7,000 boxes of oranges, apples and other fruit."

Thrilling Balcony Drama

Schoolmaster and Baby Daughter Fall 40 Feet Into Garden.

A remarkable balcony drama was enacted in the quiet surroundings of Leith Mansions, Edgin-Avenue, Maida Vale, England, and a schoolmaster and his baby daughter are in the hospital with serious injuries.

Mr. George Stephens Penny (37), a master at a London Grammar School, his wife, and their three-year-old daughter, Joan, live in a flat at No. 87. A stone balcony without railings runs outside of the windows, some 40 ft. or 50 ft. above the ground.

Mr. Penny was on the balcony, with the child in his arms. Suddenly the little girl was seen to fall. She crashed to the garden below with terrific force.

Then, while Mrs. Penny and neighbors screamed in horror, Mr. Penny was also seen to fall from the balcony into the garden.

Just previously, it is stated, there was a fierce struggle on the balcony at the rear of the flat.

Very Pretty Child.

Both father and child were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington. The man is suffering from fractured ribs and probably other injuries, and is in a dangerous condition. The child has a leg and an arm broken and other serious injuries.

Mrs. Penny accompanied them to the hospital, and remained there nearly all day.

"They seemed a most happy and affectionate family," a neighbor said. "They were always going out together."

"Joan was a very pretty little girl of a sweet disposition, and her chief amusement was to dance to the music of the gramophone or listen to the nursery rhymes records.

"Mr. Penny suffered from bad health and had been ill quite recently."

He is stated to have served abroad during the war and contracted malaria.

"My Poor Wife."

Mr. Hallett, the porter of the mansions, said he was attracted by the screams and ran out into the front garden.

"I saw Mr. Penny lying on the front garden patch," he said, "and Joan lying in the arms of a neighbor. I ran to Mr. Penny, who was quite conscious.

"How are my poor wife and Joan?" were his first words. I reassured him, but he kept talking until the ambulance arrived.

Mr. Penny was a Master of Arts of Cambridge University.

This Widow to Mourn for Ever.

SHE IS TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD AND HAS HAD SEVEN HUSBANDS.

LONDON, May 10.—Countess Mafalda Trussoni, the Italian beauty, lost her first husband by death when she was only seventeen. Little more than a year later the next husband died. Then the next.

She is now twenty-five years old, and has buried five husbands. She has decided to call a truce with fate by vowing never to marry again. She has also decided that the best way to appease whatever gods are angry with her is to go to mournful for the rest of her life.

Black becomes the raven-haired Countess Trussoni. Her friends assure her that by going into mourning she is doing no penance. Her male admirers, however, declare that her vow of perpetual chastity is the next thing to suicide.

Grand Old Gentleman of Seventy Testifies

That Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Relieved Him of Rheumatism.

Mr. Michael Provost wants Everyone to know what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for him.

Poultamou, N.S., May 21.—(Special). Mr. M. Provost, well known and highly respected resident of this place is another of that great army who have benefited by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. This is what Mr. Provost says: "I am 70 years old and want people to know I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills, and have greatly benefited by them. I find that I have been relieved of my rheumatism, also other slight ailments."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the Kidneys strengthening them so that they do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood. Uric acid crystallizing in the muscles causes the pains known as rheumatism. With no Uric Acid in the blood there can be no rheumatism.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make sound Kidneys.

This Steel Won't Stain.

Failure Predicted but Success Achieved.

"The bright spot in the market," a trade journal announced recently, in a gloomy review of the staple industry of Sheffield, "is stainless steel."

The inventor of stainless steel is a Sheffielder, Mr. Harry Brearley, who got on the track of it while studying the effect of explosions on gun barrels and the inner tubes of large guns. He then produced an erosion-resisting steel, which, under the name of stainless steel, has since been used for making cutlery.

Numerous articles, including tools, are now manufactured from the material. A unique example was an enormous axe, presented to Sir Eric Geddes last year.

Makers' Misgivings.

One of the latest developments in the application of the principles embodied in stainless is stainless iron, which is steadily making its way in every civilized country.

Both products have numerous uses, and enter into motor-cars, ships, and so on, as well as the equipment of collarists and engineering and other works. It is anticipated, too, that they will become more and more important factors in iron and steel usage everywhere.

In the cutlery branch of the trade, as every housewife knows, it holds to-day the premier place. Yet the inventor had hard work in getting blades manufactured from it.

Two well-known cutlery houses would not take it up on the ground that it was too difficult to forge and grind, and a third, though it agreed to make some trials, thought that failure was inevitable. The manager of this firm declared that a blade which would not stain or rust was an impossibility.

Only a Daisy Stalk But it Kills a Boy.

Pierced Drum of His Ear and Brought on Lockjaw.

CARDIFF, May 10.—Remarkable circumstances have attended the death of an eleven-year-old boy, Leslie Hancock, of Allerton street, who fell from a wall. On touching the ground a flower stalk entered his ear, and he subsequently died.

At the inquest his mother said her boy was climbing the wall to get a ball which a companion had lost, when he fell on a number of daisies which had been picked, and which were lying in a heap, the stalks half dried. One of these entered the lad's ear and snapped. He was taken to the doctor, and from there went to school. Subsequently he had difficulty in opening his mouth, and was again taken to the doctor, who advised his removal to a hospital.

Medical evidence attributed death to tetanus (lockjaw) brought on by injury to the ear. The verdict was one of "accidental death."

Blessing of Hard Times.

There are at least two distinct ways in which we may recognize when a man is really a "hard worker." There is first the man who is "on the job" and who has the same interest in his success as the man who is interested in his success as a game, such as baseball, tennis, or tennis. He is satisfied with success because he cannot always win; but it is as well that he should win, for then he might be tempted into a purse-proud plutocrat's success is bad for a man.

Then there is another type to whom business always brings distress and unhappiness, or to whom at least the distressing points of his life are most conspicuous. He thinks, perhaps, that it is hard luck that he should have to work at all; he thinks that people are much happier who do not have to work. He does not realize, of course, that success and a life of ease do not constitute the road to happiness. If he harked back to a few years ago when business was so good that he could not help making money, he would no doubt be surprised to find how very little happier he was than now when he is getting along with more difficulty. Besides, times like those of the war days did not make strong men in any case; they did not put people on their mettle. It is the times we have been having for the past year or so that really put men on their mettle and strengthen their capacity for doing things. Someone has said that "1923 will reward fighters." Probably when he said that he did not fully comprehend all that the statement meant—that people must put not only their backs but their hearts into their work. And the reward will be twofold—first, a strengthening of the faculty of ingenuity, and second, the practical certainty that the balance in the ledger for the fiscal year will be longer, on the right side.—Maritime Merchant.

WILLARD AND FIRPO WILL LIKELY MEET ON JUNE 30.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Negotiations for a match between Jess Willard and Luis Angel Firpo on June 30, to take place probably at the Yankee Stadium, as a final step in the elimination process to select a challenger for Jack Dempsey's throne reached a stage of semi-completion yesterday. Willard and his manager, Ray Archer, accepted the challenge date for the match at a conference with Promoter Tex Rickard, while Jimmy De Forest, the South American's ring mentor, also put his stamp of approval of the preliminary plans. Discussion of financial terms was deferred until to-morrow at another conference between the principals and Rickard, according to Rickard's plans, would be matched in a contest preliminary to a Willard-Firpo bout.

JOE BECKETT STOPS VETERAN DICK SMITH IN THE 17th.

LONDON, May 14.—Joe Beckett tonight knocked out Dick Smith in the seventh round of a bout for the heavyweight championship of Great Britain.

It was another case of age against youth. Beckett started the fight by forcing Smith around the ring with the object of trying out the older man. There were those among the spectators who believed Smith would not be able to last ten rounds. Not only did Smith hold Beckett well in hand, however, but in the tenth set landed three terrific rights to Beckett's jaw and at the gong had him GROGKY.

Smith was fighting hard in the eleventh, but it was apparent he was fast tiring. He conserved his strength, however, and continued to hold his advantage throughout the fifteenth round. In the sixteenth Beckett began to force the pace. It was apparent that Smith was weakening and after a minutes' boxing in the seventeenth round, Beckett landed a right to the jaw and Smith went down for the count.

"ERPO GRAT," SAYS TEX—"I AM," SAYS JESS—"ME SOCKA DA DEMP," SAYS LUIS—"COIN," SAYS KEARNS.

Tex Rickard, "The exhibition of Luis Firpo, the South American wildman, convinced me that he will make a dangerous opponent for Jack Dempsey. He has a terrific punch and he showed that he can take a lot of punishment. While Willard's victory was a surprise to many, I knew that the champion still carried a powerful punch. That he did was well evidenced by the manner in which he handled Johnson."

Luis Angel Firpo. "I won just as I expected to—by a knockout. And now I would like to fight with Jack Dempsey. McAniff put up a fine battle. He was fast and lively, but that did not bother me. I felt that I could beat him when I wanted to, and events proved I was right. I am glad to have been able to fight before such a big American crowd, and now I hope Dempsey will give me a chance at the title before another year has passed."

Jess Willard. "Well, I guess I fooled some of the boys. I proved that I have come back. I am ready to meet any one selected for me and I am confident that I can go as far in the ring as I did before. My condition is good, and I am sound. My legs, the bugaboo that was the objective of criticism before the bout, caused me not the slightest trouble. Johnson is a hardy fighter, but I took what he had and seemed to survive rather well."

Jack Kearns. "Both Firpo and Willard fought scraps. Johnson carried the fight and showed a fine attack, but he is not much of a puncher and, of course, he was handicapped in carrying a lot of weight. Willard did very well and there is no need to regard him as a 'has-been.' He stood up successfully under Johnson's onslaught. Firpo bears watching. He looks good. Dempsey is ready to box either the South American or Willard. When will he meet them? That is a question, but probably before long."

Unsolved Mysteries of Medicine.

SILK BLOUSE THAT MAKES ITS WEARER ILL.

Doctors, during the last year or two, have had some great surprises. Indeed, their own discoveries have provided them with puzzles, several of which they have been unable to solve.

Perhaps the most astonishing of these is the effect of sunlight in feeding the human body. Even three years ago anyone who had suggested that so impalpable a quality as light could be a nourishing food would have been thought a suitable inmate for a lunatic asylum.

Yet that light is such a food has now been proved. During the winter months, if we are to keep healthy, we must all eat more fat either as butter or dripping, or in the form of cod liver oil. Fat, therefore, is a substitute for light. The Eskimos made this discovery long ago, and so, by eating "blubber," are able to live without the sun.

The idea that placing patients round an ordinary arc lamp, like hunters round a camp fire, would become a method of treatment was not dreamed of a few years ago.

Another great puzzle is the return of influenza every thirty-third week. This has been proved to occur, but nobody has the least idea why it should.

Even more astonishing still is the discovery of what is now called the "bacterophage." This, it has been suggested, is nothing less than a disease of disease, a germ which kills other germs in the same way as these are apt to kill human beings.

A more homely, but not an easier, modern problem concerns the reason why milk goes sour during a thunderstorm. Naturally, though there is no key to the mystery, it is being asked whether any of the germs of disease are affected in the same way. Are thunder seasons unhealthy seasons?

Hairs That Cause Illness. Possibly if we could answer this question we might obtain some light on another mystery—why outbreaks of infectious disease often take place on ships which have been at sea too long for anyone to have caught the infection before sailing.

Again, everybody knows that there are people who cannot enter a room in which a cat is sitting. Just lately it has been found that a single hair from a cat rubbed on the skin of such a person may bring on an attack of asthma. And the same thing is true, in the cases of other people, of horse's hair and even of silk. A medical journal describes how a girl became ill every time she attempted to wear a silk blouse!

Broke Her Nose For Beauty Sake.

Changing the Features of Women to Improve Looks is the Latest and Cutest Fad.

PARIS, May 10.—Parisiennes are going to such lengths to achieve beauty as quite to put in the shade the painful operation of "dimpling" (making a hole in the chin by means of a drugged needle).

Many women think nothing of having their noses broken and reset in a different shape. Others actually have the eyebrows moved upwards or downwards, as fancy dictates. This necessitates a complete removal of the hair and either a false and forced growth in a different position or make-up.

One beauty expert, who undertakes to change the form of a woman's lips, has performed many operations. His latest experiment is to make the upper lip turn up, giving it an aluring pout.

To do this he stretches a thin hair from the upper lip to the tip of the nose. This effect, naturally, is limited to actresses, who use it on the stage only.

Some fashionable women are being laughed at for their insistence on having their cosmetics favored. One has her lip-curve tasting of banana.

Willard Comes Back.

The recent bouts held in New York at the Yankee Stadium on May 12th, in aid of the New York Milk Fund netted the handsome sum of $260,000 net profit. Over seventy thousand people saw the show, in which Jess Willard, the 40 year old cow puncher won by a knock-out over Floyd Johnson, his 23 year old opponent.

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

Round 3.—Johnson punched Willard's head with raking rights at close quarters. Willard launched several heavy rights which fell short. Johnson's blows did not seem to bother Willard but the Kansas wind did not appear any too good.

Round 4.—Johnson punched awkwardly and took many heavy straight lefts to the face. He backed Willard into a corner but could not find his head. Johnson attempted to rough up the big Kansas. Johnson landed many blows in the round but few of them had power.

Round 5.—Willard jumped to the assault and hooked rights and lefts to the body. Willard sent hard rights to the jaw. Johnson's ability to take punishment was remarkable. Johnson's mouth bled. Johnson rallied, punching Willard's head with lefts and rights.

Round 7.—Johnson worked his arms like a windmill but the big Kansas never budged. Johnson hit Willard every place but apparently there was nothing hurtful in his punches. The harder Willard's punches, the harder Johnson fought.

Round 8.—Johnson hooked a hard right to Willard's jaw. All of Johnson's fighting was at close quarters. Willard crashed a right to the jaw. Willard landed a left upper-cut. Willard pounded Johnson's head with rights. Johnson, the youngster, weathered the storm nicely.

Round 9.—Willard pounded Johnson's head unmercifully with uppercuts, hooks and straight punches, and still Johnson stood up. Johnson sent a hard right to the stomach. Johnson went down from a right to the jaw but was up immediately as the round ended.

Round 10.—Willard connected to the jaw with two straight rights. Johnson was wild and Willard took advantage of this to rest. Willard took a storm of rights and lefts to the jaw laughing, and then, as Johnson tired, he took the offensive. Johnson took more uppercuts and right hooks without quailing.

Round 11.—Johnson's head rocked from a right hook. He went down from a right uppercut. He was up at nine. Johnson fell to the floor from a right uppercut as the bell rang and was carried to his corner by his seconds. It was doubtful if he would be able to continue.

Round 12.—Willard wins by knock-out. Johnson refusing to come out for the twelfth round.

Another popular bout was that between Luis Firpo the Argentine Adonis and McAuliffe the 2nd of Detroit. Firpo easily disposed of McAuliffe in the third round by the K.O. method.

THE McAULIFFE-FIRPO BOUT BY ROUNDS.

Round 1.—McAuliffe landed the first blow, a left to the head, and shot in a right uppercut as they came to close quarters. Firpo landed a right to the body and drew a left hook to the head. Firpo rushed in but McAuliffe took a hard right to the neck but laughed as he danced out of Firpo's reach. They were mixing at a fast clip as the round ended.

Round 2.—McAuliffe rushed Firpo to the ropes, jabbing with his left. Firpo swung his right to the body twice in succession but failed to shake the seaborner Detroit. A slight trickle of blood came from McAuliffe's nose and Firpo showed a slight cut on his lip after an exchange. A right to the jaw sent McAuliffe sprawling but he was up in a few seconds, the bell ending the round.

Round 3.—Firpo rushed from his corner, driving McAuliffe about the ring. McAuliffe sprawled and arose only to meet another withering attack to the head and body. Reeling about the ring under a rain of blows, McAuliffe sank to the floor from a right swing to the jaw. He was counted out after one minute and two seconds of the round had elapsed.

What Talents Are Worth

MOST BRAINY MEN DON'T EARN MOST MONEY.

What is the most profitable qualification, talent, or gift a man can possess in these days?

In the Law Courts a few days ago it was disclosed that a champion boxer could have earned a minimum of £150 and a maximum of £300 a week if he had cared to carry out a contract to appear at music-halls.

Such earnings must dishearten professional men, who, after an expensive training and education, a long novitiate, and a lengthy practice-building grind, are making a bare £1,000 a year—which is probably about the average income of the senior professional man in the rank and file of his profession.

Ten Days' Work in One.

Intellect without force is one of the most poorly paid of all human qualities. The scholar is traditional for his poverty. On the other hand, the intellectual has a longer career than most, and at seventy often retains his maximum earning power.

Intellect with force, such as the great lawyer possesses, may yield an income of £50,000 a year.

Intelligence—and there is a world of difference between intelligence and intellect—is infinitely more valuable as civilization is ordered today. It is intelligence and not intellect which rules in the business world. The intelligent business magnate who lives at the rate of £30,000 a year and dies worth a million buys intellect for his purposes at a few hundreds a year—the most highly trained intellect at perhaps two or three thousand a year.

The biggest incomes are earned to-day by the men who combine in the highest degree great intelligence with enormous energy. Lord Leverhulme and Siemens are such men. They do ten days' work in one.

Intelligence with energy, but not exceptional energy, earns its thousands a year in the business world, especially on the selling and exploiting, as opposed to the producing side. More energy, on the other hand, is remunerated on the side of skilled labour. The dull sergeant is the most apt example our civilization affords of the utilization by society of mere energy.

Intellect wedded to vast energy is so rare that centuries leap between examples. Such combinations throw up great conquerors. Napoleon is the historical example.

Rich Rewards.

The mathematical gift, the talent for combinations and calculations, is universally remunerated. Einstein, the relativist, is a comparatively poor man. Astronomers rank as money-makers with country-town doctors.

But men who apply their gift in a practical manner reap huge rewards. James R. Keene, the American stock operator, is an outstanding example. He built no business, but merely applied his calculating gift to stock operating, and the magnates of Standard Oil, U.S. Steel, and other colossal concerns employed him to manipulate vast blocks of shares for them on the market. His reward ran into millions.

Filipino Women.

Filipino have some customs which seem queer to us. A woman does not drive a horse or automobile, or ride a bicycle. She may wish to be a nurse, but men and boys occupy this field. She can do fine embroidery, but the men design the patterns. Yet twice the percentage of Filipino women are earning their living in comparison with Canadian women. Co-education exists throughout the islands.

CUTICURA HEALS RASH ON BACK

Spread to Neck and Arms. Itched and Burned. Lasted 3 Months.

"My trouble began with a rash breaking out on my back. My clothing aggravated it, and it kept spreading to my neck and arms. It itched and burned so that I spent many a sleepless night. The trouble lasted about three months. I tried different remedies without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample which helped me. I bought more and in three weeks was healed." (Signed) H. M. Kramer, 566 Herald Ave., Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 24, 1923.

Cuticura Soap to cleanse and purify. Cuticura Ointment to soothe and heal and Cuticura Talcum to powder and perfume are ideal for daily toilet purposes.
