Some New Factories

The new plants include a great airplane factory now nearing completion, a large machine gun factory already working to full capacity, and artillery factories at various places.

Some thirty representatives, many of them mayors, attended an important meeting of the executive of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association held in the city hall yesterday afternoon.

The imminent shortage of power and private attempts to secure riparian rights on the St. Lawrence River were the reasons for the gathering, and those present expressed no uncertainty in the feeling that power developed in Canada should be exported across the line to the detriment of the provincial hydro, municipalities and Canadian industries, including many munition plants.

"The High Heart"

By Basil King

A Novel With a Canadian Heroine, Especially Reviewed for Us by Katherine Hale.

A GIRL from Halifax, whom before the war we might have termed "a society girl," enters the family of an American millionaire as companion and nursery governess. About her there is the spirit of old British and Canadian ancestry, and she carries as her heritage a high heart. That same she needs in the atmosphere in which she finds herself just at the outbreak of the Great War, in which her own country becomes instantly involved.

The household of J. Howard Brokenshire is typical of the self-absorbed, firmly established, very-rich. We have met them many times. But that which has not occurred before in fiction is the introduction of a Canadian who is racial in the best sense of the word. This is the first delineation of that essential quality that is not British and is not American. And as Alix Adare, by her force and charm, wins the hearts and changes the destinies of those about her, so will she touch the imagination of readers everywhere.

This story is a good illustration of that fact that such a type is more important than one which is bizarre or thrilling. Basil King has not only given us the first Canadian girl with a background, but also a brilliant novel in "The High Heart." (On Sale in the Book Department—price $1.25.)

A FINE DAY ON FIFTH AVENUE—AND FASHION HAS HER FLING

Fall Styles as Seen in New York by "The Scribe."

NEW YORK, Oct. 13th.—Four hundred and twenty-five years ago yesterday Columbus discovered America, and in celebration thereof the Avenue is all a-flutter with flags. But just how many are due to Columbus and how many to the more ancient Mars it would be difficult to say. For with all the voices of which she is possessed is New York affirming the fact that she is taking part in the great war. Knitting bags—every woman and child of high or low degree is swinging one on her arm, in varieties ranging from the small laundry bag to the carpenter's tool kit. Mannequins in the fashion parades in the shops pirouette along the platform knitting scarfs. Movie actresses and other celebrities are ensconced in conspicuous places selling Liberty Bonds. Red "Service" flags fly from the windows of houses, warehouses and offices, proclaiming by the number of black stars upon the white centre the number of young men who have gone to the Army from that family or business firm. Ladies in the picturesque garb of the Red Cross distribute wool and literature from special booths in the hotels and in stations.

And doubtless because of the tenor of the time the new styles are noticeably simple, and the colors remarkably quiet. But if gaiety and elaboration are lacking, chic and distinction are unrestrained. It is a simplicity attained by the hand of genius. If she dressed in sackcloth the New York woman would be an interesting figure—a pattern for all to follow.

The Bustle All Supreme

Skirts are wide enough to step in, that's all, and the bustle is an established fact. The smartest dresses and suits that matron and miss are exploiting show this old-time drapery below the waistline at the back of the skirt. In evening frocks it is almost invariable, in afternoon dresses it is immensely popular, and in suits it is a distinctive feature of the softer models. Sometimes it assumes the form of a large, loosely-tied sash, but oftentimes it is the real Victorian bustle in all its magnitude of puffs and pleats innumerable.

Tunics or flying panels are the alternative to the bustle, with the underkirt below clinging closely to the ankles. Sleeves fit tightly as kid gloves, and bodices are flat, relieved only by buttons or a tracery of embroidery.

The Ubiquitous Dress of Navy Serge

Time cannot wither nor custom stale its infinite variety—this tailored frock of blue serge. Morning, noon and five o'clock 'tis the chosen garb of the well-dressed woman, shopping,

"When it comes to the heavier neckpieces, then it's capes you see—regular dolmans and quaint Jane Austen mantelets."

lunching or setting forth to tea. Tunic, panel or bustle skirt, black satin underskirt, glove-fitting sleeves, long, narrow, white satin collar, brown fox scarf, and high, close-fitting turban—this is the picture you carry away of that smartest of dames, young Madame New York.

And speaking of scarfs, Fashion is all for fox and wolf in this brown tone mentioned—variously known as Lucille, Georgetown and Victoria—also the lighter cinnamon brown and its near relation, taupe. When it comes to the heavier neckpieces, then it's capes you see—regular dolmans and quaint Jane Austen mantelets, developed in Kolinsky, dyed squirrel and moleskin.

"Skirts are so wide enough to step in—that's all."

Velvet—Oh, So Becoming

Velvet and its humbler sister, velveteen, is in high favor for afternoon and evening frocks—black for the former, and rich, radiant rose,

"The long, narrow collar of white satin—it's the smartest thing in tailoring—neck fittings."

"Hats rest on the eyebrows and look as though they required a shoe horn to draw them on and pull them off."

green and old blue for the latter. And you may well imagine how effectively simplicity may be worked out with velvet as the medium—a sight to rejoice the eye of the portrait painter.

Hats rest on the eyebrows in front, and look as though they would require a shoe horn to draw them on and pull them off. For those that top the smartest costumes are small—coquettish little chin-chin sailors or high cap-like turbans. Tricornees, too, are very popular. As for so-called trimmings, they are non est. The tall-topped idea prevails. Even the "restored" idea prevails. Even the "restored" idea prevails. Even the "restored" idea prevails.

The sun shines cheerfully. The Stars and Stripes wave proudly in the breeze. And the motor cars swish by with that inimitable, Fifth Avenue swish.

SHIFTS ARE MADE IN CURLING GROUPS

Number Thirteen Will Play at Agincourt—Toronto Clubs Move—The Officers.

The election, by acclamation, of George R. Hargrave, of the Ontario Club of Ottawa, to the presidency, the changing of a number of groupings, and the general routine business occupied the attention of the delegates and officers at the annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association yesterday morning at the Granite Club.

The officers elected, all by acclamation, are: Patron, His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire; honorary president, Sir John E. Hendrie; president, George R. Hargrave; first vice-president, F. C. Burden (Detroit); secretary-treasurer, G. S. Peary; chaplain, Major (Rev.) Richard Macnamara (Collingwood); executive committee, T. Rennie, C. Swisher, W. H. Wright (Owen Sound), A. M. Cunningham (Hamilton), M. Asselstine (Kingston), T. L. Hamilton (Fergus); committee on annual, Rev. J. W. Pedley, C. Swisher and G. S. Peary; auditors, G. G. Ekins and W. H. Burns.

The most important change made in the groupings was that in the Tankard competition, group No. 13 being the one in question. This group, made up of Toronto, Agincourt, High Park and Queen City made up group five. The change was made on the ground that if the games were played at one of the towns it would help to create greater interest. It was the feeling of the meeting that Agincourt should be the place of play, and the change was made accordingly.

Mr. Asselstine brought to the attention of the meeting another matter of great importance. It was in connection with the ladies' curling clubs. As it now stands on the O. C. A. books no ladies' club can compete in the Ladies' Tankard unless each club is affiliated with a club made up of male members. It was pointed out that this was a detriment to the game as far as the ladies were concerned, and the meeting readily agreed that the constitution be changed. In future it will not be necessary for the ladies' clubs to be affiliated with a club made up of male members in order to become a member of the O. C. A. and to compete in the Tankard.

HOW TO PLAY GOLF

Charles (Chick) Evans Jr.

Brassy and Spoon

I have described in previous articles the grip, stance and swing for brassy play, but there seems to be a lot of uncertainty as to just where and how the ball ought to be hit under differing circumstances. So let me make these points clear.

If the ball is lying fairly well, then the stroke with the brassy is practically the same as it is from the tee. All the player has to do is to skin the turf closely and the loft in the face of the brassy will pick the ball up and give it plenty of reach for distance. The swing should reach its maximum speed just when it comes into contact with the ball, but many a player spoils his brassy shot by his effort to get too much power into them. He should allow the club to do more of the work for which it is designed. If, however, the ball is cupped, the problem is not so simple. This kind of a shot is especially hard for a player who shoots too high a tee. The brassy shot of course, usually follows a shot from the tee, and the difference in height from the tee to high and a cupped ball makes the brassy difficult club for many a player.

In playing a cupped ball, the club should come to the ground a half an inch or an inch behind the ball. This point should be deliberately aimed at, then, when the club-head comes down on that point it will push along the turf and be under the ball when they come in contact, so that an abundance of loft will be secured.

I have seen many players make poor work of a cupped ball because they show a tendency to try to scoop the ball out of the cup, and the usual result is to smother the club-head in the ground, getting little or no distance. It seems to take some players a long time to realize that this effort to dig the ball out doesn't pay. In fact, it almost invariably fails. I believe this tendency goes back very largely to the question of developing a swinging temperament again. A beginner, in his effort to make low scores, refuses to admit the impossibility of some shots, and foolishly attempts the impossible. Beginners will do well not to attempt to interfere with the underlying principles of golf.

If the ball is so badly cupped that the shot cannot be made in the regular way, then it may be a case for iron club play. If a study of the situation shows this, players should proceed accordingly. Experienced players, even on a badly cupped ball, sometimes like to stick to the iron in an absolutely firm grip, and take the ground about two inches back of the ball. The follow through should not be tried for, as in the nature of this stroke it is especially out of the question.

In my own bag I carry a spoon and regard it as a valuable club. The object of the spoon is of course, for shots which are a little too short for a brassy and a bit too long for an iron. Flay with the spoon is practically the same as with the brassy, excepting that, the club being shorter, you must stand somewhat nearer to the ball. The upward and downward swing, the follow through, are the same as the brassy. It is a good club for 150 to 180 yards.

CANADA'S MEDICAL WORK IS PRAISED

Lieut.-Col. Hadley Williams Never Saw Nurse Reprimanded.

SURGEONS EFFICIENT

Ottawa Militia Department Corrects Erroneous Press Reports on Service.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—In view of certain statements credited to Lieut.-Col. Hadley Williams, while addressing a county medical association, and published in Canadian newspapers, inquiry was made and it was found that he had been misrepresented. In order to clear up the matter, and to relieve the anxiety that the report of his remarks might have caused to relatives of men overseas, the following statement has been issued by the militia department...

HUSBAND'S FRIEND GAVE GOOD ADVICE

Mrs. Clark Was Despondent Over Her Many Troubles, She Declares.

SUFFERED TWO YEARS

"I Am Now a Stronger and Healthier Woman Than I've Been in Years," She Says.

"I was almost a nervous wreck when I started on Tanlac, and a few bottles of this wonderful medicine pulled me up to where I am now, a stronger and healthier woman than I have been in many years," declared Mrs. Sarah Clark, whose husband is employed by the Fairbanks-Morse Co., and who resides at 1245 Dufferin street, Toronto, the other day. "My troubles began two years ago with loss of appetite," she continued, "and I soon got so I could hardly eat anything but what I forced down. Soon after rising from the table I felt an awful gnawing in my stomach and would bloat up with gas so that I could hardly breathe, and then I would begin belching up sour gas and spitting up little bits of undigested food. My nervous system was in a wretched condition and I was so restless that I lay awake for hours at a time after going to bed worrying over my many troubles. I became a subject to spells of melancholy and run-down to do a thing about the house. "One day a friend of my husband's told me about Tanlac and said by all means to get me to try it, and it sure was good advice, for before I had been taking it more than a week I was picking up and getting better every day. I have taken five bottles so far and it has given me such a grand appetite that I can eat anything I want and never have any trouble with gas or indigestion in any form. That choking sensation has passed off, my nerves are all right and my sleep is as sweet and restful as a child's. That tired, worn-out feeling has disappeared and instead of feeling depressed I am more cheerful and take more interest in my household affairs than I have been able to do in a long time." Tanlac is sold in Toronto by Tamblin's Drug Stores and by one regular established agency in every town. (Advertisement.)

LORD SHAUGHNESSY BACKS COMPULSION

President of Canadian Pacific Comes Out for Win-War Policy.

ISSUES MANIFESTO

Big Railway Chief Sees Necessity of Securing More Soldiers.

Montreal, Oct. 16.—Lord Shaughnessy has issued a statement containing his views on conscription. In this he says: "There is a germ in my system that renders obnoxious every form of legislation calculated to invade the personal liberty of the subject, save such as may be necessary for the safety of the nation and for the peace, health and general welfare of the people. "Enforced military service in time of peace as it existed in some foreign countries would come within my category of objectionable measures. The encouragement of the military spirit in normal times is not best for the people, whose aim should be the promotion of a policy making for peace, prosperity and happiness. "Should it be conceded that the safety of the nation demands an unremitting condition of military preparedness it may be properly asked where the limit is to be placed, because there must be a limit or a military autocracy will ensue, such as that which the allies are now determined to destroy in Germany at very serious cost. "If the people are to be free from this menace of militarism there must be a pride of country and a national spirit of patriotism that will provide all the necessary men, money and material with the least possible delay whenever they may be needed to defend the rights and liberties of the nation, all citizens bearing their respective shares of the burden as nearly as possible in like proportion. "Canada was among the first to declare that the war in which Britain and France were engaged for the defence of human liberty was Canada's war also. The men of Canada responded nobly to the call for volunteers. Thousands of them made the supreme sacrifice. Other thousands were wounded or taken prisoners. Disgrace in Failure. "They call to us for a further supply of men to fill the gaps in their depleted ranks and failure to respond to that call would not only be a lasting disgrace to Canada, but might be a matter of no small moment in determining the outcome of the struggle. "If by any chance the central powers succeeded in defeating Britain and all our allies our freedom would be gone. We would be under the thumb of an arrogant and relentless foe, and we would be reduced to a state of vassalage. All our hopes and aspirations and those of our children for generations to come are bound up indissolubly in the defeat of our enemies. "Into the accomplishment of this purpose let us continue to send our energetic and patriotic youth, and having the most accurate information, declare that further reinforcements are essential and that they cannot be secured by voluntary enlistment. In these circumstances conscription, however pronounced may be our antipathy to legislation of that description, should be accepted not as an invasion of the personal liberty of the subject, but as a measure designed to preserve it. Indeed, if it be necessary, the scope of the conscription bill should be so enlarged as to compel service in all branches of industry furnishing war material and supplies. "Frictions, jingoism and incendiary speeches emanating as a rule from those whose only contribution to the war is in the form of vagabondage, which may tend to encourage domestic strife, should be suppressed, and every utterance that savors of disloyalty should bring prompt punishment. "Conscription is now the law of the country, and no matter what his views about the policy of the government or the motives and methods alleged to have attended our recruiting and other war activities during the first two years of the war, it is the sacred duty of every good citizen of Canada loyally and willingly to assist the authorities in putting the conscription law into effect with swiftness and impartiality, and serving his criticism of policy, and practice until the war is over."

WAR COST IS NOW $6,500,000 AN HOUR

United States Paying Quarter of War Expenses of Allies.

New York, Oct. 16.—The Associated Press today carries the following: "The war is costing the belligerent nations of the world at the rate of $180,000,000 a day—$6,500,000 an hour—and the United States is paying at least one-quarter of this staggering sum, according to estimates made today by the Mechanics and Metals National Bank of New York. The estimated daily cost at the beginning of the war was $60,000,000, and a year ago it was $100,000,000. This country's rate of expenditure is greater than any other nation. Great Britain being second and Germany next. By next August, according to the bank's figures, the total cost to the world will be $155,000,000,000. Already expenditures have exceeded $180,000,000,000, of which all but a fraction has been translated into permanent national indebtedness. Inter-continental public debt is now calculated to be more than ten per cent of the normal income of the German people, as compared with less than one-half of one per cent in the case of the people of this country. The developed national wealth of the allies is placed at $600,000,000,000 by the bank, while that of the central powers is given as $180,000,000,000. About 53,000,000 men are today engaged in the war. To what extent the central powers have gained superiority over Germany is shown by the bank in striking fashion. With no more than 2,000,000 of American manpower, the population of fourteen entente allies from which the ranks of their armies may be replenished is altogether 1,300,000,000, against 200,000,000 in the central European nations."

Military Service Act, 1917 Explanatory Announcement by the Minister of Justice. The Act under the Military Service Act immediately. The Act under the Military Service Act immediately. The Act under the Military Service Act immediately.

Should You Be Exempt?

Every facility is afforded those who have reasonable ground for applying for exemption under the Military Service Act. Each man's case will be considered by a local, civil board, sitting in the locality where he lives, and will be decided as is desirable in the national interest. The idea behind the Military Service Act is to call up first only those whose absence from civilian occupations will cause least disturbance to the country's economic and social life. One hundred thousand reinforcements—no more—are to be raised under the Act.

Cases of Exemption

Over 1,250 civic tribunals have been organized throughout Canada, known as Exemption Tribunals. These boards are comprised of 2 members, one appointed by the county judge and one by a joint committee of Parliament. It will be seen that these tribunals are non-military and independent. The members are men closely acquainted with conditions in the places where they sit and will be able to give each case sympathetic attention.

National Interest Will Govern Exemptions

Consideration will be given to applications for exemption received from men engaged in the production or manufacture of commodities necessary to the conduct of the war and the support of those at home and cases in which real hardship would be caused by the withdrawal. Not all men who register these claims will be exempted, but such claims will receive careful consideration. National interest must govern.

Promptness is Essential

Prompt application for exemption is strongly urged upon all who, being included in the first class, believe they deserve exemption. But first visit a Medical Board and find out if any further action is required. Unless the Medical examination places you in Category A, you will have no immediate obligation for service.

RAILWAYMEN WANT INCREASED WAGES

Representatives of Many Western Systems Meet at Ottawa.

LOW PAY RECEIVED

Two Hundred Thousand Employees Seek Ten Per Cent. Raise.

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—The one hundred and four chairmen representing conductors, baggage men, trainmen, brakemen and yardmen, employed on from 55 to 60 railroad systems in the northeastern section of the United States and that part of Canada situated east of Fort William, who met in the Victoria Museum today for their annual convention, discussed the wage question and will continue the debate all tomorrow. The convention is considering a proposition for demanding from all the railroads concerned, increases graduating according to the classification of the employees of not less than 10 per cent, and 200,000 men are affected. L. E. Sheppard of Grand Rapids, Iowa, vice-president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, and acting chairman in the absence of the president, A. B. Garretson, stated tonight at the conclusion of the session that the wage question was the only one dealt with. Consideration was given to the proposition of demanding from the railroads increases of at least 10 per cent. Mr. Sheppard said the existing scale is a very low one and does not come up to the scale put into effect by all the Canadian roads this year, with the exception of the Grand Trunk Railway. Five dollars a day was the highest a first-class conductor on a passenger train received. Brakemen were paid low, too, he said, a passenger brakeman receiving as low as $2.55 per day. His average life as such was only ten years. Higher wages for these men would be considered and a schedule drawn up. This will be submitted to the members both personally and by mail for their approval, and then it will be carried to the railroad executives.

COALITION, CHILD OF BIG INTERESTS

Sir Sam Hughes Declares Union Government Entirely Unnecessary.

PLANS LAID LONG AGO.

Triumph for Sir Joseph Flavelle and Sir Thomas White.

Lindsay, Oct. 16.—The following interview with Sir Sam Hughes appears in The Daily Warrier of today: "Several of our subscribers have requested us to ascertain your views on the new coalition government," said a Warrier representative to the general. "Would it appear?" replied Sir Sam. "It is generally understood that the press of Canada is more or less reformed in the interests of the new government." Upon being assured Sir Sam was ready to talk.

"What do you think of the new union government?" "It is a splendid triumph for the plans long ago laid by Sir Joseph Flavelle and Sir Thomas White," replied Sir Sam. "It is now more than a year since the movement to form a national or 'National Trust' government, as it was sometimes termed, was proposed by Sir Joseph and his friends. It is understood that the undertaking involved at that time a replacement of Sir Robert Borden by Sir Thomas White."

"What was the motive?" "Search me, as the Yankee said, but it is understood that the individuals comprising this famous group have not materially suffered in any sense except a slight ruffle of feelings over certain exposures recently made. But for that one incident (the exposure) their plans seemed to have worked perfectly."

"How will coalition affect you personally?" "Every candidate and member of parliament owes allegiance to his constituents and to them only. The people are masters; the members are their servants, and in turn the cabinet are the servants of the members. At least, that is what should prevail under responsible government, and just as governments depart from these principles do they become Kaiser-like, the machine prevails and liberty is endangered."

"You seem to think there was no pressing need for coalition?" "None whatever. That is had the government done its full duty during the last year."

"But Laurier held up proceedings for the successful carrying on of the war?" "Nonsense! Laurier had nothing to do with it. It was Sir Thomas White, Sir Joseph Flavelle, Sir George Perley, Baron Shaughnessy, and possibly a dread of the Nationalist party in Quebec under Bourassa."

"But did not Laurier force this wartime election?" "I do not see how. On three different occasions the government itself planned elections in war time. Once immediately after the session of 1914; again about the time of the sinking of the Lusitania; third, when Mr. Rogers made his famous and inspired Montreal address. It is understood there was still another occasion. When war was declared and before any session of parliament, I favored an election—early in August, 1914. No one else did. Again, after the session, when it was planned to swing an election, I objected because of Borden's pledges to Laurier during the session when the Liberals behaved so well in this I stood alone once more, and was severely condemned by the 'wire-pullers' of the party."

"Do you favor Laurier?" "Do I favor Laurier? No. As I said in one of my addresses on the floor of parliament, I could conceive only one greater calamity to Canada than losing the war and that would be the triumph of Laurier. What I do mean is this. The great Conservative party, which could have swept the country, has been brought to its present pitiable state by the control over the prime minister of Sir Thomas White, Sir Joseph Flavelle and Sir George Perley. Sir E. Borden and Sir George Perley, his Eorden, have swept Canada with 80 per cent. of the electorate behind him and 99 per cent. of the soldiers."

HIS HEART BADLY AFFECTED

It afterwards attacked my heart and I had pains all over my body, so that I could hardly move around. I tried all kinds of medicine, but none of them did me any good. At last I decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' I bought the first box last June, and now I am well, after using only three boxes. I recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to anyone suffering from indigestion."

"New Men of Good Quality." "What have you to say regarding the strength and weakness of the cabinet as it stands today? The cabinet as it stands today has good qualities. Some weeks ago when Jen. Mewburn and Col. Ballantyne, both my boys, were individually condemning conditions under Borden, and when each asked me why I did not break out and take hold of things myself, I thanked them for their confidence and loyalty, but showed that the results might be the placing in power of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. To them, as to many thousands of others who wished me to rebel and lead actively along proper lines in the war, I made the same reply. It would have meant the splitting of the Conservative party. Siftly and Calder are both able men, and I do not think would readily become passive in the hands of White and Flavelle."

"Will there be much loss of time before these men become accustomed to their new offices?" "It could not be worse than it has been in the last two years, with Perley holding up everything in England and White lining up everything here for the benefit of the institutions with which he and Flavelle are allied. One would almost be led to believe that the desire was to prolong the war for the benefit of certain people and institutions in Canada."

"That's putting it pretty strong?" "I am merely speaking of the effect of their actions. I do not know what their motives were. Their intentions may have been good, but good intentions constitute the pavement to 'What will Laurier do?'"

"Anti-French Clergy." "Laurier may be safely trusted to play his own game. In my opinion he has many great qualities, but he has missed his great opportunity. For many years he has been led by factions in his own province. It will not do for Laurier to say that the Liberal party would have been wiped out of existence in 1911 in Quebec if he had stood out against the Bourassa attack along anti-British lines. He should have manfully stamped Quebec at the outbreak of the war, and in place of yielding and falling back before the influence of Bourassa and the Nationalists, he should have fought them positively. Further, Laurier knew that a nest of priests existed from France years ago had settled in Quebec, and were misleading, thru certain seminaries and institutions, the good people of that province. Laurier knew that this nest was finally exposed, and yet he did not strike for liberty as becomes a descendant of the grand race to which he belongs. He proved himself an opportunist, and must bear the consequences. Had Laurier led his people aggressively, had he exposed this nest of old counsellors, French priests, who were openly pro-Germans, he would have been the master in Canada today. Later, when Borden approached him in weakness, Laurier kept him company by being even weaker."

"Must Support War." "My references are merely to the success of the aggressive movement in the war, and not the title-tattle of politicians. To my mind, both sides as far as the war part of it is concerned, have for the past year or more made a pitiable exhibition of themselves."

"In the event of an election what party will oppose the present cabinet?" "The old Liberal party will naturally oppose them, but no one knows what their policy may be. Judging by the present situation it is quite unlike that in England. There Lloyd George, the ultra radical in theory, has become in practice identical with Borden. Law. The two great master minds in war and in trade work under responsible government along democratic lines. They regularly meet their followers and fearlessly fight their cause and win their confidence. Here in Canada, reports says, these men are merely united on the cry of win-the-war. That means nothing, for there are not ten people in Canada but belong to the win-the-war party. The public will break with much interest the platform of the new government."

"On what basis will the members of parliament run?" "As this coalition government, and not like the British government, where all hold identical views, it is generally understood that the candidates will run on the old lines as Liberal and Conservative, but one cannot tell at this stage of the treaty how things may go. If the government should attempt to thwart the will of the constituencies by imposing candidates of their own here and there, there will in all probability be a new turn given to the game, and it will be hard to predict what the result might be."

"The Refused Crown." "As I have intimated I have refused from tens of thousands of sources requests and demands to come out and lead an aggressive fight for the war. I have felt that while there is much to be condemned in the inaction of the present government, the risk of letting Laurier get back into power by splitting the Conservative party, would be too great. Laurier's followers, however, and they are many, claim that he do not understand his position, and that in 1911 he fought manfully against Bourassa's anti-British fanaticism in Quebec and was beaten. They claim that he is fighting the combined influence of that disloyal nest of French priests who have been in alliance with German-American influence, and that the Nationalists under Bourassa are again seeking to disrupt him. His friends claim that just as in 1911, so now every vote for Bourassa is one against Laurier, and is one for Borden."

"My course, however, is clear. I shall openly and clearly give my support and influence to every man and member of the Conservative party who is supporting active, not passive, war measures. Where a Liberal holds similar views, and is not opposed by a Conservative holding similar views, he shall have my support. I sacrifice everything for the candidate who will be active in compelling any government to be energetic and active in prosecuting the war and supporting our soldier boys at the front."

"Need of Aggressive Electors." "I am especially anxious also that in every constituency the electors will be aggressive and compel their candidates to do away with waste of time and money thru dawdling in the war. Party government has not had a fair trial in recent years in Canada. The members of parliament have been too prone to be servile followers of the cabinet. The cabinet has kept control too much by exciting hopes in the hearts of the members for positions where their declining years will be passed in ease and comparative luxury."

"The people as a whole have not sufficiently made the members of parliament and the cabinet feel the weight of their power. This cabinet has been run too much by outside influence. There has not been enough independent thought in parliament. Therefore, I say, responsible government has not had a fair chance."

BRITISH PARLIAMENT RESUMES SITTINGS
Houses Have Big Crisp of Legislative and Administrative Work.

London, Oct. 16.—Parliament reassembled today after a recess of two months and began grappling with a big list of legislative and administrative work. Its most important duty will be the passing of a new vote of credit. This probably will bring up for discussion the general war situation, but it will be a few days before that business is reached.

For today there is nothing more exciting scheduled than the second reading of the bill giving the government control over all petroleum and the consideration of the titles deprivation bill, which is aimed at those who take up arms against Great Britain and her allies.

Chief interest centred in the prospect that the government would take advantage of the opportunity to announce the general policy of its air service, a subject which has been brought into the foreground by the recent raids over London.

CAPT. F. W. MILLER PROMOTED.
Brantford, Oct. 16.—Staff Captain Frederick William Miller, M.C., assistant quartermaster-general of the fifth Canadian division, has been appointed quartermaster-general, assistant adjutant of the fifth Canadian division with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He left here as a junior lieutenant with the first contingent of Dufferin Rifles.

DEATH OF MRS. GORST.
London, Oct. 16.—The death at Liverpool is announced of Emily Florence, wife of Major H. P. Gorst of the Canadian Infantry, formerly of Vancouver, Ottawa and Regina.

"If Canada fails us in October we must curtail many of our activities."

—Sir Arthur Stanley, Chairman, Executive Committee, British Red Cross, London, England.

Out of your abundance GIVE— and give generously

To give is a little thing to do in comparison with what our soldiers in the trenches are doing for us. "To-night they are wet, cold and hungry and floundering in the mud of Flanders that civilization might be safe and secure." Give so that you will feel that you have paid your debt to the boys in France. Give what you gave last year, and a little more. The wounded look to you.

If You Ask the Average Man Why He Buys at One Store in Preference to Another, He'll Naturally Tell You He Believes It is a Better Store---

Lots of men---more this year than ever before---have found the Simpson men's store a "better store."

They have found it better because it serves them better. It gives them more for their "clothes money"---it gives them clothes that embrace fabrics of good, sound, dependable quality, in a remarkably wide range of distinctive patterns---

It gives men clothes that are made right, and stay right---clothes that are hand-tailored by men, and pressed into shape by the strength of men---clothes that tip the scales for 100 per cent. par value.
