THE ZODIAC AND ITS SIGNS

The apparent path of the Sun across the heavens, made by the yearly revolution of the Earth, is called the Ecliptic. This term is derived from the fact that eclipses of the Sun or Moon can take place only when both these bodies are on, or very near, this line. The paths of the Moon and planets (except the asteroids), though each is different from that of the others, are all near this line, so that a space of a few degrees on each side of it will comprize them all. This space is called the ZODIAC. If it could be made visible across the sky, it would appear as a ribbon or belt circling the whole heaven. The Sun would always be in the Ecliptic, exactly in the middle of the belt, and the Moon and planets sometimes in the Ecliptic and sometimes north or south of it, but always within the limits of the Zodiac.

As there are 12 months in a year, the Sun, were its motion uniform, would pass over one-twelfth part of the whole circle of the Ecliptic each month. This space is called a sign; and as every complete circle contains 360 degrees, each sign must contain 30 degrees, so that the Sun moves over one degree each day, very nearly.

In order to fix the exact places of the signs in the Zodiac, the ancients grouped the stars which lay along its path into 12 constellations, having an imaginary outline resembling the figures of persons and animals; and they named the signs according to these constellations. Beginning at the exact point where the sun is in Spring, at the time when the day and night are of equal length, and going thence eastward 30 degrees, they called the constellation of stars occupying that space Aries, or the Ram; hence Aries is the name of both the first constellation and the first sign.* The next they called Taurus, or the Bull; the third Gemini, or the Twins, &c. Hence the origin of the word Zodiac, from the Greek word Zodia, animals. Our English ancestors used to call it "The Bestiary," and "Our Lady's Waye." The following are the names of the 12 signs:—

- | | | | |
|------------|------------|-----------------|------------------|
| 1. Aries. | 4. Cancer. | 7. Libra. | 10. Capricornus. |
| 2. Taurus. | 5. Leo. | 8. Scorpio. | 11. Aquarius. |
| 3. Gemini. | 6. Virgo. | 9. Sagittarius. | 12. Pisces. |

It is well known that the Sun is much further north in Summer than in Winter. Were the Earth's Equator extended on every side to the heavens, making a circle visible along the sky, the Ecliptic, or Sun's path, would cross this at an angle of a little over 23 degrees. Consequently one half of the Ecliptic is north and the other half south of the Equator. The points where these two circles cross are called Equinoxes, because when the Sun is in these points the night is of the same length as the day, and the same in all parts of the Earth.

* This is now not strictly correct. A motion called the precession of the Equinoxes has displaced the signs, so that they do not at present exactly coincide with the constellations.

The Sun first "crosses the line" about the 20th of March. This is called the vernal equinox and is the commencement of our Spring. Anciently, also, it was the beginning of the year. At this point he enters the sign Aries, and passes on eastward through Taurus and Gemini, completing the latter about the 21st of June. Here he has reached his farthest northern point, which is for this reason called the Summer solstice (from sol, the Sun, and sto to stand); and thence begins to recede southward. Passing on through Cancer, Leo, and Virgo, he comes to the autumnal equinox, and again "crosses the line" Sept. 23, at the beginning of Autumn. On the 22d of December he has reached the Winter solstice, and thence begins his return northward, completing the whole circle of the Ecliptic at the next vernal equinox, March 20. The times of these periods in 1863 are more exactly as follows:—

		H. M.
Winter begins,	1862, Dec. 21st,	8 12 a
Spring "	1863, March 20th	9 22 a
Summer "	" June 21st,	5 54 a
Autumn "	" Sept. 23d,	8 8 m
Winter "	" Dec. 22d,	1 58 m

	D. H. M.		D. H. M.
Sun in Winter Signs	89 1 10	Sun Nor. of Equator	186 10 46
Sun in Spring Signs	92 20 32	Sun S. of Equator	178 19 0
Sun in Summer Signs	93 14 14	Difference	7 15 46
Sun in Autumn Signs	89 17 50	Mean Tropical Year	365 5 49

It will be observed that the lengths of the seasons are not exactly the same, and that the stay of the Sun north of the Equator is nearly eight days longer than on the south. This arises from the fact that the Earth's orbit is not an exact circle, but an ellipse, or flattened circle, the focus of which is a little one side of the true centre, making the Sun a little nearer the Earth in one part of its orbit than in the opposite. Here its motion is a little faster than at the farthest point, so that one-half the orbit will be completed so much sooner than the other. This nearest distance of the Sun, curiously enough, is in the Winter, consequently the Winter half of the orbit, which is the portion of it south of the Equator, is correspondingly shorter than the Summer half.

It should be remembered that when we speak of the motion of the Sun, we mean its apparent motion. The real motion is in the Earth, and is exactly the reverse of the former. It is more convenient, however, as it is more easily understood, to speak, as we have done, as if the motion pertained to the Sun.

CHRONOLOGICAL CYCLES.

Dominical Letter, D; Golden Number, 2; Epact, 11; Solar Cycle, 24; Roman Indictions, 6; Julian Period, 6576.

ECLIPSES.

There will be two Eclipses of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I. A partial Eclipse of the Sun, May 17, visible in Europe and the Northern part of America, but invisible in this Island.

II. A total Eclipse of the Moon, June 1. This Eclipse begins before sunset, but as the moon rises about 7h 34m, it will be but partially visible in this Island. The end of the Eclipse will be at 8h 30m.

III. An Annular Eclipse of the Sun, November 11, visible in the Southern Ocean.

IV. A partial Eclipse of the moon, November 25, visible in this Island. Eclipse begins 2h 40m, ends 6h 4m.

MORNING AND EVENING STARS.

Venus will be evening star until Sept. 28; then morning star the rest of the year. Mars will be evening star until Oct. 2; then morning star the rest of the year. Jupiter will be morning star until April 12; then evening star until Nov. 1; then morning star the rest of the year. Saturn will be morning star until March 23; then evening star until Oct. 2; then morning star the rest of the year.

DAYS OF THE MONTH.

The common distich which recounts the days of the month is well known. In 1596, it ran thus:—

Thirtie daies hath September,
April, June, and November,
Februarie hath eight and twentie alone,
All the rest thirtie and one,
Except in Leap-year, at which time
Februarie's daies are twentie and nine.

The common year begins and ends on the same day of the week; leap-year ends on the following day. Many persons who call the year 52 weeks forget that it is 52 weeks and 1 day, and leap-year 52 weeks and 2 days.

The following table, if committed to memory, will aid in determining the day of the month without an almanac, provided that the first day of the year be borne in mind:—

1st of January, October
2d of April, July.
3d of September and December.
4th of June.
5th of February, March, November.
6th of August.
7th of May.

Thus, the first day of 1863 being Thursday, each of the days mentioned in the table will be Thursday, from which the other days of the month may readily be determined.

THE OCEAN AND THE FALL OF RAIN.

The Atlantic Ocean includes an area of 25,000,000 square miles. Suppose an inch of rain to fall upon only one-fifth of this vast expanse, it would weigh 360,000,000 tons. This water, before it was taken up from the ocean by evaporation, held in solution 16,000,000 tons of salt, or nearly twice as much as all the ships in the world could carry at a cargo each. This rain might fall in a day; but occupy what time it might in falling, it is calculated to exert so much force—which is inconceivably great—in disturbing the equilibrium of the ocean. If all the water discharged by the Mississippi river during the year were taken up in one mighty measure and cast into the ocean at an effort, it would not make a greater disturbance in the equilibrium than the fall of rain supposed. And yet so gentle are the operations of nature, that movements so vast are unperceived.

GASES GIVEN OFF BY PLANTS UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF LIGHT.

M. Boussingault has discovered that, under the influence of direct sunlight, the leaves of aquatic plants give off a notable proportion of carbonic oxide and carburetted hydrogen. He thinks that this emanation of carbonic oxide may be one of the causes of the unhealthiness of marshy districts.

 he can be said ever to have any.
 And yet there is quite enough to do. There are the cows, the pigs, and the poultry to be fed, and the horse to be exercised.
 And then the time for reading

THE old year is gone—the new one is upon us. It comes with its cares, as well as with its good cheer. Make the most of it now. It is the only time we can count on. Well begun is half well done. Then start fair—that's the first point—and keep on the right track. Don't sit and dream of what is to be done next week or next year. "Life is real." It is not made of dreams, but of action. It is energy or vital

An elderly lady, a descendant of Miles Staudish, telling her age, remarked that she was born on the 22d of April. Her husband, who was by, jocularly observed, "I always thought you were born on the first day of April." — "People might well judge so," responded the equally mirthful matron, "considering the choice I made of a husband!"

In this month, last year, we had a word to say on the care and feeding of stock, as one of the first duties of farmers at this season, and we can't do better than to ask you to read it again. Stock well wintered is half summered, as they say. By low feeding and neglect, you not only lose the milk, or other product, at the time, but have the expense of time and food in bringing up to full condition in the spring.

Now we wish to speak of the winter care and treatment of poultry. Why don't you make the hens lay? They can do it as well as not, and they rather like it. How is it with them in summer? They get insects, lime, seeds of various kinds, gravel stones, air, water, and plenty of sunlight, and these all help to make them lay. Give them the same in winter, or as near it as you can. Instead of insects, fresh meat, scraps, some burnt bones, potato-skins, corn, plenty of fine sand, ashes or gravel, and a warm, light, airy room, with plenty of fresh, wholesome water. They like just about the same kind of food you give to the dog, and thrive on it. In fact, the best thing you can do with the dog himself, is to cut off his tail just behind his ears, and feed him out to the hens. He won't trouble the sheep any more. White-wash the hen-house freely.

"I don't miss church so much as you may suppose," said a lady to her minister, who called on her during her illness; "for I make Betsy sit at the window as soon as the bells begin to chime, and she tells me who is going to church, and whether they have got on anything new."

"BORN AGAIN."—A young mother was showing her brother who had recently returned from college the presents received by her babe, which were very pretty and which he was admiring, when, turning to the mother, he jocosely said to her,—

"I declare, I'd be born again, if I could get such a lot of fine presents." His sister replied,—
"If you should, you would get the 'pearl of great price.'"

Washington and the Prince Consort died in the same month, on the same day of the month, about same hour in the evening—14th December, 1799 and 1861.

Attend to the business of spring. Look to your tools and repair them if necessary. Why, this you may think, is but a trifle; but you must remember that the good husbandman attends to all the minutæ of his affairs. If a man intends to thrive by farming, he must attend to it personally, and not trust to others. He must engage in the business through thick and thin, and never be afraid of getting dirty hands or a smutty face. Now if your buildings have been neglected, and are all out of repair; if you have chosen rather to sit by the fire and count your fingers, than to take the hammer and drive a few nails; or if you have been in the habit of hanging about the tavern to the disregard of your home affairs, then you are indeed a sufferer. Great attention is necessary in feeding cattle.

System is everything in farming. Suppose you make it a point to be up as early as the sun is every morning; always have a plan and arrangement prepared the night beforehand for a morning job, and then go immediately upon the business, while your wife is getting breakfast, you would then have no lost time. It is now a capital time to keep the boys at work, and use them to the yoke.—Boys are like calves, they need management and much practice to make them handy; and can there be a better time to do this than when spring work comes on? Show them the benefit of every operation; let them understand that he would reap must sow, and he that would enjoy life must use rational means for it. Show them the advantages of industry, virtue, integrity, and honest principle. Look to your water courses, and change their direction, to receive the benefit of the spring rains.

London covers 78,029 acres. The London of 1861 was equal to three Londons of 1801, and nearly 1,000,000 of population has been added to it in the last ten years.

WHAT would we not give to be freed from the losses and deprivations of insects? Many of them are among the worst enemies of the farmer, for they come in such countless hosts that a whole army of men could scarcely cope with them. In the "Manual of Agriculture" you will find some of the more common kinds mentioned and illustrated. But what I want to say now is, don't fail to go round your apple and cherry trees, and destroy carefully the nests of the caterpillars which will soon appear there. It is easy now, by sticking a brush upon the end of a long pole, to reach every limb, and make clean work of them. It will pay to watch and kill the insects destructive to vegetation. The more you kill one year, the less there will be next. Besides, fruit trees are years in coming to perfection and profitable bearing, and all crops that are worth cultivating at all, are worth taking care of after they get somewhat advanced. We ought to know our insect enemies and friends. The names and habits of all the more common of them should be familiar to our intelligent farmers.

NEVER GIVE UP.

Never give up! though the grape-shot may rattle,
Or the full thunder-cloud over you burst;
Stand like a rock, and the storm and the battle
Little shall harm you, though doing their worst.

Never give up! if adversity presses,
Providence wisely has mingled the cup;
And the best counsel in all our distresses
Is the stout watchword of "Never give up!"

O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all.—Ps. civ. 24.

Speaking of insects brings to mind the birds. Don't kill them. It is worse than wanton cruelty.

They are at work for the farmer from daylight to dark at this season of the year. Who can estimate the number of insects they destroy? On a careful count it was found that one brood of birds destroyed not less than five hundred caterpillars a day, or about fifteen thousand a month. A golden robin was seen to catch and eat seventeen caterpillars in one minute. A quail was killed in a flock that had run over a field of corn, on suspicion that it had been pulling the grain. On examination, its crop was found to contain one cut-worm, twenty-one striped vine-bugs, and one hundred chinch bugs, and not a single kernel of corn. A yellow-bird, which had been accused by the farmer of eating wheat, was killed, and in its crop were no less than two hundred weevils, which had just been swallowed. In fact, the good which birds are all the time doing is incalculable. And then their music; the charm of country life! Who would live in a country without birds? We can go to the concert morning and evening. No ticket is needed but a thankful heart. The sun lights up the variegated stage, and the broad blue arch covers us.

HONESTY is a very homely virtue; it has no glitter or show; it blows no trumpet; it calls no audience about to admire and applaud; it is a plain homespun stuff, for daily wear, and not for festive occasion. It is of that class of qualities which inspire confidence, but do not awaken admiration.

My days are swifter than a waver's shuttle.—Job vii. 6.

June is the month of roses—and this reminds me of thorns; and if we don't want thorns in our sides, we must make heads and hands work well this month. Fishing may be fun, but the hoe-handle must take the place of the fishing-pole, if we want to sing merry tunes in harvest time. Who's afraid of work? Not you my friend; but I want you just to step out, and walk about the farm, and see if what I told you is not true. Don't the things grow better for the ploughing, the manure, and the care you have given them? and are not you richer for having followed the dictates of an industrious disposition, than if you had been droning about, swapping jack-knives and telling long yarns in the early spring? That garden of yours looks well; the time you have spent on it has been well spent. Keep the weeds down; keep it neat and in order. Order, you know, "is heaven's first law." From the middle of this month to the middle of next is said to be the best time to prune fruit-trees. Thin out your fruit, leaving the choicest, which will be the better for it. You can just as well raise flowers and vegetables as weeds in your garden: and as fruits and garden sauce now sell, it is an object to raise them.

SINGULAR FACT IN NATURAL HISTORY.—Ask a lady her age, and the information contained in her reply will probably not be reliable; but inquire the age of her dearest friend, and the answer may be implicitly believed.

"One of our city bakers," says a Canterbury wag, "has invented a new kind of yeast, which makes bread so light that a pound loaf only weighs twelve ounces."

Why is a man in a rage like a hard baked loaf? Because he is crusty.

No time to lose now. Don't let the grass ripen under your feet. A good crop of grass, well cut and well cured, is a luxury to look at. It speaks right out, and tells more for the thrift of the farm, and the man who lives on it, than a volume of long lines. It is a record of work done and manure put on, and a promise of stock well kept and well fed.

Don't you think we let our grass stand too long? I've been thinking it would be better to cut earlier. If we didn't get quite so much, it would be worth more, and go farther. It is the juice we want—the real heart—and not the dry crisp of a stalk; and you know the best of the grass is just when it is coming into blossom. Then it is sweetest, and it never grows better, especially for cows in milk and for young stock. Cut early, and dry less, therefore, and try it for a year or two, and, my word for it, you will find it for your interest to try it longer.

Don't mow round those big piles of rocks any longer. They ought to have been cleared off long ago. It is a shiftless practice, this picking rocks and letting them lie in heaps on the field. Mark my word, you'll never get a "pocket-full" of 'em in that way.

RECIPE FOR SPRING FEVER.

Take the open air,
The more you take the better;
Follow nature's laws
To the very letter.
Let the Doctors go
To the Bay of Biscay;
Let alone the gin,
The brandy and the whiskey.

Freely exercise,
Keep your spirits cheerful;
Let no dread of sickness
Make you ever fearful.
Eat the simplest food,
Drink the pure cold water.

Day's length.

Isn't it time to begin to cut up green corn fodder for the cows and other stock? It pays well to plant Indian corn to be cut green when the pastures are dry and parched in the burning sun. Have you ever thought what an enormous burden of fodder you can raise on an acre of ground well tilled, and sown thick with corn in rows? You would hardly believe me if I should tell you what I have heard and seen too. It beats all. A good lot of extra fodder, roots, etc., helps out the season, both summer and winter. With fodder enough you can keep more stock; more stock will give you more manure; more manure will enable you to keep up the fertility of your land, and add to its profits. It's a good plan, I think, to stock up to the full capacity of the farm, and it is better to have to buy a little hay, than to sell, unless you have some extra facilities for getting manure.

The purple-top strap-leaf turnip may be sown broadcast the first of this month, if you failed to get in the seed in July. Look again at the remarks made on top-dressing last year. Ploughing, ditching, draining, and sowing grass-seed, will fill up the month with useful and profitable work.

An illustration of the power of imagination.—The case of the old lady who watched the vane, to see when her rheumatism was going to begin, is not equal to that of the storekeeper, who painted the lower part of his stove red, and saved seventy-five per cent during the winter. The illusion was so complete, that one man tried to make him pay for a pair of boots that he had burnt on the stove.

Hadn't you better keep an eye on the fruit there in the garden? It's a shame a man can't lie down to rest, after a day's work, without the fear of thieves at his fruit trees at night, to rob him of what he has looked forward to so long. Now, boys, I've a word to say to you on this subject. Don't you do it. It's worse than highway robbery. A man would rather have the money taken from his purse, than the fruit from his favorite tree, which he has planted with his own hand, and tended and watched from the start. Its mean to sneak round at night, or in broad daylight either, especially on a Sunday afternoon, to rob an orchard. Robbing hen-roosts—about the meanest business that's done—is quite respectable to it. Hold on, then. Don't do a mean, cowardly thing; but, if the temptation is too strong, go up like a man, and ask farmer Goodman to give you a taste; or, what is better, go to work and raise some yourself. Never lose your self-respect. The law is very stringent on this subject, as it should be: but every manly boy, every boy who has any regard for his reputation, ought to be a "law to himself."

A gentleman, one evening, was seated near a lovely woman when the company around him were proposing conundrums to each other. Turning to his companion he said, "Why is a lady like a mirror?" She gave it up.

"Because," said the rude fellow, "a mirror reflects without speaking, a lady speaks without reflecting."

"Very good," said she. "Now answer me. Why is a man unlike a mirror?"

"I cannot tell you."

"Because the mirror is polished and the man is not"

There she had him.

Now we may as well begin to think how these long evenings are to be spent, so as to make the most of them. An active mind cannot be idle. Sloth consumes faster than labor wears, and, at any rate, it is better to wear out than to rust out. The key that is often used is always bright. Time is the stuff that life is made of. Don't we spend more of it in sleep than is necessary? We shall have sleeping enough in the grave; let us not sleep our lives away, nor idle away time in useless lounging. Many a young man has begun a golden career of success by improving his evenings, and making the most of his time.

Now, how is it about the school, the lyceum, the farmer's club? Have you an agricultural library in your neighbourhood? What books have you selected for your winter's reading? Do you mean to leave this subject to chance, and read only what happens to come in your way? There's a better way than that. Sit down and make a list of what you will read and study, and stick to it. Get the best standard works on agriculture and the sciences connected with it. If you don't master them all, they'll suggest a thousand things that will be useful in your work on the farm.

ASTRONOMICAL.—The last number of the German "Astronische Nachrichten" announces the death of Dr. Francis Carlini, at Milan, Italy, on the 29th of August.

A witness was asked if he was not a husbandman, when he hesitated for a moment, then coolly replied, amid the laughter of the court,

"No, sir, I'se not married"

When is the best time to set out trees? It does not matter much whether it be spring or fall. But other work is less pressing at this season than in April or May. Fruit-trees, such as apples and pears, may be set in either season. Evergreens, like pines, should be set in June or July

The main point, and the great secret of success in getting trees into a rapid and vigorous growth, lies in the preparation of the soil, and the mode of doing the work. I know a man who hired another by the day to set out a lot of trees which he had bought. The man went to work, and at the end of the first day had set out but half a dozen or so. His employer got disgusted at his slow progress, blew him up, and discharged him. The next day another man set out the balance, some fifty or sixty; and now the owner gets more from the half dozen than from the whole sixty. There is the cost of trees, the loss of growth, the waste of land, and the disappointment. I tell you it doesn't pay to slight work in setting out trees. It is cheating yourself. Take them up with great care, and save the roots. Dig deep and large holes, and set them carefully.

The editor of a provincial paper says that his attention was first drawn to matrimony by the skilful manner in which a pretty girl handled a broom. A brother editor says that the manner in which his wife handles a broom is not so very pleasing.

Dr. Stamper, Professor of Astronomy at the Vienna University has found that the comet which was visible during the month of August, 1862, performs a revolution round the sun in one hundred and thirteen years. No accounts of its previous apparitions have as yet been discovered.

- 30 Dr Cartwright died 1823.
- 31 Wycliffe d. 1387.

The year is drawing to a close. But there's a month left. Time enough to do a good deal in the way of providing for winter. See to your boys. They had better be at school, learning the "three R's, Reading, 'Riting and 'Rithmetic," as old Capt. What's-his-name used to say, than at the store or tavern, learning the three S's, Smoking Swearing and Soaking. Have you put away the summer tools where you can find them again in the spring as good as you left them? If you heat them a little at the fire, and rub on a little beeswax, you can keep them as bright and perfect as new. Bank up the house, if it needs it, with seaweed, or something as good. When the first snow falls you can save your fruit-trees by treading the snow down hard and closely around them. The mice are often very destructive.

Stock of all kind needs the best of care at this season of the year. Warm but well-ventilated barns, plenty of good, wholesome water, with enough to eat at regular hours, covers all that need be said, except that exposure to the cold, driving winds of winter, is not at all necessary to "toughen" them. A mixture of food, or a frequent change, is of very great advantage.

HOW MIST IS GENERATED.—The production of mist is the subject of a note by the veteran Dr. John Davy, (brother of Sir Humphrey,) in the Edinburgh Philosophical Journal. The cause usually assigned for mist is the access of cold air, and its admixture with warmer air saturated, or nearly saturated, with moisture, "such as that resting on the surface of large bodies of water,) and strikingly exemplified in our autumnal and winter fogs, when the water, owing to the heat absorbed during summer, is of a higher temperature than the inflowing air.

Mrs Partington says that Ike has a horse so spirituous, that it always goes off in a decanter.
