See the Trouble Soon Over; Injunction Shuts Off the Strike Fund

Spirit of Hopefulness in Washington

Lack of Funds to Carry on May Mean Change in Coal Situation—All Now Awaiting Outcome of Hearing in Federal Court on Saturday

Washington, Nov. 4.—Developments today were looked forward to here as likely to afford an index to the duration of the coal strike. A spirit of hopefulness that the end of the strike was near was prevalent. Despite the hope of a close, labor leaders themselves were said to hold the view that the miners could not hold long for lack of subsistence caused by the operation of the injunction.

At a meeting of the cabinet today members planned to give the coal strike particular attention. Agents of the department of justice reported to headquarters here that non-union miners were working on full time and that defections from union ranks were noticeable. Despite the hope of early resumption of full coal mining operations, however, government agencies were continuing their precautions to conserve the available fuel supply.

Indiana, Nov. 4.—With officials of the United Mine Workers of America maintaining an attitude of "nothing to say" as a result of the federal court restraining order issued here last week, both union leaders and government officials apparently are awaiting the outcome of the hearing in federal court on next Saturday as the next development in the coal strike situation here.

Attorneys for both sides are at work preparing their sides of the case.

DIVORCE COURT

Case Settled; Judge Regrets Publication of Accounts

Motion For New Trial in Fitzrandolph Case—Two Cases are Postponed and a Moncton One Gone Into

Fredericton, Nov. 4.—The divorce court met this morning with ten cases on the docket. It was announced by R. B. Hanson, K. C., that the St. John case of Henry Arthur Hewitt vs. Sarah Hewitt had been settled satisfactorily to both parties.

Mr. Justice Crockett declared it was regrettable that accounts of the unfortunate cases were spread broadcast over the country through the press. He said that an act had been passed by the federal government but had not yet come into effect, making it a criminal offense to publish proceedings of divorce courts.

M. G. Treed, K. C., of St. John, had given notice of motion for a new trial in the Fitzrandolph case, but as he was not present, H. G. Fenney moved that Mr. Fenney's motion be stood over. The motion for a new trial will be argued in chambers.

Upon motion of J. H. Adair of Sussex, the case of James William Cook of Penobscot vs. Marnie A. Cook of Sussex was made a remittet and upon motion of Daniel Mullin, K. C., the case of Mrs. Eroland Price vs. Ida May Price, parties of St. Stephen, was also made a remittet.

The case of Arthur Bedford Crossman vs. Eva Crossman, parties of Moncton, was then taken up, the plaintiff said he went overseas in April, 1918, in London, England, on March 29, 1918, he married the defendant and two days later he left for France, returning in April, 1918, and soon after he sailed for Canada. Meanwhile, he said, his bride sailed for Canada in December, 1918, and he alleges that she had been unfaithful.

In Andrews vs. Andrews, taking evidence was begun. The plaintiff, Mrs. Bertha H. Andrews of West St. John, gave evidence about the husband and mentioned one Florence Phillips, in Brunswick street, St. John.

LABOR VICTORY IN ENGLAND WAS VERY DECISIVE

Evening News Sees in its Resentment Against Shop-Keeping Profiteers

London, Nov. 4.—(C. A. P.)—Further municipal election results emphasize the completeness of the labor victory. The party captured thirty-nine seats out of forty-two in Poplar. Even in fashionable Kensington, six Laborites were returned. Nine were elected in Bradford and Leeds municipalities. Only about a quarter of the electorate voted throughout London. The poor law boards in the metropolis are already dominated by labor members.

The Evening News suggests the present victory largely represents the general resentment against shop-keeping profiteers.

New England Feels Effect Of Strike

Coal Shortage Pressure—No Passenger Trains to be Taken Off at Present

(Special to Times)
Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—It was decided at a meeting of the managers of the New England railroads yesterday that no passenger trains would be taken off unless developments in the coal strike make it necessary to do so. Sufficient notice will be given the public if such action is determined upon.

Yesterday the government seized thousands of tons of coal on the New Haven railroad. The fuel was billed to Connecticut factories, now operating under a severe handicap which may seriously reduce their output and, aside from the tremendous loss to manufacturers, force a reduction of the number of workers.

Shipping in New England is already beginning to feel the pressure of the coal shortage, as also are other sections of the east.

CONTEST OVER EIGHT HOUR DAY AT WASHINGTON

Matter Before International Labor Conference This Afternoon

French Group in Favor of it—Canadians Have Three Objections Unless There is Universal Adoption

Washington, Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press)—Groups and sub-groups of the International Labor Conference met yesterday afternoon and evening in preparation for the contest over the proposed international convention for a 48-hour week. The labor group generally is in favor of pressing for the convention.

Leon Jouhaux, secretary of the French confederation of labor, declares his intention of urging adoption of the convention. "We have the eight-hour day law in France," he said, "but we intend to press for its adoption in other countries, that is what we are here for."

Among the employers' group, objection to the convention is raised on the ground of the uncertainty of its being generally ratified. It is contended that a state which fails to ratify the convention would be under no further obligation to respect its terms and therefore, from a competition point of view, would be at an advantage.

Three further objections are raised by members of the Canadian employers' group, unless the convention is universally adopted. They express the view that it should be opposed, so far as Canada is concerned, on these grounds:

1. Widely diversified employments of Canadian population.
2. Extension of territory of the dominion and the additional difficulties thereby entailed in transporting and marketing Canadian produce.
3. Seasonal or climatic conditions largely governing production from natural resources.

They make particular reference to a doubt whether the United States will officially participate in the proceedings of the conference at all, and the action of Canada in the matter, they say, should be largely governed by the action of the United States.

There is no indication as yet that the United States senate will ratify the treaty in time for such delegates to attend the conference at all, and the action of the conference after disposal of the eight-hour day matter, which is to be taken up this afternoon. The suggestion is made that the eight-hour day question be referred to a commission for consideration as was done respecting measures to meet unemployment.

While in the city R. W. Wigmore, M. P., will meet W. E. Burke, director in charge of the transportation department of the Canadian Steamship Lines, who is coming to the city today to go into the matter of additional wharf accommodation for his company at this port.

Mr. Burke represents the company which will operate two services from this port during the winter, one to St. Nazaire, France, and the other to the River Plate, South America. Cargo only will be carried and monthly sailings are being arranged. It is expected that the service will be opened here with the arrival of the first steamer from France about the first of next month.

Mr. Wigmore said this morning that from the present indications St. John would have a chance of handling more steamers this winter than there is accommodation for.

As Hiram Sees It

"What's the matter with the Tourist Association?" demanded Mr. Hiram Hornbloom.
"You'll have to ask Allan Schofield about that," said the reporter.
"Well," said Hiram, "I'd take Allan's word about feedin' pulp to cows, but he don't know how to advertise a town. Why don't he advertise St. John as the only place in the world where it rains when it aint rainin'?"
"You got to get some thing with while to make people set up an take notice these days. There was the trouble in the old stuff, but you tell the world that it rains in St. John when it aint rainin' an' they'll begin to say 'you're a liar an' then comin' to see whether you're or not.'"
"I don't quite catch your drift," said the reporter. "What's this about rain when it aint rainin'?"
"After that last rainstorm," said Hiram, "I started out to walk around town. There was a broken pipe down on me from the sky—an' I got wet through."
"You must have been wading," said the reporter.
"Where," said Hiram, "I wasn't. I didn't go out into the canal at all. I staid on the sidewalk—an' then there broke spouts along the side of the building's that poured water down on me as if they thought I needed it. I'll bet a big apple you won't find the likes of it in any other white man's town."
"But you would hardly call it an attraction, would you?" asked the reporter.
"No, sir," said Hiram, "but if anybody told me about a town where they put up with a thing like that I'd want to go an' look the people over—as a curiosity."
"I'll mention it to the city council and board of trade, as well as the tourist association," said the reporter. "They have not, perhaps, got your point of view."
"They ort to hev it," said Hiram. "St. John's a broken pipe, anyway. It needs to be mended. Do you remember what them politicians used to say about it bein' a spout for the trade of Canada? Where's the trade? Goin' to American ports—By Hen!"

LARGE BOARD TELLS PROGRESS OF THE LOAN IN CITY

Ward by Ward Comparison in C. N. R. King Street Window—A Long Trip to Get a Bond

Some surprises in connection with the Victory Loan campaign are in store for the St. John people, it was said today by members of the central committee. They are far from being at the end of their campaigning and emphasizing the need of the country for the money asked for in this loan. While quite a few subscriptions are being received daily, a comparison with last year's figures, ward by ward, will show that more could reasonably be expected.

A large blackboard has been installed in the windows of the C. N. R. Ticket Office, King street, on which are given the results by wards for this year and last year, with the names of the ward officers in each case. Below is given a total of the figures for each ward up to Saturday night last, with the corresponding figures for the same time last year:

ELECTION DAY IN SEVERAL STATES

Keen Interest Over Coolidge and Long Contest

Gatherings of More Than Two at Boston Polls Prohibited—Wet and Dry Battle in Ohio On Amendment to Constitution

New York, Nov. 4.—Elections in five states went to the polls today to ballot for governors, while election of lesser officials and decisions on constitutional questions faced the voters of several other states. Governors are being elected in Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi and New Jersey.

The elections in Ohio are being watched with interest by "wet" and "dry" advocates as there, for the first time in any state, a popular vote is being taken on the 18th amendment to the constitution. This is being accomplished by a referendum on the legislature's action in ratifying the amendment. Ohio also is taking a referendum vote on the prohibition enforcement act adopted by the legislature and is voting on two proposed constitutional amendments touching on prohibition.

Kentucky, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, Virginia and New York are electing legislators. Constitutional questions confront the voters in Illinois, Nebraska and Texas.

Boston, Nov. 4.—Voters in exceptional numbers for an "off year" election went to the polls in Massachusetts today to register their verdict on Governor Coolidge's course in the recent strike of policemen in this city. The League of Nations and economic issues assumed positions relatively subordinate to the "law and order" issue. Fair weather greeted the early voters.

Richard M. Long, Democratic opponent of Governor Coolidge, carried on a most vigorous campaign in industrial centres, appealing especially to the workers.

Drastic police regulations were in effect. Gatherings of more than two persons were forbidden about the polling places. Troops and reserve policemen were held in readiness for emergencies in districts known to contain many sympathizers of the striking policemen.

Montreal Workman Found Dead by His Son and Constable

Montreal, Nov. 4.—Scalded to death by boiling water from a burst pipe, which had been flowing over his body for several hours, Joe Dupuis, 58 years old, was found by his son and Constable Cloutier, when they entered the cellar at the Canada Spooling Company to search for him.

The resolution passed by the board of trade council protesting against the tearing down of the court house will be presented. Commissioner John Thornton is chairman of the committee which consists of twelve members.

MORE ESTIMATES BROUGHT DOWN IN THE COMMONS

They Total $62,346,000—Matter of Printing Report on Queph Novitate

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—Supplementary estimates for the current year were tabled in the House of Commons yesterday. They amount to $62,346,000.

Forty millions to carry out the recommendations of the report of the committee on soldiers' civil re-establishment is the biggest vote, while twenty millions are provided for advances to soldiers serving upon the land and cost of administering the soldiers' settlement act. The sum of sixty thousand dollars is provided for the department of labor. Of this amount $25,000 is required to defray the expenses of the Canadian delegates to the international labor conference at Washington, $5,000 to defray expenses of the national labor conference, and $5,000 for the industrial relations commission.

The amount of $276,000 is included to re-organize the printing bureau, and there is a further provision of $10,000 for seasonal indemnities.

St. George Foster moved that the report of the royal commission, which investigated the Guelph Novitate charges, should be printed.

Hon. Charles Murphy opposed the motion on the grounds of economy. He said that, if the country was in as bad shape financially as was indicated by the soldiers' civil re-establishment committee report, it could not afford to pay for printing this report. The motion was allowed to stand.

"Babe" Ruth Refuses Boston Red Contract

Returns Document Calling For $10,000 and Says it Must be Made Twice That

(Special to Times)
Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—"Babe" Ruth, star pitcher and batsman of the Boston Red Sox, is a holdout. A contract which calls for payment of $10,000 next season was returned to President Harry Frazee by him yesterday from California. Ruth told Frazee before he left Boston that he must have $20,000 next year or he would not play. Frazee answered by mailing Ruth a $10,000 contract under the terms made for $20,000 for three years. "Frazee knows what I want, and unless he meets my demands I will not play with the Boston Club next year," Babe declared. "I am signed up for two more seasons, but I deserve more money and I will not play unless I get it. Frazee might as well know first as last that I mean what I say."

"No, sir," said Hiram, "but if anybody told me about a town where they put up with a thing like that I'd want to go an' look the people over—as a curiosity."

"I'll mention it to the city council and board of trade, as well as the tourist association," said the reporter. "They have not, perhaps, got your point of view."

"They ort to hev it," said Hiram. "St. John's a broken pipe, anyway. It needs to be mended. Do you remember what them politicians used to say about it bein' a spout for the trade of Canada? Where's the trade? Goin' to American ports—By Hen!"

TAX FREDERICTON WOMEN AND GIVE THEN CIVIC VOTE

Exemption of $300 on Income to be Allowed

Some Earning Good Salaries in Capital; Victoria Hospital Trustees Want Use of Part of N. B. Military Hospital

(Special to Times)
Fredericton, Nov. 4.—The Board of Assessors of Fredericton are to make a new departure and assess all women resident in the city on their income in the same manner as men are assessed. The assessment act makes no distinction between the sexes in the matter of income tax, but by some tacit understanding an income tax never has been required of women. A few years ago tax bills were sent to some women known to have large incomes but no notice was taken of them and the matter of collection never was pressed. The board of assessors, however, have decided to proceed along the line indicated, allowing exemption on $300 only as in the case of men. No opposition to this has developed in the city and civic franchise for women is expected to follow this move.

Salaries paid women have steadily risen. One woman here is paid $2,000 a year. Another in a provincial office is paid $1,600. The school board is paying women teachers salaries ranging from $1,400 to $900 a year. None of these women has paid a cent of taxation on income into the city treasury and at the same time men raising large families have been taxed on meagre salaries.

The secretary of the trustees of Victoria Public Hospital in this city is about to open negotiations with the Militia Department for the temporary use of a portion of the New Brunswick Military Hospital in this city, which is to be vacated by the military about November 11. This will be for the purpose of relieving congestion in the Victoria Hospital. The trustees also will negotiate for the purchase of a portion of the equipment of the military hospital.

JOE PAGE'S SUGGESTION TO BE PLACED BEFORE PRESIDENT WILSON

It will be remembered that on last Friday night, as reported, Joe Page sent to President Wilson from here a telegram outlining a plan in connection with labor troubles. Today on his arrival from Montreal, Mr. Page found the following letter awaiting him:

The White House, Washington, October 31, 1919.
Permit me to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram of yesterday and to say that it will be brought to the attention of the president.

Sincerely yours,
J. P. TUMULTY,
Secretary to the President.

PACKERS FIGHT ORDER TO GO BACK TO THE PRICES OF MARCH 10

(Special to Times)
Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 4.—The order of the board of commerce by which the prices of pork products go back to those of March 10 is not going to be accepted by the packers without protest. They are meeting the full board today to lay their case before them and see if they cannot have the order changed. The board is not likely to see it that way.

Commissioner O'Connor said last night that he could not understand just why the packers were meeting them, in view of the fact that they had represented to the government that the board knew nothing about the subject, and he could not see that any good would result from the meeting.

$10,000 PEARL LOST BY SOCIETY MATRON

Owned by Mrs. Charles A. Munn of Philadelphia; Rolls Into Gutter

New York, Nov. 4.—By the announcement of a reward of $10,000 it became known that a week ago while at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel Mrs. Charles A. Munn, society woman of Philadelphia, Washington and Manchester, Mass., lost a black pearl valued at more than $10,000.

The pearl was set in a ring and was intact when Mrs. Munn left the hotel for the theatre. In the street, however, she discovered that the pearl had dropped from its setting. It was about the size and shape of a marble. It is thought to have rolled into the gutter.

Jewelers and pawnbrokers all over the country have been warned to watch for the valuable. A description of the lost pearl has been sent abroad.

Mrs. Munn was formerly Miss Mary Astor Paul, daughter of the late James W. Paul of Philadelphia, and a niece of the late Mrs. William Waldorf Astor. Her husband is a banker.

HIS SIXTH TOE

Peter Dieptra, working for a contractor in Syracuse, was injured by a pipe falling on his foot. He applied for compensation, and an examination disclosed that the injury was confined to a sixth toe. Authorities were consulted as to whether compensation could be allowed for injury to surplus members, but nothing relating to such a case could be found. So the law only was considered. This provided for certain payments in the event of a toe being hurt, without stipulating how many toes a claimant might have.

the ground that Peter was entitled to only five toes, and that if he had not had more than this number he would not have been injured. It was also contended that if the sixth toe was injured so badly as to render amputation necessary the accident really benefited him instead of injuring him. But the commission was obtuse and compensation was allowed.

In departing from the judgment room Peter shook hands with the commission-who then discovered that Peter had five fingers and a thumb on each hand. The uninjured foot, it was learned, also was possessed of six toes. It is the opinion of the commission that Peter has 20 per cent. more chance of getting toe and finger damages than any normal man.

In a mechanical way he simply went through the motions, pretending to dig and so forth. It was not long before the foreman singled him out, and, going up to him, said: "Lean on the shovel now an' then, if it breaks I'll pay for it."

UNKISSED FOR TWO YEARS, WIFE SAYS

Husband Objected to the Fasteners on Gowns

New York, Nov. 4.—A man who can't appreciate the superiority of patent fasteners over buttons for women's gowns and refuses to kiss his wife before relatives and permits her to go unknissed and unbuttoned for two years is enough to cause any woman to take up a position in which she can earn $25 a week and seek a legal separation from her husband, according to Mrs. Amelia Skerl, young and pretty, who testified before Supreme Court Justice Platzek in her suit for separation from Frank Skerl, a mechanical engineer and inventor of 1926 Broadway.

STRIKES AND THE PUBLIC.

The policeman's strike in Boston, the steel strike, and the iron miners' strike, together with the arrogant claims put forward by some of the revolutionary leaders in the ranks of labor in the United States have given rise to a strong public feeling of antagonism which is reflected in the press of the country and in congress. Senator Edge of New York, in giving notice of a bill repealing the clause in the general deficiency law which exempts organized workers and farmers from investigation or prosecution under the anti-trust laws, put into words a feeling that is manifestly growing throughout the country when he said: "I desire to emphasize the fact, of which labor and capital seem ignorant or intolerant, that labor is not the employe of capital, but of the people at large, of the whole United States, and that the people are the employers of capital also. The people pay capital for the use of its money and its services; they pay for its manual work and its time. When labor imposes unwarranted wages on capital, through threats or coercion, it does not wring such wages from capital, but from the ultimate consumer—the people. To such an extreme did capital once go that state and national legislation was enacted to restrain it from oppression; especially in these times, it seems to me, the other employe of the people also should be held within reasonable bounds."

A writer in the New York Times puts forth a suggestion that was also thrown out by Mr. J. Fraser Gregory in his address yesterday before the Rotary Club of this city. The New York writer says: "It would seem to me that at this time when capital and labor are having such a conflict, and when labor has become so autocratic, the great mass of the people, who are really the greatest sufferers from the conflict, should form a union similar to the labor unions in order to protect themselves. If the common people were properly organized, it seems to me they could exert an immense influence and prevent to a great extent the troubles brought about by the labor strikes."

Of course all labor leaders are not autocratic, nor are all representatives of capital; but there are enough of them in each camp to make trouble and encourage conflict. The miners' strike was not voted on by the miners as a body. This is autocracy. If the common people which stands to lose so much as a result of the strike, and this explains why the public stands behind a united congress determined to protect to the fullest possible extent the public interest.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S OPPORTUNITY.

Dr. C. M. Hines, associate medical director and secretary of the Canadian National Committee for Mental Hygiene, of the executive of which Hon. Dr. Roberts is a member, has replied to an enquiry regarding a survey of New Brunswick. He says the committee will be pleased to make such a survey and express the hope that friends of the mental hygiene movement will get together and give the committee a chance to do constructive work in this province. He says: "The study would be comprehensive, and would include a careful investigation of the whole problem of mental abnormality, the facilities employed to meet the situation, and recommendations concerning constructive measures that should be used."

In reply to an enquiry as to what has been done in other provinces, Dr. Hines writes: "Manitoba has enacted legislation to put in operation practically all of our recommendations, and British Columbia is doing the same. We received a wire from the Hon. J. D. MacLean, provincial secretary of British Columbia, only yesterday, stating that among other reforms they were going to erect immediately a modern training school for mental defectives. Dr. C. K. Clarke, our medical director, has been summoned to Victoria to consult with the provincial architect concerning plans."

This is New Brunswick's opportunity. The government will invite the National Committee to make a survey and submit recommendations, and the province will then be in a position to deal intelligently and practically with a problem that must in the interest of morals and efficiency be dealt with as soon as possible. The expert survey will render it unnecessary for private organizations to proceed with their plans in that regard, but they can do a valuable work by building up a body of public opinion to endorse government action after the survey has been made and the recommendations presented.

THE MELANCHOLY DAYS.
A former well-known political speaker in St. John once described his opponents as running wildly after the cry of progress crying: "Stop her! Stop her!" If he were alive today he would perhaps describe the citizens of St. John as standing in front of the car of progress crying: "Thou shalt not pass!" Of a verity, the melancholy days have come. The hearts of the leaders are heavy within them. We cannot afford a municipal building. We must not ask the government at Ottawa whether St.

John or Portland is to be their winter port. We must just grub along in the shadow, thankful for the scraps condescendingly thrown us from the table of plenty. It is nothing that St. John is the Canadian winter port nearest to Montreal, or that Canadian trade should go through Canadian channels. Trust the government. Draw nourishment from its promises which have been our fodder for so many years—and be thankful. Hand over the harbor and be done with it—for the government can do no wrong. As for local schemes of expansion, including a new municipal building, we simply cannot afford them—we really cannot. Let large cities like Moncton and Edmundston talk of expansion, but let us glue our eyes on the tax rate and draw long sighs of resignation to a gloomy fate. As compensation we may stand on King Square and reflect that we have saved the court house. And what greater consolation could a citizen of St. John desire? Many a condemned man has there heard his sentence proclaimed. It has been a place of weeping. And what wisdom has held her seat when such matters as hospital repairs and extensions have been up for judgment. Let the building stand as a memorial, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land; as a place to lean against while we gaze upon the Old Burial Ground and reflect upon the vanity of human wishes.

UNDER-PRIVILEGED BOYS.

A citizen deeply interested in the welfare of boys, and always ready to contribute for their benefit, said to the Times-Star this morning that it would be most unfortunate if no home could be got for the Boys' Club this winter. In this connection it is worthy of note that the Boys' Club Federation, with headquarters in New York, and with which the St. John Boys' Club was affiliated, last week began a nation-wide survey of six million under-privileged boys, or boys of limited opportunities, in the United States, with a view to organizing them into boys' clubs, federating and fitting them for useful citizenship and occupation. A class of instruction for workers with boys has just been opened by Columbia University, in co-operation with the Boys' Club Federation, as a part of the plan of country-wide extension, better to prepare teachers and supervisors for this welfare extension work.

The New York Times says: "The purposes of the Federation are wholly philanthropic, and the organization operates without profit to itself, it being the only organization of its kind that takes the boy under 12 years. It provides direction, vocational training and activities, and builds up physically the lad whose home environment may otherwise lead him to spend his spare hours on the streets. According to the statistics of the Federation, many large industrial concerns are organizing these boys' clubs in their plants, in co-operation with the Federation, finding that they are not only a solution of a great human problem, but a direct business investment."

The reports show that the citizens of St. John should display more interest in the Victory Loan. A great number of business men are giving much time to the task of presenting the case to the people, and all that is needed is popular interest in the success of a loan which represents the difference between good times and bad times in the early future. It cannot be said that money is scarce, for the people never spent it more freely, and the very small failure record for the year proves that business is prosperous. Hence St. John should do its full share in making the Victory Loan a success.

The vocational training board has taken up its duties with commendable energy. It has outlined such a programme as, if teachers and equipment are available, should attract hundreds of young men and women to evening classes; and pave the way for a far more extensive and necessary work in the future. The city council will of course lend its hearty co-operation. A competent director is one of the first requisites.

The New York Evening Post holds out a pleasant prospect to King Albert of Belgium. It says: "Should King Albert want another job at any time, and for any reason he can undoubtedly get one in this country as railroad engineer. He has proved his capability and his liking for the work. It would probably be more stable than kingship. Better pay, too—if wages keep on soaring."

The ratepayers of Acton, Ontario, last week voted 205 to 56 to spend $40,000 on a waterworks system and by 228 to 27 to loan $25,000 to a company to start a shoe factory. The Guelph Chamber of Commerce is urging the need of 500 additional houses in that city, as a need more pressing than that for new industries.

MARY'S LAMB.

When Mary had her little lamb, existence was a joke; then people lived on pie and jam, and weren't always broke. The prices then were not so steep as those our markets quote, and so a girl could have a sheep, a warthog or a goat. If Mary had a lamb today, and wished to feed the same, and went to buy a hale of hay, she'd find the price a shame. And she would cry, "Oh, mutton dear, the prices freeze my blood; if you can't live on atmosphere, methinks your name is Mud. I gnash my teeth and mourn and weep to see you go away; but I must have a woaden sheep, that doesn't bleat for hay." When Mary had her little lamb you'd buy a herd of swine, for what you now pay for a ham, that's mostly bone and brine. Then little girls could have their lambs to trail along behind, and have their polar bears, and wolves, and snakes galore, and build them neat and cozy lairs beneath the kitchen floor. But now a girl would get in wrong, if she with pets should fool; and Mary takes no lamb along, when she proceeds to school.

CANADA—EAST AND WEST

Dominion Happenings of Other Days

"LE CANADIEN."

About this date in 1806 the first issue of "Le Canadien," a paper printed entirely in French, appeared in Montreal. The journal was born in stormy days and its career was one of almost perpetual trouble ranging all the way from petty persecution to suppression by the authorities of the time.

It appeared first at a time when there was friction between the governor, Sir James Craig, and the legislative assembly. There was much opposition in the assembly to the presence of the court judges as members of the legislative council. Then Mr. Hart, a Jew, who had been elected to the assembly by Three Rivers, was expelled from that body because of his faith. Three times he returned to the assembly, but each time he was expelled. He was expelled because he was a Jew, and not because he was a man of letters. The paper continued its course until May, 1807, when trouble came again. This time it was the rebellion in the province. It was the rebellion, although intensely loyal to what it believed the interests of Lower Canada. It urged the people to rise up and fight such a cause. But its words were unheeded and soon there were many who had bitter regrets that they had not accepted its same message. For several years it continued its way with varying success until finally its stormy career ended in its own destruction. It was the property of those whose wrong doing, or alleged evils, it had stayed so fearlessly.

FAIRIES.

Edmund Kemper broadens in The Republic. Underneath the beech trees, Lights and shadows glancing, Surely there are fairies In the sun-spots dancing! Underneath the beech trees, Underneath and in them, Wait a host of fairies, Wait for you to win them. Fairies they are quick folk; Never may you find them; But underneath the beech trees, You can always find them.

IN LIGHTER VEIN.

Aunt Mary had been introduced to all the friends of the family, and was visiting her brother. Now, womanlike, she was trying to discover if her niece "favored" any young man specially. "That young Mr. Smarte, who comes here, seems a clever sort of man, Maude," she began. "Yes," replied Maude, "he is clever." "What is he by profession?" "A bit of a lawyer and a bit of a musician."

"What is he really?" asked auntie, puzzled. "Well," exclaimed the girl, "the lawyers say he is a musician, and the musicians say he is a lawyer." Cornelius on his first visit to the seaside went down to the beach at low tide and saw a big fishing smack lying high and dry on the mud flats. "Hey, mister," he said to the fisherman, "how do you get that big boat down to the water?" "We don't take the boat down to the water, mate," said the fisherman. "The water comes up to the boat."

Cornelius gave a harsh laugh. "Say, mister," he said, "I may be from the country, but I ain't goin' to swaller that!" The moonlight shone on the lonely house on the hill, where all was peacefully hushed in sleep. A dark form sat in the shadow of the hedge. Suddenly he moved as a soft whistle heralded someone's approach. "That you, mate?" he whispered hoarsely, as a stealthy figure approached in the darkness. "Yus," was the answer. "What ye doin' with that dog?" he muttered, as his burglar pal came nearer.

"Well," answered his confederate, "There's nothing worth taking in the house, and it's had luck to come away empty handed, so I brought along the watch dog and them burglar alarms." The visitor to the lawyer's office stood in amazement. "I say, old man!" he exclaimed. "What ever has happened to you? Had a motor smash, or what?" The lawyer shook his head wearily as he gingerly touched his bandaged face. "No. You remember that case the other day when I defended a man charged with assault? Well, I made a strong plea for him on the ground that he was a fool rather than a criminal."

"Yes, but—"

"I did it so well that he was acquitted, and he waited for me outside the court. Pretty Girl's Definition. Said the professor: "A kiss is a noun, But is it proper or common, Miss Lee? With cheeks like roses and eyes cast down."

"I think it is both," answered she.

SIR GEORGE FOSTER ON CANADA AFTER THE WAR

(Montreal Herald.)

Sir George Foster, minister of trade and commerce, was the speaker at the meeting of the Montreal Women's Club yesterday afternoon. The minister, whose subject was "Our Dominion After the War," declared that there would not result a changed country and a changed people to the degree popularly supposed, the basic principles of government and of conduct remaining the same, but the status of Canada among the world nations had been most decidedly raised by the part borne by her soldiers and sailors in the war.

A second gain with which the speaker credited the nation was the stable characters formed in the great body of fighting men who, he was assured, after four and a half years in the great university of war will have brought something out of it which will count as an influence for good as these men work out their futures. Those who remained at home and steadily backed up with all their resources the efforts of the fighting men, will also have acquired, through discipline and chastening, a staidness which will count for much in the years of struggle which lie before the Dominion. The final gain mentioned by Sir George was the spirit of co-operation which has grown up through the war, and which was not yet dead, will carry through the present Victory Loan to great success. In closing, the minister earnestly exhorted his hearers to produce and save for Canada.

LOWELL SPEAKS TO KEIBEL

President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University has received a letter from Prof. Franz Keibel of the University of Konigsberg, Germany, asserting that the government has retained certain private scientific property of his at Strassburg, including books and instruments, and requesting that Lowell help him procure their return.

Mr. Lowell has replied as follows: "Your letter of August 8 has come, commending that your books, instruments and other private scientific property have been retained by the French government at Strassburg, and asking me to use my influence to procure their return. "If you can prove to me that you protest against the burning of the library at Louvain, and that you endeavor to secure protection and such treatment as you now request for the professors of the universities in the Belgian and French territory occupied by the Germans, then I will exert any influence that I may possess to procure the return of your personal scientific property."

MOTOR-BOATING ESKIMOS.

(New York Evening Post.) A Canadian boatbuilding company is now constructing a power boat for an Eskimo customer of the Arctic region. It is to be shipped north as early as the weather permits. It is a sailboat with auxiliary gasoline power. The Eskimo purchaser is paying $2,700 for the boat, which is to be used along the Arctic coast.

If an Eskimo wants a power boat and has the money to pay for it there is nothing to do but let him have the boat. Nevertheless it is difficult for members of the more advanced civilized peoples to keep up with the rapid modernization of the so-called backward peoples. Here are our own American Indians using modern farm machinery and automobiles. Here are eskimos abandoning their skin canoes for power craft. It would not be surprising to learn that a native of Zululand had purchased an airplane and taken his family over to Tibet for a Sunday afternoon airing.

ABOUT THE STREETS OF HAVANA.

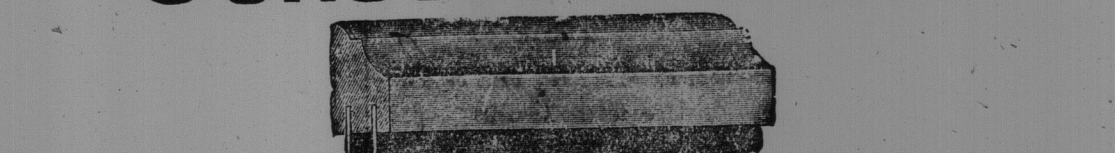

"Many of the streets of Havana," says A. Hyatt Verrill in "The Book of the West Indies," "are as narrow as by-paths, and lead, like canons dim and cool with shadows, between Spanish buildings, the tiled fronts and jutting balconies with scarce a dozen feet of space between them."

"Great archways, in ponderous walls lead to huge, colonnaded patios wherein fountains splashed, birds sing, and flowering plants fill the air with perfume; while the tinkle of guitars and the strains of soft Spanish music mingle with the roar of traffic and the honk of automobile horns."

"For ancient, picturesque, and delightfully foreign as are these byways of old Havana, yet through them flows a constant stream of modern traffic, pedestrians of every class, color, and race; rubber-tired victorias, mule-drawn drays and oxcarts; ponderous motor trucks and vans; rushing motor delivery wagons; softly purring limousines and clanging trolley cars. Marvelous it seems that the narrow lanes can accommodate the jam, but the traffic moves swiftly and with scarce a hitch, for the police are efficient, and the drivers skillful."

"Overhead, during the sunny hours of the day, stretch canopies gay with color, gorgeous with painted advertisements and strange Spanish names and which, far above the streets, form a covered way like an oriental bazaar between the stores of the shopping districts. And such shops! No dingy, dusty, old-fashioned affairs are these, but modern stores with enormous plate glass windows, brass and mahogany fronts, and within which every article known to the world may be found."

DOOM OF RUSSIAN BOLSHEVISM

(From The Review.)
The doom of Bolshevism in Russia seems at last to be actually impending. Long since, the blood-stained ruffians at Moscow saw the hand-writing on the wall and realized that only Red revolution in other lands would avail to save them from their fate. They continued to cling to power in desperation, in the midst of a people that hated them unutterably, only because of the fatalistic inertia of the starved and terrorized masses. Latterly they have made feverish but futile overtures of peace to the neighboring peoples that they had earlier ruthlessly attacked, and now they see the hint of pity in the malignant glances of the unhappy beings whom they have tortured with the most cruel social experiment of all history. They know the end that awaits them.

"SOME" FASTING.

(London Tit-Bits.)
Apart from the obvious tricksters of the traveling fairs, there are many notable cases of genuine fasting.
In the year 1847, Cicely Lidgeway was charged with the murder of her husband, and in order to impress the judges with her innocence, she fasted for forty days and was acquitted, folks considering her salvation as a direct Divine intervention.
A well known American medical man, Doctor Tanner, of New York, fasted for forty days in the summer of 1880, and lost nearly three stone in the process.
Louis Latteau, who died at the age of thirty-three in 1888, was said to have gone without food for twelve years!
Amongst the most famous of the fake fasters was "The Fasting Woman of Tisbury," who claimed to have abstained from food for twenty months. She created a furore before being finally exposed in 1808.

A man named Cavanagh astonished the world by declaring that he had lived without food from February, 1839, until November, 1840, that is nearly two years, but on his statement being disproved he was imprisoned.
A comparatively new bridge, spanning Great Egg Harbor River in New Jersey, and connecting Gloucester and Camden counties, has been stolen. Not only the fine cedar planking was taken, but the sleepers and other parts that could be gotten out in a hurry. It will cost $2,000 to replace.
J. F. Bradshaw, former aviator, now a farmer at La Harpe, Ill., trundled his airplane out of the barn at 5 a. m., flew 160 miles to Chicago, did some shopping, and flew back to milk his ten cows.

Victory Loan 1919 Is Bridge Between War and Peace.

Agricultural and Industrial Prosperity of Canada Depends on Success of the Loan.

Why is it necessary to have another Victory Loan? Have you heard this query? Or have you asked it? The Victory Loan of this year stands out as the bridge between war and peace. The war is over. Our boys won that. The reconstruction period is dawning and we at home must win that.

Much of the money that Canada is asking for will be needed to clean up the war debt. The expenses of demobilization were heavy, and there is still much of it unpaid. Now that our men are back, let it not be said that we repudiated the debt for bringing them back.

The sick and wounded soldiers still in hospitals are expecting that Canada will care for them and their dependents until they have been returned to health and strength. The hospital services must be maintained at full strength as long as there are returned men needing attention.

Many men through disability are unable to return to their pre-war occupations. The Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment is doing a fine work in training returned soldiers in trades and professions that they can earn a living at, and is following up the training and seeing that they obtain remunerative employment. The maintaining of this branch of reconstructive service calls for much funds, and the Victory Loan will be used to pay for it as well as the other purposes.

Under the Soldiers' Land Settlement Act, enough money is lent to returned soldiers to enable them to buy and stock a farm. This money will be repaid at a low rate of interest. The soldier is thus given a chance to re-instate himself in civil life, and production is given a boost.

Of the total amount of the forthcoming loan, $24,000,000 has been apportioned to finance these soldier-farmers.

Pensions to the disabled and dependents of our glorious dead, as well as the authorized gratuities will be other items on the expense sheet. These are some of the obligations owing to the returned soldier who is now in health.

The maintaining of Canada's prosperity is an important reason why the Victory Loan should be a smashing success. The money is needed to finance the credits to overseas countries so that they may continue their trade relations with us. If Canada cannot give these credits other countries will, and then Canada will lose all that great overseas trade that has been the mainstay of our agricultural and industrial life for so long.

As an investment Victory Bonds are eminent. Paying 5 1/2 per cent, selling above par on the open market, and guaranteed by the Dominion—what further reason can you have for hesitating? The Victory Loan 1919 ought to be ever remembered, and all right-thinking citizens will do their utmost to see that such a result is obtained.

RAILWAY TIES BUILT OF STEEL

Exhaustion of Forests May Bring This Change About

The attention has been called to the warning supply of timber and to the advisability of using steel ties. There is no denying the fact that as a nation we are rapidly exhausting our bithright of wonderful forests, says the Railway Agency. According to officers of the forest service, the consumption is now three times the production. However, the scarcity will unquestionably result in such advances in prices that there will be a natural decrease in consumption in all lines where substitutes for lumber may be applied. While the relation of lumber consumption to lumber production is a matter of real concern, the scarcity of ties experienced during the war period cannot be interpreted in terms of ultimate depletion. On the contrary the shortage of ties in 1918 was the result of temporary cessation of production brought about by war conditions and other circumstances. This condition has now largely been overcome, as witnessed by the production of about 10,000,000 ties per month. If we must take cognizance of our rapidly disappearing forests, it would seem that a matter of national concern as affecting all forests and all users of lumber. With any undertaking involving the use of private capital, the question revolves itself into one of cost. As long as the cost of a wooden tie distributed over the year of its natural life, is less than the cost of some substitute considered in a like manner, the railways cannot well be deterred from using the wooden tie in the absence of some general restriction on the use of lumber for all purposes. However, just as soon as a substitute is devised which will enable the roads to

VALUABLE WELL BUILT 15 ROOM HOUSE, BARN AND CARRIAGE HOUSE, ON CITY LEASE, HOLD FRONTAGE 30 FT. M. or L. ON LEINSTER STREET, RUNNING BACK 125 FT. M. or L. TOTAL GROUND RENT $1500 PER YEAR, BY AUCTION

I am instructed to sell by Public Auction at C. Hubbs's Corner, on Saturday morning, the 8th inst., at 12 o'clock, noon, that three story house situated at No. 156 Leinster street, together with the barn, well built, containing 15 rooms with bath rooms, lots of clothes closets, pantries. Heated by hot air, electric light and all modern improvements. Very nicely converted into double house or apartment. 2 lots, 40 x 125 ft., m. or l., each. City lease at $8.00 a lot per year, renewable there will be every incentive for co-operation on the part of the railroads in the development of the substitute, as there are probably more opportunities for immediate conservation of lumber through improved practice in its use.

Too many wooden cross ties are still being used without preservation treatment or protection from mechanical destruction. When all the railroads have adopted the measures for conserving ties, which on some roads have resulted in a reduction of 50 per cent of their annual renewals, a very pronounced reduction in the consumption of our forests will have been accomplished.

Chinese Hold Secret of Making

Ever since Hong Kong was established, the industry of vermilion making, entirely in the hands of the Chinese, has been an important one. The factories at Hong Kong have inviolate trade secrets. The manufacture of this pigment is among the foremost of the colony's industries. There are something like a hundred small plants for the manufacture of vermilion in Hong Kong and Kowloon. The raw material comes from Australia, and the vermilion is prepared altogether by what is known as the wet method. The Chinese make ar-

MARRIED IN WINNIPEG.
A wedding of interest to friends in St. John took place in St. Matthew's church, Winnipeg, on Sept. 29, when Rev. Canon McElheran united in marriage Miss Ida M. Barton, daughter of the late Wm. H. Barton of this city and Edward Diger of Winnipeg. After a short wedding trip to Minaki, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Diger are residing at the Evelyn Court Apartments, Westminster avenue, Winnipeg.

The Women's Institute and the Free Kindergarten Association held a jumble sale today in the school room of the Congregational church. Useful articles were on sale and there was a large patronage. The proceeds are for the two associations. Mrs. T. N. Vincent was convener and was assisted by Mrs. J. N. Bess, Mrs. Kenneth Fairweather, Miss Josephine Durick, Mrs. M. Rowley, Mrs. John Stack, Mrs. Helen Lydon, Mrs. A. C. D. Wilson and Mrs. F. W. McLean.

DEATH OF YOUNG MAN.
The death of Harvey Alton Thompson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thompson of Robesay, occurred at ten o'clock this morning and will be learned of with regret by many friends of the family. He was sixteen years of age and had been ill for some time. Besides his father and mother, he is survived by two brothers, George Oly Thompson of Moncton, and Alfred Victor Thompson of McAdam. The funeral will be held at two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, with service in St. Paul's church and interment in Fernhill.

POLICE COURT.
The police court opened this morning at the usual time, but the docket was marked "null" something which has not happened for some time. However, a charge was laid against Thomas Ramsey of the North End for having liquor illegally in a place other than his private dwelling, namely in his shop in Main street. The report was made by Inspector McAlaine Kerr and Merryfield. The defendant was notified to appear this morning but did not but the inspectors were to have him before the court this afternoon.

ONLY PRESERVES.
An amusing incident occurred a short time ago when a respectable citizen was stopped three times by liquor inspectors who searched his suit case for liquor. This man was taking several bottles of preserves from his residence in the country to his residence in the city, and while on a street car was accosted by an inspector who searched the suit case, but was taken back when he found it contained preserves. The inspector again accosted this man and asked to see what his suit case contained, but met with the same success. When he was entering his residence, an inspector and a policeman asked to look into his suit case, but they also met with the same startling discovery.

MAY REDUCE NUMBER OF STREET CARS.
The matter of taking off three cars from the Prince William street route on Sundays is now being considered by the N. B. Power Company. It is understood that the proposal is to have the West St. John and Douglas avenue cars cover the "red" route and to have the Fairville cars run to the foot of King street. This would mean a good service from Douglas avenue to the city but only a ten minute service from Indian town, as only the "green" or King street cars would run there. Some of the conductors and motormen are said not to be satisfied with the arrangement as it means a change in roles for one day and a lessening of the number employed.

East St. John Talks Of Incorporation

Though But Five Years Old Has More Than 1,000 Population

THIRTY HOUSES BUILT IN 1919

Have Water Main But Want Sewerage, Policeman and Street Lights—Will Hold Public Meeting

Within the last five years there has grown up at our very gates a new community, which bids fair to be a very popular residential district of the city, and which has progressed in building and population that the residents are seriously considering incorporation. Five or six years ago half a dozen houses were scattered along the slopes on the eastern side of Courtenay Bay; today the community of East St. John has a population well above 1,000 people, and all this in spite of the hardships that resulted from the nation being at war.

While people in the city have been reading and talking of the high cost of construction and everyone has realized these housing conditions are in a bad way, the East St. John people have been going ahead, quietly and steadily, and it will not doubt surprise many to learn that 1919 has seen the erection of more than thirty substantial and comfortable dwellings; almost every week brings into existence the foundation of another house.

It was not long before the war that several real estate dealers opened subdivisions along the shores of Courtenay Bay and the schemes were looked upon as more or less speculative ones in which there was a great element of chance. The years that have fully justified the action, however, and of one subdivision of 462 lots, but seventy-five remain unsold, and very few of those disposed of are in the hands of speculators. Sandwiched, as it is, between the sites of the dry dock and ship repair plant on one end, and the big plant of J. McCarty & Sons on the other, East St. John will offer the opportunity required for the housing of the personnel of both these institutions and if next year's building plans are any criterion, a greatly increased population cannot but result. More than 100 houses have been erected in the vicinity in the last five years, and it is predicted that there will be few lots available for building before another five year period has passed.

INCORPORATION.
The incorporation idea has been growing in the minds of the residents for some time and plans are now being made for the holding of a meeting to discuss the matter in the near future. The need of a policeman and street lights is being felt, as well as the need of water and sewerage services and other conveniences. The city's water main to the Courtenay Bay works passes through the community and most of the houses facing on the Little River road have the service now installed. The sewerage question is comparatively a simple one, as the other end of the sewer line to the Electric light is at hand and the street car system conducts a regular twenty-minute service to the site.

Residents of the community are endeavoring to have a side track placed, connecting with the spur which is being run from the C. N. R. at the Marsh road to the dry dock site. It is understood that the dry dock company is standing half the cost of the spur and the government the other half, and the company is willing to bear its share of the expense of the side-track, should the government be disposed to make up the balance. This side track is proposed for the purpose of having car load lots of material, etc. brought nearer to the consumer than it can be by present. Forest street, in the Haymarket Square vicinity being the nearest point available at present. This request has already been made to the local representatives at Ottawa.

The scene that presents itself when one looks across the bay from the vicinity of the Marsh Bridge will give the observer some idea of the growth which has taken place on the spot which but a few years ago was practically bare of buildings of any description.

SUGAR PRICES IN ST. JOHN

With regard to the price of sugar in St. John members of the Retail Merchants' Association say that they are receiving only one cent a pound profit, as provided by the Board of Commerce. One firm says that the lowest quotation they can get at wholesale is 11.9 cents a pound, 23.8 cents for a two-pound package on which if he sells at 26 cents he makes only a tiny fraction above one cent a pound, and that fraction cannot be avoided unless he is willing to sell for less than one cent profit.

Another merchant who sells at a somewhat higher price said that he charged exactly one cent more a pound than his wholesaler charged him and if there was undue profit it was not at his end.

Touching the matter of the sugar supply these representatives of the R. M. A. said that if the people would go along as usual with no attempt at hoarding there would be no general scarcity before larger supplies came to hand. They point out that whenever people get uneasy about the supply of an article they buy and create a scarcity, which is the very thing to be avoided.

ARRIVES FOR REVIVAL WORK
Rev. Dr. Rees of Rochester, N. Y., and his wife were welcomed to the city on their arrival at noon today on the Boston train to conduct a series of evangelistic services in City Hall, Carleton, during this month. Rev. Dr. Rees was in St. John during the simultaneous campaign held about ten years ago and will be well remembered. He came here today from Quincy, where he has just finished a series of revival meetings, assisted by his wife, who is a talented musician.

Dr. Rees was a Y. M. C. A. worker with the American troops in the United States during the war. His policy with the men, he said today, had been to preach them "the gospel straight from the shoulder" and it had seemed to be appreciated. When he finishes here he will go to Rochester to conduct services in a revival embracing 120 churches.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS FOR LONDON MOTORISTS
(London W. Dispatch)
Thoughtful motorists have urged for years past that there should be a compulsory code of hand signals whereby the driver of a vehicle would know what the man in charge of a conveyance had in mind to do.
Hand signals have been employed to a considerable extent, and undoubtedly they have been the means of preventing a large number of accidents, but the code has not been of general adoption, while some drivers have apparently had the most fantastic notions of what signals they ought to make.

The commissioner of police in the metropolitan area has set an excellent example by specifying and recommending the adoption of a simple code of signals that can be grasped by the meanest intelligence. His lead is being followed by chief constables in other districts.

The code is as follows: Right forearm vertical for "stop"; right arm horizontal for "I am turning to the right"; right arm horizontal and then swept forward for "I am turning to the left"; right arm horizontal with the palm of the hand down and moved slowly up and down for "I am reducing speed"; and right arm waved low from rear to front for "pass." Horse drivers are recommended to signal "turn" by rotating the whip above the head, and an intended stop by raising the whip vertically.

"Yesterday," said Jabson, "I refused a poor woman a request for a sum of money, and in consequence of my act I passed a sleepless night. The tone of her voice were ringing in my ears the whole night."
"You softness of heart does you credit," said Mabson. "Who was the woman?"
"My wife."

N. Y.'S LARGEST THEATRE
The Capitol, New York's newest, largest and most pretentious picture theatre, at Broadway and Fifty-first street, has just opened its doors to the public. Although motion pictures are to be featured at the Capitol and may be said to form the main body of its entertainment, the new theatre depends even less than its predecessors, the Strand, Rialto, and Rivoli, upon the screen alone. The principal numbers on its programme last night, and for the next week, were Douglas Fairbank's most recent picture, "His Majesty, the American," and a spectacular "Demi Tasse" revue staged by Ned Weyburn, in a dozen scenes.

Elaborate as the programme was, however, the interest of the first audience was first centred on the magnificent theatre itself. One is impressed first with its size, some idea of which may be conveyed by figures. It is advertised as "the largest theatre in the world," and probably no house will dispute the claim. Its seating capacity is said to be more than 5,300, and this may be compared with the capacity of the Hippodrome, which is 5,023; the Metropolitan Opera House, which is 3,306, and Carnegie Hall, which is 2,832. Compared with other motion picture theatres in the city, the Capitol's figures are even more imposing. The Strand seats 2,958; the Rivoli, 2,202; and the Rialto 1,960.

WHY EXPERIMENT?

Food scientists claim that the leavener is largely responsible for the flavor, texture and wholesomeness of your home baking. That on no other one ingredient does so much depend. It is important, therefore, to use a baking powder that you know possesses the necessary leavening qualities.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

COAL MINE STRIKE CONDEMNED BY TAFT

Says Congress Has Full Power to Act Against "Such a Cruel Conspiracy"

Former President William H. Taft, speaking on last Thursday night at Maiden, Mass., at a rally in the interests of Governor Coolidge, declared that the bituminous coal miners in calling a strike were "engaged in an unlawful conspiracy" and that congress had full power "to condemn such a cruel conspiracy as an offense."

"In an ordinary strike," he said, "incidental annoyance to the public which is negligible, does not render the strike illegal. But when enormous combinations of workmen deliberately enter upon a country-wide plan to take the country by the throat and compel the country to force the employers in that particular field of industry to yield to the demands of the men they are engaged in an unlawful conspiracy. The sacredness of their individual right to labor on such terms as they chose and to leave their employment when they will, does not protect nor justify them in such conspiracy."

"That is the kind of a conspiracy the bituminous coal miners propose to begin on the first day of November. The extent of the suffering that they plan to impose upon the public cannot be measured. The suffering will be entailed on those who are so poor that they cannot buy their coal in advance. It will fall upon the poor wage-earners whose employer will have to shut down for lack of coal. Congress has full power, if it has not already done so, in the interstate commerce law, to condemn such a cruel conspiracy as an offense."

"The locomotive firemen are threatening demand. Congress may condemn this as an unlawful conspiracy, too."

Mr. Taft asserted that "Bolshevism had taken strong hold in many of our congested centres and is the backing of a good many of the strikes."

"The radical agitators," he continued, "encourage lawlessness, stimulate resistance to lawful authority and the abuse of the power of organization. The question whether the government of a state shall temporize with organized lawlessness and yield to it by humiliating compromise thus becomes at this time of the greatest importance."

"If they enter upon this plan, it will constitute a conspiracy to starve the people of the United States into some kind of action to compel the authorities to pay the wages."

He commended Governor Coolidge for his course in the Boston police strike and urged his re-election "in approval of the course he took in maintaining the authority and sovereignty of this commonwealth against some of her sons who had forgotten their duty and deserted her in the hour of peril."

Longshoremen's Union Elects New Officers

The annual meeting of the longshoremen's union was held last evening in the Seaman's Institute when officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: president, John Sherwood; senior vice-president, Thomas Sullivan; junior vice-president, Jeremiah J. Donovan; secretary-treasurer, C. G. Langbein; business agent, M. P. Donovan; marshal, Peter LeClair; executive board, James Sharpe, Hedley Parker, John McKinnon, L. Donovan, J. Doherty, C. Shoniman, James LeClair, John Wells, W. Buckley, C. Carlin, Thomas Vallis and Herbert Shirley. During the evening some literature concerning the Mooney case was distributed.

FINAL DRAWINGS.

At the Protestant Orphans' Fair under the auspices of the P. A. P. B. on the West Side last evening, the final drawings were made. The three-burner oil stove with oven was won by Mrs. G. McLeod; the six months' pass to the Imperial theatre was won by Mrs. Johnson; the fancy quilt by E. C. Clark; the ton of coal, by E. Lydon. Mrs. W. B. Nice won the bean-guessing contest, guessing the total number of beans to be 1,425 which was in actuality 1,426. The game prizes were won as follows: Exception, a casserole dish, M. Joyce; ten pins, carving set, F. Robinson; bagatelle, 1st prize, umbrella stand, Mrs. J. Harned; 2nd prize, glass water set, Mrs. Ross; food gates, half dozen silver knives and forks, B. Baston; gent's bag, fancy clock, E. Black; air gun, ladies' electric reading lamp, Mrs. Wloretice Lord; gent's air gun, safety razor, A. Duffy; ladies' bean toss, glass set, Mrs. Maud Donnar; ring toss, jardine stand, Mr. Wilson; book toss, water set, R. Pitt. There was a large attendance and the Temple of Honor

Band provided a fine musical programme.

Often he returned home late—so late that when wife asked the time he'd murmur: "O, about 12, dear!" or "Just after midnight, pet!"

But one evening, or rather morning, she said, instead of the usual request: "John, dear, I wish you'd stop that clock, its ticking worries me."

The hapless, unsuspecting man did so. Next morning wife asked artlessly: "What time did you come home last night, John?"

"About midnight," he replied glibly. "John," she said coldly, "look at the clock!"

The hands of the timepiece pointed to 2:15!

A GENERATION OF PROHIBITION

Dr. W. T. Grenfell, of the Labrador mission, speaking on prohibition at the time the referendum was taken in Ontario said:

"If we can see prohibition through one generation, we shall find that the next generation will not want alcohol. As for interfering with the liberty of our fellows, we are not 'wild asses living in the desert'; we are social beings who have to limit our liberty so-called for the benefit of higher issues than the pleasure of catering to our palates. What an immense advantage will have been gained if the British Empire can go forward to meet the new era without the handicap that England especially has had to carry through the centuries from the grip of the hydra-headed monster of intemperance. Write me down as a prohibitionist from the soles of my boots to the crown of my hat."

SPRUCE TREE 573 YEARS OLD

In making a survey of the spruce forests where the airplane cutting was carried on during the war in the Grays Harbor spruce district, a tree 573 years old was found, says the American Forestry Magazine. The tree was felled in clearing to make the military camps safe after a limb had fallen and menaced the roof of the officers' quarters. The tree is close to the Olympic Highway, eleven miles north of Humpstulps. The stump was 114 feet from the ground level. The tree was two inches in diameter when Columbus discovered America.

THE LAST OF THE RINGLINGS

Interesting Facts About Circuses Past and Present

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

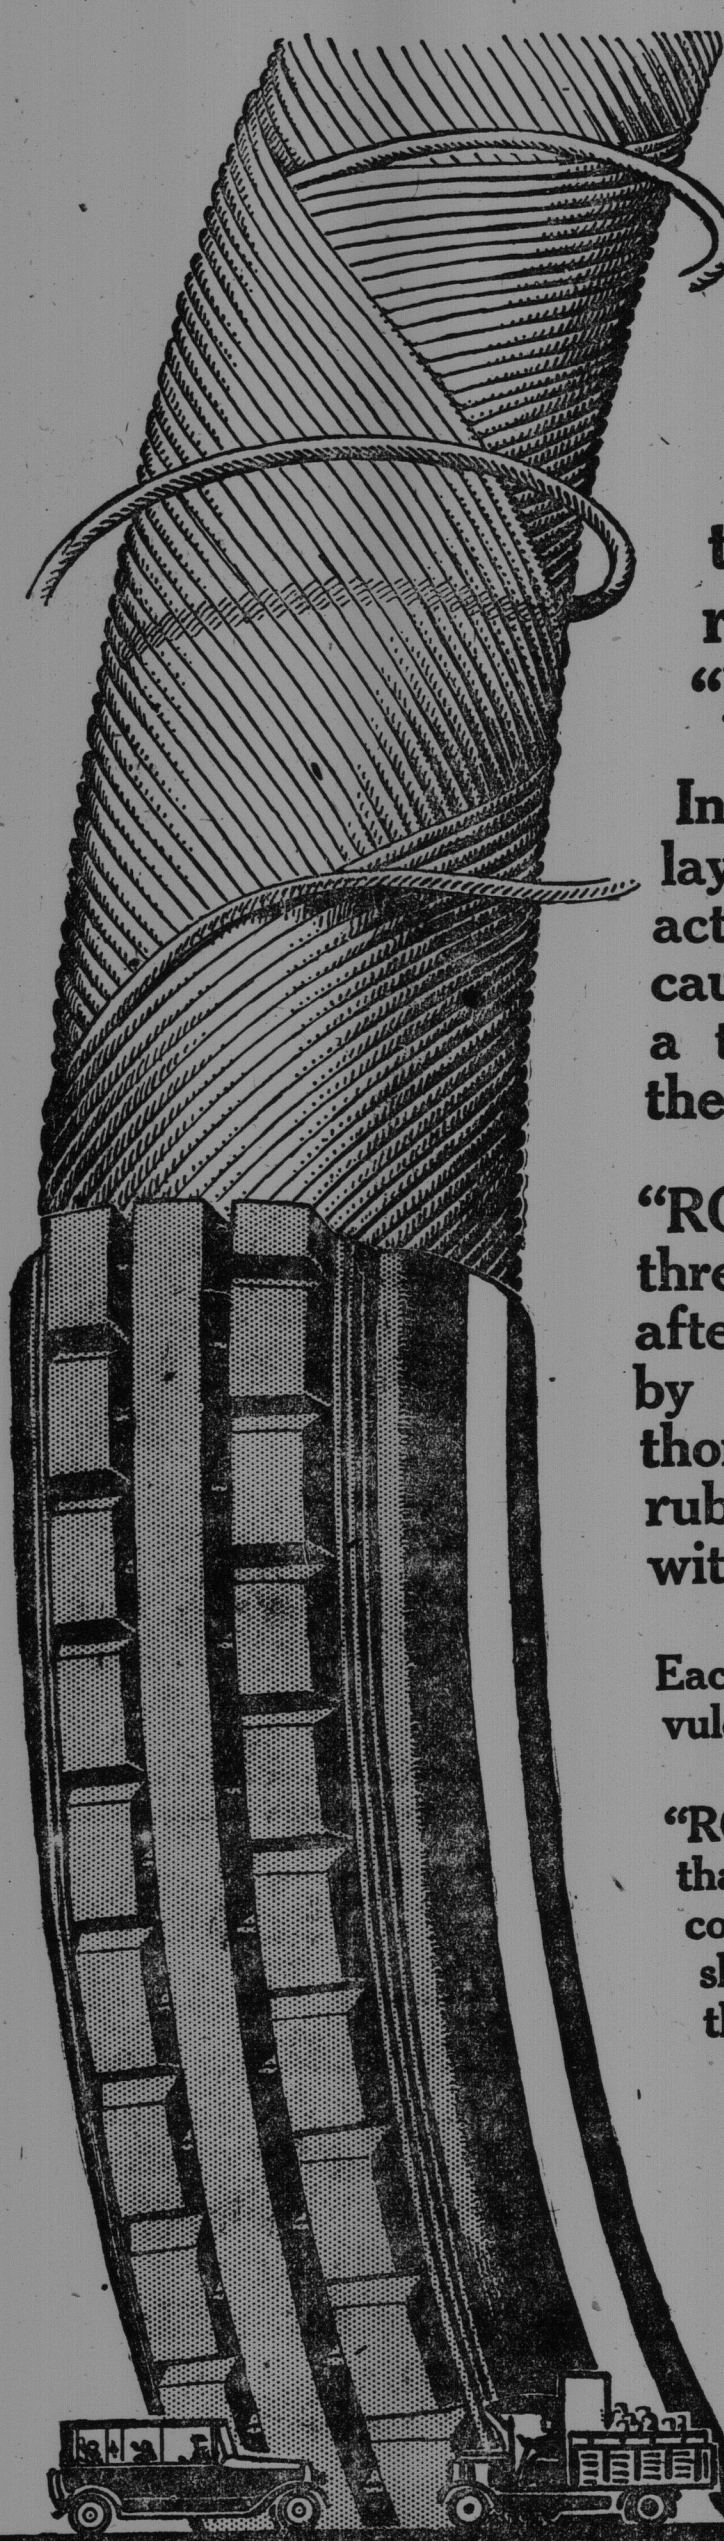

Some of our good newspaper friends on the other side of the line resented a recent remark in the Mail and Empire to the general effect that being next door to the United States had all the advantages and disadvantages of living next door to a circus. To prove that we think the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages let us direct our minds to circuses this morning, speaking from the text supplied by the death of Alfred T. Ringling. He was not old in years, but was a veteran in achievement, for undoubtedly he and his brothers were the greatest circus men of the present generation. There were seven of them who engaged in the circus business. They bought up and absorbed Barnum's and Forepaugh's, and today it is probable that the circus that is left to the only surviving brothers, John and Charles, deserves more than any competing organization all the superlatives that Barnum invented forty years ago to apprise the public of the merits of his attractions. The Ringlings' success in the circus business was probably unequalled, and can anyone point to such another great business that was built up by seven brothers? We believe that if the seven Ringlings had chosen to exhibit themselves they would have drawn larger crowds than any of the competing attractions. Barnum, the Showman.

Barnum, of course, will be remembered as the greatest showman in history, and as the author of some epigrams, the choicest of which "There's a sucker born every minute" was not his at all but the contribution to literature of a man known as "Hungry Joe." But Barnum was not originally a circus man. He was a speculator, and before he became a showman had quite a record of ups and downs in other businesses. He went into the show business because it promised to make him a fortune, and the promise was well fulfilled. The Ringlings went into the circus business because they were circus men. Each of the seven had had circus experience in various departments before they joined forces in an organization. It is said that they were circus men from their youth up, and that their first performance given to other boys demanded only pins as admission. It is on record that they began by trading a skiff, of which they had tired, for a pony, and it was this pony and the kindergarten tricks they taught him comprised their first capital. Soon they had improved enough to ask for coppers instead of pins, and from that day, as the saying goes, they never looked back. The Country Circus.

There are circuses today, scores of them, traveling over the United States and Canada which are never heard of in the large cities. They work through the country and the small towns making profits for their owners and affording a living for an army of clowns and other performers who lack that shade of "class" that would entitle them to engagements at the great hippodromes, or as it often happens, young men who one day appear "before all the crowned heads of Europe" although a night's small tent would accommodate all those crowned heads nowadays. The Ringlings had one of these country circuses long before they were heard of in the great cities. In the '80's they had what is called a wagon show, and as it happened there was then a war raging among the great circuses the Ringlings profited by their tremendous advertising campaigns and steadily prospered. The time came when they were able to leave the middle west where they had grown and thrived and invade the east where the "big money" is supposed to be and by that time they were quite capable of meeting the giants of the industry on equal terms.

A Team in the Family. Indeed, they had no small advantage. In the first place there were seven of them, and every one was an experienced circus man, beside being shrewd, enterprising and energetic. What other circus proprietors had to employ other men to do for them, as one newspaper biographer remarks, the Ringlings were able to do for themselves. Each one had a department in which he was quite as expert as was the highest paid employe of any rival concern. They worked together in perfect harmony, and probably there was less grafting and waste in the Ringling enterprises than in any other great circus of their time. In the days when the competition was keenest they made money, but it is no so sure that all their competitors did. So it came about in the course of years as almost inevitable that one circus should absorb the others, and those who had watched the progress of the Ringlings were never in doubt which would be the eventual absorber and which the absorbed. Thus it is that the names of Barnum and Forepaugh-Sells, the latter again a combination of two important enterprises, survive only in smaller type upon the billboards while that of the Ringlings overshadows them.

Great Talents Required. Few people pause to think of the tremendous amount of business ability that is required to make a circus a success. For organization skill probably it can teach a lesson to even the railroads or the hotels, perhaps the most highly organized of businesses. Bad weather can almost ruin a circus. The performers, like other public stars, are a rather high strung lot, and great tact is necessary in dealing with them. A few accidents may mar a season's work. The adver-

Why "ROYAL CORD"?

Many users of "ROYAL CORD" TIRES feel there is some magic in these tires that makes them roll along for thousands of miles more than fabric tires; they do not understand the radical difference about the construction of "ROYAL CORD".

In the so-called fabric tires, the carcass is made up of layers of cross woven fabric. When these tires go into action, the crossed threads see-saw against each other causing frictional heat, the worst enemy of long life for a tire; and second, causing the tires to wear out where they touch each other.

"ROYAL CORD" construction does away with the cross threads. "ROYAL CORD" TIRES are built, one layer after another, of cords. In each layer, the cords lay side by side and run in the same direction. Each cord is thoroughly impregnated with rubber and insulated with rubber, so there is no direct contact of any one cord with any other cord.

Each layer is placed at such an angle that when all are welded together in the vulcanizer, they make a solid piece which it is impossible to pull or twist apart.

"ROYAL CORD" TIRES require an average of 5 pounds less air pressure than fabric tires. This lower pressure makes them softer and much more comfortable to ride on. They are practically non-skid—they prevent side-slipping—are equally desirable for all four wheels; and experience shows that they are the most economical tires you can use.

DOMINION INNER TUBES, in "ROYAL CORD" TIRES, give you perfectly balanced tires.

DOMINION TIRES and ACCESSORIES are distributed through DOMINION RUBBER SYSTEM BRANCHES and sold by the Best Dealers throughout Canada.

STOP CATARRH OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief. Ah how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.

the hands of geniuses. For a long time circus owners were obliged to share some of the odium that attached to the disreputable or criminal element that followed them for the sake of the crowds. Of late they have had to pay tremendous license fees. They have had to change their methods. But it speaks well for the quality of the intelligence and character that the business has attracted that so many have prospered, and that year after year the circus is "put over" and makes the most universal appeal of any form of entertainment that has yet been devised. To have won supremacy in this exacting business is sufficient epitaph for any man.

ENGLISH IN CHILEAN SCHOOLS.

New Educational Plans Put That Language First. In a recent lecture before the students of Columbia University, the distinguished Chilean professor, Enrique Molina, said that the business must be in-look up the charge often made about the Germanophilia of Chileans by stating that aside from the army, where Chile follows the example of many countries in adopting the German method, there was no evidence of such German influence in our educational system. It is true that we had some German professors of indisputable merit, as in the case of the naturalist, Prof. Philipp Dr. Lenz, the linguist, and others, but apart from this purely scientific influence, even the popularity of the German language has not increased among Chilean students. For instance, some of the courses in our medical school are taught in French by Chilean and Italian professors. Our engineering school has Belgian professors, and in our high schools the French language is compulsory, while only 15 per cent of the students take up German as the second foreign language, and all the rest prefer the English. A movement is now in progress to give to the English language the first place in our studies, as is already established in our commercial schools and the naval schools. In a recent convention of the high school teachers, Dr. Galvez led a movement with the purpose of obtaining uniformity in the national plans for the teaching of foreign languages. There is in existence a division in zones by which English has been declared compulsory in the northern provinces of Chili, French in the central part, German being limited to the three provinces in the south.

According to the new plan English should be the compulsory language for the entire school system of the country. The resolution, passed as far back as 1912 in the Teachers' Congress, was as follows: "The National Teaching Congress declares that the English, French and German languages are indispensable to our complete culture in the order given, for the teaching in high schools." One of the principal reasons for the adoption of the new system is the purpose of making more practical the work of the schools, and as the congress expressedly declared, to put ourselves on a level with the general movement toward Pan-Americanism.

LABOR AND TIME CLOCKS.

Now that so many industries are cutting down on the working hours it has become necessary to make every minute count. Hundreds of factories which used to work nine and ten hours are now operating only 7½ hours and eight hours, with, in many cases, greatly increased wages. Under the old hours employees "punched" the time clock at the entrance, after which they proceeded to the various departments. This meant a delay of anywhere from two to fifteen minutes, or a loss of that much time to the employer. Since these shorter hours have come into effect time clocks have been placed in the various departments. In this way the hands are obliged to be close to their work when they register. The same thing applies to the time saved when the employees are leaving the building. One of the largest time-clock manufacturers in this country states that its business for the month is 20 per cent greater than in any previous month, even during the time in which munition factories were opening up in almost every locality. This firm credits the increased business almost in its entirety to the shorter hours of work.

To make the Victory Loan a success is a national obligation. It may be that you are the deciding factor.

RUB IT IN, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

Nation Must Settle Down in Earnest to Work.

Speech at Cutlers' Feast

Increasing Production Necessary if Problems of the Day Are to be Solved—Peace at Home Essential and All Work With Good Will.

Lloyd George at the Cutlers' Feast at Sheffield early in October said:

"There is a natural disinclination to set ourselves to the monotonous tasks of peace, but the time has come when the whole nation should settle down in earnest to work. That may strike you as a commonplace, but it is essential that it should be rubbed in and brought home. If we are to face our difficulties and emerge as triumphantly from the troubles of peace as we issued from the greater difficulties of the war, we must work more productively, at any rate, than we have ever done before. Our burdens are heavier than they were and our needs are greater and our standards are higher. But our opportunities are vaster.

"Before the war the national debt was £245,000,000; today it is nearly £8,000,000,000. Wages have doubled, hours of production have been curtailed, the standard of living is higher. This is a thing to rejoice in, but it is a thing which is worth preserving, and you cannot preserve it by a concourse of tribunals or by the decisions of labor conferences. During the war all conditions of semi-hunger, privation, and want vanished.

The Problem.

"We have got to maintain this condition and to do more than that. There are today, in spite of the losses of the war, 200,000 more men and women engaged in industry. There are 400,000 for whom employment has not yet been found. There are 400,000 or 500,000 more to be demobilized. That is the problem, and we can solve it only in one way—by increasing production."

"The horror that existed in the minds of millions in this country last year were driven back to pre-war conditions again. There was only one mode of escape; they must increase the national income, and they could only do that by increasing the national production.

"It was not enough for production to be equal to the pre-war production; they must increase it. That was the urgent need of the day in this country and in every other country. The first country that solved that problem would rise to heights of success and honor which would surpass the highest previous record ever attained.

"Supposing Great Britain produced more than ever it did, would there be a market for it? Unhappily, yes. They had the arrears of five years of war throughout the world. All the great manufacturing countries of Europe were during that period concentrating their energies on the production of material for war.

"The world was now in need of essential commodities, and they had today got not only day-to-day employment, but also they had to liquidate those arrears and the devastations of war had to be repaired. Countries which at one time

"Fruit-a-tives" Conquered Nervous Prostration

R. R. No. 4, Gilbert Plains, Man.

"In the year 1910, I had Nervous Prostration in its worst form; dropping from 170 to 115 pounds.

The doctors had no hope of my recovery, and every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take "Fruit-a-tives."

I began to mend almost at once, and never had such good health as I have enjoyed the past eight years. I am never without "Fruit-a-tives."

were about the richest in the world had had their resources vastly reduced.

"Now there are unlimited possibilities opened up for the manufacturing energies of the world. I have no fears of the demand. It is supply I am worrying about. There is enough work in sight for many years, and at the end of that period prosperity will have raised the standard of living throughout the world to such an extent that there will be an increase in the demand for the commodities which this country is pre-eminently supplying.

"I want to invoke inspiration in all manners of trades as to the best way of coping with this difficulty. Can we get our fair share in supply in these times? On this depends good wages, reasonable hours, comfortable homes, and fair profits. Can it be done? It depends on three or four considerations.

Don't Nag Germany.

"The first is peace—peace abroad, peace at home. We have settled peace with Germany. Let us see it is real peace. It depends on us. It is not the British habit to nag, to harry, to insult and to trample on a bleeding foe. As long as Germany conforms to the conditions we have laid down in the past we must give our enemy a clear chance to lead a decent, honorable existence. It is not the interests of everybody, not merely of Germany, but also of Britain and the whole of the world.

"They could not have peace unless there was peace all round. A perpetuation of the spirit of war was a vital blow to industry and to good will among the people. There would be plenty of trouble here and there. They could not have a great earthquake convulsion like a great war and expect that within four or forty days of signing a document it would immediately subside. There would be rumblings, there would be upheavals here and there, but the worst was passed. He could see symptoms even in the most desperate areas of a coming peace, and they would have peace on the earth in a short time.

"They could only build on a foundation of peace. As long as war was to be made he was only one out of millions who threw everything he had into it. Now that they had peace let them throw all the best they had into that well.

Peace for Industry.

"But we must have peace at home. Industry cannot make its arrangements, complicated and delicate, when its confidence is disturbed. To secure production we must have everybody working with good will. To secure good will

Thin, Nervous People Need Bitro-Phosphate

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wrecks, conclusively proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that one of the best things for the nerves is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

By strengthening the nerves, weakened people regain energy and vigor; thinness and angularity give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless; confidence and cheerfulness replace debility and gloom; other ailments become bright, and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health.

CAUTION—Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, builds and wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food, so much so, that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks. Those taking it do not desire to put on flesh, should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.

there must be confidence all round. Capital must have confidence, labor must have confidence. Capital must have confidence that its enterprise will be fairly remunerated—I do not mean extravagant profit, which ultimately clogs the wheels of industry. I mean a fair, legitimate reward for fair, legitimate risks and business enterprise.

"Labor must also feel confident that it will share the rewards of prosperity. It must feel confident that it is not going to be thrust back into the morass and quagmire from which five years of war had extricated it at the cost of millions of lives. It must be treated as if it had a real interest in the success of the concern; that it was not a hireling but a real partner in the great business of Great Britain. Labor must feel that in this country, where there is largely accumulated riches, largely through their toil and skill, that they shall have a fair share of the comfort, the abundance, and the security which those riches produced."

"That was why he wished greater efforts were made on both sides—capital and labor, employer and workman—to secure co-operation and a sense of common understanding that the country be longed to all.

"He was far from countenancing the purchase of good will and co-operation of any section of men at the price of concessions which would harm any other section and that any section should deny subsistence to the general community because it could not get its own way on some subject. Members of that trade must realize that not only were they doing harm to every other section of workmen but that in the end they would be the greatest sufferers themselves.

Capital and Labor.

"What was needed more than ever was a good understanding between capital and labor, and he was confident that that could be achieved. Let them come face to face and try to understand each other. Let them work to lift the country through and above all its difficulties to a real interest in the success of the country as a whole.

"In matters of this kind there was not much that the government could do. It was a fact, the less they did the better. There was nothing he regretted more than that capital and labor had not settled this thing with each other, and that the government was forced more and more into the position of intervening and arguing and reconciling. That was not the supreme task of a government. During the war the government was the employer and they could not allow a stoppage of twenty-four hours without irreparable injury to the country. But the less the government interfered the better, and the more the employers and workmen settled these things together the better it would be.

"There are certain things the government can do. One is with regard to the transport of the country. Transportation in all its branches is one of the greatest aids, if not the greatest aid, to our future prosperity, and I well-being. We realized during the war more than ever how essential transportation was to victory, and as it was essential to victory in war it is essential to victory in peace. The full resources of this country are not yet developed.

"Look at the way in which we have neglected agriculture and the farming ground of this great land of industry. We can use our transport system to assist in the regeneration of the rural life of the country. Another point wherein the government can assist is the development of power. In this country, when we are talking about production we must remember that there is a limit to what one man can produce without extraneous aid. An unpleasant fact with regard to power in this country is that we have not yet approached the American standard in the use that we have made of machinery in the task of production.

Obsolete Machinery.

In a very remarkable report on coal conservation written by a very able body of men, it is stated that the amount of machine power per worker in the United States is twice what it is in this country and the standard of wages is higher. That was a lesson not merely for the manufacturer, but for the workman. Wherever they found four men doing the work of one man it meant low wages. Wherever they found two men with the aid of machinery doing the work of four men, it meant higher wages. It was essential that they should get out of the minds of the workmen the argument that the use of machinery meant a lower standard of living. On the contrary, it always meant better wages and a higher standard of living.

"There was another lesson of the war, and that was that there existed in this country a good deal of obsolete machinery which could usefully be scrapped. A lesson which they had to learn was to secure greater efficiency and economy by converting coal into its chemical parts. He did not know whether the claim could be substantiated, but it was claimed that you could get five times as much power out of a ton of coal if converted into electricity, and that you could save 35,000 tons of coal in this country if you had electric power on a large scale obtained from large generating stations.

"At the present price of coal and with the difficulty of maintaining output that was a vital consideration. The government at the present moment were engaged in passing through the Electric Power Bill with a view to re-organizing electric power and encouraging the co-operation of all those who were interested. He trusted that in the autumn session they would be able to carry through the House of Commons a bill making it possible to harness this great power and give the aid to industry which it so badly needed at the present moment.

Man Power.

"But machine power was not the last word. There was a word the deep significance of which they learnt in the war, and that was man-power. They realized during the war that man-power was vital to the success of the country, and that men were necessary to bear the strain of industry just as they bore the strain of war. It was estimated by the best educated areas and what made the better soldier made the better workman. To increase the productive quality of men was one of the most important tasks in front of us and he had great hopes of it.

RUMPUS BREWING IN MINOR LEAGUES

Smaller Baseball Circuits Dissatisfied With Treatment From Class AA Bodies

New York, Nov. 2.—Another big baseball rumpus is pretty sure to take place when the minor leagues hold their annual convention in Springfield, Mass., beginning on Nov. 11. Ever since the National Association of Minor Leagues advocated its agreement with the majors last year, there has been a great difference of opinion among the smaller clubs on the merits of the radical action.

In the controversy which has developed in the minors, the Class AA leagues, composed of the International League, the American Association and the Pacific Coast League, will be bitterly opposed by the Class B, C and D organizations, who maintain that the Class A leagues have not made one move to better the circuits of lower classification.

When the Class AA leagues advocated the break with the majors and eliminated the draft, they retained the right to draft the players from the smaller leagues. They promised the smaller organizations that they would draft their best players and they would receive a greater financial return than making the deal with the majors. During the past season the Class AA leagues enjoyed a prosperous season, but the other minor leagues claim that these leagues have not drafted any of their players as they promised and with no agreement with the major leagues, the small fry of the minors lipid themselves out in the cold.

Disaffection Is Strong.

The disaffection among the smaller leagues is so strong that at the Springfield meeting it would not be surprising if the majority of the minors broke away from the Class AA leagues and entered a new agreement with the majors. Since the close of the baseball season there have been rumors of this kind from several sections of the country and it became known recently that campaigning, so as to be ready for a bitter fight at the coming session of the minors.

The Class B, C and D leagues constitute a majority of the minor associations' members and they will demand that the draft arrangement with the majors be restored. If the three Class AA leagues refuse to do this there is pretty sure to be a break, with the Class AA going along by themselves and with the other minor associations themselves under a new agreement with the majors. There is also much dissatisfaction among the minor leagues over the anti-farming rule, which was adopted by the minor association last year. They agreed that no club would be permitted to accept major league players under optional agreement. The smaller leagues maintain that the Class AA leagues did not live up to this agreement and that several of their accepted players from the majors under the optional agreement. It is charged that some of the Class AA officials, who were among the originators of this anti-farming rule were among those who violated it most flagrantly.

WAR PROFITS IN FRANCE

Paris, Nov. 2.—(Associated Press)—Commissions instituted by the Senate and Chamber of Deputies looking into war contracts between the state and private firms have ended their investigations and deposited their findings. One of the first studies of the new chamber when it convenes will be to take legislative measures necessary to obtain from firms sums amounting to 500,000,000 francs, which the commissions say would leave the firms "a normal profit on their war contracts."

The Senate report estimates that one firm alone would be called on to return to the state over 2,500,000 francs. Airplane and motor manufacturing concerns are among those mentioned in the report for sums totaling well into tens of millions of francs.

All of the firms mentioned in the reports have signified their intention of defending themselves against surrendering any of their profits.

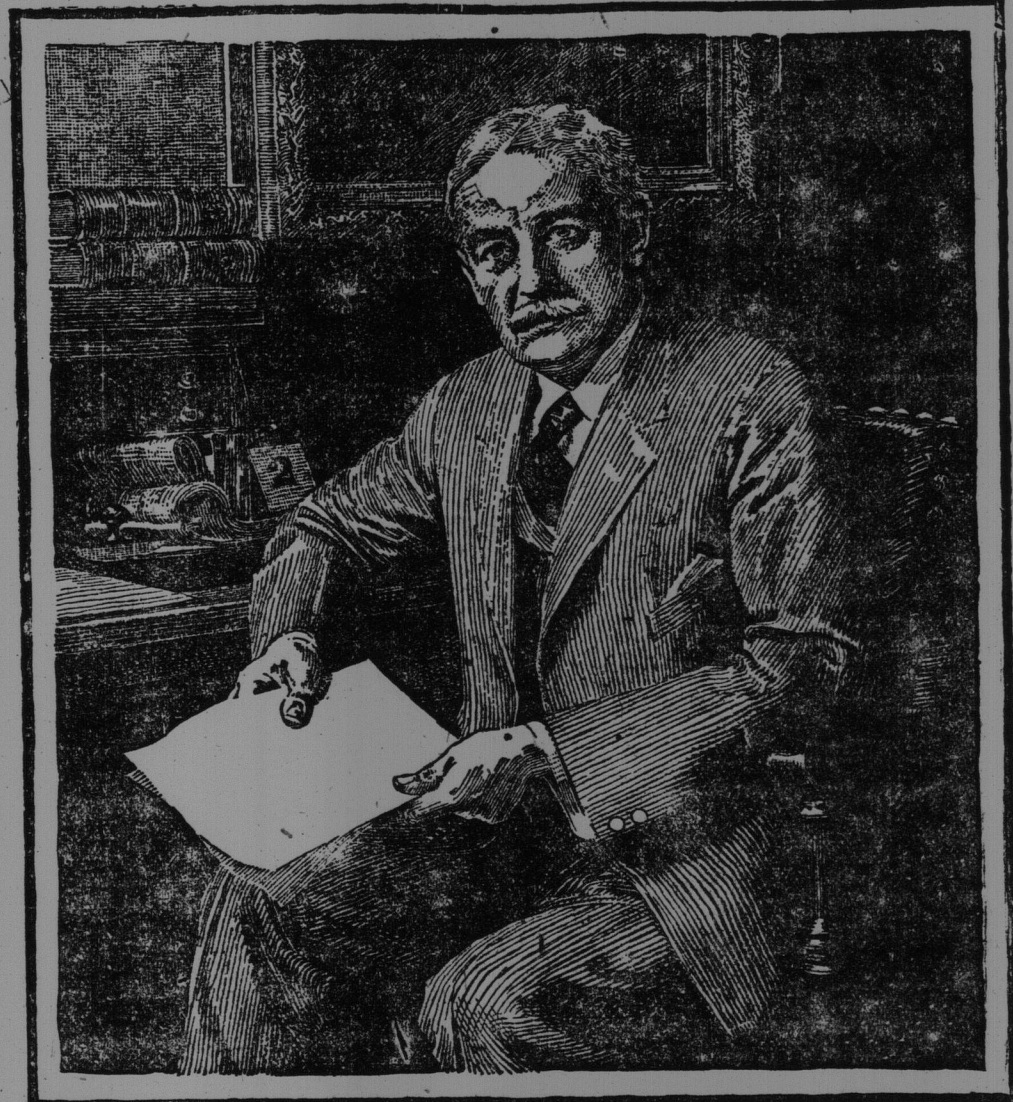

Getting Too Fat? Try This—Reduce

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist (or if you prefer write to the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.) for a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets. $1. is the price the world over. By doing this you will be able to reduce two, three or four pounds a week without dieting or exercise.

An Englishman traveling in the remote Highlands remarked to a villager: "But what on earth do you do when any one is ill? You can never get a doctor in time."

"Nae, sir," replied Sandy; "we—just dee a natural death."

Ulrich Charbonneau was the piece de resistance at Recorder Semple's levee in the court house this morning. Ulrich had been pinched for vagrancy and other acts detrimental to the health of the income tax. The local hotels all being jammed with guests, he was perforce obliged to seek sanctuary in the hotels conducted by the local constabulary. "Where do you come from?" asked Clerk Lefevre. "I come from the west, and have been here two weeks," replied Ulrich. "What part of the west?" "Search me. I know it takes twelve days to walk there from Mont Laurier!" "Well, why didn't you stay there? They need men out west." "Because they don't like me," grinned the accused. "At that you can't call them fastidious," said the court, after giving Charbonneau's makeup the "once over." Ulrich's next place of residence will probably be picked out for him when he comes up for sentence on Nov. 4. Patrick White was very deaf when he was asked to explain why he was panhandling in the streets of our fair city some days ago. After shaking the walls of the hall of justice and nearly busting his lungs, the guard in the dock finally penetrated Pat's foggy hearing and explained the charge against him, which he strenuously denied. His denials, however, were as fruitless as results as water is to a stone. "Fifteen days' hard labor," ruled the court. "What?" says Patrick, suddenly regaining his hearing. "Fifteen days' hard? And me innocent as a lamb." Pat was led gently away, muttering sundry opinions of the law and all pertaining thereto. David Allan started out to celebrate yesterday, and during his stesta he lost nearly all his worldly belongings. He came into court minus coat and vest and sundry other necessary articles of apparel. However, the gents that shook Dave down were kind enough to leave him his breeks, or the police would have had to produce a barrel, size 46, thus enabling him to appear before the recorder in a semi-civilized state. He also lost three teeth in the engagement. "I've lost everything, yer honor," said Dave with tears in his eyes. "Including your dignity," said the court. "Charge dismissed." Allan crept out into a cold and stormy world, looking like the prodigal son, and

Churchwoman's League Sees Danger—Institutions of Bolshevism Are Considered "One of The Greatest Menaces of The Age"

New York, Nov. 3.—As a protest against the "Soviet Sunday School," a special campaign of religious education will be launched by the Churchwoman's League for Patriotic Service, a woman's public service organization which has been formed recently and is working with the nation-wide campaign of the Episcopal Church.

Through an active committee the Churchwoman's League will wage aggressive warfare against the Sunday schools of Bolshevism, an institution which the league considers "one of the greatest menaces of the age." Public talks, moving pictures and other educational means will be used to spread the doctrine of Christianity versus that of Bolshevism.

"The religious world as a whole is profoundly concerned over the claims made for Bolshevism as a cure-all and omnipotent panacea," said Mrs. Hamilton R. Fairfax, president of the Churchwoman's League, here today.

"We are willing to attribute the temporary spread of Bolshevism to the prevailing unrest of a world turned topsy-turvy by the greatest war in history. But we are not willing to allow the substitution of radicalism for religion.

On Active Duty.

"The Churchwoman's League is therefore going to translate its concern into deeds. We are going on active duty and our fight is to show that radical political lectures given to children on Sunday morning, are not, after all, nourishing for young minds and hearts. We are out to show that the doctrines of mob violence, hysterical greed and selfishness, cannot be substituted for the greater philosophy of love and selflessness that are the corner stones of the Christian religion."

Miss A. E. Warren, of New York, long identified with the social service work of St. Cyprian's parish, is the chairman of the national committee which will undertake this campaign. Committees are to be organized throughout the country as quickly as new branch organizations of the Churchwoman's League are formed.

WASHINGTON IRVING'S "AD."
The Old Gentleman Who Disappeared Returned as a Book.

"Not many people now alive remember how Washington Irving did his advertising," mused Father Knickerbocker in his November reminiscences. "It was 110 years ago this month that a little notice appeared in the Evening Post to the effect that some time before an elderly gentleman had left his lodgings and had not been seen since; that he wore an old black coat and cocked hat and was known by the name of Knickerbocker, and that any news of his whereabouts would be welcome at the Columbian Hotel, in Mulberry street."

"A few days later the Post printed a letter from a traveller saying that this old gentleman had been seen by the passengers of the Albany stage a little above King's Bridge sitting on a stone, with a bundle tied in a red bandanna handkerchief beside him. Ten days later there was another notice inserted by one Seth Handaside, landlord of the Columbian Hotel, reading something like this:

"A very curious kind of a written book has been found in the room of the old gentleman who disappeared from this hotel some time ago. This is in his own handwriting and I wish to give him notice if he is still alive that if he does not return and pay off his bill for boarding and lodging I shall have to dispose of his book to satisfy me for the sum."

"I had been up in the country for a few weeks while all this was going on, and you can imagine my surprise when I read in the Evening Post the day I came back to town a formal announcement of the book of this supposed 'Diedrich Knickerbocker' in two volumes published by Inskip & Bradford at 128 Broadway, for $3. It was some time before people got over laughing about my having been lost, and advertised, and finally having written and published ed a book, without ever knowing a word about it.

"Irving's little pleasantries never left any ill will, however, and he certainly hit on a clever method of advertising. I wonder, by the way, if the widowed ex-Empress of the French ever thinks of the far-off days when she was little Eugenie de Montijo in Spain and Irving used to tell her stories? I suppose to most of you it seems as if Irving must have lived some time before the Revolution, but there really are a few of his acquaintances alive yet."

Justice.

A Sunday-school teacher had been telling her class of boys about crowns of glory and heavenly rewards for good people.

"Now, tell me," she said, at the close of the lesson, "who will get the biggest crown?"

There was silence for a minute or two, then a bright little chap piped out: "Him wot's got 't' biggest 'ead."

AND NOW—it's underwear—for the children.
A problem, isn't it?

To get underwear that you know will give your little ones real protection—and keep them from catching colds—soft, warm fabrics, closely woven garments that fit snugly.—and prices of everything as they are.

It is a problem.

Yet those essential qualities that a mother demands are found in Peerless Underwear at a moderate price. More, there is a dainty touch to the trimmings and finish of every Peerless garment. Nearly every good dealer sells Peerless Underwear.
