The Meaning of Chevrolet's "Economical Transportation"

IT is more economical to travel by Chevrolet than by any other means. That is what it means to say that Chevrolet is the most economical form of transportation.

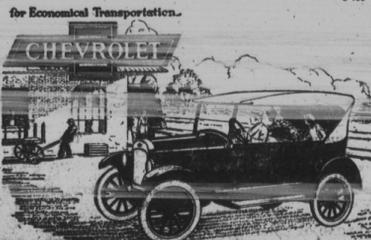

This implies, first of all, that Chevrolet costs the least per car-mile—that it is less expensive to operate than any other make of car.

But, more than that, it means that Chevrolet is more economical than any other kind of transportation.

An investigation among Chevrolet owners of all classes, shows that it is not only more convenient—but also more economical—to travel by Chevrolet than by railway-train or trolley car.

Chevrolet is easy to own. The G.M.A.C. plan of deferred payments will enable you to finance the purchase. Investigate the new Superior Chevrolet today.

SOME INDIAN STORIES AS TOLD BY UNCLE HENRY BRAITHWAITE

Noted Guide Amused at Sayings and Characteristics—Uncle Henry Says They Have Many Good Traits—Has Never Lost Anything Out of Traps, and They Never Interfered With Them.

"I have hunted a great deal with Indians and have often been amused at their stories and characteristics, says Henry A. Braithwaite well known hunter and guide of this city. "I remember once when hunting with old Gabe, Chief of the Mellicites we were clearing out a trail. I was humming some sort of song when Gabe, who didn't care about a noise being made, interrupted me with, "Better save that singing till you go to church."

"Another time we had an English officer with us. In the morning he asked Gabe how close he should get to a caribou before he fired. Gabe answered, "Oh git um close, spouse um touch um with gun if can." In the course of the day we sighted caribou on the plain. The officer had field glasses and Gabe told him to look over the plain and see if there were any more in sight. Gabe gave a grunt, "them big glass eyes no good, there drove caribou right over there," and he pointed at them among the low bushes.

"When King Edward, then Prince of Wales, was here in Fredericton, Gabe had him canoeing around the river for several days.

"A number of years later Gabe was taken home to England for some sort of water show. He took some of the royal family, in his canoe, paddling around the lakes and running some rapids and streams. The first time I saw him after his return, I asked him a great many questions, more to hear what expressions he would make than anything else.

"One time I had an Indian with me who had worked for me a great deal. We were carrying very heavy loads out to the trap lines which had got filled up with blown down trees during the summer. We came to a place where we had to wade through a thicket and swamp. I worked my way through ahead of the Indian and sat down on the trail to rest. I heard Louis coming, puffing and blowing, and he called out to him, "How are you making it?" "Oh make it bad, worst place I go I never did," he answered.

"I once overheard two young Indians, one of whom lived opposite Fredericton and the other ten miles above talking from opposite sides of the street. One sung out to the other: "Hello, Pete, when you com down?" "Me come down tomorrow." "When you come up yesterday?" "Oh, me go up again yesterday." "Another time I heard two Indian boys bragging about their fathers being great hunters. One boy says "Twenty-five musquash kill my fadder before header die." "What, your fadder dead?" asked the other boy. "No, Musquash all dead." "Well, says the other boy, "my fadder him very brave, he kill um bear, fight um bob cat and chase um lunkum zoo." "An old Indian met two white men in the woods and asked the way out. "What, Indian lost?" "No," replied the Indian, "wigwag lost, Indian here."

"About the year 1865 when I was working for Mr. Gibson, I returned from the woods where I had been looking after the lines, and was taking a few day's rest at home. He sent word that I was wanted at the office, I went, and seeing quite a crowd around, I didn't know what it meant, until young Gibson told me there was an Indian there who wanted to run a race with me. I was quite surprised when one of the Indians looked me over and asked Mr. Gibson if I was the man who was going to race him. Mr. Gibson said yes, and the Indian let out a grunt and said, "Could beat that man one foot in every three."

"Back of the village was a small barren some three-quarters of a mile across and I picked that as the snow shoeing was heavy. We had to run getting ready and the word was given to start. The Indian went off at a rapid rate. I started with what I thought I could carry out and a little to the good. I thought I was going to have quite a race, for I had my doubts if the Indian could carry out for a mile and a half. Two-thirds the way up I commenced to haul up on him, and soon realized he was breathing very hard. I gave a little spur and the Indian tried to keep up but tripped and fell. From that out the race was nothing but a walk over. I merely trotted, and then started off at a pace to show him what I could do.

"One morning I sent an Indian out to look at the thermometer to see how cold the weather was. When he asked him how far it was below zero, "Oh, spouse um bout a foot," he answered.

"I remember one time of an Indian coming into my store and saying, "Will, I have had luck last night." "Will asked what the trouble was. "Lost my wife," says the Indian. "Where did she go?" asked Will. "Oh she dead," answered the Indian.

"The Indian has many good traits in all my seventy odd years of

KING TUT BELIEVED IN ADVERTISING

He Planned Campaign for Centuries, Delegate Tells World Convention

King Tut-Ankh-Amen was pictured as an advertising expert with unusual foresight, who planned a campaign which came to a climax after his death before the convention of District No. 2, Association of Advertising Clubs of the World, in the Bellevue-Stratford.

Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, called King Tut "the best advertised ancient king." After explaining the wealth of gold riches with which King Tut caused himself to be buried, Mr. Wiley said: Then he directed the entrance to his tomb should be covered with rubbish. He knew the fundamentals of advertising. He had his own slogan on a coat of arms stamped on most of his belongings. He accompanied his text with good illustrations, full of life, depicting himself in battle, on the hunting field receiving homage from his enemies.

"Although a century ahead of his time, he recognized the value of mystery and patience. He kept things quiet until the archeologists began to worry about the gap in the line of the Pharaohs. Then his spirit got into communication with Howard Carter, and after a considerable period, urinal "clicker" advertisements were used, full page advertisements began to appear.

"All King Tut's publicity is due to newspaper advertising. The psychology of this selling is based on a fixed habit. In metropolitan and suburban districts, the reading of the newspaper has become a daily practice. News of the day is eagerly awaited. This keen hunger for the news gives the advertiser an unusual and vital point of contact with hundreds of thousands of readers.

Every woman knows the importance of scanning the advertising columns of the daily paper before starting on her shopping tour. Eighty per cent of the retail buying of the country rests with women. Newspaper advertising gradually is superseding all other methods of publicity. It provides in one medium all the conditions required for successful presentation to the public of the merits of any kind of merchandise."

BANDIT'S GUNS GET HIS SON IN TROUBLE

Jesse James' Pistols Figure in Episode in Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo., May 19.—The same pair of wicked looking pistols that dangled menacingly from the belt of Jesse James, in the turbulent frontier days, slipped from their holsters here long enough to cause the bandit's son, also named Jesse, a lot of trouble.

Young Jesse Careless It was the careless way in which the famous outlaw carried his "iron" that earned for him the respect of enemies. And strangely enough it was he lack of caution his son used that brought him into the toils of the law.

Jesse James, Jr., who practices law in Kansas City, wrote a book about his dad and therein the bandit was pictured as a man who wanted to surrender, but feared for play at the hands of those administering justice. And after seeing that the book gained wide circulation, the son put the pistols back in their holsters and placed them with other remembrances of his father.

The world knew that Jesse James had been slain by one of the Ford brothers, both of who were believed to be true friends, and the attorney felt confident that the James name was cleared of all blemish.

And from that day until this the pistols have been idle, so James says. Then came an accident. A car in which James and his friends were driving was struck by another automobile driven by a son of Dr. Sheldon, one of James' best friends.

It was necessary to take Sheldon to a hospital. There a bulge in James' pockets was noticed. An investigation disclosed that his companions also were armed.

Has Jumpy Nerves Highly nervous and confused, James explained to officers that he had a commission to patrol the road, where several hold-ups had been reported. He could not satisfactorily explain, however, who issued his commission and was about to be charged with carrying concealed weapons when Dr. Sheldon intervened, and suggested James go to a sanitarium. A search disclosed that he carried his dad's weapons.

So the son of the fearless frontier bandit, who carried his dad's guns for a while, will be treated for "jumpy" nerves, physicians said.

NEW FURNITURE MADE OLD FOR THE MOVIES

When it came time to furnish the replica of Kink Richard's Twelfth Century castle, built for the Douglas Fairbanks super production, Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood, not only was it necessary to pattern the furniture after that in vogue in those days of knighthood, but very pieces of it had to have an aged appearance in conformity with the best descriptions the experts in research work could find. The ordinary methods of producing an aged effect would not suffice because of certain photographic innovations devised especially for this picture.

After each piece of furniture had been constructed and was passed on for accuracy of design, there followed the use of the electric torch so made that it burned only the surface. After several hours the charred surfaces were brushed with a steel wire brush, when a "grain" was added. This work required a deft touch to avoid unsightly scratches and to produce an effect in harmony with that attained by wood-workers of yore by methods of use usually and only slightly understood. After bringing the charred surfaces down to a sufficiently smooth "grain," expert artist were called upon to apply a coat of stain, consisting of a powerful solution, which does not stick to the wood, but works almost magic wonders in increasing the aged color. Since it required such a quantity of furniture for the appearance of this huge Twelfth Century castle, and because every piece of it had to convey perfectly the "age idea," a corps of experts was kept daily at the task for four weeks prior to the actual photographing of the scenes.

DRESSING WOUNDS WITH SUGAR

Dr. G. Magnus reports to the Therapeutic Monatshefte of Berlin on his success in treating wounds with ordinary sugar. This he sprinkles in a thick layer over a wound that has previously been washed and dried. He covers it with a dry dressing, which he renews every day.

The Journal of the American Medical Association says a great advantage of this dressing is that it stimulates a powerful sensation, which does not stick to the wound, but flushes out the depths of the wound, while protease apparatus softens crusts and necrotic tissue and gives a chance for healthy granulation below.

SAW MILL BURNED AT BATHURST

Gloucester Lumber Co. Loses Valuable Mill at Opening of Sawing Season

Bathurst, N. B., May 28.—The saw mill of the Gloucester Lumber and Trading Company was burned on Sunday morning. The loss is estimated at $75,000, while the insurance is only about $50,000. The fire will throw 100 men out of employment. The mill was to have sawn 8,000,000 feet of logs this season, but as it had just commenced operations the logs were still safely in the booms and were not swept up in the blast. The destruction of the mill is a serious loss to the community as well as to the company. The fire was first discovered about 1 o'clock in the morning, when the night watchman saw the flames in the centre of the big mill building and immediately gave the alarm. The fire department responded promptly, but their efforts were directed mostly to prevent the flames from spreading to other property as the mill was seen to be damaged.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. The watchman had been through the building at 12:30 o'clock and noticed nothing wrong. There was a heavy rain at the time and a strong wind carried the sparks in the direction of the river and away from other structures. The machine shop of the Gloucester Lumber and Trading Company, near the mill, was not damaged.

The company owns a mill about the same size at "Burnville," about 20 miles from here.

William G. White, the mill manager had no announcement to make last night as to the intention of the company with regard to the rebuilding of the mill as to what was to be done with the 8,000,000 feet of logs in the booms. The suggestion has been made that the Gloucester Company may lease an unused mill of the Bathurst Lumber Company in order to saw the logs. The destroyed mill had been operated for about ten days.

CHARACTER

It would be well if every person as well as every firm were able to point to opportunities for gain turned down because they "sounded shady." High tone is not obtainable through the lavish use of swiftness, Turkish veils and gilt letters on ground glass. The reputation to be envied is not created by expenditure, but by refusal to be interested in what does not quite measure up to the standard. The man who is asked to do important things, is in the long run, the man who is drawn the line with extreme strictness—as to what he will do. There is a lot of temporary prosperity in get-rich-quick schemes and methods, but the more permanent success must be founded on something more than smartness. Its basis is best described as character.—Boston Globe.

DEATH RAY WAS TESTED TODAY

Is Alleged to be a Terrible Force For Destruction in War.

London, May 26.—"Somewhere in England" there was demonstrated today to air service and Government officials the mysterious death ray invention of Grindell Mathews, which may prove the most terrible force of destruction in case of another war. Time was placed of the demonstration were kept a jealously guarded secret, lest foreign spies observe the test. France wants the invention, and a Frenchman who has offered Grindell Mathews funds for a partnership to perfect the ray insists he had binding contracts. The inventor has declared that although he is an Englishman, he will sell the secret to France if financial support is not forthcoming from his own government. Meanwhile the French firm of Chantiers Durhone of Lyons, which has been negotiating with Mathews, claims to have learned his secret, and to be able to produce the death ray regardless of whether it is sold to England or France; Mathews denies this. What He Says It Will Do. The claim he makes for this ray is that it can kill or stun human beings at a distance of between six and ten miles; that it could put out of commission the machinery of an enemy fleet approaching the English Coast, although it could not sink battleships; that it can bring down in flames airplanes with which it comes in contact; and that a chain of forts equipped with machinery for transmitting the deadly rays would provide a perfect defense of this country against airplane attack. Mathews also says that the ray can explode ammunition at great distances. Another British inventor, Dr. Wall, claims to have invented a somewhat similar ray, which will require nine months to perfect. Differing from Mathews, he says he will place his invention at the disposal of his country, and if it is not accepted, destroy the models and plans so that no foreign country may obtain them. The daily Chronicle quotes Captain Edwards, Mathews' coadjutor, as saying: "All the experiments up to the present have been conducted at 64 feet in a laboratory, but the ray can be extended indefinitely, and for 3,000,000 pounds Mr. Mathews would undertake to erect a plan which would prevent any airplane penetrating a 50 mile barrage around London."

New York, May 28.—Seven robbers, one of them wearing a police uniform, bound and gagged two watchmen and made off in four trucks with $250,000 worth of tobacco and other merchandise from the warehouse of the United States Cigar stores, Brooklyn. The alertness of a policeman who saw two of the stolen trucks near the signal box at which he was receiving the general alarm led to the recovery of those trucks and $150,000 worth of the loot. Soon after a citizen informed the police of the appearance of the other two trucks in a stable, with the result that detectives found $150,000 worth of the stolen goods in the stable. PILGRIMAGES TO ST. ANNE DE BEAUPRE

Indications Point to Bumper Year—Are Seeking Reduced Rates on Railway

Quebec, May 28.—That the number of people who will visit the Shrine at Ste Anne de Beaupre during the present summer season will far exceed that of the last year was the opinion expressed this morning by officials of the Quebec Railway, Light and Power Company.

While there are only three pilgrimages booked so far, it was stated that from now on the company will be called upon to make arrangements for many large parties who will come to the city for the purpose of visiting the famous shrine. Those pilgrimages already booked are the Franciscan Fathers of Montreal who will be 700 strong. This party will arrive here on June 1st; the parish of St. Henry, Montreal, numbering 800 are booked for June 24th, and a large pilgrimage from the Maritime Provinces will arrive on July 15th. This will come by Canadian National Railway and will be in charge of Rev. Father Savage. The exact figures are not yet available, but it will be an exceptionally large party, as the pilgrims will arrive in three sections.

Apart from the foregoing, the company states that there will be the usual pilgrimages of the various parishes throughout the Quebec district, while many large private parties, numbering from thirty to two hundred are expected to arrive at stated periods from all parts of Canada and the United States.

There were sixty-eight organized pilgrimages to Ste. Anne de Beaupre last year. It was stated that the number will be about the same during the present summer, but that there will be a large increase in the total number of visitors to the shrine this year. It was also stated that 200,000 people all told, visited Ste. Anne de Beaupre last year. These figures will be considerably increased.

In order to further promote pilgrimages to the famous shrine, it is understood that the religious authorities have petitioned for a further reduction in the railway fare from the various Canadian and United States points.

IRON OF THE FUTURE

That iron is the very basis of our industrial civilization will be admitted by the thoughtful, and many of our greatest supplies of iron ore are being rapidly depleted because the increased per capita consumption of iron in the world over, an increase which is destined to be greater in the future when the needs in Asia and Africa increase their consumption of iron.

These conditions of increasing consumption and decreasing reserves have often in the past, particularly about the beginning of this century, been used to create a scare, on the ground that our supplies of usable ore were being so rapidly depleted that their exhaustion would occur within two or three generations.

This is a propitious point of view, because as we lower the percentage of iron in the rock which we call "ore" the quantity of such ore increases at a rate out of all proportion to the decrease in iron content, and as we use leaner and leaner ores technical improvements will be made which will minimize any tendency to increased cost of production.

The same thing has happened in gold, silver, copper and other ores, and today copper ores are being worked with only 14 per cent of copper in them.

SUFFERS NO MORE WITH HEADACHES

"Fruit-a-tive" freed her from years of pain

The Fruit Treatment seems to be the only way of completely ridding the system of the cause of Headaches.

Miss Annie Ward, of 112 Haven St., St. John, N.B., says: "I was a great sufferer for many years from Nervous Headaches and Constipation. I tried everything, but nothing seemed to help me until I tried 'Fruit-a-tive'."

After taking several boxes, I was completely relieved and have been well ever since."

Practically all Headaches come from poisoned blood—that is, the blood is laden with impurities which should be carried from the body by the kidneys and bowels.

"Fruit-a-tive"—made from the juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes—regulate the vital organs of the body—insure a pure blood supply—and completely relieve Headaches.

Here and There

Although the Canadian Pacific Railway has yet issued no forecast of construction contemplated for 1924, the fact that it has ordered 60,000 tons of steel from the Algoma Steel Company, of Sault Ste. Marie, seems to indicate that its program will be extensive.

According to a statement recently made by the Hon. Charles McCrear, Minister of Mines for the Province of Ontario, 85 per cent of the world's steel-making capacity is now in the vicinity of Sudbury, where there is an inexhaustible supply of this metal.

Alberta's butter production last year was 12,500,000 pounds or 2,000,000 pounds more than in 1922, according to reports presented at the annual meeting of the Alberta Dairywomen's Association. It was so long ago that Alberta was using butter imported from New Zealand.

The year 1923 was a favorable one in the building and construction activities of Canada, and returns show an advance of about 10 per cent. In 1923 the total expenditures were $218,000,000, and in 1922 $245,000,000, an increase of $30,000,000.

Exports of pulpwood from Canada for the year 1923 amounted to 1,332,000 cords, compared with 1,011,332 for 1922, an increase of 322,598 cords or 32 per cent. The 1923 figures are equivalent to about 900,000 tons of newsprint, the amount which can be manufactured from that amount of wood.

C. E. Usher, General Passenger Traffic Manager, and E. J. Roberts, Vice President and General Passenger Agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, have been present at the meeting of the Board of the French Exhibition train in Canada in 1921. The medals in recognition of their services to the French Exhibition train in 1921. The medals in recognition of their services to the French Exhibition train in 1921.

Attention has been drawn once more by shipping experts in London, England, to the fact that the only known supply of helium gas in the British Empire exists in the Province of Alberta, that 10,000,000 feet of this gas is going to waste annually in this province and that the possibility of establishing an airship base at some future date in Alberta is being discussed.

Canada's fisheries production during 1923 is estimated to be worth $40,000,000. At the beginning of the year it was thought that anything like this mark would be reached, for the Fordney tariff had cut deeply into exports to the United States. But as the year wore on the demand and prices generally improved, thus giving fishermen along the Atlantic coast especially a much better price.

Here and There

The annual statement of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the report which the company's president, E. W. Beatty, made to the shareholders at the annual meeting are matters of first rate interest, not only to the fast growing number of Canadian citizens who are part owners in the great railway, but to all developed in Canadian progress and enterprise there can be no pronounced depression or prosperity in any part of the country without its being reflected in the earnings of the Canadian Pacific. There is a barometer of the general economic conditions of the country, and the results of the operations of the company's steamships upon the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

There was considerable reason for gratification in the president's statement made at the annual meeting on May 7th, that the operations of the company had been conducted throughout the year in a satisfactory manner and with satisfactory results. Mr. Beatty pointed out that gross earnings for the year, which had totalled $195,887,089, were greater by $9,162,000 than those of 1922. Working at a constant pace, increased by $7,954,000 to $158,358,076. This large increase in operating costs was due to large expenditures made upon the property in order that it might be kept to the highest possible physical standard and capable of rendering the best possible service to the community.

As a result the property was never so excellent as it is now. Net earnings for the year were $479,010, an increase of $1,177,000.

The total tonnage moved by the company during the year amounted to 50,822,294, an increase over that of the previous year of 1,108,408, due to a heavier movement of grain, lumber, manufactures, articles and general merchandise, the largest increase being in grain and grain products.

Mr. Beatty pointed out that this satisfactory condition had extended well into the present year and that due to favorable operating conditions and heavy traffic net earnings for the first quarter of 1924 had increased over the same period last year by $1,253,814.

Referring to the Government system of the Crow's Nest Pass, Mr. Beatty said that the difference between it and the Canadian Pacific was largely in the personnel of shareholders. The securities of both systems were owned by private individuals scattered all over the world and there was a significant steady increase in both Canadian and American ownership.

The Apple and Its Uses

The apple crop of Canada last year, according to Bulletin No. 35 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, entitled "Canadian Grown Apples", amounted to 4,063,719 barrels. This was about one million barrels less than the crop of 1922. These figures, compiled by the Fruit Branch, are given in an introduction to a long list of fruit recipes which it is hoped will encourage the greater use of Canadian apples. This bulletin, which is available at the Publications Branch of the Department, shows that Canadian apples have been particularly successful in international competitions and are recognized as unsurpassed anywhere in the world. Apples are classified according to the seasons in which they should be used and as to their suitability for cooking, dessert, and other purposes. The advice is offered that apples should be cooked in earthen or granite utensils and only silver, granite or wooden spoons used for stirring. The recipes cover all manner of dishes that can be made from the "King of Fruits".

IT SIMPLY CAN'T BE DONE

There are a few things people expect but which they will find very difficult to get.
They cannot get increased services from the Government at the same time they get decreased taxes.
They cannot have better schools without paying for them.
They cannot enlarge Federal Bureau and commissions without increasing expenses.
They cannot match dollars with the Government without putting up the dollars.
They cannot reduce taxes by voting big bond issues to pay for public improvements.
They cannot live on a higher plane without paying more for their living than their fathers paid.
In other words, people cannot eat their cake and have it.
Unless these facts sink into the public mind and are acted upon, the tax burden will grow, the cost of living will increase and the problem of how to make both ends meet will grow more perplexing.

WHAT'S THE MATTER?

So far this season—and it is now well advanced—there has been no evidence of any springtime stir in sport circles here. In other years the summer's plans for baseball were always well under way before this date but this year the leaders in local sport have made no definite move towards organization. Of course there is lots of talk. There always is. Everywhere one finds those who are only too eager to tell us what should be done but here the matter ends.
To get down to actual facts there is a stubborn obstacle in the way. This is Campbellton's lack of a suitable field in which summer sports may be carried on. This obstacle, however, is insurmountable only if considered so. In many towns all over the country the efforts of sport promoters have secured for them suitable premises only after years of endeavor. There is no cause for local sport leaders to be discouraged but there is need for considerably more effort. If all those most interested would tackle the matter with determination the desired results would in all probability, eventuate.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE MARITIMES

"A strong organization has been effected in the Maritime Provinces for the purpose of co-ordinating the efforts of Federal and Provincial Governments, the railways, industrial, commercial and agricultural organizations for the promotion of the welfare of that section of the Dominion. Its purpose is to carry on activities such as will foster the exploration and development of the great natural resources of the Maritimes; to colonize the provinces with settlers of a good type who will occupy the vacant agricultural and fruit lands and to stimulate industrial and commercial activity."
"The three sister provinces down by the sea have not made much progress in the past few decades; indeed, in some respects, there has been a slipping back which is accounted for in part by the increased attention which has been given to the undoubted needs of the western part of the Dominion of the Maritimes have left the farms, attracted by free lands in the Prairie Provinces and the questionable advantages of employment in the big industrial centres of the States. It is the expressed intention of the associations to make an effort to repatriate some of those exiles."
"It is highly in the interest of Canada as a whole that the East should not lag behind in the march of progress, and the Maritime Development Association is constituted to set forth the advantages of the three provinces and they are many, which should attract settlers and capitalists."
"There are, other than agriculture and fruit growing, great industries in the Maritime Provinces, such as coal, steel, lumbering and fisheries, which have languished because of the inaction of Maritime-interests in bringing them to the attention of the world. A co-ordination of all bodies interested in the solution of Maritime development problems ought to bring the results which have not followed the spasmodic and disjointed efforts of the past."
"The growth and prosperity of the Maritime Provinces will assist greatly in the up-building of the whole country which will increase the material wealth of the three Atlantic divisions of Ontario and the Great West. We in Ontario and those who live west of the Great Lakes will rejoice over any activity which will increase the material wealth of the three Atlantic divisions of Confederation."—Ottawa Journal

JUNE ROD AND GUN.

The beautiful advantages of Ontario are stressed in the special Tourist June issue of Rod and Gun in Canada. In addition to a description of Ontario's tourist attractions and various points of beauty in the province, with suggestions for summer camps and trips, the stories in the magazine deal with fishing and camping in Algonquin Park, with timber surveying in northern Ontario and hunting and out-of-door stories in other parts of the province. Of special interest this month will be the story of the Le Pas Dog Derby, which has been written by M. U. Bates who was Rod and Gun in Canada's special representative at this picturesque event. A large number of unusually fine photographs illustrate this description. The June number of Rod and Gun in Canada contains eighty-eight pages brimful of stories and articles dealing with practically every phase of sportsman's interests.

SHOT HORSES UNDER SMUGGLERS

Gang Trying to Secrete Cargo of Liquor Across Border and Load Seized

Quebec, May 27—Attempts to smuggle "baggage" and "charrette" and other brews from some border counties into the United States are now being renewed and yesterday afternoon it took some eleven men to deal with a well-organized gang at Sully in Temiscouata County. Large quantities of two brands above mentioned were seized but the run-runners succeeded in making their escape and entering the forest of Maine.
The Quebec Liquor Commission inspectors learned a few days ago that the southern part of Temiscouata County, which, each year, becomes the centre of active smugglers, would likely try to maintain its reputation this year, judging by the fact that some liquor manufactured in illicit stills on some of the farms was being forwarded to Sully to be taken across the border and handled through a running operation in the lumber camps of Maine.
Until recently no evidence was available as to where the stock might be hidden. Yesterday however Inspector Durette was given a tip and even before he could call for help from Quebec he knew that the mysterious silent movements across the line had started.
Acting under the provisions of the law he requested ten lumberjacks to act as special constables, and when the horse drawn vehicles reached the border, their drivers met the patrol. Shots were fired in the air but the smugglers continued their attempt and it was only when their horses had been shot beneath several of them that they realized they had better make their get way.
This they did by making a dash for the woods, but not without leaving clues which are expected to lead to the ring leaders and also through the cooperation of the United States Revenue men to those handling the smuggled stock on the other side of the line.
In the meantime arrangements are being completed between the provincial and U. S. revenues by which "crossing the line" will prove harder than ever. It is the intention if possible, to arrange for the apprehension of smugglers whenever possible on technical charges.

C.; Mrs. J. B. Sowerby, and three in different parts of the United States. Her husband predeceased her several years ago.
The funeral on Saturday afternoon from St. Andrews Church Pasphebec, to the rural cemetery at New Carlisle was very largely attended.
Rev. Mr. McCurdy conducted the service. The service opened with Psalm selection 14, "The Lord's My Shepherd I'll Not Want."
Mr. McCurdy spoke from the 21st. Chap. of Revelations, a chapter that had been left unfinished when visiting deceased a day or two earlier and from which the bereaved ones could gather the most comforting words, "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, there shall be no more death neither sorrow nor crying neither shall there be any pain for the former things are passed away." What comfort to be found in such teachings. She had lived a useful and a cheerful life.
Christ had taken her to his side. "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," and "Peace Perfect Peace" were festively sung by the choir.
The floral tributes were very beautiful. The family have the sympathy of the community.

THE SIGN OF THE CROSS

That the dramatic monologue which will be given here in a few days by Mrs. May Rance McKinnon, is a most interesting and profitable one. It is a play of a high order is evident in the interesting comments which Mrs. McKinnon will make on the play. Below appear a few from a few of the papers which have commented on her ability as a reader.
The Atlantic Times (Montreal)—She is an artist of an order. Her work is excellent and the final of the Cross was so touching as to affect the audience to the point of tears. The play "The Sign of the Cross" was invested with the increasing interest that it when staged by Mrs. McKinnon. In the closing scenes when Mrs. McKinnon, the death in the Arena, she was strongly moved.

A proposal favoring adoption by daylight saving time for the months of July and August was defeated by 401 to 350.

The campaign over the new high school project developed by some extent into a controversy over vocational education inasmuch as a composite high school with provision for commercial and general vocational subjects has been adopted as the policy of the local Board of School trustees.

Breakfast Hints for The June Wedding

The bridesmaid's breakfast, given for the attendants of the June bride, is rather newer than entertaining the whole wedding party at a formal dinner, and it also gives the girls a chance for a peep at trousseau. The tablecloth, centre or set, should be of white, and the flowers used for decoration should be flowers in all the delicate pastel shades.

The matron of honor sits at right hand of the bride, and the first bridesmaid at her left.

- MENU
- Fruit Cocktail
 - Waffles, Honey and Whipped Cream
 - Broiled Spring Chicken
 - Baked Pineapple, Sweet Potatoes
 - Moulded Vegetables
 - Hot Biscuits, Strawberry Shortcake
 - Coffee

For the fruit cocktails, use the pulp of grapefruit, oranges, pineapples, tart green apples, a little chopped red pepper and a few minced maraschino cherries. Use half grapefruit shells scalloped around the tops for the service, the cups set in bowls of shaved ice. Prepare the fruit in a large bowl. When ready, sprinkle it with a very little powdered sugar, then with a French dressing made with a little tarragon vinegar diluted with the fruit juices. Chill the fruit and just before it is time to fill the cups, drain thoroughly. Dust the top of each portion with a little powdered sugar by using the very light French dressing, a little more piquant flavor is given to the fruit, which makes it an appetizer rather than a sweet confection.

Follow the cocktail with hot waffles. Heat the honey, adding a few drops of lemon juice to it, then put on each serving a little soft, unsalted butter and a little heap of whipped cream.

Next, the broilers are served, a small whole or large half to each portion. The sweet potato dish is a special dainty. The potatoes are boiled, then mashed. A heaping tablespoonful of butter is added with pepper and salt, then a cupful of drained, grated, canned pineapple or a cupful of chopped, fresh pineapple is beaten with a quarter cupful of very finely-minced walnuts, a half cupful of cream or two eggs beaten well. Heap the mixture in buttered ramekins, sprinkle the tops with a little grated cheese and bake in a delicate brown. Add to a package of prepared lemon jelly, a pint of boiling water. Have ready a quart jar of drained maced-odine vegetables. Season them to taste, and put a heaping tablespoonful of the vegetables in each wet, tiny heart mould. Fill the moulds with the gelatine mixture, which should be cool and ready to set. The vegetable hearts should be slipped out of the moulds and served beside the chicken.

The strawberry shortcake is of the kind known as "old fashioned." It is made with biscuit dough crust instead of sweet sponge cake. The cake is made of well-shortened, quick biscuit dough and is split when it comes from the oven and well buttered before the berries are added. The berries should be ripe and flavorful, washed, topped, placed in a deep bowl and covered with a cupful of sugar to each quart of berries. Cut the berries through as you mix the sugar with them.

DRIED PEAS, BEANS
Dried beans and peas, pound for pound, are much richer in food values than fresh vegetables, but they require great care in cooking so that the tough skins may be made tender.

Five Recipes for Delicious Russian Dishes

Foreign fashions, embroideries, music, plays and dances find a ready welcome in America. Why not try a few foreign cookery dishes in the home, instead of going to a restaurant for the experience? Russians excel as pastry and fish cooks and their soups are also interesting and unusual.

BORTCH OF LITTLE RUSSIA
Boil and cool two large beets, then grate them and add them to three pints of good veal broth or stock, adding also the juice of a lemon and a teaspoonful of sugar. Let this simmer for a few minutes, then add the juice of a grated large raw beet that has been squeezed through a piece of cheese-cloth. Allow the soup to scald up after the last addition, then remove it from the fire and stir in cupful of whipped cream. This makes a very tasty and delicious soup.

LEAR SOUP WITH LAPSHA
Lapsha is a sort of noodle which is made and used in any clear soup of a bouillon variety. For the lapsha, take one cupful of flour and mix it to a paste with a half cupful of water. Roll the paste out thin and cut it in narrow strips and let it dry. After making and straining the clear soup, cut the soup meat into fine strips and return them to the soup. Drop the lapsha into rapidly boiling salted water and cook them about ten minutes. Then drain and blanch them under cold water. Drain them again, then drop them on the top of the hot soup. The lapsha are light and more tender than egg noodles.

LEAR SOUP WITH RAVIOLIS
Make a clear soup of tomato with stock or red stock as liked. The raviolis are made by adding to a cupful and a half of flour, a beaten egg, a half teaspoonful of salt and a cupful of water. Mix these ingredients lightly, then roll them out very thin on a floured board and cut them in half. Have ready a half pound of lard, may fat and a quarter of a pound of sliced beef chopped very fine, a minced onion lightly browned in a little butter, pepper salt and a half teaspoonful of sugar. Spread the lard over half the dough in teaspoonful lumps, spread over the dough the other piece of dough, press it down slightly, then cut it with a small round cutter. Pinch the edges of each round and drop it into rapidly-boiling salted water to cook fifteen minutes or so. Drain the raviolis and lay them in a dish, pouring over them, a little bit of the soup. Serve them with the soup.

DRESSED COLD FISH
Boil, cool, skin and bone two cod steaks and lay them on a small platter. Garnish the edge of the dish with a sliced, hard-boiled egg, shrimps brushed over with a little made mustard and sprays of parsley drawn through lemon slices. Moosh two anchovies to a paste with the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs. Add two teaspoonfuls of French mustard and the yolk of a raw egg, then beat in two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and six tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Add a little salt and paprika, and the juice of an onion and when these ingredients are well mixed, add a half cupful of diced, smoked salmon. Serve the dressing with the cold fish, or pour it over the fish just at serving time.

KISSEL SALAD
Wash a quart of large cranberries and cook them in enough water to cover them, adding two-quarters cupful of seeded raisins. When they are tender, put them through a fine sieve and add three-quarters of a cupful of sugar, the juice of half a lemon, a level teaspoonful of mixed spices and a heaping tablespoonful of powdered gelatin that has been dissolved in a little luke-warm water. Mix the ingredients, strain them into a wet mould and set them to firm. Unmould the salad on a bed of crisp lettuce leaves. With a hot spoon, hollow out little fresh cream cheese that has been whipped light with cream.

The Cheaper Cuts of Beef

The pot roast which is frequently used by the thrifty housewife in the effort to keep down her butcher bill and still provide good meals, may be made from many of the cheaper cuts such as the chuck, of the beef carcass. After being wiped with a damp cloth it is placed in a covered bake pan or casserole, with two or more cups of hot water. It should be covered tightly and baked in a moderate oven on top of stove, keeping the heat just below the boiling point. Pamphlet No. 48 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, Man. Me from the Dept. of Agriculture shows the idea. It may be reduced by utilizing the cheap cuts of beef. One-half hour's time for each pound of meat in the roast is recommended. About an hour and a quarter before serving, pared potatoes and sliced carrots and onions may be added. When ready to serve, the roast should be removed to a hot platter and the gravy thickened with a little flour. The meat is very fat. It is advisable to remove the fat from the top of the gravy before thickening. The pamphlet contains many other recipes for utilizing the cheaper cuts of beef.

W. C. T. U. RIVERS OF RUSS

Brewers are Deliant. An electric railway, owned by the Government of Ontario, follows the Canadian bank of the Detroit River from Windsor south fourteen miles to Sunnyside, where the brewers and liquor exporters of Ontario have warehouses and docks for smuggling their product across the river to Michigan. Last January an investigating committee met in Windsor and Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the commission that operates this road, was a witness and testified that this road hauls sixteen thousand cases, or three hundred and eighty-four thousand bottles of beer a week from the breweries in Windsor to the liquor export warehouses in Sunnyside.

But this sixteen thousand cases a week is not all the beer that goes over there, by any means. The Kingston paved road runs down there from Windsor and the bulk of the beer and liquor goes down by truck. E. R. Bond, vice-president of this British-American Brewery Company, was a witness recently in a Canadian Court and said in his testimony: "We have no knowledge of or interest in the prohibition laws of the United States. We believe we are privileged to fill orders for shipment of beer to the United States even if it is illegal for citizens of the United States to have beer."

With Prohibition Director Decker I went to Sunnyside. The shore all along these for miles is a low wide swamp into which the Canadian Government has dredged many long canals that run back from the river to the solid ground. Along the banks of those numerous canals, and on Turkey Creek and Petite Cote, small inlets that join the breweries and distilleries have their docks and warehouses. There are dozens of high barred-wire fences. Others are open. The electric line goes to a number of them. Railroad cars and others, and several reached by motor cars and trucks.

In recent months much more beer than whiskey has been going over the river. Mr. Decker said that was because bootleg whiskey had poisoned so many drinkers in the States that they were afraid of it, and had turned to beer as the safest drink. Practically all the Canadian liquor smuggled over is doctored; the bootlegger buys counterfeit labels and, by adding cheap alcohol, makes two or three bottles from one.

We went down to a large warehouse owned by the Regal Brewery, of Hamilton, Ontario. It was full of beer kegs. On a switch track stood three freight cars full of beer in cases, and men were unloading them in three motorboats. They were using mechanical conveyers which moved the cases quickly from cars to boats. When a boat was loaded it moved out for the American shore, and another took its place. Those boats had been built as cargo carriers, fifty feet long, wide waist and blunt bow, and the average load was from two hundred to two hundred and fifty cases of beer, twenty bottles to a case.

Clearance Papers Easy to Get. I am not going to try to guess at the amount of liquor that comes over from the Canadian shore at that point but it must be a vast quantity. A customs officer, the American side, whose name I must not give, told me that a Canadian customs officer assured him that an average of from a thousand to eighteen hundred cases of whiskey, with twelve quarts to the case, leaves each day for the American shore. I saw many motorboats loading with both beer and whiskey. I saw five big motorboats piled high with beer in cases go out in less than a half hour from the dock of the British-American Company. I saw row-boats go out with a few cases of beer and whiskey, and I saw a large go out loaded with high beer kegs. Within three hours that afternoon I counted twenty-three boats loaded with beer and whiskey heading out for the American shore, and, of course, I did not see all that went in three hours. I was told that the greatest movement was after dark, when the boats ply steadily until morning; and Sunnyside is only one spot on the Canadian shore line, and smuggling goes on, more or less, along its whole length.

To comply with the Canadian laws, which require that all liquor exported must clear for foreign ports outside the United States, these boats clear for Nassau, Havana, Rio, Vera Cruz and other deep-sea ports. An open motorboat, with fifteen cases of booze aboard, will clear for Cuba. If she went there she would have to make an ocean voyage of several thousand miles. A smuggler's boat loaded with beer was captured in the Detroit River recently with clearance papers for Australia.

If the laws of Canada were strictly complied with each boatman would have to go to the Customs house, fourteen miles away, and enter his boat when he came into the Canadian port, and an ocean for his clearance papers. If that traffic is so large, so many boats are used, and the Canadian customs, anxious to facilitate such a movement of outgoing merchandise, obligingly permits a broker for the smugglers to telephone the arrivals and departures to the Customs house, and the broker gives them their clearance papers.

From what I saw along the international border I believe that Judge Webster, of Detroit, summed up the situation when he declared: "You can't make America dry until you cork up Canada."—The Ladies' Home Journal.

house and dock of the British-American Brewery Company in Sunnyside and between three and four o'clock in the afternoon I saw five or six motorboats loaded with beer put out for the American shore. I saw a large boat come in from the American shore, loaded with empty beer kegs. When I left there were eight motorboats at the dock loading with beer and whiskey. I saw five hundred cases of beer going out into boats in one hour that afternoon. I saw the broker in clearance papers on the dock; he does the engaging and clearing of boats by telephone. I saw motorboats clearing for Havana and Vera Cruz. I wired Mr. Far and Excise in Ottawa, stating those facts and asking for a copy of the records of those smugglers' boats that clear from the port of Windsor for overseas ports. He replied that he could not disclose those records of business done by Canadian citizens."

What do other eyes see?
Ask and answer this question honestly

Your mirror can tell you what other eyes see—if you will consult it honestly, and honestly accept its judgment. But you need not fear its verdict. Because unlovely skin need not remain unlovely. The alluring youthful complexion Nature gave you may be yours today.

Just this
Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful. But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the dry pores. Rinse—and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That's all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, and correct way
You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive. Be sure you get Palmolive—which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. After even a short period of this treatment you will see a marked improvement in your skin.

Many now use Palmolive for the bath—letting it do for the whole body what it does for the face.

Carnation Milk

Aids Bake-Day

CARNATION Milk will come as a delightful surprise to any housewife who has never known its convenience and safety and richness. Always on hand—on your pantry shelf; always ready for use; none wasted because it keeps sweet for several days when opened. Sold by grocers everywhere at moderate prices.

Carnation Milk is just pure fresh milk, evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. Order several tall (16 oz.) cans or a case of 48 cans. Try this recipe and write for the free Carnation Recipe Book.

CUSTARD PIE—1 egg, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1/2 cupful sugar, 1 cup water, 1/2 teaspoonful vanilla, 1/2 cup Carnation Milk, few grains nutmeg. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and milk, diluted with water. Line a pie tin with pastry, pour in the mixture to which the vanilla has been added. Sprinkle the top with nutmeg. Bake in hot oven at first to brown the film, then reduce the heat, so egg and milk in combination should be cooked at a low temperature. This recipe makes one pie.

AGAIN IN ERROR The statement in The Tribune that the Graphic's "Duy at Home" page had been discontinued is just as reliable as much of its editorial and news articles. There is not a word of truth in The Tribune's statement. The Graphic's "Duy at Home" page will appear according to its monthly schedule early in June and will continue until the first of next year. This page is creating much favorable comment, as is The Graphic's attitude in this important question.

NO SPRING SLASH BURNING NOW

Except Under Personal Supervision of the Fire Warden or Ranger.

One of the most important steps taken in New Brunswick towards greater protection of the forests has been the policy of encouraging fall brush burning and the discouragement of spring burning of slash, piles and debris.

During the period from April 15th until October 15th burning within half a mile of forest land is not allowed, except under permit together with the personal supervision of the ranger or fire warden acting under his supervision, while after May 24th it is strictly prohibited and no fire permits may be issued, unless special authority is secured from the Deputy Minister of Lands and Mines.

Regulations governing the burning of slash are contained in a handy booklet, which is printed in both English and French, and may be obtained for the asking from the Department of Lands and Mines, Fredericton. That the Fall Brush Burning has the endorsement of the public has been made very evident by the resolutions passed by municipal councils and other bodies and it is hoped that the increased precaution being taken by the settlers will prevent Forest Fires this spring.

ATTENDING CONVENTION H. F. Blakey is out of town for two weeks attending the Eye Clinics being held by Dr. Frederick A. Wall of the New York College of Hygiene.

WOMAN SUFFERED FOR MONTHS

Weak and Nervous. Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Webbwood, Ont.—"I was in a very weak and run-down nervous condition, always tired from the time I got up until I went to bed. Sleep did not rest me at all. My doctor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and others told me about it, but it was from my sister's advice that I took it. It did not take long until I felt stronger, headaches left me and my appetite came back to me. I am a farmer's wife and have many things to do outside the house, such as milking, looking after the poultry, and other chores. I heartily recommend the Vegetable Compound to all who have the same trouble I had, for it is a fine medicine for women."—Mrs. LUISA F. ELIASSEN, Hillcrest Farm, Webbwood, Ont.

Another Nervous Woman Finds Relief

Port Huron, Michigan.—"I suffered for two years with pain in my side, and if I worked very much I was nervous and just as tired in the morning as when I went to bed. I was sleepless all the day and didn't feel like doing anything, and was so nervous I would bite my finger nails. One of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it helped me so much that I soon felt fine."—Mrs. CHARLES DENNIS, 801-14th St., Port Huron, Mich.

Women who suffer from any feminine ailment should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THE HOLIDAY IN DALHOUSIE

Ball Game Well Attended Enjoyable Dance at the Rink in the Evening

Many young people of Campbellton and Dalhousie, took advantage of the celebration of the Queen's Birthday, which was made a holiday on Monday by business concerns, and in the afternoon met in the Nelson field where probably the strongest team in Campbellton, at the present time, with a leading battery of such men as Roy, McCusky, McLean and Bosley, well supported by the rest of their team, proved to strong for the shiretown locals, who were mostly young men, and were gotten together in the absence of some experienced players, under the management of Mr. H. J. Trudelle.

The weather was delightful, and a large crowd witnessed the Ball game, which was interesting, even though the score was no one-sided, with Campbellton victors by the score of 18-9. Alex. Arsenault of Charlott, refereed the game to the satisfaction of all and George LaBilios of Dalhousie, with Warman of Atholville, kept official score of the runs and hits. On Monday evening many young people motored to Dalhousie from Campbellton, Atholville and Richardsville. One of the attractions to the shiretown, was the dance in the Trudelle Cabaret, which was nicely decorated for the occasion, the Union Jack being prominent. The Campbellton orchestra rendered the best of dance music. A very enjoyable time was spent.
