Persons.
The Emperor of Germany has telegraphed to Poulney Bigelow, the American magazine writer, his desire to subscribe $500 to the fund for buying the house of Thomas Carlyle for a public museum.

Letters from Lord Randolph Churchill received by friends in London state that his health is still far from good.
Nevertheless, he states that he is intention to contest for Bradford in the House of Commons.

The Reichstag, or German Parliament, has refused to grant the Emperor's request to prosecute criminally the Socialist members of that body who would not cheer him, and the Emperor is said to be deeply angry and desirous of revenge.

Hugh McCalmont, the young Englishman who won the Derby and inherited $20,000,000 last year, has just made the first trial of his new yacht the Gerald, which is the finest private craft afloat.

A duel with swords was fought Saturday at Paris between M. Paul Bluyssen, of Le Tour, and M. Tourist, of La Fayette Republique. M. Bluyssen was wounded in the arm, and M. Tourist received a wound in the stomach.

The Duke of York, heir presumptive to the English throne, is making arrangements for a visit to Canada next spring. After spending some time in the Dominion the Duke will proceed to Australia.

Wednesday Queen Margherita of Italy gave audience to Emile Zola, the French novelist, conversing with him for three-quarters of an hour. Zola afterwards expressed surprise at the Queen's erudition and delight to find that she was acquainted with all his works.

The Empress Frederick has returned to Berlin, after an absence of nearly ten months, and will reside at her palace in the Unter den Linden until the end of January, when she is going to England on a visit to the Queen, at Osborne.

The political science students of Toronto university have inaugurated a campaign of boycott against Prof. Mayor, who holds the highest office in the course.
Two years ago Prof. Mayor succeeded Prof. Ashley, who was probably the most popular man in the university. The students do not consider him up to the work.

Keep A Stiff Lower Lip.
IT IS THE TELL-TALE ONE, AND THE UP-PER LIP CAN TAKE CARE OF ITSELF.

"I can't understand," said a young lady of observation, "why you men, who see so much and know so much, persist in the phrase, 'Keep a stiff upper lip.' You use it as a sort of picturesque synonym for firmness of purpose and demeanor, but it has no value as such. The upper lip is the weak member of the two; it is the under that is stiffening. The upper lip is practically expressionless. It usually lies flat on the teeth, it is nearly always covered with a mustache—I refer, of course, to the male upper lip—and in conversation, especially in correctly learned conversation, it does not move at all.
Like the Chinese joss, it's a harmless creature and can be safely let alone."
"It is the nether lip that has to be watched and controlled. I can always tell when a man is going to propose to me by the way in which he wets his upper lip and presses against the upper for companionship and support—just the very thing he is seeking for. And I can always tell if a man is lying by a peculiar fluctuation and pulsation in this same lower lip. He will look you right straight in the eye, grow fierce, and drop his voice into his boots through the weight of his emotion, but if there is that twitch about the lower lip I don't believe him and I've never been wrong yet. If a man feels deeply, if mean feels sorrow, or affects it, it is in the tremulousness of the under lip that he shows it. The sensitive man's lower lip is seldom still, and there is sometimes about it a positive pulsation that takes in the whole curve of the chin.
The post begins in the lower lip and is really confined to it, for the upper lip is only pushed out by pressure from below. You can't pout with your upper lip alone."
"In fact, you can't assume or affect any expression with the upper lip alone.
Just try it. Hold the lower lip firm with the finger and look in the glass there. The mouth has become simply a hole in the face, you see, and so far as the expressional character of the lips goes, it is as if you had lost a feature."
"If you want to keep back a smile, it's the lower lip that you must look after. Weakness begins there, whether of character, health or age. It is not the weak upper lip that tells of dopyfall; it is the drooping, pendulous lower lip that shows it."
"And let me tell you something, please, for the benefit of my sisters who have not had the advantage of I mean, the experience that I have. Tell them that whenever they see the lower lip of their male companions turn out and over-thickly that it's a danger signal. It's the red flag of mischief, and they had better say good-bye. Keep a stiff lower lip, young man."—New York Sun.

The Lady and the Hammock.

It happened, in the latter days of the century, when women had come into the possession of many pockets in her apparel, and would slip out of cravat and immediate skirt-front of her brother and her husband, and when she could see a mouse without screaming, and was wise enough to seek shelter during a rainstorm, that a maiden, who was not by any means second in the procession, swung her gaily-striped hammock beneath the tree in a shady lane.

Down the lane each day came three woomen, wearing not as they did in the lacksadaisied past, but as befits this age of steam and electricity. Sometimes the three came together, often apart, but without fail, every day found them worshipping the damsel who swung in befrilled luxury in her hammock.

And the maiden favored one not more than the other, but smiled on all alike, whereas the youths were sorely troubled, for behold! the maiden had suffered full of skeletons, and the youths possessed little brains except that which grew and flourished in their several countenances.

One day, when the maid had used all her arts to drive the youths distracted, and had nearly succeeded, she was weary and would fain rest from overmuch wooing. So she secretly devised a test, by which she would decide which of the three she would wed, and she disposed her flounces gracefully about her in her hammock, artfully thrust to view the tiniest point of the toe of an emerald-red shoe, twisted her round arms underneath her eyes, and her prettiness comfortably and picturesquely above her head, and feigned a deep slumber.
Soon she heard steps, and the first of the three approached. As she heard the maiden and saw that she slept, he stepped softly, lest the rustling of the grass might disturb her. He passed beside her hammock, bent over her with clasped hands and impassioned breath, fastened her eyes on her folded charms, whispered her name lingering and low, and turned away, as a pilgrim from a shrine.

As he tiptoed under the lane the maiden partly opened her eyes and smiled a knowing smile.

Soon she heard the second one come swinging down the lane, only to check his impatient feet as he perceived her slumber. Like the first one, he bent over the hammock, though not so reverently, and before he turned reluctantly away, he dropped a fleeting kiss upon his love's forehead, from which the wind had fanned her bearded locks.

And again the maiden smiled after the retreating form.

A little longer yet the maiden waited, before steps turned down the lane, and she knew that the third lover was at hand.

This one did not stay or hush his steps as he beheld the sleeping damsel; neither bowed he reverently over, nor kissed her. Throwing himself in an exhausted manner into the garden chair beside the hammock, he removed his straw hat, mopping his forehead forward, and fanning himself, settled down comfortably to wait the maiden's awakening.

For the third time she smiled, and immediately awoke.

And before the next day's sun had set this maiden received matrimonial proposals from the three woomen.

And of the three was accepted, and from that moment she was fully forward to the time when he should possess the beautiful maiden, and pay his tailor with shekels from her overflowing coffers.

Now which of the three, say you, did the maiden choose.—May Bellville-Brown.

I AM DYING.
I am dying, Edith, dying.
Tints of crimson, bright and fast; Shades, too, dark as Pluto's regions,
And they cannot help but last.
Let me tell you how I do it, I have whispered in your ear, Diamond Dyes is all my secret;
You can do the same, my dear.

Though my clothes gets worn and dingy And with stains are spotted o'er, Though they look as fit for nothing, I can make them good once more.
Though I have not many dollars To spend on garments new,
I can dress as well as any,
And I know that you can, too.

Let not fashion's servile minions Scorn the garments thus made o'er; Twas no dyer's hand that made them, I have done the same before.
I who took your last year's dresses, Washed and dyed, pressed and turned Made them o'er for this year's wearing—Tis now for which the heart has yearned.

Yes, I'm dying, Edith, dying; My, you do not need to cry.
You've not hindered me a moment; Tis not hard to do you know.
Now, no more one needs to wonder How to make their dresses do; When with such a little trouble,
"Diamond" make them good as new.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE meets 31st inst. FOR WOLFVILLE.—Miss Alice Anderson left yesterday for Wolfville where she is a teacher in the Seminary. Mr. Ernest Harper, son of Mr. I. C. Harper, leaves Sackville Saturday to attend Wolfville College.

FIVE O'CLOCK TEA.—A grand Five O'clock Tea and Refreshment Table will be held this evening (10th inst) at the residence of J. F. Allison, Acadia Grove. Tea from 5 to 8 p. m. Home made candies a specialty. Proceeds for church purposes.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Rural Cemetery Co., took place on Tuesday at the office of the Secretary. The routine work of receiving reports and passing accounts was attended to. No change in officers were made.

THE PUBLIC BUILDING committee met at Mr. Wood's office on Tuesday evening. The plans of the proposed new structure were examined and in a general way were approved. A committee was appointed to solicit stock subscriptions.

TRAIN WRECKED.—The S. P. R. Express which was due at Sackville Saturday evening was wrecked early Saturday morning in Maine near Lowellville by a bad rail. Except the engine, the whole train left the rails and all except the Pullman were hurled twenty feet down an embankment. No one was very seriously hurt but the cars were much broken up.

SCHOOL in the Central School House, Middle Sackville, opened Tuesday with attendance of 38 which is expected will increase in a few days to 50. Mr. Morton of Penobscot Kings Co. is in charge. Misses Gussie Anderson of Sackville and Tillie Tingley of P. S. Dute teach in the lower school. Misses Annie and Miss Somerville in the upper school.

SACKVILLE W. C. T. U. observed the "World's Day of Prayer" by holding a service on Wednesday afternoon Jan. 3. Prayers were offered, and extracts bearing on the progress of the work were read by one of the members.

THE W. C. T. U. intends holding a series of socials during the coming winter. It is expected the first will be given by Mrs. Powell, in the third week in January. A short programme consisting of good music and readings will be one feature of the evening.

PATRON OF INDUSTRY.—Messrs Marshall and Gillies of Bruce County, Ont. who have been appointed to organize the society of Patrons of Industry in Albert and Westmorland counties, arrived in Sackville on Tuesday. Mr. Brunswick and throughout Prince Edward Island will stop first in Sackville where they will be glad to receive calls at any interested in the association at the house of Albert Fawcett Esq. Upper Sackville. They expected to leave Ontario on the 7th inst. It is not known what their plan of operations will be.

THE DOERING CONCERT CO. will appear in Music Hall, Sackville, on Thursday, Jan. 17th. The company consists of Ernest Doering, director of the Conservatory of Music at Halifax, Marianna Doering, —treasurer his wife, Carl Doering, and Bruno Siebels. The music rendered consists of combinations of voice, violin, cello, and piano. All the company are first class artists, Ernest Doering and wife especially having won a splendid reputation in Europe and Canada. The programme for the evening of the school building will be taxed to its utmost to accommodate the scholars.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.—The meetings held Sunday afternoon in Ford's Hall progress well. Last Sunday Rev. T. D. Hart spoke.

Arrangements have been made for a grand concert to be given about the end of February or first of March and a strong committee has the matter in charge.

Mean while a course of six lectures will be given, some of which will be of a religious nature, and some will be for young men only.

As more or less confusion is caused by uses of the different hymn books it is proposed to adopt some popular form of book and secure copies for distribution.

Mr. John E. Peters of the University will address the meeting briefly on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Allison.—Art classes are now in operation in the studio rooms in the new art gallery. Contractor Teed expects to have the building complete in a fortnight or three weeks. Mr. Hammond is installed in his new quarters. The walls of his studio are covered with sketches of his own, made in different parts of the world. The dark background of his room brings the pictures into fine relief. The walls of the other studio rooms have been covered with jute which makes a very durable and convenient covering for the work. The china painting room is fitted with all the latest and most improved machinery and will be ready to receive the work. The other three sides of the room have tables hinged to the wall which can be used when required. The stock room, well provided with closets, furnishes ample accommodation for the large stock of art material kept on hand. These conditions together with the large high side lights with northern exposure give the ideal condition for art work. The black and white pictures and the casts used by pupils in their work are already being placed in position and the pictures of the art gallery will be hung in leisure during the term.

FOR THE CHILDREN.—The Baptist Sunday School held their much postponed concert in the church on Monday evening when an appropriate program was rendered of which a selection by a male quartette is particularly worthy of mention. After the concert the audience adjourned to the basement to enjoy the good things from a bountifully supplied Xmas tree. The school is in a very flourishing condition, under the supervision of Mr. Chas. E. Land, the popular teacher of the central day school in this district.

The annual entertainment for the children of the Methodist Sunday School was held in the vestry of the Methodist church Tuesday evening. The room was very beautifully decorated for the occasion. The tree very handsomely decorated by the Young Ladies Bible Class and an Indian tent neatly built by the boys of Mr. E. J. Dobson's class are well worthy of special mention. An excellent program of recitations, singing, etc. was rendered, and one piece in particular by Miss Mabel Andrews and Master Kenneth Pickard won much praise. With Prof. Andrews as superintendent the school keeps up its very high reputation.

Misses Gussie Anderson of Sackville and Tillie Tingley of P. S. Dute teach in the lower school. Misses Annie and Miss Somerville in the upper school.

SACKVILLE W. C. T. U. observed the "World's Day of Prayer" by holding a service on Wednesday afternoon Jan. 3. Prayers were offered, and extracts bearing on the progress of the work were read by one of the members.

THE W. C. T. U. intends holding a series of socials during the coming winter. It is expected the first will be given by Mrs. Powell, in the third week in January. A short programme consisting of good music and readings will be one feature of the evening.

FOR THE CHILDREN.—The Baptist Sunday School held their much postponed concert in the church on Monday evening when an appropriate program was rendered of which a selection by a male quartette is particularly worthy of mention. After the concert the audience adjourned to the basement to enjoy the good things from a bountifully supplied Xmas tree. The school is in a very flourishing condition, under the supervision of Mr. Chas. E. Land, the popular teacher of the central day school in this district.

The annual entertainment for the children of the Methodist Sunday School was held in the vestry of the Methodist church Tuesday evening. The room was very beautifully decorated for the occasion. The tree very handsomely decorated by the Young Ladies Bible Class and an Indian tent neatly built by the boys of Mr. E. J. Dobson's class are well worthy of special mention. An excellent program of recitations, singing, etc. was rendered, and one piece in particular by Miss Mabel Andrews and Master Kenneth Pickard won much praise. With Prof. Andrews as superintendent the school keeps up its very high reputation.
