Men's Clothing Store, Richmond Street, Now at Its Best

These are the days when men walk straight from winter into summer, and every man who is rightminded wants to dress better this year than he did last. Men's clothes are better this year than we have known them before, the fashions are better, the fabrics are better and the whole value is better. More men are listening to the counsels of prudence and buying their spring overcoats and spring suits from the standpoint of VALUE as against mere cheapness. It has been said of a certain manufacturer in Scotland that so particular was he that his cloth should be every thread wool that he raised his own sheep. We are not in a position to go to that extreme, but are no less particular to know the quality of every thread in our black and navy serges, which we import direct from the manufacturers in England. Ask to see these serges in the piece, when you can examine every thread and fibre these suits are male of. "Imperial" serge suits, BLACK and NAVY, sizes 33 to 46, price $15.00. Special showing of English tweeds and worsteds in men's suits, $18.00, $20.00, to $25.00. Men's plain and fancy English worsted suits, sizes 35 to 46, price $15.00 and $18.00. Men's suits in the new honey and cinnamon brown shades, newest cut, tweed and worsted, sizes 33 to 40, price $15.00.

THE MANITOBA SCHOOL QUES-TION AGAIN.

The Manitoba Government is moving to re-establish separate schools in a modified form. There will be only one school board in a district, and ratepayers will not be divided into public and Beparate school supporters for purposes of assessment and taxation, but children of Roman Catholic parents may have a separate room and a teacher of 'their own faith, when they number forty in a school.

This legislation was part of the understanding between the Borden and Roblin Governments when the Manitoba boundary bill was framed. If the electors of Manitoba acquiesce in it, there is no ground for federal interference. Sir Wilfrid Laurier contended in 1896 that the Federal Government took a mistaken and futile Province of Manitoba, but the settlement he effected left the Manitoba the school law, providing the rights forty-eight hours more than one man Government free to make changes in of the minority were not curtailed. Why pick on John Morley? With the other members of the Government, he at least favored the principle of the minimum wage in the mining industry. The Unionists almost to a man opposed even this concession. ### SIR JAMES' MARVELLOUS SPEECH

The speech of Sir James Whitney on the bar question would be a credit to the most eloquent of Park orators, He would not think of attempting such a thing as to abolish the bar, but he believes that a law along the lines of rich quick. his amendment will, "under the favor of Providence, in a short time kill and destroy the desire for the habit of treating." Here is some more of Sir James reasoning: "I am merely attempting to show, in my crude way" (true enough) "that development is a matter of evolution, of growth." (Any high school undergraduate will concede this point.) "Those who think they can accelerate it are both utterly and entirely mistaken." The difference between "utterly" and "entirely" in their Whitneyian Bonnet! sense may not be quite obvious. But it is obvious enough that apart from some occult Whitneyian or Pickwickian sense, there is no easy harmonization of this brilliant but fatalistic utterance with the pious confidence expressed in the success of an anti-treating law as proposed in the amendment.

Such legislation, the Premier admits, to be "unusual and startling." To quote him again.

"It would be a very difficult law to enforce, but it is possible that it could be enforced. Suppose it could not be completely enforced, but how many of our laws are so enforced'. Mr. Hanna must say that this 's a still beter joke than Mr. Rowell's, and indeed Sir James, "lost in wonderment" still, may just be trying in this elephantine tumble to go his rival one better. "It is possible that it could be enforced!" No wonder Sir James take: the matter to Providence, trusting that a divinity will give shape to the rough-hewing of himself and his associates. Twenty-one years ago, Lady Aberdeen engaged the attention of various bodies of women in Winnipeg and the Mother Country in the circulation of good literature among the settlers of the far west provinces of Canada. Soon the work became organized and systematized, and branches were formed in many Canadian cities. The object of the association, as briefly stated in their constitution, is: "to collect good and attractive periodicals and other literature and to distribute it in parcels, monthly, to settlers who apply for it from outlying parts of Canada. ### NEEDLEWORK NOTES

Pretty bureau covers may be made from the borders of fine table covers that are worn in the middle. Take two pieces of the border of the lengt desired and join the two selvedges with inch-wide insertion. Do this nicely smooth. Hem all the way around with lace to match the insertion.

Half the disparagement of needles is due to using those unsuited in number to the silk or cotton. Try to draw a coarse thread through a fine ey and the thread splits and knots, besides not sewing smoothly. Use crewe needles-which come in all sizes and lengths for embroidering. If nervous never use too coarse a needle, as i pushes badly and constantly come unthreaded.

Penny dolls made of china are the oundation of cunning little pin cushions which look like ballet dancers at first sight, but on second glance it is discovered that in lieu of fluffy skirts they wear balls of brightly-colored satin, silk, pompadour ribbon or tinsel cloth. To dress one of these cushion dolls, wind a strip of inch-wide cotton about the trunk, from the waisi over the left shoulder, back to the waist again and over the right shoulder and then tack it with stout thread. That is the basis for the fluffs of cotton-scented with sachet powder -which must be put on to form a symmetrical hall that is covered with white, soft linen and finally with the fancy silken material. When finish ed the doll's hands, feet and head only are uncovered and no matter how reach her trunk.

However I may have disliked and distrusted the whaleman, he certainly proved himself an able seaman and a smart officer. He comprehended every detail of his work, and held his men to it finely. I went forward with the two of the crew left behind to assist me to pay out the lines, and stood by to let slip the anchorchain. ### IN THE THICK OF THINGS OR THE THIN OF THINGS?

It takes the steady nerve, the elastic step, the energetic body to meet modern conditions, and the quick mind grasps the fact that body and nerves must be properly nourished.

Weak, hesitating, doubting natures are those who lack vitality. Their kingdom is the crust or outer edgethe thin of things.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

LONDON CLUB LANDS BOWERMAN AS MANAGER FOR 1912 SEASON

Famous Backstop Signed a Contract and Will Report for Duty on April 26-Local Management Are Well Pleased With the Deal, and London Will Have a Strong Team.

Frank Bowerman, one of the greatest catchers the National League has ever known, and one of the most popular men that ever donned a baseball uniform, signed a contract last evening whereby he becomes manager of the London baseball team for the season of 1912. Bowerman arrived in London yesterday afternoon, and no time was lost by the local directors in getting him to sign up. The big catcher likes the looks of the city and the prospect of breaking into the Canadian League.

The local directors are going around with their faces wreathed in smiles today. They were looking for a manager who would be the best in the league, but they did not expect to land a man of Bowerman's calibre. They are well pleased with the deal, and the prospect is bright indeed for a Canadian League pennant in London this season. Bowerman left for his home on the C. P. R. last evening, but he will report in London on April 26, and will start to cont out the London players as they arrive. He was shown the list of in to sort out the London players as they arrive. He was shown the list of players already signed by the local club, and although he does not know many of the boys personally, judging from the records he believes that the London club has landed a pennant-winning organiza-

YOUNGSTERS ARE THE BEST. He is much in favor of signing up the

"It is the young fellows who are making the best ball-players nowadays," he said, "and you cannot have too many of them on the team. However, you need a veteran or two just to teach the boys the fine points of the game, and I believe that I can land London at the top of the heap

Frank knows of several good youngsters who would make good in the Can-adian League, and they will be forwarded contracts right away. One of them is a pitcher by the name of Powell. He is a brother of the former Pittsburg twirler of that name, and is not yet twenty years of age. However, Bowerman has seen him perform, and he says the youngster has the makings of a good ball player. He also recommends a young fellow named Broadbank, who caused a sensation in Michigan high school circles last season. Broadbank is an infielder, and can also play the outfield. He also is a youngster scarcely out of his teens, but Frank is of the opinion that he will land in the big show before long, and has little doubt he will make good with the local team.

AN IMPORTANT DEAL.

The coming of Bowerman to fill the London management vacancy marks an important event in the history of the Canadian League, and places it as one of the foremost of minor leagues. Although Bowerman has been playing big league ball for the past eighteen years, he is a young man yet, and there are ten more years of good baseball

"I am just as fit as I ever was," he told the writer yesterday afternoon, "and I can catch just as good, hit the ball as far, and throw just as hard as I ever could in the National League. I played with Kansas City in the Americal Property of the Country of the can Association last season to help the team out, and although I was playing first base, a position I have not occupied to any great extent, I did pretty well for a man who had not a ball in his hand for two years."

well for a man who had not a ball in his hand for two years."

The Kansas City team finished in second place, after giving the Milwaukee team a hard fight for first place. During the latter part of the season Bowerman managed the Kansas City team, and the players never worked better than when under him. Frank's batting average was .256 in 81 games. He scored 33 runs, made 75 singles, 9 three-baggers and 15 sacrifice hits. As a first baseman he played 79 games, made 727 put-outs, 38 assists, 16 errors, and fielded .980. When one considers that the American Association is one of the highest paid men on the light of the strongest minor leagues in existence, and that the pitching there is nearly the strongest minor leagues in existence, and that the pitching there is hearly one of the highest paid men on the some of their men the sum that Munthe strongest minor leagues in existence, and that the pitching there is nearly as good as in the big leagues, Bowerman's work is splendid, considering the fact that he had been out of the game for two years, and jumped in with Kansas City without any previous training whatever.

When a Man Marries

WHEN a man marries he quickly discovers his need of innumerable things he had never thought of before.

And the butcher, the baker and the cabinet maker have a new home to supply.

The new husband and wife must buy things to which they had previously given little thought.

A thousand marriages mean a thousand new homes.

Right here is a fact overlooked by many merchants.

They say, "How could it pay us to keep on repeating the story of our goods or service?"

If they could reach every possible customer with one advertisementand if people didn't forget-there might be no object in "keeping everlastingly at it."

But because every possible customer does not read every advertisement, you must repeat.

And because these thousands of new homes are every day coming into existence, continuous advertising brings increased results.

Perhaps some people knew your goods or your store five or ten years ago. Since then new generations have come into existence.

The boy of to-day is the man who will sign the cheques to-morrow. Today your advertisements are of small interest to him. To-morrow he is your customer, if you solicit his trade through advertising.

Every day thousands of people discover for the first time their need of your kind of goods.

Will you be there every day with your bid for their business?

Or will you leave the field to your competitors?

Advertising is the key that opens the door of these new homes to your goods.

Is Advertising on your key-ring?

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any good advertising agency or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write if interested.

Because of the great popularity of Wilson's Invalids' Port with the Medical Profession, there have been put upon the market several attempts at imitation of this well-known standard wine tonic.

Why be cajoled into trying imitations because of their cheapness? The best is better than any—nothing but the best should satisfy you.

The name "Wilson's Invalids' Port" is registered at Ottawa, as also the signature of the proprietor of this preparation:

which appears on all labels and neck bands of the genuine preparation—to imitate them may be the sincerest form of flattery BUT it is a criminal offence punishable by law.

his morning says: During a debate in the Commons last night on imperial trade, several mempayment of grants to the school when action and failure to carry out the proposals for mutual preferential trade between the component parts of the empire, which were so urgently pressed by the premiers of the various dominions.

The subject of a British state-own ed Atlantic cable soon became a leading feature of the discussion. matter was raised by Henry Page Croft, who pointed out that a British cable would enable diplomatic and strategtic secrets to be transmitted freely. Moreover, the trade of the country would be affected. He continued: "The Postmaster-General has done othing beyond obtaining a small reduction in existing rates. He has made it fairly plain that the Governhands.

Postmaster-General Samuel admit communication was essential to the maintenance of and continuance of the unity of the empire. He could be a sential to the inity of the empire. He said he had een continually at work to obtain reluctions in the cable rate, and in several directions he had been successfu A Wireless System.

Mr. Samuel stated that in order to mprove strategic communication and btain a prospect of further reducion in press and other rates he had entered into an arrangement with the Marconi Company for the erection of a chain of wireless stations to connec this country with India, Australia, and New Zealand, at a total expense of TURNING OVER THE PARKS $2,500,000. "This plan will place the British Empire far in advance of any country in the world in respect to wireless telegraphy," he said.

In dealing with the arguments adduced in favor of a new state-owned Atlantic cable, Mr. Samuel pointed out that there could be no disclosures of strategic secrets under the present system, because the state telegrams were sent in cipher. All these cables, though controlled by foreign companies, landed on British territory on he other side of the Atlantic.

Mr. Samuel adhered to the position he had taken up that a state-owned Atlantic cable could only be run at a loss. It could obtain no constant aid or certain volume of Canadian business, because the land lines in Canada belonged to groups of companies. which were in close alliance with the cable companies, and would not give facilities to telegrams that passed across the state-owned cable. ## GREAT TRIUMPH FOR M. DELCASSE

Has Made a Success of Reorganization of French Army.

SPEED IN BUILDING

Refuses to Permit Alterations in Con struction When Ships Are on the Ways.

Paris, April 4 .- Since M. Delcasse took charge of the French navy remarkable reforms tending to efficiency have been enforced. France is just waking up to the fact that the energy of the ablest of her ministers is producing speed and economy to construction, completeness in equipment and discipline among the crews.

When the Delcasse regime began there was slackness in construction. Six battleships of the Danton class, for example, took five years to build and equip. They were of 18,300 tons each. After that the naval programme provided for six ironclads of 24,000 tons. Two were laid down a year ago-the Jean Bart and the Courbet In forty-two weeks they were launched, which was twenty-six weeks bet ter time than the smaller Dantons

The same workmen and the sam vards at Brest and Lorient were employed in both cases. What was the secret of the difference? Delcasse in giving the orders, insisted that there should be no alterations in plans while onstruction was proceeding and that building and fitting out a first-class tronclad must be completed within three years.

Pitting the state arsenals against the private firms in wholesome competition he gave the Jean Bart and the Coarbet to the arsenals, while private yards will have the France and the Paris, the next two. Moreover, Delcasse kept such a sharp eye on the contracts that he saved nearly six million francs on each ship by cutting down the tenders.

Next May three ironclads of 24,000 tons, to be armed with the new gun of 340-millimetres, will be laid down -two at Brest and Toulon, in the state arsenals, the third by private contract, to replace the ill-fated Li berte. Simultaneously Cherbourg, Rockefart and Toulon will commence work on nine new submarines. By the end of the year seventeen submarines and thirteen destroyers, already or the stocks, wil be ready for service. With similar vigilance, big guns and supplies have been brought up to the highest level. The disaster to the Jena and the Liberte, through explosions, have resulted in the most stringent reforms in the manufacture, storage and the examination of the powder used. Six hundred tons, alread; aboard warships, were thrown into the sea last year as unsatisfactory, though aulty fabrication and storage. gain there is a wholesome dread o unishment at the hands of the restess marine minister, each man knowing that carelessness will henceforth bring sharp chastisement.

As to discipline, perhaps the greatest improvement of all is that commanders have been given greater power to reward or to punish, to oust undesirable elements and to protect roung recruits from evil influences. Within a few days a big debate is iue in the Senate on the present condition of the fleet. It is full of dangers, for revelations might follow too close an inquisition into the explosions orders, with reference to appointments on the Jena and the Liberte. But M. Delcasse can truly claim that those conditions belong to the past and the French navy today is a long way on

COURT RULES CHANGE

Time of Meeting Advanced Half an Hour So Bedtime Will Be Sooner. London, April 4.-The spirit of change that is abroad in this o'd country is even affecting the royal courts, which at one time were run on unalterable lines. The first hint of innovation came last year, when the hour at which the courts met was put them the wife and daughter of Spenforward by half an hour, an intimation that King George and Queen of parliament, and an able journalist. The lord chamberlain was forgiven, however, when it became known that his new regulation was made to safeguard the court from the possibility of disturbance by noisy suffragettes. Another change that makes for comfort is the shorter train that has now to be worn, while the veils are one-quarter of their usual length, Still another departure from tradition noticed at the last courts was the number of women belonging to what may be called the professional class who passed before the throne, among cer Leigh Hughes, a Liberal member Wilson King and Miss Allene Crane, This change was welcomed on the who were presented by Countess
