[Canadian Press.] New Liskeard, July 3 .- Details of fire osses throughout the country districts come to hand very slowly. Mr. Tom Mc Camus, of Liskeard, had a thousand poles and posts lying west of the town; a spark fell on them, and nothing could save them. Dr. McNaughton, of Liskeard, has a farm some six miles north. The fire swept through an adjoining slash and

A farmer and timber jobber of the Earlton vicinity lost every building on his piace, together with a number of sleighs, his harness and other equipment, and yet declares that the fire has done his farm sufficient good to more than pay for the damage. These incidents illustrate the real situation.

Dominion:

assertions as to the "white slave" traffic in Canada will have to substantiate their claims or suffer the consequences, according to a decision of the Canadian Police Chiefs' Association, says Chief of Police W. T. Williams, newly-elected president of that organ-

At the recent convention of the chiefs in Halifax, the question of vice suppression and white slavery were among the most important topics under discussion. The stand was taken by the officers that the white slavery talk had gone beyond all reasonable bounds and that some check should be instituted to prevent it.

Exaggerated, Says Chief.

"There were 48 police chiefs there, from Victoria to Rimouski, and from Edmonton to Halifax," said Chief Wil-liams today. "None of these 48 could cite one example of white slavery in their respective territories. The eral feeling was that the talk of white slavery was too great. Here in Canada it strikes me that white slavery cannot exist. I believe that the youth of the country, even those who patronize disorderly houses, are too manly to allow any woman to be confined there against her will."

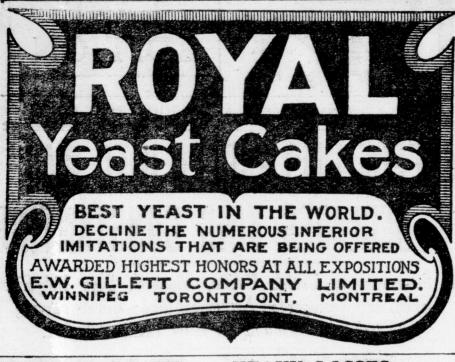

Chiefs to Co-operate.

After the proposition had been disussed it was decided that the chiefs vould co-operate. Every alleged case of white slavery will be probed till we ind where the report originated. If it, is found that there is a case of white slavery, then naturally action will be taken in the courts. If it is found that there are no cases, and that the report is incorrect the names and a full statement of those responsible to the representative of the international committee for the suppression of vice at Ottawa, who will take the necessary steps to bring them to book. If the present laws do not permit of this we will ask that special laws be enacted to cover it.

"There is too much of slavery talk. It is not only bad for the ountry, but is bad for the people in he old land. Every few days we are in eccipt of letters from parents in the old who are afraid their daughters lave fallen in with the white slavers. They read the reports that are circulated by well meaning by hysterical persons and the result is many a heartiche in the old land that should not be. Little Slavery Here.

"It is true that there may be what is known as white slavery in large cities, but the chiefs came to the conclusion that there wasn't any, to speak of, in this country. The organizations who are instituting their 'white slavery' propaganda are wrongfully including many hings that are not white slavery under hat head.

Speaking of the associations meeting enerally, the chief stated that one of the results would be the publication of quarterly journal. In this journal will be set forth the experiences of various chiefs under the criminal code, sections of which are so construed that they may be knocked out by clever lawyers. The idea is to prevent any cases being lost on technicalities, and the heads of the police department will use this journal for that means. New laws and ideas will also be promulgated through its malium.

LIBERALS READY FOR HOT FIGHT IN NORTH GREY

Farcical Probe at Owen Sound.

Temperance Issues Set Before Bulgaria Has Sent Servia and Fort William, Ont.—Arrived: Has Sent Servia and monic, passengers and freight, Sarthe Electors by Ex-Mayor Oliver.

Owen Sound, July 2. - A splendid crowd, which was at all times enthusfastic, gatehered tonight in the town hall for the opening meeting in the North Grey by-election, Mr. William Proudfoot was the principal speaker, and was given a great reception. His first words were a felicitous reference to Hon. A. G. MacKay, whose removal to Alberta made the holding of an election necessary. It was a matter of great regret that the able assistance of Mr. MacKay was being lost to the Province of Ontario. The mention of the name of the former Liberal leader evoked loud cheers, and repeated references to his name during the evening were always met with enthusiastic responses.

Scores Whitney. The Opposition in the Legislature, Mr. Proudfoot proceeded, had been able during the past few years to point out a number of misdeeds on part of the Whitney Govern-"I intend to refer to some of these misdeeds before I am through tonight," said the member for Centre Huron, "and I wish Sir James Whitney and Mr. Hanna were here to listen. I defy Sir James Whitney and Mr. Hanna," he continued, "to appear on this platform during present campaign and discuss the issues that I raised in the Legislature last session." (Cheers.) Probe Was a Joke.

Mr. Proudfoot, by careful analysis bf the methods employed at the investigation of the charges he made in ment 2,000 Servians were killed and connection with the Taylor, Scott & wounded. contract, showed how one farce followed another. Taylor's evidence was shut off. No reference whatever was allowed to the coal contracts. Mr. Hanna later was "permitted" to make a statement regarding a coal contract which was not the one contemplated in the charge, and after the committee had overruled its chairman, Mr. Hanna's statement was stricken out.' (Laughter.)

Mr. Proudfoot said he refused to testify before the privileges and elections committee because he had not been allowed to produce his evidence and all that he himself knew was hear-If he had taken the oath as a witness he would have been in a nice position when questions were asked to have his answers ruled out because they were based on hearsay. Nevertheless, he had been careful not to take the Thorne letter with him, fear it might have been impounded and never sen again.

Mr. Proudfoot touched briefly upon the increase of expenditure from 1905 to 1913 from five to twelve millions of dollars—the growing indebtedness of the province, and the awful bungle over the new party when in Opposition had declared Against giving "one foot of the public 5:40; Saxon and consort, 6:30; Lupus, domain" to railway corporations, yet the Canadian Northern land grant and that son. 3; Joseph Reed, 9; Normania, 9:10; Ex-Mayor Oliver.

In a straightforward manner, Mr. Jo Oliver, ex-mayor of Toronto, laid the plain facts of the temperance issue before the audience. Always temperance reformers had asked for a leader who would close the bars. Mr. Rowell's policy was unmistakable in its meaning on this Mr. Oliver could not agree that the Canada temperance act was a good substitute. It had already proved that local option was unjust because one option was unjust because and spoiled ballots always came off the temperance side. "Of course, no liquor man could mark his ballot in mistake," e said, sarcastically. Sir John Mac-onald had said, "Send me men to Par-iament who will vote for prohibition, and will put such a law on the statute oooks." North Grey now had the chance to set an example. "Fancy paying $135,000 for a license in Toronto, and $12,000 a year in rent besides! The poor than foots the bill."

Liberals Ready.

An election in North Grey was no noveity, said Mr. A. S. Sibbald, and the Liberel party was ready for the fight. North Grey had been ably represented by Mr. MacKay, and would now say whether it was satisfied with the work of the Opposition. The opportunity was present to make the advanced temperance position taken by the riding provened with its application, and not lead Ince-wide in its application and not local

No Quiet Months At This Store

CUMMERTIME SHOPPING is not the burden it used to be when you were obliged to climb one or two flights of stairs to the floors where ready-to-wear goods were displayed. Easy-running safety electric elevators are here to lift you from floor to floor. In these there is always a cool draught. Many in the old days did without things they really needed for summer comfort rather than tackle a few hours' shopping. Different now! This store has a charm for visitors—as fresh every morning as the milk-house under the trees at the spring. People come here to get in from the heat, to lunch in the tearoom or enjoy a cooling drink amid pleasant surroundings. But the influence of new summer merchandise is the main attraction, drawing the attention of visitors these days.

There is a general belief that when the crisis is past, everything will be on a sounder and healthier basis. A lesson had to be taught; there are evidences that it has been learned.

THE LAUREATESHIP.

Austin, poet laureate, has given occapress as to the advisability of contincessor to Austin, a writer not very well and Greeks have been nothing to theirs. critics' favorite, and like Gray, the author of an ode on Eton College.

office. There is no very great benefit to the individual, beyond his little salary of $475; he does not stand any higher in the public estimation; his books do not sell any better. As for the nation, the laureate is not likely to produce on events of national importance any better poetry than his brother poets, probably not so good, for they will write spontaneously, while the is under an obligation to write to its best to kill the Canadian navy order and must be hampered by that principle, but it is a principle that will

Nor is the title necessarily one of any great honor. It does not mean that the holder is a great poet. Accustomed as we were to the pre-eminence of Tennyson, we might have had the idea to be the laureate was to be the chief of poets. But, as a matter of fact, the long roll of laureates from Ben Jonson down to Alfred Austin shows very few whose greatness is now acknowledged. Most of them are forgotten. When we take out the names of Jonson. Dryden, Wordsworth, Tennyson, It has to be a well-equipped public library where we find the works of the Originally the appointment meant nothing more than that the King picked out some favorite among the men who wrote poetry in order to confer upon him the annual gift of a cask of wine; he might have been chosen for some other reason than poetic exrellence. And though he was expected to write a poem when the King required it for some important or unimportant event, yet if the sentiment were correct, and the flattery strong enough, the words were of little account. The ideal king's poet would have to be sought among the Welsh bards, or the Highland pipers-men who to poetic genius added a personal loyalty to their chief that would carry them through fire and flood in his service. Nowadays it is perhaps the favor of a premier that counts for much in the selection of a laureate.

What Society Wears On Fifth Avenue

SLASHED SKIRTS, BLACK AND WHITE COSTUMES, AND BROWN "CUBIST" POW-DER ON THE FACE.

BY IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

Illustrated by Helen Dryden, Most Famous of All American Women Fashion Illustrators.

New York, July 3.—"There is only one fashion artist who can do pictorial justice to the clothes that New York, July 3.—"There is only one fashion artist who can do pictorial justice to the clothes that New York, July 3.—"There is only one fashion artist who can do pictorial justice to the clothes that New York, July 3.—"There is only one fashion artist who can do pictorial justice to the clothes that New York, July 3.—"There is only one fashion artist who can do pictorial justice to the clothes that New York, July 3.—"There is only one fashion artist who can do pictorial justice to the clothes that New York, July 3.—"There is only one fashion artist who can do pictorial justice to the clothes that New York is a second of the comen are now wearing, and that is Helen Dryden," I said to myself as I came out of Waldorf "peacock alley" and walked down Fifth avenue. Words cannot describe the costumes of the society women, who, on account of the opening of the race tracks and the international polo games, have remained in New York longer this summer than

Miss Dryden, the eleverest fashion illustrator in New York, graciously agreed to draw some of the most up-to-date details of costumes for The Advertiser. And, a little later, we strolled up the most beautiful city street in the world and went to the other.

"The styles were never so beautiful as now," said Miss Dryden, "but," she added, as I lifted my eyebrows a little, "they were never so often caricatured by women who are not close observers and who lack fine-pointed taste." "Surely you don't think that woman looks well!" I said. "No, of course not," she answered. "She is a chorus girl who has strayed over here from Broadway, and she is a fine example of WHAT NOT TO DO TO BE IN STYLE.

The girl in question was rarely beautiful in form and feature, but she had exaggerated every one of the new

Fashion became folly in her case. Her face was covered with the new "cubist" powder which all smart New York women are using. This powder is a deep tint of yellowish brown, and, used with discretion, it gives one a look of healthy tan. The little chorus girl had used it plentifully, but had also put on brilliant lip rouge, not realizing that when a woman taps, all her coloring, cheeks and lips, takes on a brown tint. She had also made her throat very, very white. She looked like a clown, but a girl who came in later was a picture, although she had used the same aids to accentuate her beauty. As a matter of fact, your throat—and that part of your chest that is invariably shown nowadays, for no one wears a collar nrust be whiter than your face, as the sun does not get to your neck so quickly. A VERY LITTLE

THE ALL-BLACK COSTUME AND THE CUBIST COAT.

The two styles of the summer as sketched by Miss Dryden. In the supper corner you will see Miss Dryden and idah McGlone Gibson "on the job." Four out of six stylish women wear all black this spring and an all-black costume, with white ruffles at the neck and wrists, on a woman powdered to simpulate tan, is as beautiful as it is stunning.

Every season there is one hat which takes precedent over all the others. This summer it is a very small black turban, with an upstanding frill of tulle about it. You can wear either black paradise or numedi feathers, or even a black ribbon bow on it if you wish and still be "en regal."

One of the newest and prettiest fashions is a white or black satin skirt made plain and narrow and folded over with a deep slash in the back. Over this the coat is of block-printed linen in a big cubist design. More than half the women at the Long Island polo games, who did not have on black costumes, were these gay linen coats over skirts of either black or white.

The smartest coat of this kind at the Plaza the day Miss Dryden and I were there was of brown linen with big splashy figures in tan and yellow. It was cutaway, and underneath there was a golden-brown waist. With this was worn a light cream skirt. A brown poke bonnet with bril liant red cherries and a stunning parasol of shaded brown lined with cream completed the costume.

All the skirts are slashed more or less-usually more- and every woman is wearing low-cut shoes with fancy silver or cut steel buckles. Gray silk hose are worn more than black with these shoes. Often a girl with very slender ankles will wear white stockings, and with an all-black costume I must confess this fad is rather startling. You must carry a parasol this summer, and the more brilliant the better. Not in years have the summer hats been as small-even the panamas being no larger than those sold to the men. You must let your waist out and draw your pompadour in.

Never since the introduction of corsets have the waists of all women been so large. There must be no curve at the waist at all. And your hair must follow absolutely the contour of your head. "Above all else," concluded Miss Dryden, "tell your readers to look natural and explain to them that LOOKING now. natural and BEING natural are quite DIFFERENT! For women MUST conform to the accepted straight lines and healthy coloring whether they have them or not."

"That is all right," I answered, "if one is slender as you are, but what are you going to do if you are as fat as I?" "I'll tell you what I'll do-I'll put us BOTH in the picture, and everyone can see how the stout and the slender woman looks in today's styles!"

And sure enough she did, for up in the corner of this illustration you will see as they looked that day on Fifth avenue-Helen Dryden and Idah McGlone Gibson!

A Dog's Diet

A mixed diet is best. Many dogs have been killed because, in the country, they would eat the hens' eggs from the nests. They are not to be blamed, as they demand a mixed diet and frequently this is their only means of securing it.

Meat should form the basis of the grown dog's meals, but it should be cooked and never given without some other food-dog biscuit, crusts of bread, eggs and milk. Boiled rump beef is extremely good for dogs, and should not be too dry-a little of the water it is boiled in is good .. Save the bones; do not feed them to your dog at his regular evening meal time, but let him have a good bone during the day, as he enjoys it, and it aids digestion, keeps his teeth clean and breaks up the long day of fasting between morning and his night time. Graham bread is a splendid food

Preparing Ice and Salt for Freezing Cream

Break the ice into very small pieces by using a heavy wooder mallet or potato masher. Put the ice in a large canvas bag. Use coarse rock salt, table salt melts the ice too rapidly. Pack around the freezer can in the proportion of onethird salt to two-thirds ice. Remember when through freezing to turn the water off slowly. Take out the ice and salt and repack, as ice cream that stands an hour or two after freezing is much better than when eaten di rectly it is made. The freezer should be larger than you actually need to hold the cream, as freezing expands the liquid in proportion of about one-quarter. I seldom fill my freezer more han half full.

When not in use the can of the freezer should be kept uncovered and you must always scald and thoroughdry it before putting away. If you vill let your cream stand in the freezer packed in ice and salt a little while before you begin to turn it you will save time, ice and labor,

Nay, Nay, Gentle Reader Rube Deneau Will Never Equal Mathewson's Work All Pitchers Look Alike to

For those who like figures, here are some interesting ones in connection with Wednesday afternoon's ball game at Tecumseh Park. Rube Deneau pitched 146 times to the batters, while Belting only pitched 122.

The lowest number of balls pitched to retire the side in one inning was 7, Belting putting the London team out in the first inning on seven pitched balls, and Rube Deneau using that many to retire the Petes in the fifth. Eighteen batters hit the first ball pitched; ten London batters and eight

Peterboro ones. The greatest number of balls pitched in one inning was 35, Rube Deneau having to pitch that number in the ninth inning. His greatest number before that was in the third, when he pitched 26. Belting's greatest number was 20, pitching this number in the second and in the sixth inning. Rube Deneau's average number pitched in one inning was 162-9, while Belting's was 135-9. Belting pitched the greatest number of balls in a row, Dunlop and Neale valking on eight pitched balls in the second inning. The greatest number of balls pitched to one batter was seven, Deneau itching this number to Thompson in the second inning and Chapdelaine and rout in the ninth inning.

The figures by innings were as follows:

Manager Deneau Has at Last Started to Strengthen the London Club-Pitcher Finn Will Work at Hamilton This Afternoon.

Pitcher Jack Fitzpatrick were released ast evening by Manager Rube Deneau. last evening by Manager Rube Deneau. The announcement does not come as a surprise, as both players have not been delivering the goods of late, and Rube has to do some strengthening. Yesterday morning P. J. Finn, a pitcher, who was released by Lansing a few days ago, blew into town, and as Mr. Deneau is begging for twirlers he got a job right away on the London team. He will likely work in today's game at Hamilton. Rube had him out in the afterton. Rube had him out in the after-noon working at Tecumseh Park, and ne showed a lot of stuff.

"Steady now," he murmured. "Remember my instructions. The inquiry is committed to me for the time."

The eage-shaped man was certainly entitled to take credit for the disclosure, and seldom failed to do so in many subsequent expositions to admiring friends of a singular case, but he never realized how thoroughly self-deluded the Earl had been by the original blunder.

"But, sir." protested the clerk, "it was rever supposed that Mr. do Courtois had never supposed that Mr. de Courtois had been killed. No one knew who the poor gentleman was at first, because Mr. Cur-tis's overcoat and his had been accidently exchanged in the flurry and excitement after the crime was committed. The police found the initials H. R. H. on his clothing, and that fact led to his being recognised as Mr. Henry H. Hunter, a well-known New York journalist. Had I seen him myself, I would have settled that point in a moment, because he often came here to visit Mr. de Courtois." ..."Indeed! That is very interesting, most decidedly interesting. "Are you quite certain that what you are saying is correct? Mr. Hunter, the mardered man, was acquainted with Monsteur de Courtois?"

The question came from the Earl of Val-

"Mr. Steingall gone?" inquired Schmidt affably.

"Yes, sir. He left here nearly half an hour ago." said the clerk, outwardly self-possessed, but wondering inwardly what new bomb would be exploded in his weary brain.

"This murder and its attendant circum. thaving put his hand to the plow he was obliged to turn the furrow.

"Now, about this Mr. John Delancy Curtis," purred Schmidt, "has it been ascertained beyond all doubt that he arrived in New York from Europe this evening?"

"The police ore satisfied or elieve, and he had an even as a struction."

"Ah!" Schindt was beginning to think that the amazing marriage promised to develop into a cause celebre. "In that event, it becomes essential, indeed, I may say imperative, that his lordship and I should interview Monsieur de Courtois without delay."

"Sorry, sir," said the clerk, desperately availing himself of the detective's instructions, "but Mr. Steingall left orders that no one should be permitted to visit Mr. de Courtois tonight."
"Left orders? Is the man in this hotel?"
"Oh, yes, I was aware of that all the dress as Pekin."

"Pekin!"

"Yes, sir."

Everybody was invariably astonished when they heard of Pekin. Had Curtis described his recent residence as "the Moon" it would have been regarded as only a degree more recondite.

"Then," said Schmidt, closing his eyes, "assuming he is the stranger he represents himself as being, he could have no personal connection with the murder of Monsieur Jean de Courtols?"

There! Another comet had fallen in Twenty-seventh street, Krantz winced, as if the lawyer had struck him.

"Mr. de Courtois!" he gasped. "Who says he was murdered? He is—not very well, it is true, but for all that I can tell, he is sound asleep in bed at this min
"Iteft orders? Is the man in this hotel?"

"Oh, yes, I was aware of that all the time," put in the earl. "He lived here—don't you see, that accounts for the missing that—"

"Forgive me." The lawyer's monitory had rose again, and he turned to the clerk. "You can hardly expect me, Mr. Krantz, to regard Mr. Steingall's 'orders' as in any way controlling my actions. Kindly show us his lordship and me to Monsieur de Courtois's room at once."

There was nothing for it but to obey. Krantz understood exactly how he would be jumped on and pulverized in the morning by irate stockholders in the hotel if any action of his should be adversely reported on by the great Otto Schmidt.

But the visit to de Courtois fizzled out unexpectedly. The Frenchman, still attitude!"

any action of his should be adversely reported on by the great Otto Schmidt.

But the visit to de Courtois fizzled out unexpectedly. The Frenchman, still attired in evening dress, for that is the conventional wedding attire of his race, was lying on the bed sleeping the sleep of utter exhaustion supplemented by bromide. The two negro attendants, who were hoping for some more exciting experience, were squatted on the floor playing pinochle, and the strenuous efforts of Lord Valletort to arouse the slumberer were quite useless. But—and that was a vital thing—he had seen de Courtois, and knew beyond doubt that he was allve, and seemingly in good health, or, at any rate,

It is just overhead," said the clerk. "Dear me!"
Schmidt looked up at the ceiling as though his eyes might discern a trap-door.
"Is Mr. Curtis there now?"
"No. sir."

"Where is he?"
"He went out with a Mr. Devar." "He went out with a Mr. Devar."
Krantz was tempted to prevaricate, but it is schmidt was a power in the Central Hotel. "I believe, sir, he is at the Plaza."
"A large hotel, near Central Park, is it not?" demanded the earl eagerly.
"My lord, pardon me." The lawyer was no believer in letting all the world into your secrets, and the clerk's manner is showed that he was far from well posted in certain elements of the affair.
Valletort was for rushing forthwith off in a taxl to the Plaza; but Schmidt vetoed the notion. He shared the earl's convic-

Krantz seized the opportunity to call up Krantz seized the opportunity to call up Steins of the tellephone and told him something, no. all, of what had occurrent. He did not say that the ari and Schmidt had actually seen de Courtois, and suppressed any mention of his disclosure with the wished to mislead the detective willfully, but he felt that he had been indiscreet, and there was no need to proclaim the fact. Moreover, he had never heard Hermoine's name mentioned, or he was gallant enough to have risked any was callant enough to have risked any trouble next day if a lady would be saved

Schmidt's lawyer-like caution was destined to have far-reaching effects on the night's history. It provided one of the minor rills of a torrent which was gaindistress thereby. minor rills of a torrent which was gainin-cresistible momentum, and would submorge many people bereat its uncontrolled to the Earl, and hurried to the Plaza at once, he would have met Curtis and Steingall there, and those two men might have diverted the bursting current of events diverted the bursting current of events into a new channel. But, naturally enough, he wanted to understand precisely where he stood. In a word, the egg was excellent in its constituents, but lacked the exuberant freshness of the newly-laid article.

ASK PARDON FOR MRS. PANKHURST

Some Very Prominent Names Are On Petition That Was Presented.

Militant Leader's Poor Health and Splendid Character Urged in the Document.

London, July 2. - The pardon of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, who has been serving off and on her three-year sentence for inciting her followers to malicious damage to property, is requested in a petition sent to the King by four well-known figures in London educational circles.

The petitioners, who describe themselves as teachers and graduates of London University, are the Rev. Al fred Caldescott, professor of mental and moral philosophy at King's College; Dr. Karl Pearson, scientific writer and Carlton professor of eugenics; Sidney Webb, writer on social questions, and Halliburton V. # Some Suggestions.

"Be sure you're right,"

Ever notice what queer pranks in transposing figures your mind will play? Take three numbers-1468, 1546, 6428 for example. Now dismiss them from your mind for a minute and then try to recall them. How easily you wonder whether it wasn't "1648," or "1456" or "6248"1

That's one reason why telephone subscribers are asked to consult the directory before giving a numberbecause this particular psychological trait is almost certain to lead to "wrong number" calls.

Such calls are not merely an annoyance but an economic waste. They abuse the patience of the person thus needlessly disturbed; they consume (instead of save) the time of the caller; and they burden the Telephone Company with a double operating load.

Another reason why the directory should be consulted is found in the fact that telephone numbers frequently are changed.

If you take pains to ascertain the correct number, and then pronounce it distinctly, in 999 instances out of 1000 you will get the correct connection.

In 1906 under Mr. Radcliffe's principalship, London spent only $5,309.50, London having advanced in six years nearly $9,000. The total expenditure for London Col legiate in 1912 was $60,108, and for Hamilton $43,624, a difference in Hamilton's favor of nearly $17,000. In 1906, however, under the previous principal, Hamilton spent $36,421.92, London's expenditure costing at that time $4,000 less than Hamilton. The increase in London's expenditure under Mr. Mc-Cutcheon's management, was nearly $28,000, while during the same period Hamilton had increased her expenditure only by $7,000, or one-fourth the increase in London's expenditure. Calls Report Unfair. Dr. Shaw further claimed that Mr. McCutcheon had unfairly manipulated his reports to the board of education. At the last investigation, he said, Mr. McCutcheon had stated that London's salary bill totalled $39,400, whereas the Government blue book gives it as $43,-332. Mr. McCutcheon had also stated that Hamilton paid $38,600. whereas the same blue book places it at only 'If this were a business proposition," said Dr. Shaw, "we would not put up with it. I don't think it is fair to the citizens of London to spend their money in this way."

Chairman Dennis made no comment on Dr. Shaw's statements, but said that It was a question for the board to decide whether there had been any misconduct of the Collegiate affairs.

Dr. Teasdall complained that at every meeting of the board bombs were thrown by Dr Shaw. "As soon as we have one question out of the way and think it is settled," he said, "another one is thrown at us.

It was, she said, in the spring of 1900 while she and the baronet were driving together that Sir John first told her of his intention to leave her $1,000,-000. He said to her that now his mother was dead, Lady Sackville had taken a great place in his life, and that he was going to leave her the $1,000,000, his furniture, his houses at Bagatelle (near Paris), and at Lisbon, and in fact all except the houses in London, which he had left to his sisters and brothers. Reduced Legacy.

Later on, according to Lady Sack-ville, he said he intended to reduce her legacy to $750,000. He was going keep back $250,000 in order to help in the keeping up of Knole Park, the Sack ville seat at Seven Oaks, Kent, during is lifetime. This he did. Lady Sackville testified that she had by Sir John in 1900. After 1901 Sir John cott, she said, was a frequent visitor to Knole Park, while she often went to is residence in London. Lady Sackville swore she never saw the vill and did not know it had been made antil much later, when Sir John Scott spoke of revoking it.

Threatened Her. Sackville said Sir John Scott breatened to revoke his will on the slightest provocation. Once when she could not lunch with him he said, "Very well, I will go and change my will." Afterward, however, he said, "You little rascal. You know I would never do that.' Witness emphatically denied that and her daughter had secretly visited Scott's house and examined the documents there as had been stated by Major Arbuthnott in his evidence. Under crossexamination Lady Sackville said she and her husband had about $15,000 a year. When she met Scott they were not in eht but her father was in difficulties. From 1897 he was generally $5,000 behind each year, and was unhappy over his amily affairs and the behavior of his brothers and sisters.

"Mr. Asquith," Mr. Rowell told his earers, "in the course of his very memorable speech on the report of the Marconi committee, formulated what he described as a code of rules a positive obligation governing ministerial conduct. One of these rules was of special interest. No minister ought to accept any kind of favor from persens who are in negotiation with or seeking to enter into contractual or pecuniary relations with the Government. This rule, not of expediency, but of positive obligation, was clearly and admittedly violated by the Provincial Secretary of Ontario. In Engample, that the minuster should carefully avoid all transactions which could doing anything which the rules of positive obligation forbade. It was made perfectly clear in Mr. Asquith's remarks that had his colleagues violated any of the rules of positive obligation they would have deserved and received the censure of the House and this would have involved their retirement from the Government.

Mr. Mackenzie points out that the Ottaway avenue church "can never be anything ged to give to the people this but a "Christian Workers' Church" for according to a codicil in the trust deed. sure of reform which they desire, if ever affiliated with any other movement or denomination the building We are returned to power at the would have to be sold and all the money given to two specified mission-

"The church has always stood the doctrine of the "Baptism of the Holy Ghost," but the manifesto goes on to say, "the brethren who were present at the meeting do not accept the statement that only those who have at some time spoken in another tongue have re "Baptism of the Holy Ghost, neither do they believe that all those who have spoken in another tongue are filled with the Spirit."

The Spirit-Filled Life. The manifesto after admitting that there are "special 'gifts' of The Spirit, including the 'gift of tongues' and manifestations; of The Spirit, including speaking in an unknown tongue, cites as the "truest evidences of Spirit-filled life' among other qualities, separation from the world," "holi-ness of heart and life," "illumination in the knowledge of God through His word," "a burning desire for the salration of souls," "constant power to witness for Christ," "and absolute bedience to the Savior.'

The manifesto concludes: 'We are warned in God's word that these "last days" there will be many false and seducing spirits pressing to the front, and from all sides we hear that many are being led away by them land the ministers were guilty only of breaches of "rules of prudence" for exto be the case when supernatural manifestations are sought, and after they give color to the belief that they were have been received, and we earnestly spirit that seeks to divide the faithful ollowers of Christ, and to cause "His body" to be broken into splits and jar-similar plan in the public schools. As a result Victoria school, St. George's school and Chesley avenue school have peen equipped with playground apparatus, and at recess and after school is let out in the afternoon scores of happy children can be seen enjoying the delights of the seesaw, giant stride. Roman rings, etc.

Supervision Necessary.

The school board provides for the supervision of the school playgrounds during the months that school session. No provision is made for the summer months, however, and the problem of keeping the playgrounds open during this time, when they are n greater demand than at any other time of the year, is one that is causing those connected with the movement a great amount of worry at the present time. Adequate supervision is essential if the greatest good is to come from the efforts put forth to obtain the play grounds and to secure competent per sons for this work requires consider able money. Public-spirited citizens in the past contributed money for the purpose of buying equipment, and this, of course, cannot be used to pay the salaries of those engaged in the work of supervision. And so the mothers' clubs have been left to their own resources. The Victoria School Club has engaged two young ladies and a young man to take charge of the work during the next two months and will make up the salaries among themselves.

St. George's School Club has raised enough money to secure supervision for half the summer, but the playgrounds on Parke's flats are likely to remain closed all vacation owing to the ack of funds. A meeting of the Central Mothers Club and the Playgrounds' Association was held recently at which the Playgrounds' Association gave "carte blanche" to the mothers' clubs to do as they saw fit with regard to the school playgrounds. The mothers' clubs are now endeavoring to find means to provide not only for the installation of apparatus in all the schools but also for proper supervision during the summer months "It seems too bad, after the apparatus has all been bought and put in place, to let it stand idle all summer for the want of a little energy in securing funds to pay competent supervisors," said Mrs. W. A. Tanner, ex president of the Central Mothers' Club, in speaking of the matter this morning. Just what course will be followed has ot yet been decided, and in the meantime several thousand kiddies who are unable to get out of the city to spend the holidays, are left with Maygrounds than the street. deep water.

The Labor-Saving All-Gas Laundry

WASH-DAY can no longer be referred to as "blue" Monday, for the use of Gas as Fuel has changed the once dreaded and often postponed task to one of every-day pleasurable routine. The housewife now has the time-saving GAS IRON, the convenient GAS LAUNDRY STOVE, the everready RUUD AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER with its pure, abundant supply. With a RUUD connected to your house pipes, you get unlimited hot water with no more attention than you give your cold water supply-a simple turn of the faucet. And it's scalding hot, and there's plenty for the laundry and every other part of the house at the same time.

The RUUD is self-operating and burns gas only while you are drawing hot water, and automatically shuts off the gas the moment the faucet is closed.

It is the easiest thing in the world to have these time-saving appliances installed in your home-just a modest deposit and small monthly payments with your gas bills.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

What Glasses Are To Weak Eyes—Cascarets Are To Weak Bowels.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condi-tion is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to Chariton and wife, and Amos walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets, One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle ald to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natura't tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only Glencoe, July 3.—George Bechill has 10 cents per box at any drug store. just received word that his son Everett, They work while you sleep.
