BRITISH PRESS WELCOMES U.S. LABOR LEADERS

Samuel Gompers and Others Warmly Welcomed in England.

London, Aug. 30.—The newspapers all print editorials welcoming Samuel Gompers and other American labor leaders, and give marked prominence to the declaration of Mr. Gompers that the labor men of the United States to the declaration of Mr. Compers that the labor men of the United States are in favor of a war to the finish, without compromise, and will have no part in unofficial negotiations with Socialists of enemy countries. Socialists of enemy countries.

The Gompers party confronts a situation in the British Labor world which on its face appears to be a delicate one. Spokesmen for British workingmen are sharply divided on the question of peace terms, and particularly on the question which has arisen several times in the past year as to whether British labor representatives should meet representatives of the German Majority Socialists at some neutral capital to discuss war questions. There is no doubt that a large majority of British workingmen are with the Americans on the main Issues.

Congress at Derby. annual trades union congress

The annual trades union congress, which represents a great majority of union men, will be held in Derby next week. Mr. Gompers and some of his colleagues are accredited to it as fraternal delegates. Mr. Gompers also will make a speech at the inter-allied labor conference which meets in Paris in September. The conference was called by the secretary of the French Labor Confederation to consider international problems, especially war questions.

EASILY COMFORTED

Amsterdam, Aug. 30.—Commenting on the German withdrawal, the Frankfort Zeitung finds comfort in the assurance that a shortened defence line will that a shortened defence line will require fewer reserves, but acknowledges that the retirement "means a painful setback." It declares that the surrender of Roye, which is a mere heap of ruins, was unimportant from a military point of view, and concludes: "Marshal Foch may again let the British and French, possibly also the American, divisions knock their heads against a brick wall. He will not, however, break through the German wall of defence on French soil. Neither will he throw it back over the Rhine. Our front holds firm." The Cologne Volks Zeitung says: "The mobility of German tactics quickly found fresh means of counteracting the enemy's perfected battering weapon—the tank." It then pays tribute to the German skill by which retreats are managed, "so adroitly that they are unobserved by the enemy."

"This Is Our Greatest Victory!"

Ottawa, Aug. 30 .- "This is our greatest victory"-the phrase occurs in a message which Lieut. General Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian corps in France, has sent to the prime minister in response to a telegram of congratulation. Sir Arthur Currie's message reads: "Your kind message of congratulation is greatly appreciated by myself and the forces under my command. To the splendid discipline and leadership, the indomitable courage, and morale, throughout the fighting force, and to the co-operatin of all services and the marked efficiency of all the staff, this, our greatest victory, is undoubtedly due. With such a combination I am confident that we shall be able in the future to accomplish even greater things toward the attainment of those principles for which we are fighting, and the establishment of a firm and lasting

> N. S. Vera Keene Went Overseas With No. 10 Stationary.

GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION

'I Wish You Could All See How Splendid the Boys Are!" She Declares.

"Oh, I wish you could all go over there to see how splendid the boys re!" It was with these words that Nursing Sister Vera Keene greeted the small army of relatives and friends who assembled at the G. T. R. station at 5:30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon to welcome her home after two years of overseas service.

Special interest is attached to the return of Miss Keene, for many people in the city and Western Ontario, outside her own immediate circle of acquaintances. Two years ago she left for overseas with the Western University Hospital Unit, (No. 10 Stationary), in command of Lieut-Col. Seaborn, and almost entirely recruited from Western Ontario families.

Everything Depends on Suc-

Weather Unfavorable.

The weather continues unfavorable for offensive operations, but despite heavy rains, the airmen are working in great numbers. The enemy is much rampered in his withdrawal, as the Allies are moving artiflery across the muddy and swampy country. The possibilities seem exceedingly good.

Everything depends on the success of Haig's operations north and south of the Scarpe, where the Hindenburg line is most vulnerable. The Somme offers a strong natural defence for the enemy and it is probable that he has constructed a good line behind it during the last week, but it will not serve him long if Haig drives far into his defences between Bapaume and Monchy.

Will Soon Be Revealed.

Will Soon Be Revealed.

That the Allies will recover all the territory they lost in March seems not too much to expect in the early future. Whether they can get behind the Hindenburg line and force a collapse of the whole German defensive system in the west will be known shortly.

General von Ardinne makes a rather frank admission in the Berliner Tageblatt, when he says that Ludendorff was guilty of underestimating the strength of Foch's reserves. He says the Germans thought that they had dealt the British and French such heavy blows that they could not recover during the present campaign, and that Berlin semi-official reports fostered this view. Will Soon Be Revealed.

Berlin semi-official reports fostered this view.

"It was based, however, on error," he says, "and it is good for us to admit as much. Acting on the principle of sparing precious German blood, our command decided to shorten the front. When, therefore, at home the loss of ground makes a particularly painful impression, anxiety should disappear in the realization that the measures which have been taken do not owe their origin to feeling of weakness, but are due to cool and deliberate calculation."

MILLION HUNS SLAIN IN WAR

Figures Given Out After Careful Study of Tables.

THOUSANDS CAPTURED

British Took Over 21,000 Germans Between August 21 and 26.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—It is estimated by experts here that the German losses in killed alone now reach a total of more than 2,000,-000, and probably approach 3,000,-000. These figues were given out after a study of tables of German and Allied losses, which have been published.

and Allied losses, which have been published.

The total captures by the Allies on the western front since July 18 now approach 120,000 prisoners and 2,000 guns. The British captured more than 21,000 prisoners between August 21 and 26, while the British total losses in the same period, including all killed, wounded and missing, were only slightly in excess of that figure. A considerable proportion of the British casualties are in the slightly wounded class.

The total captures by the British since August 8 exceed 47,000 officers and men, and the captured guns number nearly 600.

Foe Must Shorten Front.

British military observers say it is now clear that the Germans intend to retire to a shorter line on the western front, where they can obtain better defensive positions against the constantly repeated Entente Allied blows, and so that the enemy can economize his forces which has become an urgent man power.

Moreover, the moral effect of mecessity on account of his lessening man power.

Moreover, the moral effect of any kind of retirement has been proved to be very great on the German people and armies, and the enemy's present intention is apparently to make a stand on some line well west of the Hindenburg line, if possible.

The Germans are watching a very favorable line along the Ailette, Oise, Somme and Tortille, but it remains to be seen whether they will be permitted to make a stand there, or even carry out a retirement "according to plans," to this line without it being broken somewhere else by the eager Ailied forces.

where else by the eager Allied forces.

The most important obstacle to the German scheme at present is the recent British advance on both sides of the Scarpe, which is a serious flanking threat to the whole Hindenburg position. The British are almost in contact with the famous Drocourt-Queant "switch" running from Queant to Lille.

[Special to The Advertiser.] TORONTO, Aug. 29 .- H. H. Dewart, K.C., M.P.P., appeared before the board of control today urging a proper investigation of police action during the disturbances of August 22 and 23.

"The G. W. V. A. feel that an impartial investigation should be made," he said. "It would not be fair for the police board to make the probe, as they probably feel that they were the custodians of the police force."

Major A. T. Hunter said he did not appear on any personal grounds.

"The police, instead of protecting the population," he said, "inverted their discipline. It should be investigated by a body other than the police board, which I tell you frankly," said he, "is obsolete. I have no doubt they have a report available now. It should be an investigation before a county judge."

Controller McBride: "To ask this council to go over the heads of the police chief seems to me to be going a bit too far. If we do as the major wants we are liable for every bit of damage for which we say we are not liable."

WHY RUN-DOWN PALE EXHAUSTED WOMEN SHOULD TAKE IRON

"There can be no beautiful, healthy, roor-cheeked, a tead y nerved women without iron. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks—their charm and attractiveness depart. I always insist that my patients take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—(not metallic iron which often corrodes the stomach, and does more harm than good). Nuxated Iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard women in two weeks time in many cases. I have used it in my own practice with most surprising results."—Ferdinand King, M.D., well known New York Physician and medical author. If Hindenburg Line Breaks, Condition in the German Lines Will Recall the Spring Break-Up of a Northern River-Next Stage Will Be at German Frontier.

[BY FRANK H. SIMONDS.]

(Copyright, 1918, by the Tribune Association, New York.) NEW YORK, Aug. 29 .- Unless Ludendorff can in the next few days check the forward thrust of Horne and Byng between the old Somme battlefield and Lens, there is plain possibility that the present German defeat will increase in magnitude to the full measure of a supreme military disaster and develop into the decisive battle action of th

DEMANDS THE ARREST war.

The parallel in modern history is Leipsic. This defeat did not destroy Napoleon's army, but it did compel a retirement of the emperor to the limits of France, and was the prelude to that invasion of French soil which ended in the capture of Paris and the abdication of Napoleon.

It would be a mistake to expect the consequences of the present victory to equal those of Leipsic; we have as yet only the possibility, but it is a plain

Moreover, if the Germans are driven from the Hindenburg line the next campaign will begin at the German frontier; will begin by an invasion of Germany through Alsace and Lorraine, just as the campaign of 1814, begun with Bluecher's pass-age of the Rhine, saw its military crisis in the fighting in the Marne Valley, and came to Paris in the age of the Rhine, saw its military crisis in the fighting in the Marne Valley, and came to Paris in the early spring.

The thing that stands out now is not the recapture of ruined villages or the advance of miles, but the condition to which the German army is being reduced by its inability to get away from the consequences of the defeats of July is and August 8, and reorganize its strategy as well as its shattered divisions.

For three weeks, Ludendorff and Boehn, who is in immediate command, have foreseen a great withdrawal, a retreat to the Hindenburg line, but could they have made this retreat as the Hindenburg retreat of 1917 was made, they would have regained strategic freedom, liquidated the consequences of their failures and Foch's success, and, at the very least, been able to conduct a successful defensive, with local offensive details, until the end of the season.

Chance for Debacle.

It is still possible that with a little help from the weather Boehn may be able to halt his pursuers at the Hindenburg line for a brief time. He may be able to organize, accordingly, retreat beyond the Hindenburg line in his own fashion and at his own time. But it seems to me now inevitable that before the end of the fighting for this year the Germans will have to retire out of the Hindenburg line and to the frontier, and the pressible that the Allles will now

If this last happens we shall see something like the spectacle when finally the ice goes out of a northern river in spring—a break in the German lines from the Meuse to the Yser from Verdun to Ypres, recalling the spring phenomenon.

The trouble for Boehn is to the north and along the Scarpe. General Horne has begun to drive east toward Douai, Byng is pounding down the Arras-Cambrai road, and a short advance by either spells disaster and retreat for the Germans, a retreat which may prove as fatal to the kaiser as did Napoleon's retreat from Moscow. LORD SHAUGHNESSY'S TIMELY WARNING. ORD SHAUGHNESSY made a short reference. in his speech at the opening of the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, to the question of the nationalization of the railways of Canada, His reference contained a warning that should be heeded by the people of Canada. He is reported as follows:

"I don't want it to be understood that I am opposed to the nationalization of railways. When the people want it-we are a democracy-we must have it.

"But when the time comes for us to formulate a policy on that important matter, we should be very sure, or we may come a cropper."

The warning is in the last sentence, "We should be very sure, or we may come a cropper." A "cropper" is an expression used in England for "a fall." The railway problem in Canada is next in importance to the war. The true policy for Canada is public control, but not public owner ship. Lord Shaughnessy knows the dangers as well as any man in Canada, and when he tells the people, when they "formulate a policy on that important matter" to be very sure or they may have a fall, he knows whereof he speaks.

"A stream cannot rise higher than its lar and pampered and protected. source" and when the source of power is corrupt, every power flowing from it is in great danger. The wrongs that would flow from nationalization of railways, would destroy democratic government in Canada for a longer period than the war franchise act has, because there is evidence of an The official scorer of the great war must have awakening conscience regarding that act. Nationalization of railways in Canada would tie up the government of the country during the lifetime of everyone now living and their children yet unborn.

THE GRAVEDIGG.

D ICTURE a queer character in the form of a gravedigger. Perhaps such a gravedigger never existed, but let us imagine that he did. He is filled with a hatred for a certain other man, a man of some attainment and ability with many fast friends, who found himself forced to maintain a certain aloofness from the gravedigger because of the latter's ghoulish methods, glowering brows and the hands that twisted the longhandled shovel significantly as the other man

The gravedigger hated the man of parts so intensely that he could never get the matter off his mind. He always hoped for the day when he could dig the other man's grave. When he heard his enemy was sick he would hurry to a spot in his enemy was sick he would hurry to a spot in the graveyard and cut into the sod. He would lay the sod in orderly piles and scrape the shovel tions will realize the appropriateness with which clear of dirt for the digging and trimming and these lines are quoted: slicing of the pit for the man he hoped was going to die. Twice and thrice he prepared an adequate comfortable pocket in the soft earth for the form of the other one. When he had the grave all ready he would go to the cemetery gate and look around the corner. If a hearse came into sight he would hobble away, toward the grave. and emaciated from his gnawing hate, he stood wavering near the brink, watching the hearse. It came near, slowed for a moment, and then passed by. The man with the rancoring hatred for his fellow man stood faint from despair, swaying over the grave, then with a wild shrick, pitched into the hole he had dug for his enemy.

TEDDY POSSUM PUTS ON AIRS.

TEDDY POSSUM
Teddy Possum was taking a morning walk around Mirror Pond. And as he passed the Beaver's dam, Benny Mink exploded with laughter, and threw himself on the dam and rolled over and over, while he yelled with gasps of delight.

"What on earth is the matter with you, Benny Mink?" asked his chum. Sammy Muskrat. "Have you gone plumber crazy, or are you planning to go to an idiot asylum?"

And Benny Mink at last was able to pull himself together and stand up on his hind legs, and point the forefinger of his right hand to the passing form of Mr. Teddy Possum, Esquire.

"Well, what of it?" snapped out Sammy Muskrat. "Didn't you ever see that silly Teddy Possum before in your life? Can't a fellow walk on his hind legs and look like a boy, without your making a fool of yourself, and rolling all over the bank of Mirror Pond?"

But at last Benny Mink, holding both his sides with his hands to keep from bursting himself with laughter, blurted out: "Sammy Muskrat, get up on his rear legs to see the funny sight.

And then Sammy Muskrat exploded with his shrieks of laughter, and then Sammy Muskrat exploded with his shrieks of laughter, and then Sammy Muskrat exploded with his srickered Benny Mink. "May ha ha, he, he, he! Just look at Teddy's cane, will you! He carried a cane in his right hand a moment ago; and just now he held his cane in his sharp little teeth, while he was pulling on his new brown fur gloves!"

"And will you look at Teddy of the must have met with some accident. I have seen a hump-chest one! My, my, isn't he a dandy?"

And Sammy yelled: "But look at his hair! It is parted in the middle, and is as glossy as Jack Crow's new black silk hat. Why, he has spent hours washing and scrubbing himself with sand-soap."

"And he must have worn out his comb and brush, putting that fine polish on his furry suit. Why, he must have were of Mirror Pond!"

I have one girl 10 years, and she is the eldest, and four boys, so you see I have my hands full. My husband is just a workingman on a farm, but he is a real good husband and father—none better. That was a good recipe "Busy Mother" sent in for cucumber pickles. I have done mine like that for years and never had bad luck. We have been married eleven years, and always took The Advertiser, so it seems like one of us.

I wonder if there are any good knitters that read your page who would do me a favor. I would like to get in touch with a motherly woman who would knit me four pairs of children's mits for winter. I would pay her for her trouble, and it would mean a lot to me. They are so much warmer that prove "a good husband and father" to the ones you buy. WHEN You Want Daintiness, Fragrance and Economy Combined in "Velnor" Shampoo.

A. home-course in shampooing

A home-course in shampooing is made easy and very inexpensive by the introduction of Veinor, a new shampoo that is exquisitely dainty, charmingly packaged and remarkably effective. It is in concentrated powder form—surprisingly soft and fine. In this way it offers more of Nature's own ingredients than can be obtained in ordinary, old-style liquid preparations. From every angle Veinor is to be classed as the most modern of shampoos, science's newest addition to the ooos, science's newest addition to the oilet. It comes "measured out"—in a arton containing six individual sachets of Velnor powder, a convenience that of Velnor powder, a convenience that insures fresh, concentrated shampoo on each occasion and all-round economy. It produces a copious, creamy lather that thoroughly cleanses the hair and scalp. It washes out easily, leaving the hair, soft, wavy and fluffy, splendid to handle and dress. And it is delightfully cooling, refreshing and invigorating.

Velnor Shampoo is sold by most high-class drug stores and hair-dressers.—Advt.

AWAY WITH FEATURE RACE ON SOFT TRACK

Nearly Throws Race Away, However, When Jockey Gets Confident.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 30 .-George W. Loft's Papp, a keen rival of Sun Briar for the 2-year-old honors of Lieut. Hugh L. McCulloch Hit 1917, yesterday afternoon won his first race this year on a muddy track that suited the son of Peter Quince. The storm had caused so many scratches that little interest was taken in the feature event, with the result that the victory of Papp roused the greatest enthusiasm of the afternoon. Papp led without much apparent effort until well in the stretch, where Kaisay nearly threw the race away by showing too much confidence in his mount. As the boy eased Papp, Poacher came with a rush in the last sixteenth, and only the judges could tell that Papp's nose was in iront at the finish.

The Woodland Stock Farm's Slippery Elm, an equal favorite with Sasin for the Amsterdam selling stakes, galloped home a winner by eight lengths from Wyoming, with Sasin third.

There were only three starters in the Witton handiap, which Naturalist, a great mudder, won handily.

The Erighton Stables' Flags had his first chance to show that he coubl run in heavy going, and made good by winning the Renssaeler handicap at 6 furloops in another three-horse field.

The entry of Papp roused that the reasonable reserves hould be piled up for the organization to work on.

WOMEN'S GOLF HONORS NARROWED TO FINALS

Chicago, Aug. 30.—The struggle for the women's western golf champion-ship at Indian Hill Club was narrowed to the finalists today by contests between Miss E. Rosenthal, champion in 1915, and Mrs. C. O. Gillette of Ridge, and Miss Francis Hadfield of Milwaukee and Miss Corella Lukens of Edgewater. All four players have exhibited fine golf for the qualifying round. The winners of today's matches will contest the final round at 18 holes on Saturday.

School Days and Dowler's Store Are the Big Ideas Now! SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY MORNING

Every boy in the district will be on hand, and, of course, every boy wants new clothes for the event. On the thought of new clothes, the boy's mind instantly turns to Dowler's Big Store, where the "other fellow" who was so well dressed last year bought his suit. He knows that there is no store in the district like Dowler's for good clothes. He knows that he can get a dandy choice there—something that will fit him neatly, wear well and cost less, because the other fellow, whose dad or mother bought his there, told him all about it.

DOWLER'S, without a doubt, have the largest stock and the widest variety of boys' clothing in Western Ontario. We don't want you to take our word for it; we want you to come in and let us demonstrate to you.

HOUSEKEEPING IS A BUSINESS. ECONOMICAL COOKING IS A SCIENCE.

Our Consumers' League

BY ISABEL C. ARMSTRONG.

WHY DIANA IS DUBIOUS

AS TO THE AVERAGE PERSON MAKING POULTRY PAY.

Diana tells her own story as follows: "I live on a farm and I keep a flock of from 50 to 60 hens. For the last five years I have kept fairly accurate accounts of outlay and of income, and I have found that these about balance. "I am aware that the expressions "fairly accurate" and "about balance" urnish grounds for exception and for cavilling. Nevertheless, they stand, for they state the situation.

"You see, I am an "average" persons, and the above terms express the way he average person does business. "To secure a balance between expense and receipts scarcely constitutes business success; and yet I allege—and challenge disproof of the allegation—that the great majority of poultry keepers can show no better result than this. "I believe there is some money to be made out of poultry (not BIG money), and the reason I have failed to make it I ascribe to the following facts: "(a) I have been slow to learn the bed-rock principles of successful poultry-

"(b) I am not willing to devote as much of my time, attention and energy to it as is essential to monetary success. "(c) The market I have access to is not first-class (indeed, not even second-

With these confessions in mind it will be understood that I have little light upon the subject to impart, from myself. However, I have light, and because it is like that of the moon-reflected-it is by no means to be despised on that "The most lucid, comprehensive and convincing presentation of the subject, in brief form, that I have ever seen, is that set forth in The Country Gentleman under date of February 14, 1914, by H. Armstrong Roberts, under the title "The Real Money in Eggs." Mr. Roberts wrote from a four years' experience with a 2,000- hen rlant, and although the conditions are pre-war, the value of his compilation of facts and figures, of the thorough way in which he handles his subject, and of his deductions and generalities, is not in the least altered thereby.

A POULTRY CATECHISM.

"The following excerpts are from Mr. Roberts' article: 'The prospective poultryman's catechism runs somewhat in this fashion: 'Q.—Is there a living to be made from poultry?' A.—Yes, if you are conservative and have common-sense. 'Q.—Is there any money in eggs? A.—Yes; but it takes a live wire to

"'Q.-What can you make a year from each hen? A.-From one to two dollars. 'Q.-What does it cost to feed a hen a year? A .- One dollar and fifty-four

'Q.-How many eggs will a hen lay in a year? A.-Twelve dozen. "'Q .- What does it cost to produce a dozen eggs? My answer, based upon four years' experience with a 2,000-hen plant, is, 'twenty-one and two-third

"'One of my chief diversions,' derides Mr. Roberts, 'on long winter evenings, is to read the numerous 'systems' of so-called eminently successful poultrymen, and to note with sad reflection how much more lucrative their hens are than mine. Here (he says), are a few points that are apt to be kept in the back-

"'2. Depreciation in buildings and equipment. "3. Total value of labor, some of which is contributed by members of the ' Interest on investment.

poultryman's family, yet seldom considered as chargeable.'
"As to soil, climate and accessible market, Mr. Roberts was ideally situated, being one mile from a railway station that was 15 miles from Philadelphia and 75 miles from New York-the very finest markets. The average cost of food (pre-war), Mr. Roberts found to be $32 a ton, purchased in the open market, or $1.60 a hundred. The average yearly consumption of food (White Leghorns), was about 90 pounds, or $1.44 at above prices. Adding 10c for green stuff makes it $1.54. (This does not include labor)." His plant represented a $10,000 investment, but the value of the hens is not included in this estimate. "It is on this one point," he says, "that the visionary poultryman inflates his assets. For example: My 2,000 thoroughbred Leghorns, the best blood obtainable, are worth $5 apiece as breeders. As egg-producers they are worth $1.97 each. Their meat value, live weight, 31-3 pounds at 18c, is 60 cents each. There are the three appraisements. You may help yourself."

ing	"Here is the way he comes at estimating average cost of maintain hen one year:	ing a lay
	Five per cent interest on $10,000 investment is	1,200
	poultry plant Insurance, telephone, stationery, postage	200
	Total	$2,120

"On the basis of 2,000 layers, this works out at $1.06 a hen, as the items covering every expense, but the feed bill, $1.54 and $1.06; total cost of maintaining one laying hen a year comes to $2.60.

"'I have made no mention,' he says, 'of cost of hatchery, brooding and rearing and laying period; neither do I include value of hen as meat when her utility as a layer ceases. The one balances the other. . . . Nor have I mentioned cost of rearing male birds, they being self-sustaining by reason of their value

He ridicules the story, which is perpetually brought forward of the 200-egg

"Official statistics fix the national average of the American hen at something like 60 eggs. My average for the past four years is 144. One year it was 167, another year 121." (Variation accounted for by weather conditions.) "The average net price obtained throughout the year was 36 cents.

"With an average egg yield of 12 dozen at maintenance of $2.60, I find it costs 21 2-3c to produce one dozen eggs. At average net return of 36c, 141-3c is the profit derived from one dozen eggs; $1.72 per year, with 25c added as value of her by-product, droppings for fertilizer, makes $1.97 profit a hen a

"This was on the basis of an excellent wholesale and retail trade, by which he obtained top-notch prices.

"Now this hen-tale of Mr. Roberts is not a tale of averages. Mr. Roberts is not an average man. He is a highly efficient businessman, and no one need expect his results who does not put into the business his knowledge, energy and efficient business methods.

LABOR "THROWN IN."

"Whether the 'average' persons is capable of doing this I leave everyone to judge for himself. The reason that eggs have been sold on the Canadian market for such prices as have prevailed in past years, is owing in great part to the fact that the producers have neither known what was the cost of their production, nor have they been in a position (organized) to set the right cost if they had known. The producers have been in the main the women on the farms, and I have yet to meet a country woman who can tell me what it costs her to produce a dozen eggs.

"As a rule there is no account kept of the amount of feed, or its market value. The hens are fed out of the granary, that's all there is to it. labor, that is always thrown in. Many country women can tell closely what their receipts are. As I have said, I have yet to meet one who knows what the expense is. I have asked, I am sure, dozens of women during the last five years, and not one of them could tell. Cornered, they will edge away with some such remark as this: "Oh, well, if I didn't have the money from the butter and eggs, 1'd never see a dollar from one year's end to another. And I just think that that money is my part of the income of the farm.'

"I do not dispute that the money is due them. The point I am making is that they have absolutely no idea what it costs them to maintain heir poultry, and, therefore, what is the cost value of a dozen eggs. I venture to say, notwithstanding the opinion (founded upon lack of knowledge) of the average consumer, that the cost is very close to the price received!

"There is much more that could be said upon this subject, but I will not say it upon this occasion at least, because what I set out to do was to tell you why I am dublous as to the average person under average circumstances making poultry pay. Quod erat faciendum. DIANA.

OLD-FASHIONED DRIED CORN.

"There is one thing I must do before going back West, and that is, dry ome corn like mother used to do, to take with me. Corn out of the can has never tasted like that corn. We used to take our lunches to school, and the memory still clings to me of the dried corn heated up for the dinner for us children in the evening." It was a young matron from the prairie provinces who a few days ago thus recalled a simple, sure and inexpensive method of conserving corn for winter use. It isn't by any means a trick of the memory which endows that dried corn with the appetizing flavor. The mother in question had almost forgotten about drying corn, but daughter's mention of it recalled immediately the process and advantages of the system. She said: "I didn't even make a special occasion of boiling the corn for drying. When preparing it for a mean, instead of cooking just enough, I filled up the pot. I took all the ears that were left, and, using the bake board and a sharp knife, cut the corn off the con, and spread it on a pan. I dried it in a slow oven, leaving the door open to prevent browning or scorching. About twenty-four hours of such treatment was sufficient, then I put the corn in a bag, and hung it up in a dry place. The salt bags were excellent for corn containers. The dried corn must be soaked in water or milk for some hours before it is heated for the table."

The advantage of this method is obvious as a time-saver, labor-saver and economy of funds, in view of the high cost of glass and tin containers at the

A patient who was sent to me had drunk wood sicohol. The consequences to him were terrible. Instand of death his spinal cord became perforated and shrunken in places. He never recovered from the malady, which presented symptoms of multiple spinal sclerosis and syringonyelia.

Wood alcohol or Columbian spirits is a vicious poison which often causes blindness. It is also known chemically as nethyl alcohol, which adds to its camouflage, because grain alcohol is ethyl alcohol is ethyl alcohol. Thanks to American chemists, the poisonous nature of wood alcohol has a fever. Finally the stupor wore of wood alcohol has a fever. Finally the stupor wore of myod alcohol has a fever. Finally the stupor wore off and her life was saved, but she remained totally blind.

Practical Suggestions on Individual Ways to Help Win the War

= By ALBERT BARRETT SAYRES =

Here is something that teachers can do better than any other persons in the community—they can, by their vision of service, save the children from possible exploitation in war work, and give to them the right viewpoint of their place in the world struggle.

The great value of the enrollment of the children of the land under the banner of the Red Cross—that great and good organization points out in a recent letter—is not so much the making of garments and dressings, fine as this service is, as it is the education of all classes of children to work side by side in world service.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Canadian Press Dispatch from Reuter's.-A message from Reuter's correspondent at Britin a bitter struggle and advanced as features of yesterday's fighting was plincourt. To the east of Noyon we the clearing of Jigsaw wood, eastward of Monchy, by the Canadians. The Germans strongly resisted, but the mont and Morlincourt. We captured Canadians swept forward in grand style and by 3 o'clock in the after-"Between the Oise and the Aisne our noon, after beginning operations in troops crossed the Ailette river at sevnoon, after beginning operations in eral points north and south of Champs, wood. The Canadians claim to have One officer of the 214th Division was taken with his arms folded and one automatic in his hand. He said his men were hopeless poltroons, and squealed that they were not going to face the Canadians.

The Germans in many places are blowing up supplies. The British are now within two thousand yards of the Droucort-Queant line.

VON HINDENBURG WIRES THAT HE IS STILL ALIVE

LONDON, Aug. 29.-Field Marshal von Hindenburg, replying to a telegram recently sent to him by members of the Fatherland Party at Reichenburg, Bohemia, asking for some sign that he was alive, in order to end the rumors that he had died, is quoted in an Amsterdam dispatch to the Central News as saying: "I am as right as a trivet, and looking calmly to the future."

AUSTRIAN ATTACKS ARE AVERTED BY GUNFIRE

ROME, Aug. 29.—The Italian communication issued today follows:
"In the Concei Valley enemy attacks were averted by our fire. Advanced posts were driven back with losses. Prisoners were taken on the northern slopes of Altissim, and north of Col del Rosso hostile reconnoitering parties were dispersed."

Foe Disputing Ground Foot by Foot in Plateau North of Soissons - The French Army Met With Heavy Resistance Along Canal-du-Nord.

With the French Army in France, Aug. 29.—The Germans are making a supreme effort to maintain their positions on the plateau north of Soissons. They are throwing fresh troops against both the French and the Americans, and are disputing the ground foot by foot. After the unsuccessful enemy attempts a few days ago to retake the heights west of the Soissons, Couchyle-Chateau road, known as the Ormede-Monteccuve, prisoners taken by one three different divisions of infantry and two battalions of crack mountain troops.

The loss of this height and a further advance made it all the more necessary for the Germans to prevent the Allies from gaining ground on the plateau in the region of Juvigny, where are the last heights defending the valley of the Allette, where it runs eastward before turning southward

French Meet Resistance.

The French Mett Resistance to day along the line of the Somme and the Canal du Nord. The German opposition was particularly strong in the region of Nesles where it was necessary to have artillery to reduce some positions. To-night the villages of Rouy-le-Grand and Roy-le-Petit, east of Nesles, are in the hands of the French, while south along the canal they have Breuil, Roy-encourt and La Panneterie. North of Nesles, where Gen. Humbert's troops also are approaching the Somme, the Germans launched a counter-attack against Morchain without success. The Germans appear to be strongly reinforced by artillery along the Canal du Nord.

London Conservatory of Music Plans for Big Year—Scholarships, Medals and Prizes for Competition—Talented students To Be Brought Publicity. After the most successful year in its history, the London Conservatory of Music is planning for another large attendance during 1918-19.

The fall term opens Tuesday, September 3, and students are being asked to register as early as possible.

Among the features of the institution's work has been the bringing of talented students to the public's attention by means of specially-arranged recitals and concerts. This policy will be emphasized to a much larger extent during the coming year. To students desirous of following a musical career this means a great deal.

Proving itself a delight in every way, "The Vamp," the latest starring vehicle for dainty Enid Bennett, the famous Thomas H. C. Gardner Sullivan, is an interesting one. Nancy Lyons is a wardrobe girl with a musical show, and she has heard the chorus girls talk much about "vamps" and their success in life. She loves Robert Walsham, a settlement she done to girls and practices her vampirish arts upon him, with the result that they are wedded and two days later go to Ore Junction, Pa., where Walsham is to take charge of a community house.

Mr. Fleming, a German gp, and Phil Weil, his agent, seek to fouent a strike among the miners, but the plot falls after Nancy has wrung the secret of the proposed strike from Weil, by playing and their ground and Weil are arrested by secret service operatives, and Nancy is halled as the preserver of the community. There are numerous drematic situations in the development of the story, the whole story being relieved by much wholesome comedy.

To Pay $5,000 Damages.

It was announced at this 1 that an adjustment for repairs to buildings at Queen's Park had been made with the military authorities, who agreed to pay $5,000 for damages and repairs incurred during the occupation of the buildings by soldiers in training. In addition to this the Western Fair Association is in receipt of a $1,000 grant from the Government. om the Government.

The new subway under the race track

The new subway under the race track has been completed for the entrance of automobiles at a cost of $5,291. In addition to this repairs to the various buildings have been made, the cost amounting to $8,361. The ground and buildings were reported to be in excellent condition, everything being ready for the opening on September 9.

The directors yesterday were opposed to allowing any raffles for any purpose whatever on the grounds during fair week, and several requests for such enterprises were filed. The midway will be one of the greatest attractions this year, although the manager of these concessions wrote to the secretary informing him that he had experienced the greatest difficulty in procuring admittance to Canada for his company, on account of the strict regulations and draft laws.
