Repopulating Farms With Electricity

Here in the Province of Ontario a mighty campaign has been launched to solve the serious question of rural repopulation. The campaign is a cooperative effort of the various agricultural organizations with the objective of making farming a profitable and attractive vocation.

cost of the energy has been much higher than it has been to consumers in the towns and cities, it has still been found to be cheaper than the cheapest man power. When the distributing system has been extended to all the rural parts of Ontario, the cost will be greatly lowered and electricity will make farming an attractive vocation, not a repulsive job.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

FEBRUARY 19

Elisha and Naaman the Syrian, 2 Kings 5: 1-4, 9-14. Golden Text—Ps. 103: 2, 3.

Time—Revised Bible, C. 858 and 800.

brews was a ceremonial act. See Lev., ch. 14. Seven times. The priest was required to sprinkle the leper who was cured, seven times, Lev. 14: 7. V. 11 Naaman was wroth; (1) because he thought that Elisha was not worthy of the courtesy due to his high office in acting through an intermediary; (2) because, according to his own preconceptions, Elisha's method of cure was to be magical. V. 12. The words of a patriot who loved his own country almost to his undoing. Rivers of Damascus. The region of Damascus is watered by two rivers, the Abana with seven branches, one of which flows through the city, and the Pharpar, running nearly parallel to the Abana some miles to the south. The waters of these rivers, since they come from the melting snows of the Lebanons, are pure and sparkling in contrast to the turbid waters of Jordan. V. 13. Naaman showed his fine nature in allowing subordinates to re-arrange with him. Their appeal was in common sense. Try the simple counsel of the prophet. V. 14. Then went he. The Jewish people used to say that although God's hands were not always intelligent to man they were tests of obedience and faith. Naaman stood the test of obedience and faith. The flesh of a leper is covered with festering sores which become hard and caked. Naaman's skin became as healthy as a child's. He was clean. So loathsome a disease as leprosy that the leper was said to be "unclean."

Application.

Naaman a mighty general—but a leper. No responsibility attaches to him for this affliction. But the de-velopment of heart and character which an otherwise well equipped man must lament and repudiate. Kind of leprosy is within our grasp and is curable. The highest in the land require the same cleansing as the lowest. The leper is cleansed because it is of the Lord. Naaman was a general in the Syrian army. Men like Foch and Haig were generals in the Allied army and both are humble Christians, men who are helpless without the presence of the Divine. The simple unselfishness of the prophet. Naaman wanted to reward the prophet handsomely, but Elisha was not a trafficker in sacred things. And besides, he did not want the Syrian king to think that the favor of Israel's God could be bought and sold like sheep or oxen. In any event he declined the present which Naaman proffered him. The Christian attitude toward foreigners. In Canada we have many "foreign born." How shall we regard them? It is known that the attitude of the natives toward the newcomers who came to our shores twenty years ago had consequences in India which were alarming. On the other hand if we evangelize the Chinese who are in Canada, there is a fine chance for our Christian efforts will bear fruit in China itself. Take the example from southern Europe who are on our prairies. There is only one thing to do. We have invited them to come to Canada, and we must give them the best we have—a pure Christianity. We must serve them, not exploit them.

BRITISH POSITION ON TURK QUESTION

and That France Agree to Fundamental Principles

A despatch from Paris says:—When Lord Hardinge, the British Ambassador, saw Premier Poincare and delivered the British note on the Turkish treaty, he stated, the correspondent is authoritatively informed, two fundamental principles on which Great Britain demands agreement before it considers that there will be any use in having a conference of the allied nations on that subject. The first principle is that the allies must approach the question of a revision of the Turkish treaty from a standpoint that will be impartial in fact as well as theory. The second principle is that the allies must agree to present a joint, impartial program to the Greeks and Turks and then back it up with the full moral pressure of their united weight.

The first point was raised because the recent French note implied that Britain was taking a pro-Greek attitude, while France was impartial. Hardinge emphasized the assertion that the British have been far from pro-Greek and Greeks would be the first to admit it.

The second demand was partially occasioned by the French enquiry whether Britain was prepared to fight the Greeks if the latter refused to agree to the plans for revision of the treaty. The British countered by asking if France is prepared to fight Turkey under similar circumstances. The British say, however, there will be no occasion to fight either if the allies should agree on impartial terms and back them up.

The longer the Anglo-French dispute continues, the more convinced become certain well informed quarters here, that the Near East is becoming an increasingly serious bone of contention between the two countries, with France seeking to be known as the "Protector of the Moslems" for the sake of economic advantages.

There is, however, a greater significance to the Near Eastern dispute. The present tactics of the French have resulted in the suspension of the negotiations for an Anglo-French treaty or guarantee and until the former is settled to the satisfaction of Britain, the latter subject is unlikely to be taken up again.

Infantile Death Rate in World's Centres

ded by the Registrar-General. The infantile mortality per 1,000 is only 33. London's rate is 93. The highest in Great Britain is that of Wigan, an industrial town in Lancashire, 125. Berlin's rate is 146 while those of New York and Chicago are unofficially reported at 97 and 111. No city has such a record as Bombay, India, where, according to official figures, 630 babies out of every 1,000 die before they reach the age of 12 months.

Question Wisdom of His Offer

Lord Atholstan, of Montreal, who has offered £20,000 to the University graduate of any city who will discover a cure for cancer within the next five years. The wisdom of his offer is questioned by prominent English medical authorities, who declare that the best way to stimulate the discovery of a cure would be to assist institutions already carrying out laborious and expensive investigations.

PRINCESS FOREGOES HER ROYAL RANK

Right of Succession to British Throne Also Renounced by Princess Mary.

A despatch from London says:—By her marriage to Viscount Lascelles, Princess Mary renounces her royal rank and all claim forever to her right of succession to the British throne. This was learned on Thursday from a source intimately connected with court circles.

In the marriage contract which will be signed the day before the wedding by the King, Princess Mary, Earl Harewood and Viscount Lascelles, a clause has been inserted to this effect: While the possibilities of Princess Mary succeeding to the throne is remote, her children might do so, but the clause now makes such an event impossible.

Discovery of New Dyes

Two new dyes—one a beautiful blue, the other a shade of rose—have been isolated by Professor Mathland C. Boswell, of the University of Toronto, in his research laboratory. With five of his advanced students, the professor is now engaged, during such spare hours as he can muster, in investigating the most suitable conditions under which these new dyes can be applied to the various textile fibres. The professor states that the popular idea that Germany possesses "secrets" in regard to the production of dyes is a fallacy. German scientists have no such "secrets," though German manufacturers may have special processes by means of which they place dyes on the market at a specially low price. Professor Boswell is secretary of the School of Engineering Research of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering, University of Toronto, and has been engaged for some years past in research work on various dye problems. His latest discovery is just another illustration of the effect on the national life of the complex work of the provincial university.

If some men died and others did not, death would indeed be a most mortifying evil.

Lay Explorer to Rest in Antarctic

A despatch from London says:—The body of Sir Ernest Shackleton, which is now at Montevideo, Uruguay, will be taken back to South Georgia Island, to be buried there, according to the Daily Mail. This decision, the Mail attributes to Lady Shackleton's deference to what she believes would have been the explorer's wishes.

Shackleton left no instructions respecting his burial, but relatives and friends feel that it would accord with his desire to be laid at rest at the gate to the Antarctic.

Shackleton's grave, therefore, will probably be beside the English church at Gryvicken.

New Use for the Automobile Tire. In planning an attractive, but inexpensive garden, I found that there are many ways in which one can add to a garden's beauty and yet do so without any considerable cost. Several places in the garden I need discarded automobile tires to good advantage where circular beds were required. When filled with earth, they present the appearance of concrete basins. They last for years in such a capacity. Many a man can talk by the hour of capital and labor who has no personal acquaintance with either. They can conquer who believe they can.—Virgil.

Summerside, P.E.I.—The fish and shell-fishing industry has experienced an admirable activity during the past two months. Cracked salmon are being dispatched every few days to Boston, New York and other centres.

Charlottetown, P.E.I.—Civic revenue during the past year amounted to $250,000, according to the Treasurer's annual report. The health officer's report showed 236 deaths from all causes during 1921. Deaths from contagious diseases, including 22 from tuberculosis, numbered 27, a new low record.

Halifax, N.S.—Fifty-two and a half hours from City Island, N.Y., to her dock at Halifax, about five hundred and fifty miles, was the time made by the two-masted Newfoundland owned sailing vessel H. H. MacIntosh, in port with a cargo of coal. The time is considered good freight steamer time. The MacIntosh was built at Mahoney, N.S., about eight years ago.

Woodstock, N.B.—A company is being promoted in Woodstock to manufacture men's boots, shoe packs and other footwear here. It is said that there is strong capital available for the purpose.

Quebec, Que.—Royalties on the following pelts were paid to the Provincial Government during the past year, according to the Department of Lands and Forests: 58,118 beavers, 16,072 mink, 127,646 muskrat, 32,304 weasel, 3,502 white fox, 2,591 marten, 2,607 seals, 2,123 deer, 12 caribou, 32 elk, 444 ermine, 165 silver fox, 3,840 red fox, 1,471 marten, 133 badger, 978 bear and 40 white bear.

Montreal, Que.—A feature of the export livestock trade during the past two weeks has been the increased demand for live Canadian cattle from Belgium, and several large shipments of Canadian cattle have already gone forward via Boston and New York.

Ottawa, Ont.—All hogs marketed at public stockyards and abattoirs in Canada on and after May 1 will be sold according to official grading to be done by government officials, according to an announcement made by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. This policy is the outcome of a meeting of producers, packers and agricultural officers held at Ottawa last November. A minimum premium of ten per cent. will be recognized for select bacon hogs. Toronto, Ont.—With the completion of the Toronto-Kingston provincial highway this summer, it will be possible to make the run by automobile from Toronto to Ottawa in one day, according to A. L. Baldwin, resident government engineer, speaking before the Gananoque Board of Trade.

Winnipeg, Man.—A short distance program has been commenced for Winnipeg's winter carnival which commences on February 6th, to last for a week, and the seven days' revels comprise every form of winter sport. An ice wall six feet high and over half a mile in length has been built; ski-jumping, snowshoe marathons, dog-team races and tobogganing will feature the day, while at night fancy dress masquerade will hold sway and moccasin dancing on the ice in the bright illumination of electric lights.

Regina, Sask.—In the production of flaxseed in the Dominion, Saskatchewan led all other provinces with a yield of 3,500,000 bushels during 1921. Manitoba produced 540,000 bushels; Alberta, 155,000; Quebec, 97,500; and Ontario, 92,000. Very little flaxseed is any more grown in the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia.

Edmonton, Alta.—An important link of the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia railway was completed this year. It joins Peace River and Berwyn and already grain is being transported from a rich district.

Calgary, Alta.—Exports from this point to the United States were approximately cut in half in 1921 when compared with the previous year's record of goods leaving for across the border, amounting to $3,018,946. In comparison with $6,729,692. This decrease was due entirely to the effects of the emergency tariff. Included in the year's exports to the United States were 12,891 cattle, 1,976 sheep, 1,651,400 pounds oats, 1,651,400 bushels of wheat, 97,512 pounds butter, 26,189 sacks of flour, 925,625 hides and skins, 2,168,492 pounds meat and 2,736,692 feet of lumber.

Victoria, B.C.—The shipping manufacturers of British Columbia have formed a $600,000 company known as the British Columbia Shipbuilding and Shingle Manufacturing Company, with headquarters here. Other companies incorporated during the past week number seven, totalling $210,000 in capitalization.

New Westminster, B.C.—Members of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, which include ninety per cent. of the milk producers in the entire Fraser Valley, had a production of milk from their dairy herds during the recent month, that totalled 75,000,000 pounds. In addition one million pounds of butter were produced and a half million pounds of cheese.

Anox, B.C.—It is understood that the Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. is planning construction of a dam to cost $350,000. It will augment the present power supply and insure requirements for winter work.

Dominion House Meets on March Eighth

A despatch from Ottawa says:—Parliament will be summoned to meet on Wednesday, March 8, it was announced, following Thursday's meeting of the Cabinet Council, which lasted until after 7 o'clock in the evening. The first day's business will be limited to the election of a Speaker, while the formal opening, with the delivery of the speech from the throne, will take place on Thursday, the following day.

Keep Tab on Icebergs Along Atlantic Lanes

A despatch from Washington says:—In anticipation of the spring crop of icebergs along the North Atlantic steamer lanes, the United States Coast Guard cutter Seneca has been detailed for ice observation and patrol service, and will leave New York about February 5, proceeding to the Grand Banks of Newfoundland to locate the fields and positions of the icebergs. This patrol service is undertaken in accordance with the international convention for safety of life at sea adopted at London in 1914. The Seneca will keep in touch with the ice situation, make observations of the quantities of ice, extent and drift, and obtain all other information of value.

MOTORISTS PAY HEAVILY
Contributed Three Million Dollars Last Year

Ontario derived a revenue of $2,945,000 from motor vehicle registrations in 1921, as compared with $1,990,888 in 1920, an increase of nearly one million dollars, which was accounted for by an increase of approximately 30,000 in the number of vehicles registered. During the year 1922 it is expected that another increase of 30,000 in motor vehicle registrations will be made, so that the revenue derived from motor licenses should approximate $4,000,000 by the end of the year, or over a hundred per cent greater than in 1920.

These figures combat the frequently heard assertion that motorists as a class do not pay their just proportion of taxation. The fifth of a million, or quarter of a million of individuals who will contribute nearly four million dollars to the provincial coffers this year will be the heaviest contributors in many other forms of taxation, for naturally the car owning class includes nearly all the land owning peoples, the people with taxable incomes, with taxable businesses, etc. And the taxation levied upon motorists, as motorists, is not expended for their sole benefit. The bulk of it goes into the road construction work now being done by the provincial highway department, a work by which the entire community benefits, as has been established repeatedly by Hon. Mr. Biggs, when he felt called upon to defend the provincial highway system from allegations to the effect that it is intended for pleasure seeking motorists alone. At this very time, in fact, the provincial highways are probably being used more by vehicles which pay no license tax, the buggy and the cutter, than by vehicles which are taxed for the construction and maintenance.

The revenue derived from levies on motorists last year, and the uncontested promise of greater revenue this year, constitutes in the opinion of many motorists an excellent reason why there is no justification for the imposition of the contemplated cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline which is now being considered by the provincial legislature. Motorists feel that they are paying their full share of taxation and that there is no reason why they should be expected to pay more.

A YOUNG MAN'S WORTHY CAREER

The appointment of Mr. Murdock to a prominent portfolio in the Dominion Cabinet is another proof of the democratic spirit which obtains in this Canada of ours. Hon. Mr. Murdock's early career was that of the average Canadian boy. With only the ordinary advantages of education at his command he made the most of his opportunities as a youth. When a young man entering the activities of real life he started as a railway brakeman. By faithful service and keen interest in material things he won step by step to a high position in the railway men's union. During the war he was chosen for important service in the interests of the country, and he fulfilled his duties so effectively that the "big interests" found their way to him in danger. In his selection as Minister of Labor Premier King has shown wisdom and foresight. Mr. Murdock will make good. His career up to this point is worthy of emulation of Canadian boyhood. Mr. Murdock is a native of Kent County and the electors of Kent did the decent thing last week in giving the new minister his seat by acclamation.—Acton Free Press.

DIED BY BLOW ON HEAD

The coroner's jury inquiring into the death of John Munroe, a well-known Snydenham farmer near Owen Sound, who was found with a fractured skull in a dark passage in his barn on the afternoon of January 11 by Cecil Rawn, brought in a verdict that John Munroe came to his death by a blow on the head by some cause and in some way unknown to the jury. Munroe was found by Rawn, a boy of 17, during the afternoon. Crown Attorney Dyre, in summing up, drew attention to the suspicious circumstances, to the fact that Munroe was known to have considerable money on his person a few days ago but when found there was no money and to other suspicious circumstances.

HYDRO DEPUTATION TO TORONTO

As several times intimated in these columns the Hydro plans for this Saugeen district have been very much delayed and the municipalities have proposed uniting in an effort to have the Hydro Commission take action towards giving this part of the province a service at a reasonable rate in the near future. This proposition came to a head last week when Port Elgin Board of Trade decided to invite Southampton, Paisley, Walkerton and Tara to join Toronto in sending a deputation to Ontario to wait upon the Hydro Commission and urge immediate action. Reeve Forrester of Paisley, Reeve Lippert of Walkerton, Messrs H. H. Stevens and Dr. Powers of Port Elgin are members of the deputation which left for the city on Wednesday morning. On behalf of Paisley Reeve Forrester will favor a scheme that would give all these places power service, probably from one line, but in case there is going to be much further delay in carrying out such a plan, then he will urge the construction of the proposed line from Chesley to Paisley for the benefit of the residents of Paisley and the farmers of Elderslie.—Paisley Advocate.

YOU SHOULD BUY AT MILDMAY

In an editorial under the heading "You and Your Wife," the British Whig presented a series of cogent reasons why the people of its own town should do all their buying in Kingston. As these reasons are just as applicable to Mildmay and Mildmay folks as in Kingston, we reprint the Whig's editorial with the requisite alterations:—

Let's suppose you are a business man. You have something to sell. You do not think it is fair for your neighbors, who want what you have to sell, to send to distant cities for these things. And you are right. You know it pays to buy at home. Does your wife do all her buying in Mildmay? Does she help Mildmay business and therefore your business by buying what she needs in Mildmay?

Let's suppose you are an employed man. You know that employment is increased as the business of Mildmay is increased. If you and your wife buy in Mildmay everything both you and your children need, the tendency is to increase the business of Mildmay, and therefore to increase the number of employers who look for your services. Let's suppose you were a stockholder, office or employee of a bank. You know that the more money that is put into circulation in Mildmay the more money spent in Mildmay, the more business the banks will do. Do you and your family buy what you need in Mildmay?

Whatever you are, whether it be minister, doctor, lawyer, laboring man, clerk, investor, capitalist, it makes no difference. If your interest in Mildmay it is to your benefit in Mildmay. This is merely simple arithmetic. If we all buy out of town we have a half town. If one-tenth of us buy out of town, we lack ten per cent. of being the town we ought to be.

All of this comes with special force right at this time because this is the very time when doing your spending at home is most needed. A man or woman in Mildmay who thinks business conditions could be improved and then buys several hundred miles away that which could be just as well bought right here at home is not helping Mildmay at all. The money that could increase the circulation of money here, that could pump the life blood of business faster, is sent away and is gone for good. Spent here, it is turned over and over getting into many pockets making things easier for everybody. Spent away from home, it does no good for Mildmay, spent in Mildmay it does not stop its usefulness with that one spending.

Sometimes it is all uphill work to do one's level best.

There are two kinds of men that fail to understand women, married men and a gentlemanly O.S.W.-O.L.K.W. men and single ones.

LAKELET

Where is the prophet who said the last week of January would be rough? It is really amusing the faith many people have in weather prophets, almanac reports, etc. As if any being on the face of the earth could predict the weather we are to have 12 months hence. The weather of these days is to witness: roosting, crowing, geese gobbling, owls cooing, more like 1st of April. Yes some members of our family were this morning predicting stormy weather in April. Now what do you think of that?—We hear Jos. Heimbauer is going to get in the Wrightman phone. When it comes to cars and phones, Lakelet need not take a back seat with any burg of its size in Ontario. Now too, Hy. Huth is getting electric lights, having them installed in shop and house. Even Clifford will have to take a back seat.—Rev. Mr. Mann, formerly of Port Elgin, occupied the pulpit at Belmore and McIntosh last Sunday. He is a preacher of the old school, and gets right to the root of the matter. He has no charge at present, no doubt he was preaching for a call.—We had one nice Sunday in January, and there was a good turn out at church here.—There was a large crowd at the funeral of the late John Dane on Thursday afternoon. The Orange Order, of which he was a life long member, had charge of the remains. Rev. Mr. Quigley officiated at house and grave.—We notice that writers in some of the dailies attribute the scarcity of auction sales all over the country to the fact that farmers are more content with their lot and position than ever. We question if this is the cause. It is the deflation in prices that has put a damper on sales. While farms are still changing hands at fairly high prices, the market for live stock as compared with the past years is one third less or even more, and farmers are holding on looking for something better to turn up in the near future. However even to-day a farmer that has a sale and fits his stock for it, is getting very good prices. Very few things are being sacrificed.—Caudill and Horton's had big gangs on last week harvesting ice. The ice on the lake this year is great and there will be enough stored to keep the burg cool during the summer.—We hear that John Greenly bought the other farm west of Fulton's Mills the other day. Mr. Greenly has four sons all young men and they can handle the farm here and the Scott one too. We should think they got the farm at a reasonable figure.—Two "Wells" Jake and Fred come around every week gathering cream and for different factories. It certainly shows lack of co-operation among the farmers. The result is low trips for cream haulers and in the last analysis there is little or no difference in the amount realized by the farmers. We hear Mrs. Hooper's horse was got the cutler and occupants and sent away on Monday night while on the way to visit Mr. Arthur Hoopers. The animal ran no doubt at a smart clip, and getting weary of the job turned into the home of Mr. Jas. Cooper, 9th con. Minto, where it was looked after and word was sent round that it was there. Outside of a few minor scratches, there was no harm done.—We were pleased to hear Mr. Wrightman's voice over the phone this morning, after an absence there for some weeks. He is coming out this way in a day or two and then he will be fit for all kinds of work.—Mr. Charles Wright is rather poorly at the home of J. H. Dixon, son-in-law. Mr. Wright is advanced in years, but had been pretty hearty till he got a fall during the icy weather some weeks ago. The doctor was called to see him on Monday,—

THE MYSTERY OF THE GREEN RAY

By William Le Queux

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters.
The outbreak of war sends Ronald Ewart, a young London barrister, to the Highlands to say good-bye to his fiancée, Myra McLeod. On the train he meets an American who calls himself an American and a stranger in those parts, but later Ewart finds that he has built a hut on a cliff above the falls opposite General McLeod's lodge. While fishing in the river Myra is suddenly blinded by a flash of green light. Gen. McLeod tells Ewart of a strange experience at the same place, known as Chemist's Rock. Hilderman is very curious as to the cause of Myra's blindness. The famous London oculist holds out no hope and Ewart, after taking Myra home, brings Dr. Garnesk from Glasgow. In the meantime Sholto is also blinded, then chloroformed and stolen. Garnesk asserts his belief that Hilderman knew of Sholto's affliction. The next morning the two men find footprints and keel-marks on the beach, and the name-plate from the dog's collar.

Garnesk insisted that, much as he would like to stay, he felt bound to leave at once, but Myra was equally obstinate and, as was natural, being a woman, she won on a compromise. Garnesk agreed to stay over the weekend. I was very glad that Myra liked my new friend. She had been very shy of Overy, but she took an immediate fancy to the Glasgow specialist. She liked his voice, she told me afterwards, and on the second day of his visit she asked him if his sister was very much younger than he. Garnesk looked up in surprise.

"One of them is," he replied, "nearly twenty years. What made you guess it by the way you talk to me?" Myra declared confidently.

"The detective instinct seems to be in the air," I laughed. So when I borrowed Angus's ramshackle old cycle, and went into Glenelg along a road which is more noteworthy for its picturesque than its navigable qualities. I left Garnesk to his examination with the knowledge that he would do his utmost, and that she would help him all she could.

I wrote to Dennis: "I can meet you at Mallaig Monday morning. Wire reply.—Ronald." Then I sent a couple of picture postcards to Tommy and Jack, wishing them luck, and explaining that I had not returned to join them. Myra was ill. I was sure Dennis would appreciate the urgency of my message, but I worried it carefully, deliberately making it appear to be the answer to an inquiry for the reason that it is always wise to do as little as you can to stimulate local gossip. Anything like "Come at once; most urgent," despatched by one who was known to be a visitor at the lodge, would have set the entire country-side talking. So I jumped on to Angus's collection of old metal and jolted back again as fast as I could. Garnesk was still engaged with Myra, and I took the opportunity of a chat with her father.

"Would you care to see the discoveries we made this morning?" I asked, when I found him in the library. "Yes, I should indeed, my boy," he responded eagerly, and I think he was glad of the diversion. "I'll come with you now."

"There is one thing I want to say, sir, before we go any farther," he said. "What is it?" he asked, looking rather anxiously at me. "I want to tell you, I said, "that in the event of Myra not regaining her sight I should like your permission to marry her as soon as she herself wishes it. As you know, I have a small private income, which is sufficient for my needs in London, and would be more than I should require up here. If Myra is to be blind, I should like to marry her in order that I may always be able to take care of her, and I should propose to settle down somewhere near you. I dabble in contributory journalism, and I could extend that as far as possible, and I might even do pretty well at it. Both she and you would know then that, in the event of anything happening to you, she would be cared for by someone she loves."

"My dear Ronald," exclaimed the old man, affectionately laying a hand on my shoulder, "I'm very glad to hear you say that. As a matter of fact, whatever happens, I don't care how soon you marry my dear girl. She wants it with all her heart and I have always been fond of you myself. The only thing that has held me back up to now is the question of money, and, possibly, a little selfishness. I'm not a rich man, as you know, and if it were not for my pension, I couldn't even live in my father's house. But now my one desire is to see my poor little girl happy, and we'll scrape together a shilling or two somehow. Shake hands, my boy."

We both of us forgot all about the terrible war, and, naturally enough, the mysterious trouble which faced us then was sufficient for the moment. Having settled that question at last, I conducted the old man to the small cove where we had made our first discovery, but we began by visiting the coach-house. I daresay that to the trained eye there may have been valuable evidence lying under our very noses, but the only confused marks which we found on the surrounding ground suggested nothing to either of us. Later, on our way back to the house, from what we now called "the emerald-point," we came upon a spot where the heather had been cut off in fairly large quantities. The old man stood, and contemplated the stumps for a moment, and shook his head solemnly. It was not that he had any sentimental regret for the heather which grew on almost every inch of ground for hundreds of miles round, but he objected to the sign of visitors, as he would have said, "trippers." "Who would want to cut heather here?" I asked, for I could not see the slightest reason for gathering anything which could be obtained at your door wherever you lived in the Highlands. "Holiday-makers," he said ruefully. "They take rooms in the village, and get it into their heads that the heather in one spot is better than anything else for miles round, so they walk out to that spot, and cut some to take away with them when they go back home. I wish they'd always go back home and stop there."

When I showed the General the keel-marks in the cove and explained to him in detail how Garnesk had arrived at his conclusions, the old man was quite awed.

"For me soul, he must be thundering clever, thundering clever," he murmured. "But it's not healthy, you know, Ronald; in fact it's begad unhealthy. I've always been a bit scared of these people who see things that are not there. Still, I suppose it's the modern way; reading all these detective yarns and so on does it, no doubt."

He was still marvelling at this new mystery when we got back to the house to find Myra sitting on the verandah with the specialist, who was keeping her in fits of laughter with anecdotes of some of his wealthy women patients.

He sprang up as he saw us approaching, and ran down to meet us. "I'm certain of one thing," he said excitedly, as he walked between us, and answered the General's question. "We have got to solve the mystery, and she will see again. This is something new, but it has a very simple solution, which we must find out by hook or by crook. When I know how Miss McLeod lost her sight I shall very likely be able to find out how to restore it, and I shall also know something that perhaps no other oculist has ever dreamed of. There isn't the slightest sign of any organic disease, which probably means that Nature will assert herself, and she will eventually regain her sight naturally. But we mustn't wait for that. We've got to be up and doing. I tell you, sir, I wouldn't have missed this for anything. Have you missed this for anything? We've been exploring?"

"We've been having a look at those marks which meant so much to you and conveyed nothing whatever to me, although I was once considered something of a scout," the General admitted. "Did you find anything fresh?" "No, only some trippers, as the General calls them, had been cutting heather," I replied. "That's not likely to help us much," the oculist agreed. "Unless they were not trippers at all, and were cutting the heather as a blind. What were they like?" "Oh, we didn't see them. We only saw the results of their iconoclasm. The heather was recently cut, but not freshly, cut," I replied, and the old man glanced at me with some slight suspicion, as if he feared I, too, was about to take up the deduction business.

"Recent, but not fresh?" muttered Garnesk. "Now, why should a man who wanted — Good heavens! I've got it." "What are you dear people getting so excited about?" Myra asked, for by this time we had almost reached the verandah. "We'll tell you in a minute, dear," I called, and waited for Garnesk to explain. "Of course," he continued, as if thinking aloud, "it's obvious. The man came ashore in a small boat, picked some heather, and concealed it in his arms. Anyone who noticed him would have noticed his load of heather. Then he stole Sholto, concealed him under the heather, and was still apparently only carrying a bundle of innocent heather. Why! they seem to have thought of everything, and made no mistake."

"Except that the man was wandering about the countryside, gathering wild flowers, in his stocking-soles," I pointed out. "Still, it was almost dark, and he chanced that," said Garnesk. "What I don't understand about it is this," the General joined in: "Where did he come from to gather this heather? A man must know that if he is seen to come ashore and pick heather and get into his boat again he is doing a very curious thing. That boat can only have come from Knoydart of Skye at the farthest, and everybody knows you wouldn't take heather there."

"Yes, I'm afraid you're right, General," Garnesk admitted, with a sigh of regret, and I was compelled to agree with him. "I know where he came from, then." It was said so quietly that it started us all, though it was Myra who spoke. "There, then?" we all asked together. "He must have come from a yacht."

CHAPTER X

The Secret of the Rock.

We stood on the beach looking at each other, but no one had seen a yacht anchored or otherwise resting off the point the previous night. One or two yachts had been noticed passing the mouth of Loch Hourn during the evening, but they were mostly recognizable as belonging to residents in the neighbourhood, and in any case not one of them had been seen to drop the two men in a boat who were causing us so much anxiety. When Garnesk and I went up the river to the Chemist's Rock we were equally unsuccessful there.

"Look here," I said, "suppose you were to go blind, Mr. Garnesk? I can't allow you to run any risks of that sort. We have every reason to know that there is something gruesome and uncanny about this spot, and I should feel happier if you would keep at a safe distance."

"How about yourself?" he replied. "It's a personal affair with me." "You pointed out, 'but I can't let your kindness in assisting us as you are doing run the length of possible blindness.'"

"Nonsense, my dear fellow," he exclaimed; "we're in this together. I am just as keen to get to the bottom of this matter as you are. But it behoves us both to be careful. It is most important that you should take care of yourself at the present moment. What would happen to Miss McLeod if I carried you back to the house in a state of total blindness?"

"Oh, I shall be all right," I declared confidently. "But, of course, your point is a good one, and I shall not run any risks." "And yet you start by carrying up the river here when we have very excellent reasons for supposing that it is hardly the place to spend a quiet afternoon."

A Safeguard.

Mrs. Smith was astonished to find that the new cook, who had already shown more skill than the Smith household had known in many moons, was illiterate. "And so you can read, Mary?" said the mistress. "Gracious, how did you ever learn to cook so well?" "Shore, mam," replied Mary. "I lay it to no bein' able to read them cook-books."

How He Escaped.

After he had kissed her and pressed her rosy cheek against his, and patted her soft, round chin, she drew back, and asked: "George, do you save yourself?" "Yes," he replied. "I thought so," she said. "Your face is the roughest I ever— Then she stopped; but it was too late, and he went away with a cold, heavy lump at his heart.

Your Child's Reading.

One of the highest tasks imposed upon the schools is the development of a taste for good reading in the child. The study of the Bible in literature, including the Bible, is not only necessary to secure an education; it also develops a high moral sense. Whenever we study with a child a masterpiece in literature or a Bible story and arouse in him a desire to hear the same story re-read, we have stimulated in the child a desire for reading of the best kind.

An eminent educationist once said: "That school which results in a taste for good reading, however unsystematic the schooling may have been, has achieved the main end of elementary education." Many people live entirely without reading and they are the most difficult of all classes to get a comprehensive view of the great problems with which the masses are confronted. The desire for reading is most potent in the child between the age of seven and seventeen and it is then that the guidance received earlier in life shows results. It is a pitiful fact that we frequently find children in the grammar grades of our schools without the slightest knowledge of the sublime characters of the Bible, the world's greatest book.

The place of the Bible in education and in the home is well recognized, and schools and home churches are using it in their work. If the child's reading has been well directed, he will be eager to see the masterpieces of literature on the screen.

Not all persons can acquire an education in the schools. We can point out many successful men and women who were a failure in mathematics or science or history; but because their reading was wisely directed at a critical time, they became masters in their line. If we can develop a taste for good literature and good reading to the exclusion of the trashy, we have accomplished something worth while. Educators are fully agreed that one's success in life is more largely determined by the taste they have acquired for good reading than by any other single factor. The mother who takes a short time each day to develop and direct this taste in her child will have the satisfaction of knowing that she started him out wisely and well.

Many people have an idea that candied citron used in cakes, puddings, etc., is the same melon that grows in our gardens. This is not so. There are two different melons called "citron."

There are several varieties of common citron melon grown in Canada. The raw but is pickles and stores does not. It is grown in the region and is exported to other parts of the world.

In making preserves of citron melon grown here the melon is cut in strips, sliced and the seeds are removed. The strips are also one lemon sliced, to each 10 pounds of fruit. WATER HARD ON BABY

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels, and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The puppy had been punished and was sulking in a corner. To him came the small daughter of the house to administer, not comfort, but advice.
"You may just as well be good first as last, Spot," she administered.
"Everybody that belongs to mother all and I know."

After the Honeymoon.
"Well, well," he exclaimed, as he tackled her first meat pie, "where did you get this?"
"I made that out of Mrs. Shorter's cookery book," replied the young wife.
"It's a—"
"Ah!" he broke in. "This leathery part is the binding, I suppose?"

Scientific Proof.
One day a teacher was having a first grade class in physiology. She asked them if they knew that there was a burning fire in the body all the time. One little girl spoke up and said:

Here is another group of family which traces back to the Anglo-Saxon given name of "Amal," though it should be recognized in this connection that it preceded it and is now more or less of an evidence of its origin.

These family names are really the same word as our modern words pagan and peasant, and their evolution has been a peculiar and interesting one.

At a period before the Norman invasion of England the root word had the same meaning as our modern peasant; that is, a countryman as opposed to townsman. This was in the days when the early Normans first were introduced to Christianity. It happened among them as among many other nations, that Christianity made more rapid progress in the towns and more congested centres of population than it did in the outlying districts, a phenomenon undoubtedly largely due to problems of travel and communication.

But gradually the word pagan, denoting a countryman, came to denote, as well, one who refused to accept Christianity, and in the defiant stand of those who resisted the new religion was accepted as a term of honor to such an extent that they began to give it to their children as a given name. In the end, of course, Christianity triumphed, but the given name survived and remained popular, probably

One third of your life is allotted to sleep. Do you get your share?

The most important period in the process of applying nutrition to the repair of the body is while you are asleep. For the most favorable transformation of digested food into nerve and cell tissue, so doctors tell us, sleep is absolutely essential.

Is it any wonder that those who suffer from lack of proper sleep are weak, pale and lacking in energy or ambition?

One of the causes of insomnia is nerve-irritation from tea and coffee drinking. Tea and coffee both contain caffeine, which has a tendency to cause undue stimulation. The irritating effect of caffeine often results in insomnia, depression, and a weakened nervous system.

You can easily overcome these troubles by drinking Postum instead of tea or coffee. Postum is a delicious, satisfying cereal beverage, and it is absolutely free from caffeine, or any other harmful substance.

Ask your grocer for Postum. Drink this delicious, refreshing beverage for ten days. Then see if you do not feel better and more clear headed, and if you do not sleep better at night—as so many other people have proved for themselves.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

TORONTO WOMAN
GAINED 35 POUNDS

ONLY WEIGHED NINETY POUNDS WHEN SHE BEGAN TAKING TANLAC.

Was So Weak and Ill from Stomach Trouble Life Was a Burden.

"Tanlac has built me up from a mere frame weighing only ninety pounds to a strong woman weighing one hundred and twenty-five pounds, and my gratitude is unbounded," said Mrs. Lydia Pickup, 12 Ramsay Lane, Toronto, Ont.

"My stomach troubled me so much during the past three years that my life was a perfect burden. My appetite was gone entirely, gas would form and nearly set me wild with pain in the pit of my stomach. The gas nearly smothered me and my heart acted so queerly that it alarmed me. I could get scarcely any sleep and was tired and dull and so dizzy I could hardly stand up, and at times my head hurt like it would burst open. I lost weight until my clothes were entirely too large and I was so weak I could hardly move.

"One day I saw a statement about Tanlac and I determined to try it. I have now taken ten bottles in all and my appetite has come back. I eat anything I want and as much as I want at every meal without pain or any uncomfortable feeling afterwards. I do not have headaches or dizzy spells any more, I sleep soundly every night and get up feeling fine and strong in the morning."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

If Headachy, Bilious or Stomach is Bad, Take "Cascarets"

Get a 10-cent box now.

Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, everything that is sickening. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

INSTRUMENTS THAT MEASURE EARTHQUAKES.

If an earthquake takes place at the other side of the world, it writes its own record on the delicate instruments kept in the observatories in Britain, says a London magazine.

Next morning you will see in the papers that our instruments have recorded an earthquake of great violence which took place in South America. It may be days before news comes through by telegraph from the scene of the upheaval to confirm the instrument's message.

The seismograph, as the earthquake recorder is called, consists of a revolving drum and a tiny mirror. The latter is balanced so delicately that the slightest tremor of the earth's crust will set it dancing. The drum, which is turned by clockwork, is covered with a roll of sensitized photographic paper. The mirror focuses a little point of light, reflected from a brilliant lamp, on to the paper.

So long as nothing is happening the mirror remains at rest, and as the drum revolves a perfectly straight line is traced on the paper by the point of light. But as soon as a shock occurs the mirror is agitated and the line becomes a zigzag.

A stone thrown into a pond sets up ripples which reach the edge. An earthquake produces the same result, except that the ripples are formed in the earth's hard but slightly elastic crust.

Fortunately, serious earthquakes are rare, but hundreds of small shocks take place every day, and seismographs of the most delicate type record them all.

Every broken promise left behind becomes a broken bridge ahead.

What you can do to-morrow will depend on what you have done to-day.

UNION STOCK MARKETS TORONTO

Of the cattle receipts only about 1600 were offered for sale at the Union Stock Yards yesterday, the balance being billed through from Chicago for export to Great Britain. Trading showed some improvement for the opening market of the week and receipts were light enough to permit of an early clean-up. Endeavor was made by salesmen for the commission houses to secure higher prices when the market opened, but sales generally were at steady values. A renewal of the export buying, however, served to strengthen values slightly for heavy cattle, and kosher cows also moved a little higher.

The offering of cattle was a decidedly light one for the opening day of the week, but seemed to be heavy enough, and the improvement that was apparent was mostly in the activity. The offering of cattle was well cleaned up, with practically all the sales made before noon. One load of heavy steers brought $8.10 from one of the abattoirs, while the rest of the heavies brot from $7.50 to $8 for export. One sale made at $8.25 was the top. Values for butcher cattle were unchanged from the levels prevailing last week. The top for cows was $6.50, although only one sale was made at that price. Quite a few sales of choice heavy animals were made at $6, with the bulk from $4.50 to $5, with common ones from $2.50 to $3. Canner calves were weak, with some sales as low as $1.75. A few shortkeep feeders changed hands with the best bringing $6.75 per cwt.

The offering of sheep and lambs was a light one, and it contained about 200 lambs billed through to Buffalo. The offering contained some choice Western lambs, which had been fed on grain greenings at Fort William. One load of lambs sold at $12.75, with the rest from $10.50 to $12.

The veal trade held steady, with the best offerings moving from $12 to $12.50. A few tops sold as high as $14, and the demand was generally good. Packers were bidding $11.25 f.o.b. and $12 fed and watered for hogs, but most of the sales were made at an advance of 25c per cwt about steady with last week.
