VARIETIES.

WHAT IS A 'Snob'?—Thackeray, in one of his lectures, said there were not as many snobs in this country as in his, but there were some.

An eccentric individual in Gloucester, Massachusetts, has built a vessel, but having been informed, as he supposes, by the spirit of his deceased father, that he would not live six months after his vessel was launched, he immediately procured the assistance of several of his neighbors, loaded her on wheels, and with several yoke of oxen he was drawn into the river at low water, and placed upon blocks, where she remained till high water, when she was floated.

We know an honest blacksmith in this city who clears two dollars a day on an average, while one of his near neighbors is starving on his profession. A very mischievous little girl, who, a few years ago, could not read, is now officiating in the capacity of quartermaster general of a military music-grinder, while the other is foremost of an institution for teaching fools.

Contious Discovery.—The Corriere Mercantile of Genoa quotes a letter of the 15th ult., mentioning the discovery at Pompeii of three human skeletons, evidently belonging to one family, together with that of a dog. The skeletons in which they were found lead to the presumption that they were engaged in flight at the time of the eruption, but were overtaken by the lava, the dog refusing to leave his master. They had bags of gold and silver coin with them; one of the skeletons still displaying rings and ornaments, was that of a young girl, probably the daughter of the fugitives.

Mastbury's History.—The third volume of Mastbury's History, (according to a recent London letter in the New York Tribune) had appeared in a few weeks, the celebrated author having at last delivered his MS. to his publisher. His friends never believed that he would be able to finish it, as the extensive use of opium to which he had addicted, has destroyed his health.

The Cause of our Saviour.—The Journal de Bruxelles says, that the Pope has sent the Duke of Brabant a fragment of the wood of the manger which formed the cradle of our Saviour. When this precious relic was presented to his Royal Highness, he is said to have been much affected. He is now aged 18 years.

The Population of Ireland is diminishing.—The island once contained a population of 10,000,000; but now the number is 4,800,000. This porous people suffer much from the severity of the climate, and from leprosy diseases induced by the dirtiness of their habits, and the coarse, unwholesome food on which they subsist.

The Cause of our Saviour.—The Journal de Bruxelles says, that the Pope has sent the Duke of Brabant a fragment of the wood of the manger which formed the cradle of our Saviour.

How do you do, Mrs. Tane? Have you heard that story about Mrs. Lundy? "Why, no, I have not." "What is it?" "Oh, I promised to tell for the world. No, I must say, I'm afraid I've got out."

"Why, I never told to as long as I live, just as true as the words 'I'm out' come tell."

"Now you must say something about it, will you?" "I will never open my mouth about it, sacredly, I hope to die."

"Well, if you believe me, Mrs. Tane, I told me, last night, that Mrs. Tane's oldest daughter told Mrs. Tane, that she heard Mrs. Tane tell, that a miller told her that a surfer was out of his job."

CHERRY PECTORAL For the rapid cure of COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA AND CONSUMPTION.

Among the numerous discoveries which have been made in this generation to facilitate the business of life, it is difficult to find one more valuable than the discovery of the Cherry Pectoral.

Office of Transportation, Laurens R. R., S. C., Aug. 4, 1853. Dear Sir—My little son four years old has just recovered from a severe attack of malignant Scarlet Fever, his throat was rotten, and every person that visited him, pronounced him a dead child.
