As a Business Man

May we call your attention to the display of Typewriters, Typewriter Ribbons, Typewriter Paper, Filing Cabinets and office requirements generally that is now being made in our East Window? The prices shown on the tickets will show you that you can SAVE FROM $50.00 TO $75.00 on a Typewriter by buying from us. The Filing Cabinet shown is the new popular Unfile; the price is $30.00, and over $1,000.00 worth of them have been sold in the city within the past three months. The Typewriter Paper is the famous Invincible, the paper that gives universal satisfaction, and our prices are lower than those you pay when you import it yourself. The Ribbons also are the Invincible Brand—made by the makers of the Invincible T. W. Paper. We sell them at 60c. each, and we guarantee them. Ask us about a little device that will automatically remind you of all your engagements. Notes coming due, things you want to do, things you ought to do. Relieves the mind of every detail until the moment for action comes. The price is $1.75.

CHAPTER XVII.

"Oh, you would soon get over that," he assures her, with the utmost eagerness, "if you began with a quiet, steady horse, just at first, you know!"

Miss Dare laughs—a little, quiet, low, rippling laugh, which is, undoubtedly, very fascinating.

"I may as well tell you plainly, Mr. Wynne," she says, with soft boldness, "that I have never had a horse of any kind."

"But I will find you a mount, with pleasure, while you are in idleness," he says, quickly. "I am sure you would like it."

"I have no doubt; but I cannot take—I mean, I cannot give you so much trouble," she begins, hesitatingly.

"You might teach me to dance, you know," he says, with blundering boldness; "and then we should be quits."

"You will have plenty of opportunities," I say, turning round, "for Miss Dare is coming to stay here this week, and I will lend her a habit. Mine will fit her exactly."

Miss Dare thanks me; but her face is quite unmoved. If I did not know that she is pretty well versed in the ways of the world, I should say she is a complete innocent. As it is, I think I have set the ball fairly rolling. I leave them alone after this, and Loys asks me to sing. I look at Mrs. Brancepeth, with a smile, as I pass her, and it does my heart good to see how pleased she looks.

"What am I to sing?" I ask of the company, generally.

"You used to sing a pretty thing called 'Golden Hours,'" says Loys. "I should like to hear it, if you can remember it."

It is a sweet, and song—one I was marvelously fond of in the days when trouble was only a word which conveyed no real meaning to my mind. I sang it well then, but now I feel every word with a vividness which is keenest pain to me.

"An hour or two of dreamy talk Along the old gray garden walk: A stroll in that sweet hawthorn glade Where all our fondest vows were made; The deepening twilight soft and gray To shed around our homeward way The hallowing touch of 'Auld Lang Syne.'"

Would bring thy wandering heart to mine With all the faith of former years, With all the thronging hopes and fears."

Oh, how I feel it! How I long for the "Auld Lang Syne" which would give me back my love of three months ago! But, alas, the song continues, and tells that only tears are left, for in the closing verse the maiden wails:

"I would not know those hours again, To feel the waking sting of pain—I would not, if I could, restore The joys that end in 'Never more!'"

I am not like her; I want my brief dream of bliss over again; it seems to me now that I did not make enough of it. I suppose that is the case with everyone who has been shut out of Paradise, and has for the future only the dread "Never more!"

"Dear as remembered kisses after death!" sighs the poet. Ah, but it is not those we think of most! It is those that we have missed, or were too careless to give or take, and when it is too late there is only the sting of regret left. I long for my paradise with a passionate wildness which frightens me, for sometimes I think that it will turn my brain and take away my reason; perhaps I should be at peace then.

When I rise from the piano, I cannot help smiling a little at the startled faces of my hearers. I sit down by Loys, who puts her soft hand into mine.

"I wish, Audrey," she whispers, "that you would not let yourself be carried away like that. You frighten me. I wish I had not asked you to sing—it is not a song for a bride."

I laugh, for it will not do to let all these people see I was in earnest over it; but my mirth has the hard, un-mirthful ring which it has acquired of late. I must practice carefully to-morrow, that, when necessary, I may laugh better.

After this Edith Dare plays a rattling piece—to rouse us, all, as she says; and then our guests betake themselves away, en masse. I arrange with Miss Dare that she is to come on Thursday, and I ask Mr.

Wynne to dine with us that night. I feel that I am rather overstepping the bounds to ask even a single guest; but Theo is not an ordinary widow, and complains so very much of the dullness of her life just now that I am sure she will not mind.

When Adrian has seen the last guest away, he comes back and tells me I make "a grand hostess." The compliment does not please me, for I feel that is the chief thing he wants

When Adrian has seen the last guest away, he comes back and tells me I make "a grand hostess." The compliment does not please me, for I feel that is the chief thing he wants me for. However, he seems not to notice the silence with which I receive his remark, for he says:

"What were you and Wynne putting your heads together about all dinner time? If you don't take care, I shall be jealous." The idea is so utterly absurd that I burst out laughing; but he goes on: "Ah, you may laugh, but it's no light matter to have one's wife carrying on a hot flirtation with a fine, handsome man under one's very nose!"

"Yes, he is very handsome," I say, coolly. "I've asked him for Thursday."

"Upon my word," he ejaculates, "but you're a plucky young woman to own it, Lady Cabrera!"

Then I tell him the whole story, and conclude:

"Don't you think I'm a very benevolent person?"

"Yes; quite the fairy godmother," he laughs. "You'll have to take the colonel in hand yet."

"Ah, but I must find some one for him! And I don't know any more nice girls about here. I might ask one of the girls from Rest—they would soon make short work of him."

"Very well; it will be great fun to see it all."

"Then I'll write for one of them when Theo's gone," I say. "And, meantime, I must cultivate him as much as I can."

"Why?" queries my husband.

"Well, to accustom him to coming to the house, or else he'll take fright at the sight of a petticoat."

"Perhaps Theo will be too many for him," suggests my husband.

A wild wish rises to my heart that Theo may take it into her head to subdue this woman hater. Surely, the prospect of being a duchess will dazzle her, and Col. Cardyllon is handsome enough to attract any woman. I do not mention this to Adrian, for it does not seem decent to be thinking of her marrying again so soon; yet, for my part, I am so thoroughly anxious to be rid of her that I can hardly keep the idea to myself. If only I can bring it about! It seems to be my one chance of deliverance.

The Luttrells have always had the reputation of possessing their full allowance of brains, and I make up my mind that I will adopt a new plan toward Theo. I will be very sweet and sisterly, and utterly scout the idea of there being anything between her and Adrian.

I will show that in the matter of brain power I am not behind the others of my race. I am afraid I have as yet given evidence of very little cleverness; but for the future I will call up that which is lying latent, and secure happiness for myself and a duke for Theo. I am sure Theo ought to be very much obliged to me. "You look," laughs Adrian, "as if like Atlas, you had the weight of the whole world upon you."

"I was thinking something," I answer.

"That is what you say to me nine times out of every ten that I speak to you. What is it you are plotting?"

If you have any designs against the colonel—well, I pity him, that's all; for you look the very personification of resolute determination."

"I am very glad to hear it," I say. "Whatever is the mystery? Is it the colonel?"

"Perhaps," I answer, nodding my head sagely.

"But, my dear child," Adrian continues, in a bantering tone, "if you marry the chief off, just consider the poor wretch of an orderly officer sitting down to dinner quite alone every night!"

"It will save a great deal of money," I urge.

"Oh, yes! But, then, you will earn the everlasting, unyielding hatred of the unfortunate messman. Why, poor beggar, we shouldn't want a messman at all!"

But I am quite ready to risk that. Of course, I know Adrian is only teasing me when he says they will all be married. Still, there really are a great many married officers for one regiment—there is no denying that—and that is not very often the case where the colonel is a bachelor. The officers are so apt to follow his lead in everything—the cut of their coats, the length of their mustaches, the absence or presence of whiskers. Three or four young officers generally give one a pretty fair idea of the style of man the chief is.

As I think this, I suddenly remember that Col. Cardyllon has only had the regiment a few weeks, and, of course, Col. Seymour was married and had a large family. So that it was his example that accounts for their being so many Benedicts in the Cuirassiers. I am too much excited by my new plan to fall asleep. I lie awake for a long time, planning and arranging how I can best throw Col. Cardyllon and Theo together; and then I dream that Adrian has made a present of me to the colonel, and Theo stands by, laughing at my ravings!

A Fair Trial.

By RUTH CAMERON.

For many years a neighbor of mine had not been able to sleep after dawn unless she shut out the light by closing all the window blinds in her chamber.

There are five windows in this room, which means that shutting the blinds is quite a task. You know what a mountain even such a mole hill can look at night when you are very tired and want to crawl into bed without any preliminaries. Moreover, in hot weather closing the blinds shuts out much needed air.

Within the last two weeks my neighbor has done away with all this inconvenience. For she has found that by tying a black silk handkerchief over her eyes she can shut out the light just as effectively as by closing those five pairs of blinds.

Why hasn't she done this before?

That's just the point and raison d'etre of my tale. Again and again we have suggested it. Again and again a friend of hers who has used this method for years has urged her to try one of his handkerchiefs, and every time she has answered, "Oh no, that wouldn't do for me. I know I shouldn't like it, it would make me too hot."

Two weeks ago the window blinds were taken off in order to have the house painted. And being thus forced into it, she actually did try the handkerchief. Of course it took her a few days to get used to it, but fortunately circumstances forced her to give it a fair trial, and it emphatically made good.

How many opportunities are thrown away, how much happiness is lost, how much happiness is missed because people have this foolish habit of condemning anything which is new to them entirely without a trial.

We all believe in the theory of a fair trial, but many of us fail to live by it. Sometimes circumstances, as in this case, fairly force us into making such a trial and convert us willy nilly, but more often we go through life obstinately insisting, "I know I shouldn't like it." "That wouldn't help me." "It wouldn't do any good for me to try it," and so forth and so on.

The other day I spoke of a certain magazine to a high-brow neighbour of mine. "I don't like it," she said with the high-brow equivalent of a turned up nose. Investigation proved that she disliked the looks of the cover and had never read the magazine.

Another woman told me she disapproved of a certain author, and on my asking on which of his books she based that condemnation I found that she had read a single short story of his written ten years ago.

Such advance knowledge is always very expensive. It puts the man who possesses it hopelessly behind the man with an open mind, the man who does not condemn without a fair trial.

Fashions and Fads.

There are no plain skirts; when draperies are lacking, the skirts are two or three tiered.

A supple silk frock in deep blue is immensely improved by one of the outstanding Medici collars.

The odd little jackets of brilliant green, red, blue and orange-silk are ornamented with jet buttons.

Collars are almost obsolete, and sleeves, except in tailored frocks, usually just reach the elbow.

Fashionable combinations of colors are blue and ruby, beige and black, and rust red with dull blue.

Sunshades are brilliant in color, and some are elaborately trimmed with pleated frills or bands of puffing.

Hats of white straw are adorned with white tulle spiked with flowers, and some are trimmed with wreaths.

A most welcome change from the separate coat which binds the limbs is the jaunty coat which flares and ripples.

The white frock is suitable for all occasions, and each small girl should have several white frocks in her wardrobe.

More and more attractive are the topcoats designed to wear with permissible summer dresses. They are made in vivid shades.

White frocks trimmed with red are much in vogue; a very pretty combination is of white linen and carnation red collar de soie.

The enlarged kimono sleeve is noticed. It hangs in ample folds from the elbow, to be caught just below into a tightly fitted band.

Shoes and stockings are a complete study, and the fashionable French woman will change hers several times during the day.

A little black dress is made charming with a vaporous ruche of black-and-white tulle in three tiers, to set well out around the throat.

The collar and jabot will give the simplest frock of linen and gingham a touch of individuality. There are many pretty combinations in white and color.

For the morning waist, white crepe is a charming material. A bit of pink or blue embroidery on the collar and cuffs will add to the summer daintiness.

There are some new wash nets for blouses, which wash beautifully and are as practical as linen. They take little room, and are easily washed in a basin in the hotel.

With black gowns, the three-quarter length jacket of white satin, silk or moire is worn. These are in directoire style, with cutaway fronts and swallow-tail jackets.

A happy mixture is fashioned with the skirt and front of bodice in checked violet-and-white material, with collar, tie and sash of violet-satin ribbon. Long pleated violet redingote, with buttons to match. With this is worn a white hat with a tall violet ostrich feather.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks the sores have healed, and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is NOT WHITE as is most always the case in horse wounds.

Boastings.

I often think while swatting flies, that is neither safe or wise to boast of one's achievement; for fate may all our triumphs mock; so often loud and vaunting talk is followed by bereavement. It's very well to point with pride in manner modest, dignified—we all like admiration; to toot a horn in self-defense is excellent—there is no sense in self-depreciation. Urhah Heep and all his clan impart a pain to every man; we don't like folks too 'umble; nor do we like the ones who boast, who'd make themselves the reigning toast—we're glad to see them stumble. And stumble they are sure to do before their little trip is through their luck some day grows lery; the gods set traps for those who brag, who boast themselves and never flag until their jaws are weary. The boastful man, all chesty goes, a stream of bombast from him flows like water from the scupper; and people, slinging up his plight, remark, "It serves the blawed fool right," when he is on his uppers. If you'd have sympathy and cheer when days of stress and grief are here, we should be meek and modest; so let us be serene and wise, and saw our wood, and swat the flies, and from them knock the awdrist.

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years' Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratification felt by the writer of this letter.

Miss H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. B. water, "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my household with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

As some nervous prostration is found to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system, 15 cents a box, 4 for $2.50, all dealers or Edmondson, Bata & Co., Limited, Toronto.

R. N. Co's. Outing

The general meeting of the Reid N. Co's annual outing committee was held Tuesday night in the Ladies' Waiting Room at the Railway Station. Mr. A. D. Brown, president, presided.

Great enthusiasm prevailed, and the "Reid Company Day" is now an established feature of the railway. The Vice-President, informed the committee that the Company had given free transportation and would render every assistance in making a "howling" success. It was decided by the committee that the general scheme of the outing would be as follows: The outing to include all employees with families or friends, Locomotive works, marine, boiler and blacksmith shops, car shops, garage, electric light department, railway and clerks of general offices. The outing will be held at the Octagon on Saturday, August 23rd. A special train will leave the station at 9:30 a.m. and arrive at the Octagon about 10:45. On arrival at the grounds arrangements will be made for the day's programme. Dinner will be served at 12 o'clock. Afternoon sports to commence at 2:30. This includes the day's programme will be of special interest, and will include the "tots" to the oldest. Useful prizes will be presented for each event, and the children will be made as happy as the older folk. At 5 o'clock presentation of prizes will take place; 5:30 o'clock tea; 7 o'clock concert; 9 o'clock dancing till 12 o'clock; 9 o'clock Children's train leaves Octagon for town; 1 o'clock adults return to town. The Committee intend that the outing shall be a family day and are making every arrangement to provide for the safety and happiness of the children. Families will go on the basket party style, that is pack a basket of food and picnic articles. The committee will have big boilers on the field to supply hot water for the basket parties, so that there will be no necessity for lighting fires. For those who do not wish to join a basket party, arrangements have been made at the Octagon to supply a hot dinner and supper. The price of tickets will be 20c. single ticket for those who intend bringing their own food; and $2.00 single ticket for those who wish to get their meals supplied by the committee. Children under 15 years of age will go free. Tickets can be had from the officers and members of the Committee. The Committee want every employee with family or friends to participate in the outing so as to make it a complete success. E. G. Reid, Mr. Rioux, Mr. A. D. Brown, Mr. W. E. Ledley and Mr. J. E. Angel are taking great interest in the details of the outing and it will be "red letter day" for the employees. The following Committee was appointed and will be divided into sub-committees to handle the different events: J. W. Morris, D. Duff, N. Andrews, H. Ross, W. J. Kent, J. Noonan, R. Rodgers, E. Duff, A. Martin, Wm. Norris, C. Laine, Chas. Henderson, Wm. Watson, H. Shaw, E. O'Toole, Geo. Kirkland, E. Brown, Ed. Ellis, Chas. Pittman, T. Armstrong, Wm. Noseworthy, A. McTough, G. Slack, D. M. Duff.

The officers of the committee are: R. G. Reid, Honorary President; F. Rioux, Honorary Vice-President; A. D. Brown, President; W. E. Ledley, Vice-President; J. E. Angel, Ass. Vice-President; A. J. Mallin, Chairman; J. M. Darcy, Secretary; Wallace Ross, Treasurer; Chas. Bradley, Auditor.

Practically farmers may easily minimize the loss, due to a backward and cold season, by the judicious use of Sulphate of Ammonia as a fertilizer.

Sulphate of Ammonia contains over 20 per cent of nitrogen, and 24 per cent of Nitrate of Soda, and is therefore more than 25 per cent better than nitrate of soda as a means of quickening and increasing the growth of crops.

The use of Sulphate of Ammonia has increased enormously of late years and it is recognized to be the most valuable fertilizer obtainable. By its judicious use the production of root crops per acre may be doubled, and the growth of late crops stimulated.

We invite the attention of farmers to our special pamphlet on the best methods of using Sulphate, copies of which will be forwarded free to any address on application.

The price of Sulphate is moderate, and our terms are accommodating. ST. JOHN'S GAS LIGHTING COMPANY, House of Trade Building, St. John's, July 24.

New York Woman Robbed

Of $60,000 in Gems in Paris.

Paris, July 11.—Mrs. John F. Martin, of New York, widow of a banker, has been robbed of jewels worth $60,000. Mrs. Martin, who is stopping in a hotel in the Place Vendome, changed yesterday from the room she had been occupying, which overlooked a side street, to one overlooking the Place Vendome. She carried her suitcase baggage to her new apartment herself, and placed her jewels wrapped in a handkerchief, on the table. When she went to her room to dress for dinner they were gone. An exhaustive search was made but they were not found, and Mrs. Martin informed the police.

Mr. Guichard, Chief of the Paris Detective Department, said "that he had a clew, but regretted that a day had passed hence by, was notified. The list of prices paid for the jewels is as follows: A diamond ruby brooch, $5,000. A pearl necklace, $4,000. A small ring of pearls, $2,000.

Diamond earrings $5,000. A sapphire and diamond bracelet, $4,000.

A diamond bracelet, $250.

A diamond and ruby ring, $2,000. A marquise ring, $3,000. Three diamond rings, $7,500.

An nearly all the pieces were bought twenty years ago, the value of the stones had almost doubled. The loss is estimated at $60,000.

Hard Up Against It!

The most remarkable feature of the political situation is the intensity of the unpopularity of the Morris Government. No matter whether we look north or west, or in the city, the story is the same, the tide of political feeling is running like a mill race, with fierce intensity against the Morris Government. The scenes at Bonavista last December of the public exhibition of feeling against the Government, are being repeated daily on a scale more or less great, according to the population. The people are determined on a change of Government, and never before has the intensity of the feeling been greater or has it ever been given expression so frequently and so pronouncedly. We hear and obtain information constantly that a similar feeling prevails west, and that it is being given utterance to for instance in St. George's where an agitation is afoot to defeat Mr. Downey the Morris candidate. The characterization of Mr. Downey as a paid patriot and placeman by the Western Star and the agitation that is going on in that district show that many of the supporters of the People's Party are most anxious to undo the mischief they did four years ago, and are ready to do their part to defeat the Morris candidate and to help to turn out the Pacific Party Government. A similar undercurrent of feeling is agitating the minds of many of those who were most vehement in their support of the Morris Party in the city. A number of them are talking open revolt and are speaking of their readiness to line up in a fight to oust Sir Edward Morris in the fall. The latter is at his wit's end and what to do in Harbour Main. The talk now is to get two new men for that district. Sir Edward is hard up against it. There never was such a tide running against any Government as is running now. Daily the position of the Morris Government is becoming worse and by the fall little will be left of them when the tide has swept over them and driven them to the oblivion from which they should never have been allowed to emerge.

Yesterday the members of the Conception Bay British Society paid their annual visit to the city. Over a hundred people from Harbour Grace, accompanied by their band came by the noon train. On arrival they were met by a deputation from the N. B. Society and brought to the British Hall where a banquet was tendered the visitors followed by a dance which was continued until two o'clock this morning. Power's orchestra supplied the music. Most of the visitors return home by this evening's train, after an enjoyable visit.

Come, Let Us Reason.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In the evening Herald of the 19th inst. Mr. McGrath in his editorial headed "Come, Let Us Reason," says "We would ask the disinterested voter, the man who has no personal and private gain to expect to calmly think over all these things." Will Mr. McGrath first prove to us that he is a disinterested man and that he does not expect any personal and private gain by boosting Sir Edward Morris?

Yours truly,

500 Dress Robes
 at 1-3 off Regular Prices.

Owing to the recent unfavorable weather we are disposing of our entire stock of Summer Dress Robes at a GENUINE REDUCTION OF 1-3 OFF THE REGULAR PRICE of every garment.

This large stock includes Linens, Embroideries, Serges, Foulards and Silks, all of the latest cut and style and in all the usual stock sizes.

The Linens are in many dainty shades, piped with self or contrasting colors and trimmed with buttons. The Embroidered robes are a charming selection, they are beautifully modelled, the designs are exclusive, trimmed with exquisite insertion and lace, tucks, etc.

The Serges are modish and well-tailored, equally suited for town or country cool-weather wear. The Foulards and Silks, in stripes and other designs, are really lovely. Some have the new long shoulder effect and slightly raised waist-line, others have a mere suggestion of striking color, just enough to add distinction to the gowns; and all are this season's models.

Every woman is interested in a real bargain and these dainty gowns with their

Marshall Bros.

Dangerous Accident.

While Mr. Thos. Carnell, wheelwright with his wife, children and driver were coming out Topsail Road last night, they narrowly escaped being killed or seriously injured. A motor driven with great speed in the same direction caught the carriage and tried to pass it as it went up a declivity. The result was that the horse became frightened, bolted and overturned the whole outfit. But worse still was that the motorists drove on and left nothing behind to show who they were. Just the same, Mr. Carnell has the number of the motor and will summon the owner.

A Splendid Rescue.

Tuesday evening a little boy named John Healey, son of Mr. J. J. Healey, grocer, corner of Water Street and Hitchings' Street, fell into the water near the Long Bridge. It was going for seven o'clock and nobody was near at the time. The little companions of the child ran away and made no outcry. Mr. Edward Power came along as the boy lay face down in the water. Taking off his coat and boots he jumped overboard and caught the lad just as he was almost gone. The little boy was for a time very ill. Power's act was a brave one, and people who know of it say it was also performed under heroic conditions. It will be remembered that it was Mr. Power's humble home which was burnt out long ago. His son succumbed in the fire.

Gobelins is the name of the family who some three hundred years ago began to manufacture most exquisite tapestry in the Faubourg St. Marcel, Paris.

The works were closed down at the time of the French revolution, and though they have since been re-opened, the modern Gobelins is nothing like so valuable as that of two centuries ago.

A week or two ago a beautiful piece of old Gobelins was unearthed by a collector in a cottage in a French village. When he examined it he found, to his horror, that a large piece had been cut out with scissors, and evidently quite recently.

He made inquiries of the woman of the house, and she informed him that she had used the stuff to line a pair of knickerbockers for her little boy. This incident reminds one of the famous discovery of Magna Charta by Sir Robert Cotton. The shriveled parchment, the Charter of England's freedom, was saved by him from the scissors of a tailor. Struck by the great seals attached to the paper which the tailor was fashioning into a pattern, Sir Robert stopped the man and gave him fourpence for the document.

The oldest known manuscript of the Greek Testament was saved by the merest chance from being used to light a fire.

Visiting the convent at the foot of Mount Sinai, the Russian collector, Mischendorf saw a basket full of parchment leaves being carried to the kitchen to be used for lighting the fire. He stopped the monk, secured the leaves, and found that they were part of this valuable manuscript, which now lies among the Tsar's greatest treasures at St. Petersburg.

Treasures of infinite value remain for centuries in the hands of those who are entirely ignorant of their value. A lady was bicycling in Scotland last summer and happened to smash the hair attached to her spectacles. So she went into the solitary shop in the village and asked for any sort of chain.

The old woman produced a string of beads which, she said, were very old, and the lady paid 15s. for them. Ten days later when back in London, a jeweller offered her £500 for the necklace. The lady thought to herself that if £500 were offered, the string might be worth more. They were. They turned out to be the famous pearls of Mary Queen of Scots. They sold for £15,000.

Got The Boot.

He certainly looked a wreck. His arm was in a sling, and he was limping badly. Moreover, his nose was out of shape, and one of his eyes had been blackened.
Since he was proceeding towards an insurance office, one might have reasonably assumed that there was a good chance of his claim being paid.
"Yes, Mr. Davies," asked the courteous manager, "what is the exact nature of your claim?"
"I have fallen down a long flight of steps, and sustained damages that will disable me for months to come," replied he, "and I think it just that twelve pounds damages should be awarded me."
"Hm!" said the manager, fidgeting his gold chain. "I have had your case

When Officers Marry.

The birth of a son to the Hon. Mrs. Maurice Brett, formerly Miss Zena Dare, recalls the rule in Guards regiments that if an officer marries an actress he must either resign his commission or exchange into another corps. Thus, when Lord Esher's second son married Miss Dare he resigned from the Coldstream Guards, in which he was a lieutenant, and took a captaincy in the Reserve of Officers.

To Work Well be Lazy.

If you want to work well you must be lazy sometimes. To everyone of us who works hard there comes at times an intense desire to loaf, to be utterly lazy. As a rule, we fight against that desire, overcome it, and continue to work steadily. But we don't do good work.

It is best to have regular periods of laziness; for these periods have a wonderful effect upon one's working powers. Many big firms are now recognizing that fact, and only keep their business running five days a week. They find that they can get more work done by working from Monday to Friday, and having the whole of Saturday and Sunday free than by working from Monday till Saturday afternoon.

Take a tip from Nature. She doesn't work continuously, but lazes about at certain periods. During spring, she has a tremendous rush of work; in winter, however, she goes slow and rests herself ready for the next rush. A certain amount of laziness is as necessary for health as it is for doing good work. But you must control your laziness, for too much idleness has a much worse effect than too much work.

Building a Battleship.

Some interesting figures are given by Mr. Alexander Richardson, of "Engineering," regarding the number of man-hours required to build battleships in order to support the contention that two years is too short a period for the completion of the larger and more powerful ships of the present day.

The battleship of fifteen years ago, having a length of 300 ft. and a displacement tonnage of 12,500 tons, involved in the construction of the ship 5,273,368 man-hours; at fifty-two hours per week and fifty weeks per annum this required, for the hull alone, the employment for two years of over 2,000 workmen. The first Dreadnoughts required 5,483,863 man-hours, and the Iron Duke class of 580 ft. in length and 25,000 tons displacement, involved 7,200,000 man-hours, or about 2,800 men for two years. Only about 2,000 men can be engaged on a ship without getting in each other's way.

The corresponding figures for the construction of propelling machinery are equally interesting. The reciprocating engines of the battleships of fifteen years ago, of 13,500 horsepower, required 1,789,000 man-hours, while the turbine machinery of today of more than double the power, requires 1,850,000 man-hours. The small increase is explained by the fact that whereas in the case of reciprocating engines only some 55 per cent of the cost was for material, the remaining 45 per cent being for labor, the material for turbines, much of it machined ready to hand, notably the blades, absorbs 72 per cent of the total cost, leaving only 28 per cent for labor.

High Court for Five Shillings a Day.

The enormous costs of the Sackville will suit will not be appreciably swollen by the actual cost of trying the case.

While at least two of the leading counsel received 1,000 guineas each, with "refreshers" of 100 guineas a day, the services of the judge, registrar, judge's secretary and clerk and registrar's clerk, clerk of rules, and two ushers could be retained until further notice for £2—the fee paid on setting down the case. In this £1,000,000 will suit the court was engaged for eight full days with all officials, for 8s. per day. Stamp duties in the interlocutory proceedings amounted to about £30.

The Guards' rule, of course, is unofficial, but it is none the less binding, for when an officer joins a regiment he signs the mess rules and agrees to abide by them. Outside the Guards an officer may marry whom and when he pleases, but at one time marriage meant a fine to the mess fund. The amount varied with the rank of the "offender." Thus, a subaltern found "guilty of matrimony" usually had to pay £100 to the mess fund, but a major would be let off with £25.

The practice, however, is now officially forbidden. At the same time, there was something to be said for it. Many married officers in a regiment means increased expense to the bachelors who have to keep the mess going. We and America are the only great Powers that do not place any official restrictions on the marrying of army (and naval) officers. In all the Continental armies, and also in the Japanese forces, an officer, even of high rank, may not marry without the consent of the authorities, and if required must satisfy them as to the lady's character and social position.

In the German and Russian armies, a young officer desiring to marry must further show that he can afford to support a wife in becoming style. The French army has a similar rule, but it is not now usually enforced.

A Secret of the Peerage.

Glams Castle, the seat of the Earl of Strathmore, has a secret chamber, the members of the family have believed in for three centuries. That chamber holds the family secret, at which antiquaries, genealogists, historians, and amateur detectives have been vainly guessing for a century. The secret and the family fortunes hang together. It can, as stated, never be known to more than three men at a time. Those men are the Earl, his heir upon attaining the age of twenty-one, and the factor or steward of the estate. That secret is the best kept in history. Whatever the weird meaning, the burden of knowing it is never sought by the head of the family. When the present Earl was nearing manhood he begged his father to spare him knowledge of the secret, and Lord Glams, the heir of to-day, when he came of age eight years ago, was most reluctant to share the hated story.

COLIN CAMPBELL.

Ladies and Gentlemen!

PHILLIPS was right when he said, "With eyes and books the knowledge of the world is at your command. If your sight is failing, consult us at once. Properly fitted glasses overcome that trouble quickly—and at small cost. Can you afford to miss the good books, magazines, etc. on account of not having a pair of glasses? It is false economy to deprive yourself of that pleasure when it is so easily procured. Consult us to-day about your eyes. We manufacture every kind of an eyeglass made.

LONDON, July 23.
The European situation is most difficult and delicate, and calls for the utmost diplomatic tact to avoid a general war, as the result of the occupation by Turkey of Adrianople and Kirk-Kiliasch. While negotiations for an armistice are proceeding leisurely at Nish, the Greeks and Servians continue to push on. An official announcement at Constantinople that Turkish troops had re-occupied the citadel of Adrianople has created the worst possible impression in diplomatic circles. The Powers will immediately exchange views. Russia is understood to be ready to accept a mandate from Europe to compel Turkey to respect the Treaty of London, which the Ottomans are now treating up. British Cabinet meets to-day to consider Russian intervention. Premier Asquith's Birmingham speech is regarded as a warning to Turkey against the possible occupation of both sides of the Bosphorus by Russia. Austria has, thus far, held aloof. Should coercion be attempted by Russia without her consent, it is probable that she will seize the Sanjak of Novi Bazar.

MEXICO CITY, July 23.
The Japanese Minister to Mexico arrived to-day, and was met by 5,000 cheering Mexicans. The extraordinary cordiality of his reception evoked a speech which excited comment everywhere, and the American Charge d'Affaires telegraphed it to Washington, with his own deductions as to its purpose. The Minister's address was translated into Spanish by one of his own attaches. He intimated that a strong bond of sympathy existed between Mexico and Japan, both countries being in the midst of difficulties with the States. Mexicans generally take his speech to mean that Japan would be heart and soul with Mexico in the event of a clash with the States. Diplomats here aver that they can see no more significance in the Minister's remarks, than an indiscreet utterance brought on by the warmth of his reception. Reports have it that, as a result of the speech, newspapers are preparing anti-American editorials more inflammatory.

LONDON, July 23.
The Morning Post publishes a Constantinople telegram, via Vienna, asserting that after a long ministerial council it had been decided to declare war officially against Bulgaria, and that the Turkish army has been ordered not only to occupy Adrianople, but to cross the frontier as quickly as possible. According to telegrams from Belgrade, the Servian Government regards this as an attack on the whole Balkan League, and the cabinets at Belgrade, Athens and Cetinje are preparing to act accordingly.

SOPIA, July 23.
Serbia and Greece to-day agreed to a proposal that peace negotiations with Bulgaria should take place at Bucharest. An armistice is being arranged at Nish, and it is hoped will be concluded within a couple of days. Greece insists that the armistice agreement for peace negotiations shall be signed simultaneously. Roumania has refused Turkey's request to participate in the peace conference. The Powers have consented to these arrangements.

ROME, July 23.
Mutineers of the Swiss Guards at the Vatican have been given an ultimatum, rejecting their demands, and have received it with dissatisfaction. They were assembled in the inner court and notified by their commander that their memorial of Monday, in which they laid down terms, could not be accepted by the Holy See, as it was destructive of the principle of discipline. He added that those who could not submit to the present military rule were at liberty to return to their homes.

LONDON, July 23.
The Servians have occupied Belgoradichyk, north west of Sofia. Desultory firing continues along the Servian front. The Greeks, who are advancing northward, are meeting with stubborn resistance. The Bulgarian heavy artillery is fighting separate rear-guard actions. Both sides are reported to be losing heavily. Greeks claim to have captured strong Bulgarian positions on the heights stretching north of Petchova.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 23.
An official communication giving details of the re-occupation of Kirk Kiliasch, has been issued by the Ottoman Government to-day, with the object of counterbalancing Bulgarian allegations as to atrocities. It paints the scene as one of warm welcome, and says the emotion of the inhabitants was indescribable; flowers were showered from windows on the troops by women weeping from happiness.

LONDON, July 23.
The arrival of 1,500 southerners with guns from Nanking, suggests a possible attack on Shanghai arsenal. The Shanghai Municipal Council has frustrated attempts of the rebels to gain control of the Government banks and telegraphs. It is reported that the northerners gained a victory at Suchoufu, in Kiang Su province.

LONDON, July 23.
It is unofficially announced that the Canaught-Pile wedding will take place on October 25th, at Windsor or Sandringham, and that the Duke and Duchess of Canaught will return to Canada shortly after.

You Can't Do Without 'Em.

A good workman is lost without up-to-date appliances. Office work is hard work without such labour-saving devices as are provided by the Globe-Wernicke Co. Their sectional goods are the last word in perfection, and are the result of many years of specialising in these lines. Both their Book-Cases and Filing Cabinets are necessities in the homes as well as in the offices. Being made in many styles, their appearance as well as their low price, makes them attractive. In the Filing Cabinets all bodies are made of STEEL, and in this remarkable feature they excel over all other makes. What office is free from the danger of destruction of valuable papers by mice and rats? With Steel Files this is impossible. Mr. Stanley is right, and will remain in town until Saturday next, and will be pleased to explain the details of these almost unlimited combinations. Why not call on PERCIE JOHNSON and arrange for an interview.

Did Morris Do It?

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Just a few remarks how we are treated here by the present Government. To commence with we have a public road going to the fishing rooms. It is a hill and it is always carried away in winter time, but we always got money to fix it until those chaps got in power. It is like as if St. Brice's was cut off from all other parts of the district. There are one hundred fishermen going this road to their fishing places at all hours of the night and in danger of their lives; as the hill is eighty feet in height and if a man happened to stumble there is nothing for him only death. We had an old bridge hanging down right in the centre of the place 20 feet in height in the worst condition that ever was seen by any one. It must be pretty bad as when Capt. Bonia arrived he placed a watchman on it until he got it repaired next day. I hope Capt. Bonia will report those roads and bridges and never mind saving because so and so had charge of them.
I wonder what will Mr. Devereaux say to himself when he comes along and sees the state of the roads and bridges. Will he say it was Morris did it?
I thank you much for space. I remain
Yours sincerely,
A FISHERMAN.

Makes Hair Grow.

All drug stores sell SALVIA, and it is guaranteed to grow hair or money back.
The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.
If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot disappears.
The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.
And remember, it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that sprays the life that should go to the hair from the roots.
SALVIA is sold by first-class druggists under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, top falling hair and itching in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 50c. The word "SALVIA" on every bottle.

Highland Games.

The sports which were run off yesterday on St. George's Field by the Newfoundland Highlanders in cooperation with the St. Andrew's proved that the Highland Games, which were first introduced in former years, are revived and will, no doubt in future be looked upon as our principal athletic event. The fine weather, large attendance and close contests helped to make the event the brilliant success it was. Among those present were His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Davidson, Capt. Goodridge, A. D. C., Rev. J. S. Sutherland, Chairman of the Highlanders; Lt.-Col. Conroy and wife, Mrs. Dr. Paterson, Hon. James Barr, the Messrs. Snowling, May, Pills and Messrs. W. B. Grieve and J. Young Men Should Start An Investment Now

Do not think that it is necessary to have a considerable surplus before you can start investing. While this amount is accumulating uninvested sums will develop and the desired sum is a long time being reached.

Much the better plan is to invest small sums as you save them. Thus your holdings and dividends are steadily being increased and your savings have not slipped away unaccounted for.

And Start With Maritime Nail Pref'd Stock

Only one-quarter of the purchase price need be paid down and the balance in three payments each two months apart. We know of no more attractive industrial issue than this.

Dividends are 7 per cent. and Cumulative. The 50 per cent. Common Stock Bonus adds a further reason why a "start" should be made now. Ask our Halifax office for the special circular which tells how.

Knowing Outing

In celebration of the Golden Wedding of the Hon. George and Mrs. Knowling.

Hon. George and Mrs. Knowling, yesterday afternoon, entertained some 250 of the employees of the firm at Donovan's. The outing was to celebrate their Golden Wedding. The party left by the 2.30 train and on arriving at Donovan's found the hotel gay with bunting and flags. Shortly afterwards they proceeded to a hall in the neighborhood where sports were taken up, which occupied the whole evening and were much enjoyed by both participants and spectators. The bright sunshine and balmy air adding considerably to the inspiration of the scene. The events and winners were as follows:

Football Five—Central vs. East and West End Stores—Won by Central: J. Jepp, C. Jepp, W. Barnes, A. Andrews, W. LeGrow.
Wrestling—Wrest—Won by Pitts-ribbon and Notrail.
Football Five—Married vs. Single—Won by Married: P. Knowling, G. Knowling, E. Trenchard, E. Scarratt, E. White.
Junior Race—Won by A. Bishop.
Baseball—Central vs. East and West End Stores—Won by Central.
Football Five—Ladies' Central vs. East and West End Stores—Won by East and West End Stores.
Ladies' Walking Match—Won by Miss English.
Cigarette Race—Won by Mr. J. Kelly and Miss Hussey.
Football Five—Central vs. Expressmen—Won by Central.
Mr. and Mrs. Knowling were present throughout the field sports and enjoyed themselves as much as the youngest guest. As the evening drew to a close the party returned to Donovan's and found the tables bountifully spread with good things and the ceiling and walls nicely decorated.

MENT:

Lamb, Beef, Veal.
Tongue, Ham.
Salads and Pickles.
Bread, Tea-Buns, Cakes.
Cress, Fruit.
Tea, Coffee.

After all the guests had taken their leave, Mr. and Mrs. Knowling entered while Mr. Hurst played the Wedding March and the guests stood after the repeat a brief toast. The toast was taken up "The King proposed by Hon. Mr. Knowling; 'God Save the King'; and then Mr. Stevenson, the author of the evening's entertainment, and next in seniority to Mr. Burnham, who is now out of the city, proposed the toast of the evening, 'Mr. and Mrs. Knowling'. It appropriate language, Mr. Stevenson congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Knowling on the attainment of their Golden Wedding and the pleasure it gave him and those on whose behalf he spoke, to tender their felicitations to the happy couple. He wished their good fortune in passing the century of wedded happiness. Their married life was an example to all and it was well worth the attention. The employees had considered the occasion should not pass without the tendering of some token of the esteem in which they held the couple for the jubilarians. They had obtained a Loving Cup which he then asked Mrs. F. Burnham to present. After the toast had proceeded to do so, and expressed her regret at the absence of her husband who had been so long associated with Mr. and Mrs. Knowling in their business, she made the presentation. In responding Mr. Knowling was deeply affected and expressed for himself and his wife the value they placed in the unexpected gift, not for the intrinsic merit of the cup, but for the kindness of the giver. He represented. After supper the younger guests remained till midnight and enjoyed themselves dancing, while many of their seniors joined the 9 o'clock train for the city.

The committee in charge of the day's outing were: Messrs. P. Everett, G. Green, P. Paradies, Knowling, W. H. Knowling, George Knowling, C. Stevenson, P. H. Hutchings, J. Dempster, J. Valentine, W. C. H. B. J. Duff, W. G. King, J. Williams, E. Scarratt, W. Reeves.

Sports—W. Howell, J. Cumming, J. Jones, F. Scully, H. Peckham, J. White, J. Power.
Dancing—G. Cummin, F. Seymour, I. Peckham, G. Winsor.

ADDRESS

From Avalon Lodge, A.F. & A.M.
On Tuesday night, a deputation from Avalon Lodge, A.F. & A.M., called on Mr. Knowling at his residence and presented him with the address appended, to which he made a suitable reply.

To the Hon. Geo. Knowling, M.L.C.
Dear Sir and Brother,
On behalf of the Worthy Master, Officers and Members of Lodge Avalon, No. 776, we desire to tender to you and Mrs. Knowling our heartfelt congratulations on the occasion of the "Golden Anniversary" of your wedding day.

Though you have not of recent years taken an active interest in the Lodge, we are well aware that in the long ago you were an active Mason, and feel sure that though we are not often privileged to welcome you to our assemblies you are still an ardent supporter of our Craft.

You are now drawing near to completing a half century of continuous membership in our Lodge, and our hope is that you may be spared to celebrate this event.

With these congratulations permit us also to express the hope that you and Mrs. Knowling may be spared to each other for many years.

On behalf of Avalon Lodge, No. 776, I am, Sir, very truly,

Green Bay Solid.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—I see by the Plaindealer, the Bay Roberts Blade, as some of the people call it, and by the Trinity Enterprise that these people are very anxious to know where Sir Robert Bond is. Well sir, by the signs of the times, they will know in November and that to some of them it will come as a surprise, because the present Government's time is very short. If we had no other thing to go by, the fewness of Tories here is quite enough to tell one that Morris's Day is done, and these beelers are beginning to look and that you know is a bad sign for the Morris Party. The people here are only waiting for November to come to do their duty and put Sir Robert Bond back to power again. There is one thing that Green Bay can feel proud of and that is that they did not put this extravagant Government into power. They always look to the country in general and not to putting bay windows in private houses, giving $2,000 for two spars, and sending men around this bay hatching lobsters. I hear they have got 400 since they began in the spring. Dear sir, I would only hear some of these people here that helped to put this Government into power, it would make you look round and say in your mind that these people were never Tory, but such is the fact. Their eyes are now open.

Yours truly,

Cook's Cofectant is the enemy of all disease germs, and a disinfectant which may well find a place in every household especially just now when infectious diseases are so rife. A solution of Cofectant in water used freely will purify all premises and put them into a healthy state. Cofectant is a valuable preparation in the stable and makes a splendid soothing and antiseptic lotion, being useful in wounds, cuts, scratches, mud fever, broken knees, and as an insecticide. One thirty-five cent tin will make some twenty gallons of potent disinfecting solution. Cofectant is one of the most powerful disinfectants, and is non-poisonous.

ST. THOMAS'S PICNIC.—To-day the St. Thomas's Sunday School picnic is being held at Smithville which is nicely decorated. Hundreds of children, boys and girls, accompanied by their teachers and parents, were driven to the grounds this morning.

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., July 23.—Fifty persons were killed, a dozen mortally, in the Binghamton Clothing building. The victims were women. About 40 are now in a hospital. The building flames like a tinder box and a roaring furnace almost about 125 who were in the time are unaccounted for. Most are believed to be in ruins. It will take a night to clear the cellar, and will take a week to clear the upper floors. The building was a fine structure, resembling the Triangle Waist Company building, where 147 lives were lost. As there, it was started by the careless lighting of a cigarette butt or match, it had scarcely been discovered the lower floor under the roof had been completely destroyed. The first great blast was to burst from every part of the building. Upon the roof, the women and men were to get on the iron ladder. The flames were too quick for starting of the fire drill machine. In getting all the firemen, they may have been responsible of the loss of life; but those early on the scene say they did not materially affect. When the fire came to a telephone alarm, they get within 200 feet of the roof. The ends of the streams from were turned in vain. The more effect than spray. This may did, whilst the shrivelled and crumpled. Scarcely one survivor connected account. At first of fire had been regarded as call. When it was known a genuine fire, women fall dozen, and indescribable killed. Some men kept to shrivel, their best to rescue men. The fire escaped enough for all, and rushed for the windows. Big Fire. 50 Killed Many Others Injured.

Special to Evening Telegram. BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., July 23. Fifty persons were killed, many injured, a dozen mortally, in a fire at the Binghamton Clothing Company building. The victims were mostly women. About 40 are known to have escaped. The building burst into flames like a tinder box and became a roaring furnace almost at once. About 125 who were in the factory at the time are unaccounted for, and most are believed to be in the red hot ruins. It will take a night and a day to clear the cellar, and until then the whole truth be known. The outstanding fact of the catastrophe is its suddenness, resembling the "terrible" Triangle Waist company fire in New York, where 107 lives were lost. As there, it is believed that the fire was started by the careless throwing of a cigarette butt or match. The first puff had scarcely been discovered on the lower floor under the stairway before the fire leaped along the staircase on the elevator shaft and along the doors and ceiling. There was a roar, and from front and rear flames leaped forth clear across Wall Street, which the building fronted, withering smoke billowing from the roof and scorching buildings across an alley at the rear. No explosions were heard but the roar was plainly audible. After the first great blast, fire seemed to burst from every part of the building at once. Upon the fire escapes, girls, women and men were waiting to get on the iron ladders, but the flames were too quick for them. Slowly starting of the fire drill may have contributed to the holocaust; and delay in getting all the firemen to the scene may never be known, as the list of the employees in the Company's safe in the ruins. A rough estimate places the number in the building when the fire broke out at 111. Of these 6 dead have been identified; 15 are beyond recognition at the morgue; 7 are injured in hospital; 11 are reported by relatives as missing; 46, more or less injured, are known to be saved; 26 are unaccounted for. City officials estimate the deaths at from 50 to 60.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. Prospects for peace among the Balkan States are much improved. The King of Roumania is using his influence towards a general conciliation. Difficulties, however, is expected to arise through the extreme attitude of Greece in claiming possession of Kavala and Drama as well as Salonki. The Powers seem to have reached no decision as yet as to how to deal with Turkey. Lord Morley, of Blackburn, questioned on this subject in the Lords last night, deprecated public discussion on such a critical situation and practically repeated Premier Asquith's warning to Turkey. He said he was unable to state what action the Powers were prepared to take and added that British Government still desired to carry out the policy of supporting the Ottoman Government in a reorganization of its administration and finances.

PEKING, To-day. The Government professes to view the revolutionary movement in the South without alarm. The southern troops from Nanking, known as the Yuan Expedition have suffered fresh reverses, retreated from Suchow Fu and taken up a strong position at Linsh-wakwan, adjoining the Province of Anhwei, where Tien Tsin Nanking railway crosses the Hwai River and now await the arrival of the Canton Expedition, which is expected to land fifteen thousand troops at Pakow. The Government declares the navy will sink every ship engaged in transporting Canton expedition if ever it starts. President Yuan Shi Kai's firm determination on suppressing the rebellion is restoring confidence among wavering Chinese and has elicited the approval of all the legations with the exception of the Russian and Japanese. The Chinese protest in bitter terms that rebels are enabled to perfect plans through existence of a system of foreign settlement concessions. If the system did not exist rebellion would not have occurred.

LONDON, To-day. The fair name of the English Turf received a blow in a decision in a libel action brought by R. Woolen, a trainer, against Robert Stevier, editor of the sporting paper, winning Post. Woolen is one of the most prominent trainers in England and his two sons are jockeys in constant employ in the best stables. The winning Post charged that Woolen and other trainers and jockeys belonged to a ring which made enormous sums by betting, first entering into an agreement as to which horse was to win or lose, and by other methods. The jury gave Woolen one farthing damages. On the witness stand Woolen admitted that he had made his fortune by betting. He had often won 25 thousand dollars on a race. His son Frank amassed more than $150,000 in a few years of racing in England. Coming after the disqualification of Cragmour in the Derby by reason of the foul riding of a jockey, the case has created a widespread feeling that radical turf reforms are necessary.

SHANGHAI, To-day. The southern rebels, reported to number ten thousand strong, attacked Kiangnan Arsenal on Wednesday. The defenders, not exceeding two thousand were strongly entrenched, and assisted by the navy repelled three separate attacks, and also repelled them on Thursday morning. The Southerners being unable to gain any ground.

Obituary.

The death of Mr. William Moore took place very suddenly at the home of his son, No. 8, Brazill Square, at an early hour this morning. Mr. Moore had been at work yesterday, and had retired about nine o'clock in his usual good health. This morning when his daughter-in-law went to his room to call him, she found him dead death being due to heart failure. Deceased was 72 years of age, and was a native of Conception Bay. About four years ago he removed to this city where he has since resided. His family who survive him are William, Allan, Albert and George, all residing in the city. Mr. Moore was for many years a most earnest and faithful Christian, being a member of the Salvation Army, and was loved and respected by all who knew him. The funeral will take place on Saturday and the body will be taken to the Citadel, where a service will be held at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the S. A. Cemetery, Blackmarsh Road.

The Police Court.

An assault case in which a number of residents, male and female, of the Battery, figured, occupied the attention of the Court all this forenoon. After the evidence of a number of witnesses was taken two of the defendants were ordered to give bonds for their future good behaviour. Three young ladies, who were charged with taking flowers out of Bowring Park, were fined $1 and costs each.

The Frock Coat

The frock coat is a long, stiff-lined badge of respectability which can be worn with much success in place of real plety. There is nothing that will allow a man to qualify as a member of the church in a social standing quicker than a double breasted frock coat held slightly ajar so as to permit a diamond shirt stud to peep shyly forth in one suspended, two-carat peep.

The frock-coat is an English invention and is usually spoken of in the society column as the Prince Albert. It was discovered by Prince Albert of Wales and brought to this country at a time when the rude and unlettered American citizen had nothing to wear to church except the narrow-hipped cutaway and an air of conscious recalcitrance. When the American people saw the frock coat and realized its possibilities in selling stock to pillars of the church they adopted it as the national dress for all occasions where polish would answer just as well as the homely virtues.

Of late years there has been a tendency to lay aside the frock coat in moth balls and replace it with the two piece suit, particularly in warm weather. This has resulted in giving the subscription book agent a virtual monopoly of his chaste garment, through which he perpetuates with considerable eloquence while trying to hook somebody for a de luxe edition of Balzac which has not been diluted by the translator. Even the clergy leave their frock coats at home and appear in the pulpit in the flannel shirtwaist and sea-green suspenders.

However, the frock coat is still used to quite an extent at morning weddings. The greatest crime which a man can perpetrate against society is to sit down at a wedding breakfast in cloth slippers and a sack coat, when there are people all around him in frock coats and striped trousers. After a guest has committed a 500-horsepower solecism like this once, he will be lucky if he is invited to attend the annual picnic of the cemetery association.

J. P. Morgan's Story.

To illustrate Yankee persistency, J. Pierpont Morgan used to tell the following story:—

"A New England Yankee who was a prisoner on a pirate ship," said Mr. Morgan, "in the good old days when pirates roamed the seas, became, because of his Yankee attributes, objectionable to his captors. He was finally decided to maroon him on a desert island, with but little food and a coffin to remind him of his inevitable fate. The island was found and the New Englander and coffin were left alone on the beach while the pirate ship sailed away.

"For several days she sailed and then became becalmed. For three days she lay there with not a breath of air. On the evening of the third day a black speck was noticed on the horizon. It steadily grew larger, and soon was close enough for the men on the ship to make out what it was.

The man of millions paused for an instant, and then said, smilingly: "It was the Yankee in his coffin, with half of the lid in either hand rowing for home."

A Good Salesman.

A short time ago, a young man was about to purchase a barrel of apples at the establishment of a produce dealer. They appeared to be good ones, but an old farmer standing by whispered to him to look in the middle of the barrel. This the would-be purchaser did, and found that with the exception of a layer at each end the apples were small and inferior.

"I'm much obliged," he remarked, turning to the old farmer.

"I've got some nice ones on my wagon, I just brought in," the old fellow ventured diffidently.

"I'll take a barrel from you, then," the man said, paying him the price and giving his address for the delivery.

"By the way," a bystander asked the farmer, as the purchaser walked away, "how did you know those apples in the centre of the barrel were no good?"

A twinkle came into the old codger's eye.

"Oh, that was one of my barrels," he said.

Mr. Blackburn Dead.

Yesterday a cablegram was received from Liverpool announcing the death of Mr. Blackburn, father of Mr. C. Blackburn, Brazilian Consul. Deceased was well known here, had many friends and for a number of years was prominently identified with the fish interests of Newfoundland.

Fix the Road.

The turn of the road at the eastern corner of Kenna's Hill and Quidi Vid Road on the north side, is too steep. Automobiles and horses turn there daily and if any children are in the way it is difficult to prevent accident. The Council should see to the matter and have the road made wider.

Sunday School Outing.

The children of George Street Sunday School with their friends and teachers numbering fully 900 had their annual treat at Mount Pearl yesterday. They were ideally fine, the children and their friends had a most enjoyable time. To see such a crowd of happy, beaming young children enjoying the sunshine and beauties of nature, which in the summer season in this section are so evident, was in itself a pleasure to the spectator. They were served with the very best that could be afforded and such healthy youngsters get away with a remarkable quantity of sea-cake etc. The happy little people returned to town by train and made the welkin ring with their joyous shouts. The school and the principals in the affair are to be congratulated.

Well-Known Draper Passed Away.

In the death of Mr. Richard Pope, which occurred Tuesday, not alone has a well known man about town been removed from our midst but a good and kindly citizen. Mr. Pope was a son of the late Wm. Pope, once a scion of the well known Papes the blacksmiths of the West End. Mr. Pope was a draper and was successful at Baird's, Papes and Marshall Brothers. He was one of the good old-timers that it was a pleasure to converse with and was married to Miss Barnes. His brother is Mr. Walter Pope, well known in the West End, and a sister living abroad with several children survive him. Mr. Pope is a cousin of the Messrs. Pope, the well known furniture men of George Street, and a relative of Messrs. Thomas Pope, blacksmiths and Matthew Pope, engineer, also of Mrs. T. D. Carey, of Mr. Carey, of the Telegram staff. To the friends of the deceased the Telegram extends its condolence.

Rossley Star Theatre.

There was a fair house last night at Rossley's despite the fact that thousands were enjoying the beautiful night. There is a good show tonight. A classy little vaudeville act and four splendid pictures: The Crossing With Napoleon, is a fine military picture. The Baby Contest is a scream. The New Teacher, a dainty piece of acting by the best in the business, and the children in the attic, showing how some mischievous children, nearly meet their death and are only prevented by the intelligence of a faithful dog—a great lesson for young and old.

A Sad Accident.

A little girl named Morgan, of Kelligrews, met her death in a very sad manner a few days ago. While playing about in the rear of her house in the back porch she fell into a tub of water there, and as no one was about she quickly smothered. The child was less than two years old and the parents, who found her, are much affected over the sad happening.
