CHAPTER VII.

At which point he offered to Mrs. Alwyn the opinion she had been awaiting with profound impatience.

They were sitting, these two, discussing afternoon tea under the shade of a splendid lime upon the square of lawn which, bordered by a tall hedge of yew, parted The Dale from the dusty high road. With judicial gravity, and a silence betokening something important at hand, the major had stirred his beverage, melted an extra lump of sugar, watched the small seething collection of bubbles thereupon gather and disperse and imbibed the contents of his cup; after which, setting it down, folding his arms and crossing his legs, he said, very deliberately—for hasty speech or manner would, he conceived, be derogatory to Rupert and himself—

"Well, Helen, do you know, on the whole, I'm inclined to think that arrangement you mentioned in your letter to me a very sensible one; taking one thing with another, I might almost say a desirable one. If the young folks find it to their mind, I really may as well say at once I shan't stand in their way."

Mrs. Alwyn felt as though, this first step gained, the rest would surely follow in its train. With a smile intended to convey the gratification of a mother and the gratitude of a sister-in-law, she answered,

"Now, how very good that is of you, Alfred! But I knew that, though even you can not tell the wear and tear of nerves brought about by constantly dwelling on two daughters' futures, yet I was sure you would enter into my cares. I was positive you would see no indiscretion in my writing as I did; that you would help me if you could. Thank you," laying her hand effusively upon his arm. "Oh, thank you so very much!"

"Well, there," said the gallant major scarcely at ease under such a gush of affectionate eloquence; "let's wait and see what you have to be thankful for first. You must bear in mind I can't force Rupert's inclinations any more than you can force Miss Sydney's."

"What, the people of Oakleigh Place? The earl's family you were speaking about yesterday? You surely don't mean my niece is going to marry one of them?"

"Gently, my dear major. We must not speak, or even think, positively about it. Only I felt I must admit you to my confidence thus far. It's the second son; the Hon. Edward Duvesne—honorable and reverend, for he is rector of Oakleigh too. It's the family living—eight hundred a year. So no doubt he was put in the Church on purpose to get it."

"I shouldn't have thought an earl's second son would have needed that," commented the major. "I thought the Comynghams were a wealthy family."

Radway's Ready Relief

NEURALGIA

The Relief of the best counter-irritant known, and therefore, the best analgesic that can be used in Neuralgia. Rub it on the part affected, and soon the pain ceases. It acts like a charm for sore throat. I used it with great benefit for several ailments my children have had, and recommended it to my friends.

Mrs. L. Dittmar, 710 E. 145th St., New York City, writes: "I caught a cold. I used one bottle of your Radway's Ready Relief with wonderful results. I have also found it acts like a charm for sore throat. I used it with great benefit for several ailments my children have had, and recommended it to my friends."

Apply to Gilmour Bros. & Co., Montreal, Can.

"Are, but not were," explained Mrs. Alwyn. "This earl has only just got the title, you know. The late one was his cousin, and was expected to marry some day, quite up to the time of his sudden death. So these people—they used simply to be the Duvesnes, 'Mr. and Mrs.' not even honorable—were really, considering their birth, not at all rich, and were glad enough to secure eight hundred a year for their son. The old rector died just after the late earl, most conveniently, and Edward Duvesne read himself in at Oakleigh a few Sundays before his father came down to the place last spring."

"And you say this gentleman is making up to Leonora?"

"He certainly seems very much attracted. We have attended his little church lately—Leonora and I. Sydney always finds something to keep her to this place, and so comfortable; not half so draughtily as our larger, rambling building, where I get neuralgia dreadfully. Mr. Duvesne sent us hymn-books by the clerk. He has called on us two or three times, and often walks halfway home by Leonora. Of course, I have called at the Place, and the countess has left cards here. If nothing—if no one interferes, I believe it will end in my dear child entering the Comyngham circle. I think that would be a marriage we should have every reason to congratulate her and ourselves on. Lord Comyngham is the seventh earl, and his eldest son is single yet."

Mrs. Alwyn dropped her glasses and drew up her still handsome figure, all her passion for position, once so grievously humiliated, ringing on in her last words; such a dazzling vista opening out for her beautiful daughter, no wonder she undertook to rough hew from the path any obstacle between her and the brilliant goal.

Brilliant, indeed! To the major seemed rather impossibly so; but it was not his place to damp her bubbles, so threading his way back through these enchanting prospects to the point whence he had started he rather provoked his sister-in-law by asking, calmly,

"Will you excuse me for being very stupid, but for the life of me, I can't see why you shouldn't settle on Leonora and her honorable and reverend before troubling yourself about little Sydney. She doesn't interfere with the illustrious suitor, does she?"

Mrs. Alwyn bit her lip, and tapped her foot on the grass, impatiently, these elderly men were frightfully dense—what the natives of St. Clair could call pig-headed!

To admit Leonora the least fractious was not to be thought of so with the self-abnegation demanded occasionally of maternal schemers; she took the weak point over as a private grievance, and answered accordingly.

"Of course, Sydney doesn't wish to interfere. I quite acquit her of any such design. But you can see she is liable to be present whenever this gentleman calls. Is apt to be put forward by injudicious friends of her own, as she was only the other day by those people named Dace, and the rector, at a sort of village feast. I can tell you how presently. And, excuse me for saying it, dear Major Villiers, but a woman like myself, who has seen much of the world, knows how soon a man's fancy is distracted that trifles sometimes upset the chance of life-long happiness. I felt I should never forgive myself if I didn't smooth our Leonora's way as

Talking Big.
By KATH CAMERON.

Yes, I know I've told you before how I hated it, but it won't do you any harm to hear it again; for if you are my old friend, the average man or woman you cannot too often hear this most typical, most common and most irritating of American faults made fun of.

"And if you are the exceptional person who never talks big, I know you'll enjoy hearing your neighbours hauled over the coals."

But please don't make the mistake of thinking you are the exception when you are really very much the rule.

Of course you know what I mean by big talk—the attempt to make yourself, and especially your possessions seem bigger than they are.

For instance, the daughter of one of my acquaintances who is especially gifted along this line, was married a few weeks ago. The proud mother went about beforehand distributing gracefully worded details about the wedding. A typical one was: "His father sent them a beautiful chest of silver." We pictured a handsome chest with row on row of gleaming silver, and you can imagine how surprised we were to find out afterwards that the "chest of silver" consisted merely of half a dozen knives and forks, and spoons.

Again, I was discussing cameras with a typical "big talker" the other day. He had a fair sized camera which cost about $30, he told me proudly. My camera, although small, happens to have cost about twice that sum. And when by examining it closely he discovered the trade mark which proved its cost, he at once remarked nonchalantly, "I used to have one of those little cameras which cost $10."

"What make?" I asked.

He stammered a bit and then named a make with which I chanced to be familiar. And it happened to be perfectly positive that that concern never manufactured a camera at anywhere near that price.

Talk is cheap and big talk is dirt cheap. But sooner or later you always get found out, as this man was, and then all your further statements whether true or false are sure to be discredited.

Foreigners seldom "talk big" the way Americans do. They may feel big enough but they hide their feelings better than we. One of the first things I noticed when on a visit to an English colony was the Englishman's delightful freedom from this habit. Several of them had plenty of material on which to base some tremendous talk but they never used it at all.

Now don't accuse me of being lacking in patriotism. I'm not at all. In fact, it is because I love my country so well that I deprecate her faults and long to see all Americans, myself included, struggle against the national tendency to "big talk."

Household Notes.

Rancid butter can be sweetened by cutting it into two or three pieces and allowing it to stand in sweet milk for six or eight hours.

White discolorations on furniture are successfully removed by rubbing them lightly with a soft cloth moistened with essence of peppermint.

Small boards on which to set saucepans, kettles, frying pans, etc., can easily be made, and they are a great saving to the kitchen table.

Flatirons, when put away for some time should be rubbed on the bottom when slightly warm with a mixture of talcum and sweet oil.

When a sponge becomes slimy, soak it in strong borax water. Continue this until the sponge becomes clean.

If a small amount of moist cotton is wrapped around the stems of flowers before the tinfol is put on the flowers can be worn much longer.

To keep a gas stove in good condition, it should be wiped off each time it is used, and once a week wipe it with a cloth dipped in turpentine.

Rub your eyeglasses with vaseline, then with a silk handkerchief. When you go out into the cold they will not become covered with steam.

Lemon syrup made by baking a lemon for twenty minutes and then squeezing out the juice in half a cup of sugar, is very good for hoarseness.

Remove ink and fruit stains from the floor by washing the stained part with cold water, then covering it with baking soda. Then dry wash off the soda.

Never throw stale macaroons away. They can be crushed and stirred into and sprinkled on top of ice cream, giving it a most delicious flavor.

Rub a little batter under the edge of the spout of the cream pitcher; it will prevent a drop of cream from running down over the pitcher.

Before washing lace curtains, baste a narrow strip of muslin along the outer edge, allow it to remain until the washing and drying process is complete.

When cleaning an article in gasoline, add a few drops of oil of cedar.

World's Record.

Charlottetown Patriot:—The ice races on the harbour to-day were witnessed by a large crowd. The ice was perfect, conditions being more favorable than at any time this winter. The great feature of the event was the first time made in two heats in the first for all by Cherry Ripe. If the measurements are correct, the world's record was broken to-day. This afternoon the track is being remeasured in order to determine its correctness. Cherry Ripe won the first for all in three straight heats, the time for the first heat being one minute, one and a half seconds, for the second, one minute, one half seconds, and for the third one minute flat. The time was taken in an automobile, and its accuracy is vouchered for. Derby put up a close race pressing Cherry Ripe closely throughout. Derby took second money. Donaldson D. third and Rexall Girl fourth. There were four starters.

In the 224 trot six horses started and it was the greatest exhibition seen this year, such only separating the first, second and third horses in some of the heats. Frank I won in straight heats; French, second; Alford K, third and Ruth H, fourth.

Cured Eczema Like Magic

Suffered for Years—Tried All Kinds of Treatments—Surprised at Results From Dr. Chase's Ointment.

You can soon tell when people are enthusiastic about medical treatment by the language they use. After experimenting with all sorts of ointments in a vain effort to obtain relief and cure, the writer of this letter was astonished at the quick and satisfactory results obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"It worked like magic," she writes, "indeed, it is surprising the healing that is often effected in a single night by this great ointment. The itching and itching are relieved at once, and cure is only a matter of time and patient treatment."

Mrs. Clements, 13 Strang Street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have suffered from eczema for years, and after using all kinds of ointments, at last tried Dr. Chase's Ointment. It worked like magic and proved a God-send to me. I would advise anyone suffering from eczema to try one box and be convinced." 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

April 1

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old St. John's."

The First of April is a common day of ordinary size and consistency though somewhat damper than the average. It is not important historically or economically and the banks do not close when it comes—which proves its insignificance more vividly than any other statement.

However, the First of April is noted in this country as a holiday. It is a day looked upon which many men and boys give their brains a day off and do not work at all. The output of practical jokes on April First is greater than that of all other days put together.

On three hundred and sixty-four days of every year the small boy's ambition is to become president or pitcher for the Giants. But on the 365th day, which is April First, his ambition is to induce some old gentleman to pick up a hot penny which has just been laid carefully on the pavement with a pair of pliers.

For eleven months and twenty-nine days, the ambition of our newspapers is to prove that the opposing party is composed entirely of rascals and that he competing newspaper has only one paid up subscriber. But on the set day of the year, which is April 1, the ambition of the newspaper is to print a story which will induce several thousand people to go down to the scene of the horrible collision produced when Fifth Avenue ran into Main Street.

Most of the time the eminent financier devotes his energies to separating the public from his money by strictly legal and proper methods. But on April First, he forgets to look at the ticker for hours at a time while arranging a brick under a hat, with the aid of the office boy, in such a way as to induce the head bookkeeper to kick his great toe half way through the brick.

April First is devoted exclusively to that seem. For this reason the laws should compel the Panama toll planks of our political platforms to be published on April First and this day should also be reserved for the issuing of a large number of very attractive stocks and bonds backed by a few speckled vests and an air of great honesty and benevolence on the part of the issuers.

Grey's Statement.

The Home Rule debate in the House of Commons yesterday developed nothing new. The Unionists moved the rejection of the second reading of the Home Rule Bill. Sir Edward Grey spoke for the Government. He stated the Government adhered to the position that they were not prepared to make any concession beyond six years' exclusion of the Ulster counties from the operation of the bill as offered by Mr. Asquith. This to our mind is regrettable. It would be far better to give each county the option of staying out as long as it liked, while it would be all right to call upon it to say whether or not it would come in at the end of six years. His reference to a General Election coming on before the question of Ulster could arise in the House of Commons within the next six years a general election must come, and if the Unionists win, they could make provision for dissentient counties staying out as long as possible. If the Unionists did not win, these counties must come in automatically. We do not see how the Government can adhere to this attitude, and we shall be surprised if they do not change it. The whole situation appears as if both sides are lining up for a final bargaining for a settlement. Sir Edward Grey's reference to the need of a federal system and his offer to consider an immediate general election on the terms of the passage certain bills show that the Government has not given up the idea of making a hard bargain. Sir Edward was, however, properly firm in his pronouncement that if there was any insurrection or if any attempt was made to set up a Provisional Government, the army would be called upon to put down such acts of rebellion.

Southern Cross Reported

Messrs. Bowring Bros. received a message from Capt. Connors, of the s.s. Portia, to-day saying that he passed the Southern Cross 5 miles W.N.W. of Cape Pine, at 11 a.m. yesterday. It is supposed that she ran into St. Mary's Bay and harbored at North Harbor.

Surgeon's Forced March.

The question why no proper medical attention was forthcoming for Lieutenant Lloyd Jones, of the King's African Rifles, who was severely wounded in an engagement on the borders of British East Africa, was due to the Colonial Secretary in the House of Commons yesterday by Lord Winterton.
Mr. Harcourt said he had satisfied himself that everything was done which it was possible to do, having regard to the inaccessibility of the locality. "I am glad to have this opportunity of referring to the devotion of Mr. Parvati, the Indian sub-assistant surgeon at Marsabit," he continued. "He made a forced march to Lieutenant Lloyd Jones, accomplishing it in four days. This was a most remarkable and creditable performance, as he covered the hundred miles of desert with only one camel and with practically no food or water." (Loud cheers.)—D. M., March 12, 1913.

Lord Dangan's Range.

Mr. Grossmith Denies That He Was Best Man.
Mr. George Grossmith, junior, has asked to contradict emphatically the statement that he was the best man or was present at the wedding of Lord Dangan and Miss May Picard, which took place in America last month.
"The whole thing came as a great surprise to me," he said to the "Daily Sketch." "I did, at least, expect that if Lord Dangan had been anticipating doing anything of the kind he would have informed me, but he did not, and the first I knew of it was when I was besieged by New York newspaper men on the morning we were going on board the boat."
"I expected that Lord Dangan would be on board. His passage had been booked, and it was only at the very last minute that word was received of his altered plans."
"I did not know the lady he has made his wife, even by sight. None of us knew her. I had not heard her name mentioned either. She was in the chorus, that's all I know, and I cannot even tell you whether she was good-looking or not."

Panama Tolls.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
WASHINGTON, To-day.
The House of Representatives last night after one of the most spectacular legislative struggles in the history of the nation voted to repeal the Provision of the Panama Canal Act, exempting American vessels from payment of tolls. The vote on the Bill, 247 to 161, was but the beginning of a victory for the Administration in the first struggle in the party since Democracy took control of the Government a year ago. To-morrow the Bill goes to the Senate where the fight will be renewed with all the vigor and determination which attended it in the Lower House.

Railway Blocked.

Owing to the recent storm there was no train despatched from here to-day, and the first train outward will be leaving to-morrow morning.
The local from Carbonar has been cancelled and consequently there will be no train inward. The only train now on the road is the express that left here at 6 p.m. yesterday and which will likely get away from Whitebourne this afternoon.

and Gramophone on Board.

Each passenger will be allowed one Polar bear, one seal, one walrus, two musk-ox, one wolf, and two white foxes, which he must shoot himself.

Here is an inducement to go Arctic exploring—an exploration de luxe, with hot baths on the ship, good sport
on the journey, and gold as the goal.

The prospectus of the cruise presented by the Arctic Gold Exploration Syndicate Ltd., suggested that trips to the Arctic may be included in Cook's sails.

For a young man fitted in love, best by creditors or desirous of a romantic adventure, this summer cruise
to the Arctic is the very thing.

The cost of the four months' passage, including all meals, will be £200 which, when you include the one polar bear, one seal, etc., is not dear.

The prospectus glows with romance
in an atmosphere of comfort.

The objects of the expedition are to trade in Arctic produce and to search for gold. And comfort is the keyword.

The Ship, The Chef, And The Shop.
The ship, for instance, will be fitted with electric light throughout, and passengers will be provided with separate sleeping cabins and bathrooms with hot and cold water.

A competent ship's doctor will be carried, together with a chef and waiter, while there will be a supply of cigars and tobacco, wines, spirits, and miscellaneous of the best brands and quality for the use of passengers.

No private supplies of wines or spirits, however, will be allowed on board or in the cabins, and the reason of this is disclosed in the financial part of the prospectus, which states that the passage-money, with the pros-fits derived from the sale of cigars, wines, etc., will materially help the company's finances.

The meals—and the table is to be as good as the circumstances of the voyage permit—will be early tea, breakfast, luncheon, tea, dinner and supper.

Healthy Summer Climate.
A well-found library will be on board—there is a nautical ring about the "well found"—also a piano and a gramophone.

That is the way to go Arctic exploring. No packing of provisions considered and wearisome journeys across icefields ending with a limited supply of hoosh, but six meals a day on a comfortable ship, which will stock your own particular brand of champagne if you ask for it; in "one of the most healthy summer climates

of the world."

Then when you feel bored you go to the rifle rack, you take a 12-bore shotgun, a .303 or .450 Express rifle, and you languidly ask yourself whether you will have a pot at a walrus or a Polar bear or be content with a seal
or a musk ox.

The waters of Davis Straits and Baffin Bay teem with animal life, we are told. But as the trip is also a trading expedition, and all the skins will go towards the profits, there must be limitations, so "each passenger will be allowed one Polar bear, one seal, one walrus, two musk ox, one wolf and two white foxes, and as many caribou as he would require."

Stories For Life.
So that when you come home from this adventurous voyage you sling all those across your shoulder, deposit them in the ancestral hall, send for the taxidermist and talk about the heads and the antlers you got in the Arctic for the rest of your life.

But the chief purpose of the expedition is to search for alluvial deposits of gold in Baffin Land.

"Treasure Island."
The story of the gold in Baffin Land beats Stevenson to a frazzle, as the Yankees say.

About 25 years ago a whaling seaman named Charles Smith was sent ashore on the coast of Baffin Land to obtain fresh water for his vessel.

There he picked up two nuggets.
When he returned to Dundee he took them to a jeweller, who told him they were gold, and gave him a guinea each for them.

Now this Smith before he died gave a "highly respected" merchant named Browning, of St. John's, Newfoundland, a map showing where he believed he found the nuggets, and on this map Mr. Browning made a memorandum of Smith's statement at the time as follows:—

Mr. Smith's An In North Latitude.
I do not sure whether the river is at either "X." The pond is about three or four miles from water. The A nuggets were found just a short distance from the sea, about forty or fifty yards. The quartz veins were up to the top of the hill. They walked up the river bank and back. — John Browning.

Romance enough, forsooth! What more could the lovers of "Treasure Island" ask for? A chart, a memorandum, and the spot located by a lake and a quartz vein!

This map is now in the possession of the managing director of the syndicate.

Charles Smith—His Character.
Naturally with so much depending on Charles Smith his character has been "inquired" into, so instead of the usual reports of mining engineers that they have created so much quartz and find so much gold, we have reports on Smith's veracity.

We learn that he was a "reliable and truthful man," that he did not ask
"for any money in return for the map," and it "therefore seems unreasonable to assign any motive for untruthfulness on his part"—that he was a "straightforward, sober man," who always "affirmed to the day of his death his belief that he had discovered gold in the Arctic," and we are further told that he was "incapable of wilfully making a misleading statement," and that his widow, an old woman still alive, "emphatically states her belief in the truth of her late husband's story."

It is only fair to add that the syndicate do not rely entirely on Charles Smith.

The reports of travellers show that the district is favourable to gold, while the expedition calculates that on the trading returns alone, together with the moving pictures, the expedition will show a profit of £10,000, or 29 per cent. on the preferred shares.

Captain's Story.
Captain Munn is in charge. He is a fine type of the average Britisher, healthy and clean-limbed.

He served through the South African War; was in the Klondyke rush;
has explored large tracts of North-West Canada, and visited the Arctic regions four times.

To a Daily Sketch representative he said that it was proposed to establish the base camp at Pond's Inlet on Baffin Bay.

From there trading expeditions
would be made across Baffin Land, and Esquimaux would be visited who had never yet seen a civilized man.

Relief posts would be established at Melville Island for the Stefansson Expedition; while visits would be made to Knud Rasmussen's base at Meteoric Eay and the base of the Millan expedition, to explore Crocker Land—the land reported by Peary on his return from the North Pole.—Daily Sketch,
March 9, 1914.

Films for Their Ends.
And this cinema hall in itself will
show how quick the leaders of the movement have been to fasten upon
the possibilities of "the pictures" from
their own point of view.

Ordinary films will be shown, of course, but there will also be a number of others such as are not to be seen at any of the halls in this country at present. They will be films dealing with special labour subjects, to show the advantage of trade unionism. Many such films are already being discussed and prepared in England and on the Continent.

There is also to be a restaurant,
and this will be one of the most striking features and developments of the place.

The promoters of the scheme estimate that there are 20,000 trade union members working in the neighbourhood of the hall, and they expect that a large number of them will join the club and take their meals in the restaurant.

But in connection with the restaurant there is a further scheme. It is in its infancy as yet, but it promises to be one of the most important features of the whole concern.

In every strike and lockout the difficulty which the workers have to face is that of finding funds enough to enable them to hold out till their terms are granted. The people responsible for the new hall have thought of a way of doing something towards meeting that difficulty, and as soon as their scheme is in being they will set to work on this further development.

Food for the Striker.
The one great necessity, and the one thing upon which the greater portion of the strike pay is spent in food.
They believe that the money available is not always spent to the best advantage.

Whenever a strike is declared in any town or district caterers will at once be sent down from the labour hall to take charge of matters. They will acquire temporary premises, and open a kind of shop-restaurant for the strikers and their families.

In this way the buying, and to a large extent the preparing, of the food will be taken out of the hands of the wives of the strikers and given over to people who are experts in it.
This, of course, will enable the strikers to hold out much longer than otherwise they would be able to.

The future plans of labour, then,
are to make the organisations more compact and more united than ever.
The idea of the leaders seems to be to turn their supporters into a well-filled army, working together, and obedient to the word of command.
Whether or not the rank and file will appreciate all this drilling remains to be seen.

When Workers Combine.

Telling of the Latest Development in Trade Union Banks.

What will the trade unions do next?
That question is being asked on all hands in these days, and it is a matter of the most vital interest and importance.

Some details, then, of a scheme, which has just been put forward by the trade unionists of London will be of interest, for that scheme has many features which show the lines upon which trade unionism means to proceed.

The new idea is nothing less than the building of a big trades and labour hall for London. Full particulars have been issued. The building is to cost about £240,000, and option on a site at the corner of High Holborn and Drury Lane, has already been obtained. This building will be the outward sign of that close connection between all trade unions which it is the desire of the present leaders to bring about.

In the first place, it will contain under its roof offices for a large number of the unions. This will make it easy for frequent consultations between the leaders to be held with little trouble.

But there is a great deal more in the idea than merely providing office accommodation. As well as bringing the members of the unions together—officially the hall is to bring them together socially in a variety of ways.
There is, for instance, to be a big hall to seat two thousand people, in which meetings, concerts, and the rest will be held, though for the greater part of the week it will serve mainly as a cinema hall.

Films for Their Ends.
And this cinema hall in itself will
show how quick the leaders of the
movement have been to fasten upon
the possibilities of "the pictures" from
their own point of view.

English Bluebeards.

It was formerly no uncommon thing, when journeying through the Essex Marshes, to meet with fathers of families to whom the epithet "Bluebeard" might, without any impropriety, be applied. To have married half a dozen wives was no unusual experience with these men, many of whom indeed, had gone through the marriage ceremony with thrice that number. Even that total had on one occasion been exceeded, as in the case of a native of Candy Island, who had espoused twenty-five different women while his son, who was but thirty-five, had already been wedded fourteen times.

Yet for the most part these excessively connubial men were very respectable fellows, whose sole mistake was in choosing wives from the neighboring uplands instead of wooing those who had become acclimatized from having been born and bred among the marshes. Consequently the newly-wedded brides, who had been accustomed to fresh and bracing air, on taking up their abode among the fogs and mists of the unhealthy flats, soon succumbed to ague or fever, which generally carried them off within the year, leaving their husbands to console themselves with fresh partners, who in their turn rapidly gave place to successors.

Kidnapped Child's Sentences.

At Romerantin, recently, Mr. Barle, the American painter, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment and a fine of £4, and Mme. Charlotte Hermann to a month's imprisonment and a fine of 16 francs for kidnapping the little boy Harold Barle. The Court regarded the sentences as having already been served during the time prisoners had been under arrest. The boy was taken away from the school in France, where he had been placed by his mother, who had been given his custody by the Court. Search was made through England and other countries, and eventually the boy, with his father and Mme. Hermann, were traced to Norway.

Preferred a Strong Case.

"What style of instrument do you prefer?" asked the salesman, leading the way to an upright.
"Niver a haphorth do I care about shyle, so long as it's a strong case. Have you any wid iron cases?"
"No, ma'am; but all our cases are made extra strong."
"How much is this pianny on the hire system?"
"The price of this pianny is forty pounds," answered the clerk. "The instalment would be a pound a month."
"Have ye got it insured?"
"Well, really, ma'am, the purchaser usually insures the instrument; but to close the bargain we'll insure this piano, and agree to take all risks."
"Ye see, betwene me and you," the purchaser explained, as she deposited the receipt for the first instalment in her pocket, "I'm glad to be aisy about the insurance, because I want to get the besther of me woid man. He said that if I brought a pianny into the house he'd smash it wid an axe—and, faith, he's the by to do it!"

Life Buoy's Long Travel.

Was Lost from C.P.R. Steamer and Traveled 2940 Miles.
Last year, on Sept. 24th, the Empress of Russia, while making a trip between Vancouver and China, lost a life buoy in lat. 41.35 north, and long 15.30 east being 2,940 miles from the point at which it was subsequently picked up.
After being tossed on the Pacific coast for over two months it was picked up at Adam's Point, Prince of Wales Island, about 25 miles from Ketchikan, Alaska. A beachcomber found the life buoy, and on discovering that it bore the name of the Empress of Russia, London, upon it, he notified the C.P.R. agent at Ketchikan, in Alaska, who immediately displayed it as a souvenir in the office of the C.P.R., where it attracted much attention. The life buoy was picked up about December 1st, which would give about 70 days on the ocean travelling at an average speed of about 40 miles a day. The condition of the buoy was good, the paint only having been but slightly broken, and the name, while marred, is quite legible. The buoy must have been tossed by the wind and waves for a considerable time.

Aer rible Revenge.

Whatever the poet may have to say about a woman scorned, there is at least one individual, a meat merchant in the north end of Montreal, who is willing to back the wrath of a small boy in its practical application against the fury of any scorned damsel on record.

The man of meat had taken exception to the noise-producing, stone-throwing and other abilities of a group of youngsters who used the vicinity of his shop as a playground. With the idea of frightening them off, he had called a blue-coated minion of the law into service one morning after one of them had put a snowball through a window. The policeman took charge of a captured youth and escorted him solemnly to his home. The following day there were no children playing about, but about 11 o'clock, when the store was full of customers, a small boy suddenly appeared and, flinging a dead cat carelessly on the floor, remarked: "That's all I could find this morning, Mister Brown."

Horse Dashes Thro' Window—Man Killed.

A horse ridden by a lad bolted in High Street, Chelmsford, recently, and dashed through the plate glass window of a photographer's shop. Among the people who were looking in the window at the time were John Reeve, 59, and Miss Beckett, 25. Both were seriously injured by the horse as it attempted to recover itself from the wreckage, and they were conveyed to Chelmsford Hospital. Reeve died from his injuries, and Miss Beckett is at present in a very critical condition.

My Trundle Bed

As I rummaged through the attic, listening to the falling rain As it pattered on the shingles and against the window pane, Peeping o'er the chests and boxes, which with dust were thickly spread, Saw I in the farthest corner what was once my trundle bed. So I drew it from the recess, where it had remained so long, Hearing all the while the music of my mother's voice in song. As she sang in sweetest accents what I since have often read, "Hush, my dear, lie still and slumber; holy angels guard thy bed."

As I listened, recollections that I thought had been forgot, Came with all the gush of memory rushing, thronging to the spot, And I wandered back to childhood, to those happy days of yore, When I knelt beside my mother, by this bed upon the floor. Then it was with hands so gently placed upon my infant head, That she taught my lips to utter carefully the words she said. Never have they been forgotten, deep are they in memory graven, "Hallowed be Thy name, oh, Father, Father, Thou who'rt in Heaven."

This she taught me, then she told me of its import great and deep, After which I learned to utter, "Now I lay me down to sleep." Then it was with hands uplifted, and in accents soft and mild, Then my mother asked, "Oh, Father, Father, do Thou bless my child." Years have passed, and that dear mother long has mouldered 'neath the sod, And I trust her sainted spirit revels in the home of God. But that scene at summer twilight, never has from memory fled, And it comes in all its freshness when I see my trundle bed.

Consecration.

Jesus, Thy boundless love to me No thought can reach, no tongue declare; Oh, knit my thankful heart to Thee, And reign without a rival there; Thine wholly, thine alone I am; Lord, with thy love my heart inflame.

O, grant that nothing in my soul May dwell but Thy pure love alone; Oh, may Thy love possess me wholly, My joy, my treasure, and my crown, All coldness from my heart remove; May every act, word, thought, be love.

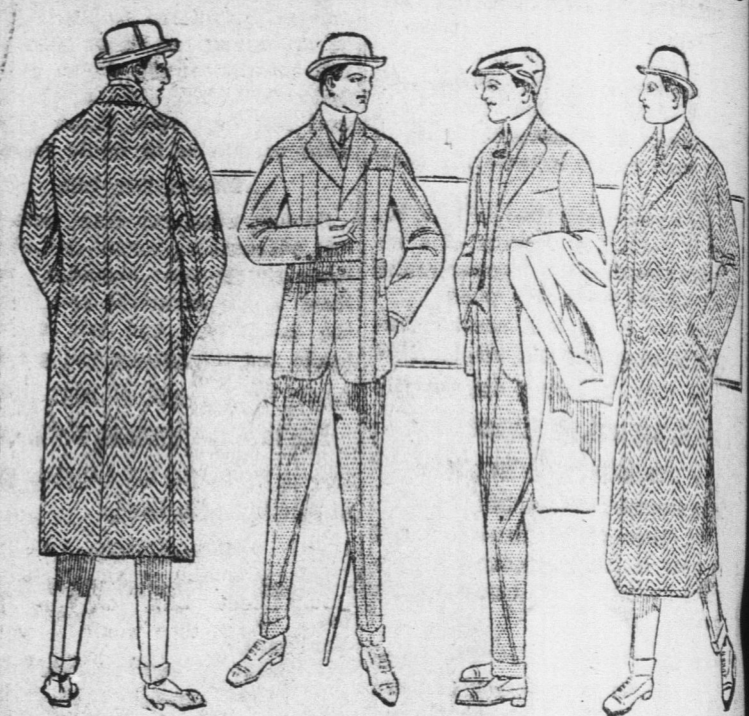

O love, how cheering is thy ray! All pain before thy presence flies; Care, anguish, sorrow, melt away, Where'er thy healing beams arise; O Jesus, nothing may I see— Nothing desire, or seek, but Thee.

In suffering by Thy love my peace, In weakness by Thy love my power; And when the storms of life shall cease, Jesus, in that important hour, In death, as life, be Thou my Guide, And save me, who for me hast died.

Japanese Sell Children.
In selling their children the Japanese, in the famine stricken districts, have been following a custom that has not always been unknown in Europe. In the year 1917 King Canute found it necessary to issue an edict forbidding English parents to sell their children to the Irish as slaves, in accordance with habit. In ancient Egypt the unwanted child had only to be exposed on the banks of the Nile to be adopted and protected by the state.

BY CABLE

LONDON, March 31. Basing their attack on Asquith's resignation the Unionists renewed their assault on the Government today, when the Home Rule Bill came up for its second reading. Walter Long, leading the debate for the Unionists, moved the rejection of the measure. He indicated that the Unionists had decided to adopt new tactics, when he said that it was a question whether the opposition ought to continue the debate in the Prime Minister's absence.

The promise of a violent debate had attracted large crowds. When Sir Edward Grey arose, in the place of Asquith, to speak on behalf of the Government, he was cheered by the Liberals. In answer to a question from the floor, he replied that the Government had not given any written guarantee to John Redmond that the Home Rule Bill would be passed without an appeal to the people through the medium of a general election. Such a report had been circulated before the Commons assembled. He said that Ministers are not prepared to make any concession beyond six years' exclusion of the Ulster counties from the operation of the bill as offered by Mr. Asquith. Each country must, he said, settle the question at the end of that time.

Meanwhile the question of Ulster could not arise until after a general election, but if there were sporadic outbreaks in that province, force must be used, and if any attempt be made to set up a provisional government, to defy the Imperial Parliament, the Army would be called on. He believed that if the difficulty was not solved by the introduction of a federal system, the country would go under through the inability of Parliament to transact business. If, he added, an election could be assured on terms of securing the abolition of Plural Voting Bill, and the placing of the Home Rule and Welsh Disestablishment Bills on the Statute Book, the method would be worthy of consideration. The Foreign Secretary's suggestion as to a federal system was received by the House with marked attention.

It is reported from Dublin that Mr. Asquith will be opposed in the election at East Fife by James Larkin, who, as head of the Transport Workers' Union, was leader in the Dublin strike last autumn; and in connection with which he was sentenced to seven months' imprisonment for inciting to riot last October, but was later released.

Lord Morley, of Blackburn, President of the Council, has abandoned his intention of resigning, and has so intimated to the House of Lords. At the Cabinet meeting the strongest pressure was brought to bear on him not to add to his colleagues' difficulties.

In the House of Commons, last night, F. E. Smith, one of the chief supporters of Carson, endeavored to take up the pre-arranged plan of opposition, and attack the Government on the Army question. His speech, however, fell flat under the new conditions, the only striking sentence being where he declared that Unionists were prepared to go to all lengths rather than see Home Rule forced on Ulster, whatever the consequences, civil war or any other cataclysm that might dismember the whole Empire. The Unionist party would support Ulster whatever the consequences might be. This is the first time that anyone has gone to such lengths, and the papers have seized the opportunity for long articles. The Evening News goes to the length of saying that the cry of the Army or the people, is raised to hide the failure of the Insurance Act.

It seems impossible that the Government can hold on much longer, but it seems equally certain that the opposition will fall in the pit which they have dugged for themselves, and that the campaign will be chiefly fought on the lines as to whether Parliament and King, or Army is to rule, with the election outlook for the Government much better than a fortnight ago.

It has not yet been decided whether the Unionists will contest Asquith's seat. A large section of Unionists is in favor of allowing the Premier's re-election without opposition, which would permit his return to the Commons a week earlier than if opposed. The Daily Mail and other Unionist papers accuse the Premier of running away deliberately and taking the course he adopted in order to be able for a fortnight to avoid questions in Parliament. The more general view is that the Premier has taken the war portfolio because, after his experience of Col. Seely and Viscount Morley, he was afraid to trust it to anybody else, during the present crisis. The Liberal papers are evidently relieved at the unexpected turn of affairs, admit that Asquith's course is astonishing and unprecedented, and express admiration for his boldness and courage, which, they believe, will touch the imagination of the country, and restore the Government's prestige.

The Daily Chronicle declares that the Premier's assumption of control of the War Office is a plain intimation to all concerned that the Government is determined that the civil power must prevail in conflict with the military; and adds: "In Mr. Asquith the Imperial sovereignty of Parliament, and the outraged sanctity of civil freedom have the strongest champion available."

The apprehension raised in the minds of the Unionist Party, at the way Liberals and Laborites have seized on the election cry of "Parliament versus Army," is illustrated by an editorial in the Times, warmly praising Asquith for having done the right thing in taking the War Office. The Times says: "We welcome the prospect of bringing back these unhappy controversies, from issues involved in the Army, to their proper sphere in political wrangles, and most devoutly desire that they be left out of them. Now that Asquith is next to the King, and at the head of the Army and administration he owes a new and special duty to the Army, namely to shield it from the wanton attempts of his own lieutenants and his allies in the Labor and Nationalist camps, to raise a new electrifying cry of Army against People."

A word to those who wear "Twenty-five cent Glasses." Do you realize that by so doing, you virtually admit that twenty-five cents is the value you place upon God's greatest gift to you? There is no law to prevent you from injuring your eyes by using such glasses excepting, perhaps, the law of common sense. Of course you don't know why cheap glasses play such havoc with your eyes, and health generally, nor does the man who sells them to you. An eyesight specialist can tell you, and if you would interest yourself to the extent of asking him to explain, you would never look through a pair of them. Anything more perfect or beautiful than the human eye would be impossible for man to conceive. Then, why, when physical aid is needed to enable it to perform its functions with greater ease, do you use cheap glasses or submit yourself to persons of questionable ability to suit you? When your eyes cry out for assistance, go to R. H. Trapnell, the Eyesight Specialist who will faithfully examine them and give you none but the best quality glasses if glasses are needed at all. Thousands are ready to testify to the great benefit received at his hands—mar18,eed,if

Outward Signs.

A man may be a great physician, and have no hang-downs on his face, although for ages fool tradition kept smooth-faced doctors in disgrace. The sawbones had to wear long spinach franks, or he would shortly see his finish, and go to join the has-been ranks. A man may be a noble poet, and have a haircut twice a year; though hard like hair, they need not grow to it to advertise their business here. When minstrels sang in leafy arbors their pastorals, in olden times, they knew that visits to the barbers would knock them out of many dimes; but times have changed, and now the Milton may cut his hair and wear store studs, and prime himself for further lifting by eating porterbouse and spuds. A man may be a mighty painter, and yet resemble Grocer Smith; he need not wear a necktie quarter than Farmer Brown is toggued out with. And thus we see the world grows wiser, and men are judged by what they do, no more the grand stand advertiser can come and put his course work through.

Every Town And Village in Canada. HAS SOMEONE CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. Mr. E. Handke Tells How They Sent Him Back to Work and Saved Him much Money. Vanburgh, Ont., April 1.—(Special).—One more man has proved to his entire satisfaction that the one sure cure for sore back is Dodd's Kidney Pills. That man is Mr. E. Handke, a well-known resident of this place, and he is telling his friends that Dodd's Kidney Pills saved him much lost time and suffering as well. "I was laid up with sore back," Mr. Handke says. "At times I was not able to get up in the morning. But by the time I had taken one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills I found that the pain was getting less, and by the time I had taken six boxes I was all right and able to go to work again. "I want to say to any man who suffers from sore back that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only remedy I would recommend. They saved me a large doctor's bill and much lost time." Sore back is one of the symptoms of Kidney Disease. The natural way to cure it is to cure the sick Kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure sick Kidneys. If you haven't tried them yourself, ask your neighbours. Every neighbourhood in Canada has some man or woman who has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Look at The Label. There was once a popular song, the moral of which was that "You can't judge cigars by the picture on the box." Perhaps in those days cigars were the only things about which the label did not speak the exact truth. However that may be, it is very different to-day. All sorts of things, especially foods, are labelled in a manner that is, to say the least of it, quite misleading. In these circumstances it is no great shock to learn that even Canadian cheese is not always made in Canada. A short while ago a grocer in a suburb of Sunderland found, when cutting a Canadian cheese, some hard substance in the centre. This turned out to be a little tin box containing three pennies and a request that the finder would get into communication with the manufacturer in New Zealand, informing him whether the cheese had been purchased as a Canadian or New Zealand cheese. The grocer did as requested, and informed the New Zealand dairyman that he had purchased the cheese as being a Canadian production. Probably quite a large number of Answers readers do not even know that New Zealand cheese may be bought in this country.

Whaling Crew Left Norway. Preparations for the voyage are now going on at the whaling factories.

THE ORE CARRIERS.—The S. E. Thomas and Tellus which have been lying south during the winter, will likely take up the ore carrying trade from Bell Island about the middle of the month.

Yesterday's Snow Storm.

The worst snow storm for the season, and probably one of the worst felt in the city for many years, visited us yesterday. The storm came on early yesterday with a light southeasterly wind accompanied by snow-squalls, which gradually increased towards noon, when the wind increasing in velocity and veering more from the north indicated that the squalls of the morning had developed into a regular blizzard. Business was practically suspended along the waterfront, and early in the afternoon the street cars were forced to stop as banks of snow, heavier than for any time during the winter, were piled along the track. Towards evening the streets were practically deserted, and at night the attendance at the clubs and theatres was the smallest for many months. A very small congregation attended the different churches last night, and great difficulty was experienced in climbing Garrison Hill. In the harbor a heavy underflow was running and vessels moored in the stream had to put out extra anchors. The landing stage in Ayre & Sons' Cove was smashed in pieces by the waves. Huge seas broke across the Narrows making it impossible for shipping to enter or leave port. The storm was now severe along the line of railway than in the city, and as a result practically all the trains were tied up. The telegraph lines worked well during the storm which is rather unusual, and from advices from many of the offices we learn that the snowfall was the greatest for the winter. About midnight the storm abated up the country, but it continued to drift until about nine o'clock this morning. So far as we can ascertain no serious damage has been reported.

A Baby's Face. How nice baby's skin is now; not a red mark or abrasion anywhere to be seen. "Yes, I was noticing. His face used to be so spotty that I often wondered if it were possible to do anything for him. How did you manage to cure the trouble?" "Simply enough after all. A few applications of that wonderful new treatment Zylex, and the steady use since of Zylex Soap was all that was needed, that made the skin chap right." Zylex (50c.) and Zylex Soap (25c.) can be had from your druggist. mar18.

At The Crescent. The all feature programme at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day and to-morrow comprises a splendid line of dramas and comedies. The leader, entitled "The Light Woman" is adapted from Robert Browning's celebrated Poem, and ten of the best known actors in the movie world. Phillips Smally and Lois Webber are the holders of the principal characters. "Gold and Water" is also a very interesting film. "Mother's Boy" is a melo-drama of some class and tells in a very clever manner the narrow escape of a son who due to the timely arrival of his mother is saved from serving a prison term. The final picture is a very laughable comedy, "When Father goes to Church." On Friday and Saturday, the special feature will be a war drama, "The Grit of Gringo." On Saturday afternoon an additional picture will be shown.

Illustrated Lecture. The attention of the public is drawn to the Lecture illustrated by lantern slides, on "Picturesque Devonshire" to be given on Thursday evening in the Grenfell Hall, by Mr. W. H. Jones, the Manager of the Institute. Those who have had the opportunity of hearing Mr. Jones and of viewing the beautiful scenes depicted in the lectures of "Japan" and "Gibraltar" will, we feel sure avail themselves of this opportunity of seeing "Picturesque Devonshire." The lecture is in aid of the work of the W.C.T.U. As this is the first appeal made by this organization for some years, we would bespeak for them a hall filled to its utmost capacity.

Defended His Sister.

Hoy Acquitted of Charge of Killing His Father.

The jury acquitted Francis King 18, at Monaghan, of a charge of causing the death of his father, and Lord Chief Justice Chry said he agreed with the verdict.

The father, a farmer living at Carrickmacross, arrived home from an auction violently intoxicated at three in the morning and turned his wife out. He then attacked his 19-year-old daughter, and after biting a piece from her neck endeavoured to strangle her.

The lad rushed to her assistance and struck his father on the head with a hatchet. The man died later from the complications which ensued.

The girl, in her evidence, said that as long as she remembered her father drank and systematically abused the whole family.

Man Harangues Space In Praise of Kitchener.

Cairo, March 26.—Evidently the admiration which Lord Kitchener has inspired in Egypt is not confined to natives. An amusing incident occurred in Cairo recently.

A certain Greek had for some time amused his friends by the enthusiasm with which he extolled the British Agent's qualities whenever his name was mentioned or whenever he saw a picture or photograph of him in any shop.

Apparently the admiration has become a mania, for a couple of days ago he rushed into a shop in the centre of the town, seized a photograph of the gallant Field-Marshal, and fervently embraced it, at the same time expounding to the assembled crowd the merits of the subject. When remonstrated with he tried to walk off with the picture.

There has been a pathetic sequel to this, however, for he was found next day in the middle of the road, outside the Agency, holding a portrait of K. of K. at arms length, and haranguing space with a eulogy of the British Agent. As he would not desist, the police took him in charge, and it is to be feared this ardent admirer of Lord Kitchener will have to be put under restraint.

MUSICAL FESTIVAL. — If you want to spend an enjoyable evening come to the S. A. Hall, Livingstone Street, to-night, Wednesday, April 1st, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Harry Rowe will sing one of his favourites. A good time is anticipated. Admission 10 cents. Lunch served after programme. Doors open 7.30 p.m. Proceeds in aid of the Building Fund.—april 1

Movement for Compromise.

Special to the Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day.

A parliamentary writer observed a few days ago, "This amazing Government seems to thrive upon its blunders, and the net result of a crisis without a parallel in modern times has been that the debate on the second reading of the Home Rule Bill was resumed to-day in an atmosphere of unexpectant calm with apparently a better prospect of being carried by consent than ever before. Unionists are clearly alarmed at the spectre which Carsonite methods have raised of an election fought on the platform of 'Parliament vs. Army.' Even moderate Liberals are anxious to avoid such a struggle, which it is to be seen would let loose a flood of passion exceeding even that which attended the agitation to abolish the veto of the House of Lords. Hence the proposal of Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to the Commons to-day of a Federal system of Government for the British Isles as a solution of the difficulty which he put forward in a most conciliatory speech has been received on both sides of the House with great sympathy, and it is believed will lead to a renewal of negotiations between the front benches for the arrangement of an acceptable compromise. A large body of opinion both inside and outside Parliament supports a settlement on the Federal basis and a meeting of about 50 members of the House representing both parties was held to-day to discuss such settlement. Viscount Morley's decision not to resign as Lord President of the Council pleases the Liberals, as at his advanced age it would have meant his permanent retirement from politics. No party would like to see the veteran statesman retired under a cloud."

LONDON, To-day.

The Treasury statement of the fiscal year seems to justify the much criticized optimism of David Lloyd George, which led him a year ago to decide to meet a heavy increase of expenditure by the natural growth of revenues from existing taxes instead of imposing new ones. The total revenue for the year was $91,214,485, an increase of $47,204,490 over the previous year. The total expenditure was $98,748,845, an increase of $10,255,000.

OTTAWA, To-day.

The Government has decided to extend for a period of six months the Order in Council of December last prohibiting until March 31, the entry to British Columbia all classes of foreign labor. While it applies to all countries, one particular effect of the order is to keep out Orientals, whose coming to the Pacific Province is an ever present problem. In the period to which the extended order applies it is probable that a permanent policy in dealing with Oriental labor questions will be worked out.

JUST A WEE REMINDER.—The Newfoundland Highlanders 6th Annual "At Home," under auspices of W. and N. C. O's., takes place in the British Hall, April 17th. Tickets to be had from members of the Mess, or at Jas. Baird, Ltd. Gent's, $1.00; Lady's, 80c. A bumper time in store for all.—mar30,3.eod

Appreciation Possibilities

Although it has only recently entered the revenue-producing period, the Sherbrooke Railway & Power Company is already earning more than sufficient to take care of its bond interest.

In addition to this showing three new power contracts, lately closed with Sherbrooke Industrial concerns, will bring in $22,000 more NET revenue annually. These contracts are with the Canadian Brakeshoe Company, the Canadian Connecticut Cotton Mills and the Panther Rubber Company—amounting to 1250 H. P. altogether.

When the Company has disposed of all its power the net earnings should be in the neighborhood of 2 1/2 times the bond interest. But long before then the Bonds will have climbed considerably above their present low figure of 78 p.c. and interest, which returns the handsome yield of 6 1/2 p.c.

Special report and illustrated booklet may be had on request.

Hit by Knowledge.

The phenologist frowned. Then once again he made a careful examination of the bumps on the head of the man in the chair. "Highly intelligent," he repeated. "Highly intelligent; yes—highly intelligent. But I feel bound to warn you, sir, that you have a very inquisitive mind. Your thirst for knowledge, in fact, seems insatiable. Now, take this large bump running across the back of your head—do you know what it means? It indicates that you are apt to carry curiosity to the point of recklessness."

The man in the chair sighed sadly. "I know," he replied. "That's how I got the bump. The other day at my hotel I rang for the lift, then stuck my head through the gate to see if the lift-boy had heard and was hanging it up; and—well, the best thing was coming down!"

Bruce Report.

The Bruce which left Port aux Basques at 1:55 a.m. yesterday, was off Flit Island last night, as will be seen from the following message received by the Reid Co. at 8 o'clock last night: "Ship ten miles E.N.E. of Flit Island; lee slack; heavy gale from N.E., still raging; working ship off land; impossible to reach North Sydney until storm abates."

Allan Service Opens.

It is expected that the Allan Line service will open to-day. The R. M. S. Sardinian leaves Glasgow for Liverpool and sails from the latter port for here on Saturday next, followed by the Pomeranian on the 18th instant and the Mongolian on May 1st.

Food For Thought.

The "Beauty" Sleeps Again.

How Drury Lane's Record Pantomime Came to an End.

"The Sleeping Beauty," who was re-awakened at Drury Lane on Boxing Day, again went to sleep on Saturday night at a very late hour. The slumber song was hardly a peaceful lullaby. It was more like Futurist music—a terrible din. There was the merry stage crowd heartily singing, "Auld Lang Syne." The audience took it up, after which they cheered and cheered. George Graves was called up for a speech. But "Kotto" was not having any. The great comedian only took off his wig, bowed, called out "A'ny days, 'A'ny days," and disappeared. The audience cried in vain for one more glimpse of its favorites. George and the other principals had retired.

Judge Bucknill Quits.

Celebrated English Jurist Retires From the Bench—Sporting Justice, Who Was Described as the Most Popular Man at the British Bar, Has Been Equally Well Liked in the Judiciary and is the Hero of Many a Funny Story—A Born Poacher.

In the retirement through ill-health, of Mr. Justice Bucknill, the English Bench loses one of its most distinguished ornaments, a judge who has discharged his duties with zeal and ability, and who has won the respect of everyone who appeared before him. He has always been what is known as a lenient criminal judge, his sentences never erring on the side of severity, and in one instance only has an appeal from him to the Court of Criminal Appeal succeeded, and that resulted merely in a slight reduction of sentence. Sir Thomas Bucknill, who is 69, has been a judge of the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice since 1899.

"If I were asked to decide who is the most popular man at the Bar," the late Sir Frank Lockwood once said, "I should say Tommy Bucknill." This popularity he maintained to the full on the Bench, as, indeed, in every circle in which he has turned. Sir Thomas Bucknill has been a thorough sportsman; not even the late Mr. Justice Grantham had better claim to be called a "sporting judge."

Pearl Necklace Mystery.

Owner Wanted for Two Rows of 174 Pearls.

The Metropolitan police have in their possession a handsome pearl necklace consisting of 174 pearls in two rows and a diamond clasp, and are anxious to find an owner for it. The necklace came into the hands of the police in the following manner:—

A woman was brought up at a Metropolitan Police Court, remanded, and finally discharged upon a charge arising out of having possession of the necklace.

Her story was that she found it on the top of a bus ten years ago during a journey from Highgate to Victoria. It was taken to a pawnbroker to ascertain its value.

The necklace is now in the hands of the Criminal Record Office at Scotland Yard awaiting an owner.

J. P. Defends His Play.

Docker-Dramatist's Rebuke to His Critics.—Reply to Pulpit Attack.

Mr. James Sexton, the Liverpool city councillor, Justice of the Peace and well known trade union leader has been taking his critics to task over his new Labor play, "The Riot Act."

Speaking at Liverpool recently, in a large meeting, among whom were several suffragettes, Mr. Sexton said: "For staging 'The Riot Act' I have been accused of pandering to the smiles and vanity of the privileged class and ridiculing men whose hard earned pence rescued me from common-place obscurity."

"The criticism is from the pulpit; it is more worthy of some itinerant lecturer on the Wellington monument 'The Riot Act' is an accusation against the present state of society and an object lesson preached from the stage to the privileged class."

The docker-playwright added that there were incidents in the drama, in which some exception might be taken, but that was no reason why he should be subjected to foul and personal abuse from a quarter that he least expected.

He admitted that the play was merely founded on incidents that happened in 1911, but denied that the Strike Committee as represented on the stage represented the original Strike Committee.

Regarding the suffragist objections, he said he would see that mention of the W.S.P.U. in the play was eliminated before it went on tour.

The battalion was inspected and put through the various exercises by Major Franklin. The battalion will parade to-night when the winners will be presented with the shield. Much rivalry exists as to the outcome of the competition. Last year No. 4 section of B Company, in charge of Corporal A. Edwards won the shield.

A CRYSTAL LIGHT.

Doesn't that suggest a clear, bright light? That is why the name CRYSTALITE was chosen.

TEXACO CRYSTALITE is a crystal light, giving forth soft, penetrating rays. It gives no smoke nor smell, and is good to the last drop.

TEXACO CRYSTALITE will not fluctuate, it gives a steady glow.

The next time you buy illuminating oil don't merely ask for "a gallon of kerosene". Ask for TEXACO CRYSTALITE and find out why this illuminating oil is known as "the light of the home".

TEXACO CRYSTALITE costs no more than ordinary kinds and most good stores have it.

Remember the name. It will be worth your while to discriminate.
