STETTLER PROGRESSING

$200,000 Flour Mill Started. $40,000 Public School to be Built

As indicating the volume of immigration to the Stettler district, it may be mentioned that while during the month of February, there were 72 entries for homesteads, a number for the present month to date is over 300, the receipts being $3,500. A large proportion of the settlement is taking place to the southwest, more particularly along the new C.N.R. line of railway. The prospects of business in town this year are even greater than the record of last year.

New Flour Mill

The new flour mill, which is now in operation, promises to be highly successful, the demand for the flour being excellent. The grade of flour is fully up to expectations, and the owners, Messrs. Bulloch & Caldwell, have secured a supply of the best wheat procurable adequate for requirements, to ensure that the standard will be maintained. The capacity of the mill is 150 bbls per day.

The mill is a complete and commodious plant and a valuable asset to the town, so a general description might prove of interest to many of our readers. The mill building proper is four stories high and each floor is 32 by 42 feet. Each floor from the basement floor is reached by broad and easy stairs making the going from one floor to another an easy matter.

Need Two Buildings

There will be two buildings for hospital patients. These will cost $10,000 or $20,000 each. The one building would be used for the accommodation of patients who are on the road to recovery, and the other for the patients whose cases have reached such stages that they require a different kind of treatment from the patients recovering or only just entering into the grip of the disease.

The work of providing funds for the building of these sanitariums is a big one. The proposal of the health department is to have the Tuberculosis League to take charge of the collection of money. Each elector in the district is being organized into a Tuberculosis League and for every 20 members the local league will be entitled to one representative on the provincial league. Each member pays a fee of $1 and of this fee 75 cents goes to the provincial league, for the carrying on of the work. The remaining 25 cents goes to the local league to meet expenses in connection with their work. Subscribers in the city are also being organized and business men are being asked to donate liberally to the cause for the sake of the fight against the white plague. In this way it is hoped that $50,000 can be raised. The first $50,000 thus raised will be devoted to the erection of one of the sanitariums in the big ranch reserve. When the people have donated $50,000 by private subscription, it is felt that there will be little difficulty in getting the government to put up the other $50,000 for the second building. It is figured that by the time the first $50,000 is subscribed, there will be an interest in the work that public opinion will be in the government up to its expenditure.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

There are few people who have never experienced a headache from one cause or another. It affects all ages and both sexes alike, but the female sex is naturally the more affected through the higher nervous development and more delicate organization of the system. Those also of a nervous temperament and sedentary occupation are subject to it. The pressure of headache nearly always tells us that there is another disease which, although we may not be aware of it, is still exerting its baneful influence, and deterring us from an opportunity to assert itself plainly.

Burdock Blood Bitters has, for years, been curing all kinds of headaches, and if you will only give it a trial, we are sure it will do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

WAR AGAINST THE WHITE PLAGUE

Extensive Preparations Are Being Made in Saskatchewan to Cope With Consumption

Regina, March 31.—The war against the white plague, which is being waged by Dr. M. M. Seymour, head of the provincial board of health, is making fair progress, and about one-half the electoral divisions of Saskatchewan have been organized into local leagues for the fighting of the disease. The balance of the districts are rapidly being brought into working organizations and steps are being taken to form the provincial league. The necessity of having a sanitarium is being attended to, and there is every probability that a big scheme which has been taken up will be carried to a successful conclusion.

Big Ranch Sanitarium

The opportunity to secure an ideal site for the sanitarium came recently when the Dominion government, through the department of the interior, reached the decision to create a forestry reserve in the province. An area of from 60,000 to 100,000 acres in the Cypress Hills, and adjacent to the C.N.R. line, is being set aside for the preservation of forests, along the line of the great conservation movement which was started some time ago by the late Hon. Clifford Sifton is now the head. With the decision of the Dominion government to create the forest reserve, came the decision of the provincial government, announced now for the first time, to create a big game reserve. Within the area declared a forest reserve, the government of the province will prohibit the hunting of game and an effort will be made to foster the breeding of many animals native of Saskatchewan, which are now rapidly becoming extinct. The board of health has now evolved the plan of establishing within this great forest reserve the sanitarium for the victims of tuberculosis. Application was made to Hon. Frank Oliver, when Premier Scott was in Ottawa the other day, for a grazing lease on this property, and the head of the department of the interior has signified his willingness to grant such a lease. The Dominion will retain the ownership of the land, but the province or the board of health, will hold the grazing lease. It will be subject to the same terms as all other leases granted under the department of the interior regulations.

Start a Big Ranch

With the erection of the sanitarium for the consumptives, within the confines of the reserve, a large horse and cattle ranch will also be established. The great difficulty in the handling of cases of consumption is that of giving the patient outside work to do. It is proposed to start the ranch for the purpose of giving the patients work to keep them busy, and if possible making the institution self-sustaining. Should this latter be the result the patients will have found a particularly happy solution of a problem which is growing bigger every day. The patients at the institution would act as a ward and forestry wardens, and work could be provided for as heavy a population as the spread of tuberculosis sent to the reserve.

Need Two Buildings

There will be two buildings for hospital patients. These will cost $10,000 or $20,000 each. The one building would be used for the accommodation of patients who are on the road to recovery, and the other for the patients whose cases have reached such stages that they require a different kind of treatment from the patients recovering or only just entering into the grip of the disease.

Need for Work

That there is need for much work against the white plague is undoubtedly estimated that there are 2,000 cases of tuberculosis in the province today, and that many more are rapidly being contracted. It is estimated that there were 150 deaths from tuberculosis in the province last year.

In the Dominion of Canada last year there were 12,000 deaths from tuberculosis, or nearly as many as the entire population of the city of Regina at the present time.

These simple statements of fact are, in themselves, sufficient to show the necessity for the work which Dr. Seymour, in behalf of the board of health, is endeavoring to carry on, and it is earnestly hoped that there will be a hearty response to the appeal for funds and for workers. It is expected that Regina will give between $4,000 and $5,000 to the cause. A meeting was held in Moose Jaw last night, when a local league was formed, making in all 19 local leagues in the province.

HEROIC DEED OF A BRAVE AND LOVING MOTHER

Took Place of Drowned Horse and Brought Children to Safety

Ottawa, Ont., April 3.—Pricing herself between the jaws of the cutter, after her horse had fallen through the thin surface of the ice roads, across Lake Nipissing and was drowned, Mrs. Porter, a woman whose home is in Warren, Ont., dragged her three children five miles, across the lake and to safety through a cold rain arriving at the shore of the stopping place on the road, but exhausted, with the three little ones, the oldest of whom was ten years, warm and comfortable in the vehicle. Mrs. Porter's feat is one that is unprecedented in all the annals of the north country, and her pluck and heroism is the chief topic of conversation in the neighborhood of Cobalt.

LADY TELLS OF BICYCLE TRIPS IN UGANDA

Natives Who Played Football in the Region of the Equator

London, March 14 (Mail Correspondence).—Lady Bruce, who accompanied her husband, Colonel Sir David Bruce, on his mission to Uganda in order to investigate the sleeping sickness, has recounted some of her experiences.

The commission left London in September, 1908, and was away altogether 18 months. Excellent results were obtained, and in his scientific work Sir David Bruce was actively assisted by his wife.

"Our headquarters were at Mpigi," said Lady Bruce, "a few miles from the shore of the great Lake Victoria Nyanza, in what is called the Chagwe district of Uganda. We were a very small community. In fact, there were only seven white people, and I was the only woman of the party. Our nearest white neighbors were seven miles away at a big sleeping sickness camp. Our house was a comfortable structure of wood and iron. "Wattle and daub" is the description Europeans give the huts, which are made of dried mud with thatched roofs. I found the climate really delightful. Thanks to our being so near the equator, we could, of course, look for unflinching regularity in the time of our sunrises and sunsets. There was scarcely three minutes' variation all the year round. The sun would rise at six and set at six. We were generally up betimes and worked from 8 a.m. until 4.30 or 5 p.m.

King Dandi

"I am afraid there was nothing much to be done in the way of recreation, but I do not think any of us minded this much, because we found our work absorbing. There was no tennis, but some of the native boys played football. They favored association and entered into the game with great zest. It was amusing to watch them 27 miles away from our headquarters at Kampala, the native capital. Here little King Dandi lives. He is quite a boy—only fourteen years old—and the actual governing is vested in three regents. The prime minister was a most interesting man to be met with among the native community out there. He was known as the Kakiro, and was a man of middle age with a crown upon his head. He took a very intelligent interest in the work of the commission, and would visit my husband's laboratory. He and his son possessed bicycles and used to ride over to Mpigi from Kampala. Another native of high rank known as the Sekobob—next in command to the prime minister—was a very well educated man. He was over in England for the Coronation, and afterwards wrote an account of his visit. This won him quite a reputation among his own people."

Thorny Way

"Before we left he had invested in a motor-bicycle, so now I expect that

THE MAYOR'S

The mayor of Calgary pointed language, given through the Albertan and Calgary and the work concerning the city hall, arousing so much talk in the city. The mayor's point of view is that the city clerk did not over which so much the city council doesn't that account, and that are blathering and go on investigating to they will find out about.

That is hardly the public expected of a mayor. The mayor's point of view is that the city clerk did not over which so much the city council doesn't that account, and that are blathering and go on investigating to they will find out about.

THE REAL ESTATE ASSOCIATION

On Saturday night a real estate association was formed and it already has a membership of the most responsible real estate men in the city. It is well that such an association has been formed, for it can do a lot of good to the city, and it can prevent a lot of injury.

In the first place an association of this kind will place such value about trading in real estate that will put the business upon a better basis. In the second place an association such as this will have the effect of discouraging those misrepresentations and misstatements which react upon the city in general, and all real estate men in particular. It will pursue an active campaign against the curb agent, who does more damage to the city than many other agencies combined, and will add responsibility and stability to the real estate business. It will have the effect of not overbooming business, when such activity is not warranted.

Altogether the formation of a real estate association is a very wise. If well managed, and if it has a good start, it will be of very great importance to the city.

THE MAYOR'S REPLY.

The mayor of Calgary, in brief but pointed language, gives a message through the Albertan to the people of Calgary and the world beyond, concerning the city hall scandal, which is arousing so much attention inside of the city. The message is characteristically brief and pointed. He says that the city clerk did not give the map over which so much has been said, to the city council because he didn't, and that the council didn't miss much on that account, and that the newspapers are blathering and that they can go on investigating to the limit, for all they will find out about it.

That is hardly the answer that the public expected of a mayor. If he had replied that the city clerk had once more taken upon himself the role of a petty autocrat and committed an inexcusable error, and that the council had placed before the council, and that such an official should and would be punished for this gross error, the people would have got the answer that they wanted. But the mayor simply takes up the city clerk's burden and faces the public, bound hand and hand with him.

The reply that the map in question was not handed to the council because it wasn't, and that the council and the public had no complaint to make because of it, and that the newspapers are blathering about it, shows the delicate sense of propriety which the mayor of this city possesses.

The mayor says that the newspapers are blathering. The Albertan has been unable to find that harsh word in the dictionary, and does not know just what it means. If protesting against the action and the policy of an autocratic city clerk, who withholds public information from the city representatives and the city press, but hands it out freely to friendly real estate men, is blathering, the Albertan accepts the statement of the mayor and begs to announce that it proposes to keep on blathering until such exercise is followed by some kind of action. And it may be added that two of the three commissioners—the two being himself and all the members of the city council, as far as we know, are engaged in the same blathering, and that practically all the public is in the same sort of blathering and propose to keep it going just so long.

The mayor knows as well as any person, better than most persons, that the city clerk should have sent that document to the commissioners and to the council. He knows that the city clerk neglected to do it, not so much through an oversight as from a definite policy of ignoring the council and the commissioners, which he has been allowed to practice before the eyes of the mayor, and it would seem, with the permission, and even the encouragement, of the mayor. The mayor has enough knowledge of large and successful companies to know that such conduct in such companies would meet with quick and sharp reproof, and probably instant dismissal. But to suggest that the city should act in a businesslike manner, according to the mayor, is blathering.

The mayor as a special rebuke to the Albertan, announces that the city hall is organized into departments as well as it can be with the limited office accommodation. It is difficult to see just what the accommodation has to do with it. The Albertan repeats that the departments are not properly divided. In which department are the health affairs of the city? Departments are not properly divided and organized as in successful governments. Some months ago when the mayor informed the Albertan that there had been proper organization of the departments he stated the duties of the other commissioners and said that he himself had the supervision over all that is a vertical organization, which cannot have the best results.

The mayor knows that there is no proper system of organization, that the different departments are not properly or thoroughly arranged; that the heads of the different departments do not recognize any particular commissioner as their head; that the other commissioners do not have the liberty or responsibility which they are supposed to have, and that the city hall, as far as organized, is shaped like a despotism rather than a democracy. The mayor suggests an investigation. If he wants an investigation, let him ask for it. The Albertan believes that it is unnecessary. Whatever the council may do the public is ready to accept the statements of himself and the city clerk and pass judgment without any further investigation.

THE COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.

One of the real questions before the public at the present time is the advantage of the real form of commission government over the hybrid system that we have in Calgary at the present time. At the last election the people indicated that they were desirous of a real form of commission government, though they did not have an opportunity at that time of voting upon the same. In the amendments to the bylaws, which are now before the provincial legislature, arrangements are being made to have such form of government submitted for the approval of the people.

It is believed that the present form of government is neither one thing nor the other, that it gives us the worst of both worlds. There is in the commission form of administration, and the worst that there is in the old council system. The city has outgrown the council system and has no adequate organization.

A writer in Everybody's Magazine, for April, discusses the results of the adoption of the commission form of government in a number of American cities, and shows that in every instance, it has resulted in the abolition of party politics in local affairs; has eliminated the boss and the grater; has made the municipalities great business enterprises; has established direct responsibility for every public act, and has abolished a vast number of useless offices, sinecures, jobs and political rewards.

In the United States, sixty cities representing 3,000,000 people, have adopted the essential features of the commission system as a means of reforming their system of civic government and the results have been amazing. In all 147 cities the commission form of government and applications are now before the state legislatures to grant the necessary powers. The form of commission government adopted in the American cities is altogether different to the hybrid system in force in Calgary, and there are a number of differences between the Galveston and the Des Moines ideas. In the Galveston system, the city council and all other city officers were abolished. All power and authority relating to the city were vested in five commissioners, almost irresponsible and almost autocratic. The business of management was made solely theirs; they were the legislative, executive and all other branches of the municipal government. These five men were hired to manage the city just as they might be hired to manage a factory, or a large business concern and the people had nothing to say in this management except in that when a commissioner's term of office expired, he could be defeated, if he came up for re-election. The system was right from the beginning, a great advantage over the old ward system of representative government. The first year's operations showed that remarkable economies had been made; the city had never been so well governed, nor so safe, and never looked so well. And this was in a city that was just recovering from the devastation wrought by the great flood of a few years previous.

Still, it was felt that this Galveston system was open to grave objection in that it diminished to too great an extent the people's share in their own government. This was remedied in an act passed by the legislature of South Dakota, which, while adopting in principle the Galveston idea, made the commissioners at all times and in every way subject to the will and direction of the people. No law passed by the commissioners could go into effect for twenty days and if, within those twenty days, fifteen per cent of the voters presented a petition to that effect, the law must be submitted to the vote of the people. On the same principle any measure not originating with the commissioners could be submitted to the people, or an election held to decide whether any commissioner should remain in office. This principle, which involves the referendum, the initiative and the recall, but all responsibility on the people. The public business is divided among the commissioners, each being at the head of a department, and responsible to the people for the conduct of that department. He is hired to manage that department, just as a business concern would hire a man to manage a department of its business. If he makes good he is retained, and if not he is dismissed, and there is the end of it.

Party politics were eliminated by the adoption of the New Zealand bill. The question of its adoption was first submitted to the people of Sioux Falls, where, owing to an alliance between the saloons, the breweries, the grafting politicians, and the railway companies, it was defeated, but on being submitted a second time, was adopted, and went into effect on May 1, last.

The commission system has, perhaps, reached its highest development in the city of Des Moines, Iowa, which is held to be the most economically and most honestly managed city in the Middle West. The law in Iowa is much similar to that of South Dakota, but appears to give greater scope for the exercise of the powers of the democracy. Des Moines is generally taken as a typical example of the workings of the Iowa Act, although the system has been adopted in other cities in the state with equal advantage. Take the case of Chief Bonds, which will afford an illustration of the practical workings of the commission idea. When the plan was submitted to the people, it was viewed with a certain amount of distrust, and was only carried by a majority of 23. It had proved so satisfactory that it is said that it was submitted now, not more than fifteen per cent of the voters would oppose it. Under the old system money was being spent at the rate of $40,000 per month, and the debt of the city was increasing at an alarming rate. Under the new system the city has lived within its income and the tax rate was reduced one mill. Public improvements have been paid for out of current revenue. Every month the citizens of Cedar Rapids receive from their hired commissioners an exact account of the business transacted; every item of receipts; every item of expenditure, with a balance sheet. There is no concealment, and all meetings are open to the public, there are no "star chamber" methods. The commercial conscience was developed, and the citizens, seeing that their business was being transacted on business principles, began to take a greater interest in their civic affairs. Each of the five commissioners is a busy man. The mayor is a manufacturer, another is a lawyer, one is a printer, and a fourth is an editor, but all have subordinate their private interests to the common good.

A Strathcona newspaper rejoices in the fact that the premier is himself again. But that is the trouble.

One of the very liveliest and most important agencies for good in this city is the Horticultural society.

If the power company is going to supply power to the city council it should certainly have an auxiliary plant as well.

The city and the power company seem to be coming closer together and are likely to reach a basis of agreement in a short time.

The mayor says that the newspapers are blathering. In fairness to the mayor and the city clerk it may be confessed that that is not what the public is calling them.

Eastern Conservatives would like to find that they have been injured somewhere by this new tariff agreement, but they cannot place their hands upon any spot that is really blundered.

The Edmonton publicity agent is placing in the campaign literature that in Edmonton they are threatened with parliament the year round, and believes that that is a point in favor of the town.

The people and the newspapers who are supporting the Rutherford government are blathering. In the same time hammering the Rutherford premier, might at this particular time explain where they get off at.

The city clerk did not report that information to the city council because he didn't, is about the way the mayor puts it. He might have added that he did give out the information to friendly real estate men because he did.

The despatcher announces an insurgent movement in Ottawa, led by W. M. Gorman, M.P., who advocates government work done by contractors instead of by the government. An insurgent movement loaded upon a vehicle of that description is not likely to carry away very great distance.

Mr. Cornwall, M.P.P., rises to remark that the whole insurgent business is the result of a conspiracy. Apparently Mr. Cornwall believes that opposition to a government even when wrong is a very dark and dastardly crime and such action is properly described by the creepy word "conspiracy."

The Rutherford government defenders still try to delude themselves into believing that there is a devilish C.P.R. plot somewhere in the neighborhood of this insurgent business. The spectacle of Mr. C. P. R. Lawyer Mitty, and Mr. C. P. R. Lawyer Roberts, supporting a government against the C. P. R. plot to favour it, is an exceedingly interesting one.

INTEREST IN OLD TAPESTRY REVIVES

Art Workers Rediscover Its Value for Decorative Purposes

London, April 1.—The value and beauty of tapestry as a decoration for handsome rooms, as a background for a handsome face, are being re-discovered in this twentieth century. Tapestry weavers are in demand, and a somewhat languishing handicraft is quickly reviving.

The tapestry is as expensive a decoration as luxury could wish. But as compensation for its costliness—if such be needed—it will prove if properly cared for a joy for ever.

Literally the loveliness of tapestry increases as the centuries pass, and the gentle fingers turn vivid red to mellow, and the glory of bright gold to a rich and dignified tarnish of age.

Such woven hangings seem inseparable from the romances of mansions. Haddon Hall is full of splendid pieces, and there are few of the stately houses of England that are not beautified by loom made pictures.

What ghost story could be told with more picturesqueness if there were no tapestry room for the spectre to walk in? It must be from behind some old arras hanging in the haunted chamber that the spectre in horror-brocaded farthingale, comes sliding out into the moonlight.

Perhaps the most curious and interesting of all tapestries is the famous work of Bayeux which sets forth the history of the Norman conquest. Yet strictly speaking, it is not tapestry, but embroidery, roughly wrought on coarse linen.

Whoever the fair needlewoman may have been, she had apparently but slender resources of material. Only six colors are used—green, red, yellow, buff and two blues. The tapestry stretches to 213 feet in length, though it is but twenty inches broad, as if intended for a frieze.

Lively little figures—there are no fewer than 530 of them—represent the heroes of the period, beginning with our King Edward the Confessor. The battle scenes are particularly spirited. Mounted Norman warriors clad in chain mail attack the English, who mostly on foot, and armed with swords, axes, javelins and clubs.

When a century ago Napoleon cast a covetous eye on England he ordered the Bayeux tapestry to be carried round France and publicly exhibited and explained. These quaint pictures of ancient valiant deeds were to inflame a warlike spirit 800 years later.

"What Frenchmen have done before," he cried, "they can do again."

But history did not repeat itself. Important pieces of needlecraft tapestry are being created today at the Royal School of Art Needlework, from designs by Burne-Jones. They are worked in long and short stitch, in thick and fine crowd, wools on linen which is, however, completely covered.

But true tapestry is loom worked, is indeed, the earliest form of weaving—a link between embroidery and woven cloth. The two processes of weaving tapestry have changed but slightly down the centuries.

At Gobelins the high-warp loom is used. The weaver first visits the storerooms where thousands of shades in wool and silks are waiting to be selected. There he matches the tints of the cartoons from which he intends to work. He then takes his stand behind his loom, and after sketching his design on the warp threads, weaves his colors in and out like basket work, a little patch of color at a time.

The low warp loom is more quickly worked, and costs considerably less than the high form, but the result is not so perfect.

The greatest artists have devoted their genius to the drawing of cartoons for tapestry. The celebrated series of the "Acts of the Apostles," by Raphael, hangs in the galleries of the Victoria and Albert museum. Charles II. bought them for England, acting on the advice of Rubens, a hundred years after Raphael's death.

Tapestries worked in Brussels from these cartoons hang today in the Vatican, and other sets can be seen in Madrid, Berlin and Vienna. Rubens and his compatriot Vandyke also made cartoons for the tapestry works, founded by James II. and flourished, more or less, for a century.

Several lovely tapestries are also to be seen in the Victoria and Albert museum. Special mention must be made of a modern piece, "The Seasons," which was designed by William Morris, who also wrote the beautiful motto-verse which is inscribed upon it, and had it woven under his own eye.

Only One Salvation Army.
New York, N.Y., April 2.—Justice Deaton, in the supreme court today, ruled that the Salvation Army, founded by General William Booth, with headquarters in England is entitled to an injunction restraining the American Salvation Army from using the name or any title so nearly similar, as to be confounded with the English organization. In a previous trial the American association was victorious, but the decision was overruled, and a new trial ordered, resulting in today's order.

REGINA WILL STAY IN THE BIG LEAGUE

Wakatchewan Capital Will Have Real Baseball This Season—The Danger of Dissolution is Over

(Regina Leader)

Regina will have a baseball team all right this year. The Western Canada League. This was assured yesterday, the red flag of danger hung out by the Leader having been struck.

All the necessary stock has not yet been subscribed, but so much support was assured during the day that the directors, at the meeting last evening, decided to go ahead with the arrangements for the season.

With the prospect of Regina losing the baseball club, it is understood the Greater Regina Club people became seriously interested and hearty support is assured from that quarter. It is also expected that an arrangement will be made with the promoters of the Dominion Exhibition in 1911, whereby the figures 1911 will appear under the name Regina on the uniforms of the team. Altogether the situation is considered satisfactory, although the subscriptions have still to be considerably augmented.

LOCAL SPORT NOTES.

The Bowling league meeting called for tonight at the Exchange alleys has been postponed until Thursday evening next.

Allan McDonnell of the City Lacrosse club is authority for stating that there is at present enough material in the city for three good local teams.

The Maple Leaf Football club will hold full practice at Newsta park on Tuesday evening. All the players are requested to be out in uniform.

A meeting of the Junior Baseball league executive will be held this evening for routine business. At this meeting the schedule committee will meet to draw up the schedule.

The Hillhurst Football club will hold a workout tomorrow evening at their Hillhurst grounds. Senior and intermediate players are asked to be present; also any newcomers in the city who are interested in football.

The return bowling game with High River at High River will be played towards the end of this week. Calgary are sixty pins to the bad, and to win the series these will have to be made up when the team takes the trip.

The Calgary Tigers are not interested in lacrosse and will turn all their material over to the Saints if that club organizes. The Tigers, however, would place a senior baseball team in the city league if one could be organized.

The Junior Baseball league is still without a trophy. The executive will shortly send someone around to make a canvass for a piece of silverware. Some enterprising business firm which hear that the juniors are without a trophy will come through.

All lacrosse players who have the interest of this great national game at heart should attend the meeting on Wednesday evening next. This meeting will be an important one, as it will have a great bearing on the success of the game in this city for many seasons to come.

SPORT

TWO LACROSSE TEAMS NEEDED IN CALGARY

The First Workout of The Season By Calgary Lacrosse Club on Saturday

The Calgary Lacrosse club held the first practice on Saturday afternoon at the Victoria park grounds.

Allan McDonnell, Jack Ready, Jack Ross, Melross, King, West and Jones were the players out. The two latter are newcomers to the city from the east and they handle themselves like real lacrosse players.

With the material and a number of new players, another club is quite practicable and perhaps necessary. One club is not sufficient to give the number of players in the city at the present time a place on the team, and if the Saints do not go through with the Nationals, as suggested some other enterprising sport enthusiasts will start a club.

The workout on Saturday was of a preliminary nature. Another practice will be held on Wednesday evening next, after which the annual meeting of the club will take place. Prospects of a provincial league from the present outlook is very much more encouraging than last season. Edmonton is going lacrosse strong this summer, as will be seen by the following report from the Edmonton Capital:

A meeting of the Edmonton Lacrosse club is called for Tuesday evening next at the Y.M.C.A. at eight o'clock. It was intended to have a meeting on Good Friday, but the attendance was too meagre to allow any business to be transacted. It is sincerely hoped that on Tuesday next there will be a large attendance of lacrosse enthusiasts, as the prospects are bright for a cracker-jack team.

There is nothing like an early start, and the sooner the fellows get together and elect officers the sooner the team will get out to practice. There is a lot of talk in Calgary about a league comprising Edmonton, Strathcona, Lethbridge and Calgary, and if this goes through it will mean the making of lacrosse in this province. Nothing arouses more interest in a town than games with outside teams and it is hoped that the league materializes.

"With the new players that have come to town since the close of last season and the best men of the 1909 team, Edmonton should have the best twelve this year that has ever represented it."

LOCAL NEWS

Horse Show week will be duly observed at Starland by the exhibition of countless extra attractions. 94 moving pictures of everything of interest on the C.N.R. will be shown at Starland on Monday and Tuesday, April 11 and 12.

AT THE THEATRES.

The Royal Chef
The "Royal Chef" which is booked for presentation at the Lyric on Monday and Tuesday nights, has of all the famous musical shows, one thing remarkable to its credit; there has never been any No. 1 company of cheap and mediocre people.

In the Watches of the Night
More torturing than the "rack" is desperation, for the being is in just as complete a state of helplessness, Edward Forbes, a mechanic, had had a siege of bad luck; out of work, with his little child dangerously ill. In the extreme of desperation he commits his first theft, but his wife insists that he return the loot. This he endeavours to do and is caught. His captor will not believe his story, and hands him over to a policeman, who happens to be an old friend. The officer, on learning the facts intervenes and saves the man, not only from prison but from self-destruction.

The Orpheum Theater.
Starting with a matinee today and continuing all week the Orpheum will put on three good and up-to-date headliners. The Regoras, in their great novelty act; Knotts and Lawrence singing and dancing, and Joe Rolfe, the great Swedish comedian, introducing suitably engraved with the names of the winners are now on exhibition in the window of D. E. Black's jewelry store, and also the silver mug given to the twelve Alberta babies born on that date.

FRENCH AVIATOR MET DEATH IN AEROPLANE

The Motor Broke in Mid Air and the Machine Turned Over.
San Sebastian, April 2.—Another French aviator has met death, while making a flight in a biplane. Albert Leblon, who prior to his taking to aeroplaning was a noted automobile driver, was killed while making an exhibition flight here today. He was circling the Royal Palace of Saragossa at a height of 140 feet when his motor broke down. He attempted to glide back to the shed, but the machine turned over and swept with terrific force against the rocks. The aviator was crushed like a shell.

CAR LINE OFFERED FREE TO THE CITY

And Mr. Ruse Will Throw in a Three Block Park to the City For Good Measure.
Another offer to build a carline for the city free of charge and turn it over to the municipality if the latter would operate it was made this morning by Joseph Ruse of the Canadian Estates Co. The company owns Tuxedo park, a subdivision to the north of the city. Its proposition is to extend the line from the street on which the city proposes to run a line through the village of Crescent Heights a half a mile northward to Tuxedo park. It would then be turned over to the city to operate.

STRIKE WILL BE OF SHORT DURATION

Indianapolis, Ind., April 3.—Advice from the coal fields of the U. S. received by Thomas L. Lewis, president of the United States workers, who returned to the headquarters of the organization late today, satisfied him that the suspension of work in the mines pending the signing of a new wage contract would not be long continued. Operators and miners in Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Western Kentucky and the Southwest will all be discussing means of settlements between them next week, said President Lewis. The matter will work out to the end that we will get the demanded wage increase of 5.65 per cent work per ton per day. In Illinois, the southwest and in Western Pennsylvania the men will take longer in reaching conclusions than in the other states, but I cannot believe there will be a final break.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS ENDED IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, April 3.—All peace negotiations are again off in the street car strike. The latest efforts of the politicians and representatives of the American Federation of Labor were without result, and the politicians declared that so far as they are concerned the strike will run its course. A conference of politicians and labor leaders that was to have been held tonight was called off.

EXPERIENCES IN ARCTIC CIRCLE

MR. BENNETT TELLS OF PERILS OF DEMOCRACY

Parliaments, legislatures and city councils, said Mr. Bennett, appealing directly to the audience, "are just as good as you are—no better, no worse. Both political parties, at election time, make mad bids for votes, as evildoers do, and the great interest in the candidate is not in his fitness for the office, but in the fact that he will be the man at that time. The fear of the people forces men to make statements and promises that rob them of their judgment and destroy their principle. Should," he asked, "men, who openly rejoice at the reverses of the British from the Boer war, be entrusted with the franchise in the British province?"

2,300 Miles North of Edmonton

Herschell Island is in the Arctic ocean at the mouth of the Mackenzie river, 2,300 miles north of Edmonton, and it was here that Capt. Fitzgerald spent in 1903 to establish a post at Herschell Island. Herschell Island is a small island, about 100 miles long and 10 miles wide, and it is here where they usually winter whilst on their whaling expeditions. It was here, in 1895, that the whaling vessel, the "Herschell," was wrecked, and the crew were caught in the ice while on one of their expeditions, and were unable to get out of the Arctic ocean for some months. It was decided to attempt to get to Dawson City from Edmonton in order to carry mail to these vessels, and of this patrol Capt. Fitzgerald had charge.

Whaling in the Far North

One of the greatest dangers to which these whalers are subject, Capt. Fitzgerald pointed out, was in getting either wrecked or squeezed in the ice. The whaling vessels were spending up on an expedition and just as she was going up the Behring Straits she got caught in a lead, viz., a narrow stream between two huge floes of ice. As she passed through on her way to the open water beyond the two floes came together and when they parted again, so badly had she been crushed that she went down in a few moments, the crew only saving themselves by jumping on to the ice from which they were taken by other whalers.

Praise for the Esquimaux

The Esquimaux in the Arctic region were spoken of by Capt. Fitzgerald in the highest terms. "They are the finest crowd of people I ever met with," he said, "resourceful, cheerful, happy-go-lucky, and always good-natured. They are also very handy, five before the whalers began to come in they had made their own tools and everything in that line." One of the tribes of Esquimaux have been found on the coast in the highest terms. "They are the finest crowd of people I ever met with," he said, "resourceful, cheerful, happy-go-lucky, and always good-natured. They are also very handy, five before the whalers began to come in they had made their own tools and everything in that line."

THE TIE-UP IN NEW YORK

New York, April 2.—The Harbor Boatmen's union went on a strike last night for an increase of wages and one day off each week. The tie-up of the city is expected to follow.

Appendicitis

How to Avoid it and Escape a Surgical Operation, Told by One Who Knows
A Simple Method That is Always Efficacious. Trial Package Free
It has only been a few years since it was discovered that a surgical operation would cure appendicitis. In fact, it has been but a short time since the disease was discovered and named. Whenever there is an inflamed condition of the appendix, caused by impacted feces in the small cavity opening into the intestine, you then have appendicitis. It is called this because of the inflammation of the bowels, and were puzzled to know the cause.

THE HAWES-CORNWALL CASE AT COMMISSION

Verbatim Evidence Upon This Phase of the Question at the Investigation.

EVIDENCE BY COUNSEL OF HAWES AND CORNWALL

Interesting Evidence Which Was Given Towards Close of the Second Day.

The evidence in the Hawes-Cornwall incident, which is a sort of offshoot to the Alberta Waterways case, was given in Edmonton on Wednesday afternoon. Evidence was given by Mr. Henwood, counsel for Hawes, and Mr. Biggar, counsel for Cornwall. It is as follows:

G. B. Henwood, sworn and examined by Mr. Walsh, testified as follows:

Q. You are a solicitor practicing in Edmonton?

A. I am.

Q. Are you familiar with the matters that are being inquired into before this commission?

A. I am not.

Q. This commission has been appointed for the purpose of "ascertaining whether, if any, officers of the government or members of the legislature, etc., (each a member of commission). These are the matters that are being inquired into by this commission. I have been informed that you either have or have had in your possession certain correspondence bearing upon some of these matters, which are being inquired into. Is that true?

A. Well, I hardly know, my lords, whether they would be any bearing or not. I have had some papers from a client in Toronto and I presume if that client were here he would be entitled to claim his privilege with respect to them. I have not any papers. Such papers as I had might possibly have some bearing on some phase, some particular portion of the question which are brought out in the investigation, but I do not think that I should be asked.

Mr. Justice Harvey: You are asked if you had any papers.

Mr. Justice Beck: It is not a question of his privilege; it is a question of your privilege.

Mr. Walsh: I understand from what you say, without inquiring into the details of the papers, that you have had some papers which are not now in your possession, which might have a bearing upon some of the matters which are being inquired into by this commission.

A. I think possibly they might have. From whom did you get them?

A. Well, I do not think I should answer this question.

Q. Why not?

A. I do not think I have any right as a solicitor to make any disclosure at all. I may be wrong, but I may say, my lords, I received this subpoena this morning and having had an opportunity to give the matter a great deal of consideration, or to take advice of counsel on it, but it appears to me that until I had instructions from my client, I should not disclose anything in connection with these communications.

Q. You may say that, but for what purpose were these papers sent to you?

A. Well, I think I have some difficulty in answering that question.

Mr. Walsh: I think, my lords, I am entitled to an answer to that question for the purpose of enabling you to decide whether or not the privilege does exist. It appears to me that the mere fact that Mr. Henwood is a solicitor and that he has received papers does not constitute a privilege. I think that the papers must have been sent to him as a solicitor for a certain specified purpose within the discharge of his duty.

Mr. Justice Scott: Of course the ground of his privilege is the relation existing between solicitor and client, that is the ground upon which he is refused to answer.

Mr. Walsh: Yes, I am quite aware that Mr. Henwood states that at the outset they may have been sent to him for some purpose which would not be a purpose within the discharge of his duty as a solicitor at all.

Mr. Justice Scott: We have just to accept his statement that he received them as a solicitor.

Mr. Justice Harvey: You can get the name of the person from whom he received them.

Mr. Walsh: From whom did you receive the papers?

A. I received them from Mr. Davidson, a solicitor in Toronto.

Q. Of what firm?

A. Of the firm of Henderson & Davidson.

Q. Were they returned to him?

A. They were.

Q. For whom were you acting in the matter?

A. I was acting through Mr. Henderson for Mr. Hawes.

Q. Did you keep any copy of these documents?

A. I did not.

Q. When were they returned to Mr. Davidson?

A. They were returned about the 15th of March, I think.

Q. This present month?

A. Yes.

Mr. Justice Harvey: Did you say Mr. Hawes is at Toronto?

A. He is, my lord.

Mr. Walsh: Under whose instructions did you return them?

A. Under the instructions of Mr. Davidson.

Q. I understand your communication then in the matter was all with Mr. Davidson?

A. Yes.

Q. Was any member of the government or legislature of Alberta concerned in the matter?

A. Well, I don't think I should go into the matter further, Mr. Walsh. I may be wrong and I am willing to do whatever your lordships think right should do. It seems to me I have no right to make any further disclosures without the consent, at any rate, of my client.

Mr. Walsh: Do your lordships think that question is one that should be answered?

Mr. Justice Harvey: It is doubtful. The way you put it might refer to a communication as between his client and himself, or it might refer to something outside of that communication. The communication might be between solicitor and client.

Mr. Walsh: I think I would be entitled to carry the question this far. Mr. Henwood has told us that these papers were sent him in connection with certain matters that might be within the scope of this inquiry. I think that I am entitled to ask him whether any member of the government or any member of the legislature of Alberta was concerned in the matter which he was required to answer, whether Mr. Justice Harvey: I did not hear him say anything about being employed to transact anything. He said he had these documents which might have some bearing upon this question.

Mr. Walsh: Were these papers sent to you Mr. Henwood in connection with any transaction to which any member of the government or legislature of the province of Alberta, was a party?

A. Well, I don't know whether I should answer this question or not. It seems to me that if I say from whom I got the documents and for what purpose, I should be disclosing as much as I should disclose, and say at the same time that I was employed in the capacity of solicitor in connection with these documents or communications, which I received.

Mr. Justice Harvey: You say that these possibly may have some bearing on this. Are we going to have the trouble of trying to get at the original documents without knowing whether they have any bearing or not. You must surely have some other information that will let us know a little more definitely whether they have any bearing or not?

A. Well, I don't know whether I am in a position, my lord, to give that information.

Mr. Walsh: Did you have any communication with any member of the government or legislature of Alberta with respect to these matters disclosed by these papers that were sent to you?

A. I do not think I can answer that question either.

Q. Why not?

A. Any communication that I had with regard to that would be privileged.

Q. The communication you would have would be one of the class that I have referred to?

A. I think it might be. I don't know.

Mr. Justice Scott: What have you to say with regard to that question?

A. I don't know, my lord, that I am at liberty to answer.

Mr. Justice Scott: It seems to me as you have shown them to other people other than your client, your privilege to a certain extent is gone. If you showed them to others then there is no reason why you should not disclose the documents to us.

Mr. Justice Harvey: The element of secrecy would be very largely put out of the way, if you have shown them to others.

Mr. Justice Scott: What do you say as to the question as put to you? Do you still persist in refusing to answer?

A. I think it might be better to answer.

Mr. Justice Scott: Put the question again, Mr. Walsh.

Question reads as follows: "Did you have any communication with any member of the government or legislature of Alberta with respect to the matters that were disclosed by these papers which were sent to you?"

Mr. Walsh: My lords I did not want to convey the idea that Mr. Henwood had shown these papers to any member of the government or member of the legislature respecting the matters of the government or any members of the legislature.

The witness: It seems to me that if I answer the question I may be called upon to disclose exactly the nature of the communications I received from my client.

Mr. Justice Scott: It is absolutely necessary for you to obtain this information.

Mr. Justice Beck: It is necessary at this stage. We are looking for documents now. The documents, in fact, are not here. Mr. Henwood says they were sent to Toronto. I have heard a report, I don't know whether it is true, but I have heard that there are copies in existence.

Mr. Walsh: I have no information as to any person that would have them, if Mr. Henwood has not them. The reason I think it is important is this, I do not know whether it comes within the scope of this inquiry and I cannot decide whether they are important or not unless I know that they will be relevant to the inquiry. The position I take is this: My information is to the effect, it may be true or may not be true, that the correspondence between Mr. Henwood and his client, in this case, is in his hands and to which he has referred in his correspondence with his client.

THE HAWES-DORNWALL CASE AT COMMISSION

Mr. Hawes, whom he has spoken of, and as a member of the legislature of the province of Alberta. Now, I think I am entitled to ask Mr. Dornwall if he had any communication with that party.

Mr. Justice Scott: That member of the legislature?

Mr. Walsh: Yes. That member of the legislature.

Mr. Justice Scott: We are of the opinion that he is not justified in refusing to answer this question, for this reason, that a communication and a thing, party would not be privileged between himself and his client. Under these circumstances, I do not see why you should refuse to give the information.

Mr. Walsh: I would ask your answer to that question?

Mr. Justice Scott: Mr. Dornwall, I have been restrained for the last few minutes by my friends on my left from interjecting myself into this discussion. The client, for whom I act in this connection is sitting behind me, and I am prepared to give all the information that I have. I have most of the information that can in any event be useful to the papers that are under discussion.

Mr. Justice Scott: Is that satisfactory?

Mr. Walsh: Do I understand that Mr. Biggar is acting for the parties that were Mr. Henwood's in the matter?

Mr. Biggar: I was on the opposite side.

Mr. Walsh: I would like an answer to this question I have put to Mr. Henwood. I think I am entitled to it and probably that would be sufficient for the present.

The witness: I had a communication with Mr. Cornwall.

Q. Mr. J. K. Cornwall?

A. Yes.

Q. Respecting that dealt with in this correspondence forwarded to you by Mr. Davidson?

A. Yes.

Mr. Walsh: I understand Mr. Biggar offers to give me the information which he thinks should be conveyed from the other side relative to this matter.

Mr. Biggar: I would like to do it right away as a witness, if Mr. Walsh would be satisfied with that.

Mr. Walsh: I would rather not do it in that way, Mr. Biggar.

Mr. Biggar: My client, for whom I was acting, desires that it be made in that way, and I was that purpose that I made the offer.

Mr. Walsh: Have you any objections to letting me see the papers?

Mr. Biggar: I have absolutely nothing in writing. Absolutely.

Mr. Walsh: Perhaps when we reach the main subject of the inquiry, if we have not the papers, your offer may be taken advantage of, I do not think at the present time it is proper to go into that.

Mr. Biggar: If it is to be taken advantage of it seems to me it should be taken advantage of now. Some smoke has been raised and I would like to put out the fire right away. I have the pall of water hand.

Mr. Justice Harvey: Are you afraid it may get beyond you now, Mr. Biggar?

Mr. Biggar: No, but I understand that we are going to adjourn now for about two weeks.

Mr. Walsh: I do not think I can carry the matter further with Mr. Biggar at the present time. I will consult with my colleague about Mr. Biggar's proposal.

Cross Examination by Mr. Mackenzie

Q. Was a copy made of those documents while in your possession?

A. Yes.

Q. By whom?

A. I understood that my clerk made a copy.

Q. For what purpose?

A. I thought it would be well to have a copy of them.

Q. Have you got the copy?

A. No; I have not.

Q. Why has the copy?

A. It is destroyed.

Q. Who destroyed it?

A. My clerk.

Q. When?

A. Oh, some ten days ago.

Q. Why?

A. Under instructions.

Q. From whom?

A. From my principal in Toronto.

Q. By letter or wire, or how?

A. By telegram.

Q. Under instructions from your principal in Toronto, the only copy extant has been destroyed?

A. The material was returned to him.

Q. And you kept a copy of it. You kept and returned the original to Toronto.

A. Yes.

Q. When did you return the originals to Toronto?

A. On the 15th of March.

Q. Had you any instructions about making a copy and keeping it when you were asked for the originals?

A. No.

Q. Why did you make a copy, then?

A. I would ask your lordships to protect me in the matter.

Mr. Mackenzie: The witness has not objected himself.

Q. You were asked to return the originals and you have a copy in your possession, is that right?

A. I had when I returned the originals.

Q. You made the copy after you returned the originals?

A. No, when the originals were returned, the copies in my possession were destroyed.

Q. Why did you undertake the copies in the first place, for what purpose, if you had the originals?

Mr. Parlee: My lords, I think I am justified in asking if he has shown these papers to any member of the legislature.

Mr. Justice Scott: We will not limit upon his answering that question.

Mr. Parlee: Did he show these papers to any member of the government?

Mr. Justice Scott: That is the same thing, is it not?

Mr. Parlee: I would like to know if Mr. Henwood declined to answer that question, if he ever showed these documents or papers to any member of the government?

The witness: I decline to answer.

Q. Did you ever have any negotiations with any member of the government regarding these papers?

A. I decline to answer that, too.

Mr. Parlee: Presumably these papers are now destroyed. May I be permitted to ask Mr. Henwood to whom he showed them, in order that it may be necessary to give secondary evidence?

Mr. Justice Scott: Why do you presume they are destroyed?

Mr. Justice Harvey: Mr. Henwood would be as good as any one to give evidence.

Mr. Parlee: He possibly might be. It might be necessary at the opening of the inquiry to have these witnesses here, who have seen these documents. It seems to me a perfectly fair question to ask Mr. Henwood to whom he has shown them, so as to get secondary evidence.

Mr. Justice Scott: Is that satisfactory?

Mr. Parlee: I would like to say that I know.

Mr. Mackenzie (to the witness): I want to be clear about that. There was only one copy made while the document was in your possession. It that correct?

Mr. Parlee: I tell me the name of the person who made the copy?

A. I don't think I can tell you anything more, Mr. Mackenzie.

Mr. Justice Scott: Will you answer that question or not?

A. I think I won't answer it.

Mr. Walsh: I think I shall take advantage of the offer that Mr. Biggar has made to throw some light on the question.

Q. Can you tell me the name of the person who made the copy?

A. I don't think I can tell you anything more, Mr. Mackenzie.

Mr. Justice Scott: Will you answer that question or not?

A. I think I won't answer it.

Mr. Walsh: I think I shall take advantage of the offer that Mr. Biggar has made to throw some light on the question.

Q. Can you tell me the name of the person who made the copy?

A. I don't think I can tell you anything more, Mr. Mackenzie.

that is absolutely immaterial, it deals with the conversation he had with Mr. Cushing and gives the result of that conversation. Mr. Cornwall expresses the opinion that by reason of that conversation, Mr. Cushing has become a strong supporter to build his railway in the north country. I just saw five documents, four of which are on these files and the fifth is this letter. I may say that subsequently, within the last week or ten days, the papers were sent east. Shortly after that, I don't recall, member how long, about a week ago, Mr. Henwood communicated with me again. He was acting directly under instructions and he had no alternative but to do exactly as he did. He showed me his letter of instructions; I do not say that, but indicated to me the substance of his instructions, a week or ten days ago, whichever it was, and he had dropped from $250,000 to $100,000. I told him he could go away and use these papers for some other purpose. That was the last communication that I have had.

Q. Do you know where these papers are now?

A. No. As a matter of fact I have not seen the papers since that Saturday.

Q. Although this is a little apart from what we are trying to get now, can you tell me whether or not that claim has been paid?

A. Not so far as I know. The last information that I had was this offer of $100,000, and there was nothing done.

THE HAWES-CORNWALL CASE AT COMMISSION

Q. - If there has been any attempt it has not been through you?

A. - To this extent it is true that at the time Mr. Henwood originally communicated with me, that was before there was any question whatever of investigation of anything like that.

Q. - Did you make any offer of settlement?

A. - I did not make any offer of settlement at all, and I do not remember to have ever got Mr. Henwood down to the point of being able to say anything except that amount on the two successful bids.

Q. - No suggestion as to the amount that you had in mind?

A. - No, I do not think I ever discussed figures with him at all.

Q. - They are all on Mr. Minty's file.

Q. - Tell me, shortly, what transaction they had reference to?

A. - I had forgotten to mention that I had referred to the fact that Mr. Henwood was going to make in the summer of 1908, I think, to float the bonds of the Athabasca Railway.

Q. - Mr. Minty has had some correspondence with Mr. Henwood directly on that subject.

A. - No, the reason I began that way was I had a talk with Mr. Minty about the nature of the claim, but the other day, and I do not altogether agree, my idea was that what Henwood was claiming was that in the first place Mr. Minty had not given him the cost of the survey.
