Reported They Are Giving Up Antwerp

Evacuation by Enemy, Says London News Paper; French Only Seven Miles From Ghent; Allies Across The Scheldt and German Resistance Weakening

A despatch to J. M. Robinson & Sons from New York states that the London Daily Express says the Germans have evacuated Antwerp. London, Oct. 21.—The French troops on the Allied coast in Belgium have gained a bridgehead across the Lys Canal at Nevelde, seven miles west of Ghent.

ENEMY WEAKNESS. Paris, Oct. 21, 1 p.m.—Allied troops have crossed the Scheldt River at several points in the region of Audonard, fifteen miles southwest of Ghent. Audonard has been encircled and its fall is expected momentarily. German resistance is reported to be weakening on this sector of the front.

TEN MILES FROM GHENT. London, Oct. 20.—Allied forces in Belgium are within ten miles of Ghent, according to the official statement on operations there issued by the war office tonight. The statement reads:—

"The advance of the army groups in Flanders, under command of King Albert, continued throughout today. After valiantly trying to arrest our progress towards the western bank of the Lys, along the Brins-Ecloo Canal, and near the Dutch frontier, the Germans have been forced to withdraw on the whole front.

"The Belgian army has established itself along the canal. Its left flank is on the Dutch frontier and the army has occupied the important centres of Aalst, Adegem, Bellemanndersel (about ten miles west of Ghent.)"

ALL THREE OF ALLIES WIN. Havre, Oct. 20.—The following official communication was issued today by Belgian headquarters:—

"The offensive operations of the armies in Flanders under the command of General Rie continued during Sunday. After attempting to oppose our advance on the west bank of the Lys river and the Brins-Ecloo Canal, the Dutch frontier the Germans were obliged to retreat along the whole front. The Belgian army is standing along the canal, with its left resting on the Dutch frontier.

"The French army in Belgium has not only driven beyond the Lys the enemy rear guard, but has even, notwithstanding the inundations caused by the Germans, crossed the river, establishing a bridgehead between Gramme and Pettignem, and the other at Orghem.

"The second British army, overrunning violent enemy resistance and difficult circumstances, crossed the Lys at the eastern end of the canal, and on the right the western outskirts of Peec in the valley of the Scheldt. The front of this army passes through a line west of Peec, the outskirts of Dottignies east of Rullghem, Viechte and Wiebke. It has taken since Oct. 14, 6,200 prisoners and captured 169 guns."

BELGIANS REACH DUTCH BORDER. London, Oct. 20.—The Belgian advance continues. Cavalry closely followed the main body today captured certain machine gun nests, according to advices received tonight.

Further north the Belgians reached the Dutch frontier. To the south they reached a line more than twenty kilometres east of Bruges, capturing numerous villages. The material abandoned by the enemy is enormous. Several batteries were captured on the Belgian coast.

DENMARK EVIDENTLY WANTS PROVINCE BACK. Sends Note to Germany About Schleswig-Holstein.

Amsterdam, Oct. 21.—Denmark, according to news agency telegrams to the Dutch press, has sent a note to Germany suggesting that certain terms of the treaties executed between the two countries in the period from 1866 to 1870 should be carried out.

The Vademecum points out that Article 8 of the treaty of 1866 which ceded the Duchy of Schleswig-Holstein to Prussia provided for a plebiscite in Schleswig to decide whether the inhabitants would prefer allegiance to Germany or to Denmark. This provision, it is declared, never had been carried out.

HUNS TORPEDO ONE OF STEAMERS WHICH SPAIN REQUISITIONED. Madrid, Oct. 20.—(Havas Agency)—The Epic says that the steamer Maria, which had been requisitioned by the Spanish government, has been torpedoed by the German submarine.

CITY'S OFFER ACCEPTED. Kane & Ring have accepted the city's offer of a compromise settlement on their claims on account of their contracts for reconstructing No. 5 wharf and warehouse and rebuilding the trestle last year. Their claims totalled more than $6,000. An agreement was reached on the basis of each side conceding $1,000, but settlement was held up on the contractors' demand for interest. They have relinquished this claim and accepted a payment of $4,876.77, giving the city a release for all claims.

VICTORY LOAN POSTERS. Regarding reports that he had refused to permit Victory Loan posters to be displayed in the windows of his drug store at the corner of Charlotte and Princess streets, George A. Cameron said this morning that the posters had been on display in his windows since the first day they were issued and he had decorated his car with advertising stickers as well. He was at a loss to explain the origin of the reports. Water street merchants say they have so far received no request to place posters in their windows.

Cases in City Reported up to Noon Today 500—Boston Lifts Ban After Nearly 4,000 Deaths—Decline in New York—Reports From Other Places

The number of officially reported influenza cases in the city up to 3 p. m. today is exactly 500.

This is the same number as was reported in the morning papers, which is explained by the fact that the board of health's inspectors and verifiers caught up with their work by keeping busy on Sunday.

There are quite a number of new cases yet to be investigated and looked after, but these will possibly not be counted before midnight or perhaps tomorrow forenoon.

Quotidian influenza figures are nearing what physicians think would be the top notch of epidemic in a city of 50,000. Since Saturday's report in The Times the record shows an increase, but still the health officials are not unduly alarmed.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the minister of health, Hon. W. F. Roberts, and Dr. Geo. G. Melvin, chief medical officer, will meet with the local board of health and confer over the need of opening an emergency hospital in the city to care for influenza patients who may have no residence here and others whom it may be inadvisable to send to the city.

It is understood the board of health, upon which the municipality will have a representative, has in mind the Park Convalescent Soldiers Home in Newblaine avenue, a block of Mount Pleasant. This building has been very little occupied of late and if it is decided to open it for epidemic purposes a rush order of plumbing and fixing up will have to be done. Other buildings which have been under consideration by the board are Calvin church and the old Bentley street school.

Haig's Glowing Words to Men of Ocean Service—Jellicoe Includes Fine Tribute to the United States Army

London, Oct. 21.—On the occasion of the annual celebration of Nelson Day, the Navy League has received day messages from prominent public men.

"On the courage, skill and endurance of British seafaring men, and always have depended, the issues of the great state for foreign affairs. "But for them, our continental allies would have been severed from all external aid."

Admiral Sir David Beatty said: "On this anniversary of the triumphant establishment of British supremacy, the grand fleet sends greetings to the Navy League."

A message from Sir Douglas Haig, commander-in-chief of the British army, was received in London.

"The heart of every one in the British army goes out with mine to the officers and men of the royal navy and mercantile marine. Words fail me in expressing adequately the gratitude and admiration for our comrades of a sister service. Thanks for their triumphant efforts, we remain mistress of the sea."

Admiral Sir David Beatty wrote: "The events of the present year have emphasized to an exceptional degree the importance of sea power not only to the British empire but to the allied cause as a whole. It is sea power alone that has made it possible to bring to and maintain in the main theatre of the war on the western front that great United States army which has turned out to be the decisive factor in our victories in Palestine and Macedonia."

WIND WAVES HIGH AND SOME ON RIVER HAD ROUGH EXPERIENCE

That skilful steering and cool-headedness on the part of helmsmen were responsible for saving many lives is a statement of several people who came down river in motor boats last evening.

All those who braved the wind and waves are narrating exciting experiences encountered while coming through Grand Bay and also after passing through the Narrows, and in many instances they were also badly frightened and several acknowledged that they thought their time had come.

Some of the boats had wome occupants. Some faintly others prayed until they reached a haven of rest at Indiantown. Many male occupants, especially those who were unable to swim, were also badly frightened and several acknowledged that they thought their time had come.

Edward Burks pleaded not guilty to supplying liquor to John Fitzmaurice, Inspector McAlinh said that on Saturday night he and Inspector Garnet went to Sheriff street and while hiding in an alley he saw Burks with three or four other men standing at the corner of Sheriff and Brook streets. He saw Burks leave the gathering and go down into an alley off Brooks street and then return to the gathering. As he passed, McAlinh said, he noticed that Burks had both side pockets bulged out. He went back to the gathering and then they left and went into an alley. McAlinh said he saw Burks pass Fitzmaurice and found a bottle on the floor. The case stood over until this afternoon.

William M. Ryan is appearing for Burks. This is the sixth time that Burks has been before the court on liquor charges.

T. White was fined $80 or two months in jail for disturbing the police patrol and $80 or two months for resisting the police.

George L. Craig, who was in the police court on Saturday afternoon charged with selling extracts, was allowed his freedom on paying a fine of $100. William M. Ryan appeared for the defence.

JURY SELECTED. The following have been empanelled as a jury to enquire into the death of George Kimball. The inquest will be held on Friday night at 8 o'clock. N. S. Springer, foreman; Thomas Arnold, Ira Kierstead, Robert McCreary, William A. Steiper and George C. Wetmore.

W. M. POWER, MARRIED THREE MONTHS AGO, IS VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA (Special to Times). Newswater, N. B., Oct. 21.—Wm. Power of Red Bank died of pneumonia this morning, aged thirty-two. He was married three months ago to Miss Della O'Shea of Boon Road, who survives him. He also leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Power of Red Bank, and the following brothers and sisters: Lorne in France, Patrick home, Katherine of Boston, Mary of Woodstock, Stella Theresa, Philomine and Carmel at home.

LEFT GREAT AIRDROMES IN ABANDONING COAST. London, Oct. 20.—(British Wireless Service)—In withdrawing from Flanders and the Belgian coast the Germans not only gave up their submarine bases but also left behind immense airdromes. Before the enemy retirement northern Belgium might have been known as the home of the Gotha. By moving eastward the Germans lose the points nearest to England from which they were wont to carry out raids upon London and other English towns. Hereafter, it is believed the Germans will find it increasingly difficult to make air raids on London.

Heavy Work But the British Won

Carried Strong Position on Sunday Near Lecateau

MAJOR-GENERAL LIPSETT FALLS

Former Canadian Division Commander Is Victim of German Sniper

London, Oct. 20.—(By the Canadian Associated Press)—Major-General Louis James Lipsett, C. B., C. M. G., lately commanding the third Canadian division at the front, has been killed by a sniper.

London, Oct. 21.—More than 8,000 prisoners were captured by the British yesterday in the operations north of Lecateau when the Selle River was crossed on a wide front, according to Field Marshal Haig's statement today. The German positions were of great natural strength and were strongly held and there was heavy fighting throughout the day. The weather was unfavorable and the river was in flood, but the British forced a passage of the river early in the fighting.

The attack was launched by English, Scottish and Welsh divisions at 2 o'clock in the morning under most unfavorable weather conditions, a continuous rain rendering the advance extremely difficult. In overcoming the enemy's resistance great assistance was rendered at certain points by the tanks, which despite the flooded state of the river, succeeded in passing to the east bank at an early hour.

So soon as the line of the river was secured bridges were rapidly constructed under a heavy fire from the hostile artillery and machine guns, enabling our guns to push forward close behind the advancing infantry and to afford them effective support at short range.

French Front. Paris, Oct. 21.—There was no infantry fighting of moment on the French front last night. The official statement from the war office today reports only artillery activity between the Serre and the Aisne. In raids in Loreme and Alsace the French captured prisoners.

British Headquarters in France, Oct. 20.—(Reuters)—The first and third British armies this morning joined battle with the Germans from northeast of Lecateau to the Scheldt Canal. The weather was wet and the ground heavy and slippery, but the attack started most favorably. The capture of Vred and Cattelet is confirmed.

Fires broke out fresh in Douai yesterday and the enemy has been bombing heavily some of the towns captured by the British, evidently not intending that they shall enjoy the fruits of their victories untroubled.

The Canadians. With the Canadian Forces, Oct. 20.—(By J. F. B. Livesay, Correspondent of the Canadian Press)—After capturing a series of villages on our right bank, including Loucheux, a western Ontario battalion yesterday entered Denain. The line was then established east of Ecaussinnes, Norming to east of Wandignieschateau.

Nearing Valenciennes. London, Oct. 21.—In the Valenciennes region the British are approaching St. Amann, six miles northeast of Valenciennes. North of Tournai they are pushing forward to the line of the Scheldt River.

PTE. E. G. BELVEA DIES OF PNEUMONIA IN THE MILITARY HOSPITAL HERE. Private Ernest Glendon Belyea, aged twenty-three years, died this morning at half-past four o'clock in the St. James street military hospital of pneumonia.

Before enlisting, Private Belyea had been engaged as a carpenter with his brother. He had spent the summer in camp at Sussex with the Depot Battalion, returning to the city with that unit only a short time ago. He had been ill only four days.

On the west side, where he was born and had lived, he had many friends, who will deeply regret his early death. Of fine character and disposition he had won the esteem and respect of those with whom he had come in contact both in civilian and military life. The funeral will be held with military honors on Tuesday afternoon.

COMPLETED THE BLOCKING UP OF OSTEND CHANNEL

Germania Scuttled Mail Boat Near the Old Vindictive

SCENES IN THE CITY

Huns Were Teaching Children German Language—Donaui a Place of Desolation After Ruthless Destruction by Enemy

With the Allied Armies in Belgium, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Before leaving Ostend, the Germans scuttled a large mail boat along the old British warship Vindictive, which was sunk in the channel there last May. They thus made doubly sure that the channel will be blocked for a long time.

Inspection of the city shows that British shells did terrific damage to enemy military and naval establishments but did not harm the residential or business sections to any extent. The only money to be found in Ostend and other liberated Belgian cities is German. Many of the smaller children, especially in Ostend, use German as their own language. The enemy apparently went out of his way to teach his tongue to these children.

With the British Armies in France, Oct. 20.—(Havas Agency)—Donaui, its waste and desolation, is a sad sight. Moving pictures of the city should be taken, so that the world could see the ruins of this city which cannot be described in articles of all kinds. It might be said that in Donaui all the insane asylums have been opened and the madmen in their fury, had taken delight in destroying everything. The material losses are incalculable.

Roads and Trenching. With the British Army in France, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Roubaix and Turoing to celebrate the end of four long years of hardship, privation and oppression. The swabbing German had gone, leaving in their wake as much ruin as they could do. Nearly every home in these cities had been sacked and things that could not be carried away were destroyed.

THE SHOOTING CASE. Hugh McDermott, who was placed under arrest on Saturday at Barnesville on suspicion of having shot George Hogarty, a thirteen-year-old lad of Barnesville, who is at present in the General Public Hospital, was this morning taken to Sussex, where hearing was commenced. After some evidence was taken the case was set over until next Monday. It is understood that there has been no warrant issued for the arrest of John Verrier.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding Gillen are called on to mourn the death of their infant child, Barbara Genevieve.

The death of Gerald A., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew A. Malone of Lansdowne avenue, occurred today.

TAX CAPACITY OF PRISONERS' DOCK IN THE POLICE COURT

A Series of Cases Having to do With Alleged Liquor Law Violations, Result of Inspectors' Activity

The prisoners' dock in the police court this morning was occupied by a case against John Fitzmaurice was charged with having liquor in his possession; Edward Burns, with supplying liquor; Minnie Burns with being drunk, supplying liquor, and stealing $10 from James Boyd; P. White with drunkenness, resisting the police and doing damage to the police patrol, and two Russians were charged with having liquor in their possession.

Minnie Burns pleaded not guilty to all three charges. Inspector McAlinh told of going to her home in Bond's alley on Saturday night and searching her premises and finding about 600 empty lemon extract bottles. James Boyd said he met the Burns woman in Bond street and she invited him to her house. He went in, and while there bought two bottles of lemon extract from her for which he gave her $1. He said that she mixed the extract with hot water and sugar. He drank it and fell asleep. When he awoke, about eight o'clock, he went up to a restaurant to have something to eat and when he went to pay the bill found that a $10 bill which he had had prior to going into the house was gone. The case stood over until this afternoon.

GERMANY'S REPLY TO PRESIDENT WILSON REACHES LONDON

No More Sinking of Passenger Ships; More Teuton Talk About a Peace of Justice; Outrages Denied

London, Oct. 21.—The German reply to President Wilson's note, the text of which was received here today by wireless, says Germany hopes the United States will approve of no demand which would be irreconcilable with the honor of the German people with the opening of the way to a peace of justice.

Germany protests against the references of President Wilson to illegal and inhuman acts. Denial is made that the German navy purposely destroys lifeboats with passengers. The German government proposes that the facts be cleared up by neutral commissions.

Germany has despatched orders to submarine commanders precluding the torpedoing of passenger ships.

Amsterdam, Oct. 21.—Emperor Charles will soon issue a manifesto to the Hungarian people announcing the independence of Hungary, according to the Budapest correspondent of the Rheinisch-Westfälische Gazette.

Hungary, it will say, is to have economic independence and will maintain her own army and her own diplomatic corps.

At present the epidemic detached wards of the General Public Hospital are filled to overflowing with influenza patients, but the isolation hospital on the Sandy Point Road is still empty, though heated, bedded and all ready for immediate occupancy.

St. John people—most door neighbors perhaps—are in dire need of help in this present scourge of influenza. How many Florence Nightingales and good Samaritans are there who will volunteer for emergency service?

THE WHOLE BODY NEEDS PURE BLOOD

The bones, the muscles, and all the organs of the body depend for their strength and tone and healthy action on pure blood.

If the blood is very impure, the bones become diseased; the muscles become feeble, the step loses its elasticity, and there is inability to perform the usual amount of labor. The skin loses its clearness, and pimples, blotches and other eruptions appear.

Hood's Serravallo makes pure blood. It is positively unequalled in the treatment of scrofula and other humors, catarrh, rheumatism, dizziness, loss of appetite, that third feeling. Be sure to get Hood's and get it today. All drug stores.

PREDICTS CANADIANS WILL BOMB BERLIN

Owen Sound, Ont., Oct. 21.—Lieut. Col. W. C. Bishop, V. C., addressing a meeting in his home town, predicted that before next spring Berlin would be bombed by a Canadian if the war continued. The tactics in air fighting were changing constantly, but shooting, flying ability and an instinct as to what the other fellow was going to do were the most important.

He said there are 1,400 Canadians in the Royal Air Force and 32 per cent of the air fighting ranks in France are Canadians.

GREAT NEED HERE FOR 40 WOMEN HELPERS

At present the epidemic detached wards of the General Public Hospital are filled to overflowing with influenza patients, but the isolation hospital on the Sandy Point Road is still empty, though heated, bedded and all ready for immediate occupancy.

epidemic. While Dr. Mayes Case, Dr. C. M. Kelley, Dr. P. D. Mahoney and others are back again into strenuous practice, Dr. G. A. B. Addy is still convalescent, Dr. Bentley is, Dr. Dalton is laid up, and Dr. A. P. McCourt is yet unable to leave the house. This shortage of physicians—who hustle about in their cars all over the city under normal conditions of work—is keeping unprecedented labor upon the almost exhausted remaining practitioners. It is estimated there are fifteen to twenty professional nurses down with the prevalent disease in their care all over the city under normal conditions of work.

Doctors G. O. and A. E. Baxter, of this city have for some days been consulting the influenza epidemic with the serum discovered by Dr. Leary, an eminent bacteriologist of the faculty of Tufts College in Massachusetts. Quite a number of patients have already been inoculated with the new cure and the physicians say all have turned out excellent. Dr. G. A. Baxter, who brought the serum to St. John, says if a patient coming down with the prevalent disease is inoculated before twelve hours have passed, he will show signs of recovering within another twelve hours. The doctor's experience with several well defined cases of Spanish influenza is believed to have proven this.

In Fredericton. Frederickton, N. B., Oct. 21.—Allen W. Beattie died this morning of pneumonia. He is survived by his wife and two children, also by four sisters, Myrtle, Janet and Kitty and Mrs. W. Clarke, of this city, and three brothers, Frank, overseas.

The Board of Health believes that Fredericton is holding its own with respect to influenza, the number of convalescents balancing new cases. There is yet no indication, however, that the epidemic is abating. The death of Mr. Beattie is the seventh.

Alfred Rickard died last night at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. E. Rickard, after a brief illness of pneumonia. He was nineteen years old and is survived by his parents, several brothers and sisters. The entire family is suffering from influenza.

Reports from Marysville are that influenza cases increased in number over the week end, to quite an extent. Preparation of invalids' foods. Watch and care over helpless children. General attention to family needs.

This list of duties does not necessarily imply constant service, but a sort of visiting oversight among families where communication with the outside world seems to be entirely cut off by sickness, and where physicians' instructions cannot possibly be carried out by small children as attendants or possibly where the patients are lone old folks.

A prominent physician says the danger from contagion is after all not so great as one would be apt to suppose. A visiting helper entering a sick-room from the fresh air outdoors is already protected by the fresh air. After his or her visit to the patient the visitor goes into the fresh air again and is again disinfecting by Nature's own process. While attending the sick, nurses in the hospitals and homes about town are wearing masks, as the malarial is chiefly communicable through breathing.

"Ministering to the four papers," the Minister of Health said this afternoon when asked about the need of volunteer nurses as attendants, "that this very city of St. John wants intelligent help immediately. It will certainly be of the everlasting credit of our womanhood if they volunteer in sufficient numbers to meet the extraordinary conditions."

Doctors and Nurses Ill. The prevalence of influenza among doctors and nurses keeps adding to the general confusion of things due to the epidemic.

Montreal, Oct. 21.—Because of sensational rumors, circulated in this city as to the nature of the influenza epidemic, the civic board of health has issued a proclamation to the effect that the epidemic had nothing to do with plague, pest, or so-called black death.

The board holds out the hope that, if precautions were taken, the epidemic will show a decline in another week or ten days.

Preventive Vaccine. Toronto, Oct. 21.—A preventive vaccine for influenza has been discovered in Toronto, and already its distribution to Ontario hospitals has commenced. Announcement to this effect was made by the Connaught Laboratories at the University of Toronto. The vaccine consists of dead germs of influenza, and eighteen grains of these germs are used in its preparation. The preparation of the vaccine in large quantities is difficult, but 7,000 doses already have been sent out.

INDIA'S BIG PART IN WAR

Has Sent More Than 1,000,000 Men to the Various Fronts.

London, Oct. 21.—(British Wireless Service)—General Allenby's great victories in Palestine and Syria, in which India has played a prominent part, make the time opportune to place on record the answer of India to the call to arms issued by the British Empire.

Indian troops have borne their share of the war in France, Mesopotamia, Egypt, the Dardanelles, Saloniki, East Africa, and in Central Asia. Up to July 31, 1918, India had contributed no fewer than 1,115,189 men to the British army.

The first Indian war loan, which reached the sum of £40,000,000 ($200,000,000), and the second loan has reached even a greater amount.

India has sent to the various theatres of war more than 1,400 miles of railroad track, 250 engines, and 4,200 cars.

SOUVENIRS OF THE WAR

Smart Looking Trophies Made from Shells and Other Equipment in Spare Time of the Soldiers

(By Lacey Amy, Special Correspondent of The Times.)

With the Canadian Forces, France, Sept. 21.—The beauty of a shell case touches an unwarlike side of the fighting man. And the white of aluminum and the red of copper, both common metals of war, add the variety of color that causes new instincts in men with periods of idleness on their hands and the desire to interest themselves when they may in things not of war.

The Germans run extensively to rings. Two of three German prisoners wear home-made rings, made of rings of aluminum or silver alloy, sometimes bearing the number of their regiment in brass or copper, sometimes with the regimental colors and the iron cross in enamel, often with "1918" at one side of the central shield and the year of its manufacture on the other.

The French soldier displays the greatest ingenuity of any of the fighting troops in the elaborateness of the souvenirs he produces, sometimes making them a source of revenue.

The Canadian unaccustomed in civilian life to any trade of an allied nature, has nevertheless taken to the manipulation of war material with surprisingly effective results. I have had soldiers produce from their dugouts—scarcely large enough to turn in lying down and accessible only on hands and knees—souvenirs of wonderful beauty and cleverness. During the recent days of comparative inaction there was much time for such occupation.

During a recent tour of a system of trench dugouts some miles behind the fighting lines, where there is nothing to live in but old German excavations and improvements as our boys have made, and from the early home of two companions came two good examples of the work of novices. One was an ornamental vase made from a German field gun shell case, with crinkled edges, a few maple leaves in copper, and the names of some of the most famous Canadian battles engraved in a scroll. The other had taken a small pom-pom case and cut it into the replica of a Canadian soldier's cap. The leather band was taken and the minute maple leaf on the front of a different color of brass. It was small enough to send by mail and the owner proudly displayed it as his birthday gift to his mother in Canada.

But there are in the corps experienced metal workers and engravers whose productions may be viewed with satisfaction by the eye of the connoisseur. Today I have seen four riding crops, one taken from the division commanders. They are as neatly made as the kind on the market and are made from the oak doors of the Cloth Hall at Ypres, the joint between the stock and handle being in shell brass engraved with the name of the recipient and of the donor.

The most ambitious souvenir, however, is that possessed by the corps commander, the work of a Canadian soldier. It will consist when finished of four huge loving cups made from German nine-

THE CAFETERIA SYSTEM FOR HOGS

Much of the drudgery is taken out of hog feeding by the use of the self-feeder. According to investigations carried on at the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, Canada, when fed in this way provided the proper mixtures are used. Strange to say, when properly handled, dangerous and wasteful over-feeding is not so likely to occur with the self-feeder as when meals are given at stated hours. It has been shown that the hogs are the best judges of when they should take food. The feeder is fully described in Special Circular No. 15 obtainable at the office of the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. This tin-like receptacle is easily made at a cost of about $10 even when new lumber is used in its construction.

Neolin Now in Half-Soles

Hundreds of thousands of Canadians have read in their newspapers and magazines the story of Neolin Soles.

In thousands of families they are standard soles for new shoes—for Sunday and every-day—for men, women and children.

If you know Neolin—through experience or advertising—you will welcome Neolin Half-Soles.

For Neolin has now a broader field. It is now easily available for worn shoes as well as on new shoes.

You can go to your repairman and have Neolin Half-Soles put on shoes for all the family. It doesn't matter what the style. And the soles can be nailed or sewn.

If you haven't a repairman near, you can go to the nearest hardware store and buy Neolin Half-Soles—and apply them at home.

Many people get more wear from shoes after Neolin Half-Soles are put on than they get before the original soles were through. Neolin is invented to give greater wear and so lower shoe costs.

But there are other advantages. Neolin Half-Soles are flexible and they do not slip easily.

Start now to save money and get greater shoe-comfort. Get Neolin Half-Soles.

For a more complete job, we suggest Neolin full-soles sewn.

The genuine, both half-soles and full soles, have the name "Neolin" on the bottom.

TRAFALGAR DAY

This is the anniversary of Trafalgar. The glory of Nelson shines the brighter that the British navy which he made supreme is still the guardian of human liberty and has made Allied victory in the present war possible. The spirit that animated Nelson animates every man in the fleet, from the youngest boy to the admiral. There have been but few naval battles in this war, but that is because of the supremacy of the British navy, which chased the enemy (submarines excepted) off the sea. The world knows that but for Britain's navy and mercantile marine the war would have been lost. To the great feat of rendering the German navy useless was added the transportation of millions of men and constant supplies for armies and civilians, making possible the military victory which now crowns the arms of the Allies. What it has meant to the world to have Britain supreme at sea we know today far better than ever before. Realizing as never before the value of the navy and the mercantile marine, it is not surprising that the Navy League grows in numbers and there is more and more interest in the welfare of the men of the navy and their dependents. It is natural that in British countries today parents and teachers should talk to the children about Britain's sea-power, and what it has meant for civilization. It is a thrilling and wonderful story, in which stand out heroic figures, worthy to rank with the bravest and best of all nations and of all time. But the Canadian people have a new and special reason for their interest in both the navy and the mercantile marine. This country is to have a vast and growing commerce by sea, and must have a naval service of its own as well as a mercantile marine. The government has embarked upon a shipbuilding policy. The ships of Canada should carry an ever increasing share of Canada's commerce. More and more of her young men will be looking seaward when they choose their avocation. With such a stretch of seaboard on both sides of the continent, and the great trade routes of the world open, there is no limit to what Canada may accomplish in building and manning ships and sending them to sea. Commerce to all parts of the world. With the traditions of the British navy to inspire them it would be strange indeed if Canadians halted on the threshold of this great national adventure.

THE WAR SITUATION

While Germany is said to be preparing to deny that she is responsible for any outrages, or that any have been committed, the reports from Lille and Donai show that not only is the policy of wanton destruction and pillage still carried out by German armies before they retreat, but that outrages upon women have not yet ceased. It is useless for Germany to make denial. If she had been victorious she could have pursued that course with impunity, but now there must be a reckoning. Every new revelation of German savagery is another reason for fighting on until the enemy consents to unconditional surrender. The triumphant advance of the Allies in Belgium and France continues. The Germans are forced to abandon great quantities of material and many prisoners are taken. It is reported that 15,000 had to cross the border into Holland, where they are interned. The news from the western front is evidently having its effect in Berlin. The militarist party would have liked to send a short and sharp reply to President Wilson, but there is so much difference of opinion in the Reichstag that the sending of the reply is delayed while its wording is subjected to careful scrutiny. The policy of unconditional surrender is a very bitter pill to swallow, and may not yet be approved, but Austria and Turkey will not wait long. They realize more and more the futility of trying to uphold Germany, and if the latter does not give a satisfactory answer to President Wilson we may be certain that Vienna and Constantinople will be heard from in a manner not at all to the liking of the power that duped and used them in its effort to dominate the world. For the third time merchants near the head of King street had their stores entered from the back. Three were visited last night, with not much success, and one on Charlotte street was plundered from the front. No large amount of booty was secured, but there is no body in jail for the offence. Are more policemen needed?

It is said that Major-General Lipsitt, who went to France with the First Canadian Division, should now, near the end of the war, fall a victim to a German sniper. The war has taken heavy toll of Canadian officers, because they were brave men who never shirked their duty.

Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, Admirals Beatty and Jellicoe and Sir Douglas Haig, on this Trafalgar Day, pay glowing tributes to the work of the British navy and mercantile marine.

A COMMON OBLIGATION

"How much would the Kaiser tax your business?" This is the striking query at the head of an appeal by a Halifax business house in its advertising space in the Maritime Merchant, advocating the purchase of Victory Bonds. It asks each business man to put to himself this other question: "If I should fail to win this war, what would happen to my business?" The answer is given in the form of still other questions, as follows: "What is left of business in the invaded districts of France and Belgium? What will be left of business here, if we fail to crush the sinister power of Prussian militarism? How much would you have left after paying the taxes and levies imposed by a victorious Germany?" The alternative is tersely and forcibly put as follows: "Defend yourself with Victory Bonds. This is not only a war for democracy and liberty, but a war for self-defence. Germany menaces our rights, our self-respect, our homes, and our means of livelihood. Every citizen—every business man—has weapons of defence ready to his hand. These weapons are Victory Bonds. We cannot all fight with guns and rifles, but we can all fight with Victory Bonds." Another firm in the same issue points out that in buying Victory Bonds "we will be helping to bring the war to an early and happy closing, keeping Canadian industries prosperous; and strengthening Canada for the period after the war." Canada needs $500,000,000. The people can lend it at 3 1/2 per cent. interest. It is not only patriotism but good business. It is keeping faith with the men at the front, helping Canada, and lending money profitably on the best security that could possibly be secured.

The Belgians are now at the Dutch frontier, and in full command of their coast. They are steadily driving the enemy before them. The Germans little thought when they were hacking their way through Belgium in 1914 that in 1918 they would be fleeing homeward with a Belgian army hard at their heels. King Albert must experience a daily satisfaction as he rides forward to receive a joyous welcome from the delivered remnant of his people. Boston has re-opened its churches, theatres and other places of assembly after these being closed nearly three weeks on account of influenza. The epidemic there is now said to be under control. In St. John we must be patient for some time yet. We are fortunate that the disease here is not of the virulent type.

Allied forces are within ten miles of Ghent. The enemy continues to retreat but is not able to get away his heavy guns and material. One report says the German high command thinks it would take a considerable time to evacuate Belgium. Not at the present rate of progress. Foch has got the habit of speeding up a movement of that sort.

The rounding up of Bolsheviks in Toronto is in line with a policy that should be made national in Canada. We want none of that element in this country. They came here for freedom, and if they abuse it they must take the consequences.

Count Karolyi told the Hungarian parliament on Saturday that the war was lost and that there would have been no war if the proposal of England had been accepted. The truth will gradually get down to the people, and Germany will be fully exposed.

The Germans were teaching the little children of Ostend the German language. They expected to stay there. Hereafter they will not be welcomed, even as tourists. Where will a German find friends after this war? Long years must pass before the world can forget.

Not only in Lille and Donai but in Roubaix and Turcoing the retreating Hun looted and destroyed whatever they could before taking to their heels. There can be no peace by negotiation with such a people.

Even Denmark is waking up. She is said to have sent a note to Germany suggesting that certain terms of the treaties of 1866 to 1870 be carried out. More scraps of paper.

Prussia thought the Schleswig-Holstein matter had been settled prior to 1870, when she snatched those provinces from Denmark. It may, however, have place at the Allied conference which draws the new map of Europe.

There is now a powerful Greek army ready to take the field, preferably against the Turk. That will be another reason for objection on the part of Turkey to the continuance of the war.

The withdrawal of the Germans from the Belgian front helps to cripple their air-raid service as well as their submarine piracy.

The Allied troops in Serbia are steadily advancing toward the Austrian border.

ADMIRALS ALL

Effingham, Grenville, Raleigh, Drake, Here's to the bold and true, Bunkow, Collingwood, Byron, Blake, Hall to the Kings of the Sea, Admirals all, for England's sake, Honor be yours and fame, And honor, as long as waves shall break, To Nelson's peerless name. Essex was fretting in Cadiz Bay With the gallions fair in sight, Howard at last must give him his way, And the word was passed to fight, Never was schoolboy gayer than he, Since holidays first began; He tossed his bonnet to wind and sea, And under the guns he ran. Drake nor devil nor Spaniard feared, Their chins he put to the sack; He sang his Catholic Majesty's beard And harried his ships to wreck. He was playing at Plymouth a rubber of bows When the great Armada came; But he said "They must wait their turn, good gods!" And he stooped—and finished the game. Fifteen sail were the Dutchmen bold, Duncan he had but two; But he anchored them fast where the Texel shoaled And his colors aloft he flew. "I've taken the depth to a fathom," he cried, "And I'll sink with a right good will, For I know when we're all of us under the tide, My flag will be fluttering still." Splinters were flying above, below, When Nelson sailed the Sound; "Mark you, I would not be elsewhere now," Said he, "for a thousand pounds." The Admirals signal made him fly; But he wickedly wagged his head, He clapped the glass to his sightless eye And—"I'm damned if I see it," he said. Admirals all, they said their say "The echoes are ringing still!" Admirals all, they went their way To arrange for those days, but it is none too soon to plan for the weeks and months and years that will follow. One of the changes which we can expect will be that our indoor and office life will no longer appeal to the thousands of young men who have been living in the open. They will demand the freedom of our out-of-door life, and the broader scope of individual action which goes with it. The independent life of the scientific farmer will appeal to them as never before, and for their own good and the good of the nation, this desire should be met in a comprehensive manner. Secretary of the Interior Lane, with admirable foresight, has worked out a plan which is both practical and desirable. At the close of the Civil War there were vast areas of the choicest land which had never felt a plow, that thousands of returning soldiers were allotted under the homestead law. That was over fifty years ago, when hundreds of our now well-known western cities and towns had not been thought of. While there remains some good unclaimed government lands in various states, its total is a mere garden compared to what was available then. The problem of supplying productive lands in both our warm and colder climates becomes one largely of reclamation. Take the swamp and overflowed lands of Florida and the Gulf States, and a few other states, of which there are some 60,000,000 acres of the richest soil. There are also the cut-over lands which still lie waste, and other now barren lands in the far west, rich as the valley of the Nile when water is poured upon it. These three classes of land are all capable of enormous production, once they are reclaimed and tilled. This work of reclamation would immediately offer

LIGHTER VEIN

Sunday School Teacher—"And what reward was Joseph given for saving the Egyptians from starvation?" Smart Boy—"Please, miss, he was made food controller."

At a recent dinner U. S. Postmaster-General Burleson commenting on the effects of the three-cent postage, "In addition to the increase in revenue, which was badly needed, the innovation has been a positive boon to many," he declared and explained thus: "You seem very happy? I remarked to a lady of my acquaintance, 'I am,' she replied, 'Has Fred been paying you more attention lately?' I ventured, 'Not exactly.' She explained, 'but since this three-cent postage came in he has stopped writing to a lot of girls out of town.'"

And Still Goes! The square of a certain town in the south was located about a mile from the railway station. A negro named George had a boot-blacking stand near the square. One day, while George was at work, a man came up and began to quarrel with his customer. After some heated words, one of the men drew a revolver and fired at the other. Several weeks later, when the case came up for trial, George was the star witness.

"Now George," said the attorney, "describe just how this shooting took place." "Yessuh, Boss. De gen'man fired two shots. Yessuh, dey went bang-bang!" "We like dat, sah."

"You say he fired two shots, George? Will you tell the court just what you were doing when those two shots were fired?"

"Well, yob Honah, when he fired de fust shot, I was ahinin' de gen'man's shoes, and when he fired de second shot, sah, I was passin' de deppo."

the inducements of outdoor activities, and when accomplished, a permanent home and occupation to thousands. Secretary Lane calls attention to the vastly improved terms of his plan over that of the early homestead days. Then the homesteader was also a pioneer, who started with almost nothing in the way of buildings, farm machinery, and stock. The nearest post office was often a day's journey distant; the life was hard and isolated. Progress was slow for want of money. The more abundant the crops, the less the price per bushel. There are still those living who remember the days when the expense of hauling a load of grain to the nearest market equaled every dollar the grain sold for. Papers and magazines were almost unknown; the settler's life was hard in the extreme, and in some places in actual jeopardy. Under the proposed plan all this is to be reversed. The government would finance and engineer the reclamation; would build roads and farm buildings; would equip with necessary machinery and stock; would establish rural delivery; would pioneer did everything by the hardest work, scientific farming would reduce manual labor to a minimum; where he had to wait several years to move from his sod but into something better, under the new plan the settler would commence with every essential to comfort and success. With these new districts fully settled as fast as developed, and with automobiles, the buyer of these reclaimed lands would be anything but isolated or remote. New towns would spring up to supply stores, and with so large a percentage of young people, conditions will be ideal. The above plan is an expansion of one already used with success in some other countries. Nobody is to receive something for nothing. The government would use the returned soldier and pay him; as fast as one reclaimed section was completed and ready for occupancy, farms would be sold on easy-payment plans, the payments extended over a very long term of years if necessary. With their natural enterprise, the large portion of buyers would work out of debt in a few years. While the actual work of reclamation would not be undertaken during the war, the details of the plan should be, so that, immediately on return to civilian life, those who desired to go into the reclamation work could do so. To accomplish this Secretary Lane is asking congress for a few hundreds of thousands of dollars. Seidom has a more deserving appropriation been requested.

WILL NOT PURCHASE TRAPPIST MONASTERY.

The federal government has decided not to purchase the monastery of the Trappist Monks at Trarade for the purpose of a convalescent home and vocational institution for returned soldiers. Some weeks ago Hon. Albert Severy, former minister in the Borden government, visited the monastery and it is said during his visit made a deal for the purchase of the farm. It was his intention, it is said, to re-sell the property to the government. The property consists of 2,000 acres and is one of the finest equipped places of its kind in eastern Canada.

LETTERS HOME FROM

SCENES OF FIGHTING

Interesting Word From W. Brindle and Pte. Herman Thomas

Another interesting letter has been received from W. Brindle, a member of the Railway Construction Corps at the front. He writes graphically of the second wave of destruction that has passed over that war-devastated section of France and Belgium. Following the effects of the fighting of 1915, 16 and 17, nature, he said, was beginning to heal her battle scars of those years when they were opened afresh by the new forward movement of the Allies. He describes the scene wonderfully and tells of the tearing up of the ground that was just beginning to bloom once again. His letter follows: France, Sept. 17, 1918. Dear Brother Leiford, I am sending on the flowers you asked for in your last letter and which I promised in mine. We have been on the move since I last wrote you, and we are now in advance of the place we were located when Fritz made his big push in March. I believe he has a better idea of what a push really is now than he had then. There was the push of the French at Rheims, then ours at Amiens, again at Albert, Bapaume, Peronne, and up north, then the Americans at St. Mihiel, and last but not least the splendid victory over the Bulgarians. All that is some push, believe me, but even as I write I think you will find we are on the eve of another push which will take us up to and even through the Hindenburg line at one of its most important points. During the last two weeks my duties have taken me over a circle on the battle ground covering about sixty miles, and I have had an opportunity of seeing with my own eyes the awful effects of this second wave of destruction which has passed over this part of the country. I don't know who coined the phrase "War is hell," but after seeing what I have seen I think it would very much increase my fear of the lower regions if someone told me that Hell was war. Nature had made a huge effort to heal her battle scars of 1915, 16, 17, for when I was over this ground in the early months of the year, spring was bringing to life the wild flowers of the old battlefield. The wild violets peeped shyly from the surrounding green, the yellow buttercups turned their shining faces to the morning sun, and the early daisies filled the pink petals with the morning dew. The huge craters, the smaller shell holes, and the disgusting trenches were largely grown over. Scores of horse and tractor ploughs had been at work, and many of the peasants had returned to their holdings and temporarily patched up their ruined houses. Now, the face of nature has been furrowed by new trenches, her green mantle has been scratched and torn by mines upon miles of cruel barbed wire, and her gentle bosom scarred and slashed anew by bursting bomb and rending shell. It is such sights as these which rob us of the full fruits of our late victories, for one cannot feel joy and sorrow at the same time and the man who can gaze on this awful scene of outraged nature and not feel sad is hard indeed. And now to revert to the flowers. I don't know in what condition they will reach you, but they left here quite fresh, and I packed them on several layers of damp blotting paper in the hope that the moisture would help keep them some. They are poor little things anyway, but you will tell strange stories if they could speak, for only a fortnight previous to my plucking them, the iron-headed minions of the Kaiser had tramped over the breast of their mother.

The dog daisies, the poppies and the convolvulus are right from the battlefield, and will doubtless speak to you (the white flowers) of the purity of our cause, and the red of the blood of our boys which has been so freely shed in its defence. The red berries are from a solitary tree which had bravely weathered the storms of battle. The bunch of grapes was one of hundreds. I plucked it from the front wall of a house I had known under better conditions; the people fled from it under the rain of shell and bomb which broke its windows and crashed through its roof in March, and all intended the vine had brought forth her fruit in great abundance.

The boys from home have been used full justice in all cases to the great name they long ago made for themselves, and the various troops with which from time to time I come in touch are never tired of telling the wonderful things our boys have accomplished.

I suppose you have already heard that my eldest boy is again in an English hospital suffering from further wounds. Well, Brother Leiford, the war still goes on, but I have every hope that the spring will about see the end of it. I would very much like to have been home so I guess I shall have to be satisfied with the usual two weeks in England. I hope everything is going on all right with the lodge. Remember me very kindly to all its members and any inquiring friends, and for yourself and

Pte. Herman Thomas Writes Home. Charles H. Thomas, 89 Carleton street, this city has received two long letters from his son, Private Herman J. T. Thomas who went overseas with the 29th Kiltie battalion and is now a member of the 42nd Canadians. Extracts from his letter follow:

"You must excuse me for not writing you before, but it was impossible as I have been practically in the front line since August 8 until now and this is the only chance I have had to drop you a letter. You spoke of Steve Fry being wounded from him when he got hit. But you know there is no stopping to see who is it. I have been in a lot of hard fights since Steve was hit and have been lucky. Thank God."

"We made a big push and drove Mr. Fritz back so far from many fronts that it is hard to find him. He is certainly getting an awful licking now and there is worse coming to him. Jack has been in all scraps also and sends his love to you. I am going to send you a five mark note, German money I took from a Heine. I will mail it to you in my next letter soon."

"We are giving them square heads or 'Heines' an awful licking. We certainly gave him an awful drive for over a month steadily. Steve Fry was wounded one afternoon about 4 o'clock. His company was on the left of us, so I had no chance to see him, but follows along side of him told me he was not hit badly."

A red triangle hut is to be erected in Barrack square for soldiers and sailors. The estimated cost is from $5,000 to $6,000 and the contract has been awarded to S. H. Mayes. It will be 120 feet wide and 100 feet high. The work will be commenced immediately and it is hoped to have it completed in a month.

This is not, however, the only new accoutrement of soldier entertainment which the Y. M. C. A. is to find in the city this winter, for on Wednesday workmen will begin the renovation of the old Y. M. C. A. building in Charlotte street. The three upper floors of this building will be fitted up by the Red Triangle club for the entertainment of soldiers and sailors. An imposing new entrance will be constructed in the alleyway which will lead up to the quarters to be occupied by the soldiers. On the first floor will be a recreation room of ample proportions, which will be fitted up with billiard tables and other games for the enjoyment of the men, together with a reading room and a writing room. The executive offices will also be on this floor, and the canteen and kitchen. A spacious auditorium will occupy the second floor, having a capacity of 200 people. Here also will modern laboratories be installed.

TOOKE COLLARS

An Appeal to the Citizenship of St. John

Up to the front-line trenches Where the brunt of the fighting falls And back to the last cantonment Where the summoning bugle calls; Wherever there's need of a brother To carry the fighting tune, In the war of men and angels Go the men of the Great Triune.

—Bliss Carman

Men of St. John!

Supporters of the Great Triune of Nations fighting for the liberty of the world! The "summoning bugle" calls you TODAY to a fresh consecration of your effort and material resources on behalf of the soldiers of Canada who are playing "the fighting tune" so well on Europe's blood-sodden fields.

Nobly have you responded in MANHOOD and in MONEY in the past, and you will not fail your country nor its soldiers in the appeal that the Government of Canada now makes to you.

Money is urgently needed to carry on the war endeavors of the nation and to secure that lasting peace that is so much to be desired.

The old Loyalist City of St. John with the outlying parishes in the County, is being asked to subscribe FIVE MILLION DOLLARS to the Victory Loan—not alone because it is a good commercial investment, nor because it will encourage the building of ships here, nor because it will stimulate and stabilize industry and commerce, nor because it will add to the traffic and prestige of the Winter Port of St. John, BUT BECAUSE IT WILL AID IN THE MAINTENANCE OF CANADA'S GALLANT SOLDIERS—because it will provide them with food and clothing and medical attendance, with ammunition for their defence and progress and with other necessary war supplies.

As holders of the "supporting line" you realize the immensity of the obligation resting upon you.

Bayonets and Victory Bonds must work together until Victory has been attained, until the Harvesting of Huns has been completed and the world is freed forever from the curse of militarism and autocracy.

Canada—St. John—must "carry on" until the final day of triumph, and upon you, Men of St. John, is laid the obligation of assisting to the fullest extent of your financial ability.

Women of St. John!

You have not failed your country or its soldiers in the past, you will not fail them now in the supreme test. Four years of untiring and loyal devotion to Britain's cause, of unselfish service and sacrifice on behalf of Canada's gallant soldier-boys, have elevated the womanhood of Canada and of St. John to a degree just a little lower than the angels.

In the present appeal on behalf of the Victory Loan another door of opportunity is opened to Canadian womanhood, a door of service that all can enter.

Through your influence in your homes, in your patriotic organizations, in your leagues and church guilds, and through your pocket-books you can do much to popularize and promote the VICTORY LOAN.

Keep the home fires burning, Women of St. John, but see to it that you also keep aflame the unconquerable spirit of the soldiers of Canada. This is the duty that lies before you.

Boys and Girls of St. John!

You who are just budding into manhood and womanhood—you who in a few short years will be carrying the torch that your fathers and mothers have so long been carrying, you for whose protection and liberty in the years to come the soldiers of Canada are fighting and dying today, to YOU the call of empire service comes, as to your elders.

YOU can help in this hour of nation testing. YOU can help your native city to win its honor flag with its attendant crowns.

How? By manifesting a lively interest in the appeal that the government is making—by learning what the objects of the Victory Loan are—by talking about it in your homes and your schools—by urging it upon your parents—by helping where possible in the campaign and by saving up your pocket money for investment in a VICTORY BOND.

As the brave Canadian Lads pressed on to Cambrai singing songs of Victory, those at home must also press onward to Victory, with the "fighting tune" in their mouths.

"Forward, St. John" Let this be the watchword while the VICTORY LOAN Campaign is on.

DEMANDS PENALTY ON FOE

Legal to Punish Guilty Individuals, Says Sir F. E. Smith

London, Oct. 21.—Sir Frederick E. Smith, attorney-general, in the preface to a new edition of his book on international law, after dealing with Germany's defiance of that law, says that the future of civilization requires that the authority of public law must be asserted with a punishment so memorable, because so dreadful, that the offenses will not be repeated.

For the correction of specific infractions, he adds, international law does not exclude the imposition of punitive damages, however highly placed. Material injuries may be made good by the payment of a pecuniary indemnity and if it be objected that an impoverished nation has no money with which to make good the consequences of its crimes it may be answered that the claims of the guilty nation to be paid interest on money supplied for the purpose of those crimes may be justly postponed for the compensation of the victims. The doctrines of international law afford abundant warrant and precedent for both these standpoints.

CANADIANS AVENGE HUN SINKING OF HOSPITAL SHIP

Graphic Story by Vancouver Soldier, Formerly of West St. John; Action Known as The "L. C."; Llandovery Castle

The Daily Province of Vancouver in its issue of Sept. 28 publishes a stirring war article with pictures of Lieut. Geo. Herbert Clark and his brother, Pte. Donald L. Clark, West St. John boys, sons of R. F. Clark, now of Vancouver. Lieutenant Clark is suffering from trench fever and is in the Prince of Wales Hospital in London while his brother is in an American hospital in France recovering from a wound. The article in the Province has to do with the avenging drive of Canadians in Picardy in retaliation for the sinking of hospital ships by the Germans. It is as follows:

One of the most thrilling eye-witness stories that has ever come out of France has just been received from a Vancouver boy telling in vivid detail the story of the glorious Canadian drive in the Picardy salient, in which tanks and cavalry participated with the infantry. The writer is Lieut. George Herbert Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald F. Clark, Sylvia Court.

Writing immediately after this spectacular advance, with all its tragic and stirring details fresh before him, the soldier describes graphically what it meant to go "over the top" how, from points of vantage in the thick of battle, he watched the magnificent advance of the Canadian infantry; how he watched the "hell-for-leather" gallop of a squadron of horse into certain death, to be avenged later by the victorious tanks; how his own machine gun section was wiped out, and a host of other intimate stories of gallantry and heroism.

Specific details are given of brutal Germans killing wounded Canadian soldiers with the butts of their rifles and with the bayonet, and how the fighting men from the Dominion were spurred on to action at the beginning of the offensive by being reminded of the sinking of hospital ships and the bombing of Canadian hospitals and nurses.

Leading up to the period of secret preparation immediately preceding the great offensive, he writes:

"One evening about 11 o'clock we found ourselves allotted to an area in wood. It was a large wood, but it was crowded with troops and transport. We made ourselves as comfortable as possible under the circumstances and got a few hours' sleep. The Hun planes purring about overhead dropping bombs failed to keep us from slumber; so dead tired were the men."

Day Before the Battle.
"The following morning at an early hour the forest was a scene of feverish activity. It was the day before the big show. There were many things to do, to be checked, special equipment to be drawn and issued; reports to be sent in, and a hundred and one other details to be attended to."

"At 9 o'clock that evening we fell in along the road which ran through our camp. The officers and men who were to take part lined up along the turnpike to wish us 'bon chance.' The battalion moved off by companies, each with its platoon and drummers. The latter after marching about three hours fell to one side and played us by. It was the last time some were to hear 'Scotland Forever.'"

"The roads to the front were becoming more congested, and we were passing all kinds of transport. Later in the day we were passed by thousands of cavalry troops. Farther over on the skyline were numbers of tanks creeping like huge bugs through the darkness. Everything making its way in the same general direction—the Hun line."

"Finally we halted in a wheat field and were told to lie down. There were batteries all about us, all silent, all waiting for the time. The whole atmosphere seemed charged with strained energy. It was the 'get set' me. We spread our ground sheets, and despite the excitement and the tense situation preceding the attack, were soon asleep."

"I was awakened by a huge crash. It was 4:20—two—and the barrage opened like one gun. From then it was a steady roar. A few minutes later we fell in again, and got into position. We were then about three miles behind the front line, but the first assaulting troops were far nearer than that. On either side we saw as far as we could see a line of troops was advancing in columns through the morning mist."

First Hun Prisoners.
"As we approached what had been our front line the first Hun prisoners began to dribble through, escorted by some of our walking wounded. These Boches were of a good type and looked in good condition."

Dead Huns Everywhere.
"About a mile in the rear of our former line we topped a rise and crossed a ridge. The shelling here was quite heavy, and there were some casualties. At the foot of the slope there was a village. This village had been occupied by the German supports, and our artillery had made a good mess of it. Dead Huns were everywhere among the ruins of the buildings. There was a stream running through this village, but our engineers were already constructing a bridge over it. Beyond we passed through fields of standing grain, and crossed a road where a determined stand had been made by some Boche machine-gunners. We have to hand it to the Boche machine gun men, for they do most of the fighting for their side, and they are certainly on to their job. However, our boys had cleaned up this nest in the most approved fashion, as the dead Huns and broken machine guns attested."

"Bunches of prisoners up to seventy-five or more were passing now. They all seemed quite pleased to be prisoners. An odd thing about the Hun is that he invariably thinks you are going to kill him. When he finds out that he is quite safe he is immensely pleased; and becomes quite cocky again. He is the most miserable, cringing specimen you ever saw up to that time."

"The ground we were now on was quite level, and we could see the tanks and cavalry scouring the country away ahead of the infantry. We came to another village which had been used as a brigade headquarters. The first our troops had captured the whole staff there. About a mile farther we came to some flat-topped German guns in a wood. There was every evidence that Pzts had left in a hurry. Beyond the wood we crossed more grain fields. The crop had been harvested here, and dotted over the ground in various places were rifles sticking in the ground with the butts up. This is the conventional sign that there is a wounded man there awaiting a stretcher party."

"In the center of one of the fields was a captured Boche machine-gun nest. A cavalry officer told me that he rode up to it and met a Hun officer coming up the steps, who as soon as he saw he was trapped, shouted in German 'The enemy is upon us,' and turned to run below. The cavalry officer shot him with his revolver, and his troop coming up surrounded the strong point and captured it before the Huns had time to fire a shot."

Hostile German Nurses.
"A few miles further on we came to a wood which was held by another battalion in our brigade. We were to pass through them and advance another thousand yards. This wood had sheltered a German hospital. Beside the hospital was a huge design of a Red Cross worked out in red paint on a whitewashed background. The perfect state of this hospital showed that we respect the wounded in hospitals more than our foe. There were four German nurses captured in a dugout near the hospital, but they refused to work, even to look after their own cases."

"As we lay on the edge of the woods getting our breath before continuing we saw a troop of cavalry gallop up a road to charge a machine-gun position. It was a brave but foolhardy attempt. Saddle after saddle was emptied and horse after horse fell. The remnant of the troop came back on the gallop followed by the aimless horses and some horseless men. Then a tank rolled up the road and one shot from its gun tipped up the whole crowd. The tank guns fire grape-shot, and it has the same effect as a huge shotgun."

Shortly after that we shook out in extended order and advanced. The enemy was now holding a trench, and we came closer we advanced by section rushes, each section being covered by the fire of the other. By the time we rushed the trench the Boche was in full flight. Along the trench were huts which had been occupied by machine-gunners, and their headquarters were in one of them. Everything was just as they had left. They had left a transport wagon loaded with officers' kit boxes, and horses harnessed to it when we arrived. The horses later became frightened at the firing and broke away, running up and down in front of our lines. They were shot down by Boche machine-guns."

"Our boys have acquired a great reputation as soviet hunters, and certainly kept it up here. The souvenirs from that officers' kit wagon and the huts were wintry great. Within half an hour everybody was smoking big cigars. I had a box of choice ones myself. I also had some fine souveniers which I put in my pack."

Advanced Seven Miles.
"It was then about 6:30 in the evening and we had advanced seven miles that day. We consolidated our trench and got settled for the night. A dusk could see small parties of Huns advancing from a wood a mile in front and coming toward us. They continued to come forward, but nothing happened that night, though we made every preparation for repelling a counter-attack."

"About eleven o'clock the scouts of the Battalion came tumbling into our trench. The open space between our trench and the wood we had left the afternoon before was being swept with heavy machine-gun and shell fire, and was dangerous work to get across it. Then the Hun started to shell the wood, which caused heavy casualties to the troops assembling there."

"As we watched the wood a line of khaki-clad figures emerged from the edge and advanced toward us in extended formation, the sun glinting from their bayonets and from the brass portions of the equipment. The machine-gun fire on that open stretch was intense and the shell fire was also very heavy. I could not have believed such courage was possible. They were simply magnificent. Never a man faltered nor hesitated. Time and again I saw a shell drop among a group of these men, and when the smoke had cleared away there was no group. Here and there men would seem to stumble before they fell, others just crumpled up and dropped in their tracks. But they just kept on coming and when they reached our trench they paused to wipe the perspiration from their foreheads. Then I would hear a section commander say to his little group: 'Well, I guess we had better be getting along,' and out they would go, leaving a trail of blood in the hall of lead and shells."

"One lance-corporal who was wounded told the next senior to carry on, and as the boys continued on their way he leaned over the parapet and yelled 'Give 'em hell boys,' until his section passed out of sight in the smoke."

At Grips With Enemy.
"Soon the machine gun fire decreased as our boys reached the Huns. Then the shell fire stopped gradually until only an occasional 5.9 came over. I had been going up and down the trench talking to the men when a little further on I saw a shell burst right in the trench. I threw off my pack and rushed up to find that my machine gun crew had been practically wiped out. Parrot, the section commander and the star Lewis machine gunner in the battalion, was hit in three places. He was killed outright. Gotchick, Wright, McKenigie and Rutherford were all lying in the trench. Further along Sergt. McKay was hit in the head, hit by a flying splinter in a heap. I helped the stretcher bearers fix up the wounded and returned for my pack only to find that it had been 'salvaged' and its contents taken, even to my shaving kit. 'Soon all was peaceful along the line, and we immediately climbed out and did what we could for the many wounded that dotted the field. Going ahead of our trench we found what the Huns who had advanced the night before had been doing. They had come up to within fifty yards of our wire and dug themselves in. In little pits. Nearly every pit had a machine gun in it. There were lots of dead Germans lying around."

"Crows of prisoners came streaming back. I grabbed a few and made them carry Parrott out. Rutherford, who was wounded in the neck, walked beside the stretcher. An hour later when we had going along the trench I was much surprised to see him with his neck bandaged up sitting by the fire digging into a can of 'bully.' He is with us yet. The stretcher bearers worked until they were out of bandages, then the Red Cross wagons came up on the gallop, and in a very short time had the field cleared up. Equipment of all kinds lay scattered over the field. Our fellows were busy collecting souvenirs, most in demand being automatic pistols and binoculars."

Aiding the Wounded.
"We moved on at five o'clock the next morning and marched a few miles to the place where we were to jump off that day. We passed through several villages, the air at times being thick with machine gun bullets. Many casualties were sustained. My platoon sergeant, who was a few yards from me, went down. I rushed over to his side and held an artery in his leg until a stretcher bearer put a tourniquet on it. He had been hit by an explosive bullet, and was seriously wounded. We kept on and had several more casualties. The shelling here was very bad and we had to lie down for awhile to allow our company to get ahead. Here we could see the tanks ahead nosing out machine gun emplacements and clearing up strong points. We entered the town of C—."

"By this time the companies had got somewhat mixed. We had lost touch with the Battalion on our left so that platoon fifteen and sixteen had to protect our flank. "Just before entering the village one of our lieutenants was hit in two places by machine gun bullets. He fell shouting: 'Come on, lads; they're running. His batman stayed with him until eleven o'clock that night, when he was taken to the clearing station. There he died a few hours later. We all regret his loss as he was one of the most popular subalterns we had."

"We had a very warm time cleaning up the village of C—. It was literally packed with machine guns and the tanks had broken down just as we entered. The Battalion was right behind us and were already getting among our men in the ruins of the village. My platoon finally reached the other side. We could see the Boche dragging up his guns through the village of 'A,' a thousand yards in front. While here I had the very unpleasant experience of being sniped at 800 yards point-blank range with a whizz-bang gun. Through my glasses I saw the Huns wheel their gun, load it—then, bang! a shell hit behind me. I certainly stuck close to the rear side of a shell hole. There were two men with me there and one was hit by a fragment of the next shell, which burst two feet from him. He squirmed in the shell hole and I tore open his coat and saw a huge bruise on his chest. He was able with great effort to walk out himself."

Remembered Llandovery Castle.
"While here my No. 2 Lewis gun crew got in some great shooting and killed a number of Huns as they ran. We advanced 800 yards beyond the village, and took up our positions in an old trench. The Battalion then went through us and attached the village of 'H.' As our tanks had not come up they had to withdraw the next day after getting heavy casualties. One of the stretcher parties came down the main road from 'H,' four men carrying their officer on a stretcher. The Boche striped at them all along the road with a whizz-bang gun and made a direct hit on the party. "What happened to the Battalion in the village of 'H' is another story. One of their men who was taken prisoner managed to escape five hours later and gave an account of his adventures. He stated that he had seen two of his wounded, helpless comrades beaten to

What are Canada's Victory Bonds

CANADA'S Victory Bonds are the solemn promise of the Dominion of Canada to the holders that Canada will repay, at the time stipulated in the bonds, their full face value in money, and will pay interest at the rate stated in the bonds, every six months.

As a financial investment Canada's Victory Bonds are in the first rank of the world's investments because:

- the security of the principal and interest is certain as anything human can be; being nothing less than the entire assets of Canada, the pledged honor of the people of Canada and all the assets of all the people of Canada,
 - they are the most "liquid" form of investment; they can be promptly turned into cash at any time,
 - they bear interest which, if saved and compounded, at ordinary bank interest rates would double the amount of the original investment in about fourteen years.
- They are also free from Dominion taxation, present or future.

FOR the investment of estate funds, trust funds, sinking funds and all other funds which by law or other necessity must be invested in unquestioned securities, Canada's Victory Bonds are the premier investment.

Executors, trustees, municipalities and public service corporations and all others with trust or sinking funds to invest, can render to Canada valuable patriotic service by investing their funds in Canada's Victory Bonds.

AND because of the high rate of interest they bear, coupled with their supreme security, there is every reason to expect that Canada's Victory Bonds 1918 will increase in value, when peace is declared—already in the open market Victory Bonds 1917 are quoted at an increase over the issue price.

BUT Canada's Victory Bonds are much more than merely a sound money investment; they are Canada's renewed pledge to fight the war to a finish, till victory is with the Allies and lasting peace is secured to the world.

Investment in Canada's Victory Bonds is sound business patriotism

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada

Every one of Canada's Victory Bonds bought by you is a new assurance to every Canadian soldier that Canada stands behind him ready to send him food and munitions, and to care for those he has left in Canada.

Canada's Victory Bonds guarantee that Canada will keep on producing the food, the munitions and machines to bring victory to the Canadian soldiers in France, and that Canada will keep the home fires burning for their loved ones while they are fighting for our freedom.

SO when you buy Canada's Victory Bonds you help Canada finance the war,—you help to maintain the production of food, munitions and supplies which our soldiers must have.

—and the money paid for these products helps to maintain business and industrial conditions by which the productive efficiency of Canada can be kept at high pressure.

Your investment in Canada's Victory Bonds will be a link in the complete chain of helping our soldiers, helping the country, and thereby also helping yourself.

TURF. Sets World Mark in Trot.
A world's record was lowered in the third day of the final week of Grand Circuit racing on the Lakewood track, Atlanta, last week.
Lu Princeton, Cox's best stallion, defeated St. Frisco in the straight heats in the free-for-all trot, and in so doing established the world's mark for the three fastest heats ever trotted in a race, scoring in 2:02, 2:04 1/2, 2:02 1/2. The time lowered the mark made by St. Frisco this year.
From the standpoint of excitement, the feature event of the day was the 2:07 pace, with Belle Ancantara, Edna Early, and John D. Braden as the starters, driven by McMahon, Gers, and Thomas, respectively. The closest finishes were recorded in each heat, and a blanket could almost have covered the three horses. Belle Ancantara just barely lost out Edna Early in the first two heats, and the latter reversed the count by a fine burst of speed in front of the grand stand in the final heat.
R. A. Sutherland, manager of the Charlotte street branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, has been transferred to the management of the branch at Chatham. He will take over his new duties within the next two weeks. The Charlotte street branch will be temporarily in charge of Mr. Jones of the inspecting staff in Chatham.—Mr. Sutherland will succeed Mr. Lewis.

NO SUGAR FOR GRAND MANAN

Penalized for Sales to American Side—Some Inland Towns May be Similarly Treated

If a person happens to have a sweet tooth the picturesque island of Grand Manan is certainly no place for him these days for the Food Board of Canada has for a month past been prohibiting shipments of sugar into that section.

This prohibition of the household necessity is nothing short of outright punishment for an unpatriotic and illegal traffic in Canadian sugar to the American side, with high duties and a heavy galore. After repeated warnings, which were not heeded, the food authorities put the down ban on the island and the vast majority of law-abiding innocents are suffering with the result.

It appears that at a sugar conference held in Washington some months ago the people of Canada were allowed ninety-two pounds per capita yearly while the American people were allowed eighty pounds.

It was not long after this conference that the United States secret service discovered a plentiful supply of sugar in the border towns of Maine, especially along the coast. Investigations quickly ensued and a system of wholesale smuggling and selling was uncovered.

It was then found out by the Canadian authorities that enough sugar was going into the island of Grand Manan to give every man, woman and child in that district about twenty pounds a month or 240 pounds a year, whilst the wartime allotment was only ninety-two pounds. Large shipments from St. John wholesale concerns were traced and by co-ordinating the evidence on either side of the boundary the case against Grand Manan was proven.

Walter S. Potts, local food deputy, was asked this morning if the ban on sugar on Grand Manan was soon to be lifted. He said he had not yet received any instructions to that effect and thought it hardly probable. In fact since the selling of sugar to Maine state people by New Brunswickers was still going on in a dribbling way he would not be surprised to see sugar shipments withheld from some of the inland towns of this province pretty soon.

Specific permits must be granted grocery firms before they can ship a pound of sugar and a heavy penalty for violation of the provisions and in this way the war measures are clamped on with a vengeance.

STREET PAVING PROGRAMME FOR COMING YEAR

Commissioner Fisher Submits First Draft of His Plans

EXPENDITURE OF $266,000

Recommends That Tenders be Called for Work Deemed Most Urgent and That Preparations be Completed This Fall—Open to Suggestions

His street paving programme for 1919 was submitted by Commissioner Fisher at an informal conference of some members of the council this morning. Copies were distributed for the consideration of the other commissioners, and it was decided to offer the programme to the newspapers for publication, so that citizens might have an opportunity to express their opinions before the matter is taken up in council.

The programme suggested calls for an expenditure of $266,000, but the commissioners does not urge the outlay of the entire amount. His report is as follows:

Your commissioner begs leave to report regarding the unpaved streets that the following appear to be the ones most in need of paving at the present time and that the method of payment for the work should be by bond issues, the terms of each issue to be fifteen years, and the annual charge for interest and sinking fund about eleven per cent.

- (1) Union street from Waterloo to Brunel with granite blocks on cement base, about 1,800 square yards; cost about $8,000.
- (2) Union street from Duke to Prince William with granite blocks on cement base, the blocks to be laid in a special manner to provide footpath for horses, about 2,000 square yards; cost about $12,000.
- (3) Water street from Duke to Reed's Point with granite blocks on cement base, about 400 yards; about $2,000.
- (4) Prince William street from Prince to St. James with granite blocks in track section and asphalt on sides, both on cement base, about 6,500 yards; about $38,000.
- (5) Germain street from King to Union with asphalt on broken stone base. (Note:—This kind of paving is recommended because the council has declared in favor of a smooth pavement for this street. The provision of a rough strip for the street might, however, be considered, about 1,600 yards, about $6,500.)
- (6) Princess street from Germain to Charlotte with same as recommended above for Germain street, about 1,800 yards, about $6,500.
- (7) Duke street from Germain to Charlotte with same as for Germain street, about 200 yards, about $2,000.
- (8) Douglas Avenue, whole length, with asphalt on broken stone base on sides of street, the asphalt in the track section until the time comes when the cost of the work can be collected from the highway commission as is done in other cities. (Note:—The estimated cost at present prices for cement base and stone block paving in track section on double tracked streets is $11 per running foot, and as against this, the company would pay under the existing agreement only $1.91 per running foot), about 18,700 yards asphalt, about $205,000.
- (9) City Road and Haymarket Square with same as on Douglas Avenue, about $1,000, about $15,000. Total about $266,000, including a large amount of granite curbing and some expensive grading.

Your commissioner recommends:

- (1) That estimates be prepared for all of the above paving as a view to calling for tenders for such portions of the work as conditions will permit being undertaken in 1919.
- (2) That King street from Prince William to Charlotte be surfaced on the sides with asphalt, (a smooth pavement) by the Public Works Department in the cost to be met out of the streets appropriation for that year.
- (Note:—If the proposed smooth surface should be laid on this street, horse-drawn loads would have to use the stone-paved track section in the centre of the street.)
- (3) That in case the Public Works Department is able to undertake additional paving in 1919 and the appropriation can be made to cover same, also depending on a supply of asphalt being available after taking care of the repairs of existing pavements, some of the following streets be paved in similar manner to the work done on several streets in 1917 and 1918.
- Princess street from Sydney to Westworth bridge, street from Charlotte to Sydney, Adelaide street from Victoria to Newman Brook, King and Ludlow streets (in part), St. John west.
- (4) That stone curbing, as far as it is available out of the quantity to be purchased in 1919, be laid on residential streets (particularly on Princess and Mecklenburg streets) in any block where the property owners petition for same under the existing law providing for half of the cost being paid by the property owners.
- (5) That the 1919 appropriation for the work of the stone crushers, be increased sufficiently to provide for macadamizing Canterbury street from Duke to British and the hills on a number of streets which are in a very rough condition.

Respectfully submitted,
G. FERL FISHER,
Commissioner Public Works Dept.
October 21, 1918.

AMATEUR PRODUCTIONS ST. JOHN WILL LIKE

Some Theatrical Events to Follow Upon Lifting of the Ban

With the lifting of the public-place closing ban in a short while will come a resumption of amateur theatrical activities, cut short by the Health Department's action, and fresh impetus to early winter and holiday plans.

Mrs. M. B. Edwards and Loderic Vroom are holding piecemeal rehearsals in view of the local food governing assemblies—and getting their "mystery" cast of players in excellent form for the Margaret Anglin success, "Green Stockings," which is to be presented in Imperial Theatre under the auspices of DeMont's and Loyalist Chapters, I. O. D. E.

The comedy, "Cousin Kate," shut out of Oct. 17 and 18 at the Opera House by the influenza preventive measure, will be all the better by virtue of additional going over. This will be under Royal Standard Chapter auspices and directed by Mrs. Clark.

Loyalist Chapter's energetic young ladies have great plans for a "Peace Revue" early in the new year.

In a few weeks details of Harry Lauder's visit on New Year's day will be made known. Exceptional preparations are being made by the Imperial management for this combination theatrical and patriotic event, the great little Scot's farewell before standing for parliament.

DADDY LONG LEGS FOR THE MOTION PICTURES

Former St. John Man Gets the Rights—Owen Moore Very Ill in Epidemic

The Klaw & Erlanger production, "Daddy Long Legs," presented by Hermit Miller's Company in this city some weeks ago, and which Louis B. Mayer, picture magnate, for conversion into moving pictures. Mr. Mayer will doubtless have Anita Stewart play the leading roles in this excellent story. This announcement is of special interest to St. John people who now know the play, are familiar with the star who will picture it and also with their ex-fellow citizen, Mr. Moore, a North End boy, until a few years ago.

Owen Moore, Mary Pickford's husband, is seriously ill with the Spanish influenza in a suburban hotel near New York. He is well-known to many people in this city, where he stayed three months some ten years ago performing back of the screen at the time when talking pictures were a novelty. While here he stayed at the Park Hotel. It was while in St. John Mr. Moore was attracted by the comedienne of Miss Pickford, and later when he returned to New York he met her and became her husband.

A SIDE LINK ON THE WAR

An auto party stopped near the Westfield lumber mill one day last week to make an enquiry of a workman in overalls, who stood smiling on the side of the road.

"T'well the truth, Sir, I don't know meself. Y'see I'm a stranded sailor just puttin' in time till a ship leaves St. John that'll land me back in dear old Ireland," was the bystander's answer.

Dennis Maloney, the "stranded sailor," said he had been tormented three times during the last two years and came to St. John as one of a rescued crew. He is merely filling in with odd jobs until the winter port boats start coming to port.

GOT A MOOSE

William Pike, in the employ of the Atlantic Sugar Refineries, Ltd., returned today after a few days hunting in Albert county. He brought to the city as a trophy of the chase a moose weighing about 600 pounds. The antlers have twelve points.
