SOME CANDIDATES.

Promise of a Lively Time at October Parish Election.

There is a growing interest manifest in the coming parish elections and there is evidence that each parish will be hotly contested. Below will be found a partial list of gentlemen who intend asking the suffrage of the people.

WICKLOW

Coun. Cronkwhite
Coun. Caldwell
Frank Green
Handford Lunn
William Owen
Robinson Longstaff

All these gentlemen are in opposition to the gaol being built at Woodstock. The old councillors have served their constituency well and have shown wisdom in their deliberations at the Board, so it is safe to conjecture at least one of them will be returned.

KENT

Coun. Gallagher
Coun. Tracy
Dr. Atkinson
Amos Giberson
Frank E. McNally
E. F. Shaw

Of this list any and all are men well qualified to fill the office they aspire to, in fact nearly all of them have already served one or more terms. Councillor Gallagher is an advocate of the new gaol at Woodstock and is very sanguine of the ultimate success of the undertaking. The others are "anti-new-gaolites." By-the-way a man doing business at Bath was heard to remark that if a new gaol were to be built it should be in Kent.

STONDS

Coun. Kearney
Albion R. Foster
Nathaniel B. Shaw

All "anti-new-gaolites."

WAKFIELD

Coun. Shaw
Coun. Bell
L. R. Harding

These gentlemen are also opposed to the building of a new gaol.

WILMOT

Coun. White
Coun. Cheney
G. H. Stokoe

and a number of others coming forward. Coun. White is a wellknown advocate of the new gaol, but Stokoe and Cheney claim to be economists, and their election is considered certain.

PEEL

Coun. Phillips
Coun. Tompkins

Phillips fights against the new gaol, while Tompkins is a worker for it.

ABERDEEN

Coun. Lamont
Coun. Gilmore

and others whose names will be given later.

BRIGHTON

Coun. Richardson
Coun. Connolly
S. J. Brown
Gideon Phillips

all opposed to the new gaol.

The names of the candidates for the other constituencies will be given next week.

Waterville News.

During the short space of time between haying and harvesting, numerous parties from this section went to the wilds beyond Cloverdale in search of blueberries. Some were quite successful and blueberries have been on the "bill of fare" for some time. Others report there were more flies than blueberries.

The farmers are now engaged in harvesting. The weather has been very favourable during the last two weeks, and a large amount of oats have been harvested.

The wheat fields look excellent, this having been a favorable year for that grain. The wheat fields of L. E. DeWitt, Earnest Plummer and Malcolm Gardiner look very clean and well-headed.

Delbert Jones of Royaltan has charge of Waterville school this term. Mrs. G. N. White and daughter, of West Branch, Mich., visited relatives and friends in this village last week.

Mr. David Bloodworth is very poorly. Dr. Bearisto is frequently in attendance.

J. R. Getchell is not improving, but seems to be slowly growing weaker. Dr. Kierstead is in attendance.

Our former merchant Alex. Carr, was here last week. He claims to be having a good trade at his present stand, Jacksonville.

Owing to lack of rain the stream presents a gloomy aspect compared with its usual volume and clearness.

The drill at Sussex begins September the 12th. Among those going from this section are Byron Grant, and Geo. W. Robertson.

The cheese factory is still in operation but under unfavorable circumstances owing to lack of milk. The farmers are gathering their apples and taking them to market. The crop of New Brunswick apples has been good, but some of the winter varieties are less than usual.

OLD HEMLOCK.

Dreyfus at Rennes.

Justice may be done at Rennes, but Dreyfus will never be a national hero. The world will probably pity him, and Frenchmen may reluctantly admit that he has been treacherously dealt with, and cruelly used; but he lacks the qualities that his own nation admires in a public man.

He has a strong but not a handsome face. He has quiet dignity, but lacks a commanding presence. His manner is cold and reserved. His emotions are generally under the control of a strong will. His face and bearing repel rather than excite sympathy.

The French are an excitable people who like melodrama in their public life. Dreyfus is not a man capable of striking an attitude and posing before them as the victim of conspiracy and oppression who has battled and triumphed gloriously over his enemies. He neither appeals to their imaginations, nor excites their emotions. The pathos of his lot does not touch their hearts and induce hero-worship. Even when convinced of his innocence, they will look upon him as an unfortunate Jew who has been baited and nearly hounded to death.

Americans may judge of him differently but Frenchmen are strangely and perversely indifferent to either English or American opinion. They can never make a popular idol of a scapegoat for the crimes of military intrigues. Their heroes must be men of action, with a vainglorious faith in their own destiny, with a theatrical air, and with fascinations of personality. Dreyfus as he is seen at Rennes, is meagre, in their eyes, a poor dupe who has suffered until the iron has entered into his soul.

At the time of writing this article Dreyfus's trial is not completed. Should he be acquitted, his resignation from the army will probably follow, and years of exile in England. Evil passions have been excited by the prolonged excitement of the Dreyfus affair. The Jews in France will not benefit by his acquittal. They will be more vehemently disliked because he has been misjudged and cruelly wronged.

In any event Dreyfus will not have suffered in vain. Militarism will never again be the blind, unreasoning force which it has been in France. Justice and mercy, those grand Hebraic virtues of the ancient Scriptures, will have a deeper meaning throughout the world in consequence of the wrongs suffered by this patient, unhappy Alsatian Jew.—Youth's Companion.

MEDICOS' ANNUAL SESSION.

Election of Officers—Dr. Rankin's Return—The Rhine Not in It.

The Carleton Co. Medical society held its annual meeting at Eloreenceville on September 5th.

The retiring officers handed in their reports which were well received by the Society. After this the Society proceeded to elect the officers for the current year as follows:

President, Dr. Hand; Vice President, Dr. Brown; Secretary, Dr. Estey; Treasurer, Dr. Sprague; Dr. Kierstead and Dr. Ross, with the officers, form the executive committee. The Arrangement and the Finance and Audit committee were reappointed.

After the election of the officers the president gave a short address of welcome to Dr. Rankin calling on him for a sketch of his trip and course, to which Dr. Rankin kindly responded.

He gave the Society a very interesting account of his trip in England and Germany. Not only was his address interesting but instructive. He also gave a very detailed account of some of his studies, and an interesting description of a sail on the Rhine which he says really cannot compare with the St. John for splendor of scenery.

The Carleton Co. Medical Society has been in existence one year. It has held six meetings, at which as many papers have been read, on as many different subjects, all of which have been highly instructive. The next year is looked forward to give us more and brighter ideas. The society has the tendency of helping its members to be up-to-date in every line, thus giving to the public the best material.

Bath News.

A number of ladies from here have gone on a visit to the Maine State Fair at Lewiston. There were among the number Mrs. E. F. Shaw, Miss Dora Barker, Miss Belma Jones, and Miss India Giberson.

Congratulations are now being extended to Dexter Barker because of the arrival of a son and heir.

Mrs. Frank McElroy, a bride of less than a year, died at her home on Saturday after a short illness of tubercular meningitis. The funeral was held on Monday and was largely attended as deceased was highly esteemed. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved husband and friends.

Aberdeen Agricultural Society.

The Aberdeen Agricultural Society will hold their Exhibition for the year 1899 on the 14th day of October. It is expected that the show will be a good one in all departments. The membership is large and is composed of many of the best farmers of Brighton, Kent, and Aberdeen. The seed business of the Society for the season of 1899 is the largest in its history. Of seed wheat it imported and sold 120 bushels. Premium lists can be had by addressing the secretary.

Drowning Accident.

An accident occurred recently in Halifax Harbor by which seven lives were lost. A party of eleven were returning home from a picnic at MacNab's Island when a squall struck the boat and capsized it.

Bank at Grand Falls.

The Peoples' Bank of Halifax have opened a branch at Grand Falls. It is in charge of Mr. McKay of the Edmundston branch. Andover and Perth people feel that they are being slighted.

The Drought.

The drought is being keenly felt in Ontario and Quebec. The apple crop in both provinces being very meagre on that account. The farmers have no water for their cattle much less pasture. Some of them drive their stock two and three miles to water.

Hot Weather Goods

will be sold at reduced prices to make room for Heavier Goods which will arrive soon. A full line of Men and Boys' Suits and furnishing constantly on hand at prices that will see them A special line of Men's unlaundried white shirts

FEEDING EAR CORN.

The New Jersey Experiment Station Proves Unwisdom of the Practice in Eloquent Figures.

The practice of feeding ear-corn to cattle is very widespread. The impression seems to be that what is lost in the unused corn is made up in the saving in labor and expense of grinding. The practice of having hogs "follow" cattle originated in a desire to make good a part of this loss. The practice, however, is not one that commends itself to men that practice advanced methods in feeding. Even in the cases of men that have their cattle followed by hogs in summer time, the same practice of feeding corn on the cob is continued during the winter and during all other times, when the loss cannot certainly be made good by the hogs. Experiments have demonstrated that the loss of good feeding material by the practice is very large. The New Jersey experiment station recently made some tests that were strongly demonstrative of the unwisdom of this course. One cow was fed ten pounds of corn on the cob daily, of which 5.73 pounds appeared in the excrement, thus showing that 57.3 per cent. went through the stomachs of the cow without being affected by the digestive processes. It must be taken into consideration that there is a loss otherwise than of the 57.3 per cent. of corn, for the animal has had to use some force in the process of passing this unused material through the system. The station mentioned figured out that in the case of a cow giving milk the value of a ton of corn and cob meal was $9.38 more than a ton of ear corn. Of course, from this must be deducted the cost of husking and grinding a ton of corn, but this would seldom exceed a half of the increased value represented.—Farmers' Review.

PEN FOR BROOD SOWS.

It Is Frost-Proof and Pigs Can Be Raised in It Even in the Coldest Weather.

Thousands of farmers are using the portable pigpen shown in illustration. The objection to it in cold weather is that the cold wind striking the outside of pen condenses the warm air and steam on the inside, producing frost and ice. To remedy this I first board up in the usual way, cover with good quality building paper, nail on cleats crosswise, cover with boards one foot wide and batten. A two-inch air space between the outer and inner wall is thus secured. The ends should be fixed up the same way. Now you have an almost Breed, feed, fatten and market the hogs young, and turn off two crops a year rather than one every two years, as was the old custom. A good clover field helps in this wonderfully, and in it the hogs will keep vigorous and healthy.—Colman's Rural World.

When Horses Catch Cold.

It has been noticed that horses that have been out on pasture for some time will frequently seem to take cold or develop a case of nasal catarrh when taken up and kept in the stable. If the stable is very close and warm and no protection is given to the horse to prevent him from taking cold when brought out, he is liable to be affected by the change during very cold weather. Sometimes, also, the stable is too open and he has to stand in a draft when brought in warm from work. In such cases cold may frequently follow the neglect. In many cases, however, the catarrh or cold may be prevented by seeing that the stable is free from filth and impure air.—Farmers' Review.

PORTABLE DOUBLE-WALLED HOG HOUSE.

air-tight pen and a sow would not live in it long. For ventilation, bore a two-inch hole through the outer wall near the bottom of pen on the end. Bore a corresponding hole on the inside near the top. Reverse the position of these holes on opposite end. Have a double window in one end high up out of the reach of the sow. The door in the other end should also be double. Place a guard for little pigs across back end and a trough near front end. If the weather is very cold, hitch a team to pen and draw in onto barn floor. Pigs can then be raised in coldest weather.—Orange Judd Farmer.

PIG-PEN POINTERS.

A sour swill is often the cause of scours in pigs.

Does the sow have to climb a steep plank to get to her pen?

Small, unsalable cooked potatoes are good for the hogs; mix with skim-milk and a little cornmeal.

Lice can be driven from hogs by taking a paint brush and with it applying kerosene or fish oil.

Don't forget to see that the brood sows have plenty of clean water to drink while they are raising their pigs.

Don't expect a clover field pastured by pigs to produce hay the next season. Too many roots will be rooted out and eaten.

The first time a pig follows its dam from the nest, let it see grass in its pen as soon as possible.

About Friends

Jealousy is a cancer in friendship's heart.

Friendship annihilates time and distance.

Friendship suffers long and is not "touchy."

The friend whom adversity drives away was never a friend.

Petty criticisms and fault-finding hurry friendship to death.

Unselfishness is the price that must be paid for true friendship.

God's great love for us lays upon us an obligation to greatly love one another.

The highest friendship can not exist without respect. To make ourselves worthy of the best friends we must make ourselves worthy of respect.

Friendship insures equality. Prince Jonathan and Minstrel David knew no difference of rank. Friends must be on the one level of heart, else they are not friends.

A friend is the best fortune. He alone owns the riches of life who has a strong, true, loving friend. And without such a friend there can only be poverty, though coffers be filled to bursting, and every material wish be gratified. We only live when we love.

Would you know whether you are a true friend to him to whom you have professed affection? Here are the standards: A friend suffereth long and is kind; a friend envieth not; a friend vaunteth not himself; a friend seeketh not his own; a friend is not easily provoked; a friend thinketh no evil.

A Lamb Without Legs.

A leg of lamb is a familiar, and to most people a pleasing sight, but a legless lamb has perhaps never before been heard of. So that a blithe young lamb born without legs, displayed opposite a Bleury street butcher's on Saturday, attracted considerable attention from passers by. The little animal is provided with feet, and can get about the meadow as friskily as you please, but the go-betweens are missing.—Witness.
