DISAGREEMENT AT THE ALTAR.

(South Africa.)
On a recent afternoon at Cape Town, when a bridegroom and wedding party were in the church waiting the arrival of the bride, the organ duly heralded her approach and the clergyman stepped forward to perform the ceremony. However, both bride and bridegroom showed a strange unwillingness to proceed, and finally the clergyman was made to understand that he was dealing with an odd pair. Somebody suggested that the bride had come to the wrong church, which proving to be the case, she found her way to another sacred edifice, where a disconsolate bridegroom was impatiently waiting. The other bride then arrived at the first church and the couples were eventually rightly sorted.

BASE BALL.

FIRING CEASED.

No. 2 Co., 3rd C. A., finished their preliminary drill yesterday afternoon, but a pathetic incident prevented them from doing the competitive firing with which they would have finished up about 4.30 in the afternoon all were taken suddenly by surprise to see a little girl running over to where they were at work, and crying that her mother, Mrs. Jas. McKillop, was dying and that the noise of the guns was causing her great distress. Out of respect to the sufferer the firing was immediately ordered to be stopped, but Mrs. McKillop expired shortly afterwards.

At 4 p.m. the company marched out of camp, and will return this afternoon to finish with No. 1 Co., their competitive practice. The firing of both companies will probably not occupy more than a couple of hours at the most.

For convenience of reference there is given below the date of arrival of the different companies into camp from August 1st, and the time of departure of each:

Date.	Co. Regt. Depart.

WILLING TO LET IT DROP.

(London Globe.)

Two Irishmen serving in a British regiment were good chums until Rooney was raised to the rank of sergeant. Forthwith his chum's wand went about from that time on he looked down on McGrane.

One day McGrane approached Rooney, and said, "Mike—I mean sergeant—'pose a private stepped up to a sergeant and called him a conceited monkey, phad wud happen?"

"He'd be put in the yardhouse," "He wud."

"Well, now, 'pose the private only thought the sergeant was a conceited monkey, and didn't say a word about it. 'Wud be put in the yardhouse?"

"Ave course not."

"Well, then, we'll have it go at that."

HOSPITAL COMMISSION.

The regular monthly meeting of the General Public Hospital Commission was held at that institution yesterday afternoon. Chairman Maher presided and the members present: Dr. Walker, H. Hilyard, Ald. McDermid, Dr. H. G. Addy, and Dr. Jas. Christie. Only regular business was dealt with.

The new children's ward is now completed and is being equipped. Dr. Walker has charge of the arrangements and it is expected that the work will be finished in about a week.

Dr. Walker has charge of the arrangements and it is expected that the work will be finished in about a week. Dr. Walker is acting for L. J. Almon, who is expected to return to the range for the kitchen.

WILL BE MARRIED SHORTLY.

President Ian Hannah of Kings College, who is now in Western Nova Scotia, will continue his canvass in that province for the rest of the month. He will be in St. John, N. S., on Tuesday, when he will visit the United States, where he will be married. Dr. Hannah's father, the dean of Chatham, will probably be present at the ceremony. The lady is a graduate of Oberlin College and a resident of Chatham.

A rep. from the St. John, N. S., says that Rev. Mr. Jones, agent for Kings College, secured $100 for the endowment fund on a recent visit to Liverpool, N. S.

PHENOMENAL BREAKDOWN.

(M. A. P.)
Dr. Macnamara, M. P., has a new golf story. He says that other members had been playing a game on the links of a South London club. The "bogey" for the first two holes is 5 and 4 respectively (to non-golfers it may be explained that "bogey" is the number of strokes a good player is likely to make to get into the hole). Sitting down to tea, one of the members fell into a penitential mood, chased by the wild windings of the afternoon. At last he was overheard to address his companion in the following: "Ah, well! It's a mysterious game. Take this afternoon. I did the first in ten and the second in twelve. And then I went all to pieces!"

Gospel services at the King's Daughters' Guild, Sunday, 4 p. m. Leader: Miss Barker. Prayers and praise. All are welcome.

News has been called "the manna of a day," and this applies with particular force to the news contained in "Poverty is a bully if you are afraid of her, or truckle to her," but a wise use of the wand will often enable you to cut her acquaintance altogether.

AS IT WAS INTENDED.

(Harper's Weekly.)

A certain clergyman reports the following incident as occurring just inside the entrance to one of the largest and most popular New York churches during a crowded service.

It was during the reading of a prayer, and the entire congregation was kneeling. A man of rough appearance evidently unused to ecclesiastical surroundings, strolled through the open doors and stared in apparent wonderment at the silent and kneeling congregation. He looked a moment, then turning to the sexton, who stood near by, remarked, briefly,

"Well, this beats the devil!"

The sexton turned a serene eye on him.

"That is the intention," he replied.

A FAITHLESS COMPANY.
Under the agreement between the government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Company the only guarantee that maritime province ports have that they will not be entirely ignored by the new railway is the company's blank assurance that it will do all it can to develop Canadian routes and ports. There is no legal obligation, there are no provisions for punishment in case of violation of the promise.
There is only the unsupported word of the company.
The value of that word was strikingly illustrated in parliament a short time ago.

In 1898 the Grand Trunk Company, which is also the G. T. P. Co., made a contract with the government for the division of traffic with the Intercolonial. The contract was the work of Mr. Blair, who more than once in this city spoke of it as something that would be of vast benefit to this port.
The benefit never came, and the reason was made clear when, on July 1st last, Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick, minister of justice, introduced a bill to increase the powers of a committee of arbitration between the government and the Grand Trunk. Not only had the company refused to live up to its agreement, but when a committee was appointed to arbitrate the matters in dispute, it refused to give up the information required. So power was sought to allow the arbitrators to summon witnesses and examine them under oath.

In Mr. Fitzpatrick's speech that day is the following (Hansard, p. 846):
"The other matter is of even more importance—that arising under the contract of 1898 relating to the division of traffic. It was understood that the Grand Trunk was to hand over to the Intercolonial all traffic intended for the maritime provinces. Instead of that, the traffic has been diverted and sent to other places." Mr. Fitzpatrick: "And some of it to Sherbrooke? I do not know exactly how it has gone."

THE RACE CRY AGAIN.
Le Soliel, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's organ in Quebec City, is going to break all records in the race cry business before it gets through.
Its latest effort is in reply to a circular sent out by the Orangemen of Ottawa, inviting friends to attend the celebration in honor of Lord Dundonald on the eve of his departure. The circular dared to ask those invited to "show Lord Dundonald that he is not a foreigner nor a stranger in this country, but that on the contrary he occupies a large place in our hearts."
Says Le Soliel:
"This letter does not call for comment."
"We shall content ourselves with saying to our friends of the Province of Quebec, 'At the next election let us show Lord Dundonald that he is a foreigner and a stranger by voting for Sir Wilfrid Laurier.'"
"Let us prove to the Orangemen that we repel with energy the injuries which they hurl at the illustrious chief of the Liberal party."

For fear of public ownership the Laurier government, in parliament, refused to consider a proposition that the profitable Canada Atlantic Railway should be added to the Intercolonial system. It rushes, however, to pay $800,000 in order that the unprofitable Canada Eastern may be taken over and made a burden on the treasury.
The Laurier government is a business freak—Montreal Gazette.

Sir William Mulock charged the country $6,000 for his trip to Australia, a few years ago, and $4,000 for an excursion over to London. There is an idea current that the gallant knight was imposed upon by the steamship companies and the hotels. Maybe Sir William chartered a special boat.—Mail

SATURDAY SERMONETTE.

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."
What about women's inhumanity to women? "Dorothy Dist," who seems to understand the idiosyncrasies of her sex claims that women are more cruel to women than men are to men, and to prove her indictment tells the story of an invalid, a lady as far as appearances went, well dressed and refined, who asked the conductor to see if some gentleman would not exchange a lower for an upper berth in a pullman. She did not care too much for her health to risk the draughts of an upper berth.
The conductor came back to say that the gentlemen very much regretted that they could not make the exchange as none of them had a lower berth.
The conversation was distinctly heard by a number of ladies but none of them offered to make the exchange, and so well did the invalid understand her sex that she was neither surprised nor disappointed that they did not. Other stories were told and other incidents were given to show how cruel one woman could be to another. How they scouted at each other's dresses and bonnets, and sneered at each other's weakness. And then the story told the author had studied her sex and had watched their treatment of each other on boat and train and other public places.
I am sorry I read the clever sketch.
It was well written and witty, but it seemed to me that it was false, and I could see the claws that were secretly closed with velvet.
I am sorry I read it for it made me think of what a lady missionary told me in New York when I asked her what was the greatest hindrance to her work in rescuing the perishing.
"The little stumpy given to the submerged by so-called Christian women," she said. "They send back to the street where they were saved when they find out that the faithful, virtuous servant we have given them, is a Kommy with a 'paw'."
"Also for the rarity of Christian charity under the sun."

IF YOU LOVE ME, LEAN HARD.
Child of my love, lean hard,
And let me feel the pressure of thy care.
I know thy burden, for I fashioned The child of my own hand, and made its weight Precious that which I saw best for thee.
And when I placed it on thy shrinking
arms,
I said, "I shall be near, and while thou leapest
On me thy burden shall be mine, not thine."
So shall I keep within my circling arms
The child of my own love; here lay it down,
Nor fear to weary Him who made, uphold,
And guides the comer.
Yet closer come:
Thou art not near enough. Thy care,
O' myself,
Lay both on me, that I may feel my Reposing on my heart.
Thou lovest me?
I doubt it not; then, loving me, lean hard.

PUZZLED.
A minister of the Methodist Protestant church, now stationed on the eastern shore of Maryland, is convinced that the life of a clergyman is a hard one. He says the Baltimore Herald. His views on certain current questions had been reported by members of the Knights of his church, and considering their actions notoriously unjust, he took occasion to refer to it in one of his Sunday sermons.
He said that he had been consoled by calling to mind the story of an Irishman, who, while residing in New York, was invited to live in somehow in lower Delaware. Although a frugal and hard-working man, this man was invited to live with the town lawyers on Saturday afternoons, and sometimes returned home in a state of intoxication so freely that he was totally unable to steer himself homeward, a kindly disposed individual who happened along placed him in his cart and started the mule in the right direction. Unfortunately, some mischievous boys met the cart and, deciding to play a joke on the old man, untouched the mule, and leading it to a water trough, he was obliged to await results. In a short time the Irishman awoke from the stupor, rubbed his eyes, and, looking about, exclaimed:
"Begorra, is this me or is it not me?
Faith, I cannot tell. If this is not me,
I have found a cart!"
RUBE WADDELL'S WARNING TIP.
"I never think of an extra inning game without remembering the remark by Rube Waddell when he was with me in Milwaukee before the team was transferred here," says Connie Mack of the Philadelphia.
"We were playing a double header in Chicago and the first game went seventeen innings before Rube finally landed it for us. Waddell looked so good against the White Sox that day that I thought I would use him in the second game, too.
"Rube," I said, as he came in hot and flushed at the end of the seventeenth inning, "do you think you could pitch the second game for me today?"
"Don't know yet," drawled the Rube.
"I'll see how I feel when I warm up."

A STREET SCENE.
(Montreal Herald.)
It was one of the poor streets of Montreal, one of the streets that need civil reform and chloride of lime.
A little girl had walked to the corner with a child of probably two years over her shoulder. He was heavy, and she kept pushing him up, and changing her position to ease herself.
She waited on the corner a minute and then turned back and walked up the street. A man was standing on the sidewalk before a disreputable, unpleasant-looking house. As the child came up he took the woolly hair from her shoulder roughly, and as the little girl commenced to cry at his unkind words to her, he looked her, and she started the door closed with a bang behind them.

The landlady of a modern boarding house must be a good advertiser, as well as a good cook and a pleasing hostess. Thus the accomplishments of women multiply.

LOCAL NEWS.

Rev. Howard Sprague will preach at both services tomorrow in the Queen Square Methodist Church.
P. A. Smith of Sydney street has been reported by the police for having a sign which projected too far over the sidewalk.
A team belonging to M. Watson of Fairville bolted out of the I. C. R. yard yesterday afternoon. It was stopped on Main street, but not before it had damaged the cart.
It is expected that Rev. Mr. Wadman, the returned missionary from Japan, will preach in the Westfield Methodist Church at 7 tomorrow evening.
The drug clerks of the city had a meeting at their rooms on Charlotte street last evening, and completed arrangements for their summer outing, which is fixed for August 10th at the Willows. The steamer Hamstead has been chartered for the occasion, and will leave her wharf at 2.30 p. m. Wednesday. A fine programme of sports has been provided for, and Hon. E. J.
McDermack, proprietor of the Willows, will cater to the wants of the young men, who will return to the city about Monday.

COLONEL J. N. GREEN DEAD.
The death took place in Boston on Tuesday, July 26, of Col. Joseph N.
Green, of the 6th Regt. of the New Brunswick Southern Shore Line Railway, as he called it. Col. Green was well known in this city, and up to 1898, when mortgages were foreclosed and he lost control of the road, was a frequent visitor here. He is survived by one son, Captain Louis D. Green, of the U. S.
Army, and a daughter, Miss Jessie Green, of New York. Besides the Grand Southern, Colonel Green also built the Bar Harbor branch of the Maine Central and the Penobscot Central electric roads. It was at the time of his death working on a project for a thirty mile road to pass through some of the Boston suburbs.

WITH ADVERTISERS.
A. Gilmore, tailoring and clothing, offers additional inducements in his summer clean-up sale of suits and white vests, and advises the arrival of new cloths in his custom department.
R. Hornbush & Co. are offering selective bargains in furniture at their new store on Mill street in the Regan building. See ad. in this issue.
F. A. Dykeman & Co. will put on sale today and Monday a large lot of shirt waists that have come to them at about half their regular price. The ladies of St. John will no doubt appreciate this great opportunity as they did one of a similar kind a short time ago at this firm's store.

NO ELECTION, SAYS ONE.
(Special to the Star.)
OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 5.—One of the best posted parliamentary authorities here today: "You can assure the maritime provinces there will be no general election this year. I can see the handwriting plainly on the wall. This sentiment is Conservative by conviction and honestly believes what he says. Nevertheless the Conservatives are taking no heed of the election is called on. Eternally it is necessary to be ready.
Non-belief in Liberal utterances follows as matter of course."

JAMES FRASER'S FUNERAL.
The funeral of the late James Fraser will be held from his residence, City Road, on Sunday afternoon. The service will be conducted by Rev. D. J.
Fraser, of St. Stephen's church.
The funeral will be attended by members of the F. R. station at Bath, of Pithia. After the ordinary funeral services at the grave have been concluded, the Pithia burial rites will be conducted by Past Supreme Prelate James Moulton, of the Knights of Pythias. The pall-bearers will be S.
Wilkins, Charles Nevis, David Belyea, R. J. Armstrong, John Doherty and W.
T. G. Cosman.

Ten people will see a placard of
"To Let" on your house to about every hundred who will read your "To Let" ad. in these columns. Which way is the wisest—the "Placard way" or the "Want ad" way?
HANLON WILL GET OFF.
WOODSTOCK, N. B., Aug. 5.—Peter J. Hanlon, who some time ago pleaded guilty to the charge of breaking and entering the F. R. station at Bath, and taking therefrom liquor and other small articles while intoxicated, and who has been retained on the advice of the acting attorney general, so that certain phases of the case might be looked into, was brought before Magistrate Dibble this afternoon, and further remanded to enable him to secure bail for his future good behavior, upon security which will be released.

AWAY FOR THIRTY YEARS.
There arrived in this city on Thursday John Lawlor, who for thirty-five years has not been heard from by his relatives here and who was consequently given up as dead. For twenty-five years Mr. Lawlor has been in business in Baltimore. Peter Lawlor, Henry Dolan and Mrs. John Ebo are sisters. Mr. Lawlor is the guest of John Rhea, Mill street.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—In the commons this morning the third reading of the bill to amend the inland revenue account affecting tobacco concerns was adopted after much debate.

After this the government bill to purchase the Canada Eastern railway and Fredericton bridge was discussed at length, but was adopted in the afternoon without discussion and was read a third time and sent to the senate.

The alien labor bill next came up. It was tersely dissected by opposition speakers and defended on general lines by Mulock and Laurier.

The house tonight continued the debate on the alien labor bill till a late hour. Clarke, Barker, Fowler, Broolis and others criticising the measure most keenly.

In the course of the debate tonight, Talbot of Bellechasse made a fierce attack on Fowler of Kings, and others, charging them with uttering slurs on the loyalty of the French inhabitants of Canada.

THE SKY SCRAPER

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN.

We stood one Sunday morning in a group watching for her to speed across the Narrows. Many locomotives as I have seen and ridden, new ones are always a wonder to me...

As the new engine rolled into the yard, my heart best quickened. Her lines were so imposing to call strong; they were massive, yet so simple you could draw them, like the neck of a colt, to a very point.

Every bearing looked precise, every joint looked simple, as she swept majestically up and checked herself, panting, in front of us.

Foley was in the cab. He had been east on a lay-off, and so happened to be riding in the new monster, wild from the river shops.

"How does she run, Foley?" asked Neighbor, glancing slightly over the top.

"Cool as an ice-box," said Foley, swinging down. "She's a regular summer resort. Little stiff on the hills yet."

"Well, take that out of her," mused Neighbor, climbing into the cab to look her over. "Boys, this is up in a balloon," he added, pushing his big head through the cab window and peering down at the ninety-inch drivers under him.

"I grew dizzy once or twice looking for the ponies," declared Foley, biting off a piece of tobacco as he hitched at his overall. "She looks like a skyscraper. Say, Neighbor, I'm to get her myself, ain't I?" asked Foley, with his usual nerve.

"When McNeal gets through with her, yes," returned Neighbor, gruffly, giving her a thimble of steam and trying the side or the top of the boiler.

ways rode bareheaded if the night was warm, and I knew it was he; but suddenly like a flash his head went in. I knew why as well as if my eyes were his eyes and my thoughts his thoughts. He has seen red up and wroth as he had every right to look for white.

But red signals now—to stop her—to pull her into the moorings lined bronco? Shake a weather flag at a cyclone!

I saw the fire stream from her drivers; knew they were churning in the sand; I knew he had twenty air cars behind him sliding. "What of it?"

Two thousands men were sweeping forward like an avalanche. What did brains or pluck count for now with 50,000 men on their feet, school girls right into the teeth of it.

I don't know how the other men felt. As for me, my breath choked in my throat, my knees shook and a deadly nausea seized me. Unable to avert the horrible blunder, I saw its hideous result.

Darkness hid the worst of the sight; it was the sound that appalled. Children dashed in panic, miles from where the two engines reared in awful shock, jumped in their cribs at the crash; it's little engine barely checked the skyscraper. She split it like a banana.

There was a blinding explosion, a sudden burst of steam; the windows crashed out, the roof fell down, the skyscraper lay, like another leopardenia. A baggage truck whipped up from the platform below, came through the car tracks and down on the dispatcher's table like a brickbat.

All at once, the skyscraper, yet not the skyscraper, lay, like another leopardenia. A baggage truck whipped up from the platform below, came through the car tracks and down on the dispatcher's table like a brickbat.

Called forth by the formation of an Anti-Smoking League.

GOOD WORD FOR TOBACCO.

STRANGE NEW ANIMALS FOUND.

What a lot of queer animals will be added to the Lincoln park zoo if the commission decide to import a shipment of the strange beasts and birds that have been discovered in Tibet, the mysterious forbidden land just being opened to the knowledge of the world by British rifles and machine guns.

Think of G. D. Vry proudly showing to visitors a pair of barbara, or blue sheep! How the grunting ox would delight the Hindu, and the grunting ox, orange monkeys, snow leopards, black and cream-colored bears, also deer with thirteen pronged horns, kiangs, or wild asses, goats, argalis, yaks, chringas—the names of these strange animals alone would be worth looking at.

Tibet, for centuries the most mysterious land on the planet, will be a forbidden land no longer by the end of the present year. A British army has crossed the Himalayas and is fighting its way over terrible gorges, along narrow trails, through deep defiles and across barren stretches of desert to the capital of the great lama.

This strange land on the roof of the world will be a paradise for sportsmen and the hunter of wild game. Among these strange animals may be mentioned the yak, or grunting ox, that grows both wool and hair. It is larger, much larger, than the familiar yak of the Chinese mountains. It stands six feet high at the shoulder. It has an enormous growth of long white hair upon the neck and the body, spreading out like a shaggy mane.

Barren and inhospitable, the high Tibet has a number of animals, yet not the hunted animals as remarkable as the yak—the chiru antelope, for example, which like the grunting ox, has developed an enormous swollen nose. It is supposed that this enlarged size of the nasal chamber is directly due to the high altitude of the region.

The little goat or Tibetan gazelle, and a magnificent wild sheep, the argali, manage, like the chiru, to thrive where the number of points—thirteen in the horns of the argali—is a record.

THE STENOGRAPHER GIRL.

She Holds It Unfair to Women to Require Her to Be Beautiful.

"I see," said the stenographer, "that the artistic sense of my sex has begun to assert itself. A woman who is beautiful is lucky to get a good husband these days, no matter whether he is white right here in little old New York or out there in the neighborhood of her lover fattening up."

"With the matrimonial market in the depressed condition it's in now, it is no time to look a gift proposal in the belt," replied the bookkeeper. "A girl is lucky to get a good husband these days, no matter whether he is built on the early gothic or bay window style of architecture."

"But you can see women doing these things every day. The lack of hair doesn't bar a man from society, but a bald spot on a woman's head is a tiger's handiwork that an expression on her character. If a man is long on good qualities it doesn't matter if he is long on hair; but if a woman lacks the looks, she might have all the virtues of the Beatitudes, and no man would ever get near enough to her to find them out."

"An ugly woman sure does make me cross," said the bookkeeper. "None of your dames with a fixed face for mine."

"You're in the chorus all right," returned the stenographer, "and that's what makes being a woman the hardest job that any female being ever tackled. No matter what a woman does, she's got to add the trill of looks to it. If a woman wants a clerk or a stenographer, or a bookkeeper, she asks of another man is that he will be ugly enough to marry her, and it doesn't cut any ice; but a woman has to be a good-looker as well as a good worker."

"And that isn't all. Even the women who do the big things have to carry a side line of beauty. When Mrs. Currier discovered radium all the newspaper accounts of her wound up by saying she was handsome and an elegant dresser."

ENGINES TESTED IN SHOP.

CARRIED 250 FEET ON A COWCATCHER.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Mrs. Edward Cornwall and her son, of this city, while crossing the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railroad tracks in an automobile this afternoon, were struck by a passenger train. The machine and its occupants were carried two hundred and fifty feet on the cowcatcher. When the train stopped the engine driver lifted his cowcatcher from the wreckage of the automobile, while the train crew removed her son. They were seriously injured and were taken to a hospital.

LEG BROKEN, BUT ONLY CARED FOR DOLLY. Unusual Courage is Displayed by Little Girl of Five Years.

Amie Helts, five years old, whose home is at No. 318 East Fourth street, displayed remarkable self-control when her leg was broken last night, and showed more concern for the welfare of her doll than for her own injuries.

Crossing avenue C at Fourth street with several other children about her own age, Amie found that she had left her doll on the steps where she had been playing a moment before and started back to get it. At that moment a heavy truck loaded with hay came down the street and before she could stop or turn his horses the child fell under the wheels and her right leg was crushed.

Dr. Parise was summoned from Bellevue Hospital, but when he arrived the child refused to allow him to attend her until he had found her "dolly" and "mended its legs or arms if they were broken." During the trip to the hospital in the ambulance, the mother, but held her doll tightly in her arms and chatted with the ambulance surgeon. Nor did she give any trouble when placed on the operating table, but did everything as she was told. The leg was set, but the physicians at the hospital fear that an amputation will be necessary.

LOST CHILDREN IN ST. JOHN

Never Was a Case of Kidnapping Here. The Youngsters Always Turn Up Safe and Happy Though They Have Quiser Adventures.

The sensation caused the other day by the disappearance of the two-year-old child of a woman who lives on the question. Has there ever been a case of kidnapping in this city? A reporter put this question to several city officials and members of the police force and all were positive that such a thing had never occurred here. Scott Hipwell, one of the oldest men on the police force says such a thing was never thought of. Many a tearful mother and excited father have come to him, enquiring about their missing ones, but in every case, the sergeant says, the lost children have turned up all right; perhaps with faces dirty and frocks torn, but always happy.

The distance children will travel is remarkable. One winter's night, only a few years ago the police were notified that two children whose parents resided on Douglas avenue were missing and all the officers were notified to look out for them. Shortly after the alarm was sent out the little tots were found huddled close together in a sheltering spot on the Ballast wharf. How they got there no one knows.

It is frequently the case that police officers find children lost who are unable to tell their own name. In these cases the child is taken to the central station and it frequently happens that when the almost frantic parent arrives on the scene the little one is either sleeping peacefully or thoroughly enjoying itself playing with something one of the officers has given it.

It was but a day or two ago that people on Carmarthen street saw a sight that could not help but bring a smile to their faces. Slowly walking up the street toward the central station was Sergt. George Baxter, if anyone looking happier than usual, while seated on his massive shoulder was a little tot of two or three years.

NEW LIBRARY SOON OPEN. Architect Fairweather Says This Month Should See Work Finished—The Cause of Delay.

The new public library building is as yet in a state of chaos and looks as if there was several months more work to be done. The commissioners, however, expect that they will be able to move into the new building very shortly.

Contractor Maxwell says that his work is about finished, there being only one or two little things to be attended to. The plans for the dome had passed over and will be put in place in a few days.

G. E. Fairweather, the architect, says that the building will in all probability be ready for public use by the end of the present month. The main portion of the building would probably have been finished long before this, but it was thought advisable to defer the varnishing until the foggy weather had passed over. The varnishing is now going on.

The steel book stacks are in the building, but have not been erected owing to the fact that some attachments were overlooked by the shippers. These will arrive in the course of a few days from Ontario.

Mr. Fairweather says that unquestionable the work could have been rushed to completion long before this, but he thinks the delay will be all for the better, as it will allow of the work being done more thoroughly and completely.

A very serious defect has been discovered in the Champlain Memorials. The letter "P" in the word "hundredth" has been omitted, so that it reads "hundreth."

BAIL FOR WALTER CAMMICK. Judge Tuok Issues the Necessary Order—Bail Fixed at Two Thousand Dollars.

Walter Cammick, who is in jail in Woodstock awaiting trial on October 14th, on a charge of being an accomplice in the murder of William Doherty, was admitted to bail if he has not already been released. His lawyer, J. C. Hartley, came to the city yesterday and made application to Chief Justice Tuok for an order to Police Magistrate Hibbes to accept bail.

Judge Tuok, on behalf of the attorney general, opposed the request, but Mr. Hartley carried his point, and last evening went home with the order. Walter Cammick has always borne a good reputation in the county and Mr. Hartley was sure of being able to get the necessary bondsmen, the bail required being two sureties of $1,000 each, and Cammick himself for $2,000.
