DALHOUSIE LIKELY TO GET MAMMOTH INDUSTRY SOON

Company, Headed by Senator Edwards, Pleased With the Location of the Town as a Site for Big Pulp and Saw Mills.

MAY COMMENCE TO BUILD THERE AT ONCE.

Town by a Vote of 162 to 2 Decides to Give the Company a Site and Grant Other Concessions.

There are bright days in store for Dalhousie. It is almost a certainty now that a company headed by Senator Edwards, Ottawa and composed of prominent upper Canadian and American capitalists will build and operate mills in the town, which will employ two thousand hands.

By a vote of the ratepayers taken yesterday it was decided to purchase a site for the industry from W. S. Montgomery for $10,000, which will include riparian rights to the same and the right to dam the Shipyard Brook, so called and the water to the same; to issue debentures for $10,000 to pay for the same, to be payable in thirty years, bearing five per cent interest; to exempt the company from all town taxation above $800 for twenty years. The poll opened at 10 a. m. and closed at 4 p. m. The vote stood 162 for and 2 against. D. Windsor was presiding officer and D. G. Harquail, clerk.

At a meeting of the Town Council, last evening, the town solicitor was instructed to draw up the resolutions to be submitted to the governor-in-council, asking for a ratification of the steps to be taken to introduce and promote legislation at the next session of the legislature legalizing the proceedings so far taken.

In order to obtain these concessions from the town the company must build and operate a long saw mill of concrete, capable of cutting 50,000,000 feet a year, a shingle mill, a pulp mill or a roasting mill and a dry kiln, the whole to cost one million dollars.

A meeting of the company will be held shortly, probably at Ottawa when a decision will be arrived at in the matter. One of the directors in speaking to a reporter for "Events" stated that he was almost positive that the terms of the town of Dalhousie would be accepted and that the company would commence to build this fall so as to be in readiness to commence operations next summer. At least two thousand men would be employed at the mills and besides nearly a thousand would be employed in the woods.

The company's timber areas are located in the county of Bonaventure, P. Q. and comprise about 1780 acres. The company is desirous of locating at Dalhousie because it is the most convenient point from which to make shipments by the I. C. R.

Mayor Montgomery of Dalhousie has been indefatigable in his efforts to secure this industry for the town and is deserving of the highest praise. The site for the proposed industry extends from Bearinger and Chapin's west line to Poplar Point near Alexander Cook's and is the only available one in the town.

TELL THEIR STORY OF THE SHOOTING.

Witnesses for the Prosecution in the Seely Trial are on the Stand.

The preliminary examination of George Seely, charged with the murder of Fontaine was commenced at Dalhousie, Saturday before Police Magistrate Windsor. R. A. Lawlor, of Chatham appeared for the prosecution and W. A. Mott of Campbellton for the defence. Geo. Meric of Dalhousie was sworn interpreter. The first witness called, Andrew Fontaine, said to Mr. Lawlor. I live in St. Maure, parish of Balmoral, in the county of Restigouche. I remember June 13th. I am a brother to Peter Fontaine, the deceased. Early on the 13th of June I was awakened by knocking at the door and on opening it saw two men with revolvers pointing at me. I shut the door. They pushed it open and put the handcuffs on me. I made no resistance. Seely went to Jalbert's and Gallop stayed with me. Then we too went to Jalbert's, not far from my house. I saw two men struggle in front of Jalbert's door and saw them fall to the ground. Heard Jalbert's wife call Peter Fontaine, who was sleeping upstairs in Jalbert's house. I saw him come out and join in the struggle. Heard no shots while the struggle was going on. Gallop hit Jalbert on the head and Jalbert ran towards the barn. I saw Seely and Gallop fire at Peter Fontaine while he was running around the house. I ran to the woods with the handcuffs on, broke them with a stone and returned in the afternoon, when Dr. Disbow was present. Found Peter dead.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mott—"I might have seen Seely and Gallop before June 13th but did not know them. Sometimes my wife puts a knife under the button that fastens the door to hold it tight. No knife was under that night. Gallop did not read or show me any paper. He said

GUARDIANS FOR UPPER WATERS.

Trip up River Convinces Fishery Commissioner they Should be put on.

Chief Fishery Commissioner John Robinson of Newcastle, accompanied by Max Mowatt, chief guardian for the Riparian Association went up within twenty-five miles of the mouth of the Kedgewick last week and was convinced that the government should put on guardians on both the Kedgewick and Patapedia rivers.

Mr. Robinson's trip was the result of repeated efforts of the Riparian Association to have the government guard the upper waters. The Association has its guardians on all the lower waters, but feels this is to a large extent futile if the upper waters continue unprotected. On the trip about a dozen scows were seen, the men in charge of which would no doubt whip the streams as they went up and down. As Mr. Mowatt put it: "You couldn't blame them when there was no one to prevent them." It is likely that at least one guardian will be put on at once.

The steamer Nile, Capt. Brown sailed early this morning with a cargo of deals for Londonderry.

A diver from the tug Goliah was at work at Oak Bay last week. He is said to have found the hull of an old ship which was burned here about eighteen years ago.

The liberals will hold a monster picnic at Carleton, August 6th. Addresses will be delivered by the Hon. Charles Marcell, M. P., Hon. C. H. LaBilloy, M. P., Wm. Currie, M. P., James Reid, M. P. and J. H. Kelly, M. P. The Campbellton brass band will be in attendance. There will be a clam bake and dinner and refreshments will be served on the grounds. Dancing will also be a feature. The steamer Lady Eileen will leave here at 9 a. m. and will arrive back early in the evening. This promises to be the banner event of the season.

FELL FROM FAST MOVING LIMITED

Charles McCarthy, a tramp who gives Boston as his birthplace is in the hospital here suffering from serious if not fatal wounds as the result of stealing a ride, yesterday, on the east bound Ocean Limited.

McCarthy, who is said to have been under the influence of liquor, and a chum boarded the train here. They took up positions on the platform of a blind baggage facing the tender. While the train was going at the rate of about fifty miles an hour, a mile west of New Mills, McCarthy lost his balance and fell off. His chum climbed over the tender and notified the driver. McCarthy was picked up and taken to Jacquet River where his wounds were dressed by Dr. Ellis. Later he was brought to Campbellton and conveyed to the hospital where he is under the care of Dr. Pinault. McCarthy has a bad scalp wound and the fingers of his right hand are badly mutilated. He is also injured internally.

He was an inmate of the Dalhousie Jail all winter for stealing a watch at the Strathcona Hotel from D. Brown of Escuminac, P. Q. McCarthy and his chum caught No 34 here yesterday morning, but were chased off by I.C.R. policeman Savoie. While the policeman was away they boarded the Limited.

TURGEON FOR CABINET PLACE

Energetic Representative of Gloucester Likely to be Appointed Soon

O. Turgeon, the energetic representative of the County of Gloucester in the House of Commons will, it is said, shortly enter the cabinet. Mr. Turgeon's friends in the liberal party and they are legion—have been pressing his claims for sometime and they now believe that they have not done so in vain. Mr. Turgeon himself is confident that he will be elevated to a cabinet position. The selection of the representative of Gloucester for such a position would be hailed with pleasure by all the northern counties of New Brunswick. There is no doubt that Mr. Turgeon by his ability and years of faithful service to the liberal party is justly entitled to the honor, and it cannot be conferred upon him any too soon.

The case of the King, on the information of Emily Daigle, vs Donald M. Silases who was charged with having committed an indecent assault upon the complainant came up for hearing before W. A. Trueman, J. P. on 23rd inst. The complainant failing to appear to prosecute, the information was dismissed.

The Emperor of Korea has abdicated.

Sir Wilfred Laurier, premier of Canada, reached Quebec on Friday.

The Toronto Mail and Empire (conservative) says it is now said that parliament will be called together for Thursday, November 14.

Fourteen persons are reported to have been drowned at Marstrand, Sweden, by the capsizing of a sail boat. Only one of the party escaped.

"Pedlar" Palmer, the English pugilist, has been sentenced in London to five years penal servitude for having caused the death of Robert Choat, a gas house stoker of Deptford.

Contracts for five steel bridges on the Eastern Quebec sections of the National Transcontinental Railway have been let to the Dominion Bridge Company, of Montreal. The contracts total about $150,000.

While rushing along at an express-train speed, two automobiles filled with merry-makers returning from Coney Island crashed head-on early Friday on a dimly lighted ocean park-way, and as a consequence one man was dead and two others fatally injured.

It has been decided that Major Leigh, of Charlottetown, shall command the composite Canadian team of heavy Artillery, against Britshers. Major Hewsley, of the First Halifax Artillery, probably will be chosen to command the garrison or sea coast contingent.

Chained in bed in a small upstairs room in Wilson's restaurant, Englehart Ont. John Kay was close prisoner for several days last week charged with deserting the employment of Chandler & McKae, railway contractors, at McDougall's Chute, some seventy odd miles north of the T. & N. O. Railway.

The case of Yeo, for assault came up before Magistrate Connors at Chatham last week. R. A. Lawlor, K.C. for the crown, dwelt on the enormity of the prisoner's crime and the magistrate sent him up for trial at the September court. Yeo maintained an almost defiant manner throughout.

Farm Facts and Fancies

The introduction of improved haying machinery and the change in our views as to the value of hay cut in different stages of growth, for feeding, have completely changed methods in hay making. The old and laborious methods of hand cutting and tending made the haying a slow operation and of necessity much of the crop became overripe. The introduction of winter dairying has helped to demonstrate that only early cut hay has much value in milk production, says the Agriculturist.

Modern haymaking is, therefore, based on two things, the growth of the best varieties of grasses and clovers and the harvesting of these in such a condition as to afford the largest amount of valuable nutrients. The growing of the clovers with the better grasses for hay to be used in feeding dairy stock adds greatly to the value of the hay. In my experience, the alsike clover is more valuable than the common red. It makes a finer and richer feed and is more certain on rather heavy soils than the red. All things considered, there are no grasses for hay equal to timothy and redtop, and especially so for growing with the clovers. These grasses are hardy and quite durable and a good grade of seed can always be had in the trade. The less common, cultivated grasses are less free from weed seed, and frequently the seed is too old to be reliable. For dairy stock I have found a mixture of 10 quarts each of common red and alsike clover, sown at the rate of 20 quarts per acre, has given a grade of hay that dairy stock and horses have relished, and from which good returns have been obtained.

Time To Cut Hay
On most soils a crop of these in the poultry yards and with the growing chicks does not seem as pleasant as in the cool, fresh days of spring. There should, however, be no negligence on this account, or the effect of a good deal of the work already done will be lost in the end, writes a correspondent of the Agriculturalist.

I have found it advantageous, where possible, to do the work in the poultry houses that did not have much shade, in the early morning before the sun would add to the heat of their interiors. The question of proper shade is an important one at this time, and all yards should be provided with it either by trees, sun-flowers, vines or shelters. While it is advantageous to have the poultry house itself partially shaded, it is better to have too much sun than too much shade, as the latter will tend to cause dampness.

It is important to clean the poultry houses frequently at this season, and close watch should be kept on the roosts to see that there are no mites as hot weather is the time they increase rapidly in number.

Dust baths are also highly important at this season as the hen will free herself from lice much more readily than can be done in other way.

THE DEAF MADE TO HEAR

Deafness because usually due to catarrh, is quite curable. In a thousand cases this is proved absolutely true. Success invariably attends the use of Catarhoxone which has cured catarrh of deafness of twenty-five years standing. Penetrating through the passage of the ear, the soothing vapor of Catarhoxone relieves the inflammation, destroys the seeds of catarrh and thereby allows nature to re-assist herself. Try Catarhoxone yourself, 25c and $1.00 size sold by all dealers.

SOWING DRAGONS' TEETH.

The fact that Mr. St. Rosewell, visiting St. John, N. B. in the interests of the Belleville (Virginia) Industrial school, was along with his wife and Miss Clements, both teachers in the same school, and his two children, refused admittance to the city hotels one night last week and compelled to walk the streets until taken by a policeman to the electric light station, reflects no credit on the leading city of our province, and will not tend to impress the color of race of the world. The childishness of Negro, Hindu or Mongolian—with the superiority of Canadian religion and civilization. It is disgraceful that colored educationists whose reputation is above suspicion should be debarrd from hotels simply because they were of color. The childishness of boycotting fellowmen because of their color, which is something entirely beyond human control, should be sufficient to prevent all sane people from committing such a foolish and altogether unreasonable act. Our white fire-eaters should remember that all kinds of white people (some of whom, too, are pretty swarthy,) taken together number only one-third of the world's population. Such intolerant arts may easily bring about a confederation of all colored races against us. A struggle against an outraged enemy twice as numerous and led by such practised fighters as the Japanese is not a pleasing prospect; but that is the end to which the foolish tactics of those who hate and despise all colored men is rapidly driving us. For every insult we heap upon the unoffending, law-abiding Negro, Hindu, Chinese or Jap, the whole white race shall ultimately pay in blood and tears. Injustice never pays. Let us pause a moment and consider our ways.

BATHURST BRIEFS.

Bathurst, July 15.—The continuous wet weather has had a damping effect on trade, but crop reports are good and better things are expected for the fall.

Mr. Henry White is making good progress with his contract on the station bridge. This is a long job and will not be completed much before the ice forms.

The new ell on the White House is being completed as quickly as possible and the bedrooms will be ready early in August.

Your correspondent was informed that negotiations are being carried on by a large American firm with a view of purchasing the mill and timber limits of the Sumner Co., of Bathurst Village. This is a valuable property. The mill has been thoroughly refitted with new and modern machinery and is doing fine work this season. Band saw gangs replace the old stock gangs.

The Stacy property has been transferred to the Americans who have been negotiating for it for some time. The deal was completed Friday. The price is said to be $50,000 and the local gentlemen who invested their money in it have made something out of their holdings.

A number of Bathurst gentlemen met Thursday afternoon and formed an exhibition Association. Sufficient capital has been subscribed and the necessary property is being negotiated for on which to erect suitable buildings.

A children's picnic was held Friday afternoon at the fishing lodge at Rough Waters. This was the second annual picnic to be held here and given by Messrs. E. B. Osler, M. P., H. D. Warren, and Chas. Cockshuts, wealthy gentlemen of Toronto, who each year spend a few weeks fishing here. These gentlemen brought down from Toronto two hundred presents for the children of the nearby settlements, and as they were obliged to leave for Toronto before a suitable fine day could be chosen, they requested Rev. Fr. Martin, their Cure, to distribute the presents, while, Henry Bishop Esq., looked after all the necessary arrangements. The little ones and their parents congregated at the camp shortly after one o'clock and a right good time all enjoyed. The chef had prepared ice cream and cake, and there was a bountiful supply of candy. Fully two hundred persons were present, mostly children, who all received presents. The older ones enjoyed a dance in the spacious living room and on the piazza, while step dancing and photograph making furnished amusement for others. At five o'clock all dispersed to their homes, having enjoyed a most pleasant afternoon. It is needless to add that on every hand were heard expressions of appreciation of the kindness of the Toronto gentlemen who so thoughtfully provide this annual picnic, and thus provide a pleasant outing for a large number of little ones who otherwise would not be able to spend a pleasant afternoon and receive an appropriate gift. Mr. Bishop, was congratulated on the success of the outing.

Mr. George Eddy is preparing to rebuild his woodworking factory which was destroyed by fire some time ago.

T. Blanchard, ex-M. P., was in Bathurst last Wednesday.

Wm. Hayden of Pokemouche was in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Henry White has returned from a visit to Caracquet.

O. T. Guon, M. P., was visiting the eastern parishes of the county last week.

POLITICS.

Politics in Gloucester is commencing to be the all important topic and there are many surmises and rumors.

One thing is very noticeable and that is that a greater interest than ever before is being taken in political issues. One meets young men, who previously were willing to listen to advice from party leaders and fall into line, discussing the issues in an intelligent manner and drawing their own conclusions. The opposition party seems to be alert to this and is making some progress. It is even said that a ticket composed of Messrs. J. P. Byrne, A. J. H. Stewart and T. Blanchard, ex-M. P., will be in the field in the interests of the opposition to try conclusions with the government forces. This will be a strong combination and has an equal chance to win.

There is also talk of Mr. P. J. Veniot, Esq., Col. of Customs of Bathurst, and who was an active member of the local government for a number of years, entering politics and that he will be offered a portfolio in Mr. Robinson's government. Whether this is so or not we could not ascertain, but if Mr. Veniot does again enter the field Mr. Veniot does again enter the especially considering Mr. Veniot's present position) this county will be the gainer, and the whole province will be benefited by his elevation to the executive as he is a young man of marked ability. The government will also add to its strength in this county and could then be reasonably sure of winning out here at the next election.

CHRISTIAN SOCIALISM.

Jesus Christ was a socialist! And Christianity in its true essence is not only socialism, but the best and most radical sort of socialism. To this day the sermon on the Mount is the most exhaustive and sweeping socialistic utterance that ever fell upon the ears of men. If men and women lived up to the letter of this wonderful proclamation there would be in the world today no place and no desire for socialism or any other isms. It is because the Sermon on the Mount has been accepted as a beautiful word picture, magnificent in metaphors and splendid in similes instead of a battle call to the practical putting in use of the doctrines it advocates, that so-called Christians find themselves wondering where truth is to be found. For the truth of this matter is that no system of ethics, no theory of economics, no sociological code has ever dared to go so far into the realm of what we call reform as do the basic teachings of the Nazarene. It is only because the vital substance of these teachings has been for centuries misunderstood that the Christian church at this moment does not find itself sought rather than sought after by those who really seek a remedy for the many social and economical wrongs which impede the right progress of the race. It is only because the church has preferred to appeal to men's emotions rather than to their common sense that the religion of Jesus Christ, the sublime socialism of the one who best deserves to be called Master, is not today the sole dominating power in the affairs of civilized mankind. What a different thing "civilization" would be if this were the case! And not until the church realizes this error and frankly acknowledges it, seeking to overcome it, not through prayer but through a practical application of the great principles that have long been neglected, will it take and hold the place to which the doctrines of Christ entitle it. One of the greatest of these principles is socialism. Not the kind that is hurled at us by perverted orators, who having fooled despair, flout dreams in our faces. Not the kind that advocates the sudden overturning of all established law, but Christian socialism which is at once radical enough for the anarchist and gentle enough for the gentlest Quaker. In the Golden Rule may be found the seed of this sort of socialism. In that is its source and though the saying be true, it is still true that the strict living of the Golden Rule is the strict living of a right life, call it Christian, Confucian or Mahometan, as you please. Yet because of its very simplicity, this Golden Rule impresses men as a pretty text to quote rather than the cardinal point to the compass by which to steer practically as well as morally and spiritually.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Judge Landis of the Federal Court at Chicago will be the next Chautauqua hero, in the United States. He is the man who made John D. Rockefeller toe the mark. After pursuing Rockefeller for weeks Landis finally forced him to the witness stand. But Rockefeller did not testify to anything of importance. The entire scheme was to advertise Landis and to hum bug a public which likes that sort of thing. Rockefeller was jostled and insulted for the amusement of the mob, that Judge Landis might do a little advertising, top of column next page reading matter, and what a lot of advertising of this sort is being done lately, and this advertising is not free, as many suppose; the people pay for it.

Sometimes the man makes the position, but more often the position makes the man. Had Dr. Falconer of Halifax not been elected to the presidency of the Toronto University he would not have been asked to deliver an address before the Canadian club at St. John. Having been asked to do so, he pulled off his little "spiel" one day last week. Judging by the reports in the St. John papers the learned doctor's deliverance bristled with brilliance. According to one "he did not hesitate over our commercial or industrial future, believing we shall fill in a great place in the rounded development of the country." We hope so; but personally we prefer the men who do things to those who spring up over night and say things. In fact the great trouble with the Lower provinces is that they have too many men gifted with the gift of the gab, and not enough gifted with the gift of utilizing our resources.

SIDE LIGHTS.

A MAN is usually born on land but he's at sea when he dies.

IT BEGINS to look rather blue for that all-red scheme.

WHEN a man gets nothing but praise he likes to see other people praised, and when he gets nothing but abuse he likes to see others abused.

SQUASHVILLE SQUIDS

Some sort of a society paraded here the other day. The members wore hats which looked like joints of stove-pipe covered with cast-off silk or satin. There was nothing else except the band (not the hat band) to distinguish the tarmout from the ordinary funeral, but every one was on hand to see it.

The Bugle had this to say in its last issue:—"The night watchman always vigilant, made a clever capture of three youthful burglars on Thursday night," etc. etc. The truth is the cop was asleep, on a lumber pile in the rear of Moses Greenbaum's junk shop when three boys came along and attempted to force an entrance to the shop. The noise aroused him from his slumber. He quietly drew his revolver, ordered hands up and marched the trio ahead of him to the lockup. Very clever, wasn't it? — Atchison Kan Globe.

The biggest event in amusement circles here this week was the appearance of the Lugzon sisters. When the Misses Lugzon set sail for Boston six months ago they were centuries behind the times in their dress. Why, they didn't know the difference between a straight-front corset and an Orange-men's plug hat. You should see them now. Oh, what a difference! They would be regarded as howling swells even on Beacon street or Commonwealth avenue. Talk about your peek-a-boos! The sisters Lugzon have them with perforations as big round as your finger. All the rest of their apparel is correspondingly up-to-date and the same may be said of their figures. Their parasols, which they raise on cloudy as well as fine days are the swellest things of their kind we have seen for a long time. Nellie Lugzon, who is a waitress in a restaurant now, tells me in confidence that she is trying for a position as cloak model. When one recalls how Nellie used to look in Squashville, it is to laugh. The Lugzon sisters are visiting ma and pa for a couple of weeks.

The Squashville Amateur Dramatic Club put on two plays in the Opera House last week. One was called—"Dora's Dilemma" and the other wasn't. Really it was fierce. Where John Spindleshanks who played the hero in both pieces and Minnie Stout who disported herself in each play as the heroine, ever got the idea that they could act I'm sure I don't know. When Minnie appeared as the poor wronged woman, reduced in circumstances through the villainy of a man and compelled to drudge in order to support herself and child, I was reminded of the time when Bessie sulked for a whole evening because her mother had made her wash the supper dishes. But the audience on each occasion gave Minnie and John and their "support" a big hand, and the "Bugle" devoted a column in praise of the performance. As a result of this misplaced applause I fear the professional stage is soon to be saddled with another would-be. Minnie I am told has expressed her willingness to adopt the stage as a profession and is now trying to get her release from the W. C. T. U. I shall be skinned for this but what's the diff.

Trial Trip a Failure

The trial trip of the I C R motor car to-day proved unsuccessful, says Monday's Moncton Transcript. The car ran as far as Humphrey's Mills and on account of trouble with the springs beneath the motor, was placed on the siding for repairs. These occupied a longer time than anticipated and after three-quarters of an hour had passed, it was proposed to run back to Moncton. Later it was decided to hold the car at Humphrey's until all the regular trains had passed and then continue the run to Pt du Chene. The trouble was about the same as that on the trial trip on Saturday, the springs beneath the motor being too tight. The car was jolting considerably on the run from Moncton and when Humphrey's was reached it was attempted to keep the body of the car rigid by placing blocks of wood beneath. This took a longer time than anticipated, with the result already stated.

By HENRY SETON MERRIMAN
Author of "The Sewers," "Roderic's Corner," "From One Generation to Another," Etc.

Copyright, 1894, by HARPER & BROTHERS

At that moment the train lumbered in, the engine wearing that manly self important air affected by locomotives of the larger build. From all quarters an army of porters besieged the platform, and in a few seconds Sir John was in the center of an agitated crowd. There was one other calm man on that platform—another man with no parcels, whom no one sought to embrace. His brown face and close cropped head towered above a sea of agitated bonnets. Sir John, whose walk in life had been through crowds, elbowed his way forward and deliberately walked against Guy Oscar.

"Hang it!" he exclaimed, turning round. "Ah—Mr. Oscar—how d'ye do?"

"How are you?" replied Guy Oscar, really glad to see him.

"You are a good man for a crowd. I think I will follow in your wake," said Sir John. "A number of people, of the baser sort. Got my carriage here somewhere. Fool of a man looking for me in the wrong place no doubt. Where are you going? May I offer you a lift? This way. Here, John, take Mr. Oscar's parcels."

"He could not have done it better in his kindest day. Guy Oscar was My son has endeavored, somewhat cursorily perhaps, to explain the matter to me, but I have never mastered the—er—commercial technicalities. However, I understand that you have made quite a mint of money, which is the chief consideration—nowadays."

He drew the rug more closely round his knees and looked out of the window, deeply interested in a dispute between two cabmen.

"Yes—we have been very successful," said Oscar. "How is your son now? When I last saw him he was in a very bad way. Indeed, I hardly expected to see him again."

Sir John was still interested in the dispute which was not yet settled.

"He is well, thank you. You know that he is going to be married."

"He told me that he was engaged," replied Oscar, "but I did not know that anything definite was fixed."

"The most definite thing of all is fixed—the date. It is tomorrow."

"Tomorrow?"

"Yes. You have not much time to prepare your wedding garments."

"Oh," replied Oscar, with a laugh. "I have not been hidden."

"I expect the invitation is awaiting you at your house. No doubt my son will want you to be present—they would both like you to be there no doubt. But come with me now; we will call and see Jack. I know where to find him. In fact, I have an appointment with him at a quarter to 5."

It may seem strange that Guy Oscar should not have asked the name of his friend's prospective bride, but Sir John was ready for that. He gave his companion no time. Whenever he opened his lips Sir John turned Oscar's thoughts aside.

What he had told him was strictly true. He had an appointment with Jack—an appointment of his own making.

"Yes," he said, in pursuance of his policy of choking questions, "he is wonderfully well, as you will see for yourself."

Oscar submitted silently to this high handed arrangement. He had not known Sir John so well. Indeed, all his intercourse with him has been noted in these pages. He was rather surprised to find him so talkative and so very friendly. But Guy Oscar was not a very discerning person. He was sublimely indifferent to the long drawn motive. He presumed that Sir John made friends of his son's friends, and to his straightforward acceptance of facts he was perfectly well aware that by his timely rescue he had saved Jack Meredith from the hands of the tribes.

The party, however, was the Sir John knew of this, and it was only natural that he should be somewhat exceptionally gracious to the man who had saved his son's life.

It would seem that Sir John divined these thoughts, for he presently spoke of them.

"Owing to an unfortunate difference of opinion with my son we have parted on a very communicative lady," he said, with that deliberation which he knew how to assume when he desired to be heard without interruption.

"I am therefore almost entirely ignorant of your African affairs, but I imagine Jack owes more to your pluck and promptness than has yet transpired. I gathered as much from two conversations I had with Miss Gordon when she was in England. I am one of Miss Gordon's many admirers."

"And I am another," said Oscar frankly.

"Ah! Then you are happy enough to be the object of a reciprocal feeling which for me is a very pleasant prospect. She spoke of you in no measured language. I gathered from her that if you had not acted with great promptitude the—er—happy event of tomorrow could not have taken place."

The old man paused, and Guy Oscar, who looked somewhat distressed and distinctly uncomfortable, could find no graceful way of changing the conversation.

"In a word," went on Sir John in a very severe tone, "I owe you a great debt. You saved my boy's life."

"Yes, but you see," argued Oscar, finding his tongue at last, "out there things like that don't count for so much."

"Oh, don't they?" There was the suggestion of a smile beneath Sir John's grim eyebrows.

"No," returned Oscar, rather lamely. "It is a sort of thing that happens every day out there."

"Sir John turned suddenly, and with the courtliness that was ever his he indulged in a rare exhibition of feeling. He laid his hand on Guy Oscar's arm, and said:

"My dear Oscar," he said, and when he chose he could render his voice very soft and affectionate, "none of these arguments will do me any good. I am not out there. I like you for trying to make little of your exploit. Such conduct is worthy of you, worthy of a gentleman, but you cannot disguise the fact that Jack owes his life to you and I owe you the same—which, between you and me I may mention, is more valuable to me than my own. I want you to remember always that I am your debtor, and if circumstances should ever seem to indicate that the feeling I have for you is anything but friendly and kind, do me the honor of disbelieving those indications. You understand?"

"Yes," replied Oscar untruthfully.

"Here we are at Lady Cantourne's," continued Sir John, "where, as it happens, I expect to meet Jack. Her ladyship is naturally interested in the affair of tomorrow, and has kindly undertaken to keep us up to date in our behavior. You will come in with me?"

Oscar remembered afterward that he was rather puzzled, that there was perhaps in his simple mind the faintest tinge of suspicion. At the moment, however, there was no time to do anything but follow. The maid already rung the bell and Lady Cantourne's butler was holding the door open. There was something in his attitude vaguely suggestive of expectation. He never took his eyes from Sir John Meredith's face, as if on the alert for an unspoken order.

Guy Oscar followed his companion into the hall, and the very scent of the house for each house speaks to more senses than one—made his heart leap in his broad breast. It seemed as if Meredith's presence was in the very air. This was more than he could have hoped. He had not intended to call this afternoon, although the visit was only to have been postponed for twenty-four hours.

Sir John Meredith's face was a marvel to see. It was quite steady. He was upright and alert, with all the impetuosity of his mind up in arms. There was a light in his eyes, a gleam of light from other days not yet burned out.

He laid aside his gold headed cane and threw back his shoulders.

"Mr. Meredith, upstairs!" he said to the butler.

"Yes, sir."

The man moved toward the stairs.

"You need not come," said Sir John, holding up his hand.

The butler stood aside and Sir John led the way up to the drawing room.

At the door he paused for a moment. Guy Oscar was at his heels. Then he opened the door rather slowly and motioned gracefully with his left hand to Oscar to pass in before him.

Oscar stepped forward. When he had crossed the threshold Sir John closed the door sharply behind him and turned to go downstairs.

CHAPTER XXIII.

GUY OSCAR stood for a moment on the threshold. He heard the door closed behind him, and he took two steps farther forward.

Jack Meredith and Millicent were at the fireplace. There was a heap of discarded paper and string upon the table, and a few wedding presents standing in the midst of their packing.

Millicent's pretty face was quite white. She looked from Meredith to Oscar with a sudden horror in her eyes. For the first time in her life she was at a loss, quite taken aback.

"Oh-h!" she whispered, and that was all.

The silence that followed was tense, as if something in the atmosphere was about to snap, and in the midst of it the wheels of Sir John's retreating carriage came to the ears of the three persons in the drawing room.

It was only for a moment, but in that moment the two men saw clearly. It was as if the veil from the girl's mind had fallen—leaving her thoughts confessed, bare before them. In the same instant they both saw—they both sped back in thought to their first meeting, to the hundred links of the chain that brought them to the present moment—they knew; and Millicent felt that they knew.

"Are you going to be married tomorrow?" asked Guy Oscar deliberately.

"I am never going to be married," said Millicent, with a manly and a successful appeal for the slightest mitigation of justice could have been made.

His dealings had ever been with men, from whom he had exacted as scrupulous an honor as he had given. He did not know that women are different—that honor is not their strong point.

Millicent did not answer. She looked to Meredith to answer for her, but Meredith was looking at Oscar, and in his lazy eyes there glowed the singular affection and admiration which he had bestowed long time before on this simple gentleman—his mental inferior.

"Are you going to be married tomorrow?" repeated Oscar, standing quite still, with a calmness that frightened her.

"Yes," she answered, rather feebly.

She knew that she could explain it all. She could have explained it to either of them separately, but to both together, somehow it was difficult. Her mind was filled with clamorous arguments and explanations and plausible excuses, but she did not know which to select first. None of them seemed quite equal to this occasion. These men required something deeper and stronger and simpler than she had to offer them.

Moreover, she was paralyzed by a feeling that was quite new to her—a horrid feeling that something had gone from her. She had lost her strongest, her single arm—her beauty. This seemed to have fallen from her. It seemed to count for nothing at all this time. There is a time that comes as surely as death will come in the life of every beautiful woman—a time wherein she suddenly realizes how trivial a thing her beauty is; how limited, how useless, how ineffective!

Millicent chafed a little, appealing movement toward Meredith, who so recently stepped back. It was the magic of the love that filled his heart for Oscar. Had she wronged any man in the world but Guy Oscar, who little she knew, of love and tenderness and awe, contrition, might have saved her. But it was Oscar who heart that she had broken; for broken things both knew it to be, and Jack Meredith stepped back from her touch as from pollution. His superficial, imagined love for her had been killed at a single blow. Her beauty was no more to him at that moment than the beauty of a picture.

"Oh, Jack!" she gasped; and had there been another woman in the room that woman would have known that Millicent loved him with the love that comes once only. But men are not very acute in such matters; they either read wrong or not at all.

"It is all a mistake," she said breathlessly, looking from one to the other.

"A most awkward mistake," suggested Meredith, with a cruel smile that made her wince.

"Mr. Oscar must have mistaken me altogether," the girl went on, volubly addressing herself to Meredith; she wanted nothing from Oscar. "I may have been silly, perhaps, or merely ignorant and blind. How was I to know that he meant what he said?"

"How, indeed?" agreed Meredith, with a grave bow.

"Besides, he has no business to come here bringing false accusations against me. He has no right—it is cruel and ungenerous. He cannot prove anything; he cannot say that I ever distinctly gave him to understand—er—anything—that I ever promised to be engaged or anything like that."

She turned upon Oscar, whose demeanor was stolid, almost dense. He looked very large and somewhat difficult to move.

"He has not attempted to do so yet," suggested Jack severely, looking at his friend.

"I do not see that it is quite a question of proof," said Oscar quietly in a voice that did not sound like his at all. "We are not in a court of justice, where ladies like to settle these questions now. If we were I could challenge you to produce my letters. There is no doubt of my meaning in them."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not a disease. We think of dyspepsia, indigestion, and indigestion as real diseases, but they are symptoms only of a certain specific cause.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now popular stomach remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the cause, he brought that success which has made his name a household word. With that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishment was ever to be had.

For stomach disease, bloating, biliousness, bad breath, and salivary complaint, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and recommend it everywhere.

REPLENISHING HATS

The woman who has not felt the need of replenishing her hat supply by midsummer, either is a chronic invalid who never goes out, or one of those lucky beings who has so many hats that none feels the wear and tear of dust and sun.

Most of us know what it is to glance ruefully at headgear which a few short weeks before was the envy of all our friends, and wonder what ever induced us to pay such a price for it, and how it can be made to look respectable another day.

If one has plenty of ready money this problem is not a serious one, as really charming hats can be picked up for a trifle of their first cost at this season. But, unfortunately, that ready-money state is not probable after a summer's trousseau has been paid for. On our wits and knacky fingers devolve the responsibility of being hatted for the two or three months before we can possibly fall back on winter headgear.

It is not such a very difficult thing, after all, to refurbish old hats or trim new ones. More women would attempt it if they but realized that a home-made looking one. It is not so much a matter of inborn knack, as usually is believed, as of ability to copy a good model, and the patience to clean and freshen old materials.

The first thing to do is to rip off all the trimmings from an old hat and give the hat itself a thorough cleaning. If it is of leg-horn, chip or other light straw, and is not too much soiled, rubbing it with stale bread crumbs will be sufficient; if very dirty, scrub carefully with a solution of oxalic acid and water in the proportion of an ounce to a quart, and put it out to bleach in the sun for a day. Peroxide and water in the same proportions can also be used.

Fuller's earth, or even cornmeal, rubbed over a light straw hat, then rubbed, then brushed off carefully and another thick application allowed to remain on for several days in a dark place, will successfully clean most light hats.

Black straws are very easily refreshed by wiping off all the dust with a piece of crepe or velvet, and then sponging them thoroughly with alcohol. The shoe polish bottle is another magic revivifier. Colored straws may be cleaned with alcohol, or if they have faded too much, can be successfully dyed at home.

If the hat seems hopeless, or one is tired of the shape and the old trimmings justify it, new ones should be bought. Very good-looking shapes of fine straw can be picked up for comparatively little at this stock-taking season. The broad new sailors are a good choice. Panamas are also much reduced and have the advantage of being useable for several years. They can, moreover, be simply trimmed by binding with bias folds of soft black satin or taffeta, and trimmed with huge black bows. Neapolitans are other straws that are always more or less in style, and are much cheaper late in the summer.

Trimnings are probably the greater wrecks. Flowers, if not too much brushed, can be stiffened by sponging with alcohol or may be moistened with water in which a few drops of gum arabic have been placed. Pink or red flowers can be recolored with powdered rouge, blending the tints to the edges with a bit of cotton.

Ribbons can be cleaned with gasoline and wound around a bottle to dry. Alcohol is better for black ribbons.

White or light colored feathers which are not uncured, yet are sure to be soiled, may be covered with French chalk or Fuller's earth, and put away for a day or two in a dark place. This process should be repeated several times if necessary. Feathers can also be cleaned by dipping in deep gasoline again and again and shaking lightly, or by covering with salted flour, washing as if in water and allowing them to remain over night. Recurl by holding over the steam of a teakettle or with the blade of a dull silver knife. As a rule it is advisable to buy fresh flowers, as the slight expense is more than justified by the improved appearance of one's hat.

In trimming be provided with coarse cotton, No. 20, a large milliner's needle, hat and ribbon wire, and some good sized pins. A hat is something in which a woman may indulge her pinning propensities without fear of criticism, as looser and more artistic effects are often produced by a securely placed pin than by the tight sewing that is too often done by the amateur.

If the shape of a hat is to be changed it must be well wired either by brass or by a narrow wire on the edge. This should be fastened by locked stitches an inch or more apart.

A feature of hat-trimming somewhat difficult for the non-professional is facing. Place a square of the material over the hat. Pin securely, then cut the shape of the brim and inner circle a little larger than the crown opening.

A number of this season's hats show facings of satin. A contrasting color is the rule. It is considered quite the thing to have the facing the color of the hair, as it gives it an appearance of greater thickness. Many black hats are faced with dark brown for a brown-haired woman, while the use of blue with all shades of blue, green and even gray is widespread. A blue-eyed blond will find a facing of sapphire blue specially becoming.

An important thing in refurbishing a hat or trimming a new one is to have a distant idea of how you want to do it. Of course the old materials may be put on in the old way, but usually one prefers a different effect.

Any of the smart imported models shown today are eminently copyable even by a novice.

Almost all women have an assortment of different length feathers, which can be utilized, as in the graceful broad-trimmed sailor worn back from the face.

The putting on of feathers is one of the most difficult things for a beginner in millinery. Sometimes the point of a feather is wired with a very fine wire to give the desired droop, or it may be held in place by vertical pieces of stiff wire, one end of which is locked-stitched to the hat and the other to the feather. Such a method is usually employed for a long, sweeping plume to hold it away from the crown.

A feather must first be held in the desired position and the ends fastened. Now cast one long double stitch around the point toward the quill, making it loose enough to give the desired grace, and hold it taut with the fingers until a second stitch is taken directly over it. The method can be seen from the diagram.

A single long feather or willow plume is very graceful put on as in the flat round straw hat with the black straw edge, that is considered so effective. A small straw may be enlarged by a rim of black or colored straw, which may be quite easily added. The simple four looped bow of a very wide soft ribbon should match the straw binding. The brim is quite sharply rolled back under it, and the crown is encircled by soft folds of either the same ribbon or white.

Wreaths or flowers, either of a single variety, as in this morning glory hat, or in a combination of two or at most three kinds of flowers, are much favored as the sole trimming on big drooping hats.

Sometimes a little velvet ribbon is used at the back or under the bows. In sewing flowers, while they must, of course, be made secure, they should not be so tight as to look stiff.

HOUSEHOLD WISDOM

An electric light bulb past its useful days makes an excellent stocking darning.

To doctor a cat, mix her medicine with lard and rub it on her side and she will lick it off to clean herself.

If a salad is to be carried with the picnic lunch, pack the ingredients, or the salad already made, in a wooden chopping bowl, and pack in centre a fruit jar filled with cracked ice and sealed.

If a whisk broom be cut so that it tapers to one side, it is doubly useful when sweeping down the stairs. A broom which is past service for its original purpose is as good as new after this treatment.

One of the best methods of ridding a house of flies is to put into an atomizer some oil of lavender.

slightly diluted and the flies will leave the place. This also leaves a delightfully fresh violet odor in the house.

A broom support made of spoons is a simple and convenient device. Screw two large empty spoons high up on the middle frame of the door, or wherever you wish to hang the broom, just far enough apart to allow the handle of the broom to slip in. The broom part rests on the spoons.

When the drain pipe of the sink becomes clogged it can be cleared out by by attaching a piece of garden hose, or the shower bath hose, to the faucet and holding the other end against the sink outlet, making as tight a connection with them as possible by means of a large towel held firmly with both hands. Then turn on the water and the pressure from the water main will drive the obstruction out of the pipe.

TOWN TOPICS

There was a report in circulation, Monday, that Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. was in town, but unhappily for the fair sex the report was without foundation. We remember how the girls fell all over one another to pay their respects to Teddy Jr. the last time he was here.

Ding McLean touched Frank Moller for his wad and a bottle of gin on the ferry floats, Saturday evening and did a quick get away. But he was landed by the police later in the evening and on Monday sentence by Magistrate Matson to two months in the County Jail.

The schooner R Bowers was loaded with laths for New York last week, in the stream. The crew in hoisting the vessel's anchor preparatory to sailing, pulled up another anchor with it. The crew took their find to New York with them where they doubtless sell it for old junk and go on a time.

Several years ago, when Mr. Bowman left Atchison, he gave David Lukens several bottles of very choice wine. Mr. Lukens kept it two years for a special occasion. When the special occasion arrived, and he went into the cellar after the wine, he found the bottles empty, and has always blamed the plumbers.—Atchison Globe.

Tuesday morning, Angus Kenny of Bathurst Village, narrowly escaped serious if not fatal injuries. While in one of the cars of the local express going east, seeing some friends away the train started. In attempting to get off the train he fell between the rails and station platform. Fortunately tank man Gauthier of the I. C. R., who was standing close to where he fell, had presence of mind to hold him in close to the platform until the train was stopped. He escaped with slight injury to his back, where he was struck by one of the cars, and a scalp wound.

William Duncan, the fourteen-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Duncan, who was missing for several days has been found. Learning from the family with whom the boy boarded that he frequented the schooner Empress while that vessel was in port, his parents got I. C. R. Inspector Noble to wire the I. C. R. authorities at Mulgrave to intercept the Empress as she passed the strait of Canso on her way to New York. This was done and the boy found on board. His father went to Mulgrave for him and brought him back, Saturday.

Max Mowatt, chief guardian for the Riparian Association told a reporter for "Events" this week that the present salmon fishing season has so far been one of the poorest in years. During the past week a few good catches have been made, but previous to this the fishermen had very poor luck. Mr. Mowatt stated that there were very few rods on the river now, the majority of club members having gone home. Mr. Mowatt is an ardent believer in hatcheries. He is of the opinion that the river would have been depleted long ago if it hadn't been for the hatchery. Mr. Mowatt by the way, established the first hatchery on the Fraser River in British Columbia.

The annual picnic of the Campbellton Sunday Schools was held at New Mills on Friday. Strange to say the day was fine and the several hundreds who took in the affair enjoyed themselves immensely.

The house and ell on the James Alexander farm at Kempt Road were burned to the ground Sunday afternoon. The fire originated from a defective flue. The property was partly covered by insurance. Mr. Alexander will rebuild.

While workmen were blasting rock on the Pinault lot on Water street Saturday, a large log was thrown against the McDavid house adjoining the lot. The log struck the building with great force breaking a hole in it about a foot square.

Rev. M. G. Campbell, St. John, Secretary of the Canadian Bible Society delivered a most interesting and impressive address on "Canada and its need of the Bible," last evening in the Presbyterian church. A large audience was present.

The second of a series of open air concerts by the Citizen's band was given, Monday evening, on the Moffat lot, Water street. Under the leadership of H. F. Wallace, the band has made rapid strides during the past few months and their playing is now unexcelled by any similar organization in the province. A large crowd listened to the music. Monday evening, and the only regret was that it didn't last longer.

Complaint has reached "Events" of rowdiness on the local trains, Saturday nights. It is asserted that half drunken men crowd into the cars, first as well as second class, open bottles of liquor, drink from them and indulge in coarse ribaldry greatly to the annoyance of the other passengers, particularly those of the feminine sex. It is even said that it is absolutely unsafe for ladies to venture on these trains. One young woman claims to have been insulted last Saturday night. She was seen sobbing when her train reached Dalhousie and gave the case as a reason for it. It is a state of affairs that should not be tolerated any longer and the I. C. R. authorities should take steps to put a stop to it. Men under the influence of liquor should not be allowed on the trains. If it continues more will be said about it in these columns.

Garfield Brown, an employee of Roy Moffat this town had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon. Brown was superintending the loading of telephone poles on to flat cars on a heavy grade on the International railway about twenty miles from here. After finishing the loading of one car a pole used for the double purpose of swinging the other poles on to the car and for holding the car to a standstill was removed. Instantly the loaded car started down the grade driving an empty coupled to it, ahead of it. Brown was on the loaded car at the time and worked at the brakes on both the loaded and empty cars but all to no avail. The cars quickly gathered momentum and in a few moments were speeding along at the rate of forty miles an hour. Four miles along the track a locomotive was standing. Engineer Doherty saw the runaway cars approaching and springing to the throttle of his engine, opened it wide and then jumped. He had no sooner done so when the cars crashed into the engine. Brown was in the centre of the empty car at the time and was hurled between the two cars. Bystanders at once hurried to him expecting that he had been killed or nearly so, but strange to say he was unhurt, very badly shaken up he was uninjured. The force of the collision drove the telephone poles through the tender, badly demolishing it and knocked a van which was ahead of the engine off the track.

Mr. Ross, of St. John who enjoys a high reputation as a highland piper will accompany Miss Lena Duthie here tomorrow. He will give one or two selections on the street and will sing a couple of duets with Miss Duthie at the concert in the evening.

A Moncton despatch to the Fredericton Gleaner says:—A large number of North Shore laborers are being brought to Moncton to work on McManus & Co's double tracking contract between Moncton and Pease Junction. That may be, but the laborers are not obtained in the county of Restigouche. Our laborers get plenty of work right here at home.

Lately Mrs. Tom Barry went away to visit her kin, and take a good long rest. "Stay as long as you please," said her husband; "if you are not ready to come home at the end of thirty days, when your railroad ticket expires, throw it away, and remain until you are thoroughly rested up." At the end of the thirty days she was so lonesome without his wife that he went after her and brought her home.—Atchison, Kan., Globe.

Out of the two hundred or more Englishmen brought over here by Thomas Malcolm to work on the International railway only about forty or fifty now remain at work, the others having "let out" at one time or another. Some of the Englishmen took to their heels ever before the foreman had a chance to hand them pick and shovel. A few of the men brought out by Mr. Malcolm are industrious, but the majority never had any intention of doing a day's work. They loafed in London and they intended to loaf here. It is to be regretted that Mr. Malcolm is compelled to stand the money loss involved in the matter. As each Englishman cost him in the neighborhood of $35, it will be seen that the loss is by no means a trifling one.

Chief of police Gray is on the lookout for two young men, who while driving recklessly along Water street, Monday evening ran down two ladies, Misses Adams and Laubert were crossing Water street near Oak Hall when they were struck by the team which was travelling at furious gait. Miss Adams was knocked down and her face and side badly bruised, one wheel passing over her body. Miss Laubert was struck by the team and her clothing badly torn. Neither Miss Adams nor Miss Laubert were seriously injured, and they proceeded to their homes. On the following day they reported the matter to the chief of police. The occupants of the team continued on their way, after striking the ladies, as though nothing had happened. They are said to be long to Matapedia and if their names can be procured will be arrested.

something in English but I did not understand it. I was no closer than about 20 feet to the struggling men. I was at the barn when I heard the first shot fired. I started into the barn when Peter started to run.

To Mr. Lawlor—I started to the barn when I saw Peter running.

To Mr. Mott—Peter lived in St. Maure by spells. Came home about eleven months ago from Steveston, Rhode Island. I do not know whether he lived in Bangor, or not at any time.

After recess the court opened at 2 p. m. The first witness called was George Jalbert.

To Mr. Lawlor—I live at St. Maure. My house is near Andrew Fontaine's. Peter Fontaine was my brother-in-law. Peter was living with me about June 13th. I remember that Peter Fontaine, Andrew Fontaine and his wife went to Dalhousie on June 12th last. Peter returned towards morning the next day. I was plowing when he came back about eight o'clock.

I remember a man coming to my house. Peter Fontaine, my wife and myself were in the house. I and my wife were sleeping; downstairs and Peter was upstairs. My house is about 14 by sixteen feet. The stairs run from a box on the floor to the ceiling. The ceiling is about six and one-half feet high. I was in bed when a rap came to the door. I got up, partly dressed and went to the door. The door was partly open. I fastened it the night before with a wooden button, a board nail and a chair pushed against it. I found a man at the door with a revolver pointed at me. He said to me, "Stop!" I said nothing, but was much surprised. I caught hold of the arm holding the revolver. I asked him in English, "What is this for?" I understood English nothing to speak of. I pushed the man outside the door, tripped him and we fell to the ground. I said loudly, "That this seems like murder," and asked my wife to bring me a rope to tie the man. She found no rope. I heard my wife call Peter and he came while we were struggling on the ground. He had on a white cotton undershirt with a red sweater without sleeves over it. Peter jumped on the man, Seelye, to hold him down. Peter said nothing. Then Gallop struck me on the head, causing wounds which took several weeks to heal, but did not stop me from working. I let go the man and ran towards the barn, which is about eighteen or twenty yards from my house. I saw both Seelye and Gallop fire at Peter as he was running around the house. I heard no shots before Gallop struck me over the head. Gallop and Seelye ran after Peter and fell over him around the house. I heard shots, about four or five, behind the house, and saw Peter coming around on his hands and knees, Gallop and Seelye behind him shooting at him. I heard three shots fired after Peter went into the house. I saw them fall down stairs. After Peter fell he was hand-cuffed. The next time I saw Peter he was lying dead. I saw no blood outside, but saw some on the stairs and the floor. Peter went to bed about ten minutes after nine on the night of the 13th.

Cross examined by Mr. Mott, witness said in going to the door the man said, "Stop." "I took hold of his hand which held the revolver. My wife was sitting on the bed. Peter came and had hold of Seelye. When Gallop came I lost sight of Peter about four or five minutes while he was going around the barn. I heard about five shots before this. I heard about three shots in the house, about ten shots altogether."

Mrs. Jalbert was next called. Said to Mr. Lawlor, I am the wife of Geo. Jalbert and live at St. Maure. We went to bed about nine o'clock. Peter went upstairs about five minutes after nine. Was awakened about half past four or five by rapping at the door. Then followed an account of the struggle in front of the door, and Peter Fontaine running around the house, the hearing of shots.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mott, witness said that she gave evidence at the coroner's inquest, but did not swear that she heard shots when the men were struggling on the ground.

Mrs. Andrew Fontaine was called and said to Mr. Lawlor: I remember the morning of the 13th of June; my husband went to the door in response to a knock. Two men with a revolver pointed at him. They broke open the door and handcuffed her husband. She followed Gallop and her husband towards Jalbert's house. Then she gave an account of the struggle, the hitting of Jalbert and the hearing of shots.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mott, said: I was in the field when I saw the men struggling. I saw Seelye and Jalbert lying on the ground. I did not go any closer. I heard ten shots, I counted them.

The next witness was Phelomene Fontaine, widow of the late Peter Fontaine. She said to Mr. Lawlor: "I am the widow of Peter Fontaine. We were married five years ago at Fall River. My parents live there now. I knew him one year before we were married. I had one child, which died when fifteen months old. We lived happily together. He was never in jail as I know. I saw him last on the morning of the 10th of June last, when I left for Fall River on a visit. I lodged complaint against Seelye and Gallop. My husband left me not much support."

Here Mr. Mott protested against such questioning by Mr. Lawlor. Cross-examined by Mr. Mott she said: "I lived at Fall River two years after I left here. I cannot remember what years they were. My husband was third man in a cotton factory."

—Court adjourned to 3rd inst.

Save Money on Clothes

Are you helping to pay other people's bad debts? You are, if you get your clothes from an expensive tailor who gives credit. Bad debts are bound to happen under a credit system and somebody has to pay them. Now we don't have bad debts—Because we don't give credit. You've got to have the price if you want to be "Campbell Clad". We sell for cash and buy for cash. By this means we save you $10.00 to $15.00 on every suit. We give you just as good fit as expensive tailors—Just as good material—And just as good style. Come in and look at some of our Serge Suits for $18.00. Try them on—see how comfortable and stylish they are.

Remember we keep a Large Stock of Men's Furnishings always on hand
