The Grounds for the Move

Big Grist Set for the Civil List
—A Glance at the Cases
To Be Tried.

The famous Moir trial, the feature of the fall assizes, now on before Chancellor Boyd, may not come up until January.

Mr. Ed. Meredith, K.C., who with Messrs. J. C. Judd, W. R. Meredith and Matthew Wilkins will defend Pte. W. A. Moir, is authority for the statement that an application will be made this afternoon or tomorrow morning for a postponement of the trial.

"It would be unfair to my client and myself to announce at this time the grounds for the application," said Mr. Meredith, "but I consider that under the circumstances, I am entitled to ask and be granted an adjournment."

The Case.

The history of the Moir case, while fairly well known, is worth repetition, for never in the history of Canadian criminology has more interest been evinced in an alleged murder trial than the one at hand.

Pte. William Alexander Moir, the accused, is of Scotch birth, and is less than 30 years of age. Prior to the murder he had been an orderly in the Army Medical Corps at Wolseley Barracks.

Color-Sergt. Henry Lloyd, the victim, was a young man, and had for years been a member of the Twenty-eighth Battalion, Stratford, Ont. He had taken a number of courses in military tactics at Wolseley Barracks, and was there as a student at the time of the tragedy.

On the night of April 17 last Pte. Moir, in company with another soldier from the barracks, came down town, and according to report, drank quite heavily.

Returning to the barracks shortly before midnight on the 17th, Moir was reprimanded by Color-Sergt. Lloyd, then in charge of the guard, for appearing before an officer in a condition unbefitting a soldier.

Later, Orderly-Sergt. Morris heard a shot, apparently coming from the direction of Moir's room in the hospital, and asked Sergt. Lloyd to investigate.

The Shooting.

In company with Sergt. Morris, Sergt. Lloyd went to Moir's room, and it is alleged, saw Moir standing alongside of his bed across the room with a rifle at his shoulder.

Moir is alleged to have said, "Throw up your hands!" and then to have fired, point blank at Lloyd. Sergt. Lloyd died a few hours later.

When the shot which killed Sergt. Lloyd was fired, Sergt. Morris, who was unarmed, turned and made his escape, closely followed, so it is alleged, by Moir, who escaped in the darkness, leaving behind him for a distance of perhaps a quarter of a mile a string of cartridges.

At the time of his escape, Moir was heavily armed, carrying with him in addition to a Ross rifle, an army revolver or two, a bandolier belt of ammunition, besides some loose shells in his pockets.

The London detectives were sent out on the trail early the next day on a chase which extended as far north as Goderich and as far south as Guelph.

The officers, six in number, included Sergt. Gilmour, Wolseley Barracks; Detectives Nickle and Egelton, and Officers Bolton, Green and Downs. The detectives were closely followed by an Advertiser reporter.

The Chase.

On the day following the shooting traces of Moir were discovered at Kelly's Sliding a few miles out of this city on the Stratford branch of the G. T. R. Feeling certain that they were in close pursuit of the accused, the officers followed the railroad to Thorndale, where the rifle carried by Moir in his flight, was found lying near the railroad. SUCH NICE WAYS THEY HAVE IN SOUTH

Mob of Kentucky Whites Butcher a Negro and His Family.

Hickman, Ky., Oct. 5.—David Walker, a negro, his 5-year-old daughter, and a baby, were killed outright, the mother, who was holding the baby in her arms, was fatally shot, and three other children will probably die, as a result of a mob's visit to the Walker home Saturday night. In addition, the oldest son is missing and is supposed to have been burned with the negro's cabin, which was fired by the mob. Walker had cursed a white woman, and threatened a white man with a pistol, it is said.

MRS. P. McLAUGHLIN DIES AT NEW YORK

Was Mother of the Well-Known Actors Frank and Adolphus McLaughlin.

Mrs. Patrick McLaughlin, widow of the late Patrick McLaughlin, for many years with the McClary Manufacturing Company in this city, died in New York this morning. Mrs. McLaughlin was the mother of two well-known actors, Frank and Adolphus McLaughlin, who both began their stage careers in the old Dime Theatre, formerly located on Dundas street, on the site occupied by Bennett's. Another son, Dr. Allan McLaughlin, is at present in charge of the Marine Hospital service in New York. Frank and Adolphus are at present in vaudeville in New York, and were last seen here with Joe Murphy.

WORKMAN CUT IN THE EYE BY STEEL

Mr. Edwin Gourlay Had a Narrow Escape From Serious Injury.

Edwin Gourlay, a machinist, employed at the London boat works, had a very close call from losing the sight of one of his eyes this morning while at work.

A piece of steel which he was cutting flew up and hit him in the eye, inflicting a cut.

Fortunately, it did not strike a part of the eye where the sight would have been injured.

Mr. Gourlay was removed to his home, 39 Miles street, and it is expected that he will be around again all right in a few days.

Damage Cases Total $153,000 Thirty-four Actions To Be Heard

Fall Assizes List Is a Big One,
But Doesn't Break the Record.

While the assizes, which opened this afternoon at 1:45 o'clock, before Chancellor Boyd, are perhaps not the largest in the history of the local court, the list of cases set down for trial is the heaviest in several years. Of the 34 actions to be heard, 22 are jury, 10 non-jury and 2 criminal.

The total amount of money in dispute in the jury and non-jury cases approximates $153,000, not taking into consideration several actions in which the amount of damages are unstated. Seven of the damage actions name

W. J. Reid & Co., as defendants, and the total amount of the claims reaches $75,000. These suits all arise from the Crystal Hall disaster a year ago last July, when seven people lost their lives and a number of others were severely injured.

Other Actions.

The Grand Trunk Railway is defendant in four damage suits, having as a total $30,000.

Second to the Grand Trunk comes the London Street Railway Company, which is sued for a total of $25,000 in four actions.

The Canadian Electric Traction Company, which constructed the Southwestern Traction line system, is defendant for $2,000. The other jury cases involve about $5,000.

A Case Against a Local Milkman

Medical Health Officer Hutchinson this morning laid an information against R. J. Worrall, a milk dealer, charging him with selling impure milk on September 30.

The charge is made that the milk was unfit for consumption and contrary to what is allowed to be sold.

Real Estate Transfers Total $85,720

The real estate transfers for the month of September show a falling off as compared with the same month last year, but the movement is very fair.

The total number of transfers was 76, with an assessed value of $85,720, for a consideration of $114,691, the assessment amounting to 73.8 per cent of the consideration.

The statistics for September, 1907, show 89 transfers, with an assessed value of $91,685, for a consideration of $140,719, the assessed value being 65 per cent of the consideration.

McGRAW PLEASED.

New York, Oct. 5.—"The result of the Chicago-Pittsburgh game is most pleasing to us," said J. J. McGraw, manager of the New Yorks. "and we should tie with Chicago now. I shall probably send Wiltse in today. Ames on Tuesday and Matthewson on Wednesday. We have a good chance now,

I think." If New York wins the three games to be played with Boston this week there will be a tie with Chicago for the pennant to be played off in three games.

Mrs. Robert Ferguson, 181 Dufferin avenue, will receive on the first and third Wednesday of the month, instead of Fridays as formerly.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

The Advertiser bulletins are the most popular thing in this city at the present moment.

The magnificent race in the big leagues has awakened an interest seldom shown in a sporting event.

The Advertiser has given an excellent bulletin service every evening since the race began, and large crowds have always taken advantage of it.

During the past two weeks, however, the crowds before the boards have been immense.

Saturday night it kept a policeman busy opening a way for pedestrians, so great was the throng.

Read the bulletins and learn the score.

Company Are Remediating the Derail Ottawa Grievance To Be Removed

Derail Will Be Placed 75 Feet
From the Pere Marquette Tracks.

The Ottawa avenue derail question is practically settled.

This morning the street railway company had a gang of men taking out the old derail, and installing a derailed of the proper length, 75 feet.

This will make further appeal to the railway commission unnecessary, and will prevent litigation and expense to the city.

The company realized that, by no possible chance, now that the cars are being run both ways, could they defend the operation of a 25-foot derail, and have decided to accept the inevitable, and put in a proper derail.

The present derail was installed in April last. The Ottawa avenue cars then ran only one way, and the company thought that a 25-foot derail would be perfectly safe. The railway commission gave them the power to put it in.

The citizens did not think that a one-way service was satisfactory, and there was an agitation for a two-way service.

This was granted in August last, and the company operated cars both ways. When this was done, the 25-foot derail was a menace to the safety of passengers, and an agitation was begun to have the dangerous conditions remedied.

An appeal was made to the railway commission, and it would have been heard probably this fall.

However, the company had met with many accidents to their cars on this derail, and several narrow escapes were recorded and, consequently, it was decided to remove the present derail and comply with the law governing such matters.

LATE SERGT. HARRY LLOYD,
Who Was Shot and Killed at Wolseley Barracks.

DR. COOK'S FATE

Halifax, Oct. 5.—Although Randolph Frank, who has returned to St. John's, Nfld., from the Arctic regions on the P. & N. auxiliary steamer Erik, did not conceal his doubt as to the probable fate of Dr. F. A. Cook, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the explorer, a more hopeful view is taken by Capt. Samuel Barlett, of the Erik. Capt. Barlett expresses the opinion that Dr. Cook is safe, and is at present somewhere in Ellesmereland. He says there is plenty of game there. Dr. Cook, accompanied by Frank, went north last summer by the schooner Bradley.

SURPLUS OF $8,000 FOR FAIR 1908 WAS A BANNER YEAR

Exact Figures Have Not as Yet Been Given Out, But the Estimate Is All to the Good—Excellent Management and Fine Weather Responsible.

The surplus of the Western Fair will amount to about $8,000.

The financial statement is not ready yet, but it was the opinion of several men in close touch with the affairs of the Western Fair Association that the board would have that sum to the good after all debts were paid.

"I have not been able to go through the books yet," said Secretary Hunt. "I have been busy paying off our help, and also sending out the checks for the cheese and butter prizes. It will take some time yet before we are ready with the statement. I do not know what the surplus will be, but I think that we will have nearly $3,000 more than our expenses at least."

Good management and fine weather are responsible for the surplus.

The C. P. R. Strike Is Settled Premier Laurier Sees the President

Accepting Award of Arbitration Board.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—The big C. P. R. strike, which has been agitating labor circles for the past two months, is at an end. It was settled tonight, and the men return to work under conditions against which they struck two months ago. By the terms of the settlement the men agree to accept the finding of the majority of the arbitration committee. This is what they refused to accept before. The C. P. R. on their part, simply agree to take back the men as they find room for them on their staffs. They also agree that there shall be no discrimination against the men who went out.

Men Lose Pensions.

The men will lose their pensions and seniority, and many of them will be unable to secure their old places, as the C. P. R. is under contract to retain all of the men they secured during the past two months, but many of these are not expert machinists it is thought that there will be a gradual weeding out of the recruits, and their places will be taken by the old C. P. R. experts.

Negotiations for peace have been going on both in Montreal and in Winnipeg. In the latter place Mr. Bell Hardy has been holding conferences with Mr. William Whyte, second vice-president of the C. P. R., and Hon. Colin Campbell. In Montreal Hon. Robert Rogers has been in close touch with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Mr. David McNicol.

Premier Sees President.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier arrived in the city today on his way to Quebec, where he is to speak tomorrow night. While here he had a long conference with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. It is thought that the C. P. R. strike was the subject of their discussion.

As a result of the negotiations a uniform agreement has been reached by both the eastern and western divisions. The agreement was first reached between Mr. Whyte and Mr. Bell Hardy, covering the western division. This was then followed up by conferences in Montreal, which resulted in the settlement of the strike.

FATAL RUNAWAY.

Houston, Tex., Oct. 5.—In a runaway accident in the city park yesterday H. W. Cortes, a member of a leading hardware firm, was killed and Mrs. P. M. Treadway and her two children were painfully injured. Lola Ilfrey, 11 years old, suffered a broken leg, and Hendrix Davis and Lawrence

Davis, two small children, sustained painful injuries.

SOL GOLDSMITH DEAD.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5.—Sol M. Goldsmith, formerly business manager of the Louisville News and Commercial, died here yesterday of typhoid fever. He was 48 years old.

BULGARIA THROWS OFF YOKE DECLARES HERSELF INDEPENDENT

Prince Ferdinand Casts Aside Turkish Suzerainty and Brings on War Crisis in the Balkans—Conference of Powers
Likely To Be Called.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The Temps today publishes a dispatch from Vienna saying that the Bulgarian army is marching towards the frontier, and that the Turks also are moving forward to the encounter.

Austria-Hungary is mobilizing two army corps.

Sofia, Oct. 5.—Bulgaria, a tributary principality under the sovereignty of the Sultan of Turkey, today proclaimed her independence of Turkey. This action was taken at Tirnovo by Prince Ferdinand, who was elected prince of Bulgaria in 1887. The Bulgarian cabinet was present with the prince, having met him yesterday at the frontier and journeyed with him to Tirnovo. The party reached Tirnovo last evening.

Tirnovo is the ancient capital of the Kingdom of Serbia. It was here that the ancient kings of Bulgaria were crowned.

Kaiser With Britain.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—News was received at the foreign office last night that Turkey had been informed that Bulgaria was determined to proclaim her independence at Tirnovo today.

The Associated Press is authorized to state that Germany associates herself with the mediatory proposals submitted by Great Britain to the Turkish and Bulgarian governments.

It is recognized officially that the Bulgarian proclamation gravely complicates the situation, but until the attitude of the Sultan is known the German Government is unable to foresee its course of action except that in no event will Germany bring pressure to bear at Constantinople to influence the decisions of the Porte.

The Austro-Hungarian ambassador to Germany has arrived here with an autograph letter from Emperor Francis Joseph to Emperor William. This communication probably relates to the occupied provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Sofia, Oct. 5.—The proclamation of Bulgaria as an independent kingdom was formally made at Tirnovo today.

London, Oct. 5.—Count Memsdorff, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador to Great Britain, went down to Balmoral today to present to King Edward a copy of an autograph letter from Emperor Francis Joseph addressed to the heads of all the states, and explaining the necessity of altering the political status of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Scents a Plot.

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—Turkey is convinced that Austria, backed by Germany, encouraged Bulgaria to declare her independence in order to strike a blow at the Kaimli ministry and compromise the new constitution. (Continued on Page Nine.)

Taxes Collected Total $499,448.82 Excellent Work of Collector Hays

Only $101,435.60 Remains To Be Taken in—Small Balance for 1907.

Over 75 per cent of the taxes for 1908 are in the treasurer's hands, with still one more installment to come.

This year Tax Collector Hays had the sum of $416,226.42 to collect. This included the sum of $15,342 which is allowed for rebates, discounts and uncollected taxes, leaving Major Hays the sum of $400,884.42 actually to take in.

Of this he has already collected $499,448.82, leaving the sum of $101,435.60 still to collect.

The discounts already allowed amount to $11,000.

"Taxes are coming in very well indeed, just as well as during any previous year," said Major Hays. "It will readily be seen that over 75 per cent of the taxes are already in my hands, and there is one more installment to come. I anticipate getting practically all of it in hand early this year."

Outstanding Taxes.

Major Hays has still $6,000 of 1907 taxes to collect. This is considered a very small amount, less than one-quarter of 1 per cent.

"We will get a considerable amount of that yet," said Major Hays. "Warrants will be issued shortly, and we expect by this method to get a considerable portion of the outstanding taxes. We issued 15 warrants today and we will continue to send them out until we get all the taxes and the books closed."

A Bear Grabbed Baby From a Go-Cart

Tucson, Ariz., Oct. 5.—A terrible tragedy was enacted at Elysian Grove, a pleasure park, when an immense black bear escaped from a cage yesterday and charged a throng of visitors. The animal, which had been raised in captivity from a cub, had been in the habit of drinking soda pop at the bar, and when he escaped he went there. He was driven away by the attendants, who attempted to force it into its cage. The bear became enraged and charged the crowd.

The wife of a Southern Pacific employe, Bess Laird, ran with a go-cart containing an infant. The bear pursued and snatched the infant and crushed it to death before its mother's eyes. It was attacking the woman when a shot from a policeman's revolver stopped it. The bystanders opened a fusillade and killed the bear with a score of bullets. The bear has been closely confined since a week ago, when it attacked a small boy.

A WORLD'S RECORD.

New York, Oct. 5.—A world's record discus throw of 150 feet and 3 inches was made by Martin J. Sheridan, of the Irish-American Athletic Club, at the Pastime Athletic Club yesterday. The former record was 139 feet 11 inches, made by A. K. Dearborn, of the New York Athletic Club.

OLD LONDON'S WORST WAR SCARE

German Note Telling of sudden Attack Drafted.

TEUTONS TO BREAK ENTENT.

A Loud Cry for Two New Battleships Made to One of the Kaisers.

London, Oct. 4.—War scares are seldom at their most dangerous stage when they are most talked about. Real and imminent peril, in England at any rate, produces silence. At present the writer is very far from saying that England and Germany are on the verge of conflict. He merely desires to record the fact that naval and military circles in this country are in a state of nervous dread of a sudden attack in the near future by German armies.

It is this fear, which, of course, would under no circumstances be officially admitted, but which undoubtedly exists, that gives peculiar significance to one of the most alarming admonitions ever addressed to a nation. This warning appears in the number of the National Review, just published. The sentence alone is sufficiently appalling: "It is known to those who have their hands on national secrets that a German diplomatic circular to the powers is already drafted, announcing that Germany has delivered her attack upon England unexpectedly and in time of peace because a responsible officer at the British admiralty had intimated to all and sundry on innumerable occasions that England would deliver such an attack upon the German navy, and supporting the statement by the evidence of diplomatists and parties whose word cannot be hastily rejected."

This statement, whether true or false, is the most striking demonstration ever made of the ease with which casuistry may at any moment furnish a plausible cause belli. To justify the article, which bears the signature "Ignorant," and which is strongly indorsed editorially, there is, of course, a strong condemnation of the present British naval policy and an appeal for instant action to avert if possible the supposed danger. Following are the concluding paragraphs of the article: "Just as victory over the British fleet in the North Sea is the objective of German naval policy, so is the destruction of the understanding between England and France the objective of German diplomacy. Germany is determined to break down the entente cordiale and estrange England and France, as she estranged France and Austria in the critical years between 1865 and 1870."

By keeping these apart she was able to defeat them in detail and to obtain the hegemony of Europe. If any disloyalty were shown by either power to the present understanding peace would not be worth a day's purchase. War would be instant and inevitable. Nor can it be denied that some of the weakening of the entente has already followed the reductions in the British army and the failure of the British nation to reform its military system.

Drive France to War.

"It must be remembered by Englishmen that France has to live in close proximity to a German army that is being increased, though today Germany is able to place four men in the field to France's three. At any moment irresistible military pressure may be brought to bear on France. To meet such a situation and prevent what would be a disaster and prevent France, out also for England and Europe, the British nation should be able to render such assistance on land to France as we gave in 1908 to Spain."

In view of the increased size of modern armies this means that England must be in a position to place from 200,000 to 300,000 men in the field with the utmost expedition. The cause is the same. In 1808 Britain cherished no animosity toward France, but she was determined to maintain that balance of power which was the only gauge of peace. Today Germany, on land, plays just the same part as the France of Napoleon's time. The problem is not to injure Germany, but to prevent her from using her enormous strength to the ruin of her weaker neighbors; and as a corollary to this policy the entente should be developed into a defensive alliance to which Russia should be a partner.

"In the policy of maintaining British armaments and the defensive alliance suggested it is grotesque to see any trace of jingoism. The challenge has come from Germany, and the whole history of that country shows with convincing clearness that the only means of curbing the immoderate ambitions of her military party and preserving peace is for the menaced powers to be strong. Strength alone can deter her from delivering the attack for which she is so assiduously preparing."

Guard the North Sea.

"Had the British Government in 1907 replied to the German navy bill of 1905 increasing the German fleet by corresponding augmentations of the British naval forces a death blow might have been dealt to Germany's naval projects for the present. Had England replied in the present year to the act of 1908 by voting inexorably two keels to Germany's one it is at least possible that the German nation would have abandoned its efforts. But the opportunities have been lost, and now there lies before England a desperate, prolonged and inordinately costly struggle to hold her own at sea."

"Only the overwhelming preponderance of British force can now maintain peace. The very nature of attack can be predicted. It will come when this nation least expects it. The watchword for the day must be concentration of all the available force in the North Sea in one strong fleet, and for the future the laying down of two ships to the German one and the reform of the British army. That is the key to European peace, the only chance of averting a terrible and sanguinary conflict."

DE ORO RETAINS POOL CHAMPIONSHIP

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 3.—Alfred De Oro, of St. Louis, retains the pool championship of the world. Though Bennie Allen, of Kansas City, the challenger, outplayed him in the final block of the championship series here tonight, yet the lead of the Kansas City man was not enough to offset the advantage De Oro had already gained. Allen's score tonight was 207 and De Oro's 200. This made De Oro's total for the series 800, and Allen's 769.

GOOD QUOTING AT FOREST CITY CLUB

The Forest City Quotting Club held a most successful tournament on Saturday last. The entry list was large, and the play was good.

In the first series John Talbot proved a winner after a fine series of games. His great battle in the semi-finals was with R. Walsh, who made the veteran play great quots to come through. J. Lewis and Dr. Wyckoff, and S. Lewis and George Bolton put up hard battles.

In the second series, Ralph Errington, one of the best, won the series. With Dr. Wyckoff in second place, Geo. Bolton got third money. Errington and Wyckoff had a fine contest in the finals.

New Dress Goods Borders Are Popular, New and Fashionable

A decidedly new feature this season are the bordered Dress Goods and Suitings. These are woven along the edge of the materials in various widths and styles in shades just contrasting enough to give the decided border effect. In Dress Goods Section. See them.

Bordered Cheviot, $1.00 Yard

One of the season's novelties. Striped, in green and black, and brown and black, with woven check border, formed by the weaving, giving a very handsome and stylish effect, with one of the most serviceable materials, especially attractive for young Ladies' Fall and Winter Suits, 50 inches wide, at, per yard $1.00

DIRECT FROM PARIS

Bordered Costumes, $1.65 Yard

These are sold in suit or skirt lengths in brown, dark green, purple and new blue, with handsomely-embroidered borders in black. Direct from Paris, the world's fashion-centre. Heavy Twill Serge, 52 inches wide, at, per yard $1.65

Bordered Costumes, $2.50 Yard

The new and fashionable Heavy Twill Serge, in navy, brown and dark green, with heavy Vandyke borders woven in contrasting shades. One of the prettiest styles of the season. 52 inches wide, at, per yard $2.50

These novelties are in short lengths, some are single costumes, some two, and skirt lengths may be had of any of them except the single suit lengths. They are most stylish effects, and just seem to be designed for odd winter skirt to wear with your fur coat.

Ladies' Winter Coats

Everybody seems pleased with our coats this season. We, too, are proud of our great assortment. There is something about them that classes them so far above the ordinary styles you are accustomed to seeing in ready-to-wear coats, and how the styles differ. Such variety we have not shown before, and never such a bright place to show them. Not a dark corner in our Mantle Section, on third floor, in that splendidly lighted Richmond street section of our new building.

Long Beaver Coats, $12.50

These are semi-fitted, 50 inches long. Trimming of inlaid braid and solid stitched straps. Sleeves and body lined in black. Only, each $12.50

Long Beaver Coats, $15.00

The new Empire style, 50 inches long, with velvet collar, trimmings of striped cloth and buttons. Sleeves and body lined in black. Only, each $15.00

Long Beaver Coats, $21.00

Full box style, 50 inches long, in navy, brown, fawn, green, black, two-inch strips of cloth stitched solid and inlaid with braid from shoulders to bottom of coat. Sleeves and body silk-lined, for, each $21.00

Long Beaver Coats, $23.00

Empire style, 50 inches long, in tan, fawn, navy, and black, velvet collar. Trimmings of cloth inlaid to form applique. Sleeves and body silk-lined, for, each $23.00

Full range of Misses' Coats.

F. BROWN TAKES FIFTEEN MILE RACE

Toronto, Oct. 3.—F. Brown, of Stratford, proved the winner of the Dunlop bicycle race held here today, covering the 15-mile journey in 44 minutes and 5 seconds (plus 7 minutes handicap), half a mile ahead of M. D. Jones, of Toronto, who crossed the tape 55 seconds later. The result was rather a surprise, as Brown was considered a novice, being allowed the maximum handicap of seven minutes.

SPRINTER CARPENTER SUSPENDED FOR GOOD

Birmingham, England, Oct. 3.—At a general committee meeting of the Amateur Athletic Association here today the report of the judges on the running of J. C. Carpenter, of the American team, at the recent Olympic games, in the 400 metres race, was taken up for consideration and it was decided to permanently suspend Carpenter.

In the final heat of the 400 metres race at the Olympic games on July 22, Carpenter finished first, but was disqualified for having fouled Halswelle, the British representative.

SOLVING THE TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM.

One of the most important problems confronting the Liberals on assuming office in 1896 was that of transportation. They grasped the fact that Canada's geographical position gave it a great advantage in the grain-carrying trade of the continent. The Government adopted, and has steadily followed, a bold and progressive policy. While much has been done, a great deal still remains to be accomplished, and if Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues are allowed to complete their plans — of that there does not appear any doubt — before many years pass the great bulk of the grain exports of the American continent will be going through Canadian channels.

The present Government has endeavored to make the waterways perform a large share in the movement of products. It has rushed to completion the St. Lawrence Canal system, a work which had been progressing very slowly under the Conservatives, making available a clear channel of 14 feet from the great lakes to Canadian ocean ports. It has devoted special and energetic attention towards improving the conditions of harbors, etc.; extended the Government telegraph systems down the St. Lawrence; provided aids to navigation in the shape of light-houses, range lights, fog horns and alarms and lightships; abolished canal tolls and tonnage dues, and been the means of reducing marine insurance by $22,000 in one year.

Equally progressive has been the Government's railway policy. By granting a subsidy of $3,630,000 to the Crow's Nest Pass Railway it has secured the opening up of the rich Kootenay country, and the diversion of the trade connected therewith from the United States to Canadian channels, besides securing large reductions in freight rates on the western division of the C. P. R. It has thoroughly equipped the Intercolonial and extended that Government-owned road from Levis to Montreal, a distance of 300 miles. To many other railway projects, all tending to the development of the country, the Government has given substantial aid. But the crowning enterprise is the construction of the National Transcontinental Railway, which is now well under way, and if the calculations of the chief engineer are borne out, will be completed by December, 1911.

This great national highway, when completed, will be the shortest all-Canadian line from tide-water to tide-water across the continent; will give development and competition in transportation to 1,200 miles of grain-growing country in the west; will open up vast coal fields; will develop mining and lumbering in Northern British Columbia; will insure a third railway outlet from and through the wheat fields to the great lakes; will traverse 1,000 miles of Northern Ontario and Quebec, at present unknown and inaccessible; induce the investment of one hundred millions of British capital in Canada and correspondingly interest the British public in Canada's welfare, and will transfer the through-traffic interests of the Grand Trunk from the Western States to Western Canada.

Finally, the Government has decided to undertake the work of building a railway to Hudson Bay which will open to the Canadian West a new outlet to the sea, and a much shorter route to the markets of the old country.

WHAT ABOUT THE POWER LINE?

The power litigation has already made some points clear. Mr. Beck, by the bylaws he submitted to the freeholders in the cities and towns of Western Ontario, agreed on behalf of the power commission to supply the cities and towns with power not costing more than a certain fixed sum at the respective municipal limits. If the power happened to cost more than the fixed sum at the limits, the commission, according to the bylaws, would bear the extra cost for the 30 years of the contract.

Mr. Beck, by the contract which he procured, or is trying to procure, from the councils of the same cities and towns, does not agree to supply power at the city limits, but to cost more than a fixed sum, but he agrees to supply power at Niagara Falls at a fixed sum, and he does not agree to pay anything for the cost at the municipal limits, over and above the amount fixed in the bylaws, for the 30 years of the contract, no matter if the price should be twice that agreed to by the rates of the people in the bylaws.

What is accomplished by this shuffle? Just this: Under the bylaws as carried by the people the commission took the risk as to whether or not the transmission line would be a permanent commercial success. Under the contract, which the municipal councils are asked to make, the cities and towns take the risk as to whether or not the transmission line will be a permanent commercial success.

How was this shuffle accomplished? By first securing the people to vote for the bylaws wherein the Beck commission took the risk. By then allowing the time to pass during which the bylaw under the statutes might be quashed, without during that time presenting or making public the proposed contract wherein the municipalities took the risk. By presenting to the councils of the cities and towns, after the time for quashing the bylaws had passed, the contract wherein the municipalities took the risk, and representing to them that this contract was what the voters authorized the councils to sign. By placing in the power act a provision that no matter how much deception was practiced in bringing about this state of affairs, the Beck commission can only be sued to prevent these wrongs by the leave of Mr. Beck or his colleagues.

The astounding thing is how a large section of the press of the Province continues to look upon this double-dealing with equanimity. The result of the devious course taken by the hydro-electric commission has been to tie up the power project indefinitely. There is no sense in placing the responsibility upon individuals who have issued injunctions. These proceedings have demonstrated that the contracts are vulnerable, and it is well that this has been discovered before large financial obligations have been assumed.

WHY BORDEN "CUT LOOSE."
Toronto Saturday Night endeavors to account for the surprising nature of the Borden platform campaign. In the west where the weather is cold they like their politics hot, and Mr. Borden's frigid mode of speaking was a disappointment. Some of his friends decided to advise him that he ought to "cut loose," oftener and "looser" in his western addresses. The only person who had the temerity to tell him so to his face was Mr. Roblin. Mr. Borden must have taken it in good part, as he asked Mr. Roblin to join him in his present stumping tour. So Mr. Roblin came to give easterners a taste of prairie oratory. On Saturday Night's opinion Mr. Roblin overdid the part, and committed serious indiscretions. It is a fact that Mr. Borden has endeavored to follow the counsel of his western friends and has "cut loose" in this campaign as never before.

Whether this is the real explanation or not, the performances of Mr. Borden and his companions have not been worthy of men of their position. Mr. Roblin and Mr. Bower impressed Ontario audiences as a pair of political barn-stormers. They made no pretence of seriously discussing public questions, and it looked as though their sound and fury were a part of the programme purposely introduced to counteract the soporific tendencies of Mr. Borden's speeches. Mr. Borden himself made the mistake of imagining that he could atone for his deficiencies by becoming abusive like his companions. His addresses were different from theirs more in manner than in matter. He was sometimes coarse and nearly always abusive. This new role was not becoming to him.

Mr. Ames should turn his lantern upon Roblin's land deals. Has lightning come out of the Balkan war cloud at last? Mr. Borden's speeches are another proof that evil communications corrupt good manners. Mackenzie King is running in North Waterloo against his old school teacher. The tables are turned, as the teacher is now in for a licking from the pupil.

Mr. W. P. Maclean is again the Conservative candidate in Centre York. His last appearance on a public platform was in this city, as an opponent of Major Beattie. What a consistent and united party!

Ashamed to travel with his own lieutenants in the House of Commons, Mr. Borden sent to Manitoba and British Columbia for help. The result shows that he leaped out of the frying pan into the fire.

The Opposition press is making much ado over a timber deal in which Mr. A. W. Fraser, K.C., of Ottawa, was interested. Mr. Fraser's withdrawal from the field as Liberal candidate had nothing to do with this transaction, which was a perfectly honorable one. His letter of explanation shows that the scandal-talk is baseless.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER ON THE COST OF THE TRANS-CONTINENTAL.
(At Berlin, Sept. 24.)

"You have heard the Conservative leaders say that I, when introducing the question to the House of Commons, misled the House. I stated that it would cost $125,000,000, whereas it is going to cost some $200,000,000. Sir, that is very small potatoes. It is very small potatoes indeed. What I stated was this: That we were going to build the railway from Winnipeg to Montreal, but leave it to the Grand Trunk, Pacific Company, which was to pay interest upon it, except for seven years. Well, sir, if we build the railway and borrow the money to do so at 2 per cent interest, that will be covered by the payment of interest we receive from the Grand Trunk Pacific under the lease. If a road cost one million or two million, the interest you pay out with one hand you put into your pocket with the other. If we had made the condition that the company should commence payment as soon as the road was completed, not a dollar would you have to pay, but for seven years the interest is to be paid by the Canadian people, and after seven years it will be borne by the G. T. P. I estimated that the cost to us for seven years of interest would be $13,000,000. Perhaps in this I have been too generous. I didn't expect that times would be so good as they have been since. I did not expect that the cost of labor would increase 25 per cent, and materials 35 per cent or more."

THE LACK.

Knicker—There are plenty of books telling how to save life while waiting for the doctor.
Bocker—Yes. What we need is one telling the young doctor how to save life while waiting for the patient.

THE SCAPEGOAT.
(J. W. Foley in New York Times.)
If anybody comes in late to a dinner and doesn't shut the grate, or doesn't sweep the porch, or go Right out and shovel off the snow, or bring in wood, or wipe his feet, or leave the woodshed nice and neat—It's me!

If anybody doesn't think To carry out the cow a drink, Or tracks mud on the kitchen floor, Or doesn't shut the cellar door, Or leaves the broom out on the stoop, Or doesn't close the chicken coop—It's me!

If anybody doesn't bring The hammer or the saw a thing, Or dulls the axe, or doesn't know What has become of so-and-so, That's lost for maybe six weeks past, Or anybody had—It's me!

If anything is lost or gone, They've got someone to blame it on; I got the blame for all the rest. Because I was the little-est; And if they're talking to someone, For what is or what isn't done—It's me!

BORDEN HAS NO HOPE.
(Saturday Night.)
I do not believe that Mr. Borden ever entertained the idea, from the first moment of his entry on the Conservative leadership, that he could possibly reach office until Sir Wilfrid Laurier had run his course. Nor would it be strange if he harbored the expectation that when he does finally resign—say five years hence—he may count upon ruling the country for the balance of his days.

EAST ELGIN'S COMING MAN.
(St. Thomas Journal.)
No independent minded man could have heard Mr. Rutherford at Aymer Tuesday evening without coming to the conclusion that in the principal of the Aymer high school the community had a man of whom it should be proud and proud to send him to Parliament to represent the riding worthy to be heard from in the councils of the nation.

A POOR POLICY.
(Toronto Star.)
In big-fact, double-loaded type are made declarations of an uprising of the people against the Government, and reiterations of the famous assertion that "all the signs point to a Conservative victory." Of course, Conservative meetings are largely attended. In those meetings there is a great deal of the entertainment character, and the element that is out only for a good time enjoys bluster and denunciation. There is a kind of excitement in listening to reckless and unfounded charges, and watching for expressions that are usually not part of serious and decent discussions.

SLANDER.

That expresses beautifully the idea and object of Borden and his friends. But they under-estimate the intelligence and manliness of the people of Canada. The people do not reward organized lying with their confidence.

LAURIER AS AN ASSET.

Finance Minister Fielding says that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's personality is a great asset. The poet has phrased the same sentiment: "His strength was as the strength of ten men, because his heart was pure."

A HUMOROUS SLOGAN.

The Mail and Empire, without intending to be humorous, has an election slogan: "Better men are Foster, Bennett, Rufus Pope and my dear Lefurgey. The better times we had in 1896. Look on this picture, then, as this."

But Careless Persons Spoiled Them, to Chagrin of the Police.

London, Oct. 4.—England's excitement over several recent murders in which the murderers escaped detection has caused Sir Robert Anderson, the former commissioner of police, to mention some of the difficulties which hinder crime investigation in England. He spoke of the difference between the legal powers and status of the English police force as compared with the French.

"In Paris," he remarked, "if a murderer were to take place the house would be at once surrounded by a cordon of officers, the doors would be all sealed, the chief of police would be at once informed, and no one would be allowed to touch anything until he had completed his investigation. Everything would be left just as it was found; the most skilled police officers would see everything as the criminal left it; they would note the methods of his work by the evidences remaining, and would have placed before them all that would help to unravel the story."

"See the difference," an Englishman's home is his castle, as we know, and when the crime investigator desires to enter a house he has to take off his cap ceremoniously and say, 'If you please.'"

Two notable cases that I had to deal with. There was the murder of that unfortunate young lady, Miss Camp, in the carriage on the Southwestern Railway.

"She was brought into Waterloo and was then taken to St. Thomas' Hospital. No one there, it is necessary to inform the head of the criminal investigation department, and it was only by accident that I heard of it several hours after it occurred. Meanwhile all the evidence had been destroyed."

"France the doors of the carriage would have been closed, it would have been run into a siding or an engine shed, and a guard would have been placed there to see that no one disturbed the body or anything else."

"Something of the same kind happened in the Ripper crimes. In two cases of that terrible crime and the two distinct clues destroyed, wiped out absolutely, clues that might very easily have secured for us proof of the identity of the assassin."

"In one case it was a clay pipe. Before we could get to the scene of the murder the doctor had taken it and thrown it into the fireplace and smashed it beyond recognition."

"In another case there was writing in chalk on the wall—a most valuable clue; handwriting that might have been at once recognized as belonging to a certain individual. But before we could secure a copy or get it protected it had been entirely obliterated."

"No law hinders a police officer from going into a private house or private grounds to arrest a criminal. But the law gives him no right to enter for the investigation of a crime and the securing of evidence that may lead to the detection of the criminal."

"That brings me, of course, to the question of an alteration of the law and the reconstitution (if that be necessary) of the criminal investigation department, and that is too big a question to be settled or even discussed profitably here."

A BOLD STEP

The C. P. R. Forces Hands of American Roads for Oriental Freight.

New York, Oct. 4.—The initial step in what may prove to be a sharp difference in freight policies between the Canadian Pacific and all American transcontinental lines carrying freight to the Pacific seaboard for trans-shipment to the open ports of Japan and China, was taken yesterday by the Canadian company, which filed with the interstate commission in Washington its preliminary through rates on cotton piece goods between points in the United States and ports in the Orient, such rates showing the proportionate charges for carrying across the continent.

The Canadian Pacific filed this rate and will shortly file other rates in compliance with the strict letter of the tariff commission's regulations.

This ruling of the interstate commission, against which there has been great protest on the part of the American roads carrying through shipments to the Orient, provides that all railroads receiving through freight for a foreign port shall publish their through rates to such a port with the distinct specification of what it costs to move such freight through the territories of the United States. Since the interstate commission has no purview over ocean-carrying rates, the American roads which compete with the Canadian Pacific out of the ports of San Francisco, Seattle and Portland more particularly, have declared so it was announced by the New York freight agents of three of them yesterday, to suspend their present through Oriental rates after Nov. 1, and thereupon to publish only the rates to the seaboard ports.

Both the Canadian Pacific officials and the representatives of the competing American roads admit that upon the interpretation of the interstate commission ruling may depend in a great measure future trade between the United States and the Orient. The Canadian Pacific officials, however, maintain that the exigencies of domestic trade forbid their complying with the statute in its spirit, and that the expedient they have adopted is the only one which will be practicable, even though eventually disastrous, under the circumstances.

A new letter-carrier has been installed in the Paris postoffice. The device is attached to the letter boxes, and as soon as a certain number of letters have been posted the tray on which they fall is started by their weight and carries them to the sorting table.

MR. FRASER UPSETS STAR CRITICISM

Shows Withdrawal From Liberal Candidacy Not Due to Timber Transactions.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—Replying to an editorial in the Montreal Star, commenting on his withdrawal from the Liberal candidacy at Ottawa, Mr. Angus W. Fraser, K.C., has addressed a letter to the paper on the matter.

The Star assumed (probably because of the misrepresentations of some Conservative papers) that Mr. Fraser was forced out of the field because of his connection with certain timber transactions. Mr. Fraser emphatically denies this, and at the same time enters pretty fully into an explanation of the transaction which effectively upsets the arguments of his critics.

Following is the text of the letter: "Dear Sir,—In your leading editorial of yesterday you dealt with my resignation and attributed same to certain timber transactions which you discussed."

In the first place, permit me to say that I was not asked by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to resign, and my retirement was not because of those timber transactions, but because of the lack of harmony among the workers, due to the close vote at the nominating convention.

In the second place, I desire to point out that your article, in so far as it relates to the timber transactions, was inaccurate and unfairly attributed to me improper dealings in respect therewith.

Let me point out that the policy of every Government in Canada, whether Dominion or Provincial, in selling timber has been to impose an annual ground rent and to sell subject to certain dues. In the case referred to, of timber berth 958, which was purchased seven years ago by a syndicate of which I was a member, the sale was made subject to an annual ground rent of $5 per mile, and timber dues of 50 cents per thousand feet board measure. We had not asked that this berth should be put up for sale. We saw and we decided to bid. There were three bidders and our tender was the highest, viz., $1,650. Subsequently we purchased another limit adjoining for about $3,750. These two limits were sold for the amount mentioned."

Now let us examine the transaction and see what the country will actually receive:

Bonus on $58	$ 1,650
Bonus on $88	2,750
Ground rent for say 20 years, estimated life of limit	6,000
Timber dues on the total cut of timber at 50 cents, estimated number of feet being 120,000,000	60,000
(This latter item to be paid as timber is cut from year to year.)

Total amount paid or to be paid to the Government .. $71,400
At the time of the sale the market value of lumber was barely equal to the cost of manufacturing, and the timber dues to be paid. We, however, believed that the value of lumber could increase, and the limit being publicly advertised for sale, we considered we had a right to bid. No advantage in any shape or form was given to us.

Shortly after we acquired the limit the value of lumber began to increase, and in a short time increased in the west some $2 or $3 per 1,000 feet.

We interested some American lumbermen who had experienced the rapid rise of lumber values in the Western States, and anticipating that a similar rise in values would occur in Canada, they decided to join hands and form a company to operate in Canada. Our two limits were estimated to contain 120,000,000 feet and were taken over at $100,000, or a little over 80 cents per thousand.

At the same time they acquired another limit, which was given by the Conservative Government without competition and without bonus. This latter limit was estimated to contain 100,000,000 feet, and they paid $100,000 for same, or $1 per thousand.

This company has put up large mills and subsequently branched out to other parts of Canada, and is giving very large sum of money, and are giving employment to a large number of men.

At the time we purchased, the ground rent, dues and bonus paid was evidently the full value, as we acquired it by public competition. The increase in value is only the common experience elsewhere throughout Canada. I can from my own professional experience cite numerous instances. In one case a sale was made in the Ottawa Valley between private individuals at about $150,000. It was worked for three years and a large profit made. At the end of three years the price asked was about $300,000.

In another case a limit was offered for sale by private parties at about $100,000. It was worked for two years and a large profit made, and at the end of two years one of the owners told me they would not sell for $1,000,000.

In another case in British Columbia limits were acquired by simply staking out, surveying, and paying the annual ground rent, and in about three years the limits were sold for over $1,000,000, the total cost originally for surveying, ground rent, etc., being less than $25,000.

But why should I multiply instances? We all know that this has been the experience from one end of Canada to the other. Why, then, should I be blamed for benefiting by the increase in value? I received no advantage. I bid in open public competition. No one in all the years during which these sales were being made ever complained that they were not properly advertised. No criticism was made by anyone until years after, when the rapid rise in lumber had given an increased value to them.

As one of your readers for many years, and one who values public opinion, I feel justified in so fully explaining this matter.

I trust your sense of honor will enable you to remedy the injustice done me in your editorial last evening. Yours truly, A. W. FRASER.

The Rogers Brothers.

Few indeed have been the attractions that have given as much satisfaction to local theatregoers as the "Rogers Brothers in Panama," the attraction at the Grand on Saturday night. There was a good house, not so large as it might have been, but nevertheless a fine audience. The show pleased immensely, not an adverse criticism being heard.

It is a musical comedy, with no plot to speak of, but furnishing enough to display the talents of the principals, and some who were not principals.

"While the play is pretty much 'Rogers Brothers,' they did not monopolize the stage as much as many other stars have under similar circumstances, but on the contrary they were conspicuous by their absence for considerable periods. Not that it hurt the show any, but gave many opportunities for pretty stunts by the artists in the settings. When they did come on they were the more appreciated."

Gus Rogers was not in the cast on Saturday night. His role, that of Hugo Kissler, was taken by Bert King. The latter will be remembered as being the German comedian in "The Belle of New York," and he was also with "The Telephone Girl." Gus Rogers was taken ill in New York some weeks ago with pneumonia, but is now convalescing. He came to London on the advice of his physician, and he did not play. He will play in Toronto on Wednesday evening. Bert King assumed the role and played it with great success. He was perfectly master of the German dialect, and worked opposite to Max Rogers very cleverly. They were certainly a funny pair with a surfeit of quaint witicism and funny sayings. When they are on the stage it is one air-splitting roar. They were in particularly good fettle Saturday evening, and made a fine impression. They were excruciatingly funny in their burlesques and parodies.

The Rogers Brothers have surrounded themselves with a very strong company. The premier place belongs to Miss Marion Stanley, as charming a young lady as ever visited this city. Possessing a fine voice, with a marked ability as a comedienne, handsome and with a most bewitching smile, she was a great favorite with the audience, and they could scarcely get enough of her. She sang beautifully, her song hit being "Each One Has a Way of His Own," in which she introduced some really clever imitations.

Miss Avita Sanchez, a Spanish girl of fine appearance, was suffering from a very severe cold, and could scarcely sing a note. However, she recited "My Cigarette" most effectively. It is a very pretty song.

The male roles are very capably handled. Mr. Lydecker, as the mator, Mendoza, possesses a fine stage appearance and can sing. His was the best work of the male singers. The other roles were capably taken.

And the chorus. There were 23 girls in it, and all could do something. There was no excess baggage at all. Ned Weyburn, the peer of all chorus trainers, showed his master hand in this, and it is doubtful if more effective stage groupings have ever been seen in London. The coloring was rich, but not loud, and was most effective.

And the girls could sing. Six of them gave imitations during the song "Neath the Old Palm Tree." The girls had good voices and showed ability as imitators.

As stated before, there was as fine a collection of catchy songs as one could desire to listen to. Every one seemed better than the one before.

If the Rogers Brothers ever come to London again, the Grand will not be big enough to hold the crowd.

"The Gay Musician" Tonight.
Amelia Stone, the dainty prima donna, who will be heard in the new comic opera, "The Gay Musician," at the Grand tonight, has a number of songs in the opera that will surely become immensely popular in this city. In New York, where she has been for one hundred nights at Wallack's Theatre this summer, Miss Stone captivated the town by her artistic rendition of "A Cup of Tea" and "My Dashing Soldier Boy." "The Gay Musician" is one of the best comic operas produced in many seasons, and is guaranteed by the management of the Grand.

Bennett's Bill.
Opening with a matinee today, Bennett's will offer one of the strongest vaudeville bills ever seen in this city. It is headed by Jack Wilson and Company, one of the best dancing and singing novelties in vaudeville, and ably assisted by the following well-known acts: "Al Lawrence, who is well known in London; Blinn, Bonn, Brn, a very novel and pleasing musical number; Lucy and Lucier Company, in a very amusing sketch; Norton and Russell, quick-change artists; Bertische, strong man, and Barthold's Birds. This bill is deserving capacity houses during the entire week.

Successful "Teddy Bear" Matinee.
An unqualified success was the "Teddy Bear" matinee Saturday at Bennett's. It was well worth the afternoon small price of admission to this popular theatre, in addition to the splendid programme, to see the smiling countenances of the pretty children, the anxious mothers and the enthusiasm when each child was presented with their teddy. Never in the history of any local theatre were there so many children in attendance at one performance. All ages were there to applaud their little friends who were fortunate enough in securing a "Teddy." Next Saturday management have arranged to hold another "Teddy Bear" matinee by special request. The following were the winners of "Teddy Bears": May Baynes, 207 Horton street, No. 5078; Lena

HOUSE WORK

Thousands of American women in our homes are daily sacrificing their lives to duty.

In order to keep the home neat and pretty, the children well dressed and tidy, women overdo. A female weakness or displacement is often brought on and they suffer in silence, trifling along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden. It is to these faithful women that comes as a boon and a blessing. It did Mrs. W. Barrett, of 602 Foreman St., Montreal, who writes Mrs. Pinkham:

"For years I was a great sufferer from female weakness, and despite very remedy given me by doctors for his trouble, I grew worse. One day a friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and am thankful to say that it made me strong and well."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

THE WHALES BEATEN

School of Threshers Laming Them as the Atrato Went By.

New York, Oct. 4.—The steamship Atrato, in last evening from Colon and the West Indies, while off Hatteras on Monday ran close to a school of threshers pursuing and beating with their fluke-like tails a school of whales. The sharks leaped high from the sea in flashing curves, and the whacks of their tails were heard as they smote the backs of the whales. The battle was going on in a mass of suds when the Atrato passed out of sight of the combatants.

Aboard the Atrato was Karl Parrish, a mining engineer, who has been prospecting in Colombia. He brought in a bag that he put in the specie room of the ship $10,000 in nuggets he collected in Colombia, which he says is rich in gold deposits. He made a journey into the interior from Savanilla on muleback with a native guide.

Other passengers by the Atrato were P. M. Bellis, one of the partners of the Bellis Turtle Company, which has been supplying England with turtle soup for about a hundred and fifty years, and Prof. Nathaniel Lord Britton of the New York Botanical Garden, who has been collecting rare plants in the West Indies.

A BID FOR A BRIDE

By BLANCHE EARDLEY

Author of "Kitty Bell—Actress," "The Lady Killer," Etc.
All Rights Reserved.

"My dear Miss Frant," he began slowly, "I am really amazed at your interest in me, and in what you imagine to be my business, but honestly I don't see the importance of the name of Steinway. When I was a lad in the colonies I naturally knew and met many types of men, some good sorts, some rotters, and this man Steinway was probably one or the other; the name is not uncommon, but certainly I have no enemy of that name. I should remember it if I had," he smiled.

Isobel rose and looked at him. "There's one thing you don't know, perhaps—how should you? But the letter Paul Steinway dropped in the park was picked up by me."

There was a moment's silence, during which they measured each other's strength. Then he said slowly:

"I am afraid I am none the wiser. You see I have not had the pleasure of reading the gentleman's correspondence. May I ask if the letter was addressed to me?"

"Yes—it was a letter relating to a secret you shared with him," she answered. "Perhaps you will say that there is no secret?"

He gave a frank laugh of amusement.

"For my word, I'm sure that I have a thousand such mysterious documents being sent to me every year. These needy devils come back to England, accidentally hear of a 'pal' who has 'struck lucky,' as they call it, and because they want more money and can't earn it, they start a systematic form of blackmail. I deal with such letters promptly when they fall into my possession," he went on grimly. "I pass them into the hands of the police."

She bit her lip.

"But this may not have been such a case," she said slowly. "I have an idea that Paul Steinway was not the usual type of man who writes begging letters under a threat. He is your enemy—and a bitter one, and you know it, though you choose to laugh at it. I—I warn you against that man," she went on; "he is a man who will succeed."

He smiled.

"All this is very interesting, Miss Frant, but still I don't know why you should concern yourself on my behalf. May I inquire whether you have communicated your dangerous suspicions about Mr. Steinway to Stella?"

She flushed suddenly.

"Stella," she laughed, "Stella lives in a world of her own; she is not affected by the things that affect me or you! She probably would think me mad—as you do—and then go back to her dreaming—dreams in which you and I have no place."

"What do you mean?" he said sharply. "What dream has Stella that her future husband does not have?"

She looked at him with mocking eyes.

"Need you ask? You are so clever in some things, surely you are not blinded by Stella's outward resignation to her coming marriage. She is in love, yes—but not with you."

"The veins stood out on Hawke's temples like blue cords, and for a moment wild, unreasonable rage gripped him. He longed to strike the woman who had with an almost superhuman effort, but with an almost superhuman effort, he controlled himself, though his eyes betrayed what his will concealed."

"You are making very daring statements, Miss Frant," he said quietly; "they are of such a nature that the kindest thing I can suppose is that you have quarrelled with your cousin, and wish to make mischief between us."

A scornful laugh came from her trembling lips.

"You know that I am speaking the truth. In your heart of hearts you know that Stella does not love you—that she is fighting against another love—for whom, you can guess. This afternoon she left me and took a hansom and drove off somewhere; she refused to let me go with her. Oh!" she panted, "do you think I would act like Stella if I were the woman you had chosen for your wife? If she were to read this letter of Paul Steinway's she would believe it at once—she would throw you over, while I—I would cling all the more to the man I loved, and if there were mud on him I would so join my life with his that I would lift some of his crime on to my shoulders!"

She paused, and buried her face in her hands. She had had her rage of convention from her, and now waited breathlessly to see the result of her mad recklessness. Would she win or lose?

The next moment she heard a sound that made her cold with mortification. Clifford Hawke opened the door and in a cold, conventional voice said, for the benefit of the servant outside:

"I will go and see about a hansom for you while you put on your gloves; I won't be a second."

The door closed behind him, and when she was alone Isobel glanced up with a white face.

"Very well," she whispered viciously, "as you have humbled me today, Clifford Hawke, so shall I humble you another day!"

CHAPTER XL

Jasper Tennant looked round his dismantled studio with moody retrospective eyes. He had packed up his belongings, and sent them to be stored, and had made up his mind to give Chelsea a wide berth for a time. The studio would be on his hands for another eighteen months, but he felt he could not bear the sight of those rooms where he had seen a glimpse of what might have been had the Fates so willed. He had not made up his mind where to go to yet, but it would be somewhere sufficiently near enough to town to enable him to run in and see how Lottie was getting on, and then London would see him more until after the wedding that would place an irrevocable barrier between him and the woman he had set upon the empty pedestal in his heart.

He turned from his inspection of the empty room and whistled softly. A tiny black Pomeranian lay curled upon a rug in a corner of the studio, and at the sound of the familiar whistle it pricked up its ears and wagged a bushy tail, then rising slowly, first stretched itself, and then trotted across the room to him. He bent down and patted its back.

"Well, old girl! so we're off, eh? You'll be glad to find yourself in the country again, won't you? But first we must go and say good-bye to our friend and patron, Lady Mary, and then—well, we'll transact our business and put ourselves on a new footing with life."

The dog gave a series of agitated barks as it saw its master take up his hat and move towards the door, and a few moments later they were both in a hansom, the man carrying the dog in his arms.

Lady Mary's house in Cadogan Gardens was not far from the studio, and a quarter of an hour later he was being ushered into the drawing-room, followed by his faithful companion.

The room was darkened by sun blinds, and at first he saw only Lady Mary's head, and then gradually another figure loomed in the near distance—a tall, graceful one in some soft silvery garment.

"We were just talking about you," Lady Mary said cheerfully; "in fact, I knew for a fact that you had thrown up your ambition and become a gardener."

"It's not quite correct," he smiled. "I am going into the country, but shall engage a gardener."

Anyway, I knew that a gardener had something to do with your plans," she replied airily, then she turned to the silent girl in the gloom. "You have met Jasper, my dear, I know! He used to come to see me alone once, but now he brings his dog as well, I suppose he imagines the yapping little creature will prevent my trying to kiss him!"

Stella smiled. She was glad of Lady Mary's easy flippancy conversation. It helped her to conquer the momentary panic that had seized her at the sound of his voice. And she was full of a guilty gladness to see that he also had been startled at meeting her. It was a fortnight since that meeting at Lottie's, and though she had gone several times to see her, she had never met him again, and she had been ashamed of the depression that had gripped her when she had failed to see him.

"I have called to say 'good-bye' to you at last!" Tennant said, when they had all seated again. "The studio is empty, I seek a temporary home at an hotel."

"For the dog's sake I ought to be glad," Lady Mary said, "but I am sorry you are going to vegetate, Jasper. You are too young to cultivate a 'waist.'"

"I am going to devote myself to everything into which a 'waist' does not enter," he smiled. "I have not given up my art, you know."

Stella looked at him with interested eyes. "Your quest?" she said, speaking for the first time.

He met her gaze for a moment. She was tempting the faithless Fifi with a piece of cake, and on her white hand blazed the insolent diamonds of Clifford's ring.

"Yes," he replied, "I am bound by a promise to find the man who married my sister—the lady of the canvas for which Lottie was sitting, you know, and I have always let things come in between me and my quest, but now I am going to work hard and get at the truth."

"If you put it into a good detective's hands it would not take long," Lady Mary said briskly. "You promised to show us the papers and photographs that were sent you from Australia, but you never did!"

"And I am afraid I never shall now," he laughed ruefully; "they have been stolen from me."

"Stolen!" both women exclaimed. He nodded.

"Yes, I found my drawer where I had kept them had been ransacked, and every single proof taken away. It's the most extraordinary thing in the world, as nothing of any value was taken, and I had notes stuffed in another drawer."

"But have you no idea who did it?" Stella said.

AVOID HEADACHE POWDERS. When your liver is wrong cheeks are pale, headaches—don't deaden the trouble with drugs, help out the system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Safe, mild and sure are Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Buy a 25c box.

"Not in the least. I did not know anyone but myself knew of their existence," he replied. "The day I discovered it."

He paused suddenly. He remembered the day too well. It had been when she had come to the studio, and he had forgotten everything for one mad second before Clifford Hawke had taken her away. As their eyes met Stella flushed suddenly. Almost by a wondrous telepathy she knew what the unfinished sentence was, and the memory of all it had meant rushed back upon her in a flood of regret and shame.

"The only thing for you to do," Lady Mary broke in, "is to go to Scotland Yard."

Tennant laughed. "I am going on there as soon as I leave here," he said, "but I must find someone to take care of Fifi. Poor little creature, I shall be going abroad after my stay in the country, and she will have to find a new home."

"Let me have her," Stella said quickly. "I should love to have her."

"I have no dog of my own," he answered. "Fifi wouldn't know herself in such grandeur, if you really will have her."

"Perhaps Mr. Hawke may not like you to have a dog just yet, dear," Lady Mary suggested gently.

"I shall not insist on it," she answered with a touch of hauteur. "I will keep Fifi always with me. If Mr. Tennant will trust her with me."

"There is no one else whom I would have chosen had I been asked!" he said quietly; "my only fear is that Fifi will forget me all too quickly."

She looked at him with shining eyes. "I shall not let her do that," she said simply, "and Fifi will be faithful to her first love, I know."

"Fifi will have to be shown among the other wedding presents with one of your cards on the collar round her neck, Jasper," Lady Mary laughed, "she will create a new fashion in wedding presents."

THIS HOBO HAD REAL STAMINA

Gives Ten Ounces of His Blood Although Starving and Walks Away.

New York, Oct. 5.—Handicapped physically by the fact that for days he had been stowed away in a freight car, and had suffered from acute hunger, on a trip from Baltimore, his home, Benjamin F. Hill, in the Presbyterian Hospital yesterday, gave an exhibition of stamina which astounded the surgeons.

"Broke," as he termed it, the young fellow gave for just $10, approximately eighteen ounces of his blood to be infused into the veins of a dying patient. He was told, optimistically, that perhaps in four days after the vital fluid had been extracted, he would be able to walk and return to his present lodgings in the Mills Hotel.

For a little more than one hour young Hill lay still on his back on the operating table. Then, with an exclamation of disgust at his enforced inactivity, he arose unassisted and, practically giving medical theories a slap in the face and ignoring the protests of the doctors, walked out.

He did not stagger. His eyes were clear. The only evidence that he had asked his life for $10 to infuse life into the veins of a man whom he did not know—a man who had more money than he—was a bandage wound tightly about his left arm where the incision had been made.

As Hill took his first steps in the little operating room after the tube connecting his artery with an artery at the hotel in the patient's back had been disconnected, the patient turned and made some incoherent remark. Hill looked at the form on the second table and saw a hand thrust toward him. He grasped it and pressed it warmly though silently.

Then Hill walked to a Madison avenue car at Seventy-first street, and rode down town, where he met a friend. Although the operation occurred at 1 o'clock and Hill lay upon the table until 3:30, he went about visiting with his friend until 11 p.m.

Dr. James A. Corcoran was in charge of the operation. Last night at the hotel he was informed by the manner of surgeons who wish to ponder statements before they read them, he made no comment on the remarkable vitality displayed by Hill.

Competition for the Job. Hill's home is at No. 3523 Roland avenue, Baltimore. He has been at the Mills Hotel two days. With others at the hotel he was informed yesterday morning that if he called at the Presbyterian Hospital he could earn $10 by surrendering a small percentage of his blood.

"There were at least twenty up there in line, all of them willing to do almost anything except commit a crime," he said, "for $10. I was next in the last line. Some looked husky, like longshoremen and truck drivers. My face was pale, and I was weak. I saw about seventeen of the men turned away by the examining surgeon. When my turn came the doctor for I don't know his name—placed some instrument in my biceps, felt my pulse, asked as to my general health and habits, and then came the little white room and the operation."

Speaking of the patient, Hill said: "The unfortunate man was trundled in on a table. It would not do to describe the condition in which he was in. He was suffering from internal hemorrhage. When he left the hospital he seemed to be very much improved, and I heard the doctors say they thought he might pull through."

Despite the heroic treatment administered and the obvious trembling of Hill's blood, the patient died last night. When surgeons learned of Hill's getting up and walking off, they declared it was one of the most remarkable incidents they had ever heard of.

KOCH'S THEORY REJECTED Tuberculosis Congress Decides Against the Great German Scientist.

Washington, Oct. 4.—A signal victory was won yesterday by the opponents of the theory advanced by Dr. Robert Koch, the famous German scientist, minimizing the danger to human life from the bovine tuberculosis bacilli, when the sixth triennial international congress on tuberculosis, just before its final adjournment, placed itself squarely on record in opposition to the views of the German savant.

The congress, by a unanimous vote, adopted a resolution recognizing the "possibility" of human infection from the bovine tuberculosis bacilli. Whether or not Dr. Koch has receded from his position by silently acquiescing in the adoption of the resolution is not known. A pleasant scene in the closing of the congress was the appearance of President Roosevelt.

The President, in an address, spoke of the rapid strides made in recent years in combatting disease, stating "it was not so very many years ago since the attitude of man toward such a disease as that of consumption was one of helpless acquiescence." He referred to the United States Government's work in rendering healthful the Panama Canal zone, and continued: "You have come here to conduct war on what is on the whole the most terrible scourge of the consumption throughout the world." The chance successfully to conduct that war arose when the greatest experts in the medical world turned their trained intelligence to the task. It remains for them to find out just what can be done. The task then will be for the representatives of the governments to give all possible effect to this conclusion of the scientific men.

The next meeting of the congress will be held at Rome, Italy.

The short line of the C. N. R. from Garneau Junction to Quebec was opened yesterday.

HAPPENINGS OF A DAY IN BUSY EAST LONDON

ADVERTISER BOY WAS RUN OVER BY BUGGY.

Harry Craven Was Happily Not Seriously Injured.

Harry Craven, one of the Advertiser newsboys, was struck by a buggy belonging to Mr. Thomas Flannigan, the butcher, on Saturday, while coming out of a lane on the Hamilton road, near Chesley avenue, but was not seriously injured, although the wheels passed over his body.

He was delivering his papers when the accident occurred, and was turning out of the lane as a buggy driven by Miss Flannigan approached. The young lady was avoiding a passing street car when Craven appeared, and she was unable to avert a collision.

The newsboy was struck by the horse and thrown to the roadway, the rear wheel passing over him. He was driven to the office of a physician by Miss Flannigan but was found to be practically uninjured. He was badly frightened, however.

FORMER EAST LONDON LADY WAS WEDDED

Miss Hannah Fisher Becomes Mrs. Geo. Hayes, of This City.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Mount Brydges on Sept. 26, when Miss Hannah Fisher, formerly of Giesse street, East London, and a daughter of Mr. W. Fisher, of Mount Brydges, was united in wedlock to Mr. George Hayes, of the military stores, by Rev. Mr. Leach, the Presbyterian minister, in the presence of a few friends and relatives. The bride was assisted by Miss Bella Hall, while the groom was attended by Mr. Kelly.

After a sumptuous wedding breakfast had been served the happy couple left in a touring car for this city. They will reside on Central avenue.

NEW BRIDGE OVER THAMES TALKED OFF

May Be Erected West of Vauxhall Bridge.

There is a rumor current today that the land agents in possession of the new survey south of the river near the Vauxhall bridge intend erecting a new steel bridge connecting the survey with the city proper by a more direct route, probably through Smith street.

Nothing definite could be learned, but it is said that plans for the new are already being prepared. This new bridge would add greatly to the value of the survey, as it would then be but a few minutes' walk from the Oxford car line, which runs down the Hamilton road, passing the end of the street in question.

The bridge, if erected, will have accommodation for both wagon traffic and pedestrians.

STOLEN TYPEWRITER WAS DISCOVERED.

Had Been Thrown Over Adelaide Street Bridge By the Thieves.

The typewriter which was stolen from the office of the Canadian Oil Company some time ago was found yesterday by some boys buried in the river bed under the Adelaide street bridge, but as a result of a quarrel among the finders it is now beyond repair.

The boys were playing on the bridge when one of them noticed a bag in the river bed. Upon investigating it proved to be a typewriter in first-class condition, with the exception of slight damage from coming in contact with the water. A boy named Wells removed it with the assistance of a number of others, and when the youngsters saw that it was of value a fight started.

The machine was finally made a target for stones, with the result that it is now of no use. This morning Manager Perry, of the oil works, was informed that the typewriter had been recovered, and he immediately phoned to Detective Ryder, who accompanied him to the home of the boys. They at first denied all knowledge of it, but later revealed its whereabouts. They had intended selling it for old iron.

The management was willing to give a reward for the machine. It is thought that the thief was afraid of detection and that he hid it in the river with the intention of regaining it later.

It was stolen from the offices of the company on Adelaide street when the building was ransacked by burglars recently.

EAST LONDON NOTES.

Rev. Mr. Hughes, of Tillsonburg, conducted the services at All Saints' Church London, the rector, Rev. T. B. Clark, being still in England. The usual Sunday services were held. Next Sunday a service for children will be held by Mr. Hughes at 11 a.m. Large congregations were present, morning and evening.

OLD MAN WAS SENT TO JAIL

Had No Place to Go and the Magistrate Took Pity
on Him.

In the police court this morning, John McDonald told Magistrate Love that he thought it was time for him, to go into winter quarters, as he was unable to find any work to do. Magistrate Love took pity on the old man and fined him $1 or six months. McDonald did not have the dollar so he will stay in jail until the roses bloom again.

The case against Tim Sullivan, charged with being drunk, and also with being a vag, was adjourned for a week.

William Psilokos and Peter Hrisikos, the two young Greeks charged with assaulting Peter Konopolis, were not ready to go on with their trial and the case was adjourned for a week, bail being renewed in the sum of $400 each.

Remanded a Week.

George Brenner, charged with stealing, was remanded to jail for a week, as he has not yet secured a lawyer to handle his case for him.

Arthur Borman appeared on a charge of assaulting W. Plume by hitting him in the face. The case was adjourned for a week. Borman being bailed in the sum of $100.

A young man was found guilty of assaulting Luke Jeffries and occasioning him actual bodily harm, and was fined $5 by Magistrate Love.

Fred Carr was remanded a week on a charge of vagrancy.

DAMAGES CASES TOTAL $153,000

the non-jury cases is $5,000 and the smallest $500.

The Judge's Address.

A delay in the arrival of Chancellor Boyd delayed the opening of the fall assizes until 1:45. Mr. Geo. Innes, of Westminster, was made foreman of the grand jury, after which his lordship delivered his charge.

Touching briefly upon the duties of the jury in determining its findings, his lordship cited the facts in the Bartram case, to which he referred as the "lesser" of the two criminal actions before the assizes.

Dwelling briefly on the Moir case his lordship stated that so far as he was able to determine the case was one of at least "unprovoked" if not "cold-blooded" murder. A crime without provocation or justification.

"Of course, after hearing the evidence of the defense I may change my opinion," said the chancellor.

His lordship's entire charge did not take more than five minutes, and consisted almost exclusively of the customary direction as to findings.

A Double Court.

Addressing the attorneys present, his lordship suggested that owing to the large number of cases entered a "double court" be held, and that while the jury cases were tried in the big courtroom, the non-jury cases could be tried by another judge whom his lordship would bring from Toronto.

Mr. George C. Gibbons, K.C., on behalf of the London bar, objected to a double court, either in connection with the criminal, jury or non-jury cases, and his lordship upheld the objection. His lordship made it understood, however, that he could remain in London only this week.

At press time, the hearing of arguments re postponing cases had begun.

Case Postponed.

The case of Aldridge vs. Canadian Electric Company was postponed until January by order of local judge, and the action of Rowed vs. Grand Trunk was settled by consent minutes, which will be produced tomorrow. It is understood that $1,000 is the basis of settlement. Gibbons, Harper and Gibbons for plaintiff; W. H. Biggar for defendant.

A Bitter Fight.

The impending action of the defence in the Moir case, in applying for a postponement of the trial until January, promises to be bitterly contested by the crown attorneys.

"We will oppose the application as strongly as we can," said Mr. McKillop, "and if there is a postponement it won't be on any fault of ours."

The application will be made tomorrow morning.

Mr. E. Sydney Smith, of Stratford, who with Mr. J. B. McKillop, of this city, will conduct the crown's case in the Moir trial, stated that at least fifteen witnesses would be called by the crown. The defence will call from twelve to fifteen witnesses.

Chief Constable Farrell, of Arthur, one of Moir's captors, was on hand when court opened. Mr. Farrell has been subpoenaed as a witness in the case.

The advertiser he stated that public subscriptions are being taken up in Moir's behalf in Arthur, Guilph and surrounding places.

The subscription work is carried on by Presbyterian ministers, and, ac-

"Interest in the Moir case is rife in the town mentioned," said Mr. Farrell, and Moir is an object of much sympathy. Just why this is I cannot say.

Mr. Farrell stated that Constable Coughlin, who assisted him in arresting Moir, was now out west, and that, contrary to report, the $500 reward was divided between himself and Stage Driver Draper.

"We'll have to give our old friend Coughlin a few smokes, something like that upon his return," smiled the chief constable in conclusion.

The action for $5,000 damages brought against the London street railway by the plaintiff, Beller, is being tried this afternoon.

CORDAGE COMPANY LOOKING FOR SITE

Mayor Stevely is Endeavoring to Get in Touch With the Representative.

There is a possibility that a large cordage company will locate in London.

A representative of a large English firm is in Canada looking over prospective sites for the concern.

Mr. Wm. Gray met him in Toronto last week, and drew his attention to London.

Mayor Stevely was informed of this fact and endeavored to get into touch with him.

So far he has been unable to do so, but it is expected that he will be in London within a week or ten days, when the matter will be gone over with him.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES EMPRESS AVE. CHURCH

Rev. J. W. Baird, B. A., of the Hyatt Avenue Church, Preached to Large Congregation.

The services at the Empress Avenue Methodist Church Sunday were of a special character, it being the anniversary of the church. In the morning the service was conducted by Rev. J. W. Baird, B. A., of Hyatt Avenue Church, who preached to a large congregation, and in the evening Rev. Humphrey Graham, of Wellington Street Methodist Church, officiated, and preached a sermon that was very much enjoyed by a large congregation. At both services the choir of the church rendered several selections in their usual excellent style. In the morning, Miss K. Greenway rendered a solo in excellent voice, and at the evening service, Miss A. Atkey and Mr. W. E. Greenway, sang a duet. Rev. Mr. Dewey preached at Thorncliffe.

VICTIM OF RECKLESSNESS

Wild Driving by Hamilton Men Causes Death of Aged Resident.

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 5. — Robert Little, a man almost 70 years of age, died in the city hospital this morning as a result of a misadventure on Sept. 19. He was crossing a street corner, when he was knocked down by a horse and buggy driven by two reckless young men. These men, when they realized what they had done, whipped up their horse and drove quickly away. The police searched for them, but in vain. They were fatal, and the injured man was taken to the hospital, where he died. The shock to his feeble system was too much for him, however, and he died this morning. An inquest will be held and it will now be the duty of the police to make the strongest endeavors to find the men who drove the rig.

THE TICKET AGENTS

Canadian Association Opens Convention at Detroit Tomorrow.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5. — The Canadian Ticket Agents' Association, 175 strong, will invade Detroit tonight to hold a session of three days. Though purely Canadian association the members have never forgotten the reception the Detroit railwaymen tendered them on the occasion of their convention in Windsor just eleven years ago, and Detroit is again to entertain them. The business session will be held at the Cadillac tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. After that the members will give themselves to the pursuit of pleasure. On Wednesday they will have a long ride on the river. In the afternoon they will go to Mount Clemens as the guests of the Marine City Board of Trade. In the evening they will attend the Lyceum Theater in Detroit. Thursday will be devoted to sightseeing and automobileing in Detroit.

HEARST AFTER BAILEY

Reads Letters to Prove Him Creature of the Standard Oil.

El Paso, Oct. 4. — William Hearst carried his fight against the junior senator from Texas into his own state, when last night he read in the course of a speech here letters from J. W. Bailey to H. C. Pierce, and a copy of a note for $8,000 made by Bailey to Pierce. Mr. Hearst also read more letters from John A. Archbold to Senator Foraker. One letter from Mr. Archbold to Senator Foraker, dated Dec. 11, 1900, says:

"Referring to our telephonic conversation of today I now beg to inclose certificate of deposit to your favor for $5,000."

Under date of March 28, 1901, Senator Bailey wrote to H. C. Pierce, according to Mr. Hearst:

"My dear Pierce, — Send me New York exchange for $1,750. Have it made payable to my order, so that it will not be necessary for you to endorse it. Send it at once as I ought to have had it several days ago."

Mr. Hearst then read this copy of a note:

"Four months after date I promise to pay to the order of H. C. Pierce, $8,000 at his office in St. Louis, Mo. (Signed), J. W. Bailey."

Mr. Hearst next read a copy of an entry upon the books of the Walter Pierce Oil Company:

"St. Louis, Mo., March 6, 1901. — For amount payable to J. W. B. as per note in hands of treasurer, $8,000."

Next was a letter from John D. Archbold to Representative John C. Sibley, saying:

"We're anxious to have a talk here at as early a date as possible with Senator Bailey of Texas, and I write to ask if you will do us the favor to communicate with him and find out when he can be here."

MRS. DUNSMUIR DEAD

Was Reputed To Be Richest Woman in Canada.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 4. — Mrs. Jean Oliver Dunsmuir, the richest woman in Canada, having a fortune estimated at fifteen millions, died Friday. Mrs. Dunsmuir was the widow of the late Robert Dunsmuir, who discovered the Wellington coal mines on Vancouver Island and founded the great fortune now enjoyed by the Dunsmuir family. She was 80 years old.

Sixty years ago Robert Dunsmuir came with his wife from Scotland and settled at Port Rupert, near the north end of Vancouver Island. The Hudson Bay Company had a post there, and Dunsmuir worked for them as a miner. He afterwards moved to Nanaimo, and discovered the Wellington coal deposits.

Mrs. Dunsmuir, at the time of her death, was suing her son, the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, for an accounting of the fifteen million dollar estate of Robert Dunsmuir. She claimed that the estate, left to her by her husband's will, was managed by the Lieutenant-governor until he and his brother, the late Alexander Dunsmuir, purchased it for $400,000. She claimed, being put through by misrepresentation. The daughters sided with their mother, but it is not known whether the suit will now go on. The surviving members of the family, in addition to Hon. Jas. Dunsmuir, are: Mrs. Henry Croft, of this city; Mrs. Burroughs, living in England; Lady Musgrave, wife of Sir Richard Musgrave, who resides in the old country; Mrs. Calhorne, wife of Captain Calhorne, B. N.; and Mrs. Chaplin. Four members of her family predeceased her, Mrs. John Bryden, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Haughton, and Alexander.

LOCAL MARKET.

London, Monday, Oct. 5.
Hay sold quickly again today; there were about 20 loads offered, which were disposed of at $10 to $10.50 for inferior and medium quality; the best loads fetched $11 and $11.50 per ton.
Straw was in great demand, at $5.50 per ton; the supply is light.
The supply of oats was small, there being but three loads offered, which sold at $1.00 to $1.15 per cwt.
No wheat or barley offered.
The farmers do not seem to take kindly to the drop in the price of live hogs, and some of them denominated the packers and buyers in strong terms. Several of the farmers vowed that they would never raise another hog, and stated that when there was any considerable number ready for the market the packers drop prices. What live hogs were offered today sold at $5.50 for select.

POLITICAL GOSSIP

The Winnipeg correspondent of the Globe telegraphs: Two hundred Conservative delegates, entrusted with the duty of nominating a candidate for Winnipeg, locked themselves in a room on Saturday night, and after having consumed the most profane and bitter family rows finally selected Mr. A. Haggart, a lawyer, as their standard-bearer. The rank and file were in revolt against the machine of Messrs. Rogers and Roblin, and all attempts to throw oil on the troubled waters only served to increase the internal dissension. It was certainly a lovely row that marked the culmination of a remarkable situation, and when Mr. R. A. Bonnar, one of the unsuccessful candidates for nomination, was asked to make the naming of Mr. Haggart, he was unanimous he indignantly refused. Mr. Haggart is beaten before a ballot is cast.

The Ontario tour of Hon. William Patterson has been arranged as follows: Monday, Oct. 12, Tillamook; Tuesday, Oct. 13, Collingwood; Wednesday, Oct. 14, Port Perry; Thursday, Oct. 15, Port Hope, and Friday, Oct. 16, Almonte.

At a meeting of the Liberal Executive of South Toronto, it was resolved "that in the opinion of this executive, in view of the fact that the Independent Labor party has placed a candidate in the field in opposition to the Conservative candidate, it is not desirable that the Liberal party place a candidate in the field, but that the Liberal voters in South Toronto be recommended to use their influence and cast their votes for the Labor candidate in this campaign."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has left Ottawa for Quebec, where he will address a meeting today. He will spend the remainder of the week in Quebec district. The following week he will address meetings and fill appointments in Montreal district.

"I haven't had so much fun since I was vaccinated," reports a stranger who visited Newmarket on Saturday evening. "I know Mr. Ames by sight, so you can imagine my surprise when he came up to me on the station platform and asked me to direct him to the best hotel. I pleaded ignorance, but the friend I was with directed him to a hotel which afterwards proved to be the Liberal headquarters. He did not register there. Later in the evening he killed time by hunting up the hall where he spoke. At 8 o'clock there were eleven persons present. Before 8:30 about fifty had sifted in. Then came Mr. Ames. No one seemed to know him. 'Not a shot was fired—not a word was said,' as some poet says. Mr. Ames plunged into the gloom of the stage entrance. Presently he emerged and sat on the mourner's bench waiting for a crowd to gather. About 8:45 Mr. Lennox, M. P., introduced the speaker of the evening to what seemed to be the reception committee. After a few moments of mild excitement Mr. Ames and his bamboo pointer were introduced on the stage and both were so slim it was hard to tell which from which. But slimmer than either the pointer or the speaker was the argument of the speech. All it did was to distract attention from some interesting pictures. When one of the pictures was shown Mr. Ames said in a gentle, deprecatory voice that it would make everyone's blood boil. Mine failed to simmer. About 9:30 my friend yawned and I yawned and we passed out into the night. I wonder what happened afterwards."

Mr. Mackenzie King closed a week of successful meetings with bumper rallies at Berlin and Waterloo on Saturday night. He spoke at the opening meeting in Berlin, and at 9 o'clock proceeded to Waterloo. Great enthusiasm prevailed, and the Liberals in both towns are being assailed by Independent Conservatives, who recognize great possibilities in Mr. King, and the prestige this riding would receive in having cabinet representation. In his canvass in different parts of the riding during the week, Mr. King was so well received by the voters that there is every indication that the majority he will get in the township will far more than offset the possible majorities in the two towns. Moving picture machines are being used with great success by the Liberals, one machine being in operation on Saturday night in Berlin and another at Wellesley village.

THE FRUIT CROP OF THE DOMINION

The Summary of Conditions, as Reported to the Department of Agriculture.

The following fruit crop report (dated Sept. 29), is furnished by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, branch of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, at Ottawa:

Weather conditions have been fairly favorable for plums, peaches and grapes, but not for pears and winter apples.

Apples—Early and fall fruit nearly all harvested. Winter fruit ripening prematurely and dropping, reducing the crop already below medium.

Pears—A ripe ripening rapidly, and of good quality. Exports to Great Britain larger than usual.

Plums—All harvested, but a few late varieties. Prices have been below the average.

Grapes—Nearly all harvested except in northern districts.

Tomatoes—Have ripened too rapidly for the canning factories, but are of excellent quality.

Cranberries—A good crop. There is a demand for the Canadian berries in the United States.

Have developed slightly this month. Pink rot has developed to a serious extent.

Winter apples in the United States have depreciated in quality and quantity.

Prices for Canadian pears and apples in Great Britain have been good, and shipments larger than usual.

road. Alongside of the rifle were a number of cartridges.

At this point all trace of Moir was lost, although it has since been learned that Moir's time was in the immediate vicinity.

Dame Rumor then stepped into the temporary breach and for several days the officers spent the bulk of their time, riding midnight freights, taking 50 and 60 mile drives, and long walks, following the trail of the elusive Moir.

Everything that could be done to again strike the trail of the elusive Moir was resorted to, the detectives after a week's futile hunt, were compelled to acknowledge a temporary defeat at the hands of the elusive Moir.

The treasure-seekers intended to search for a Spanish galleon which sank many years ago, but the American expedition has been anticipated by a Jamaican syndicate, which chartered a schooner, and after an ineffectual search returned to Montego Bay.

The Jamaicans hunted several weeks in their gold-hunting trip and had exciting experiences with hurricanes. The galleon was not found, but her position on the ocean bed was located, the wreck having broken to pieces several years ago. Divers were sent down and a number of Spanish gold coins were recovered, but nothing of any great value. The leader of the expedition was the son of Sir Henry Arthur Blake, who was governor of Jamaica, 1839-97.

The location of the wreck, which is believed to be near Silver Bay, between Puerto Plata and Turkey Island, has been visited frequently during the course of the last few centuries, first by an expedition fitted out by the Duke of Albemarle, who was governor of Jamaica, in 1687. Even as late as 1902 10,000 pieces of gold were brought into Kingston harbor by a party of divers.

In the case of the latest expedition, which has returned, the tempestuous weather interfered greatly with diving operations. It is intended to refit and undertake a more systematic search at an early date.

IRISH TENOR COMING

Joseph O'Mara to Sail for New York Next Saturday.

Dublin, Oct. 4.—Joseph O'Mara, the Irish tenor who is to make a tour of America, will sail for New York on the American Line steamship Philadelphia next Saturday.

The Irish singer left Ireland in a blaze of glory. At Dublin he had made an official dinner in his honor at which all the officials of the city government were present.

The police had to take control of the crowds at the theatre where he gave his farewell concert. At Liverpool the mayor met Mr. O'Mara at the station. There was a gathering of 1,000 friends with bands, and a procession of 1,000 torchbearers in which the singer rode through the streets of the city.

Subsequently Mr. O'Mara received the freedom of the city, which is an unprecedented honor for a professional vocalist.

NO CENTRAL CHANGES

Story That High Officials Were To Be Replaced Given Denial.

New York, Oct. 5.—A report published in Buffalo today to the effect that sweeping changes are about to be made among the higher officials of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, was given official denial at the main offices of the company here today.

Vice-President Charles F. Daly, who, according to the published story, was to be replaced by William H. Newman, as president of the New York Central, said there was no truth whatever in the story.

"It is absolutely untrue from beginning to end," was his comment, after he had read the report of the impending changes.

A remarkable collection of nearly 600 packs of playing cards of all ages and all nations has been presented to the Company of Makers of Playing Cards of England.

FINANCE MINISTER END HIS TOUR

Concludes by Addressing Rousing Meeting of Hamilton Electors.

Hamilton, Oct. 4.—The first week of Hon. W. S. Fielding's Ontario tour was concluded with an excellent meeting in the Association Hall here last night. During the entire week the minister of finance could hardly have desired better audiences. Every hall in which he spoke has been filled, and he has been listened to with absorbing attention. He has been eminently successful in arousing any latent spirit of Liberalism which may have existed, while his well-reasoned, convincing speeches have won him hundreds of new adherents. In these respects the Hamilton meeting was on an equal footing with the others of the week.

Whether before an audience directly or indirectly interested in the manufacturing industry, or before hearers representing the great consuming masses of the population, Mr. Fielding's delights to deal with the tariff. He told his audience last night that he would make the same statements regarding the tariff as he would make in the west, and he said he believed tariff conditions had been brought about which were generally satisfactory. There were complaints but he had approached the tremendous problem in the effort to be fair, and one of the best things the Government could do for the eastern provinces was to fill up the western provinces with a prosperous people. He entered upon another vigorous defense of the Crow's Nest Pass bargain, saying that the people of Canada had received more than value for the subsidy granted that railway eleven years ago. Short addresses were also delivered by the two Liberal candidates for this city, Messrs. Adam Zimmerman and J. M. Eastwood. Mr. P. D. Crerar, C. C. president of the Liberal Association, was chairman.

HAPPENINGS OF A DAY IN THE EAST END

SPECIAL RALLY DAY SERVICES CONDUCTED

In the Sunday School of King Street Presbyterian Church.

Special rally day services were conducted in the Sunday school of King Street Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon, a large number of scholars being present.

The order of service was according to the arrangement of the assemblies of the Sunday school committee, and is being used throughout the Dominion. It consists of songs and responsive readings, and is entitled "Our Gifts to God."

An offering in aid of the Presbyterian Sunday schools of Canada was taken up.

Brief addresses were delivered by Mr. S. Baker on "Overcoming Difficulties," and by Mr. D. A. McDermid on "An Ideal Sunday School."

DEAD AND LIVING SERVANTS OF GOD.

Rev. T. T. Shields Pays Tribute to the Worth of Late Deacon Fuller.

Large congregations greeted Rev. T. T. Shields, who yesterday resumed his pastoral duties in Adelaide Street Church, after his vacation spent in Vancouver. A tasteful collection of flowers and palms lent their beauty to the preacher's platform, and as pastor and choir took their places, the organ in a subdued tone gave out the familiar strains of "Home, Sweet Home."

Mr. Shields took as his text, Joshua, 1: 2, "Moses, my servant, is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou and all these people unto the land which I do give them." After speaking of the pleasure it gave him to be once again with his church and congregation, more with his church and congregation, the pastor paid a touching tribute to the worth and work of the late Deacon J. W. Fuller, by whose death the church had suffered an almost irreparable loss. "For the departed," however, there was no sorrow," said the preacher. "His was an abundant entrance into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." The preacher then went on to show that no higher honor could be conferred on a man than to be used as God's servant. It meant more than the Victoria Cross—more than any earthly throne. God wants all his children to be led into a larger life of work for his church and congregation. The man who has not made the world better for his living in it has lived in vain.

Mr. Shields' evening text was I Samuel, xii, 10, from which he drew the lesson that as David was the champion of Israel in their conflict with the Philistines, so typifies Christ as the sinner's champion—his substitutes in the battle against sin and its consequences, having lived and died to win eternal life for those who put their trust in him.

The special music rendered by the choir and quartette was a much-appreciated part of the services.

REV. MR. ROLLINS' INTERESTING SERMON.

Preached Thanksgiving Sermon in King Street Presbyterian Church.

An interesting sermon was delivered by Rev. James Rollins at the King Street Presbyterian Church Sunday, where harvest thanksgiving services were held, the pastor having selected his text from Isaiah, lx, 3: "They joy before thee according to the joy in harvest," and Matthew, xxi, 21: "Well done, good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things, enter into the joy of thy Lord."

The financial depression of the past year had shown how the people of the city and of the country had the same interests at stake. The prospects of a good crop had been discussed on the city streets as much as on the concourses of the railway.

The harvest is now practically in, and has proved one of the best this about the first week in December, and that he will send another collection here within a few days.

Mr. Clark is working steadily to pay off the debt on the new church, and has partially succeeded through a series of lectures, which he is giving in England.

RASPBERRIES ARE NOW GROWING IN EAST LONDON

Mr. George Berdan Has a Curiosity at His Home on Lorne Avenue.

Mr. George Berdan, of 939 Lorne avenue, is in possession of a raspberry bush which is evidently working overtime, for on the 2nd of this month he gathered in a large quantity of the fruit, thoroughly matured.

The raspberry season closed several weeks ago, but despite this the bush in question kept to its work and produced berries in bunches.

BULGARIA THROWS OFF YOKE

It is not known what steps Turkey will take, but the impression prevails that a European conference will be held to consider the whole question.

Advices obtained from an authoritative quarter of Sofia state that not all the powers supported the British proposal for the settlement of the railroad question. This want of unanimity among the powers encourages Bulgaria to insist in her present attitude.

Varna and other Bulgarian towns are placarded today with declarations that the moment has now arrived to proclaim independence, as otherwise Turkey, on the strength of the treaty of Berlin, will demand the restitution of Eastern Rumelia.

France as Mediator.

Paris, Oct. 5.—France has decided to enact the role of mediator to prevent war between Turkey and Bulgaria. Former Minister Pichon already had begun a series of conferences with the European powers to reach an understanding, the purpose of which should be the maintenance of peace, when the official news of Prince Ferdinand's proclamation at Tirnovo arrived.

The foreign minister conferred this morning with M. Iswolsky, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, and Naoum Pasha, the Turkish ambassador. This afternoon he will meet the Austro-Hungarian, British and American ambassadors, as well as the Bulgarian diplomatic agent, Mr. Stancloff.

The situation is considered most grave. The proclamation of the independence of Bulgaria actually has been made, and it probably would be useless to attempt to induce Prince Ferdinand to withdraw it.

It is known that the Bulgarian cavalry is mobilizing on the frontier and that Prince Ferdinand is determined to stick to his guns. The diplomatic representatives of the powers generally believe that war would spell ruin to the new constitutional rule in Turkey and that the Sultan would use war as a pretext for withdrawing his constitution.

Flutter on 'Change.

London, Oct. 5.—The stock exchange was thrown into a flutter this morning by the proclamation of the independence of Bulgaria and the action taken by Austria-Hungary with regard to the political status of the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Consols fell five-eighths and foreign bonds about one point, due principally to continental selling. Turkish bonds, which closed on Saturday at 92 were today offered at 87 1/2.

The weakness extended to American securities, which by noon had fallen from one to two points below parity.

Break on Wall Street.

New York, Oct. 5.—Wall Street.—A violent break in the opening prices of stock was the response to the news from abroad of the declaration of independence by Bulgaria. While the internationally listed stocks were most affected practically all of the active speculative issues were down from one to over two points. Supporting orders caused a rally from the opening to break.

The bedbug has been found by two late investigators to be the most dangerous of all blood-sucking insects, in spreading disease—or, at any rate, in disseminating plague. In its body the germs live and multiply, retaining virulence for many days, while the bedbug itself seems to suffer no inconvenience.

Pres. Castro Rejects the Dutch Note

The Hague, Oct. 4.—Some concern exists here over the report, not yet entirely confirmed, that President Castro has rejected the second note of the Dutch Government. The majority of the people, however, and the Government, still trust that the Venezuelan president will revoke his decree of May 14, which virtually put an end to Curacao's commerce.

Many are opposed to belligerent action on the part of Holland, but the Government will be prepared for any eventuality. The cruiser Utrecht has been placed under orders to proceed to the East Indies, but via the West Indies.

When she arrives in West Indian waters there will be four warships under the Dutch flag assembled at that station.

Two Runs on Saturday.
The fire brigade had two runs on Saturday afternoon. One run was to the London Shoe Company, where a defective grate had caused a small blaze. The damage was slight. The brigade had another run to the residence of Mr. Allan King, 644 English street, where a burning ash barrel had a passerby to think the house was on fire.

Pressmen Organize.
The pressmen of the city organized Saturday night in Sherwood Hall. There was a large attendance of pressmen and their assistants, and all were favorable to organization. Mr. John Chambers, of Chicago, organizer for the Printing Pressmen's International Union, was present, and assisted in the organization work. Addresses were also delivered by Messrs. Jos. Marks and H. B. Archer. The following are the officers: President, G. Flory; vice-president, H. Luney; secretary-treasurer, Alf. Watson; recording secretary, T. Corpe; board of directors, Chas. BISHOP PREACHED ELOQUENT SERMON

Optimism and Progressiveness Characterized His Lordship's Words.

MANY THEMES OF PASTORS

Interesting Subjects Touched Upon in Some of London's Churches On Sunday.

Bishop Williams preached a most optimistic and progressive sermon at St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday from the text, Exodus xiv, 15: "Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward."

"These words," his lordship said, "must have seemed strange to the people to whom they were addressed, as the children of Israel at this time had the Egyptians pursuing them closely and behind them the Red Sea. They saw no escape and fell to cursing their leader. There are people now just like them who are afraid to trust themselves and go ahead. But it is imperative that we must go ahead, and go ahead at once. This was never more true than right now in Canada. Within the past ten years, there is not a commercial enterprise that has not greatly enlarged its facilities. Few factories now would be so foolish as to attempt to handle their present volume of business with the same plant they had ten years ago. It is foolish for any church to try and accomplish the work to be done today with the means it employed ten years ago. As the business world has expanded, so the church world must expand. We are living in a momentous time. We are since the coming of Christ has the world experienced such a feeling of expectation that something is about to be done. China, with her millions, is ripe for education, and is seeking it wherever she can get it. In India there is unrest, and in Turkey the rising of the Young Turks and their demands is most significant. The yellow races believe the white races have what all have been seeking, the true religion, and they are hungering and calling for knowledge of it. Now before in the history of the Christian church has there been so many calls from all over the world for missionaries. The Church of England in Canada at the recent synod meeting in Ottawa pledged itself to christianize the whole Province of Ontario in China, and will send out a bishop and a large number of clergy to carry out the work. This is a step never before undertaken. The synod also has struck a forward note in its effort to get young men interested. Young people's societies and the Sunday schools will be given greater attention than ever. The church realizes its opportunity, and the churches' opportunity is the individual's opportunity. God extends a call to all of us to help in the great work of christianizing the world.

Dr. Ross on Excuses.
A large number of children were present at St. Andrew's yesterday morning, when for five minutes before the regular sermon, Rev. Dr. Ross talked to the young people particularly on "Excuses." Dr. Ross urged all children not to make excuses when they face the punishment which ever it is. Last night Dr. Ross spoke to a large congregation on the subject "God Our Home," from the text Psalm xc, 1: "Lord thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations." Dr. Ross showed that the man who has the best home for himself is the one who has a good home in his heart. As a good home is a shelter from the weather and from the cares of life, so God is a shelter from all sin. Home is a place of supply for the children, the place where they get their food and clothes. Man finds in God a similar place to supply all his spiritual needs.

On Monday evening an at home will be held in St. Andrew's school-room, at 8 o'clock. This evening Mrs. Gordon Wright will address a meeting of the W. F. M. S.

First Methodist Church.
"The Value of a Man," was the subject of a practical and interesting sermon by Rev. W. L. Rutledge at the First Methodist Church last night. Mr. Rutledge chose two texts, the first Isaiah xlii, 12, "I will make a man more precious than fine gold," and the second, Matthew xvi, 26, "What is a man profited if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Mr. Rutledge showed that values were expressed by comparison. In the first text Isaiah was looking for some adequate measure of the social value of a man in the world about him. In the second text, man is measured by Christ's standard. Rutledge's measure is true of the world's measure today, a man is judged by his wealth and not by his manhood, for his money and not for his character. Mr. Rutledge instanced the great dock fire in New York a few years ago when the owners of cargo devoted all their energies to saving bales of cotton and allowed men to drown, giving as an excuse that the cotton was worth money. The same spirit, Mr. Rutledge stated, was apparent in the commercial world today, and it was wrong. Man is not held as a standard. Mr. Rutledge urged all to live up to the highest standard possible, and not sell themselves cheaply. If we do we will think too much of ourselves to sin against Christ.

The Memorial Church.
At the Memorial Church Sunday morning Canon Hague gave a practical resume of several of the important questions that came up for discussion at the recent meeting of the synod in Ottawa. Canon Hague spoke most hopefully of the outlook in the church world.

In the evening Canon Hague again occupied the pulpit, and in the course of his remarks made a strong plea for all to try and live so that everyone would know that they were to be thoroughly relied upon. Too many people stand aside and do nothing, and things that they do not mean, and their work and actions are characterized by a spirit of unthoroughness.

Seventh Anniversary.
Sunday marked the seventh anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. D. S. Hamilton, at the First Congregational Church, and the occasion was celebrated by a large attendance at the services, and by a splendid Sunday school rally in the afternoon.

Rev. D. S. Hamilton preached both morning and evening and his sermons were thoroughly appreciated. In the evening Mr. Hamilton thanked the members present for the support they have given him throughout his pastorate here, and spoke most hopefully of the work in the future.

The rally services were presided over by Superintendent Anundson. An address, given by Rev. A. Collins, was greatly appreciated. A programme, consisting of solos by Mr. G. H. Zwicker and Miss Edith McBride, and a reading by Miss Gwendolyn Antislial, was greatly enjoyed.

Harvest Home Services.
Special Harvest Home anniversary services were celebrated in the Colborne Street Methodist Church yesterday morning, the pulpit being occupied by Rev. E. B. Lancelley. Mr. Lancelley spoke on "Life's Harvest," a theme appropriate to the occasion.

In the evening, F. E. Malott spoke on "The Reasonableness of Religion," showing that religion is composed of justice, mercy and reverent faith. Many persons have the first quality, but if they have that alone and live up to it their life is imperfect. Justice, added to justice, seems to be the best quality. It is added to these when reverent faith is added and then whatever a perfect religion is accomplished.

London Junction.
Next Sunday marks the beginning of a new era in Methodism at London Junction, when Rev. E. B. Lancelley will dedicate the handsome new church that has been erected there. It is only a few months ago that the Methodist conference decided to extend the work to London Junction, and they met with such splendid encouragement that it was decided to build the church. The church has already a large and growing congregation. Rev. E. B. Lancelley will preach the first sermon next Sunday morning, and in the afternoon Rev. Hector McEwen will give an address. Rev. A. K. Birks, of Askin Street Church, will preach in the evening.

Adult Bible Class.
Bible class that has been formed for men in St. Andrew's Church, was held yesterday afternoon with a large attendance. In future meetings of the class will be held every Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Lancelley.
"The Triumph of a Principle" was Rev. E. B. Lancelley's subject at Dundas Centre Church last evening. Mr. Lancelley dealt with the appointment to office of public men. "Our standard today," said the speaker, "does not seem to be so high as it was in former

Appointments To Be Settled Tonight

The appointment of Assistant Chief Aitken to be chief of the fire brigade will be made at the council this evening.

Mr. Aitken has a majority of the aldermen pledged to support him, and there is no doubt of his selection.

Among the citizens generally and with several aldermen the opinion prevailed that both Foreman R. Aitcheison, of the Hamilton brigade, and Capt. Thomas Davis, of Toronto, were better qualified for the position than Mr. Aitken.

Exchange Professor Peuck Deduces This From Conditions in Alpine Cave.

London, Oct. 4.—Prof. Peuck, director of the Berlin Deep Sea Institute and American Exchange professor, sailed for New York on Thursday. The professor may lecture in New York on the interesting anthropological discovery made in a cave named the Weidkerchloch at Sanis, Switzerland.

Dr. Eckerhardt discovered this cave and later on Dr. Bachler unearthed in it numerous remains of a colony of bears with a quantity of human bones of the prepalaeolithic period. The discovery showed that mankind dwelt in the cave and lived on the bears which they killed in hunting.

Prof. Peuck in the course of a visit to the cave ascertained that this state of things could only have occurred during the last glacial era. He thereby proved that human beings must have lived in the mountains before the last glacial modification of the Alps, which, according to Prof. Peuck's calculation, was about 100,000 years ago.
