TRY TO BRING BACK M'GREGOR WITH MURRELL

City Liberals Hold Nominating Convention Tonight

TAKING NO CHANCE THAT 'M'GREGOR' NOT 'NORTON' BUT APPLYING FOR BOTH

Attorney-General's Department Makes Application For Extradition or Deportation of Sidney Murrell and Man Arrested With Him.

LIKELY TO BRING BOTH MEN TO LONDON

Acting on the supposition that George McGregor, at present in jail at Susanville, California, may be the much wanted "Pat" Norton, the attorney-general of Ontario has made application for his deportation or extradition in company with Sid Murrell. The deputy attorney-general said today that no proceedings will be taken until McGregor is identified The department however is preparing for eventualities.

Although McGregor has not been identified positively as Norton, there is no doubt but that he is a man who has been in this section of Ontario at some time or another, as reliable evidence has been produced that he was seen here at the time of the Melbourne bank robbery and murder, for which Sid Murrell, his brother William and "Pat" Norton are wanted. Even though McGregor should not be Norton, the attorney-general is not taking the chance of letting him go when it is possible that he knows something about the tragedy in which Russell Campbell lost his life.

If the men are deported, they will be brought back to London.

Although the application is double-barreled, in that it calls for deportation, and failing this extradition, it is felt that the former method may prove the more satisfactory, as well as the more economical. There is no doubt but that Murrell can be deported with practically no trouble, all the essentials having been complied with, his identification, nationality, and evidence of a former crime having been supplied to the American authorities.

The Deportation Procedure.

If the men are ordered deported, they may be tried in Canada on any charge which the crown sees fit to lay against them, and this would prove more satisfactory in the case of McGregor. With Murrell, a definite indictment has been laid against him, and he will face the charge of murder, jail-breaking and robbery; therefore, the only question which enters into his case is that of expense and red tape." McGregor cannot be extradited unless a definite charge is laid against him, and he must be tried on that charge. The report of the application for his extradition would seem to indicate that he will be placed on trial with Sid Murrell.

Provincial officers are ready to leave at a minute's notice to bring back the two men, should the United States authorities pass favorably upon either of the applications. If deportation is ordered the officers will receive their men at Vancouver, the nearest Canadian center to California, while if it is found necessary to institute extradition proceedings, they will have to go to California, where Murrell and McGregor will be handed over to them by American officers. Chief Inspector Greer and Inspectors Boyd and Stringer are the men who will have the task of bringing back the wanted men

Every precaution will be taken on the way to see that no opportunities of rescue or escape are offered them as it is felt by many that being desperate men and being brought back to face probable hanging, will not let any chance slip.

No Second Escape.

If both are brought here they will again be taken to the county jail, from which institution Murrell escaped in September, 1921, while awaiting trial. While Governor Dawson has not, as yet made any preparations for his reception he does state that the only way he will get out a second time is when he is either dead, sentenced to the penitentiary or freed. There will be no second escape.

Crown Attorney J. C. Elliott said this morning that the only reason he could see in the application for the deportation of McGregor, was that it might be possible to link him up with the crime in some way, as according to reports he is not the real "Norton." "Of course," said Mr. Elliott, "he may be a Canadian and subject to deportation. If he is and is returned to this side we will then know what to do with him, but as yet I have heard nothing further in the matter."

Asked the reason for holding an "ex parte" hearing in the case some days ago, at which the lawyer for Sid Murrell was not present, Mr. Elliott stated that evidence was taken merely to make out a "prima facie" case against Murrell, in order to expedite extradition.

MAYOR DECIDES TO STICK TO JOB HE HAS ON HAND

Will Not Contest London as an Independent Candidate.

MUST STAY HOME

Feels That His Duty Demands That He Remain Clear of Provincial Field.

Now that he has had time to survey the situation from every angle, Mayor Wenige has concluded that "it would not be in the best interests of the city if he was to forsake the mayor's chair for a place in the provincial race."

To The Advertiser today the mayor explained that he had given the proposal his serious consideration and decided that he would not become a candidate at this time—possibly some other time, if occasion demanded.

"I feel that I am in duty-bound to remain at the city hall," Mayor Wenige said, "I was told by nearly 8,000 people to shoulder a certain job. I have certain obligations to perform, and I feel that I should not leave them at this time. I do not consider that it is a privilege I am enjoying. I feel on the other hand that it is my duty to remain clear of the provincial field—for the time-being at least."

NEW BOYS' SECRETARY AT "Y."

Wilfrid H. Spearman was today appointed Boys' Secretary at the Y. M. C. A., suceeding Lloyd W. Houlding. He was formerly assistant secretary.

Hydro For The People —Or For Mr. Ferguson?

The Toronto Globe has told the people of London and Western Ontario that Sir Adam Beck should be elected to protect the public ownership of hydro development.

For exactly the same reason The Advertiser believes that Sir Adam Beck should not be elected.

* * *

The Advertiser believes that such election would imperil the great power resources with which Ontario is endowed.

And The Advertiser believes that Sir Adam Beck, as the man in whom Ontario has put a non-partisan trust, deserves defeat when he violates that trust by lending it to the manoeuvres and manipulations of a Conservative party led by Howard Ferguson.

* * *

The Advertiser regrets that idol-worshipping should turn the Toronto Globe from the straight, clear path of its duty to the people of this province.

* * *

The Advertiser's regret and disapproval of the Globe's mistake is based on three reasons:

1.—When the Globe, which has long championed hydro development for the people, turns aside to urge that it be handed over to any political party, and to advocate that a party candidate be permitted to employ it as a means to election—then the Globe is traitorous to hydro development and to all the fundamentals of public ownership.

2.—When the Globe, which for years has been regarded as a voice of Liberalism, falters in its faith to urge that Liberals turn from their convictions to support an avowed follower of Howard Ferguson and the activities which he sponsors—then the Globe is traitorous to Liberalism and to Liberals.

3.—When the Globe, with the Toronto Telegram, having been indignantly repudiated by the people of Toronto last December in its campaign to surrender the city's waterfront to Sir Adam Beck and an outside commission, now seeks to meddle in the affairs of London and Western Ontario by advocating a similar surrender of the people's rights to Tory control—then the Globe is wilfully repeating a folly of which experience has taught the peril, and is seeking to put upon London a blunder, which it well knows its own city has escaped.

* * *

The Globe and the Tory Free Press are offering advice which spells nothing but disaster for public ownership of hydro.

* * *

FOR SIR ADAM BECK AS THE CREATOR OF ONTARIO'S GIGANTIC HYDRO ENTERPRISES, THE ADVERTISER HAS NOTHING BUT ADMIRATION AND SYMPATHY.

* * *

BUT FOR SIR ADAM BECK AS A TORY CANDIDATE AND AS THE INSTRUMENT OF TORY POLITICIANS, THE ADVERTISER CAN HAVE NOTHING BUT REPROVAL AND REGRET.

HERALDING JOY TO THE KIDS.

These four young women in Hussar uniforms, mounted on splendid horses, formed the vanguard of today's circus parade. The picture was taken on York street by The Advertiser staff photographer.

THE PEOPLE ASK WHERE DOES BECK STAND ON O.T.A.?

TORIES IN TURMOIL

Warring Factions Still at Daggers Drawn Over Recent Developments.

All local interest is directed toward the big Liberal nomination rally in Hyman Hall tonight.

Naturally the Tories are extremely nervous. nd they have every reason to be so. The developments of the past three days, notably their desperate plot to gain control of the London city council, proving disastrous to their own ends, shows very clearly that they have discerned the "handwriting no the wall."

The Tory party has been in a turmoil ever since the campaign opened. Certainly not unanimous for Sir Adam Beck—they were further torn with internal strife as the several insurgent factions went on the warpath when he persistently refused to tender his decision. And his final pronouncement came only after three hasty, spirited meetings of the executive, and after the followers of Ald. Albert Judd and Ald. Gordon Drake insisted that he do one thing or the other, and do it quick.

Sir Adam's Surrender.

Then followed the London & Port Stanley pay-list episode, and Sir Adam personally directed the management of London's road to tender Mayor Wenige this information, although upon two former occasions he had refused point-blank, basing his stand upon the conclusion that this would be a calamity to local public ownership enterprises.

And now the Tory situation is worse than ever. Sir Adam's decision about the pay lists—or at least the decision of the Tory executive—does not meet with the enthusiasm of the rank and file.

There are those who openly proclaim that Sir Adam and the executive weakened the prospects of the party at a critical juncture, and they question why this was done upon the advice apparently of ex-Mayor J. Cameron Wilson, Ald. William Wilson, and others, who meet in "star chamber" session to define the policy of the party, irrespective of the feelings of others in the fold.

And there will be trouble for Sir Adam in other quarters. There will be questions for him to answer, and those who will ask will demand a concrete answer.

Where Is He on O. T. A.?

The O. T. A. has become a factor in the present campaign, in London at least, if not throughout the province, and the temperance people and the prohibitionists are still wondering just what stand the Conservative leader has taken on this question.

There is a moderate candidate in the local ring—J. M. Donahue. The prohibitionists do not need to ask Mr. Donahue where he stands. He has made it quite clear—so clear, in fact, that it cannot be misconstrued even by Ald. William Wilson and his pals at Tory headquarters.

But the prohibitionists do not know where Sir Adam stands with respect to the O. T. A. He may be for "beer and light wines," or for all they know at this moment he may favor a complete abolition of the O. T. A. and a return to the open bar.

This question will be asked Sir Adam directly he takes the local stump, and the prohibitionists are determined to have a plain unvarnished answer. Winks and nods of the head will not suffice, and if Sir Adam digresses in his reply and starts to review hydro from its inception they will still insist upon an answer to his question when he has told them all about the "gigantic enterprises that they own at Chippawa."

Robinson Circus Parade Cleanest Seen In London

Crowds Thronging Business Streets Thoroughly Enjoyed Today's Outdoor Pageant—More Wild Animals Than Usual.

Today Londoners enjoyed the great passing show of the animal world, the John Robinson circus parade.

From the great lumbering elephant of the Indian jungles to the minute monkey, animals from every clime from the equator to the pole passed in review.

It was the cleanest circus parade London ever witnessed. The personnel of the John Robinson staff is is much above the average of the ordinary circus. Keepers, trainers, drivers, horsemen and horsewomen all presented a natty appearance in their gaudy uniforms.

And it was not the type of parade that is used only as a bait to the public. It was an honest-to-goodness show, with almost every cage open.

What adult or child for that matter, has not seen a circus parade? If London had any citizens so luckless, it has not now. Practically the entire city turned out to greet the effort of the oldest show in the "white top" world.

Long before the marshal of the procession announced in shrill blasts of his trumpet, that the parade was coming, the route of march was lined with people.

A Clean-Cut Turnout.

Led by an array of clean-cut young horsewomen, the procession caused one at once to remark that the show must be of worth. Lions, tigers, pumas and even the polar bears seemed to enjoy the sensation of being paraded before the public just as much as the spectators enjoyed the thrill when these great wild beasts growled an unexpected warning to adventurous children who approached too close to the cages.

Not one fault could be found with the procession The wagons were spic and span, the animals presented an appearance of being well-kept, and the horses and riders were well groomed and looked stately, an appearance so often erased by the nomad life of those whose interests are centered in the sawdust ring.

And the usual circus bands entertained along the route. In addition to the customary steam piano, which, since circuses first began has been the vanguard of processions, there was an electric piano.

Plenty of Clowns.

Clowns? Of course there were clowns. They are one of the features of John Robinson's gay assemblage. In the parade were clowns on horseback, clowns on wagons and on foot, clowns with Charlie Chaplin feet and clowns with Ben Turpin eyes.

With kindly smiles and witty remarks they sent a wave of laughter along the miles of spectators.

No matter what their personal cares or woes might be, these peers of paint and powder had abandoned them all for the noon parade in London They were equally as spry as the care-free schoolboy who darted out from the crowds at every corner and hurried, breathless and in curious wonderment, to catch up to the head of the parade and see it all over again.

Along the route were grandmothers and grandfathers who, two generations ago saw John Robinson's circus artists on parade. And they heard tales of the worth of the same great assemblage from grandfathers and grandmothers. For 100 years John Robinson's circus has traveled around the globe, each year adding something to its list of achievements and attractions.

Children Once More.

Today these venerable citizens were children again. When the parade had passed, they almost felt like hurrying along with their grandchildren to get one more look at the wondrous passing show.

They saw new faces, new clowns and new dare-devil equestrians, but they knew that these artists were every bit as clever as the performers of yore, always aspiring to new feats to keep the good name of John Robinson at the head of the column of circus-owners.

For perhaps the first time in the city's history, a rhinocerousesirenn city's history a rhinocerous was exhibited in a circus parade. This huge beast wallowed in a tank on one of the wagons, and spouted sprays of water at those who ventured too near.

John Robinson Circus parade has passed for another year, but it has left a good impression behind. It has left the impression that the owners are not out to trim the "new one born every minute," but to give the appreciative public its money's worth of clean, first-class amusement.

DOROTHY L. WELCH DIES AFTER LENGTHY ILLNESS

Popular Young Londoner, Prominent in Church Work, Passes Away.

Dorothy L. Welch, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Welch of 452 Queen's avenue, passed away at her home last night, following an illness of about a year. Miss Welch was 23 years old.

Miss Welch had been confined to her bed for some months, but lately her condition had shown a steady improvement and her parents were confident that she would soon be well again. Last night, however, she suffered a sudden relapse from which she never recovered.

One of the most prominent and most popular amongst the younger members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Miss Welch will be greatly missed in London church circles, especially among the junior congregation of the church, with which she has always been closely associated, both in its religious and educational activities, as well as in the social field.

Before her illness Miss Welch was one of the city's promising young vocalists and was a member of the St. Andrew's choir. Her aptitude for church endeavor work made her an ideal assistant in the junior congregation, a position she held till her health prevented her from taking any active part in any of the St. Andrew's classes.

Miss Welch was born in London and was educated in the local public schools and the Collegiate Institute.

Besides her father and mother, Miss Welch leaves only one brother, Chester Welch of Saskatoon.

The funeral will be of a private nature and will be held from the family residence on Queen's avenue Friday. The Rev. Dr. MacGregor of St. Andrew's Church is out of the city at present, but it is thought he will reach the city in time to conduct the services. Interment will take place in Woodland Cemetery.

Louis Groat Turned Over to Wife, Who Will Look After Him.

Suspected of wishing to commit suicide, Louis Groat, Ottaway avenue, colored, was arrested at 9:45 last night when he was seen wandering along the river bank in an apparently despondent condition.

In court this morning, charged with vagrancy, he told the magistrate that he had not been well for some time. He had worked at a local hotel all winter and was now employed at a shoe store on Dundas street, where he shined shoes. He did not make very much money, and as a result had become moody and despondent. He was married, but had no children. The court told him that he should not think of committing suicide, and turned him over to his wife, who will look after him.

NEW YORK'S MAYOR TO HELP PROHIBITION

Urges Greater Supervision by Authorities Along Canadian Border.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, June 7.—Mayor Hylan today promised State Prohibition Director Canfield every possible cooperation by the city in the enforcement of the Volstead act.

The mayor pointed out in a letter, however, that if the federal authorities properly supervised the Canadian border and the Atlantic ports the state prohibition forces and the local authorities would have less to do about enforcement in any locality.

The common sense way to enforce the supply at its source. That work at the port of New York, he declared, was a matter strictly under the jurisdiction of the federal authorities.

London Liberals Confident They Can Select Candidate To Carry Banner to Victory

Nominations Tonight Will Be Open and Above Board, as Consistent With True Liberalism—Half Dozen Prospects For the Honors.

The Liberals of London enter the local arena with a nominating convention in Hyman Hall tonight, much to the obvious discomfiture of the supporters of Sir Adam Beck.

Never since the old days of the Laurier administration at Ottawa, when the Hon. Charles Hyman represented the interests of London citizens at the federal capital, has such enthusiasm and optimism been shown as among the Liberals here today.

Content to let the others do the shouting, the Liberals have taken every advantage of the past weeks since dissolution of the legislature to perfect their organization, and all is in readiness for well-defined action after tonight's gathering.

Consistent with Liberalism, as it has come down through the ages, the nomination will be open and above board. All who are eligible to the party will be afforded the opportunity to champion the cause of their choice.

No "hand-picked" candidate will be entered. Unlike other political movements, the Liberal party has been absolutely free from secret caucuses of the chosen few to consider this one or that one. There are at least a half dozen suitable prospects for the standard, any one of whom is practically assured of victory once he determines to assume the party's responsibilities against the enemies of public ownership.

The chief difficulty confronting the Liberals of London when they assemble tonight will be to choose the most promising of the different possibilities—as so much good timber is available, despite the frenzied rumors, having their origin with the Tory executive, that the Liberals will not fight but will choose to support Sir Adam Beck.

The Liberal party in London appreciates that the opposing elements among the local Tories, sensing their precarious position, are casting about desperately for succor from every conceivable quarter. Therefore, the wish is father to the thought when the members of the executive of the London Conservative Association announce glibly to their harassed followers that all is well, as the Liberals are going to support Sir Adam.

The Liberals are not going to support Sir Adam, and this will be conclusively emphasized at tonight's gathering in order that there will be no further misunderstanding among the Conservatives due to the premature and very weighty pronouncements from Ald. William Wilson and ex-Mayor J. Cameron Wilson, Sir Adam's caddies in the present campaign.

Outstanding speakers will address the Liberal meeting tonight, notably R. L. Brackin, the fiery Liberal orator and member of the legislature for Chatham.

The gathering promises to rival the stirring sessions of the "good old days" when London was a Liberal stronghold under the late Sir Wilfrid. And victory is already in sight.

the 23-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Welch, 452 Queen's avenue, who succumbed last night to a year's illness. Miss Welch was assistant in the junior congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and was also a valued member of the church choir.

Toots the Chick, Creating Star Among Admirers

Some Want Curls Banished, While Others Urge That Casper Be Spruced Up Also.

Toots, the curly-headed, the soft, the feminine, is not going to be permanently intriguing as Toots, the sophisticated, the chic and bang-ed young thing, if this letter to The Advertiser is a straw to show which way the wind is blowing among the devoted admirers of the Toots and Casper household.

But Toots is such a dear little thing that folks are going to let her have her own sweet way for a little while—or, at any rate, till Casper finds his bank-roll getting slim, slimmer, slimmest.

Most Interesting Couple.

So we read: "Dear Mr. Murphy—Toots and Casper are the most interesting, most entertaining, and most human little couple in the world. They are my favorites on the funny page, but I always wished that Toots did not wear her hair so plain. With curls and her sweet ways, she is perfect; but still she seems to have lost her individuality. Let her wear her curls until the weather gets too warm, or until Casper gets tired paying the hair-dressers bills. Many thanks for so much entertainment.

Yours very truly,
MARY E. DEVER.

Folks Alarmed.

And then again some folks are getting quite alarmed lest Toots outshine her adoring husband, and so they are warning Mr. Murphy to keep Casper up to scratch all the time. Read this:

"Dear Mr. Murphy:

I think Toots is just adorable now. I am so glad you didn't let her hair be bobbed. You know, I never did think the bangs were very becoming to Toots, but she is too sweet for words now, with her little ringlets. But you mustn't let her ever abuse Casper now, as nothing but sugary words would be in place, dropping from lips beneath that lovely frame. I think the curls are an improvement, Mr. Murphy, but you will have to keep Casper spruced up now, as he shouldn't look out of place with such a pretty little wife.

M. H. STRONG.

Toots Is Toots.

But after all it seems that Toots is Toots, with curls or without them:

"Dear Mr. Murphy:

Toots with curls! My, my, no! Anybody can wear curls, while Toots, with the slicked, banged and shiny hair looked like a movie vamp one minute and like a nice, sleek, little pussy cat the next minute. You know you have to be something of a beauty to attempt a style of hair-dressing a la Toots, but even a face like a mud-fence can be improved with curls, I know, dear Mr. Murphy, because I've got one. Let Toots have her curls for a day or two. She will soon realize that hair-dressers can work all kinds of miracles with curling-tongs, but it takes Toots herself to get away with the sleek-stuff and the bangs.

THE HEDGE FENCE.

MEMBERS AMAZED WITH THE BETTING AT EPSOM DOWNS

Might as Well Try To Stop Niagara as Wagering on Horses.

NOVEL EXPERIENCE

Whole Pleasure of Racing Lies in Betting, Says Visiting Parliamentarian.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, June 7.—The members of the House of Commons' committee which is investigating the question of taxing betting, attended the Derby at Epsom Downs yesterday as guests of the Jockey Club. Several of the committeemen, habitual frequenters of their colleagues who until yesterday the race track, acted as guides for had never seen the horses run. These M. P's. came away with their innocence uncontaminated but were much interested in their novel experience.

Their main impressions, as recorded in interviews, concerned the universality of betting on the course and the insignificant part the actual racing played in the pleasure of the enormous crowd, only a small fraction of which was able to see the running of the Derby Even on the grandstand, one committeeman said, it was only possible to see the horses for a space of about 30 seconds. Isaac Foot, one of the novices, said he and his fellow innocents were amazed at the extent of the betting business and staggere dby the amount of money which changed hands. They came to the conclusion, he added, that an attempt to prevent betting would be about as feasible as trying to turn back Niagara Falls.

Less Injurious.

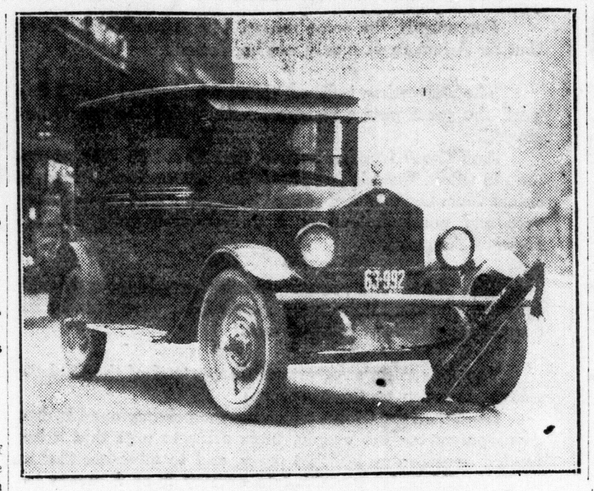

David Grenfell, a miner-M.P. from South Wales, "found more to amuse than to admire." He said he never understood what people meant when they said racing could not be conducted without betting, but he now realized that after watching a few races one would find it monotonous unless a bet were placed. He believed race-course betting was likely to be less injurious to the community than tonished at the prevalance of betting "Everybody from duge to dustman seemed caught in the whirl of excitement," he asserted. Sir Beddoe was also impressed by the remarkable code of honor that seemed to exist between the backers and the bookmakers; the former never argued and the latter paid up without question.

Sir Beddoe Rees, Liberal, was asgambling at a gaing table.

Tax Impossible.

Several mebers of the committee went away convinced that it would be impossible, at least on such an occasion as Derby Day, to collect a tax on betting. They did not believe it possible to devise a plan by which the amount of money changing hands could be calculated, and expressed the opinion that if a tax was to be imposed means would have to be found to collect it through other channels.

SILENT COP HAS STRONG COMEBACK.

This silent cop doesn't say a word when an autoist runs over him, but he has a strong comeback. The Advertiser staff photographer is shown "flooring" the latest addition to the city's force on the corner of King and Clarence streets. This device is unbreakable. It works on a pivot, and even though a careless driver does collide with it, it springs back into place again. It made such a good showing the city has ordered half a dozen more.

GOES INTO FINALS

Miss A. Farncomb and Miss Margaret Findlay Win in Consolation.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Brantford Golf Club, June 7.—Early indications were fulfilled when the weather cleared off and allowed the semi-finalists in the seven flights other than the championship to start off the second last day's play in the Ontario ladies' golf championship tournament.

The first pair to finish were Miss Dorothy Thompson of Paris and Mrs. E. A. MacKenzie of Woodstock, the former qualifying for the final of the championship consolation by a 4 and 3 victory. Miss Thompson was held even for the first four holes, but struck stride and was four up at the turn and kept her lead until the fifteenth. Mrs. MacKenzie only won two holes, eight being halved.

Miss Marion Beck and Miss Helen Baker, both of London, had a great struggle, which terminated at the 17th, Miss Beck winning 2 and 1. Miss Beck was defeated in the final of this event last year.

Both played good golf and made the turn on even terms, Miss Baker obtained the lead soon afterwards but encountered trouble on the last four holes and was not very strong on her approaches.

The results were:

Championship consolation:

Miss Thompson (Paris) defeated Mrs. E. A. MacKenzie (Woodstock) 4 and 3.

Miss Marion Beck (London) defeated Miss Helen Kaker (London).

First Consolation.

Earl and Chorus Beauty Will Marry In Canada

Hampered by Divorce Laws of United States, Miss Brown and Northesk To Seek Union Across the Border.

Special to The Advertiser.

New York, June 7.—Hampered by divorce laws of the United States, Jessica Brown, former chorus girl, will seek to continue her romance with the Earl of Northesk in Canada. They will be wed across the boundary line very soon, according to the earl, who today left here in dejected solitude with his bride to dash to the Dominion to perfect the nuptial plans.

The New York license clerk refused to issue the couple a marriage license on the ground that Jessica's divorce from Cyril Reinhard was not yet legal in this state.

Reinhard himself now looms ominously over the horizon. "She is charming, sensible, and has a good business head," he said, "but she is not through with me yet."

How long the earl must wait her is uncertain. He says himself "only a few days."

MONEY IS STOLEN FROM TROUSERS OF HOUSE OWNER

TWO ATTEMPTS

Evidence Revealed of Attacks on Other Residents in City.

Sneak thieves were again rampant last night, one house being entered and robbed, while attempts were made to enter two others.

Some time during the night the home of C. H. Hessey, 444 Hill street, was broken into and searched. The robber found nothing until he arrived at the bedroom where Mr. and Mrs. Hessey were sleeping. Going through Mr. Hessey's trousers he found $11 which he purloined and then evidently left without making a further search. Both doors of the house were easy of access, neither of them having been locked.

Adam Rolfe, 85 Hunt street, was also paid a visit by the prowler about 1:35 a.m., but making some small noise in the house he wakened Miss Rolfe, who alarmed the remainder of the house, with the result that the man made his escape without being seen. Entrance in this case was made through removing a screen of the bedroom window, which was easily done.

George Askey, 60 Front street, was the third place visited but here the man did not enter, although several of the windows were tried. Signs that he had tried to force an entrance were found by Mr. Askey.

Detectives are of the opinion that it is the same man who committed the depredations of Saturday and Sunday nights, and again urge on residents the necessity of seeing that lower floor doors and windows are securely fastened before retiring.

FREE JOSEPH MANENTI UNTIL WINTER ASSIZES

Charge of Forgery Left Over in County Court.

Joseph Manenti, over whom an indictment for forgery is held, was allowed to go on his own recognizance of $200 to appear when called at the winter assizes, when he appeared in county court this morning.

Manenti, who was first arrested in 1919 escaped a month or two later and was not rearrested until December 23, 1922. He was put on trial and sentenced to an extra three months, together with the uncompleted portion of his former sentence. His time was up on May 7.

When he was arrested the second time, several forged American bank notes were found in his possession and a bill of forgery laid against him in January, 1923, to be heard at the summer assizes. The crown not being ready to proceed, he will not appear until December.

GIRL FORCES BRIGAND TO JOIN GREEK ARMY

Famous Bandit on Isle of Crete Surrenders to the Government.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Paris, June 7.—How a girl from Grand Rapids rid the isle of Crete of the famous bandit Barbounis, who had terrorized the islanders for 15 years, was told in Near East relief messages from Athens today.

Miss Margaret Robinson, Michigan girl, in charge of distributing Near East relief supplies in the Mediterranean, is the heroine of the tale.

Machinations of the bandit interfered with the relief work, Miss Robinson found. Instead of protesting to the government, she entered into personal negotiations with the bandit. Before she was through the brigand had agreed to surrender to the Greek government and with his 30 followers to join the army, in exchange for amnesty.

TWO LOSE THEIR LIVES IN BIG THUNDERSTORM

Associated Press Despatch.

Columbus, Ohio, June 7.—Two lives were lost in a heavy thunder and lightning storm which broke the heat wave that has gripped Ohio for the past week and taken a toll of three lives. Four other deaths by drowning, indirectly due to the heat wave, have been reported.

REJECT POLICE SYSTEM BECAUSE OF HIGH COST

New County Committee Is Expected Will Bring In Report Tonight.

Although the new county police committee of the Middlesex County council did not meet this morning to plan a new system of police protection for the 40,000 residents of the rural district surrounding London, it is expected a meeting will be held today, as the committee has been instructed to bring in a report at the night session of the council.

As the now defunct committee, which was appointed at the special April session, had its proposal to hire a high constable at a salary of $2,700 a year and furnish him with a powerful car, rejected, the new committee expects to find it hard to work out a system which will give adequate protection and at the same time conform with the policy of economy adopted by the 1923 council.

It was the cost and not the system which brought about the defeat of the proposition presented by the old committee.

Some of the councillors who opposed the plan were in favor of a high constable at a salary of approximately $1,800 and the granting of $1,000 for a car.

The House of Refuge committee met this morning, and framed a report on yesterday's inspection of the county institution. The report will be submitted this afternoon. Councillors who shared in the inspection state everything was found in good order at the home for the aged and infirm.

NON-SUIT IS DECLARED IN FAVOR OF RAILWAY

Judge Macbeth Gives Decision For Second Time in Twenty Years.

For the second time in more than twenty years of presiding on the local bench, His Honor Judge Macbeth declared "non-suit" in a civil action. By a strange coincidence both non-suits have been in favor of the London Street Railway.

The action was one brought by George Webster against the railway to recover damages for a mare which was injured when struck by a street car and subsequently had to be shot. Webster stated that on Oct. 31, 1922, he was riding the mare along Hamilton road near the corner of Hyla street. A car struck the animal on the left haunch, injuring it so badly that it had to be destroyed. The mare was valued at $175.

While giving his evidence, Webster was censored several times by his honor for alleged impudence and snippery to the counsel for the defence. In declaring that the action would be a non-suit, Judge Macbeth recalled that it was but the second he had ever declared.

J. M. McEvoy, K.C., acted for the plaintiff, and Weir & Gillanders for the street railway.

An automobile collision was made the cause for an action brought by Forest Durdin against Leo La Fortune. The accident occurred on June 19, 1922, about 9:30 p.m., on the road leading to Wonderland, just off the Pipe Line road. The car which the plaintiff was driving had been struck by the car of the defendant and severely damaged. In the car at the time were the plaintiff, who suffered injuries to his right wrist and head; his wife, who was cut on the head and knee; his grandmother, Mrs. M. Pinch, who sustained a scalp wound necessitating sixteen stitches, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Wm. Winslow, who was uninjured. Unstated damages are being asked. J. M. McEvoy is acting for the plaintiff.

Curio Seekers Disable Tiny Flying Marvel of French Airman.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paulsboro, N. J., June 7.—Georges Barbot, French pilot of the "flivver" aeroplane, announced today that he had temporarily abandoned his flights in this country. Although his machine suffered little damage yesterday when the frail craft plunged into a tree near here on an attempted flight from Garden City, Long Island, to Washington, D. C., curio seekers further disabled the mechanical flying marvel Barbot had brought to this country.

MANY SCOTCH LASSIES ARRIVE IN DOMINION

Two Parties of Girls For Domestic Service Have Relatives in Canada.

Special to The Advertiser.

Montreal, June 7.—The last number of Scottish immigrants passed through Montreal last night, mostly on their way to Ontario. They comprised two parties of girls, who have come out to take up domestic service.

One party of 182 girls traveled under the special supervision of Miss Binnie, conductress of the department of immigration. Only a comparative handful of the girls remained in Montreal, the great majority going to Toronto and other places in Ontario and further west, and out of the total of 182 no fewer than 144 are so fortunate as to possess friends and relatives in Canada, to whom they are being directed.

ALLEGES FRAUD.

E. H. Jeeves of London, through his solicitors, Gibbons, Harper & Braden, has issued a writ against Graham, Sanson & Co., Limited, of Toronto, for the return of $1,002.85 and interest from July 15, 1920, the alleged purchase price of ten shares of eight per cent cumulative participating stock of the Chemical Products, Limited, purchased by the defendant. Jeeves claims he was induced by fraud and misrepresentation to buy the stock.

Crowd Cheers When Penalty Is Imposed On Man and Wife Who Killed 33.

Associated Press Despatch.

Moscow, June 7.—Vasili Komaroff, convicted of the murder of 33 persons, and his wife, as his accomplice, were sentenced today to be shot within 72 hours. Neither betrayed any emotion as the sentence was pronounced, but there was loud applause from the crowd in the courtroom and cries that the sentence should be carried into effect immediately instead of waiting 72 hours.

CHARGE SENEGALESE WITH LAW-BREAKING

Battling Siki Makes Rumpus in Paris Restaurants.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, June 7.—A Paris magistrate has sent to the public prosecutor two cases in which Battling Siki is charged with law-breaking. The Senegalese boxer will be summoned to police court at an early date to answer the charges. On April 7, a waiter in a Montmartre night cabaret, which Siki was patronizing, told the fighter that the proprietor desired his departure. The envoy, it is alleged, was met with a knockout blow and the words: "You are nothing here, but I am Siki." The police were called to turn the boxer out.

A month later Siki is said to have fired a revolver twice in a saloon, explaining later that he used a blank cartridge such as trainers use. Since then he was charged with carrying prohibited arms.

FIND YOUNG SON'S BODY THREE DAYS AFTER DEATH

Guelph, June 7.—The body of Walter L. Gleeva, the 8-year-old son of Walter Gleeva of this city, was discovered in the river today.

The lad disappeared from his home last Monday. It is believed he fell into the river on that day and was drowned, without anyone noticing the accident.

FAVORS SPECIAL INSTRUCTION FOR TRUANT YOUTHS

Dr. Weir Urges Older Boys Be Given Separate Room.

LEAVE SCHOOLS

Fail To Return To Their Studies Upon Losing Employment.

What London needs in the handling of its truant school children problem, according to Dr. Weir, the truant officer, is special school classes for the boys who have left school to go to work, and then for some reason leave their employment.

"What often happens in London is this," said the doctor today to The Advertiser. "A boy leaves school, and gets a special permit to allow him to go to work. Then for some reason or another he leaves, and the first thing we know about it is that his parents or someone else tells us about it often weeks after he has been out of employment.

Fail To Give Notice.

"The law in the case states that the employer must return the notice of the boy's leaving to us within two days, yet very few of them do it, and the boys drift away, and get into bad company. If we could get hold of them directly they leave, it would be much better for them and for the city.

"In Sarnia, for instance," he continued, "they have adopted a system of special classes for these boys. The classes are arranged for these boys alone, so that they feel no shyness or discomfort in going back to school, which is always the case when a big boy has to return to the class with much smaller and younger boys who are just as far ahead as he is in the work.

Classes Practical.

"The classes are made practical and interesting; there is none of the stiffness that accompanies so much of the formal curriculum. Down in Sarnia the boys who have been sent to these classes like them so well that they often go back to them of their own free will as soon as they can get time. They are rather a combination of technical school courses, and the more interesting and practical side of education."

Dr. Weir thinks that if something of this kind were instituted in London, the problem of looking after the truant boy, and in particular the boy who has been given a permit to work and then left his employment, would be greatly simplified.

REV. DR. GAUDIER CHOSEN PRESBYTERIAN MODERATOR

ASSEMBLY ELECTS REV. DR. GANDIER NEW MODERATOR

Asks Presbyterian Clerics To Seek God's Help In Question of Union.

URGES GOODWILL

Retiring Head Lauds Successor Work In Knox College.

Port Arthur, June 6.—Rev. Dr. Gandier was tonight elected moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly.

Rev. Dr. Gandier was nominated in two very bright and clever speeches by Rev. Dr. Clarence McKinnon of the Presbyterian College, Halifax, and Rev. Dr. Wyllie C. Clark of Saskatoon. Dr. McKinnon in making the nomination referred to the work Dr. Gandier had done for the church through his great vigor and clear vision. Speaking of his services in connection with Knox College, Toronto, he said that he found this college in a position of some financial difficulty and that he had erected there the most beautiful and attractive building of the kind on the American continent. Such a man was greatly needed in the present great emergency of the church, he stated. The motion was seconded by Rev. Dr. Clark of Saskatoon. There were no other nominations and Dr. Gandier was declared elected.

He was escorted to the platform and formally introduced, receiving a remarkable welcome. In assuming the position Dr. Gandier referred to the church union issue, and said that the time had come when decisive action must be taken.

Discusses Union.

He spoke of the spirit in which this great question should be discussed and considered and of the effect which the settlement of the present question must have on the future not only of the Canadian church but on the church throughout the world and for a great many years to come.

An earnest appeal for the manifestation in tone, temper and words of the spirit of love and goodwill in the forthcoming discussion on the epochal question of the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches of Canada was made by the retiring moderator, Rev. W. J. Clark, of Montreal.

Basing his address on 1 Timothy 3:15, "The Church of the living God, the pillar and ground of truth," Dr. Clark spoke of the incidents surrounding the text, the value of the church in Ephesus and of the individual members thereof in the sight of God. He alluded to the heavy responsibilities laid on the assembly as representing the great multitude of Presbyterians in Canada. "It is not an extravagant statement to say," continued Dr. Clark, "that the present assembly has heavier responsibility than any previous one that has ever been constituted.

In view of this fact, what is the thing we should be most concerned about as we enter upon our labors? Surely, it is that we are loyal to the spirit of Him who is the Head of the Church. And this is not something vague and indefinable, but a definite and concrete conception.

Seek Help of God.

"Our court," emphasized Dr. Clark, is constituted of individual men, and there is no possible way by which these hundreds of commissioners can be guided to see things exactly in the same fashion. Notwithstanding this fact, it is quite possible for each commissioner earnestly to resolve that through the progress of the business and debate he shall seek the help of God." He went on to say that in his attendance at assemblies he had frequently been impressed by the way in which there would be a response to an appeal for the highest and best and most unselfish. The explanation of that was that with all their faults, the men who composed the assembly any year were dominantly and earnestly concerned with the Kingdom of God on earth. If they departed from the essential spirit of that kingdom it was not because they wished to do so, but from the weakness of human nature and their proneness to being carried away in the excitement of the moment.

"I plead as we enter upon our labors," said Dr. Clark, "that each of us will in all sincerity seek grace from the Master of all our assemblies to undertake the responsibilities and tasks we are called upon to share."

EXPLOSION DESTROYS LARGE POWDER PLANT

Blast Is Caused When Lightning Strikes Lowellville, Ohio, Factory.

Associated Press Despatch.

Lowellville, Ohio, June 6. — The press and corning mills of the Grasselli Powder Company were destroyed by a terrific explosion when the plant was destroyed by lightning this afternoon. Windows in nearby houses owned by the powder company were shattered, and half a dozen persons hurt by flying glass. The storm, which was one of the most severe ever witnessed in this section, broke late in the afternoon, and every workman deserted the building for places of safety. A few minutes later the explosion occurred. The manager would make no estimate of the damage.

Bridgeman, Berrien county sheriff, and a dozen deputies raided Shiloh, Purnell's residence, at the House of David colony tonight, seeking the vanished cult-leader. Purnell was not found at Shiloh, or in other buildings in the colony.

Congregationalists Favor Immediate Consummation of Church Union In Canada

Clergy and Lay Delegates At Ottawa Convention Vote Almost Unanimously In Support of Plan To Unify Various Religious Denominations.

Special to The Advertiser.

Ottawa, June 7.—Church union was the all-important subject of discussion at the opening business session of the Congregational Union of Canada in the First Congregational Church here yesterday. The vote favoring immediate church union was almost unanimous, only three lay delegates voting against it.

The chairman of the Congregational Union, Rev. J. Lambert Alexander, B.D., of Hamilton, presided, and Rev. Professor W. H. Warriner, M.A., D.D., of the Congregational College of Montreal, presented the report of the church union committee. The report showed that one hundred and eighteen churches have voted in favor of church union, according to certified copies of resolutions received. Eight churches voted against church union, one church refused to vote on the question, and thirteen churches have not yet reported their votes.

In the Maritime Provinces every church voted in favor of church union except one which refused to vote. In Quebec every church voted for church union with one church yet to be heard from. Ontario is divided into three associated sections. Eastern Ontario churches, with one exception, voted in favor of church union. In the Toronto district association all churches except two voted for union.

Western Ontario Favors Union.

In Western Ontario all churches except three voted in favor of union. In the Western Provinces all the English-speaking churches have voted unanimously in favor of union except two churches which have not yet reported.

Swedish churches in the West have voted not to enter the united church, as they desire to enter a union with other Swedish-speaking churches.

All Russo-German churches in the West to report are unanimously in favor of church union, while six are yet to be heard from.

Of the incorporated societies of the denomination, the Montreal Congregational Church Building Fund Society, and the Canada Congregational Women's Board of Missions, have already adopted resolutions in favor of organic church union, and the other incorporated societies are expected to take action during this assembly.

The committee submitted the following recommendations:

In submitting for your approval the legislation necessary to give effect to the union of the three negotiating churches, your committee recommends that the union, having been authorized thereto by the overwhelming majority of the Congregational Churches in Canada, do now resolve as follows:

(1) That the Congregational Union of Canada has considered the proposed act of parliament of Canada to incorporate the United Church of Canada, and the proposed legislation of the several legislatures of the provinces of Canada submitted to it by the joint committee on church union, copies of which proposed acts are hereto annexed and marked respectively "A" and "B."

(3) That the Congregational Union of Canada recommends to the committee to be appointed as hereinafter mentioned, the favorable consideration of the following change in the proposed provincial act, viz., that section 22 of the provincial act relating to acts of civil status in the province of Quebec be struck out and the following be substituted in its place.

Approves Principles.

"Each and all of the churches, congregations and missions of the Union Church, duly recognized as members of the United Church of Canada or by the executive committee thereof (of which recognition the certificate of the general secretary of the said United Church shall be sufficient evidence), shall have and possess the right to keep registers of civil status to the full extent and in the manner provided by the civil code and the code of civil procedure. Each and all of the ministers of the said United Church, duly recognized as such by the said United Church of Canada or by the executive committee thereof, or specially authorized by the said United Church or its executive committee, shall have the right to act as public functionaries, keeping registers of civil status, under the conditions of law, together with all the rights connected therewith, and all other duties and ceremonies of such public functionaries in charge of registers of civil status, in the manner and to the full extent provided by the civil code and the code of civil procedure."

2. That the Congregational Union of Canada hereby approves the principles, and, in general, the form of the said proposed acts.

4. That a committee of 20 be appointed by the Cangregational Union of Canada to act for and on behalf of the Congregational Churches as defined of the said proposed acts to procure the enactment of the said proposed acts of the parliament of Canada and the legislatures of the provinces of Canada and the legislatures of the colonies and countries outside of Canada having jurisdiction over any of the property of the negotiating churches as such committee may deem necessary or requisite in order to effectuate and consummate the union of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, the Methodist Church, Canada, and the Congregational Churches of Canada, in accordance with the provisions of the basis of union and general principles contained in the said proposed acts, the said committee to have full power and authority for and on behalf of the Congregational Churches to consider and deal with any proposals, defined as aforesaid, made by or on behalf of any of the negotiating churches, or any committee thereof, or otherwise, with respect to the said legislation to make or concur in any changes or amendments to said proposed acts, that their discretion may deem advisable, in order to carry into effect the provisions of the basis of union and the general principles contained in the said proposed acts, and with the representatives of the other negotiating churches, and set and determine the final form of any such legislation, and generally to do all such acts and things as the said committee may deem expedient to procure whatever legislation may, in their opinion, be necessary or requisite to effectuate and consummate the said union, pursuant to the provisions of the basis of union and principles contained in the said proposed acts.

Appoint Committee of 40.

We further recommend that the union do now appoint 40 members to represent our denomination in the first general council of the united church when duly called, according to the proposed legislation, with full power to act.

Further, that in case of any vacancy occurring, power to appoint other representatives be hereby given to the executive of the Congregational Union of Canada.

Resuming the debate after luncheon Rev. Dr. W. H. Warriner in a fine address spoke of the twenty years of negotiations leading up to the present action of the negotiating churches. He said, "I have lived for the church union movement for twenty years," and moved that the first four clauses of the report be at once adopted. Rev. George Adam of Montreal seconded this. Rev. Dr. Hugh Pedley, chairman of the church union committee, expressed his appreciation of the work done by Drs. W. H. Warriner and W. T. Gunn, and declared that it would be nothing less than a tragedy should anything happen to hinder church union now and cause the labor of twenty-four years to end in nothing.

Judge S. P. Leet voiced the only opposition to church union, although declaring himself heartily in favor of continuing in fullest possible cooperation with other churches. He feared, however, that they were likely to lose the distinctive privileges of Congregationalism, and therefore moved the following amendment:

"Whereas Congregationalism has been defined as "a Christian democracy, Protestant in spirit and evangelical in faith,' like other Protestants, we hold Christ to be the supreme and only head of the church, and admit the authority of no one but God's Word.

"Like other evangelical Christians we hold the greatest spiritual truths which these terms imply. The doctrine of the church is our distinctive tenet, the essence of which is that a church is a company of regenerate persons publicly covenanting, worshipping and laboring together, with an equality of rank and rights, regulating their own membership, electing their pastor and deacons, managing their own affairs, exchanging fellowship and counsel with other churches, but submitting to no dictation or control from any human source whatever, and recognizing no ecclesiastical offices but those of the local church."

"And whereas the above distinctive doctrine of our churches is nowhere recognized in the proposed basis of union or in the proposed act of parliament, but on the contrary an elaborate system of church courts and offices is provided for.

Fails to Get Seconder.

"And whereas we have great reason to thank God, and speaking as men, to be proud of the work done by our churches in the past and are doing today such as education, missions, freedom of speech and of the press and of the pulpit, anti-slavery, antivice in all its forms, the giving of woman her rightful status in the church, and the state and society, in most of which they were the pioneers.

"And whereas, if we unite with the proposed new church we shall be automatically be cut off from the special fraternal relations which we have had and enjoyed so much in the past, and declare that congregationalism as distinct from the other denominations is no further needed in Canada.

"And whereas, there appears to be in one of the other negotiating churches, which even if it does not result in a split, will cause a condition of affairs which will militate seriously against the harmony which must prevail if the proposed merger is to be the success which its proponents hope for. And whereas, it is almost impossible that the proposed union can be completed before the next meeting of our union, wherefore I move that the report of the church union committee and the recommendation thereof be laid on the table." Judge Leet failed to get a seconder and the amendment was not voted on.

Rev. Principal D. L. Ritchie eulogized Judge Leet and the splendid service to the church, but, replying to Judge Leet's fears declared, "We were born free, we will go gladly into union but never into bondage."

The vote favoring immediate church union was almost unanimous, only three lay delegates voting against it.

The naming of forty representatives to sit on the first general council of the United Church brought a protest from members of the Western Ontario Association, who asked for more of their men to be put on the council. The matter was referred back to the committee for further consideration.

The shot pierced the throat of Mr. Prior, and Dr. Bice, who was called, declared that death had been instantaneous.

He leaves a widow, several sons and a daughter.

ACTION OF BECK PROJECTS HYDRO INTO POLITICS

Toronto Star Says Sir Adam Has Made Grievous Error.

NEW CHAIRMAN

Beck Has Given Government Right To Demand His Resignation.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 6.—Commenting on the decision of Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, to accept the London Conservative nomination for the legislature, the Toronto Star says editorially:

"In deciding to contest the London seat as a party candidate, Sir Adam Beck has made a serious mistake. He has offended against public policy and needlessly brought into politics the hydro enterprise with which he has been so long associated.

"It has been asserted more than once by Sir Adam that he would not desert his post and leave the hydro cause to unknown and unfamiliar hands. But he has done worse than that. He has defied the government, and so flagrantly violated the proprieties as to give the government every justification for removing him from the chairmanship."

OWNERSHIP OF BEER LEADS TO INVESTIGATION

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, June 6.—Edward Smith, Sandwich East township, was acquitted by Magistrate Gundy in the police court today when he denied the ownership of six kegs of strong beer found by the provincial police under his front veranda on May 31. Smith was charged with keeping liquor for sale illegally. He told the court that several days before the police raided his home, a man came there about midnight, saying he had been having motor trouble with his automobile, and asked if he could leave some packages until morning. Smith granted the stranger's request, and was astounded several days later to find the kegs contained beer. The beer was ordered confiscated.

E. A. REA WILL BE TORY CANDIDATE

Prominent Woodstock Druggist Is Conservative Choice For North Oxford.

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, June 6.—E. A. Rea, druggist, of this city, will be the Conservative candidate in North Oxford at the coming provincial election. This statement was given out today by different Conservatives all high up in the affairs of the party in this riding. Mr. Rea would not make a statement today, other than to say that he will allow his name to go before the mass meeting Thursday night, and that if accorded the candidature unanimously he would stand.

The members of the executive point out that in a survey of the riding they find no one candidate who will stand in Mr. Rea's way.

"Mr. Rea's name will be the only one put before the convention tomorrow night, and he will receive the wholehearted support of the Conservatives of the riding," said a prominent member of the executive this afternoon.

Representatives from both the Liberal and Conservative ranks, who have been touring the riding this week in an effort to get a line on the feeling throughout the riding, confess that they cannot tell what is going to happen on election day. There is a tremendous silent vote in the county at the present time, and it is hard to say who is going to get it. Never before in North Oxford has there been so much uncertainty on the outcome of a campaign as there is over the battle to be fought two weeks from next Monday.

WHISKEY WAS SAVED BY HITTING AN AUTO

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, June 6.—A truck loaded with more than 100 cases of whiskies and wines for the Ontario government, worth approximately $10,000, was saved from being dumped into the Detroit River at Windsor Ferry dock yesterday, when an automobile bore the brunt of the collision. The truck skidded down the hill on Ouellette avenue and was stopped by the car when about 20 feet from the river. The car was wrecked. The liquor was being taken to the government dispensary warehouse near the ferry dock.

BEER SMUGGLER FINED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, June 6.—Lloyd Reid of Petite Cote was fined $50 and costs in the police court today, when he was found guilty of reckless driving. Three weeks ago, to avoid being arrested by provincial police, he speeded his car to between 60 and 70 miles an hour, and was caught when his engine broke down, after a chase of 15 miles in Sandwich West Township. Last week he pleaded guilty of transporting 50 cartons of beer over the highway and fined $200 and costs.

PROBE IS MADE INTO CAUSE OF BIG TRAIN WRECK

Trainmen Say Derailment Took Place Owing To High Rate of Speed.

ANOTHER DEATH

Most of Injured Knights Templar Recovering In Flint Hospitals.

Special to The Advertiser.

Flint, June 6.—The investigation of the wreck of the Knights Templar train at Durand yesterday, in which 5 men were killed and 55 injured, was postponed today until the wreckage is cleared up.

James Bice, engineer of the state utilities commission, said it would be impossible for him to determine the cause of the accident for some time, and that even after all the debris is removed, the chances of a solution would be slight because of the way the rails were torn up. Mr. Bice examined portions of the rail where it seemed to have spread, but declared that at that point the rails had been bent out by the shock. At another point he stopped to examine an old section of partly rusted rail, but refused to comment on it, except to affirm the spectator's impression that it was old, and had been recently substituted. The real point where the train left the tracks probably was in midst of the wreckage, he said.

Causes of Tragedy.

The two prevalent theories expressed by railroadmen on the scene of the tragedy was that the rails had either spread or snapped at some point.

When the train left the track, the engine plowed into the ground with so terrific a force, and came to such a sudden stop, that it threw the steel coal-tender over the engine and onto the embankment fifty feet ahead. The truck was torn from under it, and lay alongside the engine. The baggage-car, turned at right angles to the engine, and the second and third cars, in some mysterious manner, attained the same position.

That the wrecked train, carrying nearly 200 Knights Templar and members of their families to the conclave here, was derailed because of high speed at which it ran was the opinion here today by some trainmen.

Another Death.

John Erickson died early today, bringing the death-list to five.

Most of the injured were recovering today in Flint hospitals, where they had been brought in local embulances after Durand hospital facilities became exhausted.

Sir Henry W. Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, today expressed his sympathy to the families of the dead and injured Knights Templars in Tuesday's wreck in a telegram received by H. E. Wittenberger, Detroit, manager of Grand Trunk Railway system. The telegram from Montreal says:

"Please transmit direct and through the commandery of Knights Templar our direct and deep sympathy with the families who have been bereaved. Also express my sympathy to the injured, and assure them that we will continue to do everything within our power to alleviate the suffering caused by this unfortunate accident."

SENTENCE SUSPENDED ON WOULD-BE SUICIDE

Kitchener, June 6.—Frank Lorentz, charged with attempted suicide, pleaded guilty in police court here today and was let out on suspended sentence by Magistrate Weir. Lorentz was found attempting to hang himself with a piece of wire in the shed at the rear of his house on Bismarck street here Friday. He was defended by George Bray of London.

BRITAIN GIVES THE LIE TO FALSE ALLEGATIONS

Associated Press Despatch.

London, June 6.—Authoritative denial was given today to Moscow newspaper reports alleging British interference in Soviet Asia. It was declared that the British government had never concluded any agreement with the Emir of Turkstan involving a protectorate of that region, and that the statement in the Moscow papers relative to an alleged British promise to finance and arm anti-Soviet forces was untrue.

MIDDLESEX TAX RATE INCREASED BY TWO MILLS

Nine-Mill Rate For Year Decided Upon By County Council.

REDUCE DEFICIT

Higher Figure Adopted In Order To Cut Down the Indebtedness.

Middlesex county tax-rate for the ensuing year will be nine mills, an increase of two mills over last year. This was decided by the county council last night.

Many of the councillors wanted the rate to be ten mills, and battled in and out of committee of the whole on this issue. Finally the amendment favoring ten mills was defeated by 15 to 12.

The second report of the finance committee to the council recommended a ten-mill rate.

Councillor W. J. Fuller, in explaining the report, stated the ten-mill rate was recommended so that part of the county deficit of about $100,000 could be paid.

Councillor Allan McPherson declared himself in favor of a pay-as-you-go policy, and was in favor of striking a rate that would take care of the entire deficit, leaving next year's council with a clean sheet. Councillors Gordon and Cousins concurred in this.

Councillor Cy. Henry declared ten mills was a high rate, and declared himself in favor of eight and a half.

Councillor Hodgins declared it require a fourteen-mill rate to pay off the county deficit. He wanted to know why the estimates and the actual expenditures differed so widely. He advised the practising of economy, and the paying off of all debts.

Councillor Harrison explained that one mill went to the city of London for two years' accounts for county school children's attendance in the city.

Favors $20,000 Issue.

Councillor T. G. Turnbull was in favor of issuing $20,000 debentures for the county's share of the Pipe Line road work, for which money had been provided in the estimates.

It was pointed out that as the contract only called for $15,000, the county could not issue debentures for $20,000.

In committee of the whole, the ten-mill rate advocates were defeated 15 to 12.

Councillor Henry at first moved the rate be eight and one-half mills, but later consented to nine mills.

Councillor Pike called for the yeas and nays, while the council was in committee of the whole. He was declared out of order. Nevertheless, supported by Councillor McPherson, he called for the yeas and nays after the council came out of committee of the whole.

The record of the vote showed Councillors Vining, Fuller, Harrison, Elliott, Pike, Revcraft, McDougall, Collins, McGuigan, Turnbull, McPherson and Calvert in favor of the ten mill rate. Those who voted for nine mills were Councillors Hodgins, Winter, W. Ross, Lewis, McGuire, Holman, Morgan, Sullivan, James, Stinson, Galbraith, Gordon, and Cousins and Warden J. M. Ross.

Would Levy Gas Tax.

Councillor Henry made a resolution to the effect that the auto license fee in Ontario be not raised higher, but that to take care of provincial, county and township road work in Ontario a tax of two cents a gallon be placed on gasoline by the government. He declared the men who used the roads the most should pay the biggest share. It was pointed out that early and late in the year truck drivers used the roads when they were not in good condition and caused much damage to them.

He asked that a copy of the resolution be sent to the various county councillors of Ontario, and to the Department of Highways for approval.

A few of the councillors opposed the resolution, stating it worked a hardship on the men who used the gasoline in engines on farms, and on persons who used gasoline for other uses besides automobile fuel. However, they consented to allow the resolution to go before the highway improvement committee.

Yesterday afternoon the council visited the county house of refuge at Strathroy, and found everything in order. Thomas Elliott, chairman of the house of refuge committee, will bring in a report on the matter today.

EFFORT TO IMPROVE THE LOT OF SOLDIERS

Dr. Beland Gives Notice of Motion To Safeguard Insurance.

Ottawa, June 6.—Hon. Dr. Beland, minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment, gave notice in the House today of a motion regarding returned soldiers' insurance. Dr. Beland's resolution provided that in any case where an application for insurance under the act has been received, and the applicant has deceased prior to the delivery to him of the policy of insurance, the approval of the application by the proper officer and the receipt of the initial premium shall be deemed to have been sufficient to put the insurance into force with certain qualifications, and that any applications which were rejected prior to July 1, 1922, under any conditions set forth in section 2 of the amending act of 1922, or the schedule thereto, shall be reviewed under certain conditions.

NO CANDIDATE IN LEEDS.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Brockville, June 6.—By a large majority the Liberals of Leeds riding in convention at Delta today decided that they would place no candidate in the field at the coming election, a proceeding not paralleled in the history of the riding since confederation. The fight will consequently be between Lieut.-Col. A. W. Gray, Conservative, and John Beatty, U. F. O.

ALLIES ARE UNITED ON REPLY TO MAKE TO GERMAN OFFER

British Premier Expected To Provide Solution To Perplexing Problem.

BERLIN MUST PAY

France and Britain To Hold Troops In Ruhr Until Settlement.

Associated Press Despatch

London, June 7.—The underlying principle of the new German note on reparations is to bring the powers to the conference table, says a despatch to The Times from Berlin. The note does not touch the questions of passive resistance or evacuation of the Ruhr.

The despatch adds that the note will be handed to the various governments at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Associated Press Despatch.

Brussels, June 7.—A solid and united allied front by France, Belgium, Great Britain and Italy on the question of German reparations, with France and Belgium agreed on a policy with regards to the Ruhr, appears to be forecast in consequence of a meeting here today between Premier Poincare of France, and Premier Theunie and Foreign Minister Jaspar of Belgium.

A striking feature of the session, according to both the French and Belgians, was that a way was left open for Stanley Baldwin, the British prime minister, to propose a solution should it prove impossible to arrange a joint allied reply to new proposals Germany is expected to make almost immediately on the subject of reparations.

French Are Willing.

The French express willingness to meet any reasonable German plan in a spirit of conciliation, and aside from insisting that payment from Germany must be forthcoming before the French soldiers march out of the Ruhr. Poincare declared he was ready and willing to entertain settlement from friendly quarters. It is asserted that when the French premier made this statement, Mr. Baldwin was particularly in his mind.

The French, with the Belgians supporting their view, still held out for a cessation of German passive resistance as an inflexible requirement before Germany's new offer is examined; but M. Poincare's attitude on the whole nevertheless is construed here as decidedly less uncompromising than heretofore. The two allies, France and Belgium, again at today's meeting, reaffirmed their decision to evacuate the Ruhr only when Germany has paid.

Would Restore Allied Front.

Grave fears had been voiced that the French and Belgian viewpoints would prove irreconcilable; but after a private talk of more than an hour between M. Poincare and Theunis and M. Jaspar, which was considered the most important feature of the day, it was announced officially that an understanding has been reached.

The new German note, which some thought might arrive in Brussels today, failed to make its appearance. The premiers, however, were enabled to outline their eventual reply. The Belgians, while skeptical as to the acceptability of Germany's new proposals, expressed the opinion that the offer should be examined into and answered. As the note will be addressed to all the allies, the Belgians were of the belief that it would afford an opportunity to restore the allied front by a joint reply. M. Poincare assented to this.

FOUND NOT GUILTY OF DISLOYAL TALK

Malcolm Bruce Discharged After Charge Is Heard At Glace Bay.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Sydney, N. S., June 6.—The charge of seditious utterances against Malcolm Bruce, editor of The Worker, Toronto, was formally dismissed by Magistrate A. B. McGillivray, at Glace Bay town hall this afternoon. His honor declared that after reading the testimony, he was unable to find evidence sufficient to warrant committing the accused for trial by a higher court. Bruce was therefore discharged and released from his bail bonds of $1,500.

The information charged that Bruce said he hoped to see the day when the Union Jack would be dragged in the mud, at a mass meeting of miners at the Savoy Theatre, Glace Bay, on Sunday, May 6 last. Bruce's arrest was ordered, but before he could be apprehended he had returned to Toronto, where he was nominated to contest a city sat at the coming Ontario provincial elections. Later he returned to Cape Breton and gave himself up for trial.

HEIRS TO FREIZ ESTATE AGREE TO COMPROMISE

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 6.—A compromise has been reached among the heirs of Daniel Freiz and his wife of Colorado Springs, as to the division of the estate. This makes it unnecessary for the Ontario court to decide whether Mr. Freiz or his wife lived the longer. They were both killed in a motor accident near Stevenson, Welland county, last July, and on the question of whether husband or wife survived the other will decide how the estate should be divided. Mr. Justice Mowat at Osgoode Hall was told this morning that all parties were satisfied at a compromise, since no one knew whether the man or the woman died first. The judge, therefore, permitted the agreement to go into effect.

Sir Adam Beck in Politics.

There is every reason to regret that Sir Adam Beck has been drawn back into party politics. He is not primarily a hydro candidate; he addressed the London Conservative convention as a Conservative crying for a return to the good old days of Tory rule in Ontario.

He is not regarded as a hydro candidate by the Conservative press. The London Free Press in a large three-column heading says "Sir Adam Beck Accepts the Nomination Tendered Him by the Conservatives of London." His photo in that paper is labeled "Conservative Candidate in London."

The Mail and Empire does not look on him as a public ownership candidate, for in announcing his acceptance of the convention it says:

"Has Entered Field as Supporter of Hon. Mr. Ferguson."

The Toronto Globe, which a few months ago was out on a campaign to build hydro radials all over Western Ontario, regardless of their competing with the National Railways, advises the Liberals of London "to look upon Sir Adam Beck as a unique public servant, not as a party candidate, and to refrain from putting a candidate in the field."

Does the Globe know London conditions? Does the Globe know that Sir Adam Beck, as chairman of the London & Port Stanley Railway, has for months fought against handing over to the city council of London a copy of the pay-sheet of that road, and that in order to keep Mayor Wenige from entering the field against him, he handed over the pay-sheet a few hours before he gave his prepared statement of acceptance to the press?

For months Sir Adam contended it was not in the interests of the L. & P. S. to have its pay list published in the city year book, and there are many, including his own board of directors, who backed his stand.

Why, then, could a thing become right all at once that had been wrong before? Because the political situation warranted that action.

It is for such things as this that The Advertiser believes it is wrong to put the public-ownership undertakings of the municipalities of this province in a place where they can be used as a beacon light for the Conservative party.

Then, again, does the Toronto Globe know, or does it care to know, that members of the Conservative executive in the city of London threatened, coaxed and warned members of the London city council that they must stay away from a meeting of the city council at which these pay-sheets were to be considered?

Members of the London Conservative Association had the impudence to read one alderman out of the party because he had backbone enough to go ahead and attend to his business as an alderman.

The Mail and Empire regards Sir Adam as coming out "as a supporter of the Hon. Howard Ferguson." Is the Toronto Globe prepared to swallow Hon. Howard Ferguson and his attitude of lukewarmness to public ownership enterprises and his record as a minister of crown lands in Northern Ontario?

Let there be no mistake on this score. There are plenty of Liberals in London who are friends and admirers of Sir Adam Beck. They are willing to give to him every support in the development of hydro-electric enterprises as long as these undertakings are sound business enterprises. There is no desire whatever to belittle his efforts in any direction, but when Sir Adam Beck lends himself to a scheme to make of the great public ownership projects of this province a convenient packhorse on which the Conservative party can pile its election hopes it is time for the friends of public ownership to call a halt.

Public ownership in Ontario, not only of hydro power, but of many other enterprises, has been built up because the public ownership people, regardless of politics, outside of politics, and away from politics, have come together and pooled their efforts and their resources. They neither think, act nor plan as politicians, but rather as co-workers in a common object. Sir Adam Beck coming out as a straight Conservative candidate, and already drawing his salary from Liberals and Conservatives alike, is flying straight in the face of the spirit of the whole movement. It is a dangerous and ill-advised step.

Furthermore, when the association in London that is fostering Sir Adam Beck's appearance in the political arena makes an attempt to run the city council of London from behind the closed doors of the Conservative Association, and when Conservative members of the city council lose their party standing because they insist on doing their public duty, we contend there is ground for the fear that Sir Adam Beck is being drawn into a nest of politics first, public ownership afterward.

So He's Back in Town Again.

This chap came into the city yesterday. A few months ago he was getting help from various people around town because he had no money, few clothes and nothing to do.

One of his friends got him a job on a farm. It was a good farm, and he was well used, well fed and getting along all right.

But he got tired of it and wanted to try the city again. He looks 50 per cent better than he did before. He has saved most of his wages; he is fatter and cleaner looking, and yet he wants to try the city.

He is not skilled in his work, and he has left some farmer in the hole because he pulled out on a day's notice after getting his pay.

A job in a factory is what he is looking for, and he may secure one, but it will be hard, hot work likely.

If he had sense enough and sand enough to stay on that farm for a year he would have some money of his own; he would be hard of muscle and well fed, and far removed from having to run around asking for a dollar here or there between jobs in the city.

Some people don't seem to know when they are in the right place.

We Suppose It Was Like This.

Candidates for the Conservative party in Western Ontario met in London on Monday. They were all in here, and Hon. Howard Ferguson was in their midst. It was a happy little gathering, tinged only by the sad thought that few of them would ever meet again in the legislature.

Of course, not having been there, we don't know very much about what took place, but it seems that Mr. Ferguson put the boys over a few hurdles, told them what to say and how to say it, and gave instructions that not one of them was to get tangled up in a discussion on his timber policy in the north.

One chap brought down word from South Huron that Andy Hicks, having been put away in the ice box by the U. F. O., was going to come to the support of the Conservatives. That was considered a great piece of news and the election in the province was considered as good as won. It is understood that a collection was taken to send Andy a blue necktie and a couple of copies of the Conservative campaign handbook.

Then Mr. Ferguson came along with the beef and plum pudding. He told the candidates that they were a splendid lot—in fact, since he quit timbering in the north he had not seen such a fine lot of men gathered together in one place and for one common cause. Well, sir, that simply bowled them over, and they all allowed that Howard had great discretion and a wonderful knowledge of human nature.

Then the next point was that he was meeting "Liberals every day" who are going to vote for a Conservative to keep the U. F. O. out. After the Liberals had helped to defeat the U. F. O. and elect the Tories, they were going to turn around and try to defeat the Tories.

Well, sir, that's pretty fair, but Mr. Ferguson said they can't do this until the Liberals have a "thorough reorganization of their own party." The crowd didn't seem to get that, but coming from a man who had just told them they were the finest crop of Conservative candidates he had ever seen, they smacked their lips and asked for more.

Just here some London Conservative must have kicked Mr. Ferguson on the shins, or stepped on his sore foot. You see he's been limping ever since the Methodist conference stuck a great big question mark over his professed sincerity on the O. T. A. Well, when this London Conservative got his ear for a minute he probably told him to put the muffler on this reorganization talk because the Tories in London were not all lined up yet in apple-pie order. Of course he couldn't mention names or anything like that, he could easily drop a word to make Mr. Ferguson see that some of the London Conservatives were sticking out their tongues at other London Conservatives, putting their heels over the dashboard, and making a rumpus generally. And so far they hadn't been able to make the beggars all sit down or stand up at a given sign.

So the Western Ontario Conservatives met, scratched each other's backs, received the official handclasp of the timber cruiser of Northern Ontario, and went away burning up with a new zeal kindled by the assurance that Andy Hicks is with us in this martyrdom.

Sandbagging the Aldermen.

When aldermen of the city of London state in a session of the city council that pressure was brought to bear on them by a political association in order to keep them from attending a meeting of the council there should be some action to find out why this lobbying—or worse than lobbying—is permitted.

London citizens resent—and they would be a poor lot if they did not—any such tactics in connection with London's business.

It had been hoped that London was getting away from the sort of politics that had not given it a good reputation in the past.

Trying to influence an alderman by threat of expulsion from a political party is too small for this city.

He Never Thought of That.

The Mail and Empire reporter went along with Hon. Howard Ferguson to Georgetown, and in order to stage a proper setting for the assassination of Mr. Drury at the hands of Mr. Ferguson, the reporter wrote all about ". . . . . the handicaps of living under a government headed by the man who had to go outside his home riding before he could find a seat."

That was considered a reg'lar knockout, and almost enough to swing the election if Mr. Ferguson had never said a word.

But—

In the last Dominion election Hon. Arthur Meighen ran for Portage la Prairie and was defeated, and he had to go a long way outside of Manitoba to find a seat in Grenville.

Using hydro current to heat the Conservaitve political pot.

The rain falls on the just and on the unjust, and the weeds grow just as fast as the green beans.

Perhaps it's not a very great crime to bet on elections, but it surely would be a sin to bet on some of the candidates.

Although Sir Henry Thornton hasn't said so, we imagine he holds that more backing up by the public will help the going ahead of the road.

You notice the ministers are not taking holidays in June. The harvest is ripe and the reapers are in demand. That crop of brides and grooms simply has to be bound up and stowed away.

Henry Ford should not take it for granted that every man who drives one of his cars is going to vote for him as president of the U. S. If that were so he'd be turning out votes at the rate of about 5,000 a day, which would not be fair to the other candidates.

Master barbers were told at an annual dinner in Atlantic City that the dollar hair cut was not far away. The average man can make a very fair job of shaving himself, and he might even discover that he could so cut his own hair as not to be taken for a jail-bird.

ONE DOLLAR FOR A HAIRCUT.

(From the New York Herald.)

At their annual dinner in Atlantic City the master barbers were told by no less an authority than the editor of the Barbers' Journal that the dollar haircut is close at hand.

After all, that would simply be in line with about everything else. It is merely a step in the spiral of higher and higher wages, consequently higher and higher prices.

The workman in the building trades can have no legitimate complaint to make against a $1 haircut when he is getting $10, $12 and $14 a day with a bonus in addition.

He is responsible for the high construction costs that lead to the high rents that raise the expenses of the barber shops. He it is who raises the cost of living of the journeymen barbers, and so leads them to demand higher wages from their employers.

The journeyman barber must pay the bricklayer's wage when he pays his rent. The bricklayer may reasonably be asked to pay the journeyman barber's wage when he buys his haircuts. It is simply turn about.

Can the man of high wages grumble if his boomerang returns, literally, upon his own head?

TRUE NEIGHBOR-LOVE.

Speaking the Truth in Love.—Eph. 4:15.

Religion does not tell to love or to encourage our neighbors' faults: but to love them in spite of their faults and to do what we can to better them.

True neighbor-love, then, will not be a weak, gelatinous, sentimental thing.

It will have a conscience.

It will be capable, on occasion, of friendly warning and reproof.

It will even accept, if need be for the protection of ourselves and other neighbors, the duty of restraint or punishment.

I may have a rowdy or a thief for a neighbor, but my love ought not to embrace rowdiness or thievery in him any more than in myself.

The same thing is true for malice or envy of laziness or a slanderous tongue.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT A DISTRESSING DISEASE.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Mistaken delicacy prevents our speaking of certain troubles and as a result, many a simple and easily remedied condition is permitted to go on for a lifetime. The itching, gnawing, bearing-down, sticking and splinter-like pains in the region of the rectum are symptoms which are likely to be the result of trifling causes. Most of these symptoms may be speedily removed in the simplest manner, and yet they go on for years because they are not mentioned to the doctor.

Never permit yourself to be worried over or annoyed by any long-continued symptom, the meaning of which you do not understand. Nine times out of ten the cause is capable of removal by some painless and simple treatment. Your friend the doctor never laughs at you. As a matter of fact, he will feel hurt if he discovers one of his patients is suffering or worrying when his advice would bring relief.

The rectum may be attacked by one of several diseases of conditions. Its anatomy and functions are such that it lends itself to certain ailments.

This part of the lower bowel is from five to eight inches long. It is more or less constricted at each end. The middle part is elastic and dilatable. This portion is not unlike a pocket, in which large quantities of waste material may accumulate.

The lining membrane of the rectum is thrown into a series of folds. It is as if the lining were too long—to make it fit it is puckered and wrinkled. Behind each fold there is a space or cavity, at the bottom of which may be a sore spot.

At the very lower part, just before the cavity of the rectum opens externally, is what has been called the "pile-bearing inch." This is made up of a very dense network of blood-vessels, particularly of veins.

Not only are the veins numerous and large, but also there are many nerves in these tissues. The presence of the sensitive nerves accounts for the tenderness of this region and for the extreme painfulness of any disturbance here. Powerful muscles grip and control the exit and by their very action pain is produced by the pressure or pull affecting any ulcerated or raw surface.

Above this last inch is another ring of blood-vessels. This group of veins communicates with the veins which pass through the liver. On this account, any disease attacking the liver and interfering with the flow of blood may produce congestion and internal piles, or "haemorrhoids," as the doctors call them.

Haemorrhoids are like varicose veins. They really are swollen or dilated veins. As the swelling increases the pain is more and more pronounced. Persons who are most on their feet or who have poor circulation, because of much sitting and lack of exercise, are apt to be affected.

It is a disagreeable condition and may become very painful. The rawness and soreness of the tissues increase. The trouble may be so bad as actually to cause real sickness.

Tomorrow I shall tell you something about the treatment of such troubles.

G. E. L. Q—Can anything be done to change the shape of the nose?

2—After walking my heart beats rapidly. Do you think this is a sign of heart trouble?

A—Yes, the shape of the nose can be changed by means of plastic surgery.

2—No, this is not necessary an indication of heart trouble, but it would be best for you to have an examination to make sure that there is no abnormal condition present.

Bessie. Q—Is there any cure for headaches besides wearing glasses?

2—I have a hammer-toe. Will strapping it down cause any trouble?

A—The headache may not be due to eye condition. It may be due to constipation, indigestion, high or low blood-pressure or to kidney complaint. Unless you have had your eyes examined and an abnormal condition has been found you need not wear glasses.

2 — No, strapping the toe down should not cause any trouble. However, if it does, consult an orthopaedist for an examination and further treatment.

HUMAN NATURE.

While it's raining on the clover,
And the plum trees are in bloom—
While the Greenings in the orchard
Waft pink promises at noon—
We forget our recent grumblings
Of Dame Nature and her ways,
Then we change our grunts to gladness
And o'erflow with songs of praise.

When the beautiful brown thrasher
Carols in the beech nearby—
And the killdeer screams his mesage
From a fleecy cloud-flecked sky—
The children in their bare feet
Are paddling in the pool,
Then each fickle mind is wishing
That the summer will be cool.

And yet each fragrant season
Fulfillment with it brings
To each vacillating mortal,
On serenely flying wings.

Looking Abroad

Debutantes of the British Season Are To Be Presented At Court—Relics of French Writers Bring Big Prices At Sales.

By DOUGLAS McREYNOLDS.

Over here a girl's entrance into the ranks of the "400" is accomplished by means of an elaborate tea, ball or other social function at which she makes her formal bow to society and takes her place as one of the season's buds.

The English debutante, however, receives her social accolade when she is presented at court. One of these royal functions took place last week, and at it, besides the titled English women presented, several prominent Americans made their curtsey to their Majesties King George and Queen Mary. Since Princess Mary made her first appearance in the royal circle there have been no royal debutantes. This year, however, Lady May Cambridge may claim that distinction. Lady May, who is the only daughter of Princess Alice and the Earl of Athlone—brother of Queen Mary has only recently entered into her eighteenth year. As a rule, late 18, or between 19 and 20, is the time now chosen for presentation at court. Exceptions are, of course, frequent, and as Lady May is an only daughter one may be made in her case.

The daughter of England's premier duke, the late Duke of Norfolk, and sister of the present holder of the title, is scheduled to be presented at one of this season's courts by her mother, the Duchess of Norfolk. As in some other instances, Lady Rachel Howard made a county debut at a ball held earlier in the year at Arundel Castle, the historic family seat in Sussex.

* * *

Lady Mary Crichton Stuart, eldest daughter of the Marquis and Marchioness of Bute, is of presentable age. Lady Mary, like Lady Rachel Howard, belongs to one of the great British Roman Catholic families. She is a keen lover of hunting. Her mother, Lady Bute, who was a master of hounds, recently gave up this responsibility. Marchioness Camden may present her elder daughter, Lady Irene Pratt, although she is on the youthful side.

Lady Patricia Herbert, only daughter of the Earl and Countess of Pembroke, has made her county debut early this year at a brilliant ball at Wilton House, Salisbury, at which the Prince of Wales was one of the most enthusiastic dancers. The Marchioness of Allesbury intends to present her daughter, Lady Ursula Brudenell-Bruce, who thus far in her young existence has known little of London social life, having been brought up in the country. The Countess of Crawford also has a daughter ready for presentation, Lady Anne Lindsay, whose sister, Lady Margaret Lindsay, is already "out."

An interesting intending debutante is Lady Alexandra Ward, youngest daughter of the Earl of Dudley. She is a god-daughter and namesake of the Queen-mother, and will most likely be presented by her sister-in-law, Viscountess Ednam. It is not yet decided whether Lady Katherine Crichton will go to court this season. She is god-daughter and namesake of the Queen. As there is another Lady Mary Crichton, the wife of her uncle, Col. the Hon. George Crichton, she uses her second name. Her father, long in the household of the king, and a very gallant and handsome officer in the household brigade, was killed early in the war, and her only brother, the young Earl of Erne, is god-son, namesake and page of honor to the King.

The Countess of Stair will probably present the elder of her two daughters, Lady Jean Dalrymple, whose father was long a German prisoner during the war. Countess Beauchamp's eldest daughter, Lady Lettice Lygon, will doubtless be a debutante of this season. Others are Lady Mary Campbell, second daughter of the Countess Cawdor; Lady Mary Foley, daughter of Baroness Berkley; Lady Diana Bingham, second daughter of the Countess of Lucan; the Hon. Evelyn Gardner, youngest daughter of the late Lord Burghclere and of Lady Burghclere, the latter the sister of the late Earl of Carnarvon.

Lady Redesdale will take her eldest girl, the Hon. Nancy Metford, to an early court. She will have five sisters to follow her example, of whom the next in age is three years her junior. Lady Aline Vivian's daughter, Miss Celia Marjorie Vivian, will be a debutante. Her aunt, Lady Christian Martin, married an uncle of Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, now the Duchess of York. He was killed in the war. Miss Meraud Guinness will be presented by her mother, Mrs. Benjamin Guinness, who for many years lived in New York, in Washington Square North. Another of the Guinness family, Miss Aileen Sibyl Guinness, daughter of the Hon. Ernest and Mrs. Guinness, is scheduled as one of the court debutantes.

The recent sale in Paris of the library of Comte Robert de Montesquiou was the means of unearthing a letter written by Gustave Flaubert, in which was a phrase it was found necessary to "caviar" before it was put on sale, and it was also the cause of a protest registered by Lucien Descaves, executor for J. H. Huysmans, against the publication of a series of letters from Huysmans to the decadent French poet Verlaine.

The four days' sale realized 210,000 francs. The item in the catalog, which excited an extraordinary degree of interest in the literary world of Paris, was the letter by Flaubert and inclosed in a copy of his novel, "Salambbo." In this note the meticulous stylist, in describing what a torture literary work meant for him, made use of a phrase so indecent that M. de Montesquiou blocked it out. This lot was sold for 3,500 francs to an unnamed collector, to whom there was supplied on a separate sheet of paper the objectionable words in question.

It was said that M. Arthur Meyer, director of the Gaulois, intended to purchase the book by private negotiation and to destroy it and thus, as it were, to purify by fire the memory of the great novelist. He performed a similar office some 20 years ago, with the aid of the judicial authorities, for the memory of Alfred de Vigny, by obtaining possession and burning an ardent letter which the poet wrote to Mme. Dorval. M. Meyer insists that he is not actuated by prudery, but his idea was merely to protect the memory of Flaubert from ill-natured comments and misplaced conclusions.

* * *

The collection of letters by Paul Verlaine in the Montesquiou sale brought 16,500 francs—a circumstance full of tragic irony when it is borne in mind that these manuscripts, blotched by tears and stained with absinthe, were written by the impecunious poet in a wretched dwelling, a sordid cafe, and even in a hospital. Now they are sumptuously inclosed in morocco covers, the price of which alone would have been a little fortune to the writer, who was as familiar with the Tottenham-court road district in London as he was with the Quartier Mouffiard, Paris.

Another lot which brought surprising prices was a collection of 260 letters and telegrams addressed by the late novelist, Marcel Proust, to Comte Robert de Montesquiou and which were sold for 12,500 francs. The letters reflect the friendship which existed between the two men, and cover the period from 189[illegible] to 1917. Much of the correspondence is about literary matters, but many intimate letters display Proust's extraordinary admiration for the character and intellect of de Montesquiou. The original edition of Proust's "Le Cote de Guermantes," with the author's inscription, fetched 2,500 francs. The following works of the same author were sold thus: "[illegible] l'Ombre des Jeunes Filles en Fleur" (fourth edition with inscription 1,505 francs; "Pastiches et Melanges" (fourth edition with inscription) 1,305 francs; "Du Cote de Chez Swann" (with author's inscription and letter), 1,020 francs, and "Les Plaisirs et Les Jours" (first edition illustrated), 1,100 francs.

The original manuscript of preface written in French by d'Annunzio for Montesquiou "La Divine Comtess" fetched 3,100 francs. An example of Montesquiou's "Le Chancellier des Fleurs," of which only 100 copies were printed for private circulation, was sold for 3,150 francs. A manuscript of Pierre Loti—fifteen leaves of "Toilette d'Imperatrice," a fragment of "Japonneries d'Automne"—with a letter from Loti, brought 3,300 francs. The first edition of Whistler's "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies," with the author's inscription: "a Robert de Montesquiou—poete, artiste, ami of the 'rare few,'" fetched 820 francs.

For the first edition of Baudelaire's "Les Paradis Artificiels" 4,800 francs were obtained. Numerous letters from Mme. Marceline Desbordes-Valmore brought high prices; a copy of her "Pauvres Fleurs," containing a dedication address to Mme. Recamier, sold for 3,100 francs, while 5,500 francs were given for the manuscript of the speech delivered by Anatole France at the inauguration of the Desbordes-Valmore monument. A copy of La Fontaine, dated 1678, was knocked down for almost nothing. Comte Robert de Montesquiou traced his descent from the real d'Artagnan, original of Dumas's hero, and the books dealing with his ancestry included "Memoirs de M. d'Artagnan," dated 1701, this being sold for 275 francs.

TO THE EDITOR.

THE MATTER OF VOTING.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—At the outset of my letter, I must express to you my deep appreciation to you for the very efficient manner in which you are promoting and advocating the policies of Liberalism in the province of Ontario. You have always championed the cause of Liberalism in Canada as long as I have been a reader of your valuable paper, and I [illegible] you will continue to do so.

No doubt, you are aware that we have a three-cornered contest in South Huron. I am deeply interested in this election, and in order to leave no stone unturned, I have a number of questions which I will be glad to have you answer through the columns of The Advertiser. The following are the list of questions:

1. How long must a person be resident in a polling division or subdivision to be entitled to vote at this election?

2. We have a number of residents in our community who have moved to our town from adjoining counties over a month ago; is it possible for them to secure a permit from the returning officer or deputy of the riding where they last resided, for permission to vote in our polling subdivision?

3. Have Indians, both male and female, who are residents of our polling subdivision, the right to vote at this election?

4. A student, a native son of one of our sister provinces, attended one of our universities for the past year. On graduating, he located in our town, and set up business for himself. Is he eligible to vote at this election?

5. A person who has moved to our polling subdivision from another polling subdivision within our own riding, a week or more previous to the sitting of the court of revision, has he or she (as the case may be) the right to have their names placed on the voters' list by the revising officer?

6. How long must a British subject be a resident of the Dominion of Canada and the Province of Ontario to be entitled to vote at the coming election?

7. We understand that our provincial government is turning over the expenses of the coming election on the municipalities which makes up a polling division. Is this correct?

8. What are the salaries of the officials of the polling division and subdivisions?

Thanking you for this kind favor and trusting that a Liberal victory will be ours, I beg to remain,

O. B. G.

The questions are answered in the same order as asked:—

1. Three months in the polling division and 12 months in Canada.

2. They have forfeited their vote in your riding until such time as they can meet the above requirements.

3. Indians are British subjects, and under the Ontario election act enjoy all the privileges of the franchise, but cannot vote if living on a reserve, unless in the case of a returned soldier.

4. Yes, he has a vote if he is a British subject, three months in the riding and 12 months in Canada.

5. Yes, if they comply with other requirements, but would probably vote at old address.

6. One year in Canada, three months in the polling division.

The expenses of polling the vote are chargeable to the government.

Salaries are as follows: Deputy returning officer, $10; poll clerk, $8; constable, $4; polling stations not exceeding $8; a returning officer in the neighborhood of $300.

FARMER IS KILLED FROM ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF GUN

John Henry Prior of Delaware Meets Tragic Death.

WAS OUT HUNTING

Trigger Catches on Wire in Fence as Victim Pulling Weapon Through.

The tragic death of John Henry Prior yesterday afternoon at his farm, Lot 5, Concession 1, Delaware, through the accidental discharge of a shotgun, adds another name to the list of deaths through the improper handling of firearms.

Mr. Prior spent the morning with two neighbors, Russell K. Higman and James Turnbull, in planting his potatoes, and on stopping for dinner he mentioned that while his neighbors were resting he would take his shotgun and kill a groundhog, which he had seen in the next field.

Accordingly he loaded his shotgun and proceeded to the field where he had seen the groundhog. Turnbull and Higman heard the report of the gun, and expected their friend to return at once, thinking that he had hit his mark as the gun was only discharged once. They waited for half an hour, and their neighbor failing to return, they became anxious and went in search of him.

Found Dead.

They walked directly to the spot that the deceased had mentioned and failing to find him there they followed the fence for a little distance, and to their horror found him lying on one side of the fence with the gun pointing over his head and partly drawn through the fence.

The charge of the gun had caught Prior just below the left jaw, and spreading, had blown out the right side of the face.

Coroner Dr. Gilbert Bice of Delaware, was summoned, and on arrival at the scene of the tragedy, pronounced the man dead, and gave the cause of his death as accidental shooting. Dr. Bice says that the cause of the accident is obvious and an inquest will not be held.

When the body of the unfortunate victim was discovered, it lay full length towards the fence, with the left hand still holding the barrel of the gun, which had been drawn half way through the fence, and had been stopped by the trigger, which was still caught in the wire.

Caught on Wire.

From the position in which the body and the gun of the unfortunate victim were found it is considered certain that the gun was discharged by the trigger catching in the wire fence through which Prior had evidently attempted to drag it. Dr. Bice stated that death must have been instantaneous, as the man's head was literally blown to pieces.

The deceased is survived by his widow and once daughter, Gertrude, teller of the Home Bank in Delaware. Both Mrs. and Miss Prior are terribly shocked at the tragedy, which has robbed them of a husband and father. The accident and Prior's death are regretted by all who knew him, and neighbors say that his passing will be felt in the district for years.

The funeral will take place from the residence of the deceased on Friday afternoon. Services will be held in St. Andrew's Church, and interment will take place at Delaware Cemtery.

REVISED FIGURES SHOW CANDIDATES NOW NUMBER 278

Expected Nearly All Will Be Officially Nominated on June 14.

RAINS INTERFERING

Wellington Hay Plans a Heavy Campaign in Older Sections of Province.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 7.—Revised figures of candidates nominated for the 111 seats on the Ontario Legislature, and excepting those who have definitely announced withdrawal from the lists, show the following totals of prospective nominees by parties.

United Farmer, 75; Labor, 19; Conservative, 103; Liberal, 71; Independent, 10. Total, 278.

It is expected that nearly all these nominees of party conventions will be nominated officially on June 14, and will allow their names to stand for the balloting on June 25. A few party conventions are still to be held, and in some cases the party nominees are considering acceptance or declination of their proposed nomination.

Heavy rains in some parts of the province have during the last few days seriously interfered with the campaigning plans of the party leaders. Proposed political picnics have in some instances been cancelled, and eleventh-hour calls to indoor meetings have not drawn very big crowds.

For next week Wellington Hay, the Liberal leader, has planned a heavy campaign in the older sections of the province on his return from the north. Hon. Howard Ferguson, the Conservative leader, and Premier Drury are scheduled to address meetings in some of the larger cities in advance of nomination day.

MAYOR MAKES REPLY TO E. V. BUCHANAN

Blames Commissioners For Delay in Issuance of Public Utility Debentures.

If there has been any unnecessary delay in connection with the request from the public utilities commission for a $250,000 debenture issue, as complained of by General Manager E. V. Buchanan, the responsibility for it rests chiefly on the shoulders of Commissioner Philip Pocock and his associates, according to Mayor Wenige.

"There has been altogether too much talking by city officials," the mayor declares, "and he undertakes to criticize because he claims there was 'too much time lost in connection with the pay list squabble.' Well, who is to blame in that instance? He admits there has been too much delay. He is quite right. The lists should have been handed over without all the discussion that ensued.

"But who was responsible for the delay? It was Mr. Buchanan's associates, including Philip Pocock, who was, I believe, known during the last election as 'Beck's right-hand man,' who are responsible for any delay in city council procedure. We asked for their pay lists. We had every right to this information, as they must have realized, as they furnished them after months of controversy.

"And Mr. Buchanan says that he regrets that we shelved the public utilities' request at the last meeting. We were compelled to lay it over because a debenture issue of that nature requires a two-thirds vote of the city council, and there were only six aldermen in attendance.

"And if all reports are correct it was some of Mr. Pocock's associates at the Tory headquarters who were largely responsible for the absence of some of these aldermen, and the obvious effort to persuade others in the council to remain away."

WILL HOLD REUNIONS OF O. A. C. STUDENTS

Prominent Speakers, Including Premier Drury, Will Attend Gathering.

The Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, will be the scene of several interesting reunions in the next three weeks.

On June 9 the ex-students who served overseas in the original 16th Battery will hold their 5th reunion The lapse of time since the demobilization of this unit makes it harder each year to gather the members for a reunion but the fact of other reunions near to the heart of O. A. C. men following this one closely, it is hoped that a large turnout will take place.

On June 16 a reunion of the O. A. C. alumni, ex-students and ex-members of the faculty will take place. This reunion includes not only the ex-students of the agricultural college, but also the ladies and ex-students of Macdonald Hall.

The program includes an inspection of the splendid new buildings erected since the war, the experimental plots and the new model dairy.

Several prominent ex-students including Premier Drury and Hon. Manning Doherty will address the gathering, and with the election only a week or two following, the students are very keen in their desire to hear these speakers.

On June 26 the district representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture will hold their annual convention at the college when matters pertaining to their extension work will be discussed and instructions covering the next year's work will be explained.

LODGES TO CELEBRATE FESTIVAL OF ST. JOHN

The blue lodges, A., F. and A. M. of London will celebrate the festival of St. John the Evangelist on Sunday, June 24, by attending special service at Cronyn Memorial Church. The members will attend in a body, marching from the Masonic Temple at 10:30 a.m.

It is expected that the service will be conducted by Rev. Quintin Warner, assisted by several members of the craft.

Ball Players Trick the Umps In Real "Old London" Fog

Difficulty of Calling Decisions Increased When the Diamond Experts Claim Sensational Catches Which Umpire Could Not See.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, June 7.—A "London" fog descended over the National Park just before the opening of the Cubs-Giants baseball game yesterday afternoon, and when it ascended the world's champions had been defeated by Chicago, 6 to 1, and umpires, accustomed to snap decisions, had held several conferences before "calling 'em."

The fog, the first to occur during a game here, was so dense that the outfielders were hidden from the stands most of the time, and the infielders part of tthe time.

Several times it was necessary for the umpires to confer before announcing decisions. In the third inning Vogel, Cub right fielder, sent a fly into the outer darkness, and while resting on second base "Pep" Young rushed in, claiming he had caught the ball. The player was called out. A few innings later, Young scooped up a drive, rolling over as he did so. Again he claimed he had caught it. This time the umpires decided otherwise, but not until after the New York players had left the playing field and their first batsman had assumed his position at the plate.

FRENCH AND BELGIAN CONFERENCE SUCCEEDS

Assistance of Great Britain in Suggesting Ruhr Settlement Welcomed.

Associated Press Despatch.

Brussels, June 7.—It is generally agreed that the conference of French and Belgian ministers was noteworthy in at least two respects. In the first place, although Premier Poincare insisted that no German reparations offer could be considered while passive resistance was maintained in the Ruhr, his attitude was regarded as considerably more compromising than heretofore. Furthermore, the French gave notice of their willingness to consider in a reasonable spirit any reasonable offer from Berlin, although they reiterated that the Ruhr could be evacuated only as Germany paid. On this they were supported by Belgium.

In the second place, the ministers let it be known that the assistance of Great Britain in suggesting a settlement would not be unwelcome should there be no agreement on Germany's new reparations proposals. Premiers Poincare and Theunis also decided to submit to London a plan to organize an international tobacco and alcohol syndicate as a means of getting more out of the occupied regions. This decision, in the opinion of the Belgians, will serve to bring Great Britain into closer touch with the situation.

The ministers also decided that all the Allies might well be asked to sign a joint reply to the expected German offer.

Flapjack King Is Left $150,000

Associated Press Despatch.

Rochester, N. Y., June 7.—William Oldham, who makes flapjacks in thorough western style in the window Front street eating house here, will put aside his white coat and apron forever today. William will retire to private life, having fallen heir to $150,000 from a relative in England.

Next week he intends to travel in easy street across the continent to California. There he will take a ship to London via the Panama Canal.

"I want to get some of that old English ale," Oldham said today. "I might return here and I might not. It all depends."

THREE ANNIVERSARIES OBSERVED BY G. WILKES

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, June 7.—Felicitations are being poured in upon George H. Wilkes, 138 Chatham street, this city, who this week celebrates three distinct anniversaries, the eighty-seventh anniversary of his birthday, the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage, and the thirtieth anniversary of his appointment as a member of the Dominion Parks Commission, under whose guidance the beautiful system of boulevards, driveways and parks has developed along the Canadian side of the Niagara River.

OPEN GOLF TOURNEY ATTRACTS BIG ENTRY

Hagen and Duncan Are Favorites To Win the British Championship Play.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, June 7.—The open golf championship play, which opens at Troon on Monday, has attracted more attention than any previous tournament, and for a week devotees of the game have been backing their favorites with the bookmakers.

Walter Hagen and George Duncan are the favorites at 8 to 1. Gene Sarazen, Joe Kirkwood and Jim Barnes are 10 to 1 shots. Ted Ray, Roger Wethered and Leo Diegel are rated at 16 to 1. Hoffner is down at 20 to 1, but Frank Ball, who did so well at St. Anne's, is considered to have only an outside chance at 50 to 1.

The course is not as hard as formerly, for all the rough has been removed. It is not as fast as St. Andrew's, but has much grass on the greens and fairways, which probably will favor the overseas players. Although a number of new bunkers have been put in, experts believe the scoring will be low.

BODY IS DISCOVERED IN ROSEDALE RAVINE

James Ryan Found Dead by Man Gathering Mushrooms.

Associated Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 7.—While gathering mushrooms in the Rosedale ravine early today, Ralph McGrath sighted the body of a man lying underneath the North Sherbourne bridge, a few feet from the roadway. The man was lying face down and, being unable to arouse him, McGrath climbed the steps to the street and summoned a policeman. When the officer turned the body over, McGrath recognized it as that of a friend, James Ryan. The body was still warm and Ryan's watch was still going. In a coat pocket was found a bankbook showing a deposit of $1,400, some letters and $19 in cash.

Ryan's body was badly broken and indicating he had fallen from the bridge. An inquest may be held. The man was in good health, well to do, having a farm outside Toronto. He was a well-known figure in the neighborhood in which he resided. His relatives did not hear him leave the house this morning. No light can be thrown on the mystery of his death by members of his family.

CHINA BECOMES ANXIOUS OVER SPRING PAYMENTS

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Pekin, June 7.—Approach of the spring festival, scheduled for June 10, when the army must be paid to prevent soldiers striking and plundering, causes grave anxiety over the resignation yesterday of the Chinese cabinet. The ministers presented their portfolios to the president. If the resignations are accepted, it will mean the country is to be practically without government at a critical period. Interference by militarists was given by the cabinet as a reason for the fall of the government.

SIMCOE FEATURE WON BY TONY MAC, FOREST

Monster Crowd of Harness-Horse Lovers See Good Card of Races.

Special to The Advertiser.

Simcoe, June 6.—Despite threatening skies and intermittent showers, a monster crowd of Southern Ontario racetrack patrons thronged to the Simcoe Driving Club's June meet at Agricultural Park this afternoon. The beautiful oval was in fine condition, and as a result every heat was keenly contested, and the time was unusually fast. A feature of the afternoon's sport was the presence of Hon. Peter Smith, a keen racing enthusiast, who acted in the capacity of judge, as guest of the driving club. In the 2:30 stake carrying with it a handsome purse of one thousand dollars Tony Mac, owned by W. L. Fraser of Forest, was never beaten and won easily in three straight heats. The favorite, Pat Pointer, owned by A. Vance of Mount Clemens, copped the 2:12 pace, $400, in three heats after running fourth in the initial. Mack Darian just nosed out King Dalton in the 2:20 pace, $400, which went four heats to decide the winner. The results:

Donaghue Gets Golden Spurs

Epsom Downs, June 6.—Jockey Steve Donoghue became a heroic figure in British racing history today, when for the third year in succession he rode to victory in the greatest of all horse races — the Derby. This time the lithe leader of all British jockeys was mounted on Papyrus, the precious three-year-old possession of an Irish tenant farmer, whose name, curiously enough, is Barney Irish.

Papyrus, in racing over the horse-shoe-shaped turf of the Derby mile and a half course ahead of 18 other thoroughbreds, lifted his owner, a man of small means, to a place of wealth and renown and gave to Donoghue the supreme position among the jockeys of the world, and a record unsurpassed by any rider since man began the sport of horse racing.

By winning three derbies in a row Donoghue gains possession of the golden spurs, which the jockey club long ago offered for this achievement. Papyrus was purchased by Mr. Irish as a yearling for a relatively small sum.

McCallum Good, But Team Is Not Machine Yet—Allen Got Homer To Give Steggerda Good Start.

Special to The Advertiser.

Grand Rapids, June 6.—Steggerda, a college pitcher, won his second game for Grand Rapids here this afternoon, holding the London outfit to eight hits while his teammates were gathering four runs from nine bingles.

The break in Steggerda's favor came in the first inning, when, with two men on the sacks, Allen poked one of McCallum's fast ones over the right field fence for his first home run of the season. Steggerda worked much easier after his team had this lead.

London's playing was not all that it should have been. Although the team fought fairly well, their efforts seemed to be rather disorganized. McCallum's pitching was quite effective.

Down the Line In All Sports

London, with the strongest lacrosse team in years, apparently has no closed park for the national pastime, and it is perforce driven to the open spaces down at Springbank. Still the game will be carried on, and if the team should really justify its paper possibilities in actual combat with St. Marys, Springbank isn't too far. There is a rumor that Mitchell will drop from the group.

One of the most encouraging things about Wilde's forthcoming effort is that Pete Herman, who K. O.'d Wilde, has sent up $1,000 to be bet on the "Fighting Atom."

* * * *

Toronto Star:

"Toronto will likely get the Carl Tremaine-Bobby Eber bout after all. The Ontario Athletic Commission awarded the bout to the Hamilton Boxing Club, which held the first option on the fight, but the disappointing attendance at the Curtain-Eber fight has knocked all the cockiness out of the Hamilton club. They lost money on the Curtain bout, which cost them about $2,000 less than the Tremaine bout will cost. Common sense will tell the H. B. C. officials to "soft pedal." Hamilton is not big enough for a Tremaine-Eber battle. There are only about 2,000 fight fans in the burg and a thousand of those are "eight bit" birds. Four thousand fans at from one to five dollars per each are needed to make a Tremaine-Eber card pay. It is a big town show. Toronto will surely get it."

* * * *

Hamilton's fight fans, as well as its baseball fans, must have gone away for the hot season.

The left hind foot of a buck rabbit, said to have been killed at midnight in a cemetery under a full moon, was the good-luck gift of Mayor Arthur E. Nelson of St. Paul to Tommy Gibbons when the latter left yesterday for Shelby, Montana, to begin training for his heavyweight championship battle with Jack Dempsey, July 4.

* * * *

And, sentiment aside, most fans think he'll need it.

* * * *

Here is the real story of what John L. Sullivan said when the championship passed from him, as told by an old New York Herald man:

"After John L. was counted out they carried him to his corner and held him on his chair as he sagged this way and that like a sack of bran. As soon as consciousness began to assert itself John L. Struggled to get up. His second held him down. At last he broke away from them—Jimmy Wakely, Brooklyn Charley Johnston and Jack McAuliffe—and as he rose he flung big Jim McKeown of Boston aside.

"John L. staggered all the way across the ring until he fetched up against the ropes. I can see him now as he slid his left hand, still gloved, along the top rope until it stopped at a post. Then he held up the big right arm that for twelve years was the terror of fighting men. The excited talking among the crowd ceased. It is a curious fact that there had been little or no applause for Corbett's victory—the betting was 3 to 1 to 5 to 1 in favor of John L.—and the astounded crowd merely buzzed in amazement. Now came silence at John L.'s command, and, still swaying, he uttered the following words:

"'Gentlemen, I have nothing at all to say; all I have to say is that I came into the ring once too often, and that, if I had to get licked, I'm glad I was licked by an American. I remain your warm and personal friend, John L. Sullivan!'

"Never mind the paradoxical opening nor the curious trick of orally signing his speech. John spoke the words as set down above, and their sincerity, coming as they did straight from the heart of him who had been King of the World and now took his defeat like a man, won every heart in the arena. Many a roughneck felt choky at this last bit of evidence of the real thoroughbred in John L., and I'm not ashamed to say I could hardly see to make my notes for the New York Herald. The tumult of applause that followed kept up for many minutes."

Brantford, June 6.—Three of the four ladies who entered the semi-final round of the Ontario golf championship at Rosedale last summer again qualified today, in Miss Sidney Pepler of Toronto, Miss Ada MacKenzie of Mississauga, the present champion, and Mrs. Hope Gibson of Hamilton, who was defeated in the final last year. The only change is that Mrs. M. K. Rowe of Toronto replaces Miss Effie Nesbitt of Toronto. In the semi-finals last year Miss MacKenzie defeated Miss Pepler, and the luck of the draw brings them together again tomorrow, and, judging by the game the two ladies have been playing, the meeting should prove to be a classic. Miss Pepler has been playing great golf all week. Her stock took a further upward bound today when she eliminated Mrs. Murdock of the Humber Valley Club, 5 and 4. Miss MacKenzie today obtained a victory over Miss Effie Nesbitt of Hamilton by 5 and 4.

In the other half of the draw, the top half, the closest match of the afternoon was played between the clubmates, Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Whittington of the Toronto Club. This was decided on the home hole, which was halved after Mrs. Whittington had won the seventeenth. Both were on the home green in three, with Mrs. Whittington closer to the pin. Mrs. Rowe's first putt was about a foot short, but the same fate met the effort of Mrs. Whittington, who had to go down with her first to win the hole and square the match. Both sunk their second putts.

Mrs. Hope Gibson, who won the title in London in 1921, was opposed by Mrs. More of the Toronto Club. The latter was behind all the way from the time she topped her first drive, and Mrs. Gibson won the shortest match of the afternoon, the play stopping at the thirteenth green with Mrs. Gibson seven up. Play in the eight flights reached the semi-finals today, and there are sixteen matches on the program for tomorrow, in addition to the mixed foursome. The championship flight matches will be played in the afternoon, and the remainder will get away in the morning at five-minute intervals from 9:30 to 10.35.

In the championship consolation only Western Ontario players are left, and in the bottom half tomorrow two clubmates, Miss Marion Beck and Miss Helen Baker of London, meet. Miss Dorothy Thomas of Paris meets Mrs. MacKenzie of Woodstock. The semi-finalists in the other six flights are fairly well distributed among the various sections of the province, with Toronto having a fairly large proportion. Results of the second round of the championship flight were:

Mrs. M. K. Rowe, Toronto, defeated Mrs. E. W. Whittington, Toronto, 1 up.
Miss Sidney Pepler, Toronto, defeated Mrs. R. Murdock, Humber Valley, 5 and 4.
Miss Ada MacKenzie, Mississauga, defeated Miss E. Nesbitt, Hamilton, 5 and 4.
Mrs. Hope Gibson, Hamilton, defeated Mrs. W. G. More, Toronto, 7 and 5.

The draw tomorrow is:
Mrs. Rowe vs. Mrs. Gibson
Miss MacKenzie vs. Miss Pepler.

Championship Consolation.

Marion Beck (London) defeated Mrs. Frank Copus (Stratford) 6 and 4.
Helen Baker (London) defeated Violet Mills (Hamilton) 3 and 2.
Dorothy Thomson (Paris) defeated Willo Gage (Lambton) 5 and 3.
Mrs. E. A. MacKenzie (Woodstock) defeated Lillian Hayes (Sarnia) 2 up.

Mrs. H. Johnson, Simcoe, defeated Mrs. W. G. Webster, London, 1 up.

In the play-off of the tie for the silver division putting and approaching competition Miss Helen Baker of London defeated Mrs. C. R. Blackburn of Humber Valley. They tie in the event yesterday with 10, and Miss Baker won today with 11. There was a three-cornered tie in the bronze division of the same event, and Mrs. A. M. Hayes of Sarnia won the replay with a total of 11. He opponents were Mrs. Frazer Grant of Toronto and Mrs. F. L. Williams of London.

Y. W. C. A. SOFTBALL TOMORROW NIGHT

Two Games Scheduled At Alexandra School Diamond.

The Y. W. C. A. Girls' Softball League, which opened at the Alexandra School grounds last Monday, is attracting city-wide interest. Two games were scheduled to be played on the opening date, but one game only was finished.

The advent of new blood into the league in the form of totally new teams, is a consistent step forward, and should do much toward increasing the popularity of the game.

Tomorrow night Askin Street Church girls meet the London Life girls in the first game, and Woolworths and Church of Redeemer will contest the second. Both games promise to be battles all the way through.

The schedule was published Saturday in the women's section, but for the convenience of the players and followers, it is reprinted below:

TERRIERS MAY APPEAR IN ST. THOMAS WEDNESDAY

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, June 6.—Announcement was made here today that negotiations were being completed for an exhibition match here next Wednesday with the Galt Terriers. President R. J. Cottrell is making the arrangements, and declared the game should be one of the treats of the season. The Terriers are leading the Inter-County League, with Guelph a close second. It will be remembered that the Saints were nosed out of the Ontario O. B. A. A. championship by Galt last year, and are itching for revenge.

CITY SCHOOL PICNIC, SPRINGBANK TOMORROW

TOMORROW, PICNIC DAY, WILL BE GALA TIME FOR CITY SCHOOL CHILDREN

Expected More Than 9,000 Youngsters Will Enjoy Outing to Springbank Park, and Arrangements Have Been Completed To Give Them Splendid Time.

FINE WEATHER THE ONLY NEED NOW

Everything is in readiness for the annual public school picnic tomorrow, when over 9,000 children will spend the day at Springbank. Street cars have been furnished by the street railway company to carry the youngsters down at a nominal cost of 10 cents, and this includes a coupon valid on the city cars in the evening to take them back to their homes. A fine program of sports has been arranged, races in the morning, and baseball in the afternoon. It all depends on the weather man, now. The board of education have done all they can, and the parents of the 9,000 have got the lunch baskets ready. With the help of Nature, the children are going to have the greatest time of their lives in the park, which is looking wonderfully attractive. Last year there were a few cases of children being lost. This year, the board have obtained the use of a large tent from the Red Cross Society. The school nurses, under Miss Blanche Rowe, the supervisor, will be in attendance in this tent, which will be pitched just north of the pavilion, and all the kiddies who have strayed from their folks will be taken care of here. The board ask all parents and guardians to look for any lost child in this tent.

Park Locations.

The public schools have been divided into divisions and locations in the park for the day as follows: No. 1 division consists of Victoria, Wortley road, Tecumseh and Riverview. Their meeting place tomorrow is west of the Springbank loop. Division No. 2 consists of Simcoe, Alexandra and the Colborne street schools. They will gather on the north side of the loop. No. 3 division, including Aberdeen, Ealing and Chelsea Green, will make their headquarters at the west end of No. 1 diamond, near the road. Division No. 4, Lord Roberts and St. George's schools, will camp at the east end of No. 1 diamond; and No. 5 division, Lorne avenue, Boyle Memorial, Knollwood and Quebec street, will settle down for the day at the west side of the pavilion. The sixth division, Rectory, Pottersburg, Egerton street and Chesley avenue schools, will be on No. 2 diamond; and last, but not least, the seventh division, consisting of Talbot, Charles street, Empress, Ryerson, and the Protestants Orphans' Home will be stationed at the north side of the pavilion.

The Race Program.

The race program which will be carried out in the forenoon is as follows:

Girls' race, under 8 years.
Boys' race, under 8 years.
Girls' race, under 8 years.

Sack race, girls' (Paper sack to be supplied by runner to cover head.)
Boot and shoe race—boys'.
Three-legged race (boys)—Two first and second.
Chum race, girls—Two first and second.

In the afternoon there will be several games of baseball as arranged on the following schedule.

1:30 p.m.—Girls' Soft Ball League, semi-finals. Umpires, selected.

3:00 p.m.—Boys' Soft Ball League, semi-finals. Umpires, selected.

4:30 p.m.—Baseball—Public School teachers (Captain, Dr. F. Bryant), vs. Officers and Trustees Board of Education (Captain, A. N. Udy). Umpires, Miss Laura Cook and Miss Marion Grant.

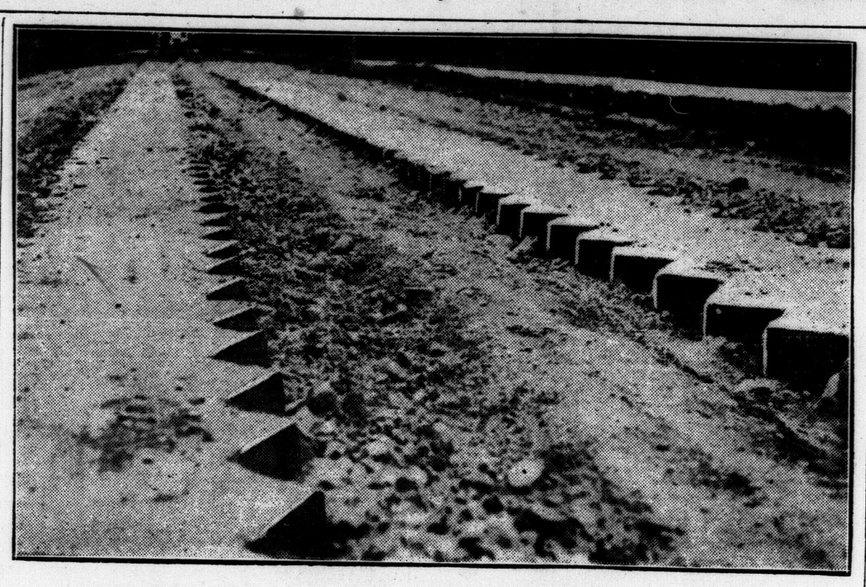

For Grown Ups, Too.

The picnic though arranged for the children primarily is really just as enjoyable to the grown ups. They have the pleasure of watching the youngsters having a good time, and the added attraction of seeing the trustees of the board playing 'ball.' This alone should be worth going a long way to see at least this is the view of many of those who are planning to go. Their idea is that a little gentle exercise will be good for the board after their long sittings that have lasted so regularly all winter. In any case the Springbank party is on its way. The picnic committee under W. A. Casselman have provided for every contingency, the park is ready waiting at its very best and greenest, sandwiches, and hard boiled eggs and all the little accessories that mean the success of any outing are lined up for the start, and if the sun is only kind to the children of Father Thames then tomorrow is going to be a red letter day for all the travelers.

Special Car Service.

The street car company have made this timetable, which will be sttrictly adhered to, though the children are sure to be ready long before the cars arrive:

THE "TWIN TRAIL," OR "SIDE FINISH," ON SPRINGBANK HIGHWAY.

Here The Advertiser shows the "Greene Saw Edge" side finish, as it is applied to its equally famous "Greene Twin Trail" highway. This is how the twin trails are laid down, and are shown just after the wooden forms have been removed. The seven-foot centre of the road is filled up with gravel, and the sides are packed in the same way. The serrated edges hold the little stones and gravel, and make a firm and solid roadway. The twin trails are easy to mount when the motorist has had to turn off to the side of the road, and can be built at less than one-fourth the cost of the ordinary concrete highway. Robert Greene of this city, who has taken out patents for them in Canada, America, Great Britain and several European countries, will explain them for the first time in public at the Good Roads Convention, to be held in Hamilton next week.

New System of Paving Used On Springbank Highway Is Invention of London Man

Robert Greene of Greene-Swift Company Responsible For Idea of "the Twin Trails," a Device Likely To Be of Great Service in Road Building.

Good serviceable highways have been the dream of all motorists and most statesmen in this country for years, and they were only prevented from realization of the dream by the enormous cost of construction. It has remained for one of the dreamers, and a Londoner at that, to give practicability to the scheme. Robert Greene of the Greene-Swift Company of this city is the thinker who dreamed true and who by his energy and determination has given life to the child of his brain. He has found a means of reducing the cost of a perfectly serviceable highway to about one-quarter of the usual cost, and at the Canadian good roads convention which he is attending in Hamilton next week he will explain his invention, for the first time in public, to the assembled road-lovers.

The "Greene twin trails" is the title of the invention, and Mr. Greene has obtained patents in Canada, the United States, Great Britain, France and many of the European countries for his road development scheme. The usual concrete highway is just a solid mass of concrete. It takes debenture after debenture to meet the cost, and in Canada at least it often heaves and cracks, as it has done in the case of Lambeth highway in places.

The "twin trails" are two two-foot strips of concrete running parallel in the middle of the road seven feet apart. In the center is a seven-foot space for the farmer, whose chief criticism of the roads has been that there was no safe foothold for his horses. Just plain, ordinary flat-sided strips of concrete would be useless and dangerous, and this is where the "Greene saw edge" comes into play.

Easy For Autoists.

The sides of the strips are serrated, as shown in the accompanying pictures. This sharp-angled line contains all the outstanding features of the patent. First they make it very easy for any car that has been turned off the center of the road to be run back to the trails. It is quite easy to mount these edges, where, as the average car owner knows, it is sometimes a matter of considerable difficulty to get back with the usual straight edge.

Then, second, the broken edges hold the gravel in the center in closer union with the strips, in fact as the pebbles and little pieces of gravel get worked into the angles they pack down tighter and tighter and hold the body of the road as no previous arrangement has done. In July of 1922 Mr. Greene, who, like all inventors, has implicit faith in his "twin trails," wanted to prove the real every-day value of the idea. He approached the city council with the suggestion that they try a short piece of the city paving with his method. The council, together with the then city engineer, Mr. Brazier, rather baulked at the idea, but agreed to let Mr. Greene go ahead with setting the "twin trails" down on one block of Alexander street, with the understanding that if the strips proved satisfactory and if they survived two years of wear the city would reimburse him for the outlay.

After a summer, a long winter and a most exacting spring, the road looks as fine as new and is in much better shape than any of the city streets that have been built in the ordinary way.

Cost Reasonable.

The "twin trails" system of building roads, as proved by actual experiment, can be accomplished at a cost sufficiently low to permit of any municipality having the very best highway that can be produced. The advantage of this in a country where transportation covers such a wide area, and is to such an extent the very life of the community, can well be understood.

Mr. Greene, in an interesting pamphlet that he has prepared for use at the good roads convention, speaking of the "twin trails," says: "The bones (that is the two strips of concrete on either side of the road) require only filling with gravel to complete a wonderful roadway. . . . and miles instead of merely yards and yards. Think of a 200-mile journey on 'twin trails,' wouldn't that be lovely? The 'twin trail' is not supposed to take the place of the ordinary road, but rather to put a bone into it that cannot be ground into dust, or sucked up by tires and blown away by the breeze."

In emphasizing the safety that comes with the use of the "trails," he goes on: "In night driving, when passing other cars it (the trail) is of the greatest value. Instead of having to turn out and more or less guess at the distance you are from the center of the road, you have only to turn so that your left wheel is on the right trail. You know exactly how far you are from the center of the road and it is the easiest thing in the world to get back."

No Ruts.

Accidents will be less probable than with the ordinary flat road. There will be no ruts in which the wheels can be caught, and there is no chance of the wheel being jerked out of the hands of the driver by the wheels coming off the crown of the road at different levels. On the trail the two wheels come off together to the same level. All motorists know what this means in easy driving, while ladies will bless the inventor every day they use the "twin trail." One more advantage, for there are so many attributes to this idea that one wonders why no one ever thought of it before. The level of the roads in all weathers is maintained.

There is no scooping or displacement of the road surface. The two strips hold the crown of the road solidly in place, in fact the crown is fixed in between two walls whose serrated edges join the whole into one firm compact, an ideal teaming road.

Springtime in Canada is the supreme test of any road's worthiness, and this is a time when the author of the "twin trails" is most happy to show the skeptic over his road. There are none of the usual washouts, none of the usual rushing watercourses, and there is none of the heaving that is all too apparent in the best of concrete highways. Neither are there any ruts. The greatest danger in driving over a concrete road is found in the ruts at the shoulder of the road where the concrete and the gravel meet. With the "Greene saw edge" the shoulders of the concrete and the gravel join so thoroughly that they are practically one material, and as a result there are no ruts and proportionately less danger to the driver.

Says They Will Save.

The "saw edges" may be used as well when the whole road is to be paved as when only the "twin trails" are to be laid, and here again they have virtues all their own. Many a flat concrete road has suffered from heavy frost heaving and has developed a long crack running down the center of the road. This, Mr. Greene thinks, is largely due the fact that water runs off the center and drains around the edges, where the concrete and gravel meet, causing the sides to heave in the spring. By creating a solid and permanent shoulder between the center of the road and the extreme edges, the water is run right to the gutters and the road is to a large extent immune from frost heaving.

In the case of big cities, Mr. Greene recommends a double track of "twin trails." That is, there would be four pairs of the trails. The two on the inside would be reserved for fast traffic and the two at the outside for slower traffic and for teams. The expense for this double track is extraordinarily low, when one considers that a 50-foot road with four pairs of trails would use only 12 feet of concrete paving, or eight cubic feet of concrete per lineal foot of roadway.

Mr. Brazier, erstwhile city engineer, was one of the doubting Thomases at the time of the Alexander street experiment. Today, as the contractor in charge of the new Springbank highway, he is using the "Greene saw edge" finish at the side of the road. Here is a scheme which will give the province, indeed all Canada, four times the length of road for the same price. Because of this and because of the other valuable qualities of his invention, Mr. Greene has every confidence in his ability to interest the drivers who will attend the Hamilton convention. Some day, he feels sure, there will be a "twin trail" highway wherever a fellow can drive his bus, and it may then please Londoners to know that it was in their own home town in July, 1922, that the first "trail" was laid.

PRESS FOR BAKER AS SECRETARY OF THE L. & P. S.

Mayor Intends To Urge This Appointment On Commission.

THE LAST MYSTERY

He Also Wants To Know Who Directed That Pay Lists Be Sent to Council.

Why the minutes of the last meeting of the London & Port Stanley Commission are not ready, as he understands, nearly a month after, is one of the questions to be asked by Mayor Wenige when the commissioners meet again Monday.

In addition to this, his worship announced at noon today, he will again move that City Clerk Sam Baker be appointed to act as secretary and attend all meetings of the commission.

"I am not going to put up with this continual fighting for information," he declared decisively. "And I am going to make a determined effort to have our representative at these meetings in order that we shall have all information we are entitled to, and which should be furnished any ratepayer who calls at the L. & P. S. office and requests to see them.

Minutes Not Ready.

Unsuccessful in his attempt yesterday to secure the minutes of the last two meetings, Mayor Wenige directed Manager Richards this morning to have the minutes in his office later in the day.

The mayor reports that the manager explained the minutes of the last regular session, at which the mayor attended, were not quite ready and would have to be checked over.

"Surely, as a member of the commission, I have a right to these minutes of our proceedings without another resolution from the commission," continued his worship. "In any event, this is public property, and any citizen who feels that he would like to have these minutes has every right to ask for and receive them from the offices of the London & Port Stanley Railway Commission."

Mayor Wenige asserts that practices of the past must cease, and he declares today that the time for a real showdown has arrived.

The List Mystery.

"This question will come up at our meeting of the commissioners Monday morning," he informed Manager Richards at noon, "and it is essential that I have these lists today."

He proposes to move again, despite the fact that he anticipates opposition from Sir Adam Beck and Commissioner Percy Moore, that the city clerk be appointed clerk of the commission.

The mayor still seeks an answer to his question—"by whose authority was he tendered the L. & P. S. pay lists after the commissioners had ruled twice in regular session that they should not be available."

"Was there another meeting of the commission in secret to which he was not invited?" he asks, "or did those in power at the Conservative headquarters direct Sir Adam to hand them over?"

NOTED RUSS GENERAL DEAD AT COPENHAGEN

Was Sentenced To Die During War, But Pardoned by Kaiser.

Associated Press Despatch.

Copenhagen, June 7.—The Russian general, Ivan Kharin, died last evening at the Copenhagen hospital of cancer of the throat. He was an uncle by marriage of Grand Duchess Olga, and was a well-known figure in Danish society.

Before the war General Kharin was a millionaire mine owner, and was considered the richest man in Russia, owning palaces at Petrograd and Moscow that contained art collections of fabulous value.

The general never traveled by train but always in a cortege of luxuriously appointed automobiles. While the war was in progress he was sentenced to death in Germany for espionage, but was pardoned by Emperor William.

SAY BOOTLEGGERS LIMITING SUPPLY TO UNITED STATES

Concerned More With Price Than Difficulties of Crossing the Border.

ISSUES WARNING

Secret Service Agent States Intoxicants Carry Fake Labels.

Special to The Advertiser.

Rouses Point, N. Y., June 7. — The amount of liquor crossing the Canadian border today is limited solely by the amount which the rum runners believe they can dispose of at a profit.

The rum runners are more concerned with the market than with the source of supply or the difficulties of getting it across.

From Rouses Point westward to Fort Covington, a stretch of 60 miles, a bootleggers' invasion of the United States is in full swing.

The gang worked in several groups. One division manufactured liquor of questionable purity, another made the fake labels, a third managed to withdraw liquor from bondage under fake permits and the fourth dispensed the illegal wares of the other three.

Systematic raids were conducted over a 25 mile area in New York. Most of the 13 were taken in Brooklyn, three were found in Manhattan, two already have been held on bail.

Following the discovery, Joseph Palm, chief of the local secret service issued a warning against buying of high grade Scotch liquor and imported gin. He said the intoxicants disguised by the counterfeiters were dangerous, and officials had no way of knowing how many bogus bottles had been circulated throughout the country before the arrests were made.

RECONSTRUCTION FUND REACHES TWENTY BILLION

FIRST CHILD FOR JUVENILE COURT IS ON PROBATION

No Formal Procedings, But Judge Had Heart-to-Heart Talk With Offender.

CHEERY COURT ROOM

Depressing Influences Entirely Absent From London's Children's Courtroom.

Although the juvenile court has officially existed since the beginning of the month, it was not until this morning that Major Bradshaw, the newly-appointed probation officer, found it necessary to bring a child to the office of the judge, Rev. G. Q. Warner. There were no formal court proceedings and the wayward youngster, just entering on his 'teens, went home for the day, wiser, if slightly sadder, as the result of a brief chat with Mr. Warner.

This evening there will be a consultation with his parents, and in all likelihood the boy will be placed on probation, reporting at regular intervals to Major Bradshaw.

All this, and the fact that the boy is the first of four cases dealt with to be brought as far as the court, is in keeping with the policy which Mr. Warner and Major Bradshaw outlined in public addresses last week. Of the four cases, one child, who yielded to a momentary impulse for the first time in his life, and was not slow to regret, has been put on his honor, and there is little possibility that the court or its officers will have further dealings with him. Another case is that of a child whom Major Bradshaw believes to be somewhat below par mentally, and in this case special provision will be made for him at school.

Court in Pleasant Room.

In the juvenile court, at least one corner of the city hall has been more than presentable. It is true that it is reached by a gloomy stairway, but the rooms themselves, rather than presenting a forbidding aspect to the youngsters, who are brought within, ought to appear highly promising. With several windows, there appears to be sufficient light and air in the court room itself. Cheerfully painted woodwork and a soft blue-gray paper on the walls, have worked wonders in giving the rooms a pleasant appearance, and the officials evinced a great deal of delight this morning, when a genial carpenter presented them with the Union Jack to fly above the judge's desk.

No Depressing Atmosphere.

The entire scene is as far removed as possible from the depressing atmosphere of the Carling street station, which in spite of the kindliness of the men within it, was guaranteed to strike fear into the heart of a sensitive child.

Complaints received within the short time the court has been in existence have led Major Bradshaw to believe that there will be a considerable number of cases to deal with, once it is completely under way. Only when it is unavoidable, however, will he bring a child to the court room. Five courses are open—If conditions are favorable and the child appears naturally truthful and honorable, he will be placed on his honor; if much below par, mentally, he will be sent to Orillia; if the child is slightly deficient, he will be placed in the care of the local auxiliary classes; putting the child on probation will be tried out in most cases, and only where it is absolutely impossible to effect any change, will they be sent to the industrial home.

EMPLOYEES BOMBARD STREET CAR OPERATORS

Strike-Breakers Subjected to Hazardous Experience in Schenectady.

Special to The Advertiser.

Schenectady, June 7.—After a night of rioting throughout the business district, Schenectady is holding its breath today in fear of the possible consequences of the next step of the effort of the Schenectady Railway Company to break the strike of its employees.

Since May 12, when the men walked out, there had been no disturbance until yesterday, when a car was stoned. Last night shortly before seven o'clock another car on the Mount Pleasant had to speed through a gauntlet of stones and bricks, and within another hour the scene of disturbance had been transferred to the heart of the business section and seven trolley cars, including one bound in from Albany, had passed through a bombardment of bricks and other missiles. The strike-breaking operators were hit repeatedly, but none are reported seriously injured.

Two of the cars attempting to get to shelter of downtown car barns stalled in the center of the shopping district and the crews and detective guards on board had to be rescued by the police amid a stony hail.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Roberts, rector of Trinity Church, in the presence of only the immediate relatives.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a graceful gown of biege-colored flat crepe trimmed with lace, and a hat to match, and wearing a corsage of Ophelia roses. A dainty wedding breakfast was served later, and Mr. and Mrs. Keith left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, and upon their return they will reside in Brampton.

BRYANT—STORIE.

A pretty wedding took place at the Ridout Street Methodist parsonage yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, when Lillian Luella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Storie, Weston street, was married to John Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bryant, 275 Wharncliffe road, Rev. J. A. Agnew officiating.

Her corsage was of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. Miss Grace McGowan, a cousin of the groom, was bridesmaid, and wore a becoming gown of navy blue georgette with hat to match, and a corsage of lily of the valley. Mr. Archie Bryant, a brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, the table being prettily arranged with summer flowers, and centered with the wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant left later on a honeymoon trip to Hamilton and Toronto, and upon their return they will reside at 344 Oakland avenue.

MIREHOUSE—EDWARDS.

A picturesque wedding took place yesterday afternoon at two o'clock at St. Mark's Church, when Velma L. Edwards, only daughter of Thomas H. Edwards, Ashland avenue, was married to John Mirehouse, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mirehouse, King street. Rev. A. L. Beverley performed the ceremony.

The church was artistically decorated by the A. Y. P. A., of which the groom is president. Quantities of lilacs and spirea banked the chancel, and clusters tied with white streamers marked the guest pews. As the bridal party entered the church, the wedding march was played by Mrs. T. F. Holland, and during the signing of the register the surpliced choir sang "The Voice That Breated O'er Eden."

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white canton crepe, softly draped with a becoming white hat. She carried a shower of Ophelia roses. Miss Mary Mirehouse, a sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid and wore a gown of gray beaded canton crepe with a hat to match. Little Miss Lillian Mirehouse, also a sister of the groom, made a dainty flower girl, wearing a frilly frock of white organdy and carrying a basket of roses. Mr. Harold Skillett was the best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, where a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Mirehouse left on a honeymoon to Niagara Falls and other eastern cities, the bride traveling in a sand shade suit with a smart hat to match. Upon their return they will reside in London East.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold mesh bag; to the bridesmaid, a pearl ring; to the flower girl, a locket, and to the best man, a tiepin. The organist's gift was a barpin set with pearls.

The bride looked charming in a gown of ivory alltyme crepe, and carried a shower bouquet of Sunset roses and carnations. Little Miss Edna Kelley, niece of the bride, was a dainty flower-girl in a gown of ivory crepe rayure.

After a dainty wedding breakfast the happy couple left by motor for Niagara, and points east, followed by the good wishes of their many friends, the bride traveling in a navy blue suit, with gray blouse and hat to match.

They will be home after July 1, at their home, on the groom's farm, Caradoc.

Just Apply This Paste and the Hairs Will Vanish.

(Boudoir Secrets.)

The judicious use of a delatone paste insures any woman a clear, hairless skin. To prepare the paste, mix a little of the powdered delatone with some water, then apply to the objectionable hairs for two or three minutes. When the paste is removed, and the skin washed, every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain attends the use of the delatone, and it will not mar the most sensitive skin, but to insure results, see that you get real delatone.—Advt.

ELABORATE SUMMER GOWN.
By ELOISE.

The three-piece costume is by no means confined to sports and street wear, as can be seen from this elaborate model designed for summer party wear. Although quite informal as to cut and style the costume is much too elaborate save for rather formal or semi-formal occasions. It is a lace gown with a green satin coat for wear when the occasion demands.

The gown is made of champagne colored lace and net with a simple blouse and paneled skirt. The jacket is of almond green satin trimmed with bands of colored embroidery. An Egyptian like girdle of the green satin is worn low over the hips and tied in the front after the Egyptian manner and embroidery matching that on the jacket finishes the ends of the sash. This is a very pretty and unusual idea for bridesmaids' dresses if the bride wants to have something different from the usual chiffons, georgettes or organdies.

Your Home and You

By HELEN KENDALL.

THE GREEDY MOTORIST.

A few weeks ago, during the May days when the countrysides are always glorious with dogwood and blooming fruit trees, the cartoonist "Ding" made a scathing comment on the greedy folks who go out into the woods and fields and fairly tear things to pieces in their desire to get all they can carry. A woman and child were shown grabbing the wild flowers out by the roots, clutching their slender throats and reaching out for others beyond. The man of the group was up in a flowering tree, breaking off great branches with fiendish delight. A car stood just beyond, waiting for their ill-gotten plunder.

We have all seen, during the beautiful spring days, car after car go by on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, loaded with the choicest bounty of the woods. Sometimes a fat, selfish face peers through the masses of bloom with which the tonneau is filled. How little such people seem to care that they have despoiled the lovely roadsides past which other motorists and hikers must pass. Their only idea seems to be to grab all they can and carry it away to die, in a day or two, in their stuffy city apartments. The poor trees are left jagged and defaced, the banks of wild flowers are denuded, and next year there will be fewer and fewer blossoms to carry on the great message of beauty.

Worst of all, many of our most exquisite wild flowers and shrubs are already nearly extinct because of this "hogging" of them by tourists. If people would be content to pick modest bunches of blossoms, the supply would be sufficient, but even prolific nature cannot replace such masses of bloom under several years.

A well-known flower-lover has recently been urging the public to spare the following wild flowers, which are rapidly disappearing: Arbutus, trillium, azalea, cardinal flower, wild orchid, gentian, laurel. The fringed gentian is already rare, and arbutus is all but gone from our woods. If these and all other wild blooms are left untouched for a few years, they will have a chance to reproduce and fill the countryside with their beauty.

MISS I. TANTON HEADS THE NEW Y.W.C.T.U.

Members Plan To Send Young Girl To Camp At Springbank.

A Young Women's Christian Temperance Union was organized Tuesday night at the home of Miss Isabel Tanton, Wellington street, who has been made the first president of the new club. About fifteen girls were present for the opening meeting and great enthusiasm was shown. The matter of electing the other officers, however, was laid over until the fall, Miss Lindsay acting as secretary pro tem.

The aims and objects of the mother organization, the W.C.T.U., was explained to the girls by Mrs. May R. Thornley, Mrs. Ida Harrison and Mrs. H. W. Paddell, president of the local union.

The first work of the new organization will be the raising of money to send some young girl to the W.C.T.U. camp at Springbank for two weeks.

The club will meet once a month, and will work out its own program as it goes along.

After the meeting on Tuesday, Miss Tanton served refreshments to the members.

Paris, June 6.—Bridal gowns today do not adhere so rigidly to the rule of former years, that they must be dazzling snow-white. The bridal gown this month is quite as likely to be oyster white, or ivory, trimmed with old lace of an ivory tint, and with a train, the lining of which is flesh pink georgette.

Emeralds For Engagements.

Paris, June 6.—Betrothal rings are not usually diamonds now. The emerald is extremely popular today, one large stone—often of six carats—mounted in almost invisible circle of platinum. Gold as a setting has yielded completely to platinum, except in the case of the new 18-karat white gold, of which many wedding rings are made.

Timbo Straw For Hats.

London, June 6.—A glance at the fashionably dressed woman in the Savoy and at Claridge's today proved timbo straw to be the proper thing for hats. Crinoline is perhaps second in favor. Many flowers are used and trimmings are inclined to dangle over the shoulder or down the back.

Colors Trim Shoes.

London, June 6.—Even when shoes are black today, they have fascinating insets of bright red and green. For dancing, the buckle has been somewhat edged out by the tiny circlet of stuffed flowers surrounding a centre of stones. Black satin sandals with heels of bright hue have tassels to match the heels.

Dainty Wrist Bags.

New York, June 6.—One of the new wrist bags shown here today is a luscious concoction of silk and velvet in the form of an inverted flower. The long silk or velvet petals of many shades end in black silk fringe. A wrist bag of this sort in delicate tints is intended for semi-formal dress.

Apple-Green Porch Furniture.

New York, June 6.—For use on the porch or in the summer home there is furniture copied after the brilliantly painted tables and chairs of an earlier time. Apple-green tables with nosegays in pink, or pale blue chairs with a knot of buttercups on the back, will brighten any porch or boudoir.

New Heat System for London Home

Women's Christian Association Meets Yesterday.

At a meeting of the Women's Christian Association held yesterday afternoon at the Aged People's Home, plans were made for the installation of a new heating system in the Aged People's Home. Reports from the various officers showed that the work is in excellent condition. Mrs. John Currie, the president, occupied the chair.

MOVIES WILL BE SHOWN IN THE SCHOOL GROUNDS

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, June 6.—The playground committee has decided that moving pictures will be shown three nights per week, once in each of the three playgrounds, which are situated at Tutela, Dufferin and Recreation Parks. Last year pictures were shown six nights per week, but the committee consider three showings ample. It has been decided to pay the playgrounds supervisors a salary of $80 per month for a period of four months.

Mrs. Beattie is to be in charge of the home-cooking, with Mrs. [illegible] simmons, Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. V. K. Greer and Mrs. Brown convening the strawberries and ice-cream. Other conveners are: Fortune-telling, Mrs. Chalmers and Mrs. Carney; candy, Miss Dewar and Mrs. Tentlin; tea table, Mrs. John Ferguson; fish-pond, Mrs. Kent and Mrs. Small; flowers, Mrs. Sutherland and Mrs. Smith.

Plans for the booth to be held at the Western Fair in September were also discussed at yesterday's meeting. A delightful song was rendered by Mrs. Tentlin. Others taking part in the program were Mrs. V. K. Greer and Mrs. J. M. McEvoy.

MARGARET JOHNSTON MARRIES H. R. WHITE

Pretty Wedding Takes Place This Morning at Home of Bride's Parents.

A smart June wedding took place this morning at eleven o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother in Craig street, when Margaret Lyell Johnston, daughter of Mrs. Lyell Johnston, was married to Howard Rivers White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred White, Rev. T. A. Symington performing the ceremony.

Palms and quantities of white lilacs and carnations were banked in the drawing room, making a pretty setting for the ceremony. White lilacs and bridal wreath were effectively arranged in the archway, and as the bridal party entered Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus was played by the London Harpers.

The bride wore a gown of white georgette, falling in straight lines, with cleverly designed side panels embroidered in Oriental designs. Her sleeves were short, and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. She also wore a becoming hat of white, with ostrich trimming.

Miss Shirley Lind of Toronto acted as bridesmaid, gowned in mauve georgette, the skirt falling in petals, and she wore a becoming hat in the same shade. Her flowers were mauve sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Mr. Eric Rechnitzer was best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held. Mrs. Johnston, gowned in black canton crepe, with a black hat trimmed with ospreys, received with the young couple; also Mrs. White, wearing a smart gown. A wedding luncheon was served from tables dainty with Sweetheart roses held in bud vases and adorned with lily of the valley and sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. White left later by motor on a honeymoon which will be spent in Chicago, and upon their return they will reside in Piccadilly street. The bride donned for traveling a gray sport suit, with green suede trimmings, a hat in the same shade, and green shoes.

The guests, who numbered twenty, included a number of out-of-town people, Mrs. H. D. Lind of Toronto, Rev. J. R. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston of Preston, and Mr. Clifford Chelen of Toronto.

TERM-END EXAMS.

Children, the school term is drawing to a close. The teacher is urging you to prepare for the last examination. You have been in school for the past nine months, and it has begun to pall upon you. Lessons have become an old story.

The teacher's manner and characteristic speech have become familiar to you. You think you know just what she will say when you blot your composition on the very last line, and you know just who will miss on the list of the governors and what she will do about it. School is an old story.

It is, but it is a true story. It tells of your efforts to grow. There's a chapter of beginnings. You began to study French, but when you reached the declensions you couldn't force yourself to sit down and study them over and over until they came as easily as the letters of the alphabet.

The teacher told you that it was the only way, but you hated that way and dropped French.

Then there was mathematics. You worked along very well until you reached quadratics. They were hard. One little mistake, one exponent wrong, one sign wrong, and the whole thing was useless. Besides you detested formulas.

The teacher told you that the only way to get the best of algebra was to dig, dig, dig, until it came clear. But you didn't like to hold your mind down to a job so long, and at the end of the term you dropped mathematics and turned to chemistry.

When the principal looked grave and asked you what college, what higher school, what technical course you intended to follow, you said blithely that you did not know and you were careful not to talk the matter over with your folks. The games and the frats and the clubs were very interesting, but you felt that the other side of school was rather too dull.

The teachers have said sharp things to you lately, and you have shrugged your shoulders and said, "Teachery! I wouldn't be a teacher for anything!"

Stop a minute. To that chapter to pleasant dalliance you are writing another. It is an old tale too, so old and so dready that it is a wonder that any of you can bear to look at it again, much less write it afresh. That's the chapter of failures that follows the littered pages of the beginnings.

You can see their authors on the park benches any morning you care to look for them. They are in undesirable positions in every factory, in every industry, in every home where cheap labor is tolerated. Want to join them?

Then this last few weeks take a deep breath and clean up. Turn back to the rules you did not study perfectly. Learn the tables you neglected. Get the grammar you require for the closing examinations. Fill out your notebooks.

Drudge for this last lap! Work as earnestly as you would if you were pulling your feet out of a bog in the hope of reaching the firm ground ahead.

That is what school is for! It is the place where you form the iron and steel frame for your life structure. Yours—not the teacher's. Drudge a bit now, lest you drudge forever after. Get busy!

PHYSIOLOGICAL DATA PRESENTED IN COUNTY COURT

Jury Awards Massie $250 and Costs In Action Against G. Kernohan.

PHYSICIANS TESTIFY

Son of Defendant Admits Having No License To Drive Auto.

Babinski tests, X-Ray photographs, knee jerks, rheumatism, atrophy of the muscles, trauma, lipping of the bones, and many other medical expressions were introduced by two physicians, giving evidence in the case of Massie vs. Kernohan, being heard before Judge Macbeth in county court yesterday. The jury awarded William Massie, the plaintiff, $250 and costs.

The case, which started yesterday morning, lasted all afternoon and was left with the jury at 6 o'clock.

The claim of the plaintiff, William Massie, was for $1,000, plus costs, against George N. Kernohan for injuries, claimed to have been received when struck by an automobile, owned by the defendant, and driven by his son.

Evidence given by Dr. William Shaw, attendant physician after the accident had occurred, showed that an exaggerated case of minor organic trouble, attributable to the plaintiff having been hit by a motor in 1921, still existed, and was liable to become worse.

Describes Injuries.

The injuries at that time consisted of a seriously bruised right hip, right shoulder, left elbow and a sprained right wrist. He had kept Massie in bed for two weeks, and away from work for a total of more than seven weeks, when against his (Dr. Shaw's) orders, the plaintiff had returned to his work of motorman. He complained of pain due to the accident more now than previously.

Evidence was also given on behalf of the plaintiff by E. Langford and W. J. Patton, motormen, and Jack Griffiths, conductor, relative to the street car and the automobile.

The first witness called by the defence was William Kernohan, driver of the machine. He was driving at 18 to 20 miles an hour when the accident occurred. He had seen the street car ahead of him, and had caught up with it near the corner of Waterloo and Dundas streets. Mr. Massie had jumped out immediately in front of the motor before the street car had stopped. Cross-examined by Mr. McEvoy, young Kernohan became embroiled in arguments relative to distance as expressed in feet, concerning the stopping of his car when he applied the brakes, and other matters. He admitted that he had no license to be driving the car.

Examined Plaintiff.

Dr. Edward Spence was next called by the defence. He said that he had been called by Dr. Shaw to make an examination of Mr. Massie. This he had done, and it showed negative in every case, with the exception of teeth and knee jerk, the former of which might have caused the pain and the latter which was somewhat exaggerated.

Samuel J. Prowse, a passenger on the street car, said it was not standing still when the man jumped off. Cecil Bridle also stated this.

In rebuttal, Mr. Massie said that Dr. Spence had not made a thorough examination, which was confirmed by Dr. Shaw.

Before leaving the case with the jury, Mr. McEvoy pointed out that the father was guilty of negligence for allowing his son, who was under 18 years of age, to drive a car.

Tennent & Tennent are acting for the defendant and J. M. McEvoy, K.C., for the plaintiff.

THRIFTY CANADIANS RICHEST IN THE WORLD

Savings and Insurance Investments Show Remarkable Growth.

An immigrant English farm hand hired by a prosperous Ontario farmer in Toronto recently, rode from the Government Employment Bureau to his new job in a limousine. "Canada is a wonderful country," he exclaimed to Superintendent Heath. "The first day here and I am going off to work in a £1,000 auto. What would the folks back home say to this?"

The Englishman is right. Judged by average savings per capita, Canadians are amongst the richest people in the world. According to Colonel A. F. Hatch, retiring chairman of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, public deposits in banks and loan companies amount to upwards of two billion dollars, or $250 per capita. Since 1914 the assets of Canadian banks increased 70 per cent; total deposits increased 99 per cent; bank notes in circulation increased 66 per cent; the value of field crops increased 68 per cent; the value of industrial production increased 185 per cent, and population increased about 20 per cent.

Another demonstration of the rapid growth of the individual wealth of the Canadian is noted in the increase of money invested in life insurance. In 1906 there was $656,260,900 of life insurance in force throughout the Dominion. By 1922 this had reached approximately three and a half billions.

LIFE OF JACKIE COOGAN INSURED FOR $100,000

The life of Jackie Coogan, the film star, is being insured for $100,000. He is the world's smallest heavy wage earner, and the youngest millionaire to acquire a fortune by his personal efforts. Jackie's juvenility is one of his greatest assets as a film star. Most men earn their largest salaries in middle age, but childhood is undoubtedly the salary peak of the Coogan career. Life insurance which creates a lasting estate is the soundest investment that could have been made for him.

The careers of theatrical stars, both in movie-land and on the legitimate stage, often wane rapidly. Jackie Coogan has created an estate for himself which will be his no matter how fickle popular fame and fortune prove.

IMMENSE ORDERS PLACED BY CANADIAN NATIONAL

Special to The Advertiser.

Montreal, June 6.—Canadian Car and Foundry and other Montreal manufacturing plants will share in the equipment orders, which have been placed by the Canadian National Railway, a portion of the 2,500 40-ton box cars, now being in course of construction here. The balance of the order for this rolling stock has been placed with plants at Hamilton and New Glasgow.

These box cars will have steel underframe and superstructure and single wood sheathing. They will be equipped with Hutching all steel flexible roofs. The new equipment required for the Canadian National will involve a total of 4,000 cars of various types, passenger and freight, and in each instance the type chosen represents the most modern design.

A feature of the new passenger equipment is that all cars are being standardized both as to height and color. Thirty new sleeping cars have been ordered. Express, refrigerator, baggage and coaches will be included in the new rolling stock, as well as five cars of the flat depressed type for shipping of heavy machinery.

FRENCH CABINET MEETS TO TALK WINE RATIONS

America Says Ruling Against Ships With Liquor Will Not Be Rigidly Enforced.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Paris, June 6.—The ministry of marine was notified today that the United States is disposed to exercise the widest latitude in enforcement of its ruling against ships carrying liquor inside the three-mile limit. It is possible that some provision may be made which will cover the demand of French crews that they have their wine rations in American waters the same as anywhere else. However the ministry has not been informed just how much latitude will be exercised and whether it is sufficient.

Therefore, a cabinet meeting has been called for Saturday to discuss whether the American attitude is satisfactory to France.

C. P. R. NOTE CERTIFICATES TO BE REDEEMED IN JULY

Special to The Advertiser.

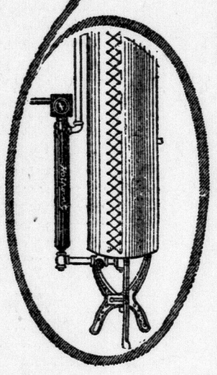

Montreal, June 6.—The C. P. R. give notice that the note certificates aggregating $52,000,000, issued on March 2, 1914, and secured upon a special investment fund created and maintained under the provisions of the agreement made on December 23, 1913, between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Royal Trust Company as trustee, will be redeemed on July 10, 1923, pursuant to the issue of the same providing for redemption before maturity by payment of the principal and accrued interest to the date fixed for redemption.

Under the conditions of the issue note certificates must be presented to the trustee for redemption at the Bank of Montreal in London, Montreal, or New York, on or before the said date, and if not so presented they will not bear interest after the date of the redemption.

PARLIAMENT HAS WARM DEBATE ON BANK LOANS

Proposal To Fix Maximum Rate of Interest At Seven Per Cent.

INJUSTICE CHARGED

Western Progressives Take Active Part and Suggest Changes.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, June 6.—"Competition has disappeared and it is necessary for the state to intervene in the control of credit," stated W. C. Good, Progressive, Brant, in resuming the debate in the Commons' banking and commerce committee this afternoon on a series of four motions to fix a maximum interest rate for bank loans at 7 per cent.

Two of the amendments proposed came from G. G. Coote, Progressive, MacLeod. His first amendment struck out the provision under which banks collect interest by discounting the note, and directly forbade a rate higher than 7 per cent. His second provided that the rate of interest be stated on the face of the note.

A. M. Carmichael, Progressive, Kindersley, moved to forbid a rate of interest higher than 7 per cent, and to provide for a suit to recover interest paid in excess of that rate.

J. T. Shaw (Independent, Calgary West) besides fixing a 7 per cent maximum and providing for action to recover, proposed that the bank which stipulates for any higher rate than 7 per cent shall forfeit the extra interest on the note and that the borrower might recover twice the amount of interest paid.

Mr. Good declared that through design or ignorance great injustice may be done by the unregulated, ill-considered expansion and contraction of credit. He advocated a central bank on some such plan as the federal reserve system to provide control, and pointed out that by the co-operative banks in Germany the spread between interest rates to depositors and on loans should be cut down to 2 per cent. He supported the proposal to fix a maximum rate as a temporary means of control, but did not regard it as radical or final.

William Irvine, Labor, Calgary East, based the case for restriction of the rate of interest on loans on the "virtual monopoly" of the banks.

"We have," he said, "seventeen banks with one single thought, to charge the same rate of interest at the same place, and to pay the same rate of interest."

Just before adjournment a motion was adopted to reduce the quorum of the committee from 21 to 15. The membership of the committee is 79, but the attendance has been small.

Rheumatic People Find Quick Relief

By Enriching Their Blood With, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Rheumatism is a disorder of the blood. It attacks people when the blood is overcharged with impurities, thus setting up inflammation of the muscles and joints. Wet weather or cold weather may start the tortures of rheumatism, but this is not the cause. The cause is in the blood. Victims of this malady have every reason to fear the first dull ache in the limbs and joints, followed by sharp pains through the flesh and muscles. These are the symptoms which may shortly leave the victim pain-racked and helpless. Rubbing liniments and applying hot applications may give relief, but that is all, and the pains are soon back again. You must treat the trouble through the blood, and the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is proved by Mr. Elias Bruce, Upper Clarence, N. S., who says: "Some years ago I had a bad attack of rheumatism which left me helpless. I had to have help to dress and undress myself, and could not even lace my boots without help. Of course, the trouble caused me much suffering, and I was in this condition for about ten months. One day a friend who called to see me advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began taking them, and soon found some relief, and a short while after all signs of the rheumatism were gone, and I have not since had any return of the trouble."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50c a box, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

UP FROM THE DEATH CELL

By JOHN W. KANE.

After Thirteen Years Curly Kane Walks Alone For Two Hours In The Open Country

SYNOPSIS.

Curly Kane wins his way to regeneration while in prison. A wild lad, he killed two carmen in a hold-up and after 17 months in Murderers' Row got a new trial, with a life imprisonment sentence instead of death. He studies law, reads, trains himself to be a magazine writer, and conceives the idea of a law permitting parole for life prisoners who serve 15 years. By finesse he gets it passed. A new warden, with modern ideas, makes Kane his private secretary.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

That first week in the new warden's office was a terror for the invisible work-evading gods no doubt. His correspondence had been piling up until he had a sackful of it. In turning off the business, he himself was a trojan. He would be at the desk at 8 in the morning, and there he would figure and think, dictate from time to time and do a lot of explaining, peruse records, interview prisoners from the inside, answer dozens of telephone calls from the city and over the long-distance wire, and ask me scores of questions about the place in general.

Just before I was leaving him to go back inside late in the afternoon of that first day, I thought of something that I believed might make for future mutual good.

"There are two things I'd like to say to you, warden," I told him, after we had arisen from our chairs. "First, I want you to know that I am not one who ever discusses the business of an office anywhere outside that office; second, that whenever you ask me questions about the place and we discuss things in general, I will always talk with you just as I would were I a free man and on an equal footing with you in every way."

"I'm glad to hear that," was his hearty reply. "Both are important. I need not tell you why, except as to the last-mentioned. I'm new in this business, and if it be possible for me to learn something about it without having to wait for experience, then we'll have more time for getting results."

That slogan of getting results made itself apparent right from the beginning. Dead timber from the guard force was gradually done away with. With the exception of his words to me concerning the master mechanic, the warden never mentioned an office again except to tell laughingly what one guard came in and said to him.

"What do you think Mr. G. said to me, as he was going off duty this morning?" he asked, soon after I was seated and ready for work one day.

A Letter of Resignation.

"I haven't the least idea," I returned.

"Well, sir"—and the speaker's eyes simply twinkled with humor—"he came in and said to me, 'Warden, I just thought that I'd tell you that if any of these guards or convicts tell you anything about me, I hope you won't believe it till you see me.' And I said to him, 'Why, G., what have you been doing that you're so afraid?' 'Nothing,' said he, 'except that I know how they are—always wanting to tell lies on someone.'"

"Mr. G. is a rather good-hearted fellow," was my reply, "he has his peculiarities."

"Evidently," responded the warden. "And what is that passage in the Bible about the guilty fleeing when no man pursueth?"

A few days later G. came to me and asked me to write out his resignation for him. I wrote it in about three lines; and while the warden did not say anything particularly about it having been handed in, he remarked to me that day that whenever any man on a job gets fearful that he is going to be let out, it is a sign that in some way he is falling short in his work and knows that he deserves to be let out. Like the master mechanic, however, G. went his way, and I trust that he landed a job where he was not in fear of someone telling lies about him.

That was the spring that our country entered the world war. The word had gone broadcast that production and conservation was the desideratum and at the time when the warden in person was helping to fill out the registration cards for the inmates, he would remark to a man occasionally that he thought the man would be a good hand to come out and help make the prison farm produce more. The result of that line of thought, along with the warden's system—entirely new there—of getting personally acquainted with every man in the prison, soon resulted in pale and deteriorating mortals being transformed into husky sun-browned men who were daily adding producing acreage to the formerly small portion of the reservation that was cultivated.

New Hope and Strength.

Spring was in the air, also the spirit of the upholding of rights and doing everything toward winning.

In and around the prison there was a new feeling, new hope and new strength. And among the old-timers who had been so long under that surface-smiling-inward-hating rule that so often broke forth and showed the combination claw and mailed fist—among them there was unexpressed feeling of "the night is far spent, the day is at hand; let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light."

One afternoon following our finishing the business of that day, the warden said to me: "You haven't taken a walk on the outside for quite a while, have you, Jack?"

"Not for more than thirteen years," I told him. "The only outside I've seen was the sky overhead."

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed. "We've been so busy here that I hadn't thought of that. Come along now"—and he arose and led the way to the door—"I want you to walk down around the barns and over where the boys are at work. Stay out a couple of hours or so—and then we'll take a drive some of these afternoons."

I followed him, my head almost swimming.

Out in the front yard the warden addressed the guard on duty.

"From now on Jack will have the run of the yards here and all down around the barns and orchard and garden," he told him. "He is going now for the first stroll he's taken for quite a time. You won't need to pay any attention to him—I'll take all responsibility."

I looked at my watch—a good timepiece that I was allowed to buy in 1915, and I am wearing it as I write these lines—and then turned to the warden.

"At 4:43 Sharp!"

"It is now 2:43," I told him. "I'll be back here at 4:43 sharp."

"You must be a stickler for accuracy," he chuckled. And then he spoke to the guard: "Now then, Mr. A., we'll see whether this fellow is one who comes up to the scratch."

Can you, dear reader, imagine what that first walk meant to me? I had been for the greater part of two years in the shadow of the death chair. Then came long years of combined regret, misery, longing and despair on the one hand, with determination, effort, longing and hope on the other. Who but one constituted as I am is able to understand the meaning of the phrase, 13 years behind a prison wall? And there on that day after the darksome 13 years had been left behind—there I was, walking on the outside of those walls and breathing again the pure God-given air.

Half way down the eighty-yard driveway to the barns I halted and looked back. It was the first view of those walls from the outside that I had ever had since the one brief glance at them on the day I entered upon my life sentence. One brief glance was about all I bestowed upon them that day—that later day, which no day of resurrection could outshine. For were there not things of beauty—wondrous beauty — all around me?

I entered the front part of the barn. Sleek horses stabled there neighed to me, and I went straight to one of them and stroked his muzzle and mane. Then through an open doorway I saw a number of high-bred young calves; and they came round me and made friends by licking at my hands or scampering about sidewise.

Beyond that lot gate I passed along a beaten path that led down by a clear mountain stream. Green grass was growing on the banks of the stream, and here and there could be seen pink-and-purplish blossoms.

The Touch of Grass.

I reached down with my hand and touched the grass; then I stooped by the gurgling stream and splashed my hands in it.

In raising up an overhanging limb knocked my hat off — a hat that I had bought along with the suit of regulation citizen's clothes I was then wearing—but instead of that causing me irritation it made me laugh aloud. For in the world that day there was no evil—all was good.

Farther up the stream I crossed on a little bridge, then passed along some sandy undulating ground diagonally across to where some colts were grazing on the early short grass. Like the calves they came to me; and I stroked their noses and gave each one a name such as occurred to me on the spur of the moment, then I walked along with the music of gurgling stream and meadow larks in my ears, and the harmony of nature's grandeur coupled with my own feeling of good will and gratitude in my soul.

A branch-line railroad that wound its way 20 miles through the mountains to a mining town could be seen at a distance of about 200 yards. I walked across the narrow strip of meadow and up the slope to it, then along the side of the track until I came to a crossing at the edge of the prison reservation. There I halted and sat down upon some heavy timbers lying by the track. I saw an auto approaching along the roadway, and just after crossing the rails it stopped.

"Could you tell us," the driver addressed me, "what buildings are over there?"

FOURNIER BACK, DODGERS ARE OFF

Grimes Started and Other Hurlers Timed Real Start Then.

By JOHN B. FOSTER.
Copyright.

New York, June 6.—If there is any luck in the combination of seven and Fournier, and there seems to be, Brooklyn is today thrilling with it. It was on May 7 that Fournier played his first full game for the Dodgers, and it was just about that time that they began to emerge from the regions of the cellar, in which environment they had been pretty much of the season. Once out of the lower region the Brooklyns have been going ahead like an entirely different team.

The arrival of Fournier started Grimes on a piching splurge that is one of the prettiest of the National League battle. Five victories out of six games should satisfy the heart of any pitcher, any owner and any fan. It should more than satisfy Grimes if he has one of those bonus contracts, which gives him extra pittance if he wins a certain number of games. It is obvious that Grimes will be out ahead of the rest of the old circuit twirlers of the season if he holds to his present five out of six pace. He is surely the best of the old guard of spitball artists.

While Grimes was winning his five out of six, Dickerman, the tall chap from Memphis, won four out of six. Vance came along with three out of five and Reuther with two out of three. Henry won one game, Decatur won one and Cadore won two. Harper lost a battle and lost out in major league baseball at the same time. Recently the Brooklyns have been playing at more than a .700 percentage rate. That is almost equivalent to the speed of the Giants. Naturally, the question is whether the Brooklyns can keep up that limited express speed. It won't do any good to suggest that they can't, because there was not a soul in all the world who thought for a minute that they could do what they have already done in the past week or two.

Predict up or down for the Brooklyns and Uncle Robbie is liable to fool you either way.

Brooklyn today looks like one of these nines which happen at intervals in the history of the game, and which luster all over it by playing admirable ball, and doing impossible stunts, as compared with what has been laid out for them in advance by the prophets.

The most that is to be feared from the standpoint of general competition is that the Brooklyns and the Pittsburg Pirates, and the Cincinnatis—perhaps the Cincinnatis—will puncture each other's tires and run flat just at the time that the Giants are fattening their old percentage on some poor baseball team that cannot win a promise of any kind of a crown in the baseball heavens.

The Chicago Sox are praying that change of air may change their luck. It happens occasionally that a team will get on the road, and play far better ball than it has played at home. Usually, it is the theory of baseball men that they are favored by their home games. If a team, however, gets into a losing jam on its own diamond, the best thing that can happen to it is to get away from the home clubhouse and forget it.

Comiskey and the men with him may not have figured that they had a championship team last year, but they certainly figured that they were good enough to hang around to first division. They may have had dreams of seeing the Sox come down the stretch bowling everyone over, but how could they reach that type of bliss, with the pitching staff with which they sought to conquer the American League, a puzzle which confronts all baseball men when they look the Sox over.

Collins is playing better ball than he played last year. Kamm certainly is not Eskimo pie at third; Sheely plays first with all that he has, and up to his limit, and behind the bat Schalk shows no modification of the zip with which he has caught for so many years. The outfield is fair, but the pitchers cannot win, and their luck may change on foreign fields.

Harding Stays With Queen's U.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, June 6.—Dave Harding will lineup with the Queen's University senior rugby team next fall. When interviewed regarding the report from Toronto that he would be sporting a Toronto uniform in the senior O. R. F. U. series, the local athlete, who is playing lacrosse with the Sarnia intermediates, stated there was no ground for the report. He had not even considered leaving the university. Harding predicts that Queen's will win the Dominion championship again this year and agrees that Argonauts are a wonderful team with Conacher.

ALERTS WIN BENEFIT FROM FOREST CITY

Latter Threw Score In Fourth, But Seven Was Not Enough.

Alerts defeated Forest City in the benefit game for H. Hodgson at Queen's Park last night, although Forest City threw a man-sized scare into the ranks in the fourth, when they piled up seven runs.

There was a good crowd of fans out, and they saw plenty of heavy hitting. Incidentally a respectable sum was realized. Alerts out-hit the losers 13 to 10, but had it not been for seven Forest City errors, they might have been handed a defeat.

Alerts scored in every frame, getting two and three respectively in the first and second, and third and fourth innings. They added one for safety's sake in the last, but as events proved, it was not needed.

Forest City went out in order via the strike-out route in the first, but added two in the second on a double, a single and another double. They failed to score in the third, but in the fourth they rolled up seven counters on five hits, one of them a double, one error, a hit batsman and several steals.

They started out right in the fifth, too, when Hicks, first man up, singled to right, but he was thrown out stealing, and the next two batters fanned.

The Inter-Club League stated last night that they were especially indebted to Norman (Cap) Graham, who scored, and "Toots" Doherty, who capably umpired the benefit game.

INGERSOLL OUTCLASSES NORWICH NINE 28 TO 3

Special to The Advertiser.

Ingersoll, June 6. — The Norwich baseball team was outclassed in a game here this afternoon in the Oxford-Elgin League of the O. B. A. The score was 28 to 3. The visitors were weak in batting, and did not play the same standard of ball as the homesters. Kelly, on the mound for the locals, had nine strikeouts in four innings, eight of them being in a row. With his work so well done, he was relieved by McMurray, who also pitched great ball. He had seven strike-outs to his credit.

Kelly had two home runs, and won the turkey donated by a local citizen for the first homer here in a league game.

Batteries—Ingersoll, Kelly, McMurray and Henderson; Norwich, McGinnis, Ross and Swazi and Moore.

SENIORS DRILLED BUT NEED MORE

Cloudy Skies Scared Some of Them Away Last Night —All Out Friday.

CLASSICS SATURDAY

Stratford Gave St. Thomas a Run Yesterday—Locals May Face Young On Mound.

The London Senior O. B. A. A. squad had a sharp drilling session last night, in spite of the gloomy, threatening skies. Manager Ed Stein is apparently more satisfied with the boys' willow-wielding than with their ball handling, and he intends to concentrate more on the fielding end of the game.

Not all of the squad turned out for drill last night. Ample notice was given in the sport section, but possibly the rainy look in the clouds scared the lads away.

In future Manager Stein intends to hold workouts every Tuesday and Friday nights.

He stated to The Advertiser that such a schedule for definite workouts would be to everyone's advantage all around, and, as no holiday dates conflict with the two days a week, all the boys should be out there for every session.

There shouldn't be an absentee Friday night. The squad needs a thorough cultivating for the Saturday tilt with the Stratford outfit. They apparently still smart from the beating the locals handed them in Stratford on the 24th, or maybe—who knows?—this fellow Young may not be going such great guns this year. At any rate, Stratford didn't use Young yesterday at St. Thomas, although St. Thomas was the logical team to beat. The wise fans think Young is being saved for London, and local bats may treat him to an early shower-bath, at that.

Is Wilde Lured As Was Kilbane?

Fighting Atom Says He Is Not Going To Do Dive.

By FAIR PLAY.
Copyright.

New York, June 6.—Jimmy Wilde, flyweight champion of the world, is training for his coming bout against Pancho Villa in a Jersey City gym. The writer today saw the little Englishman with his big head, Fitzsimmon's legs and body going through his paces. The sun was hot, and Jersey City, the best you can say for it, is no summer resort.

In the meantime Villa, contender for Wilde's title, once holder of the American Gonfalon, is working out in a region of cool, green hills, clear lakes and wonderful stretches of forest and meadow land—Pompton Lakes, N.J. As between the training quarters selected by the pale faced Welshman and the swarthy cheeked Asiatic there is no choice.

Is Wilde getting ready to take a fair beating in exchange for the fat end of the receipts of the June 18 fight just as Johnny Kilbane did? Like Kilbane, Wilde has not fought in a long time, had indeed announced his retirement from the ring. What but the lure of gold, with or without a wallop, would have tempted him over here.

But Wilde himself says he did not come here to be knocked down. Villa, he says, is the first man he has ever fought in an important battle, where he had to give weight. Usually he has been outweighed many pounds, he says. However, he will make the flyweight limit with sweater and underclothes. Villa will probably step into the ring at 110 pounds, Wilde approaching 112.

The wisest thing that the promoters ever did was to change the date of the fight from Saturday to Monday night. In this way the baseball fans and race track men will be able to take in the battle, which is not enough of an attraction to compete.

GARCIA AND TOM NOBLE FIGHT 12-ROUND DRAW

Associated Press Despatch.

Baltimore, June 7. — Bob Garcia, army featherweight champion, fought Tommy Noble, English featherweight champion, 12 rounds to draw here last night. The judges' decision was received unfavorably by many of the fans, who thought Garcia had decisively taken a majority of the rounds.

HAWAIIAN DUKE NOTCHES NEW SWIMMING RECORD

Associated Press Despatch.

Los Angeles, Calif., June 7. — Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaiian swimmer, last night established what was announced as a new world's record for the 50-yard free style dash when he swam the distance in 22 3-5 seconds. The previous record of 23 seconds flat was Kahanamoku's own, established in Honolulu in 1917.

Diamond Glints

Tecs added another closely played game to the loss column yesterday. If the Tecs could once win five straight they'd probably never head them.

* * *

Mackey tossed his managerial worries aside long enough yesterday to bat 1.000 against the Rapids college rookie.

* * *

The Tecs have flung out a lot of strings, but every club in the country seems to be on the same lay and good ball players are at a premium.

* * *

Giacomo and Conley both looked like good bets, especially the former with his experience. His slow and low pegs to first in his premier appearance here, caused comment in the press box.

"Hasn't got much of an arm," was the comment which followed two low pegs in succession.

"Oh! he's just taking his time," replied the other critic, who was willing to believe anything about a chap who had been up there or thereabouts as long as Giacomo was reported to have been.

* * *

Eddie Reis is slated for outright sale by the Toronto Club. His failure to make good at Toronto is much deplored, for the right-hander was very popular in Toronto. Reis would be an acquisition for Mackey as his right-handers haven't had much success this season so far.

Hooker, who used to boat around left field for Port Huron-Sarnia team, has been signed by Frank Shaughnessy for his Canadians in the Eastern Canada League, of which Chief Bender is half owner.

Hamilton Spectator: "It is time for a shake-up in the Hamilton M.-O. team. Eight errors yesterday showed that the pitchers were not entirely to blame for the record score which Flint ran up, although it must be admitted that the twirling staff is very, very weak. Something must be done to strengthen the team before it returns home or else it will be playing to more empty seats than ever. Let's get busy.

HAWAIIAN RELEASED.

Grand Rapids, June 6.—Lefty Blaisdell, University of Hawaii pitcher, who was knocked out of the box by the Saginaw team in the only game in which he appeared, has been returned by the Grand Rapids club of the Michigan-Ontario League to Chicago White Sox, who sent him here.

Outfielder Saul Kimble has been made a free agent. Perry O'Brien, a Pacific Coast outfielder, has been purchased.

NORMAN TUCKER WINS WEEKLY BIKE MEET

Rode Extra Mile To Break Tie With Gerald Davies.

Norman Tucker won one of the closest bicycle meets yet held by the Friendship Cycling Club at Queen's Park last night. Both he and Gerald Davies were tied with eight points each, and they rode off one mile for the evening's honors. Tucker won by three lengths. C. Henshaw took third honors with six points.

There were seven events. One of the features was A. Getsinger's riding in the five-mile event, which he won by five lengths in the fine time of 12:30. He started with a 120-yard handicap.

In the two-mile handicap for boys under 15 the crowd clamored for little Billy Godfree, 7 years old, to enter. He was given an 800-yard handicap, somewhat large, but just the thing to draw on the other contestants to their best form, and he led the field at the finish. Haskett, who was second, however, was awarded first prize.

The results were (figures after the name indicate the handicap):

Men's Events.

Five mile, scratch—1, A. Getsinger (120 yard); 2, C. Henshaw (85); N. Tucker (80). Time, 12:30.

Half-mile scratch—G. Davies, C. Henshaw, N. Tucker. Time, 1:10.

One-mile handicap—1, Gerald Davies (50); 2, W. Haskett (60); 3, Bill Coles (scratch). Time, 2:17.

Two-mile handicap—1, N. Tucker (35); 2, Frank Graham (55); 3, W. Haskett (100). Time, 5:55.

Boys' Events.

Half-mile handicap—1, Joe Sherlock (scratch); 2, S. Davies (scratch); 3, Billy Godfree (100). Time, 1:20.

One-mile Handicap—1, K. Haskett (120); J. Sherlock (scratch); S. Davies (scratch). Time, 2:27.

Two-mile handicap—1, Billy Godfree (800); 2 Ken Haskett; 3, J. Sherlock; 4, S. Davies. (Last three named get points for 1st, 2nd and third, respectively.)

BRANTFORD SENIORS ADD J. BROWN TO INFIELD

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, June 6.—The Brantford baseball team of the Lake Shore League has been considerably strengthened by signing Jimmie Brown, a second baseman. Brown was one of the best infielders in the Inter-County League last season, and his return to the game is good news for the fans.

The management of the local team are endeavoring to arrange games with Oslers or Hillcrests of Toronto in order to test the strength of the Lake Shore League with other seniors organizations. It is possible that Hillcrests will visit Brantford at an early date for a game of twilight ball. The Woodstock team has asked for a game with the Brants and they will likely be accommodated at an early date.

M'AULIFFE SUSPENDED BY MICHIGAN COMMISH

Special to The Advertiser.

Detroit, June 6.—The Avenue Athletic Club's license to stage boxing shows in Michigan was cancelled today by Boxing Commissioner Charles B. Campau, who also has suspended Jack McAuliffe, Detroit heavyweight, until the latter pays a $200 fine imposed upon him by Campau for his poor showing last Monday night.

The Avenue license was revoked because Matchmaker Joe Sarno did not hold up McAuliffe's purse after Monday night's bout, according to Campau. Because Sarno paid McAuliffe Campau was unable to take $200 from the fighter's purse.

Campau announced that he has suspended McAuliffe until such time as the Detroit boxer pays the fine. He says he will have McAuliffe barred in every state where boxing is legalized unless the boxer pays immediately.

PRICES FLUCTUATING UNDER HEAVY BUYING

Market Becomes Irregular Under Pressure of Realizing Sales.

By STUART P. WEST.

Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Wall Street, June 7.—The stock market started in today with a continuance of the buying movement, which had developed in the last hour of Wednesday's trading. Then, as expected, heavy realizing sales were encountered, and the price movement became very irregular.

The feeling around the street was still quite confident that the turn for the better in the market, which began two weeks ago was a lasting turn, but there was no expectation of another bull campaign like in February and March. Rather the idea was what is known as a trading market, namely, a market with comparatively small fluctuations, yet one in which the main initiative would lie on the long side. It filled in with these calculations that, having had several days of advance, there should be a lot of profit-taking today and that this selling should make itself felt.

Oil shares, while not weak, did not act as well as other groups, in spite of a sharp falling off in imports of crude oil, reported in the latest weekly figures.

Among the regular leaders the two in which the most consistent support was apparent were American Can. and American Locomotive, U. S. Rubber and Kelly Springfield ran up a point or more in recognition of the fact that neither of these two companies were hurt by the recent decline in the crude rubber, but, on the contrary, that they were in a position to reap advantage from the lower prices of their raw material.

Among the specialties, Coca-Cola was a feature. The indications were that the short interest, which began to form two and three months ago, in the belief that the rising sugar prices would hurt the company's earnings, was trying to get in its commitments as best it could. Considerable covering was done at the time of the dividend increase last month, but there remained up to this morning a good sized short account still outstanding. It was the demonstration against these shorts that was taking place today.

WALL STREET FEATURES.

International Nickel—There was unusual activity in International Nickel, but so far as could be learned, there was nothing to influence the movement of the stock, except the forthcoming 1922 report, due on Friday. Talk of distribution on the common, which was taken off the dividend list in 1919, was spiked in well informed quarters. The last payment on the junior issue was 50 cents. The preferred stock, of which there is $8,912,600 outstanding, receives $6 annually. It is understood that last year International Nickel just about earned its preferred dividend in 1921, 3.57 per cent was shown on the common.

Punta Alegre Sugar—Punta Alegre Sugar's response at the outset today to Wednesday's late announcement that no action had been taken on the dividend, was a break of a full point. Some people were disappointed because directors had failed at this time to make a distribution on the shares, but the well-known facts regarding net earnings and the outlook for 1923 were evidently not overlooked. It has been established that Punta will show net earnings of between $15 and $20 on the stock this year.

BELGO-CANADIAN BONDS ARE NOW BEING OFFERED

Toronto, June 7.—Interest in the local market yesterday was centered around the coming offering by a syndicate composed of Wood, Gundy and Company and Newman, Sweezey and Company, Limited, of the unsold balance of $8,000,000 Belgo Canadian Paper Company, Limited, 6% 20-year bonds. The offering price is 99 and interest, yielding nearly 6.10%, public offering being commenced today.

It was stated yesterday by the syndicate that the larger portion of the issue has already been disposed of in Canada and the United States. The portion of the issue being reserved for the United States market is being offered at once by a syndicate composed of the Guaranty Company of New York and Wood, Gundy and Company, Inc., New York.

Judging from the results of the preliminary offering, it is expected that the balance of the issue will be quickly absorbed.

The new company's predecessors have been successful manufacturers of newsprint during the past twenty years, and the record of earnings has been extremely satisfactory. During a period when capacity was less than 75% of present output, net earnings available for bond interest, depreciation and income taxes were over 3½ times the interest requirements on the present bond issue, while present earnings are at the rate of 5½ times interest requirements. The fact that the business has been in successful operation over such a long period is very favorably regarded by investors.

TWIN CITY FEATURES AT MONTREAL OPENING

Sensational Advance on Announcement of Dividend on Common.

Reported for The Advertiser by Johnston & Ward.

Montreal, June 7.—The most important development of the past 24 hours has been the decision of the directors of Twin City Rapid Transit to increase the dividend disbursement on the common stock to $6 per annum, by the declaration of $3 for the first six months of the current year. The announcement was enthusiastically received on the local market, and the stock opened with an outburst of activity and strength. Over 1,000 shares changed hands up to the noon hour. In the late trading yesterday the stock had advanced 3 points on the rumor that the dividend was to be increased to $5 per annum. The opening was 5 points above the close, at 76, and the high of the day 77, or a net gain of 9⅛ points from yesterday's low.

Other public utilities displayed firmness.

Pulp and paper stocks were again almost completely neglected, and trading in them consisted of small lots. The publication of the financial statement of Canadian Converters revealed the company to be in excellent financial condition, the profits for the year being the equivalent of 7.6 per cent on the outstanding common stock. The stock sold at 95.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 7.—A six-point advance by Twin City featured this morning's trading on the local stock exchange, with trading showing more activity than during recent days. The declaration of an increased dividend on Twin City brought out a good demand for the stock and the opening sale at 74 represented a four-point gain overnight. The next sale was at 76, with quotations holding between 76 and 76½ throughout the rest of the morning, 76 being the last sale at noon. Duluth was active, gaining ⅝ at 39⅝, while McIntyre Mines was in good demand, advancing a dollar to 19.25. The balance of the list was quiet.

STANDARD MINING EXCHANGE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 7.—Trading was very light on the Standard Exchange this morning. Outside of the gold leaders, which were firm, there was not much movement. Hollinger was steady and 10c higher at 12.15. Hattie and Teck-Hughes were unchanged. McIntyre advanced steadily throughout the morning to 19.05 for a net gain of 85. Goldale was a point higher at 56 and Argonaut ½ at 84. Dome Mines was down to 38.25, 65 lower.

In the silvers, Crown Reserve lost 2 at 55, but Mining Corporation, Nipissing and Temiskaming were unchanged.

EXPECTED DIVIDEND IMPROVES POSITION

Traders Hopeful That Twin City Shares Will Regain High Level.

Special to The Advertiser.

Montreal, June 7.—The sudden move in Twin City toward the close yesterday, the strength of reports from New York to the effect that the stock had been placed upon a six per cent basis through the declaration of a half year's dividend of 3 per cent. These reports mentioned the date payable and other particulars and looked authentic, but could not be confirmed officially before the market closed. This morning the announcement was made of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred and a dividend of $3 a share on the common for the first half of 1923, and the stock opened six points higher at 76 and rose to 77.

Twin City is a stock of good record from the investor's point of view, and in other days has enjoyed a very active market locally at prices far above those ruling at present. Attention was called some time ago by your correspondent to a short interest existing in the issue. If this interest is not covered and the dividend increase is confirmed, an unhappy time would seem to be in store for the shorts, some of whom, no doubt, covered this morning. Both dividends are payable July 2, record June 16.

In an interview with The Advertiser T. Kelly Dickinson, of the stock exchange house of Dickinson and Walbank, speaking on the increase in dividend on Twin City Rapid Transit common, says:

"The action of the directors of Twin City in declaring a dividend of 3 per cent for the half year, thus re-establishing the old 6 per cent per annum rate, prevailing prio rto the war, will once again place the stock in th ehigh grade investment class, as purchasers of stocks for investment account would naturally prefer to pay from ten to fifteen dollars a share more for their stock than during a period of uncertainty.

"Personally, I have no doubt the stock will work up to par, at which point it would give it a return of from 5½ per cent to 5¾ per cent. It will be recalled that in December, 1909, Twin City sold as high as 116⅝, and I am confident that on the present dividend rate the stock will again approximate this level.

"With the stock selling at par this will enable the company to do most of the heavy financing consequent upon the industrial boom in its territory in the best and most economical manner, that is, through the issue of common stock. In 1914 the company issued $1,900,00 new stock at par to take care of extensions and improvements, and no doubt this manner of financing will be reverted to with any future financing the company may contemplate from 1922 to 1914, $6,500,00 ne wstock was issued to shareholders at par."

Everything the Farmer Trades In

TURNOUT WAS LARGE AT MARKET SQUARE

Hay Again Proves Main Feature, But Prices Were Stationary.

The market this morning was an exceptionally good one, because of the fact many farmers killed two birds with one stone, selling their produce in the morning and taking in the circus in the afternoon.

Hay was again the feature of the market, with ten loads offered at $12.00 to $13.50 a ton.

Oats jumped to $1.85 a cwt.

One load of wheat sold at $1.25 a bushel.

Potatoes were firm at $1.40 a bag.

Eggs are steady at 26 cents by the crate and 30 cents per dozen.

Butter is slow, there being little offered.

Asparagus is down to 75 cents a dozen.

Spring chickens will make their appearance on the market in the course of a few weeks.

Lettuce is 15 cents a bunch, or two for 25 cents

Tomato plants were plentiful at 25 to 30 cents a box, the average being 25 cents.

Imported strawberries sold for 30 cents a box.

There was an abundance of plants, including rose bushes, geraniums, and cabbage plants made their appearance, but the demand was rather slow.

Housewives who find shopping on the local market rather difficult will be glad to hear Mayor Wenige and the finance committee of the city council are making strenuous efforts to arrange plans whereby the city people can do their purchasing in short order.

REPORTS ARE FAVORABLE FROM WESTERN SECTIONS

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, June 6.—Favorable crop conditions prevail along western line of the Canadian National Railway, according to the weekly report issued here yesterday.

In most districts in Manitoba and Saskatchewan seeding is completed and only few places report that there is a little barley and flax to be sown.

In Alberta nearly all localities report seeding completed, and that the wheat is in very fine condition.

In many sections of Saskatchewan and Alberta wheat is from three to seven inches above the ground.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, June 6.—Trading on the wheat market here today showed a good undertone, with prices ruling higher, July closing 1⅝c above the previous close and October 1⅛c up. On the high for the day July touched $1.15⅝ and October $1.09⅜. There was fair buying reported through the session, but offerings continued light. October is not showing the same strength as July; trading is light, and traders are awaiting crop and wheat board developments. The oats market continued to show decided strength, with reports of export business being worked, and prices were ¼c above yesterday at the close.

Barley and rye were dull at fractionally higher prices.

CHICAGO

Chicago, June 6.—Active buying here against selling at Winnipeg developed in the wheat market today, and prices took an upward swing. The close was firm, ⅜c to 1½c net higher, with July $1.10½ to $1.10⅝ and September $1.09⅞ to $1.10. Corn finished unchanged to ¾c up, and oats at ¼c to 1¼c gain. In provisions the outcome was 2c to 10c advance.

Wheat bulls made most of their success during the last half of the day. Higher quotations at Liverpool led to something of an upturn in values at the start, but a decline soon ensued. Strength in the price of the July delivery at Winnipeg, however, led to closing-out of spreads between Winnipeg and Chicago.

Unfavorable crop advices from Great Britain and France; together with reports of damage by excessive rains in Kansas, tended further to lift wheat prices as the day drew to an end.

No setback of any consequence interrupted the advance of prices, and, with 120,000 bushels export business here, the market closed at the day's top level.

Corn and oats sympathized with the wheat advance, despite heavy profit-taking sales of corn. Wet weather delay to corn planting had some bullish influence.

Cash prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, $.12; No. 2 hard, $1.11.

THURSDAYS OPENING PRICES.

Chicago, Jne 7.—Advances which took place at the opening in the wheat market toda were soon more than wiped out b speculative selling. The temporary gins resulted chiefly from reports of rut damage in Oklahoma and Kansas, an from word of continued excessive ains over both of those states. Buing, however, lacked volume and the mrket quickly underwent a setback. Initial quotations, which ranged frn ⅛c to ⅝c higher, were followed b a drop all around to well below yesrday's finish.

Corn an oats were easier, influenced by some elling of corn against purchases o other grain. After opening ⅛c off t ¼c up, the corn market suffered a aterial decline.

Oats arted ⅛c to ¼c higher, then receded decidedly below yesterday's figures.

Whe—July, $1.10⅞; Sept., $1.10¼.

EXPORT TRADE DEMAND IS STEADY AT TORONTO

Other Grades Are Slow and Prices Easier All Around.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, June 7.—The week-end market closing was very dull. There was scarcely any demand for butcher cattle today, and many are left over. But for the continued demand for cattle for the export trade, the set-back this week would have been more serious. As it is, prices are easier all around, although not so sharp in the export section as in the other sections. A few export steers were picked out, including six steers o fextra choice quality and finish under 1,200 lbs, but topping the market this week for export cattle at $9.25. The six were fed by F. McKay of Woodstock, sold by Macdonald & Halligan to Rogers & Maybee. A load of export bulls sold from $4.50 ot $5.25, the rest averaging about $4.75.

There was little doing in the butcher section.

Calves were a drag, and about $1 to $1.50 lower than the early part of the week.

Lambs steady.

Hogs weak at $8.25 f. o. b., bid by local packers.

SUMMARY OF REPORTS ON FARM CONDITIONS

Favorable Weather in Ontario Has Greatly Increased Crop Prospects.

Following is a summary of returns made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario department of agriculture:

Seeding is about completed, especially in Western Ontario. The copious warm rains over the weekend have greatly helped germination, and have started pastures with a rush.

Potatoes and corn were largely planted during the week, and a good acreage of each of these crops is assured. Early potatoes are coming up promisingly in many counties.

Orchards are in full bloom, a week or two later than usual. In the eastern half of Ontario tent caterpillars are feared. Strawberries in the great fruit sections are looking encouraging, but raspberries have been top-killed to a considerable extent in many counties.

Perth: A great many farmers are complaining of large areas of spring grains being attacked by wire worms, owing to the heavy rains a short time ago. Numbers of farmers are re-seeding areas that have been drowned out.

Kent: The acreage of hay will be considerably smaller than usual, due to the fact that a large number of fields of old alfalfa and some newly seeded ground had to be plowed up.

Many poultry raisers speak of poor hatches this season. Dealers report the supply of eggs falling off sharply this week. This is somewhat early in the season, but numerous flocks are not laying well.

At a sale of 24 Shorthorns in Grey County on June 1, 15 females brought an average of $126.66, and 9 males sold for $852.50.

Middlesex: Reports from some cheese factories indicate patrons are getting about $1.40 per 100 pounds for their milk.

Creameries as a rule are receiving larger supplies than usual for the time of year. The Port Arthur representative reports that some farmers in that district are contemplating purchasing more cows.

Little pigs are bringing from $8 to $10 a pair in Leeds and $12 a pair in Frontenac. In various parts of the province complaints are coming in of weak litters, and an unusually large number of hairless pigs.

Middlesex: A number of horses have been shipped during the past week at prices around $200.

Kent claims that that county is practically cleaned out of finished steers, and the few that are left will be carried over on grass.

South Simcoe: Practically all live stock has gone out on grass. Very few of the fat cattle are being fed in the stable. Live stock shipments from South Simcoe have been much lighter than the average, largely due, no doubt, to the drop in hog prices. Butcher cattle, which might be classed as medium to good, brought $7 per cwt at the point of shipment. Fifteen dollars per cwt was paid, or $8 to $12 apiece, for spring lambs, and $10 per cwt. for hogs on the thick smooth basis.

Oxford: During the week Mr. Radcliff visited the county again, and purchased three bulls to go to Essex County. The work of our "better live stock campaign" is, therefore, not only improving the live stock of our own county, but also improving the live stock of breeders of outside counties.

Huron: During the week I placed an old country man with a dairy farmer at Stanley. He is experienced in farming, and is starting at $40 per month.

COFFEE

New York, June 6.—The market for coffee futures today closed at net 1 point higher to 2 points lower. Sales 11,000. Closing quotations: July, $9.66; Sept., $8.66; Oct., $8.60; Dec., $8.21; March, $8.13; May, $8.08.

Spot coffee quiet.

Observation seems to show that red-haired persons are less subject to baldness than others.

LARGEST PASSENGER ENGINE.

Above is shown the new mountain type passenger engine just built for the Canadian National Railways by the Canadian Locomotive Company at Kingston. It represents the latest development in the design of the high-speed passenger engine both for power and economy of operation. The overall length of the engine and tender combined is 90 feet, and its total weight 290 tons. The diameter of the driving wheels is 73 inches. Sixteen of these engines are being built, of which six will be put into operation between Montreal and Toronto and ten on the Atlantic region operating east of Moncton.

Flays Sentiment Shown In Deploring Recent Death of Leo Rogers, Murderer

Dr. Edward Ryan, Kingston Psychiatrist, Asserts Bandit Feigned Insanity Hoping For Transfer To Asylum Whence He Might More Readily Escape.

Special to The Advertiser.

Montreal, June 6.—The following communication has been received from Dr. Edward Ryan, superintendent of the Rockwood Hospital for the Insane (Kingston Penitentiary), dealing with the life of Leo Rogers, the North Bay bandit, who killed two police officers and wounded another before he himself was slain:

"It is rarely that I depart from my professional attitude of silence regarding cases of any description that come under my observation. There has been, however, so much fiction, so much that it is apt to turn the attention of men from the real facts of this case, that I deem it best that the truth as I see it should be known, in order that the lesson taught, that the experience gained and dearly bought, may be turned in the end to the advantage of society. Rogers was a criminal, of criminal mind—that and nothing more.

"He was born in Liverpool in April, 1902, of Polish parentage, according to the official documents. So far as brought out in evidence at his former trial, his family history presents nothing out of the ordinary, nor is there any incident in his personal history in childhood or early youth to indicate mental abnormality. He went to school at the usual time and made satisfactory progress, was quite up to his class, and reached the fourth form in the public school at the age of 13.

"In the year 1916 he went to Toronto and enlisted for overseas service. He was, in both height and weight, above the average of his age, and at the time would pass for a young man of 18 years. There were no physical stigmata of degeneration. His mental examination was evidently quite satisfactory at the time of enlistment.

Discharged From Army.

"After being in the army some three months he was discharged, at the request of his mother, not because he was physically unfit, but on the ground that he was under the age required by the military regulations. The fact, however, that he was enlisted without any question, and retained for a period under training is significant.

"It was in his sixteenth year that Rogers' criminal instinct began to assert themselves. On different occasions in June and July, 1917, he broke into hardware stores, stealing rifles, revolvers and ammunition. For these several crimes he was sentenced to seven years in the Kingston Penitentiary.

"On March 25, 1919, he made his attack on Guard Berrigan. His conduct up to this time had been good, and he had earned full remission. I then made a close study of the mind of Rogers, examining him on different occasions. I was not called upon to give evidence at his trial for this offence, as the question of his mentality was not even raised. There was nothing of the youth or of the boy about Rogers at this period of his life. He was a young man, well-developed in all respects. In the meantime he had been under various examinations, by the military authorities, jail surgeon at North Bay, the prison surgeon at the penitentiary, the acting prison surgeon, all of whom have placed on record their professional opinion that Rogers was in nowise insane.

"In my study of Rogers covering this period there was no indication of insanity. His conduct and behavior during examination were quite normal. There were no hallucinations or delusions. Persecutory ideas were not even expressed. His emotional control was excellent. On no occasion in my study of Rogers did he display any marked emotivity.

No Illusions.

The statements that Rogers harbored persecutory ideas regarding the prison authorities, superintendent or warden, have no foundation in fact. When I suggested that he could not gain freedom by these criminal acts, his answer was, 'I am willing to take a chance.'

"On December 31, 1920, he made an attack on Inspector Duncan. Again I made a study, but then he refused to co-operate in any way. He would not answer questions, nor would he engage in conversation. He assumed various attitudes and poses, would utter the words, 'liberty,' 'freedom,' pretend an indifference to his surroundings, and concentrated on the one idea, to make himself appear insane. At this trial the question of insanity was raised, on the evidence given by one psychiatrist, after one examination lasting in all about 20 minutes. No other authority, no other examiner, no other individual who had anything to do with the case ever admitted even the idea that Rogers was insane.

"At this trial my assistant superintendent, Dr. Cumberland, who made a careful independent study of the case, visiting the prisoner on no less than four different occasions, gave evidence, and in every particular corroborated my findings. At this trial men who had acted for years in the asylum section of the penitentiary, before its abolition in 1915, gave evidence, all agreeing that in no instance had Rogers exhibited any symptom of insanity. The conclusions reached by myself and Dr. Cumberland, together with the evidence of the prison officials, satisfied the judge and jury as to the sanity of Rogers, and he was sentenced to 10 years in addition to the sentence already received.

"Immediate there followed an almost hysterical outbreak of protest against the treatment awarded this poor deluded youth. Rarely has one seen such a jumble of emotional piffle, maudlin sentiment and psychic drivel as appeared in this case. One would almost be led to believe that justice had been dethroned, and that the state was dealing with wanton cruelty toward the wayward and afflicted. The victims of the knife and the bludgeon were quite forgotten in the delirious attitude toward a dangerous homicide. We have since paid the price.

"Rogers maintained his feigned attitude of insanity for nearly three weeks; then he sent for the prison authorities and stated that he had been playing insane in order that he might be transferred from the prison to an hospital for the insane. When later I visited Rogers, he laughingly remarked that he had tried to put one over but it did not work. He stated that he would do better to observe the regulations, and this he did until discharged. To Dr. Cumberland he stated that he had made a mistake in assuming the role of the insane and that he now fully intended to obey the prison rules, to play the game and to earn his parole.

Appeared Sane.

"His history from his date of parole till death shows no indication of insanity, criminal it was to be sure, but his acts showed continuity of thought and action, and are sourceful ness even beyond the ordinary. Rogers was a man of criminal instincts, but he was not insane, unless indeed the principle be admitted that every man who commits a crime is insane, and that every man who sets himself against society, who violates every law, legal, moral and social, can justify his actions on the ground of insanity, whether the insanity be feigned or not.

"It is well also to bear in mind that at this time several other prisoners were feigning insanity, with the view of being transferred to an hospital for the insane, to make easier an escape. Most important of all, in an interview with his father, Rogers, speaking in the Polish language, coolly declared he would play the insane, be transferred to an asylum, and then cut his way out. This statement is on record in the penitentiary.

"It is well also to bear in mind one other important fact. Rogers did not pretend insanity until after his murderous attack upon Inspector Duncan had failed. This attack was ingeniously conceived and cleverly executed.

"A short time ago Kingston passed through a reign of terror. The actors in this grim drama broke into hardware stores, armed themselves with rifles and ammunition and started forth. One man was shot to death and three others were wounded. Policemen were held up on the street and business houses and private residences were robbed in approved Rogers' style. They displayed a criminal resourcefulness and cunning that baffled the authorities, yet in this case the question of insanity was not even raised. Nor was it raised in the case of Murrells, nor of the many other bandits who terrorized Ontario a short time ago, making a joke of life and property and a sneer of justice.

Only Course.

"As to the imprisonment of Rogers, no other course could be followed. When Rogers committed his first crime he was a young man of 5 feet 9½ inches in height and weighed 175 pounds, who had served as a soldier and acted as a locomotive fireman. He was therefore no puny infant. He was a man in body and a man in his criminal mind. Where else could he have been sent but to the penitentiary that society might be free from his onslaughts? To place him in a mental hospital, a home for boys, or a reformatory, a school for boys, is a suggestion almost grotesque. Even the penitentiary, with its stone walls, its iron bars, its iron gates, its automatic pistols, its repeating rifles could only with the greatest difficulty retain within its inclosure this resourceful criminal.

"Moreover, the life of Rogers was not influenced in any way by his life in the Kingston Penitentiary. Of this I am sure, from my constant study of his case. From my observation criminals are not bred in the Kingston Penitentiary—they are bred before they enter. Too much emotionalism altogether is expended on the Rogers' type, thus begetting a trend of mind dangerous to science and to justice.

"The tragic course of this case but emphasizes the urgent necessity for the creation of an independent board of mental experts to study carefully and to advise, not only at the trial of such men, but to study their subsequent lives and to advise constituted authority as to their disposition. For the establishment of such a board I have long contended. The necessity for the services of a trained psychiatrist on the staffs of penal institutions is clearly manifested.

"Is it too much to hope, in the light of this last drama, that action, too long deferred, will now be taken?

MINING NEWS

Dome Mines, Limited, gold production in May was valued at $355,532, compared with $160,111 in April and $259,866 in March.

A special meeting of the shareholders of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada, Limited, has been called for Monday, June 11, in Montreal, to authorize the company to guarantee West Kootenay Power and Light bonds to the amount of $1,750,000.

A telegram from the management of the Montreal-Ontario Mines in the Kirkland Lake Camp is to the effect that two veins have been disclosed in a cross-cut at the 450 ft. level and both veins are rich. Montreal-Ontario was listed on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange about three weeks ago when it made its appearance around 44 cents a share, since when it has sold up to 57 cents.

Official of Dome Mines Company states that he knows of no basis for current rumor that company would not pay the dollar dividend, promised last year. Returns from mine continue satisfactory, and he could see no reason to anticipate unfavorable action. May production was $355,532, as compared with $160,000 in April and with $325,000 in May, 1922.

Vickers, which has been listed on the unlisted section of the Toronto Stock Exchange, has commenced diamond drilling and the first hole is already down 78 feet; it is expected that No. 4 vein will be cut at the 500 foot depth. A gang of men are also at work on the south claim, removing overburden and trenching in preparation for the diamond drilling of this claim. The shaft is being dewatered and preparations made to erect new head-frame and sink the shaft.

The annual statement of the Beaver Consolidated Mines, Limited, for the year ended December 31, 1922, shows revenue for the year of $37,724, made up as follows: Estimated ore on hand, $1,802; ore sales, $94, and interest and exchange, $35,828; operating and administration charges totalled $12,832, leaving $24,892 profit for the year. With the balance forward of $944,494, there was available the sum of $969,386, and after deducting depreciation, development charges, expenses, etc., there remained a credit balance of $948,123.

Work has commenced on the trunk road between South Porcupine and Matagami. Camps have been established at a point on the road a little over a mile west of South Porcupine and a strip of bush about twelve feet wide and a mile long has already been cleared on the north side of the present road in a westerly direction. This will permit of a much needed widening of the present highway. One of the government steam road rollers has arrived and was taken out to the camp today. It is expected that the road will be closed to traffic about the end of this week, but considerable work has to be done on the road near Paymaster Mine, and it is now possible to make the trip from South Porcupine to Timmins by automobile inside of 40 minutes, going by way of Dome Mines, Consolidated, West Dome and Paymaster, arriving in Timmins south of the Porcupine Crown and coming in through Moneta.

Gigantic C.N.R. Locomotive With Weight of 290 Tons Has Record Size and Power

Kingston Company Completes New Iron Mammoth With Trackive Strength of 49,600 Pounds—Aristocrat of Canadian Passenger Engines.

Kingston, June 6.—Designed especially for speed and economy of operation, engine No. 6000, the largest passenger engine in Canada, has just been built for the Canadian National Railway by the Canadian Locomotive Company of Kingston. The latest iron monster to be added to the 1923 equipment of the National Railways will roll out of the locomotive company's yards tonight and make its initial journey to Montreal, where it will be on exhibition over the week-end. At the first of the week it will be driven to Toronto for another public exhibition.

Engine No. 6000 is of the mountain type, and according to both the builders and the engineers of the Canadian National Railways is the last word in engine construction and represents the finished produce of modern thought in locomotive design. It is the first of 16 engines to be built in Kingston for the National Railways. Of these six are to be put into operation between Montreal and Toronto, while the remaining 10 will be shipped to the Atlantic Division, where they will be put into service between Moncton and points eastward.

Unique Design.

In many ways engine No. 6000 is unique in design and there is every possibility that it will make railroad history the same as did engine No. 999 which some years ago made an United States railroad famous for its trains between New York and Chicago. This engine which is now a "pensioner" of the American road which it served so well for more than two decades, famous though it is in railway annals, would seem to be small when compared to the titan 6000 both for size and power.

Its overall length is approximately 90 feet including the tender, which is the first one to be designed with 12 wheels, six on each side. It was necessary to design a new type tender owing to the tremendous water and coal capacity required. The tender will carry 17 tons of coal and 10,000 imperial gallons of water.

In the designing of engine No. 6000 the engineers of the Canadian National Railways kept two cardinal points in view—that of service and economy of operation. Although it is the most powerful steel giant designed for passenger service in Canada and capable of making high speed on long-distance runs, its cost of operation has been reduced to a minimum. Special attention was also given to climatic conditions and has been designed so that it will stand up against winter blizzards and severe snowfalls. A special reserve of power will make it overcome practically all these obstacles and at the same time run to schedule time.

The weight of this engine together with tender is more than 290 tons, but it is capable of maintaining schedule with the largest passenger train now in operation. The weight of the engine is ten feet six inches and its tractive power 49,600 pounds. It is about 20 per cent more powerful than the largest engine at present in passenger service in Canada. It is equipped with eight drive wheels four on each side, of 73 inches in diameter, and its boiler carries 225 pounds pressure to the square inch with an inside diameter of six feet four inches at the largest course so that a man of average height could stand upright in it and barely touch the top.

Latest Equipment.

Among its other leading features that it is equipped with everything known to modern railroad practice in regard to safety devices, labor-saving equipment and economy of operation. It has the automatic stoker, which the Canadian National Railway was the first railroad in Canada to adopt, feed water heater, super heater, power reverse gear and power grate shakers. The firebox is electrically welded, thereby eliminating rivets and seams. The combustion chamber also has the joints made by electric welding. The driving axles and main crank pins are hollow, which gives additional strength for the same weight of material.

Apart from its many unique features this engine will be noted for its new design. The vestibule cab is somewhat shorter than those of other engines, and it has the main steam turrets and connecing pipes located on top of the boiler in front of the cab. From a point of appearance the lines give it a new beauty of design and this coupled with its power, endurance and economy of operation makes it truly the aristocrat of all passenger engines in Canada. With the delivery of engine No. 6000, the first of the super passenger engines which the Canadian National Railways will put into operation will be commenced. According to contract two engines of this type must be delivered each week until the entire 16 are completed.

NATIONAL CITY COMPANY ANNOUNCES NEW BOARD

A combination of financial and industrial interests, forming the Canadian advisory board of the National City Company, is announced by N. L. C. Mather, vice-president and managing director, in conjunction with the absorption by this investment banking house of the United Financial Corporation of Montreal. The membership of this advisory board is constituted as follows: Right Hon. Lord Shaughnessy, K.C., V.O., chairman; Sir John Aird, A. J. Brown, Hon. J. M. Wilson, Sir Charles Gordon, O.B.E., Sir Lomer Gouin, K.C.M.G., M.P., Charles R. Hosmer, Wilmot L. Matthews, Lieut.-Col. Herbert Molson, C.M.G., M.C., F. W. Molson, Sir Augustus Nanton, Edson L. Pease and W. N. Tilley, K.C. The National City Company, Limited, was established in Canada some four years ago to assist financially in the development of this country. In that period it has succeeded in bringing into Canada a volume of outside capital of over $200,000,000 through its individual efforts, apart altogether from the results of its participation with other investment houses. Its success in the future should outstrip even this accomplishment, backed as it is by the resources of the National City Company, that has rapidly won the position of one of the largest bond distributing organizations in the world.

We offer the unsold balance of new issue of

Montreal Trust Company—Trustee. Annual Cumulative Sinking Fund commencing July 1st, 1924, is to be 2% for the first five years and 3% thereafter

THE COMPANY

Belgo Canadian Paper Company, Limited, is being incorporated under the laws of the Province of Quebec to acquire the properties and business of The Belgo Paper Company, Limited, which is one of the largest and lowest-cost producers of newsprint paper in Canada, owning and operating at Shawinigan Falls, P.Q., a modern newsprint paper mill with a capacity of over 90,000 tons of newsprint per annum, now being increased to 115,000 tons per annum. The business has been in successful operation during the past twenty years.

ASSETS SECURING BONDS

Bonds are to be secured by specific first mortgage and charge on all the Company's real and immovable properties, including plants, buildings, timber limits and leases now owned and hereafter acquired, and by a floating charge on all other assets, present and future.

The physical assets to be pledged under the mortgage, including extensions now being made, have recently been appraised at $18,750,464. Net current assets as at April 30th, 1923, after deducting current accounts of $1,002,100 (no bank loans) were $2,306,265. Total assets securing the Bonds are over 2½ times the present issue.

EARNINGS

Net earnings, as certified by Messrs. P. S. Ross & Sons, Chartered Accountants, Montreal, after maintenance and repairs, available for bond interest, depreciation and income taxes, have been as follows:—

Period	Output (Rate per annum)	Net Earnings (Rate per annum)	Equal to interest on present issue earned
Four fiscal years ended Aug. 31st, 1922.....	65,303 tons	$1,742,570	over 3½ times
Eight months of current fiscal year (September 1922 to April, 1923, inclusive).....	65,303 to 90,000 tons	$1,989,054	over 4 times

The additional equipment increasing capacity to 90,000 tons per annum began operation on March 1st; net earnings for the first two months following such increase aggregated $450,671, equivalent to 5½ times two months' interest requirements on these Bonds.

Commencing November 1st next, the completion of another newsprint unit now being installed will increase the production to 115,000 tons of newsprint annually. This increased capacity should result in a further substantial increase in earnings.

PROPERTIES

The plant at Shawinigan Falls, P.Q., is one of the most efficiently equipped newsprint mills on the continent. The mill is a complete and self-contained unit, including groundwood and sulphite pulp and newsprint mills, with the necessary auxiliary equipment. The location of the mills at Shawinigan Falls is most advantageous with relation to supplies of raw materials and markets for finished products.

The Company will own 15,000 acres of freehold timber lands and control under lease from the Province of Quebec 1800 square miles leasehold timber limits on the St. Maurice River and tributaries, estimated to contain 6,000,000 cords pulpwood, sufficient for forty years' operations at the increased capacity.

The management of the Company will remain in the hands of those responsible for the attainment of its present outstanding position. The President, Mr. Hubert Biermans, has been the active head of the business since its inception.

The larger part of this issue having been placed in the United States and Canada, we offer the balance if, as and when issued and received by us, and subject to legality, at:

WANT AD TIPS

A Pad and Pencil at the 'Phone

With important points in his mind, the buyer who has advertised a want can assemble information quickly in 'phone conversations with parties who reply. Then he can sift out the most appealing offerings for investigation in person.

A pad and pencil should be his inseparable aids at the telephone. It is surprising how efficiently, using these, a buyer can handle calls. Thus a suburbanite was in the market for a family cow. When each new party called, he asked in quick succession these questions, noting the answers on his pad::

"How old is she? When did she freshen? When is she due? What did she give when fresh? What is she giving now? How rich is the milk? What is the breed? Is she large? Is she gentle? Is she absolutely sound? How long have you owned her? Why are you selling her? What price do you ask? When can I see her?"

Concluding each conversation, he obtained the name, address and phone number, informed the party he would telephone if he decided to call, and said, "Thank you for calling me." Often he obtained his information in a three-minute conversation. Jotting answers down seemingly did not slow up conversation at all.

Whether one is advertising for a home, a restaurant, a typewriter, a cow, or what not, there is no substitute for the pad and pencil at the telephone. Even if, in the nature of the article, replies will not be numerous, the plan will relieve a memory which is all too apt to be human, and, accordingly, faulty. Where several parties respond, the note-taking is indispensable. Essential facts in each case are got at and recorded. Readily now they can be weighed together; put against the facts of another offering.

The pad is also a good check on what information has been obtained, consulted before the advertiser hangs up. Rapidly reviewing the sheet, he can hurriedly determine whether he has touched on all the points concerning which he desires preliminary information.

Judge Decides To Strike As Protest Against Noise

Chatter and Lack of Politeness on Part of the Lawyers Angers Monet, Who Departs From Court Babble.

Special to The Advertiser.

Montreal, June 7.—Judge Monet went on strike in the enquette court as a protest against lack of politeness due to magistrates on the part of lawyers and court officials.

It was to the members of the bar, seated and standing before him that Judge Monet addressed himself. Three young lawyers were bantering each other about recent nocturnal happenings. Two older advocates were hotly debating politics, and a K. C. was holding forth with his clients. At the back there was snickering and general chatter. Even the newspapermen received a disapproving look from the judge.

"I refuse," declared the judge, after the clerk of the court had experienced considerable trouble in making himself heard, "to sit any more in this court room. Hereafter I shall try all cases for enquette in chamber, and only the accused and the lawyers immediately interested may attend. The witnesses will be called by the crier; the others can remain here in this court and finish their stories. I am particularly addressing this to the members of the bar. They, too, can remain outside and chatter and talk as much as they please."

The judge got up. "Good afternoon, gentlemen," he said, and walked out

FOURNIER ADMITS APPROPRIATING CAR

Turned Over To Sheriff of Wentworth On More Serious Charge.

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, June 6.—Magistrate Watt today sentenced Oscar Fournier, an ex-inmate of the Ontario Reformatory, to a term of six months imprisonment, in addition to a fine of $300, after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of taking a motor-car belonging to Frank Ellingham of Guelph without the owner's consent. In default of payment of the fine, Fournier will serve an additional six months in jail. The charge first brought against the prisoner was for theft, but it was amended to the minor offence, when the accused admitted his guilt in so far as taking the car for a trip to Hamilton, but denied that he intended to steal the machine.

As Fournier has already been committed for trial at Hamilton on a charge of attempting to shoot a police officer, the magistrate ordered that he be handed over to the sheriff of Wentworth county to await action on the part of the authorities on the more serious charge.

NORFOLK TAKES UP PLANTING OF TREES

County Council Authorizes Purchase of 25 Acres For Reforestation.

Special to The Advertiser.

Simcoe, June 6—The Norfolk county council closed a busy two-day session this afternoon in time to attend the big race meet at the Agricultural Park track. The most notable event of the June gathering occurred yesterday afternoon when a monster deputation from South Wasingham waited upon the council to protest the roads construction policy between St. Williams and Port Rowan, where four miles of stone base, without gravel or tarvia covering, have been left to the mercy of the elements. The sum of $40,00 has already been sunk in the project. The roads are in a dilapidated condition, and the council could give no assurance that funds would be forthcoming to complete the job.

The council passed several money bylaws, and the same assessment as in 1922 was adopted. The county clerk was given a boost of $200 in salary and one month's vacation.

The matter of reforestation was urged in order to maintain the country's gradually dwindling supply of timber. Norfolk county has many acres of cheap land suited to timber growing, and with the government forestry farm located in this district, should lead the province in planting young seedlings. The council authorized the purchase of twenty-five acres of cleared land for the forestry station to be devoted to reforestation.

Dennis was seriously burned about the back, and a hole was burned clean through one shoulder. The other two men, Alfred Purnell and Frank Oakley, were only slightly shocked.

MONTREAL LAWYER SEEKS DAMAGES OF CONDUCTOR

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, June 6.—Maurice Demers, Montreal lawyer, has brought suit against the Canadian Pacific Railway, and one of its conductors, J. J. Flegg, for $500, alleging that Flegg refused to ask for the plaintiff's ticket in the French tongue. Demes declined to produce it unless so asked, and that Flegg and members of the train crew jostled him, and were about to attempt to put him off the train, when he finally yielded his ticket.

Demers asks $295 for damages to his honer and respectability; $150 for shock to his nerves; $30 for costs in making the case; and $25 for trouble.

The case is proceeding before Mr. Justice Surveyer.

SEVEN ARE KILLED AND 100 WOUNDED IN LEIPZIG RIOT

Demonstration Protesting Ruhr Occupation Has Fatal Results.

CROWDS FIRED INTO

Unruly Mob Come to Blows With Police in Wild Demonstration.

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, June 7.—Seven persons were killed and more than one hundred wounded in yesterday's disorders at Leipzig, it was announced in special despatches from that city today. The deaths include one policeman, the head watchman, while there are 15 policemen among the wounded, 37 of whom are in a serious condition.

The demonstration was in protest against the Ruhr occupation and the insufficiency of the unemployment doles. Some 20,000 persons, it is stated, took part. Order had been completely restored at 9 o'clock last evening.

The demonstrators gathered under the auspices of the trade unionists and the Socialists in five huge assemblies in the central part of the town. The demonstration was the climax of a number of minor parades and open air meetings which had occurred during the two days previous.

Toward the close of these gatherings, it is stated, crowds of the youthful, unruly elements, suspected of including some Communists, began stirring up provocative agitation in the neighboring streets against the police and the trade union leaders, who were preserving order.

The police declare that when they tried to suppress this counter-demonstration a shot was fired from the crowd and the police then resorted to the use of blackjacks. This brought a shower of stones and bits of glass from the disturbers, who in turn began using blackjacks and also knives.

After vainly trying to disperse the crowd by shooting into the air, the police shot directly at the rioters. Mounted police and other reinforcements soon afterwards succeeded in restoring order.

SEARCH IS CONTINUED FOR "KING" BENJAMIN

Police Make Unsuccessful Raid On Shiloh, Purnell's Late Residence.

Special to The Advertiser.

St Joseph, Mich., June 7.—Sheriff George Bridgeman today revived a search through Michigan and several surrounding states for King Benjamin Purnell leader of the House of David.

The quest was extended following an unsuccessful raid on Shiloh, official residence of King Benjamin at the colony last night. Bridgeman led a score of policemen and deputies in a search of the house wherein the cult leader is alleged to have kept his alleged harem of pretty girls. The party also searched other buildings for secret passageways and hiding places without results.

The only clue found was a freshly pressed shirt and a pair of Ben's pants in his room. The raid was made on a warrant charging Benjamin with a criminal assault on Gladys Bamford Rubel, who, with her sister is suing him for $100,000 damages.

GERMANY AGREES TO PAY BIG SUMS FOR REPARATIONS

Proposes System of Annuities To Become Effective in Four Years.

IMPARTIAL INQUIRY

Will Abide by Decision of Conference Represented by All Nations.

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, June 7.—Germany's amendatory reparations note, which was handed to the Entente and United States governments this afternoon, proposes a system of annuities estimated to total 1,200,000,000 marks annually of an international loan not available for immediate capital payments.

The annuities would become effective in 1927, and their number and amount would depend wholly on the degree of Germany's economic recovery.

The memorandum declares an inevitable requisite to a practical solution of the reparation problem is the early convocation of a general conference to which Germany would be admitted on an equal basis.

The memorandum reaffirms Germany's good will and readiness to meet her reparations obligations, and asserts the conviction that the entire problem should be submitted to an impartial inquiry, the verdict of which, it declares, would be accepted by the German government.

As a guarantee for the annuities, the German government pledges the federal railway system, which would be capitalized at 10,000,000,000 marks, yielding an annual bonded interest of 500,000,000 marks.

Lambert Alexander of Hamilton. In thus being elected to the office which is the highest executive position in the union, Dr. Pedley mounts the chair for the third time.

The ministers and laymen elect to the incoming church union committee include: Matthew Kelly, London; W. G. Martin, Brantford; J. L. Alexander, Hamilton; F. Sanders, Guelph; J. W. Newberry, Waterloo.

FIREMEN SAVE MOTHER AND TOTS FROM FIRE

Blaze at Hamilton Supposed To Be of Incendiary Origin.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hamilton, June 7.—Fire of supposed incendiary origin this morning about 5 o'clock did damage to the premises of the H. B. Sure Company, 15 West Avenue North, estimated at $5,000. The place has been placed under police guard, and Fire Chief James has asked an official from the fire marshal's office to come and investigate the fire at once.

About 5 o'clock this morning, children of Mr. and Mrs. Sure, who reside over the store, were awakened by smoke and aroused their mother. She got them to safety on a second-story verandah and called neighbors. Meantime the fire department was called. The firemen rescued Mrs. Sure and the children and subdued the flames. It is stated that the fire broke out in two or three places at the same time, and it is suspected that the place was set afire. Mr. Sure went to Toronto yesterday, and was not at home at the time of the fire. Mrs. Sure is suffering from shock and is under a doctor's care.

Recent acquisition of storage facilities in Philadelphia, it is believed, will make that city the leading flour port of the world. The efficient methods employed to handle bulk grains, when applied to shipment of flour, it is expected, will put American agents on a par with English millers.

To Work--or Push --Way To Shelby

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, June 6.—Not to be deprived of the privilege of witnessing a world's championship prize fight, three budding athletes of Guelph have figured out a novel way of seeing the big bout between Dempsey and Gibbons, which takes place at Shelby, Montana, on July 4. The trio of young sports are Vic Lafontaine, Anthony Wieler and Tom McKenna, and early tomorrow morning these three amateur pugilists will start out on a motor jaunt to far-off Montana. The boys have purchased a second-hand flivver especially for the trip to the American city, while they will also lug along their own camping equipment for the odd snooze at the various stopping-places over night.

They will carry in their jeans sufficient cash to pay their way into the fight, but they expect to defray all their expenses in connection with the trip of securing work as farm hands in the American state during the coming harvest. The boys are not only out for adventure, but they are looking forward to a most enjoyable trip.

All members of the Hospital club are requested to turn out for this game, and also to attend the meeting which will follow. Any suggestion from members for the welfare of the club will be welcomed at this meeting.

Soccer Notes

—By BILLY BISSET—

This year's campaign for the Connaught Cup, emblematic of the Dominion association football championship will be a whirlwind affair, lasting but a month so far as the provincial series is concerned, and means that every team in the competition will have to do some tall hustling to get through in time for the final on July 7.

* * *

The campaign now about to get under way will be a strenuous one for many of the teams, especially if there are many drawn games.

* * *

It is just possible that the team with the most reserve players will go far in the competition.

* * *

There is a doubt as to financial responsibilities shouldered by the home teams in the Dominion championship series, that is the preliminary rounds. According to D. F. A. rules in all cases the visiting team must be guaranteed thirteen railway fares.

* * *

Whilst on the Connaught Cup theme a brief history of the famous mug should be most opportune at this time.

* * *

This handsome and imposing trophy represents the amateur association football championship of all Canada.

* * *

It was presented by H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, when governor-general, and of course named after him.

* * *

All senior amateur soccer football clubs affiliated with the D. F. A. are eligible to enter the competition for the honor of winning same.

* * *

This competition is an annual one and was first played in 1913, and was continued without a break until 1916.

* * *

In that year and the two following ones footballers in general were too much occupied in quite a different way over in Europe, so the cup was laid away. On completion of hostilities, however, it was brought forth again and the yearly battles continued.

* * *

The preliminary rounds are played for by provinces, and when the winner of each province is known, the two near-east play each other until only two are left in for the grand final.

* * *

All provincial winners must be known by July 1 of each year, and each provincial association is responsible for this being done.

* * *

It was not until 1921 that a British Columbia team made any effort to capture the trophy, and this can easily be understood when it is considered that it means an outlay of $4,500 to bring a B. C. team to Toronto, so only a real wealthy B. C. combination may entertain the idea, and such a club is rare in amateur circles.

* * *

No definite expenses are guaranteed to the finalists by the D. F. A., but they have first claim on the gate for traveling and hotel expenses—less 15 per cent. which goes to the Dominion governing body.

* * *

If after paying all expenses, any surplus is left, it all goes to the association. It therefore necessarily follows that large gates are essential if the teams are to come out on the right side of the financial ledger.

* * *

1913—Norwood Wanderers F. C. (Winnipeg).
1914—Norwood Wanderers F. C.
1915—Winnipeg Scottish F. C.
1916-17-18—No competition.
1919—Grand Trunk F. C., Montreal.
1920—Westinghouse F. C., Hamilton.
1921—Toronto Scottish F. C.
1922—Hillhurst F. C., Calgary.

* * *

In 1922 Toronto Scottish eliminated Toronto Ulster United in the Toronto district series for the Ontario Cup, which they ultimately won. In the Connaught Cup Toronto district series after two drawn games the Redhanders in turn eliminating Scottish, with the Ulstermen losing out in the final for the coveted mug to Calgary Hillhurst F. C., through the toughest of hard luck, the Redhanders being severely handicapped in the second game played owing to two of their best players, viz., Hunt and King, having the misfortune of breaking their legs.

* * *

As those aforementioned clubs are rated to be two of Canada's best soccer football combinations, it is therefore plainly to be seen what London Maple Leafs are up against, that is to say, proving Leafs win over Dome Mines F. C. Saturday.

* * *

Using that old adage "There's many a slip twixt cup and lip," might well apply to the winners of the Ulster vs. Scottish game in their probable meeting with Maple Leafs, and even though many queer things happen in association football, especially in cup tie battles should any of those two Toronto aggregations happen to meet Leafs in Toronto in the second round for the cup, there's no doubt about it but that Toronto will be able to declare a winner, as both Ulster and Scottish are just as strong if not stronger than they were in 1921, when at a time Toronto Scottish very easily eliminated the then strong Public Utilities F. C. in the Albert Plenty Cup competition game staged in London.

* * *

Pete Lang, St. Thomas Junior Rovers' scintillating outside right, has added another silver cup to his collection. This time for boxing. Pete's den by this time, with its varied assortment of wrestling, boxing and soccer cups, badges, etc., ought to make a Sanchie-hall street jewelry store look woefully sick.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, June 6.—Midget O. A. L. A. lacrosse will be started here for the first time in the history of the game this year with three Sarnia teams and one entry from Petrolea, where Pete Zimmerman, who hails from Hanover, has been drilling a team all season. The Bear Cats, the south-ward team, have a squad of more than 30 players out to practice fighting for places on the team. Intermediate players will coach the local 15-year-olds. Tonight—St. Peters vs. St. Michaels.

Marconis pushed St. Marys farther into the basement of the C. A. A. A. League in last night's fixture at Sunshine Park, and added to the sting by annexing the win in the last inning. The score was 4 to 3.

There was no scoring until the last of the fourth. Lewis, St. Mary's curve artist, set somewhat of a league record, striking out the six successive Marconi batters who faced him in the second and third innings, as well as a total of 11 for the game. He allowed only three hits.

In the fourth, a couple of bunts with some nicely placed errors gave Marconis three runs. St. Marys tied the score in the sixth, but a mussed up grounder and two wild throws scored Marconi's fourth and winning run in the last of the sixth.

M. Sansone was given beautiful support. He was touched for just four hits, and whiffed two.

Walter Hagen's Golf Primer

Copyright.

Golfers in America must not get the impression that the British open championship is an easy thing to win.

There are many capable professionals on this side of the big water hazard, besides a lot of good amateurs. It might be true enough that the old triumvirate has faded out of the picture, but there are others to take their places. Vardon, Braid and Taylor compose the triumvirate, so called on account of the many championships they have won. Taylor and Braid have taken five each, and Vardon six.

Almost in the same class with these three is Sandy Herd, who has won one open here—a great golfer in his day. Sandy has a unique faculty for getting holes in one stroke. He has collected seventeen up to date, and as far as I am concerned it will stand for all time to come, as I have played a great deal of golf in the past fifteen years, and never had an "ace" to my credit yet.

I am not going to predict that any of these four old masters is going to win at Troon, although they might all make a creditable showing. I rather look for the victor to be a younger man. All four of the old guard are well past fifty years of age—an age when big prizes are out of the question, if we are to go by precedent.

I think I am right in stating that no man ever won the British open who was past the half-century mark. I am sure no golfer ever won our own title who was that age. Although there have been some grand old men of the game, no amateur past fifty has ever won an amateur title. John Ball won the British amateur championship in 1912, when he was 49 years of age, and he has played some creditable golf since, but no new title has come his way.

We Americans count on the strongest opposition coming from Duncan, Mitchell and Ray, and some of the younger set. Duncan is a grand golfer, and capable of almost anything in the golfing line. He has won the title once, and has always been a dangerous contender. His game is well known to Americans, and so are the style and ability of Mitchell and Ray. Abe has never won a big open championship, but Ray has won the title here and in America.

Ray is a golfer to be feared at all times. He has a long game that is to be reckoned with. Ray is always dangerous, because he has two outstanding features outside of his drive. He is good at whaling the ball out of the rough. He has a powerful frame, and can put a lot of force into a shot either from the rough or the fairway. Ray is such a fine putter that he is able to make amends for many slips which would undoubtedly cost other players strokes.

Audrey Boomer of France is a golfer who must be taken into consideration. He has won the French championship twice, and has done well in Great Britain. He is one of the younger school that sooner or later will fill the shoes of the present generation of champions. Boomer has plenty of nerve, which is always an asset. In fact, it is better to have nerve than to be a great shot-maker without it.

Young Jolly, who defeated me at Leeds, is a capable golfer who has this desirable quality of nerve plus ability. I would like to wager that this lad will be heard from sooner or later. His praises are sung all over England for the work he did at Leeds.

Arthur Havers has beeen picked for several years to win the open championship. He is a tall young golfer, with plenty of skill. I had a good chance to judge his golf recently at Henningsley, and found that he is all that has been said of him. He showed up well the first year I came over here. I think he finished fourth. The second year he was fourth again, but last year at Sandwich he was out of the money. This season he appears to be playing very well again.

There are other good ones over here. George Gadd, who won the professional championship, is a good man. Gene Sarazen beat him at Leeds, but Gadd said that he had not rounded into his best form yet. Wingate and Holland are also first-class tournament players.

BLENHEIM NINE OPENS BY BLANKING CHATHAM

Hon. Manning Doherty Officiates At Opening Ceremonies Kent Centre Wins 11--6.

Special to The Advertiser.

Blenheim, June 6.—A splendid crowd witnessed the opening county league baseball game on the Blenheim grounds this afternoon. Hon. Manning Doherty pitched the first three balls, with Mayor George F. Reycraft catching, and the vice-president of the league, Reeve Alex Clunis, batting.

The pitcher overcame the old-time batsman by three pitched balls, first a foul, second a ball, and on the third Clunis grounded out, pitcher to first.

The minister was introduced to the crowd by Reeve Clunis, and made a short and appropriate address, in which he congratulated the people of this district on the interest they are taking in good wholesome sport, and wished them success. He refrained from any political remarks, which he deemed would be unfair to his opponents on such an occasion. He was well received. The league game was between Chatham Maple City team and Blenheim, both of which are contenders in the O. B. A. A. The result was a shutout by the home team, 6 to 0. The two-base hit of Rumble scoring two in the first inning, and a homer in the fifth driving in two more, and the deep center catch by Sianson cutting off the only two runs the visitors got in sight, were the big features of the game. Rain stopped the game at the end of the fifth.

Batteries—Blenheim, Gray and Rumble; Chatham, Brehard and Blair.

Umpires—Collier and Kimberley.

As a result of this game, Blenheim has won both county league games played; also both exhibition games played this year.

Kent Center and Guilds ball teams played an interesting game preceding the other game, in which Kent Center won by 11 to 6.

Batteries — Kent Center, Turnbull, Wilson and O'Neil; Guilds, P. Smith, Dawson and G. Burk.

Umpires—R. Gray and Kimberley.

The tug-of-war between Harwich and Raleigh, with Reeves "Goldie" Russell and M. J. Wilson, had to be called off owing to lack of time.

The Story of the big "Home" Tin.

Once upon a time there was a man
Who was a Trial to his family.

After a day's work he'd go home
And raise the Dickens regularly.

Nothing pleased him, his wife, his dinner, the New Radio set, his son, they got "theirs."
He read the papers and raved at the editors.
His glasses were wrong.
The tobacco wasn't fit to smoke.
Why couldn't a man ever get tobacco fit to smoke?

Now his Family took council
And decided to look into matters.

It wasn't the fault of the cook,
His wife was an excellent wife,
The Radio did all the agent said it would,
The son was a nice boy,
The optician said his glasses were all right—
THEREFORE, it MUST be the tobacco.
So son was detailed to fetch him a "Home" tin of T. & B.
Which everyone knows is the finest Golden Virginia Leaf

Specially cured and blended.
This simple act of kindness made of him a changed man.

"THE STRANGER"

A Gripping Story of Love Triumphant Over the Plots of a Master Criminal

BY JOHN GOODWIN

Philip Learns That Goodenough and The Gang of Criminals Are Killed In An Explosion

"You tell me you have failed, Mervyn. What do you mean by that."

"You really wish to know?" said Mervyn slowly. "You will not leave things where they are?"

"I must know," said Philip under his breath. "I must know what has become of John Goodenough."

Mervyn closed the hall door.

"Leaving details aside, then," he said, "the facts are these:

"Acting on information received, I discovered, at the eleventh hour, the hiding place in London of Callaghan and his two confederates. I just missed apprehending them; when I arrived, the birds had flown. A little earlier, Brancepeth got on the track of John Goodenough, traced him to Plumstead, and for an hour lost sight of him. He wired to me. I do not blame Brancepeth; I know his difficulties. I followed instantly in a car. At ten-twenty, while I was still a mile from Plumstead, there was a heavy explosion in the distance. I joined Brancepeth and we found that a hut on the marshes had been blown into matchwood and splinters."

Mervyn laid a finger on Philip's arm.

"Four men died in that explosion," he said quietly.

"Four?" repeated Philip a little hoarsely.

"Four. That is the only thing certain."

"Are they identified?"

Mervyn looked away.

"There is," he said, after a pause, "nothing to identify."

Philip, very pale, made no answer. The parting words of his guest on the previous night shone, as it were, before his eyes in letters of fire.

"Mottisfont," said Mervyn, gravely, "knowing what you know—remembering what you told me two nights ago—can you reconstruct in your mind the scene that took place in that hut?"

"I can," said Philip, under his breath. "I see it very clearly."

"The meeting—the conflict—the finish?"

"Surely. I can see the thing that happened."

"And so can I," said Mervyn.

"Can you prove it?"

"Officially," said Mervyn, "I can prove absolutely nothing. The evidence is simply wiped off the face of the earth. And," he added slowly, "I am glad of it."

"Glad?" said Philip. "I thank heaven for it. There has been unhappiness enough. The dead have had their share of it. Let us not inflict it on the living."

"You need have no fear, Mottisfont. Speaking again unofficially, Scotland Yard does no advertise its failures. Especially when no jot of proof exists."

"Callaghan, Vaille, Bell," murmured Philip, "were three. I am thinking of that fourth man."

"Speaking very unofficially," said Mervyn, "I think, on the whole, he died not unworthily."

"Requiescat," said Philip, lifting his hat.

"Amen to that," replied Mervyn gravely, and left the building.

Chapter CXII.

The Shadow Lifted.

Philip remained for some time in the hall alone. Then he went upstairs quietly, let himself into the flat, and found Joan in the little sitting-room.

"Philip," she said, startled, "what is the matter, dear? How white you look, and how serious."

"Do I?" he answered. "I expect I do. And that seems strange, too, for surely this is one of the happiest moments of my life—because I am going to make you very happy, Joan."

"You have always done that," she said, and coming forward she put her hands on his shoulders. "Philip, it isn't in your power, I think, to make me happier than I am!"

"I have wonderful news for you," he said quietly. "Joan, your whole world is reversed again. You are Lady Tallbois of Knayth. And in two months or less you will step into your kingdom."

Joan stared at him blankly. She began to fear he was ill.

"Listen," he said, drawing her on to his knee, "and I will tell you."

He told her the story of Pedro de Castra, and in the simplest language made it all perfectly clear to her. At the end there was a long silence. He felt her trembling and suddenly she rose. There was such joy shining in her eyes as he had never seen there yet. She seemed transformed.

"Yes," he said, gently, "you need never fear again, Joan. It is true. That great inheritance is yours — wealth, title, position—they all return to you."

Joan turned to him with a swift movement.

"Ah!" she cried, almost fiercely, "do you suppose it is of that I am thinking? Here is an infinitely greater thing that lifts up my heart; that fills me with happiness—yes, and with love! My father—my father was loyal! He never wronged the wife he loved! Those lies are dead—he was loyal to my dear mother, and to me!"

Her voice broke.

"My father! Philip, what would I not give if he had lived to this day. To see the truth triumph—to take the place he has left to me!"

Philip was silent. He could not meet her eyes. Joan came to him and took his hands.

"Philip," she said, scarcely above a whisper, "a feeling has been with me, so strange and so strong — through all these months—that while you, my darling, were fighting for me, and guiding me, there was yet another. That my father's spirit was near me — protecting, guarding, standing between me and evil—with a strong and unerring hand, till the victory came and shame departed.

"And now—tonight——"

"Tonight?" repeated Philip.

"I feel," said Joan, faintly, "that it is ended, and he is with me no more. That I have lost him."

She lay her wet cheek against Philip's, and the joy came back into her eyes.

"Thank God, I have you—my husband! Oh, the wonderful years — the wonderful years to come!"

CHAPTER CXII.

The Three Deeds.

"I never wanted any of it," groaned the Senora. "I claimed it only for you, Agnes. And now that we have lost it all, in heaven's name, tell me that I am forgiven."

Agnes De Castra lay on the sofa in the dingy hotel parlor, her chin on her hands; her eyes, encircled with dark rings, stared blankly at the window. It was the fifteenth week after the filing of Joan Mottisfont's claim to Knayth. For days past, London had been ringing with the sensation of Joan's triumph.

"Oh, gee!" said Agnes wearily, "cut out the talk of forgiveness. You're my mother; we're both in the same boat. I don't blame you; I guess I'm sorry for you. And what am I?" she laughed bitterly, "a beggar, a pauper, with a father doing five years' jail in the States.

"Don't ask me to forgive him!" she said under her breath, "he got half his deserts. I wish I'd got at him with that shovel—I'd ha' saved the American government some expense!"

"Don't, Agnes," gasped her mother, "cruel as he was to both of us, remember he is not likely to live five years, and I dare not judge him. Let it be forgotten. I know your lot is harder than mine."

"Me?" said Agnes dully, "well, I'm just what Joan Mottisfont was when I turned her out. Now she's turned me out. She's Lady Tallbois."

"Agnes—" said her mother in frightened tones.

"Oh, you needn't be scared. I guess there's no kick left in me," muttered Agnes. "For a while I thought I'd kill her. For what's the use? The goods are hers—they never were mine. They never did me any good. But there's one thing I grudge her. She's got the man she loves!"

Her voice broke in a sob.

"There was none of the rest I'd any right to. But Harold was mine. And —I've lost Harold."

Agnes buried her face in her arms and began to cry piteously. The bitter, vengeful creature that she had been seemed dead. She cried like a child that has hurt itself—so miserably and helplessly that her mother, with a little moan of pity, came and knelt by her.

"Can you not forget him, Agnes?"

"Never," she sobbed. "Oh, but I love him."

"It's the way of the world," said her mother, sadly; "he's just a boy. I had a liking for Harold Drummond; he was not vile like those others. But the money's gone, and everything's gone—when that happens a man goes too. He has kept away. Has he said nothing?"

Agnes sat up.

"He wrote me a letter," she muttered, "saying I was the only girl he loved," she smiled bitterly, "but that for my sake it was best he shouldn't come to see me—that he was in trouble and had to lie low. And that he supposed it was all over; an' that of course I'd soon forget him—but he'd never forget me. Of course," she said with a touch of contempt, "it was just a get-away. Does he think I'm such a fool as not to see through that?"

"Tell me," said her mother, "knowing what he is. Agnes, would you marry him now—if you could? Doesn't this end it all?"

Agnes drew her shoulders together.

"I would marry," she said, "the man I loved, even if he was broke, or wicked, or hunted down. But, b'gee," she added, clenching her hands, "there's one thing I could never marry—a coward!"

She rose and looked at her mother oddly.

"I've sent for him," she said. "I know where he is, an' I've told him to come here. And he'll come!"

"Here!" exclaimed the senora faintly, "and at your bidding, Agnes—after all that has passed? Why should he? And what is the use?"

"I bet he'll come," said Agnes rather grimly. "Yes, he'll arrive. An' I think that's his step now. I ought to know it."

THE ETERNAL QUESTION by Felice Davis

THE SECRET.

MRS. SNOOP—Parson, Mrs. Fixit and Mrs. Pry and I have been appointed a committee to take up a very important matter with you.

PARSON—Come right into my study, ladies.

MRS. SNOOP—It's about that Biglow girl.

PARSON—Biglow girl? You mean John Biglow's daughter?

MRS. SNOOP—That's the very one. Something's got to be done about her.

PARSON—Something done about her?

MRS. SNOOP—Yes. You know parson, she's been about the most unattractive girl in this church—

PARSON—Well?

MRS. SNOOP—And there ain't no denyin' she's ugly as a mud fence.

PARSON—Hum!

MRS. SNOOP—And there weren't no young fellows in town even noticin' her, much less courtin' her——

PARSON—Well?

MRS. SNOOP—Until about two months ago——

PARSON—Yes?

MRS. SNOOP—And then all of a sudden she seemed to develop mysterious powers.

PARSON—Mysterious powers?

MRS. SNOOP—Yes, sir. Mysterious powers—over all the young men in town.

PARSON—I'm afraid I don't understand.

MRS. SNOOP—Well, she took the Elliott boy away from my Grace——

PARSON—Impossible.

MRS. SNOOP—It wasn't impossible. She did it—and broke up four or five other young couples goin' together, too.

PARSON—Hum—as serious as that?

MRS. SNOOP—Indeed it is. So we mothers made up our minds that she was usin' witchcraft.

PARSON—But that's ridiculous.

MRS. SNOOP—Witchcraft or some other unnatural influence. But we couldn't catch her at it until——

PARSON—Until?

MRS. SNOOP—Until by accident we found she was gettin' an envelope every week——

PARSON—Go on.

MRS. SNOOP—In the Newtown postoffice under an assumed name.

PARSON—Under an assumed name?

MRS. SNOOP—Yes, and it was only yesterday we found out what was in them envelopes.

PARSON—Yes.

MRS. SNOOP—And now we know how she managed to turn the heads of all the young men in town.

PARSON—Go on—go on.

MRS. SNOOP—It ought to be against the law for the postoffice to be a party to it.

PARSON—A party to what?

MRS. SNOOP—There it is. You can see for yourself and you're the pastor of our flock and something ought to be done about it so——

PARSON—You say this circular was in the letter? Let me read it.

MRS. SNOOP—There. See, it says in big red letters: "How to get a husband. Correspondence course. If you don't succeed in ten lessons, your money back."

PARSON—Well, my good ladies, a greater power than mine has already settled this matter.

MRS. SNOOP—Settled it?

PARSON—Yes, for I married Nettie Biglow to Frank Jones, the president of the bank, yesterday.

COMMITTEE—Why, he was courtin' my daughter!—and mine!—and mine!

Cynthia Grey's

Tried and True.

Dear Miss Grey.—Will you please tell me what I can do to make my hands presentable in the summertime, as when I wear summer dresses without gloves I am always so ashamed of my hands? Nothing I have tried yet, cold cream or vaseline, seems to do them any good.

MISFIT.

I thought everyone knew that diluted glycerine was a fine thing for the hands, but in case you haven't tried this, it is about the best thing I can recommend. Have your druggist mix you equal parts of glycerine, rose-water and lemon juice, and apply this frequently. Glycerine is harmful, of course, unless it is diluted. This mixture is inexpensive and will bring results if anything will. When you have finished your rough work, rub vaseline well into the hands, then wash in hot water with plenty of good soap, dry well, apply the glycerine and rosewater, and then plunge into cold water and dry well. This should make your hands presentable.

Bruises and Burns.

Dear Miss Grey,—I very much enjoy your chatty little column of The Advertiser and always read both answers and letters. I suppose it is much too late for me to think of asking for Aunt Nannie's lily seeds now, but I thought I might throw out a suggestion, that some of the Boxites who were fortunate with them would save some seeds until next spring. I should like very much to have them in my garden.

Did you know, Miss Grey, that a bottle of olive oil is a very handy thing to have in a house where there are small children? I find that my kiddies are continually getting themselves bruised and playing around the kitchen range and getting themselves burned. I always rub bruises, on the head or anywhere, with olive oil, and this takes the hurt out. For a burn or scald, I put on lots of olive oil, then plenty of flour, and finally tie on a clean white rag, to keep out the air. Olive oil is also a dandy hair tonic.

ORILLIA.

Unfortunately, Orillia, I wasn't able to supply all the demands for lily seeds this year, as so very many asked for them. I am quite sure some of the Boxites will be saving the seeds from it. Your hint is very timely, as just now when the youngsters are getting home from school (which, of course, means an added care for poor mother) everyone is glad of a bit of assistance in looking after them.

In the agricultural districts of South and Central Chile wheat flour, kidney beans and maize form the principal part of the working men's food, and meat is seldom partaken of. This has been the custom for generations.

It is estimated that to entirely paint the top side of a big transatlantic liner from water line to rail calls for enough paint to cover more than an acre of surface.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

THE DOCTRINE OF NECESSITY.

By MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS

"Because I hate him—hate him worse than pumpkin pie," Marion said, scowling at her married sister, who stood the very moral and pattern of angry disapproval, eyeing the recalcitrant as though she were some monster.

"Most girls, in your fix, wouldn't throw away their chances," she said cuttingly. "Not if they were sensible —that's certain. All mighty well to talk of working your fingers off rather than to marry him. Time you've tried it till you're lean and frazzled, and wish you, too, had been sensible."

"Never!" Marion snapped. "Not if Joe Scott stands for sense. I can't bear him—turn cold at sight of him —the bare thought of touching him is sickening. He's got a home, and money in the bank—true enough. But I'd rather live in a hollow tree than that grave-yardy place—and he's too stingy to eat enough, except away from home. He gorges here—and brags about it. Told me he never ate breakfasts Mondays—you fed him so well he didn't need it. And that poor dog of his—I wonder the creature doesn't run wild. He must catch rabbits now and then, or he'd starve. And if a dog gets that treatment, what wouldn't a woman? Dogs can bite—and run away—women can't."

"They can run fast enough when a ne'er-do-well whistles to 'em," Mrs. Green said pointedly. "That's the trouble—I've seen it all along. Your mind is so set on that tramp, Jim Dale—"

"He's no tramp!" Marion interrupted sturdily. "All he wants is a chance to work. Bert Green would give him the chance—if you'd let him."

"Right-o. It's enough to have to feed and clothe you, without throwing in a worthless husband, and a baby every year," Mrs. Green said cuttingly. Marion wheeled away from the kitchen table at which she was making the loathed pumpkin pies, looked full in her sister's face, and said between shut teeth: "So you have had to take care of me? Other folks say different. Good cooks get good money—even when they don't do the washing, the sewing, and half the garden work. I've kept accounts these last two years—all you've spent for me, and putting in your old clothes at half price, amounts to not more than a hundred and fifty dollars. I sleep in the children's room—no place of my own for rest and quiet—I eat, mostly what nobody else wants—get the tag ends of everything. So I don't feel myself in the least an object of charity —"

"That's what Jim Dale has been telling you," Mrs. Green exploded. "He goes packing tomorrow—you'll follow him Christmas, unless you change your tune if you are my flesh and blood. So make your choice. I don't say you shall marry Joe Scott —only that I won't stand to be sassed and blackguarded in my own house—after all I've done for you."

Marion held up her hand for silence saying dully: "I've made my choice. Soon as ever I get things straight here—pies baked and kitchen clean, I'll go. Just where, I don't know—but a good willing cook ain't likely to starve."

"Don't be a fool, you know Bert won't have you slave in anybody's kitchen—a common hired girl." Mrs. Green temporized. Marion went on silently with her work. When she finished it she looked round the tidy kitchen with a bitter smile, saying to her sister who had watched her narrowly over the stockings she was darning, "I'm leaving a pattern for your new cook—but you'll hardly make her live up to it."

Mrs. Green was troubled. Was Marion in earnest? It would be dreadful if she left them with company coming the very next day! By time this was well revolved in what did duty for her mind she heard the outer door shut and saw through the side window Marion marching off, head high, and a battered leather bag clutched in her left hand.

She couldn't go far with only her Christmas money, $5, the largesse of the whole Green family. Mightn't even be that much—she had bought something for little Herby's birthday. Mrs. Green had an impulse to run and drag her errant sister back, but it froze at sight of Jim Dale, who stepped eagerly to Marion's side and went off with her talking hard.

They were certainly a pair of fools, Jim had $10, the clothes he stood in, plus an extra shirt. Marion was something richer than her sister thought—she had earned $3 by washing for the boarders at the Ray place, but half of it had been spent for the children, whom she loved despite the friction with their elders. After a swift swapping of news and comparison of resources Jim said hopefully. "At least we can buy the license—the preacher'll credit us, he told me so—and be sure I'll make good. Once we've got each other we'll feel like somebodys, not grains of dust, as we are now.

And so they were married—the minister gave credit, and even furnished the license. And sensing the forlorn estate of the pair, he incited his kind wife to give them a wedding supper, and offered them shelter in an empty cottage, some distance across his fields. He was a farmer as well as a domine—and to speak truth did rather more good that way than the other. He was preaching the gospel of fine stock by precept and example—as the newlyweds went through moonlit dusk to their refuge they saw woolly blurs here and there they knew for sheep at rest. On the hay that half filled the cottage, Jim and Marion were likewise soon at rest. But toward the gray of morning, both sprang suddenly upright, wide awake, hearing outside running hoofs, smothered bleatings, and one quickly strangled cry.

"Dogs! After the sheep!" Jim said, darting outside. Marion was at his heels. The waxing dawn showed her three dogs silently chasing the frightened flock, so intent on their sport they did not note the human presence until Jim had fallen flat upon their leader, a big yellow cur that Marion knew only too well. The Green's watch dog—she fed it a thousand times without even one tail-wag in acknowledgment. Going away like a streak, she saw a white pointer—and lagging far behind, the starveling anatomy that had first warned her against Joe Scott.

"Crank! Oh, you poor fellow. I'm so sorry you're in such bad company!" she called hushedly, and Jim gave her a loving look. "The doctrine of necessity excuses many things," he said, dragging his captive toward the porch, where, by lucky chance, wire upon which a dead vine had been trained, was strong enough to hold him. Crank had come doubtfully to Marion, slunk rather, fawning at her feet, and looking up fearfully as though expecting death. She patted his head, saying softly, "Good dog. Stand by." Meanwhile Jim took note of the damage.

It was none so great—one dead lamb, one wether somewhat torn but not in danger, the whole flock frightened so badly they ran at a word. Then it was full daylight, so Jim and Marion turned back to the manse to report—and give thanks for the comfort and shelter of the night.

The outcome? It is scarce worth a categoric setting forth. The minister wanted a couple to occupy the cottage and help guard his stock—almost as much as the Dales wanted a home. Bert Green and Joe Scott paid enough damages to go a long way to furnishing the cottage—and Marion's heart sang when the minister after keeping Crank a fortnight under observation, decided that with food enough he would be true to his collie blood and a faithful guardian of the flock, to say nothing of helping herd the fine cattle.

The CHILDREN'S HOUR

MOTHER BEAR'S PATIENCE IS TRIED.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Patience may be taxed too much;
Retribution waits for such.
—Mother Bear.

For several days after her experience with the bees, Littlest Bear was a model little bear. A better little Bear couldn't have been asked for. But after she began to feel really herself again, having full recovered from the effect of those stings, she began to want her own way again. She began to get back into her old habits and doing about as she pleased. She was forever dropping behind, so that Mother Bear often had to stop and wait for her. But, because she was the spoiled darling of the family, Mother Bear never punished her.

One day, Mother Bear took them over to the Laughing Brook fishing. Now fishing is, as everybody knows, largely a matter of patience. Mother Bear had discovered that a certain kind of fish were working their way up the Laughing Brook, and that in certain places where the water was very shallow one who was quick enough might scoop some of them out onto the bank.

When she reached one of these places Mother Bear told the triplets to keep still and watch. Presently a fish started out of the deeper water and struggled up through the swiftly moving shallow water. Mother Bear pointed it out to the cubs.

"Now you go back there on the bank a little way and watch me. I'll show you how to catch fish. But you must keep still. You must keep perfectly still," said she.

So the three little Bears went back on the bank and sat down to watch. Mother Bear chose a place at the very edge of the water where she could watch and see a fish when it first left the deeper water to begin its struggle up through the shallow water. There she waited, motionless and watchful.

"There's one! There's one!" cried Littlest Bear excitedly.

The three little Bears watched eagerly. The minutes slipped away. Nothing happened. No fish appeared. The cubs began to grow tired of doing nothing. They grew impatient. Littlest Bear became the most impatient of the three. She began to wriggle. She no longer watched Mother Bear. Presently she got up and began to walk about. Brother and Sister remained right where they were as Mother Bear had told them to. Littlest Bear wandered off a short distance.

Presently she wandered a little nearer to the Laughing Brook below where Mother Bear was keeping her motionless watch. Littlest Bear's quick ears caught the sound of a tiny splash. She took two or three steps nearer the water and waited. There was another little splash. She caught sight of a fish just starting up through that shallow water.

"There's one! There's one!" cried Littlest Bear excitedly. And, rushing to the edge of the water, she began to dance about in great excitement.

That fish turned and darted back into the deep water. Mother Bear turned her head and growled a sharp warning to Littlest Bear. Littlest Bear hung her head and went back to join Brother and Sister. Then came another long wait. Littlest Bear grew restless again. Presently the same thing happened again; Littlest Bear frightened the fish that would have gone up within reach of Mother Bear. This time Mother Bear's growl had an ugly sound. Her patience was being sorely tried.

RING HIM UP!

Is it handy? Then if you know by ringing up your grocer that he could send you a package of really, truly Orange Pekoe Tea, one with all the fragrance and flavors of the Orange Pekoes grandmother sometimes talks about—even finer—you wouldn't lose a minute if you could help, would you?

Call him, then, and ask him for RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE TEA (by the full name, please, because many teas are CALLED Orange Pekoe), and he'll be pleased to send you either a half-pound package or one of the 10c samples—that will make many cups of tea that will greatly please you.—Advt.

LABOR MEN WILL AVOID POLITICS FOR THE FUTURE

London Trades and Labor Council Adopt Important Resolution.

A HEATED DEBATE

Labor Convention May Be Held In London Next Year.

The London Trades and Labor Council met last night, and a lively discussion of the revision of the constitution, intermixed with outcroppings of politics, prolonged the session till a late hour.

The subject which supplied the material for so much heated controversy was a clause in the constitution forbidding any executive member of the Trades and Labor Council from appearing on the public platform in support of any political party. The revision committee recommended that this clause be deleted, but several members objected to this, stating that were it dropped it would permit executive members to stump for either of the old line parties as representatives of organized labor. The opinion of the meeting seemed to be that should any member of the council's executive body wish to take the floor on behalf of a political party, he should first relinquish his claim to executive office. Several of the delegates insisted that the delegates who wished the deletion of the clause did so from political reasons and with the hope of being able to represent labor as favoring some political party.

Chairman's Threat.

The discussion reached a point where the chairman stated that were the sergeant-at-arms present, several of the delegates would be removed from the meeting. One or two delegates who had not entered into the heat of the matter restored order and good feeling by stating that organized labor had been effective in its work partly on account of the fact that it had stood quite outside of politics, and that the present was not a good time to depart from such a well-established precedent. The matter was dropped, and with some slight modification, the clause was retained in the constitution.

Joseph Marks, of the Labor Educational Association of Toronto, was a guest of the Trades and Labor council, and addressed the delegates in a brief outline of the accomplishments and program of the association, and the hope the association entertains of enabling him to start a trade journal in the interests of organized labor in Ontario.

The 1924 Convention.

The balance of the meeting was taken up with a discussion of the effort being made to secure the 1924 labor convention for London. In this connection letters from the city council and from the chamber of commerce were read in which the Trades and Labor Council was offered the fullest co-operation in securing the conference for next year. In describing the generous offer of both these bodies, President McGuire stated that it is seldom that a labor organization is offered the co-operation and help which the council is assured of, and he stated that the best means of showing their appreciation would be in putting their shoulders to the wheel and using the services offered in making the most of the opportunity.

A delegate from the typographical union brought up the laxity shown by the civic authorities in not living up to their bylaw, which states that the city's printing be done by union men and that it must carry the union stamp or label. The matter was referred to the executive committee for investigation.

RIGHT TO MAKE AND SELL OLEO LAPSES IN SEPT.

Kay Amendment Passed by a Majority of 71 in the Commons.

CARROLL DEFEATED

Butter Substitute Will Not Be Allowed Manufacture or Importation in Canada.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, June 7.—After a debate which lasted until after 2 o'clock this morning, and divisions which occupied three-quarters of an hour more, the house defeated the motion of W. F. Carroll (Liberal, Cape Breton South) to permit the indefinite continuance of the import and manufacture of oleomargarine in Canada, and adopted an amendment moved by Fred Kay (Liberal, Mississiquoi) declaring that the question be "left without prejudice to its merits in the same position as before." The order-in-council of 1917 first permitted the manufacture of this product in the Dominion. The effect of this is that unless further action is taken by parliament, the right to manufacture and sell oleo in Canada will lapse in September next.

The majority for the Kay amendment was 71, the vote being 125 to 54. The vote cut across party lines, both majority and minority containing Liberals, Progressives and Conservatives. Before the Kay amendment was carried, a sub-amendment, moved by W. C. Good (Progressive, Brant), calling for action by the government at the present session, was defeated by 162 to 20.

There was no formal vote on the main Carroll motion.

With debate on oleomargarine pro and con was intermingled considerable discussion as to how far the order-in-council of 1917 contained a pledge that prohibition was suspended merely as a temporary war measure.

Had Been a Pledge.

Premier King held that there had been a pledge, that it was the duty of parliament to see that the pledge was carried out; then parliament could take what action it liked. Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, took a definite view. "I see no foundation whatever for the statement that in this matter there exists a pledge," he maintained. Canada was the only civilized country in the world which refused to allow the use of oleomargarine. Was the whole world wrong except Canada? It was an awful accusation to make against the people of Canada, that they could not be trusted to buy oleo.

Oleomargarine also found a supporter in Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor. If parliament wanted to go the whole length against imitations, he asked, why not legislate against glass eyes and wooden legs? Hon. E. MacDonald, acting minister of defence, supported the amendment pressing the importance of the dairy industry.

Meighen Favors Admission.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen favored admission of oleo, although with a fair protective tariff, and held that parliament had been absolved from any pledge the order-in-council might have contained.

The debate had well passed midnight when W. C. Good, Progressive of Brant, submitted a sub-amendment. His sub-amendment was that to the amendment be added the words:

"And that the government do before the end of the present session submit to parliament such legislation in the premises as may be deemed advisable."

200,000 Women Favor It.

Mr. Carroll said that if he told the house the Canadian Lumbermen's Association favored the manufacture and sale of oleo in Canada, he might be met by the argument that it did so because it wished to supply cheap food to its employees. If he also stated that the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada supported the resolution, he might be told that it was an interested party. But when he stated that 200,000 women had signified their approval of the manufacture and sale of oleo, no such argument could be used. No man could get up in the house and say that the mothers, sisters and daughters of Canada were willing to make propaganda in favor of a food which would be injurious to their kith and kin.

He asked members not to be led away by any selfish motive. 'If parliament," said Mr. Carroll, in conclusion, "refused to give the country what it wants, it will hear from it in the near future."

Hon. S. F. Tolmie (Conservative, Victoria) held that the resolution was of great importance.

"Let me point out," said Dr. Tolmie, "that oleomargarine is now recognized as a staple article of diet by the people of this country." He emphasized the sanitary conditions under which oleo is produced in Canada.

Oleomargarine would never be as popular as butter as it did not possess the same palatable flavor. Therefore, argued Dr. Tolmie, no one should be misled into mistaking oleomargarine for butter.

Claims Ingredients Harmless.

During the war Canadian troops used oleo, British troops used it, and now it was on the regular ration list of both the British army and navy. Dr. Tolmie urged that only half the people in the world used milk, and it was idle to say that the milk industry would be damaged by oleo. As to cottonseed oil, which was one of the main ingredients of oleo, this was used in salad oils, and never a word was said against it.

There was much more to fear Dr. Tolmie added, from the making of inferior dairy products than the making of oleo. Since 1919 there had been 489 prosecutions against buttermakers in Canada, as against 48 oleo prosecutions.

The suggestion that oleo should be artificially colored was unfair. Dr. Tolmie saw no objection to standardizing oleo or to placing a duty both against oleo and articles used in its manufacture.

"It would perhaps do me more good to take the other side," said Dr. Tolmie, "but you have to leave a little to the people. I think this prohibition of oleo is going a little too far. It will not hurt the dairy industry now or in the future."

Mr. Kay moved an amendment that in view of the emergency nature of the admission of oleomargarine that suspension should now be removed, leaving the situation just as before the passage of the 1917 order-in-council when the sale of oleo in Canada was forbidden.

Mr. Meighen declared this was a direct negative to the main proposal and therefore not in order.

The speaker ruled that under precedents the amendment could be accepted. He quoted several instances in support of this ruling.

W. D. Euler, (Liberal, North Waterloo), said the main issue was one of personal liberty.

Commercial Proposition.

The matter of substituting constituted no argument at all. The fact that people could find substitutes was a tribute to their ingenuity in adapting themselves to the needs of the moment. As long as there was no deception there would be no objection.

"It is purely a commercial proposition," said Mr. Euler, and he described the solicitude of other speakers for the welfare of children as "so much eyewash."

Referring to the "pledge" of a former government, Mr. Euler said that while he did not like to see a pledge violated, surely no former government could binds its successors. The House had a perfect right to legislate as it saw fit in the interests of the people of Canada. He would support the government in any additional restrictions they might wish to make short of prohibiting oleo altogether.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, said the amendment proposed to remove the order-in-council from the statute books without prejudice to the question. This he would support, and if the minister of agriculture would then bring down a policy in the matter it could be considered on its merits.

The prime minister referred to the speech and amendment of Mr. Kay. He referred also to the undertakings at the time when the 1917 order-in-council was passed. There had been an undertaking that the importation and manufacture of oleo was permitted then only as a war measure, and it would be unfortunate if any government refused to consider the carrying out of any undertaking so made. The order-in-council was clear that after the war the order itself would be repealed and the dairy industry put back in the position it was in when the order was passed.

The Extension Act of 1919 was specifically further to meet temporary conditions still prevailing; subsequent legislation had given yearly extensions to the original order.

"Had I known of the existence of this pledge last year I should have seen that it was brought prominently into the debate," the premier stated. Last year he did not know what pledge had been given. It was the duty of parliament to see that the pledge was carried out and then take whatever steps it saw fit in the matter of oleomargarine.

Meighen Criticizes.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen declared the prime minister's speech was "a clumsy evasion." Mr. King was more solicitous as to pledges by the late government than by his own. King read a pledge into order-in-council of 1917. What was before the house was whether or not oleo was to be continued in Canada.

"Once we vote for this amendment we are shoving the subject out of the door," declared Mr. Meighen, "because this government is not going to bring in a policy to restore manufacture of oleo."

In 1918, said Mr. Meighen, the government had permitted sale of oleo as a temporary measure under the war measures act. This was made plain in the legislation, and next session the government recommended to parliament that this temporary measure be continued as such.

"From 1919 we no longer rested on an order-in-council," Mr. Meighen declared. "We rested on an act. There is no order-in-council in effect today."

MEN TURN HOBOES OWING TO WAR

Being Sapped of Ambition and Stamina Brings them To Ruin.

New York, June 6.—Thousands of young men have been made virtual hoboes as a result of their world war experiences, Brigadier Edward Underwood of the Salvation Army, said Tuesday at a conference or representatives of 60 New York agencies dealing with homeless men.

"Sapped of their ambition and stamina, either by shell shock or a peculiar psychological kink developed in the strain of battle, the lives of these men are being slowly ruined by a mild form of insanity for which physicians have yet found no cure," he said. "It manifests itself in, the form of wanderlust and mental unrest, inability to remain in one place, for any time, or hold a position, regardless of how pleasant or promising the circumstances may be.

"These men make a practice of leaving a job without a reasonable excuse," se stated. "They will not remain long at another place, if one is found for them. This condition is leading to as much hoboism as liquor used to."

SURVEYORS DROWNED IN NORTHERN WATERS

Swollen Waters In Quinze Rapids Carry Away Bodies.

Canadian Press Despatch.

New Liskeard, June 6.—Two young men named Lawlor and Dolan, who are believed to have been employes of the Dominion Geological Survey, were drowned in the Quinze Rapids, on the route to the Rouyn Gold Fields, on Monday, according to information brought here today. The double tragedy followed a mishap to the steering gear of the gasoline launch "Swallow," as a result of which the boat was carried into the rapids. The men who were drowned are believed to have jumped from the launch and were carried away in the swollen waters of the river, which is running higher than normal. The 14 other members of the company were saved. The launch passed through the rapids, struck a rock and sank in shallow water.

Biggs Explains His Road Policy and Raps Ferguson and Hay

Special to The Advertiser.

Thamesville, June 6.—Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public highways, addressed a fair-sized audience here this afternoon, explaining in detail the Drury government's road policy. Hon. Manning Doherty, East Kent, incidentally took occasion to rap Hon. Howard Ferguson and Wellington Hay on their respective policies and legislative doings; also Hon. Adam Beck on his hydro policy. John Gibson of Dresden was chairman, and Messrs. Harry Gilroy, Alvinston; David McCreary, Progressive candidate, West Kent; Russell Oak, Progressive candidate, East Lambton; and Hon. Manning Doherty addressed the meeting. The local U. F. O. quartet, consisting of Messrs. Hetherington, Shannan, Hubbell and Minshall, rendered vocal selections. A solo was given by Messrs. Hetherington and Elliott. Mrs. Elliott was accompanist.

At the commencement of his address the minister of highways rapped Hon. Howard Ferguson, saying that if Conservative candidates throughout the province had no better character than their leader, they will not get very far. Conservative candidates had many platforms concerning prohibition. In speaking of road policies, Hay and Ferguson had none. All they were doing was to knock. Hon. Adam Beck was staging a come-back.

"Sir Adam," said the speaker, "claims no one but himself is big enough or has the brains to run the hydro department. If he gets to Toronto what will he do for the farmers? If the offer of $25,000 per year from one party for 10 years is correct the matter needs watching."

The speaker was 100 per cent for hydro energy for industrial and home purposes, but not for radials.
