MOORE DENIES FOREIGNERS RULE CONGRESS

Police Comb District For Brutal Attacker of Woman

PRESIDENT STATES UNEMPLOYMENT IS PROBLEM FOR ALL

Fortieth Annual Convention of Dominion Trades and Labor Congress Opens Today—Moore Declares Policy Is Essentially Canadian—Prominent Londoners Extend Welcome to Large Number of Delegates.

PRINT RESOLUTIONS IN FRENCH AND ENGLISH

Labor officially took over London today. After listening to a series of welcoming addresses from several Londoners, including Mayor Wenige, Frank White, M.P., Rev. Quintin Warner, judge of the juvenile court, and Jack McQuire, president of the local Trades and Labor Council, the 40th annual convention of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress got under way in the Masonic Temple here this morning.

In spite of the fact that all the delegates had not arrived, more than two hundred representatives of Canadian trades unions were in time to hear the opening speech of President Tom Moore, who was received with a wonderful round of cheering as he took the gavel from Jack McQuire and assumed control of the convention.

The whole of this first session was devoted to formal routine, the only exception being the carrying of a motion proposed by Bert Merson, president of the Toronto Railway Employees' Union, to amend the report of the resolutions committee to allow of the consideration of resolutions from the Postal Workers' Union and the Montreal Police Union, which, owing to unavoidable circumstances, could not be presented to the committee twenty days before the convention, in accordance with usual procedure.

French and English.

Another feature of the first session was the announcement of Tom Moore that, for the first time in the history of the congress, the resolutions had been printed in French and English, and that French as well as English was the official language of the convention.

In his address from the chair, Mr. Moore stressed with great emphasis the essential Canadianism of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress.

"It has been an all too common belief," he said, "that the Dominion congress is controlled by a foreign element. Even in the late postal workers strike this lie was again given publicity and spread abroad. I want to state emphatically that the sole reason and policy of the congress during the whole forty years of its existence is to further the interests of Canadians."

Mr. Moore was equally insistent on the responsibility resting upon federal, provincial and municipal authorities throughout the Dominion as to taking care of unemployment.

"In view of the large amount of unemployment in this country," he declared, "it is necessary that we should know clearly where the responsibility for dealing with it lies. The carrying out of the decisions of the late unemployment conference in Ottawa rests upon all the bodies I have just named, and we as a congress, intend to see that they realize it and do their duty in this respect."

Matter of Control.

"As to the matter of control of the policies of the Dominion Trades Congress, and this is another point which I want to make myself quite clear, we are not prepared to allow anyone whatsoever to influence us in the formation of our policies. We have a very definite program of action and to pursue it. The aims of the congress are the betterment of the Canadian and we will pursue that aim undisturbed and unfettered by any other party."

"It is time too that the members of the trades unions realized that in the ballot box their sphere of action lies."

Convict Colony To Be Abolished

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, Sept. 15.—France's convict settlement in French Guiana is to be abolished, says the Petit Parisien, largely in consequence of that newspaper's exposure last year of the alleged moral and physical brutality of "another age."

The newspaper says that the convicts will be brought to a central penitentiary which is yet to be established.

Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, who returned from abroad on Saturday, declared today that all are agreed the United Church of Canada should enjoy the co-operation of world-wide Methodism. Methodist immigrants, he declared, will be directed to the United Church.

"We want the United Church," said Dr. Chown, "to maintain its connection with all that is best in Methodism, Presbyterianism, and Congregationalism the world over. We should aim at a League of Churches behind the League of Nations."

VANDERBILT MAY LAUNCH DETROIT PAPER, IS RUMOR

Associated Press Despatch.
Los Angeles, Sept. 14.—E. B. McLaughlin, who since the inauguration of the Illustrated Daily News has been assistant to Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., editor and publisher, has left for the East to undertake the organization of a third Vanderbilt paper.

It is understood that his objective, and that he will attempt to interest Detroit politicians and the public, and particularly the office-seeking class, in stock of the proposed enterprise.

The Daily News has been a central figure in singular financial maneuvers and lawsuits since its inception. It is declared by James Walker, a prominent Californian, that a dividend not earned by the paper has been paid from sales of stock to the publisher, and that the paper is a cleverly exploited, and the News is a very creditable-looking tabloid paper.

DELORME'S THIRD TRIAL OCTOBER 8

Former Quebec Priest Again Arraigned on Charge of Murdering Brother.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, Sept. 15.—Adelard Delorme appeared in the prisoners' dock this afternoon, when Mr. Justice Deners fixed the hearing of his third trial on a charge of murdering his half-brother, Raoul Delorme, on October 8. R. L. Calder, K.C., crown prosecutor, told the court the trial would last in all probability until the opening of the winter assizes on November 2.

A Delorme was represented by Albin Tremblay, K.C., Gustave Minnett, K.C., according to the Montreal Star, refuses to deny that he will again make a fight to have Delorme declared insane.

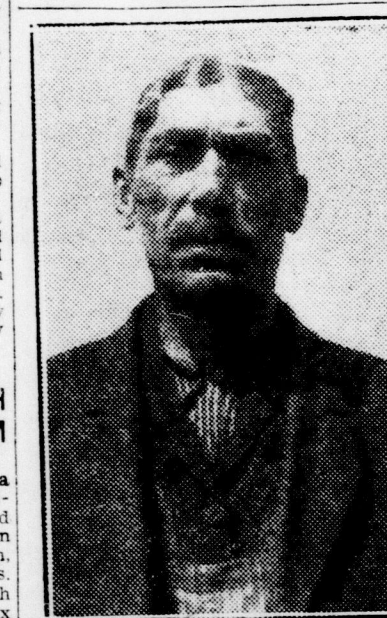

Uniform School Dress Is Ordered

Catholic High School Would Halt Extravagance.

Grand Rapids, Sept. 15.—Two hundred and fifty students at Girls' Catholic Central High School will be given next week in navy twill uniform. The only trimmings will be white collars and cuffs, white flaps on the pockets and pearl buttons.

Announcing the decision to adopt the uniform dress, Rev. Dennis E. Malone, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, said: "There is a great deal of extravagance in dress in school uniforms and some parents get almost discouraged. The uniform gives the poor girl a chance."

NORTHCLIFFE SENDS "NOTE" FROM THE SPIRIT WORLD

"The People" Publishes Message Claimed To Have Been Received by Old Secretary.

TOLSTOI IS PAL

London, Sept. 14.—The newspaper "The People" today seriously publishes what purports to be a long spiritual message from the late Lord Northcliffe, the wealthy publisher, given by him to Miss Louise Owen through a spiritual medium named Miss Leonard.

Miss Owen was for 20 years Lord Northcliffe's confidential secretary.

Hannan Swaffer, editor of "The People," in a signed statement, vouches unqualifiedly for Miss Owen's sincerity. He declares it is her profound faith, as unconviction when the occasion requires. A good story has just come to light which illustrates this perfectly.

It may be recalled that the day of his visit to Washington to lunch with the Coolidge family at the White House was bakingly hot, and on the trip in the train down from New York he and his party were very uncomfortably warm indeed—so warm that the prince, who had put on that morning an absolutely new shirt of the blue variety, which he affects so much, took off his coat, secured a penknife and cut off his shirt sleeves near the shoulder. So that he actually lunched with the Coolidges with the ragged edges of his shirt hidden by his coat.

BRITAIN IS ADVANCING STEADILY

J. T. Brownlee, Fraternal Congress Delegate, Sounds Note of Optimism.

DEFENDS TREATY

Understanding With Russia Is Urged To Secure World Settlement.

Certain, but sane optimism regarding the future of Old Country conditions was the keynote of the address of J. T. Brownlee, fraternal delegate from the British trades unions to the Trades and Labor Conference in London. Mr. Brownlee was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club, the attendance at which was the largest in months.

"When I left the Old Country three weeks ago," said Mr. Brownlee, "things were going remarkably well in spite of the croakings of the Jeremiah. I take it for granted that many of you may believe Britain is headed for destruction because we have a Labor government. When the election was on it was stated that the Labor party stood for red revolution; capital would leave the country; unemployment would be rampant. The result of the election was such that the only party that could take office, outside the Conservatives, was the Labor party. The papers that predicted gloom, changed and said that Ramsay MacDonald was a statesman and he had vision. The Labor party has given the lie to Winston Churchill when he said they had not the ability to govern. The evidence is there to all who can use their eyes and understand it. With nothing to work on Labor has built up a great constructive movement to handle the necessities of the common household. The Friendly Society Movement allays the sufferings of sickness and aids the widow."

OFFICIAL IS VICTIM OF BEAUTY'S BULLETS

French Lawyer and Lover in Hospital as Result of Street Duel.

Paris, Sept. 14.—Sound of shots in rapid succession brought a late customer of a cafe on the fashionable Champs Elysees dashing to the terrace where they were startled witnesses of a duel between two men in evening dress. Both blazed away until their revolvers were empty. By that time the police had arrived. At the hospital the duellists were identified as Mlle. Jeanne Bonpreux, mannequin, and Antoine Rives-Lang, lawyer and secretary to ex-Minister Bokanowski, chairman of the budget committee of the chamber of deputies.

It was merely another little story of love that had burned itself out. They had met five years ago in the south of France. They were then just out of their teens. Coming to Paris in search of fame and fortune, young Rives-Lang, who had been admitted to the bar, was on the high road to both. So, when Jeanne learned that she thought she had a right to share both, in other words, that she should accompany her to the office of the mayor of the quarter where they lived and her husband, he could not see it that way.

They were engaged in discussing the problem, especially as far as it regarded their three-year-old child, when Jeanne's southern temperament got the better of her. From a satchel appeared a revolver. Rives-Lang had two bullets in his chest before he was able to get his own weapon out. Then the pair had it out. At the hospital it was said that in spite of serious wounds they will live.

Prince Slices Shirt Sleeves

BEER SCOWS AT SARNIA DO RUSHING BUSINESS

Liquor Sold Legally to Patrons, Then Brought Into Canada—Rowboats Are Rented for "Exporting" to U. S.—Small Launches Leave for "Cuba"—Hundreds of Cases Handled in Month.

TAKE ARMY OF POLICE TO STOP TRAFFIC

The following is the first of two articles describing the operations of beer scows on the river St. Clair and more particularly in Sarnia harbor. The beer scow is the latest phase of the liquor exporter, carrying out the functions of both rum-runner and bootlegger, although within the letter of the law.

By ALEXANDER DALRYMPLE.
Special to The Advertiser
by a Staff Reporter.

Sarnia, Ont., Sept. 15.—Ontario has experienced three types of liquor dealers since 1916: The bootlegger, the rum-runner and the "exporter." The bootlegger's purpose in life is illegally to supply domestic customers. The rum-runner's function has been to illegally to meet American demand, and the "exporter," since early in 1922, has to a large extent, replaced the rum-runner by taking advantage of Canadian customs regulations permitting him openly to ship liquor consigned to foreign points.

And now, Ontario is acquiring a variation of the exporter, which may be described as the "beer-scow operator." His methods may be explained by describing his activities in Sarnia and district, where a score or more are doing business on the 20-mile stretch of river between Sarnia and Port Lambton.

Tied to the wharf at the foot of a main street in Sarnia is a large covered scow. It looks like a houseboat, and it bears the sign, "Frontenac Export Agency." The scow is loaded with beer—real beer.

Near the scow lies a battered old gasoline launch, and further down the shore is a boathouse where rowboats may be rented. Not far away is a federal customs excise office. The stage is all set.

CUT IN COAL PRICES NOT EXPECTED HERE

Merchants Do Not Think the Northern Reductions Will Affect City Price.

Slight reduction in coal prices at Fort William which were announced this morning will have no effect on prices here, a number of local merchants said today. With the demand becoming brisker every day they do not anticipate any deviation from the present current scale which is $15.50 a ton all over the city for the best product.

Douglas Hunt of Hunt Brothers, stated that the $16.50 price was $1.50 under that of last year at this time. Inferior grades are selling at a little less than $16.50, but the standard quality will remain stationary during the winter months in his opinion.

Orchard and Sons said they had not been advised of any cut in prices and did not expect to be. Orders for fuel are coming in at such a rate now that deliveries will not be made, except when special instructions are given to the contrary, for several days after the order.

Coke is becoming increasingly popular, local coal men say. The price for the best kind is $13 a ton.

Smith drives down the street in his car. He is a bit thirsty and thinks some real beer would be nice. He walks across the gang-plank to the scow, pays the price, and requests a case. The scow operator carries the case outside and steps aboard the battered old launch, carefully avoiding contact with Ontario soil. The beer is now Smith's. So far as the scow operator is concerned it has been delivered aboard a boat for export, and if Smith chooses to violate the O. T. A. by carrying the beer back to his waiting car, only Smith is responsible.

Smith does carry it back to his car, of course, and so do a score of other Smiths in constant procession every evening. They are quite safe, because the lone Sarnia policeman in that part of the city cannot be expected to devote all his attention to the scow, and no provincial officers appear to have its operations as their particular assignment.

If Smith cares to be a bit more technical in his quest he may follow a longer procedure. In this event he first goes to the nearby boat-house mentioned above and rents a rowboat. He then visits the customs office and announces that he wishes to export ten cases of beer to James Blank of Port Huron, Mich. A "report outwards" form and a "clearance paper" are solemnly filled out by the customs official in which the

NO TRACE IS FOUND OF YOUTH

Police Hunt Barnardo Boy, Believed To Have Attacked Woman.

WILL RECOVER

Mrs. Bert Couse Reported To Be Improving in St. Thomas Hospital.

Special to The Advertiser
by a Staff Reporter.

St. Thomas, Sept. 15.—A province-wide search is being made for a 16-year-old English boy, believed to have been the person who brutally attacked Mrs. Bert Couse early Friday morning at her farm home near Yarmouth Center. Mrs. Couse was knocked unconscious when the youth struck her in the head with a heavy metal weapon while she lay in bed.

The youth is John Hammer, a Barnardo Home boy, who had been employed at the Couse farm home since March.

The attack, which is regarded by the police as one of the most vicious in the history of Elgin County, was carried out early Friday morning.

Two weeks ago the boy had been discharged when Mr. Couse had a sale on his farm. He sought employment with William Couse, father of Bert Couse, and had worked there until last Thursday, when he returned to the Couse farm and asked Mrs. Couse if she would board him for a few days. Her husband was in Toronto on a business trip, and as the boy had always been a good worker and had given no cause for suspicion, she took him in.

Mrs. Couse lies in Amasa Wood Hospital here with three deep cuts in her head and a voice which she reported to be critical, but a slight change for the better leads her physicians to believe that she will recover.

A full description of the boy has been broadcasted to all large centers in the province. Hammer is described as being about 5 feet 7 inches in height, with brown, closely cropped hair and brown eyes. He is short-waisted and when he left the Couse home was wearing a brown suit, a blue cap and a light-colored shirt. He weighed about 15 pounds.

Mrs. Couse was found by her 8-year-old daughter Doris four hours after the accident, lying in bed in a pool of blood. She was unconscious at the time, and until today was unable to give a coherent account of the attack.

This morning she told her husband that she was quite positive Hammer was her assailant. She awakened from sleep early Saturday morning to hear some one prowling about in the dining-room which adjoins her bedroom. Upon calling "John," the boy's name, she was answered by a voice which she identifies as Hammer's. He said to her "I am shut up." She then received the blow on the head and knew no more.

Rumblings of the temperance vote to be taken on October 23, took definite shape at the meeting of the election board for London and Middlesex composed of Judge Talbot (chairman), Judge J. C. Judd, Sheriff Donald Graham and Edmund Weld, clerk of the surrogate court.

The board arranged for the sittings of the revising officers, Judge Macbeth and Judge Judd. The latter will hold his first court of revision for the city of London on September 16, at the courthouse. Judge Macbeth will preside at the courts throughout Middlesex County.

Miss Mary McLean was appointed clerk of the election board, while B. F. Waterworth, former deputy sheriff and former high constable of Middlesex, was appointed enumerator for the Indian reserve.

COLLEGE STUDENTS' BODIES HAVE NOT BEEN FOUND

Peterboro, Sept. 15.—Until noon today no trace had been found of the bodies of Gerald Wood, aged 19 years, and Alfred Davies, aged 20 years, who were drowned in Rice Lake Saturday afternoon when their canoe upset. Indian guides led several search parties all night and early today without success, and another party is being organized to assist in the search. Wood was a first-year medical student at the University of Toronto, and Davies was a student at the School of Practical Science here. They were canoeing to Keene post, office by way of Clear Creek when the fatality occurred.

Family of Four Are Marooned For Two Days On Barren Island In Georgian Bay

TUG SAVES FAMILY ON BARREN ISLAND

Toronto Man, Wife and Children Marooned as Boat Breaks Away.

FACED STARVATION

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Sept. 15.—To be marooned for two days with his wife and two small children on an island in the Georgian Bay, with practically no food and very little shelter, was the experience of Arthur Visick, of this city, a government inspector of motor vehicles.

The Visick family was preparing to return from their summer cottage, near Penetang, on Thursday, but decided to make one last cruise for the year, making Christmas Island and the other islands in Georgian Bay. In their gasoline boat they made the trip successfully, and were four miles from home on the return journey when their gasoline gave out. They landed on the nearest shore some time later in pitch darkness. After casting about for shelter they were forced to spend the night under a shelter of branches.

At midnight, as Mr. Visick was smoking a goodnight cigarette, he stroked to the shore and found that a north-west wind had dragged the anchor of his boat, and it has disappeared. Next day the boat was found ashore some distance away, but in no condition to put out to sea. All day Friday the members of the party watched the distant grain boats steam by, while Mr. Visick explored the island for food and better shelter. The only nourishment they had was the fragments of their Thursday lunch and some berries. That evening, Mr. Visick found an abandoned lumber camp and in a cache discovered remains of what had been turnips and potatoes. They had a stew from the shore vegetables and spent another night of discomfort.

Meanwhile, their absence had alarmed friends and small boats were searching for them. On Saturday, after their efforts, J. S. Playfair of Midland, finally ordered a big tug to search the neighboring islands, and the party was rescued after 36 hours after their forced landing.

$25,000 PRIZE MONEY BEING DISTRIBUTED

Financial Standing of 1924 Will Not Be Known For Ten Days.

Now that the Western Fair is over for another year, Secretary Jackson is busy writing checks for the hundreds of exhibitors who were fortunate enough to share in the prize list of some $25,000. Diplomas are also being sent out to numerous winners.

"The grounds at Queen's Park are pretty well deserted," stated the secretary. "Practically all the exhibits have vanished and we are now busy on the prize money."

Asked as to when financial figures regarding the exhibition would be available, Mr. Jackson stated it would be 10 days at least. "It is impossible to say anything about the financial end of the fair just now," declared the secretary.

WOMAN LABOR DELEGATE TYPIFIES BIG MOVEMENT

Miss Mabel Leslie Comes From New York For Congress Here.

WEARS MEDALLION

Distinguished Feminine Worker Tells of Early Struggles.

With a freshness and a breeziness which characterizes the American woman, Miss Mabel Leslie, secretary of the New York branch of the Women's Trade Union League, stepped from an all-night train into the Tecumseh House early this morning. She is the official representative of the Women's Trade Union League of the United States to the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, meeting in this city. And now, after a morning of strenuous session at the Masonic Temple, proudly wears the gold medallion presented to her by the congress, a distinction conferred on her as fraternal delegate. But two other medallions are being worn at the convention.

Miss Leslie in appearance is the embodiment of youth, health and enterprise. Her hair, abundant and black, is still coiled up on top, touched by the powder's sheers. But this doesn't mean that she condemns the modern girl who wears her locks free. She is broad-minded enough to see that "fads and fashions do not interfere with a woman's thinking," that "ability will go on regardless of what women wear or do," that "women are bound to progress no matter what fashions they adopt."

Her clothes are inconspicuous in color and design, but she wears them with an "air" which at once stamps her as "somebody." Her voice is pleasant and cultured, but there is a strength behind it which indicates firmness of purpose.

Former Shop Worker.

Miss Leslie now an officer of a great federation of American women workers, was a few years ago a shop worker herself in the shops of the General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y. Here she was a pioneer in the movement to get women admitted to the trade union there and was successful in gaining membership for herself and other women in the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The American Women's Trade Union League, which Miss Leslie is representing at the London congress, is an organization primarily for the purpose of the education and organization of women labor throughout the country.

"Its object is to bring all women workers into trade unions," says this interesting American woman. "Its platform is seeking equal pay for equal work, an eight-hour day, a 44-hour week, and aims at outlawing war."

"We believe," she says, "not only in the extending of the franchise, but that there shall remain no discriminations between men and women in politics."

"We are unique in that we have a pioneer workers' school established at Chicago. In this school we train our workers, giving them not only academic training in economics, public speaking, parliamentary procedure and English, but we send them out on field work to give them practical training in the work."

"She is unique in that she has a pioneer workers' school established at Chicago. In this school we train our workers, giving them not only academic training in economics, public speaking, parliamentary procedure and English, but we send them out on field work to give them practical training in the work."

Miss Leslie, who spent a year at this school on a scholarship, says that it is the only school of its kind known. She is enthusiastic over the advances which the labor movement has made, and is anxious to tell her story to the convention here. This year the National Women's Trade Union League celebrated its twentieth birthday in New York City, and there is not a trade in the United States which the league has not helped, says Miss Leslie. In the realm of politics the movement is slower, so far as the progress of women are concerned, but there is a movement.

Widow's Savings Found In Stove

Beacon, N.Y., Sept. 15.—The honesty of a neighbor to whom she gave an old stove has enabled Mrs. Martin Conway to chase the wolf away from the family doorstep. Mrs. Conway's husband died several weeks ago, leaving the family without a means of support. She was forced to sell her possessions one by one to avoid eviction. Unable to find a purchaser for an old stove she gave it to Jay Deeb, who discovered a bag of coins hidden away in an oven. Deeb returned the bag without opening it, and Mrs. Conway had died suddenly without a chance to reveal the hiding-place of her savings.

Just the same, and advancement is bound to come.

Miss Leslie is at the Tecumseh House when she is not attending congress sessions at the Masonic Temple.

SAYS UNEMPLOYMENT IS PROBLEM FOR ALL

In making any changes in the government of the country, if the men they elect to represent them do not ask their own wishes, then their action is clear enough. They have the power in the casting of their ballots to make the necessary changes.

Mr. Moore asked for a careful consideration of all questions and resolutions presented to the delegates, and urged on the delegates to keep the vision of the men in the homes, towns, in the factories and the work-shops foremost in their minds during the coming week.

Stirring Appeal.

Rev. Quintin Warner, judge of the London juvenile court made a stirring appeal to the delegates to cherish their aims and intentions in so far as they concerned the progress of happiness and welfare of the average man in the community. "depends entirely on the principles which are the basis of your movement. I believe from what I know of the delegates, that a tremendous admiration for the founder of the church is the basis of your faith and action. In London the juvenile court has had the unstinted support of the Labor men and I personally have the greatest admiration for the progress you have made and the aims you are pursuing."

Mayor Wenige, who described himself as a one-time clock puncher at six and seven, and now an employer of labor, Frank White, M.P., and Chief of Police Robert Birrell were among the Londoners who welcomed the delegates and wished success on the sessions of the congress. Gordon Ingram, president of the chamber of commerce, also spoke.

Will Speak.

Dr. Forbes Godfrey will come to London during the week and give an address on the questions affecting the health of the worker, and Sir Adam Beck, who was to have spoken is too ill at home to do so.

Three fraternal delegates were present, Mabel Leslie, of the Women's Trade Union of North America; W. W. Britton, of the American Federation of Labor; and J. Brown, representing the mother of the trade union movement, the British Trades Union Congress. The Wednesday morning session has been set for the afternoon of the 16th.

Several times during the session translations were made from one language to the other, and the meeting took on a very international and yet unified atmosphere. The quick sentences of the French-Canadians seemed to translate to most of the Londoners and westerners present.

Tonight at 8:30 a get-together dance will be held in the Masonic Temple, and the ladies of the party hold their home in the building at 8:30. The last delegates to arrive, those from the Postal Workers' Union reached the city at noon, and will be in time for the afternoon session.

MRS. BERLINDA McLEOD PASSES AWAY IN DETROIT

The death of Mrs. Berlinda McLeod, for many years a resident of London, occurred at the home of her brother, F. G. Mooney, of Detroit, on Saturday.

For thirty years Mrs. McLeod conducted a successful millinery business in this city, and her death is greatly mourned by a large circle of friends.

She is survived by her husband, Alexander McLeod, one son Robert of Chicago; three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Nash of this city, Mrs. M. C. Mooney of Winnipeg, Mrs. Rosa of Goderich; and three brothers, P. Mooney of Detroit, B. A. Mooney of London and J. I. Mooney of Agincourt. Two sisters, Miss Agnes Mooney and Mrs. E. Mitchell of Dearborn, Mich., also survive.

The funeral was held this morning from Killingsworth's Funeral Home at St. Peter's Church, where a requiem mass was sung at 9 o'clock by Monsignor McKeon. Interment was made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

BOYS COMING GROUNDS IN SEARCH FOR MONEY

Scores of men and boys traversed almost every foot of ground at the fair grounds Saturday night and yesterday in an effort to find articles lost by the crowds during the week of the fair.

Although no valuable finds were made, one small boy came upon a ten-dollar bill which had evidently been lost by some patron of the fair on Saturday afternoon. Other boys picked up odd bits of change, but according to several who worked all day yesterday, no jewelry had been found.

GIRL REMAINING ROUNDEL SCORED

Miss L. W. Brookings, Toronto, Delivers Interesting Talk at Alliance.

The London Ministerial Alliance heard some very startling facts this morning in the midst of an address delivered by Miss L. W. Brookings, superintendent of the Alexandria Industrial School, Toronto. At the close of her address, the speaker, in a cordial way of thanks, tendered her on motion of Afchidean Sage for "Intelligent, useful and inspiring talk."

Miss Brookings began her address by stating that juvenile delinquency and mental deficiency, prior to the war, had been considered as rare conditions. It has now become a normal condition, and it is difficult to decide which is the cause and which is the effect. Post-war conditions, however, show that there are more normal sinners on the docket. The Chicago case shows that even brilliant mental individuals may become an anti-social and criminal menace to society. Moral obliquity is becoming a cast in the eye of the world's youth to an appalling degree, stated the speaker, and much of it is due to the influence which seeps through from the high-grade mental defective.

In the old days the boy was able to ape the man, but small businesses and small industries have gone out of date and there is not room for the normal boy to play around to normal manhood. Highly specialized industries may be good for output but not for the juveniles engaged in industry. The work hours become a torture and then comes the perilous round toward excitement. There follows in rapid succession, innumerable instances, wild things about the streets, wild and women and then drugs.

In the old days, too, when there were 100 industries about the home, there was sufficient to keep the child occupied and interested, in spinning, house-cleaning, candle making and soap making. But now, who makes soap? It will soon come to one, who house cleans? The girl of today is bound to be nervous, active excited, for we are now in the third generation of the modern girl. There is no training among the girls in giving generation to be wives and mothers; they must pick up their knowledge but they do it at the expense of their nervous system. The ideals are becoming lower and lower. These barnyard ideals have spread to the middle classes and the educated classes, and the result is the last of the community. The party, becoming so common in all towns, is but a thinning school lead.

We are developing a new type of sex generation and the craze for shows and undue excitement is only one manifestation of it.

Immoral Life Prevalent.

Miss Brookings stated that the conditions of immoral life existing today among the rising generation existed because of the lowering of the standards of the great social and industrial changes, and the changes in the home life, not to mention the lessening of parental control over the immature boy or girl. In the past there has probably been too much rigor exercised by parents, but today the pendulum has swung to the other extreme, so that there is really no such thing as parental control in the average Canadian home.

Tribute was paid by the speaker to the Children's Societies, Brother and Sister Movements, Y. M. C. A., Girl Guides, Juvenile courts and Boy Scouts, all of which organizations are doing splendid work to combat the situation as it exists today. We must teach the young generation of their God-given responsibilities.

In conclusion Miss Brookings stated that from 75 to 80 per cent of those boys and girls entering the industrial schools become good citizens of the country.

Rev. Quintin Warner, judge of the juvenile court, asked Miss Brookings whether she would advise instruction being given in the schools by qualified teachers upon the sex question. Miss Brookings replied that though of course it would create an outcry, she would advise the teaching of the individual or at least very small groups. The problem was surrounded by an infinite number of dangers, but nevertheless, it was necessary to be faced as the question which lay at the root of the whole trouble.

INQUEST IS ORDERED INTO DEATH OF WOMAN

Sturgeon Falls, Sept. 15.—An inquest is being conducted in the case of an Austrian woman, badly mangled, was found on the C. P. R. tracks one mile east of here, early this morning. A suitcase was found on a pile of ties at the time of the discovery of the dead body, and it contained a large sum of money, a Russian army in the name of Wausli Sautzauk and letters.

It is thought that the body of the woman was placed on the railroad tracks to cover up a crime.

PORT IS CLOSED.

A record crowd was in attendance at the Port Stanley Casino last Saturday night for the final dance of the season.

The closing of this dance hall winds up the season at Port, the incline railway and bath house having closed on Labor Day. Nearly all the summer residents have returned to their homes in cities and towns, except those that enjoy solitude and confinement.

DOMESTIC PAROS BRINGS CITY AID

Distress of Veteran's Family Is Relieved By Efforts of Department Officials.

Into the pathetic conditions surrounding the home life of an ex-soldier and his little family in the north end of the city, the searchlight of the city relief department has pierced. It has revealed conditions that are almost unbelievable, but which fortunately, have been alleviated for a time.

With doors and windows of their home removed by orders to the landlord's agent when rent money failed the owner, the little family last night huddled around the kitchen stove, staring at gaping holes from which windows and doors had been removed. In the bare walls, the actions of his landlord and his pitiful self were visible. His wife lay ill in bed. She had been unable to rise for three days. Three little children, with no one to look after them or to wash their faces and faces, had been too dirty to attend school the preceding day. They had tried to do what they could for their sick and wearied mother.

Rent Was Overdue.

It was learned last night that the father, formerly a member of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, was a month behind in his rent. Last week he earned $12.50 for five days' work in a factory here. It was needed for food, and though the landlord was insistent in his demands for his rent, the father refused to pay. So on Saturday morning an agent appeared, armed with a mysterious paper. He pushed open the door and read this proclamation to the only woman visible, a nine-year-old child, the eldest child of the occupants.

Upon reading this order, which the little tot could not understand, the agent proceeded to remove windows and doors from the house.

In Fear of Bailiff.

Fearful that the bailiff was coming to move his family out of the house, the young father remained home from work and had his stores moved to another house. The medical officer of health and the relief inspector were on hand. Relief has been given the family and help has been rendered today.

Acting Relief Inspector Sanders advised the man to return to his job this morning, but the unfortunate ex-soldier put in a plea that he must pay. So on Saturday morning the man, Sanders called the man's employer and was assured that the position would be kept open until tomorrow.

Mayor Wenige and his wife visited the desolate home last evening, found want and despondency only, but offered the family some advice, encouragement and encouragement. Threatened with eviction, the family found their lot luckless. But today the people had a new home, medical attention, and a job of the city, and the father had a job.

BRITAIN IS MAKING STEADY ADVANCES

In trouble. The Labor party built up a great union movement, so great that when I speak to the Labor conference here on Wednesday I do so as a member of a 4,000,000 members. These are the testimonials I submit as the fitness of Labor to government.

Mr. Brownlie gave his experience in dealing with diplomats. They were well qualified, well schooled, but they had no notions in ideals.

"The Old Country is not going to the dogs. People who state this give expression to an impression without realizing that anyone here who comes from the south side of the border who imagines we have not sufficient tact, doggedness and faith to get through all our difficulties?"

"We went through the greatest war the world has ever seen. It was then we had to solve problems in the so-called which we had little in the past to guide us. Ramsay MacDonald has effected an agreement with France, Germany and other nations. I don't know whether the payment of war indemnities is going to be a good thing for the work people of Britain. It is a difficult thing. If Germany has to pay, Germany must trade. Germany will put in the British market machine tools at a figure that the British maker cannot meet. This would mean that they are more competent, but because of exchange rates and government assistance. It will be a serious matter for the British maker. History shows that the defeated nations are those that recover quickest. We have in the engineering trades unemployment of ten per cent. We can get no higher wages on account of depleted currencies in foreign countries. In spite of all this we are going to secure European peace."

Mr. Brownlie attached great importance to the agreement between Britain and soviet Russia. "Those who are holding up that agreement as a reason for not doing anything are enamored with the government of Russia. I would resent, as you would, outside interference in our domestic affairs. I am not sure if we make that agreement I believe it will be honorably observed. I am hopeful of an understanding with Russia. Untold millions are waiting in the bowels of the earth waiting for the touch of Labor. Russia, in political science, is a backward nation; she has had experience in representative government. Russia must be taken step by step and helped and she cannot be judged by the standard of old diplomacy. Never forget, never let us let the difference of dialect, we are all members of the human race. Have faith in the Old Country, have faith in yourself for if you have not that you can have faith in no one else."

Mr. Brownlie, in closing, stated that the size and advancement of Canada had come as a revelation to him.

HUNT CLUB MEMBERS WILL STAGE OLD-TIME GYMKHANA

Novel Program Is Arranged For This Week at J. E. Smallman's Farm.

HUNDREDS EXPECTED

Handsome Prizes Will Be Awarded to Winners of Events.

Interest in horses and horsemanship brought into popular favor by the Prince of Wales will this week see a marked revival in London. Members of the London Hunt and Country Club have arranged an old-time gymkhana, "Medway," at the farm estate of John E. Smallman, at which a novel program designed to bring out the equestrian skill of local horsemen will be staged.

The affair will take place next Saturday. Daring steeplechases, needle and thread races, potato races and variety of other novelties, all on horseback, are included. Assembled in the large riding field will be seen the choicest thoroughbreds of London stables with their manes flying. Persons who love horses and skillful riding are expected to attend the gymkhana by the hundreds. An admission fee of $1 will be charged, and the whole city is cordially invited. The interest shown by citizens in the sensational race between Mrs. Marshall Graydon and Mrs. Claude Morison more than a year ago, leads promoters of the gymkhana to expect a large turnout.

Handsome prizes offered have created a competitive spirit among horsemen of the London Hunt that should provide many thrilling contests. The steeplechase is certain to appeal, and the novelty and stunt performances will not fail to attract keen judges of riding will find hard to resist.

Thread the Needle.

The needle and thread race is a case in point. The contestants will be arranged in teams, a man and woman in each team. The women will start at a distance of 100 yards from the men's starting place. When the signal is given to go they will begin a prescribed distance apart and meet in the middle of the field, where the men will start. The needle and the woman armed with a thread, will "thread the needle." The first pair to achieve a "threading" successfully will break away and start for the tape. The winners will be the man and the woman who come in ahead of all others.

Clever riding is not a vital essential in this contest. It is the ability to keep one's seat stationary while threading the needle that counts. Another contest will not lack interest and one requiring much horsemanship is the potato race. In this, the entrants are supposed to dismount several times to seize potatoes which are distributed at specified distances over the course. The winners are always the man or woman who combines the most speed with skill in mounting and dismounting.

Sparring of Flags.

One of the suggestions offered, which will probably be carried out, is for a contest that involves the sparring of flags of various colors with wooden darts. This contest has been used with great success in gymkhana conducted throughout England and America. A line is strung across the field and several spools wrapped up in flags of various colors are placed. The competitors ride under the line, and upon coming to a spool, they are to rise on their stirrups and attempt to spear the flag. This is an exceptionally difficult feat, and those who are successful ride on with the flag waving in the breeze, giving a delightful and colorful effect to the performance.

Every type of riding will be represented at the gymkhana. The barebacks, speedsters and jumpers will be in full force, and the whole affair is expected to awaken interest in horses and horsemanship on a scale never heretofore seen.

NO TRACE IS FOUND OF SUSPECTED YOUTH

ambition to become a cowboy could be realized. Hammer had been treated as a member of the Cause family during his employment with them, and Mr. Cause was at a loss to know why the boy should attempt such a gruesome crime. He was a favorite with his children and always accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Cause on their motor trips to St. Thomas. Neighbors too, held the boy in high esteem because he was so competent, but because of exchange rates and government assistance. It will be a serious matter for the British maker. History shows that the defeated nations are those that recover quickest. We have in the engineering trades unemployment of ten per cent. We can get no higher wages on account of depleted currencies in foreign countries. In spite of all this we are going to secure European peace."

Six months ago, Hammer applied at the Cause home for work. At that time according to Mr. Cause, the boy was dressed in rags. He told a hard luck story of how he had been robbed of his money and clothes at Hagersville where he worked at a quarry, and beseeched Mr. Cause to give him work.

Shortly after, he disappeared one day. Neighbors notified Mr. Cause that he had sought employment on a nearby farm. It was found that the boy had stolen an overcoat, and when he was overtaken, he begged forgiveness. Due to his extreme youth Mr. Cause gave the boy another chance and took him back in his employ.

MAN THREATENING TO BOMB VILLAGE

Delaware Residents Send in Alarm and High Constable Takes Up Trail.

ALARMING TALES

Wearing the uniform of an American soldier, a man, who has told frightened individuals in the neighborhood of Delaware that he is going to blow the village to pieces, is now being hunted by High Constable Wharton.

The high constable's informant, who hails from Delaware, told reporters this morning that the alleged soldier, who says his name is Howard Vansickle, informed a Delaware clergyman that he had just returned from an aeroplane trip to the North Pole.

Mr. Vansickle is a versatile gentleman, to the least, for, according to the Delaware man, he took charge of church services in a school house near Mount Brydges yesterday.

"I told him that the people around Delaware didn't want to have him around, and he threatened to blow the whole place," declared the village agent. "I think he has gone to the farm of Frank Waters today."

"He talks about hand grenades and dynamite all the time and what he has done with the grenades in other places."

Yesterday he borrowed a shotgun and some shells and spent the day shooting bark off the trees, just to see the bark fly off. He has been reported near Delaware since last Tuesday, and offered to pay $5 a day.

"He told me yesterday that he was going to Woodstock College on Tuesday to preach to the boys there. He is a great reader of the Bible, and states that he is a follower of Buddha."

"I know he came here from London, and must have come from Windsor before that, because one of my neighbors saw him on the train. I hope that the high constable lands him, because he's not safe to have around."

OFFICERS ELECTED.
The following officers have been elected for the ensuing year for the Boys' Athletic Society of the technical school: hon. president, J. A. McWilliams, B.A.; president, James Kennedy; vice-president, Ernie Tumble; secretary, William Showler; treasurer, Edward Judge.

NAMES OF PROSPECTIVE JURORS ARE COMPILED

Township Clerks Asked To Submit List of County Voters.

Township clerks of Middlesex County are required to submit a list of voters by Nov. 25, when 1,542 names will become prospective jurors for the various court sittings of 1925. This was decided at a meeting held in the court house this morning, and attended by County Judges Albert M. Judd, Sheriff Donald Graham and Warden C. C. Henry of Middlesex.

Although 1,542 names will be registered, but 514 will be necessary for selection, as three times the number of names are always requested for jury selection.

Each township is represented by jury selection on a population basis. Sheriff Graham stated.

The necessary information will be in the hands of the committee by Nov. 25, when another meeting will be held.

CITIZENS ALERT IN PAYING TAXES

Last Installment Will Be Due
One Month From Today,
Official States.

EVADERS CAUGHT

With the third and final installment of this year's taxes due a month from today, City Treasurer James Bell reports that the number of arrears has increased. Citizens are finding money to pay their taxes, and there is no pessimism in city hall circles over the manner in which payments are being made.

"Business and income payments are always the slowest to come in," commented the city treasurer. "The ordinary household, if he has the money at all, is usually quick to respond to tax notices."

Collecting of income taxes is sometimes fraught with difficulties that are hard to overcome. Young, unmarried men, moving often from city to city, evade payment of taxes when ever possible. The city's collection department sometimes runs down evaders even to remote sections of the United States.

Get the Habit.

"There are some people who get into the habit of evading bills of all sorts as long as the law permits them," Mr. Bell says, "and in side-stepping tax notices they are just as adept as in other lines. Some of the best dressed and apparently well-fixed people we come in contact with, pay their bills regularly in division court, costs and all. It's a habit with them."

One former resident, writing from an American city, declares he will only visit London on Sundays. "The first day I came to London I had a statue labor form shoved under my nose," he writes. "Then the day after tomorrow I was told that I had to take up my new position over here I received an income tax notice from London. Try and get it! Please use plain envelopes, as my employer might think I was evading something."

Long Arm Moves.

The long arm of the law sometimes moves in an amusing (to the onlooker) manner. One resident was assessed for income tax. But he claimed he hadn't been living in London a year and then he was just leaving. He took over a new position in an American city. He returned some time later, to fill a situation here. The morning he took up his new duties a representative of the tax office came on hand to discuss things other than the price of wheat in Ireland.

"You can take it to division court if you like," came the defiant utterance of the taxpayer.

So the tax collector went to the division court, but found, on his arrival back at his own office, that the income tax evader had put in an appearance in the meantime and paid in full.

CAR VICTIM'S FUNERAL IS HELD THIS MORNING

Remains of Allan MacDonald
Sent to Home in Michigan.

The funeral of Allan MacDonald, an American tourist who met his death in a motor accident on Richmond street north of the city, was held from George E. Logan's funeral home early this morning.

The remains were sent to Bad Axe, Michigan, his late home, where the funeral services were held from the Sacred Heart Church in that city today.

Allan MacDonald was killed when the touring car which he was driving turned completely over and struck a telephone post on a turn at Richmond street north. MacDonald was killed instantly by five wounds. He was married to a Miss Mary MacDonald, of Niagara Falls. The other occupants of the car either escaped unhurt or with little injury.

An inquest was held Friday afternoon and a verdict will be given this evening.

Mr. MacDonald was the third son of Frederick J. and Annie MacDonald of Bad Axe, Michigan. He was employed as a conductor in Detroit.

Besides his parents he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Stone of Bad Axe, and Janet, at home, and three brothers. They are: John, at home; Dan, in Washington; and Neilus (Neil), who at the present time is somewhere in the West on a tour.

ACTION OF MOTORMAN SAVES LIFE OF BABY

Ruth Peere, 15-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Peere, 514 Ottawa avenue, narrowly escaped death on Friday, when she was snatched from the wheels of an Ottawa car when the motorman dropped the fender in time to avert a probable fatal accident.

Only the prompt work and presence of mind of Motorman J. F. Reid saved the baby from being crushed beneath the wheels of the trolley.

The little baby had been playing in front of her home on Ottawa avenue. She tumbled out on the tracks just as the car was approaching at a fast rate of speed.

When the fender was released the baby was struck on the back of the legs and thrown to safety on the top of it. The street car came to a full stop almost immediately.

Brave Rooster Corners Hawk and Saves Pen

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Sept. 14.—The powers of defence of an ordinary rooster were shown on Saturday morning, when a large hawk visited the chicken pen of Mr. Butler, 599 Canterbury street.

Aroused by the noise of the chickens, Mr. Butler rushed out to his yard. The rooster, however, had the chickens having taken refuge in the coop, with the exception of a fair-sized white rooster. Like a gamecock, he was rushing towards the hawk, which was crouched against a corner in the enclosure. The domestic fowl was making successful attacks upon the creature of the air.

Mr. Butler captured the hawk and placed it in a parrot cage, now on display at the home of F. F. Brignall, 95 Beale street. Neither the rooster nor hawk bear any signs of the conflict.

Solid Ivory Spear Projects Seven Feet From Animal's Jaw.

HAS VARIED USES
Spears Fish and Fights
Enemies With Unusual
Weapon.

By LEMUEL F. PARTON.

Special Correspondent of the London Advertiser and the North American.

Battle Harbor, Labrador, Sept. 15.—Dr. Donald B. MacMillan, Arctic explorer, is on the last leg of his homeward journey after a year ice-bound in the Arctic in the schooner Bowdoin.

The little vessel is as tight as a rivet and hasn't a scratch on her. From first to last, in open seas and crushing ice, she has never sprung a leak.

Dr. MacMillan brings with him, among other trophies and scientific data, the horn of a "sea unicorn." This strange creature, known as the narwhal, is fourteen feet long; its horn is seven feet long, solid ivory, projecting from the upper jaw. The horn is a straight spear narrowing evenly to a sharp point, used as a weapon and in food gathering. The narwhal, a mammal, comes to the surface to blow. Three narwhal horns were used in the ancient throne of the king of Denmark.

Horn Used as Weapon.

"I saw a whole forest of horns sticking up through a hole in the ice," said MacMillan, "as the narwhal sought an open spot to blow. They were in unusual numbers that year. They often lie on the edge of a hole in the ice on a bright day. The narwhal thought any shadow was a seal and out of the depths of all sides would come a battalion of spears, all pointed straight up, ready to plunge."

"I made a study which led to a new theory of the use of the horn, which I think plausible. The horn has a spiral marking running anticlockwise as viewed from the base to the sharp tip. It is possible, as I suspect, that the narwhal uses the spiral groove gradually feeds the half into the narwhal's face as it swims straight ahead. But little is actually known of the creature. The horn is used to spear food and fight for wives. The females do not have it."

Spears Recovered.

"The spears were found in Greece long before the narwhal was known. Ancient mythology built up the fabled unicorn around the spear. The horn is the primitive harpoon of the Eskimo and is also used to make sled runners. The narwhal skin is eaten raw, a rare delicacy. We enjoyed a meal of it. It tastes like chestnuts. The meat is frozen before being eaten. The Eskimo is unwilling to lose the spear and when plunging it into seal attaches an inflated seal's bladder, which brings it to the surface again."

PRESENT LICENSE PLAN APPROVED

Michigan Officials Find Branch
System of Selling Car
Markers Best.

A copy of a letter written by Charles J. De Land of the Department of State, Michigan, has been received by Secretary Ed. Bernard of the London Motor Club, which proves beyond a doubt that the present system of issuing motor licenses is much to be preferred to the central plan favored by the Ontario government.

The letter which was written to W. G. Robertson of the Ontario Motor League, Toronto, is as follows: "We have your letter of September 4 in which you ask for certain information regarding the distribution of motor vehicle license plates in the State of Michigan. Please be advised that Michigan has been distributing license plates through branch offices since 1920, starting out with about 20 offices and increasing them year by year until at the present we have 80 branches scattered throughout the state. We have found that the branch office plan from the standpoint of quicker service and efficiency is much more satisfactory than the original plan we followed of issuing all plates from Lansing."

"We constantly receive all quarters of the state expressions of satisfaction from the motor vehicle public in reference to the promptness in placing license plates in the hands of the applicant after he has made his application. Practically 90 per cent of the license plates are handed to individual applicants over the counter, and no delay is experienced, and of course this does away with any congestion of applications mailed to the main office at Lansing, and we are able to give about 24-hour service there."

"We believe the motor vehicle public of Michigan would not take kindly to any system of distributing license plates which would do away with the convenience afforded by branch offices."

Secretary of State.

"I saw a whole forest of horns sticking up through a hole in the ice," said MacMillan, "as the narwhal sought an open spot to blow. They were in unusual numbers that year. They often lie on the edge of a hole in the ice on a bright day. The narwhal thought any shadow was a seal and out of the depths of all sides would come a battalion of spears, all pointed straight up, ready to plunge."

"I made a study which led to a new theory of the use of the horn, which I think plausible. The horn has a spiral marking running anticlockwise as viewed from the base to the sharp tip. It is possible, as I suspect, that the narwhal uses the spiral groove gradually feeds the half into the narwhal's face as it swims straight ahead. But little is actually known of the creature. The horn is used to spear food and fight for wives. The females do not have it."

"The spears were found in Greece long before the narwhal was known. Ancient mythology built up the fabled unicorn around the spear. The horn is the primitive harpoon of the Eskimo and is also used to make sled runners. The narwhal skin is eaten raw, a rare delicacy. We enjoyed a meal of it. It tastes like chestnuts. The meat is frozen before being eaten. The Eskimo is unwilling to lose the spear and when plunging it into seal attaches an inflated seal's bladder, which brings it to the surface again."

WINTER IN THE YUKON STARTS OCTOBER 1

Postal Department Announces
Regulations For Cold Months.

Winter starts on October 1 in the Yukon, according to the postal department. The winter service lasts from the end of September to the last of May, so that the winter in the land of the "Midnight Sun" is really longer than the proverbial six months.

Navigation closes on the Yukon River in two weeks time. Parcel delivery will be suspended except for the post offices of Champagne, Carcross and White Horse.

After September 22 matter prepaid at parcel post rates will not be accepted at post offices to places in the Yukon other than the above named places.

Intended for other points in the Yukon may be addressed to White Horse, and the addressee may make arrangements with the transportation company operating between White Horse and Dawson to convey the parcels from White Horse to Dawson.

This is the fourth time the two had appeared before Magistrate Graydon through a family quarrel. The wife claimed that while her husband was home she "led the life of a dog," and that he often came to the house drunk and started in to beat the children.

Dr. Downham, M. O. H.,
Declares Children Afflicted
Are Under Quarantine.

Another case of infantile paralysis, bringing the city's total of existing cases to three, was reported by Dr. Downham, M. O. H., this morning. While cases are reported in other cities, theoretical officer of health does not believe there is reason for alarm in the condition here at the present time. Recent reports from Detroit, where outbreaks of the disease have been marked in recent years, show that not nearly so many cases are being recorded at the present time.

Cases of infantile paralysis, when brought to the notice of the health authorities are immediately put under quarantine and people of the household or any other who have come in contact with the afflicted child are quarantined for seven days. Where milk or food is distributed by a member of the household, this business has to be closed for a time.

CATHOLIC LEAGUE GETS INSPIRATION

Hears Stirring Address on 'New Canadians' by Miss Mary MacMahon of Toronto.

"New Canadians" was the subject of a stirring address given by Miss Mary MacMahon of Toronto, honorary secretary of the National Catholic Women's League, at the opening meeting of the London branch held yesterday afternoon in St. Peter's Parish Hall.

The speaker emphasized the great importance of the work among the people who come to this country to make their homes. She pointed out the splendid opportunities Canada offers, and stressed the importance of developing her latent wealth, but deplored the lack of organization.

In explaining the great need for settlers, she urged the women to assist in every way the new Canadians who come here as strangers in a strange country, needing encouragement and help. She stated that the women in general were not doing their part along this line, but lauded the work of the league, which, she explained, was only a young organization. The history of the league telling of the various branches of its activities, speaking chiefly of the splendid Canadianization work.

The meeting was in charge of Miss Margaret Darcy, first vice-president, and during the business session reports of the summer work were given. Mrs. R. M. Burns and Mrs. W. H. Hoy were appointed delegates to attend the diocesan meeting being held in Stratford, Oct. 14th and 15th.

Further plans were made for the bazaar to be held Nov. 20, 21 and 22, in aid of the Precious Blood Monastery. The conveners appointed are as follows: General conveners, Mrs. R. M. Burns and the officers of the league; fancy table, Mrs. M. Darcy and Mrs. R. H. Dignan; novelty table, Mrs. J. W. McLaughlin and Mrs. Philip Cook; dolls, St. Martin's parish, with Mrs. W. T. Groom as convener; country store, St. Michael's Mothers' Unit, with Mrs. Frank Bepentini and Mrs. Charles Griffin as conveners; fancywork booth, Sacred Heart Unit, convener, Mrs. M. J. O'Meara; ice cream, St. John's Unit, convener, Mrs. J. J. O'Meara; candy, St. Joseph's Unit, convener, Mrs. E. A. Pocock. Supper will be served each evening in charge of St. Mary's and St. Patrick's parishes, with Mrs. J. J. Roach and Mrs. T. Clifford as conveners. The decorations will be in charge of Mrs. J. W. McLaughlin. The Catholic Girl Guides will take part in the activities.

ST. JOHN'S UNIT.
Arrangements for a sale of home cooking and plans for the coming season will be made at the opening meeting of St. John's Mothers' Unit, being held Tuesday evening at the school. The meeting will be presided over by Mrs. Guy Lombardo.

WILL LONDON HAVE WOMEN AS RETURNING OFFICERS?

Toronto's Action Is Being Considered With Interest by City Women.

NO APPOINTMENT

Government Has Not Yet Named Official Returning Officer For London.

Will London follow Toronto's lead and have women among the returning officers in connection with the coming plebiscite on the O. T. A.? That is the question which has come into the minds of several progressive London women since hearing of the appointment of two Toronto women as returning officers. They are Miss Beatrice Howell and Mrs. W. A. Little, who will act for the northwest riding of Toronto and are the first women in the dominion to receive such an appointment.

Both women have been prominently connected with politics for a number of years. Their appointment has absolutely nothing to do with the temperance issue, according to the statement of those interested in Toronto politics. They feel that the women are taking an active part in Canadian politics, and for this reason would like to recognize them.

It is not possible, however, to find out yet whether women will have a share in the coming vote as returning officers, since the returning officer for London has not yet been appointed. The appointment of the returning officer comes from the government.

The president of the local branch of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. H. W. Paddell, is highly favorable to the innovation of including women among the returning officers for the coming vote.

Crime of Imposing on Those We Love

We Try to Protect Those We Love From Being Overworked by Other People, But We Need Most to Protect Them From Our Own Selfishness.

Isn't it curious how eager we are to protect a person we love against everybody but ourselves?

Take the case of Mrs. A., as an example. Mrs. A. is a human angel if there is any such animal. She is a model daughter, a devoted wife and mother, the kindest and most sympathetic of friends, and she is literally adored by all who come into close contact with her.

Unfortunately, Mrs. A. is frail and delicate, and she grows frailer and more delicate day by day. It is apparent to the most casual observer that she is overworked and that she has not the strength to meet the many calls made upon her. She needs rest. She needs respite from responsibility. She needs to have all the burdens lifted from her tired little shoulders and to get off to some quiet place where she can loaf and coddle herself for a while.

Her family and friends see that she is fading away before their eyes. They are terribly distressed over it, and they are full of blame for the selfishness of others that is literally doing her to death. They wonder how the others can be cruel enough to impose so on her, but they are sure that the few little things that she does for them do her no harm whatever.

Mrs. A.'s old father and mother live with her, and they have the eccentricities of age. They must have certain food prepared in certain ways, because they are a model daughter, and they have a million ways of doing things that must be catered to, and they call on Mary a thousand times a day to do little services for them that they might do for themselves or else do without. They also feel that they have the privilege of parents to interfere in the household management and to give endless advice, which makes for continual friction in the kitchen and with the children.

All of this wears on Mary's nerves, but father and mother are not willing to deny themselves the pleasure of fault-finding to save the daughter they really love.

"Mary is nothing but a slave to her husband and children; and it is a shame the way they impose upon her," say Mary's parents. And then mother calls to Mary to find her glasses for her, and bring her knitting, and fix her footstool, and father complains that the new cook can't make pie, and asks Mary to make it herself for dinner, and makes her spend a couple of hours reading aloud to him.

Mary's husband's heart stands still with fear as he sees how pale she is and how wan is the little smile she summons to her lips, but when the doctor tells him that she should go off to a rest cure for at least two months he hoots at the idea. Why, when Mary's gone the house is as desolate as if the fire had gone out on the hearthstone and the lights had been turned off. Why, he doesn't know what to do with himself when she's not about. Why, when she is gone the cook doesn't cook, and the butcher doesn't butcher, and the baker doesn't bake, and the sun doesn't shine, and everything is at sizes and sevens.

"It's the children that wear her out with their incessant demands upon her," says husband, and then he wants to know if Mary sent his suit to the presser, and if she telephoned about the coal and the plumber, and asks to sew on a button and mend the hole in his pocket, and put the studs in his shirt, and finds him a fresh collar and a clean handkerchief, and to hurry up and dress and go out with him to some place of amusement because he feels like going on a spree.

The children think it is just awful the way that grandfather and grandmother and father work poor old mums, but that doesn't keep John from tracking up the house or make him find his own cap and pick up his clothes or straighten up the bathroom after he had used it. Still less does it keep Mamie from wanting to give a party to her club, or have real handkerchiefs on her underclothes, or from demanding as many dresses as all the other girls have.

Mrs. A.'s friends grow eloquent when they discuss how she is put upon. "She's a perfect saint," they say, "and it is just outrageous the way people make a goat of her. It is positively appalling to see the things that her family and friends ask her to do for them."

"Why, the other day when I went over to get her to trim a hat for me—she's really got a touch like a French milliner—she was jumping up and down all the time waiting on those selfish old parents of hers, and doing things for her children, and taking care of the Brown baby while Mrs. Brown went to a marked-down bargain sale. It is just terrible how the poor, little, sick creature is sacrificed."

Mrs. A.'s visitors are righteously indignant at her other guests. "I never heard of anything so inconsiderate as the way people inflict them selves on poor Mrs. A.," they will individually say. "Her house is always full of company."

"Why, when I was there I was the twenty-fifth guest this year. It is terrible the way she lets herself be imposed on, when anybody can see that she is just fagged to death and she is so nervous her hands shook when she brought me up my coffee of a morning."

Soon Mrs. A. will be dead—killed by those who love her. And each of her murderers will lay the blame for the crime on some one else.

We try to protect those we love against other people, but we need most to protect them against ourselves. DOROTHY DIX.

Peter Sees Grandfather Frog Try To Make A Dinner of Little Friend

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

In the alder bushes at the upper end of the Smiling Pool where the Laughing Brook enters it, Little Friend the Song Sparrow was sitting about. Now and then he stopped to sing that beautiful, little, tinkling song of his. Little Friend was a happy hearted little fellow that he sang even in those months when the songs of the other birds are seldom heard. Peter Rabbit had seen Little Friend at everybody does.

Having sat there on the bank of the Smiling Pool long enough to see the coat of Grandfather Frog change color right before his eyes, Peter began to think it was time to move on. Grandfather Frog was not inclined to talk any more. He said he had gossiped enough for one him unless he had jumped. Peter had just about made up his mind to go pay his respects to Little Friend the Song Sparrow when Little Friend came flitting along that way. He was flitting along just as he had intended to, Peter cried, "Oh! You see a surprising thing had happened. At least it was surprising to me. Grandfather Frog, who had been sitting so still that Peter wondered if he were asleep, had come to life in the most surprising manner. Just as Little Friend had flitted over him. He had come to life with an upward jump, and his great mouth

WOMEN WELCOME LABOR DELEGATES

Women From All Parts of Canada Arrive in City Yesterday and Today.

With the arrival in the city today of 200 delegates to attend the sessions of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress in the Masonic Temple, the members of the London Women's Labor Party find themselves busy on reception committees and committees of entertainment. Mrs. F. W. Wells heads the women's reception committee located in the chamber of commerce board room in the Tecumseh House.

Early this morning Miss Mable Leslie of New York, secretary of the New York Women's Trade Union League, arrived in the city and registered at the Tecumseh House. She is the first of the distinguished women visitors to come to the city. All day yesterday women delegates kept arriving and they are still coming in this morning.

The most important function of the week, so far as the women are concerned, will be a banquet tendered in honor of the visiting women delegates at the Labor Temple on Thursday, when the hostesses will be the members of the London Women's Labor Party. Mrs. Fred White is convener of all the banquet arrangements, which will be completed at a meeting of the London Women's Labor Party tomorrow night.

An important conference of women will be held in the Labor Temple on Wednesday and Thursday. Although this conference, held under the direction of the Toronto Women's Labor League, has nothing to do with the Trades and Labor Congress, it is meeting in the city at the same time with a view to becoming affiliated with that organization. This conference brings to the city twenty representative labor women from all parts of the Dominion. Mrs. McGarragh of Toronto is the president and Miss Florence Custance the secretary. The Women's Labor League is not a political organization.

Wednesday afternoon will find the members of the Trades and Labor Congress picnicking at Springbank if the weather is suitable. If not, a theatre party will be arranged to entertain the guests.

WEDDINGS

McDOUGALL-MANN.

Ridout Street Methodist Church was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday afternoon when Wynneffred, daughter of Mrs. Isabelle Mann and the late Alexander Mann, became the bride of Carl Courtwright McDougall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McDougall, William street, this city. The church was effectively decorated with goldenrod and purple asters, combined with palms and tall standards of gladioli.

Pompily at 3.30 to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mr. W. G. Scott, organist of the church, the bride party entered the church, led by Miss Catharine Mann, niece of the bride, who wore a quaint little frock of pale blue satin, and topped with a long skirt. She carried a basket of flowers and wore a wreath of rosebuds in her hair. Master Mervin Mann, a ring bearer wearing a white sailor suit.

Following these small attendants was the bridesmaid, Miss Hazel M. Dennis of Toronto, a cousin of the bride, wearing a sleeveless frock of flame-colored georgette heavily beaded with crystal beads and a large black patent velvet and carrying a black patent velvet bag tied with yellow ribbons.

The bride, who entered the church with her brother, Mr. A. Mann, with her brother in marriage, wore a lovely gown of ivory brocade crepe cleverly draped at the side and caught court train lined with shell pink georgette fell from the shoulders where it was caught with shell and pearl ornaments. Her veil of tulle was looped at the sides and back and was arranged with orange blossoms. She carried a shower of Ophelia roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Mr. G. H. R. Siddons, a cousin of the groom's mother, acted as best man, and Messrs H. G. Smith and S. W. Reid were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother in Tecumseh avenue. The groom's mother wore a black cut velvet gown with a black hat and a corsage of mauve sweet peas. The groom's mother wore a navy canton crepe with a black hat and a corsage of Richmond roses. The rooms were effectively decorated with mauve asters and marigold.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a silver mesh bag, to the soloist a studded bracelet, to the ring bearer a silver pencil, and to the groomsmen cuff links. The ushers wore effectively decorated with mauve asters and marigold.

Mr. and Mrs. McDougall left later on a honeymoon taking the boat trip to Montreal. The bride travelled in a sand, beaded dress with cocoa-colored Velva suede cloth trimmed with Cossack fox, with hat and shoes to match. There were out-of-town guests present from Toronto, Detroit, and Lansing, Michigan.

of James Edward Lawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. V. Vair, and the bride couple were attended by Alex. Weir and Miss Margaret Holston.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lawson left for Detroit, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride travelling in a suit of blue tulle with hat to match.

Billings Hurls Sensationally. Whiffing 17, But Errors Are Costly.

BINNS BANISHED

Special to The Advertiser.
Galt, Sept. 14.—In one of the greatest exhibitions of amateur baseball ever played in Western Ontario, the Terriers, minor champions of 1923-24, scored a great victory over their old rivals, the St. Thomas Tom Cats, here on Saturday afternoon, when, showing the great pitching spirit which has won many a game in the past, they came from behind to tie in the eighth and win in the thirteenth by 5 to 4.

It was a unique game in that the Terriers executed squeeze plays and won by the same players and in the same positions. Wally Grove on third and Speedy Oliver at bat.

"It will be one of the greatest achievements of modern baseball if we win the American League pennant for the fourth time in a row," declared Manager Miller Huggins of the world champion Yankees, who were in New York when the fans down in the Tom Cats' dugout were cheering for them to win.

"It's just natural for players and fans to be against a team that has won three pennants in a row, and now holds the world's title. But we have to play twice as hard and put up almost twice as good a game of ball to win a decision now as some of the other contending teams. There is nothing shady or dishonest about this, but it seems to be a natural result of everyone trying to knock off the champions."

"Postponements because of rain make me feel like jumping into the water," said Huggins. "Of course, we do not like double-headers when our pitching staff looks as good as it does. Beal has a fine curve ball and he is just wild enough to be effective. You don't see many batters taking one holds against his style of pitching."

"My pitching staff seems to be better now than for some months. Billings is being troubled some with rheumatism, or something similar, but we feel that our pitching can take care of itself for the rest of the season."

"It's been a great year for the Terriers. I thought a couple of weeks ago that I had Van Grege, the former pitcher, and a southpaw veteran, but we lost out. He could have helped us a lot."

"There is no way of explaining the power of the southpaw pitcher. In the last game of the season, I have not been able to hit on any explanation for the way the Terriers have done. They have been considered only so-so performers, but have galloped along. It is just one of the things that the Terriers have done. The right-handers will have the edge, and then the southpaws will have their day."

"Don't forget this," writes one of the Terriers' fans. "Ruth hits for the shorter right field fences and Hornsby swings for the longer left field fences. If the Terriers' fielders were as close as the right field stands, I believe Hornsby would have a hard time hitting. If the Terriers' fielders were as close as the left field stands, I believe Ruth would have a hard time hitting. If the Terriers' fielders were as close as the right field stands, I believe Hornsby would have a hard time hitting. If the Terriers' fielders were as close as the left field stands, I believe Ruth would have a hard time hitting."

"The Tom Cats scored a trio of runs in the opening inning. Billings pitched to left, stole second, and then Himes, who threw late to third, hit Rieborough. The Terriers then scored on a squeeze play. H. Coursey Takes M.A.A.A. Individual Championships With Total of 39 Points

WINS THREE SPRINT EVENTS AND STANDING BROAD JUMP

Miss Lenore Henry Is Individual Champion of the Girls' Section.

MCCORMICKS LEAD

Men's
Harry Coursey 39 points.
Walter Dutton 16 points.

Girls
Lenore Henry 21 points.
Emily Foyle 11 points.
Hazel Stone 9 points.

1. McCormicks.
2. Greene-Swift.
3. Pennmans.

Harry Coursey proved the sensation of the Manufacturers' track meet Saturday when he showed his heels to Perrin Gorman in both the 100 and 220, won the 440 and by way of showing versatility took first in the standing broad jump. He won the individual championship of the M.A.A.A. by a total of 39 points, winning over half the number of points needed to give the McCormick Manufacturing Company track team the team championship and the Western Fair board's silver cup.

Captain Coursey, Canada's Olympic coach, was an interested spectator of the events, which attracted a smaller crowd than usual, and he was surprised as the rest of the gallery when Coursey led Gorman by yards in both the sprints. Gorman was obviously not in the form he showed on his return from the training camp, but nevertheless took nothing away from the impressiveness of the colored boy's wins. Doug Westman also got two firsts in the 100 and 220, step and jump to make McCormick's lead still more secure and Miss Foyle, runner-up in the ladies' individual point total, also contributed her share. The McCormick team topped a big day by taking the relay race.

Goes Through Fast.
The program justified its variety, and although there were nervous moments, the sprints, the 440 and the mile went through fairly fast.

The girls' sprint teams' relay race proved one of the features. The win of the Arrows was not expected by the crowd, as they were much smaller girls, but they had been coached in picking up the baton.

Walter Dutton, who carried off several of the individual championships in pre-war days. He took the running broad and 120-yard hurdles handsomely enough. The bike events proved a big attraction. Gerald Davis took the feature pedalling event, the five-mile open, in 13:08 against a good field.

Ladies' novice, 100-yard dash—Edna Swanson, Hazel I. Stone, Dorothy Gardner. Time—13.5 seconds.

O.T.A. Can Stand On Its Merits

Ontario has before it the questions on which it will be asked to vote on October 23. There are only two:

"Are you in favor of the continuance of the Ontario Temperance Act?"

"Are you in favor of the sale as a beverage of beer and spirituous liquor in sealed packages, under government control?"

The action of the government in placing these two questions before the people has the advantage of having simplified the issue. It really amounts to the one question: "Do you prefer the O. T. A. to government control?" The two questions must be considered together. There are no other options, no proposed amendments to the existing act—just a plain issue, O. T. A. vs. government control.

There are some very consistent advocates of temperance legislation who favor changes in the Ontario Temperance Act. They fail to see where the system of prescriptions as issued by doctors is a correct method of distribution, and they would have preferred an opportunity to give expression to these views on the ballot paper. They are not in favor of the O. T. A. because they do not consider it is strict enough, but if they express their dissatisfaction in the way of declaring that they are not in favor of the O. T. A. they find themselves voting exactly the same as the most confirmed wet.

To this class of voter the questions must come as one: "Do you prefer government control to the O. T. A.?" That is the issue they must face, and the answer will be that they prefer the O. T. A., even with its defects, which can be remedied, to any system of sale under government control. They do not want control—they desire prohibition.

When facing a situation such as we have in these two questions it is desirable that those favoring temperance legislation from any viewpoint should pool their strength. There will be those who view it as a moral question, on the same grounds as when it first became a public issue; there will be those to whom the moral side of the case is not uppermost. They treat it as an economic issue, as something having to do with the welfare of all the people in Ontario, with the increased efficiency it gives to our industrial life. They will remember that we first adopted the fundamental principles of the O. T. A. because it was deemed necessary to the bringing to bear of the full strength of our nation on the stern business of war. These people are inclined to agree with such men as Henry Ford, who holds that liquor had to go when the motor car came in great numbers, because people cannot have both with safety. It is with them a straight business proposition that whiskey and gasoline cannot be mixed with safety.

There are businessmen and manufacturers who know from experience that the measure of prohibition as we have it in Ontario has been and is a good thing for them. They can see it in their ledgers and in the increasing ease with which work is now carried on in their establishments. They are inclined to view the vote on October 23 not as a moral issue, but in the light of business experience under conditions before and since the coming of the O. T. A.

Thus from various angles there will be the common appeal to defend the fundamental principles of sound temperance legislation that are unquestionably embodied in the O. T. A. Those who hold that there are defects in it that should be remedied will be numbered with those who will vote for the present legislation, because they do not see in government control the restrictive qualities they desire to support. They find themselves faced with the one question: "Do you prefer the O. T. A. to government control?"

There is time for the question to be thoroughly and frankly considered. The temperance issue has reached a stage in Ontario where its supporters can bring to its espousal plenty of facts drawn from the records for sobriety and improvement it has accomplished in this province. The case can stand on its own merits, and on that ground alone the O. T. A. should receive a favorable verdict on October 23.

Is Unemployment a Crime?

Saskatoon has a bright idea for dealing with unemployment during the coming winter. The city council there has gone on record as being in favor of deporting jobless men who have lived there for less than five years.

Deportation is employed in getting rid of undesirable citizens. When the law finds a person whose conduct is so undesirable as to make that individual a menace to the community deportation is resorted to.

To talk of deporting the unemployed is a wrong idea (1) because it classifies as an undesirable the man who cannot secure work, and (2) it in no way helps to deal effectively with the situation.

A man who wants to work, yet can find no work, is not an object of contempt—he is the very opposite. His condition should call forth sincere and frank efforts from the rest of the citizens to see that he does find work. If our citizenship will not assume that attitude then it does not amount to much, and there is something radically wrong with it.

Granted that Saskatoon has the right to deport men who cannot secure employment, where does it propose to send them, and what are they going to do when they reach the destination Saskatoon has in view? That city must have some place in view or it could not talk of deportation. It would simply be evading responsibility and creating a more acute situation for some other place.

We would be pleased to think that there had been an error made some place in connection with this despatch from Saskatoon. As it stands it is not big enough or wholesome enough to represent the attitude of any Canadian center. The failure of a man to find employment has certainly not reached the stage where we will deliberately write it down in the category of crime.

Starting Anew in Canada.

A photograph of a wedding party published in a Toronto paper contains the picture of a baroness and a prince of Russian nobility. The prince acted as best man at the happy event where a friend of his, a lieutenant in the Imperial Russian cavalry, was married to an Edinburgh girl whom he met during the operations of the British mission for relief work in Poland.

These people, driven from Russia, find in the more democratic atmosphere of Canada a security that was not theirs in Russia. There can be no doubt as to the bona fides of their titles. Prince Nakashidze, the groomsmen, spent some time in London earlier in the year. If there were any doubt in his case it could be readily removed by the production of papers from the former Russian embassy in London. When he came to this city there was only one thing he desired—an opportunity to work. He was equipped as a linguist or as a chemist, but in the absence of an opening in these lines he worked on the Canadian National Railways as a trucker. He was not at all anxious to speak of his former position, or to bemoan the turn in national affairs that has made such a right-about-face in his social and financial position. "I want a chance to work and forget it," was his only comment on the past.

A former lieutenant in the Russian cavalry, or a prince of the same country who wants nothing better than a chance to work—Canada has room and welcome for them. A touch of romance that makes a bonny daughter of Scotland the bride of the lieutenant is the forerunner of a happier existence in this land where freedom and opportunity, unknown in Russia, are the common property of all.

The Council Is Powerful.

Councils deal with queer matters. In Glendale, Cal., a resolution has been passed by the fathers of the community asking a contractor to remove a camp of mules from a fairly stylish section of the community.

Those protesting claimed they would rather have a jazz band in the cellar than the mules in the nearby camp. At three in the morning, when many of the folks would be getting home, a dozen or so jacks and jennies would start to sing or cough, or whatever it is that mules do with their vocal organs.

Of all that appeared before the council of Glendale there was not one who had a good word to say for the mule as a vocalist—not one who repeated the words of that old song, "Sweetly sings the donkey when he wants his hay."

So the mountain canaries had to move on, every last one of them. The council said so. Great is the power of the municipal council.

Government control in Manitoba has found it necessary to tighten up again, this time prohibiting the sale of beer by the keg. This is the third change since the adoption of government control. (1) Increasing penalties, (2) abolishing sale of the glass, (3) doing away with sale by kegs. Ontario has a better plan, and is not inclined to experiment with the Manitoba system.

TO THE COW.

"I think that I will never see
A poem lovely as a tree."
—Joyce Kilmer.

I think I'll never see, somehow,
A creature lovely as a cow;
The radio, the planes that fly,
The stars that twinkle in the sky,
Are marvelous, and yet I call
The cow more perfect than them all.

She lives among her bovine ilk
That we may feed ourselves on milk,
She dies a martyr crowned with grief
That we may have our meal of beef.
She is destined (Please note this, please)
To be a plate of cottage cheese.

She gives her skin to make us shoes,
And yet never suffers from the blues,
In spite of all her grief and pain,
I never heard a cow complain,
And that is why I love, somehow,
To take my hat off to the cow.

A PROPER PUNISHMENT.

"Deliberate murder" was the crime
The jury called a girl called Flime
(I call her Flime to make the rhyme)
Hast wantonly committed.

The evidence implied that she
Had done a fiendish thing, and we,
Her next-door neighbors, did agree
She could not be acquitted.

My testimony showed the jade
Planned massacres had made,
For each selection that she played
Was nothing less than murder.

They hanged the lady by the ear,
A punishment some thought severe,
But those who thought that way, I fear,
Could never once have heard her.

Late Saturday Night

Jim Perkins and his wife they went to do their shopping late at night, not when the sun on Saturday was shinin' out in all its might, and when they could by broad day-light inspect the things they wished to buy, instead they waited till the sun had sunk and faded in the sky.

And by the time they came upon the corner-store of old Joe Dell, the neighbors from ten blocks around had pawed the things he had to sell.

They'd grabbed the peaches that were ripe, they'd carted off the apples too, long hours before they'd took away his cabbage when the stock was new.

So when Jim Perkins and his wife they sauntered in the shop a spell they found the leavin's of the day upon the shelves of old Joe Dell.

Jim Perkins' wife she looked around, she saw tomatoes small and green, the kind what's left for boys to pelt upon the night of Halloween. Cucumbers there was none at all, bananas were a stricken crew, the shoppers who trooped in before had shot the stock clean through and through.

So Perkins he looked 'round a bit and looks old Joe square in the eye, remarkin' he don't see no stuff what's fit at all for them to buy.

But old Joe Dell he didn't go and fly off in a rage at all, he knowed he'd cleaned his stock that day, he had the bills stacked high and tall. He says to Jim: "How come it now you and your missus come in here when hours ago the shoppin' folks has swept the decks off clean and clear?"

I open this here store at eight, 'tis then I leave my sleepin' hole and stock in squash and pumpkins here two husky men can scarcely roll. They are a goodly thing to see, and folks they gather here two deep while you are lingerin' in your hut or snorin' out your hours in sleep."

So Joe he tells the Perkins folks their way is crude and none too deft, for comin' in at ten at night they've got to take what others left.

It's just a way some folks has got, the habit's old and poor and stale, this shoppin' on the last lone hour and layin' out your healthy kale, and gettin' just the things what's left when clerks is weary in the head, and wishin' folks would keep away and let them park inside their bed.

Jim Perkins he was keen enough to see as how old Joe was right, and what a chump he surely was to do his shoppin' late at night. So now Jim's wife she bustles out and shops amidst the mornin' dew, and feeds Jim on big squash and beets just like a wise spouse ought to do—ARK.

Don't Be a Bass

(Hardware and Metal.)

A naturalist once divided an aquarium with a clear glass partition. He put a lusty bass in one section and minnows in the other. The bass struck every time a minnow approached the partition.

After three days of fruitless lunging, which netted him only bruises, he ceased his efforts and subsisted on the food that was dropped.

Then the naturalist removed the glass partition. The minnows swam all around the bass, but he would not strike at a single one. He had been thoroughly sold on the idea that business was bad.

There's a real moral here and we need it—take another shot at the glass partition—maybe it isn't there any more.

THE AEROPLANE

Recently, fifteen motor gliders started from the Buc Aerodrome in France on a 1,156-mile flight across the country. The object of the flight was to evolve the cheapest form of motor glider with the lowest gasoline consumption. The competitors were not allowed to replace the engines or wings, but were allowed to effect all necessary repairs.

A glider meet was also held at Thoen on Aug. 15 and lasted for fifteen days.

Compare this with the assembly of the grand fleet of Great Britain recently at Portsmouth, where 194 warships passed before the King in review, representing thirty thousand officers and men assembled. Here were any number of men and any amount of property whose business was merely to be on parade. They serve no useful end and were entirely reserved for destructive purposes. The aeroplane, on the contrary, may be used in peace as it is in war, but it may be a machine easily converted to warlike purposes.

Sooner or later the nations of the world are going to realize that prosperity in time of peace is the best preparation for war and that the best means for war, and the most economic, consist in peaceful instrumentalities that can speedily be converted to warlike use.

At any rate, it seems that every indication is that the next war will be fought in the air, and will no longer depend upon ships. It seems as though the aeroplane were making the battleship a back number, just as the battleship has replaced the battleship of old.

By the way, the Royal Aero Club of Great Britain recently gave the Britannia Trophy to Mr. A. J. Cobham for the most meritorious performance in the air during 1923. That performance consisted in a 12,000-mile flight in a De Havilland plane, fitted with a 240 h.p. Siddeley Puma engine. The total flying time was 128 hours.

With the establishment of a transcontinental mail route from New York to San Francisco, it looks as though it would not be long before crossing the Atlantic by air would be an established business.

All this has its bearing upon war. And it is a question whether the national defense can better be served by keeping up the old-fashioned army and navy or by directing attention to the air.

There is no one who does not want to see his country properly defended. It is only a matter of vision and judgment.

To the Editor

IN CHILDREN'S INTERESTS

School Districts Should Have Some Consideration for Children Crossing Dangerous Places.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—There has been another accident caused by crossing a street. That is, to my mind, the chief reason why some of the children recently turned from Lord Roberts school should be allowed to go there.

This has special reference to the crossing of Richmond street at Central avenue, where the street is double the width, and traffic comes from six directions at once. It is a dangerous crossing even for an adult, and far worse for a child.

Perhaps it is time that the districts were rearranged, giving special consideration to dangers incurred on the way to school. But in any case it seems to me that the board ought to give special consideration to the crossing of Richmond street at Central avenue, where the street is double the width, and traffic comes from six directions at once. It is a dangerous crossing even for an adult, and far worse for a child.

I hope it will not be necessary to emphasize the danger by another accident.

dent. A little child had her thigh broken the other day at that crossing, and is now in the hospital. I commend this matter to the serious consideration of the members of the school board and the citizens in general. A PARENT.

OUR FRIENDS.

There never has been a time in life

We needed not a friend:

Nor will this need from us depart

Till life itself shall end.

We need a friend to cheer, or check,

Our feet from day to day.

When in the path of right we lag,

Or verge on error's way.

We need a friend—a priceless friend—

When joys upon us smile;

In sorrow's night we need a friend

Our anguish to beguile.

Not all who friendship have professed

In test will prove they're true.

Yet, there has never been day nor date

When not a friend we knew.

Our friends we're ever glad to meet;

We're sorry e'er to part.

For stronger grow the ties which bind

When heart communes with heart.

Those tender bands which twine our lives,

No giant's strength can break;

Nor aught on earth can tempt a friend.

A loved one to forsake.

'Mongst those who're noble, or reverse
In stations low or high.
No man e'er liveth to himself,
Nor to himself can die.
When in life's fadefest web we weave

Our noblest deeds, we blend
The silk, the silver, and the gold
We owe to some dear friend.

SAFETY FIRST.

Their boat was drifting idly, the sun shone above, and the sea was serene, while she was sitting snugly. Then he proposed.

From the opposite end of the craft she gazed at him calmly. Then she said:

"As a matter of common sense, realizing that we are in this boat on water more than 50 feet deep, and that if you were going to act as you would be capsize, I will decline your proposal at this moment—but, George, row as fast as you can to the shore and ask me again."

That girl will make a good wife.

CHILDREN CAUSE MOTOR ACCIDENT

Elgin County Engineer Hurt
When Forced To Ditch Car.

CUT BY GLASS

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, Sept. 13.—County Engineer James A. Bell narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday morning. He was returning from Port Stanley and near South Park cemetery, close to the scene of the Pease-Grey accident of Friday morning, met a car travelling towards him. Some children, innocent of the fact that they were blocking his course, forced him to take to the ditch.

The front wheel struck an obstruction which overturned the coupe. Mr. Bell was forced to break the glass in one of the doors to get out, but aside from being cut by broken glass and experiencing the shock, he was unhurt. The car had one wheel broken off and was badly smashed up about the fenders and top.

This is the second time within two days that children have been responsible, in part at least, for two serious accidents on this road. The children have a habit of standing as near as possible to an approaching car to entreat motorists to stop and pick them up.

Lengthy Illness.
The death of Peter Sotherhill, aged 89 years, took place at the Amasa Wood Hospital after a lengthy illness. He was a respected resident of Sarnia and is survived by a son and a daughter.

Appeal for Feathers.
The Hospital Aid have sent out a request among the farmers' wives in the district for feathers to fill pillows for the 61 new beds in the new Memorial Hospital. Pillow-cases can be secured from Mrs. R. J. McConnell, convener of the committee.

Moderation League.
A meeting of the Moderation League of Ontario will be held in the chamber of commerce rooms on Tuesday evening, the speaker being P. R. Jones of Toronto.

Bowling Turnout.
The burlesque bowling tournament, which was postponed from last Monday owing to the heavy rain, will be staged by the Kiwanis Club at the Metcalf street bowling greens on Monday evening next, weather permitting.

Will Trim Trees.
Acting on the advice of Fire Chief Mitchell, who stated that the fire alarm system was interfered with by branches of the trees, the hydro-electric commission gave authority to the Horticultural Society to trim offending trees.

Lines Taken Over.
The local commission has completed arrangements for taking over the feeder line of the St. Thomas station on the ninth concession to the substitution on St. Catherine's street, from the provincial commission, while the provincial commission has taken over all the rural services in this district.

The exhibits of the St. Thomas Horticultural Society at the Western Fair were dismantled Saturday morning and presented to the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium. Friday morning a large shipment of plants was sent to the same institution from the trial grounds to decorate the auditorium in which the memorial service to the late Lord Bess was held.

Sets a Record.
R. V. Smith of the "Old Guards" holds the distinction of securing the greatest number of wins for a single competitor at the Western Fair at one exhibition.

Shedden Fair.
Shedden Fair holds its 56th annual exhibition in the village of Shedden next Wednesday. An exceptionally bountiful harvest insures a fine exhibition of produce in general.

Traffic Increases.
Superintendent D. W. Donahue of the M. C. R. states that increased passenger traffic means additional coaches to practically all regular passenger trains. Although two coaches have been established within the past two years, a number of trains will have to be run in two sections during the week-end.

Staff Reduced.
Five conductors and eleven brakemen will be temporarily laid off by the M. C. R. on the 15th inst. owing to not making their accustomed mileage.

Boys in Trouble.
Two St. Thomas boys were committed to the St. John's Industrial School by Magistrate Maxwell Saturday morning for indeterminate terms for breaking and entering the coal offices of Maritime Electric and M. E. Johnson of this city. The youths, aged 13 and 14, have been out on probation for two weeks, and their conduct during that period was not satisfactory to his worship.

This troop, which is comprised of boy members of Christ Church only, is rapidly growing in size, having twenty-three scouts to date, and a large pack of wolf cubs.

"One of the best in the province for the size of the town," was Secretary Davis' encouraging comment, when he visited the troop last year. Mr. Davis is now president of the scout association for all Canada.

The girl guides, who were formed after the scouts, will open their initial meeting for the year on Wednesday evening.

CHILDREN AID.

The regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid board of management will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Children's Shelter, Wharncliffe road, at 3:15 p.m. It will be the first meeting since June, the board having adjourned during the summer months. A. E. Barbour, the president of the board, will preside.

EGYPTOLOGIST SUICIDES, BLAMES COUNTRY'S CURSE

H. G. Evelyn-White Shoots
Self on Way to Inquest
Into Girl's Death.

FAREWELL LETTER

Monks of Cairo Had Warned of Danger in Taking Manuscripts.

London, Sept. 14.—Has the curse of ancient Egypt been called down again on alien disturbers of her buried treasures?

This is once more the talk of London since the suicide of H. G. Evelyn-White, Egyptologist of Leeds University. A farewell letter, read at his inquest yesterday, said: "I have been a curse on me, though I had leave to take those manuscripts to Cairo. The monks told me the curse would work all the same. Now it has done so."

He shot himself in a cab a few days ago while responding to a summons to an inquest on Miss Mary Helen Nind, a school teacher who poisoned her husband. The count of unrequited love for him.

White spent many years in Egypt conducting excavations. During 1920 and 1921, he copied the Coptic manuscripts in the Wadi-Natroun valley, about 70 miles from Cairo, he discovered a secret room about ten feet square. There he found a number of Coptic and Arabic manuscripts.

After translating them there in the heat and dust and torment of the desert, he finally obtained permission to take the most important manuscripts to the Coptic Museum at Cairo. The permission was grudgingly given, but he found a number of monks telling him anyone interfering with relics came under the ban of an ancient curse.

SOCCER KICK-OFFS

The Leafs again showed their class on Saturday when they went to Niagara Falls and beat the Ontario team by 3 to 2 after a goal struggle.

Loch, the Leafs goalie, had his nose broken, but after repairs pluckily returned and finished out the game. The Leafs are the only team in the league which is giving the Leafs such success.

Bowman and the two Stars were the Leafs' goalkeepers, but the Niagara team got an early lead in the game from a penalty.

Cockshuts, of Brantford, beat Taylor-Fox 2 to 1 in their first tie, and the Leafs now journey to Brantford next Saturday to play the Blues in the second half of the season.

Tommy Milne did not play on Saturday, but is expected to be in the line-up against Cockshuts. Dave Smith and the Leafs' back line were called the second half in Saturday's game, and the latter topped a goal.

The Leafs opponents on Saturday played vigorous football, and did not stand on ceremony when there was a chance to score. The mishap to Loch was a reflection of the tactics employed against the Leafs.

Andy Forrester was a victim of these tactics, getting badly laid out during the game.

The Junior Rovers of St. Thomas have disbanded, we hear. They were one of the best junior soccer teams that ever represented Western Ontario, and it is to be hoped that the different players belonging to the club will continue to stay in the game. There is lots of room in the senior ranks for players of their calibre.

We hear that Smith of the Thistles has also signed for the Leafs. This is a big jump for a junior, but under such a big training he should develop. His ambition is deserving of success.

The Thistles did not play in Toronto on Saturday, as the Leafs played the game off. Next Saturday they play the C. C. N. R.

The Leafs play a provincial league game on Wednesday at Guelph with "Age-Herseys" as the opposition.

Hutchings, the full back of the C. C. N. R., has also signed for the Leafs, and it would be no surprise if either him or Smith (date Thistles) played on Wednesday at Guelph.

W. S. Murchie of Toronto handled the game at Niagara and R. Muir, the O. P. A. secretary, was an interested spectator.

Although the football war in Canada is virtually ended, several concessions given on either side are yet to be adjusted. There is a talk that each district must have fifteen clubs. This is something badly needed in the London district.

EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN.

Canada Press Despatch.
Toronto, Sept. 14.—Rev. Charles F. Price opened a two weeks' evangelistic campaign in Massey Hall today.

Arrangements are being made to hold a Rugby dance at the Winter Garden before the season's activities commence.

W. S. Haney, M.L.A., Sarnia, who was appointed convener for this district by the O. P. A., has written Harry McKee, secretary of the union, accepting the position. He received word regarding the appointment on Saturday, and immediately got in touch with the secretary.

A lot of new players will be out this week, and most of the veterans of last year have been issued with equipment. "Speed" Thompson, outside wing of last year's team, and "Flash" Stevens, a certain for the forward line, and in between are a bunch of husky youngsters and experienced players.

Secretary Bill Friend and Manager Erle Nelles have been appointed by the committee to attend a convener's meeting to draw up a schedule for the season.

Golfer Digs Out Nine Lost Balls Instead of Two

A Londoner with a name that sounds Scotch has been playing a bit of golf on the Thames Valley course. On Saturday he drove two pet balls into the woods and failed to recover them.

It was too much, so early on the Sabbath he drove out to the scene of the disaster.

After a good deal of searching in the bush on either side of the hole he emerged, but without his two favorite pills. He was feeling not so bad about it, however, as he had picked up nine others.

PIONEER OF ST. THOMAS ANSWERS DEATH CALL

Mrs. Harriett Hammond Had Reached Advanced Age—
Had Trying Experiences.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, Sept. 14.—The death of Mrs. Harriett Hammond, aged 91 years, widow of the late James Hammond, this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. F. Miller, Balacava street, closed a life which had in many experiences of pioneer life.

Mr. and Mrs. Hammond, with their infant daughter, came to this country in the days when the ocean voyage was made in the sailing vessels, and was considered an ordeal rather than a pleasure.

On April 1, 1857, the Martin Luther pair to sea with a party of English settlers bound for the New World. When three days out, she encountered a terrific storm which lasted for two days and two nights.

The small craft was swept from bow to stern with heavy seas and a leak was discovered. Sailors and passengers alternately manned the pumps to keep the boat afloat. At last an incoming ship towed the stricken vessel back to Plymouth, where she underwent repairs.

The party again set sail, reaching Quebec in seven weeks and four days from Plymouth.

"In the Bible there is not a word about prohibition, even to the Jews, except those who took certain vows, and the priests, who were special representatives of Jehovah. It would be well if the priests of our day would be exempt from the duties of not trying to force laws which the church was not commissioned to do."

Those who profess Christianity, advocating prohibition should note that more than one kind of liquor is mentioned in the Scriptures. The iron rule of Christ's kingdom will prohibit every kind of liquor.

Subjects will come to have the spirit of St. Paul who said that he would drink no wine, nor eat any food if it would cause his brother to stumble.

"Let every Christian be voluntary in this matter, and not preach prohibition at home and run for the trenches, where there is dirty work to do, while many of the best subjects of our country are suffering from the effects of a sick friend for fear he may be assessed the sum of two hundred dollars."

Special to The Advertiser.
Detroit, Sept. 14.—Charles Bowles, candidate for mayor, who ran third in primary election Tuesday, according to unofficial returns, formally filed a petition for a recount of the entire vote for mayor yesterday.

In his petition Mr. Bowles points out that many election inspectors who made the original count were on duty from early Tuesday morning until late Wednesday, and charges that weariness caused them to make many mistakes.

"Ballots were counted for your petitioners, and other ballots marked for your petitioners were not counted at all," Mr. Bowles charges. "Your petitioners allege such errors occurred in all the election districts of Detroit."

According to the figures quoted by Mr. Bowles in his petition, the present count gives Joseph A. Martin a plurality of 2,073 votes over him.

W. J. Boulton, of the department of natural resources, Ottawa, was a visitor at the office of the Chamber of Commerce this morning. Mr. Boulton is tabulating the resources of Western Ontario, and will not complete his survey until late in the fall.

Interviewed by The Advertiser, Mr. Boulton stated that he had nothing for publication at the present time, and would prefer not to be quoted until he comes back to London early in November.

Mr. Boulton leaves shortly for a survey of the counties of Grey and Wellington.

Coach Huestis Expects Out.

The L. A. A. Rugby committee held a meeting over the week-end, and it was decided to initiate the first drill this afternoon at Tecumseh Park.

Coach Huestis is anxious to get the squad to the field as early as possible on the job at 5:30. Early season conditioning will be the first week's aim on the part of the committee.

Arrangements are being made to hold a Rugby dance at the Winter Garden before the season's activities commence.

W. S. Haney, M.L.A., Sarnia, who was appointed convener for this district by the O. P. A., has written Harry McKee, secretary of the union, accepting the position. He received word regarding the appointment on Saturday, and immediately got in touch with the secretary.

A lot of new players will be out this week, and most of the veterans of last year have been issued with equipment. "Speed" Thompson, outside wing of last year's team, and "Flash" Stevens, a certain for the forward line, and in between are a bunch of husky youngsters and experienced players.

Secretary Bill Friend and Manager Erle Nelles have been appointed by the committee to attend a convener's meeting to draw up a schedule for the season.

PROHIBITION RAPPEL BY BIBLE STUDENT

J. Kumpf Contents Bible Does Not Say Habit Must Be Controlled.

Presenting the viewpoint of the Bible Students on the question of prohibition last evening at Hyman Hall, J. Kumpf made some interesting statements. The subject discussed was "Christ's Kingdom and Prohibition."

"Prohibition will not be established until the Kingdom of God is established," was the statement of Pastor Kumpf. "The Bible does not say that we are to control the earth's governments, the Saints will then possess the earth. We cannot agree. Grafting politicians and profiteers are not the Saints who will possess the kingdom."

them, and 2 per cent beer was the best they could offer to the thirsty souls who entered the soft drink bars, relics of the days of hard liquor.

"Take me to a place where I can get a drink," I said to a taxi driver shortly after midnight.

"I do not know of any place," he replied.

"I have heard that the border cities are live towns. You don't mean to say that there is not a house in town where one may obtain a drink?"

"If there is one, I haven't heard of it," he answered, adding that so far as he knew there was not a "blind pig" in town.

The management of the hotel must not sell liquor, because it is against the law. In the first six weeks that the scows operated this summer it is estimated that 1,500 cases of beer were sold.

The beer was not disposed of without some demonstration on the part of the provincial police. In one instance the officers arrested a local resident who had a case of beer in his possession only two days after the scows commenced operations.

Won Case.
Immediately 50 cases of beer were seized and confiscated. The proprietors were charged with contravening the Ontario temperance act. The scowmen won the case.

Then a Sarnian was found intoxicated and arrested. He pleaded guilty, and volunteered the information that he obtained the beer on the scow. No liquor was found on his person. He was fined $100 and costs.

Information was laid against Harry W. Loughhead, who operates a scow. The case fell through. Three crown witnesses who testified that they had obtained beer at the scow maintained that they did not think it was more than the legal strength of 2 per cent.

CADETS ARE BEING WELL ORGANIZED

Col. Gillespie Reports Excellent Progress With Unit.

Cadet corps, through Military District No. 1, of which London is the headquarters, are expecting to be even more efficiently organized this year than for some time past. Lieut. Col. G. H. Gillespie, inspecting officer for the district, has just returned from his holidays, and reported today that indications pointed to more cadets and more cadets in uniform than in recent years.

"We are holding the King George shooting competition this autumn and have sent out requests for entries already," Col. Gillespie said on Saturday. "Besides this competition there is to be a shoot at Harrington early in October. Cadets from Mount Forest, Listowel and Wingham will take part in the shoot. We are trying out the new 22 rifle."

Speaking of uniformed cadets in London, the inspecting officer lauded the movement. In other cities, Woodstock, Guelph, St. Thomas, Chatham, Windsor and Sarnia, cadets were all equipped with uniforms, while London's present equipment consists of a few caps and an officer's uniform here and there.

"I suppose it's the novelty of the uniformed cadets that appeals to the other places," Col. Gillespie said. "London is a garrison town, and a uniformed man is no novelty here."

Cadets are now being enrolled in London companies and during the next two weeks registrations will be forwarded to the inspecting officer.

THE ADVERTISER'S CROP SURVEY—DISTRICT EIGHT.

CROPS VIE WITH CATTLE TO MAKE FARMERS RICH

Splendid Results From Mixed Farming Obtained in Glencoe-Watford District, Where Cattle Graze On the Innumerable Hills, and Where Almost Every Known Crop Is Found.

POULTRY, INCLUDING TURKEYS, THRIVE

This is the eighth of ten daily articles surveying farming methods and crop conditions in southwestern Ontario. The survey is made for The Advertiser by C. G. Higman, who has had O. A. C. training as well as thorough practical experience.

District eight takes in the Glencoe-Watford area, where beef cattle, with a great variety of crops, brings wealth to the farmer.

The eighth district of The London Advertiser crop survey comprises that country extending in a broad belt from Wood Green, on the Longwoods road, to the shore of Lake Huron. In this district, which is well known as a grazing country, are situated the towns of Glencoe, Alvinston, Watford, Ailsa Craig and Parkhill.

In travelling this section of Western Ontario, one is impressed with the fact that although extensive cattle-raising is usually associated with cheap lands and natural meadows which could not be put under intensive cultivation, in this section the reverse is the case, for here one finds cattle-raising, and not dairying, the backbone of the farm livelihood. The soil for the most part is a clay loam, which in small sections of the country varies from a medium loam to really stiff clay.

With the exception of the land just west and north of Watford, the country presents a rolling appearance, broken in places by hill land, and interspersed with streams and brooks. It is a pleasant country, and the fine homes and well-kept appearance of the countryside tell a tale of steady prosperity and contented homes.

Busy Harvesting.
The district was entered from Wood Green and the route followed touched the district towns and villages from that point to Parkhill. On approaching Glencoe, one sees a picture of busy harvesting. In most cases the grain has been brought in from the fields, and the threshers are working at high pressure to wind up the oat threshing before silo filling claims their attention.

From the Longwoods road to Glencoe, fine crops of all sorts were noticed on the farms of D. Machlin, J. C. Machlin and M. C. McNeil. A good crop of apples, a real rarity this fall, was noticed on the farm of Thomas Thorne.

Along this portion of the route, excellent crops of sugar beets and manure could be seen, and the clover for the most part is excellent. The corn crop is varied in character, some fields showing a heavy stand of well-grown corn, while other fields quite close by carried little more than half a crop.

Throughout the whole of section eight, the preparation to the wheat land is engaging the attention of the farmers who are not working with the threshing gangs.

Oat Crop Good.

The oat crop between Glencoe and Alvinston is particularly good, and while there are a few fields which are only average, most of the farms will turn out over 40 bushels to the acre, and others will reach 50 bushels.

Large straw stacks and a heavy stubble gave evidence of a heavy crop on the farms of D. B. Ferguson and Donald McArthur, and in fact on all of the land in the Alvinston area. This country is stocked with very good farm horses, the Clyde type leading in popularity, and poor horses are a sight seldom seen.

In leaving Alvinston the farms of Colin Walker and A. C. Walker were seen, and on the latter a splendid apriary was noticed. A fine crop of Border Leicester sheep were seen, and in passing the farm of W. R. Dolbear, and were the first noticed after leaving the Longwoods road.

Apples Light This Year.

The apple crop throughout the whole of this section is very light, while in the lake shore district to the north of Parkhill some varieties are a very fair crop.

In leaving Alvinston and approaching Watford the country flattens out somewhat and larger acreages of grain and corn are noticed. Here the corn crop appears to be pretty well up to the average, and in some instances the yield of strictly silage kinds will be quite heavy.

In the Watford district the crops are good and the farms are well stocked, with the exception of Kent and Essex counties, and the farmers throughout the district state that small grains are a bumper crop.

Near Watford some fine flocks of turkeys were noticed, one flock in particular running nearly fifty birds. Turkeys stand out in marked contrast to the other districts visited, where turkeys were few and far between. The flock on the farm of James Lett was one of the best and biggest seen.

From Watford the route was abandoned for a time in order to allow a short run toward Strathroy and Adelaide.

Grass and Pasture.

Leaving Watford and travelling due east across a level country in which much of the land is given over to grass and pasture. The farms in this district are for the most part large and the well-tended land balances the large tracts of hay and grazing land.

Cattle raising, from a beef standpoint, is the big item in most of the farms there, and some splendid beef cattle were seen, these giving place to a few scattered dairy herds in the Strathroy and Adelaide district.

The crops and the evidence of the process of being threshed on the farms of J. W. Collier, J. S. Wynn, John Stirling and L. C. Reynolds give a prosperous picture of the land adjoining the route followed.

Sheep are plentiful in this section and those seen grazing on the farm of J. W. Collier are of the good grazing that has been their lot during this season.

A striking feature of this particular trip was the splendid condition of most of the roads and concessions, which were followed through district eight. The roads are for the most part narrow ones, but the condition of the surface is excellent, and the travelling, which stands out in contrast to the rough pitted surface found on the much used highways to the west, is a pleasant surprise.

Parkhill District Visited.
The next section visited was that country surrounding Parkhill. From Strathroy to Parkhill, the country varies little. The soil is very similar to that seen along the earlier part of the route, and with few exceptions, the crops are identical with those grown in the Glencoe and Alvinston districts. As one travels farther north in district eight, a difference in the maturity of the crops and the difference in the soil becomes more noticeable.

In the Glencoe section the harvest is well advanced, and in many instances the crops are being threshed. As one nears Parkhill, the crops which are still standing, such as buckwheat, corn and beans, growth is not complete.

Another difference which can be noticed is that, while at Glencoe and Alvinston little damage has been told from frost, in the Parkhill district the crops are being damaged by the frost.

In the Parkhill district cattle are the outstanding feature, and in the country lying between Parkhill and Ailsa Craig some splendid herds of beef type Shorthorns and also some Herefords were passed.

Heavy Grain Yield.

The grain harvest here, although not so far advanced as farther to the south, is resulting in heavy yields, the crops turning out in fairly good to fifty bushels of oats, with fall wheat averaging close on to thirty-five bushels. Corn also is fairly good, although some fields as stated before show evidence of having been touched with frost.

From Parkhill the return journey was made through the well-known stock country around Ailsa Craig. This part of the countryside was viewed with particular interest on account of the fame which Ailsa Craig has attained as a stock country of the largest cattle shipping centers in the whole Dominion.

Little difference was noticed in the manner of farming, and the crops touched in district eight, unless that a more distinctly beef type of cattle is raised, while elsewhere the cattle range from beef type to the dual-purpose Shorthorn, from which an income along dairy lines could be expected.

Ailsa Craig Contented.
The crops in the Ailsa Craig district are splendid, and the farmers feel well content with the harvest, albeit there is a tendency to cuss the rains, which while not excessive in the growing season, are playing havoc with the oat harvest and the farmers' patience.

The crops seen on the farms of Robert Armstrong, George Johnston and others in this section were particularly good, and the corn on most farms is above an average yield.

The poultry department on most of the farms in district eight is evidently a profitable branch of farming, for, while commercial poultry farms are conspicuous by their absence, nearly all of the farms seen boasted large flocks of chickens, with the Barred Rock leading in numbers and White Leghorns a close second.

District eight was left at Lucan crossing, and the return journey made through Ilfordton.

DELEGATES GUESTS OF LONDON UNION

Members of Dominion Trades Congress Entertained by Typographers.

Delegates of the allied printing trades to the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress were the guests of the London Typographical Union at a "get-together" smoker at the Labor Temple Saturday night. About 50 members and friends were present. A musical program, refreshments, reminiscences, recitations and an exchange of views on the labor question, combined to make the evening thoroughly enjoyable.

J. A. P. Haydon occupied the chair and called upon many prominent labor men to express their views on the labor problems. The speeches were in accordance with the spirit of the evening. The words were reminiscent for most of the men had either met before or had chummed together in one place and another during their careers in the printing trade.

Nearly every province of the Dominion was represented, Ottawa sent P. M. Draper, secretary of the Canadian Trades Congress. He has been a member for some 37 years, of these 34 have been spent on committees and on executive work.

Mr. Draper made a plea for action, and did not believe in a constructive criticism, but welcomed constructive views. He is out to boost the international union, he says it is the hope of success and the only way to get things done, no divisions in the ranks, their efforts will be crowned with success.

Gustaf Franq of Ottawa, fraternal delegate, entertained the boys with singing and taking money for the printing game. He spoke of his first years around Rouses Point and Montreal, when a man worked for a living and his recreations were limited to drinking and smoking wine. The delegates thought that man could ask little more in the way of recreation.

Refers to Union's Strength.

Turning to the serious side, Mr. Franq spoke of the strength of the union, asking that the members not overestimate their strength and thus become careless. He wanted them to stand united and drink deep of the wine of the union.

R. B. Pettipiece, vice-president of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, representing president of the Typographers' Union, introduced the man from the progressive West. He has spent 35 years on the prairies and on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Pettipiece said that the progressive West was a man from the east. He paid a tribute to the old-time printer and spoke of the school of experience they passed through. Touching on the different conventions he had attended, he said that he had differed at times with the views taken by other delegates.

Mr. Pettipiece said that he did not mean to say for men to agree if they could just understand each other.

The plodding, plugging Englishman with his great attention to detail was the kind of man who got the best results in this world, the speaker believed that such a course was the best one to follow. In the west there had been a feeling that they could jump right into a thing and see the best results. He thought that by painstaking thoroughness big results were achieved.

W. R. Trotter of Vancouver, second vice-president of the International Typographical Union, contributed to the good-natural spirit of the evening with his remarks. He also spoke of the "Tourist Printer" who is a man who has done a great deal for the union and one who could spread the feeling of brotherhood among the members. The union, he said, was a man who had done a great deal for the union and one who could spread the feeling of brotherhood among the members.

CHRISTIAN MEN URGED TO FIGHT LIQUOR MOVE

Government Liquor Agent If O. T. A. Changed, Says Rev. A. E. M. Thomson.

SPECIAL SERMONS

Believes Officials Prefer Present Law After Investigations.

Last night in Centennial Methodist Church the pastor, Rev. A. E. M. Thomson, began a series of sermons to be delivered on the question of temperance during the campaign preceding the plebiscite to be taken on the Ontario temperance act on October 23 next. His subject was "The Liquor Traffic."

Stating that his address was only an introductory one, Rev. Mr. Thomson said that in later sermons he would deal with the financial side of the question, the enforcement of the law, the personal liberty side of the question.

There should be no difference of opinion among Christian men as regards the liquor traffic. If the traffic is a blessing and makes for good citizenship we all want it, but if it is a curse and makes for destruction of economic and social order, it is a domestic life then no good man should want it.

Some men say that it is simply the method of handling a difficult matter, and we believe that government sale is the best method. An out-raged electorate has voted by enormous majorities to destroy the traffic, and now the government is to become the booze agent. Geneva, Sept. 13.—The complicated problem of compulsory arbitration of all international disputes now is presented to the delegates of the League of Nations. The great power which apparently is willing to go farthest in this respect is France, which thus far makes no reservations whatsoever except that arbitral decisions must be enforced by appropriate sanctions.

Why Did I Kiss That Girl?

Dear Mrs. Smith:
Smith: "You surely have a fine lot of stenographers here. Where do you find them?"
Head stenographer: "Usually back in the corner, arranging their hair."

Said a young man to his wife at a state fair: "Give me the lunch basket, dear. We may lose each other in this crowd."

And John Spoke for Himself.
"With all my faults, you love me still, don't you John, dear," she asked her husband.
"I don't know," wearily responded John, "I never saw you that way."

Not a Bad Idea.
She: "I sent three contributions to the editor of The Fun Shop, and he didn't accept any of them."
He: "Why don't you send your picture?"

As the Season Opens.
Leaving a political rally, where he had heard one of the prominent candidates speak, Uncle Rastus was accosted by a ward leader.
"Well, Uncle, what do you think of our man?" he was asked.
"I dunno, Boss, but he sho' do recommen' hisself mos' highly."

The Reward of Her Smile.
She was rather an elderly girl of perhaps forty-five, and he was a good-looking young man.
She smiled at him across the aisle of the car, and presently he crossed over and seated himself beside her.
"Would you care to make an appointment with me?" he asked seriously.

She giggled hysterically and nodded her head. Visions of an auto ride with the handsome young man at her side quite upset her.
He arose and handed her his card. "Very well," he replied. "Be at my office at ten o'clock tomorrow morning. I am considered an excellent dentist, and I think it is not too late to fill those front teeth of yours."

The Blow That Killed.
May: "What do you think? My prize fighter friend proposed last night."
Fay: "And did you accept him?"
May: "Don't be silly. I told him to count me out, of course."

Dark Finance.
A ducky named Sam borrowed $25 from his friend, Tom, and gave him a note for the amount.
Time went on, the note became long past due, and Tom was very impatient for its payment.
One day the men met on the street. Tom stopped and said, with determination, "Look here, man, when ah you-all t' gwine t' pay thet note?"

"I ain't got no money now," replied Sam, "but Im gona' to pay it soon as I kin."
"Yo' been sayin' thet for months," retorted Tom, "but it don't git me no money. Yer gwine t' pay thet money here and NOW, that's what yer gwine t' do. Ef y'don't, y' know what I'm goin' t' do? I'm goin' to BURN yer old note, then whar'll yo' be at?"

"Yas ye' will, Yas ye' will," Sam shouted. "Jes yo' burnt dat nute o' mine and I'll pop a law-suit onto you."

Excuse.
"That was a poor excuse of a kiss."
He sighed, as he pecked at the lips of a miss.
"Ma's watching us."
She warned, "But, Paul, a poor excuse."
Beats none at all.

PRINCE TO LEAVE THURSDAY NIGHT

Wales Not Likely To Stay For Final International Polo Game.

TRAVEL BY MOTOR

Sydney, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The Prince of Wales will probably make his delayed departure for Canada next Thursday night. It was said today at the Borden home, the Long Island vacation residence of the prince and party.

It is expected that the second polo game, to be played Tuesday, will probably be won by the U. S. team, and in that case the prince will not stay for the final match. The prince and party, who have thoroughly enjoyed the game on Saturday, and especially the brilliant playing of Louis Lacey, the Canadian-Argentine player.

During the next four days the prince and his staff plan to enjoy themselves more informally than ever. Their social program is not fixed. The dinners and dancing parties that were arranged long in advance have been given. There will be dinner parties arranged on the spur of the moment as the prince likes.

The prince today put his golf bag in his motor car and went to the home of Harrison Williams, Glen Cove, had some golf and proceeded afterwards to dinner at the home of Julius Fleischmann in Port Washington.

It is reported that the prince might motor to Canada, thus getting a good view of the Green Mountains, and then take the train at Montreal. But present plans, which are being made by the Canadian National Railway, call for a long trip from Glen Cove, Long Island, across the Sound to New London, Conn.

INJURIES FATAL TO RAILROAD MAN

Sectionman Failed To See Approach of Express Train—Skull Fractured.

Struck by a westbound express train at the Waterloo street crossing of the C. N. R. Saturday morning shortly after 11 o'clock, William Henry Godsoe, sectionman on the railway, died from a fractured skull in Victoria Hospital at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Godsoe lived at 220 Wellington street. He was 54 years old and had been a resident of this city for the past five years.

The train which struck him was the fast Toronto-London No. 17, hauled by one of the new mountain type of engines. Godsoe was leaning over the rails, picking up bolts, when he was hit and hurled many yards by the engine. The train had slackened speed upon the approach to the station, but was still going at fairly good speed when the accident occurred.

According to fellow-employees of the C.N.R., who were working with Godsoe, he apparently did not hear the calls of the men nor the whistle of the engine. They shouted to him when they saw the approach of No. 17, but before the warning could be given the engine had struck him.

Dr. Loney of the Institute of Public Health took the injured man to Victoria Hospital. He was unconscious when admitted and was suffering from a severe fracture of the skull and other injuries. Physicians at the hospital held little hope for the man's recovery after the extent of his injuries became known. He never regained consciousness.

An inquest has been ordered by Coroner Dr. Robert Ferguson, who has inquired into the case and the remains laid to rest at noon today.

Mr. Godsoe, who was a widower, is survived by one brother, John of St. John, N.B., and two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Reading and Mrs. Leonard Thornhill.

The funeral will be held from Ferguson's Undertaking Rooms tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

INNOCENCE DECLARED BY CONDEMNED YOUTH

Leo Davis Makes Sworn Statement To Court Commissioner and Lawyer.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, Sept. 14.—"I am wholly innocent of the heinous crime," declared Leo Davis, one of the six condemned men to be hanged October 24 for the murder of Henry Clariox and the holdup of the Bank of Hochelaga collection auto on April 1.

The denial is embodied in a sworn statement affidavit signed by Davis today at Bordeaux jail before John J. Lomax, senior court stenographer and commissioner of the superior court, and Oscar Gagnon, one of the lawyers for the defence. Another affidavit, completely exonerating Davis from any participation in the crime, was also signed by ex-detective Louis Morel.

REV. DR. S. D. CHOWN RETURNS
Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, has returned from abroad.

Mrs. Albert Couse of Yarmouth Centre Is Brutally Beaten.

YOUTH DISAPPEARS

Little Girl Finds Mother Unconscious in Pool of Blood.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.

St. Thomas, Sept. 14.—Brutally attacked while she lay in bed, Mrs. Albert Couse of Yarmouth Centre, a mother of three children, is now in Amnasa Wood Hospital here in a critical condition. As the result of the crime, which was one of the most vicious in the history of Elgin county, John Hammer, sixteen-year-old Barnardo Home boy, is being sought by the county police.

Mrs. Couse, who is the wife of a well-known farmer living on East Talbot street, was found early Saturday morning by her five-year-old daughter Doris lying unconscious in a pool of blood. The child notified neighbors and county officers were called. They found the room ransacked, the ceiling and walls splashed and the bedclothes wet with blood.

Husband Away.
Mr. Couse was in Toronto on a business trip, and had left with his wife and family the young English boy, who had been employed by him since early summer. The boy has disappeared.

Mrs. Couse's assailant attacked her with a sharp-edged instrument and inflicted three gruesome wounds on the victim's head. Police believe that he entered Mrs. Couse's room late Friday evening with the intention of stealing her purse, but on finding his victim awake made a murderous assault on her.

Unable to summon assistance, Mrs. Couse lay in a bleeding condition for four or six hours before being discovered by her daughter. Her assailant rifled the room and fled with $20, which he found in Mrs. Couse's purse.

A description of Hammer has been sent to police in all large centers, while farmers are scouring the district for him. The young English lad was a favorite in the neighborhood, and the Couse family had implicit confidence in him. The fact that he was the only grown person in the house besides Mrs. Couse, and his sudden disappearance after the near tragedy, led police officials to believe that, if not the perpetrator of the crime, he knows a great deal about it.

Door Is Locked.
When the crime had been committed, Mrs. Couse's assailant locked the door of the bedroom, which was opened by little Doris Couse four hours later.

Doctors declared that Mrs. Couse was suffering from great loss of blood and a broken skull. Despite her feeble condition, however, it is believed she will live.

Police are of the opinion that the person responsible for the deed entered the room armed with a weapon he had picked up outside the house. The deep gashes in Mrs. Couse's head indicate that the instrument was something like a heavy fish spear.

If, as they suspect, the assault was committed by young Hammer, the police think that he took a train to Niagara, where he was once employed, or jumped the late express for Hamilton. Police at both these places have been instructed to be on the lookout for him.

Mr. Couse returned from Toronto as soon as word of the affair reached him and visited his wife in her room at the hospital. Mrs. Couse was too weak to give a coherent account of the attack except to say that on hearing the prowler's footsteps she cried out.

Give Description.
Hammer is described as being sixteen years of age, five feet seven inches in height, dark complexion, dark hair and brown eyes. He has a pronounced Cockney accent, and was said to have been wearing a blue suit on the day of the crime.

Mrs. Couse, who is 28 years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Emery, Weldon avenue, this city. Late Sunday evening hospital authorities stated she had shown a slight improvement since Saturday morning.

HARVESTING HALTED BY ADVERSE WEATHER

Better Conditions Expected This Week—Cutting Should Be Finished Soon.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—A week of dull wet weather suspended harvesting operations in many sections of all three western provinces, and the general situation today is about as it was last Saturday. The skies now have cleared, however, and beneath a warm, bright sun, grain in stocks has a chance to dry out and uncut fields an opportunity to ripen. If fine weather continues cutting and threshing will be resumed in many sections tomorrow or Tuesday.

With favorable conditions cutting should be almost completed in the southern section by the end of this week. In the central and northern sections there are large areas where grain still is very green and several days of sunshine are necessary for its ripening.

Southern Manitoba is about 35% threshed, and is the furthest advanced of any part. Some threshing has been done in Southern Saskatchewan and Alberta, but is not general. Cutting should be completed in Central Alberta in ten days, it is reported, but comparatively little threshing has been done yet.

MANCHURIAN CHIEF MOVES ON PEKING

Chang Tso Lin Begins Advance—Report Capture of Town.

Associated Press Despatch.

Shanghai, Sept. 14.—Two messages from Mukden given out today by Secretary Loh of Chanking defence headquarters here, reported that firing began last night at Shan-haikwan in Chihli province at the Manchurian border and in the Jehol district in the heart of Chihli, 125 miles northwest of Shanhaikwan, and about 100 miles northeast of Peking.

The second message reported the capture of Tsao Yang near Jehol. These messages, if confirmed, will indicate that Chang Tso Lin, the Manchurian field marshal, is moving his troops on Peking from two directions in his effort to overthrow the government there.

SEND JAP WARSHIP.

Tokio, Sept. 14.—The navy department has ordered the second class coast warship Desushima from the Sasebo naval base to Shanghai with a party of 300 men. Another company of marines has left the Kuro naval base for the same destination.

TWO STUDENTS DROWN WHEN CANOE CAPSIZES

G. Wood and A. Davies of Toronto University Die Near Peterboro.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Peterboro, Sept. 14.—Two undergraduates of the University of Toronto, Gerald Wood, age 19, and Alfred Davies, age 20, were drowned in Rice Lake, near Potash Island, when the canoe capsized in a sudden squall Saturday night.

The boys were paddling to Peterboro to the camp of a friend near Keene when overtaken by the storm. Gerald Wood was the son of R. C. Wood, and Davies the son of Mrs. Caroline Davies, both of Toronto. The bodies have not yet been recovered.

Toronto Orphans Are Given Picnic

J. D. O'Connell Entertains More Than 4,000 Children.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—More than 4,000 children were present Saturday afternoon at Exhibition Park when J. D. O'Connell, the "picnic king," gave his first picnic to orphans and poor children of Toronto. Every orphan in the city, of which there were about 1,000, received, in addition to sharing in the general distribution of candy and food, a 25-cent bill and five bright new coppers.

Mr. O'Connell has been giving picnics for 29 years, on an average one a week, from his own resources, and announces that he is amply rewarded by the happiness he brings to poor children.

FORMER LONDON WOMAN DIES IN MONTREAL HOSPITAL

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—Miss Sarah L. Holland, formerly of London, Ont., and for the past ten years a resident of this city, died this afternoon at the Western Hospital in her 71st year. She had been ill for several weeks and underwent an operation ten days ago from which she did not recover. Miss Holland is survived by two brothers, W. C. and John Holland, both of Toronto. Interment will be made in London.

NEW U. S. RUM CHASERS MAKE FIRST SEIZURE

Canadian Press Despatch.
Bridgeburg, Ont., Sept. 14.—The new United States rum chasers now on active patrol on the Niagara River captured on Saturday a 34-foot vessel, which was found tied to a dock at Grange Island with a cargo of 200 cases of Canadian ale. Thomas Davis of Chippawa and Edward Ackerman of Black Rock, who were found on the vessel, were arrested. The ale and vessel were seized. O.T.A. and three for reckless driving.

WILL BE ALLOWED VOTE SUPERVISOR

Ontario Government Passes Orders-in-Council To Appoint Officers.

FOR PLEBISCITE

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—The Ontario cabinet on Saturday passed an order-in-council permitting the Moderation League and the prohibition forces to appoint representatives in each riding who will have the same authority in the plebiscite on the liquor question to be taken October 23 as candidates in a parliamentary election.

Hon. W. F. Nickle, attorney-general, stated that the representatives so appointed would be permitted to nominate their agents and supervise the activities of scrutineers. It will be a straight "yes" or "no" vote that will be received by the usual method of marking an X in the chosen place.

Premier Ferguson said yesterday: "It is quite obvious that a voter cannot consistently vote yes or no on both questions, but no decision has yet been reached as to whether a ballot so marked will be regarded as spoiled."

GOVERNMENT PARTY OVERTHROWN IN CHILI

Military Government Takes Charge of Affairs in South American Country.

Associated Press Despatch.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 14.—Chili's political institutions have ceased to exist, their duties being taken over yesterday by the military government council made up of General Luis Alparmarino as vice-president and General Guan Pablo Bunnett and Vice-Admiral Guzm Nef and a civilian cabinet of six secretaries, headed by Alvarado Rodan.

The state of affairs is the outcome of a series of political happenings which culminated in the overthrow of the government of Alessandri some days ago.

When the government failed to get parliamentary approval of its recent measure the military and naval chiefs took matters into their own hands and the resignation of Premier Alessandri followed.

Plans have been made for the establishment of a new constitutional government, drawing up a constitution and the election of a new parliament.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES RESTORED TO OLD PAY

Forty Men Resume Positions at Toronto—Conditions Now Satisfactory.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Conditions at the local postoffice are now quiet and satisfactory. The men have been restored to their old rates of pay prevailing before the strike.

Forty have resumed the official positions held prior to the dispute. The payment of salaries in force prior to the strike this summer created a jubilant feeling among the Toronto postal workers on Saturday. The men, following the failure of the strike, had been paid a lower scale and many of them were reduced in position for a probationary period. This period has now expired.

EXPECT RATIFICATION OF LABOR CONVENTION

Director of Labor Bureau Believes That European Countries Favor Move.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Sept. 14.—Premier Herriot is described by those near him as disposed later in the year to take up the question of France's debt to the United States, but has not yet committed himself positively on the question.

The premier is said to be receptive to opinions prevailing both in the ministry of finance and the foreign office that the time is near for the French government to enter into definite engagements for payment of the debt.

The ministry of finance has prepared several alternative projects at different rates of interest and percentages of amortization. One of these is the general lines of the five-year moratorium, 2½ per cent interest ½ per cent sinking fund, at which rate the debt could be paid off within 60 or 70 years. This plan would be equivalent of about 70 per cent of the total obligations and compares with 5 per cent interest, which the debt now bears, and one per cent amortization.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED.
Toronto, Sept. 14.—Four people were injured here in minor accidents during the week-end. The only one seriously hurt was M. R. McCausland, who was struck by a street car at noon on Saturday, and suffered a fractured skull. His recovery is improbable.

First Autumn Service Was Held at Askin Street Church Yesterday.

Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, the new pastor at Askin Street Methodist Church, was the speaker yesterday morning, when the Brotherhood of the church commenced its autumn services. Rev. Mr. Millyard spoke on "The Religion of a Brotherhood Man."

Askin Street Brotherhood is one of the largest in the city, and conducts a forceful series of Sunday morning meetings every autumn and winter. They meet at 10 o'clock for a 45-minute session before the morning church service.

A call has been issued to Brotherhood men to rally to the prohibition forces. Intense co-operation is asked for in an effort to carry a temperance triumph in the coming plebiscite on Oct. 23.
