LONDON LOSES HOPE OF PROLONGING IRISH TRUCE

GERMANS SEEK RELIEF PERIOD ON INDEMNITIES

Embassies Hold Conference With the British Chancellor.

LIGHT ON STINNES' VISIT
Full Report Will be Made to Cabinet Today, is the Promise

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Reports that the British cabinet was considering a moratorium for Germany were confirmed today, the point under discussion being under what conditions relief could be granted.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Dr. Walter Rathenau and Dr. Simon, whose arrival in London coincided with the publication of the news that Sir John Bradbury, the British expert on the Reparations Commission, had reported in favor of a two years' moratorium being granted to Germany, had a long conference with the Chancellor of the Exchequer and British Treasury officials, at which Sir John Bradbury and Lord Aberdeen, British Ambassador in Berlin, were present. They also had interviews with Sir Robert Kindersley and other financiers.

Among other statements current regarding Rathenau's mission is one to the effect that he will seek to put before the British Government a sort of corollary to the Wiesbaden agreement which he contracted with M. Loucheur, the Minister of Liberated Belgium, who was setting for France. The Wiesbaden agreement was not viewed too favorably by Treasury experts in this country, and representations have been made to France on the subject through diplomatic channels.

GERMANY "UP AGAINST IT"
In authoritative financial quarters here it was asserted that Germany was confronted with two alternatives: either she must default in regard to her foreign obligations, in which event a French occupation of the Ruhr would be probable, or she must repudiate her domestic paper money, in which case internal trouble would be practically inevitable.

The French Press has jumped to the conclusion that Premier Lloyd George is in favor of postponing Germany's reparation payments and on general principles the deduction is probably correct. It has not yet, however, been made quite clear to the British Government whether Rathenau and his colleague come as official representatives of the German Government or as private individuals representing vast industrial interests.

STINNES PAVED THE WAY.
Hugo Stinnes came here in an entirely unofficial capacity. He did, however, prepare the ground for Dr. Rathenau, who will have to disclose to the British Government whether he, as representative industrial and financial leader, is behind the German Government in its desire to reorganize its finances, or whether he is acting independently of the Government and in the interest of private capitalism.

BEATTY SAILS FOR OLD LAND

Will Come Back as Soon as he "Jolly Well Can" he Tells Reporters

MAKE WAR IMPOSSIBLE
No Man Who Has Seen Service Afloat But Would Welcome Naval Cut

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Admiral Lord Beatty sailed for home on the Adriatic this morning. The fact that he was going home was proof that everything at Washington was satisfactory to this continent, "just as soon as I jolly well can."

Sailors are perfectly willing to have their fleet cut down, Admiral Beatty told members of the Lawyers' Club.
Speaking at a luncheon tendered him before his return to England on the Adriatic, the British naval officer said of the naval cut proposed at the Washington Arms Conference: "Those who have served in the war have seen something of the devastation of war and the sacrifices of war. We have felt that whatever our duties are with regard to the navy we have a higher and a greater duty to civilization and to the Government and the country which we serve. And that is, if it is possible, to make war impossible."

"I don't suppose there is a sailor in any service who has had the experience of war who does not wish to see disarmament come about, and I feel that if you will leave this question concerning naval disarmament to sailors, they will settle it in a way which will be eminently satisfactory to the powers of the world."

Other speakers were Mr. Riley, of Trenton, Mr. Langdon, of Brighton, Mr. Milne of Trenton, and Mr. McCrudden, of Trenton. Mr. McCrudden made a capital speech and was brought to his feet a second time by the crowd which, it was said, appeared to be seventy-

JAPAN RECEDES FROM POSITION ON NAVY RATIO

Drops Demand for Larger Percentage in Face of Big Stick of U. S.

HUGHES' PROPOSAL GOES
Progress Made by Conference Committee in Solution of Chinese Puzzles

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—With atmosphere in armament division cleared by announcement that Admiral Kato when talking of seventy per cent. ratio was merely expressing personal opinion and not attitude of the Japanese delegation and with steady progress on Far Eastern and Pacific questions renewed spirit of optimism prevailed as the conference resumed deliberations today.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 30.—The Conference on the Limitation of Armament is either near a crisis or near an agreement on naval matters. If the crisis comes the blame will be placed at the door of Japan. On the other hand, there are well-defined rumors that the fourth plenary session of the conference will be held next Monday or Tuesday, when the three big naval powers, Britain, United States and Japan, will formally signify their willingness to start the great scrapping program of battle craft, and take the first practical steps to relieve the world of the armament burden.

TO APPLY TO CAPITAL SHIPS.
It may be that at this session, the date of which is not fixed, Mr. Bal four for Britain, Mr. Hughes for the United States, and Admiral Baron Kato for Japan, will each speak, agreeing to curtail navies according to the Hughes' figures and enter upon the naval holiday of ten years.
This will apply to capital ships; certain reservations may be made about submarines and, perhaps, cruisers. But the capital ship is the aggressive force in war, and the main thing at present is to put the capital ship where it will not cause trouble for the tired old world. If that is done the Washington Conference will have surpassed any other such gathering in its ability to bring about a lasting peace. One great barrier will have been erected around the god Mars.

The big stick of the United States was used to swing the Japanese into line on the 10-10-10 ratio of capital ships; that is, 500,000 tons each to Great Britain and the United States and 300,000 tons to Japan.

Naval News Next Week
Washington, Nov. 30.—Details of naval armaments were discussed today at a brief session of the sub-committee of naval experts of Britain, the United States and Japan. After adjournment optimism was apparent among the members of the British delegation, the spokesman in stated that he believed an announcement along the lines of naval armament might be expected next week.

PRINCE TO SET TRAVEL RECORD

Likely to Out-do His Father, the King, Most Travelled Sovereign

WAR STOPPED TRIPS
His Majesty Has Been Six Times to Canada and Four Times to India

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(By Canadian Press)—So much of the world has the Prince of Wales seen, already and is seeing, in his present tour of India and Japan that it is possible, despite the setback to his travels owing to the four and a half years of war, that he may reach the great record of his father, who is easily the most travelled sovereign in this or any other age. A year after the armistice, the Prince of Wales came to Canada and also visited the United States. Last year he toured Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Paraguay, and on the way out to the Antipodes, and home again he went through the Panama Canal, and made short stops at Hawaii, Fiji and in the West Indies. His journeys last year were to have included India, but the strain of travelling was too great, and so the visit to the East had to be postponed until this year.

After four months in India, embracing a splendid series of entertainments at the hands of most of the Maharajahs, the Prince will sail on March 17th, next, from Karachi for Japan, where preparations on a lavish scale have been planned for his reception. He will return to London next June.

King George V. was only fourteen years of age when he set out upon his travels and went around the world with his elder brother in His Majesty's ship Bechante. The two cruises of that vessel took the two Princes to the Mediterranean, the West Indies, South America, South Africa, Australia, Fiji, Yokohama, Hong Kong and Singapore. By the time he came to the throne, His Majesty had been six times to Canada, three times to India and Ceylon, and twice to South Africa and Australia, while the only considerable parts of the British Empire that he had not seen were Uganda, British East Africa and Nigeria. Since his accession the King has been again to India and held the Coronation Durbar. His Majesty's last journey abroad was in the year before the war, when he attended the wedding of the Kaiser's only daughter at Berlin.

King Edward VII. in addition to his frequent visits to the continent made two notable journeys of wider radius—the first in 1880, when he visited the principal cities of Canada and the United States, and the second in 1875-1876, when he made his memorable progress through India.

MOUNT STEPHEN RAILWAY BUILDER IS DEAD, AGED 92

Career of Obscure Scot Who Became Noted Canadian, Read Like Romance

RAPID RISE TO WEALTH
Cousin of Lord Strathcona—Both Linked with Late J. J. Hill in Business

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Lord Mount Stephen died at Brocket Hall, Hertfordshire, last night.

George Stephen, first baron Mount Stephen, was born in 1829 at Forres in Banffshire, Scotland, the son of William Stephen, a carpenter. His life story is a romance of early struggles against poverty, of a rapid climb after he came to Canada in 1850 to a commanding position in the business world, of pioneer work in railroad construction which culminated in the connecting of the Atlantic and the Pacific by the Canadian Pacific Railway, of the acquisition of a great fortune, much of which he gave away to relatives, and finally an old age spent as a peer in a historic home known as Brocket Hall, Hertfordshire, in the Old Country, which had at times been occupied by two prime ministers of England, Lord Melbourne and Lord Palmerston.

A BAREFOOT BOY.
As a boy Stephen played barefooted in the streets of his native village and at an early age was first a shepherd on the bleak moors nearby, and then a clerk in a draper's store. Coming to Canada he entered the store of an uncle in Montreal, a cloth merchant. He soon distinguished himself for astuteness and business ability and ultimately bought out his uncle. Steadily enlarging his business and his own status in the community, Stephen invested his savings in Bank of Montreal stock, becoming eventually one of the largest shareholders. He became president of the bank and about this time Stephen came into business relations with Donald Smith, a cousin, afterwards to become Lord Strathcona. Smith interested him in the construction of a railway to the Canadian west, which he knew through his association with it as resident governor of the Hudson's Bay Company. Smith and Stephen joined forces with the late J. J. Hill, the Canadian railway magnate who afterwards built a number of railroads in the United States, and the trio acquired the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, which had failed and had fallen into the hands of its Dutch bondholders. The line was built through from St. Paul to Winnipeg.

MADE C.P.R. POSSIBLE.
The importance of this early venture on the subsequent development of the Canadian west lay in the fact that it made the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway possible, as supplies for the construction gangs operating in the otherwise inaccessible prairie section passed over it. Acknowledgement of his part in the origination and consummation of the C.P.R. scheme came from the shareholders who elected Stephen the first president of the company, and from the King, who, on recommendation of

BREAK OVER IRELAND DECLARED IMMINENT

Government Circles in London Express Belief That Negotiations Over Ulster-Sinn Fein Will Break Down—Fear Resumption of Fighting Cannot be Postponed.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Government circles today expressed the belief that the Irish negotiations would break down almost immediately and that a resumption of hostilities could not be postponed.

An alternative settlement plan submitted by the government to the Sinn Fein demands a definite undertaking to take the oath of allegiance to the crown, but the Sinn Fein will refuse, it is stated.

Hope of prolonging the truce has receded and a break is imminent. Plans for prolonging the truce in Ireland are embarrassed by the fact that about five thousand men and women are interned on charges of sympathy with the Sinn Fein movement.

An anxious day in the negotiations to the double deadlock of refusing to enter an all-Ireland Parliament, and the Sinn Fein steadily refusing to yield on the question of allegiance to the Crown.
Eamonn de Valera has left Dublin for a tour of his constituencies. Ulster despatches indicate that, while the situation is critical, the truce will not be broken. Downing Street sources consider Craig's statement a threat. Lloyd George is not hopeful of finding basis for settlement. Mr. Winston Churchill addressed a gathering of overseas bankers. In favoring a continuance of the negotiations until an honorable settlement of the Irish problem was attained, he declared that those conducting the negotiations were "animated by an obstinate persistency in the cause of peace. I did not think that the light of hope had been extinguished," he continued. "On the contrary I am certain that anyone who failed to persevere at this juncture faithfully and patiently would be taking upon himself responsibilities for which history would hold him accountable."

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, the Prime Minister, immediately summoned the Sinn Fein delegates to consult with him and his Ministers, and submitted to them new proposals which, if they met with the approval of the Sinn Fein, will be presented to the Ulster officials before next Tuesday. The nature of the alternative proposals will not be divulged pending their consideration by the Sinn Feiners.

Britain's View On Submarines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The question of Great Britain's attitude on the submarine issue was considered at length yesterday at an imperial conference here.

As a result of the deliberations on the submarine proposals of the United States, Great Britain may be expected to present her views in this manner:
A desire for the complete abolition of the submarine, put forward in the nature of a hope rather than any definite statement of policy.
Reduction of the American proposal of 90,000 tons for America and Great Britain by probably one-third.
Banning the super or cruiser submarine, as being an offensive and not a defensive weapon.

DR. G. S. CRONK IS MADE M. O. H.

Well Known Local Practitioner Receives Appointment Succeeding Dr. Yeomans HAS BEEN ACTING

Dr. Cronk's Distinguished Work As Officer With Canadians and With Imperials

Dr. G. S. Cronk is Belleville's new Medical Officer of Health. Last night he received his appointment at the hands of the City Council.

The M.O.H. has been Acting Health Officer for some time, owing to the illness of the late Dr. Yeomans. He is a native of Parham, Ontario, and received his early education there and in Sydenham High School. His doctor's course was taken at Queen's University, Kingston. He served Overseas with Daches of Connaught Hospital, England, and spent two years in the Imperial Medical Corps in Egypt and Mesopotamia during the war.

He has been practising in Belleville for two years and four months. "That Dr. Cronk be appointed Medical Officer of Health for the City of Belleville," was the recommendation of the city executive.

Ald. Fisher proposed Dr. Wallbridge's name in amendment. "I stand four-square for a returned man," said Ald. Bennett, who supported Dr. Cronk. Mayor Hanna and Ald. Woodley also supported Dr. Cronk.

The vote stood—For Dr. Cronk: Mayor Hanna, Ald. Bennett, Woodley, French, Treverton; for Dr. Wallbridge: Ald. Ostrom, Fisher, Ballinger and Massey.

Ald. Woodley asked that Ald. Adams, the chairman, record his vote. He stood and pronounced himself in favor of Dr. Cronk and thereupon declared Dr. Cronk as the choice of the Council.

Move to Keep Man at Level Crossing

Mayor Hanna told the council last evening that immediately that he had heard that there was a proposition to remove the watchman at the Bay Bridge approach crossing of Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways he had written for information to the Railway Board, but had as yet received no reply. The proposal is, it is understood, to install a wigwag.

Ald Woodley was strong in his opposition to such a change at this place.

ECHO OF COLEMAN WARD SCHOOL FIGHT COUNCIL SENDS BACK TO EDUCATION BOARD REQUISITION FOR $140,000 TO BUILD IT

Council apparently took the only step open to it last night when it passed back to the Board of Education the requisition for $140,000 for a school in Coleman Ward. Ratepayers recall that early in the year the council hesitated upon the requisition and since then the cost of construction has fallen so much that that amount would not be required.

Not long ago the solicitor of the Board of Education gave it as his opinion that the requisition would have to be acted upon in the literal sense or not at all, and that a new requisition would have to be prepared if the board would not be asking for the amount of the $140,000.

Last night the council on motion of Ald. Woodley, seconded by Ald. Ostrom adopted the following:

"That the action of this council with reference to the requisition of the Board of Education for the sum of $140,000 to provide a new public school in Coleman Ward be rescinded and that the said requisition be returned to the Board of Education."

A plea for the employment of Belleville labor was contained in a resolution passed on motion of Ald. French with Ald. Bennett as second.

"That when tenders are called for the Greater Albert College, a clause be inserted in the contract that Belleville labor be given the preference."

Council on motion of Ald. Wensley and Ald. Ballinger granted the request of the officials of the Grand Trunk for the use of the City Hall for the purpose of holding a general meeting of the officials and employees of the Belleville Division on December 8th.

On motion of Ald. Ballinger and Ald. French it was decided to have a light placed at the corner of Strachan and St. Charles St.

Woman's Cell

In the appointment of Ald. Bennett and Ald. French to take up the question of the advisability of having a woman's cell installed in the police station, Ald. Bennett asked that the engineering department be represented on the committee.

Ald. French—"I think you had better lay this over until next year. My department has not the money."

"I'm sure that if you saw the present condition you would say it is a disgrace to the city of Belleville," declared Ald. Bennett.

Mayor Hanna, in presenting his report to the City Council of the meeting of the Associated Boards of this out. No more rebates.

Shows may come and shows may go—The store-houses. But there are one or two kinds of shows that deserve a better fate. Among these are the musical comedies; the ones with the real comedy and with real—or nearly real—music.

Something dangerously close to this is "The College Girl," which was staged for its "first night" performance at Griffin's last evening. Hundreds of people who saw it will tell you today that it is just about the biggest entertainment bargain likely to be offered this season.

It was a performance put on by amateur talent of Belleville that rivalled in elaborate scenic effects, in beautifully gowned beautiful women, in smart dialogue, in tuneful numbers, in finish, the best that this city is likely to see in a couple of seasons.

"The College Girl" was presented under the auspices of the Argyle Chapter, I.O.B.F., the officers of which occupied a box and who themselves seemed to enjoy enormously the entertainment provided. They were good enough to say that they were well pleased with it. The show was staged under the direction of Mr. William L. Doyle, who has had first class training and experience in this sort of thing and who in fact is an authority on stage-craft. It means a new triumph for Mr. Doyle.

Not without a tremendous amount of work, however.

As for the show itself it was an adoption of a comedy cut to measure, with the music settings arranged where they would best fit in. The musical numbers were vehicles to display the fine voices of Mrs. A. P. Allen, the "Betty" of the piece, whose clear sweet soprano voice of command, clear range and power was perhaps never heard in better form; of Miss Anna Ponton, who not only possesses a voice of brilliant qualities but who acts her part with splendid dash and abandon; her characterization was one of the outstanding things of the performance; and of Miss Ivy Dickens, the hired girl, who sang twice, once with Mr. Doyle, the "town constable," and once with the college boys. Both numbers brought instant encore, and the audience asked for more.

As for the men a splendidly finished piece of character work was the interpretation given by Mr. Fred Sprague as the nervous professor, bothered because he thought the Bolsheviks were trailing him. His make-up was a work of art itself and he carried the whole thing off to the complete satisfaction of all concerned.

Bob Gorman was the funny man and Mr. Gorman's reputation for comedy was well maintained. He dresses as a giddy freshman of 19, and his every entrance was the signal for renewed laughter. He worked in several very telling local hits and these brought down the house.

Mr. Doyle, who did the constable part gave, as was to be expected, a finished piece of work and was the "tube" officer—or the stage conception of him—to the life. His song "Moonshine" with the reinforcement of the boys in frock coats and stovepipe hats was a scream. The line, "The moon shines on the moonshine so stilly," was one of the brightest things of a succession of brilliant hits.

Mr. James Booth, whose fine baritone voice is heard with great pleasure on each occasion, had two very sparkling numbers, "Mary Jane" and "The Isle of Man." Both times he had the support of the beauty chorus, and the general effect was distinctly high class.

The complete cast of the show follows: Prof. Peterkin Pepp — Mr. Fred Sprague (a nervous wreck).

C. B. Button-Buster — Mr. B. Gorman, (a giddy-butterfly of 48).

Those Assistant Assessors Up Next

So urgent was Alderman Adams to find out about the destination of the applications for the appointment of the proposed assistant assessors that Ald. Ostrom told him last evening that the applications had been twice on the table in committee and that they would be considered at the next meeting of the executive committee.

First Night Performance of Brilliant "College Girl" Pleases Representative Audience

Shows may come and shows may go—The store-houses. But there are one or two kinds of shows that deserve a better fate. Among these are the musical comedies; the ones with the real comedy and with real—or nearly real—music.

Something dangerously close to this is "The College Girl," which was staged for its "first night" performance at Griffin's last evening. Hundreds of people who saw it will tell you today that it is just about the biggest entertainment bargain likely to be offered this season.

It was a performance put on by amateur talent of Belleville that rivalled in elaborate scenic effects, in beautifully gowned beautiful women, in smart dialogue, in tuneful numbers, in finish, the best that this city is likely to see in a couple of seasons.

"The College Girl" was presented under the auspices of the Argyle Chapter, I.O.B.F., the officers of which occupied a box and who themselves seemed to enjoy enormously the entertainment provided. They were good enough to say that they were well pleased with it. The show was staged under the direction of Mr. William L. Doyle, who has had first class training and experience in this sort of thing and who in fact is an authority on stage-craft. It means a new triumph for Mr. Doyle.

Not without a tremendous amount of work, however.

As for the show itself it was an adoption of a comedy cut to measure, with the music settings arranged where they would best fit in. The musical numbers were vehicles to display the fine voices of Mrs. A. P. Allen, the "Betty" of the piece, whose clear sweet soprano voice of command, clear range and power was perhaps never heard in better form; of Miss Anna Ponton, who not only possesses a voice of brilliant qualities but who acts her part with splendid dash and abandon; her characterization was one of the outstanding things of the performance; and of Miss Ivy Dickens, the hired girl, who sang twice, once with Mr. Doyle, the "town constable," and once with the college boys. Both numbers brought instant encore, and the audience asked for more.

As for the men a splendidly finished piece of character work was the interpretation given by Mr. Fred Sprague as the nervous professor, bothered because he thought the Bolsheviks were trailing him. His make-up was a work of art itself and he carried the whole thing off to the complete satisfaction of all concerned.

Bob Gorman was the funny man and Mr. Gorman's reputation for comedy was well maintained. He dresses as a giddy freshman of 19, and his every entrance was the signal for renewed laughter. He worked in several very telling local hits and these brought down the house.

Mr. Doyle, who did the constable part gave, as was to be expected, a finished piece of work and was the "tube" officer—or the stage conception of him—to the life. His song "Moonshine" with the reinforcement of the boys in frock coats and stovepipe hats was a scream. The line, "The moon shines on the moonshine so stilly," was one of the brightest things of a succession of brilliant hits.

Mr. James Booth, whose fine baritone voice is heard with great pleasure on each occasion, had two very sparkling numbers, "Mary Jane" and "The Isle of Man." Both times he had the support of the beauty chorus, and the general effect was distinctly high class.

The complete cast of the show follows: Prof. Peterkin Pepp — Mr. Fred Sprague (a nervous wreck).

C. B. Button-Buster — Mr. B. Gorman, (a giddy-butterfly of 48).

Howard Green, His Son — Mr. Jas. Booth (who had the court change his name).

Sim Batty — Mr. W. L. Doyle (the police force of a college town).

Peddler Benson — Mr. J. McGie (working his way through college).

Noisy Fleming — Mr. H. G. Davison (just out of high school).

Pink Hatcher — Mr. Jack Williams (an athletic sophomore).

Buster Brown — L. Manley (a vociferous junior).

Betty Gardner — Mrs. A. P. Allen (the professor's ward).

Aunt Minerva Boulder — Miss Ponton (his ward from Forbore).

Petunia Muggins — Miss Ivy Dickens (the hired girl).

Olga Stopski — Miss Eva Davis (the new teacher of folk-dancing).

Kitty Clover — Mrs. Jack Williams (the collector of souvenirs).

Vivian Drew — Mrs. Russel Baker (a college belle).

Caroline Kay — Miss Jeffreys (the happy little "freshman").

College Girls—Allen Cherry, Mrs. Deacon, Margaret Collins, Helen Springer, Jean Kerr, Jean Hitchcock, Dancing Girls—Marjorie Kerr, Sylvia Ross, Helen McCullough, Erma Cooper, Jean Kohn, Helen Deroche, Katie Simmons, Mary Collins.

15. Finale.

Several specialties of outstanding merit were introduced in the second act.

First in importance comes the violin number by Mr. Harry Adaskin, a really phenomenal player. He used a very valuable instrument which he obtained only recently and drew from it tones of vibrant and luscious beauty, his marvellous fingers flashing over the keyboard with unerring skill.

In his encore, the "Rosary," by Nerve, Mr. Adaskin gave new life and character to a familiar song; his double stopping was faultless. The whole performance served to show his deftness and exquisite polish. Miss Robert in accompanying Mr. Adaskin provided a sympathetic tonal background.

"The Butterfly Dance," a tone poem in motion by Miss Gwen Lazier was a delightful interlude. Miss Lazier gave a charming interpretation and responded with a richly deserved encore.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williams pleased everyone with their unusually high class "tune." Mr. Williams' song "A Rose Called Sweetheart," was linked with a dance by his talented wife and together they made a team rivalling in finish a goodly number in the professional ranks. Mr. Williams possesses a particularly pleasing tenor voice. Mrs. Williams was exquisitely gowned for this number.

The action of the play takes place in and about the home of Prof. Peterkin Pepp, head of a small college. The Prof. has been dabbling in things a bit beyond his depth and gets mixed up with alleged Bohemians. He doesn't know it but he is being spoofed by ultra-modern students and the way they take a rise out of the "prof." is something that makes the show go with a bang.

"The College Girl" will be staged again tonight and tomorrow (Wed.) night.

SPEAKS AT COE HILL

Mr. E. G. Porter addressed a meeting last night at Coe Hill and therefore, of course, could not be at the local meeting in the City Hall last night. He will speak in the city hall on the evening preceding the election.

LABOR MEETING IN CITY HALL

Gathering Held Under Auspices of E. G. Porter, the Govt. Candidate

FREE TRADE SLAMMED

Sergt. Major McNamara, M.P.F., and R. J. Stevenson, the Principal Speakers.

Labor attacking the Progressive-Labor alliance in West Hastings was the feature of the Porter labor meeting in the city hall last evening.

A big crowd heard Robert J. Stevenson and Sergt. Major McNamara, M.P.F., of Riverdale, discuss the issues in the present election in as far as they in their opinion touch the laboring man and all dependent upon him. The chair was taken by Mr. B. Ellis. There were a few lively moments as a heckler was heard occasionally.

Mr. Stevenson painted a picture of the United States full of industries, buying their goods by the trainload, and employing salesmen at salaries as high as twenty thousand dollars a year. With their surplus he feared for Canada if the tariff walls were torn down.

"I would be surprised if the Progressive party get fifty votes in Belleville," he offered.

The Hon. Thos. Crerar, head of the Progressives, was Mr. Stevenson declared, an ardent free trader in the west. As he came east "he got cold feet." He would find out if he came to the industrial part of Ontario, if he came to Belleville, he would have "no memory" at all about his free trade.

"The wife of the working man of Belleville is no chump," the speaker stated, proceeding to show that under free trade the richer would not have the money to spend on their wives' gowns, that condition depriving the dressmaker and the employee of work. You haven't got a snowball's chance of free trade, because you are going to see a protectionist government. Even if the Liberals should prevail they would have to stick by protection.

The photograph industry was cited as a case in point to illustrate how protection is benefiting the industrial life of Canada. "You take that little disc that makes you mad sometimes and 'which your wife likes to play.' The Columbia Company have an investment of only nine millions. Do you think the Columbia Phonograph Company would spend nine million dollars here if they did not have to?"

"I am not going to deceive the working men and myself. For the next five years or more, even if you choose the best men in the world, such as Lloyd George, your government is going to have a very trying time."

There had been some heckling of the speaker at the start and Mr. Stevenson went after the interrupter. "You heckle me in my own home town," he referred to the "rot" of the talk about protection. Then again he referred to the heckler. There's no coward ever born on Wharf street. I am going to make my friends down there remember that."

The heckler again was heard—"What Labor society do you represent?"

"Did you ever hear of the International Typographical Union of North America?" asked Mr. Stevenson. The crowd yelled at the reply as satisfactory. "Say, Mack, my good old friend, let me tell you for a moment what that society is doing." He told of the big strike now on.

FASCINATING STORIES Of Tetrzzini Told by the Great Artist Herself

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(By Mail)—"I have sung my way all through life. . . . Nothing but the loss of my voice will ever stop me from singing. I think I shall try to sing to my nurse on my dying bed."

This is the boast of Mme. Tetrzzini in her biography, "My Life of Song," just published.

"Baby, I believe you'll be a Patti some day," said her father to the toddling mite, who could sing before she could walk. "What's Patti?" she asked, and her father explained that "to have a voice like Patti was to walk about with heaven inside."

"Den me try to be a Patti, dady," she exclaimed, in his Italian equivalent.

"Daddy" was a military tailor, and the future prima donna used, when a girl, to dress up in the new uniforms and parade the streets, "making love" to her girl friends.

Early Maturity. At sixteen, Luce Tetrzzini was a real prima donna, a curious turn of luck giving her the chief role in the Florence Opera House.

Soon after, she was dazzling the musical population of Argentina, and of this tour, which lasted four years, she tells some good stories. Here is one of a sensational drive:

"My horses were a beautiful pair, coal black and full of dash. I used to drive them myself. One day they bolted and made for a railway crossing at a moment when a train was approaching, at full speed. When I saw the train I lost my nerve. Closing my eyes, I said to myself, 'I am lost,' and waited for the terrible crash which then seemed unavoidable.

"But it did not come! A gentleman who had observed what was happening, dashed up to my frightened animals, grabbed their bridles and pulled them up just in time."

While in her teens, Tetrzzini turned impresario, and managed the first successful tour in the Argentine. Later she almost fell a victim to the zeal of two rival impresarios, one of whom wanted her to tour Brazil, while the other was determined to keep her in Buenos Ayres.

Pilot Boy Disguise. To dodge the latter, who could have detained her, having great influence in the city, she went aboard her ship disguised as the pilot's boy.

The strangest request Tetrzzini ever granted was a plea that she would sing at Tucuman to raise funds for a new wall around the local theatre.

A theatre was built in five days, and the performers and audience were all dressed in black in honor of the "casualty."

Once a revolution started itself off by wrecking half the hotel in which the prima donna was staying.

Tetrzzini's first contract to sing in London was followed by an offer from the Covent Garden management of £1,500 if she would cancel the engagement! She refused, and arrived in a fog, with none of the splendour of her South American receptions.

"At her first performance there were not enough people in the house to pay her salary. Next day she was hailed as "the new Patti," and in a week London was Tetrzzini mad. And the real Patti (then over 60) went to hear her sing.

BRIDE-GROOM WAS TOO TIRED TO GET MARRIED THAT DAY

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(By Dominion News Service)—A wedding which had been arranged to take place the other day at Chalfont St. Peter, Bucks, was indefinitely postponed. The bans had been published and all the necessary arrangements made.

What Shall I Do? VIRGINIA PAGE POOLISH GIRL.

Ques.—Dear Miss Page: I am a girl 17 years of age. I ran away from home because my parents did not approve of my going to dances and staying out late at night. There is a nice young man who loves me dearly and wishes to marry me. Should I ask my parents' consent or should I marry him without my parents' knowledge?—Dimples.

Ans.—Run back home as soon as you can, you foolish, foolish girl, and don't even think of marrying the best man in the world for two or three years yet. Oh, why can't you see that your parents love you deeply and are trying to do the best possible for you? I fear you will always regret it if you don't go back at once and straighten things up with your parents. At your age you cannot even get a marriage license legally without your parents' consent.

LOVE NOT ALWAYS RETURNED.

Ques.—Dear Miss Page: I'm in love with a young man who is in love with another young woman. How could I get him to love me, or to speak to me?—P. R.

Ans.—Why do you want that young man to love two girls at the same time? Is he the only young man in town? Leave him alone and turn your interest in another direction. You will soon love someone else in all probability if you give yourself a chance.

WHERE ARE THE RIGHT KIND?

Ques.—Dear Miss Page: I am a girl not quite 17 years old. My friends tell me I don't understand men. I can always have plenty of them because they always come back the second time. But they only care for a good clean friendship. Where could I meet the right kind?—Disappointed.

Ans.—Keep your ideals, my dear girl, and I'm sure you'll find one of the right kind, for there are such and girls with big ideals of good clean friendship will make more of the right kind—because, you know, the boys are likely to be what the girls want them to be. Try to make yourself mentally interesting.

FINE POINTS.

Ques.—Dear Miss Page: When being seated at a dinner, from which side of the chair should a lady be seated? Shall she rise the same way? When individual butter knives are used, should they be laid across the bread and butter plates when through using them?—Very anxious.

Ans.—A lady is seated by passing to the left of her chair, unless circumstances make it obviously more convenient to pass to the right. The same things is true of rising. Yes, the butter knives are laid across the plates when not in use.

"A Sad Woman"—The conditions you mention make a change of doctors most desirable for both of you. Forget the past and put your thought and study into training your darling little son into the best man possible. Read books on child training, study his lessons with him as he goes through school, be his playmate and chum as well as his mother. The boy's father, too, will want to share with you in his training, and in that way, if you are tactful, love may flower again in your lives. Please let me write you personally next time.

STORE OR HANG-OUT?

Ques.—Dear Miss Page: Is it proper for some young boys to sit all evening in a store where we two girls are and fool with us? The boys are friends from school.—Curious.

Ans.—It is not considered proper. Tell the boys it interferes with your work. If they come in at all, it should be only occasionally and for a few minutes. Try to have them in your homes when you can, instead.

AN OPEN MEETING.

The first open meeting of the Ladies' Orange Lodge proved an entire success last night when the Orange Hall was crowded to the doors and many were unable to find seating accommodation. The Rev. George Marshall occupied the chair and addressed the assembly for a short time. Speeches were delivered by the Rev. A. L. Green, Mayor Hanna, Mr. F. M. Clarke and Mr. W. C. Mikel. There was a number of instrumental and vocal solos and readings. The Greene Music Company of this city rendered the program.

RECOVER GOLD FROM LAURENTIC

About Twenty-Five Million Dollars Worth of Bullion Found in Hole

SUNK BY HUNS, 1917 Big Amount Still in Her Store-rooms to be Sought Next Year

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(By Canadian Press)—Gold bullion to the value of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 has been recovered from the sunken steamship Laurentic, off the Irish coast, and there is still much more of the precious metal to be salvaged. The work of recovering the bullion has ceased for this year, but operations will be resumed next year, when it is expected that $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 worth of the ore which is still in the ship will be brought to the surface.

The ill-fated White Star liner Laurentic, a ship of 14,900 tons, was well known to Canadians. For some years she was in the merchant marine service between Liverpool and Montreal. She was commandeered by the British Admiralty while the war was on and was in the service of the government as an armed cruiser.

She was sunk by the Germans in January, 1917, off one of the wildest parts of the north coast of Ireland and has been at the bottom of the sea ever since. The Laurentic could not be lifted, but the gold she was carrying at the time of the disaster was too valuable to be left in "Day Jones' Locker," so expert divers were set to work to lift the gold.

The Admiralty salvage vessel, Racer and her tender, the Canadian drifter No. 1, left Portsmouth last spring for the scene of the wreck and returned recently to Portsmouth, where they will lie up for the winter and prepare for the resumption of the work of salvage next spring.

Unfortunately more than gold treasure was sunk when the Laurentic went down—many lives being lost at the time. Of her crew of 475 officers and men only 121 were saved, among the survivors being her commander, Captain R. A. Norton, R. N. She was sunk in over twenty fathoms of water.

More than three years plying by the Atlantic swell has transformed the great liner into a heap of twisted debris, and her decks, which settled down on the sea bottom, cover an area of several hundred feet. The wreck was practically covered with gravel and silt when the divers located it as it is in a position in a position in which had to be pumped away as far as possible by powerful pumps placed in position by the divers, as the gold was at the bottom of the huge mass of wreckage. The plate girders had to be blasted and cut away by explosives, and the task of the divers was both difficult and dangerous. In consequence of this the Racer carried a re-compression chamber for the purpose of treating cases of illness which the divers might contract in the course of their hazardous task.

The vessel engaged in salvaging the gold in the Laurentic is about all that remains of the splendid Admiralty Salvage Section which was brought into being during the war. With this exception the section came to an end with the completion of the wreck-raising operations on the Laurentic coast. In the case of the Laurentic the rate paid is half a crown for every £100 worth of gold recovered, and this divided among all employed in the work is equal to about one half-penny per cent. per head.

OBSERVE XMAS ON THE MONDAY

Statute Provides That When Christmas or New Year's is Sunday, Monday Holiday SANTA HEERE ON 25TH Saint Nicholas Comes on Right day no Matter When it Falls

Christmas Day, falling on Sunday, Monday, December 26th will be the public holiday associated with the festival. There is a statute determining that when Christmas Day or New Year's Day happened on a Sunday, the following Monday should be observed as a legal holiday, and advantage thereof given to employees.

This is the first time since 1910. All the banks, manufacturing, public service corporations and departmental stores and in fact as always all business in the city of Belleville will join in the observance of Christmas Day as a public holiday on the Monday, Christmas is the one day in the year when commerce is tight here. This will have no effect whatever on the strict observance of the day when Santa Claus operates for nothing could induce that worthy gentleman to disturb the hopeful hearts of his kingdom subjects, by delaying the gifts which mark this most remarkable day in the whole year to the little ones.

In order to spare the shock to future generations, consultation with the authority on dates discloses the information that Christmas Day will fall on Sunday in the years 1927, 1932, 1938 and 1949.

As New Year's Day always follows exactly one week later than Christmas Day, and automatically falls on the same day of the week, therefore New Year's Day will be controlled by the same thoughtful statute, and be observed as a public holiday on the Monday immediately following.

That same edict will make Belleville City Council shift its last session as it cannot meet on a holiday.

FUNERAL OF MR. RUTMAN

All that was mortal of the late Elias B. Rutman was laid to rest this afternoon in Elmwood Cemetery at Corbyville with full Orange honors. An impressive service was held at the home of the deceased on Great St. James street by the Rev. Wesley Elliott of the Tabernacle Methodist Church. The brethren of the Orange Society attended the obsequies in large numbers. The bearers were all members of the order: William McIntosh, Simon Kerr, Everett Bell, F. M. Clarke, Cephas Johnson and Lewis Soutle. The Orange ritual was taken at the grave by the Rev. A. Le Gen, Master, and by the Rev. Geo. Marshall. Many beautiful floral tributes were presented by friends of the deceased.

THEY PAID $100.

One hundred dollars with costs was the amount collected in the city police court today from two women for an offence under the bylaw to which they pleaded guilty. The raid was conducted by the police after midnight.

Second Night of The 'College Girl' Another Triumph

The second performance of 'The College Girl' at Griffin's Theatre last night proved all of the success expected of it. The house was sold out and the huge crowd went away saying very complimentary things of the efforts of Belleville's leading talent in the musical comedy line.

The two or more dollars' worth of entertainment offered for $1. or less concluded about eleven-ten, starting promptly at eight-thirty, thus a full two and a half hours show; full measure, heaping over.

Of all local attempts at entertainment under the direction of Mr. Doyle this one is the best and this seems likely to be proven again tonight when the final performance will be staged.

There were very few seats left at noon but rush seats go on sale at 7.30.

Mrs. Allen, the leading lady, Miss Ponton, Miss Dickens, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Baker, Miss Davis, Miss Jeffreys, all received beautiful bouquets again as they did the night previously.

Last night's performance 'went over' with the snap and dash that many professional shows cannot surpass. The big beauty chorus, gorgeously costumed drew many flattering comments.

HEATHER FOR 'SHELTER'

Mr. D. M. Clarke, musical director of the orchestra for 'The College Girl,' announced after the first act last evening that heather would be sold by two young ladies, Miss Phyllis McManus and Miss Lillian Manley, during the second act in aid of the Muskego Hospital for Consumptives. The children's Shelter as all proceeds went to that cause. All the heather was sold last evening by the young ladies.

When the Landlord Raised the Rent

'I never do have any fun,' complained a young girl petulantly. 'Come I'll cure your discontent,' suggested a visiting nurse of the National Sanitarium Association.

They visited a humble little home. The mother was struggling to support the three children, while her husband was fighting tuberculosis at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives.

Life was not rosy. It became tragic when the rent was raised. Hopeless despair looked from her brown eyes. Three years of childish eyes watching, sensed something to make even baby lips quiver.

'But there!' with a smile, and the babies smiled too. 'I must complain. Here getting better anyway. He writes it's wonderful no other will save his life.' And the brown eyes were a prayer.

'I've just got to help,' exclaimed an enthusiastic young person as she and the nurse walked down the road. Contributions may be sent to Hon. W. A. Charlton 222 College Street, Toronto.

Spare the children from suffering from worms by using Miller's Worm Powders, a most effectively vermifuge with which to combat these insidious foes of the young and helpless. It is an excellent worm destroyer, and when its qualities become known in a household no other will be used. The medicine acts by itself, requiring no purgative to assist it, and so thoroughly that nothing more is desired.

WIRELESS CHAIN IS NOT COMPLETE

Empire Press Union Alleges Procrastination and Delay by the Authorities

LINK BRITISH NATIONS Stations in Oxfordshire and at Cairo but There Matter Has Dropped

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The 'Imperial Wireless Chain,' which, it was predicted when the scheme was first broached, would bind together the different parts of the empire, has not yet fulfilled the sanguine expectations of British newspaper men. At the annual meeting of the Empire Press Union in London, the government was much criticized for alleged apathy and procrastination in the matter.

Robert Donald, well known journalist, said if things remained as they were there would be no Imperial Wireless Chain. There might be two or more disjointed systems but no one co-ordinated scheme under one control, linking together all parts of the empire, and adding to the means of distributing news.

The Imperial Conference, he added came to no decision on wireless. Mr. Churchill, as Secretary of State for the Colonies and Chairman of the Imperial Communications Committee, took up the subject and hoped to put through a scheme on a big scale but now had abandoned the child of his adoption and wireless had drifted back to the post office.

Premier Hughes had declared for free action by Australia, said Mr. Dequard.

The South African government found itself unable to devote money to wireless for several years. Canada would have its own system working in co-operation with England. Two years ago the Indian government stated officially that it did not want the post office plans but wanted direct communication with England. The Imperial Chain, as it had been understood, was therefore gone.

It was true, Mr. Donald said, that the first station in the chain, that at Leafside in Oxfordshire, was opened several months ago and the second at Cairo was to be ready at the end of the year. The designs for the other stations in the Imperial Chain were not yet complete.

UPS AND DOWNS IN FARM PRICES

Hay, Milk, Stock and Apples Various Described as 'Best Crop'

SOME ROOTS SPOILED Cheese Factories Closed and Farmers Mostly Selling Cream to Dealers

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The Durham representative is of the opinion that apples have been the most profitable crop in that county this year.

Hay is selling at from $17 to 30 a ton, according to location and quality. The large yield of corn for silage is modifying the cost of hay in many of the western counties.

From a load of red clover a farmer in Renfrew county threshed 430 lbs. of clover seed.

Lennox and Addington says: 'Considerable pease were grown in the county last year. One farmer sold 100 bushels at $2 per bushel. These were shipped to Montreal.'

Brant has the following regarding roots: 'The snow found quite a few acres of roots unharvested although the mild weather of the past few days has permitted many of the farmers to get them in. So many of them have rotted this year that it was difficult to cull them and avoid taking some of the diseased roots into the barn and I doubt if they will keep well during the winter.'

The marketing of grain is proceeding slowly. Wheat is selling at from 30 cents to $1 a bushel, which seems a discouraging price to growers.

Frontenac states that a good deal of surplus live stock is being unloaded by farmers, and that the general quality is poorer than usual.

While cattle are selling at from 4 to 6 cents a pound in most parts of the province, under co-operative shipment a farmer in the county of Renfrew obtained 11 cents a pound for a calf weighing 120 pounds, and 7 cents a pound for calves weighing around 400 pounds each, all of good quality.

A Manitoulin farmer who recently shipped a carload of cattle, mostly three-year-olds, realized only $700 for twenty-five head, being considerably less than was paid for the same animals last fall. At auction sales in Brant good type grade Holsteins are selling at from $50 to $100.

Milk is selling at a milk factory in Brant for only $1.70 a cwt. while farmers sending milk to Brantford are getting $2.40 a cwt.

Prices paid for butter fat in various parts of the province ranged during the week from 33 to 41 cents a pound.

Peterboro thus describes the situation in the cheese producing counties: 'All the cheese factories have closed for the season, and most of the farmers are either shipping whole milk which brings about $1.30 a can, or skimming the milk and selling the 'cream.'

Less hogs than usual are being fed owing to the fall in price, and also because of the comparatively light yields of grain. Sales of hogs reported range from $8 to $8.50 a cwt. Little pigs are worth from $5 to $7 each in Brant, and are going at $7 a pair in Lennox and Addington.

When Holloway's Corn Remover is applied to a corn it kills the roots and the callus comes out without injury to the flesh.

CANDY FOR UGLIEST CAT. MONTREAL, Nov. 30.—It may not be to a human being's advantage to be ugly, but it may be to a cat's advantage, for Lady Williams-Taylor has announced her intention of presenting a box of candy to the ugliest common cat at the cat show, which opened yesterday morning in Stanley Hall. Over two hundred fine specimens were on exhibition. Cheapest of all Oils.—Considering the qualities of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is the cheapest of all preparations offered to the public. It is to be found in every drug store in Canada from coast to coast and all country merchants keep it for sale. So, being easily procurable and extremely moderate in price, no one should be without a bottle of it.

EXERCISE

There is a good deal of charity and make-believe science surrounding the subject of exercise and so-called physical culture. There is really no mystery about exercise requirements and the many "miraculous" systems owe such merit as they possess chiefly to the muscular movement that they require, the arousing of the individual to activity, and often there is a psychic effect as in all cases where hope of benefit is held out.

Exercises should be graduated according to age and physical condition. Such a warning cannot be too emphatic for those of middle age, nor is it to be totally disregarded by the young.

Games, mountain climbing, hill climbing, walking, swimming, skating, golf, and tennis are interesting and exhilarating and for most people are the exercises that are needed most. Outdoor exercises should be sought in addition to formal systematic exercise.

Any sort of calisthenics can be made much more interesting and effective if performed to music. A phonograph may be advantageously used for this purpose. Exercises so done take almost the form of dancing.

Following are a few of the most simple exercises that will prove beneficial for most cases:

1. Arm Stretching—Arms stretched to full length, upward and in front of body, clasping hands or fists clenched tightly. Bring arms back and sideways as far as possible. Repeat ten to twenty times.

2. Shoulder Straightening—From the standing position lean forward with both hands on the floor and arms extended, straighten the trunk and swing arms behind the hips.

3. Neck and Shoulder Stretching—Bring head and shoulders back as far as possible, attempt to bring them still further back with a quick movement. Relax and repeat ten to twenty times.

4. Knee-Chest—Clasp both hands finger interlocking, over knees, arms at full length. Pull knee up to chest, resting with leg. Repeat five to ten times with each leg.

5. Trunk bending—Lie flat on back and rise to sitting position.

6. Tree Swaying—While in the standing position, thrust the arms straight above the head, then away from side to side, moving from the hips upward, the arms loosely waving like the branches of a tree.

7. Full Length—Stand arm's length from wall. Place both palms against wall, then lean forward until chest touches wall. Push back to original position. Repeat ten to twenty times.

Useful Gifts for Christmas Giving

Gifts both useful and simple for the Christmas season may be fashioned from various fabrics and in many pretty ways. A pillow for an aching head has a sweet balsam filling enclosed in a China silk bag, 7 to 9 inches, with an easily laundered slip of lawn or organdie, the hems finished with colored cotton in darning stitch and a small green tree cross-stitched in one corner. This same idea may be used for the linen closet or a sachet for the bottom of the bureau drawer.

A novel lingerie bag is made as follows: Sew up wrong side out a striped bath towel, 44 by 23 inches; fold over tops to depth of 7 inches; insert colored tape, draw string and attach white tape tassels with buttonhole stitch.

To make an "apple-pie" table cover, cut and hem a circle of crash the size of table top and fold it both ways, creasing firmly. Now draw and cut out an irregular pattern, turn back both sides half an inch and edge them with half-inch entre-deux. The four pieces fit together, or may be used as individual dollies.

Let's Serve a Buffet Supper

The most attractive refreshment for an evening party is the buffet supper. This allows the hostess to make the most of her dining room where she may use a definite color scheme in decorating her table.

The supper may or may not have a hot dish, such as a timbale or paty, it should have a salad, sandwiches, salted nuts, little cakes, an ice and hot chocolate or coffee. The hot dish adds to the elaborateness but makes a lot more work and almost necessitates a competent cook in the kitchen. The supper of just salad may be prepared by the host-

Virginia Page Says

Pop was smoking behind the paper after supper and ma sed, Wilyum, I want to show you my new hat, now Wilyum, I want your candid opinion so don't say you like it if you dont, because if you dont there's still time for me to change it.

And she went out of the room and came back agen with her new hat on, being a red kind of a hat with black and yello things, ma saying, Now mind Wilyum, dont say you like it if you dont, caw take a good look at it first.

And she started to wawk around the room with the hat still on so pop could see it all erround without wawking erround, it himself, pop saying, Well, its a nice hat, I think, all things considered, I think its a nice hat.

What do you mean by all things considered, Wilyum? sed ma, that sounds as if you had a secret reservation or a dubble meaning or something, and pop sed, Not at all, not at all, ony perhaps for one thing maybe it has quite a good deal of red on it, you mite say.

Wilyum, the idee, you mite say nothing of the kind, one reason why I took this partickler hat was because it was so inconspicuous, you dont know wat youre talking about, Wilyum, sed ma.

I suppose not, dont notice me, ony I thawt perhaps the hole hat, in a way of speaking, looks a little large for you, sed pop.

Large, well upon my word Wilyum, you must be blind or crazy or something this evening, the hole small if anything, if you want to know the truth, sed ma, and pop sed, Im a grate believer in the truth and Im glad to know the hat is all rite and its bin a grate pleasure and a unforgettable experience to have you listen to my judgment with such an open mind.

O Wilyum, do you reely and truly think its all rite? sed ma.

Abelootly and positively o. k., sed pop, and ma sed, O Wilyum I think youre too sweet for anything, I knew I could trust your judgment, then Ill keep the hat jest as it is, as long as you say so.

Its a grate life if you dont weeken, sed pop, and got behind the paper agen.

Every Woman's Realm

English Society Girl Fed Up With Life Turns Gypsy

LONDON, Nov. 29.—I felt just fed up with everything, with clothes and money and things; tired of the whole life; then a sudden impulse came to me to go out and leave it all.

That was the reason—in her own words—given by Miss Pamela Beckett, the beautiful eighteen-year-old daughter of Hon. Rupert and Mrs. Beckett for her disappearance from home. It was this fragmentary story she told to Mr. George Gee, a young cottager and his wife, of Negate street, a remote village on the Hertfordshire Essex borders, who found Miss Beckett lying in a lonely spot of the Home Woods, by Cutley.

She had no plans at all when she left her home in Grosvenor street on Tuesday. Her one vague idea was this:

"I wanted to join up with the gypsies. I remembered them when we lived near Potter's Bar. They used to camp near us with their caravans up with everything, with clothes and money and things; tired of the whole life must be."

As a garnishing for cakes or fancy desserts nothing is prettier or more attractive than candied rose leaves or violets, and one may have these dainty confections with very little expenditure of time or trouble.

Put a half pound of granulated sugar, three drops of lemon juice and a cupful of water on the fire and boil to the crackling or brittle point. Then remove the syrup from the fire and put the fresh rose leaves in, one by one, stirring the syrup against the sides of the pan until it is white and grainy. Then remove the rose leaves, smooth them out as much as possible, and leave dry on a wire sieve turning two or three times.

Violets require a different treatment, as the hot syrup is inclined to make them lose their color. Two cupfuls of sugar and half a cupful of water are stirred over the fire until the mixture reaches the soft-ball stage, care being taken to wipe down the crystals on the side of the pan with a damp cloth; a tablespoon of cream of tartar is then added and a little violet-coloring paste dissolved in a little water. The pan is removed from the fire, and about a cupful of violets picked from the stems are stirred in gently until the sugar grains. They are then removed and the petals are straightened out to their original form and placed on a sieve to dry.

Glance oranges make a delightful dessert arranged in little glass cups on a nest of sponge cake and covered with whipped cream, slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla. To glance oranges divide them into the peel cools.

Sections and carefully remove all the outer skin. Boil a pound of sugar with a cupful of water until it hairs; then add a cupful of vinegar and boil rapidly until the syrup grows brittle when tried in cold water. The pan is then removed from the fire and is set in a larger pan of boiling water and the oranges are dipped piece by piece into the syrup, turning them over and over to insure them being well coated. Oranges prepared in this way should be used on the same day or the day after being prepared.

Like glace fruit, candied orange, lemon and grapefruit peel are often used as garnishings for desserts and a large supply is always a boon to the manager of the kitchen. The amount of peel desired is placed on the fire and boiled till tender, in just enough water to cover. The boiled water is then drained off and the peel is allowed to soak in cold water for twenty-four hours, the water being changed from time to time. It is then drained and placed in a stone jar and is covered with a syrup made of sugar and water boiled to the soft-ball stage; this is left to stand for twelve hours; the syrup is then drained and boiled up to the hard-ball stage and is again poured over the peel; this process repeated every twenty-four hours until syrup reaches the candy stage. The last time the fresh syrup is made and the peel is added to it and is allowed to boil up once. It is then removed and placed in a stone jar, and the thick syrup is poured over sweetened and flavored with vanilla. The jars are sealed as soon as possible.

Flowers in winter are, for those with a limited income, something of an extravagance, but with a little forethought in autumn any housewife may have her home fragrant with flowers on the coldest days.

Dafoedils, hyacinths, snowdrops, crocuses, narcissi and tulips can be grown indoors in fibre, water or sand.

First in importance, of course, is the finding of what bowls and bulbs are suited to each other. Not only must the appearance be considered but the fact that, unless the large blooms have sufficient base they are liable to uproot when the blossoms appear.

And for the sake of harmony and contrast, bright flowers should be planted in neutral receptacles and white blossoms in gay pots. However, sometimes matching the pots and flowers produces an exceedingly lovely effect. Yellow dafoedils in a patch of color and pink hyacinths in a pink bowl are equally effective.

lage from the meat of the chicken. Cut in dice. There should be between three and four cups. Melt butter and stir in flour. Scald milk and add, beating with a wire whisk. Mix salt and mustard and stir in sauce. Let boil five minutes. Add meat and mushrooms and make very hot. Serve in patty shells and sprinkle with paprika.

This amount should serve 12 or 14 persons.

Jellied Salad. Three cups finely shredded cabbage, 3 sweet green peppers, 3 canned pimientos, 1 cup diced celery, 2 tablespoons granulated gelatine, 1/2 cup cold water, 2 cups boiling water.

What Shall I Do?

BOYHOOD SENTIMENT. Ques.—Dear Miss Page: We are two boys of 15 and 17. We have gone with two very great girls a number of times, although they are at least two years older than we are. We are sure that we could never love any others as well as we do these. But when we suggest marriage, they only laugh at us. We have tried to go with other girls, but always feel bored to death. Two girls of good families have always liked us real well, but we could never love them for anybody else as we do the older girls. The young girls have asked us to go out car riding a number of times. We went with them, not wishing to hurt their feelings. What would you advise us to do in such a situation, as we care nothing for them, and how could we win the older girls? Would you advise us to go to dance halls with older boys so we would have a better chance to be with older girls?—Chums.

Ans.—You boys showed excellent taste in loving two such mighty sensible girls. Of course any sane girl would laugh when a 16 or 17 year-old-boy suggested marriage because she knows very well that he is apt to fall in love with a dozen girls before he has grown up enough to really know his own mind. Boys of your age need just such dear girls for friends, but don't amuse them by suggesting anything except friendship until you are prepared financially and educationally to carry out your suggestions.

You are quite right that you'll never love any other girls just in the way you do these girls. These boys love you great experiences. Many other boys have remembered them with tender sentiment when they have become men. At the same time don't take them too seriously. Cultivate the friendship of the younger girls, too. I would not go much to the dance halls.

A CURE FOR JEALOUSY. Ques.—Dear Miss Page: I am in love with a fellow who is jealous and doesn't want me to go out with any fellow. How can I cure him?—G. P.

Ans.—There is no sure cure for jealousy to be applied to every case alike. It is a form of selfishness or distrust of another, and most young people outgrow it as they gain wisdom and self-control and poise. But if allowed to grow, it becomes as an English poet says:

"The green-eyed monster which doth mock The meat it feeds on" and causes great unhappiness to the one who fosters it as well as to his friends.

TWO WIDOWERS. Ques.—Dear Miss Page: I have been going with a widower who has two children, and some time ago with another widower. One has asked me to marry him. They both seem to like me very much. At my age had I not better forget them both and wait till I know what I want?—E. Q. Z.

Ans.—You have answered your own question very well. Wait till you are sure of your own choice before you marry.

"Tiddle"—You should be spending your time in study and sleep and consider the boys as friends until you are three or four years older. Then always let the boys make the dates, do not push yourself upon them. And insist on the highest standards of manhood.

Your "hair dressing" question has recently been answered in the column. English Society Girl Fed Up With Life Turns Gypsy

Garnishings for Cakes and Desserts

LONDON, Nov. 29.—I felt just fed up with everything, with clothes and money and things; tired of the whole life must be."

As a garnishing for cakes or fancy desserts nothing is prettier or more attractive than candied rose leaves or violets, and one may have these dainty confections with very little expenditure of time or trouble.

Put a half pound of granulated sugar, three drops of lemon juice and a cupful of water on the fire and boil to the crackling or brittle point. Then remove the syrup from the fire and put the fresh rose leaves in, one by one, stirring the syrup against the sides of the pan until it is white and grainy. Then remove the rose leaves, smooth them out as much as possible, and leave dry on a wire sieve turning two or three times.

Violets require a different treatment, as the hot syrup is inclined to make them lose their color. Two cupfuls of sugar and half a cupful of water are stirred over the fire until the mixture reaches the soft-ball stage, care being taken to wipe down the crystals on the side of the pan with a damp cloth; a tablespoon of cream of tartar is then added and a little violet-coloring paste dissolved in a little water. The pan is removed from the fire, and about a cupful of violets picked from the stems are stirred in gently until the sugar grains. They are then removed and the petals are straightened out to their original form and placed on a sieve to dry.

Glance oranges make a delightful dessert arranged in little glass cups on a nest of sponge cake and covered with whipped cream, slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla. To glance oranges divide them into the peel cools.

Sections and carefully remove all the outer skin. Boil a pound of sugar with a cupful of water until it hairs; then add a cupful of vinegar and boil rapidly until the syrup grows brittle when tried in cold water. The pan is then removed from the fire and is set in a larger pan of boiling water and the oranges are dipped piece by piece into the syrup, turning them over and over to insure them being well coated. Oranges prepared in this way should be used on the same day or the day after being prepared.

Like glace fruit, candied orange, lemon and grapefruit peel are often used as garnishings for desserts and a large supply is always a boon to the manager of the kitchen. The amount of peel desired is placed on the fire and boiled till tender, in just enough water to cover. The boiled water is then drained off and the peel is allowed to soak in cold water for twenty-four hours, the water being changed from time to time. It is then drained and placed in a stone jar and is covered with a syrup made of sugar and water boiled to the soft-ball stage; this is left to stand for twelve hours; the syrup is then drained and boiled up to the hard-ball stage and is again poured over the peel; this process repeated every twenty-four hours until syrup reaches the candy stage. The last time the fresh syrup is made and the peel is added to it and is allowed to boil up once. It is then removed and placed in a stone jar, and the thick syrup is poured over sweetened and flavored with vanilla. The jars are sealed as soon as possible.

Flowers in winter are, for those with a limited income, something of an extravagance, but with a little forethought in autumn any housewife may have her home fragrant with flowers on the coldest days.

Dafoedils, hyacinths, snowdrops, crocuses, narcissi and tulips can be grown indoors in fibre, water or sand.

First in importance, of course, is the finding of what bowls and bulbs are suited to each other. Not only must the appearance be considered but the fact that, unless the large blooms have sufficient base they are liable to uproot when the blossoms appear.

And for the sake of harmony and contrast, bright flowers should be planted in neutral receptacles and white blossoms in gay pots. However, sometimes matching the pots and flowers produces an exceedingly lovely effect. Yellow dafoedils in a patch of color and pink hyacinths in a pink bowl are equally effective.

Mix salt and mustard and stir in sauce. Let boil five minutes. Add meat and mushrooms and make very hot. Serve in patty shells and sprinkle with paprika.

This amount should serve 12 or 14 persons.

DOES INLAND REVENUE ACT APPLY TO INDIANS ON RESERVE? Does the Inland Revenue Act apply in the case of Indians residing on the reservation? If it does not then the Indians cannot be prosecuted under the Act. This question has arisen in the case of the prosecutions of David S. Brant, accused of having a still in his possession and of Levi Claus accused of having a quantity of mash. The counsel for the defence, Messrs E. J. Butler of Belleville, and W. S. Herrington, of Napanee, claim that the Indians are immune to the act's operations. The Inland Revenue Department is represented by Crown Attorney Carnew. Magistrate Bedford has enlarged the case until December 9th.

SEIZE $4000 IN RAW FURS TAKEN TO PETERBORO FOR PROBE

About four thousand dollars' worth of furs were seized by Inspector Woodcock of Peterborough, of the Game and Fisheries Department, pending investigation. The furs are now in Peterborough and may be shipped to Toronto. As far as known no charge has been laid. The seizure was made with the assistance of the Belleville police. The investigation by Mr. Woodcock was over the question of a licence which all who trade in furs are compelled to take out. It is stated that a Belleville fur dealer claims that he had applied for the licence and that he had not received it. It is said that the law on the point is that there is a possibility of the furs becoming the property of the Crown if an infraction of the law can be proven. There were about five bags of skunk, three of raccoon, and one of fox in which all who trade in furs are com-

MR. SCOTT RETIRES Large Vote Polled at Final Election—Name President This Week

The annual election for the directors of the Chamber of Commerce which was concluded at four o'clock yesterday afternoon has resulted in the return of five of Belleville's most prominent, energetic and influential citizens.

It will be particularly gratifying to the four directors re-elected that the course they have pursued in administering the affairs of the Chamber of Commerce has proven so popular with the membership.

Mr. Arthur McGie, who succeeds Mr. Scott, does not require any introduction to the citizens of Belleville. He is regarded as one of its sanest and most level-headed business men.

A large vote was polled at the Final Election and the contest for fifth place was particularly close, less than a dozen votes dividing the totals of five of the candidates.

A particularly gratifying feature about this election, as about preceding elections of the Chamber of Commerce, is that there was no slate prepared. No candidate conducted a campaign in his own interests.

On Thursday of this week the nine directors will meet and choose their president, two vice-presidents and a treasurer for the coming year.

T. H. THOMPSON HOLDS MEETING AT POINT ANNE

W. C. Mikel, K. C., Principal Speaker With Mr. Tummon and the Candidate

ASSAILS LIBERALS, U.F.O.

"More Parties we Have the More Politics," Says Speaker—Synopsis of Address

A meeting was held in the school house at Point Anne Saturday night in support of T. H. Thompson, the Conservative candidate in East Hastings. Mr. T. A. Sillis was chairman. W. C. Mikel, K.C., on being called to the platform addressed the electors. He said there were some things we did not have enough of in Canada but we certainly had enough of politics. Nevertheless some people wanted Canada to have more politics because they were busy creating more parties. Every new party created had its politics so the more parties we have the more politics. Mr. Denyes came before the electors as a U.F.O. Mr. Caskey came as a Progressive and we had a number of variations. The Conservative party is consolidated on one policy from East to West.

Real Progressive Party. If it is decided by results rather than promises, the Conservative party is the real Progressive party in Canada, because it originated and carried into effect (1) the Confederation of the Dominion of Canada, thereby creating a nation as big as the whole continent of Europe, and nearly one-third of the British Empire; (2) the acquisition from the Hudson Bay Company of the great North West territories, over two million square miles; (3) the surveying and opening up of this vast territory for settlement; (4) the formation out of this territory of three provinces, now containing millions; (5) the building of the C. P. R.; (6) the construction of our great canal system; (7) votes for women; (8) temperance legislation; (9) the Hydro Electric system; (10) the National policy. If you take out of Canada the achievements of the Conservative party there will not be much to boast of. There has always been a considerable number of our political opponents who, believing in the benefits of these great national works, have left their party and supported the Conservative party from time to time. A man may call himself the King of England, or President of the United States but that does not make it so. It is results that tell.

Lower Tariff Means Lower Labor Conditions. The National Policy means protection to Canadian industries. Every civilized country today has adopted this policy; even England since Oct. 1st, 1921. Canada could least afford to drop protection. If we did we would put our manufactured goods on a par with the goods of under paid labor of Europe and Asia which would place the families of labor in this country on a par with the families of under-paid labor in Europe and Asia. Labor in Canada does not want that. Our opponents say take the tariff off necessities. Necessities consist of all we eat, wear, use in our homes, workshops, store, on farms in mines. You cannot take the tariff off one man's necessity and leave it off another's, and if you take it off all that means doing away with protection. If it is good policy to shut out foreigners, it's better policy to shut out the goods the foreigners makes. Our opponents pick out 3 or 4 big industries that have become rich and perhaps could get along without protection and propose therefore to destroy the whole system; but there are 15,000 industries in Canada brought into existence by the policy of protection scattered throughout our villages, towns and small cities which have a struggle to keep going. If protection was taken away these would go out of existence though, perhaps, a few of the big ones could stand. Trusts and combines come into existence under free trade as well as protection. From the earliest time people moved from rural to urban communities in every country, also in England under free trade. It is not caused by protection. Without protection the Canadian farmers cannot compete with the farmer of the Southern States where he has several crops a year and can raise his stock out doors all the year around. The farmer in the Northern States cannot compete with the farmer in the Southern States, therefore, the farmers in the Northern States, by the thousands, are selling their farms and moving into Canada. You never hear of Canadian farmers moving to the United States, because they would be worse off there

SONS OF SCOTIA MARCH TO KIRK

Hear Fine Sermon by the Rev. Douglas Ramsay on "Test of Nationhood." PIPE BAND LEADS

Scotland Lives Today Because of Service She Has Rendered Humanity

"Scotland lives in the life of nations today because of the service she has rendered humanity. She was the first of peoples of Europe for broad-spread education. She has rendered her service to mankind by her intense zeal for knowledge. Sometimes it has led her into peculiar situations and may have made her life appear barren along some lines, but that it is which she has chiefly given. Let us who owe all we are to her, pass on her contribution of respect for knowledge to our Canadian children."

In these words the Rev. D. C. Ramsay addressed the Sons of Scotland and sister societies at John Street Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning. His theme was "The Test of Nationhood." The service was made to have a particular appeal owing to the approach of the anniversary of St. Andrew, the patron saint of Scotland. The attendance of the "sons" was very large for reasons of weather. The Johnston Pipe Band played the brethren to and from the church. The hymn, "Lord, While for All Mankind We Pray," was sung to the air of "Auld Lang Syne"; the choir sang "O Worship the King" and Mr. Ansell rendered the solo "My Task."

In his address to the brethren Ramsay stated that most people looked upon the nation as an object for patriotism. "A great many of us look to other lands—some to Scotland, perhaps the land of our fathers, perhaps the land of our birth and our youth, and we find room in this broad Canada, with its broad outlook in life, for two patriotisms: one that looks on the land of our children, and that which looks back to the land of our fathers. To many, that land is Scotland. We love her for her virtues. I am not certain but that we love her for her vices as well; whatever they may be, when people speak of her virtues and vices, they speak of our virtues and vices. No matter what distance may separate us or years intervene, they cannot blot out from our hearts the feelings for Scotland."

There are people who look upon national ideals as the cause of international conflict and claim that they are citizens of the world; but the preacher showed that nationalism was the cradle for great ideals all through the ages. God used the instrumentality of the Jewish nation to rear the Christian religion and out of the destruction of the Hebrew nation came the dissemination of the ideal religion worldwide. Rome was necessary to give the world its highest development of law, now the common heritage of all peoples. Britain gave the world its highest democratic ideal, now becoming a heritage of the world.

"We have every reason to believe that there is room for the world to make progress infinitely greater than any in the past, and we have no reason to think that it will be by any other method than that followed in the past—through the pangs of a nation's life," said the preacher.

"There is a true internationalism, but it does not come by the destruction of nationalism, any more than a man contributes more to humanity by hating his own family. Russia is the example of a spurious internationalism. Will you get that bond of unity that binds the earth together in which the national ideas is strongly established—France, Italy, Japan, United States, Great Britain? There is never a true internationalism until there is a fervid nationalism."

BUY ALL WINE OUTPUT FOR 1921

Exchange Helps French and Belgians Who Thus Make Germans Angry HUNS TRY TO STOP IT

This Year's Excellent Wine Nearly All Exported in Spite of Agitation

MUNYER, Germany, Nov. 28.—Hundreds of foreigners, chiefly Frenchmen, Belgians and Hollanders, taking advantage of the present low value of the German mark, have almost bought up the entire German wine output of 1921.

The ruthless raids by foreign buyers, whom no fancy prices seem to deter, are a source of bitter lamentation on the part of domestic consumers, who foresee that but little of the precious liquor will be left for their own enjoyment.

German officials have been seeking means to prevent Germans from being deprived of this year's excellent wine and from having to purchase inferior vintages of other years at higher prices. As a last effort to retain the remains of the 1921 crop, an agitation has been started to force foreigners to pay a higher price for the wine than the Germans.

The Prussian Minister of Commerce is taking steps to enforce the law prohibiting exports, which covers necessities of life as well as wine sold in small lots.

BEATTY FETED IN THREE CITIES, IN TORONTO TODAY

Thousands Brave Icy Blasts to See "The Ruler of the King's 'Na-vee'"

TAKES CITIES BY STORM Says Washington Conference Already Has Accomplished Great Task

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—Earl Beatty extended his conquests to Toronto today. Here he will occupy the centre of the stage for ten hours with Lord Byng.

Arriving at 7.30, he was given a formal reception at the station by Sir Henry Drayton, Sir Edward Kemp and Hon. Ed. Bristol, representing the Dominion Government, while the city's welcome was tendered by Mayor Church.

He had breakfast at Government House and at noon addressed the Canadian Club, and at 2.15 he spoke at Massey Hall. After visiting hospitals for ex-service men he was to leave at five.

LORD BEATTY'S SPEECH

Replying to addresses of welcome in the City Hall the famous Admiral declared he was glad that the citizens of Ontario appreciated the service to which he belonged. One thing that had impressed him in Canada was that if there was any other place in the world that required education on the sea power it was not Canada.

Referring to the comradeship brought about between the various parts of the Empire and associated allies during the great war he declared that if it prevailed in peace there was no doubt but that the world would be a much happier place for humanity.

Montreal, Nov. 28.—Earl Beatty, Admiral of the Fleet, and hero of Jutland, spent a Sunday packed with continuous events from the moment of his arrival here at 9.45 in the morning to the minute of his departure for Toronto at 11 o'clock last night.

Debonair, bluff and smiling, the Admiral arrived to find a crowd of 500 or 600 persons who had braved a bitter cold morning to greet him at the railway station. He was met by the Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine, and a notable gathering including representatives of the Government, the civic authorities, the naval, air and land forces, most of the latter being officers who had served overseas. He was driven to the Windsor Hotel and given a warm greeting by a large gathering. At 11 o'clock his Lordship attended Divine service at the cathedral, where the sermon was preached by Bishop Farrington.

CONFERENCE SUCCESS.

The first Sunday luncheon ever held here by the Canadian Club was later addressed by Admiral Beatty, who reiterated his statement, made at Ottawa on Saturday, to the effect that "if the conference at Washington were to close its doors tomorrow, it would have accomplished a great task. The navies of the world are going to be limited, but it is recognized that the British navy does not go out of the picture."

It is estimated that fully 1,700 persons attended the luncheon. Lord Shaughnessy presided.

STATION THROGGED.

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—Admiral Earl Beatty scored his first Canadian triumph when he took the Capital by storm on Saturday. Mid sharp winter weather and driving snow thousands of people jammed the Central Station and the streets leading to the City Hall to catch a glimpse of the famous sea fighter and to cheer. The welcome at the Central Station was a triumph in itself and truly Canadian.

FARM WORKERS REFUSE OFFER

Employers on Large Scale Would Let Them Pay Selves out of Earnings

PREFER THEIR WAGES

Scientific Farmer Orates on Trials of Man who Tills Soil for Profit

LONDON, Nov. 28.—S. F. Edge, a scientific farmer, offered some weeks ago, to hand over farm land valued at £20,000 to a committee of his employes without cost, but subject to the proviso that they should pay their own wages out of the proceeds.

It is announced that they have declined the offer, and Mr. Edge has extended it to any reputable labor body, such as the agricultural workers' unions.

"The purpose of this offer," said Mr. Edge, when interviewed at his Sussex farm, "is to prove to the trade unions that farming, like every other industry, will only pay wages that are earned unless they draw from capital. Agricultural laborers have been misled as to the profit a farmer makes from crop-growing and ordinary agriculture, and it was to teach them the truth that I made this offer."

"My employes on my farms, which have grown in the last two years from a modest 50 acres to some 2,000 acres, have not accepted my offer, knowing that they will make more money in wages than they could make out of the farm."

"I now suggest that one of the farms should be run on a co-operative scheme in charge of the workers and their unions. There would have to be an agreement that accepted methods of good husbandry be observed. It would be possible, of course, to enjoy several years of prosperity by taking everything possible out of the land and putting nothing back. The farm must, be kept in good order, fences kept up, ditches drained, land fertilized, and buildings maintained."

"What I am deeply concerned with is that the whole of the land of this country should be farmed at a profit, so that many more families may be employed on the land. Tens of thousands can be employed on pig-breeding, at present by far the most remunerative side of agriculture. We have immense areas of unproductive land. Why should we not connect unproductive land with unemployed people, and make the land produce pigs?"

300 DEER SHIPPED.

Hunters Got a Good Complement of Deer This Season—Also One Moose.

BANCROFT.—We have it on good authority that nearly three hundred deer were shipped from Gilmour Station this season, says The Bancroft Times. Deer were quite plentiful and nearly all the hunters took home venison. One moose was among the complement of deer the hunters had on the train going south on Monday. This was shot in the wide north of Maynooth.

The.... Prairie Mother By Arthur Stringer

"I'll remember that," he said with his jaw squared and his head down...

THURSDAY THE THIRTIETH

It's a busy three days I've been having, and I'm a bit tucked out in body...

But, on the other hand, I'm going to have an 8-18 tractor that'll turn over an acre of land in little more than an hour's time...

I am also the possessor of three barrels of gasoline and a new disk-drill, together with the needed repairs for the old drill which worked so badly last season...

Whinstane Sandy, on account of his lame foot, can't follow a plow. But there's no reason to have Whinstane build a canopy top over the old truck board...

The Twins have been doing better, the last week or two. And I rather dread the idea of weaning them. I had somebody to look after them...

SUNDAY THE SECOND

I'm too busy to puddle in split milk or worry over things that are past. I can't even take time to rhapsodize over the kitchen-cabinet...

Tractor-plowing, I'm beginning to discover isn't the simple operation it sounds, for your land, in the first place, has to be staked off and marked with guldons...

Then, too, machinery has one thing in common with man: they occasionally get out of kilter at the very time you expect most from them.

It was two hours before I located the cause, which was caused by the timer. But I've conquered the dogged thing, and got her to spark right, and I went a couple of rounds...

Yesterday I teamed in to Buckhorn, for supplies. As I drove down the main street of that squallid little town...

SATURDAY THE TWENTY-SECOND

I've got my seed in, glory be! The deed is done, the mad semblance is over. And Mother Earth, as tired as a child of being mauled, lies sleeping in the sun.

All this talk of mine about wheat sounds as though I were what they call out here a Sell Robber, or a Land Miner, a get-rich-quick squatter who doesn't bother about mixed farming...

And the cords showing in my neck, and my nerves not exactly what they ought to be. For Sunday, which is reckoned as a day of rest, had been a long and busy day for me.

FRIDAY THE TWENTY-SEVENTH

It has turned quite cold again, with frosts sharp enough at night to freeze a half-inch of ice on the top of soft water.

At that very moment, I remembered, there were women listening to symphony music in Carnegie Hall, and women in the auction-room, the sublimated passion to adorn the honoree with the fruits of their cunning!

TUESDAY THE TWENTY-FIFTH

Yesterday I teamed in to Buckhorn, for supplies. As I drove down the main street of that squallid little town...

TUESDAY THE SECOND

I may as well begin at the beginning, I suppose, so as to get the whole thing straight. And it started with Whinstane Sandy, who broke the wheel of the spring-wagon...

And speaking of barker reminds me that both Dinkle and the Twins are growing out of their duds, and heaven knows when I'll find time to make more for them. They'll probably have to promenade around like kids in the city.

My little Dinkle, I notice, is going to love animals. He seems especially fond of horses, and is fearless when beside them, or on them, or even under the belly of a fat-bird...

Flood of Sentiment Unleashed by Announcement of the Royal Engagement

OVATION AT THEATRE Princess Mary Ordered Her Trouseau to be "All British"—Strikes Popular Note

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A flood of sentiment has been unleashed by the announcement of Princess Mary's engagement to Viscount Lascelles.

Sentiment has so touched the generous instincts of the people that hundreds are already sending to the Princess presents of money, many of the donors supplying the newspapers with their own photographs at the same time.

Princess Mary and her fiancée, Viscount Lascelles, were given a tremendous popular ovation last night when they attended a charity performance at the Hippodrome.

Princess Mary spent today choosing her trousseau, and has issued an ultimatum that it must be "all British."

With this announcement the expectations of Rue De La Paix designers, who are already sending representatives to London to submit designs, are rudely shattered.

The decision of the Princess will prove a tremendous boom for the British industry, as the whole court will follow the lead of the Princess.

The early honeymoon will be spent in Yorkshire, to be followed by a trip around the world.

The Lord Mayor of London today opened a fund to enable citizens to subscribe for a present to the Princess. It is hoped to raise at least half a million dollars throughout England.

The Queen of Roumania will come to England for the wedding, bringing her youngest daughter, who will be a bridesmaid.

Mr. T. C. Lapp, son of the late C. A. Lapp, for many years editor and proprietor of the Brighton Ensign, and a brother to Mr. Clarence Lapp, the present proprietor, has been appointed Editor of The Veteran, the official organ of the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The Daily Graphic today states that the Premier's presence at Washington has become necessary and that it is very probable he will make the trip soon.

ANGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 28.—Damage estimated at one million, three hundred thousand dollars was caused by a fire which broke out in the business district today and burned four hours before it was brought under control.

DEATH OF JOS. B. WELLER

The death of Joseph B. Weller, which occurred on Friday, Nov. 25th, at Birmingham, Michigan, removes a well known former Belleville resident and business man.

When he lived in Ottawa, Lord Lascelles regarded conventions as lightly as his fiancée has been taught to obey them to the last detail.

At the time he had no expectation of the great wealth which he inherited from his uncle, Lord Clanricarde, four years ago.

Tall, very fair and very slight, the young aide of Earl Grey's staff was one of the most popular of all those on Government House staffs.

Princess Mary's attachment for Viscount Lascelles, although not generally known in London society, has been no secret in court circles for some time.

REAL OPEN-AIR "BUTCHER" SHOP SEEN ON SQUARE

No Less Than Fifteen Dealers Selling Small Cuts in the Open Today

REASON IS OFFERED EGGS Sell up to 80 Cents with 75 as Average—Poultry in Abundance

Meat offered almost everywhere on the market today, practically transformed the square into one big butcher shop.

The cause for this lies in the unprecedentedly low prices which cattle are bringing. It was current talk today that "critters" could be bought at fifteen dollars each.

Another reason offered is the attention which the cutting of meat on the market has received of late owing to the trouble a few weeks ago.

The wholesale business in beef has been "cut to pieces" of late. Fore quarters are being offered at 5c and from 9 to 10 cents for hind quarters.

The markets have been good the past few weeks and today's lived up to the standard. The square was crowded, while the inner market was packed so that it was almost impossible to get about, except by drifting with the crowd.

LASCELLES OTTAWA FAVORITE

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—The Journal says: There is considerable surprise but no less pleasure among those who knew Viscount Lascelles when he was an aide-de-camp in the regime of Earl Grey at the announcement from London that he has won the highest matrimonial prize in the kingdom, the hand of Princess Mary.

DURBAR STAGED FOR THE PRINCE

H. R. H. Greeted by Opulence and Splendor of Indian Potentates BARODA'S WELCOME

Heir to Throne is Guest of Gaekwar and Other Native Rulers BARODA, India, Nov. 26.—The Prince of Wales is experiencing his first taste of the opulence and splendor of Indian Princes as the guest of the Gaekwar of Baroda.

The Gaekwar's son, Prince Jasraj, was educated at Harvard, and his allowance was so great as to make him a sort of mysterious Monte Cristo among his less fortunate comrades.

It is a novel experience even for the heir to the throne of the world's greatest empire, for undoubtedly no present-day monarch has at his disposal the facilities for such gorgeous display and pomp as the Gaekwar and many other Indian potentates.

The Prince's train drew up at the station today amidst the thunder of canon, and awaiting him was the Gaekwar himself, with his shining retinue.

It was a most imposing procession. At one point were arranged the famous battery of gold and silver guns, with silver carriages and richly caparisoned horses.

The procession was followed by the Durbar (as the official reception is called), which took place in Durbar Hall, with its carpeted gold and walls of marble and teak.

During the afternoon there was a garden party in the spacious grounds of the palace, where Indian musicians, acrobats and dancers entertained.

The death occurred at North Battleford on Tuesday, Nov. 22nd of Mrs. William VanBlaricom in her 79th year after a lingering illness.

Mrs. VanBlaricom was a native of Tyndinaga. She was a member of the Methodist Church and was always interested in charitable work.

WINTER PERILS

WITH the passing of the summer and the coming of the snow to tell us that winter is at hand, the warning recently given by the medical correspondent of the London Times with respect to the dangers of the cold season, would seem to be timely, says the Ottawa Journal. He does not allude to the menace of influenza, or the train of ills which follow a severe chill, both of which are quite real, so much as the perils which attach to lessened exercise and to indoor life. During the summer season there is much of activity in the open air and sunshine. During the winter men and women lean to the sedentary. There is too often a shrinking from the outdoors on the part of those who spend their days in offices, as so many of us do. The exchange is made from a warm place of work to a warm, if not superheated home. Unless steps are taken to counteract these adverse conditions, a sluggish circulation and the imperfect of waste products supervise. Middle-aged people are therefore apt to add to their weight in winter, which is not always a good sign.

Doctors are agreed that the habits of middle age lead frequently to premature and avoidable breakdowns. While young people have their dances, and freely seek the stimulation and tonic of our glorious winter days as opportunity may offer, men and women in the forties are too apt to sit at home and deny themselves needed exercise. The antidote is to be found in a systematic and courageous toning up of the muscular system by activity under proper conditions. To over-exert at that time of life is probably quite as dangerous as is sustained under over-exertion. The rational thing to do is to develop some not unpleasant way of stretching the muscles under conditions which correspond as nearly as possible to the open air—and to keep it up. Mere spasms of such recreation are of little permanent value. The point which calls for emphasis, however, in the judgment of experts, is that the winter is a period of peculiar risk to those who permit sedentary habits and sluggish ways of living to become fixed.

STUPENDOUS LOSSES

ONTARIO lost fully a million a month during the past year by fires, and the authorities say that "one-half of these losses might have been prevented had adequate precautions against fire been taken." A tragic feature of the fires was the havoc they worked to human life. Eighty-two per cent. of the lives lost were those of mothers and children. It is quite evident that more stringent legislation is needed if these losses are to be reduced. At a recent gathering of firemen in Montreal the statement was made that about eighty per cent. of the fires in Canada can be traced to carelessness. It would be difficult to imagine anything more deplorable than this. Surely there must be a remedy.

The charge has frequently been made in this city that many insurance agents are incompetent, and devote very little thought to the character of the risks they write. Here is a subject that should be thoroughly probed by insurance companies themselves.

Apart from the fires in cities, there is the wicked destruction of our forests by fire. The forests are valuable beyond all computation and their preservation is a matter of national concern. The most abundant ant proof has been adduced that a very large percentage of forest fires is directly traceable to carelessness on the part of settlers, hunters, rail-ways and others. Those who gather about camp fires and march away leaving embers aglow deserve to be indicted for criminal carelessness.

Surely if better economic conditions are to prevail there must not only be curtailment in extravagance in living, but curtailment also of our astounding fire losses.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE?

DISCUSSING the Washington arms conference, the Montreal Herald says it does not agree with some prominent writers that failure on the part of the conference will mean the death of civilization. It would only mean the removal of the "fossils" at the conference, it contends. The world, it says, is in a frame of mind to grasp at new and enlightened leadership, and that if the delegates now at Washington cannot measure up to the universal expectation, they must give way to those who will recognize the insistent demand of humanity for permanent peace. The people of the civilized nations, it says, were never before as united on any aim as they are irrevocably committed to the fulfillment of this one.

It is perhaps a little too early in the conference to pass upon the probability of its outcome, as to whether it will succeed or not, but certainly there is little warrant yet for fear that failure will attend the efforts of the delegates. However, if those to whom has been entrusted the task of negotiating an agreement on limitation of armament do not succeed in their duties, their respective peoples may demand that they make way for others. The peace spirit throughout the world has unquestionably become strengthened and intensified in the last few years, and it is almost universally demanded of the delegates at Washington that something definite and substantial be accomplished at the sessions now in progress. With the enlightened peoples of the world so pronouncedly for peace, it should not be difficult to arrange an understanding and the probability is that success, rather than failure, will emerge from the Washington conference.

PAYING THE SHOT.

(Hamilton Spectator.) Hon. Mr. Biggs' proposal to put a tax of a cent a gallon on gasoline is not without its favorable features. Naturally, the burden will fall heaviest on those who use the roads most frequently and thus contribute to their wear, particularly heavy cars and motor trucks. In common fairness they are the ones most entitled to bear a proper share of the cost thus entailed on the highways.

Attacked by Asthma. The first fearful sensation is of suffocation which hour by hour becomes more desperate and hopeless. To such a case the relief afforded by Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is very grateful. Its help is quickly apparent and soon the dreadful attack is mastered. The asthmatic who has found out the dependability of this sterling remedy will never be without it. It is sold everywhere.

OTHER EDITORS' OPINIONS

Excerpts from the press of Canada, Great Britain and from the leading papers elsewhere for "Ontario" Readers.

THE MORE IMPORTANT DETAILS

Atlantic Constitution: Soviet Russia has decided to recognize pre-war debts to other nations, but maintained a painful silence about paying them.

ONLY SYMPTOMS.

Ottawa Bee: While the talk is of armament, it must not be forgotten that warships are but the symptoms of the world's disease, and that economic causes of international friction must yet be dealt with.

THE ADOLESCENT.

Atton Free Press: An increase in Ontario of at least 20 per cent. in the school attendance of children between the ages of 14 and 16 is pretty good evidence of the value of the Adolescent Act. This percentage is expected to increase yearly until as large a percentage of school attendance is shown for the year under 16 as formerly was shown for the years under 14.

THE SCHOOLS GO ON.

New York Times: Meanwhile, the teachers, despite all the impediments and harassments in their way, are making up for the physical shortcomings, so far as that is humanly possible, by the devotion of their spirit and the skill of their profession. The schools go on.

THE PACIFIC PROBLEM.

Brooklyn Eagle: It may be that intervention by the British fleet on the side of Japan against the United States is "unthinkable," as so many British writers assure us, but against what power other than the United States is the alliance now needed? The lack of a logical reason for its continuance is a powerful argument for its termination.

OLD TIMES ARE CHANGED.

Springfield Republican: The days are gone when a shoemaker might vary the monotonous routine of cobbling by writing poetry in his off hours. We no longer hear as we once did of a tailor leaving his needle and thread and shears to become a great general. In olden days Cincinnati, a tiller of the soil, left his ploughing to lead a Roman army to victory. Today it is more likely to attract attention when an individual leaves a field like that of preaching, if only for a time, to take up work totally different.

THE REMEDY.

London Economist: To get trade and finance on their legs again we have to kill and bury the war spirit in foreign policies, Government extravagance, and Government interference with industrial and financial matters that Governments never can handle well, because they cannot help handling them with one ear on the ground, one eye on the gallery, and both hands stretched out to catch votes. And there does not seem to be much hope that any of these obvious conditions of revival can be secured just at present.

THE DIVINITY OF GOVERNMENT.

Edinburgh Review: Cynical as were many of his obiter dicta and intol-ant as he was of solemn hubbub, Disraeli tenaciously held the conviction that a political creed, if it was to issue in good works, must rest upon moral principles. "If government," he said, "is not divine it is nothing. It is a mere affair of the police-office, of the tax-gatherers, of the guard-room." "The divine right of kings may have been a plea for feeble tyrants, but the divine right of governments is the keystone of human progress and without it government sinks into police and a nation is degraded into a mob."

HOW WOMEN VOTE.

New York Evening Post: Since women have voted in this State only two years they might have been supposed to be much freer of partisanship than men. And since the schools were so important an issue, the women might have been supposed to be extraordinarily interested in bringing about a change of administration. The figures belie both of these conclusions. In so overwhelming a majority there can be no particular difference between the ballots cast by men and those cast by women. Although they are new voters, women "react" politically like their husbands and sons and brothers.

THE REAL CENSOR OF PLAYS.

London Daily Express: Doubtless a censor who was omniscient and omnipotent would be a blessing both to managers and audiences. Failing these qualifications, it is difficult to be certain of his usefulness. Under modern conditions there can only be one censor of public entertainments—the public. If the public wants a certain kind of entertainment, it will eventually have it, but the censor never so wisely. It is public opinion, nourished by an enlightened press, that must judge the fitness or unfitness of a play. And public opinion is, in the long run, a sound and wholesome referee.

BAYSIDE FOWL SUPPER

Bridge Street Orchestra Gives Program Interspersed with Speeches. BAYSIDE.—The 2nd annual fowl supper given by the Orangemen of this place on Thursday evening last was not only a decided success in every way, but also a credit to the excellent organization of the members, whose combined efforts were instrumental in making both the supper and the entertainment following it, the leading event of the season.

The ladies are to be congratulated for the wholehearted support they rendered in preparing a supper that in point of quality and quantity has never been equalled in this part of Eastern Ontario. Although the night was bad, the supper was good, the crowd optimistic and as a consequence, everything went with a swing.

They came from every point of the compass. Some in cars, some in the old, democrat, some in buggies and some by the safe and sure method—on shanks' horses. Mr. W. A. Reid, (Reeve of the township) and chairman of the evening, spoke impromptu regarding the work of the Orange Order. Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., Belleville, gave a very interesting address on the principles of Orangism in general. The programme proper was put on by Bridge St. Orchestra, whose excellent performance during the evening brought added laurels to this already famous company. Perfect in its parts and a credit to those who brought it into being, this orchestra is one of which the city of Belleville may well be proud.

Those who did not attend the entertainment missed half of their lives, a lot of good chicken and will never die quite so happy as those who were there. Next year Orangemen will likely put on something bigger and better than they did on Thursday evening. Mr. Gilbath of Port Hope preached missionary sermons on this circuit Sunday. Mr. Wm. Wheeler and daughter Gladys are spending the week in Peterboro.

The Berlin police have issued a prohibition against all processions or other open-air demonstrations until further notice because of food riots.

CLEAR-CUT NOTE IS DESIDERATUM IN ARMS PARLEY

Remote Issues Lead to Confusion, in Public Mind, on Conference Task

THIRD WEEK BEGUN Senator Borah Gives a "Warning" That It's "League" in New Dress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The third week of the conference opened this morning, with the Far East Division ready to take several phases of the general question of the relationship of the powers with China, the preliminary work on which was completed Saturday.

The naval armament question was declared this morning to have reached a definite stage of advancement. Though this Washington meeting of the powers was originally called "a Conference on the Limitation of Armament," it has developed discussion and debate on almost every conceivable international subject. The committee and sub-committees sitting in secret in the Pan-American Building presumably confine themselves to the issues presented by the original agenda, but the gossip of the Capital and in the newspapers brought up by busy writers and propagandists as having a direct bearing on the vital things the representatives of the powers are debating.

All Kinds of "Talk" Talk by the public and in the press varies all the way from Silesia to sixteen-inch guns, from Chinese postoffices to France's army, from a League of Nations to a Thibetan treaty 50 years old, and run to any length on any subject. Writers send forth page after page. Newspapers print column after column. Essayists get into disputes with each other, while statesmen thousands of miles away make lurid speeches that flow in a never-ending stream.

If one attempted to follow all this in Washington the result would be hopeless confusion. The leaders of the powers here recognize the fact that there is liable to be hopeless confusion back home, whether back home means in Britain or Japan, France or Canada. Efforts are being made, sincere efforts too, to strike now and then clear-cut notes that the public may understand without undue difficulty.

Borah's "Warning" Last night Senator Borah issued a formal statement designed to warn the public of the United States of the hidden dangers of the arms parley. "It is not what you call it, but what it is, that counts," he declared, pointing out his belief that President Harding's proposed Association of nations is the League of Nations in a new suit of clothes.

L. G. Starts Saturday London, Nov. 28.—Premier Lloyd George is "morally certain" that his next Christmas will be spent in Washington. Those were the words used today by a member of the Prime Minister's entourage to describe his outlook on the correlated situation created by the arms parley and the Irish negotiations.

Lloyd George has received so many messages, both from this side and from America, urging that he should go to Washington that he has gone so far as to book his passage on the Aquitania, next Saturday.

While the straight, more or less attenuated silhouette is as popular as ever, its opposite is also a good deal in evidence. At every big dance this season, have been remarked a number of frocks with skirts wired near the top holding them out in bouffant style. Frocks of this type are usually developed in chiffon taffeta, although sometimes lace is similarly wired to stand out over a satin foundation. When the skirt is full and bouffant, the bodice is invariably plain and close fitting. And, by the way, the proper fan to carry with this type of frock is the small lace or painted affair, while the big feather fan is the complement of the straight or softly draped gown. The reason in both cases is obvious.

INJURIES LIKELY TO BE PERMANENT

Sir William Mulock Does not Accept Some Evidence of the Defendants

NO NEGLIGENCE FOUND
Bicycle into Hole in Lawn not Against Hydrant—Awarded $7,000 Damages

Sir William Mulock in summing up the evidence in the case of Rev. Dr. Cleaver vs. The Standard Paving Company, which was insured, in which seven thousand dollars was awarded in damages to the plaintiff for injuries said to have resulted when the front wheel of a bicycle which Dr. Cleaver was riding fell into an excavation made as a test hole on the property of the Bridge street church parsonage, by the defendant company, declared that there was no evidence of the plaintiff having been negligent as the counsel for the company, Mr. E. J. Butler, contended.

The defendants, if they made a dangerous hole might have protected it but no such protection was put about it. Dr. Cleaver had the right to ride over any part of his lawn, and it was none of the defendants' business how he got to the street, although he would have no right to ride deliberately into the hole for the purpose of collecting the damages.

The contention of the defence that the plaintiff had struck a hydrant was not accepted by the presiding judge.

Sir William stated that the evidence showed that the plaintiff was proceeding on a cycle on the private property of the parsonage towards the sidewalk and that as he approached the hole the front wheel dropped into a depression. There was no other hole in the vicinity into which the machine could have fallen to account for the jar that the rider experienced.

There was only a slight depression between the sidewalk and the sod. A witness, Mr. Wardell, saw the wheel go into the hole, and took it out. As hydrant was five feet from the hole, it was not possible for the wheel to strike the hydrant, as Hale, Johnson and McCaffery, former employees of the company, stated. The court accepted the testimony of Mr. Wardell in preference to that of the other men.

On the lawn a few minutes after the accident, had his attention called to the track on the lawn, leading to an excavation in question. Clearing away the leaves he saw the continuation of the track in the hole. Sir William said that he was satisfied that the front wheel fell into the hole and that he believed the testimony of Dr. Cleaver that he felt the dropping of the wheel. The probability was that the injury to the plaintiff's face and head was caused by his falling against a flat surface, such as the sidewalk rather than against the hydrant rather than against the hydrant.

As to damages the court stated that there was evidence that Dr. Cleaver had a salary of $2,500 a year with certain perquisites, such as marriage fees, and a revenue from lectures. He was sixty-five years of age when the accident happened in October, 1920. Life is uncertain, he said. His Lordship. The plaintiff might live beyond the ordinary lease of life of man, or he might be cut down tomorrow. The court could take only a moderate view of the probability of the lease of life. Dr. Cleaver spent $465 in medical fees and $250 for assistance and for secretarial work. He suffered physically. His church board was very kind having given him leave of absence to help in his recovery if possible.

Medical testimony was submitted that the disability approached fifty per cent; a second physician putting it at fifteen or twenty per cent inclined to increase the percentage for a man of the age of Dr. Cleaver. The judge could not discover and great conflict in the testimony of the doctors.

"I think I am justified in finding that whatever the extent of the disability there is a disability for all time, partly physical and partly mental." The award was then made. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn appealed for the plaintiff.

Acclamation Was Irregular
Fight is on Here in Earnest
Col. Biggar Makes Statement

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—(By Canadian Press)—There will be no acclamation in West Hastings. Investigation by Col. Biggar, Chief Electoral Officer, shows that the acclamation was irregular, and therefore every division in the Dominion will have a contest.

A statement by Col. Biggar today follows:

Col. Biggar, in his statement, declared the returning officer this morning, notified the electoral officer that the action he had taken was erroneous and received instructions to hold the poll.

"It appears Mr. McIntosh attended at the nomination with two witnesses and signed his consent not only in the presence of the returning officer, but of both witnesses.

"One of the witnesses then witnessed Mr. McIntosh's signature and the other signed and swore to the affidavit before the Returning Officer. Upon this being done, the Returning Officer took the nomination paper and deposit and issued the statutory receipt. This was some time before two o'clock at which hour the Returning Officer refused to act upon the nomination paper and declared Mr. E. Guss Porter, K. C., elected, although as the latter has notified the Chief Electoral Officer he not only did not make any objection to the regularity of Mr. McIntosh's nomination but insisted that the election should be allowed to proceed.

Upon the facts being brought to the attention of the Chief Electoral Officer yesterday he communicated with the Returning Officer and the latter's admission of the irregularity of his refusal of the nomination paper was the result."

The foregoing despatch over the Canadian Press wires from Ottawa today confirms rumors and statements that were flying locally around the city and throughout the riding of West Hastings today.

McLaughlin Works
Noted Figure in the Dominion
Passes After Few Day's Illness

OSHAWA, Nov. 24.—Following a severe set-back in 1899 when the Oshawa plant was demolished but, undaunted, Mr. McLaughlin secured the factory of the Thousand Island Carriage Company which was then available at Gananoque. After a year's successful business at Gananoque, the firm moved back to Oshawa and this time was installed in a new plant.

In 1907 a new organization was formed, known as the McLaughlin Motor Car Company, and in 1915 the carriage business was disposed of to the Carriage Factories, Ltd. In 1919 the McLaughlin Carriage Co., Ltd., merged into a unit of the world's greatest automotive industry—the General Motors Corporation.

His was a life of earnest endeavor to benefit his country and fellow-citizens.

The late Mr. McLaughlin interested himself in all good works, the Salvation Army, the Y.M.C.A., Queen's University and Knox College and the Presbyterian church in general received great assistance from him. Quite recently it will be remembered that when the campaign was begun for funds to restore the structure destroyed by fire, his dwelling was the headquarters for a demonstration in its interests, when leading men took part in the ceremonies and committee formed to carry on the campaign.

The deceased, during his long residence in Oshawa, occupied positions at the council board and served a term as Mayor, and was the first Chairman of the Water Commissioners' Board. He was director of the Western Bank up to the date that it was merged with the Standard Bank.

As an amateur painter in water colors he showed much ability, and although it was as a pastime he devoted much of his attention to painting and music of which he was very fond.

Immediate relatives who mourn his loss are the widow, two sons, Mr. R. S. and Mr. G. W., residing in Oshawa, and executives of the great industry founded by their father; and two daughters, Mrs. J. P. Owens and Mrs. McCallough, both of Toronto.

Jury at Kitchener Decides that Young Wife Died from Accidental Drowning

QUARREL WITH HUSBY
Had Just Come to Pay Him Visit When Her Tragic Death Occurred

KITCHENER, Nov. 25.—Caval Ahrens, a young man, rather swarthy and nervous, was freed of any blame for the death of his wife by drowning here a few days ago when a jury late yesterday decided there was no evidence of foul play.

The inquest room was thronged with people of both sexes.

There was evidence that he had quarrelled and that he had slapped his wife on one occasion. He and his wife's family were on very bad terms, he said, and his life had been threatened by his wife's father.

There had been many attempts toward reconciliation and finally his wife, who was living in Carleton Place with her people, decided on November 11, Armistice Day, to come up to Kitchener "for a week or so" to see how things were. It was on that night she lost her life while crossing the river, 60 yards wide, to get to a punt. It was about nine o'clock. She fell out of the punt. He tried to help her but it was dark.

She had fallen into a hole under a thin layer of ice and died before assistance came. The jury found no indications of foul play.

RISE OF PROGRESSIVES
No Party May Have Majority, it Says, and Foresees Period of Confusion

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Canadian Press Cable.—Discussing the Canadian election the Yorkshire Post notes the rapid rise of the Progressives but declares that there is little expectation that they will secure a majority, although some supporters hope to see the Progressives and Labor strong enough to force a fusion of Liberals and Conservatives and pave the way for a straight fight in the next election.

Stating that the difference between Liberals and Conservatives on the tariff is merely one of degree, it is the opinion that no party will have a majority and that there will be a period of confusion.

THE PUMP IN THE HOUSE Means Comfort and Convenience for the Farmer's Wife

Water Indoors Pumped From Outdoor Wells—How to Do the Job—Up-to-date Pumps Save Time and Energy.

Water Indoors Pumped From Outdoor Wells—How to Do the Job—Up-to-date Pumps Save Time and Energy. The writer recently described in these columns how to safeguard the farm water supply against contamination. All will agree that this matter should receive foremost attention.

Distance of House Pump from Well

Note this question: When can the pump be located to one side of the well and how far away? If the water supply is no more than 150 or 200 feet from the house, and the level of the water at the supply, say the well, is never more than 20 or 25 feet below the level of the ground level at the house, the pump may be put inside the house, and the water drawn in quite satisfactorily.

Majority of Wells Are Shallow

In many districts of our country the majority of the wells are shallow, and readily lend themselves to the pumping system described above. It is the nearest approach to water on tap, and the system should be in use wherever the water is not more than 20 or 25 feet below the level of the ground level at the house.

How to Install

Before passing on, a few features concerning installation of the water pipe to the well or supply should be emphasized. These are: (1) The quality of galvanized pipe should be used, the joints in the line should be absolutely air-tight, the pipe line should be deep enough to be always safe from frost, the pipe should slope slightly towards the well, and there should be a check-valve and strainer on the bottom of the pipe in the well in order to maintain the pipe line full of water up to the pump itself.

MAKE YOUR NITROGEN ABOUT MARQUIS WHEAT

United States Official Tribute to a Canadian Product. Says It is the Leading Variety for Growing in the Northern Great Plains — Best All Around Common Wheat to Grow for Bread-making.

Following is a digest of Bulletin No. 878 of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Marquis wheat was originated by Mr. Charles Saunders, Dominion Geologist, Ottawa. That Marquis wheat is the leading variety of common wheat for growing in the Northern Great Plains is the conclusion reached by specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture as a result of varietal experiments with spring wheat conducted at 11 field stations in the northern half of the Great Plains area chiefly in co-operation with the state experiment stations. Details of the experiments, including discussions on the principal varieties, how and when they come to the region, and how to distinguish them, are contained in Department Bulletin 878, Varietal Experiments with Spring Wheat on the Northern Great Plains, issued by the department, introduction to the United States. Marquis wheat was first introduced into the United States from Canada in 1913, but is now more widely grown than any other variety. It is short-strawed and early maturing, which characterizes sometimes enable it to escape rust and drought. A demand for information on comparative yields of varieties and their resistance to disease was developed in the Great Plains area by severe losses which have occurred in recent years principally to drought and rust. Although crop yields have sometimes been low, land values have continued to increase in about the same proportion as in other sections. This has increased the cost of production and, with a return to lower prices for wheat, it is essential that the poorly adapted varieties be eliminated. Hundreds of foreign and domestic varieties of wheat have been obtained by the department and tested. In preliminary nursery experiments many of them did not show themselves fitted for culture in the semi-arid sections. These varieties were rejected and only the more promising ones were selected to be grown in pilot experiments. The Question of Yield. In Bulletin 878 the annual yields of the spring wheat varieties grown during the seven years, from 1913 to 1919, are shown for each station. A summary of the yields shows that, in general, the Marquis variety is the highest yielding common spring wheat. It has been included in all of the experiments each year. The better varieties of Durum wheat have outyielded Marquis at all stations but one. The Kubanka Durum wheat outyielded Marquis at eight of the ten stations where it was grown. Data on rust infection were obtained at seven stations. Marquis wheat shows an average rust infection of 17.7 per cent. in twenty observations. Most of the important commercial varieties of common spring wheat showed a higher percentage of rust infection than Marquis, while all varieties of Durum wheat showed less rust. Milling Tests. The leading varieties of spring wheat grown at the eleven stations were milled in an experimental mill and the flour baked into bread in order to determine their relative values for flour and bread-making. It was found that growing conditions and disease had much influence on the percentage of flour obtained, Marquis wheat yielding as low as 4.4 per cent. of flour from seasons where it had been affected by rust, while under favorable conditions it produced as high as 75.3 per cent. of flour. The average yield of flour from 27 samples of this variety was 70.3 per cent. Several varieties of common wheat produced distinctly lower percentages of flour than Marquis. Preston (Velvet Chaff) and Haynes Eldeston produced about the same percentage as Marquis. Preliminary test, using square rod areas with various chemical mixture applications. This is accomplished by simply staking off a representative area one rod wide and six rods long, and dividing it into six plots. This done apply before seeding on plot one, nitrogen; on plot two, phosphorus; on plot three, potash; on plot four, nitrogen and potash; on plot five, nitrogen, potash and phosphorus; plot six, potash and phosphorus. The adjoining soil will serve as a check plot for all areas. By watching the plots during the crop season and the following two years, a fairly definite conclusion relative to the needs of the field can be secured. Every soil area should be studied by the farmer since the requirements of one field may differ from the requirements of the field adjoining. L. S. Evenson, Secretary Department of Agriculture, Toronto. Gestation Period of the Cow. The gestation period of the cow is nine and one-third months, or two hundred and eighty days. Sometimes a breeder figures it as nine months to the day, and then worries because it seems to run over a couple of weeks and the calf is not born when supposedly due. For example, a cow bred on January 1 would be due about October 7 and not October 1. A cow bred on February 1 would be due about November 8, not on November 1. The date of calving is found by counting forward the two hundred and eighty days from the date of service.

ALBERT COLLEGE BOARD OK'S NEW BUILDING PLANS

POLICE AREAS FOR PROVINCE; H. Q. NO. 5 HERE

Drastic Changes Made by General Elliott, Chief Commissioner in Force INSPECTOR STORIE HERE

Sudbury Man Coming to Belleville in Charge of Provincial Detachment

Belleville is to be the headquarters of the new police inspectorate of district No. 5, comprising the counties of Victoria, Haliburton, Peterboro', Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington. Police Inspector A. E. Storie, now of Sudbury, will be the officer in charge of the district.

Eight districts in Ontario are being created.

This is the first step in connection with Provincial Police organization which was taken yesterday by the Ontario Government when the Council approved plans for the division of the province into eight districts and put through orders for the appointment of six of the eight district inspectors who will be in charge under the Commissioner of Police. At the same time a number of other appointments and changes were approved.

District No. 6 will comprise Renfrew, Frontenac, Lanark, Leeds, Carleton, Grenville, Dundas, Russell, Prescott, Stormont and Glengarry with headquarters at Ottawa.

The eight district inspectors will have jurisdiction over all Provincial officers in their territory, whether those engaged in general work or Ontario Temperance Act enforcement. When the plans that Gen. Elliott, Commissioner of Police, is working on have been completed, the force will be considerably larger than it has been for years, and a good deal of recruiting will have to be done to bring it up to the proposed strength.

The Government yesterday approved the appointment of Provincial Constable Albert H. Ward, formerly with headquarters at Belleville as inspector of investigation.

Belleville officers and County of Hastings officials were today much pleased to learn of Detective Ward's promotion. He has been a painstaking officer and his recognition of his service is appreciated by the men who have conducted investigations with him.

NEW OFFICER ARRIVES

Provincial Officer Fred Hughes arrived in Belleville today to take the place of Detective Ward, whose appointment as inspector of investigation has just been announced. Officer Hughes has been in the provincial police for some time. He is a native of England.

Detective Ward was in the city today.

Sign of Cool Nigh Tramps Seek Shelter

One of the signs of the advent of the cold weather is again on hand. It is the trip of the homeless to the police station. Already, the dip of the mercury has driven a number of the homeless fraternity of the road into the shelter of the police. Last night three of the unfortunate class were sheltered from the weather.

For some years there were few applications for lodging during the winter nights because of the war and because of plenty of work which was to be had. Some of the roamers never cared for work very much but they did for a while manage to avoid asking for help at the hands of the police.

Store Windows Decked for Xmas Invite All to do Buying Early

It begins to look like Christmas just four weeks remain in which to crowd a good amount of business. Belleville merchants generally get on their holiday dress and the rich crimson and tinsel associated with the advent of Yuletide are in evidence in the windows. The decorating is quite early this year, there being every evidence that the merchants are out for business in real earnest.

Mock Parliament Assembled Holloway St. Young People Prove Adepts at Passing Bills

The Parliament of the League of Holloway Street Methodist Church opened its session last night with an ancient pomp and ceremony, in the Sunday school room, Sergeant-at-Arms A. C. Gillett bearing the Mace marched up to the clerk's desk, followed by the Clerk of the House, Miss Myrtle Andrews, and the members of Parliament. The Mace was deposited under the table to await the election of the Speaker of the House. When members were seated, the Premier moved, seconded by the Leader of the Opposition, that W. C. Mikel, K.C., be the Speaker of the House, and when the Clerk declared the motion carried and the Speaker took his seat, the business of the session commenced.

The Leader of the Government introduced Bills to increase the protection tariff on all imports; to construct an electric railway from Albert College to Holloway St. Church so that students could arrive on time at services and other meetings, and to enable the students who were consulting with the young ladies of the church on the affairs of the nation, to return to College in time to avoid the necessity of having to sleep in the skating rink or climb the water pipe. There was also a bill providing treatment for pastors who were becoming too stout. The debate proceeded with all the fire and wit of the House of Commons at Ottawa, and the Bills passed with a large majority. The following members took part in the debate: Hon. Clayton Searle, Premier; Hon. Beattie Vanderwater, Minister of Finance; Hon. Reginald Bedwell, Minister of Railways; Frank Findlay, Leader of the Opposition; Miss Bessie Holsey, member for British Columbia; Miss Nettie Williams, member for Down-by-the-Sea, and John Mansel, member for Stoney Lonesome.

Masons Enjoy Chicken Supper; Grand Master at Roblin's Mills

The visit of the Grand Master, Col. Lake Lodge was a memorable event. W. N. Ponton, and the District Deputy, Col. Adams, proved the attraction which made such a success of the meeting of Lake Lodge of Masons at Roblin's Mills last night. Chicken roasted just to suit the epicurean taste of one hundred and forty appreciative craftsmen with the additional attractions of other choice viands, cakes and pies, which the housewives of Ameliasburgh and Roblin's Mills had provided, was the extra feature of the program.

W. Bro. Harry Redner, master of the lodge, was the head of the ceremony, the feast and the after-dinner speech festival.

The lodge work was not heavy and soon the company, which included thirty of the brethren from this city, were seated at the well laden tables. The piece de resistance was worth going many a mile on a winter's night to partake of. After the great banquet had been thoroughly enjoyed, the master took charge as toastmaster. After the Royal toast, the Grand Master and the District Deputy spoke at some length to the brethren in reference to the Grand Lodge.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—A resolution declaring for the relinquishment of foreign post office privileges in China was adopted today by the nine powers sitting as a committee on the Pacific and Far Eastern questions.

The date of January 1, 1923, was set for the abandonment of foreign post offices and this was agreed to by all powers represented except Japan, whose representatives asked for time to hear from their Government.

U. S. GIVES ITS ANSWER. Washington, Nov. 28.—United States naval experts presented to Japanese and British officers today detailed answers to questions presented last week as to the Hughes naval reduction program. The specific nature of points involved was not revealed, but it is understood that the United States experts feel that there exists no reason to change any of the tonnage estimates for the three powers upon which the plan was based, and it is assumed that during the week the naval reduction problem will be returned to the conference for action.

OVERSEAS SERVICE RULED OUT AS REQUIREMENT FOR M. O. H.?

There still exists a deadlock over the appointment of medical officer of health for the city. Last night two doctors came before the executive of the city council and requested that overseas service be not made a requisite in the appointment and the council soon had three names before them. There the aldermen split into three equal camps, each of the physicians suggested, having three supporters. No sign of a break in the deadlock appearing, the discussion was called off. More about!

BUDGET OF NEWS FROM PLAINFIELD

Local Resident Suffered From Appendicitis and Was Operated on

HUNTERS RETURN Missionary Services Were Well Attended—Xmas Trees Popular

PLAINFIELD.—Mrs. E. Maynes was severely attacked by appendicitis on Friday night last and was rushed to the hospital at Belleville on Saturday for an operation. She is now doing nicely. The family have the sympathy of the entire community as Mr. Maynes is just recovering from a serious attack of blood-poisoning and little Elsie is suffering from tonsillitis.

The village hunters returned before the close of the season with their full quota of deer. They brought home some very fine specimens indeed.

The Missionary Services here and at the adjacent churches on Sunday last were unusually well attended and the support is said to be good. Rev. Mr. Joblin, who was formerly in the active work with the Indians at Norway House, was the preacher of the day.

Rev. F. Joblin, also Mr. and Mrs. L. Houlden, of Frankford, were week end guests at the parsonage.

This village was shocked to hear of the death of Mr. W. Latta, of Frankford, on Thursday last. Deceased was formerly a resident here and had a large circle of intimate friends also a number of relatives residing here.

Plainfield is becoming a popular centre is evident for at present parties are seeking to purchase property here and yet everything seems quite occupied. It is surely a good sign, nevertheless, when a rural village thus becomes attractive as a centre. Christmas Tree concerts are under way at present for Bethel Sunday School, Mt. Pleasant, Plainfield and Zion Hill.
