

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N.S., JULY 4, 1919

Editorial Brevities.

Whenever you hear a man knocking his home paper just ask him how much he owes it.

Some people never hand in an item of news for publication, but if we happen to miss an item in which they are interested they are sure to hand us a north pole stare that would freeze the liver of a polar bear.

An exchange says: "Profiting from the distress in Canada on the manufacture of clothing here, it is said, is indeed progressive farmers to plant big trees in order to be on hand when the product of that tree is the only garment Canadians can afford. That is enterprise, at least."

The long expected peace has at last arrived. The peace terms were signed and sealed at the historic Hall of Mirrors, Versailles, on Saturday afternoon. Those who signed the terms on behalf of Canada were Charles J. Doherty, Minister of Justice; Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce; and Arthur L. Sifton, Minister of Customs.

The Canadian confederacy starts on another year of national life with bright prospects. The sons and daughters who so nobly maintained Canada's name abroad, and the sons and daughters who so loyally worked at home, must now show the lead in working out the peace problems that mean quieting social unrest through the victories of economic success.

Whatever may be the future name and destiny of the Unionist party in Canadian affairs, the parliamentary caucus decision to continue permanently the Liberal organization presently the Liberal who entertain doubts about the warmth of their welcome under the old party banner with an affiliation opportunity perhaps not all together to their liking, but less distasteful than would be affiliation under the Conservation name.

Isn't it about time the town of Wolfville was doing something for the returned men? Other towns in the province have been giving their returned men receptions and banquets, and in other ways showing their appreciation for what they have done for them. It has been suggested to us that all Wolfville's returned men be made free citizens of the town. We shall be pleased to have others make suggestions through the columns of THE ACADIAN.

Town Council.

Mayor Hales and all the Councilors were present at the regular monthly meeting of the Council, on Wednesday evening.

The streets committee reported that the usual cleaning and repairing of the streets had been done during the month and that the permanent work on Acadia street and Linden avenue had proceeded as far as possible. The curbing on Acadia street is now about completed. The necessary repairs to the stone-crusher have been made preparatory to real work of construction.

The water committee reported the work at the reservoir about completed and that a very satisfactory job had been done at a cost of about $3000.

It was decided to take steps at once to expropriate the land needed at the reservoir. The usual number of bills were read and ordered to be paid. A communication was read from Manager Graham of the D. A. K. concerning boys jumping off and on trains at the station and the matter was referred to the police committee. The matter of the sale of the town bonds was talked over and the finance committee was requested to get the fullest information as to the condition of the money market and report at a special meeting to be called for the purpose of taking action.

Dominion Day at Canning.

The Canning Board of Trade, showing a most up-to-date and commendable spirit, organized a Boys' Day at that place on July 1st. Some horse racing was put on but otherwise the day was largely devoted to boys and young men.

The newly organized Boy Scouts of Canning under the leadership of Mr. Frank Northup and Mr. William Millet were in uniform and presented a fine appearance.

About sixty boys went over from Wolfville and others from Hortonville, White Rock, Port Williams and Berwick.

The junior baseball team of Kentville played the junior Scout team of Wolfville defeating them after an exciting game.

The Wolfville Scouts and older boys showed up well in the running, Walter Johnson, Allan Parker and Cecil Langille each winning first and second prizes. The Scout Band of Wolfville was much in evidence. It led the morning parade and gave a number of selections in the evening.

The last number on the program was a C. M. P. Picnic Entertainment on the School grounds. The boys formed a large circle round the fire, sang a number of songs, gave an exhibition of acrobatic games and after a well deserved recitation by Dana, Hamfield closed with the recitation of the Scout Promise and God Save the King.

The Wolfville Scoutmaster and County Secretary wishes to most cordially thank the gentlemen who so generously sent their autos to convey the boys to and from Canning, to him the most gratifying feature of the day was the fact that such a spirit was shown that it was not necessary to have a car to get the boys home. The boys were all well and happy.

Live Lives Worthy of Memorials of Men Who Died For Us.

Men and women of Canada, live lives worthy of the memorials of those boys who died for you on the fields of Flanders, and of the cause for which they strove.

Such was the message delivered by Lieut. Col. J. H. Pringle, D. D., mediator of the Presbyterian Church last week at Toronto. Col. Pringle related a number of his experiences among the Canadian and Imperial troops while acting as a chaplain, and the purpose of bringing to his hearers a vision of hearts of the men who had fought and died for them.

He told of services held amid the thunder of the great guns; services at which officers and men listened to the message which he brought with close attention; services conducted in the rain and mud, and of one in particular, when the singing of the men of the 5th Battalion of Highlanders caused him to imagine that the great tent in which it was held might rise straight up to the heaven. "I tell you," he cried, "I couldn't give a certificate to any teacher in Canada who couldn't teach her pupils to read music and sing."

A touching story was related of a boy within the shell area when as he spoke the service, a hawk rose slaying from the grass and soared skyward and as the solemn words fell from his lips a thrush also took up the song. "I felt," he said, "that the birds had sung God's message; that God was in his heaven and that all would soon be well with the world."

In closing a story in which an intoxicated soldier signed, Lieut. Col. Pringle declared: "I was a temperance fanatic before I went overseas, I am ten times the temperance fanatic I was since coming back." He then went on to tell of administering the sacrament of the Lord's Supper in a trench where the communion table consisted of an old door laid across the backs of two kitchen chairs, and of the blessed results of what followed. In closing he told of the death of his own son who was killed at the Somme in the act of charging single handed a machine gun which threatened his platoon, armed only with his automatic pistol. He succeeded in killing the gun crew, and he blazed off a round which caused the muzzle of the gun, with a sniper's bullet in his body.

New Canadian Pacific Director

Captain Hon. W. J. Shaughnessy

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway held on June 16th, Captain the Hon. William J. Shaughnessy was elected a director of the company to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of the Hon. James Dunsmuir, of Victoria, B.C.

Captain Shaughnessy is the son of the Right Hon. Lord Shaughnessy, who was for nineteen years the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and is now the Chairman of the Board. Educated at Loyal University, Montreal, and Cambridge, England, Capt. Shaughnessy is a prominent Montreal lawyer. During the war he saw three years' service overseas, leaving Canada as Captain and Adjutant of the 194th Irish Rangers, recruited in Montreal, and was in charge of the arrangements for the battalion's notable tour of Ireland.

On the breaking up of the Irish Rangers, he was sent to France as aide-de-camp to Brigadier-General Simms, the Canadian representative at British General Headquarters. After serving with considerable distinction in this capacity for some time, Captain Shaughnessy was transferred to the headquarters of the Canadian Corps, acting as aide-de-camp to Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Currie, the corps commander.

An Interesting Wedding.

At 10.30 on Wednesday morning, June 25th, a simple, impressive ceremony was solemnized in the Liverpool Baptist church by Rev. Sumner Spidle, of Acadia University, when Rev. W. Major Smith, of Liverpool, N.S., was united in marriage to Miss Grace Bishop, of Semans, Sack. The popularity of the bride was evidenced by the large number of old and young which filled the spacious auditorium to overflowing, and by the floral decorations of white flowers and snowballs. With the exception of a flower girl, Eleanor Heath, the bride and groom were unattended. The ushers were H. Y. Bishop, of Wolfville, brother of the groom, and R. F. Morton, of Liverpool. The organist, Mrs. Edgar Mullhall, played Wagner's Bridal March at the entrance of the bridal party and Mendelssohn's Wedding March at the close of the ceremony. The bride looked her best in her travelling suit of midnight blue Messaline with sand dolman, and brown hat trimmed in sand. The flower girl wore white lace over pink satin with picture hat of white lace and snowballs. With the bride and the flower girl carried pink and white carnations and pink bride roses. The bride's presents were numerous and costly, including cut glass, silver, linen and substantial checks. The groom's present to the bride was a piano; to the flower girl a pearl pendant; to the organist a pearl pin; to each of the ushers a fountain pen. After a brief reception at the bride's home, the couple took the afternoon train for Truro via Halifax. On their way to the groom's home they will visit Wolfville, Yarmouth, Boston, St. John and Winnipeg.

Noted Lecturer Visiting Canning.

Mrs. H. P. Newcombe, formerly state lecturer of the W. C. T. U. of New York, is visiting in Canning at the former home of her husband, H. P. Newcombe, corporation lawyer of Winnipeg and Saskatoon. Mrs. Newcombe, who is a Canadian woman, a native of New Brunswick, was for a number of years engaged as a national prohibition speaker throughout the United States, taking part in numerous political contests. There, Mrs. Newcombe established for herself the reputation of being a fearless fighter of the liquor traffic, as well as one of the most brilliant speakers among women upon the platform to-day. At the beginning of the war Mrs. Newcombe returned to her own country and became engaged in war and patriotic work, principally in the Canadian west. At the time of the last Dominion election Mrs. Newcombe spoke in the leading western cities in support of the Union Government. Upon women obtaining the franchise in Saskatchewan, Mrs. N. w. combe entered the political field there upon the school and language question, advocating the use of English only in the schools, and succeeding in forcing this question as a serious issue in provincial politics at that juncture. The attack she led upon the Martin government resulted in the appointment of a special commission of investigation into the school system and the use of the English language in the schools, and also led to legislative action. Mrs. Newcombe believes in all inclusive Dominion-wide Prohibition law covering all incidents of the traffic. After a short vacation Mrs. Newcombe will continue her work in behalf of Dominion-wide prohibition and is to enter upon a speaking tour in Ontario.

"In the year 1910, I had Nervous Prostration in its worst form; I was reduced in weight from 170 pounds to 115 pounds.

The doctors had no hope of my recovery, and every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take 'Fruit-a-lives'. I began to mend almost at once; and after using this fruit medicine for 8 or 4 months, I was back to my normal state of health.

I never had such good health for twenty years as I have enjoyed in the past six years. We are never without a box of 'Fruit-a-lives' in the house".

Children and Picture Shows

The Quebec Legislature proposes to forbid the admission of children under fifteen to the picture shows, whether accompanied or not. To forbid parents to take their own children to these shows is extremely drastic legislation, and implies that they have been found to be doing very great mischief of some sort to the young. There have, we know, been strong representations made by the Juvenile Court against these shows on account of their constant association with cases of juvenile crime. This seems to have two elements. One is the familiarization of the children with crime as portrayed on the films, the other the fascination of the picture theatre, inducing truancy and stealing. The former of these evils has been somewhat restrained by the censorship, and has largely disappeared from the better theatres, which are representatives of the passing social and moral education attainable in no other way and whose dramatic attractions are often such stories as appear in the 'Witness' and 'Mezzinger.' To those many of the best of parents take their children; although some question whether it is good for children to bring them up among such exhibitions of excitement as may suit them for the quiet duties of life. It is generally admitted that representations much have been made by the clergy, though without success, for what they condemn the pictures—whether because they corrupt the morals of the children or because they widen their horizons. Where then is the father's indicated right to educate his own children without legal interference, upon which all the clerical opposition to compulsory schooling is so cleverly based? It is reasonable that there are movies that sell so near the propriety and erotic excitement as they are permitted. Indeed, one would judge that in this respect from the show bills; but perhaps in this they put their worst face forward. At all events, in as far as appeal to the passions is in question, it would seem as though it was only accentuating the evil to reserve it as a privilege of the ages to which passion makes appeal. It would be better if all that sort of thing could be left out. We presume that the evolution will be that the desirable film will come to be so much a part of education, both secular and religious, that the indelicate one will be relegated to its place as a dissipation for the idle class.

Highway of the Great Divide

The early completion of what will be the most wonderful automobile road in Canada, opening up an Alpine region of extraordinary beauty. It will be possible to motor from Calgary to Windsor in a matter of days and return through a hundred miles of the most glorious scenery in North America. A good automobile road runs north to Fort Steele and Cranbrook, and from Cranbrook there are excellent roads to Spokane or eastward through the Crow's Nest Pass, and back to Calgary. The Good Roads Association of Alberta is enthusiastic over the prospect as this will mean the advent of many tourists from all over America. The new road will also be of great benefit to the Upper Columbia Valley which has many attractions for visitors on account of the fertility of the soil and suitability for mixed farming. This valley is served by the Kootenay Central Railway, a recently constructed branch of the Canadian Pacific.

Between Banff, the popular summer resort in the Canadian Pacific foothills and Lake Windermere, the head waters of the great Columbia River, lies an Alpine ridge of spectacular beauty, forming part of the Great Divide. This ridge is penetrated by two comparatively easy passes, the Simpson and the Verulamian which lead into the Valley of the Kootenay River, a region abundant in game on account of its being well south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Between the Kootenay River and the Columbia River is a broad range of mountains through which the Skeena Pass and Canyon provide an easy road. With the Good Roads were made an automobile road between Banff and Windermere it was proposed to use the Simpson Pass, named after Sir George Simpson, Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, who made this crossing in 1841. But the route over the Verulamian was found to be easier and at the same time more beautiful, and construction of the Highway of the Great Divide was commenced from opposite Castle Mountain in this direction. At the same time the road from Windermere through the Skeena Canyon was also commenced and at the time of the outbreak of war a gap of only thirty miles separated the two roads. War put an end to construction, and a great westward destroyed several miles of the western end, so that the project seemed to have been abandoned. Now, however, the Dominion Government has made an arrangement with the British Columbia Government by which the portion of the road comes under the jurisdiction of the Dominion Parks, and a substantial appropriation has been allocated to finish the work. In this way there is every prospect of Pat was captured by Germans, and as he ran being led away turned to the Hun with a smile and remarked, 'Didn't them Irish give us Germans this at Ypres?'—Probably, Irish Witness.

'Didn't us Irish give yez blazes at Ypres?' Again and again he repeated it. Throughout the day every time he came in contact with a German it was 'Didn't us Irish give yez blazes at Ypres?'

Finally it got on the nerves of the Hun, and lining Pat up against a wall they told him that if he didn't become a German citizen they would shoot him. Pat agreed.

'Say, Mister Kaiser,' he cheerfully remarked after the papers had been signed, 'yez can't shoot me now, can yez?'

'No,' answered the German commander, 'as Pat was removed from the wall, 'you are now one of us.'

'Potus,' was the smiling rejoinder of Pat. 'Didn't them Irish give us Germans this at Ypres?'—Probably, Irish Witness.

A sailor who was spending the evening of his life in the country, was very proud of his watch, which for nearly thirty years had never once gone wrong.

Early one morning he roused a visitor who was staying with him, and together they set out to see the sun rise. The host kept consulting his watch and then a celestial which gave the time of the sun's rising and setting.

There was a long wait in the pale, vague dawn. Presently, tapping his watch with his forefinger, the sailor said: 'If the sun ain't over that hill in a minute and a half, he'll be late 'n' this time.'
