

WHEN SIR GEORGE E. FOSTER TOOK HIS FIRST DRINK OF LIQUOR

Sir George Foster is writing his political reminiscences extending over fifty years of public life. One wonders whether he will recall the one and only occasion in his life when he "took a drink."

It was in the general election campaign preceding the polling of 1887 Mr. Foster who had been in parliament for a little less than five years and Minister of Marine & Fisheries for less than two, was regarded as one of Sir John MacDonald's strong young men and his platform services were much in demand, especially in what was then Western Canada, the Province of Ontario, for there was little political interest taken in the results of the polling in the territory west of the lakes.

A great conservative demonstration was arranged to take place in the drill hall on Craig street, Montreal, one winter evening. The chief attraction was J.A. Chapleau then the real party leader in the Province of Quebec, though Sir Hector Langevin was the titular head. Feeling ran high against the Government in Montreal owing to execution of Louis Kell in November 1885 and a lively meeting was anticipated. It was decided that Mr. Foster should be the chief speaker after Chapleau making his appeal to the English speaking section of the electorate. (The much proportionately larger than it is now.)

Great preparations were made for the demonstration. Immense coal and wood stoves were placed at various points in the edifice. A big platform was erected decked with the Union Jack and the French tricolor. The caretaker of the drill hall was Captain Emond, a strong henchman of, and an intense admirer of Chapleau. He knew his master's peculiarities. Among them was that in order to make his speeches run smoothly, although one of the most powerful orators ever produced, Chapleau needed a lubricant.

This consisted of a strong concoction of De Kuyper gin and water, which is the color of water. Emond carefully prepared the mixture in the proportions which he knew would tickle his master's palate and just before the meeting had begun brought it on the platform in a glass carafe, which he carefully placed on the centre of the table and then withdrew to do some more large managing in the rear.

Chapleau orated. Despite the efforts of a turbulent element to howl him down by such choice epithets as "assassin," "traitor" and the like he carried the meeting with him speaking first in French and then in English. At frequent periods during his speech, he had resorted to the glass jug, which the majority of the crowd thought contained merely just water.

It came Foster's turn to speak. He was received with that courtesy which is the attribute of a French-Canadian audience to a speaker in English. His eloquence so captured the crowd and during his speech at least, there was no repetition of the Nationalist disturbance. He had been speaking for about ten minutes when his throat went dry. Bending over to the centre of the platform, he seized what he thought was the jug of water, poured out a glass-full and started to drink it.

No sooner had he tasted it than he realized the mistake of which he had been the innocent victim. Taking out his handkerchief he tried to get rid of as much of the gin and water as he could, but despite all his efforts, some of it got down his throat. Sir George Eulas Foster had broken his temperance pledge! Excusing himself to the audience for a few seconds he asked for a glass of fresh water, asserting that that in the jug had warmed up. It was brought. It was consumed. Mr. Foster went on with his speech, and only a very few in the hall knew what happened.

When he sat down he turned to the English chairman, Hon. G. A. Drummond, afterwards Sir George—at joint meetings in big centres in the Province of Quebec, it is customary to have two chairmen one English, the other French—and asked what was in the jug. He was taken aback but he was game.

"That was the first time in my life I tasted gin," he told the chairman, and it shall be the last. I cannot see now people can drink such stuff. It was poisonous to me."

"That so," replied Mr. Drummond. "You see that tastes differ." Subsequently one of the newspapers present told Captain Emond of the incident and that worthy was much perturbed that he might have given offense to one of the party leaders. So he waylaid the minister of marine as he left the hall and apologized most profusely, saying in his broken English:

"You know, Mr. Foster, that if I had known you were a teetotaler, what they call a man who does not drink—I would have brought you a jug for yourself; but I thought that all politicians liked their liquor!"

The apology was accepted in the split in which it was made; but Chapleau used to tell how he often poked fun at his temperance colleague by reminding him of the "drink" he had at the drill hall meeting.

SCHOOL WAR ON IN CHATHAM, N. B.

Twenty-Five Pupils Refused Admission Because $30 Fee Unpaid

Chatham's school war which has been raging for years reached a climax Tuesday when 25 or more children from the Middle Island district were ordered from the town schools upon failure to pay a charge of $30 each for the year's tuition.

The Board of School Trustees met and ordered that the children be not admitted unless the amounts were paid when the public schools opened. After being refused admission to the schools the children and some of their parents paraded about the town with a banner bearing the inscription: "We are Put out of School—Why?" They called upon Mayor Hickey and sang the National Anthem in front of his office.

MARKING YOUR LINES
Most people find it difficult to mark their lines properly. All sorts of little troubles arise, and as often as not, the name when it is written is an eyesore. But really it is quite simple if done in the following way:

First of all, do not use the broad quill pen which is supplied with some brands of marking ink. Only an expert could hope to be satisfied with it. Use rather, a new set nib, and throw it away when the batch of marking is done. Take the article to be branded and wrap it tightly around a flat ruler, so that the place where the name is to be written is on the upper surface of the ruler.

The material must be perfectly level, and without creases. It is, though desirable, pencil in lines to indicate the heights of the letters. Do not write, but print in letters. Do not have the nib full of ink. Make all the strokes downward. Place the index finger and thumb of the left hand just above and below the spot where each letter is to be printed. If you mark your lines this way you will not experience any trouble.

Horses Stung By Swarm Of Bees

St. Hyacinthe, Que. Aug 27—Three horses employed in moving loads of gravel were killed yesterday on the highroad between St. Damase and Kougemont near here when thousands of bees settled on the animals and literally stung them to death. The horses were completely covered by the bees and maddened by the stings tried to kick themselves free from the heavy wagons. The harness was eventually severed by knives and the animals, too weakened to bolt, were sprinkled with poison to get rid of the bees. They died shortly afterwards.

ENGLAND'S FAMOUS HANGMAN IS A NERVOUS WRECK

John Ellis, England's famous hangman, who lost his nerve and relinquished his sinister occupation last year after executing Mrs. Edith Thompson, was found last week at his home seriously wounded with a revolver lying beside him. It was said that he had spent a sleepless night prior to the shooting. Ellis, who isolated himself socially during nearly a quarter of a century he served as public executioner was said to have brooded over the fact that he sent to their doom more condemned murderers than any other man who had ever held the hangman's office. After the execution of Mrs. Thompson he declared that he would never ascend the gallows again.

FISHERMEN MAY RACE FOR TROPHY

Another battle for the International Fishermen's Trophy between American and Canadian fishermen is regarded as assured.

Capt. Marty Welch who first won the Halifax Herald Cup with the American fishermen Esperanto, and Capt. Angus Walters of the undefeated Bluenose of Lunenburg have been conferring.

Capt. Walters expressed the desire to revive the annual fishermen's contest by racing Bluenose against Columbia some time in October, thus settling last year's most unsatisfactory contest. When Captain Welch communicated Captain Walters' desire to the Gloucester fishermen they were more than eager for a race.

Walters wants the race held off Nova Scotia and while Gloucester would like to see the battle off its own coast, it will waive that point for the sake of getting the two ships together.

Columbia is reported as now on her way home from the fishing grounds with 250,000 pounds of salt cod.

With her arrival it is expected the rival interests will get together and agree definitely on the terms of the race so that the Columbia can time her next fishing trip so as to return in season to be made ready for the international contest. The American race committee is in communication with the Halifax officials and Capt. Walters as to date and terms.

American fishermen generally hail the prospects of a continuance of these famous international contests with unconcealed joy.

HON. PASCAL POIRIEUX IS SENIOR SENATOR

The death a few days ago of Hon. Pascal Bolduc marked the passing of the senior senator of Canada. The oldest now in point of service, is Senator Pascal Poirieux of Ottawa and Shediac who was appointed to the Upper House in 1885 and thus is in his fortieth year in that body.

WISH YOU WERE HERE

The vacation postcard season is now at its height. Hundred of the "having a good time, wish you were here" post cards are arriving here every day from various resorts about the country. A vacation post card sender usually gloats over the "this side for correspondence" section for an hour before he decides to mail it concealing a good one to tell his poor friend back home whom, he thinks will be green with envy. "But the recipient of the card usually tears it up and forgets all about it" said a business man as he tore up one and threw it in the waste basket.

THE STORY OF ANNIE LAURIE

Of all those who have confessed their willingness to die for Annie Laurie, it is probable that few can recall her history or that of the famous song. The story is told in the last number of The London Bookman by Mr. Davidson Cook, who points out that she appears in Burke's Peerage as the youngest daughter of Sir Robert Laurie of Maxwellton, and that she was born on Dec. 16, 1682 at Maxwellton House, where a portrait of her is still preserved. One of her suitors was William Douglas of Fingland, who wrote the first version of the song, about 1700, which seems to have been handed about in manuscript. It was first printed in 1824 when Charles Kirkpatrick Sharpe, who had learned it from a relative included it in a "ballad-book" which is now so rare that even the British Museum has no original. This version which differs from the one usually sung, begins:

Maxwellton banks are bonnie,
Where early fa's the dew;
Where me and Annie Laurie
Made up the promise true;
Made up the promise true
And never forget will I,
And for bonnie Annie Laurie
I'll lay down my head and die.

Autumn Burning Of Slash In N. B.

Realization that autumn burning of slash produced in land clearing operations is greatly superior to spring burning which has been generally practiced in the past, is becoming plain in New Brunswick as time goes on. Wardens whose duty it is to superintend slash-burning and to enforce the regulations of the Department of Lands and Mines report that the people are lending themselves more and more to the policy of the Department in regard to the disposal of slash. The danger of the forests being set afire by spring burning seems to have been brought home to the people and many inhabitants of the more newly settled portions of the province have stated that autumn burning is the more desirable from every point of view.

The Wardens in charge of the various districts have recently been securing information concerning the quantity of slash which is ready for burning. The intention is that this shall be burned this autumn in order that as little as possible be left next spring. From this information it is estimated that 4,800 acres of slash are to be burned—the property of 1,600 owners. This survey is the first of its kind attempted by the Department.

In the various sections of the province there is a marked difference in the extent of prospective slash-burning. The southern counties have very little but in the north it is extensive. The reason is obvious, the new settlements being in the north. Restigouche with 500 farmers desiring to burn slash this fall leads. Gloucester with 400 farmers is second. Madawaska is third with the other counties coming in with smaller areas.

The autumn-burning is under permit and already has begun. With the area of slash disposed of which is mentioned, the danger of forest fires next spring will be diminished to a marked degree.

Ontario Electors Will Go To The Polls On October 23

The prohibition issue will be before the people of Ontario on October 23. On that date the electors of this province will express their opinions on questions intended to guide the Government as to the continuance of the Ontario Temperance Act or some other form of legislation relative to the sale of intoxicants. Political observers look for one of the most strenuously conducted plebiscite elections in the history of that part of Canada.

The machinery for taking the vote will be similar to that of the last provincial general election. Returning officers will be appointed by the Government for each electoral district, who in turn will name deputies for each sub-division. In municipalities where the 1924 voters' lists are completed in time, these will be used. It is expected that in most of the rural sub-divisions these lists will be ready in plenty of time. In the larger cities, however, where the lists are not usually completed until near the end of the year the 1923 lists will be employed. In each case the lists will be subject to the usual revisions under the supervision of the local election boards, which are composed of the permanent officers of the Crown under the chairmanship of the country's judges. Every British subject, 21 years of age or over, resident in Canada for a year and resident in the polling sub-division for three months will be entitled to vote. The usual provisions apply in respect of persons who move from one sub-division to another.

SIXTH VOTE ON LIQUOR QUESTION

This will be the sixth time the people of Ontario have voted on the liquor question as the sole issue in one form or another since Confederation in 1867. In one or more general elections it also played an important part in the campaign. Even before Confederation temperance legislation was a big question in politics. In those days the Dunkin Act, which provided for a form of local option was in force to be followed after Confederation by the Scott Act, which provided for local option votes by counties and cities.

The writer in the London Bookman continues that the music was composed by Lady Alicia Annie Spottiswood, later Lady John Scott who found the verses in Allan Cunningham's Songs of Scotland. She added a third stanza and altered some of the others. She had originally composed the words for another old ballad but adapted it without difficulty to Annie Laurie. The music was printed by a firm of Edinburgh's publishers without the composer's authority in 1838, and one of her descendants explains that Lady John always thought the air and words had been stolen when she sent her music book to be rebound. The first authorized version was issued during the Crimean War.

But Douglas was a soldier of fortune, famous as a duellist and had been engaged in the continual wars like many other young Scots. Something happened to part the lovers but he did not "lay down his head and die." Six years later he married another girl, and in 1709 the heroine married Alexander Fergusson, M.P., of Craigdarich. It is noticeable that the signature on her will is "Ann" and not the endearing "Annie" of the poem. The latter however, appears in her death notice printed in the Scots Magazine in 1764.

In Burke's "Landed Gentry" it is stated that Annie Laurie and her husband were the direct ancestors of the Right Hon. Robert Cutlar Fergusson, an eminent lawyer, the heroine of Burn's ballad "The Whistle."

Dances Back to Normal

Plans have been outlined before the annual convention of dancing masters for the elimination of extreme forms of dancing. Many of the delegates agreed that dancing was being carried to an extreme and that it is time to call a halt.

If the plans outlined before the convention are carried out the "Wildcat Whirl" the "Tiger Twaddle" and the "Camel Canter" will be replaced by the "Whisper Waltz." The fox trot of fast and jerky movements will give way to the "Raggedy Ann" described as a "fox trot in slow rhythm."

The association has forbidden the teaching of dancing by mail. The members declare it cannot be done.

Tonics From The Garden

The use of fresh vegetables and fruits is an insurance against sickness. Here is another idea which should stimulate interest and encourage more people to raise more vegetables and fruits.

Dr. J.F. Richardson, professor of hygiene at the University of Pennsylvania, assisted by a number of physicians in this and other countries has published a book entitled "Health and Longevity." It is interesting to note that the following vegetables and fruits were included in the list of medicinal plants:

Asparagus—Gently stimulates the kidneys.

Beets—Relieves gravel and readjusts certain internal disorders of women.

Carrots—For kidney complaint; used for poultices, powdered seed relieves colic, promotes secretions of the kidneys; laxative.

Celery—Good for rheumatism and neuralgia.

Cucumbers—for clear complexion.

Cranberries—Taken as a relief from piles; also relieves nervous breakdown called hysteria.

Garlic—For worms, whooping.

A POLITICAL MUDDLE

Politics in Northumberland County are in a rather mixed up muddle. This applies to both the Liberal and the Conservative parties. In both camps there is more or less friction and the outcome is one on which there is considerable speculation. Today the Liberals are holding a convention to select a candidate to contest the bye-election in this county on October 7th., and the decision of the convention is being anxiously awaited. It is possible that the delegates will have more or less difficulty in arriving at a satisfactory solution of the problem before them. The names of the aspirants that will be placed before the convention are merely conjecture, but if rumors prove true there will be no dearth in the number. Among those who may possibly allow their names to be presented to the convention for nomination are; Chas. J. Morrissy, M. L. A., F. C. McGrath, M. D., R. J. Gill, W. B. Snowball, W. F. Cassidy, ex-Sheriff, and James Robinson, ex M. P.

If all these gentlemen's names are placed before the convention it is obvious that the delegates have a difficult job to perform. Each of them have their own supporters and it is usually a hard proposition for delegates to back down from their own selection and give support to another. Last week's North Shore Leader made a suggestion to the effect that "the delegates will have to be very careful whom they select as the rank and file of staunch Liberals will not stand for any candidate whose Liberal principles are doubted," which suggestion would lead one to infer that some of those seeking the Liberal nomination are not altogether looked upon as being consistent in their politics, and if such a one did receive the nomination, there is a possibility that it would not be unanimous and a considerable portion of the Liberal party would have to be reckoned with at the polls. However it is their job and let them go to it.

Neither is the Conservative party by any means a bed of roses. Discussion is rife in their ranks as well. The election of 1921 has not been forgotten by those Conservatives who stood to the mast throughout the entire campaign.

They have not forgotten the treatment accorded them by some of those in high places nor by others within their own ranks.

"Consistency thou art a jewel," and the Sir John A. MacDonald type of Conservative looks to and demands from his party supporters, men who are consistent at all times. Consistency is all they ask and to such they are entitled. Failing to receive this they are determined to enter a protest and when such happens it will not presage well for the party. Inconsistency from within and interference from without may be the party's undoing and if such occurs, there will be nobody to blame but those who created the muddle as well as those who aided and abetted them.

The Conservative convention takes place tomorrow and several names are mentioned of those who will seek the nomination. There no doubt, will be more or less difficulty experienced in securing a unanimous selection at this convention also, although many of the hold dyed-in-the-wool Conservatives will be conspicuous by their absence. In summing up the whole situation it is not unlikely that a dark horse will appear on the stage and many are of the opinion that his chances to win are good. We shall see what we shall see!

Law Suit Possibilities

(From Canadian Forest and Outdoors Magazine)

Recently a firm of lumber manufacturers in British Columbia was mulcted to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars for damages caused by a forest fire which, starting outside their boundaries, passed across their limits and destroyed a soldier's settlement. The defence claimed they were not responsible as the fire originated on their property and every effort to stop it proved unavailing. The court held it otherwise.

New comes a news despatch from Duncan, B.C., intimating that settlers plan to take action claiming damages for forest fires originating in the burning of logging debris.

This introduces a new problem which, however contains possibilities not altogether favorable to the settler, camper, cottage owner or small property holder. Only a few weeks ago a California court delivered a judgment, imposing on the entire costs of fire fighting amounting to $2,500 on a pair of amateur fishermen whose negligence had caused a difficult conflagration. If the assessing of costs on lumber companies is adjudged good law and in the public interest, the logical development surely is to apply the same medicine in liberal doses to those who, be they settlers, campers, fishermen or others, recklessly destroy the timber holdings, camps or other property of the industrial corporations. It is to be feared that the total damage listed against the settler, for example, will far outmatch in any season the billet d'outrage handed to the lumberman. A few seasons ago, a settler, clearing land by fire in order to grow five dollars worth of potatoes, let loose destructive forces that swept away half a million dollars worth of white and red pine. Three years ago in New Brunswick, fishermen accounted for almost half the timber loss. What about damage suits in these instances? What about a joint suit of provincial government and limit holders against, say two hundred fishing parties to recover three million dollars worth of ruined resources?

The thing has great possibilities. It would certainly bring home to the public the drastic truth that forest destruction is due not to the axe but to the ignorance and thoughtlessness of thousands of woods travellers. Let's have a docket full of law suits: The King vs. Sans Souci Campers Club for $550,000 worth of young growth destroyed by carelessness; B.V.D. Lumber Company vs. Richard Roe, champion bait caster, for $30,000 worth of pulp logs set afire; The Pulp & Paper Workers Union vs. John Doe, prospector, for ten weeks unemployment because of low water due to forest fires. It would make a stimulating document if we could once place the blame for forest fires and ask the carefree children of our Personal Liberty regime to show cause why they should not pay to the State and industrial companies a forfeit of $15,000,000 annually.

A clerk in a downtown Springfield Mass. store drove to work from his home and on getting out of his closed car, he noticed a large rat sitting on the running board complacently licking its chops. The rat was caressed with a jack and met an untimely end. Where the rodent happened in for a free ride is a mystery.

MUST NOT TOUCH FAWNS OF REINDEER

"Particular care must be exercised" says William T. Lopp, Superintendent of the Alaska Division of the United States, Bureau of Education in handling reindeer fawns.

"Once a human hand touches a fawn its mother disowns it. For that reason the Eskimo herders wear gauntlet reindeer-skin gloves and a reindeer skin parka, and also spread reindeer skin in the sleds on which the little creatures are placed until the herd rounds up for the night and they can be delivered to their mothers."

Because of the encroachment of privately owned herds of reindeer on the Seward Peninsula and Poin Barrow section of Alaska, it is planned eventually to remove the Eskimo herds to Broad Pass, with Cantwell as the directing base.

It is estimated there is a strip 100 miles square in this vicinity suitable to reindeer grazing. With real transportation at hand, those interested in the industry predict that some day before long, reindeer meat will be as common as mutton in the markets of the States.

OFFICIALLY ENDORSED

The oft repeated warnings of Frank J. D. Barnjum that our forests will be depleted in a very few years were officially endorsed at the recent meetings of scientists in Toronto. Roland D. Craig, of the Dominion Forest Service, set the time at thirty years. His views were endorsed by another expert, F. Storey. In New Brunswick the disposition has been to regard Mr. Barnjum as something of an alarmist and to assume, if not actually to assert that conditions are not nearly so bad as he has asserted. In view of what was told the British scientists it is foolish longer to take that attitude, foolish in the extreme to deny the facts or to attempt to color them. Whether the depletion of our forests comes in thirty years or is delayed to forty years or fifty years is of far less importance than the confessed fact that the end is in sight unless there is a speedy resort to vigorous conservation methods. Only a few months ago, George Carruthers, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, declared the time has come when we can no longer temporize with the forest problem. He urged vigorous action to avert a national catastrophe. The dollars and cents value of the forests was stated by Mr. Carruthers at $500,000,000 annually, a sum sufficiently large to impress on every citizen the necessity of conservation for the sake of preservation. The forestry experts who discussed the question at Toronto pointed out that at present only 456,000 out of 1,250,000 square miles of Canadian forests bear timber of merchantable size. Because of fire, cutting and other destructive causes, the remainder is not at present available, but with wise and progressive, protective measures Canadian forests could be made to produce several times the present requirements of the Canadian lumber industry. The plain meaning is that unless the problem is dealt with in a large way the forests will cease to be an asset of value, giving large employment and producing substantial annual revenue for the provinces and for many workers in the many trades and occupations in which lumber figures. There is still time to save the forests and to make them a much more valuable source of wealth, but every year that the inauguration of a real forest policy is delayed means a larger area to reclaim and merchantable timber is a product of slow growth. In the face of what the practical foresters say, no province can afford longer to turn a deaf ear to the demand for better forestry methods, least of all can New Brunswick, now considering projects of water power development, dependent for their continued success on assured forest reserves for saw mills, pulp mills, paper mills and those other industries which time and the world's timber needs are certain to bring wherever timber is abundant.

Here and There

A remarkable report comes from Brockville, Ont. Harry Church, a farmer residing five miles north of that town, is the owner of a Holstein cow which has just given birth to three calves. All are alive and thriving.

On July 11, Her Majesty the Queen of Spain and her two daughters visited the Canadian Pacific Railway's pavilion at the British Empire Exhibition. Her Majesty evinced deep interest in all she saw and declared the exhibit to be "perfectly lovely."

Although the present season of ocean travel has reached the period usually associated with a falling off in the number of passengers, steamship companies report that little decrease is apparent this year and that the total volume of passenger traffic in 1924 will probably be the largest of any year since the war.

World production of silver for the first half of 1924 is 117,650,000 ounces, as against 118,250,000 ounces in the first six months of 1923. Canada accounted for a production of 10,800,000 ounces in 1924, as against 10,500,000 ounces in the first half of 1923, being the third producer after Mexico and the United States, both of which showed a decline.

Saskatchewan's output of creamery butter in June amounted to 1,737,056 pounds, as compared with 1,746,000 pounds in June, 1923, an increase of 41,056 pounds or 2.4 per cent. From January to June, 1924, the province has produced 5,109,090 pounds of butter, as against 4,423,016 pounds in the same period in 1923, an increase of 686,074 pounds, or 15.5 per cent.

Among the tributes to the late Sir Edmund Ouler, of the Canadian Pacific Railway's directorate, was one from C. R. Hosmer, for many years a fellow-director. It was addressed to Vice-President Grant Hall and read as follows: "He was the last living of the great men who organized our great railway."

The late Sir Edmund became a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1885, the year of the completion of the transcontinental line.

A most interesting and attractive volume entitled "Here and There in Montreal" has just been published by the Musson Book Co. of Toronto. The book is well illustrated with maps and pictures in color and brings out many noteworthy facts, such as that the city's total population is 900,000, that two-thirds of this number are French-Canadians and that Montreal is the second port of importance in North America. The author is Charles W. Stokes, Asst. Gen. Publicity Agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The first annual Pow Wow of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, held at Yoho Camp, was a great success. Over 200 internationally known writers, artists, etc., rode in to gather round the sacred fire in the Sun Dance Lodge. Charles D. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington, D.C., honorary president of the Trail Riders, addressed the gathering; a poem written specially for the occasion by Miss Carmen was read and Chiefs Walk-in-the-Road and Buffalo Child Long Lance performed an Indian dance.

WEDDINGS

JAMES—SHAW A very interesting wedding was solemnized on August 16th, by the Rev. William Jaquess, in Detroit, Michigan, when Mr. Joseph A. James of Montreal, and Miss Sadie E. Shaw, daughter of Mr. Cyrus Shaw of Newcastle, were united in marriage. The bride wore a dress of navy blue georgette with hat to match, a fox fur and beautiful necklace of pearls. Her sister, Mrs. Oliver Alexander, was her attendant, and was dressed in grey georgette with hat and shoes to correspond, also wearing a pearl necklace. The groom was George R. James. Following the wedding the happy couple left on their honeymoon, which was spent in Montreal and Newcastle. Mr. and Mrs. James will make their home in Detroit, Michigan. NICHOLSON—ANNAND Of exceptional interest to Newcastle people was the marriage at Fort Massey Church, Halifax, on Friday, Aug. 22nd, of Jean Annand, B.A., (1923) daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Annand, and granddaughter of the late Hon. William Annand, of Halifax, and John R. Nicholson, B.A. (1921), son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Nicholson of Newcastle. Mr. Nicholson, who is now practicing law in Vancouver, the partner of J. A. Russell, Dalhousie 1887, and Miss Annand, who was teaching in St. John's, Newfoundland, some time ago decided that their wedding should synchronize with the Dalhousie Re-union. Nearly every member of the wedding party was either a graduate of Dalhousie, or a student at the present time, and the church was crowded with Dalhousians who were attending the re-union. Both the principals of the wedding were very prominent in university circles during their time in Dalhousie. The groom won the Governor General's medal in 1921. He was, during his college career, manager of the hockey team, and also of the Gazette, and both bride and groom were prominent debaters. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, F. W. Annand, was gowned in princess satin with silver lace, with the usual veil and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses with trailers of sweet peas, and was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss Gwendolen Thompson and Miss Madeline Mader. They wore dresses of maize georgette with picture hats and corsage bouquets of sweet peas. The groomsmen were Charles Lovett Beazley, Roderick Fraser, cousin of the groom, presided at the organ, and Mrs. Belle Wilson sang during the signing of the register, "Beloved It is Morn." The ushers were Robert Scott and Ivan Mader. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. R. W. Ross, Pastor of Fort Massey Presbyterian Church. At the conclusion of the ceremony there was a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. I. Mader, Morris street, at which only the immediate friends and relatives were present. Assisting the bride in receiving were Dr. and Mrs. A. I. Mader, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Annand, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Nicholson. Also among the guests at the wedding were the Misses Dorothy and Nan Nicholson, sisters of the groom. Mrs. Mader was gowned in black satin, Mrs. Nicholson's frock also being of black satin. The flowers used to supply the decorations to the rooms were snapdragon, sweet peas and roses. After a short stay in Newcastle, where they visited the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson, left on Sunday for Montreal and other large Canadian cities, including Calgary, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Loughhead, after which they will make their home in Vancouver. The collection of gifts included silver, china cut glass, etc. The bride for the past two years has been teacher of mathematics at Bishop Spencer's College, St. John's, Nfld. Mrs. Nicholson has many friends in Vancouver, and during her visits here, and the groom is known and liked by everybody, old and young alike, who wish them both success and happiness. Jack has had a very successful school and college career and his one year in Vancouver has been likewise.

MAY SUCCEED LORD READING

Prince Arthur of Connaught as Governor-General of India Prince Arthur of Connaught who is mentioned as successor to Lord Reading as Viceroy of India, has recently retired from the Governor Generalship of the Union of South Africa. He is one of the most popular members of the British Royal family and without doubt one of the ablest. The son of King George's soldier uncle, Field Marshal the Duke of Connaught, he was born at Windsor in 1883. From Eton and Sandhurst, he joined the Queen's Own Hussars, and at the age of 20 he went to the South African war as a full Lieutenant. His uncle, the late King Edward VII, early discerned the capacities of the young Prince and while the latter was in his early twenties he was sent on several important foreign missions. One of the most interesting of these missions was to Japan in 1906, as the bearer of the Order of the Garter to the Emperor. In 1913 Prince Arthur was married to his cousin Princess Alexandra Victoria, Duchess of Fife.

Here and There

Although Alberta only became a province eighteen years ago, its population has increased fourfold, while the grain yield has increased twentyfold. The total agricultural products of Alberta in 1923 were worth $223,000,000. The scheme for the settlement of British emigrants in Canada may assume a new aspect as a result of the presence in London, England, of the Hon. J. A. Robb, Canadian Minister of Immigration. Canada favors the movement of entire families to Canada from Great Britain, rather than that of single men. Among the biggest muscalungs caught this year was one landed at the Canadian Pacific Railway's French River (Ont.) Bungalow Camp, by Samuel Franklin, Southern Sales Manager of Claffins, Inc., New York City. Mr. Franklin had a light tackle and had never hooked a lunge before. He had a hard fight to secure the fish, which tipped the scale at 33 1/2 pounds. A total of 13,743 Canadians, most of them native-born, has been repatriated from the United States during the months of April, May and June, according to figures announced by the Department of Immigration. During these three months 53,425 persons immigrated to Canada, which represented an increase of 12,292 over the same period of last year. Marquis wheat, originated at the Dominion Experimental Farms and now world famous, has successfully invaded South America, being grown in the Argentine Republic last year with results that, according to authorities there, exceeded the expectations of the most optimistic advocates of the grain. Further shipments of seed are being made to the Argentine by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association. One of the most diverse and interesting aggregations of passengers ever assembled in Canada left Montreal for Europe on August 20th aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Minnedosa. It included Majors S. de Belres and Brito Pais, who recently flew from Lisbon to Macao, China, a large party of scientists returning from the recent convention of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Toronto, Colonel Geo. Ham, genial and internationally known "ambassador of the Canadian Pacific" and "Soldier" Jones, Canadian heavyweight boxer. The first all-British direct cable service between Montreal and London was opened on August 18th by the Canadian Pacific Telegraph. As business warrants, this service will be extended to embrace other Canadian cities with which it is now connected but which, as yet, cannot offer a reasonable return for a regular service. Messages were exchanged between the London Chamber of Commerce and the Montreal Board of Trade and between the Canadian and the English headquarters of the Bank of Montreal, conveying expressions of mutual goodwill and prophecying closer relations as a result of the improved cable facilities.

Ice Cream's History

To one now in middle life the memory of ice cream goes back to the days when it was a summer delicacy and was brought to the point of serving only after strenuous labor. The ice cream festival was to Summer what the oyster supper was to Winter. Many a hungry boy was as ready to turn an ice-cream freezer as were the friends of Tom Sawyer to whitewash his fence, but in each case there was more or less painful discovery that the task was a real one. The reward of a dish of ice cream in return for keeping the freezer in motion was one earned by manual labor and plenty of it. As the mixture froze the big wheel was harder to turn and those last few minutes were as hard work as anyone cared to tackle.

Thomas D. Cutler, editor of the Ice Cream Trade Journal says ice cream making originated in Italy possibly before 1600. Something like 50 years later there are traces of the ice cream trail in England and France, then America. Elizabeth Raffald published "The Experienced Housekeeper" in England in 1769. It contained a receipt for ice cream. One of her bits of advice was "dip your tin in warm water when you turn it out." There is a record of ice cream being served in a celebrated Italian cafe about 1630. Mr. Cutler is credited with having made the first French ice cream. Mrs. Raffald's book had a receipt for apricot ice, showing that the business of freezing things for the table was expanding. She explained that other fruit would do as well as apricots.

A search of old advertisements according to the New York Times shows Joseph Crowe of New York to have been the first dealer to advertise such a delicacy. His announcement that he had ice cream for sale appeared in the Post Boy during 1786. There is a tradition that the first American ice cream seller was named Hall and that he had a shop in Park Row, New York when it was known as Chatham Street.

Many Expected At Red Cross Meeting

The attendance at the Red Cross Society conference called for Thursday of this week promises to be very large and entirely representative of all sections of the province very many acceptances of the invitations to attend have already been received from out of town branches and only from one branch has there been a refusal up to the present time. The interest in the work of the society is most encouraging as is evidenced by the promptness of replies received and the willingness of representatives to come to St. John to attend the meeting. The programme is now being prepared and promises to be one of exceptional interest and merit. The delegates from outside St. John will be entertained at a luncheon at the Sign of the Lantern at noon on the date of the conference.

Another Tribe Of White Indians Is Found In Andes

Another tribe of white Indians is living on the spur of the Andes mountains near the border of Colombia and Venezuela, some 250 miles east of Darien, where Richard O. Marsh discovered his white Indians according to Ralph Keemle, General Manager of the Wallaceburg, Chatham and Lake Erie Railway who spent a considerable portion of 1915 exploring South America in an effort to get coal.

Mr. Keemle made a personal examination of two of these Indians, which had been captured when small children by natives who happened to be hunting near the district where the whites are supposed to be living. The children had been brought up as slaves in the home of a wealthy Venezuelan.

He stated that their skin was like an ordinary white man's. "They had coarse yellow hair and grey eyes, and features that were not the slightest resemblance to the usual Indian type of the region. With out hesitation, I would put them down as very fair types of the familiar Nordic blonde."

In the highly civilized State of Zulia, Mr. Keemle found an abundance of evidence pointing toward the existence of a whole tribe of these mysterious white savages in the interior of Venezuela.

"The exact location of their tribal territory does not seem to be known" he explained but the natives place them in a range of the Andes beyond Lake Maracaibo and the Magdalena and Sagui rivers.

He went on to relate that the brown inhabitants of the district live in constant dread of being invaded by their white brethren.

"So much so" he said "that they will not venture anywhere near where they think the white savagely. They tell weird tales about the ferocity of this race. Huge of stature and strong of muscle, they are regarded as the most dangerous antagonists in the whole of South America."

Next Total Eclipse Of Sun To Occur January 24, 1925.

While no total eclipses of the sun are listed for this year, one of the best opportunities for observing a total shutout of Old Sol's face will be afforded the eastern part of the country early in the coming year officials at the United States Naval Observatory say.

On Jan. 24, 1925 the sun will be in total eclipse. This will start at sunrise just beyond Lake Superior. Its path will be on into New York state and lower New England. Eastern New York and southern New England will be the best positions for observations. Viewers in the Atlantic Ocean north of Scotland will be able to see it at sunset. In the middle of the Atlantic it will be visible at noon.

Another total eclipse will take place Jan. 14, 1926. This will start in Africa crossing the Indian Ocean and the Island of Sumatra in the Dutch East Indies, and the lower islands of the Philippines.

Cod Liver Oil To Save Children From Bad Teeth

Regular doses of cod liver oil may save children from bad teeth. This was the message of Dr. R. H. Burn of the Medical Research Council, London, and well-known bio-chemist. "The formation of good teeth depends upon the rate of growth of a child and a rapidly growing infant is much more likely to have bad teeth than one growing slowly." He warned "It is a mistake for mothers to regard their apparently vigorous child with a large appetite as a matter of pride."

"The latest researches have shown that, insofar as teeth are concerned rapid growth of the body as a whole, is a matter for anxiety."

Rapid growth is largely due to the eating of large quantities of cereals and experiments have definitely connected the excess eating of cereals with the appearance of bad teeth. Oatmeal is the worst of all, although rice, barley and white flour are also detrimental.

"That bad effect of cereals may be counteracted if the diet contains sufficiently large amounts of vitamin" he said.

"The only material containing this mysterious substance in sufficient quantities to make sure that no risk is being run, is cod liver oil."

"If a dosage with cod liver oil is begun at an early stage, say at the age of one year, and if small doses are first given, it is exceptional for children to dislike it. Bad teeth, which frequently follow in mothers after the birth of children can, in all probability be prevented by taking cod liver oil during the period before and after the child is born."

A Canoeing Trip in Nova Scotia

The September issue of Kod and Gun in Canada will appeal to every sportsman. A canoe trip through the Chain Lakes from Dartmouth to Shubenacadie, by R. G. Urquhart describes one of the most alluring trips that can be made anywhere in the Maritimes. The Four of Us, by B. Lonsdale is the story of a perfect two weeks' hunting while Bonnycastle Dale gives an interesting account of how the Slim Wriggling was taken in Winter on the Atlantic Coast. Raymond Thompson's story of the frozen north, entitled, "The Fur Cache", is one with an unusually good plot. Mildred Low introduces the reader to a very interesting group of people. The Guides of Algonquin, and Martin Hunter narrates in his usual vivid style in Circulating. All the regular departments are up to their usual standard of excellence and aid in providing good, all-round reading in this number of the magazine. Kod and Gun in Canada is published by W. J. Letter from Mrs. Ayars Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Helped Her

Spring Valley, Sask.—"I took the Vegetable Compound before my last confinement, when I got to feeling so badly that I could not sleep nights, my back ached so across my hips, and I could hardly do my work during the day.
I never had such an easy confinement and this is my sixth baby. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
in the 'Farmer's Telegram' and wrote you for one of your books. We have no druggist in our town, but I saw your medicine in T. Eaton's catalogue.
I am a farmer's wife, so have all kinds of work to do inside and outside the house. My baby is a nice healthy girl, who weighed nine pounds at birth. I am feeling fine after putting in a large garden since baby came. (She is as good as she can be.) Yours is the best medicine for women, and I have told about it and even written to my friends
about it."—Mrs. ANNIE E. AYARS, Spring Valley, Sask.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system so that it may work in every respect as nature intends. All druggists sell this dependable medicine.
Give it a trial.

BANK BILL PAPER IS RECLAIMED

What becomes of all the defaced and damaged paper money is question that has often been asked of bankers. Heretofore the answer has invariably been, that it is burned. Many interesting stories associated with the burning ceremony have gone the rounds of the press, among them being one in which an excessive draft in the furnace littered St.
James street in Montreal with partially burned bills. Ottawa's fire department was once called out to answer an alarm of fire when damaged paper money was being destroyed in the furnaces of the Finance Department in the East Block. Later the melting furnaces at the Mint were used for this purpose.

Destruction by burning of condemned paper money is likely to become an obsolete practice. The Forest Products Laboratories, of the Department of the Interior, have been carrying on a series of experiments to develop the best method of recovering good paper
stock from the condemned paper currency withdrawn from circulation by the Department of Finance and the various banks, and to ascertain if such a method is commercially feasible. Refining of the stock produced under normal cooking conditions was carried out and, by the use of a special washing equipment, it was found possible to recover an absolutely clean pulp.

The paper used for the printing of bank notes is made from pure pulp linen cuttings, and is one of the most expensive papers manufactured. It will readily be seen that if the Forest Products Laboratories are able successfully to reclaim the paper from condemned currency it will be of considerable commercial importance.

Normal School
Will Have Third
Largest Total

Dr. H. V. B. Bridges, Principal of the Provincial Normal School announced that the full complement of students for that school is now made up and numerous applications for admission have been refused. The school opened today.

The maximum number is now 350. Last year it was 400. The year before that number was exceeded. In addition to the maximum number allowed there is the French Class which opened its course upwards of a fortnight ago. Twelve students are in the class. The total attendance this year will be the third largest in the history of the school. But for the limitation upon registration it would be larger as there is keen interest in the teaching profession at the present time.

Classification
Dr. Bridges stated that the 350 students would be classified as follows:—Class I, 117; Class II, 175; Class III, 58. The number of men entering is less than it was last year when the number was one of the largest on record.
The reduction is necessary on account of the imposition of the maximum.

An Elaborate Apparatus Catches Many Mosquitoes

Belgrade, Aug 26—One of the great troubles of Serbia is the Malaria epidemic and even in the neighborhood of Belgrade there are favorable breeding grounds for the malaria mosquitoes. The heavy spring floods made the plains facing the town more swampy than usual and those whose blood pleases the mosquito palate are constant in their lamentations.

Now an ingenious locksmith of the town has decided that something more drastic than the labors of the Anti-malaria Commission should be undertaken and he has devised a wonderful apparatus for the mass capture of the pest. The first evidence Belgrade had of his experiments was the appearance in Kamenegden, the little park that overlooks the plains and the meeting of the rivers (Sava and Danube) of a powerful searchlight. It was thought the police had adopted a new means of raking in vagrants bedded in the park. It was really the mosquito trap, and anyone who approached the apparatus saw the inventor remove a vessel from the inside and show it to be full of a cushion-like mass of mosquitoes.

Expert officials who were present at the trials have decided, it appears, that the apparatus is too costly for use as a means of extermination, but that it will prove very useful as a specimen catcher. A strong searchlight attracts the insects into the conical light-projector at the apex of which is a small hole. In the interior pumps and fans produce a strong current of air into the interior and the mosquitoes are sucked inside.

MADAWASKA CROPS ARE BEST IN YEARS

The crops in Madawaska county are better this year than they have been known to be for several years.
There has been a considerable amount of rainfall this summer, which has greatly benefited the crops. There will be a plentiful supply of hay this year. The grain fields are well advanced and the potato fields are looking fine.

A Fox Show Will Be Held

A live fox and fur show open to the world is to be held in Charlottetown in 1925 according to a decision reached at the annual meeting of the Silver Black Fox
Breeders Association of Prince Edward Island. The meeting expressed the opinion that inasmuch as the Island was the cradle of the fox industry its capital city was the proper place for the holding of such an exhibition at which it is expected there will be several thousand animals on show.

when Ed Collins, veteran second baseman halted the game and motioned to Manager Evers to substitute another centre fielder for Maurice Archdeacon, the young speed merchant. Evers took the hint and sent Johnny Mostil to centre.

As it happened Jamieson ground-
out to the infield for the final out.
The strategy wasn't needed. For strategy it was.

Collins remembered that Burns started the inning with a double to centre, that pinch hitter McNulty then on second reached there on a double to centre and that pinch hitter Gardner fled to centre.

He realized that a run would tie the score and that another hit to centre might mean that run with Archdeacon fielding it. McNulty is known to be fast and Collins knew that Archdeacon has a poor throwing arm. Mostil, while not as flashy a fielder, has a better whip Collins knew that a pretty throw from centre on a hit to that field might cut off McNulty at the plate and save the game for the Sox.

Used His Brains
To Win This Game

A recent game between the Indians and White Sox had a ninth inning like this:

The Indians at bat in the final half. Pat McNulty on second with the tying run and two men out.
Charley Jamieson, lead-off man
and dangerous hitter came to bat.
Then fans wondered "what was up?"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I tried several doctors, but it seemed nothing they gave me helped. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I tried it, and can say it certainly has done wonders for me. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes."

Top Left—Encamped near the Columbia Ice Field. Mount Columbia, second highest peak in the Rockies, is seen in the background. Below—One of the peaks recently scaled for the first time in history. Inset—Field-Harris party nearing their objective. Right—Edward Fuez, famous Canadian Pacific Railway Swiss guide, who led the Field-Harris expedition, conquering five new peaks in the Columbia Ice Field.

Five peaks in the Canadian Rockies have just been conquered for the first time by three Harvard and Hotchkiss students who were accompanied by their Swiss guides. The students who climbed and named the new peaks in the famous Columbia Ice field are Osgood Field, Frederick Field and Lemond Harris of Boston. They were led by the noted Canadian Pacific Railway guide Edward Fuez, the oldest guide in point of service in the Canadian Rockies. Two of the newly conquered peaks have been named Mount Harvard and Mount Hotchkiss
after the two American universities.

The party made five first ascents including the hitherto unconquered Mount Patterson, 10,400 feet, Mount Sir James Outram, 10,700 feet, the South Twin, 10,600 feet and the unnamed peaks, Harvard and Hotchkiss. Besides all this they discovered a new route to the top of the second highest peak in the Rockies, Mount Columbia, 12,000 feet, which was made in a return journey of twenty-three hours. The aim of the exploring party, to conquer the South Twin, was successfully attained.

The Field-Harris party left Lake Louise five weeks ago
accompanied by two guides, five packers and nineteen horses, and travelled 200 miles into the Columbia ice field. Their progress was halted several times by the terrible winds from the ice fields and once they were forced to halt a day at Mistayah lake in order to make rafts with which to get their horses across. Here, at the foot of Mount Patterson, they put up a bivouac camp and accompanied by the weird howling of the wild ice winds of this district spent most of their night thrubbing a ukelele and singing warm southern songs.

Lemond Harris had his own Swiss guide with him, Joseph Biner who has guided him for many years in the Swiss Alps. Edward Fuez who has been guiding in the Canadian Rockies since 1903 was the man who successfully manoeuvred this valuable expedition. The greatest novelty of the trip, he stated on his return, was the meeting of fourteen American girls on the lonely forks of the North Saskatchewan River, who were travelling alone with their packers. The girls insisted that the party stop off for dinner with them that night, following which a note of civilization was added to their wild northern environment by the sound of the Ukelele and the swish of dancing feet over pine needles dimly lighted by a blazing log camp fire.

A GREAT CHANGE
The Fredericton Mail says: A business man says that a great change has taken place in the last few years in the mode of travel of the farmers to church. Last Sunday he had occasion to pass two country churches in which services were being held. At one he counted twenty-five autos and five carriages at the other twenty autos and three carriages. And he said five years ago it would have been all carriages.

POLITICAL MEETINGS

GOOD WORK ON STREETS
The Public Works Department has been doing some good work on the new gravel roads about town. Last week the streets were rolled and a split-log roller used to fill in the ruts and draw the large sized gravel to the centre of the road. The heavy rain on Monday and Tuesday did much to materially assist in this work and the improvement in the new laid streets is quite noticeable.

COLLECTING DOG TAXES
Mr. John H. Ashford, collector of taxes for Newcastle began last week collecting dog taxes. For the past few years this tax was not collected but it is the intention this year to make a thorough collection from dog owners. The residents who own dogs and pay their taxes hope that the tax collection will be general and that one and all will be required to pay up alike.

Strong Ticket For Kent County

At what is generally concluded to have been the largest and most representative convention ever held by any political party in Kent County, the opposition to the present Provincial Government on Wednesday placed a strong ticket in the field to contest the constituency whenever the Provincial elections are brought on.

The taunt of Premier Veniot in a recent speech at Sackville, that the opposition were inactive and unprepared for an election seemed to act as an incentive for the electors to get together and prove to the premier that in this county at least, they are ready to accept the issue of battle whenever he sees fit to call on the electors.

The convention was held in the public hall at Repton, with Com. John Morton of Wolford, President of the Liberal Conservative Association of Kent in the chair.

In opening the meeting the President spoke of the large attendance and said it was the largest and most representative ever held in Kent County. He congratulated the electors on the interest they were taking in the affairs of the province.

As was manifested by the large number present.

Registration of delegates was then proceeded with.

The next order of business was the nomination of candidates and speeches with regard to this matter were made by several, including A.J. Bouché, M.P.

The names of Hon. Dr. D.V. Landry and Frank G. Richard were placed in nomination from the southern end of the county, and their names were voted on. Dr. Landry received 168 and Mr. Richard 14.

The nomination of an English speaking candidate was then proceeded with. Com. John Sheridan and Arthur E. O'Leary being placed in nomination. Com. Sheridan received 29 votes and Mr. O'Leary 155.

Nomination of a candidate for the northern section of the county, resulted in the following vote: David Rouché 19; Joseph L. Daigle 20; Telephone Arsenault 145.

The ticket therefore is: Hon. Dr. D.V. Landry A.E. O'Leary

LATE CROPS HELPED MUCH BY RAINS

Late Crops have been greatly helped by the rain last week which was quite general over the province and particularly in the south. Grain unfortunately is too far advanced to be aided very much. It is said that in some sections oats are being cut with the straw so short that the knife of the mower barely clears the heads. Late grain may still be helped and in the northern counties of the province grain is much later than in the south. Root crops will without a doubt be much benefited. Irish Cabbler potatoes are being dug now but the later varieties will stay in the ground for some weeks yet. Turnips which form an important crop in New Brunswick will be helped to a great extent. Garden produce will also receive a benefit from the rains. The late varieties of apples will have ample opportunity to receive benefit from the moisture. The early apples will not as their season is almost on now.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas
A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).
The inventor, J. M. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month

FRASER CO. IN TWO MILLION DOLLAR TIMBER DEAL

What is believed to be the biggest timber land deal in the history of Nova Scotia was put through Friday when the Fraser Pulp & Paper Company of New Brunswick sold 25,000 acres of land to Hollingsworth Whitney, Limited of Waterbury, Maine for two million dollars in cash.

A KNOCKER

A knocker is a two-legged animal with a corkscrew soul, a water-soaked brain and a combination back bone of jelly and glue. Where other men have hearts, he carries a humor of decay principles.
When the knocker comes down the street, honest men turn their backs, the angels in heaven weep and the devil shuts the door of hell to keep him out. Therefore don't be a knocker. You can't saw wood with a hammer.
