No Cross, No Crown.

BY E. L. STANTON

I sometimes think when life seems drear And gloom and darkness gather here— When hope's bright star forsakes my skies And sorrow o'er my pathway lies, It would be sweet, it would be best To fold my tired hands and rest; But then God sends an angel down, o Who sweetly says: "No Cross, no Crown!

Last night I heard the river mean With sad and melancholy tone; I saw its waters flashing free And dashing headlong to the sea! I would have plunged beneath its tide, And on its friendly bosom died, But then God sends an angel down, Who whispered still: "No Cross, n Crown!"

I said: "The world is dark and load. There is no hand to hold my own, I cannot bear the noonday heat, The thorns so pierce 'my bleeding feet!" "Behold!" he origed, "where, sacrificed, Shine the red, bleeding wounds of Christ." And fell his tears of mercy down, While still he said:"No Cross, no Crown

Then turned I from the river shore And sought the lonely world once more With aching heart and burning head To battle for my crust of bread! But Hunger came, who knew me well
And fainting by the way I fell,
But still the angel fluttering down'
And weeping said: "No Cross, no Crown!

No Cross-no Crown ! As standing there The cross too heavy seemed to bear; And for the crown—I could not see That it was ever meant for me!
The words I could not understand,
Even while I pressed the angel's hand;
But still he looked with pity down,
And still he said: "No Cross, no Crown

Back to the world I turned again, To feel its grief, endure its pain; But all the sweetness that it gave I followed weeping to the grave; And from the cold and quiet sod I lifted my sad eyes to God, And saw the angel coming down, And in his hand a golden crown.

Then I forgot my earthly loss,
And kneeling lifted up the cross;
Though all that once made life so sweet
Lay neath the lilies at my feet!
A radiance from the realms of Light
Flashed for a moment on my sight:
A still small voice came fluttering down"It is enough—receive the Crown."

Lord Russell's Childhood Home.

HOW THE LIFE OF THE LORD CHIEF JUSTICE OF ENGLAND BEGAN.

Katharine Tynan Hinkson con-tributes to a recent issue of the Ave Maria a fascinating sketch of Lord Russell, of Killowen, the first Catholic Lord Chief Justice of England, since the sixteenth century. We quote:—

The house where the great lawyer first saw the light was a tall, old grey house at Ballybot, a suburb of Newry, near which was his father's brewery. Arthur and Margaret Russell were parents of five children. two boys and three girls. The father, long an invalid, was a man of The Sister M. They are not forgotten seem it was Dr. Russell's personality He exclaimed, "Let me out, and I there. The peasants yet remember the charity of the mother, and are proud of the distinguished son. Indeed "the charity of Christ urgeth us" might have been written on those nursery walls, for, of the five children who played therein, four dedicated them selves to the service of God in religion, while the first lived to be so great an honor to the Church of which he is a devoted son as Lord Russell, of Killowen.

Of that family life one now and again catches a glimpse in the poems of the well-known Dublin Jesuit, who is Lord Russell's brother; as for instance:

"The harsh word 'beggar' was under ban In that quaint old house by the sea; and a brow smooth and serne under its spotless little band; no latent fire, no lines to show where frowns had been. The face was oval and softly moulded, and very winning in its exquisite freshness and purity. The mouth was noble, and though ever quick with the right word, was, in its changing expressions, most eloquent of much that is left unspoken. The complexion was so dazzling fair, so daintily warmed with its vermillion on the cheeks, no paint or powder rould mimic it; only early rising, tender labors, never ceasing and perpetual joy of spirit, could be combined in producing it. It is celebrated by a continuous prayer, the recital of the Roszry, the contemplation of the mysteries of the Gospel, prayer to the holy spouse St. Joseph, exposition of the Blessed Szcrament, and in a word the Catholic Church during the month of October gathers together in all its churches in order to beprayers of Mary, to bestow special favors, not upon the Church only but upon the whole world. It is especially desirable that you should fully recognize and understand that this feast of the Rosary and this dedication of October to the Rosary is not intended simply to be a prayer for the prosperity of the Catholi Church, but for the welfare and prosperity of society at large. It is a month devoted year by year to prayer for human society. We know perfectly well that it is being honey

ACUTE DYSPEPSIA

Complete Nervous Prostration Cured by Using HAWKER'S NERVE & STOMACH TONIC

A LADY'S EXPERIENCE.

Mr. Wm. Thompson of Musquash, N. B., says' "For 2 years past my wife' has sufiered with Acute byspepsia accompanied with complet nervous prostration and a smothering sensation about the heart which frequently produced an attack of faintness. She became weak and nervous, lost all energy, and had a constant feeling of dread. She suffered with intense poin in the stomach after eating, which was usually followed by the smothering sensation about the heart and fainting spells. She tried a great many remedies and was treated by the doctors for some time, but obtained no relief. She became so discouraged that she gave up all hope of ever getting better, when our pastor suggested that she try HAWKER'S NEWE AND STOMACH TONIC and LIVER PILLS. which had produced remarkable cures as several cases he knew of. We did so and she obtained immediato relief from the distress after taking the second dose, and has continued to improve ever since until today she is as well as ever, and can enjoy her food without fear of suffering. I cannot speak too highly of these valuable medicines which have restored my wife to health and strength and saved much suffering and expense."

Rev. Henry M. Spike, Rector of Musquash N. B., says: "I am personally acquainted with Mrs. Tompson's case, and am greatly pleased that the medicine which I recommended to her produced such remarkable results." Sold by all druggists and general dealers.
