"Write often and keep the family together," is the striking appeal that has been sent broadcast at least half a million times each day for the past month on all letters that pass through the electric stamping machines at the general postoffice Toronto. The type, large and clear-cut makes an imprint that it would be difficult to overlook, and the "obey the impulse" must have stirred many recipients of the slogan-bearing envelopes. This is only one of a series of slogans that are used in stampcanceling machines, in an effort to give some good advice to the general public along business and sentimental lines.

Some newspapers are discussing the vice of profanity in their columns and point with alarm to the increase of the evil among the young. In nine cases out of ten, young people learn the habit from their elders. The pro-fane person is always with us. You will hear him on the street corner, on the railway train—yet, and even in the home in the presence of his little ones. The blasphemer or the person addicted to profanity should be shunned as is the leper. He is unclean and should not be allowed to associate with decent citizens.

> A Winnipeg business man writes as follows: "I was a confirmed Amer-ioan hard coal user, but American hard coal and slate at a little better than $20 per ton started me in to do some thinking. The result was that I gave Alberta coal a trial, and then I got a shock of my life. Listen to this: I used to buy about 11 tons of American hard coal each year. This I shovelled into the furnace, getting in return about 13 tons of ashes and two tons of unburned coal, which I could have sifted out if I wanted, but a man can't sift ashes and retain his self-respect. Sometimes the house was warm and sometimes we were not so lucky. Hard coal is very tempermental stuff, but we could nearly always get lots of heat if we waited five or six hours and had luck. Now I burn Alberta coal, about 12 to 14 tons a year. I have, I would say, about one-third of the ash I had with hard coal, and ash that is all ash, but no waste coal. If the furnace is prop-erly tended we get heat, lots of it, and get it instantly any time we want it, without fuss and without prayer. I am not putting it too strongly when I say I would sooner pay $20 a ton for good Alberta coal than I would the same amount for American anthracite."

THE BREAKING OF THE BODY OF OUR LORD JESUS

Calvary was the place where Christ's Body was broken and it was broken for man since Calvary was the severest form of death which was the extreme penalty then known of broken law.

this form of death Christ chose since by so dying He could die with the vilest of men and acknowledge the symbal of authority Because men were everywhere weak and wicked it was not difficult for Christ to be condemned to death on the cross and as Christ told Pilate God permitted this wicked condemnation that He might save men by dying by them and for them. Christ exalts authority by showing that man must die for wrongdoing and that He submits to it that man may not die alone. He atsted death for everyone.

The Search for the Life of the Broken Body of our Lord Jesus

The Resurrection is the Coming Forth from the Broken Body of our Lord to a new life in a glorified body—a spiritual one. This glorified body will now permit the Savior to be with God into whose hands He did commit His spirit and at the same time enable Him to enter into man's body as it appears to man in the in the saving of the world, and so Paul cries out "Oh that I might know Him and the power of His Resurrection." For Christ calls Himself "Resurrection and Life" which mean Immortality that brings life to man. The Healing of the Broken Body of our Lord Jesus

As in the Upper Room Christ told of the Breaking of His Body that He

WHY NOT USE YOUR OWN?

A New York paper, which cannot be regarded as unfriendly towards Canada, thinks it not unreasonable to ask Canadians why they do not use their own coal. And when you come to think that our authorities in such matters have been proclaiming to the world that Canada has suffic ient supplies of coal for all present needs and for thousands of years to come it can scarcely be regarded as an unreasonable question, coming from an American. The explanation of course, is that Canada covers a wide territory, and that our source of coal are far apart; that in Ontario we have become accustomed to the use of American coal, which is so much more convenient, when supplies are available, and that the problem of removing Canadian coal from the places where it is to be had in abundance to the places where it is needed, has, for some reason or other not yet been solved. This is not the fault, of course, of the people of the United States, nor is it likely to be accepted by the American people as a reason why they should suffer for want of fuel while they see train-loads of coal passing their doors on the way to Canada.

The fact that friendly Americans are making suggestions is significant enough to be worth noting.—Ex.

The success of the proposed Lambton county baseball league, and Sarnia's future in organized amateur ball, rests with Watford. If that village decides to throw in its lot with the new league an organization meeting will likely be called there within next fortnight to elect officers and draft up a rough schedule. If villagers do not favor the idea the league will probably fall through rather than perform as a three club circuit.

FAREWELL AND PRESENTATION

The neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Coristine and family gathered at their home on Wednesday night to the number of about eighty, prior to their removal to their new home on the sixth line and spent a pleasant evening and pre-sented them with a handsome chair with the following address. To Mr. and Mrs. Chester Coristine and Family;

Dear Friends:

"It was with deep regret that we heard of your decision to leave our neighborhood. You proved yourselves good friends and good neighbors and always ready to lend a helping hand. You will be much missed not only in the neighborhood but in the church as well. As you are not going far away we trust we may sometimes see you among us again.

'We are here to-night to extend to you our best wishes for many years of happiness in your new home. Also we ask you to accept this chair as a slight token of our esteem and to re-mind you that you leave behind many warm friends at Sutorville.

Signed on behalf of the community Wilbert Parker, Edward Kidd.

Mr. Coristine made a short reply thanking their friends and neighbors for their kind remembrance.

THANKFUL MOTHERS

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little one she would use nothing else. The Tablets give such results that the mother has nothing but words of praise and thankfulness for them. Among the thousands of mothers throughout Canada who praise the Tablets is Mrs. David A. Anderson, New Glasgow, N.S., who writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children and from my experience I would not be without them. I would urge every other mather to keep a how of the other mother to keep a box of the Tablets in the house." The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach; drive out constipa-tion and indigestion; break up colds and smiple fevers and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., The Dr. Willia Brockville, Ont.

When a mother detects from the writhing and fretting of a child that worms are troubling it, she can procure a reliable remedy in Miller's Worm Powders which will expel all worms from the system. They may cause vomiting, but this need cause no anxiety, because it is but a manifestation of their thorough work. No worms can long exist where these Powders are used.

NEW BLOOD NEEDED IN THE SPRINGTIME

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a Blood-Improving, Health-

Every man, woman and child needs the year. That is a scientific fact. All doctors know it. The blood grows thin and poor in the winter; there is not enough of it and spring shows the effect. Take notice and see how many people are pale and sallow at this time of the year. They complain of being easily tired, their appetite is poor, and they are often depressed and low-spirited. That is mother nature urging them to improve their blood supply; but often their digestion is weakened so that they cannot turn food into blood without help. Here is where modern medical science comes to the rescue. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a direct action on the blood and enable you to get full use of the blood-making elements in your meals. You soon feel their effect—your appetite improves, your nerves are steadier, color returns to the cheeks and lips, you have more vim and energy and can work with less fatigue. The above statements borne out by the experience of notice. Mr. J. P. Greschuk, Janow, Man., who says:—"Very recently I found REV. THOMAS COUPLAND myself in a badly run down condition. My stomach was quite out of order; I could eat but little and what I did eat did not appear to nourish I did eat did not appear to nourish me. I did not seem to have eough blood; my hands and legs were blue, and I had no strength to work. I tried several medicines but did not get good results. Then one day reading our newspaper I read about Dr. Williams Pink Pills and decided to try them. I used a half dozen boxes, and now feel well and strong, have a now feel well and strong, have a good appetite, and can do my work with ease. Naturally I have great faith in this medicine as a blood-making tonic."

Whether you are seriously ill, or merely feel easily tired and out-of-sorts, you should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this, spring. They are sold by medicine dealers everywhere, or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box, by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Scientific Wooing

Curiosity, Sympathy and Imagination Were the Basic Principles.

By F. A. MITCHEL

************ Dr. Shotwell was about to leave his consulting room at the close of his morning office hours when a man entered whose appearance at once arrested his attention. There is no word to describe his appearance except queer. He was neither homely nor good looking, neither well nor poorly dressed. Indeed, there was nothing for or against his personal appearance. He was simply queer. Nevertheless intellect was expressed in his face. He might have been a poet; he might have been a Socialist; he might have been a lightning calculator escaped from a dime museum. The doctor looked at him with an expression intended to ask what he could do for him. The patient thrust his hand in his pocket and pulled out a roll of bills, from which he selected five tens and, handing them to the doctor, said: "There's nothing the matter with me, doctor. I'm in perfect health. I desire to consult you as to a matter of importance to me, and since I know your time is valuable I offer payment in advance. For these bills I desire half an hour's consultation with you or such part of that time as may be necessary to my purpose.'

The doctor gave a tacit consent, ask-ed his visitor to be seated, took a chair himself, and the other proceeded:

"I desire to win the love of a certain woman who has not manifested the slightest interest in me. I am con-vinced that love between the sexes may be produced by exciting the imagination. Nine-tenths of our marriages in America are for what is called love, but what I call an abnormal temporary development of the imaginative faculty. In proof of this I would cite the different conditions of a couple about to be married from those of a couple that have been married. During the courtship, while they are feeding on what I call imaginary love food, they are in an ecstatic sus Marriage ends that suspense and brings reality. After that their relations are dependent upon a number of conditions, the chief of which, to state it concisely, is whether they are naturally fitted or unfitted to give each other aid and comfort."

The doctor sat attentive to this disquisition on love, an incipient smile gathering on his lips as his visitor proceeded. When this point had been reached and the speaker added, "Do you follow me?" the doctor replied: "I do. Proceed." Whereupon the man continued: "My name is Norman Bloodgood. I wish to marre a young woman named Catherine Anderson. The reason why I wish to marry her is because I desire to marry some one, and I have settled upon her. There is no more reason why she should marry me than any other man. She has met me once and treated me with indifference."

"Beg pardon," interrupted the medical man, "did she not evince at least curiosity?"

"Now I remember," responded the client, "there was a look on her face at seeing me indicating surprise or amusement or something of the kind, but nothing indicating admiration or in any way being drawn toward me.

But why do you ask this?" "I take it for granted from what you have told me that you wish me to suggest some scientific method of exciting an interest in you, which, being fanned by the imagination, may result

"Exactly." "Very well. I would recommend attempting to effect a lodgment through curiosity, the only constituent part of your makeup that seems to have taken any hold upon the young lady. Beginning with this as a foundation we may build upon it with other excitants of the feelings commonly used by wooers. Sympathy may be excited by real or feigned misfortune. Flattery when undetected as such is a stimulant. Sentiment excited by gifts, principally flowers, is an excellent means of producing love. Then when a substruc ture has thus been laid a touch of hands, a kiss"-"I am aware of these methods, common to all mankind," interrupted the visitor. "What I desire to learn from you is how to handle that very difficult matter of making a beginning. "While I eat willing to adult" re-plied the doctor, "that there may be some means of producing such an ef-foct. I doubt if we have attained to a knowledge of it. Nevertheless I confees that the bent of my mind is to-ward investigation, and I will be in-terested in assisting you to win the love of the lady of your choice by act-entific means, but handing his visitor the proffered fee—"I could not consent. to take money for what is beyond the pale of my profession."

The matter of the fee having been settled by the client accepting its return, the doctor proceeded: "Since you consider the imagination the excitant of love I am willing to work with you on this line. But we must in your case begin with curiosity, since you that is the only hold you have don Miss Anderson's attention. Now, suppose you make a mystery concerning yourself. Hint at some great grief in your life, some injustice done you. I would not scruple to try to impose upon the lady a sin you have committed, of which you are repentant."

"But, doctor, the time must come when it will become necessary to make plain this mystery."

"Not necessarily, but if it does you may gain a strong point by confessing some noble act which your tender con-science has exaggerated into a crime."

"Shake, doctor!" said the visitor, grasping the other's hand. "That suggestion is worth more than any pre-scription you have ever written." "That isn't saying much." muttered the man of medicine to himself.

"I must leave you now," he said to his client, looking at his watch, "to make my morning round of visits. Suppose you start on the lines I have suggested, and if you find that you have produced results let me know advise you, having made your beginning on a basis of curiosity, to add a teaspoonful-I mean a quantum-of sympathy, leaving the imagination to come in third, after which resort to the ordinary devices pertaining to courtship.' "Thank you, doctor," said the visitor, rising and grasping the doctor's hand warmly, and with the same serious look on his face that he had worn through the interview he went his way. Within a fortnight the doctor received a letter from his client in which he laid down his great grief and a sin that he had committed. He had killed a man for revenge, but had been driven to the act through a great wrong done him. He was suffering no end of mental torture. Miss Anderson's sympathy had been aroused, and she was intent upon knowing what had spurred him to kill a fellow being. This was as far as he had gone. He had noted the rise of considerable interest in him on the part of the lady. In due time he would reveal that his father and mother, who had lived in the wild west, had been murdered by Indians. He had not only killed all the Indians concerned in the massacre, but he had barbarously taken their scalps, acts for which he could never forgive himself. A second letter came in which Mr. Bloodgood spoke of the murder of his parents and his confession of his revenge. Miss Anderson had been much grieved for him and had been disappointed because he had not tortured the Indians before killing them. She had expressed wonder that he should have allowed the killing of a few savages who had murdered his dear father and mother to trouble his con-Surely be must have great science. nobility of soul to consider such an act a sin. And here, as these two scientists, Dr. Shotwell and Mr. Bloodgood, had intended, the imagination began to work. Miss Bloodgood pictured the settlers' cabin, the trees of the virgin prest waving over it, the old man sitting before the firelight at evening smoking his pipe and the old woman clearing the supper table; then the figures of the red men far in the evening twilight galloping toward the cabin. The massacre was too horrible for the dreamer to dwell upon, but she pictured the son's return to find his parents weltering in their blood. And now the queerness of Norman Bloodgood had given place to a heroic looking man bending over his parents' bodies, then looking up to heaven and swearing to avenge their death. She saw him mount a mettlesome steed and, plunging his spurs into the horse's flanks, speed away into the depths of the forest. She heard the crack of his rifle as he brought down the first savage. She saw him plunge a tomahawk into the next redskin's skull. She fancled him dealing death to a dozen In-dians and wished there were more.

Then her hero rode off, his værgeance wreaked, appalled at the gory being the massacre of his beloved parents had made him. Years of regret followed. What a noble spirit to grieve over the punishment of bloodthirsty savages! One day Mr. Bloodgood called at Dr. Shotwell's office and reported the story, he had told, the object of the experiment they were interested in. He knew nothing of his success in exciting Miss Anderson's imagination or her sympathy. He simply reported what he had done. The doctor listened to

Not long after this Bloodgood reported that is one of his fits of remerse he had dropped his head upon Miss Anderson's shoulder. She had not withdrawn from the contact. Hencouraged, he had fulded her in his arms. Still he had fulded her in his arms. Still he had folded her in his arms. Still not being repelled, he had kissed kgr. Then one day he called at the doctor's office to be congratulated upon his en-

These two scientists discussed the matter in the same vein as when they were laying out their plan of attacking Miss Anderson's heart by scientific merchads as if they had it in a test tube. Mr. Bloodgood did not appear to consider that there was any difference in the two processes. As for the doctor, he was a reticent man and never told even his best friend how much of the conquest was due to cause and effect and how much to nature.

Shotwell met him and asked him if he and preserved the secret of his decep

To my great delight, I soon saw an improvement. The peeling skin stopped within a week. At the time I started with Zam-Buk the eczema had spread all over my body, so that it took reasonable perseverance for the balm to be thoroughly effective. However I am delighted to inform you, that now, by the use of Zam-Buk, my skin has been restored to normal healthy condition."

PUTS HEALTH AND VIM INTO

So Says Mrs. MacPherson of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brantford, Ontario.—"I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two. I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the nape of my neck, and when I stooped over I could not get up without help, because of pain in my back. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I keep house, but I was such a wreck that I could not sweep the floor nor wash the dishes without lying down afterwards. A friend living near me told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so I could wash dishes and sweep without having to lie down. Later I became regular again in my monthly terms. I have taken ten bottles all told and am now all better. I can truly say that your wonderful medicine cannot be beaten for putting health and vim into a woman."—Mrs. James H.
