Against the mighty Government of Great Britain Mr. Parnell has no power except that which he may be able to secure by his appeals to the public sentiment of his countrymen...

It is now to be seen whether Ireland will be quieted and the Land League silenced by the arrest and imprisonment of Mr. Parnell.

What has Mr. Parnell done that gag law should be applied to him? Let us see what reasons were alleged in the warrant...

ENGLAND POLITICS.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—If the Liberals requested their defeat will be due to Mr. Gladstone and not to their opponents. The Conservatives make a sorry appearance in the field.

[N. Y. Herald.]

As for the Parnell arrest, the true view to be taken by our friends at home is one of sympathy for an unfortunate member of Parliament and of regret that a Minister of the Crown should have led into a foolish and unnecessary exercise of power.

Americans. The danger of an act like the arrest of Parnell is that it will be imposed upon our politics and have a decisive influence on questions that are entirely outside Ireland or England.

BRITISH LAND REFORM.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—While the Fair trade movement has not in any way lost its hold upon the masses, the Land Reform Question is rapidly coming to the front both in England and Scotland.

THE MAN FOR GALWAY.

LECTURE IN NEW YORK.

Tremendous Crowds!

ENTHUSIASM IN STEINWAY HALL.

The Mother of the Gracchi Speaks.

There has perhaps never been seen a larger or more enthusiastic crowd assembled as Saturday night last brought together in New York to hear Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P. for Galway, Mrs. Parnell, the mother of the modern Gracchi, and others.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

When I left Ireland a few days ago I was in a state of peace and tranquility. It was a condition of tranquil suspense and active preparation.

GOVERNMENT AND TYRANNY.

But I have a perfect right here to examine into their political actions and the reasons which they give for them. Mr. Gladstone (his name) don't mind hissing him; leave me to deal with him later on.

to be his intentions? I have been working side by side with Mr. Parnell for a long time past, and I thought I know what he was doing, but I must confess that Mr. Gladstone's information is a little more detailed than mine.

THE STRIFE FOR LIFE.

You remember very well when Monaghan was one of the most disturbed counties of Ireland. Now, what were the people playing for in that terrible game in which the gibbet was one of the prizes and a hangman's death among the cards.

MRS. PARNELL SPEAKS.

Mr. Sheehan then presented to Mr. O'Connor $100 and a set of resolutions which had been voted by a benevolent organization to which he belonged, and then the Chairman introduced, with a few words, Mrs. Parnell.

MRS. PARNELL RECEIVED.

Mrs. Parnell came on the platform at this moment and was escorted to a seat by the speaker's desk. The whole house rose to its feet as she came in sight and shouted and cheered and clapped hands for fully two minutes.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

We do not like being obliged to call so frequently upon our subscribers to pay up their subscriptions, but we sometimes find it necessary. Hence it is not our fault, but the forgetfulness or the neglect of those of our friends and patrons who do not seem to realize that a number of names the Taux Witness bears on its subscription rolls; what an immense sum they owe us in the aggregate, though small to each individual, and what good its possession would enable the proprietors to do in the field of Catholic journalism.

The following gentlemen have kindly consented to act in their respective localities for THE POST and THE WITNESS, and are empowered to collect subscriptions and enroll subscribers:—James Meehan, Nathurst, N.B.; Michael Murphy, Marmora, C.; Patrick Shea, Fonda, Pochontas Co., S. U.S.; M. Gannon, Jr., Gandy, Que.

We regret that after "setting up" the proceedings arising from the banquet to Mgr. Farrelly at Kingston and the ceremonial attending his inauguration at Belleville, we have been compelled to hold them over till next week's issue of the Taux Witness, when they will be given in their completeness.

One of the difficulties in the way of the Presidential succession has been overcome. Senator Bayard has been elected President of the Senate pro tem, and thus in case of the death of Arthur a Democrat will succeed him.

The Queen has conferred the Order of the Garter on King Alfonso of Spain and great has been the commotion and festivities in Madrid thereupon. How much happier Alfonso would be if Gibraltar accompanied the gift.

We have received a number of enquiries concerning the children Father Nugent is sending to Canada for adoption, to which we may reply that all information will be furnished by applying by letter to Father Nugent, Walton, Liverpool, England.

tariff, Sir John A. Macdonald threw the Hon. Mr. Blake into prison for condemning this measure; his action would have been justifiable and more so, for while the National Policy was cordially endorsed in Canada, the Land Bill was condemned in Ireland. But then Canada is a self-governed country, while Ireland is ruled by straps as a crown colony, without any of the advantages of a colony.

If the English army has been ignominiously beaten by the Boers it has retrieved its laurels in Ireland; if a chaplet fell from its brow at Laing's Nek, it covered itself with glory at Limerick—two successive occasions within the past month. It is simply irresistible, is this grand military machine, in old Ireland.

The Right Honourable Mr. Forster, better known as "Buckshot," when introducing his Coercion Bill promised that none but dissolute ruffians and village tyrants would come under its acts, and yet—strange inconsistency—he has lately released several of them on condition they gave their word of honor to agitate no more. Can dissolute ruffians then be possessed of honor?

LET the Land Act have a fair trial (send Parnell to Kilmainham), let the beneficence of Act be tested (in with Dillon and O'Kelly), open the courts to show how well the Act will work (close Kilmainham behind the creators of the bill). Mr. Gladstone is an eccentric knave; he establishes a land court and he is afraid to show his hypocritical countenance in it lest it might fall in and crush him.

We would like to impress upon the minds of our readers that there is a branch of the Irish National Land League in existence in Montreal which should be generously sustained in this crisis. It has up to this done a good deal in the cause, but its usefulness may be multiplied tenfold if those who really desire to see Ireland win in the present struggle would come forward and render their assistance and their influence.

SENATOR DAVIS, of Illinois, who, the New York Star says, "is neither fish, fowl nor good red herring," neither Democrat, Republican nor Independent, has been elected President of the Senate pro tem, and, therefore, Vice-President of the United States. Senator Bayard was elected temporarily before the three Republican Senators elect had been sworn in, but, on motion of Senator Edmunds Davis was on Thursday elected in his place, Bayard and himself refraining from voting on the division. The Republicans are, therefore, masters of the situation once more, and the Stalwarts are on the top of the ladder.

The false and fulsome praise bestowed upon John Dillon, M.P. for Tipperary, at the expense of Mr. Parnell, has been altogether lost upon that true Irish gentleman. Mr. Dillon is too sincere and too intelligent to be caught with such chaff, even were he not aware that deserved praise from "Coercion Bill" would be the political death of a national member of Parliament. Consequently Mr. Dillon took the earliest opportunity possible to disavow the great talking machine, with all its works and pomps, among which is the act for the perpetuation of landlordism in Ireland, commonly called the "Irish Land Act." It is well that Mr. Gladstone should discover that, saving the army, police, Castle hacks, landlords, balliffs et hoc, &c., he has no friends in Ireland, though his admirers may be many.

It is this week our melancholy duty to record the death of the Hon. Edward Goff Penny, Senator of the Dominion, editor-in-chief of the Montreal Herald, and one of the best editorial writers in Canada, if not the very best. Mr. Penny was born in London, England, on the 20th of May, 1820, so that he was in his sixty-second year when he died last night. He was one of those large-hearted, liberal minded Englishmen who are, fortunately, not so scarce in the world as many people imagine, and he was besides a Canadian patriot, always working zealously in the interests of his adopted country, which he loved just as well as if he had been to the manor born. He commenced his journalistic career on the Herald forty years ago as reporter, and by his capacity raised himself to the position as editor-in-chief and part proprietor. He was that rara avis, a thoroughly honest politician, amiable in his manners, sweet in his temper and so universal a favorite with his brothers of the Press that his death will come to them as a great misfortune. Montreal owes a debt of gratitude to the deceased gentleman second only to that due the Hon. John Young, for he never lost sight of its interests whether in the public press or in the Senate. Nor should the lovers of freedom, fair play and justice soon forget him. He was not easily frightened or intimidated; he cared naught for popular noise and clamor; he pursued the even tenor of his way, though his path was narrow and difficult, and did what he thought was right, irrespective of creeds or politics. The Herald, under his control, was for a long time the only journal in Montreal that dared to speak the truth or assert freedom of speech and opinion, despite the howling of many factions. And now the genial gentleman, the accomplished journalist, the sincere patriot, the friend of Holton and of true reform, has departed this life. May the grass grow green over his honored grave; may the turf rest lightly over his breast, and when the last warning sounds for general judgment, may Edward Goff Penny be found among the elect.

The Russian police are not done arresting Nihilists, and it appears the English police have not yet properly begun incarcerating Land Leaguers. Since the Nihilist troubles commenced a Czar has been brutally assassinated, and conspirators are hourly plotting the death of his successor. And yet, although the Government of Russia is a pure despotism and the Czar can do as he pleases in the distribution of his immense army and police—we hear of no wholesale bayoneting of innocent people, no maddening scattering of buckshot among the bodies of women and children; while in Ireland under the aegis of a free and beneficent constitution (!) the hospitals are half filled with wounded and the jails are crammed with suspects. Madness has seized the Irish military police and it is extending to the army; they actually run amuck like the mad natives of the sea, and stab every one in their way, merchants, bankers, members of Parliament, Newspaper reporters and all who are unfortunate enough to come in contact with them. Perhaps all this time their intentions are good, and they are merely employing Mr. Gladstone's method of giving the Land Act a fair trial. Nevertheless, it is not every man with a cold-throated bayonet sticking in his body who is intelligent enough to appreciate this lovely policy, and some of the Irish people would undoubtedly at this moment swap the elegant Constitution for the rule of the Czar and autocrat of all the Russias. Who can blame them, while showers of bullets and buckshot are obscuring their usually excellent judgment.

The Montreal Herald of this morning contains the following article which, it doubtless, imagines clinches the argument against Irish autonomy—

"The Irish agitators profess to regard the United States as the model of what a well-governed country should be. Yet the Americans would not permit the Southern States to secede from the Union; though Irishmen seem to think England should grant independence to Ireland, and allow Mr. Parnell to govern the country by the system of intimidation which he has lately employed to coerce well-disposed people into obeying his mandates.

This would be excellent logic if there was any analogy between Ireland and the Southern States. The Southern States entered the Union of their own free will. They ruled the Union for a long time, and it was only when they could no longer rule it, and that their beautiful institution of slavery was endangered that they attempted to secede. If the Herald wants a parallel it should bring in Wales, or the English northern counties, or even Scotland, all of which are part and parcel of the Island of Great Britain as much as the southern states were of the American Republic. Ireland is a distinct island, a separate country, evidently intended by nature for independence. It is complete in itself, and possesses all the natural attributes of a nation. Besides Mr. Parnell does not speak of complete independence; he is agitating for the status quo ante Union; he wants the Government by the King, Lords and Commons of Ireland restored. The relations that exist between Austria and Hungary would fit the case of Great Britain and Ireland marvellously well and if our contemporary waits patiently until England's next great war they may be established.

ARREST OF MR. PARNELL.

The excitement created by the arrest of Charles Stewart Parnell, especially among the Irish race, can be easily imagined, although from the veiled threats held out of late by the present arbiters of Ireland's fortunes it has not been altogether unexpected. Nevertheless the feeling of exasperation will be none the less intense, of indignation less bitter. "The first question that arises to the lips will be: "Why is he arrested?" and the immediate answer will be, "for the same reason that led to the arrest of O'Connell, O'Brien, Mitchell, Meagher, Davitt and a hundred other Irishmen, because they loved their country and sought her good." It would seem to be the destiny of the true chiefs of the Irish people to come in contact with British prisons, scaffolds or bayonets, and Parnell is not to be an exception. The superficial may at once conclude that it was the irritated vanity of the senile old man Gladstone which has prompted the arrest of the Irish leader but while admitting that it is the immediate cause we must look deeper for the real and primary one. The British Government are essentially landlord and aristocratic. They framed a land bill which was intended, not to settle the land question, but to throw dust in the eyes of the people. Parnell's clear intellect discovered the fraud, and he was not slow in exposing it. Hence the increased strength of the League, the rage of the landlords, the pressure brought to bear upon an infirm, insincere old man, the Cabinet meeting, the arrest and the incarceration. What will be the result of the outrage? Is it true that the Irish people have of late years been so schooled in self-reliance that they will abide by the laws of Parnell and Davitt, though they are in prison and offer a passive but stern resistance to their foes, or will they be goaded into desperation by the arrest of their beloved leader and the acts of a thousand petty tyrants, fall into the trap set for them and break out in premature rebellion? Parnell himself has often declared that if the British Government immured in their dungeons every one of the chiefs of the League, trained assistants would immediately step into their places, and the movement would go on as before. The correctness of this assertion will now be tested. There was an influential number of delegates at the late Convention who were in favor of no rents who may now find themselves at liberty to carry out their idea. It will bring the Dukes of Devonshire and Abercorn and other magnates, who are the real rulers of the British Empire, to their senses; it would beggar the Irish aristocracy into nationalism. And what more can the Government do to them than what they are actually doing at present? It is a reign of terror which exists in Ireland, and things can scarcely be worse. We hear of men, women and children bayoneted and buckshotted every day, but never a soldier or policeman hurt; but that is not sufficient for now the Brights and Gladstones want Insurrection and wholesale slaughter.

If Parnell were a demagogue, or partizan, who was using his unbounded popularity for selfish purposes, the Irish people might be still excused for giving vent to their indignation at the illegal act which consigns him to a prison. The Government would not treat an Englishman so, they have not dared to treat Bradlaugh so who avows himself an atheist and a republican, and expresses a wish to overturn the monarchy; but when it is considered that he is the representative of the Irish nation, that he but expresses the national aspiration for land reform and legislative independence by his words and actions, the full force of the outrage perpetrated is at once felt, and strikes home to the Irish heart. His arrest is the second declaration of war against Ireland within the past two years; the first was by Beaconsfield, the second by Gladstone, and although the marshalling of armies is all on one side, and it takes two parties to fight a battle, the one-sided struggle rages all the same. It is not difficult to define what should be the duty of Irishmen in the present crisis if they had the power to act. But as they have not, as England is at peace with all the world except Ireland, and as her forces have full military possession of that unfortunate land another method of defence must be sought. There is nothing for it but passive resistance and strict obedience to the behests of what we may term the Irish National Government, whose members are confined in English prisons. An appeal to arms would be madness under present circumstances. It would gladden the hearts of the dukes and of Gladstone, their tool, as the insurrection of '98 gladdened the hearts of Pitt and Castlereagh. It is perhaps possible that if such an appeal were made the Irish would not be left to be slaughtered like the Zulus; their country lies in the centre of civilization, and the mightiest Congress in the world, a Congress which adjourned to hear Parnell state the case of Ireland, might not stand tamely by and see a friendly people at the mercy of a brutal soldiery. Nevertheless, the odds are too desperate; the chances of success too feeble, and there is too much to be gained by union and passive resistance which should not be thrown away. A whole nation cannot be indicted, and that being so, there is hope of ultimate success on the present lines.

The Irishmen on this side of the Atlantic have now a solemn duty to perform. Patrick's Day parade speeches and sun-bursty orations by patriotic politicians are excellent things in their way, but they do no good to Ireland. Something more serious is required. The Land League should be sustained and supported more than ever. Monetary assistance should be given, and given at once and freely by those who can afford it. Nothing can be done without money. When France goes to crush the Tunisians, or England the Boers, they must have the sinews of war. Even the cut-throat Emergency men cry out for money to enable them to put down boycotting, and the landlords respond to their call. It is in the love and affection borne her by her children that Ireland puts her trust. Let her trust not be in vain in this supreme crisis of her history. The Irishmen in the States are coming forward nobly; though living in Canada we are none the less Irish than they, nor is our duty less plain.

THE LAST CONQUEST OF IRELAND. (PERHAPS.)

Ireland is once more ruled by the bayonet, but order does not reign nevertheless. The leaders of the people are in prison, but the spirit of the people is not broken; the idea for which they are struggling is abroad in its majesty, and it is accepted as an axiom that ideas can neither be bayoneted nor buckshotted. Bayonets and their utilizers rust and are broken, and die, but the idea lives on, for it is immortal, like thought, which cannot be imprisoned. There is another idea also abroad, received as gospel in Ireland but only glimmering in the breasts of her rulers, that England cannot govern her in future. She may keep her down by sheer brute force for a season, but she will rise again like truth itself; the soil for which the people are struggling may be shaken by the tramp of mercenary soldiers, but it cannot last forever; the people know their rights and will maintain them, and no power on earth can force them, except for the moment, to accept a ruler which oppresses them, and which has oppressed them through the gloomy, bloody, famine-born centuries.

It is a grand point gained that the British Government has showed its hand; there is no longer any necessity for hypocrisy; all Gladstone's miserable sophisms are exposed, and brute force stands revealed in all its nakedness. The son of a Demerara slave dealer posed successfully as a Liberal for a number of years, but the game is up and the world now sees that what was considered the most friendly of British statesmen towards Ireland, is nothing but an implacable enemy. The British representative assemblage at the Guildhall cheered to the echo when Gladstone read the telegram announcing Parnell's arrest, cheered with as much enthusiastic ferocity as did the British Parliament when southern victories were received eighteen years ago. What can Ireland expect from such a people? What can England expect in return but that immortal hatred which descends from father to son? It is the same England now as in the days of Elizabeth, Cromwell, William Pitt and Castlereagh, and this is the same Ireland as the "Thicket of the O'Neills," the Sarsfields, the Emmets and the Fitzgeraulds, with the difference which what is called a more advanced civilization creates, and that Cromwell was a honest man than Gladstone.

We repeat it is far better that the mask has been torn from off the face of hypocrisy so that all men may realize the situation without difficulty, and Irishmen abroad may measure the amount of mercy their country at home has to expect from the ancient oppressor when in possession of unlimited power in the exercise of her ferocious purpose. The declaration of Gladstone that the issue was not between him as the ruler and the Irish people is false; the issue is squarely between him and the Irish people. The convention which resolved to give the Land Bill a fair trial represented the whole nation, but it is Gladstone and the great Lords who have him by the throat who refuse a fair trial. The wretched abortion cannot bear the test and Gladstone knows it, hence the march of flying columns, the rumble of artillery, the imprisoning of leaders, the declaration of war. There may have been a few waverers heretofore who held aloof from the national ranks, but Gladstone's action has forced them in line with their brethren. It is not "dissolute ruffians or village tyrants" who have condemned the arrest of Parnell and his friends and the reign of terror. At a meeting held on Saturday night the citizens of the Irish capital, presided over by its Chief Magistrate, condemned the despot and his acts. What stronger proof can we have of the feeling in Ireland. But where is the use in advancing arguments to men who can command armies? This is the whole truth, and let there be no mistake about it; the men in prison are the elected rulers of Ireland, while the men with bayonets are as much hirelings and mercenaries as the Hessians of '98. It is this irritating knowledge which has driven the dukes to drive Gladstone to his infamous coup d'etat. But it is too late, as well might they strive to stop the advance of the ocean waves as try to crush the aspirations of the Irish people for land and liberty. They are an intelligent people, they are a united people, and they must consequently be a free people. John Brown was executed at Harper's Ferry more than twenty years ago, but the majestic chorus was afterwards heard swelling from a citizen army:—
John Brown's body lies mouldering in the grave,
But his soul is marching on."

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN.

Sir—I was cold and hungry yesterday, it having been a day of abstinence in my Church (The Bummeronian), but a flash of joy warmed me up and filled me when I saw Parnell's arrest announced on the bulletin boards. I consider Parnell a personal enemy. If it were not for him I would have had remittances for England long ago. All my people are landlords you know, but Parnell's Communist principles have stopped payment of the rents. It is very aggravating, but his arrest is a consolation. I enjoy my liberty at all events, and when I do procure a square meal it will not be prison fare. I was so overjoyed that I could not restrain my feelings, but overpowered as I was and bathed in tears, I made a rush for the Herald, which has of late taken such a proper stand against the Irish. The editor sat in his chair, the universe revolving round him. He was, when I entered, in the middle of an editorial which was destined to change the political face of the earth, and so agitated was his soul that I could notice his mousetrap turning gray as if, to use an expression of George Eliot, age was striking him with a wand. He was evidently between two minds as to whether he would continue the article or tear it up, feeling that a fearful responsibility rested upon him. "Well," said he, "what's up?"
"Why, haven't you heard? Parnell is incarcerated, the Empire is saved."
"Blast Parnell and the Empire, too, I am more interested in dividing myself between the Liberal party and the Syndicate. If you have come to pay your subscription or to get a puff for your big carrots, step down below."
This was not encouraging. "Dear Sir," said I, "you don't realize my mission. My estates and vegetables are at present all in Ireland. The Emergency Committee in Ireland are calling for funds to put down boycotting, and I am their accredited agent here. A five dollar bill would be acceptable, here is my own name for a hundred pounds."
"If you don't move from here in five minutes, I'll send for a policeman."
"Well, will you lend me a dollar to cable for a remittance."
The editor arose with a sigh, and I departed, lest he should get excited. I next visited the Gazette office, but my mission was a failure. There was any amount of sympathy to be had, but no money. I departed, plunged in bitter grief, which changed to a fit of abstraction as I walked along. I simply followed my nose, and my nose followed an odor of fried beefsteak and brought me right into a restaurant, where I found myself sitting in a dreary kind of way, and fiddling with some devilled kidneys, before I could realize where I was. A number of people were engaged in the same way, and the conversation was all about Parnell. One said he should have been arrested long ago, to which another replied that he was a gentleman and Gladstone a fool, at which I stood up and made the following pointed remark as I mechanically put a small red card which a girl had given me in my pocket: "Gentlemen, I do not come here to be insulted; I am an Irish landlord myself, whose income of thirty thousand a year the miserable wretch has reduced to fifteen thousand. I have that amount in my pocket now and I would cheerfully give it to see Parnell hanged."

A profound silence fell upon the diners and I walked out into the open air, the landlord having too much respect for my feelings to interfere. The kidneys were excellent. The Provincial elections are coming on, and I may get something to do. I do not object to work if it is not of the disgraceful sort, that obliges one to use one's hands, such as digging, measuring out things like shopkeepers, or casting up columns of contemptible figures. I would not object to writing an editorial now and then, just so mouldy public opinion, you know, and show the necessity of consent to deliver a few political lectures if well paid for them. I confess that if there is any Montreal man I envy it is a swell barkeeper whose shirt front is spotless, and whose diamond studs are not paste. I consider him the nearest approach to the perfect gentleman. I have, in fact, tended bar on a few occasions—indeed, I may say I was educated for the bar, but my employer and I disagreed on matters of minor importance. He was disgustingly particular about counting the money in the morning, and when he found that there were left in the till only a few pats to get into a rage and ask where the cash had gone, expended at the bar all the night before, by a few hundred tipplers, for cigars and brandy, and would you believe it, for length knocked me down and dismissed me at for "knocking down," whatever he meant by that.

But to return to the elections, I wonder what will they be giving for votes? I understand the contest will be a one-sided affair altogether, as the Liberals are not strong in their policy. This is not fair to the Bummeronians, who are paid in proportion to the ferocity of the contest. West-if he stands, and so there will be little show for "expenses" there, but the other two constituencies will have a fight, and money will flow in torrents, as well as whiskey. I hate and detest bribery, I abhor it; I have no bribery in old England.

I am much concerned at the slow progress aestheticism is making in Montreal. The ignorance of harmonious colors, displayed is marvellous. I often stand in front of the St. Lawrence Hall—my favorite palace—and weep (I inwardly) tears of bitter sorrow, and weep of the ladies, if there be any in Canada. Why, an Englishwoman, covered with a sack appears to more advantage. Such a conglomeration of shades, such a piling of Pelton upon Ossa in the way of colors: I observed a brunette yesterday with a yellow silk sacque, accompanied by a blonde wearing brown satin. Oh! my adopted country! What a number of Philistines dost thou contain! It seems to me the best dressed man in Canada is the Revd. Alfred O. Peay. One would think he had been just lain by a tailor's goose, but then it is quite natural, he is just from England; and has come into a fortune left him by an admirer of his literary genius. It was Mr. Holloway, the great druggist, left him the money.

THE IRISH NATIONAL LAND LEAGUE.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING—A TYRANNICAL GOVERNMENT CONDEMNED—PRACTICAL SYMPATHY.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Montreal branch of the Irish National Land League was held on Sunday afternoon in the St. Patrick's Hall. C. J. Doherty, Esq., occupied the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. A large number of new members joined the League, to protest, as they said, against the cowardly act of the British Government in arresting the leaders of the Irish people, and to lend a helping hand in the fierce struggle.

The sum of $67 was received from the St. Patrick's National Association. It was at once proposed that the thanks of the League were due and be tendered to the Association for their contribution to the funds of the League.

As the sinews of war were now more needed than ever it was unanimously resolved that each member of the League constitute himself a collector in order to swell the funds and forward as much as possible to headquarters in Ireland. Several members then addressed the meeting on the crisis of the hour, and the following resolution was proposed by Mr. F. A. Quinn, seconded by Mr. W. Rawley, and carried amid enthusiasm:—
"That we the members of the Montreal Branch of the Irish National Land League have heard with the greatest indignation of the arrest by a tyrannical Government of Charles Stewart Parnell, the leader of a National movement, which more than any previous movement, secured the enthusiastic sympathy and support of the Irish people the world over.
That the arrest of their leader is regarded by the Irish people as a declaration on the part of an alien Government to continue in the future, as in the past, a system of suppression of liberty; that we regard the arrest as indicating a determination to goad our fellow-countrymen into premature rebellion, and as on a par with the policy which brought on the rebellion of '98, in order to drown the aspirations of our people in their blood.
That we urge upon our people never to abandon the struggle, to yield no point nor position, and to prove themselves worthy of her ancestors, who, though beaten, were never conquered.
That in their contest with a tyrannical Government they can count upon their fellow-countrymen in America, and we pledge ourselves to give every aid, moral and material."
The feeling of the meeting ran very high, and the greatest indignation was given vent to. A member called upon the meeting to show practical sympathy with the Land League in Ireland, and at once headed a subscription list with a contribution of $50. In a few minutes several hundred dollars were added to the funds. After the transaction of some minor business the meeting was brought to a close.

LADIES' LAND LEAGUE MEETING.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Ladies' Land League was held in Water Hall on Thursday evening, Miss McDonald, President, in the chair. After routine business a choice programme of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, &c., was rendered, the several ladies taking part acquitting themselves in a creditable manner. The feature of the evening was an original dialogue written by a lady member, in which Miss Charlotte Lane and Miss Bridget Hayes distinguished themselves, as was attested by the plaudits of the large audience.
The despatch in The Post announcing the arrest of Mr. Parnell was then read to the meeting, when the following resolutions were moved, and unanimously adopted:—
"That this meeting express their intense indignation at this cowardly and atrocious act of the Government, in the arrest and incarceration, without just cause, of the leader of the Irish people;
"And that they convey to him and his lieutenants the assurance that they still retain their confidence, and that the people, by following the course marked out for them, will be supported in their unequal struggle against landlord tyranny and oppression."
"That a copy of these resolutions be published in The Post and Irish World."
"After the singing of "God Save Ireland" in which the entire audience joined, the meeting adjourned."

LETTER FROM QUEBEC

QUEBEC, Oct. 15, 1881.
The arrest of the Irish leader, Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell, caused not merely indignation, but the bitterest loathing and contempt...

It is too late now to think of reconciling the Irish... an English statesman, my first object in view of coming trouble would be to destroy the Irish...

Then, in the name of God, let it be a universal upheaval of the people... Don't let us have one-half the clergy in union with the struggle...

And here, in your presence, my dear friends... I have no nervous tonic at once so reliable and convenient as Fellows' Compound Syrup...

At a large meeting of the above League, held at their hall, last night... The various speakers spoke in the strongest language of condemnation...

At a meeting of the North Dublin Board of Guardians Mr. Kenny, the medical officer and medical attendant upon the suspects in Kilmaham Gaol...

When a poor man lay on his death-bed, one of his friends came in to express his sympathy... He took the poor man's hand and said, with evident emotion...

"Johnny," said his father, as the boy took the primal biscuit from the plate... "Don't you know that it is impolite to help yourself before your elders?"

DEPARTMENTS OF STATE. Washington, October 8, 1881. F. W. Henshaw, Esq., President of the Board of Trade, Montreal.

THE POWER OF FORENSIC ELOQUENCE.

A lawyer in Cleveland, Ohio, was defending a very handsome young woman accused of stealing from a large unoccupied dwelling in the night time, and thus he spoke in conclusion:

WIT AND HUMOR.

A shoemaker was the other day fitting a customer with a pair of boots, when the buyer observed that he had but one objection to them, which was that the soles were a little too thick.

A lady of enormous physical proportions, who recently visited Ireland, was the other night very eloquently describing to a democratic audience her experiences.

SCIENCE IN FULL PROGRESS.
Thousands cured of Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung diseases by Dr. M. Souville's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and are prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent by letter, and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Dr. Souville's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared except in their very last stage. Write for particulars to Dr. M. Souville, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. Read the following notices:—
(From the Montreal Gazette, December 24th, 1880.)

We are pleased to notice that a great many of our best citizens have bought Dr. M. Souville's Spirometer, which is used for the cure of those terrible diseases known by the name of Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma, and it is so highly spoken of as an instrument and preparation were in use, and it is in the cure of such complaints, and to satisfy our curiosity, we visited Dr. M. Souville at his office, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal, and gave a thorough examination of his invention, of it. We think that such a method, which conveys medicinal properties direct to the organs affected by those distressing diseases, cannot fail to be a benefit to humanity, instead of pouring drugs into the stomach and deranging digestion. These wonderful instruments, with their contents, were invented by Dr. M. Souville after long and careful experiments in chemical analysis, and used in hundreds of cases treated by him in the hospitals of Europe. We find the doctor a well-learned gentleman, and he in-structs the physicians and suffers to try his instrument free of charge.

Common Sense in Medicine.
(Montreal Star, January 5, 1881.)

Dr. M. Souville, the Parisian physician and inventor of the Spirometer for the scientific treatment of diseases of the lungs, and the passages, who recently took up his residence among us, is meeting with excellent success. Already the doctor has had hundreds of patients, who have given his system a trial, and, so far as we have learned, with both satisfaction and benefit. Dr. Souville makes a departure from the usual methods of treating diseases of the air passages. He contends that the proper mode of treating them is by inhalation and absorption, not by pouring drugs into the stomach and thus upsetting and deranging one part of the system in the hope of benefiting another. This argument certainly has the advantage of being common sense, which is always the best kind of sense. The doctor certainly has the courage of his opinions and confidence in his system, for he gives a standing invitation to physicians and suffers to visit him and test his instruments free of charge. His office is at 13 Phillips Square, Montreal.

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" is no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the mind and heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Balm or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. DANGERS OF THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Chas. H. Landerberger's mill was burned to-night. The fire broke out about 9.45. An officer noticed something peculiar about the electric lights, and in a moment the three upper floors seemed to become a mass of smoke and flame. Neighbors rushed to the building and saw the operatives at the windows, on the third and fourth floors. They called to the girls not to jump, as a ladder would be brought, but several sprang from the windows. Mattie Conlin, Fred. Krep, Geo. Dougherty, Henry Morrison, J. Reynolds, and an unknown girl were dangerously burned about the face and arms; the two girls will probably die. Matilda Shultz, Annie Miller, Samuel Lappham, George B. Hutton, Kate Shafer, Lizzie Franks, Annie Brady, Michael Larkin and an unknown man were also injured, but not so severely. Jos. Glasior is missing. There were no fire escapes. Loss $70,000. The shrieks of the poor creatures in the building when their escape was cut off was heartrending. Most of them jumped to the sidewalk, and a few escaped by the elevator rope. There were some thirty-five persons in the building. It is believed some of the operatives were buried in the ruins. It is supposed the fire originated from the sparks of the electric light firing a lot of material on the second floor. One girl is reported to have been killed outright by striking the iron steps. At least 20 employees are injured. It believed half of them will die.

AMERICAN FISHERIES.

GLoucester, Mass., Oct. 12.—A largely attended meeting in the interest of the Gloucester Fisheries was held to-night. Collector Babson presided, and made a speech denouncing the Washington treaty. A committee was appointed to memorialize Congress to the effect that article 33 of the Washington treaty had not only been detrimental to the interests of the United States, but unjust and monstrous in the valuation by the Halifax commission of the British shore fisheries, and which the experience of the past ten years had shown to be valueless to American fishermen, and praying that the operation of the fishery articles of said treaty and all other treaty provisions relating to the fisheries on the shores of Canada and Newfoundland be terminated, so that British and American fishermen may each in their own waters enjoy the right to take fish unmolested, and equal commercial rights in the waters of either country.

Epps's Cocoa—GRAEFUL AND COMFORTING.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a condition may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist any tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are sneaking around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure and healthy nourishment."—Civil Service Gazette. Sold only in packets labeled—JAMES EPPS & CO., MANUFACTURERS, LONDON, ENGLAND. Also makers of Epps's Cocoa:—Essence for after-noon use.

MOTHERS! MOTHERS! MOTHERS!!!
Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle.

TRIED AND TRUE!
How sad to contemplate the fact, that for the sake of gain, would-be philanthropists have introduced patent medicines and drugs (vile compounds) which are advertised to cure all the ills that flesh is heir to. Verily they have their reward. Thousands are annually sent to their graves through the use of such compounds. Baxter's Mandrake Bitters have come before a discerning public, without any loud trumpeting. They have been tried and have not been found wanting. They are daily gaining in public favor, and for dyspepsia, jaundice, and biliousness have no equal.

All beds seem hard to the rheumatic. Then hearken ye pensive sufferers! Apply Dr. THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL to your aching joints and muscles. Rely on it that you will experience speedy relief. Such, at least, is the testimony of those who have used it. The remedy is likewise successfully resorted to for throat and lung diseases, sprains, bruises, etc.

"There is an extraordinary richness and purity of tone—a capacity of portray feeling, and a wonderful power of expression in the Weber Piano. It is the best in America—probably in the world to-day."—CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION.

"As song-bird after song-bird, from the imitator Gerster to our own dear Louise Kellogg, and artist after artist leaves our shores, the last kindly adieu from the deck of the parting steamer is invariably wafted to Weber."

"For many years—in fact from the time of the peerless Franziska Ross, Nilsson, Patti, Albani, and hundreds of others—Weber has thus been singled out by them all. Partly, no doubt, this is due to his kindness to them, but mainly to that something in the tone, that extraordinary sympathetic richness of the Weber Piano which makes his instruments the special favorite of every great musician."—New York Times.

"The tone of the Weber Piano is so pure, prolonged and of such inextinguishable depth, that they sustain the voice in a wonderful degree. We not only commend them in the highest terms, but consider them the best pianos in the world."—HER MAJESTY'S ITALIAN OPERA COMPANY.
