LOFTY SUMMIT
TAKEN BY ITALY
Capture of Formidable Rampart Col di Lana Reported From Rome.

TOOK WAR MATERIAL
Positions Eight Thousand Feet Above Sea Carried by Assault.

ROME, Nov. 8.—The following official bulletin was issued today at the headquarters of the Italian general staff:
In the Doane Valley one of our recon-noitering parties attacked and put to flight enemy detachments concentrated in the vicinity of Murandani bridge, between Val Doane and the river.
In the upper Cornedole our offensive against the formidable rampart of Col di Lana was crowned with success. After an effective artillery preparation our infantry, by a fast and furious attack, took enemy positions by assault yesterday afternoon, hoisting our colors on the steep summit which rises among the snows to a height of 8000 feet. We have made up to the present 100 prisoners, four of whom are officers belonging to the emperor's own staff. We also took a great quantity of munitions and other war material.
"Along the Isosno front the activity of our artillery continues."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 9.—The following official communication was issued today:
Near Anafarta our artillery rendered unworkable a gun of an enemy battery and blew up, near Bursa, Te-peh, an enemy ammunition store.
"Otherwise there was the usual artillery and rifle firing in this district and near Seddu Bahr."

MINERS THREATEN STRIKE
IN FACE OF COAL SHORTAGE

Want To Force All Workers To Join Union While Government Appeals for Greater Production To Assure Success at Front.

CARDIFF, Nov. 8.—(10.50 p.m.)—The Rhondda district miners, numbering 50,000, have decided to tender a fortnight's notice on Nov. 15 that they will stop work until all the men employed in the collieries join the South Wales Miners' Federation.
SERIOUS SHORTAGE FACED.
LONDON, Nov. 8.—Official notice has been posted in all coal mines, stating that such a large number of miners have already joined the army that "the supply of coal, which is of vital national interest, is seriously affected."
Hereafter coal miners offering themselves as recruits will be accepted only on condition that they continue to work in the mines until called upon.
"Heretofore the success of the country depends no less than upon the men who are serving at the front."

VIOLENT ARTILLERY ACTIONS
PREVAIL ON FRENCH FRONT

PARIS, Nov. 8, 10 p.m.—The official communication issued by the war office tonight reads as follows:
"Violent artillery actions continued during the day in several regions along the front, notably in Artois, in the sectors of Leos and the Givenchy wood, to the north of the Avre, in the neighborhood of Arras, and in Champagne, to the east of Tannoy, as well as to the north of Massiges.
Our batteries destroyed to the north of Saint Mihiel a German anti-aircraft gun.
In the Vosges the struggle at the quarters with petards and bombs was again very spirited in the neighborhood of Chapelette.
The Belgian official communication reads:
"Calm prevails on the front."

NINETEEN SANK WITH CRUISER

Officer and Six Men of Ger-

Wounds.

BERLIN ADMITS LOSS
Undine Was Torpedoed While Escorting a German Ferryboat.

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE TORONTO WORLD.
LONDON, Nov. 8.—Details of the sinking of the small German cruiser Undine in the Baltic Sea are given in a despatch tonight from Malmö, Sweden, as follows:
"The cruiser Undine was sunk Sunday while she was escorting the German ferryboat Preussen from Trelleborg, Sweden, to Sassenitz, Prussia.
The cruiser sank in three minutes, but with the exception of 19 men, who went down with her, the crew were saved. The second officer and six men died later from wounds.
"A torpedo boat which accompanied the Undine and the ferryboat was not attacked.
The Berlin official statement says the Undine was sunk by two torpedoes from a submarine on the afternoon of Nov. 7 while patrolling the south Swedish coast. Nearly the entire crew was saved.
The Undine was a protected cruiser of 2672 tons displacement, 328 feet long and 15.8 feet depth. Her armament consisted of ten 4.1-inch guns and two 18-inch torpedo tubes. She was built in 1905 at Howaldt."

nent of M. Venizelos, who at first refused the portfolios of education and

MISS HUBB WINS
CHALLENGE CUP

Lady Beck Official as Judge

New York.

CHOICE FOUND FAVOR
Toronto Hunt Wins in Contest With Belmont
Hunt.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—High jumpers, militia mounts and classy hackneys were today's attractions at the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden. The judging of two classes of trotters engaged the closest attention in the earlier session when the exhibition of the Shetland stallions Punch and King Largo, with three of their get, was a feature of the day.
The chief event of the evening session was the competition between rifle ladies' saddle horses for the Fleishmann Challenge Cup valued at $200.
The conditions for this class specify that the riders use sidesaddles, the only event in the entire show in which this is made compulsory. Lady Beck, wife of Col. Sir Adam Beck, of London, Ont., was in the judges' stand with James G. Marshall. When the cup went to Miss Marjorie Hubbs, riding "Wildflower," the decision was greeted with vociferous applause.
In the afternoon one of the features was the contest by hunters. Two hunts were represented—The Belmont and the Toronto Hunt. The six horses were sent twice over the jumps before the judges could decide upon the winner. At the second attempt the Toronto trio—Toraline (F. Hodson), Cobourne (M. J. Elliot), Jap (G. B.
Elliot)—made a clean score, except that two slightly nicked the top bar with their hind legs.
Fur Prices Advancing.
Why delay longer in making the purchase of that fur set or coat that you have had in mind? Do you know that fur prices are rapidly advancing? In the London market raw furs have advanced 50 per cent, and this raises in hand to reflect on finished stocks before long. Buy now when prices are low and stocks are complete. It is the wise way to save money and get the best quality fur.
The W. and D. Dineen Company, Ltd., have the finest stock of furs that they have ever shown in 50 years of fur selling. Make it a point to come in and inspect the display today. 149

FRENCH PRESS ADVANCE

British Co-Operate on Right Wing—Montenegrins Again
Repulse Austrians.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Austro-Germans have succeeded in crossing the Morava River in Serbia and General Von Gallwitz has occupied Krusevac, one of Serbia's largest towns, about 30 miles due northwest of Nish.
The fall of Krusevac means that the branch railway line to Uzhitze, near the Bosnian frontier, has been broken by the invaders close to the point where it leaves the main Belgrade-Nish-Saloniki line. A large number of prisoners, ten guns and a lot of war material fell into German hands.
The Montenegrins also are advancing from the east; but in the west the Austrians claim to have inflicted another defeat on the Montenegrins.
Further progress by French forces who are reported to have occupied Krotal and Babuna Heights is reported.
An Athens despatch says: "The Franco-British line in southern Serbia and southwestern Bulgaria stretches about 60 miles today, from Babuna heights, just north of Philip, in Serbia, to a point southeast of Strumitsa, Bulgaria.
"At the point where this line crosses the Nish-Saloniki railway, heavy fighting is in progress with the Bulgars, who are badly disorganized.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Ambassa-

American sailing ship Paas of Baltimore, which, after being seized by a British warship, was captured with the prize crew aboard by a German submarine. Germany recently ordered the vessel held for prize court proceedings at Hamburg, on the ground that her transfer from Canadian to American registry after the war began was illegal.

ST. PATRICK'S MART IN FOUL CONDITION

New and Separate Building Required for Jewish Butchers' Accommodation. Mayor Draws Attention to Need of More Housing for the Soldiers.

Conditions are deplorable and the stench is awful, declared Ald. Cowan yesterday when describing the property committee conditions prevailing at St. Patrick's Market, where the Jewish butchers sell their chickens. The alderman visited the market twice last week and found an abundance of chicken blood and feathers. He explained that many of the people in the vicinity were complaining and urged that something be done to remedy matters.

Ald. Ball suggested that they be compelled to use the civic abattoir, but Ald. McBride objected to this on the ground that people would have to come from all parts of the city to have their fowls killed.

The committee was asked to recommend the expenditure of $9500 for the purpose of fitting up an addition to the cold storage plant at the civic abattoir. A recommendation will be sent on to council that a barn be constructed at the Men's Industrial Farm at a cost of approximately $25,000. The original plans called for a $50,000 barn.

For some time past the St. Lawrence Market arena has been in great demand on account of the number of Home Guard and Rifle Associations that have made application to use the place as a drill hall.

RICHARD HARRIS HEAVILY FINED

Placed Guilty to Criminal Negligence Charge in the County Court. Lawyer for Defence Said They Gave Case Undue Prominence.

Richard Harris, who was driving the automobile which was wrecked and caused injuries to several passengers on the early morning of Oct. 28, on DeGrassi Hill, Don Mills road, pleaded guilty to a charge of criminal negligence and was fined $200.

The only evidence that was taken, was that County Constable Brown, who swore that he could not find anyone who had seen Harris take a drink on the night of the accident.

J. M. Godfrey, counsel for Harris, stated at the opening of the case that his client would withdraw his plea of "not guilty" entered a week ago. He said that the sensational newspaper articles ascribing the accident to drink were given the affair a seriousness which it would otherwise not have had.

Harris, he said, had been drinking for overseas service and in recognition of the military regulations had not been drinking. The case was continued, and Harris himself injured, and with the case being pushed through.

County Constable Brown said that there was no question but that some of the party had been drinking, as he had made full enquiries, but could not learn that Harris had been drinking.

County Crown Attorney Greer stated that Harris had no one to blame but himself for the condition he was in. The fact that the number of the car was removed and the number of the engine changed off, was a mystery to the affair.

There were also attendant circumstances which were aired in court. "The farmer," he said, "in the section which had occurred, and they must be prosecuted for the same."

It is a surprise to me that the plea has been changed," said the magistrate. "The fact that the numbers were changed off seems a childish affair. There is no doubt that these people did not exercise proper care."

NEWS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

CANADA'S WOMEN HAVE DONE WELL

Minister of Marine Reviews What is Accomplished for Empire.

PRAISE FOR SOLDIERS

Speaker Points Out Every Man at Front Has Done His Duty.

Hon. J. D. Hazen, minister of marine and fisheries, was the speaker at the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Hazen has an audience that the public life for over 30 years this man the first occasion on which he had addressed a gathering made up exclusively of ladies.

Women and the War. He had first thought of telling them, Mr. Hazen told his listeners, something of the conservation of the great fisheries of Canada, which are inexhaustible, giving a supply the best in the world, which could be sold at modest prices, and which were raised to their utmost efficiency thru the arrangements for artificial hatching, or, he might have told them of other interesting divisions of his department, but that he would confine himself to the great part of the women of Canada were taking to the war.

Referring to the late visit of Sir Robert Borden to the overseas troops, Mr. Hazen said that nowhere had there been reported a single case of a Canadian showing the white feather, or had any single instance been known in which a Canadian had shown the slightest trace of cowardice in the face of danger.

What Canada Has Done. Canada was not a military nation, yet since the war began 10,000 men have been sent across the sea, and 75,000 are now preparing to follow.

Mr. Hazen paid a tribute to the work of the men of Australia, New Zealand and India, as well as to the action of Louis Riel, who today is doing his part for the maintenance of the empire.

The danger from attack to which even Canada would be subjected were it not rendered immune by the supremacy on the seas of the British navy was vividly portrayed by the minister of marine, who said that in our four weeks had been passed at the outbreak of the war for fear of attacks on Victoria and Vancouver and other points on the Pacific coast.

That the Germans have colonists but no colonies was explained by the presence of thousands from Germany who had scattered thru other lands for the purpose of influencing public opinion, when the opportune moment should arrive. Did it ever happen that Germany could win in the war, it would be here as it was in Belgium, where neither cloister nor convent was protection against attack, and now the hands of Germany are red with the blood of Edith Cavell, whose name shall last as long as time shall endure.

In closing Mr. Hazen said that the destinies of Canada were being minutely worked out on the battlefields of Europe. Canada had done her part, but there was much more to do. All could not enlist and everyone must work out for himself whether it was his duty to enlist or do work also important, at home.

He has been in charge of the church for 17 years, and states that his reason for resigning is that he feels he requires a rest. How You May Throw Away Your Glasses

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunates, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may ruin their eyes if they do not get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water and drop in one Bon-Opto tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily, and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start.

NOVELTY IS SEEN IN WINTER HATS

Smartly Tailored Models and Dressy Chapeaux Trimmed With Feathers.

COCKADES AND LACE

Featured in Exclusive New Creations of Velvet or Beaver.

With the advance of the season feather trimmings of every description adorn the most exclusive military creations. Plainly tailored models in velvet or silk have straight little military cockades in contrast to the more elaborate silk beaver chapeaux richly garnished with ostrich or paradis plumes. Curled ostrich bands encircle the crowns of broad brimmed velvet hats for wear with the afternoon costume of velvet or broadcloth, while dainty flower motifs or narrow widths of fur appear on the more dressy models.

The tailored hats are decidedly so, being in many cases severe and almost unadorned with the exception of a single woolen flower or a band of grosgrain ribbon. Chic Little Model. One chic little model with straight narrow brim and the popular high crown was fashioned from black silk velvet. The only trimming used was ribbon—four narrow widths of which encircled the crown and fastened in the front with small square metallic buckles. Another hat of the same type in the modish pressed beaver exploited a stiff cockade of fancy black ribbon with a round peridot of fur holding it in place at a rakish angle to the rim.

Some Soft Tams. One of the very newest dress hats are soft tam-like creations of velvet

Should "Man's Superior" Try to Be "Man's Equal?"

By WINIFRED BLACK
Copyright, 1915, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

MEET her at dinner not very long ago—the beautiful young Feminist. She came to town to start a movement for the further liberty and enlightenment of the world, through giving the woman a chance to vote.

I was anxious to meet her, for she was to me a new type.

Quite young, rather clever, highly educated, exceedingly handsome and a devotee to the Cause of Woman.

We all fell in love with her at first sight. She was tall, graceful and very smart as to dress; her beautiful hair was braided in a regal crown and her eyes were clear and frank.

"There she is," said I to my dinner companion, "the New Woman, really come to earth—at last."

"What wonderful things she and the others like her will be able to do. She will have a woman's intuition and a man's courage. A woman's modesty and a man's sense of fair play. A woman's sympathy and a man's ambition."

"What a world this is getting to be. I do hope I'll live to see the things this new type of woman is going to accomplish."

"Yes," said my dinner companion. "Yes, I guess that's so," and he devoted himself to the entree, which was really astonishingly good, as entrees have a habit of being at this particular dinner table.

There sat with us a singer, an artist, an editor, two lawyers, a newspaper woman, two men of business and five or six regular women.

And we were all fascinated by the beauty and the grace and the little air of distinction and just the hint of dominance in the manner of our new acquaintance, the real Feminist.

There Was Silence.

We talked of the things one usually discusses at dinner, ships and the seaman's bill, the theatre and why there's nothing new in it, the movies and have they really come to stay? And the professional wit was quite silent, thinking over the stories he would tell after the coffee, and the professional pessimist was very melancholy over the war abroad, and what he called the situation at home, and the professional cynic was even more cynical than usual and had a better time being rallied on his cynicism. And, at the head of the table to the right of the host, the new Feminist glowed, like a nice, clean, close-to-the-grounds star on a pleasant and engaging summer evening.

All at once a word fell upon the air—not a nice word at all—in fact, a word which no servant would dare to use in any decent house, and no man would think of speaking before a woman he even pretended to respect.

We started, every one of us, and then we all began to talk very fast at once.

There was some mistake—no one had said it—we imagined it.

Hark—again—the man next to me was smiling—yes, his eyes were dancing.

"Now," he said, "what do you think of your friend, the feminist beauty?"

It was true—she had said it—and she said more—and then she swore—a good, round, upright and downright oath, such as I've heard men use in the streets. For a moment there was silence and then we all began to laugh, and we laughed the rest of the dinner. My friend and dinner companion, the most of all.

What a Pity!

"Was that why you weren't so enthusiastic?" said I to him, under cover of all the laughter.

"Yes," said he, "I'd met her before."

A few days after that I heard that the Feminist was not being asked to any dinners. It was not the swearing alone. She had been dancing till 4 o'clock in the morning at a disreputable road house, and one of the men whose mother had invited her to dinner went home and told his father, and the invitation—

What a pity—what a poor, foolish, useless, pathetic pity—for the pretty Feminist isn't a bad woman at all, though she tries so hard to act like one. She's just a fool, an educated, cultivated, good looking fool. She thinks that the way to be as strong as a man is to imitate, not his strength, but his weakness—not his virtues, but his vices.

What influence can such a woman as that ever have anywhere, any time, in any way?

Can it be possible that there was something in the old-fashioned cartoon of the woman in trousers and the man at home putting the babies to bed?

I never believed it until I saw the beautiful Feminist, and heard her talk.

But now—call her home, please do, managers of the new organization, and call her home, please do, she'll lose you for you if you don't.

When Irving was the actor of the hour every cheap actor on the stage could imitate him.

They could walk like him, groan like him, start like him, make up like him; but no one of them could imitate the thing that made him what he was—his genius.

His faults, his mannerisms, his peculiarities—these were all they got.

When we try to be as clever as men, oh, sisters of the yearning sisterhood, let's copy the cleverness of man and not his stupidities.

Imitation is always the refuge of the inferior mind.

Let's not imitate, whatever we do.

Let's be ourselves, as we were born and as we hope our daughters to be, and then, perhaps, we'll do something that's worth doing.

DIARY OF A WELL-DRESSED GIRL

How She Contrived a Smart Evening Gown for the Amateur Play.

AT the end of last season I vowed that I never again would take part in amateur theatricals or tableaux vivants. They had interfered with so many invitations to out-of-town affairs, and the rehearsals were so long-drawn-out that they made every one nervous and ill-natured toward the end.

Then our "coach" would assure us that there would be only one performance, when, by the time we had granted requests to play for the benefit of the club the following Tuesday for a reading of the play.

Every one else seemed eager to begin work, and when Clem assigned the parts I sat back and smiled, thinking that I would not need to bother about memorizing or designing costumes.

Then they began reading, and before I knew it I was so interested that I almost wished that I was to have a role. At this psychological moment Clem said: "I had Robin in mind when I wrote the part, but she has refused to interpret a character created by so un-known a playwright as myself."

Of course there was nothing left for me to do but to "out my words" and read the part of "Peggy" Hamilton to the best of my ability. Now I am here once again in dramatic wear, and then came the question of dressing.

My wardrobe was wonderful color effects. I had a few dresses, but they were all so old-fashioned that I was obliged to have them made over. I had a few dresses, but they were all so old-fashioned that I was obliged to have them made over.

Then she made short sleeves of a single layer of the tulle and edged them with pearls.

"That frock is perfect, and I'm hoping the others will be equally stunning."

"When I told Clem about 'Peggy's' dress and what I had in mind, he said: 'I had Robin in mind when I wrote the part, but she has refused to interpret a character created by so un-known a playwright as myself.'"

Of course there was nothing left for me to do but to "out my words" and read the part of "Peggy" Hamilton to the best of my ability. Now I am here once again in dramatic wear, and then came the question of dressing.

The STAFF of LIFE

By Will Nies

HE came up the stairs three steps at a time, whistling a brave, martial air. He hoped to sound preoccupied—but he did it too ostentatiously. All the world in hearing understood and SHE smiled. She tried to appear very busy, too. Both failed miserably—and happily.

"The staff of life!" he cried, as he came to her side through the savory mists of the kitchen and took her soft little hands from the bread. "Look out!" she gasped, trying to warn him against the sharp knife. But he folded her to his heart and smothered the words with his lips. And then they knew—what all the world of lovers know—that the staff of life is not bread—but LOVE!

How Dicky Secured Grace Draper for a Model and Why Madge Helped.

GRACE DRAPER: Are you crazy? You don't even know the name of this man, and you're accepting a position to be a model for his pictures."

Mrs. Gorman's voice was shrill, horrified. Secretly I sympathized with her. If the beautiful Miss Draper had been my sister and a stranger like Dicky had offered her a position, I, too, should have demanded proof of his identity and good faith.

"You are quite right, Mrs. Gorman," he said soothingly. "You are entitled to know my name and all about me. As you see here, I am Richard Graham, and this is my wife, Mrs. Graham. Our home address is Apartment 4, No. 46 East Twenty-ninth street, telephone Chelsea 8882. My studio is in the Tremont building, 137 East Twenty-first street, where you wish to know anything about me, you can ask my bankers at—"

"Please do not trouble yourself," she said. "I am perfectly satisfied, and I know my sister is also."

"Speak for yourself," retorted Mrs. Gorman. "I have no doubt Mr. Graham is all right," she admitted grudgingly, "but this thing of your being a model—why it's worse than your other job, and that's—"

"Kate!" Miss Draper's tone held more than a hint of anger, "will you please stop this! I've got to do what I think is best for myself, and you're only making it awfully hard for yourself and for me."

"Go ahead, I wash my hands of the whole business," and Mrs. Gorman stalked into the kitchen.

The Proposition Closed.

"Dicky," I broke into the conversation for the first time. "Don't you think we would better go on down to the harbor. We will want to get back to the station before dark."

I felt as if I could not breathe in the atmosphere that surrounded us. Mrs. Gorman's hostility to this scheme of Dicky's only added to my dislike of the whole business. I wanted to get away from the house that held this beautiful girl who was so eager to grasp the advantages that my husband held out to her.

"Sure," Dicky assented heartily. "Will you tell us what our bill is? He turned to Miss Draper.

"One dollar and a half."

"That's all," quipped Dicky. That means $3 total."

"Oh, no," protested Miss Draper, "seventy-five cents apiece, $1.50 for the total bill."

"Nonsense," said Dicky, handing her a bill. "Tell your sister those dinners were worth $1 apiece anyway."

He drew another bill from his pocketbook, a twenty as I saw by the figure on the corner.

"Here," he said to Miss Draper, "this will buy your monthly ticket from Marvin to the Penna. station, and give you $10 on account, the ten to be deducted from the fifty I promised you for the poses."

"Thank you, Mr. Graham," Miss Draper's face was as untroubled as ever. "Just a moment, I will write you a receipt."

"Oh, nothing like that is necessary," said Dicky, airily, with the average man's reluctance to be business-like with an attractive woman.

I went upstairs to the room where I had left my wraps, Dicky closely following me. As we went, Dicky's eyes, which had been looking at me, turned to the door and he said to me: "At least I do not find it necessary to clothe nearly all my conversation in slang phrases," I retorted.

"I suppose that's meant for your 'truly,'" returned Dicky gayly. At any other time a remark like that would have angered him. I had a sudden helpless feeling that he was in such high spirits over securing Miss Draper's services as model that anything I could say or do would have no effect upon him.

I followed him downstairs, my heart full of resentment against him. As we came into the lower hall, Mrs. Gorman met us, her eyes red, but her composure restored. Evidently her sister had used the few moments of my absence to advantage.

"I am sorry I was so rough," she said to me. Her manner had the effect of ignoring Dicky. I felt that for some reason she still distrusted his motives, although assured of his reliability. "I suppose I ought to be thankful Grace has this chance, but it's all so different to what I've always been used to."

"Oh, you sure you will approve of it all when you know what the work really is," I heard myself assuring her. "If your sister wishes to pursue her art studies I can hardly imagine a better opportunity for her than this one."

"Oh, you eyes not know what that relieves my mind," she said, shaking my hand warmly. I thought I detected the faintest glimmer of a smile upon Miss Draper's face. I wondered if secretly she was amused by the contrast be-

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Stomach Ulcers Ought to Receive Early Operation

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University)

IT would be madness to name the symptoms of any disease. Wisdom bids caution in this. Hence the lack of regard paid to those who bespeak such requests as, "Doctor, please name the symptoms of pellagra," or "Kindly publish the symptoms of ulcer of the stomach, paresis, or what not."

If you have been a medical student in your young, impressionable days of unsophistication, or if you have read Jerome K. Jerome's story, "Three Men in a Boat," you know that a perusal of the symptoms of any disturbance of the normal gives you the conviction that you have that ailment. Indeed, the hero—if there is a hero—in the aforesaid volume was certain, after studying a book on the subject, that he had everything from consumption fits to housemaid's knee—two real maladies. Quacks and the advertisers in medical books take keen advantage of this weakness of the human cosmos. They mention an array of aches, pains, cricks and stitches which every Tom, Dick and Harry is certain at some time or other to have, and lo! you reach into your wobbly bank account and rush with wireless speed unto the nearest distributing point for the All-Healing Ointment.

Cancer May Result.

So it is with ulcers—little, shallow, open sores—in the stomach and duodenum, or upper end of the intestines. The former are more serious than the latter, yet the signs and symptoms are much the same. Luckily, they are less common in the stomach than in the duodenum, which "helps some." Of 100 ulcers mentioned by Dr. William J. Dick and Rochester, Minn., 73 were in the duodenum and only 27 in the stomach.

Ulcers in the stomach usually leave that organ deformed and permanently a cripple. It checks the digestive vigor, because all freedom of motion is interfered with. Ulcers thus behave much like a lasso upon a broncho.

Yet ulcers of the stomach rarely rupture completely through, whereas those of the duodenum occasionally do. More often, when the surgeon must hastily operate to stitch up a ruptured ulcer of the stomach, his task is a most unhappy one, for the opening of the ulcer will be found only too often in the centre of a large scar.

Plainly, a hole through a scar or shallow defect is much more difficult to heal than in unscarred tissue. Hemorrhages are also much more general in stomach ulcers. This is often traceable to food poisoning and things which weaken the clothing power of the open wound.

Cancers are late complications of ulcers of the stomach. They rarely ever follow ulcers of the duodenum. There is, therefore, more reason for an early and complete operation for ulcers of the stomach than for those in the upper part of the intestines.

What X-Ray Reveals.

The X-ray pictures show excessive rolling and rumbling of the intestinal and stomach movements, deformities, and retention of bismuth if duodenal ulcer is present. Ulcers of the stomach X-ray photographs are shown as hair-glasses, a fold in the stomach, or other deformities. The pain of the former comes later and radiates from the pit of the stomach to the right, while the pain of stomach ulcer may go to the left and also be felt in the back.

Answers to Health Questions

- A. P. Q.—What can I do for red, scaly and dry eczema?
- A.—This may be due to internal as well as local causes. Avoid meats, alcohol, hot foods, hot drinks, and tobacco. Apply to the affected parts:
- Oil of cade..... 1/2 dram
 - Salicylic acid..... 1/2 dram
 - Phenol..... 1/2 ounce
 - Vaseline..... 2 ounces
- M. S. Q.—I have been smoking considerably for the last five years, and I have noticed that my eyes are going back on me. When I read there seems to be a mist before my eyes. Is there not something you might suggest for this?
- A.—It is expedient that you avoid smoking—give it up entirely. Your health is worth more to you than is a five or ten-minute smoke. You can readily see that it has already affected your eyes, and in due time it will affect your heart. Have your eyes examined and fitted to the proper glasses as soon as convenient. Do not let the matter drop here.
- A. E. S. Q.—I suffer a great deal from gas in the stomach. What will you advise me to do?
- A.—Take seven grains of oxide of magnesium about half an hour before meals, and half a dozen bone charcoal tablets about half an hour after meals. Eat lots of good, nourishing foods, such as carrots, young peas, asparagus, boiled Irish and sweet potatoes, cauliflower, soups, meats, fish, cereals, distilled water, fresh milk and cream, butter, milk and fluids. Obtain more sunlight and fresh air, plenty of outdoor exercise, and take a winglessful of olive oil about half an hour after meals.
- F. J. Q.—I am bothered with continual head noises; these are quite severe, and at times affect my hearing. What would you advise?
- A.—I kindly suggest some remedy for catarrh, as I am bothered with it.
- A.—Apply a little of a salve made of six grains of unannounced mercury and half an ounce of white vaseline to the nostrils twice a day. Use the small applicator in the ear every four hours.
- Dicky opened his mouth, evidently to remind me that my fatigue was of sudden development, but closed it again, and turned in silence toward the railroad station.
- We had a silent journey back. Neither Dicky nor I spoke except to exchange the veriest commonplaces. We reached home about 5 o'clock to Katie's surprise.
- "I'll hurry, get dinner," she said, evidently much hurried.
- "We're not very hungry, Katie," I said. "Some cold meat and bread and butter, those little potato cakes you make so nicely, some sliced bananas for Mr. Graham, and some coffee—that will be sufficient."
- For my own part, I felt that I never wished to see or hear of food again. The silent journey home, added to the events of the day, had brought on one of my ugly morbid moods.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: After a great deal of careful thought and careful meditation we have gathered up enough courage to write to you in order that we may be enlightened upon a serious question. After a month's acquaintance is it proper for a girl to allow a boy to kiss her?

My gentleman friend and I have had a great deal of discussion upon this subject, and if you would be so kind as to answer this question it would greatly oblige. CLAUDIA.

M. Y. dear Claudia: Surely, after reading the answers to my correspondence, you can see that you cannot have any real doubt about the propriety of a girl permitting a young man to kiss her, even though she has a time as one who has marked their acquaintance!

What difference does it make how long you two have known each other if you are not engaged to be married? Don't you think it would be much better for you, my dear Claudia, to save your lips for the man who some day will ask you to become his wife?

War's Effect on Sport At English Varsities

From London Sporting Life. The prevailing feeling at the opening of the new 'Varsities' year was that of depression. C.P.R. TAKES FALL U.S. STEEL WEAKER Sudden Weakness Develops in Last Sixty Minutes on N. Y. Exchange.

SELLING AVALANCH

Increased Business on Railways, Canadian Products Taxing Carrying Capacity.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Until the closing hour, the most conspicuous feature of today's stock market was a relative dullness. Trading was altogether professional and with a moderate upward trend after the irregular opening. In fact, some specialties, including a few of the so-called war shares, were almost buoyant at midday.

In the last 60 minutes the list developed sudden weakness, which not only obliterated numerous early gains but caused some severe net losses. Chief among these were Canadian Pacific in the railway and U. S. Steel among the leading industrials. Canadian fell from its top price at 117 1/2 to 113 1/2, closing 113 1/2. U. S. Steel, which early in the day showed a gain of almost a point at 86 7/8, fell 1/4 and closed a mere fraction higher.

The Harriman, Atchafalaya, Great Northern, New York Central and Erie advanced gains of a point or more by losses of as much as Baldwin Locomotive and Crucible Steel, which had substantial gains in the early part of the day. Final figures were materially lower, as were also Westinghouse and other shares of the same class. Washington's note to Great Britain meant the "illegal and ineffective" seizure of American ships seemed to have no effect in the early dealings, apart from London's lower prices for Americans. For want of some more tangible reason, the avalanche of selling was attributed to advice from Washington indicating that the federal administration might meet with formidable opposition in its proposed policy of "preparedness." Total sales amounted to $25,000 shares.

Local news of the day embraced reports from Chicago and other important railway centres showing an increase in tonnage. The increase was especially taxing carrying capacity. Bonds were steady during the greater part of the session, but weakened toward the close.

RUSSELL MOTOR SHARES SCORE AN ADVANCE

Toronto Market Was Irregular, Some Specialties Declining, While Others Are Put Higher.

There was less evidence of buoyancy on the Toronto Stock Exchange yesterday, and the volume of business decreased to a point not seen for some time. A large number of issues figured in the trading, but there were few sharp changes. The most notable speculative stocks. The high prices for these were made shortly after the opening, and persistent realising during the day. The volume of Canada lost two points, and Steamships a full point from the opening. In Nova Scotia Steel after a recovery to 102 sold back to par, and Steel Corporation declined a fraction on small trading. Crude, Canadian Electric and Canadian Western and Cement declined from 41-1/2 to 41-1/4. Russell Motor figured most prominently in the usual trading. Shares advanced from 34 to 37-1/2 and the preferred shot up seven points to 70, but failed to hold at the close. The listed section was conspicuous by its strength in Ames and Dominion Foundry. The shake up on Wall Street during the afternoon was reflected through this market, but was not sufficiently forceful to induce local traders to take the short side of the market.

DEALINGS IRREGULAR IN CANADIAN STOCKS

Bridge, Steel of Canada, Scotia, Ames-Holden Active Issues.

MONTREAL, Nov. 8.—Local stocks moved today with much the same irregularity as characterized dealings toward the close of last week and the opening of this week. The market was characterized by strength, while others were relatively weak. Bridge rose 1/2 to 22 1/2 and retained all but the 1/2 point of its rise. Steel of Canada scored a rise of 1/4 to a new high record of 48 and finished 1/4 up on the basis of a Canadian Car common last early high, but at 100 1/2 finished 1/4 up from Saturday. These three stocks and Ames-Holden common, which rose to 18 1/2 and finished 1/2 over the most active issue of the day. Telephone shares reached 3 1/2 on the day, from 100 to 101 1/2. Carriage and Railway shares ranged from 1/2 to 1 point in relatively heavy trading. C.P.R. ranged between 113 1/2 and 115 1/2, with last sale at the latter price, a nominal change of 1/4. Total business 20,372 shares, 50 mines, and $550,000.

EXTRAORDINARY PLETHORA OF LOANABLE FUNDS

Henry Clews says: There is an extraordinary plethora of loanable funds in the United States, the consequence of a marvelous stock of gold, of the successful mobilization of our banking resources under the new banking system and of an immense accumulation of investment funds following prolonged suspension of law interference.

SURPLUS BEING REDUCED.

The statement accompanying the last dividend check mailed to La Rose Consolidated Mines' shareholders shows that Oct. 1 the company had a cash surplus of $1,771,915 and one in transit and $1,267,000 in cash. Compared with one year ago the statement shows: Cash, $1,234,453; 817,975; 834,378; 878,000; 172,184; 65,783; 105,383; 1,396,610; 894,353; 1,652,761.

WHEAT AT CHICAGO DEPRESSED AGAIN

Nearly Seven Million Bushels Increase in Visible U.S. Supply.

STOCKS ACCUMULATE

Liverpool Weakness Counted Also Against Maintenance of Present Prices in Pitt.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Nearly 7,000,000 bushels increase in the United States visible supply total acted as a big weight today on the price of wheat. Largely because of this, the market was unsettled at the close, showed a net decline of 7-8 to 1-1/4, with December at $1.02 1-8 to $1.03 1/4, and May at 1.04 1/4. Corn lost 3/4 to 7-8, and wheat 1/4 to 5-8. In provisions the outcome was an advance of 5 to 25c.

Decided significance was attached to the visible supply figures, as the rate of gain showed that stocks of wheat had accumulated in the last week three times as fast as during the previous week, or at the corresponding time a year ago. The market was also bearishly affected by predictions of generally fair weather for tonight and tomorrow, and by the fact that receipts at the leading primary terminals continued to be on a liberal scale. Lower quotations from Liverpool counted further against the bulls, and so, did the slowness of export demand.

About the only important influence that tended to lift the wheat market was a notice of some European demand at Omaha for shipments by way of the Gulf of Mexico. The effect was confined to a few points in the early part of the session when rains in the northwest were also given a little notice.

A sag in the oats market came about chiefly from sympathy with corn. Eastern demand was only fair. Provisions developed business. In consequence of support given by packers. It was said the shipping demand for Canadian corn on domestic and foreign account.

IRREGULAR MARKS IN MINING SHARES TRADING

Vipond Weaker on a Speculative Drive—Dome Extension, La-Rose and Peterson Lake Firm.

The local mining market held along its line of steadiness yesterday, but without any other special feature. Silver made another advance in price to 50-1/2 cents per ounce, but this failed to induce any active buying in the local market. In the Porcupine there was a continued demand for Dome Extension at a little higher price. The belief still exists that control of this company will ultimately pass to the Big Dome, and it is asserted that purchases of the stock for a long time have been made for the purpose of effecting this. La Rose was stronger than yesterday, but the price for Vipond and Peterson Lake sold at 28 1/2. In the Porcupine there was a speculative drive against Vipond carried the price down to 75. Nothing further has recently been heard of the expected dividend on the shares. There is little aggressive buying in the market at present and purchases are not more than sufficient to take care of legitimate offerings.

DEMAND FOR STEEL IS WITHOUT PRECEDENT

Many Reasons Assigned by Henry Clews for the Unusual Steel Requirements in the States.

Apropos of the activity in the Canadian steel stocks, the following from Henry Clews' weekly circular will be of interest. Many reasons for a demand for steel in the United States are equally applicable to Canada. The demand for steel is simply without precedent, chiefly owing to the requirements of the Government in the production of the rate of over 3,000,000 tons per month, or approximately 27,000,000 tons per year, far surpassing all records. Steel plants which have been idle for years are re-starting. Railroads are the heaviest buyers, having placed orders for 30,000 cars during the first three months of the year against 2900 cars last year; also 490,000 tons of rails within the same period, compared with 333,000 tons last year. Structural orders aggregated 1,075,000 tons, compared with 833,000 tons last year. Domestic shipbuilding is exceedingly active, owing to the fact that the Government has ordered 2,000,000 tons of steel for the production of 100,000 ships. Steel prices are advancing daily, and there is more danger of a steel famine for a run-away market than of anything else. After all history is simply repeating itself in that all great wars are accompanied by rising prices and inflation.
