

Secretary of the Board for examining Teachers, presented to your Council, $2 per day in the sum entered for services of a Messenger to said Board. Your committee believing that $1 per day is ample compensation for such services cannot recommend the payment of any larger sum.

The account of J. D. Kellogg, M. D., amounting to $4, for the examination of Elizabeth Boggs, an insane person, with certificate of insanity, is not certified. Your committee cannot therefore recommend payment of the sum until properly vouched for, and would again urge that in future the accounts should be forwarded to the Council until duly certified.

All of which is respectfully submitted, DANIEL GALBRAITH, Chairman, Wm. Lee.

ROBERT CHAMBERLAIN.

Resolved—On motion of Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Chamberlain, the By-law providing for the payment of money grants was read a first time.

Resolved—On motion of Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Lee, the same By-law was read a second time.

The Council then adjourned to 2 p. m.

THE FENIAN RAID.

The following details of the Fenian raid were gathered from other parties who left Fort Garry on the morning of the 5th inst.—the day of the raid. There had been considerable excitement at Fort Garry for several days, on account of the rumored movements of Fenians. When our informant reached the custom house, he received the information of the raid. Mr. Douglas, the assistant custom house officer, was alarmed early in the morning by a half breed, who informed him that a body of men, numbering about 40, was marching down Mr. Douglas went to the door, and seeing them coming, he called Mr. Webster, and then Douglas started across the prairie to alarm the Hudson Bay Post. He was pursued by General O'Donohue and another man on horseback, who presented revolvers at his head and ordered him back. He told them he would not go back, and demanded by what authority they acted. He said he should not obey them until they gave him their authority. O'Donohue then replied he acted under the authority of the Provisional Government of Manitoba. The Fenians then marched down and took the Hudson Bay Post, the only building being an old one and his wife's. Mr. Webster, who was a half breed, and Mr. Scott, his clerk.

THE FENIANS SEIZED ALL THE PROVISIONS and made selection of clothing for themselves and other articles, and started one load of provisions down the river. The prisoners were allowed the liberty of the yard and the stables of the buildings, but were not permitted to go outside the stockade. The Fenians arrested a half breed American citizen on the road to Pembina, who was subsequently released by them upon being informed of the fact. Messrs Douglas and Webster, without knowledge of the Fenians, came to the Hudson Bay Post, and Colonel Wheaton, commander of the United States forces at Fort Pembina, informing him of the situation of affairs and asking assistance. In a very short time Capt. Wheaton, at the head of thirty men, appeared upon the scene. Capt. Wheaton, with his color guard, and a mounted company of the 7th U. S. Cavalry, came to the aid of the Fenians. The color guard of the Fenians was at the point of the bayonet, as a prisoner. Before the soldier could explain his mission, some of the Fenians in the excitement, "The Americans are coming." Immediately there was a GENERAL STAMPEDE OF THE FENIANS pursued by the United States soldiers. O'Donohue, on going outside, found one of his own men on the (O'Donohue's) horse, but he was immediately knocked off, when O'Donohue and his wife, and with others who had horses, taken from half breeds. Many of them threw away their arms as they ran: those who were on foot took the brush along the river. The troops fired a volley at the mounted Fenians but it was believed no one was injured. Captain Wheaton, witnessing the flight of the Fenians, mounted a horse, drew his pistol and pursued them some distance ahead of his men. He came up to O'Neill, Donnelly and Carley, and arrested them without resistance, and ten of the rank and file. General O'Neill was in such haste to get away that he did not leave his sword on a table; O'Donohue left his repeating rifle, clock, &c. Col. Wheaton also captured about three hundred stand of arms, two hundred and fifty being breech loaders, and several thousand rounds of ammunition. He also sent a force of men to recapture the provisions the Fenians were sending away. The prisoners were taken to Fort Pembina and confined in the barracks. Gen. O'Neill took his capture very philosophically. On being put into an ambulance, he took out his pipe and smoked during the short ride to the Fort. Another party of the Fenians had appeared in the neighborhood of St. Joe, but Capt. Wheaton was well aware of their movements and had sent his cavalry to capture or disperse them. The absence of this force of cavalry prevented the capture of the whole party under O'Neill. Our informants stated that the Fenians had received most positive assurances that the FRENCH HALF BREEDS WOULD SUSTAIN THE GOVERNMENT against the Fenians. The Governor's proclamation was responded to by a general uprising of the people, irrespective of former party affiliations. They were so sure that it would take several thousand men to capture Fort Garry. As usual, the rank and file of the Fenians, denounce the incompetency of their leaders. Some of them assert that O'Neill is more desirous of notoriety than of performing substantial service to the cause, and that he actually conspired at the capture of his force. Our informants, however, are not able to vouch for the truth of these assertions upon General O'Neill, and express no opinions thereon. They believe, however, that the raid was badly planned, and will not amount to anything.

The capture of the leaders, with their arms and ammunition, is probably fatal to the enterprise.

nation was intense, the people rushing out in the middle of the night. No damage, however, was done beyond the fright. The Cathedral spire rocked like a ship's mast, and the congregated laity, terrified, during the service.

Miss Annie Lewis, youngest daughter of Mr. John Lewis, late of the Gazette here, was instantly killed by the fall of a tree while passing to a neighbor's house, a short distance from her father's house in the city suburbs. The fatal cases are doubtless not many, but all are not yet ascertained. Many of the citizens are dismayed by the falling of signs and cornices.

The Montreal Gazette gives the following particulars respecting the death of Miss Annie Lewis, by the falling of a tree during the gale of last Sunday:—Miss Lewis, it appears, according to her word, for she was passionately fond of reading, had gone to a neighbor's house on the property of Mr. McKay, a joining her father's property, at Cote des Neiges, with a book to read. At about noon, during the prevalence of the gale, a tall pine tree, which stood alone near the summer house, was blown down. She must have heard the cracking, and run out of the summer house for safety, when the tree fell upon her, fracturing the skull, and one of the branches falling on her foot so that it had to be lifted before she could be extricated. Mr. McKay was the first to see the tree fall, and running up found the poor young lady in a state of unconsciousness. She was removed to the house, and Dr. Smallwood was at once sent for; but she was beyond human aid, and at half past three o'clock death put an end to her sufferings. She was an only daughter, and her death is a terrible blow to her parents.

British Governor strike hands with a rebel who gloried in having fully butchered and put to death a British subject for being loyal to the British Crown! The fact is, and must be apparent to every unbiased mind, that there is a power behind the throne and the Governor, with all his pretensions to independence, quietly obeys the string.

The fishermen of Gloucester, in whom there appears to be some of the Ben Butler spirit, have got up quite an excitement about a fishing vessel which had been seized by a Dominion revenue cutter a few days ago for infraction of the fishery laws. The vessel was tied up at Guelph, N. S., to await the finding of the Vice-admiralty court, when some American sailors went and cut her out at night or two ago and ran her into American waters. The Gloucester folks happened to spy an American vessel, carrying light house supplies, off their port, and mistook it for a British cruiser coming to recapture the stolen vessel in American waters, whereupon they telegraphed to Portland, Boston and other places for war vessels to come and fight the Britishers if they should attempt a seizure. The war vessels came, but no British gunboat was visible, and they were forced to the conclusion, that they had been deceived. He carried about nine o'clock the same evening.

The Brockville Monitor, referring to the Manitoba troubles says very truly:—"All this shows the folly committed by the Government, in disbanding their Red River force, and in leaving the country without proper military protection. It also shows that steps should have been taken to extradite Riel and Donohue for the murder of Scott, and that nothing has been gained by allowing these miscreants to go at large, without even a single effort having been made to punish them for their crimes."

So dense is the smoke from the burning forests of Michigan and Wisconsin, which covers Lake Huron and Lake Superior, that the steamer Arctic, the crack vessel of the upper lake trade, on her last trip down, was fifteen hours in finding Marquette, after she was off that harbor by clock and compass. Such thick darkness did the smoke establish, that the steamer's lamps were kept burning all day the same as at night.

MILTON, Oct. 19. Yesterday afternoon a most shocking accident occurred on the fourth concourse line of Requeuing, by which a young man named John Ramshaw came to his death. While he and another person were engaged in sawing a large oak tree, they found it falling. The tree, instead of striking the ground directly, slid back over the stump with great rapidity, and catching Ramshaw between the thigh and knee, drove him with such force into the ground, that when taken up it was found that the leg was completely broken. He expired about nine o'clock the same evening.
