Property Worth $7,764,340 Exempt From City Taxes The amount of tax-exempted property in the city continues to grow and the 1922 assessment report on the total shows that, as compared with last year's assessment, the value of exempted property has been increased over a half million dollars. Part of the increase is on land and part on buildings. The value of property now exempted totals $7,764,340. That the taxpayer might be better able to appreciate what this total exemption means, City Clerk Baker pointed out in his 1921 year's book that if taxes were paid on the exempted property last year at the rate of 40 mills, the taxes received would have been $287,627. In the list of 1922 exempted property, the city itself leads with holdings valued at $1,507,840. The school board is second and provincial government next, both over the million mark. The dominion government total falls below just a million. The value of the church property in the city, totalled, shows that the figures fall just a little below that of the provincial government, the figure for the churches being $1,185,115. The value of the various institutions in the city, non-sectarian and Catholic, is $1,282,620, while the total value of the Catholic property, churches, institutions and separate schools, is given as $753,980, Turn to Page 11, Column 2.

YEAR-OLD BABY IN HAMILTON PRISON

Hamilton, Jan. 19.—A year old baby girl was discovered in the city jail by the grand jury, which made an inspection yesterday of that institution. The jurors do not appear to have been wildly excited by their discovery but they reported it in their presentment. No special attention was paid to the matter by the court. The babe's crime is that she is the daughter of a young matter by the court. The babe's crime is that she is the daughter of a young mother, who was sentenced before Christmas to a three months term for shoplifting. When the mother was sentenced the babe was nine months old and had not been weaned. The authorities said it would be dangerous to wean her so she is doing time with the mother and will celebrate her first birthday in jail. With her mother she will complete her term on February 2. If she regards herself the victim of a cruel fate, she gives no sign of it. She if she regards herself the victim of a cruel fate, she gives no sign of it. She is as happy as the day is long and is growing "like a bad weed," as the jail officials describe it. The kindly old governor, James Ogilvie, and his turnkeys have made a pet of the little thing and they will be sorry to part with her when her term is disjoint. with her when her term is finished.

TORY COHORTS WON'T AID IN FIGHT ON KING

Believe Premier Should Be Allowed to Devote Energy to Dominion Good.

ARMSTRONG NOW UNAIDED

Liberal Leader's Stalwarts Don War-Paint Ready for Fray.

NEWMARKET, Ont., Jan. 18 .- As Liberal stalwarts tonight await the arrival of Premier W. L. Mackenzie King here, Tory predictions indicate that the contest in the North York by-election will be a comparative love-feast after the recent federal election in the riding.

This will be due to the pathetic attitude of leading Conservatives, many of whom have been silent but enthusiastic supporters of J. F. Harvey, editor of the Newmarket Ex-press-Herald, the only Conservative paper in the riding, in his contention that it is a gross blunder for J. A. M. Armstrong to oppose the election of a premier of the Dominion for the first time in political history.

Early this morning the doors of the Liberal committee room, the headquarters of the very successful campaign so recently ended, were again thrown open, and telephone installed and preparations made to superintend an even more efficient organization than the last one. On the other hand, the Tory committee rooms were as quiet as a church or a week-day, with the door locked and barred, and no sign of activity in the vicinity. It is even being predicted that there will be no by-election, after Mr. Armstrong really sizes up the situation. But this is probably going a little too far.

Had Poor Advice.

Mr. Armstrong was carried away by the advice of a number of redhot partisans at the Conservative

It was confidently stated this after noon by one of the delegates that Reeve Pugsley would have carried the convention to his point of view, had it not been that so many Conservatives who take the same stand, and who have been disgusted all along with Mr. Armstrong's personal ambitions, stayed away from the meeting, thus weakening the very side that they in reality support.

Mr. Armstrong's statement that he is running to vindicate his honor is not regarded seriously here. He is over to himself.

This was the opinion voiced today by a lifelong Conservative of Newmarket, who would not be quoted but who emphatically declared he would maintain a neutral position in the by-election, even declining to cast his vote.

Propaganda for U. F. O.

Positive proof that the sorehead Tory element are extremely doubtful of winning support from the farmers is seen in their propaganda throughout the rural sections of the riding to the effect that this will not be a U. F. O. fight, and therefore those who supported Burnaby on Dec. 6, should stay home on

To meet this the Liberals under York Reform Association, have completed a campaign organization that place in the province where it had puts the last one in the shadows. Immediately Mr. Armstrong an-

"The result of the general election gave Mr. King a majority of 1,100, and the Liberals are confident that his majority will be greatly inreased in the by-election.' Express Surprise.

Aubrey Davis, Newmarket, issued statement this morning on behalf of the Liberals of that town: "New market Liberals are surprised at the decision of Mr. Armstrong to oppose Premier King in North York, as the best element of the Conservative party have clearly expressed them selves as entirely opposed to hampering the prime minister with a byelection when Canada's affairs demand his every attention. The Liberals of Newmarket are confident that the people of North York would much prefer as their representative the man who is prime minister of Canada, rather than one who earned the title of the 'silent member.'

Your children have gone away from home perhaps, and the good old piano is now silent in the corner. You have always liked to hear the music of your piano, and now you miss it terribly.

You are a music teacher perhaps, and have an old piano which has done very well for you in its day-but now that day is nearly spent. You have always wanted to own a real Heintzman Grand, if possible.

Why not convert these old or silent instruments into cash, and then have what you most desire? We have Upright Pianos that any home would be proud to have. We have Player-Pianos that every one in your home can play, and play with great expression. We have the finest phonographs that are sold in Canada. We have Grand Pianos that are the choice of the finest musicians in London, and conservatories of music all over Canada.

We need your old instruments, and can give you a very reasonable amount for them right now, whether exchanged on pianos or phonographs.

During two sessions of the House of Commons an increased indemnity of fiteen hundred dollars was granted to the members. Major Cronyn declined to accept it for his own use, and decided to give the sum, three thousand dollars, for the purpose named to the university. It is a generous act and a good one. It links the name of his great uncle, Edward Blake, with the university, which is established in the county in which Edward Blake was born. It is given for proficiency in constitutional law. Edward Blake has been recognized as the ablest lawyer Canada has yet produced, and was regarded when in England as the greatest lawyer in the British Empire. William Hume Blake, father Blake, was a member of the House of Commons, and retired to establish the Court of Chancery. He was its first chancellor. He, too, was a very able and eloquent man. The gift is therefore a very appropriate one and is a recognition of the university that will do it more good than even the money or the object sought. The its degrees recognized. Edward Blake is the most distinguished rich classes." graduate of Toronto University, and Major Hume Cronyn is himself a graduate who has brought honor to it as well.

At the meeting of the governors of the Western University, the gift any one can, that there are cases and its object were much appreciated. It will no doubt be the means of inducing others to do what they can to assist in building on a wide practice, there is more in London a university equal to any in America.

Two Constituencies.

HON. JAMES MURDOCK is to get the seat in Kent by acclamation. The only real opposition there could come from the Progressives. The attitude of that body is set forth in their own resolution, which reads in part as follows:

"That there is no good purpose to be gained in opposing the candidature of the Hon. James Murdock at this time. First, because the people at the recent election voted overthat it would create needless exstructive force, rather than obstruction."

About Malnutrition.

were suffering from malnutrition, while there was no under-feeding. hence no malnutrition among the children of the more fortunate

A prominent London doctor, in conversation with The Advertiser, raises the point that "Producer" is working on a wrong assumption, viz., that there is more malnutrition among the children of the poor than among the children of the rich or fairly well-to-do people.

The doctor, who has made a very close study, not only in London, but elsewhere, of such cases, makes the point that figures and his experience do not substantiate the claim of "Producer."

The medical man said: "I find in children, the same as in grown-ups, of Edward Blake and Samuel H. that the use of plain, coarse foods develop better bodies and minds than anything else.

It is too often the case that in families where there is enough and more than enough, there is too much pastry and too much candy and other rich foods. These things do not build strong, healthy bodies, and you will find that figures on a large university had a struggle to have scale show the greatest percentage of malnutrition in the children of

> The doctor, of course, in making the above observations, does not mean to minimize the need for sufficient food for all children in London, and he realizes, as well as where there is not enough to eat. That, however, does not alter the fact that, in his estimation, based malnutrition in children of the richer homes than in the poor.

The New York Sun, in a recent editorial, points out that this great gage loans, and seeks them with increasing favor. In 1911 they made up 31.65 per cent of the whole and in 1920 32.29 per cent. These loans are divided about half and half beand industrial loans.

fallen to a little over 26 per cent of it. The reasons, of course, are obvious. The railroads have suffered such loss by unwise interference that insurance companies generally ceased to want increased investments in them. This is more remarkable, as so great a fund does, to some extent, defy direction. It moves under a tremendous compulsion to find lodgment. It naturally is drawn in wherever events have created room for it, and yet it has kept clear of any big new commitment in the railroads: a convincing proof of how they have stood, until very lately at least, in expert investors' judgment.

Western University.

T Wednesday's meeting of the A governors of the Western University, it was decided to employ John M. Moore, architect of this city, to prepare plans and estimates to be submitted to the board for its approval.

Under the law these must then be approved by the Provincial Government, and no doubt the architect of the province, Mr. F. R. Heakes, will pronounce on them. Mr. Richard Wright, architect of the Dominion, a native Londoner, will likely also be consulted, and as the buildings are to be the best and most important ever built in London, and as they will be built not for today only but for all time, other architects may be consulted as well.

Detroit.

The Shamrocks were put to considerable inconvenience, as the Rosary team tried to cancel their return game a few days before date set, when they knew all arrangements had been made and tickets sold.

"Fair Play," for your special benefit, I would like to say that arrangements were made with the Detroit team previous to their arrival, and upon their own suggestion to play the return game under girls' rules and with our referee. The only point in dispute when they came on the floor was about the referee—they wanted their own referee as well as their choice of rules.

In regard to the marking of the floor the Y. M. C. A. officials would not allow the floor to be marked unless with chalk, which could only be done at the last moment.

This is the first time the Shamrocks have been accused of being discourteous, as it has always been their custom to entertain the visiting team after the game. We are sorry the Rosary girls did not give us this privilege.

Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis St., Brantford, Ont., writes:

eight years I suffered from anaemia. My circulation was poor, my guns and lips were pale, and my hands and feet were always cold. I was nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, seemed restless and asily worried or irritated. There was a buzzing sound in my ears. Indigestion was also one of my complaints, and I often was attacked by weak spells. I went to a doctor, who told me I was anaemic, but as I did not get any better I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after the first box I felt brighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for quite a while. If there be so much suffering and distress in the city as is reported. why are not these cases heard of at the proper place, the city council? How can we otherwise reach them? How can we otherwise reach them.

This was the question asked by Ald
John Ashton at the trades council meeting on Wednesday night. The opinion had been voiced by Delegate
R. Hessel that nothing much had been accomplished by the unemployment committee.

"I see where a few men get two day's work in a week in the sewer,"

Ald. Ashton explains that the 1921 unemployment committee did nothing and was subsequently disbanded the new council. In the future he pointed out all matters relating to this phase of the business would come before No. 2 committee. "You have to give them time to get started." he warned.

The councillor stated further that he could not understand fully why it was that if so much suffering is prevalent there should be a great scarcity of cases of distress reported to the city council. He said that the mayor had already announced that no person in want would suffer.

Several of the delegates pointed out that there were many who would not report their own cases, while Delegate Tite stated that he knew of case of an invalid widowed woma with two children who had applied at the proper office, Inspector McCal lum's, and was given only 500 pounds of coal for five weeks.

Wood, Gundy & Co.,

N every Province in Canada we have bought, underwritten and sold Government, Municipal or Railway Bonds guaranteed by the Government. During three decades Æmilius Jarvis & Co., Limited, year by year, has grown in public confidence and in clientele.

From ocean to ocean the mail, the telegraph and telephone daily pour into this house the orders of clients who know that with us their interests are safe.

This nation-wide business connection has been established by rigid adherence to an inflexible rule of "safety first" in all investments recommended to clients. No bond issue is ever accepted or recommended until a thorough and expert examination of the assets, debts and sinking funds, revenues, assessment values, borrowing powers, legality of authority, validity of agreements and all other facts pertinent to security of the principal, has been made. When we recommend an investment you can be absolutely assured that it is a safe security to buy.

We believe good times are here, that business will revive, that industries will take on new life

in 1922, and that we will see advances in prices

1922 Investment Situation

Not so simple or easy as it has been in 1921, when highest grade bonds could be bought to yield 6 per cent. or better. Today money is easier, interest rates are declining, and more money is seeking investment.

Under these conditions high-grade securities invariably advance in price and yields are reduced. Indications are that this condition will continue. If times become good, industries active and business normal, interest rates are bound to decline and high-class securities to advance.

We believe this will be the outstanding feature of the situation in 1922.

of all good securities. Our advice, therefore, is to buy now. In our list we have a large variety of guaranteed railway bonds and Provincial and municipal bonds of varying maturities and at yields that are very attractive. Full particulars of any security will be furnished on mail, telegraph

you in return, Miss Shaw?"
"No. I didn't ask her!" the young woman responded with a note of dogged defiance in her tones. "I was ashamed to do so! You've seen her apartment; look about you here! Four years of failure haven't taker away all my pride and self-respec "Yes. She—I—I saw at a glance and I couldn't endure the thought somehow that it must be true, but I of having her see—this!"

The pale oval of her face flamed even in shadow, and then as suddenly her color faded and she added her voice sunk once more almost t a whisper:

"I encountered Mrs. Vane once twice in the vestibule after that and we greeted each other pleasantly but we did not hold any conversa tion, and I never entered her studio again until tonight when I went down and saw her lying there dead! That is all that I can tell you, gen-

With a swift glance at Craig, Barry rose, but made no move toward the door.

"When was the last time you saw Mrs. Vane alive, Miss Shaw?" "One afternoon last week: Thursday, I think. She was entering her studio as I came down the stairs and he did not see me." "Are you acquainted with any of he other tenants in the house?" Barry's abrupt change of topic evidently astonished her, but she drew herself up and responded "I am not."

"Was Mrs. Vane?" The question ame with almost startling sudden

"Very well. I don't think we'll trouble the lady any further tonight, shall we, Sergeant Craig?" Barry turned formally toward his confrere who shook his head dumbly.

Miss Shaw opened her lips to speak, hesitated as though she had thought better of it and preceded them with dignity to the door. "Goodnight, gentlemen."

There was just the slightest shade of pause before the last word which lent it irony, and the door closed with emphasis behind them.

"That was one of the things I wanted to find out!" he responded "The professor's light is out and we'll let him rest, but I'll just slip Sergeant Craig stared as his fel
