EUROPEAN AFFAIRS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Lowney, October 18, 1850.

The weather has been exceedingly cold here, and I do not wonder that Her Majesty has left cotland. The Queen arrived at Buckingham slates on Friday last, with the Prince Consort at the Royal Family, and they all left London to following morning for the Isle of Wight. The times did not even allow himself time to visit to worked higher Park, which are now being arried rapidly on. The town begins to g t a the more lively; must of the Theatres are open, at the more lively; must of the Theatres are open, at the prespects of an animated winter season. The appointment of Dr. Wissman to be Archshop of Westminster has created some sensation are: whether Her Majesty's Ministers will re-ther Her Majesty's Ministers will recognize the Pope's power to make the appointment remains to be seen. As matters stand at present, it is certainly an instance of the most impodent assumption on the part of his Holiness. Popery is playing a bold game; finding its power decreasing in Italy, which heretofore has been its stronghold, an attempt is now made to engraft it on more congenial soil; and Piue IX, seeing the survey walls of Her Majesty's Presidence, has formally catabilished a Popish distrachy. If we were ruled over by a firm government—one imbued with sound Pro estant feeling—we should not be apprehensive of danger as likely to result from this proceeding; but such is not the case—it will be remembered that when a Romish Archbishop was appointed to Australia, Her Majesty's Government concurred in his taking precedence over the Protestant Bishop who had just been sent out; the principle thus established must be equally applicable to every part of Her Majesty's dominions,—and the ressons which suggested the concession made in regard to Australiasia, must hold good in England; hence the Pope has only to demand that Cardinal Archbishop of Westminister takes the precedence over the Bishop of London and the whole of his Right Reversel Brethren, and Her Majesty's Advisers, to be consistent, must accede to the demand. But the case may be carried even still further; our Government has acknowledged tha right of the Pope to confer titles and dignities; the Pope's power to make the appointmen The yearned Bishop comes the Bishop of Loudon and the Majestry's Advisors, to be consisted, must consistent the same time takes by its concession in the Australisaliar appointment has acknowledged that gift of the Pope to confer littles and dignitize; by its concession in the Australisaliar appointment has acknowledged that gift of the Pope to confer littles and dignitize; by its concession in the Australisaliar appointment has acknowledged that gift of the Pope to confer littles and dignitize; by its concession in the Australisaliar appointment has acknowledged that gift of the Pope to confer littles and dignitize; by its concession in the Australisaliar appointment has acknowledged that gift of the Pope to confer littles and dignitize; by its concession in the Australisaliar appointment has acknowledged that the miscrable sum awarded time for the Pope to confer littles and dignitize; by its concession in the Australisaliar appointment has acknowledged that the miscrable sum awarded to find the Moseum. same Fait in 1849. The prices were better, in consequence the highest price realized for ewes usual series of Cabinet Councils which take place at that period of the year, when the general condition and prospects of the country are considered, together with our position in regard to foreign powers. The destiny of England will then be roughly carved out, with a view to the future efforts of Parliament in the ensuing beason, bringing to maturity such measures as Lord John Russell and his colleagues may initiate. In spite on pinion that the contest of parties will assume a more determined form. Sir Robert Peel is now removed from the scene, and if his licutenants combine with Lord Stanley, and can co-operate upon some common ground of action, the position of the Ministry will become exceedingly critical. I feel confident that no great length of time will alapse beforathe House of Commons becomes nor divided between two powerful parties, Conservatives and Liberals, a few ultra-Rusicals and ultra-Tories still hoveeing over the flanks of the two great contending parties, ready to combine or join with either, if they can promote their opinism that the substantial history of the future.

Another experiment has been made with the Given and the subdivide t was censured for not having reprimanded those who had attered the seditious ery of "Vive l'Empereur," and General Lamoniciere contrasted the want of discipline with the rigor which had condemned a poor devil to transportation a few days before for crying "Vive la Republique Democratique et Sociale." In fact, the Commission passed a severe vote of censure upon the Minister, but did not consider the case serious enough to convoke the Legislative Assembly. M. Dupin, the President, afterwards called on Louis Napoleon, and remonstrated alrongly with him upon the folly of countenancing "a black conspiracy to overthrow the Republic by means of champagne and cold assinges." Louis Napoleon appears to be very depressed, as he at length discovers that the Republic is not to be overthrown by the petty acts to which he has resorted. The organs of the Elysse tell na that soldiers always uttered cries at reviews, but if any unlucky wight under the Empire had shouted "Vive la Republique," or during the Monarchy, "Vive l'Empereur," of course he would have been tried at a drum-head Court Martial, and shot upon the spot, pour encourages les surres.
